'Band Bust' for Mt. Pleasant

AT AUDITORIUM NEXT MONDAY NIGHT, APRIL 30TH.

For the first time this year, the public will have a chance to hear the full High School Band, Monday night, April 30th. They will give a concert, using the music to be played at the Mt. Pleasant Tournament. The band will be in full uniform by Monday night for the first time. It will really be the official debut for the lady members of the band. With the high class music they have been asked to play, it should be an inspiring concert and altogether a wholesome entertainment for East Jordan people and vicinity.

Since the last band concert at East Lansing, the State Department of Public Instruction has taken charge of the band tournaments and instead of one large State Tournament at East Lansing, there will be five other music tournaments, including quartet work, glee clubs and choruses, orchestration work, and bands. These tournaments will be held at the following places: Central State Normal, Mt. Pleasant; Michigan State Normal, Ypsilanti; Western State Normal, Kalamazoo; Northern State Normal, Marquette, and Lapeer. The rules and regulations of future band tournaments have been printed by the State Department and require the same rules as in athletics—Basketball for instance. They must win at a district tournament in order to be qualified to play at East Lansing. The band has two-thirds enough money to make the trip to Mt. Pleasant in their own treasury and the idea of the concert Monday night which, at a University College would be called a "Band Bust" is to charge 15c and 25c, and they are asking anyone who can, and has the band at heart to not only pay a quarter, but fifty cents or a dollar, if possible, so that the band can get the other third necessary to have their expenses completely paid to Mt. Pleasant. Any citizens who think they can make the drive to Mt. Pleasant, kindly notify John Ter Wee or call Superintendent Duncanson. It is hoped to be able to pay at least the expenses to anyone who cures to make the trip, which by the way of Gaylord and M-14 is about 148 miles—not more than a five hour drive. Since most of central Michigan, including the people from Bay City, Saginaw, Flint, Midland, Alma and St. Johns and other towns will be represented, nothing would do more to advertise East Jordan than to have the band in this tournament and even in the Lansing tournament if the results at Mt. Pleasant are favorable, so let's get together and see that the band is able to make the trip.

HUMAN INTEREST AND FINE STORY

"High School Hero" a Fast Moving Comedy Drama of the Modern American Youth.

Not in many a day has a photoplay contained more real human interest and comedy than Fox Films "High School Hero," which will be presented by the High School Seniors at the Temple Theatre next Wednesday and Thursday, May 2nd and 3rd.

This picture is a fast moving comedy drama of the modern American youth. It shows this great American Institution, the high school, as it is, full of clean life and fun. It revolves around the story of two boys who are rivals for the same girl and all of the intricacies involved in trying to win the girl.

Sally Phipps gives a spirited performance as the flapper and Nick Stuart and John Darrow give interesting portrayals as the rival boy friends. David Rollins is very convincing as the bashful scholar. The cast includes Charles Padock, Brandon Hurst, Wade Boteler, William N. Bailey and the well known canine actor, Pal.

Guernsey Breeders to Organize

MEETING AT EAST JORDAN NEXT TUESDAY.

All Guernsey dairymen of the County are cordially invited and urged to attend a big meeting at East Jordan in the K. P. Hall on Tuesday afternoon, May 1st, at 2:00 o'clock fast time.

W. D. Buntington, State Guernsey Fieldman, will be present and have a message of real interest for all Guernsey breeders. Plans are being made to organize a Guernsey Breed Ass'n at this meeting, as such an organization will assist materially in advancing the numbers and quality of Guernseys being developed in this section. If you own Guernseys or are interested in developing a herd by all means attend this important meeting on May 1st at East Jordan in the K. P. Hall in the afternoon.

Trout License For Fishermen

NEW LAW EFFECTIVE THIS YEAR—COSTS DOLLAR FOR TROUT ONLY.

With May 1st but a few days away there are seen on the streets many anxious literally itching to get the waders and do "Their Stuff."

One thing to be remembered by all trout fishermen this year is the new trout law which requires all male fishermen 21 years of age or over to purchase a license to catch the speckled beauties. Women of any age, men who are under 21, need not have a license. The license for non-resident anglers remains the same as it was last year. Other points in the trout law are that the captured fish must be at least seven inches long; only fifteen may be taken in one day; and not more than twenty-five in possession at any one time. Persons who do not fish for trout, but fish for perch, jike, bass, etc., are not required to have an anglers license.

Streams High. Many of the more ardent followers of the sport have been to their favorite streams and report that if the present weather conditions prevail and providing that there are but few heavy rains, the fishing on May first this year will be fine. Almanacs and fishermen's calendars give splendid indications that the fishing will be nearly at its best for the first day of the season.

Such streams as the Black, Sturgeon, Pigeon, Maple, Jordan are reported as having plenty of water in them. It is the hope of East Jordan Waltonites that the streams will get down to their normal size by the opening date of the season.

The young people of Boyne River Grange next put on the play—"My Awful Aunt." Everyone commented on how well each one rendered their parts, also the songs how appropriate. It was decided at this meeting, that as the Grange had been instrumental in getting the R. F. D., it would be the Grange which would work out the proper relief for farmers, not Congress.

The fifth degree team next took charge and initiated 22 candidates.

Grange closed, the Chaplain invoking divine blessing. Everyone went home satisfied that the meeting was a great success, and that Boyne River deserved credit for the very efficient manner in which they entertained.

The next Pomona will be held with Deer Lake Grange on June 9th.

Shall We Have A Consolidated Public School

WOULD BE ADVANTAGEOUS TO RURAL DISTRICTS ADJACENT TO EAST JORDAN.

The question of consolidation for a number of rural schools with East Jordan District No. 4, has been discussed for some time but definite information from the State Department arrived just this week. Perhaps it is best to quote G. N. Otwell's verbatim. George N. Otwell is assistant Superintendent of Public Instruction and is in charge of the "DIVISION OF RURAL EDUCATION," so that the information is authentic. Sometimes people talk of consolidation but seem to think it is just a matter of reaching out and taking in a few extra schools, but this is not the case.

Lansing, Mich., March 20, 1928
Mr. A. J. Duncanson,
Superintendent of Schools,
East Jordan, Michigan.

Dear Mr. Duncanson:—
Your letter of the 16th addressed to Superintendent Pearce has been referred to me. You state that the consolidation of some twelve or fifteen county school districts with East Jordan is being discussed. You ask for information concerning procedure, etc.

