TWO TRAINS PER WEEK TO HARBOR

(Petoskey News) The week-day one-train service to Harbor Springs is to be discontinued Monday, March 19, by the Pennsyvania Lines and in its place will be substituted a two-train-a-week service. These trains will operate on the present schedule time on Tuesdays and Fridays. Passengers, mail and express for merly handled on the daily run will be taken care of by the Harbor Transit Company bus and freight lines. Asked about the present daily pas senger business, Agent A. D. Phelps of the Petoskey station of the Pennsylvania Lines said that the average number of passengers did not exceed three or four. It was indicated in railroad circles that the new arrangement would give Harbor Springs just as good passenger, mail and express service as at present at considerable less cost to the railroad. Freight service will be less than at present. The proposition for the change in chedule has been up for consideration for some time and was fought by the Harbor Springs Chamber of Commerce, Village Council and indi-

FORMER MAYOR WRITES "HOME."

The below letter from our former townsman and Mayor, A. E. Cross, to The Herald is of interest to his many East Jordan friends.

Fairfield, Washington, March 4, 1928.

You will find enclosed check for $1.50 in payment on subscription. I always am anxious for each issue of the Home paper, and read with interest each one as it arrives. While West has many attractions, Michigan will always be back home

No doubt that things have changed much since I left good old East Jordan, however I believe that it would seem more like home to me to be back among the old friends and neighbors than it does in the big-West where most people seem to be more interested in the Dollar and himself than in his neighbor. It is true perhaps that there is more opportunity for gain in a financial way in the West, but it is also true that there are more ways to spend one's earnings by poor investments, or fast living, perhaps than there is in the more conservative eastern and middle western States.

I am still employed as Manager for the Clark Seed Co., at Fairfield Wash. and we are growing only peas and turnip seed at this branch. Bruce is working with me, and Victor is employed as Manager at St. Anthony, cent election, was elected village Idaho, where we operate a large growing station, also an extensive Pearson, candidate on the Village trial ground and breeding grounds, licket, winning by a vote of 167 to

The play is full of intensely funny situations and it has been very successful wherever it has been presented. It was performed by professional companies in all the larger cities and has also been acted by such outstanding amateur groups as "The Players" at Northwestern University and "Mimes" at the University of Michigan. The play will be presented by special arrangement with Samuel French of New York.

It has been a custom for several years for the Junior Class to raise money for its social activities by presenting a play. Last year, "Step On It Stan" was presented and was thoroughly enjoyed by a large audience. As this is the only play which will be given this year, it is expected that a large crowd will be present. AGRICULTURAL CLASS County Unpaid Taxes Increase 1928 LIST LARGEST IN LAST THREE YEARS.

This year will see the largest tax sale list in the history of Charlevoix County, according to records now on file in the County Clerk's office,

Inability to pay taxes is becoming serious problem, and then when it is considered that those who do pay must carry the burden of nearly a million dollar increase in property valuation this year, matters become even worse. The delinquent tax list for 1926 contained 1006 descriptions. That for 1928 has 1,374, an increase of approximately 33 1-3 per cent during the past three years.

Seventy-five per cent of property delinquent for taxes is outside of the city of Charlevoix, a greater portion in the eastern end of the county. This situation is alarming. EXPECT GOOD PRICE FOR MICHIGAN BEEF

A survey of the prices of beef in comparison with the prices of other commodities shows that in the past the prices of beef have moved in cycles and that these cycles average fifteen years of time between successive periods of high prices.

The last previous period of high prices reached its maximum in 1915. Studies made by the United States department of agriculture show that the number of beef cattle on farms is exceptionally low at the present

ALFALFA SEED SOURCE SHOULD BE RELIABLE

East Lansing, March 20.-In times of seed scarcity, buy from dealers with whom you are acquainted, suggests the farm crops department at Michigan State College. The supply of alfalfa seed adapted to Michigan conditions will be somewhat limited this year, and the farmer who buys his seed early will have the opportunity of selecting from the best available stocks.

Michigan farmers should remember that seed from southern sources is not adapted to Michigan conditions. Tests made at the College show that the first severe winter will reduce the stand from southern seed to a point where it will not be a profitable crop.

Most of the northern grown alfalfa seed now grown in the United States is certified as to source by growers organizations in the regions where the seed is grown. Such certification Ruth Bence ____Roberta Schroeder can be depended upon by the buyer. The certification should state where the seed is grown, not where it was shipped from.

> The supply of sweet clover seed is plentiful, and many Michigan far-mers will be able to use this legume in their soil building program.

