Soils-Fertilizer Meetings

TO BE HELD IN COUNTY WEEK OF MARCH 5.

Interested farmers are cordially invited and urged to attend a series of Soils-Fertilizer meetings that will be conducted in the County the week of March 5th.

S. J. Culver, County Agent of Emmet County, will accompany your local Agriculture Agent and discuss with you the best and most effective means of conserving soil fertility and methods to use to bring the soil back to a higher state of fertility. County Agent Mellencamp will discuss fertilizers. The dealers of the County have already met and have been informed on the best fertilizers for use in the County. Also higher-analysis goods will be handled as they are cheaper per unit of plant food and you are buying more for your money. The dealers will not handle anything but what will pay you dividends on their use.

Attend your nearest meeting. I am sure weather conditions will not stop you as these are important and will be of great interest to you.

Following are the meetings and all beginning on Fast Time:

Ironton Grange, Monday, March 5th, at 9:30 a. m.

Barnard Grange, Monday, March 5th, at 2:00 p. m.

Horton Bay, I. O. O. F. Hall, Monday, March 5th, at 8:00 p. m.

East Jordan, K. P. Hall, Tuesday, March 6th, at 2:00 p. m.

"LIGHT OPERA REVUE" MONDAY, MARCH 5th.

Although the regular Lyceum Course season closed with the last number, the East Jordan public is to enjoy a most attractive final number. The Junior Class found it had a small deficit at the end of the season and since the Redpath Bureau had an open date for one of the strongest attractions on its list—"The Light Opera Revue"—they suggested that they be sent here from Charlevoix on a fifty-fifty basis. This proposition was gladly accepted by the Juniors. "The Light Opera Revue" is a one hundred and fifty dollar attraction and therefore, the highest price number of the year, and from press notices and the statement of the Bureau, they are well worth hearing.

The New York Light Opera Revue, popular musical company fresh from a successful tour of New York and New England, will appear at the High School Auditorium, Monday evening, March 5th.

Costumed selections from the most popular of the recent Light Operas, together with excerpts from the older well-known favorites—are presented in this fine New York production.

The Company is composed of four attractive young entertainers, headed by Henriette Fraser. Each girl is an experienced artist. All are splendid singers, as well as genuine entertainers.

The New York Light Opera Revue is an outstanding feature attraction in the musical entertainment field. This charming, delightful program will be a never-to-be-forgotten treat to all Light Opera lovers.

The varied song numbers presented in the New York Light Opera Revue are splendidly sung and vivaciously dramatized. Beautiful costumes and tuneful, lilting melodies give a charm and color to this unusual entertainment feature.

Admission—Adults, 50c; High School Students, 35c; below High School, 25c.

Concerning Billfolds

Citizens of Charlevoix County who are in the habit of carrying bank notes in their pocket-books have been notified that the present size billfolds will be in use for several years longer, even if the new and smaller bills are to be gradually introduced.

Next October, it is said, ought to see the new dollar bills in circulation in East Jordan but treasury officials state that it will be several years before the reduced notes of other denominations are placed in circulation.

We don't know about the rest of the people of this community but as soon as the new dollar bills get into circulation our old billfold will be out of date—it rarely has a chance to carry anything more than a few ones.

Rehearsals For Junior Play

"KEMPY" TO BE GIVEN LATTER PART OF MARCH.

Rehearsals are now being held for this year's Junior Play which will be presented the latter part of March. According to the usual custom the cast will be composed entirely of Juniors and the proceeds will be used to help defray the expenses of the annual J-Hop which will occur a little later.

The play which has been chosen for this year's production is "Kempy" by J. C. Nugent and Elliott Nugent. It was first played at the Belmont Theatre in New York on May 15, 1922, and it was one of the most successful comedy hits of that season.

In Chicago also it was extremely popular and it enjoyed a long run there. It is only by special arrangement with Samuel French of New York that this play can be produced by amateurs, and the class has to pay a large royalty for that privilege.

The story deals with a "high-falutin'" daughter who in a fit of pique married the young plumber-architect who comes to fix the water pipes, just because he "understands" her, having read her book and having sworn to marry the authoress. The fun growing out of this family mixup is lively and clean and it is guaranteed to keep the audience laughing every minute of every act.

The cast has already been chosen by Charles Rogers of the English Department, who is directing the play. The names of those who will take part will be announced later. Rehearsals are now being held and the students are working hard to make this year's Junior Play an outstanding event.

About Tightwads

East Jordan will never be built by the donations of tightwads.

When we say that we have no intention of saying that it is the duty of any man, rich or poor, to contribute money to causes in accordance with the public expectation. What a man does with money, honestly or legally acquired, is a private matter in which no public committee has any right to dictate.

However, a town must have generous men and women in its midst in order to go ahead. The name "tightwad" has been set aside for those who do not prefer to chip in on a popular movement. The choice is with the individual, who has the right to decide. If he or she wishes to keep what he or she has, without thinking of the public, they have that undisputed right, but then, it is humorous for them to object when the rebuffed public good recoils and the "tightwad" label is applied to them.