The only type of consolidated school which is entitled to any special State aid, either for maintenance or for transportation, is the consolidated school organized and maintained as a rural agricultural school district. Three or more rural school districts may organize as a rural agricultural school district, and, if certain requirements are met as to course of study, qualifications of vocational teachers, and equipment, such rural agricultural school is entitled to one thousand dollars per year toward maintenance and four hundred dollars per year for each vehicle used for the transportation of children.

A rural school, as used in this particular act, is defined by the act itself as any primary or graded school district that does not maintain within its limits an incorporated village or city having a population exceeding two thousand. As the East Jordan school district is an incorporated city having a population exceeding two thousand, that district could not be a part of a rural agricultural school which would share in this special State aid.

There is a provision in the same act that rural schools adjacent to any city or village having a population of more than two thousand may consolidate by a petition signed by a majority of the legal school electors under the provisions of this chapter with such city or village and such consolidated school resulting therefrom shall be governed by the provisions of the rural agricultural school act, including the transportation of pupils and the teaching of agriculture, manual training, and home economics, but it shall not be entitled to the State aid.

It occurs to me that, since a consolidated school of which your district is a part can not share in the special State aid, you might not be further interested in organizing such a consolidated school. If, however, you and the surrounding districts wish to organize and maintain a consolidated school without the special State aid, we shall be glad to send you details for procedure. I suggest that you read Chapter 5 of Part I of the 1927 school laws.

Yours very truly,
G. N. OTWELL.

The law referred to in Chapter 5, part one, of the 1927 school laws is quoted in the second paragraph of the above letter.

In a later letter Mr. Otwell states that since East Jordan is an incorporated city of over two thousand people it could not share in the State aid for transportation and maintenance. He goes on again in the last paragraph to say, "It occurs to me that the special State aid might be the one provision of law that would make consolidation attractive to your district and to the adjoining districts, and that you and they might not be interested in consolidation after you know the legal restrictions just mentioned. Should you be interested in organizing a consolidated school that could not share in special State aid, please write us and we will go into detail as to procedure." This has already been done by telephone.

To quote again, Superintendent of Public Instruction Webster H. Pearce made the remark—"Got your nerve haven't you?" The writer said, "Do you think so?" He said, "I think so unless there are local conditions of which I am not aware. Alright I will put you on Otwell's line." Otwell immediately stated "that there was not a single condition anywhere else in Michigan similar to it; that he would get a ruling from the Attorney General at once." This the school authorities are waiting for at present. The above letters have been quoted with the idea that all interested par-

Harbor Gets Daily Service

M. P. U. C. ORDERS PENN. R. R. TO RESTORE DAILY TRAIN.

Confirming the report received at Harbor Springs, the Pennsylvania Railroad has been directed to restore the daily train service between Petoskey and Harbor Springs, the order of the Public Utilities Commission becoming effective Monday April 23.

Elmer J. Hanna and George A. Newark represented Harbor Springs at the hearing, which was held at Lansing in the chambers of the State Commission.

Starting Monday a train will leave Petoskey at 7:00 a. m., arriving at Harbor Springs at 7:30. A twenty minute layover starts the return trip at 7:50 a. m., arriving here at 8:20 a. m. There will be no Sunday trains. During the winter the Pennsylvania changed their schedule from a six day a week schedule to bi-weekly service, which was contested before the Utilities Commission, Messrs Newark and Hanna winning out in their contention that Harbor was entitled to six day service each week. They were backed by the Harbor Springs Chamber of Commerce and a substantial number of the residents of that place.—Petoskey News.

ties would see the situation exactly as it is. It is the purpose of the East Jordan School Board and District to have the facts presented to all the Rural Districts interested in the question of consolidation with the local schools. You can easily conclude from the above letters that it isn't certain that it is any great advantage to the East Jordan people to consolidate with the rural schools—some would question it. On the other hand the situation in East Jordan is such that it would be an advantage, and a very great advantage to any rural district to consolidate with the local schools. The situation is ideal for consolidation or it would not pay East Jordan to take in any additional districts. It is only because they have good buildings, a first class school, the only vocational agricultural school in the County, and buildings all paid for, and would not have to build that it is possible for East Jordan to make any such proposition. In any other place where consolidation has taken place the very first thing they have had to do in nearly all cases was the erecting of a new building which usually costs all the way from twenty-five to one hundred fifty thousand dollars.

Further facts in regard to the local situation will likely appear in the next issue of the Herald. In the mean time, all districts interested should take steps to look the matter up carefully and to arrange for a meeting where the matter can be discussed in the very near future. Anyone desiring further information can call Dr. C. H. Pray, Secretary of the School Board, or Supt. A. J. Duncanson, in regard to speakers from the State Department, or any other matter connected with the East Jordan Public Schools.

A. J. DUNCANSON,
Supt. of East Jordan Schools.

On Nov. 5th, 1876, she was united in marriage to Jerome D. Hill. They resided in South Arm, at Paw Paw, and near Bellaire, at various times, moving to Royal Oak in 1925. Mr. Hill died at that place Nov. 10, 1927. Pola Negri

Pola Negri is here shown in her latest portrait. Pola's real name was Apollonia Chalupcz. She was born in Lipnau, Poland. She attended school until she was sixteen, when she went to Warsaw and entered a dramatic school, completing a three-year course in one year. She wrote and directed and starred in her first picture—"Love and Passion."

Uncommon Sense

By John Blake

AIMING AT A TARGET

IT HAS always seemed strange to me that men allow themselves to be drawn into contests in which they haven't a chance of winning.

A couple of centuries ago prominent citizens who knew nothing of duelling were always getting themselves killed in duels. A man who knew nothing of fencing would allow himself to be drawn into an affair in which rapiers were the only weapons. A fellow who had never fired a gun in his life would consent to "shoot it out" with a crack shot.

Of course, the expert fencer and the crack shot always talked quite loudly of honor and made the amateurs think that they would be cowards if they didn't fight according to professional rules.

The victims apparently never stopped to think that instead of turning out at daybreak with cutlasses and flintlocks they might punch their enemies on the nose with equal honor to themselves and a much greater possibility of success.

Far from it. They always went nobly to the slaughter. And their honorable opponents seldom hesitated to accommodate them.

