Good Crowd Hear Program

Achievement Day, Held Wednesday, A Successful Affair.

The Achievement Day program held this week at the High School Auditorium was considered a success by all who were present.

An attractive display of posters and exhibits was made among which may be mentioned the Stairway of Health, Whole Grain Foods, Mrs. Everwell's refrigerator and Mrs. Neverwell's table, The Nutrition Road Map and posters displaying Vitamines A, B, C and D, Milk and Water.

Miss Hunter's talk consisted chiefly of an explanation of the Advance Nutrition Course and a discussion of pictures she brought with her showing the result of proper food habits.

In a final summing up of the work done in Charlevoix County, Mrs. Wells gives these statistics:

591 reported improved food habits including the use of more fruits, milk green vegetables and whole grains.

153 corrected undesirable food habits such as excessive use of tea and coffee, fried foods and sweets.

27 Leaders enrolled, who held 39 meetings, reaching 382 women.

242 new dishes prepared as a result of this work.

VanBendegom--Sweet

Lyle Sweet and Miss Jeanette VanBendegom, both of Flint were united in marriage Wednesday evening at six o'clock. The Rev. Walter R. Fruit performed the ceremony at the parsonage of Court St. M. E. Church. The attendants were Miss Martha VanBendegom, sister of the bride, and Basil C. Webb. The bride was a well-known nurse at Hurley Hospital. The groom was a former East Jordan boy. After the ceremony they went to the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Sweet of 5006 Fleming Road and partook of a wedding supper. About 20 relatives were present. The young couple will be "At Home" to their many friends at 5113 Kermitt St., Flint, Mich.

Lansing—The Michigan legislature adjourned sine die here on June 6. Four members of the senate and a dozen members of the house attended the final session.

Pontiac—Probably the only "one student" commencement in Oakland county this year will be that at Leonard. Miss Anna Louise Hickmott, the Leonard high school senior class, its valedictorian, prophet, historian and every other functionary of a graduating class, will have her commencement exercises, regardless of the fact of being the only member.

Saginaw—For a county which has so much historic background connected with legends of the past, Saginaw county is unique in one respect. It is without a single lake. Few indeed are the counties in Michigan, a state renowned the nation over for its picturesque and abundant lakes, where there does not exist even a solitary pond where small-mouth bass or deep-water bluegills may be found.

Lansing—The police and fire departments were called out here recently to save the life of William Rowley, of North Lansing, who fainted while trimming trees in his yard. The man was lodged between the limbs of the tree which probably saved him from injury or death. Rowley recovered from his illness soon after being rescued by the fire department from his precarious position.

Mt. Clemens—Twenty-one pursuit pilots from Selfridge Field flew to Washington and took part in the demonstration of welcome to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, first trans-Atlantic flier. Led by Maj. Thomas G. Lanphier, commandant at Selfridge, the pilots formed the guard of honor that accompanied Lindbergh about the capital during the army, naval and aerial maneuvers in his honor.

Lansing—Arthur Rich, Battle Creek youth sentenced to life imprisonment for attacking Louise King, has lost his final appeal from the maximum sentence imposed by Judge Charles B. Collingwood of Lansing. The supreme court returned the application of the youth's attorneys for a rehearing of the case with the one word "Denied" written across its face. There was no other statement.

Keeping up with your work is one way to enjoy life.

The end of the world may worry some people, but most Americans are only haunted by the end of their cash.

Barbara Evers County Champion

Barbara Evers was awarded the County Championship in Clothing Club work by Miss Ruth Featherly, Asst. State Club Leader, M. S. C. She is a member of the Burgess school Clothing Club, located on M11 east of Charlevoix and received this high award in recognition of her fine workmanship on the several articles that she has completed during this last winter.

Her achievement is of particular merit in that she has won over eight other girls who were the local champions in their respective clubs and in all cases older than she. Barbara is only ten years of age and has been successful in this, her first attempt at club work and in many cases competed against girls from four to eight years older. Much of the credit must be given to Mrs. Rabor and Mrs. Evers, who have acted as leaders for the club and have been very sincere and conscientious in their desire to instruct the girls in the clothing project.

It is of particular significance that out of a total of fifty-eight girls who started the project, fifty-four completed their work creditably, which is in itself an excellent average.

Obituary-Jos. LaLonde

(Owing to omissions in the article pertaining to Mr. LaLonde's death in our last issue, the item is reprinted with corrections.—Ed.)