Let Us Build This Community Upon Good Will

COMMUNITIES built upon a foundation of good will toward all, a sincere effort toward honest dealing with our fellow men, are the communities that will endure long after others founded upon a less liberal application of the golden rule have passed

It is the earnest wish of every true member of this community that it shall grow and prosper. Each one is anxious and willing to do his share toward promoting this growth. Each may do his share by doing each day his daily task in the best way he knows how.

Confidence in our home institutions, in our neighbors, and a pride in our local developments of both private and public nature will make for the progress and growth of this home community of ours.

Wheat Straw Is of Real Value

Much of Our Farm Land Is State Association Certifies Deficient in Humus and Fertility.

"The real value of wheat straw is not what it is worth on the market or for feeding live stock, but what it is worth in the form of fertility and humus, when returned to the soil, says H. M. Bainer, director, South western Wheat Improvement association. Continuing, he says, "Much of our farm land is deficient in humus and fertility, and every pound of wheat straw or stubble that is burned makes this condition worse. Fertility Removed.

"Analysis of cultivated soils in the Southwest indicate that as much as one-third of the original altrogen and one-half of the original organic matter has already been lost. Experimental data indicate that an average wheat crop removes from each acre of soil approximately 20 pounds of nitrogen. 8 pounds of phosphoric acid, and 10 pounds of potash. To replace this fertility, in the form of a commercial fertilizer, would cost some thing like $4.50 an acre. The fertil ity represented in returning the straw to the soil is probably worth $1 an acre, but the greatest value will come from the humus it will add.

Best Results With Straw.

"For best results, each crop of traw should be worked into the soil right away, but if this cannot be done, should be rotted and returned to he soil in the form of manure later. The harvester-thresher has solved the straw problem, and it has been fairly well solved by the header. Bundle straw should be stacked in feed lots. where the feeding and tramping by the stock will assist in converting it into manure. Such straw as cannot be handled through the feed lot or the fields should be piled in out-of-the way places, with lots of surface exposure, where it can remain until rot ted and is ready to be hauled out as manure:

"A soil that is deficient in humus is also deficient in fertility. Humus adds life to a soil, it prevents puddling, cracking, baking and blowing Humus improves the physical condition of the soil, making it mellov friable and easier to cultivate. It also assists in holding moisture, thus helping to carry crops through periods

Farm Waste of Big Value Whether or not you already know what lignin is and what it is for, you are likely to hear and learn more about it within the next few years Lignin is a constituent of agricultural and straw. It has been almost entire ly wasted. Several years ago the chemists of the United States Department of Agriculture undertook to salvage some of the value of these by-products of the farms, and in the course of time evolved processes for the manufacture of furfural which is now being used for many purposes. The government discontinued the fur-

Interests took over the work. Lignin makes up from 20 to 30 per cent of the dry material of these wastes. The chemists have succeeded in converting lightn into varnishes dvestuffs, and various aromatic chemicals that give promise of finding their places in the commercial chemical field. "Lignin," says Doctor Browne, assistant chief of chemistry and soils "may be called the greatest of all un utilized agricultural wastes," and he continues with the significant state ment that "it occupies with respect to industrial possibilities the position held by coal tar a century ago."

Seed Potatoes Grown in Ohio

6.836 Bushels for Spring Planting.

Seed potatoes produced in Ohio last year, by sixteen growers in twelve counties, have been certified by the Ohio Certified Seed Potato Growers' association, for planting this year. The growers whose seed pota-toes have been approved by the association have a total of 6,386 bush els available. The potatoes have passed two rigid inspections in the field and one in the bin. Use Separate Fields.

Additional restrictions looking toward the production of high quality seed are being taken this year by the association. 'Fleids in which seed potatoes are grown must be separated from fields in which noncertified po tatoes are grown, by at least 100 feet, in order to protect against the spreading of virus diseases through insect migration. The stock from which certified seed is grown must he approved after a test made in the greenhouses of the horticulture de partment of Obio State university Abnormality of yield or nature in the certified seed may disqualify it. Plant Late in Season.

Growers of potatoes which are to pe certified as seed are urged by the officials of the association to plant their seed potatoes late in the season, in order to shorten the incubation period for disease germs. Now Is Time to Strike Weeds Their Death Blow

Weeds can be fought to good advantage in the dead of winter by cleaning grain and legume seed by the use of fanning mills operated at the correct speed and having the right equipment properly adjusted Some back-aching work killing weeds under a hot sun next summer can be avoid ed by fanning weed seeds this winter from the grain and clover and other seed which are to be planted in the spring.

