K. Ps. Lose First Game

After Three Straight Victories, Drop Fourth Game.

In the last game of the evening Monday night at the High School, the Masonic team took the K. Ps. who had not lost a game up to last Monday night into camp by the score of 17 to 9.

The game started out with a bang with the Masons securing three runs and from then on it was a battle royal with the Masons always on top. The K. Ps. seemed to lose heart without Capt. Bulow on the job. Watson and Bechtold played their usual good game in the field and Sid Sedgman pitched errorless ball throughout the game, having the K. Ps. at his command in all innings. Heck McKinnon, pitching for the K. Ps. was quite effective and gave way to Kowalski in the last inning but he was too late as the Masons had the game already sewed up.

In the second game of the evening, the strong Firemen team defeated the Presbyterians by the score of 14 to 7. As usual the Firemen batter worked perfect with McKinnon getting fifteen strikeouts and Hank Kamradt catching a perfect game behind the bat.

Below is the lineup for both games:

Masons	K. Ps.
Watson	Whiteford
Shay	Benson
Bechtold	Kling
Ellis	Vogel
Sedgman	Scott
Cornell	H. McKinnon
Giles	Kowalski
Jacklin
Baker
Firemen	Presbyterians
Kamradt	C. Malpass
McKinnon	P. Taylor
Sherman	1st. Johnson
LaLonde	2nd. Seiler
Malpass	3rd. Morgan
Sumner	F. Davis
	S. Freiberg
Bussler	L. S.
Shepard	R. S.

Next week Monday, Jan. 11, the Masons play the Holy Name at 7:00 o'clock, and the K. Ps. play the Presbyterians at 8:15.

Below is the standings of the teams for the week ending Jan. 4, 1926.

Team	Won	Lost	Percentage
K. P.	3	1	750
Methodist	2	2	500
Holy Name	2	2	500
Masons	2	2	500
Firemen	2	2	500
Presbyterians	1	3	250

Sled Goes Through Ice, Two Children Die At Charlevoix

Charlevoix, Jan. 4.—Jimmie John, 10 year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter John, Indians, and his cousin, Louise Denemy, also 10-years old, were drowned Monday noon when a sled on which they were coasting struck an air hole in the ice on Round lake, both children drowning.

The bodies of the children were recovered by coast guards Monday afternoon.

The two, on their way home from school, stopped on the north shore of the lake to slide on their small sleds. When about three rods from shore, the sled struck an air hole.

The accident at health departments of the Massachusetts Bonding and Insurance company will be moved from Saginaw to Boston, Mass., and consolidated with the bonding and casualty business which has been located there for some time. About 25 executives will leave Saginaw.

Members of the American Historical association and five allied organizations held a three-day convention at Ann Arbor recently. More than 200 historians from all parts of the country attended the various conferences and business meetings during the session.

Oscoda county's helping Wexford county clear M-12 of snow, as Wexford has no money for snow clearance. The Oscoda county plow pushed by a caterpillar tractor, is working between Hart and Cadillac. The Mackinaw trail is snowed in for the first time this year. The state will soon take over the work of snow removal as far north as Cadillac. The mercury rose to 24 Monday after a week and of cold during which the official temperature touched 20 degrees below zero.

New E. J. Agent At M. C. R. R. Depot

M. T. Crane of Saginaw has been appointed regular agent to fill vacancy at East Jordan's M. C. R. R. depot. He is scheduled to assume charge of his new duties next Tuesday, Jan'y 12th.

Robert Peckens of Chicago has been acting as relief agent since the sickness and death of Mr. Lytle.

Third H. S. Debate At Auditorium Thursday, Jan'y 14

Josephine Stein, Keith Ybouse and Arlene Cummings of Harbor Springs will uphold the affirmative of the question: "Resolved, That the proposed Child Labor Amendment to the National Constitution should be adopted by the United States," and Margaret Staley, Betty Kitsman and Chester Amberguey of East Jordan the negative.

As this is the last home debate it is hoped that a large number of townspeople as well as students will take advantage of the opportunity to hear our team in action.

The admission is fifteen cents to students and twenty-five cents to others.

A Death Every 143,000 Miles

Sec. of the Navy Wilber, in his recent statement, explained that naval aircraft flew, the average, 325,654 miles for each fatal accident. This is the distance around the world seven times, and is quite a bit of traveling. He pointed out, however, that in many accidents more than one naval man was killed and the average number of miles flown per fatality was only 143,673 miles.

This is a pretty good record to the naked eye. We do not know what the fliers of other nations are doing but if they are topping this mark flying must be a lot safer than the average citizen thinks.

Farm Radio School Opens Jan. 11th

The special farm radio school which will open on Monday, January 11, from station WKAR, the Michigan State College, will include five separate courses, each running through the entire 12 weeks of the school.

More than 100 different men and women from the college staff will appear as lecturers during the school, 184 lecturers being listed. The five courses will be: Home Economics; Animal Husbandry, Poultry, and Veterinary Medicine; Horticulture; Dairy; and Farm Crops.

Complete catalogs of the courses and lecturers in the school are being mailed out free on request to the Director of Extension, Michigan State College, East Lansing.

