NUMBER 14

Dicken Wins Hot Contest

ELECTED MAYOR OF EAST JORDAN—326 to 325.

What promised to be a quiet City election, developed at the eleventh hour into a spirited contest for Mayorship honors between the friends of our present Mayor—Dr. Hugh W. Dicken, and William H. Malpass. Mayor Dicken and wife are at present in Europe on a tour, and his friends carried on the campaign for his re-election. Campaign messages to the voters, issued by both sides at the eleventh hour, was the primary cause of East Jordan's polling one of the largest votes ever known. The vote by Wards is as follows:

Wards	1	2	3	Total
Dicken	41	89	196	326
Malpass	92	80	153	325

Outside of the contest for Mayor, the only contest in our City was that for Alderman of the Third Ward. James Ross, the present Alderman received some 340 votes; John W. LaLonde received 16 votes. First Ward, Alderman—James Gidley, and Second Ward Alderman—S. G. Sedgman were unopposed.

Supervisors elected were:—
First Ward—Wm. F. Bashaw.
Second Ward—W. R. Barnett.
Third Ward—Glenn Bulow.

NUTRITION PROJECT SUCCESSFUL

The leaders enrolled in the Nutrition Project started last fall and being conducted this winter held their last meeting at a very recent date. This concludes the instructions given to the various leaders. After one more meeting that the local leaders will conduct for their community groups, the project will be concluded with a big County Achievement Day that will be held in Boyne City on May 3rd.

The interested ladies enrolled in the various groups are very much pleased with the information and advice received and are anxious to continue the work another year. At the Achievement Day an interesting and instructive program will be given, exhibits arranged showing the main features of the Nutrition lessons and a final report given covering the results of the project. At a later date a complete announcement will be published.

SEE ALFALFA SEED AS FUTURE STATE CROP

Alfalfa seed growing in Michigan will probably soon be established on a permanent and dependable basis. This is the opinion of the farm crops department at M. S. C., based on the experiences of farmers during the past three years and a few isolated instances that date back as far as 30 years.

H. C. Rather, of the farm crops department, states that 573 bushels of alfalfa seed were certified last year by the Michigan Crop Improvement Ass'n. He estimates that this amount is less than one-eighth of the total production of about 4,500 bushels grown in the State last year, which will plant approximately 27,000 acres. "There are two things which Michigan alfalfa seed growers must keep in mind," says Mr. Rather. "One is to watch the bloom in order to determine whether or not it will set seed satisfactorily. The other is to keep seed producing fields free from weeds."

"If the weather is reasonably bright and clear, the alfalfa may be allowed to come into full bloom. If more than half of the blossoms are forming into seed pods, the stand may be allowed to go to seed with reasonable assurance of success. In case the majority of the blossoms are stripping off, the alfalfa may still be cut for hay and the value of the crop saved."

"In southern Michigan the opportunity to secure seed is presented in both the first and second cuttings, while in northern Michigan the first cutting must be depended upon for the seed crop."

EAST JORDAN LOSES A REGULAR SUMMER VISITOR

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Loveday spent the latter part of March in Toledo with the latter's younger sister, whose husband, John M. Hertel, Business Manager of "The Toledo Blade" was seriously ill and finally passed away on the early morning of March 27th at a hospital.

Mr. Hertel had spent his life in newspaper work, having held high positions on the St. Louis Chronicle, the Memphis News Scimitar, and other daily papers, but always looked forward to spending his vacations at East Jordan, where he enjoyed the Trout Streams, and only missed two out of the past thirty summers.

While enroute, by auto, to the funeral, Walter I. McKenzie of Detroit, (Constance Lovday's husband) met with a serious accident, being crashed into by another machine going at a high rate of speed, demolishing his car. He was picked up unconscious, rushed to nearest hospital and afterward taken home by an acquaintance at Trenton, near which town the accident occurred, and apparently escaped without any broken bones, though painfully bruised up, so that he was helpless for the first few days, but likely to be out at the end of a week or ten days.

NEW MUSIC AT TEMPLE THEATRE

Many people attending the Temple Theatre inquire about the new music, how it is produced and what kind it is. The instrument is an electric phonograph amplifying through a regular radio speaker. The reproducer picks up the sound from the record and transmits it to an amplifier having four radio tubes. From the amplifier it is transmitted to the speaker placed in front of the audience.

The double turntable enables the operator to cue the music to the picture. Thus enabling the small theatre to have the finest orchestra or pipe organ music.

This instrument is a new development and the Temple Theatre is one of the first theatres to install it.

MISS THOMPSON BRIDE OF GUY W. GRAFF

Miss Thompson is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Thompson, former residents of greater Muskegon. The family moved to Honolulu last fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Graff will reside at 1408 Peck Street.—Muskegon Daily.

It is estimated that two hundred boys will be present for this Meeting which will begin at 9:30 central standard time and carry through an evening banquet.

POULTRY BROODER HOUSE DEMONSTRAT'N

Farm of Wm. Sanderson, April 13.

The most modern and approved Michigan type brooder house will be actually supervised and erected by specialists of the Michigan State College, at the farm of Wm. Sanderson, East Jordan, located one-half mile east of Ironton, and three-fourths mile south, on the afternoon of Friday, April 13.

This brooder house will be 10x12 feet in size, properly insulated to insure warmth, and of sufficient size to house from 300 to 400 baby chicks. Many new features will be incorporated in its construction that will assist materially in raising healthy and vigorous chicks.