Advertise in "The Herald"

Advertisers will find that most of the important buyers in East Jordan read the Charlevoix County Herald. Business is made by progressive citizens and this class of our people are behind the Charlevoix County Herald. Merchants who fail to advertise because everybody in town knows all about them, make the same mistake that is made by those who hesitate to subscribe to the local paper because they know everything that has happened, or is apt to happen.

Anybody with plenty of time on their hands and nothing much to do can waste a lot of it keeping up with modern murderers.

The Republican Nat'l Convention

FULL TEXT OF THE OFFICIAL CALL FOR JUNE 12.

Publisher's Note.—Because of the extraordinary number of requests reaching the Republican National headquarters at Washington, for copies of the official call for the Republican National Convention to be held in Kansas City, June 12, the full text of that document is herewith printed. The requests have come from schools; chambers of commerce, women's clubs and other civic organizations. For that reason The Herald is publishing the Call in full.

CALL FOR THE REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION.

To the Republican Voters of the United States:

In compliance with the rules adopted by the Republican National Convention of 1924, the Republican National Committee directs that a National Convention of delegated representatives of the Republican Party be held at Kansas City, Mo., at eleven o'clock a. m., on Tuesday, June 12, 1928, for the purpose of nominating candidates for President and Vice-President, to be voted for at the Presidential Election on Tuesday, November 6, 1928, and for the transaction of such other business as may properly come before it. The voters of the several States and of Alaska, Hawaii, Porto Rico, the Philippine Islands and the District of Columbia who are in accord with the principles of the Republican Party, believe in its declaration of policies, and are in sympathy with its aims and purposes, are invited to unite under this call in the selection of Delegates to said Convention.

Delegates

Said National Convention shall consist of

1. Four Delegates-at-Large from each State.

2. Two additional Delegates-at-Large for each Representative-at-Large in Congress from each State.

3. Two Delegates-at-Large each for Alaska, District of Columbia, Porto Rico, Hawaii, and the Philippine Islands.

4. Three additional Delegates-at-Large from each State casting its electoral vote, or a majority thereof, for the Republican nominee for President in the last preceding Presidential election.

1. One District Delegate from each Congressional District.

2. One additional District Delegate from each Congressional District casting 10,000 votes or more for any Republican elector in the last preceding Presidential election or for the Republican nominee for Congress in the last preceding Congressional election.

One Alternate Delegate to each Delegate to the National Convention.

How Elected

First: Only legal and qualified voters shall participate in a Republican primary, caucus, mass meeting, or mass convention, held for the purpose of selecting delegates to be elected as delegates to County, District or State Conventions, and only such legal and qualified voters shall be elected as delegates to County, District and State Conventions.

Second: State and District Conventions shall be composed of delegates who are legal and qualified voters. Such delegates shall be apportioned among the counties, parishes and cities of the State or District, having regard to the Republican vote therein.

Third: Delegates and Alternates to the National Convention shall be duly qualified voters of their respective States and Territories, and in the case of the District of Columbia, residents therein.

Delegates-at-Large and their Alternates, and Delegates from Congressional districts and their Alternates, shall be elected in the following manner:

(1) By primary election, in accordance with the laws of the State in which the election occurs, in such States as require by law the election of Delegates to National Conventions of political parties by direct primaries; provided, that in any State in which Republican representation upon the board of judges or inspectors of elections for such primary election is denied by law, Delegates and Alternates shall be elected as hereinafter provided.

(2) By the Republican State Committee or governing committee in any State in which the law of such State specifically authorizes the election of delegates in such manner.

(3) By Congressional or State Conventions, as the case may be, to be called by the Congressional, State or governing committee, respectively. Notice of the call for any such convention shall be published in a newspaper or newspapers of general circulation in the District or State, as the case may be, not less than fifteen days prior to date of said Convention.

(4) Provided, however, that in selecting Delegates and Alternates to the National Convention, no State law shall be observed which hinders, abridges or denies to any citizen of the United States eligible under the United States Constitution to the office of President or Vice-President the right or privilege of being a candidate under such State law for the nomination for President or Vice-President; or which authorizes the election of a number of Delegates or Alternates from any State to the National Convention different from that fixed in this call.

In a Congressional District where there is no Republican Congressional Committee, the Republican State Committee shall issue the call and make said publication.

All Delegates from any State may, however, be chosen from the State at large, in the event that the laws of the State in which the election occurs so provide.

Alternate Delegates shall be elected to said National Convention for each unit of representation equal in number to the number of Delegates elected therein and shall be chosen in the same manner and at the same time the Delegates are chosen; provided, however, that if the law of any State shall prescribe the method of choosing Alternates, they shall be chosen in accordance with the provisions of the law of the State in which the election occurs.

Certification of Delegates

Election of Delegates shall be certified in every case where they are elected by conventions, by the chairman and secretary of such conventions, respectively; and in case of election by primary, they shall be certified to by the proper official, and all certificates shall be forwarded by said duly elected Delegates and Alternates in the manner herein provided.