$127,000 For A Song

Mrs. Elfrem Zimbalist, better known perhaps as Alma Gluck, recently disclosed that in 1919 she made a record for talking machines of the song, "Carry Me Back to Ol' Virginny" and that her royalties from this single record paid her $127,000.

This is interesting and reveals that movie pie slingers are not alone in the realm of big money makers. More than 1,000,000 reproductions of the record were sold, which shows that the old favorites have not lost their appeal.

Make-Up Class in Washington School

Although millions of dollars are spent annually on powder, grease-paint, lipsticks and other artificial face beautifiers, a great deal of it is wasted effort. In an attempt to overcome such waste and make the world more beautiful to live in, Central high school, in Washington, D. C., has started a class in make-up in which the fine art of obliterating shiny noses and making cheeks bloom like apples and lips rival cherries is taught by an expert. In this photograph some of the pupils are shown in the make-up laboratory getting ready for a school play.

School Officers To Meet At Charlevoix Tuesday, Jan'y 12th

The Annual School Officer's Meeting of Charlevoix County will be held next week Tuesday, Jan'y 12th at the Palace Theatre in Charlevoix. Their will be a forenoon and afternoon session. This will be a School of Instruction, and a representative from the State Educational Dep't will be with us to answer all questions. Plan to attend.

ARCHIE C. BELDING, Comm'r of Schools.

The original manuscripts of correspondence between General George Washington and General Nathaniel Greene, during the Revolutionary war, have come into the possession of the University of Michigan. The announcement was made by Regent William L. Clements, of Bay City, in an address of welcome to the American Historical association, in session at Ann Arbor. The collection includes all the Revolutionary war correspondence of General Greene, as well as about 50 of Washington's letters to Greene. In addition, Regent Clements announced the acquisition of the military, political and private papers of Major General Sir Henry Clinton, commander-in-chief of the British forces in North America from 1778 to 1783.

Port Huron's traction crisis is coming to a head. For several months officials of the receivers of the Detroit United Railway, which owns the City Electric Railway Co., have been endeavoring to have the city commission give a day-to-day agreement to raise the fares from five to seven cents, four tickets for 25 cents and 17 for $1. The commission contends that it has no right to grant the fare increase without first referring the matter to the electors. The receivers have asked the Federal court for permission to defray the expenses of a municipal election on the fare increase and a request has also been made of the court to discontinue street car service in Port Huron if a fare increase is not granted.

Possession of a valuable 90 acre farm in West Bloomfield township is the stake over which litigation was begun in circuit court at Pontiac recently. Henry G. Beardsley, farmer, is seeking to obtain the property he sold to R. M. Grindley, Detroit realtor, in 1923 for $63,000 and later took back on a foreclosure only to enter into a new agreement, he claims, by which he was permitted to buy it back at the original figure. Grindley contests the action on the ground he was not notified in due time of Beardsley's intention to re-purchase.

Eight dry kilns, an automobile body parts plant, a planing mill and a large quantity of lumber owned by the Lake Independence Lumber company, at Big Bay, were destroyed by fire recently. The loss was unofficially estimated as running into six figures. It is practically covered by insurance, it is reported. The cause of the fire is unknown, according to officials of the company. The fire cripples the only industry in the village of Big Bay and throws a large number of men out of employment.

Sheriff's officers are working on the theory that thieves from Toledo were responsible for the burglary of the store of E. B. Butler and Son, of Morenel which netted them $5,000 loot last Sunday. Trucks carried away the major portion of the stock of men's furnishings. Only one suit was left in the store. Included in the stock were gloves, overcoats, handkerchiefs, bath robes, etc. It is thought the thieves headed for Toledo.

A petition for the paving of three and three-fourths miles of road from Urbandale to Witt in one mile south of the county line, has been filed with the road commissioners. The pavement would connect with the lake road and run through Bedford village. There is no money available to build the road, but the residents along the route believed they would start some action by filing a petition.

Points To Blunder Of North Michigan

Federal Expert Tells Of Blow Dealt By Cutting Of Forests.

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 29.—Cutting of Michigan forests, which from 1865 to 1900 brought more than the total gold output of the entire United States and Alaska, has wrought a severe hardship on the northern part of the state.

This is the assertion of W. N. Sparhawk, forest service, the department of agriculture, in a paper prepared for presentation today to the convention of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

"In the southern part," he said, "the timber was cut primarily for making farms and on some 80 per cent of the total area the forests have been replaced by more valuable property in the form of farms, villages and cities, while much of the remaining 20 per cent still is growing timber."

But in the northern section of Michigan, Sparhawk added, conditions are much different because of the careless way in which the timber was cut with no regard for the future use of the land.

"Seventy per cent of this region," he said, "is still available for forest purposes, yet it has only half as much timber as southern Michigan. In the past 10 years only 3 per cent of the available unused land was cleared. It is fairly obvious the region is now and is likely to be for some time much poorer than it would have been if the forests had been handled as a permanent resource."

The decline of villages and cities has deprived settlers of local markets, while the loss of forest product traffic has resulted in abandonment of many miles of track, making shipments to outside markets very difficult.

"One of the most serious problems of this region is the high cost of town and county government, as well as of the schools and roads. Taxes for town and county purposes in 1919 averaged one-third higher in the north of Michigan than in the south."