By means of a power saw erected on a motor truck, and the assistance of three experienced specialists, the house will be constructed in the one day. Not only will you see the new brooder house, but in addition you will see the most approved type of laying house, as Mr. Sanderson, only recently has erected one.

The poultry public is cordially urged to attend this demonstration beginning in the afternoon at 1:00 o'clock on Friday, April 13th. This will be the only demonstration of its kind conducted in Charlevoix County, so if interested in poultry in any way by all means be present.

The Peddler Stings

Despite repeated warnings, the common house-to-house variety of peddler continues on his happy and generally unmolested way, selling everything from mousetraps to raincoats, gathering his victims here and there who are seemingly unable to withstand his wiles.

Some peddlers carry their stock of merchandise with them, this in communities that are unprotected by local ordinances. Then, there is the order taker who is content to deliver later, trusting to luck that you have not changed your mind or moved away in the meantime. But most to be feared is the fellow who gets your signature on an order blank and then demands a down payment. Sometimes they return to deliver your purchase and collect the balance due, and then again there are any number who take your initial payment and are seen no more.

An example of the latter species appeared recently at Grant, taking orders and money for hams, which he failed to deliver. Only by merest chance was he later apprehended in a distant city and brought back to answer for his peculations.

The safe way is to shun all peddlers, but if you must patronize them, make it a hard and fast rule to pay out no money until the goods are in your hands.

There is always room at the top; the elevator doesn't run that high.

Appropriations Are Reduced

FOR THE 1928 TOP O' MICHIGAN POTATO SHOW.

The Top O' Michigan Potato Show Association has actively begun their program for the 1928 Show. The officers met last week and prepared a letter to the County Supervisors, giving a summary of the activities and the budget for this year.

It should be of great interest to everyone in the Top O' Michigan to know that on account of a highly efficient organization, the Show each year has become bigger and better, and at the same time the budget for each county has been reduced.

This year, after the most successful Show ever held, the Show Ass'n has found it possible to reduce the county appropriation about 25%.

Kalamazoo County has asked for admission into the Top O' Michigan Potato Show Association, and were permitted a place contingent upon their appropriation.

That the Show is having a great influence on the quality of product can be seen by the showing at the State Potato Show held at East Lansing during Farmers Week at the Michigan State College. Top O' Michigan exhibitors won over 60 per cent of the premiums money at this Show.

Outside buyers are attracted to Top O' Michigan for their certified seed. Large amounts go to Pennsylvania and Ohio each year, and the market is expanding.

At the present time plans are being developed to entertain a large group of Pennsylvania farmers next summer. These Pennsylvania potato growers, who use a large amount of our seed, will be given a chance to see the potatoes growing in the field and to meet the grower himself.

The Top O' Michigan program is being realized. The best in potatoes is our goal.

BENJAMIN BROWN LEASES SALESROOM

Benjamin Brown of Charlevoix has opened a Dodge Brothers Auto Sales Room in East Jordan.

He has leased the auto sales room second door north of the Postoffice, belonging to L. W. LaLonde, and Mr. LaLonde will have charge of the Dodge Brothers sales interests in the region adjacent to East Jordan.

Kalamazoo—A short circuit in the electrical buffer he was using at the plant of the Limousine Body Co. proved fatal to Miles Keddall, 32 years old, whose home was near Jonia. The young man died at a hospital two hours after he was knocked unconscious while polishing an automobile body. The pulmotor squad of the fire department worked over him for nearly two hours.

Ann Arbor—The student automobile ban will be lifted during the spring vacation of the university. The ban will be off at 6 p. m. Friday, April 6, and will again be clamped down at 8 a. m. Monday, April 16. Students are to be warned against bringing their cars here before the close of school for vacations and against having them here on the day the ban again goes into effect.

Grand Rapids—Electric railway service on the Grand Rapids, Grand Haven & Muskegon Railway will be suspended April 3. The suspension order was granted by Judge Fred M. Raymond in U. S. District Court. The petition to close the road was filed in behalf of the Guaranty Trust Co., of New York, which acted to forestall accumulating losses. An automobile bus service along the line will be retained by the railway company.

Marshall—Miss Donna Millman, forward on Tekonsha high school girls' basketball team, scored 244 to 288 points made by the team this season. She scored 54, all the points in the game against Lake Odessa; 46 of 47 points in the contest against Athens, these 100 points being scored in two consecutive nights. The Tekonsha boys team won 23 of 35 games played. They scored 861 points to opponents' 388. Supt. L. H. Van Antwerp is coach of both teams.

Fordson—Prompt action on the part of Fordson firemen saved the life of W. J. Langton, when he was overcome by carbon monoxide gas after the doors of the garage at the rear of his home were blown shut by the wind as he was working on his car. An hour and a half after the doors closed he was found lying on the floor of the garage by relatives. Firemen were called and after working on him for an hour with an inhalator pronounced him out of danger.

BETTER CHICK CAMPAIGN PROGRESSING

The second meeting in the better chick campaign was held at the Cherryvale Hatchery, owned by Al Warda of East Jordan and was very well attended by the local leaders and others.

Mr. J. A. Hannah, Poultry Specialist of M. S. C. was present and gave valuable information concerning the subjects of brooding, feeding and diseases of baby chicks.

At a previous meeting Mr. Hannah discussed the subjects of housing and source of baby chick and as a result a very complete course is being made available for the poultry raisers of the county.