Joseph A. LaLonde was born at St. Polycarpe, Canada, March 21st, 1854, his parents being Gus and Josephine LaLonde. He passed away at the home of his son, Leo LaLonde, in East Jordan, June 3rd, 1927, from cerebral apoplexy.

Mr. LaLonde was one of the early settlers of this region, having come to this section when it was still in its primeval state, and has since then made this place his home. When he reached manhood he was united in marriage to Miss Alice Moble in Charlevoix County. Mrs. LaLonde died at Pontiac, Mich., in 1914, and was brought to East Jordan for burial. On May 8th, 1924, he was married to Mrs. Emma Hodge at East Jordan.

Deceased is survived by the widow, and the following sons by the first marriage:—Leo, Fred, Peter and John LaLonde, all of East Jordan; Fabian of Indianapolis, Ind., and Lawrence of Detroit. Also by nine grandchildren and one brother and four sisters: Duell LaLonde of Fort Williams, Ont. Mrs. Henry Wright of Milford, Mich., Mrs. B. DeNis, of Montreal, Canada; Mrs. Gulen Lauzon of St. Zotique, Canada; Mrs. Frd. Crawford of Helena, Montana.

Funeral services were held from St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Sunday, afternoon, June 5th, conducted by the pastor, Rev. Fr. D. M. Drinan. Interment at Calvary cemetery.

Grand Rapids—City officials are ready to let a contract to the Peninsular Construction company, of Grand Rapids, for the erection of five dams within a half mile in the bed of the Grand river for the purpose of beautifying the stream as it flows through the downtown business section. The dams will raise the water sufficiently to cover the river bed, which is dry for the greater part of each summer, and will restore a semblance of the rapids found here by the pioneers which suggested the city's name.

Battle Creek—Mrs. Thela Snyder, 37 years old, was sentenced to serve 90 days in the Calhoun County jail after she had pleaded guilty to a charge of drunkenness. Sentence was passed by Judge Will A. Cady, who was carrying his left arm in a sling as the result of Mrs. Snyder's bad temper, displayed when the judge ordered her to jail after she had appeared before him in an intoxicated condition. Mrs. Snyder slammed a door of the court room on the judge's arm when he refused to listen to her argument.

Detroit—With a view of fixing Detroit in the sun of aeronautical development and as a world port, a group of Detroit business men and aviation leaders are considering plans for raising a prize fund for a commercial airplane flight between Detroit and London. It is planned to make it an event for commercial airplanes rather than of planes designed and constructed for long distance flights with fuel as a principal cargo. A fund of from $25,000 to $50,000 will be sought. The approximate distance is 4,000 miles.

Money, is one evil that most people run to meet.

This is not going to be an attempt to get rid of old goods. It is going to be an opportunity to make purchases of real value at prices unusually low. Every merchant will have something to offer that no one can afford to overlook. It is going to be a day when the dollar will take on a greater purchasing power. Old H. C. L. will receive such a wallop on this day that if the people take generous advantage of it, the effect will be felt for months to come. On June 29th East Jordan is going to offer everybody the opportunity to save more than can be earned in many days. The day will be full of advantageous and recreational privileges that in order to enjoy them all one should plan on coming early and staying late.

Everybody is welcome. This day is set aside to welcome, to entertain, and to benefit all who come.

EAST JORDAN "LET'S GO," Wednesday, June 29th.

To Charlevoix County Veterans

World War veterans of Charlevoix County, who have failed to reinstate their government insurance policies, must do so before July 2nd, according to a recent announcement of the U. S. Veterans' Bureau, which says "there is no possibility of an extension" after this date.

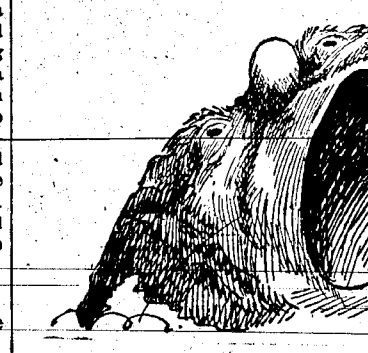

Any former service man who carried insurance while in service and permitted it to lapse may reinstate his policy if he is in good health and submits to a physical examination free of cost at any regional office. He may reinstate any amount of insurance from $1,000 up to the amount he carried while in service in multiples of $500. He may have a choice of seven plans of Government insurance, ordinary life, twenty-payment life, thirty-payment life, twenty-year endowment maturing at age of 62 and the five-year level premium convertible term.