Adding to the north's troubles, he continued, the cities in the southern part of the state have drawn away many of the young men to seek the higher salaries of factory employment and the greater opportunity of city life.

"This impoverishment of a great region," Sparhawk concluded, "is the direct result of destruction of its forests. Such destruction was not necessary in order to make the land available for higher forms of use."

DIPPING INTO SCIENCE

Playing Cards

A Chinese dictionary of 1678 claims that cards were invented in the reign of Emperor Seun-ho, 1120 A. D., for the amusement of his concubines. One authority says cards evolved from the game of chess. Cards were manufactured in France as early as 1892, Italy 1425, and England 1468.

Father Sage Says

Army men make good husbands: they get lots of war training, anyhow!

William Gee, 53 years old, a farmer of Milan township, was fined $50 and costs at Monroe by Justice Lee Smith, charged with having in his possession, in London township, a pheasant, a wild game bird protected by law. Complaint was made by Lawrence Duvall and Fred Rutledge, state deputy game wardens of Monroe.

Rochester hunters are trying to round up the second of a pair of coyotes believed to have been responsible for much sheep killing in that vicinity recently. A 65-pound coyote was killed northwest of Rochester by William Jersey and William Nettney and its mate is believed to be in the vicinity.

Lake Linden—Among the many and varied Christmas gifts which will come to the White House for the President and Mrs. Coolidge will be one from Lake Linden. A cedar chest of inland northern cedar was shipped from Lake Linden to Mrs. Coolidge, the gift of Nicholas Markusic, a carpenter in the stamp mills of the Calumet & Hecla Consolidated Mining company. According to Representative W. Frank James, this is the first Christmas that any one from northern Michigan has sent a present to the First Lady of the Land.

Danger Somewhere
Two men were watching two women pitching their tent at an auto camp in the mountains. "It's dangerous for women to be traveling around alone that way," remarked one, as the women set up their cots and unrolled their bedding. Just then one of the women opened a satchel, pulled out a big revolver, dumped out some cartridges and began cleaning and oiling the weapon. "Yes," said the other man, "it is dangerous. Mighty dangerous."

Famous Organization
The Vestal Virgins were a group of well-born Roman maidens appointed to watch the sacred flame of the goddess Vesta and see that it never went out. One of them, Tuccia, was falsely accused of a want of chastity, but the goddess Vesta permitted her to carry water in a sieve as a sign of her innocence. Leroux' picture depicts that episode.

American Houses Supreme
American houses are the most scientifically planned and equipped of those in any country. In the best designs proper consideration is given to the beautiful as well as the practical, but construction and equipment are never sacrificed for architectural effect, nor is mere appearance allowed to take the place of actual convenience.

Animal Species
The biologist, Huxley, estimated that there were 518,000 species in the animal kingdom divided into 18 classes. The different insects are numbered 360,000 or over two-thirds of the total number of species in the animal world. There are 13,000 fishes, 1,400 amphibians, 3,500 reptiles, 13,000 birds and 3,500 mammals.

To Dry Out Wet Boots
The quickest and best way to dry out wet hunting boots is to heat a pan of oats or small pebbles. Get them good and warm, not red hot. Put them into the boots and let them stand for a half hour. At the end of this time all of the moisture will have been taken out and the boots are ready to wear. Don't forget that when the dew is heavy in the morning or slush snow covers the ground.

First Gas Tip
The first gas pipes were gun barrels, soldered together. The lighted gas flared from the end and one day the gas tip developed by accident. Murdoch wanted to stop the flow of gas and used his wife's thimble. The top of the thimble was full of holes through which the gas escaped. It gave a much whiter, brighter light this way and the old open flame burner thus came into being.

Shelley's Words
His words are as flexible as any words: the rhythm of some modulating air seems to move them into their place without a struggle by the poet, and almost without his knowledge. This is the perfection of true art.—Walter Bagehot.

Not Popular in Practice
Humility is a virtue all preach, none practice; and yet everybody is content to hear.—John Seiden.

Use for White Stockings
An eastern hosiery firm received an order from a North Carolina woman with the following note: "The reason I get white stockings is on account of fleas, and we don't know where so many fleas come from. I can see them on black stockings and they are gone before I can see them, so that's why I get white stockings, so I can catch fleas on them."

B'rex Williams' Petition
Lawd, make us better'n what we think we is an' keep us gwine w'en we thinks we done traveled fur 'nuff. Make us ter see dat de worl' whar you put us is mighty good ter live in, an' dat we ain't too good fer de worl'. Help us ter love our neighbor much ez we kin; ter keep up de fire an' watch de woodpile.—Atlanta Constitution.

Apes and Monkeys
The terms "ape" and "monkey" are frequently used interchangeably; all monkeys are called apes and all apes are called monkeys. But the term "ape" is more particularly applied to the tallest, manlike monkeys of the old world, such as the chimpanzee; while "monkey" is more often used when speaking of the smaller aboreal monkeys.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Smallest Organ
The accordion, the smallest member of the organ family, has the distinction of being able to produce a greater volume of sound for its size than any other musical instrument. It was invented about 1829 by Damjan of Viena, and became popular throughout southern Europe. In Italy instruments were made that were capable of taking different parts in a score, and orchestras made up wholly of accordions were assembled.