Any person wishing to enroll and get the benefit of these meetings should get in touch with any one of the local leaders, who are as follows: Al Warda, East Jordan; Archie Murphy, East Jordan; Mrs. Geo. W. Brown, East Jordan; Wm. Sanderson, East Jordan; A. J. Geary Boyne City; Roy Kane, Charlevoix; James Heeres, Charlevoix; and Charles Mascho, Charlevoix.

Each of these leaders will put on a meeting after each visit by Mr. Hannah and give the information received on to their community.

Elmer R. Taylor Dies At Big Rapids

Elmer Roy Taylor passed away at the Big Rapids Community Hospital, Saturday, March 31st, from an acute form of Bright's disease.

Mr. Taylor was born in Wayne County, Michigan, March 16, 1879, his parents being George and Rhoda Taylor. When a child, he came with his parents to Antrim County, locating in Banks Township. For the past 16 years he owned and operated a farm in Echo township. At the time of his death he was working in an electrical shop at Big Rapids, perfecting a synchronizing machine for producing speech with motion pictures, which he had recently patented.

On January 14th, 1906, he was united in marriage to Ruth Hawley of Echo Township.

Deceased is survived by the wife, who is teaching the Walker school in Eveline township; a daughter, Ellen Taylor, teaching at the Advance school; and a son, Lloyd Taylor, attending the Ferris Institute at Big Rapids. He is also survived by his mother, Mrs. Rhoda White of Ellsworth, Iowa; two brothers, Harry of Ellsworth and Forrest of Masonville, Iowa; two sisters, Nellie Brooks of Belding and Myrtle Fales of Ellsworth.

Short funeral services were held from the Undertaking parlors at Big Rapids Sunday afternoon, and the remains then taken to Ellsworth where funeral services were held from the M. E. Church, conducted by Rev. Conklin. Interment at the Moorehouse cemetery in Echo township.

Owosso—Investigating rumors that Mrs. John Florinka, of Corunna, had sold her two daughters, Mary, 19 years old, and Helen, 16, in marriage to Nazep Bazy and his cousin, Said A. Bazy, of Detroit, for $400, Sheriff George Lawcock was told by the mother that she was getting the money, but denied she was selling the girls. She said the prospective groom was simply helping her pay the expense of bringing the two girls from Rumania a few months ago. The weddings will take place after Easter.

Grand Rapids—Central Michigan cities and villages are soliciting the support of the Kent county road commission in efforts to induce the state highway department to approve their respective selections of an east and west highway stretching from Saginaw to Muskegon. The Trufant chamber of commerce wants the route to go by way of Stanton, Ithaca, and Sandlake, following the Montcalm-Kent county line. Greenville and Carson City are promoting another route, while a third is sought by the Lakeview business men.

Muskegon—Officials have not yet come to any agreement as to disposal of 10,000,000 feet of natural gas, now flowing from two wells in the Muskegon oil field. The first came in a few weeks ago in the Lima No. 1 well, and the second only recently in the Dixie Oil company's No. 1, each being gauged at 5,000 cubic feet per day. Several interests have been negotiating for the gas, but unsuccessfully thus far. Muskegon at present uses only 1,000,000 feet per day. Grand Rapids, 33 miles away, may contract for some of the gas.

Bogus Earl Again Arrested

CANADIAN OFFICIALS HAVE OUR "EARL OF DUNBLANE."

The following article taken from the Detroit Times of Tuesday, April 3rd, is of more than passing interest to his "investors" of East Jordan and Charlevoix County. After a costly trial in this County, Grieg was convicted, but served only part of his sentence, being released by the "pardon board."

"Alfred John Walker Greig, 53, known as the "Earl of Dunblane," is in custody in Toronto today in connection with charges of fraud in the sale of stocks and bonds.

"Grieg, whose stock promotions in Michigan brought him into the limelight six years ago, was arrested yesterday as he stepped off the ferry from Detroit, at Windsor, with his two sons, Alfred Law Greig, 33, and Alexander Greig, 30. The sons also were held in connection with the alleged fraud.

"The 'earl' was found guilty in November, 1926, of swindling a widow out of $800, and was sentenced by the Circuit Court at Charlevoix to serve 2 1/2 to 5 years in Michigan State Prison at Jackson.

"While he was tried only on the charge brought by the widow, a resident of Charlevoix, the prosecution estimated he obtained more than $90,000 from upstate farmers and some Detroiters. Greig had been manager of the Title Guarantee & Trust Company, having headquarters in Detroit.

"The 'earl' it developed during the trial at Charlevoix, had two wives. The first wife was known as the "Countess of Dunblane," and lived with a son and her mother at Cheboygan, Mich.

"She was a Chicago girl whom he wed in 1919. Wife No. 1, meantime, was living in Toronto. She is mother of the two boys who were arrested with Greig. The charges which Greig faces in Toronto were pending against him when he was tried in Charlevoix."

The Story of Advertising Usually a Story of Success

Pillsbury flour is said to be the best advertised article in the world, with the ad. man drawing a salary larger than that of the President of the United States.

Washburn-Crosby, which "eventually" follows closely, and Wrigley's "cud" is a good third.

Henry Ford, although the best known man in the world, leads all auto-companies in the amount of money put into printers' ink and can be relied upon to keep eternally at it.