Duelling, fortunately, is today almost a lost art. Pistocuffing is more general and considerably less harmful.

Yet men and women still let themselves in for contests in which their chances of success are negligible.

College students weighing 120 pounds are seen trying for the varsity football team. They may excel their big associates forty ways as scholars, debaters or glee-club artists. Yet they forget all about their superiority and try to vie in roughness with 200 pounders. And they are seldom successful.

In this case the "old college spirit" replaces honor as a war cry.

Here is a man who is a good teacher. He sees an advertisement promising him rich rewards if he will turn salesman. Of a retiring disposition, the vocation of salesman does not appeal to him, but he sees an opportunity to make money. He becomes a poor salesman, earning more than a teacher, perhaps, but utterly unable to compete with the fellows who really like their jobs. And his former deep content and satisfaction in his work is gone.

Another man is a good mechanic. Forgetting that nearly all work is dignified, he wants a white-collar job and becomes a clerk. He is a poor clerk and will probably always be a clerk, for his talents do not lie in that direction.

The woman who gives up a happy home for a career has been described often enough. Her actions are, of course, her own business, but unless she has a real ability in the vocation she takes up she will probably make the sad discovery that she has made a mistake. The world is full of mediocre dabblers.

If you excel at any one thing you will probably be happier and more successful if you stick to it than if you enter a contest in which your opponents are more skillful than you are.

Leaves Nothing to Burn

For checking a forest fire a powerful tractor-drawn plow has been invented that can be pulled across its path, uprooting all vegetation and leaving a fireproof swath.

Flu Prevented by Good Houses

Proper Hygienic Measures Are Important in Treating Disease.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Every year for the last decade numerous outbreaks of hog flu, or infectious bronchitis, have been reported among hogs, especially in the Middle West. Outbreaks commonly begin late when the weather becomes cold and stormy. Exposure is a contributing cause and hogs affected with the flu sometimes die through the development of pneumonia.

Symptoms Resemble Cold

In response to requests for aid in combating these conditions veterinarians of the bureau of animal industry, United States Department of Agriculture, point out that hog flu resembles in its symptoms what is known among people as colds. The application of proper hygienic measures is the most important procedure in treating the disease. Hogs that are provided with clean, dry, well ventilated quarters, free from drafts and dust, usually recover promptly. Plenty of dry bedding, a reduced ration of easily digested feed, and a constant supply of good drinking water are likewise beneficial in hastening recovery. Prostrated herds with all the symptoms of flu sometimes recover in a few days when housing conditions have been made favorable.

Value of Aggressin Treatment

Commenting on reports that some veterinary practitioners have found the aggressin treatment effective in combating hog flu, department veterinarians say the value of the aggressin treatment for this disease is not yet positively established. An aggressin is a substance produced by the growth of a micro-organism and aids the organism in invading tissues. Scientifically, an aggressin should be administered before the attack of a disease, to fortify the threatened animals against the disease produced by the type of organism from which the aggressin was prepared. In the case of hog flu the causative organism has not been determined.

It appears that the aggressin which certain practitioners have used in treating hogs affected with flu is not a true flu aggressin, but is the aggressin used for immunizing hogs against hemorrhagic septicemia. Improvement noted in the condition of herds so treated may have been due to better care of the herds under treatment rather than to the treatment itself. Until the value of the aggressin treatment for this disease is more definitely established, hog owners are reminded that proper housing and care of their herds, especially during cold, stormy weather, is known to be a dependable, practical treatment. The use of an aggressin in the treatment of hog flu is considered still in the trial stage.

Securing Good Stand of Beans in Field of Corn

It is true that when a good stand of soy beans is secured in a field of corn—somewhat less corn is produced, but the beans more than make up for the diminished corn yield and the mixture is more profitable than corn alone. Plant about three beans per hill of corn and put them in with a bean attachment to the corn planter. That is the only way to get an even stand. One can mix the beans with the corn in the planter box, but the beans soon work to the bottom of the box and the result is an unsatisfactory stand of both corn and of beans.

The Manchu variety is preferred by many farmers for hogging down. Another good variety for this purpose is the Early Medium Yellow. The Black Eyebrow and the Ito San are liked very well in some sections.

Ready-Mixed Feeds Are Not Always Economical

A good many dairymen, and some poultrymen, have the idea that they can mix their own feeds more economically than they can get the same ration already prepared.

The experience of some large producers, as well as the investigations made by specialists, seem to indicate that the prepared feeds are just about as cheap—sometimes cheaper—and that if you get good feed your ration is more apt to be properly balanced than if you do your own mixing.