Attitude for Success
He that would relish success to a good purpose should keep his passions cool and his expectations low; and then it is possible that his fortune might exceed his fancy; for an advantage always rises by surprise and is almost always doubled by being unlooked for.—Ohio State Journal.

Cutting Glass Under Water
Submerging glass under water does not necessarily mean that it will cut easier, but it is much less likely to crack than when cut in air. The cutting sets up vibrations in the glass which have a tendency to crack it. These vibrations are greatly reduced if the glass is placed under water during the cutting process.

Striking Painting of "Century" On New York Central Calendar

ONE of the most striking and impressive train pictures ever painted, is the feature of the 1926 Art Calendar now being distributed nationally by the New York Central Lines, bearing the artist's title "A National Institution."
The painting shows the Twentieth Century Limited, the fastest long distance train in the world, speeding southward along the east bank of the Hudson River, beneath the steel viaduct approach to the "Alfred H. Smith Memorial Bridge" across the Hudson River ten miles south of Albany, N. Y., a part of the $25,000,000 "Castleton Cut-Off" improvement, which includes also twenty-eight miles of connecting double-track railroad and large new freight classification yards.
The painting, which is by Walter L. Greene, upon exhibition won high praise for its illusion of thrilling speed and the impressive sense of the power and majesty of locomotive and train conveyed. The reproduction on the calendar is in five colors surrounded by a border semblance of a mahogany and gold frame.
Like the train paintings issued in preceding years, it is adaptable to framing and permanent preservation. The railroad's distribution of the picture includes all newspapers, hotels, banks, large industrial and mercantile establishments, commercial and civic organizations, public officials and other individuals and agencies having to do directly with transportation.
The Twentieth Century Limited, running daily in twenty hours between New York and Chicago in from two to five sections, on June 15th, 1926, will complete its twenty-fourth year of continuous service. It transports more passengers each year than all the ocean liners plying between Europe and America carry in their first cabins. Each section of the Century represents an investment in locomotive and car equipment of approximately $575,000.

State Farmers Face Seed Corn Shortage

That Michigan farmers will be faced with a very serious seed corn shortage next spring, the situation being complicated with the disastrous year 1917 in this respect, is the word being sent out by Prof. J. F. Cox, head of the farm crops department at the Michigan State College.

The entire northern states and corn belt sections are said to be in the same condition with regard to seed corn prospects for spring planting, leaving little hope that regions growing corn which would be adapted for Michigan can be counted on for seed supplies.

"The fall season was exceedingly misleading," says Professor Cox, in that corn appeared to be well matured in early fall. The unusually wet weather of the fall, followed by early freezes, prevented corn in the field from drying out, and when the freezes came germination was seriously injured.

"Tests at the M. S. C. show that many seed corn supplies thought to be in good condition are giving a very low percentage of germination. Only those farmers who field selected their corn early in the fall and hung it up for proper drying can feel fairly certain of having good seed. Even these lots, however, should be carefully tested owing to the unusual fall conditions.

"Supplies of old corn of good germination from last year's Michigan grown crop should not be fed up, but should be held available for use for seed next spring by those who will be unable to secure good seed of high germination of the 1925 crop.

"Conditions this year are apparently as alarming as in the disastrous year of 1917. Every corn grower should test his seed corn supply for germination, and if it is found unfit, as soon as possible secure dependable seed grown in his neighborhood or from other safe producers growing similar corn."

This Newspaper

In beginning 1926 this newspaper hastens to thank those who have given it their support during the past years, and especially, 1925.

A newspaper should render service to its community and the people living about it. That is what we are trying to do.

The public has an idea, very often, that a newspaper, unlike other business, is not operated for profit. This is very complimentary to the members of the press, and reveals the pleasing opinion that is generally shared in its good faith and integrity.

It sometimes becomes necessary, in the course of our endeavors to print stories which we would prefer to omit. News has a way of happening and many times the publication of the event brings an added sting of humiliation to innocent people and increases their mortification. For this we are sorry, but unfortunately, there is no way to prevent the suffering of the innocents after an affair has developed.

In our editorial columns we have tried to be fair and to omit all unnecessary critical references, although, at times, the duty which we feel that this newspaper owes to the public, has impelled us to write about questions which, from the standpoint of personal profit it would have been better to omit. However, we have no apology now, or at any other time, for having written the truth as we saw it, and will of necessity, follow that course in the future, even though we walk silent and alone.

Lansing—The State Conservation Commission, at its meeting last week, approved Director John Baird's plans for an investigation of fish life in the larger lakes of the state and authorized him to have one of the ichthyologists at the University of Michigan accompany the netting crews. These crews are to be headed by Robert Ellsworth, "commodore" of the State's fisheries fleet, and are to be made up of the commercial fishing inspectors whose boats are laid up during the winter.

Ann Arbor—With last Friday evening marking the beginning of Christmas vacation for thousands of University of Michigan students, with the streets leading to railroad, interurban and motor bus stations filled with hurrying crowds and with the backing of ancient flivvers homeward bound, sounding the dominant note of campus activity, the fulminations occasioned by Dr. Clarence Cook Little's determined stand on liquor law enforcement appear to have died away.

