Does it surprise you that American ships hundreds of miles in the interior of China are fired upon. What would happen to a hostile Chinese warship, riding at anchor where the Ohio joins the Mississippi.

Speaking about frankness, an Omaha woman has just confessed that the best joke she ever played on her husband was the day she married him.

When Canada celebrates her 60th birthday on July 1, it is expected she will have lots of help from a number of the boys across the river.

What the average worker is interested in is the five-pay day months.

EAST JORDAN PUBLIC SCHOOL BAND

The Band We Are Proud Of Director—John Ter Wee.

Cornets—Gregory Boswell, Clayton Montroy, Ira Weaver, Wm. Taylor.
Clarinets—Bruce Lintner, Robert Pray, Francis Kleinhans, Harold Clark, Ernie Hegerberg, Roy Bussler, Fred LaLonde.
Oboe—Harold Gidley.
Saxophones—Russell Meredith, Carl Rosenthal, James Gleason, Chas. McKinnon.
Trombones—Kenneth Blossie, Harry McHale, Arthur Arnston.
Alto—Clifford Dennis, Wm. Kitman, Chris Taylor.
Baritone—Chester Amberg.
Base—George Secord, Rodrick Muma, Norman Bartlett.
Drums—Claude Lorraine, Gerrit Steenhagen, Harold Whiteford.

The citizens of East Jordan take pride in having a School Band worthy of State recognition.

Organized in February, 1925, from boys who, in the main, knew nothing of music in any form, the Band has developed a fine musical organization, instruments—some of them expensive—have been secured, and the boys well uniformed. The development of our Band has been largely due to the efforts of its Director—John Ter Wee, backed by our citizens who realized the value of such an organization, both to the boys themselves, and the community at large.

East Jordan has the distinction of being the first school district in Northern Michigan to take cognizance of the value of a Band in its Public Schools. Since then several other cities and villages have followed the lead. At the State School Band Contest held at Lansing recently this part of Michigan was represented only by the East Jordan organization.

At this contest East Jordan won third place in Class B schools by a wide margin—in fact we lacked only one-tenth of one per cent of tying for second place. East Jordan was also awarded the Reo prize cup for being the best uniformed outfit among the forty-three bands competing.

At the Memorial Day observation in our city, Monday, the School Band furnished the band music for the occasion, and on Wednesday evening opened East Jordan's series of weekly open-air concerts from the City band stand.

While the graduating class of 1927 will take a number of the boys from the organization, our public schools will have quite a bunch of youths who will take up band work this coming season. About one-half the band instruments in use are owned by our school district so that the apprentices coming in will not be called upon for such an expense.

School Notes

PAGEANT—"WHEN POLLY WAS QUEEN OF THE MAY."

The pupils in the five grades of the West Side school did themselves proud in the rendition of their annual out-door pageant which makes the big event in the closing of the school year. These pageants have been drawing large crowds each year and especially was it marked this time as, in spite of inclement weather, the attendance was the largest.

The lawn, east of the school building was decorated with cedar and fancy branches, forming the wings for entrance. Following the opening number by the high school band, a group of children skipping and singing opened the program proper, which included a wreath drill by 12 girls, bow and arrow drill by 12 boys and a flower drill by 12 little tots. There was also a special fairy dance given by Josephine Sommerville. She also led in another fairy dance which consisted of eight little girls dressed in white with beautifully decorated butterfly wings. A poor little girl, who wandered along and who, being tired, fell asleep in the Queen's chair, was discovered and it was decided to make her Queen. This part was taken by Ardella Anderson, who was escorted by eight little girls in lavender, and Isadore Peck, who was the maid-of-honor. When the May Pole was wound in her honor, the boys, after first thinking it very silly, declared it very beautiful.

The Misses—Dexter, Wilcox and Nichols, teachers in the school who, with the assistance of Miss Kelly, musical director, are to be congratulated upon the success of the pageant.

The costuming and presenting of this pageant means much labor and effort which is appreciated by the patrons of the school.

LITERARY SOCIETY

At the closing meeting of East Jordan High School Literary Society for this year, the following officers were elected for next fall—

President—Margaret Staley.
Vice-Pres.—Isabel Kitman.
Secretary—Ruth Clark.
Treasurer—Fredrica Shaw.
Sergeants-at-Arms—Rodrick Muma and Ira Weaver.