The Delegates and Alternates from Alaska, Hawaii, Porto Rico, the Philippine Islands and the District of Columbia shall be selected in such manner and under such rules as may be adopted by the respective recognized Republican Central Committee, or governing committee by whatever name known, in and for the respective units of representation.

That such respective recognized committees are hereby authorized to designate the time and place for the selection or election of the Delegates and Alternates to the next Republican Convention from such units of

W. A. STROEBEL RE-APPOINTED POSTMASTER.

Postmaster, W. A. Stroebel was recently re-appointed Postmaster of East Jordan for another term of four years, on recommendation of Congressman Frank P. Bohn.

Mr. Stroebel has served East Jordan as Postmaster in an efficient manner for several years and his re-appointment has the hearty approval of our citizens.

STUDENTS OF GRADES PRESENT PAGEANT

One of the outstanding entertainments of the school year was presented Wednesday afternoon, Feb'y 29, in the High School Auditorium by the grades of the Central school. The program was in the nature of an original pageant, "America in the Making" written and produced by the grade teachers.

The program opened with a Washington march by the members of the first grade and Kindergarten, resplendent in colonial costumes with white wigs and shining buckles. Those participating in the march were Florence Rosenthal, Elaine Collins, Isabel Kaley, Betty Sturgell, Virginia Davis, Beatrice Valencourt, Park Porter, Bruce Bartlett, John Pray, Carl Bennett, John Seiler and Glen Malpass. The Kindergarten band complete from drum to trombone boasted the following members:—

Jean Campbell, Genevieve Ellis, Eldeva Woodcock, Dorothy Ager, Gladys St. Charles, Keith Rogers, Delbert Blaha, Dick McKinnon, Donald Wales and Bobbie Gay. The curtains were drawn then for a moment and when they were raised the spotlight revealed an unusually effective tableau—"The Spirit of '76." Ronald Decker portrayed the Flag-bearer, William Smith and Billie Swoboda, the drummers, and the fife player, Cecil Hitchcock. Again the curtains were drawn and this time Ellis Island with its many immigrants was seen. The customs officer, Curtis Kowalski through his clever interpreter, Robert Amburgey who spoke every language, questioned every immigrant closely. Their responses were recorded by Tommie Joyn, another immigration official. Many lands were represented. Mary Louise and Galen Seiler, who represented immigrants from India sang a Hindu song, taught them by their aunt, who is a Missionary in that country. A Dutch dance was given by two of the Holland immigrants, Margaret Duncanson and Rodney Gibbard. "Pack Up Your Troubles" was sung by three other immigrants, Betty Cook, Wylon Payne and Ruth Sturgell. The next scene, a Camp-fire scene of the Civil War, where Lincoln and the Boys in Blue are seen was effectively dramatized by Robert Somerville as the Doctor, Dorothy Hammond as the nurse, Francis Haley as the wounded soldier, Gayle Saxton, Robert Richardson, Ralph Larson and Harry Simmons as stretcher bearers. The sentinels and the soldiers about the camp-fire contributed much to this scene's effectiveness. "The Making of the Flag," with David Pray as Washington, Barbara Stroebel as Betsy Ross and Howard Malpass as her uncle, was cleverly presented. This was followed by a flag drill by the girls of the fifth grade who wore white dresses and carried American flags. The next number, "An American in Europe" was recited by Phyllis Rogers in a very pleasing and effective manner. When the curtains were drawn for the last scene, Isadore Peck as "The Statue of Liberty" was seen standing on a high pedestal in the center of the stage. In this scene about sixty of the great men and women who made liberty for our land were represented by the children. The recitation by Roscoe Crowell as Paul Revere, Pauline Clarke as one of the characters of Will Carlton, and Hector McKinnon, as Edgar Guest, were given unusually well.

The grand finale was the singing of America by all the cast and the audience.

Only the highest praise and commendation can be given to the teachers and pupils who worked together so diligently to make this program a success. The costuming, worked out through the co-operation of the teachers and parents showed much careful work. The teachers whose grades were represented are Miss Clark, Mrs. Carson, Miss MacLaughlin, Miss Starmer, Mrs. Hager, Miss Crawford and Miss Provost, assisted by Miss Kelly and Mr. Bowen. The High School Orchestra assisted at the opening of the program and during the interludes.

Don't criticize the ladies; they criticize each other.

Every time we hear of a man going into the poultry business as a sideline we have a great fellow-feeling.

WITH THE County Ag'l Agent

Note—The three following articles were mailed at Boyne City, Feb'y 19, but owing to the storm, did not reach The Herald until Feb'y 27th.

STATE CLUB LEADERS VISIT COUNTY.

Mr. A. G. Kettunen, State Boys' and Girls' Club Leader and Miss Ruth Featherly, Assistant Leader spent Feb'y 14, 15 and 16 in this County visiting the many junior clubs that have been organized by the County Agr'l Agent.

They found the Club members highly interested in their projects and made many recommendations that will make the work more effective. It was a pleasant surprise to see the splendid articles that have already been completed—and to note the efficient manner in which the members are carrying on their requirements.