We call this to the attention of our readers because it seldom pays a man to cancel any insurance policy if he intends to carry any insurance at all. There is nothing to gain and something to lose.

Two Ways

"Up in Kay Sea," remarked Burt Blunt, who was just back from the big burg, "some of the merchants stand in their doorways to grab customers. Here in Petunia they are usually to be found out by their back doors, or a ways up the street, arguing polities or religion, or pitching horseshoes with acquaintances, and have to be yelled in if you want to buy anything of 'em."—Kansas City Star.

Federation of Womens Clubs

Held Annual Meeting in East Jordan Last Tuesday.

Charlevoix County Federation of Women's Clubs held their annual meeting in East Jordan, Tuesday, June 14, at the Presbyterian Church, with about 60 in attendance.

An open forum was conducted from 11 to 12 at which business of importance to the clubs was discussed. Mrs. C. L. Thompson of Muskegon, 2nd Vice President of the State Federation gave a clear and concise outline of the work, especially the financing of the state federation, which was much appreciated by all present.

A fine luncheon was served at 12 o'clock in the dining room of the church, the decorations very effectively carrying out a tribute to Play Day.

The program of the afternoon was opened with a solo, "The Flag We Love," by Mrs. Malpass of East Jordan. Mrs. E. J. Edwards then reported on the district meeting held at Manistee in May. Mrs. R. B. Armstrong reported on the biennial meeting just held in Grand Rapids. A group of songs by Mrs. Dicken of Boyne City followed.

Mrs. Thompson gave a wonderful talk, stressing the fact that the club women stand back of law enforcement and for better homes and better conditions in general. She said it was well to travel back over some of the roads to progress, taking up our flag from its inception to the present day with what it stands for, and begged of all to come out "four square."

A group of songs by Miss Shaw of East Jordan were greatly appreciated. Interesting reports from various clubs were given, followed by election of officers.

The meeting was brought to a close by singing "Michigan, My Michigan" and the meeting adjourned to meet at Charlevoix in 1928.

Officers elected for ensuing year are as follows:

Pres.—Mrs. Beeman, Charlevoix.
1st Vice-Pres.—Mrs. Baker, Boyne City.
2nd Vice-Pres.—Mrs. Neymark, Boyne City.
Cor. Sec'y.—Mrs. Paddock, Charlevoix.
Rec. Sec'y.—Mrs. John Porter, East Jordan.
Treas.—Miss Ethel Crowell, East Jordan.

Lansing—Governor Fred W. Green has signed the Pulver-Wojcik firearms bill, which requires the licensing of all pistols, prohibits the purchase of machine guns and automatic rifles, and otherwise tightens the control of the sale and manufacture of small arms in Michigan. He has also signed the Pulver bill to amend the Workmen's Compensation Act to exclude from its provisions wives who remain.

Lansing—The state tax rate has been increased nearly 50 per cent for the next fiscal year. It developed as Governor Fred W. Green completed his task of slicing the appropriation bills of Michigan's most expensive legislature. Although an official tabulation has not been finished the governor said the appropriations carrying tax clauses will total about $28,000,000. The general levy last year was $17,800,000.

Ann Arbor—Michigan won 53 athletic contests during the school year now coming to a close and lost 10, says a statistically minded reporter of the Michigan daily. To only one of the Big Ten schools were Michigan athletes compelled to bow with less than a .750 percentage of victories, the figures disclose, this school being Purdue, from which Michigan won four contests, while Purdue won three. Michigan's winning percentage for this year was .841.

Lansing—Expansion of the budget system to provide a 10-year improvement plan for each state institution, instead of the present year-to-year method of appropriating money, will be undertaken immediately, Governor Fred W. Green announced here. An outline of the plan accompanied an official tabulation showing that the state tax levy this year will be $28,440,000, an increase of $8,600,000 over last year. The tax for 1928-29, the tabulation shows, will be $21,865,000.

It is remarkable what different views two men can have on the same facts.

You may think a lot of eugenics but when the right partner comes along you will go crazy like the rest of the engaged couples.

Curing Hay In the "Shade"

New System Cuts Haying Costs—Demonstration in Charlevoix Co. July 7th.

The perfecting of a new system of curing and handling the alfalfa hay crop by the use of the left hand, side delivery hay rake and hay loader has eliminated, according to Ralph Hudson, Supt. of the Michigan State College Farm, much of the worry experienced in harvesting alfalfa when the old system of cocking was used.