A good story is told of the owners of Quaker Oats. They figured they had touched the peak. Their food had become so popular it was a waste of money to longer fatten the newspaper purse. What happened? The business shrunk until they were on the verge of bankruptcy and they are hustling to get back into the limelight.

Publicity experts have by careful investigation, reached the conclusion that of all systems devised by the brains of man, newspapers get the best results. As a result, the big ad. men of today are using pages where heretofore they used columns.

Recently Donaldson's and Dayton's of Minneapolis, each carried from six to ten pages a day in the papers of that city. The cost daily must have passed the ten thousand dollar point. Strange that country merchants don't catch the idea. Money spent in advertising, is not bread cast upon the water. It is the only key to commercial supremacy.—Fairmont (Minnesota) Sentinel.

Springtime and Health

The arrival of Spring has been officially declared. It is the season of rejuvenation; the period of the year when animate and inanimate things take on new lease of life, a season when nature heals all wounds and prepares for another harvest.

In the midst of this new life stalks the giant specter tuberculosis, claiming its victims literally by the thousands. Much of this enormous waste of human life is unnecessary, much of it is due to neglect. It is time we awoke from our lethargy and waged unrelenting warfare upon this scourge of man.

Insist on having a health examination, insist that members of your family have a health check-up. The physicians of Michigan are prepared to assist in this great campaign of eradication. Visit your doctor today and let him decide.

Farmers Guest of Business Men

MATTER OF CONSOLIDATING SCHOOLS HEREBY DISCUSSED.

In spite of many roads being impassable, 84 farmers and business men sat down to a chicken dinner at the New Russell last Wednesday. Some 35 of the above were farmers, who deserve a lot of credit for coming out in view of the condition of the roads. The business men's invitation was a fine idea, and it seemed to be a mutual pleasure, to both farmer and business man.

One of the topics of discussion was school consolidation. One of the most modern and at the same time vital questions confronting the rural districts at the present time. The business men of East Jordan as well as the farmers were looking for facts and information on this question and they got it from one of Northern Michigan's most successful business men, Mr. Herman Myers of Boyne Falls, as well as Supt. Kitson. Mr. Myers had first hand information on the consolidation project, in as much as he was the leading factor in putting across the idea in the Boyne Valley. He also knows how it has worked and what the country people think of it after nearly eight years trial. He said everyone is satisfied and they would not go back to the old method at all. When they consolidated the five districts, Boyne Falls had $49 school tax on a $1,000 valuation, one district $36, one $33, another $28, and the last one $9.50, when they combined they immediately cut their school tax to $25, built a new school, bought busses, hired better teachers, put in Home Economics, Agriculture, etc., and now they pay $20 taxes and are only $6,000 in debt and that in spite of the fact valuation and population are less. Surely a good argument for consolidation. Space and time will not allow more details. $400 is allowed by the State for each bus, and $60 to $90 a month is paid the nine bus drivers, who are farmers.

The above is information we were all looking for, as the matter has been seriously discussed in this neighborhood and may take definite form in the near future. Considering the fact that both the City and School District of East Jordan are out of debt, against $49 taxes in Boyne Falls at the time of consolidation, should make it a much easier matter here as Mr. Meyers said.

Prof. Willard followed Mr. Meyer and gave a very fine address on the present and future prospects of the farmer. His speech made a hit and gave encouragement to the farmers. Altogether it was a very profitable meeting. As stated before the farmers have as much right and are just as welcome to belong to the Business Men's Club as anyone, and certainly everyone living in East Jordan has a standing invitation to belong. The Club appreciated the presence of Messrs Meyer and Kitson, as well as Prof. Willard.

The Sunfield Sentinel warns against the practice of letting strange photographers take interior views of business places. The Sentinel's contention is based on an incident that happened in that village several years ago, when two strangers appeared in town and among the interiors photographed was that of the local bank. Shortly after their visit evidence was discovered that an attempt to rob the bank had been made, but was unsuccessful because arrangements of the bank had been changed in the meantime. That same night the bank at Mulliken was robbed. Pictures of interiors permit those on robbery bent to study the inside arrangements at their leisure and lay out a careful campaign in advance.

HOMESICK

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

I THOUGHT that homesick meant to be Away from home, across the sea, Or way off on a railroad train To Manitoba or to Maine. I thought that homesick was to leave The place you live, and grieve and grieve. I thought you really had to roam, That homesick meant away from home.

But here I am, in my own bed, My own chintz curtains overhead, My own bright carpet on the floor, My own red rocker by the door, Outside I see the same green grass, Outside I see the neighbors pass, And yet I'm just the loneliest That anybody ever guessed.

You see, Aunt Molly's taken worse, And so they left me with a nurse, And kissed me twice, and said by good, Hurried as fast as people could, When some one brought a telegram, And they're away, and here I am, And her hat's gone, and so is his, And now I know what homesick is.

For homesick isn't being far, Across the sea, like some folks are; It isn't when you're East or West, You really get the homesickest, It's when you're home, but home like this.

And—well, when lots of things you miss; It's when you're home, like me today, And Mother and Father miles away (© 1928, Douglas Malloch.)

THE WHY of SUPERSTITIONS

By H. IRVING KING

SCARING SCREECH-OWLS

EVERYBODY knows, of course that to hear a screech-owl sound in his melancholy note in the darkness of the night is a bad omen. It portends misfortune at least—some people say death in the family. It is an idea of primitive man, exists today among all savage peoples who know the owl or its congeners and lingers in the superstitions of civilized races. But as every sane is said to have its antidote the evil effects of the owl's hooting may be warded off if you only use the right magic.

