State Rural Letter Carriers Hold Great Convention

"PLAYGROUND OF THE NATION" BRINGS LARG-EST GATHERING OF CARRIERS IN THEIR HISTORY.

Over 300 Visit East Jordan

THREE-DAY PROGRAM BRINGS OUT MANY NOTE-ABLE FEATURES, WITH EXCELLENT ADDRESSES

The annual Convention of the tainment was shown in a concrete Michigan Rural Letter Carriers' Association closed a three-day session in East Jordan Thursday afternoon with the election and installation of Auditorium, a collection was taken officers.

This Convention brought out the largest number of delegates and mem-bers of both the Carriers and the matches, stagged at the athletic field. Ladies' Auxiliary in the history of A hat was passed among the Car-the organization—over three hun- riers and a tidy sum given the boys red being present from every part of for their work. Michigan. Utmost harmony prevail-ed throughout the meetings and our visitors expressed themselves repeatedly of the pleasure received by the spirit of friendliness and good-will on the part of the people of East Jordan toward their guests. This was made emphatic in the resolutions adopted by the Carriers and Auxiliary, and published elsewhere in this issue of The Herald.

The entire three-day program was carried out with but few changes. The Wednesday afternoon program was changed somewhat, owing to an unexpected and very such appreciat-ed visit of State Highway Commissioner, Frank E. Rogers, and Deputy Highway Commissioner G. C. Dill-Both gentlemen gave interestman. ing talks on the State highway development of Michigan, with a review the finances of that department, and it's future program. The Rural Carriers use the highways of the State more than anyone else and the Carriers were intensely interested in these two addresses. At the close of this, a question box was developed in which the mooted question as to just how and where the R. F. D. mail box should be placed alongside the high-

Wednesday evening brought out the high-spot in the Convention, when C. C. Wenrich, Director of Rural Mail of Washington, D. C., and Francis G. Blair, State Superinten-dent of Public Instruction of Springfield, Ill., both gave most interesting addresses. Mr. Wenrich had attended previous State meetings of The Carriers' and he was welcomed as an old-time friend. Prof. Blair spoke on the subject—"Getting Together," and he left many a worth-while thought for his audience to take home with them

LARGE INCREASE OF CERTIFIED SEED POTATOES THIS YEAR

The year of 1928 shows a splendid increase, both in numbers of wers and in acreage of seed. A total of twenty-six farmers are apply ing for certification as compared with ten last year. Over 100 acres of certified seed has been planted this year, as compared with 48 last year. More and more, Northern Michigan is gaining in importance as a high quality bers of our cow-testing association certified seed potato section and is an industry that is especially adapted to quirements and had over 300 lbs. our climate and soil conditions. Certified seed has, in the past, averaged 1926-27. These diplomas are given than ordinary table stock and has paid larger profits per acre than any other single crop that Charlevoix Co. farmers raise, over a span of seven years.

The prospects for a good yield are xceptionally favorable and potatoes in general are looking as fine as one can remember. greatest and most daring horsewomen circus in the entire world. It includes winners of the noted steeple chase classics of England. Frontier Days celebrations at Cheyenne, Wyo. and the Calgary Stampede, in Canada.

The outstanding horsewoman in the United States today, is accredited by all to be Miss Dixie Baldwin, a girl from the "Golden West" who lives up to all of the traditional heritages of that section of the country. She is one of the leaders of the horsewomen with the Walter L. Main Circus this ear and is being paid a salary by Mr. Main that is unprecedented in the American circus history.

Following her sensational success at the Frontier Days celebration in Wyoming and at various other noted rodeos, Mr. Main approached Miss Baldwin with a view of signing her for a tour with the Walter L. Main Circus. At that time Miss Baldwin would not listen to talk of a circus tour.

"Wait," she said, "until I have proved myself to be what the newspapers and authorities say I am now, "America's leading horsewoman." When I have tried my skill at the Calgary Stampede in competition with the most skillful women riders of the world and if I am successful I will talk to you about a contract."

