Not to deny that wrong and borrow have been, and will be, till time shall be no more, but admitting them, to try with our whole might to rise above them, to turn our faces to the East, and look for the rising sun, with patience and a steadfast hope, remembering that there is always a tomorrow.—Anon.

SERVING OF FOODS

YOU hear the housewife quite frequently remark that when she serves her family with good wholesome food it is quite sufficient, without wasting time on garnishes and frills, which do not add to the food value. Let us think a moment about that. Is not the food value enhanced by a happy arrangement of food? Does it not appeal to the eye and palate? The ordinary everyday food which we take of so often served in the same way daily, with a little furnishing makes an appeal to the taste.

The appearance of a table and the food upon it add wonderfully, not only in point of esthetic taste, but as to digestive results as well, for we digest and assimilate more readily the food which pleases us as to its looks.

An ordinary pastry bag or tube will do wonders in food decoration. A bit of whipped cream piped on a dessert or salad, or a birthday cake will make it something in a class by itself.

One who has never had a beautiful birthday cake, has missed much. With a pastry tube one may save some of the foundation frosting with which the cake has been covered, tint it and with the tube or bag, pipe a fluted rim around the cake or decorate with small pink roses. It is a very simple matter and takes but little practice to make quite beautiful things.

A good cream whip is one of the indispensables. If one has a large family and needs a large one, it is an economy to buy that kind. But there are small egg beater sizes which will beat a half cupful of cream.

If one has a small family the individual casseroles are most convenient. A small dish of leftover food will be enjoyed and eaten from such a dish when it would otherwise be refused.

We should all be particularly careful of the little niceties of table etiquette, for with the young habits are formed which will make them agreeable companions or otherwise.

Queer animals they are indeed. They hardly seem to be alive. They feel, but cannot see nor hear; They have one sense instead of five.

Uncommon Sense

ON GETTING UP EARLY

ONCE roomed with a man who thought it was a virtue to get up early in the morning.

He did not get up early himself. But he thought he ought to.

Both of us had jobs that kept us at work late at night. The only opportunity for sleep we had was in the morning. I always made the most of that opportunity.

But my friend always felt guilty if he remained in bed after ten o'clock, no matter how late he had worked the night before.

He thought there was an intrinsic worth in getting out of bed at a certain hour.

Whether or not he utilized the time thus "saved" from his sleep to good advantage made no difference. On the rare occasions when he did leave his bed early he did not spend the extra hours in hard work.

As likely as not they would be frittered away in pointless inaction.

Getting up early, for instance, enables many people to acquire knowledge or culture that is useful to them. But the person who arises at the crack of dawn and then wastes his time gains nothing but loss of sleep.

Some persons make a point of arriving at their offices earlier than they are required to. Then they adopt a reproachful attitude toward the other workers who merely arrive on time.

But unless the early bird spends his extra time catching the worm, what possible advantage can he have over the birds who arrive later?

The fact is that these reproachful ones would really like to do the things they profess to frown upon. They would like to lie in bed late in the morning and play hooky from church occasionally.

They do not realize that merely arising before seven or being unwillingly present at Sunday worship constitutes no great virtue. Unless they get real benefit from these acts, as thousands do, why should they continue to perform them?

Unwilling rectitude is certainly hypocritical. But hypocrisy itself is regarded as a sin.

It must be conceded, however, that the reproachful ones have the bulge on many of us frank offenders. That holier-than-thou attitude which they usually acquire must give them a very gratifying sense of superiority to the rest of mankind.

Introduction of Pure-Bred Sires

Various Plans Are Suggested by the Department of Agriculture.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The pure-bred dairy sire is the greatest single factor in increasing the average production of dairy cows. This fact is generally recognized; yet 75 per cent of the dairy bulls in service in the United States are either grades or scrubs. Furthermore, according to the bureau of dairy industry, United States Department of Agriculture, a survey of the 48 states has shown that those states or sections of states having the highest percentage of pure-bred dairy sires are also leading in average milk production.

Suggest Various Plans.

Various plans to introduce pure-bred sires are suggested by the department, such as countrywide and statewide scrub-bull-eradication campaigns, co-operative bull associations, bull clubs, better sire trains, and others. The first three of these plans are discussed in detail, and bull clubs are mentioned briefly in Circular No. 6-C, Pure Bred Dairy Sire Introduction, just issued by the United States Department of Agriculture.

A country-wide scrub-bull-eradication campaign is an organized effort within a county to inform every dairymen of the importance of breeding only to a good pure-bred bull and to make definite arrangements to replace inferior bulls with pure breeds that are well grown, of good conformation, and from dams with high yearly milk and butterfat records.

Organizing a Campaign.

The campaign is carried on in cooperation with the extension service of the state college of agriculture. Considerable time and effort are required to organize such a campaign. At least three weeks should be allowed for a survey of the bull population of the county and for organization of local committees to conduct the campaign. The circular describes the various steps to follow in planning and conducting the campaign. Suggested posters for advertising purposes as well as copy for business men's advertising are included.