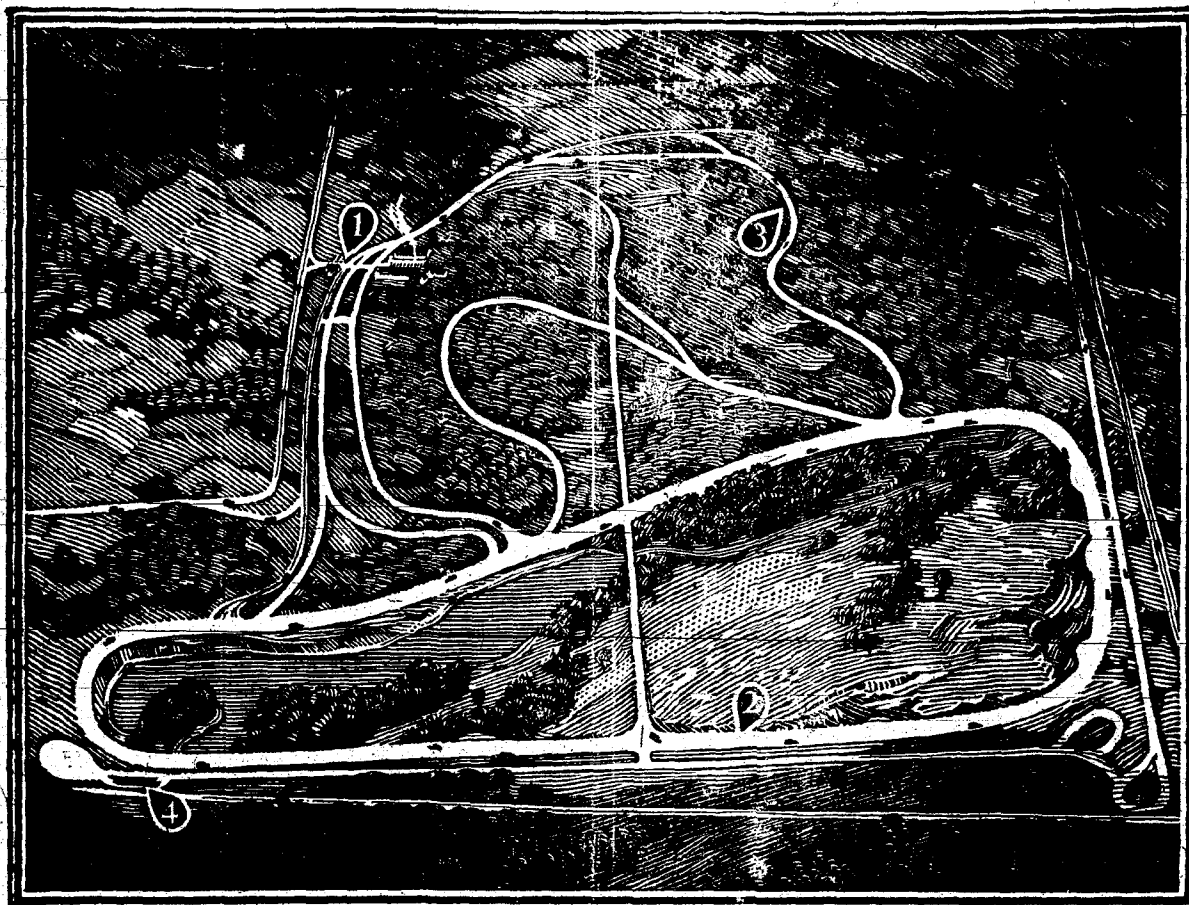

New York Agricultural college station reports that a few years ago only about three manufacturers were adding mineral supplements to their prepared feed, while now at least 50 per cent of the dairy feeds contained necessary mineral ingredients.

Thoroughly Sharpened Disk Most Satisfactory

If you do considerable work with your disk, it will probably pay you to get a simple disk sharpener, of which there are several types on the market. Most of these are so designed as to grind down the edge of the disks to a good cutting edge, and every one knows that when a disk is in good sharp condition it will do work just about twice as satisfactorily as one that has had its edges dulled.

A disk should be thoroughly sharpened at least once every season. The farmer who makes a systematic arrangement to do this every year will soon have a reputation for getting his soil in due tith with the least trouble.

This is General Motors Proving Ground

A birds-eye view of the 1245-acre Proving Ground maintained by General Motors to assure the quality and value of its cars and trucks.

1. Entrance to the Proving Ground. The group of buildings includes complete experimental and service shops, engineering offices and comfortable living quarters for resident and visiting engineers and for the driving crews. The Proving Ground personnel numbers more than 200 men.
2. The 4-mile high-speed loop. The largest in America, made of concrete, with turns banked to permit continuous high-speed operation. In addition, the Proving Ground has two concrete straight-aways 1 1/2 miles long, as level as a billiard table, and miles of brick, tar, gravel and dirt roads which reproduce every driving and weather condition.
3. The hill-test road. Test hill grades at the Proving Ground range from 7 1/2 per cent to 24 per cent. The grades on public highways seldom exceed 7 per cent.
4. The "bath-tub." A depressed concrete roadway which is filled with water at varying depths to reproduce flooded roadway conditions.

Here each General Motors car must prove its value

ON a 1245-acre tract near Milford, Michigan, convenient to all its car and truck divisions, General Motors has the first and largest proving ground for automobiles.

Here tests are made and facts determined to a degree impossible when cars and trucks are tested on the public highways. Here each new model of General Motors must prove itself, point by point, before it is produced for sale to the public.

More than 135 different tests are applied to each car tested at the Proving Ground.

They involve every phase of construction and performance: power, speed, endurance, acceleration, braking, steering, handling, riding comfort, fuel economy and so on. In three months a car or truck covers more miles than you would drive it in three years.

The Proving Ground is another example of how General Motors is serving the public. It is also your assurance that when you buy a General Motors product you are getting all possible quality and value at its price and the advantages of a policy of continuous improvement.

Look at these values—then clip the coupon

The current models of General Motors cars are briefly described below. Never before in the history of the automobile industry have such performance, such quality, such comfort and such beauty been offered in their respective price classes. They have been proved at the Proving Ground!

See which car or cars interest you most, then check and mail the coupon below. You will receive complete, illustrated information, together with two interesting little books telling all about General Motors Proving Ground and just what General Motors policies are.

Indians Take on Ward

Cleveland will have a place for Aaron Ward this year even though that place is on the bench. He's a valuable kind of player to have around, opines Manager Peckinpugh, and Peck teamed with him last year on the White Sox and still know Aaron has been fitting himself for regular duty in the infield in case there is an early season vacancy.

State News in Brief

Grand Rapids—Invitations have been prepared by Mayor Elvin Swarthout and City Manager Fred H. Locke for the Grand Army of the Republic to hold its grand encampment in this city in 1930. The veterans held their 1925 and 1927 encampments here and meet in Denver this year.

Albion—Leon A. Sears, city manager, is without a job, the position being vacated automatically by the filing at Lansing of certified copies of the revised charter, ratified at the last election. The revision does away with the city manager and substitutes a commission form of government.

Benton Harbor—Berrien County's annual "Bloom Festival" will be held from May 6 to 13, it was announced here. The Blossom Parade, the feature of the event, will be held May 12, when the Blossom Queen with her royal court will ride on a snow-white float of blossoms. It is expected that between 90,000 and 100,000 will attend.

Greenville—Suffocation, caused by a broken blood vessel in his throat, permitting blood to flow into his neck and lung tissues, resulted in the death at a Grand Rapids hospital of E. B. Pilkington, 40 years old, of Greenville. He became suddenly ill at a fraternal function in his city. He was proprietor of the Commercial Printing Co.

Kalamazoo—A check for $5,000 insuring the establishment of a fish hatchery at Wolf Lake, 10 miles west of Kalamazoo, has been mailed to the Conservation Department at Lansing by Henry A. Pierce, president of the Isaac Walton League Chapter of Kalamazoo. Raising of the $5,000 fulfills the conditions laid down by the Conservation Commission.