The club program for this winter is the most extensive yet carried on in this County, at the present time there being nineteen active junior clubs as follows:—

Eleven Handicraft, six Clothing and two hot lunch scattered throughout the County having approximately one hundred members enrolled.

The big event of the club year is the series of "Achievement Days" that will be held to finish up the winter club program during the fore part of May, at which time the champions of each school will be selected and the members are already doing their best to receive this high honor.

FERTILIZER DEALERS HOLD IMPORTANT MEETING.

In order to acquaint themselves with the latest developments in the fertilizer business and to be of greater service to their patrons all of the fertilizer dealers of the County attended a meeting in the County Agent's office in Boyne City on Feb'y 14th.

Mr. Frank Trull, Soils Specialist from M. S. C. was present and led the discussion on this subject that is becoming of greater interest to the farmer every day.

The consensus of opinion was that the dealers should know what analysis to recommend for the farmer, should handle only high-analysis fertilizers, handle only high quality products and in other words sell only the fertilizers that will be of the greatest benefit to the consumer. Mr. Trull discussed in detail how fertilizers are prepared, the proper uses of fertilizers, their value, when and how to use them, quantity to use per acre, and a wide variety of other subjects too numerous to mention.

It was very gratifying to find that the sale of fertilizers is increasing every year. Last year there was an increase of 25% in the sales and there will be many new users this year. In the next few weeks there will be a series of fertilizer meetings held throughout the County. They will be conducted before the buying season is at hand so that the consumers can attend one of them and decide for themselves what will be most profitable to buy.

POULTRY CAMPAIGN STARTED. First Meeting Held February 15th.

The "Grow Better Chicks" poultry campaign for Charlevoix County is now in progress and is proving to be of great benefit to many poultry raisers.

The first meeting of the four scheduled was conducted at the plant of Henry Stephen, Charlevoix, with Mr. J. A. Hannah, Poultry Specialist and Mr. Geo. Amundson, Agr'l Engineering Specialist, both of M. S. C. present. Nine communities were represented by leaders, who received the instruction on the importance of correct brooding of baby chicks and recommendations concerning where to purchase high quality chicks.

This campaign is so arranged that the four meetings discuss the problems that may arise at about the time they confront the poultryman as housing, source of baby chicks, incubation, care and feeding of chicks, and diseases will be taken up in that order.

All people interested in poultry are urged to enroll in their respective communities by getting in touch with one of the following leaders, who are attending the four meetings and are glad to be of assistance.

Wm. Sanderson, Mrs. Geo. Brown, Al Ward, Archie Murphy, East Jordan; Frank Fox, Mr. Geary, Boyne City; Chas. Mascho, James Heeres, Roy Kane, Charlevoix.

These leaders will hold their first meeting inside of the next two weeks so plan on attending their meetings and in getting all the latest information that will be of assistance to you.

The outfit could be seen only between squalls. Fortunately it was not very cold. Well they made it all the way around to Boyne City and back.

The coasters are having quite a rest as the weather has not permitted of the sport since Saturday evening.

GOODYEAR TIRES

We used to sell another line of TIRES. And we believe they were good ones. But we were asked many times, "Do you think that Tire is as good as the Goodyear?" So we figured if our customers made Goodyear their standard of value, why try to sell them any other kind. And for that reason, we are now selling Goodyears.

TRY SULPHUR ON AN ECZEMA SKIN

Costs Little and Overcomes Trouble Almost Over Night

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly brings ease from skin irritation, soothes and heals the eczema right up and leaves the skin clear and smooth.

It seldom fails to relieve the torment without delay. Sufferers from skin trouble should obtain a small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist.

New Bulletin on Feeding Horses

Combinations of Home-Grown Crops Are Most Economical Rations.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A suitable ration for horses meets the requirements of nutrition, economy and convenience, says the United States Department of Agriculture in a revised edition of Farmers' Bulletin 1030-F, "Feeding Horses," just published. Combinations of home-grown or locally raised crops as a rule constitute the most economical rations.

It is a good plan to observe the results in feeding a ration and modify it according to age, size and condition of the horse, declares the bulletin. Slight changes in feeds are occasionally advisable but should be made gradually to avoid digestive disturbances.

Computation Not Difficult.

The computation of rations is not difficult, according to the authors of the publication, and a little time spent on calculations enables the feeder to provide from available feeds a ration approximately supplying the requisite amounts of protein and carbohydrates. Data on rations, it is pointed out, will afford valuable aid to the feeder. It is far more economical to feed the required amounts of nutrients in the right proportion than to provide an excess of one and a deficiency of another.

The benefits derived from grinding or crushing oats and corn for horses depend on the cost of preparation, working conditions and state of the animal's teeth. Ordinarily it is not profitable to cook, steam or soak feeds for horses. When the small, hard grains cannot be rolled or crushed, however, it is advisable to soak them.

Additional Information.