STATE COMMERCIAL CONTEST RESULTS

Official notice has just been received that East Jordan High School placed tenth among 153 schools at the State Commercial Contest recently held at Kalamazoo.

The team composed of Margaret Staley, Anna Leu and Isabel Lintner took tenth place and Margaret Staley also placed tenth in third year typing. Miss Staley's individual record of 72.8 words per minute in team typing was the second highest record made in that event, the highest being 73 words per minute.

Enjoys Ball Game

The photograph shows Sir Thomas Lipton, famous tea magnate, amateur yachtsman, and one of the world's greatest sportsmen, snapped at the Yankee stadium, New York, when he viewed a recent Yankee-Athletic contest. He tried on a ball player's cap.

Mrs. J. F. Kenny Passes Away After Long Illness

Mrs. John F. Kenny passed away at her home in this city, Saturday, May 28th, following an illness of nearly three years duration from arterial sclerosis.

Charlotte Eva McLean was born at Atwood, Antrim County, Jan'y 8th, 1866, her parents being Mr. and Mrs. John McLean. She came to East Jordan in 1883 and has since made this place her home.

On October 24th, 1888, she was united in marriage to John F. Kenny of this city. She is survived by the husband and two daughters—Mrs. G. W. Bechtold of East Jordan and Mrs. D. W. Dicken of Boyne City. Also by two brothers and a sister—John McLean of East Jordan; William McLean and Mrs. Martha Williams of Los Angeles, Calif. Deceased was a member of the Lady Macabees.

Funeral services were held from her late home Tuesday afternoon, May 31st, conducted by Rev. C. W. Sidebotham of the Presbyterian Church. Interment at Sunset Hill.

Detroit—Michigan exports of merchandise to foreign countries in 1926 were valued at $262,594,218, an increase of $15,383,491 over the figure for 1925, advancing the state to fifth among exporting states, the Department of Commerce at Washington announced. In 1925, when the state's exports amounted to $247,210,727, she ranked sixth. In 1924 she ranked eighth, with exports valued at $177,976,654. Shipments of passenger automobiles accounted for $115,199,976 of the State's total exports in 1926.

Lansing—By the middle of July, $1,800,000 will be paid to farmers of Michigan at the rate of $2 per acre, for work done in bringing 800,000 Michigan acres under control for eradication of the European corn borer, said A. C. Carton, in charge of the work. "There have been numerous letters written to this office indicating a belief that the corn borer fund has been exhausted and farmers will not get their money," Carton said. "But as a matter of fact, there will be plenty of money to pay every just claim."

Applegate—An attempt to blow the vault door to the Applegate State bank here recently was foiled by the scientific combination of time locks and the arrangement of a false front shutter inside, which dropped down before the safe door, in the vault, as the robbers bored through the outer wall. No loot rewarded the bandits, but the vault was tightly locked against the bankers, who had to send to Detroit for an expert to open the strong box. Entrance to the bank was gained by jimmying the lock of the front door.

Lansing—Liquid fire and flame is being employed to "roast" corn-borers in their native haunts. Sixteen burning units have been released to do compulsory cleanup work in the heavily infested areas. Each unit consists of a fuel tank and engine mounted on a truck which supplies fuel oil through hose to a burner. The burner has a series of jets and a reflector to turn back the flame. These burners develop a heat of 1400 Fahrenheit which is sufficient to cook the borers right in the stalks.

The way it looks now the nations want to arm to enforce disarmament, if you listen to them.

Septic Tanks Prove Boon To Farm Homes

Michigan farmers can build a septic tank which will adequately dispose of all household sewerage at an expense of only fifty dollars, according to the estimates of the agricultural engineering department of Michigan State College.

To make it possible for farmers in the State to observe the construction of these tanks, the college will build septic tanks in 13 Michigan counties this year.

Arrangements made between one or more farmers in each county and the college department provide that the farmer agrees to have the excavation for the tank completed before the day of the demonstration and to have all materials on the ground. The college specialists build the tank and explain construction methods to any one who attends the demonstration.

Septic tanks which were built according to the specifications of the agricultural engineering department have been under observation for 15 years and are reported to have given complete satisfaction.

The places and dates of the demonstrations are:—Tuscola county, June 14 to 17; Sanilac county, June 28 to July 1; St. Clair county, July 5 to 6; Macomb county, July 7 to 8; Jackson county, July 12 to 15; Ingham county, July 18 to 19; Newago county, July 21 to 22; Mecosta County, July 28 to 29; Emmet county, Sept. 1 to 2; CHARLEVOIX COUNTY, Sept. 6 to 9; Manistee county, Sept. 12; Oceana county, Sept. 14 to 16; Kent county, Sept. 19 to 21.