Bay City—An appeal for a fund of $850,000 to be used for building, equipping and endowing another modern hospital in Bay City, was announced here by Irving H. Baker, chairman of the board of trustees of the new institution. The new hospital, which is to be known as the General Memorial hospital, will contain 125 beds. The institution will be a non-sectarian, community hospital.

Sault Ste. Marie—With decision of the State Highway Department to put one State ferry in operation across the straits of Mackinac and announcement that a third ferry being built at Escouffe will be ready for service in June, a movement has been started here to have the third ferry christened City of Sault Ste. Marie. The other two ferries are the City of St. Ignace and the City of Mackinaw City respectively.

Ferndale—A campaign to rid Oakland county of rabid dogs has been started by 25 special deputies, under orders to shoot all dogs running free with out muzzles. Despite a quarantine ordered a month ago, mad dogs have bitten cattle, sheep and swine on many farms, according to Deputy Bernard Schrader, in charge of Southern Oakland county deputies. Nine of the special officers have been assigned to the southern district.

Lansing—Investment trusts in which the officers have unlimited discretionary powers, will not be permitted in Michigan, the State Securities Commission decided here. Two applications for authorization of stock issues for such companies were denied. Investment trusts commonly are ruled by a self-perpetuating board of directors, who exercise their own best judgment as to how to invest the money entrusted to them. The stockholders have no control over the money once it is turned over to the corporation.

Detroit—Fred A. Chapman, manager of the Michigan State Fair, and Miss Aurelia Denk were married here recently at St. Leo's Church. Miss Denk was the sister of Mr. Chapman's first wife, who died three years ago. Scores of State officials were present at the ceremony, including Gov. Fred W. Green, whose business partner and close associate Mr. Chapman has been for 20 years. Mr. Chapman is mayor of Ionia, president of the National Bank of Ionia and president of the Ypsilanti Reed Furniture Co., which is one of the many enterprises he is associated with Gov. Green.

Traverse City—David H. Day, 74 years old, one of Northern Michigan's best known pioneers, is dead at his Glen Haven home after three months' illness. For many years he was president of the Western Michigan Development Bureau and had been chairman of the State Park Commission. He attained wide prominence as a result of the 1,400-acre forest he himself grew after he came to Glen Haven in 1878. His interest was attracted at once to reforestation of cutover land and on his tract, now one of the finest in the Middle West, are second growth trees two feet in diameter.

Lansing—Michigan's poor school districts lost another point in their efforts to get state aid for the upkeep of their schools when the state administrative board reported insufficient funds with which to pay them $1,000,000 as ordered by the legislature recently. In 1925, under the primary school act, poor districts were to get approximately $1,000,000 of the school tax before it was proportioned to all districts. This act, contested by the Detroit Board of Education, was declared illegal recently by the Supreme Court.

Human Dignity Lost in Big City's Hustle

No person can live in an American city and maintain one's respect for humanity, one's belief in the dignity of man.

I defy anyone to look on the hundreds of people scurrying this way and that to their street cars, to the "L." to the subway, looking like so many swarming ants, and not lose entirely every scrap of admiration or sympathy for human kind. It offends not only a sense of more personal dignity but of all human dignity.

Individuals seem larger on the small-town stage than on the large-city one. And human beings look more dignified when we see them as individuals—friends and neighbors—than in the mass.

A small town gives more opportunity to emphasize individuality and importance of self. Also, it gives one permanence, space and leisure. These things make for personal dignity. And seeing people, numbers of them, with a fair amount of importance, permanence, space and leisure gives to the onlooker an impression of human dignity and a consequent respect for humanity may not seem an important thing to city people. But to me it does seem important. It makes all the difference between life seeming worth while or not. For my part I want it to seem worth while. And so I prefer to live in the small town.—Emily Newell Blair in The Bookman.

Two Purposes Served in Identifying Town

In the simple, but essential, needs of commercial flying today as they have been shown by the experience of the test ship of the Shaw publications, "there is a real suggestion for every business man. Every chamber of commerce might well consider this need to make sure that its community has done its utmost to bring about more rapid development in flying."

"It would be an extremely simple matter," continues the story of the ship's experience in the Magazine of Business, "for the business men of every town to buy a few gallons of paint and identify their town with large block letters. The main hard roads entering the city could be used as signboards, if large roofs are not available. Arrows could indicate direction to nearest large cities and give mileage. Just as our road signs do today. With such simple devices as these, cross-country flying could be immensely simplified.

"If business men all over the country will co-operate in providing these simple facilities, we shall not only have more efficient and effective commercial flying right now, but shall see more rapid developments in the airplane itself."

Care in Foundation Vital

Since dependence of the house on its foundation extends to every phase of its endurance through the years, and to the trouble-free pleasure in occupancy, the new home builder does well who looks carefully into the construction of that foundation. Any compromise with quality here will result in failure involving the entire structural frame of the home and even to wall decorations, since a settling house invariably cracks its plaster.

It involves also the peace of mind of the owner, for repairs caused by improperly constructed foundations are uniformly pretty costly.

Newspaper's Creed

A newspaper, whose aim is to serve the community, and whose purpose is to disseminate the news of the community and section from which it derives its patronage must of necessity express views and advocate measures to which some of its readers are opposed. But our views are held and expressed in good faith. We take no position on any subject because some one else entertains an opposite view. But in all matters affecting the community interest our aim is to advocate the measures which will mean the greatest good to the greatest number.—Andalusia (Ala.) Star.

Beautiful the Home

One of the prettiest sights in some countries is the individualistic roof of a house as it appears in the distance. Perhaps it is centuries old. Looking down at such houses from a hilltop is to experience thrills of emotion that bind the past with the present. We have in this country every reason to beautify our homes—outside and inside. It is both a family and a community duty. If it turns out to be a hobby, well, it will be a pleasing one.

Rules of the Road

The Alabama state highway department has assumed police duty of the highways of the state assisted by the various city and county officers in regulating traffic thereon. The rules of the road and the machinery which enforces the traffic laws will no doubt bring many a man to the sudden realization that Alabama has laws that really protect. Every citizen should inform himself of these new laws.—Lafayette (Ala.) Sun.