The directions for counteracting the evil omen of the hooting owl differ in different parts of the country; but they all appear to have as a basis the idea of reversal which the ancients freely incorporated in their magic for misdeeds. One way is to take off your shoe and turn it upside down. Then the owl will flee away and no harm will ensue. In one section they say that taking off some article of clothing, like your coat, for instance, and putting it on again "wrong side out" will have the same effect. And in another you are advised to turn your pockets "wring side out."

The idea is this: The hooting of the owl would, in the natural course of things, produce misfortune. It is natural to wear your coat "right side out" and your shoe, of course, must be worn with the sole down. Now, reverse this natural order. Turn the shoe sole up, the coat wrong side out, and arrange the pockets in the reverse position from the natural one. This sets up a counter current as it were—the natural course of things is reversed and, by sympathy, there is reversed, also, the ordinary effects of the owl's hooting.

This idea of reversal in primitive magic is manifested in various superstitions of long descent. It was this idea which caused witches to work baleful spells by repeating the Lord's Prayer backwards.

Magpies Often Arrant Rogues

Diet Includes Great Number of Injurious Insects Like Grasshoppers.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Magpies, found over much of the northwest quarter of the United States, have a bad reputation among farmers, fruit growers, poultry keepers, and stockmen. Unlike many birds with unjustly bad reputations, the magpie deserves some condemnation. At times it becomes a serious pest, and in such cases shooting or poisoning may be the only remedy. The magpie has no particular aversion to the bitter taste of strychnine, so for bait this poison is recommended by the biological survey of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Magpies Steal Eggs.

Magpies have been known to steal eggs from chicken yards to carry to their young. They sometimes kill chicks. They also show great partiality to cherry orchards. Perhaps their worst offense is harrying weak or wounded animals, and even occasionally sound and healthy creatures. The magpie attack is torturesome. A magpie has been known to keep pecking and enlarging a wound of an animal, finally resulting in death of the animal after days of suffering.

On the other hand, the magpie often is beneficial. Its diet includes a great number of injurious insects, in particular grasshoppers and caterpillars in the spring and grasshoppers later in the summer and autumn. The grain the magpie eats is largely waste in the fields, for the bird prefers insects both at planting time and during the harvest season. For these reasons magpies are useful and should be protected wherever the evil they do does not overbalance their good services.

Not Hard to Eradicate.

Whenever it is desirable to eradicate magpies the task is not difficult, for the magpie is a year-round resident, and its elimination in a neighborhood where it is a pest does not cause a diminution of numbers in areas where conditions make the magpie a good servant to the farmer.

"B. W. D." Germ Menace to Poultry Industry

Bacillary white diarrhea is a poultry disease which constitutes a menace in every state, in some the most serious confronting the industry. It attacks poultry of all ages and, apparently, is transmitted from hen to egg and chick, from hen to hen (through eating raw eggs), and from chick to chick in the incubator and brooder.

The agglutination test is the best known to science for locating the disease in live poultry, and while it is not perfect, it may be nearly so in the hands of reliable veterinarians.

State regulatory methods are drastic, but seemingly a great aid in eliminating the disease.

"B. W. D." is an economic problem for practical poultrymen, as losses in chicks, laying pullets and hatchability of eggs all have bearing on success or failure of the poultry community.

Raising Broilers Part of Work of Poultryman

Raising broilers is a part of the work of every poultryman, whether undertaken as a necessary part of keeping up the supply of pullets or as a specialty. The New York state college of agriculture, at Ithaca, has issued a leaflet of interest in this connection with the title "Cost of Raising Broilers from Eight to Sixteen Weeks of Age and Their Market Value." Light and heavy breeds are both considered. Tables of weights, costs, market values and net returns at the various ages are given. One conclusion of the studies is that there is considerable doubt as to there being any profit in broiler raising as a separate enterprise and that, where broilers are to be sold as part of necessary methods of renewing the flock, they are most profitably disposed of at from ten to fourteen weeks of age, depending upon when they are hatched and how fast they grow.

Agricultural Squibs

The best time to hatch chicks is when grass first begins to show green in the spring.

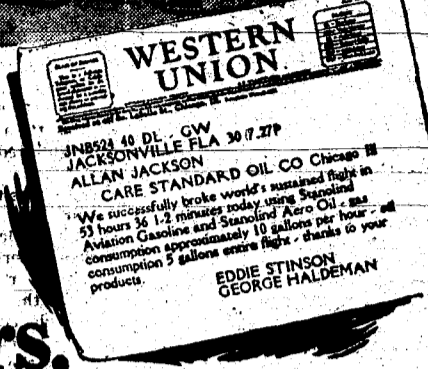

Horshoes set on end in the concrete make convenient handles for septic tank covers.

Rhode Island Greening is the one apple for which there is a steady demand throughout its entire season.

As a forest tree, beech is one of the "weed species," for it grows slowly, has dense shade, and crowds out other trees.

Leghorn pullets hatched early in March will usually begin to lay in late August and are likely to molt early the following winter.

Overcrowding hens in the poultry house will decrease the "egg money." At least three to four square feet of floor space should be allowed for each bird.