Muskegon—Fifty-five hundred chickens were burned when part of the hatchery of H. W. Carpenter was destroyed by fire. The loss was $5,000.

Detroit—One Detroit motorist must be unusually apprehensive of accidents. He was seen on one of the boulevards and it was noticed that a strong bumper of steel ran around all four sides of the automobile.

Ann Arbor—Ann Arbor high school has won a place in the oratorical hall of fame alongside the victors of other years. The school's debating team defeated Albion high in a contest for the high school championship of Michigan.

Lansing—A bill creating a Michigan crippled children commission and appropriating $50,000 for the work of treating and caring for juvenile cripples, is before Governor Fred W. Green for his signature. Rotarians were active on behalf of the measure.

Coldwater—Edward Davis, 55 years old, of LaFontain, Ind., met instant death here when a heavy drag line bucket, carrying a load of gravel, gave way, causing him to fall to the ground under the load. Davis is survived by his widow and four children.

Grand Rapids—Ernest Conant, 46 years old, an employee of a contracting firm, was found in a dying condition when one of his two young sons returned home from school. Conant was able to say that a horse kicked him. He died shortly after in a hospital.

Detroit—While traveling in the state some distance from Detroit it used to be hours before one could learn the score of a ball game, but in this day, according to a traveling salesman, every village store has a radio tuned in on a ball game in the afternoon.

WITH THE Co. Agricultural AGENT

Joseph Stutzman, County Champion in Handicraft Clubs.

Joseph Stutzman was awarded the County Championship in Handicraft Club Work at the recent Achievement Day. He is a member of the Hilton School Handicraft Club, located on M-11, south of Charlevoix, and displayed a fine exhibit of six articles that he has made during the winter. Much of the credit must be given to Miss Lottie Webster, the teacher and leader of the club, who has been largely instrumental in the success of the club. Joseph was selected by A. G. Kettunen, State Club Leader, as having done the best work out of 20 boys in 4 clubs and we all unite in offering him congratulations upon his high attainment.

We are unable at the present time to make public the name of the Co. Champion in the Girls' Sewing Clubs, but will be in a position to do so in a short time. Owing to the rain on Achievement Day there was not a sufficient number of clubs represented. As a result Miss Featherly from M. S. C., who judged all the exhibits in the County will make her decision and inform us very shortly.

Tuberculosis Campaign in Charlevoix County Nearly Completed.

Dr. T. P. Pomeroy, the veterinarian in charge of the campaign to eradicate tuberculosis from the cattle of this county reports that the work is progressing very rapidly and probably will be completed in the next two weeks.

The present campaign was started early last spring and continued until the appropriation made by the Board of Supervisors was used up. At that time fully 50% of the cattle population of the County had been tested with a .8 of 1% infection, which was too high and necessitated testing all the cattle in order to get our percentage down to below .5 of 1% before our County could continue its high rating of an accredited area.

With the completion of the campaign all the cattle will have been tested and our county again placed on the honor roll and the public can be assured of securing a practically disease free milk. We are highly gratified to learn that thus far this year very few reactors have been found. All herds having reactors last year are again tested and give us the reassurance that they are clean.

Have also been informed that Emmet County is again accredited, Otsego County as well, and Antrim Co. tests again this year, so this gives this section of the State protection from this dreaded disease.

Nutrition Project Being Completed.

The local leaders in the Nutrition Project for this County received their fourth and last instruction from Mrs. Bernice Wells, Food Specialist from the Michigan State College last week. The East Jordan group received their lesson on Thursday and the Boyne City group on Friday.

These leaders will give their last lessons this week to over one hundred ladies who have enrolled in the various classes and will then unite in putting on a big Achievement Day to be held at the East Jordan High School Auditorium on Wednesday, June 15th. Posters, exhibits, charts and a highly interesting program will conclude the year's work and show the results of the project to the public.

Watch the succeeding papers for further details of the big meeting and plan to attend.

Special 7th and 8th Grade Examinations

"So many pupils were either sick or in quarantine at the time of the regular seventh and eighth grade examinations, special examinations will be held for these pupils on June 6 and 7. Seventh grade subjects will be given the first day and eighth grade the second. Only those pupils who for unavoidable reasons were unable to attend the regular examinations will be allowed to write the special examinations.