The College farm now has about 200 acres of alfalfa to cut two or three times each year. The old system of cocking was too slow, too expensive and in addition the cured hay often was not of high quality. The problem of securing a high quality hay with a minimum of labor and with a low operating cost has been a serious one with Mr. Hudson.

Mr. Hudson put this new system under test in 1926 with the old method of handling hay for a direct comparison of both methods. A small acreage of hay was cocked, while the hay in the adjoining field was cured in the windrow. He found that by this new method of curing alfalfa he was able to reduce the expense of curing by about 40%, and was also able to receive a better quality of hay at less risk.

Farmers having ten acres or more of alfalfa also face this same problem of securing a good quality hay at a low labor cost. The left hand, side delivery rake going in the same direction as the mower (immediately, or at least, within two hours after cutting) places the green alfalfa in a windrow before the leaves have been exposed to the sun.

The large succulent stems in this case would cover the leaves. The left hand rake does a much better job of this, inasmuch as it goes more directly against the heads, thus placing a much larger percentage of the leaves in the inside of the windrow than will a right hand rake.

The leaves thus cure in the shade, while the large succulent stems are on the outside of the windrow exposed to the sun. As the green leaves contain 65 to 70% of the protein in the entire alfalfa plant, it is highly important to get the hay out of the swath and into a windrow before the sun has dried up the small leaves. The development of hay making machinery and its well advised use can not handle the heavy growth of alfalfa with a very low labor cost, as well as produce an excellent quality of green, leafy, well cured hay, which is so highly desired.

This new system of curing hay will be demonstrated in Charlevoix Co. on July 7th. Watch for further announcements.

The happy couple were followed clear to their door and were immediately invited in, but declined the invitation for some time while they made noise enough to let a good share of Charlevoix County know that there had been a wedding, but finally accepted the invitation to enter and were treated to cigars and candy. ## IDEAS AND PERSONALITIES

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois

THERE are two ways of carrying on a conversation. One is in the discussion of ideas and the other confines its attention to personalities.

I have known Mrs. Bacon, for more than 30 years, and I run onto her not infrequently. So far as I now recall she has never expressed an original idea of any sort during that time.

Her conversation concerns itself entirely with what some one has said or what she has herself said or done with perhaps an occasional criticism or comment upon the saying or doing.

"We had a wonderful time at Mrs. Smith's luncheon," she will tell you. "The tables were set for four and the decorations were beautiful. The salad wasn't as good as what we had at Mrs. Merrill's last week—but the chocolate mousse was delicious."

About fifteen minutes she will give to the discussion of the menu and her reaction to it, and then she will start upon another track—Mrs. Kimball's new gown, what was said about Edith Reno's sudden breaking off of her engagement with George Fairclow to marry Ned Barnes, the fact that the Gregories are not getting on as well as they should, or that Mr. French has lost a lot of money in that last venture of his in Florida. You are quite familiar with her line or a similar one, and when she or her counterpart leaves or lets go of you to tell her tales to a more eager listener you feel as empty as a deflated tire. She doesn't think any more than does a phonograph. She simply repeats what has been put into her. She hasn't an idea in her head. She gives you nothing but gossip, and often her gossip is not interesting nor helpful nor kind.

Mrs. Snyder is not profound in her thinking, but when she talks she has something to say. She has traveled a good deal, and when she gets on to her experiences in other countries she gives one an idea of the people she has met, of the countries she has visited, of customs which are different from our own. She stirs one's imagination and leaves one thinking and wondering and wishing that he, too, might see for himself some of the places and people that she has seen.

She has read a good many books, she has seen pictures and heard music, and met prominent people, and these experiences have made her think for herself. When she touches on her reading it is to comment upon her own life, and her own thinking. She gets something out of what she reads besides mere recreation, and she gives others something of what she has herself received. It is the same way with whatever experience she has had. These varied experiences have made her think and in recounting them to others she has the power to make them think also. One comes away from a half hour with Mrs. Snyder stimulated, refreshed, wiser and more alert. She has ideas and she has also the power of making other people think.

Sad Mistake

"What has become of that crack salesman you had in here?" asked a friend of the manager of Geek & Son, dealers in exclusive ladies' ready-to-wear. "I had to fire him," the manager replied. "He sold four of Solomon's wives an identical model of gown, and told each of them that there positively wasn't another one like it in existence."