Grand Rapids—Fire, which swept the third floor of the Brown-Graff Paper company's paper warehouse Sunday, caused damage of about $20,000, it is estimated. The baled paper and rags burned stubbornly and firemen worked over the stock for nearly 10 hours. Water seeped through the other two floors into the basement. Joe Brown, of this city, is president and general manager of the concern. E. H. Graff and S. L. Graff, both of Kalamazoo, are vice-president and secretary-treasurer, respectively.

Lansing—As the result of many recent complaints, Charles J. DeLand, secretary of state, has issued a warning that currency should not be sent to the state department. Many persons, he said, mail bills for automobile licenses. Neither the state department nor the sender can verify the amount claimed to have been sent. Some instances have been reported in which applications and other documents disappeared with the money. DeLand recommends that all remittances be by certified check, draft or money order.

Owosso—The congregation of the First Congregational church of this city, has unanimously endorsed the stand of Dr. Clarence Cook Little, president of the University of Michigan, and the decision of the board of regents, that he had a perfect right to voice his opinions as he saw fit. Dr. J. T. Jones, president of the church, said that while "we may not agree with Dr. Little in everything he says, we must concede him the right of free speech just the same as any one else." "I predict," Dr. Jones said, "that Dr. Little will be a greater president than even our beloved Dr. Burton or Dr. Angell."

Poison For Drinks

The concoction of poisonous substitutes for the unavailable alcohol beverages of pre-prohibition days continues to go on throughout the republic and many fools have acquired the habit of drinking anything that is able to produce a kick, regardless of whether it is made from grain or poison.

The enforcement of the prohibition law, with the drastic handling of these purveyors of poison, is as pressing as any other problem before the governments of this country today. It is up to the federal government and the various state governments to enforce the law of the land. Regardless of whether a person favored prohibition or opposed it the wanton disregard of the law is evil, and the effects of such an attitude is disastrous in many instances.

During Christmas week the newspapers were filled with accounts of crimes of violence, many of which were attributed to bootleg whiskey, which means anything from lye water to shoe polish. The sale of such corrosives ought to be stopped, and whatever it takes to do the stunt ought to be done right now. The truth about the prohibition situation is simply this, the law should be enforced in an efficient and effective manner, regardless of the expense it takes, or it should be modified in order that the thirsty fiends can get something to drink which will not rot out their insides.

HOOVER SAYS 1926 OUTLOOK IS GOOD

Dominant Favorable Factor is Increased Productivity of U. S.

Washington.—That the flood-tide of prosperity which swept the nation in 1925 will rise even higher in 1926, provided "we temper our optimism with a sprinkling of caution," was the prediction of Secretary of Commerce Hoover in a statement issued here.
"On the whole, both our country and the rest of the world face a more favorable outlook at this turn of the year than for a long time past," Hoover declared, adding a warning:
"We ourselves, however, need to be on our guard against reckless optimism. What we need is an even keel in our financial controls, and our growing national efficiency will continue us in increasing prosperity."
Pointing out that the United States produced and consumed more goods in 1925 in proportion to population than ever before, thus resulting in the highest standard of living in history, Hoover takes this view of the future:
"The dominant factor in our outlook is increased productivity, due to fundamental and continuing forces such as the culmination of education, advancement of science, skill and elimination of waste."
"Other favorable indications are that stocks of commodities are moderate, employment exists for practically every one, wages are at a high level, savings are the largest in history and capital is therefore abundant."
"Much room for improvement exists in the agricultural situation, according to Hoover. Admitting that the prosperity wave has ebbed somewhat in the farming districts, he says:
"Agriculture generally has not gained a stability that makes for contentment because its basic economic problem of market is unsolved."

Aged Wife Helps Lover Kill Paralyzed Spouse

Chicago.—Twelve hours after the body of the victim was found the mystery was stripped from one of Chicago's most amazing murders and the five persons involved in the planning and execution of the crime were prisoners.
Four of the five made confessions before the twelve hours after the finding of the body had elapsed. One of those was the widow of the murdered man. She is fifty-nine years old—a grandmother. The aged woman planned the killing so she and the convict whom she had secretly loved for fifteen years might marry and live in comparatively luxury on the fortune of $50,000 which the slain man had accumulated.
The victim of the murder was Albert Nusbbaum, carpenter contractor, living at 9228 Baltimore avenue. He was sixty-five, and since last March had been paralyzed. Those under arrest as implicated in the crime are: Mrs. Eliza Nusbbaum, the widow; John Walton Winn, forty-seven, former convict and intimate of Mrs. Nusbbaum, who is alleged to have ordered Edwin Goff to kill Nusbbaum with an ax; Edwin Goff, lodger; Marion Springham, Mrs. Delilah Martin.

Lu Chien-chang, was executed on orders of Little Hsu in 1919, while the latter was a cabinet secretary under President Li Yuan-hung. Captain Lu is a cousin of Fena Yu-hsiang, the Christian general.

MUNSEY WILL LEAVE MILLIONS TO MUSEUM

$300,000 Divided Among His Business Associates.