Parasites Kill
Much Live Stock
Deserve More Attention and More Money for Their Investigation.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
Ten per cent of all the newly born calves, pigs, lambs, colts, and chicks, as well as other representatives of the domestic animal family, die each year as a result of the work of parasites, according to Dr. M. C. Hall, chief parasitologist of the United States Department of Agriculture. Losses from parasites, he says, run into hundreds of millions of dollars annually.
Parasites Are Increasing.
Our live stock, from horses and cows to chickens and pigeons, is attacked internally and externally by parasites representing hundreds of species, the horse alone having about 250 such enemies listed. The evidence indicates, says Doctor Hall, that for the most part these parasites are increasing in numbers and importance and are extending their distribution in the United States. Several reasons for this increasing spread are cited by Doctor Hall, among which he emphasizes the change from range conditions to modern pasture practices thereby increasing the density of stocking. Modern transportation facilities also aid in the distribution of parasites over a wide range of country.
Economic Importance Not Recognized.
The co-operative efforts of the parasitologists, veterinarians, and stockmen are controlling or defeating a small number of parasite species, says Doctor Hall, but we are losing ground to all the others. The basic research on which control measures must be based has not even been attempted for most of these parasites.
The economic importance of animal parasites is not generally recognized, and for that reason too little attention has been given to their study.
From both the economic and scientific standpoint animal parasites are important and deserve more attention and more men and money for their investigation.

Skim Milk Unexcelled
as Protein Supplement

Skim milk is unexcelled as a protein supplement for swine, but in most sections of the East it is either impossible to get or prohibitive in price,
so in practically all rations fishmeal
or tankage are used to balance up the corn or other high carbohydrate feeds.
Tankage is a packing house by-product. It is made from fresh meat scraps, fat trimmings and scrap bones.
These are cooked under high steam pressure, and then dried and ground fine after being passed over steel magnets to remove any metallic material present. This product runs from 40 to 60 per cent protein and 1 to 10 per cent of fat. The variation in protein depends on the amount of bone present, and for this reason should always be bought on a guarantee of composition. It can be obtained from your feed dealer or from the packing company.
Fishmeal is a product which has become very popular in the East as protein supplement, and runs about the same as tankage in its composition.

Hens Appreciate Warm Water During Winter

Since eggs are made up largely of water, it pays to keep plenty of clean water before hens at all times, and experience has shown that the hens appreciate warm water, or at least water that is not ice cold.
Electric or kerosene heaters are used by some professional poultry men, and the thermos-bottle type of drinking fountain has found favor on many farms. Packing the water-pail with straw, newspapers or other material will do a fairly satisfactory job of keeping the water from getting too cold, in case other devices are not available. The bucket should be emptied and refilled with fresh, warm water each morning, noon and evening in cold weather. The extra work entailed by this chore is well paid for in the greater production of eggs.

Short Farm Notes

Sand or stones that have clay or dirt mixed with them will not make good concrete.
Two farm inventories, taken a year
apart, show whether a farm business is getting ahead and how much.
Concrete foundations provide rigid,
durable bases for gasoline engines
and other stationary farm machinery.
A concrete foundation wall eight to twelve inches thick is usually suitable for farm structures up to two stories in height.
When lights are used in the hen house, the flock must have more to eat. And be sure that water is ready for the hens when they come down off the roost.
Experiments at Michigan Agricultural college show that corn and barley have about equal feeding value for dairy cows and that one may be substituted for the other.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT
By F. A. WALKER

NAPOLÉON

NAPOLÉON is a man worth thinking about. What he said and wrote is worth thinking about. So for the most part we are letting this article be written by Napoleon.

On the morning of his death he said: "There is nothing terrible in death; he has been about my pillow for the last three weeks and now he is about to take me away forever."
There will come a time when all of us will think about death, and if Napoleon could think pleasantly in exile, we ought to be able to think pleasantly in freedom.

"Those should possess knowledge
who aspire to assume the command over others."
Napoleon believed in fate. He said:
"It is not written on high that I am to perish by the hands of the Arabs"
and he made his escape.

At another time he said to an officer: "My friend, if that ball were destined for you, it would be sure to find you, though you were to burrow
a hundred feet under ground."
But if Napoleon believed in fate, it never interfered with his belief that he could accomplish what he set out to do.

Of Lennes, who entered the army
as a volunteer, and died marshal of France, Napoleon said: "I found him a dwarf, and left him a giant."
Napoleon found himself a dwarf and made of himself the greatest military commander that ever lived, unless it be Julius Caesar.

"From the sublime to the ridiculous there is but a step." Of all the things which Napoleon said, he was fonder and proudest of this one sentence.
When Madame de Stael asked Napoleon whom he considered the greatest woman in the world, his reply was: "Her who has borne the most children." This ought to be satisfying to the American mothers of big families.

There is disagreement as to the last words that Napoleon uttered. According to one authority, his words constituted a broken sentence, "My God!
and the French nation
My son Head of the army
France! France!"
According to another authority the last word which he spoke was the name of Josephine.

The most eloquent thing ever said or written of Napoleon was Robert Ingersoll's description of the tomb of Napoleon under the dome of the Invalides in Paris. In the last paragraph of that magnificent, but brief description, Ingersoll said: "I would rather have been a French peasant and worn wooden shoes; I would rather have lived in a hut with a vine growing over the door, and the grapes growing purple in the amorous kisses of the autumn sun; I would rather have been that poor peasant,
with my wife by my side, knitting,
as the day died out of the sky, with my children upon my knees and their arms about me; I would rather have been this man and gone down to the tongueless silence of the dreamless dust than to have been that imperial impersonator of force and murder known as Napoleon the Great."