SCHOOL DAYS

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT
By F. A. WALKER

THE GREATEST MAN

LORD BRYCE—better known to us as James Bryce, author of "The American Commonwealth"—started something at Williamstown, Mass., when he dropped the remark that Masaryk, the President of the Czechoslovak republic, was one of the three really great men to come to the front during the war.

The experts from all over the world attending the meetings of the Institute of Politics, began speculating as to who were the other two.

Then, to the surprise of a great many persons, he mentioned Venizelos, the former prime minister of Greece, and Jan Smuts, the clever premier of South Africa.

An American citizen born in Athens, said recently that the Greeks drove Venizelos out of power "because he was too able."

A former Africaner, now an American, says that the best way to gain the respect of Britons is to fight them. "Take the case of Smuts," said he. "The biggest man in the empire!"

Well, it is significant that all of Bryce's "Big Three" belong to small nations and that, though the greatest war of all time had just come to an end, he did not mention a single soldier or sailor.

This was not to be explained by the fact that Foch, Pershing, Haig, Petain, and most of the other commanders by land and sea had not made public the diaries and journals that they kept while the fighting was going on.

All the world knew at once who was the greatest man produced by the American War of Independence. Everybody knew at once who was the greatest man produced in the American Civil war. Nobody has any doubt as to who was the biggest man in the Napoleonic wars.

Are we in a period of small men in big places?
Right on top of Lord Bryce's expression of opinion Maurice Case-nave, French high commissioner to the United States, said a strange thing. He remarked that undoubtedly the greatest figure in the history of the English-speaking world is Sir John Falstaff.

That sounds like a joke. But is it? Shakespeare's fat knight—coward, thief—is yet the most lovable of men. He is more real to us than Lloyd George or Clemenceau or others we might name. And when these striking figures have sunk into the mists of history, future generations will be reading with delight how Falstaff, as a young man, used to hear the chimes at midnight.

Never was a greater compliment paid to anybody than that of Bar-dolph to Sir John when he said: "I would I were with him where-so-ever he is, whether in heaven or h—l."

That a character, not at all reputable, but invented by the greatest English-speaking genius, should be regarded as a "leading figure in history" shows the triumph of mind over matter and experience.

Do You Know That: ...??...

"NEST-EGG" is an allusion to the custom of placing an egg in the hen's nest to induce her to lay her eggs there. Similarly if a person has saved a little money it serves as inducement to him to add to his store.
And so the expression has come to mean something laid up as the beginning of a fund or as a reserve. The nest-egg is like a decoy or an artificial inducement to continue to increase the collection.—Anna S. Turnquist.

GOOD THINGS TO EAT

THE time was when the prune was considered beneath the notice of any but the very poor. Times have changed all that, and now the prune is well-established as a choice fruit with the high price.

One reason for the old idea of prunes was the manner in which they were served—carelessly cooked and served.

As the price is higher, the fruit is better appreciated and we are learning how to bring out all the flavor and deliciousness.

The long soaking and then slow cooking in the same water, washing them well first, results in a flavor and sweetness that needs no sugar for the real prune lover.

After they have been thus prepared serve them (three or four) in a nest of lettuce with a sprinkling of nuts if desired, and a good French dressing. Such a salad is so easy to prepare and so well liked that it will be often served, when once tasted.
Prunes stuffed as one does dates, rolled in sugar and served as a confection are most popular.

Prune-Roll.

Take one tablespoonful of grapefruit juice, one tablespoonful of sugar, one teaspoonful of flour, two-thirds of a cupful of mashed prunes, one-third of a cupful of seeded raisins. Cover the raisins with one-half cupful of water and simmer for half an hour. To the prunes add the fruit juice, a pinch of salt and the flour mixed with a little cold water. Put in the raisins and cook the mixture until it thickens—about three minutes. Spread on rich biscuit dough rolled out very thin, fold and press the edges together and bake. Serve with cream.

Prune Pie.

Bake a pastry shell and fill with stewed prunes, adding a bit of lemon juice. Top with a meringue, using the white of eggs and two tablespoonfuls of sugar, and dot with quartered marshmallows. Brown lightly and serve. If one wishes to have a richer dessert, whipped cream sweetened and flavored or plain cream with the minced marshmallows stirred in, may be used as a topping.

MR. AND MRS. OSTRICH

BILLIE BROWNIE's call this day was to be upon the Ostrich pair at the zoo.
Billie Brownie was always much amused by Mr. and Mrs. Ostrich. He thought their ways were interesting and he always liked to hear about them.
Then, too, he always liked to tell everyone he could that ostrich feathers meant unhappiness and tragedy in the lives of birds.
The ostrich family weren't hurt when their feathers were taken from them, no, not at all; in fact it made them pleased and comfortable.