Unkind Assumption

A young West Virginia matron has been acquitted of assault with a deadly weapon after attacking her husband with a rolling pin. The jury presumably reached the conclusion that a rolling pin is deadly in the hands of a young wife only when she is making biscuits.—Detroit News.

Students enrolled in Agriculture in the Smith-Hughes high schools of Michigan will make their annual pilgrimage to Michigan State College on May 3 and 4 for the contests held during Junior Farmer's Week.

The 166 high schools which teach agriculture sent 1,642 of their pupils to East Lansing last year. The boys, this year, will compete in grain and livestock judging, participate in a public speaking contest, and be guests at a banquet and a variety baseball game.

Speakers on the banquet program will be R. S. Shaw, acting president of Michigan State; W. H. Pearce, State Superintendent of public instruction; E. E. Gallup, state director of vocational agricultural training; and Harry Kipke, football coach at the College.

The Reo Motor Company will be hosts to the junior farmers and will throw their plant open for the inspection of the boys on Friday May 4.

The winners in the dairy cattle judging will represent Michigan this year at the National Dairy Show, and the premier livestock judges will represent the State at the Royal Livestock Show held in Kansas City.

The Red Lamp

By Mary Roberts Rinehart

The lamp glowed at unseemly periods and always as a harbinger of mysterious crimes. It shone when no human hands were present to light it, and appeared to be the special instrument of some diabolical fiend. The owner would have destroyed it had he not been impelled by a scientific desire to pierce its mystery.

Cadillac—This year the ballots on the adoption of Eastern time read "from April 28 to September 29," to conform to the period in use by other cities in this section, which changes time in the spring. Heretofore Cadillac has had daylight-saving time only until September 1, on account of the beginning of school.

For more than ten years Goodyear has maintained leadership in the Tire World. Of course there's a reason.

PLOWSAID BORER FIGHT

Wide-bottom plows, requiring more power, bring modern machinery into the war against the corn borer. With the unit plows, standing stalks may be thoroughly covered by plowing. This use is common on Michigan farms and a new use has been found for them in fighting the corn borer. If the stalks are cut and gathered first, a better job of control can be done.

Luck is the trump card played by a fool. When a man keeps his wife in the dark, he shouldn't expect her to make light of it.

Vice Presidential Terms

Daniel D. Tompkins and Thomas R. Marshall each served eight full years as vice president of the United States. John Adams, although serving two terms as vice president, was not sworn in until April 30, 1789, and he therefore lacked 48 days of eight years.

Romantic and Psychic

THE RED LAMP

By Mary Roberts Rinehart

One of Mrs. Rinehart's best mystery stories. Equal to "The Bat," but vastly different from it. Has strong elements of the psychic. The various threads of a fascinating mystery are gathered and woven into a logical fabric, so far as the human elements are concerned; but there are certain things of a psychic nature which, being unexplainable, the author makes no attempt to explain. Excellent fiction and very agreeable romance.

BARNYARD TALK

"CACKLE, cackle, cackle," said Miss Hen.
 "Cock-a-doodle-do, cock-a-doodle-do, cock-a-doodle-do," said Mr. Rooster.
 "Cock-a-doodle-do, cock-a-doodle-do, cock-a-doodle-do, I wish the same to you," said Red Top, the rooster.
 "Cackle, cackle," said Mrs. Gray Hen.
 "Cluck, cluck," said Mrs. White Hen.
 "Cackle, cackle," said Miss Fidgety Fashionable Hen.
 "Quack, quack," said Mr. Duck.
 "Quack, quack," said Sir David Duck.
 "Quack, quack, quack," said the little ducklings.
 "Quack, quack," said their fond mother.
 "Quack, quack," said Mrs. Indian Runner Duck.
 "Gobble, gobble," said Mr. Turkey.
 "Neigh, neigh," said the horse.
 "Moo, moo," said Mrs. Cow.
 "Baa, baa, baa," said Mrs. White Sheep.
 "Bow, wow, wow," said the dog.
 "Baa, baa," said Billy Goat in a different tone of voice from that of Mrs. Sheep.
 "Chirp, chirp," said little Mr. Robb as he sat on the branch of a tree.
 "Squirm, squirm," said the little worm, "this is no place for me."
 And to prove that the worm was right Mr. Rooster picked it up from the ground and hanged it most politely to Mrs. White Hen who swallowed it and cackled her thanks.

"We Are All Hungry and Ready for a Good Breakfast."

 "Who has got the food?" asked Brother Bacon.
 "No one has any food, now," said

Mr. Duck. "The time for breakfast has not as yet arrived."
 "How gorgeously and grandly and magnificently and beautifully you talk, quack, quack," said Mrs. Duck.
 "You flatter me, quack, quack," said Mr. Duck.
 "Not at all, it is the truth," said Mrs. Duck.
 "But what does all this friendly word business mean?" asked Sammy Sausage.

"Here I was having a nice dream of a castle built of food and I awoke to hear every one talking and chatting and I thought to myself:
 "Ha, ha, grunt, grunt, the food has come!"

"No food has come as yet," said Red Top. "We are all hungry and ready for a good breakfast it is true but it will not be long now."

"Why are you all talking in such a friendly fashion when there isn't even any food to talk about?" asked Pinky Pig.

"Of course, Red Top," said Porky Pig, "you have always had the habit of getting up at crack of dawn, as the saying is."

"You take after your father and his father before him and his father before him—and I don't know how far back."

"But they have all been early risers. Much too early risers to suit lots of folks."

"Well, I won't change the custom of the family, for it would be mixing out the family to be of little importance," said Red Top.

"Still I don't understand why you are all strutting about and talking?" said Sammy Sausage.

"You woke up the whole pig pen," said Mrs. Pink Pig.

"You did, it's true," said Sir Percival Pork.

"Had we been awakened for food we would not have complained, but to be awakened by a lot of idle chatter, gracious, mercy, grunt, grunt, it is too much," said Grandfather Porky.

"The ways of the barnyard creatures are funny," said Sammy Sausage.

"Of course they are to you," said Mr. Rooster. "All you creatures think of is food. You think that any other conversations or talks are foolish."

"To be sure we do," said the pigs. "We're sensible, greedy pigs, and the love and affection in our pig hearts is all turned in the direction of food—any direction where there is food!"

But at that moment appeared the animals' breakfast and the whole barnyard partook of the meal!