Valuable Fertilizer BETTER HEALTH—LONGER LIFE

"Nitrated peat" is the fertilizer produced by an Italian chemist from 23
positives containing ammonium-nitrate.
The explosive is placed in a measure amount of water, which dissolves on the nitrate, and after a short time is decanted as a saturated solution. This is mixed with peat powder and evaporated. The product contains about 41 per cent of ammonium nitrate, and has been shown to have fertilizing value nearly equal to that of sodium nitrate.

No man is entitled to credit for being good if he isn't tempted. Those who say that life is a burden always make others tired.

State News in Brief

Port Huron—Arthur, 10 months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Barth, died at the Port Huron City Hospital after swallowing a small safety pin.

Pontiac—Myrtle Anderson, 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Anderson, of Troy Township, was bitten on both hands recently by a dog which attacked her on the way to school. As the result of this accident, renewed efforts are being made to kill stray dogs. There is a dog quarantine in effect in the county.

Lansing—The total amount of money that can be levied in Michigan townships for both road repair and highway improvement is limited to one per cent of the assessed valuation of the taxable property of the township, according to an opinion by Attorney General Wilbur M. Brucecker given to Robert B. Savidge, prosecuting attorney at Reed City.

Ontonagon—E. H. Boyd, one of the large timber holders in the Upper Peninsula, has sent a complaint to the Department of Conservation that deer in the northern woods are being killed by wolves and coyotes. He urges the state to send someone to kill the wolves and coyotes, and says there seems to be a feeling in this vicinity that the bounty on those animals should be restored.

Menominee—Menominee will be the northern terminus of the air service proposed by the North American Airways Co., of Appleton, Wis., according to plans announced here after a conference of officials with Karl M. Haugene, president of the company. The company plans to operate airplanes between Menominee and Chicago with stops at Green Bay, Appleton, Fond du Lac and Milwaukee.

Iron Mountain—Burns received when her dress caught fire while she was standing with her back to the stove, proved fatal to Mrs. John Mahoney, 73 years old, who died in a hospital here 12 hours after the mishap. Mrs. Mahoney complained of the cold when she got up and went to the kitchen stove to get warm. A short time later her son, Walter, heard her screams and rushed into the kitchen to find his mother's clothing in flames.

Detroit—The state of Michigan has one man who earned a 1927 income in excess of $4,000,000; two who earned in excess of $3,000,000; three in excess of $2,000,000, and nine in excess of $1,000,000. Fred W. Woodworth, collector of internal revenue in Detroit, said recently: "We are required by law to treat in confidence the information supplied us voluntarily by taxpayers, and it is unfair to tell how much income any taxpayer has," Woodworth said.

Battle Creek—The Battle Creek airport will meet all requirements of the Postoffice Department in connection with Michigan's new air mail service which will start about June 1, Maj. J. A. Collins, of the United Airways Inc., told Chamber of Commerce officials after an inspection of the port recently. Connors added that if he is awarded the contract to carry the air mail, he also will operate a regular air passenger service between this city and Detroit.

Muskegon—Yellow gold is believed to have been found at a depth of about 750 feet in one of the oil wells now being drilled near Muskegon in the search for "black gold." A chunk of rock, which has been tested and found to contain gold at the rate of $2 a ton, was taken from the well in Muskegon Township. Further tests are being made by metallurgists, who said that $9 a ton is good "pay-off," depending on its accessibility and the nature of the rock in which it is imbedded.

Mt. Clemens—An army transport plane, sent from Fort Riley, Kansas, to Selfridge Field, and from here north to assist in carrying supplies to snow-bound villages, was wrecked at Oscoda, when a high wind tore it from its moorings and hurled it against a tree. According to reports received at Selfridge, the four wings of the huge craft were smashed and the tail section crushed. The transport did not reach the northern section of Michigan because of a burned out cylinder.

Battle Creek—The St. Philips Catholic Church, one of the most beautiful edifices in Battle Creek, was destroyed by fire recently with a loss which church officials said would be at least $250,000. The fire originated in the basement. Two firemen were overcome by smoke. The smoke was so dense in the structure that firemen were unable to reach the flames in the basement until it was too late to save the structure. When the fire had burned itself out only the charred walls were standing.

Summit City—Keith Chappel, 12 years old, narrowly escaped drowning in yard of his farm home when a raft, on which he was returning from the barn with his father and two other men, capsized in five feet of water that flooded the yard. The flood had struck the family to the second story of its home and it was necessary to build a raft to travel from the house to the barn. When the raft capsized the men were able to wade out, but had to drag the boy from the water. It required half an hour to revive him.

COURAGE

P. THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

"NOW be a brave boy," mother used to say to me when, in sending me to bed alone to the awful dark rooms above, she saw that my heart beat a little faster and that fear of something unexpected and unknown gripped me. "There's nothing up there to hurt you." And I went, not realizing that in going and facing the danger that I feared, I was not a coward, but that I had courage, for courage consists in facing danger or supposed danger that you fear. Aristotle, one of the wisest men in the world, has said so.

"Courage," he tells us, "is not fearlessness, but the recognition of danger and the power of self-control in spite of fear."

The man who faces danger without fear is not courageous; he is foolhardy; his judgment is faulty.