New York.—Frank A. Munsey's will, disposing of property estimated at $400,000,000, was made public here.
Mr. Munsey bequeathed almost his entire fortune to the Metropolitan Museum of Art.
He directed all his properties, including his two newspapers, the Sun and the Evening Telegram, to be sold within five years. William T. Dewart, business manager of the Munsey properties, issued a reassuring statement there would be no sudden sale or change.
Requests other than that to the Metropolitan Museum of Art constitute "only a small fraction" of the estate. Chief among them are $250,000 to Bowdoin college, at Brunswick, Maine, and $100,000 to the Maine State hospital at Portland.
Approximately $300,000 is divided among business associates. Mr. Dewart is to get $50,000 and his wife $10,000. R. H. Titherington, who had been with Mr. Munsey nearly forty years, is given $50,000.
Mathew White, Jr., one of Munsey's earliest associates in the magazine business, is given $10,000 and an income of $5,000 a year. Erman J. Ridgeway receives $25,000, and Robert Hobart Davis $10,000. Joseph Branigan, foreman of the Munsey composing room, gets $10,000.
Among the personal bequests is $50,000 to Mrs. Sophie Meldrim Coy, formerly wife of E. H. Coy, the Yale football star known as "Ted" Coy. Mrs. Coy was a personal friend. There is also a bequest of $25,000 to Jean Rushmore Patterson, wife of Capt. Charles H. Patterson.

J. D. Rockefeller, Jr., Buys $100,000 Gotham Mansion

New York.—It has cost John D. Rockefeller, Jr., at least another $1,000,000 to protect the investment made by himself and his father in residential holdings at Fifty-third and Fifty-fourth streets and Fifth avenue. Announcement was made of the purchase by Rockefeller of the palatial home of Mrs. Hamilton McK. Twombly, 684 Fifth avenue. The property is assessed at $1,050,000, of which $900,000 is the land value. It is obvious that Mr. Rockefeller paid well over $1,000,000.

Good Stand of Red Clover Is Insured

Failures Uncommon Where Fertilizer Is Used.

Can a good stand of red clover be insured? "Yes," says a soils specialist who has charge of a number of experiment fields in a leading corn-belt state. "In the past five years we have never had a clover failure on our plots where fertilizer has been applied, but we often had failures on the unfertilized plots."
Clover failures are expensive, especially when red clover seed is as high as it is now. The mortality of clover seedlings is high—so high that many farmers have been discouraged in growing clover, although they know it ranks high as a soil improver.
Lime and phosphorus are generally the limiting factors that prevent successful clover growing. Acidity of the soil is becoming more and more common. Every year the equivalent of a quarter ton of limestone is lost from each acre in the drainage water. Continued removal of crops has greatly depleted the phosphorus content of many soils. Both lime and fertilizer are important, but liming is often over-emphasized under conditions where lack of available phosphorus is the limiting factor. Some soils, too, need potash in addition to phosphorus.
Fertilizer will insure the red clover investment. On the majority of soils fertilizer applied on the grain crop seeded to clover will pay for itself twice—once in the increased grain yield and again in the clover following.

Some Great Advantages of Alsike Clover Crop

Nearly every farmer knows that alsike clover will grow in wet sour soils, but it is not generally known that on any land it will grow as many tons of hay to the acre and carry as much nitrogen in the roots as red clover; he sides, that it costs less and takes half as much seed to an acre.
In a ten-year experiment at the Ohio experiment station alsike clover made 2.6 tons of hay to the acre, whereas at the first cutting red clover made two tons.
Most farmers prefer red clover where it can be grown because it stands higher, lodges less, and will grow a second cutting. Though alsike clover yields as well as red at the first cutting, it appears to yield less because it does not stand as high in the field, but when weighed out as hay alsike sometimes has the advantage. Alsike will lodge. Where it is grown as hay it usually should be sown with other clovers and timothy.—This practice, of course, is common, but many farmers do not realize that alsike is the earliest maturing of any of our common clovers. It is ten days ahead of red clover, and if planted with timothy the crop should be harvested when the timothy is just coming into head. If the crop is harvested early, indications are that there will be a better chance for a second cutting.

Hog Wallow Rectangular in Shape Is Convenient

It is most convenient to make the hog wallow rectangular in shape with rounded corners and of a depth of not over 18 inches shallower at one end. A pool 15 to 20 feet long and 10 feet wide will be found amply large. The floor and side walls should be six inches thick, reinforced with wire mesh. A concrete floor four feet wide should be laid around the wallow to prevent the hogs from burrowing under or carrying in mud.
The wallow should be located near the water supply. If from a spring the water may flow through the pool continuously but if from a tank the wallow should be emptied and refilled at intervals. A good plan is to drain the outlet to the nearest line of tile.

FARM FACTS

- The early seeders get the fly.
- Read this until you understand it: No bull is better than a scrub bull.
- Many farms could very profitably keep a few hives of bees. Sweet clover honey is the highest quality.
- Bran, cottonseed meal, linseed oil meal are generally cheapest in late summer.
- Wheat to be used for seeding should be treated with copper carbonate dust before planting.
- Land suitable for the production of potatoes is suitable for the production of standard varieties of apples.
- Plan to attend a culling school or secure the service of some one who has attended. The time is ideal for catching the slacker hen.
- Sweet clover deserves a trial on any farm where the soil is sweet. It will help to decrease the pasture costs by producing more feed per acre.
- If you would have something that will serve day and night all fall, winter, and early spring, striving to protect and make your lands richer, sow cover crops.
- Vines of peas, beans and the like should be pulled up as soon as the bearing season is over. Spread out in the garden to dry and then burn.