Those students wishing to take the above examinations should notify the Commissioner of Schools at once."

Yours truly,
A. C. BELDING.

The pullet laid her first egg when she was four months and 18 days old. She hatched Dec. 21 and laid for the first time on May 9th. Mr. McNabb has a fine flock of Rhode Island Reds and White Leghorns, numbering more than 600 at the present time. Of this number, 170 are hens and some 400 baby chicks and young chickens. Mrs. McNabb was formerly Miss Allen Hayden of Orchard Hill.

A THOUGHT TO THE BUYER

By SYDNEY J. BURGOYNE

There are rules on how to treat the man who buys—but this one tells Of just a splendid little plan To help the chap who sells.

Jump right into the Salesman's shoes For just a little while— And then I'm sure you won't refuse To greet him with a smile.

He may have traveled all night through In a stuffy upper berth, Just so that he could bring to you "THE FINEST GOODS ON EARTH!"

His hands are always "in and out"— "In" his pockets for a tip. Then "out" again for just about Each breath he takes on his trip.

The comforts of the snug home-nest That you enjoy so much, He had to leave with all the rest— And then maybe "gets in Dutch."

And though hotels are often fine, I'm sure if you would try To jump around along the line You'd pity the Poor Guy.

But pullman berths won't seem so small, Nor hotel clerks so pert, And he won't mind such things at all— The tips he gives won't hurt.

If you just hand a welcome-out— Whether you buy or not— Then he'll go on without a doubt, Happier—by a lot.

So stop awhile and think a bit, And you'll see the common sense Of trying just to look at it From his side of the fence.

Then greet him with the friendly hand, He needs the "dough" and YOU; But don't forget to understand— YOU NEED THE SALESMAN, TOO!

THE WHY of SUPERSTITIONS

By H. IRVING KING

WART CURES

NO DEPARTMENT of folk medicine as practiced in this country appears to be so popular as that which deals with the cure of warts. One of the publications of the American Folk-Lore society gives nearly four pages to a list of magical cures now in vogue for these annoying excrescences.

Mythology and sympathetic magic and old forms of primitive religions are the bases of the "cure." Here are two which are based upon tree worship. Draw a knife across the wart and then draw it (the knife) across an apple tree. Cut your finger nails and place the cuttings in a hole in a tree. Then stop up the hole and "wish the warts onto somebody else." In both cases the tree spirit is appealed to for a cure. In the first process the transference of the evil spirit residing in the wart to the keeping of the tree god is accomplished by means of the knife, and in the second cure by means of the cuttings of the finger nails. The knife is an iron instrument and, as has been shown, iron is something possessing power over witches and evil spirits. And the finger nails were regarded by the ancients, even when severed from the body, as retaining the "ego" of the man. To transfer finger-nail cuttings was tantamount to transferring the whole man to the keeping of the tree god.

The wishing the wart onto another after the ceremony of the nail cuttings is in the nature of a prayer to the tree god to dispose of the evil wart-spirit by handing it over to another person; thus purging the worshiper of it and providing for it an other home so that it may be kept quiet and not seek to return to its former habitat. In the days when all Europe was covered with a dense forest tree worship was the most extensive and most popular cult, and it is not surprising that we find among our current superstitions of today so many vestiges of it.

NANCY LOVED ART

NANCY had never been to an art show and she had always wanted to see lots and lots of pictures. She loved paintings and drawings, so a friend took her one day to see an exhibition of art in a nearby city.

And oh, how many, many wonderful pictures Nancy saw!

There were paintings of water at night with deserted sailboats, and small gleaming yellow lights shone forth from some of the frames, and light of the sun can be painted," she said admiringly.

There were paintings of snakes and of birds and of animals which of course interested Nancy.

And there was a painting of morning shadows which was unusually lovely.

"And how the people about did enjoy the paintings. Some loved the pictures of windy places, places such as they knew best. Others loved the pictures of quiet, peaceful scenes of meadows and brooks while others loved pictures of the wild and angry, beautiful changing sea.

Nancy's friend had a guide who showed them about and who gave little talks on the pictures, explaining them, pointing out interesting things and telling about the artists.

And no one was in a hurry to "do up everything in a short time." Everyone loved to look long and interestedly at some especially appealing picture for Nancy said:

"I would rather get to know a few pictures, which I loved well than a lot just to say I'd seen them. Just as I'd rather know a few people I liked really well than to be able to wave my hand to hundreds."