After the marines had made their courageous attack at Belleau woods I had a long letter from Martin telling me all about it, though I had before seen an account in the newspapers of what happened.

"If anyone who was in the awful carnage tells you that he had no fear," Martin wrote, "don't believe him, for he is either not human or a liar. Every man knew when he went into the attack that he faced death, or, if not death, a torn, mangled body to be carried through a life that might be worse than death." As for myself, I was white and trembling for a time, and then my heart began beating like a triplammer, but, terrified as we were, we went on, and you know the result.

Here was courage of the highest order—not fearlessness but the recognition of awful danger, and the power to go on and meet it.

There was a fire in one of the apartment houses in town not long ago. Three little children were alone in one of the rooms, helpless and stupefied by the smoke. Their case seemed hopeless when one of the young firemen forced his way through the flames and smoke and brought them out and down in safety. He realized his danger more even than the crowd did who stood at a safe distance and applauded his action. He had a family of his own at home, and he must have thought of his little boy and girl and the possibility of their being fatherless if he risked his life. Do you think he was not afraid? He could not have been otherwise; but he had courage in spite of fear.

Moral courage is not unlike physical. There is a gambling game going on in the dormitory in which Blake lives, with drinking and salacious talk.

"Come on, boy," one of the fellows says to Blake, "and sit in with us."

He will be laughed at if he says no, and Blake, like most young boys, is sensitive to ridicule. He fears the jibes and the jokes of his companions. They cut him like whiplashes, but he has the courage to say no, and it does take courage in such instances.

DIPPING INTO SCIENCE

Storms on the Sun
The flames of fire which shoot out from the surface of the sun are often ten times as long as the earth's diameter and scientists in their vigils have seen one flame which measured more than 33,000 miles and traveled at the rate of 3,000 miles a minute. These flames are seen only through a specially constructed instrument.

How Much to Keep Average Work Horse?

Feed Bill Was Largest Item in Recent Iowa Survey.

It cost $98.24 in 1926 to keep the average farm work horse when feed, labor in care, housing and interest on the investment were included. At least this was the average cost which a group of 22 Iowa county farmers found who kept complete cost accounts in co-operation with the agricultural economics department of Iowa state college and the United States Department of Agriculture.

The feed bill was the largest item, amounting to $59.61. Labor in caring for the horse was $15.58, the charge for the use of buildings was $8.18 and interest $8.91.

The cost of horse labor per hour varied of these 22 farms from 6.8 to 18 cents per hour and averaged 12 cents. In 1925 the average cost was 13.5 cents, or slightly higher. The reduction in 1926 was due to the farmers using their horses to better advantage. They secured 892 hours of labor per horse in 1926 as compared with 820 in 1925.

As in 1925, the farms with the lowest cost per hour of horse labor in 1926 used tractors as well as horses. That is, the use of a tractor on some of these farms increased the efficiency of the horses. Also, some of the farms with the lowest total cost of labor per acre of crops used a combination of horses and tractors.

The number of crop acres handled per horse varied from 13 to 39 on the 22 farms. The average was 23.2 or about two acres more per horse than were handled the previous year.

Growing Green Feed in Winter for Chickens

One of the surest and easiest ways of supplying green feed to poultry during the winter is to sprout oats, starting a new crop every week to insure a regular supply of the feed from time to time. The most convenient way is to sprout them in trays, but elaborate sprouters are not necessary.

An oat sprouter can be easily and quickly made and started within ten minutes by using old lard tubs or large wooden pails. Punch a hole in the tub or bore a hole in the bottom of the pail and make a plug for the hole so the tub or pail can be drained when necessary.

In starting the oats cover the bottom of the tub with a thin layer of dry oats and pour in enough lukewarm water to cover them to a depth of about two inches. This should be done in the morning, the water drained off at night and the wet oats poured into another pail. Then cover the oats with warm water and let them stand for five minutes and stir them while the water is being drained off. Keep the pail in a warm place. A wet cloth kept over the oats will keep them moist and within a week or less time the oats will be ready to feed. After the fifth day it is a good plan to place the oats in trays and keep them in the sun for two or three days so they will turn green.

Peach-Leaf Curl May Be Controlled by Spraying

During the past season, the peach-leaf curl was a problem of great concern. There is only one way to control it effectively. The only effective way to absolutely prevent peach curl is to spray in the early spring while the buds are dormant, or, better still, spray the trees in the fall. There is no use to spray after the curl shows up during the growing season. More fall spraying is the effective way for peach-leaf curl control and we have more time to do the work. Then again it is often a difficult problem to get the spraying done early enough in spring before the buds swell. The buds must be thoroughly covered with a strong fungicide such as bordeaux or lime-sulphur mixture, or one of the effective fungicidal sprays of which there are many sold commercially. The important thing is to get the work done in time to prevent the curl and while the buds are dormant either in fall or early spring.

Hints for the Farm

The tree that bears fruit is the one that is always clubbed—the barren one is never bothered.

According to federal reports, it costs milk dealers $30,000,000 a year to replace milk bottles lost or broken.

Since 1920 rural population in this country has decreased about 3,000,000, according to a recent government report.

In 1927 New York state was third in the United States in the production of potatoes. Minnesota was first and Maine second.

The dairyman who studies his own methods is more likely to succeed than one who waits for legislation or co-operation to save him.

Equally important, along with the proper egg-producing ration which is necessary, if your hens are to pay for themselves this winter, is a plentiful supply of water.