Diseases Harm Alfalfa Fields

Plants Attacked by Crown or Root Rot Have Died Out in Some Areas.

As a result of last year's attack of crown or root rot, many alfalfa fields are showing areas where the plants have died out entirely. The old crowns remain brown and no new growth appears to be starting although the main root may be sound.
If the tap root is cut across, a yellowish-brown discoloration of the ducts which supply the plant with water can usually be observed, and when examined under the microscope, these ducts are found to be either partially or wholly plugged with a gum-like substance. This material prevents the passage of water from the soil, and the characteristic wilting noticed during the growing season last summer results.
Bacterial infection blamed.
Present studies indicate that the disease is due to a bacterial infection which may enter the crowns through the cut stems following the first cutting. Animal parasites in the soil may play a part in infecting the plants, but the alfalfa nematode, thought to be responsible for so much of the killing last season, probably has little to do with this disease.
Three-year-old stands and older seem to be the worst affected. This suggests that the disease is cumulative, and that possibly three or four years are required to bring about a sufficient plugging of the water ducts to interfere seriously with the growth of the plants.
The very wet season of 1923 may have given an abnormal stimulus to the development of the disease which was not felt until 1924, a dry year, when the soil moisture was short, and the plant's ability to utilize what moisture was present was greatly reduced by the plugging of the water ducts.
Alfalfa and sweet clover are both subject to this disease, and neither should be sown for at least five years on land that has had the crown or root rot. In the meantime, rotate the soil with other crops, and if experience has shown that red clover can be grown successfully as a hay crop, substitute it temporarily for alfalfa.
The bacteriological and botanical sections of the Colorado Agricultural Experiment station have experiments under way at the present time which should throw more light upon the cause, nature and control of the disease.—Walter G. Sackett, Bacteriologist, and L. W. Durrell, Botanist, Colorado Experiment Station.

Storing Garden Produce for Use During Winter

There are two classes of crops which are put into storage, those that require warm, moderately dry storage conditions, and those that require cool storage. The various conditions are best met, of course, in a basement or cellar having a good furnace, but they may be pretty well met in a good cellar or cave. Without this you will have to depend upon storing the crops in a room in the house or an attic or in a pit, perhaps.
The pumpkins, squashes, some of the bulbs, onions and the like, should be kept where they will not freeze. The potatoes and root crops such as beets, turnips, carrots, etc., require a cool storage room. Store the root crops in tight packages. A good way to store turnips, carrots, beets and the like is to put them in good tight barrels, a layer at a time, each layer separated by a layer of dry leaves. Such barrels may be buried in a well-drained place in the garden. Cabbages may be wrapped separately in newspapers and buried in a barrel in the garden also, says a writer in an exchange. We have stored potatoes, apples, and in fact most all the crops which require cool storage in pits or barrels in a well-drained place in the garden very successfully, and aside from the slight difficulty of getting them out during the winter, we have had no reason whatever to complain of this method of storage.

Four Important Factors Governing Alfalfa Crop

There are about four factors which usually govern the growth of alfalfa—drainage, inoculation, limestone and phosphate. Without deep drainage, alfalfa cannot extend its roots deep enough to make heavy growth or to continue its growth through a dry season. Without inoculation, the alfalfa cannot secure enough nitrogen to make a maximum growth. On soils which are rich in organic matter more nitrogen can be taken from the soil, but there is almost no soil rich enough in humus and nitrogen for alfalfa to make a heavy growth without being able to secure some air nitrogen by means of inoculation.

Kill Mites and Lice

Cylinder oil and kerosene mixed and sprayed in the chicken house will keep the mites away, but it will hardly have any effect on the body lice. For these use sodium fluoride or good leuse powder, forcing it through the long feathers that cover the abdomen. In that place it will get all the lice in a very short time. This treatment should be repeated in about ten days in order to kill the lice that are hatched during that period.

COOLIDGE TO REMAIN AS ARICA ARBITRATOR

Denies Return of Pershing Affects Efforts at Border Settlement.

Washington. — President Coolidge will not withdraw as arbitrator in the Tacna-Arica boundary controversy between Chile and Peru.

This was made clear at the White House, following the publication of the fact that General Pershing, the President's plebiscitary representative, who has been struggling for months at Arica against heavy odds, is to return to the United States next month because of illness.

Despite the difficulties which at times seemed insurmountable and which reached a climax in Chile's appeal to him from decisions of the Pershing plebiscite commission, President Coolidge feels that the arbitration is proceeding in accordance with the original plan. He has no thought, it was declared, of permitting the United States to withdraw from the responsibility it accepted when it was agreed that the President should undertake to arbitrate the long-standing dispute between the two South American republics.

Anxious to prevent further speculation on the reason for General Pershing's return to the United States, the State department formally announced that it had known for some time that the general desired to come home.

"There is no mystery about General Pershing's return to this country," the department statement announced. "We have known for some time that he wanted to come home and that he has trouble with his teeth. The plebiscite arrangements will continue in his absence. So far as the department knows, General Pershing will go back to Arica when his health permits."