Farmers' Bulletin 1030-F contains much additional information concerning the selection and computation of rations; the preparation of feeds, conditions affecting feed requirements and numerous suggestions relative to feeding horses. A copy of the bulletin may be obtained free upon application to the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Barnyard Manure Is Best Plant Food, Says Keffer

No other source of plant food is quite as satisfactory as barnyard manure in the maintenance of soil fertility. That is why some form of animal husbandry should find a place in every farm plan, states Director Charles A. Keffer of the agricultural extension service, University of Tennessee. The fertility of the land can be kept up and increased by the use of commercial fertilizers and green manure crops. Lime and legumes and acid phosphate mark the cropping route to successful soil improvement.

Most farmers practice a more or less diversified agriculture and on most farms crop rotation of some sort is used. It may be only that of following corn with small grain or cotton, or even letting a field lie idle a year, to plow under the weed growth for the following crops. And there are not a few farmers who imagine that merely to grow cowpeas, cutting them close for hay, greatly benefits the soil. That is a mighty poor way of maintaining soil fertility.

Crop rotation of any sort is better than continuous cropping to one kind of plant, but to be in the highest degree beneficial—corn and cotton and tobacco and truck crops should alternate with some legume, preferably clover or alfalfa for hay and pasture and then plowed into the land. Thus we have a cultivated crop rotating with a sod crop, and the use of live stock in the farm scheme.

Agricultural Notes

Large, regular fields are cheapest to plow, as less time is lost on turns.

Keep in touch with your state college of agriculture for new and promising plant varieties.

A tub of water in your cellar on a cold night will keep the vegetables from freezing. Freezing water gives off heat.

Old crank case oil which has been filtered from grit and carbon will do for light running machinery on the farm. Use is freely.

On stormy days repair that piece of machinery you need later on. It will save time when the machine is in the field. A stitch in time may save the wheat.

Within from ten to fourteen days after the corn has been put into the silo it will have gone through the fermentation process sufficiently to be fed if needed.

The most practical method of curing alfalfa in Nebraska was found to be a partial curing in the swath followed by windrowing and then storing it promptly after curing.

Sweet clover is one of the best honey producing plants known. The plants bloom abundantly and bees are very fond of the nectar. Sweet clover honey is of the highest quality.

The SANDMAN STORY

THE FOX FAMILY

"NOW, children," said Mother Gray Fox to her little babies, "you must learn many lessons."

"For the past few weeks I have held you close to me so you could feel my comforting warm furry body, and so you need not be afraid in the great dark world."

"But now the world is no longer dark, for you have opened your eyes at last, and you see the light."

"Your daddy is proud of you, too! He stayed away while you were so very tiny."

"It is best that way. Mother Fox wants to be all alone with her babies when they are so very tiny."

"And all alone in her three-room ground apartment she stayed with you."

"Daddy Fox will teach you lessons, too. He will also show you how you must hunt and do the marketing. You will learn just a little at a time. That will be enough to do. No little fox should learn too much at a time, for we do not want you to adventure far."

"No Little Fox Should Learn Too Much at a Time."

"A very little hunting at a time will do."

"You must beware of Great Horned Owl. He's a wild fellow and he doesn't care in the least for a darling little baby fox."

"Perhaps I should say he cares for a little baby fox too much. Much too much."

"He doesn't really care for a baby fox or he couldn't catch the little darling and put an end to its sweet fox life."

THE WHY of SUPERSTITIONS

By H. IRVING KING

COUNTING STARS

"THEY fought from heaven: the stars in their courses fought against Sisera." So sang Deborah and Barak, the son of Abinoam, exulting over the destruction of the Canaanite commander. The quotation is an example of the intimate relations which the ancients believed to exist between the stars and human destiny. The persistence of this idea down into our own times is evidenced by the number of "astrologers" who make a comfortable living from the credulous by their "horoscopes" and the prevalence of star-superstitions all over the world. As to astrology, it was regarded as a real science down to within comparatively recent times.

There appears to have been strictly no star-worship among the ancients. In the sun and the moon primitive man saw deities—in the stars celestial bodies more nearly related to and connected with himself. The stars peopled the heavens as man peopled the earth and between them existed a community of fate, the celestial influencing the terrestrial, as was natural. Therefore, we see in current star-superstitions not the invocation of a god but an attempt to find out how the celestial bodies with which we are in affinity are influencing our destiny. A common superstition of the "project" class in this country and Canada is that if you count nine stars for nine successive nights (if a cloudy or rainy night intervene the charm will be broken and the project must be begun again) the person you dream of that night will be your future husband (or wife). In one section only three stars are counted. This superstition is based upon the ideas stated above with regard to the connection between the stars and their human kindred, the counting of the stars being merely an attempt to get an rapport, as it were, with the celestial ruler of your destiny.

Plenty Left

Despite the fact that in Great Britain the gannets or solan geese eat immense amounts of herring, there seems to be plenty of fish left for the human fishermen. The gannets occupy every available ledge on the giant cliffs. Although they eat 60,000,000 herrings annually the good fishing does not seem to diminish. Herrons are on the bounty list, however, because of their activity in fishing streams of inland waters.