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

"FOR THE NONCE"

FREQUENTLY in modern writing and even in modern speech when it is of the flowery kind, we come across the phrase "for the nonce," meaning for the present, for this particular occasion.

The expression has an old-world flavor and it is to olden times that we must go for its origin. It is one of the few almost literal survivals of the old Anglo-Saxon tongue which, though it is the father of our speech, is usually buried beyond recognition in the changed syllables which constitute modern English.

"For the nonce" is a relic of the Middle English "for the nones," a corruption of the contemporary "then ones," the "n" being a relic of the original Anglo-Saxon, and the phrase meaning literally the one, single, particular or present. Its original significance has been preserved in the phrase which we use today.

BLUE PRINTS

WHILE one of the highest and most costly buildings was being erected in Chicago, a miniature of the completed building, made of plaster of paris, rested upon a table in the office of the architect. In other words, the architect, having a definite plan according to which the structure was being built, had previously worked it into the plastic model. Without a definite blue print the building could never have been erected. Erecting a building without a plan is like trying to steer a ship without a rudder.

Many a career has met with disaster because of the lack of a dominating purpose and directing motive. A house built in the sand is bound to fall down. A character without definite ideals is most likely to be shattered. A picture of the career we have planned should always be given a large place in the imagination.

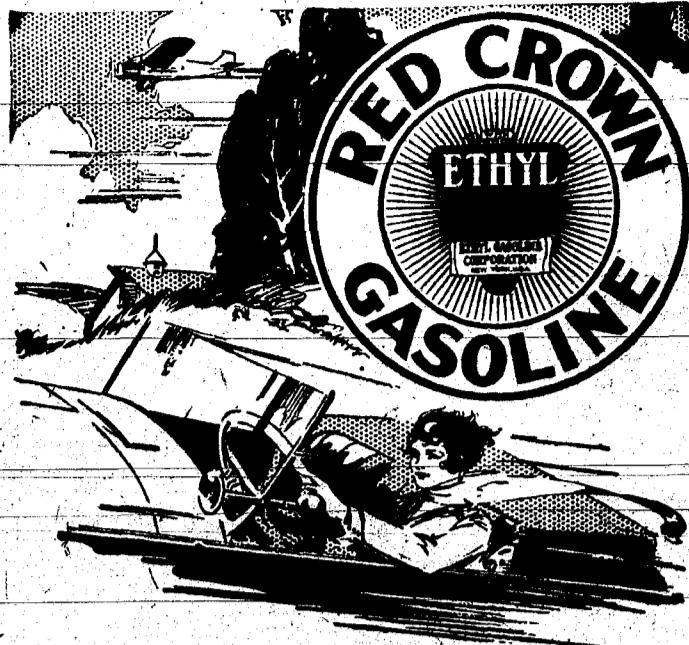

Blue prints are as essential to the building of one's life's career as they are to a building of stone or brick. One's career soon comes to naught in the absence of a definite plan. Many people make shipwreck of their careers because they allow themselves to be driven by any wind of caprice or opinion that happens to blow their way.

Fix your eye on your goal. Work out a blue print for your future. Construct your realized plan in the plaster of your imagination. See it already accomplished. The incentive to work will become many times greater and the dream will more likely become an actuality. We gradually become like what we constantly admire.

LEADERSHIP
By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

IT WAS Aint the Goth who said to Wolf, the chief of the tribe, when he was hesitating as to his own action:
"If the bison-bull lie down and wallow, what will the herd do for a leader? If the king-wolf lose the scent, how will the pack hold it? If the Yaling forgets the song of Asgard, who will sing it to the heroes?"
Example is the strongest influence in leadership.
Clayton had charge of seven thousand men whose job was ship building during the World war—untrained, illiterate men most of them were, who were used to hard work and a rough life, and to be ruled with an iron wrist, and Clayton was a man of education and refinement. He had seen the world; he had known men of prominence and influence; he was a gentleman in every sense of the word, but for all his refinement of taste and education, he had no difficulty with his men, and the reason was that he lived with them, he ate the food that they ate, he slept as they slept, he worked as many hours daily and as hard as they worked, he lived soberly and discreetly as he would have liked them to live. They respected his character, they recognized his leadership, and they followed as the pack follows the king wolf.

The boss gave Williams very good advice when he took him on in a subordinate position. He emphasized the fact that regular and temperate habits were necessary to success. He gave Williams to understand that drinking and gambling were not consonant with progress in their firm. The advice was excellent and Williams listened to it with respect. But he had not been long with the firm until he learned that the boss was not following the advice which he had given his subordinates. His breath did not always suggest a respect for the Volstead act; his stories of what he had won in a friendly game with one of his neighbors did not indicate that he himself refrained from gambling; and if he did not, why should Williams? The boss had succeeded and had been neither temperate nor always scrupulous as to how he won his money. His example told strangely in molding Williams' character. He was the bison-bull lying down and wallowing, and the herd was following his example.

Gaston, who was head of his fraternity, was worried about the freshmen in the house. It was hard to keep them in at night—they were crazy about dates. It was difficult to keep them at their books, and their scholarships were not what it should be. He wanted advice.
"How many nights a week are you in?" I asked. He colored a little and hesitated.
"I am out a good deal," he confessed. "You see I am engaged, and she likes to see me for a while every evening."
"And your grades?"
"Not all that they should be, I'm sorry to say."
It was the king-wolf losing the scent, and I tried to show him.

Hawk Bests Lineman
While working in a tower on power lines near Saugus, Calif., an electric company lineman saw a bird's nest and he shovled it over with his hand. A hawk flew out and attacked the man so viciously that he fell from the tower. He was taken to a hospital with a broken leg, two fractured ribs and some bruises.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Home Owners Insure Prosperity of Nation

Home! What a word! The most sacred institution of the race, it takes precedence before all else. We could not imagine a normal state of society without individual home circles, from which emanates all that makes for the righteousness of the race.
Home ownership is essentially an American ideal. Europe still struggles under old feudal influences. Here in this great republic of ours there is every opportunity for each citizen to own his home. The higher civilization rises, the better the housing facilities and the purer the home life. No community which is made up of renters can express much force in civic matters. Home ownership makes the voter interested in community affairs, and the pride of possession instills a pride in the community which nothing else can give.
The instinct of self-preservation is stronger when visualized by property rights. Home ownership is the best insurance our nation can invest in. A nation of home owners will survive the insidious red doctrine of decadence that is grasping at the throat of all nations today. It was the property owners of New England, called the "Minute Men," who fired the shot for liberty—"heard round the world."
"Who owns the home?" "The true American owns the home." The real and purposeful citizen who understands his privileges and who exercises the rights of independence which America stands for, owns the home. The thrifty self-respecting woman who realize the sacredness of family ties and their obligations, own their homes. The Americanized foreign-born, instead of earning and sending back to Europe their savings, are acquiring their own homes in America and living up to all that America stands for. A government can thrive best when the people own their rightful interest in it and assume the privileges such ownership gives.—Pittsburgh Realter.