All around, too, were class rooms where there were people painting. One had a class of business men who took a little while off every week to paint pictures, and Nancy told her friend that she was going to tell her daddy about this though she had always said he couldn't even draw a pig except with his eyes shut.

Her daddy had always liked drawing with his eyes shut, he said, because then his queer drawings were supposed to be so strange because he had not been able to see, but when he could see he couldn't make them any better and yet then he had no excuse.

Then Nancy saw through art school in the basement of the building and the classes where pupils were sketching and painting and etching. One girl was modeling with soap and to Nancy's surprise the result was beautiful!

One lovely thing Nancy saw was of Mother Ocean singing a lullaby, and this a pupil had modeled.

And as Nancy looked about her she said:

"Yes, I am going to draw more and more all the time so when I am big I can come to an art school and become a painter, too."

Then, before she left, she saw the pottery and silver, the porcelain and old, beautiful tapestries and beaded bags from all over the world.

And Nancy said she was very glad she lived in the world for it was such an interesting world with so much in it for everyone.

UNEXPRESSED IMPULSES

A THING is of value only as it is used. Not long since the writer enjoyed the privilege of a visit to the deposit vaults of a trust company in a large city. In one of the boxes in the vault was stored away $1,000,000. It was the property of the trust company and was held by it for reserve purposes. It cost the trust company $80,000 a year to keep that money lying idle in that deposit box. Doubtless the value of having so large a reserve on hand was worth the cost of withdrawing a million dollars from circulation. The law required it for the protection of depositors.

The assets of life expressed in values other than mere money are also very costly when stored away in the deposit boxes of idleness and inaction. A thing to be of value must be used. Unless we use it, we lose it. Nature has a law by which she deprives us of what we do not use. Refuse to speak for a given number of years and we lose the power of speech. Refuse sight to the eyes for the same length of time and we no longer can see. In the Mammoth cave of Kentucky swim fishes in deep waters. They have eyes but cannot see because they have no use for them. Nature is too economical to allow us to possess what we are not willing to put to some use.

The moral values of life meet the same test and work under the same law. In proportion as we give expression to moral values they develop character and enrich life. In proportion as we refuse expression to them we lose the sense of moral values. The light set under a bushel will soon go out. The seed unable to take root in the ground will soon die. The only way we can possess anything is first to give it away. When we try to keep it all to ourselves by not using it, we lose it. The human personality lives only through self-expression. An unexpressed impulse dies.

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

"IN THE NICK OF TIME"

A FEW centuries ago the only book-keeping known was by wooden tallies, which were notched for reckoning of money and time.

As late as the early part of the Eighteenth century such tallies, the width of the notches indicating the desired figure, were issued by the English government as certificates of indebtedness, and were recognized as a species of security. The tallies were made of sticks of willow or hazel, which, after being properly notched, were split lengthwise, one piece being given to the creditor as his receipt, the other being kept as a sort of carbon copy for the record. Rather hazy finance for our day—best case?

The contemporary form of the word notch was nock, from which came "nick" and "nick of time."

This is an interesting example of the colorful sidelights on former times that lie concealed in modern terminology.

Roses in December

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois

AUNT EMMA is past eighty-five years of age, and has been practically a shut-in for a considerable number of years. Her house sets far back from the street, and looking out of her window she can see the aspens turning to gold and the crimson crown of the maple trees making a vivid border along the street.

"This morning when I awakened," she wrote last October, "and looked out, large snowflakes, feathery and beautiful, filled the air. Now at noon the sun is shining, and the world is bright and beautiful. We have had a lovely fall. The leaves have never before been so brilliantly yellow and red. I have always been a lover of nature, and I think as the years grow upon me, I see about me more to love and admire. Do you remember Joyce Kilmer's little poem?

"I think that I shall never see
A poem lovely as a tree—
A tree that looks at God all day
And lifts her leafy arms to pray."

"I have been shut in since August with rheumatism, and I can read but little at a time. I am growing old, but I try not to dwell too much on the past, for the world is beautiful, and there is joy and happiness all about me. I have had a happy life, and the memory of it all is pleasant. I believe it was Barrie who wrote:

"God made memory so that we might Have roses in December."

It was December in Aunt Emma's life, and yet for her the roses were still blooming. It is easy to see why for some people there are no roses blooming when the winter of old age comes on. There is Martin, for instance. He has settled down with nothing to do. He has no especial memories to make old age bright and colorful. He worked as a young man to accumulate money, and now that he has all that is necessary to provide for his comfort, he has given himself over to a life of inactivity and leisure.