"You must stay most of the time safely in your soft grassy bed in the Home Den."

"You must beware of the strong Weasel who loves little foxes in the same cruel way that Great Horned Owl does."

"The Weasel knows how to hunt, too. He knows how to take short cuts, and he is tireless."

"Once a darling little fox was saved from a Weasel because old Rattle made saw him in time. Old Rattle didn't want to protect the baby fox, oh, no, you must watch out for Old Rattle and his family."

"But Old Rattle wanted, that Weasel and fight they did so that the baby fox got home to safety."

"You must be careful of men—and guns and rattlesnakes. Copperheads you must beware of and field mice you must smile at. For you are an enemy to field mice. You can catch them!"

"Beware, too, of the Goshawk. He is an enemy."

"All that your mother tells you is true," said Daddy Fox. And then Daddy Fox began to give lessons in what they must beware of and what they must learn.

"In a year's time you will be old enough and wise enough to choose your own mates and start out house-keeping and homemaking for yourselves."

"Mother and Daddy Fox will not be lonely, for that is the way you should do, and Mother and Daddy Fox have each other and they love each other and are always happy with each other."

"Aren't we, Mother Gray Fox?"

Mother Gray Fox looked at Daddy Gray Fox and smiled and her eyes were tender and loving.

"I've always been thankful you were my mate, and proud that you were my mate and glad that you were my mate."

"You're the most handsome fox that ever lived!" said Daddy Fox. And the little foxes looked at each other and grinned and said:

"We will not feel that Mother and Daddy will be lonely when we leave them, for they love each other so much, so much."

Then Daddy Fox suggested a good game, and they all had a most wonderful Fox frolic for all of them loved to play!

And Mother and Daddy Fox said that play was a most important part of life!

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

YOUR BANK

FOR the remotest origin of banking we must go back to the days of antiquity. But vast changes in its nature and scope have taken place from the day of the ancient banker who was a mere custodian of money and a buyer and seller of foreign exchange to the modern banker who is a financier and a dealer in credit.

The oldest survival of a banking transaction was unearthed recently by explorers in Assyria. This is a bill of exchange issued a thousand years before Christ. Then several hundred years before Christ we have the "Argentarii" or "dealers in money" of Greece and Rome. It was under Justinian in Rome that the banking business flourished and developed to a scope that was not reached again for centuries to come. A comparatively large use of credit was involved and a whole series of laws relating to it were created.

During the Middle ages, however, the insecurity of property reduced banking again to mere money changing until the establishment in Venice, in 1587, of the Banco di Rialto, which received deposits subject upon order, in which we have the real beginning of modern banking.

Gradually, through this and other banks, which were springing up throughout Europe, came the various features which constitute modern banking as we know it today. On July 27, 1824, came the incorporation of the Bank of England around which ever since have centered the finances of Great Britain and which furnished an example for the First Bank of the United States, which was chartered by one of the earliest acts under the federal Constitution on February 25, 1791.

A GOOD THING TO KNOW—REMEMBER IT.

Mrs. Mary B. No one should suffer backache, rheumatic pains, sleep disturbing kidney and bladder ailments, when Foley Pills diuretic may be so easily had and at so small a cost.—Hite's Drug Store. adv.

THE FUNNY SIDE

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

TODAY we sat and talked about
The time the gasoline gave out,
And father woke the farmer up,
And all he did was sic his pup
Op dad, and how dad hiked to town,
Where things close up when night
comes down,
And how at last he found a man,
Who charged a dollar for the can,
Another for the gasoline—
Today we all recalled the scene,
And talked it over, fore and aft,
And laughed and laughed and laughed and laughed.

Today we talked it over, though
That happened years and years ago
When cars were scarce and roads were bad,
My goodness, what a time we had—
Of how we waited by the road,
And mother sat down on the toad,
And how she screamed, and brother tried
To jump a ditch, and fell inside
And got all muck—today we sat
And talked it over, all of that,
And laughed the way the people do
After a month or year or two.

And so it is with lots of things:
The very thing that sorrow brings
Today, tomorrow makes us smile.
We only need to wait awhile,
And then we see the funny side
Of many a night we nearly died.
I do not mean to say a man
Should smile right then, for, no one can!

But, if we only tried a bit
To see the funny side of it,
We'd smile at little cares we knew
A whole lot sooner than we do.

GREATEST OPPORTUNITY

AL HAFED sold his farm in order to get sufficient money which would enable him to search the world over for diamonds. He traveled for many years and having failed to find diamonds returned home penniless.
The man to whom he sold his farm had become very rich, for he discovered a diamond mine on the farm he purchased from Al Hafed.

The opportunities we seek are so near us that we fail to see them. It is not necessary to go away in order to find our opportunity. The best chance in the world is to be found just where we are.

A farmer mortgaged his land for money to invest in oil. He went to the Far West to see his wells shot.
He waited long but discovered no oil.
He returned home poor both in spirit and money. The loan company was about to sell the farm in order to pay the mortgage. A few friends raised sufficient funds so the mortgage was redeemed.