Utilize Movie Films to Speed Up Business

Diversified agriculture is being stimulated in Jefferson Davis county, Mississippi, by means of a large moving picture outfit, purchased by the county agent and county superintendent of schools, through personal solicitation. The machine cost $800 but is reported to be exerting a marked effort on the progress of the county.
In raising funds for the purchase of the machine, the pledge was given that no admission fee would be charged for any show given, and this agreement has been observed. Local merchants have helped maintain the outfit by paying for advertising bills. Wholesome lessons in health, sanitation, care of the teeth, vaccination, tick eradication, elimination of typhoid, drainage, terracing, forestry, lighting forest fires and other activities of a rural nature are conveyed by means of the films exhibited. Short comic reels are used to keep interest sustained in the shows.

Town Has Right Spirit

Now is the time for launching forth on a program of civic development in Bay Minette. Towns of like size and many smaller, are busily paving streets, extending sewage systems, laying sidewalks and in many other ways improving living conditions for their citizens and at the same time presenting a far more attractive appearance for the prospective locator. Bay Minette should not lag in this fine work. With the substantial balance now in the bank to the town's credit, virtually all of these things may be financed by the town on a basis of generosity to the taxpayers and of profit to the town. We are informed that the officials are considering some pronouncedly forward steps along this line. Let nothing interfere.—Baldwin (Ala.) Times.

Playground Essential

A playground is an educational facility, the Supreme court of Michigan has ruled. It upheld the will of Miss Mary Andrews, school teacher, who died in 1924, leaving a large part of her estate to the city of Dowagiac for a children's playground. Mintie Jones Greenman and six other consorts attacked the will on the grounds that it created a perpetuity, but the Supreme court cited a statute exempting educational bequests from the ordinary provisions as to perpetuity and declared "the opportunity for play and exercise is now considered part of a child's education."

"Ideal City"

Marblemont, Ohio, is a city of 185 acres with a population of 325 founded by a woman in fulfillment of her dream of an ideal city. It has its own stores, parks, lagoons, community center, athletic field, schools, inn and church. About $8,000,000 was spent outright on its development in 1923, and a fortune of $100,000,000 has been bequeathed for its improvement.

Laying Out of Lawn to Best Advantage

The painting scheme should avoid the hit-or-miss scattering, which gives poor effect for the various plants and cuts into the sense of distance, which is desirable for the lawn. A few clumps of bushes at the sides and corners of the lot, a border, perhaps, along the walk, a tall evergreen or two near the entrance door and a line of flowers near the foundation are always safe and tasteful arrangements which can rarely be bettered by any radical plan.
Useful and ornamental lawn furniture and bric-a-brac can frequently be used to good advantage. Care should be taken in placement of the garage and the garden to make a correct ensemble in which each feature of the grounds finds its own proper place.
Nor does this careful assembling of the components of a skillful ground-plan, in which every feature harmoniously contributes to the whole, cost necessarily any more than a less artistic layout. The added cost of the shrubs, as well as the fee of the landscape architect, if it is decided to employ one, will be easily offset in the added values resulting.
The resale value of the home made attractive by a well thought out grounds plan will be materially increased.

Village Ideal Place for Large Factories

"Balancing" of agriculture and industry by establishing future industrial centers in rural communities instead of in densely populated areas would go a long way toward solving the farmers' problem, according to T. K. Preston, president of the American Bankers' association.
Mr. Preston declared bringing industry to small villages increases the market for agricultural products, gives employment to surplus labor, elevates the standards of living, increases public revenue, reduces taxes and vastly increases educational facilities.
He declared industry and agriculture are better balanced in Ohio, North Carolina and Pennsylvania than in any other states of the Union and asserted, "In these states there is no serious agricultural problem and we hear little complaint from the farmers."
"I would not suggest that manufacturing institutions move from the cities to the small villages," Mr. Preston continued, "but I do think it would be better for this country for future industries to be placed in these small villages rather than to be further congested in the great centers."

Consider Resale

Have you ever thought of fashion in connection with home building? The fashions do change in buildings just as in clothes, although not so rapidly perhaps.
Fashions change in furniture in plumbing and lighting fixtures of the home; fashions change in automobiles; and in fact in almost everything that we buy.

With rare exception, every man who builds a home should consider the resale value of the property. There are many factors which may make it necessary for him to sell. With resale in mind, or with protection of investment in mind, it would be unwise to build a home that was not in fashion.
The fashion in homes today is swiftly turning toward the permanent type.

Fire Hazards

Fire prevention is not a matter of one week out of fifty-two. It is a constant problem that is with us, asleep and awake, all hours of every day. We can afford to sacrifice half a billion a year on money, because of America's wealth; even though the existence of such wealth does warrant the people in throwing it away. We cannot afford to sacrifice human life or to permit, every year, a veritable army of our citizens to be injured and many handicapped for life.
There are many questions, economic, political, moral and what not, before the American people. There is probably none that comes nearer to every one of more than 100,000,000 citizens than the fire hazard.

Tree Grows Rapidly

The red pine, also called Norway pine, is one of the most important pine trees native to North America. It is found from Nova Scotia south to central Pennsylvania and west to Michigan and Minnesota, says the American Tree association. The red pine has few enemies, grows rapidly, and if given care and protection will produce large quantities of high-quality wood. It is one of our most attractive and useful evergreen trees.

Consider Color Scheme

Next in importance to painting is the use of the right kind of paint and paint of the right color. Color intrigues our interest. It draws us toward or repels us from a home. It is never inactive. It is always working for or against your interests. So the color scheme should be decided upon most carefully. And let us not think we can avoid all pitfalls by painting in all-white, regardless of the type of house.