Mr. Main waited. A few months ater while reading the morning paper aboard his private car he read headlines on the front page which told Dity spent part of last week with that Miss Dixie Baldwin had been delared the greatest woman rider in America. Immediately he wired Miss Baldwin. He received this answer: "Your offer accepted. Will join ircus in New York next week.

ALDWIN C Since that time the Walter L. Main Circus has been able to offer Ameria's best in women riders. Besides Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wilson of Miss Baldwin there are those spectacular European horsewomen, Miss Peggy 'DeMartini, and Miss Winnetti Roberta, Miss Lillian DeJarnette, the ter, Mrs. John Hawley. Mr. and Mrs. James Ison of East-port spent Sunday with the latter's twenty of the leading horsewomen of the world. Performances will be given here at

John DeForest, who was killed in a car accident, below Torch Lake, and burned to the hips, was the second son of Zibe DeForest to die a tragic death. His son, Ernest, was drowned a few years ago in Duforth's Lake. John Levi of Torch Lake was found dead in his chair with his underclothes on, Saturday morning. An Indian, who lives near there, had gone to the house on an errand and found him. Mr. Levi was an old resident of this neighborhood, a rela-tive of Ray Russell of Fast Lordan tive of Ray Russell of East Jordan. Cherry picking has commenced in earnest. Otto Morse who has a ten acre cherry orchard has twenty-five pickers at work this week. The East Jordan Canning Company is buying his product. Besides Mr. Morse's they have the White farm, Fairman, Eveline, and Mesick orchard of Petos-

But stoad there listening, but there was there was something beneath that, she no sound, whatever, save the leak of hought. "There was murder in that the tap.

I reached the dining room withou Incident and there a new "thought" struck me Annie Cochran had represented the old gentleman as distinctly alarmed, and I myself had seen him some time before, more or less on guard, with a revolver. Suppose he saw a strange figure emerge from his dining room and start, up the stair case? It seemed to me that he would have every right to shoot me first and investigate me afterwards.

It was while I hesitated there, near the sideboard, that I was first conscious of a cold air blowing around me. So distinct was it that my first thought was that some stealthy movement had opened the door to the passage behind me. Almost immediate ly on that there was a tremendous crash as though some heavy object had struck the dining-room table, and following that, the door into the hall burst open, slamming back against the wall outside. This was followed by complete silence. So shaken were my nerves by all this that my next consecutive think started toward the house, with no par It was then that I became con ticular plan in mind, but a fixed de scious of a light somewhere below ermination to protect Mr. Bethel "in Not a light, rather-but where before case of any trouble," as Halliday put had been absolute durkness there was now something else; a faint illumina tion which outlined the staircase well and which was reddish in color. And I will swear that a figure was standing at the foot of the stairs, ap parently tacing toward me and looking up. Or, rather, not a figure, but a face; the light was so faint that no portions of the body were visible. 1 will swear that it moved, not toward the dining room and a possible exit the window of the gun room. as Halliday suggests, but still upturned. toward the library, and that within a toot or two of that door it disap peared.

I will swear that the red glow per sisted for a moment or so after that disappeared and then slowly faded And i will also swear that I away had no more intention of firing my revolver at that figure than I had o leaping down the staircase after it. The first knowledge that I had pulled trigger came with the sound of the shot itself. I was certainly not alming at the figure. If Mr. Greenough examines the mark left by the bullet, he will find, as Halliday and it Required Some Time to Induce Him to Open the Door.

I did, that my bullet went almost di rectly down, and is embedded in th basehoard of the hall, near the den door

As a matter of fact, the whole se quence of events, ending with the shot, had stunned me. Almost imme distely there was a crash of brenking glass in the library, as Halliday smashed a window with a porch chair and the next moment was in the house and fumbling for the light switch in side the library door. When he ran into the ball I told him what had happened, and he im mediately set about his search As Mr. Bethel was demanding, beyond his door, to know what was wrong, went back to reassure him, but it re quired some time to induce him to un lock the door. Thus it was Halliday who made the first investigation down stairs.