A short time after this a big oil company leased the land and sunk wells.
Every one was a success. The farmer paid back the borrowed money and now he is a rich man. Oil flowed in abundance in the very land he mortgaged, but he did not know it.

The greatest opportunity is not in some far away city. It is just where you are. It is so near you fail to discover it. You will find it, perhaps today, in the very work upon which you are engaged. Opportunities surround you on every side. It is not the opportunity you want so much as the ability to recognize it when it comes. Many an opportunity has been lost because of failure to utilize it. Opportunities are not to be found in things. Opportunity lies in yourself.

Cholera Serum
as Protection

Unusual Prevalence of Disease in 1926 Impressed
Farmers With Danger.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
Special reports made to the United States Department of Agriculture from 30 states in which co-operative hog-cholera work is being conducted indicate an increased use of antihog-cholera serum as a protection against hog cholera. Apparently, the unusual prevalence of the disease in the fall of 1926 did much to impress farmers with the potential danger of the malady and stimulated action in the adoption of preventive methods.

Protection by Serum.
The spring crop of pigs received extensive protection by the preventive serum treatment, the number immunized ranging from 10 to 75 per cent of the entire production in the 30 states, according to the reports. There was also an increase in the number of herds immunized. These factors, no doubt, are largely responsible for the sudden drop in the death rate from cholera compared with that of last year.

The reports also indicated at the time they were submitted that, with the exception of Arkansas, Maryland, Michigan, North Carolina and Kentucky, the other states had suffered no greater losses from cholera this year than they had in 1924 and 1925, showing a sharp decline in the disease from the destructive wave of 1926.

Urges Sanitary Measures.
The department stresses the importance and value of sanitary measures in the raising of swine, not only as an aid in the prevention of hog cholera but in preventing other diseases. It also calls attention to the fact that cholera infection may reach well-kept herds as well as those in insanitary surroundings, and if not immunized one will succumb as quickly as the other. After all the use of the simultaneous treatment is the only reliable safeguard against attacks of hog cholera.

Water Warmed for Fowls Increases Laying Power

Experiments emphasize the importance of warm water for laying hens. A summary of results follows:

Pullets drank 25.4 per cent more warmed water than cold water during freezing weather.

Water consumption was increased 5 per cent per pullet and 4.2 per cent per 100 eggs laid by warming it during average western winter weather. Temperatures were above freezing 90 per cent of the time.

White leghorn pullets laying at the average rate of approximately 60 per cent in midwinter drank 0.26 pound of water per pullet per day and 44 pounds of water per 100 eggs laid.

Drinking water for poultry may be conveniently warmed with several styles of simple electric heaters at a cost about the same as for lighting two electric lamps. Heaters of 75 to 100 watts capacity are about right for warming two gallons of water. Specially constructed heaters to be immersed in water can be secured for a few dollars. In case of emergency a hermetically-sealed electric soldering iron makes an excellent water heater.

Electric lamps may be used for water heating if they are supported close to the underside of the pan and both the pan and lamps protected to avoid heat losses.

Results of Limestone Application on Fields

The result of experiment on Illinois experiment fields indicate that manure residues with lime is the most profitable system of soil treatment over the larger part of the state. Applications of limestone are worthwhile. On light colored soils limestone is 20 per cent more effective with live stock than with grain systems. Fine ground limestone is effective with the first crop, coarse ground may not be effective until the second or third crop.

A single application of limestone of four tons per acre made 15 years ago made a return of $38.04 per acre over untilled land in that time.

Hints for the Farm

Delay in making repairs doubles the ultimate cost.

Proper and prompt attention to lubrication and repair should be the first consideration in prolonging the life and usefulness of farm implements.

Winter jobs for the tractor: Grinding feed, snow removal, sawing wood, running corn sheller and husker shredder, crushing limestone, straw and hay baling.

Rotation of crops is of some benefit in the control of corn smut since the disease is known to increase in virulence when corn is grown continuously on the same land.

It is a good practice to go over each implement when its use for the season is over, checking carefully the places where it needs repair, and then to make the replacements or repairs when time is not so valuable.

Renew Interest in Jerusalem Artichoke

By New Method Levulose Is Produced From Tubers.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The Jerusalem artichoke, a widely known but little used plant native to the United States, has recently taken on new interest because of the development of an improved method for producing levulose from its tubers. Levulose is a form of sugar which is considered by many authorities to be much sweeter than ordinary cane sugar.

The renewed interest in the Jerusalem artichoke and its possibilities calls for a thorough study of the plant. Accordingly the United States Department of Agriculture has recently published Technical Bulletin No. 38-T, in which has been collected and reviewed all of the published works on the artichoke. Besides a summary of available literature the bulletin includes the results of preliminary work in the study of varieties. Suggestions for improvement of varieties are also included.

The culture of the Jerusalem artichoke is very similar to that of corn and is no more expensive, except harvesting, which is comparable with that of potatoes. Although it has a rather undeserved reputation as a weed because of its hardiness, it can be kept under control by proper rotation and cultural practices.