He had no interest in reading. There were no happy memories to be stirred by reading the old books that had been in his father's library when he was a boy, for he had never read any of them. The trees awakened in him no pleasant sensations. Their varied shades of green in the early spring and their changing colors in October meant nothing to him. He knew an oak from a sycamore or an elm from a soft maple, but the varied beauty of the trees he had never appreciated. He had lived a rather sordid youth; he was experiencing a more gloomy and sordid old age.

If one would have roses in December he must plant them in May. Old age is but the continuation of what we have lived and enjoyed in youth. Dickens was wrong when he pictured the elder Dombey as living a selfish narrow youth and middle age and then blossoming into a gentle, quiet, unselfish old age. That is not the way life is lived.

FACTS

about used car allowances

Most new car sales now involve the trading-in of a buyer's used car. More and more people are asking: "Why should my used car seem to have several values? ... Why should dealers in different makes of cars offer me allowances differing materially? ... Does the largest allowance offered mean the best deal for me?"

Here are basic facts:

- 1 Your used car has seemingly different values because competitive dealers are bidding to sell you a new car.
- 2 Your used car has only one fundamental basis of value: what the dealer who accepts it in trade can get for it in the used car market.
- 3 The largest trade-in allowance which is offered on your used car is not necessarily the best deal for you. Sometimes it is; but sometimes it is not.
- 4 An excessive allowance may mean that you are paying an excessive price for the new car in comparison with its real value.
- 5 Judge the merits of the new car in comparison with its price, including all delivery and finance charges. Then weigh any difference in allowance offered on your used car.

WHEN YOU are ready to trade-in your present car, remember that after all you are making a purchase and not a sale. You are buying a new car and simply applying your present car as a credit toward the purchase price of a new car.

Coöperative Egg Marketing Gaining

Three Million Cases Were Handled During 1925.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Approximately 3,000,000 cases of eggs, worth slightly more than $30,000,000, were marketed co-operatively in the United States in 1925 by farmers' egg and poultry marketing associations. This figure, compiled by the United States Department of Agriculture, compares with 2,400,000 cases, worth $22,000,000, handled co-operatively in 1924.

The department's estimates are based on reports from about 80 active egg and poultry associations. These associations are located in 21 states. Their business is believed to comprise most of the egg marketing done co-operatively in the country. A few associations failed to report the volume of their business to the department, but these are small concerns whose figures presumably would not greatly affect the total.

One of the California associations handled 782,070 cases of eggs last year. This was the largest quantity handled for any one co-operative concern. Two of the associations handled more than 500,000 cases each. The smallest volume of business reported by any one association for 1925 consisted of 585 cases of eggs, handled by a Minnesota organization. The reports showed that the delivery of a large number of cases of eggs per member is more important in determining the total volume of the associations' business than a large membership.

In connection with its egg marketing studies, the department has made an attempt to find out what amount of poultry is handled co-operatively in the United States. There is less information available about poultry marketing than about egg marketing. However, the department says a total of 12,828,057 pounds of live poultry was handled last year by 31 co-operative associations. Sixteen associations handling dressed poultry reported the marketing of 4,999,510 pounds in 1925.

Leading states in the co-operative marketing of live poultry were as follows: Missouri, 9,871,453 pounds; Minnesota, 1,827,131 pounds; Wisconsin, 208,735 pounds.

Kill All Garden Pests Before They Get Start

As crop insurance for Missouri gardeners in 1927, Leonard Haseman, entomologist at the Missouri College of Agriculture, urges every gardener to clean up all trash at the first opportunity.

After burning the trash to destroy all hibernating insects, plow the ground just as soon as the frost is out sufficiently to permit it. This will expose many more insects that live under ground. A later freeze is likely to kill them and will also improve the condition of the soil.

Very early in the spring, also, the war can be carried into the camp of the garden mole. In the earliest of his spring runs, while food is scarce, rains or scraps of meat treated with strychnine will prevent a lot of later damage to lawn and garden.

All such early measures which reduce the numbers of insects and larger pests in advance of warm weather will prove very effective in preventing large increases in their numbers and reducing the difficulties of the busy gardening season.