When a majority of counties in a state are interested in better dairy sire work it is often advisable to conduct a campaign on a statewide basis. A statewide campaign may require from several months to a year. Many suggestions of value and much interesting detail concerning scrub-bull-eradication work may be found in the circular, a copy of which may be obtained from the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Two General Classes of Feeds for Stock

There are two general classes of feeds. Corn, barley, wild hay and corn fodder are fattening and energy supplying feeds, and are classed as carbohydrate feeds. Oats, wheat bran, linseed oilmeal alfalfa hay and clover hay are growth producing and are classed as protein feeds.

The calf needs protein materials to make growth, but one should be careful in supplying these not to use feeds which are too bulky. If the calf has to eat a large amount of oats to get the growth material it needs then it will not be able to eat enough corn or barley to put on the fat or finish desired.

Calves fed at the South Dakota experiment station which received one-tenth oats in their ration did not make as rapid gains or develop as much "finish" as calves which got corn and linseed oilmeal without the oats. It will be a good practice gradually to take the oats out of the ration after the first two or three weeks and use a small amount of linseed oilmeal instead.

Feeding Sweet Milk

All of the successful growing rations found at the Wisconsin station have been built around milk. Professor Halpin says. He prefers feeding the milk in the sweet form, though many others differ with him. The experiments at Wisconsin indicate that chicks will consume more sweet milk than sour and will do better on it, he says. The fact that sweet milk put out in the morning may be sour by night should be no cause for suspicion or alarm.

Butter for New York

New York city, which is so big a market that it goes far in setting prices and standards, is showing a preference for light-colored, lightly salted butter. This may do away with the use of butter coloring and may lift the price of winter butter even higher over the yellow summer product than it is now. The reason is that some of the lighter-colored winter butter may have to be stored to take care of summer demand.

Goats for Milk

Goats bred for milk production produce from one to two thousand pounds of milk a year, with an average test of about 4 per cent. From two to four quarts of milk per day is considered very good production.

Goats are very rarely kept in this country for milk production under average farm conditions. They are more economical than cows and can be kept perhaps where cows could not.

Deer in Michigan suffered very little during the winter, representatives of the State Department of Conservation have reported. Apparently, natural food has been plentiful for the animals appear to be sleek and well fed. One report comes from the large deer yard near Hulbert in the Upper Peninsula. While there are a large number of deer in this yard, only two animals were seen to be in poor condition and this was due to the fact that one had been shot thru the jaw by some hunter during the past hunting season and another had a leg partly shot away. The Department keeps close check on all the larger yards throughout the winter so that it has definite information as to the welfare of the deer.

Miss Dorothy Malpass, Miss Mildred and A. J. Wageman, Harold and Ralph Clark are home from M. S. C., Lansing to spend their vacation.

Lansing—A new system of distributing patronage dividends through coupon books has been adopted by the Michigan State Farm Bureau. The purpose is to give special recognition to members in their purchases of supplies and in their use of other Farm Bureau business services. On March 1 of each year the books will be called in by the treasurer of the State Farm Bureau for auditing and valuation according to the net savings of the business department. Patronage dividends will then be issued to all paid-up members and new books will be issued.

Lansing—The state's project of buying the land near Stittsville, Muskegon County on which stands what is said to be Michigan's largest specimen of the white pine, will not be abandoned until Gov. Fred W. Green himself has had the opportunity of inspecting the tree. The Governor said he would visit the vicinity some time this spring. Marcus Schaaf, state forester, inspected the tree recently and found many of the branches dead at the tip. He reported further that the timber on two sides of the monarch was insufficient to protect it from the wind.

Vicksburg—Mr. and Mrs. Louis C. Rapp and Mr. and Mrs. F. Runner, of this village, recently celebrated a joint golden wedding anniversary at their homes here. Rapp and Mrs. Runyan are brother and sister. The two couples were married at the same service at the Zion Lutheran Church, in Kalamazoo, March 18, 1878. The Rev. R. B. Cilley, of the Vicksburg Methodist Church, performed a re-marriage ceremony for the two couples. A wedding luncheon was served by the children and grandchildren.

Lansing—E. G. Liebold, secretary to Henry Ford, has been appointed to the board of state fair managers by Governor Green. He succeeds John Ford, of Fordson, a brother of Henry Ford who died recently. According to the governor, Mr. Ford has taken an active interest in the state fair.

Lansing—Denial of claims that deer in the eastern part of the Upper Peninsula are dying of starvation was made by the Conservation Department following receipt of a report by W. C. Ceagley, state analyst. After examining two of the deer alleged to have starved Ceagley reported that the animals had died of disease.

Grand Rapids—John Woldering, of Holland, former rural mail carrier was sentenced by Judge Fred M. Raymond to the Grand Traverse County Jail for five months for tampering with the mail. It was charged Woldering opened, read and then destroyed a letter sent by the Peter Stoketee Plumbing Co., of Holland, to A. Volina.

Benton Harbor—George Concor, 61, for 22 years caretaker of the Three Oaks, Mich., bank, dropped dead there while dancing at the celebration of the opening of the new bank building.

Royal Oak—The Royal Oak fire department battled for nearly four hours to subdue a grass fire in the north end of the city that spread over 40 acres and threatened several residences. The fire escaped the control of a resident who was burning dead grass on his lot.

Lake Orion—George Spahn was bitten by a dog that leaped at his head as he was walking on a street here recently. The dog was killed and the head sent to Ann Arbor to determine if it was suffering with rabies. It was also reported that a small boy was bitten by the same dog.