"If the mill is not doing satisfactory work for the farmer he should send a sample of the grain from it to the manufacturers." eavs L. B. Bassett. farm machinery expert of the University of Minnesota. "They will tell him the trouble with the machine and the remedy. Sometimes the farmer may have to run the seed through the mill twice to get the results he is aft If the blast is of proper intensity all the shriveled, light chaffy kernels will be blown out.

Sowing of impure seeds has done more to fasten weeds upon communities than any other farm practice or ack of practice. The value of a good fanning mill in cleaning farm seeds is now well understood by progressive farmers.

TAKING TO WONDERING

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK Dean of Mon, University of

THE king was in a sad way, so the tegend ran, as kings have often been, and are still today, if reports are to be believed. There was a great oak tree that grew against the palace wall that was so big and so thick in its branches that it shut out all the sunlight from the king's palace. king had offered many, many dollars to anyone who would cut down the huge free and let the sunlight into the great castle in which he lived, but no one had been able to do it, for as soon us ever one chip of the oak's trunk flew off under the stroke of the ax two more grew-in its stead.

And this was not all. The king had dug a well which was to hold water for the whole year, but although all his neighbors had wells, when they came to sink a well for the king whose palace stood high above the valley. they had gone down only a few inches before they struck an impenetrable

But the king had set his heart upon having the oak tree cut down, and on having a well sunk that would furnish his household with abundant wa ter, and to anyone who could accomplish these two things he agreed to give the levely princess for a wife and half his kingdom. It was a prize well worth working for, for the kingdom was a noble one and the princess was beautiful beyond description.

It . as Peter and Paul and Jackthree brothers-who set out in the hope of finding a way to cut down the tree and to dig the well.

It was Jack whose curiosity ted him to wondering concerning a sound of chopping which he heard up the hill side as the three brothers were set ting out toward the palace, and following the sound he came upon a magic ax chopping away at a great tree, and this he put into his pocket. And this same curiosity discovered to him a spade that could penetrate the hardest rock, and a stream of wa ter which flowed uninterruptedly as It was told to do. The older brothers mocked him for his curiosity but with the ax and the spade and the little and to dig the well and to fill it to the brim. And so he won the wonder ful princess for his bride and he came into possession of half the kingdom while his brothers had their ears cut off and were sent to a desert Island And as the story ends, "Well. Jack wasn't so much out of his mind when he took to wondering."

There are a great many clever young people today—clever as Peter and Paul and Jack-and a good many of these clever ones are in college and would gladly find an easy way to dig wells or to cut down oak trees, but they lack interest, they have no curlosity, they are not possessed with this wondering state of mind which led Jack to find the ax and the spade, and the trickling stream.

THE DUPLEX APARTMENT

Scions of wealth are giving up homes, dismantling their mansions, discarding the dignity of the old "brown stone" in fevor of the duplex apartment. One of the luxu our modern civilization, the duplex is regarded as the epitome of lavishness; yet it had its origin in a plan for economizing space!

In the Record and Guide of No to the first duplex apartment, newly built by a New York architect, Ernest Flagg, on the southwest corner of avenue and Twenty-eighth street:

"The duplex system, as it is termed or some modification of it, is very desirable for economizing space. There is no need of the bedroom and kitchen being as high as the parlors, library, dining and other rooms. The edific at the corner of Fifth avenue and Twenty-eighth street is full of instruction on this point."

The building, eleven stories high, is still standing, its twenty-seven duplex apartments bringing in high rentals And although apartments are offered today as duplex simply because they consist of two floors with a private staircase leading from one to the oth on they are not dunler in the ord nary sense of the plan which provided out of the same height as was allotted to the high-ceilinged front rooms, two floors of minor rooms in the rear of the apartment.

THE WHY of SUPERSTITIONS By H. IRVING KING

THE DOG THAT BIT YOU

O NE of the most widespread and most firmly believed in superstitions in this country is that if you kill the dog that bit you, or have him killed, you will not have hydrophobia. As a matter of fact, hydrophobia is a specific germ disease; and if a perso is bitten by a dog suffering from that disease, he is extremely likely to become inoculated, no matter what hap ens to the dog, an the Pasteur treatment in time, will die.

As a rule, now when a person is bitten by a dog suspected of having rables, health officers insist that the dog be kent under observation for u certain length of time, instead of being killed at once, in order to see if the animal develops the suspected disease. Or, if some superstitious person has already killed the dog, the head is, if possible, at once secured and examined for a "positive" or "negative" result, in order that it may be ascertained if it is necessary for the oitten person to take the "treatment."

But so difficult is it to supplant ancient superstitions by modern science that, all over the country, dogs which have bitten persons are killed in the firm belief that danger of hydrophobia a thereby eliminated and no further regard is paid to the incident until, in some cases, the bitten person develthe dread disease and it is too late for help. In the vast majority of cases the dog probably did not have hydrophobia at all and the patient would have been safe anyway. In the other cases the patient dies a sacrifice to a superstition.