Seed-Corn Maggot Also Pest of Seed Potatoes

Studies of the seed-corn maggot, which is also a pest of seed potatoes, lead the bureau of entomology to conclude that maggot attack normally follows seed-potato injury or decay. It has been found that the eggs of the adult fly are not as a rule deposited on freshly cut pieces of seed potato, even though these are left exposed in the field for several hours. The young maggots do not feed on healthy pieces of potato seed, but if decay is present the maggots enter these spots and develop without difficulty. Planting methods which tend to preserve the seed and prevent rotting or burning throughout the germination period will lessen injury by this insect.

Agricultural Notes

Don't be fooled by old corn. Test it.

European Larch grows well on dry upland and it produces good posts and poles.

Nearly five million acres of land in New York produce hay and nearly four million acres produce maple sirup and maple sugar.

Efficient power on the farm only comes when the producer of the power is in the best possible shape—be it horse, tractor, truck or electricity.

New York's quota of forest trees to plant this year is thirty million. Last year twenty million were planted and the year before the total was ten million.

Correct packing by the shipper and careful handling by the transportation company can prevent all damage to eggs in transit except that caused by accidents.

Increased Crop Yield is Shown

Generally Rising Trend Is Indicated by Survey Recently Made.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A generally rising trend in yields per acre of leading crops over the last forty years in the United States is indicated by a survey concluded recently by the Department of Agriculture.

The average yield per acre of corn has increased 18 per cent since 1885, wheat 17 per cent, oats 14 per cent, and potatoes 89 per cent. The total area of the four crops expanded about 52 per cent, but the total production has increased 77 per cent.

Increased production due to higher acre yields alone amounts to 440,000,000 bushels of corn, 120,000,000 bushels of wheat, 165,000,000 bushels of oats, and 115,000,000 bushels of potatoes, a total of over 800,000,000 bushels of the four crops.

Outstanding Increases.

The outstanding increases in yields have been in the North Atlantic and the northern portion of the South Atlantic states, with somewhat lesser increases in the East North Central states. Similar changes have occurred in many portions of the West North Central states where pioneer agricultural methods have disappeared.

Corn yields in the North Atlantic states have increased from 6 to 10 bushels per acre during the 40 years, in the East North Central group from 6 to 12 bushels, and in the northern section of the South Atlantic states from 9 to 14 bushels. Yields average about 8 bushels per acre higher in Iowa, and 6 bushels in Minnesota.

Wheat yields have increased 5 to 6 bushels per acre in the northeastern portions of the country, but a decrease is shown in Ohio and other states in the Ohio valley for the period 1920-24, due largely to unfavorable weather. Despite the expansion of the wheat area in Kansas into semi-arid regions, yields there have remained practically stationary. Yields in Missouri in a considerably expanded wheat area have remained low and practically stationary.

Statistics of wheat yields per acre suggest that the southern part of the corn belt, as represented by Missouri and eastern Kansas, has lagged behind the northern portions as represented by Iowa and Illinois, in the development of agricultural practices and soil management methods that tend to raise the acre yields of important crops.

Pioneer Methods Used.

Continuance of pioneer methods in the spring wheat region and the expansion of wheat production into drier areas have prevented a rise in the state averages. Moreover, the economists point out, since moisture is commonly the limiting factor in crop production in the semiarid portions of the plains states, it appears probable that this part of the country will not experience as much rise in acre yields as is shown for the northeastern states and for northwestern Europe.

Department economists declare that developments in coming decades with regard to acre yields will depend, as in the past, to a great extent on prices of agricultural products. Rising values normally would result in increasing intensification and a higher level of productivity through the wider use of better cultivation methods, development of suitable rotations, including the growth of legumes; more efficient use of crop residues and animal manures, greater use of commercial fertilizers, and the more common use of selected seed.

Full details of the department's study have been published in Department Bulletin No. 1458-D, entitled "The Trend Toward a More Effective Use of the Land as Shown by the Yield Per Acre of Certain Crops," copies of which may be obtained upon request to the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Agricultural Facts

Sharp shares on the plows mean a better and cheaper piece of plowing.

If the weather never changed, some folks wouldn't have very much to talk about.

Many a poor crop stand in spring can be traced to poorly protected seed in winter.