But this time that he went to see Mr. and Mrs. Ostrich he could see from the moment of his arrival that they were each in a funny frame of mind and Billie knew he would enjoy himself.

"We haven't large brains," said Mr. Ostrich, "but we have a fine system for all that."

"Tell me about it," urged Billie Brownie.

"Our brains are small in size," said Mrs. Ostrich, "and my mate is quite correct when he says what he does. But we have enough brains for our purpose."

"If we had more brains we'd have to study and keep our brains up to the mark."

"That would be a nuisance. Thank you I am—that our brains are no more trouble to us than they are."
(Copyright.)

"To some, it would appear, brains are a great bother."
"Yes, our system is fine. Mr. Ostrich was right about that, too."
"We take turns in hatching the eggs. I sit upon them in the daytime for my gray costume looks like the sand in the daytime and so protects me," Mrs. Ostrich explained.
"A good idea," said Billie Brownie.
"And I sit at night and watch out for them then as I wear a black feathered suit which looks like the night," said Mr. Ostrich.
"That does sound like a perfect system," agreed Billie Brownie.
"Neither of us is cowardly when it comes to protecting our young," Mr. Ostrich continued.
"I will hurry the brood away while Mrs. Ostrich will face the enemy and fall down—as though there were no more life in her and so it makes the enemy feel it is useless to do anything."
"We have good eyesight. Our hearing is our next best sense and smelling comes third. We really only use this sense in feeding and in recognizing our young."
"Some say it is a strange way of knowing one's children, but then it does for us, so why should we overtax our brains and think of other ways?"
"It would be foolish," said Mrs. Ostrich. "But I hope in time people will stop saying I hide my head in the sand when I'm frightened."
"I fall down and have my head quite close to the sand—but I don't hide it. People have thought it was hidden because my head and the sand are so much alike in color."
"And the story has been passed along. And gossip has kept it going."
"I may have a small brain, but I know enough to know that my body isn't safe just because my head might be hidden—and so I don't hide my head."
"Oh, well, I'm above getting mad even if I'm gossiped about."
"That is very wise of you," said Billie Brownie, "for I must admit that while I know it is foolish, I feel a little hurt at anything said about me that is not kind."
"You are far more sensible, Mrs. Ostrich."
"But I've been delighted to have heard your stories and to have had the honor and pleasure of this talk."
"How very handsomely you make your departure," said Mr. Ostrich, as Billie Brownie made a low bow upon finishing his speech.
And Mrs. Ostrich added:
"You show a fine and respectful manner toward the happy Ostrich pair."
"It makes our ostrich hearts rejoice!"

THE WHY of SUPERSTITIONS
By H. IRVING KING

PINS

See a pin and pick it up, all the day you'll have good luck:
See a pin and let it lay, bad luck you will have all day.

SLIGHTLY ungrammatical and a bad rhyme; but this jingle may be the solution, nevertheless, of the mystery, "Where do all the pins go to?" They are picked up by superstitious people. And few there be who, seeing a pin, will not stoop to pick it up "for luck." It is doubtful if there is a more widespread superstition than this among English-speaking peoples. Some say that to get the full benefit of the omen the pin should be lying with the point toward you—but these are fussy people. This superstition has as its basis a psychological fact. If the mind is so alert and active that the eye perceives so small an object as a dropped pin, it would naturally follow that the man would as a rule, accomplish a successful day's work.
The idea that he should pick up the pin is a survival from the days when pins were objects of considerable value compared to what they are now; and picking up the lost pin showed that the man was saving as well as observing—an additional cause for a successful day. And there is the same connection today, trifling as is now the value of a pin. For a man who picks up a stray pin not only shows that his mind is alert and his observation keen, but also that he is no scorner of trifles. So why should he not—on a day when his mentality is functioning in this manner—meet with that success which men call "luck"?

Australia Needs Teachers

Australia has a shortage of teachers, and many schools have been forced to close. In Victoria more than 300 are needed, and 90 county schools are having enforced vacations. To cope with the situation the department of education is employing 100 married women, mostly former instructors. The teachers' union explains that low salaries, many receiving less than $15 a week, and unreasonable restrictions, have caused many teachers to resign. Officials are considering salary increases.