This superstition is merely an example of the old fallacy of our primitive ancestors, sympathetic magic. You kill the dog of which the disease is a part and you kill the disease. And, by sympathy, that part of the disease which has been transferred to the human being, this transference having been accomplished, according to the theory of our ancestors, by "the magic of contact." Leafhoppers Cause Alfalfa "Yellows"

Insects Attack Other Legumes, Such as Clover.

Mun's minute enemies, the insects, have been found guilty of one more crime against farm prosperity, Prof. A. A. Granovsky of the University of Wisconsin revealed in a paper pre sented at the meeting of the American Association of Economic Entomol ogists in Nashville, Tenn. .

Professor Granovsky reported that it was proved last summer beyond a doubt that the common potato leafhopper is responsible for a damaging disease of alfalfa-"yellows" or yel low top.

"During the summers of 1926 and 1927 yellows was very common in Wisconsin," said Professor Granovsky. "It was observed that several species of small insects, known as leafhop pers occurred in great numbers over the affected alfalfa fields.

"Preliminary experiments conducted at the Wisconsin agricultural experinent station with enging these leafhoppers over the potted alfalfa plants under controlled conditions in a greenhouse, as well as in the field under natural conditions proved for the first time beyond a doubt that the common potato leafhopper is responsible for this old trouble.

In one week of feeding the leafhoppers produced the first symptoms of the disease—gradual yellowing of the tops of the plants. A few days of insect feeding often killed young plants entirely. Leafhopper attacks stunted new growth, weakened root systems and crowns of the plants, contributing to winter killing, and greatly reduced the yield of hay.

The hoppers affect many other legumes such as clover, soy beans, and garden beans, Professor Granovsky's experiments and observations indi-

Leafhoppers, Professor Granovsky believes, introduce a virulent poison into the plant tissues. The poison is responsible for the severity of the "yellows" disease.

Warm Water for Layers Is Beneficial for Eggs

Warm water for the layers during cold weather is beneficial for egg production and the general welfare of the flock, and it costs less to heat water with coal or wood before it is givon to the hens than to have them heat it with feed.

If the pail is insulated, filling it with hot water the first thing in the morn ing and at noon, and in extremely cold weather, again in the evening. will

To prevent loss of heat and provide warm water throughout the day it is necessary to insulate the water pall. This is done by placing the pail in a box or other container of such size as to permit one or two inches of insulation beneath and around the pail The insulating material may be straw. excelsior, or newspapers packed tirmly. To keep the material dry it is covered with tin to fit closely under the top rim of the pail and sloped slightly to outside of the container so as to turn the water off. It is surprising how long the water keeps warm when the pail is insulated. The pail can be easily removed and one packing should serve for the rect bearing upon the rate of growth of young stock and the egg-production of adults. Without a continual supply of mush located conveniently for the birds, maximum results from either young or old stock cannot be realized. Mash hoppers, their construction and location are, therefore, an important feature of any poultry

The desirable features of a good mash hopper are as follows Large enough to accommodate most the birds at one time. Feed readily accessible, even when opper is practically empty. No chance for the wasting of feed

Easy to clean, move, and refill, As close to the floor as possible. Located conveniently for the birds Located in a good light.

Agricultural Notes

Only good cows have milk fever.

Diseases and insects take an annual toll of one-fifth of the possible crop yield in America. Green feeds are an important part of the winter poultry ration. Sprouted oats may be used or leafy alfalfa. The best way to prevent a hog from overturning his feeding trough is to build it out of concrete. It will then be too heavy for him to push it over

New York state lambs marketed at the Buffalo stockyards this year showed better feeding, better breed ing, and better management than Ventilation can easily be arranged in a poultry house by having a window on the south side, with a shutter for it, and a hurlap curtain inside to iet down at night.

BUILDING 'FOR THE AGES!

Built centuries ago, yet built so well that it will withstand many more centuries, the Sphinx stands as a lasting monument to honest effort.

So may we of East Jordan build, not alone the material creations which go toward making up this community, but may we also build good will upon a foundation of honest trading with our fellow men, so that it will outlast even the most substantial of concrete erections.

To make our dreams of a greater community come true, we must start to build from the very foundation. Confidence in our home institutions, as evidenced by our trade relations with them, is the cornerstone---careful and conscientious regard for our credit standing in our dealings, and a willingness to do our full share in any and every enterprise that tends to the good of our community, are the materials we should use in our building, if it is to outlast the ages.

Then we will have a Community of which we may well be proud.