The department also sought to clear up the return of the boundary commission, announcing that it had been agreed some time ago by the three countries involved that because of the climatic conditions the work of fixing the boundary must cease for the time being.

"Torrential rains and malaria" were the two elements which caused the temporary abandonment of the boundary work, it was asserted.

Army intimates of General Pershing expressed their belief that his return to this country is absolutely necessary for his health.

Unless examination by physicians upon his arrival here discloses an extremely bad blood pressure situation which cannot be relieved with the attention to his infected teeth, the general may be able to return to his post in Arica in time to be present at the outset of the registration period, which begins February 15.

A month has been set aside for the Tacna-Arica population to register and April 15 has been set as the date for holding the plebiscite.

Business Men to Aid Purchasing for U. S. Army

Washington.—A council of business leaders is to be formed to advise the army purchasing department in the expenditure of $200,000,000 for supplies, Hanford MacNider, assistant secretary of war, disclosed. War department officials believe that a great saving can be made by more efficient bulk purchasing methods.

Mr. MacNider points out the great savings accomplished by the big chain-store systems in their buying and expresses the opinion that the army ought to be able to accomplish the same result. The step marks another effort at placing the War department on a business basis.

Miss Margot, Co-Founder of American Red Cross, Dies

Washington.—Miss Antoinette Margot, co-founder with Clara Barton of the American Red Cross, is dead at her home here. Death was ascribed to infirmities of old age. The two became attached to one another, and after the war Miss Barton took her friend, then a young girl, to the United States to help establish the mercy organization.

Michigan Happenings

Mrs. Lincoln Ostrander, wife of the pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church at Davison, will be crippled for life as a result of her successful attempt to save her young granddaughter from death under the wheels of an interurban car. Mrs. Ostrander was about to board the car when she saw that the child, who had been brought to the station to see her grandmother leave, was in danger. Mrs. Ostrander dragged the child to safety, but in doing so she slipped and fell in front of the car. Her left foot was so badly crushed that amputation was necessary and her right leg was broken. She is at the Goodrich General hospital, where her recovery is expected.

George C. Watson, of Capaa, has begun his duties as receiver of the Jeddo State Savings Bank. His first effort, he said, will be to collect the $20,000 assessment levied on the stockholders of the bank by the State Banking Department and to collect $10,000 from the Southern Surety Co. which furnished the bond for Squire Laings, the missing cashier. Two stockholders have paid in $3,000 on the assessment levied against them, making $12,000 of the $20,000 that has been paid in. The stockholders are also liable for another assessment if additional funds are needed to reimburse the depositors.

Emptying Money Into the Head

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

"IF YOU empty your purse into your head," Franklin said, "no one can take it from you."

Mother always looked after the purse at our house. It was kept in a little walnut box in the left-hand corner of the upper bureau drawer. Father, who was skillful in the use of tools, had made the box for that purpose. It never had a great deal of money in it, as I recall, for I used to satisfy my curiosity when mother opened it to pay some small bill or to give father a little change when he went to town.

We had no luxuries in those far-away days. Our clothes were very simple and very inexpensive. Our pleasures cost us little. Prices were low, and there were heavy debts to be paid. But if there was no money for luxuries, there always seemed to be enough for things to read. Father and mother had been to school little, but they had early realized the value of reading. We always had books and magazines and newspapers in interesting variety. If we were not up on politics and literature and religion it was not for lack of opportunity to read.

I used to think that the percentage of sermons at hand was rather larger than the demand required, but that, of course, was only a matter of personal opinion. There was poetry and biography and history, and I got a taste of fiction from the magazines which were not lacking in stories. There was a library in town, too, and in some way father found the five dollars necessary for me to become a member, for it was through the membership fees that money was raised to buy the books.

The things we got out of the few dollars thus emptied into our heads can never be taken away. When mother's eyes failed and she could no longer read, the days and the long nights were never dull, she told me, for she had in her mind the memory of the tales she had read, of the songs she had learned, of the precious thoughts that had found lodging in her mind through those years of reading.

Through this wisdom of father's in thus emptying his slender purse into our heads, I am sure I had become familiar with a thousand books before I was fifteen, and books, too, which I still remember and the influence and pleasure derived from which no one can ever take away from me. It isn't so much that they made me wise, though I must have learned a good deal from them, but that they made me happy; they took me outside of my little narrow world and let me see what lay beyond the horizon.

It isn't so much that education, which is another method of pouring money into one's head, will help us to make money. It will help us to live more happily, to enjoy life more fully, to have more resourcefulness, higher ideals, a deeper insight into human nature.

Shoulder Bouquet and Scarf With Formal Dress

Of all the charming accessories which go to make miltady's party frock a vision of loveliness, perhaps the shoulder bouquet plays the most picturesque role. Indeed not to wear a flower or two posed upon the shoulder, is the exception rather than the rule. There is a flattering becomingness in these costume bouquets. That is why they have become so essential a part of the evening costume. They are particularly entrancing with the sleeveless frock.

Another smart detail which "adds to the picture" is the matching scarf. The fact that it is made of the same material as the dress classes it as being a component part of the frock rather than an accessory. Its peculiar charm is that it suggests the new high-neck effect now so stylish (if correctly wrapped about the throat as the picture shows), yet in no way does it detract from the correct décolleté.