"BROADCLOTH"

IN THE word "broadcloth," by which we describe a certain fine textured woolen suiting material, we have a good example of the curious twists and turns of words.
The name originally referred to the width, not the quality or texture, of the material. It had its origin in the early days of the industry in England when this cloth was made double width.
When the methods when "broadcloth" was being made, then in vogue we learn, two weavers were required at the loom in order to bring the shuttle across the entire width.

"ME-OW, Me-ow," said Aggie, the cat. "I have been asked to tell about myself and my nice home. My mistress is a lovely lady. She is very wise and very clever. She has wonderful books and magazines and papers about, and to show that I am the cat belonging to a clever person I pick out the best of these books and magazines and papers and sit upon them!

"How do I know which are the best one? They're all good and so they're all best to my cat" mind, me-ow-me-ow; ha, ha, you didn't think I was going to say that.

"Joyce is the name of my mistress. She has a little box outside her window and in the box she grows grass for me as I really love grass. Then she grows radishes for the rest of the family, for they love radishes.

"Then there are two parquets and they like to nibble at all sorts of things. They like to nibble at the paper covers on books.

"I suppose they think they show their wisdom that way but I think to sit on wisdom is better than to chew it!

"They are watched by a cat from the roof of the house beyond, but they are quite safe and though the cat gazes at them with his big green eyes they don't notice the cat.

"I've heard my mistress say that. And these parquets are allowed all about. They even climb on the window sill when the window is open and they never go away. They seem to think that the world ends where they are and that there is nothing to see beyond.

"But I must continue to tell about myself.

"I am very neat. I keep my black fur looking glossy and smooth.

"I exercise enough but not too much. I play and I sleep and I eat. My white tuft of hair under my neck, or upon the front of my neck, is a handsome touch, my friends say.

"I have a pink ribbon to match her pink dress, a red ribbon to match her red dress, a blue ribbon to match her blue suit and a greenish yellow ribbon to match my eyes.

"After every meal I chew at the broom-handle and so keep my teeth clean.

"My mistress says the broom-handle has many marks from my teeth and that I never finish a meal without doing this, and that is the truth.

"I keep my claws sharp by scratching them upon the wicker chairs.

"And I jump beautifully.

"I get up high, on a very tall mantelpiece, and then I put my two paws on the next little outstanding part of the mantelpiece and then I jump for the sofa below.

"My mistress says it is a most beautiful jump.

"Then sometimes I sit a long time on the mantelpiece while people wait to see this beautiful jump. And I keep them waiting for it so it will seem like an important act.

"My mother and my father were fine, well-mannered cats and my mistress says I take after them. I play with my mistress and she plays make-believe tunes upon my paws while I purr and she sings.

"But she says you have to know me to really know how wonderful I am. That is what my Mistress Joyce says. And so it must be the truth!"

By LEONARD A. BARRETT

INADEQUATE EDUCATION

THE most serious question confronting education today is whether the present generation is going to be more Christian or more pagan. The responsibility for the answer lies at the door of universities, colleges and the public schools. The rising generation is being educated in a world surcharged with jazz, the spirit of an intense competition and the law of the survival of the fittest. The tremendous task of developing a Christian idealism is therefore a matter of community interest.

As a preparation for this task our institutions of learning are rendering most valuable service. No more adequate system of education can be found anywhere. Upon this task of preparation for world citizenship our youth devote five days a week of from four to six hours each. This is equivalent to about one hundred and twenty hours a month or about twelve hundred hours for an average school year devoted almost entirely to the study of the arts and sciences.

Does this method of education, elaborate as it is, furnish all or even the most important requisites for success in the economic world? Success, like the spirit of democracy, rests upon fixed and unalterable standards. They are the norms of a Christian idealism. Upon the development of these standards the average youth spends about one-half an hour a week, in contrast to the one hundred and twenty hours devoted to secular education.

The task of imparting the knowledge of moral norms is also frequently assigned to a poorly prepared Sunday school teacher or is undertaken by an inadequate system of religious education. This factor cannot be ignored in our system of education if the present generation is to make an adequate contribution to the development of the social order. Shall the standards of a pagan or Christian philosophy of life rule the future? The problem is one for which education is responsible.

Japan Welcomes New Year

The opening of the new year is celebrated in Japan with more enthusiasm than in any western country. The rejoicings begin on New Year's eve, when no one thinks of going to bed, and bells ring all night, and, though January 1 to 3 are regarded as the three chief days of the New Year, holidays and jollifications continue until January 16, winding up, characteristically, with a grand feast of Return to Labor.