It has long been regarded as a competitor of potatoes and for that reason has not received the attention it seems to merit. It has a much wider range of usefulness, however, than as a substitute for the potato. All parts of the plant may be used for feed, forage, human food or for manufactured articles. Some French investigators have suggested the use of the stalks for fuel and of the pith for use in research laboratories. It is particularly valuable for diabetics, who seem able to use the insulin contained in it to better advantage than is the case with sugars or starches.

If the United States is to grow the plant more extensively, the success of the crop will depend on economic adjustments, says the department. The basis of selection will be an attempt to find the type or variety which can most cheaply produce insulin. Copies of the bulletin may be obtained by writing to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Odors in Milk Annoying
During Winter Season

Dairymen will often experience more trouble in keeping odors from their dairy products in winter than in summer. This is on account of milk absorbing odors from the barns as well as from the feeds that are given to dairy cows.

Keeping barn odors from milk means not only keeping the barn clean but providing proper ventilation. When a barn is close and stuffy, barn odors are apt to be noticed in the product.

Green feed often produces odors in the milk, especially when eaten shortly before milking. Rape is a feed of this class. When cows are pastured on rape or any other feed which affects the milk. It is important that they be given the feed shortly after milking. When used in this manner odors will not be noticeable if several hours intervene between the time of feeding and milking.

The same principle holds true in feeding during winter. Silage often favors milk if given to the cows prior to milking. For this reason it is preferable to feed silage and any other feeds of a similar character after milking, rather than before.

Prevent Mice Damage in Orchard During Winter

While certainly rabbits are about the most serious of animal pests around an orchard, at the same time, in some localities field mice destroy even larger numbers of fruit trees by girdling the trunks and roots. In fact, a good deal of the injury caused by meadow mice is thought to be caused by rabbits, says Successful Farming.

In many orchards pine mice attack the roots, frequently girdling the entire root system, and this is a very serious injury since it passes unnoticed in the majority of cases until it is too late to save the tree by bridge-grafting or other means.

A few ordinary mouse traps baited with rolled oats is a means of determining definitely the species of mice that may infest the orchard. And in case of slight infestation of mice in small orchards, trapping is a very effective method to use in ridding the premises of the mice.

In larger areas control measures must consist of proper cultivation, the use of nonlegume cover crops, and systematic poisoning during the fall and winter.

Balanced Roughage

Alfalfa and corn silage makes only one of the combinations which will give us a balanced roughage. Clover hay is nearly as rich in protein and minerals and can be used in place of alfalfa with good results. Soy beans and cowpea hay are as high in protein but are coarser, resulting in some waste. Corn stover, corn fodder or hay from grasses can be used, if necessary, in place of silage but they lack succulence. Any of these combinations give us a medium protein roughage.

To The WOMEN
of
EAST JORDAN

SPRING is just around the corner and your thoughts must naturally turn to the forthcoming preparations which that season of the year brings about in your home, in your personal appearance, and in the changing manner of living as the cold weather leaves for another year.

You will need to prepare a new wardrobe for the Easter promenade, and of course, when we say "you," we also refer to the rest of the members in your family who depend generally upon your buying for them.

You will go through the yearly ordeal of house-cleaning and probably decide upon redecorating the rooms, painting the house, or making new purchases for the appearance of the home's interior. Possibly new furniture will become a part of your home.

A masculine hand is writing this copy. He will not attempt to tell you of the many effects that the approach of Spring will have upon you, the reason being: his inability to understand the great number of tasks that are common to the housewife during Spring months. The enumeration will stop here; what he is trying "to get at" will follow:

During the past three months East Jordan Merchants have been stocking their shelves with warm weather merchandise; painters have bought new equipment; contractors are planning for many repair jobs; in fact, every kind of local industry has been preparing itself to meet the coming demand of East Jordan women.

With a sympathy for local institutions in mind, these lines are written to appeal to you that whatever support you may give, you give freely and generously. Upon the East Jordan WOMAN'S support depends the future of East Jordan's business progress and expansion.

You are urged to buy at home. This is the surest way toward permanent local prosperity.

Ahead of Engagements

Mary, who is the baby sister of girls in college, looks forward with delight to their week-end visits home and devotes herself entirely to them at such times. Recently, her sister noticed that as Mary knelt to say her little prayer she hurried through it, then began again and so on until she had repeated it almost breathlessly four times. Finally she rose and exclaimed: "Now I am prayed up for four nights and we can visit."

Manager C. L. Johnson, of the Michigan Bell Telephone Company, announces that effective March 1 the rate for hand telephone sets is reduced from fifty cents to twenty-five cents per month. This change is made after a few months actual experience with the set in the public's hands he says and seems to be more a practical rate now that the manufacture of the equipment is under production. Manager Johnson says that the first few hand telephone sets provided by the Company were something of an experiment as there was no way of determining in advance what the actual cost of providing and maintaining them would be. While the hand set is a more expensive set than the desk and wall sets, these latter types give just as good telephone service. Owing to the difference in style, however, some people have a preference for the hand telephone set and it was developed for that purpose.