He is confident no one escaped from the library, unless in that brief time while he was feeling for a light. But it is to be remembered that the floor near the window was covered with broken glass; no escape by that method could have been noiseless. At the same time, any theory of departure by the windows of the den is impos sible, since we found all these win-dows closed and locked on the inside.

conversation, while my uneasiness constantly increased, and my sense of guilt and responsibility. If we had warned the old man he would have been at least prepared to take care of himself in an emergency, but we had foolishly kept our knowledge to ourselves, and even allowing for exaggeration on Annie Cochran's part. there seemed no doubt that such an emergency might be at hand.

At 10:30 our visitors took their departure, and leaving Jane prepared to retire and Edith to answer some of her letters, I wandered with apparent.

aimlessness down to the boathouse Halliday was not there, and as the dory was missing I knew he was some where out on the water. After waiting until eleven, my restlessness was extreme and I walked up and around the main house, to find the garage doors open and the car still out. Had there been any indication of life in the building, I think I would have wakened Mr. Bethel and warned him; stayed with him, perhaps. until that murderous young devil was safe ly settled for the night. But his room was dark and his windows closed, so I thought better of it. But I did ascertain that the gun-room windows were locked, and that if the boy effected an entrance at all, it would be by some less surreptitious method.

Thus reassured, I went back to the boathouse, and soon after Halfilay plished one great aim-they do make rowed quietly in and thed the dory. life easier for tired, nervous, run- I told him my story, but he was le I told him my story, but he was less anxious than I had expected. health, strength and enjoyment. Convinced that the slamming of the door would have roused Mr. Bethel-if, in deed, anything were to rouse him again; and by this time, shaken as I was. I was prepared for the worstthe main staircase was not feasible I made my way, therefore, into the passage again to the servants' staircase and crept up it, one stair at a time, with the revolver clutched in my hand. At the top of the kitchen staircase was a door, opening onto the main hall, and this I cautiously opened. Save for the ticking of the tall clock on the staircase landing, the house was entirely silent. The si lence and the closed door gave me back my enting courage, and I advanced a step or two along the half Here I was close to Gordon's room. and I felt for and tried the knob care fully. It was locked, and listening outside 1 could hear no movement from within. The relief I gathered from this was enormous, and although my position was still appleasant enough, the fear of tragedy began to Leave me.

There remained, I figured, merely to ascertain that Mr. Bethel's door was closed and locked, and I could beat a retreat which I felt was by no means ignominious. I made my way. therefore, to his door and tried it. It was fastened also, and I heard him move within; the heavy creak of his bed-spring, no doubt as he lay un easily awake, waiting for the boy's return

I besitated there, wondering wheth er to call to him and tell him he was not alone and helpless, or to retire. satisfied that he was awake and prepared for any trouble that might come, But there were no further sounde from beyond the door, and I turned away and prepared to retrace to grind.

-I-am-convinced that the intrude was not the secretary. As a matter of fact, he drove in a half-hour later. saw the lights in the house and ham mered for admission, and surveyed our group in the hall with an amazement which, under any other circum stances, would be humorous. And I am also convinced that it was not the doctor. Mr. Bethel showing signs of collapse, Halliday telephoned to Hayward. He replied at once. Had he been at the house that night, he could not have made it. I have no explanation whatever of the fact that Halliday and Huyward later on found the gun-room window closed and locked, save that the in truder may have entered by it while I was working my way into the din ing room; and that the cold air, the crash at the table, and the bursting open of the door in the hall, which so alarmed me, may have marked his passage through the room. The disappearance of the figure and the blank darkness which followed that disappearance are difficult to ac count for, under any natural law at present known. I am not a spiritist. but it is to be remembered that only a second or so elapsed between Mr Halliday's entrance by the broken window and his turning on of the lights.

Neither he nor I heard in that in terval any movement; yet an escape over the broken glass of the window would certainly have made some sound. As I have said, the windows in the den were found to be closed and locked on the inside. (End of memorandum for Mr freenough.)