WHAT THE GRACIOUS HOSTESS SAYS:

By DELLA THOMPSON LUDES

SHAKING HANDS

WE AMERICANS are rather noted for shaking hands. That is because we are a warm-hearted and cordial people, and the custom should not be too harshly condemned as being "provincial." We may keep our warm-heartedness and our manner of friendliness and cordiality, and still learn to control our impulses so that what we do or say will not appear ridiculous or "gushing."

Men, when introduced, always shake hands. A woman shakes hands with a man if he is some one she is particularly glad to meet, an elderly man to whom she wishes to show courtesy, or a special friend of some member of her family whom she wishes to honor.

A person coming into a group and being presented to them, does not offer his hand first. Some one of the group may make him welcome by holding out a hand.

A very young man, being presented to an older one, would wait for the older man to take the initiative, which he should instantly do.

To refuse to shake hands with any person who is a guest of your hostess would be the height of rudeness, as well as an evidence of narrowness.

Shaking hands at parting depends entirely upon the degree of acquaintanceship or friendship existing, or upon the feeling that has sprung up between two persons who have been introduced.

A gentleman always removes the glove from his right hand before shaking hands with a woman, unless at a wedding where he is usher, at opera or ball.

One sometimes wishes lessons in hand-shaking were a part of every high school course. The clumsy hand-shake is repulsive. You feel as if you wanted to strike from you the cold listless finger tips that give no clasp, have no warmth.

There is magnetism and charm in the clasp of some hands, and there are other hands as lacking in personality as is the soul behind them.

Then there is the hand that grips you like a vise, crushes your fingers and sees just how much you will stand without screaming. And even this is better than the handclasp that is no clasp at all.

When you shake hands put some warmth into it. One doesn't need to "squeeze" the fingers of the other, nor treat the arm like an animated pump handle, but there may be sufficient pressure so that the "shaking" is not all on one side.

EASES LIFE FOR THE WIFE

DIPPING INTO SCIENCE

Why Hot Iron Bends

Iron, like other materials is made up of molecules—very minute particles—which are always in motion, though of course unseen to the naked eye. When iron is hot these molecules develop greater motion and become farther apart because of expansion from heat. They cannot hold together so tightly then, and it is therefore easier to bend the piece of iron. (© 1927, Western Newspaper-Union.)

Otis Harlan

The decadence of the spoken drama can find its reason largely in Hollywood, Calif., for Hollywood contains the names of many who have been lured away from the legitimate stage to that of the celluloidal. Among these there is none more prominent than Otis Harlan, who for thirty-three years was on the spoken stage, but who for the past seven years has cast his lot and his talents with the silent drama. Harlan made his debut in Hoyt's "A Hole-in-the-Ground" in 1887 and was a star with the Charles Hoyt comedies until 1898. Then followed other important engagements. He cast his lot with the screen in 1919 and has appeared in many notable pictures, the latest being "Abraham Lincoln," "Lightnin'" and "Three Bad Men." He has just finished "In Old Heidelberg" and at present is playing a stellar part in "Eternal Silence."

WHEN I WAS TWENTY-ONE

BY JOSEPH KAYE

At 21: Senator Hiram Johnson was leading an uneventful life.

AT THAT time I was practicing law in Sacramento. I spent my days at my desk or at the courts, and when I got through work in the afternoon I went home and stayed until it was time to go to work again next morning.

"My real life began when I was given an opportunity to quit working for myself and began working for the people of the state—Hiram Johnson. TODAY: Senator Johnson has been given the opportunity to work not only for the people of his native state, but for the people of the United States. He is one of our most famous and virile political leaders. Johnson achieved his first celebrity when he moved out from the comparative confines of Sacramento to the greater spaces of San Francisco and was retained there as counsel for a group of citizens to prosecute graft scandals in the city. The case involved most city officials and many public utility corporations and Johnson secured the convictions he was after."

Dear Mr. Eastwood:

We operate in this state and in Ohio, you undoubtedly know, agencies of utility bean and grain elevators. We also carry on the jobbing business with regard to the bonded state elevators.

During the season of the year when the movement of beans and grain is at its height, it is necessary that we keep in almost hourly touch with our branch plants. Many state elevators depend on us for their market information and as a result are depending constantly throughout the day, we are absolutely dependent on good wire service, without which we would have to close shop.

As we approach the end of our present fiscal year, I want to send you these few words in appreciation of the splendid service which your company has been furnishing to us and the personal interest which you have taken in our business. With best regards, I am