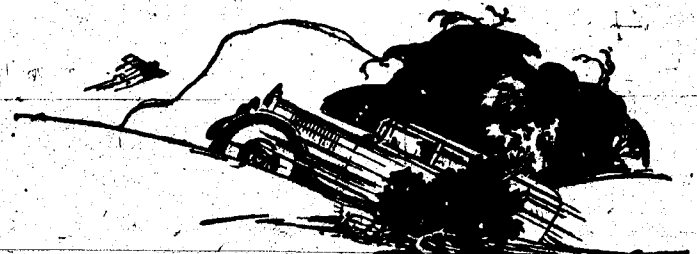

Seeds are a small part of the cost of raising a crop. Cheap seeds are often expensive at any price.

Bank credit costs only from one-half to one-third as much as credit given by feed dealers and store keepers.

The idea that no trip at sea is complete without a storm might well be applied to life in general—on some days.

They say the boll-weevil was a benefit to southern agriculture. Since the corn borer can't stand good farming, maybe it will have a good effect on the North.

The nature of farm manure is such that large losses of the plant nutrients may occur, so in view of this fact it is necessary to adopt a system of handling manure on the farm which will cut down this loss.

Touring Suggestions

- 1—The Pipestone Quarries in Minnesota are well known because of the Indian lore and legend associated with the peculiarly reddish stone found here. This stone was used by the Indians for making peace pipes. Large rocks called "The Three Maidens" are the subject of a legend of fierce battles between warring tribes. These quarries are part of the setting of Longfellow's immortal poem, "Hiawatha." Near State Highways 47 and 6.
- 2—Higgins Lake, Michigan. Remains of the old walled town of the Yemskodesh, the powerful tribe of Indians who dominated this section, before Columbus discovered America. Camp Curamalia, the outing camp of the American Legion is located here. State Trunk Lane M-14.
- 3—Gay Mills, Wisconsin, in the heart of the Kickapoo Valley. Splendid view of the Kickapoo River curving its sleepy way through the narrow valley. Nine hundred acres of cherry and apple orchards. State Trunk 131.
- 4—Rapid Canyon, one of the beautiful canyons of the Black Hills, South Dakota. Fine trout fishing in Rapid Creek. Many summer cottages and lodges. South Dakota Highways 40 and 79, U. S. 16.
- 5—Grand Detour, a New England village transplanted to the Illinois prairie, where John Deere wrought the first steel plow. Near Dixon, State Highway 2.
- 6—Lake Taneycoma, in the rugged region of the White River near Hollister, Missouri. One of the largest power lakes in the Middle West. Famed for its fishing and summer sports. Shaded by huge pines and heavy timberland. U. S. Highway 65.
- 7—Home of Nancy Hanks Lincoln, mother of Abraham Lincoln, at Lincoln City, Indiana. State Highway 16.
- 8—The yawning hole in the bed of Big Smoky River which has caused so much conjecture among scientists. The earth fell away at this spot for apparently no reason whatever, leaving a hole several hundred feet deep and of great width. Near Sharon Springs, Kansas, on State Highway 22.
- 9—"The Little Brown Church in the Vale," made world famous by the song of Dr. W. S. Pitts. Hundreds of "young" couples come from far and near to be married within its appealing old walls. The number of marriages solemnized here annually is exceeded only by the "Little Church Around the Corner" in New York City. Piasua, Iowa, State Highway 40.
- 10—Fort Yates, North Dakota, most strategic point on the Missouri in the days of Sitting Bull. Grave of Sitting Bull, historic cemetery, Bells of Yankton, Standing Rock Monument, from which the reservation takes its name. Highway 6.

Confidential advices from Washington indicate that little opposition stands in the way of Detroit landing the honor except the guarantee of $250,000 for the convention's expenses.

Flint—Oil and gas leases on 445 pieces of property in Genesee County have been filed with the register of deeds here. The leases were taken by the Universal Oil Co. of Detroit. J. W. Haggerty, nephew of the secretary of state, is one of those interested in the leases. The leases are on land in Mt. Morris, Genesee, Richfield, Davison, Mundy, Flint, Forest and Montrose Townships.

Saginaw—Tri-weekly airplane passenger and express service has been inaugurated between Saginaw and Detroit by W. J. Carr, Saginaw pilot. The plane, a Travel Air biplane of two passenger capacity, will leave the Junior Chamber of Commerce field at Saginaw every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at 9 a. m. and return to Saginaw from the Rouge Park flying field, Detroit, at 4 p. m.

Ann Arbor—The number of tickets that may be purchased for the Michigan football games has been decided upon by the athletic board. The first two games will be unlimited. For Ohio Wesleyan, reservations will not be made, but all tickets for the Michigan State College game will be reserved.
