Improved roads of the State are worth from 250 to 300 millions of dollars, Rogers said, and this immense property is being rented to the users through the gas and weight taxes. There is no direct property tax levied for maintenance and construction of highways, he said.

Speaking of the snow removal proance costs but a quarter as much as summer maintenance over the same

Rogers expressed the hope that the poorer Northern Michigan Counties would soon get a greater share of the weight and gas tax than they are getting now through the pro-rating among the counties of one-eighth of the money collected.

All Northern Michigan is taking an active interest in the forthcoming Regional Pageant of Progress which the various cities, working in co-oper ation, are staging on Monday, Aug 20th, at Petoskey. A pageant of progress is considered a good way to let the visitors, and home folks too, know what is going on in the region in which they live, and from all reports the program, which is to be an all day affair, will be very worth while. will be the parade in which two mile of beautiful floats, picturing what the region has to offer its home folks and visitors will pass in review. The parade march will be lined with specators from all over the region, in cluding the summer people from all he resorts.

During the afternoon there is to be ther entertainment, including spe cial vaudeville stunts, band concerts, orchestra festivals, etc., while in the evening the visitors will be taken back to the days of yesterday—the days when the redman roamed the woods of the region.

There will be a big Indian encamp-ment and special exhibition in Arlington Park and there will be gathered the representatives of the tribes, all in full Indian costume of 100 years

Handsome prizes are being offered for the finest floats in the parade and entries are already in from nearly every city and resort in Northern Michigan.

LOST GIRL WAS A RUNAWAY

The lost girl mentioned in the last issue of this paper proved to be a 12year-old girl who had left her home. in article in the Mancelona Herald ays, in part: "She was finally taken to the Detention home at Bellaire and placed in the care of Mrs. W. H. Kittle, matron, while the officers followed out clues. It was finally determined that the girl must be a runaway, and deliberately telling stories. Clues led back towards Alba, and ex-sheriff Kittle took her to the home of Robert Kitchen, where the riddle was solved. · At the Kitchen home, is a sister, a ittle older, whom Mr. and Mrs. Kitchen have taken in, and whom they like very much. The mystery girl broke down when she arrived there and confessed to running away from her home southeast of Elmira Her name is Georgia Ernest, and she is the fifth daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Ernest who has run away from home. She explained that she was ill-treated, compelled to work too hard and not given enough to eat, and never allowed to go anywhere. A good home will probably be found for the girl."

CONSTRUCTION WORK MAY START NEXT WINTER.

A delegation from the East Jordan Business Men's Club consisting of W. A. Stroebel, Kit Carson, L. G. Balch and R. C. Supernaw attended the Northern Michigan County Road Comm'rs Meet at Cadillac last Thurs-

While there, they had a talk with Frank F. Rogers, State Highway Com-missioner, relative to the proposed extension of M-66 to East Jordan which will give us a much-needed trunk highway.

Mr. Rogers informed them that the road has been approved by both the Administrative and Advisory Boards and will be marked M-66 as soon as it is reasonably passable.

That the Administrative Board pro-vided that no maintenance should be put on these roads in 1928 since their budget had already been made up and no funds were available for taking care of additional trunk line mileage this year.

Mr. Rogers concluded that it was his plan to survey and put on for winter construction, if the Adminis-trative Board approves, the big hill on this road just north of Mancelona.

CERTIFIED SEED POTATOES IN-SPECTED.

During the first three days of last week, Mr. Trafelet, official potato inspector, from the Michigan State ollege inspected the 27 fields of certified seed being grown in Charlevoix County. The inspector found the fields to be in very fine condition on the first inspection and that prospects are exceptionally favorable large yield of very high quality potatoes.

The three best fields were those owned by W. H. Henley, Charleyoix, Lee Sneathen, Charlevoix, and Terry Barber, Boyne City, each of which showed remarkable growth and development for this season of the year. For an acreage of six acres. Mr. Henley has the best field of potatoes the writer has ever been privileged to see and is a sight that makes a person realize that success comes as a result of hard and conscientious labor. Mr. Henley disced his field 20 times before planting the seed. If you ever happen to be out on the Phelps road, take a few extra minutes and look at his field of potatoes. Only three acres out of 105 acres inspected were rejected, which is a very high average and indicates the type of farmers raising certified seed.

Amid all the fanfare of new car announcements, one fact stands out with shining clarity: Owners of cars in every price field are turning to the Silver Anniversary Buick with an eagerness which proves that they regard it as the greatest value ever offered in the motor world!

This radically new and different automobile is rolling up the big-gest demand ever won by any new quality car. It is drawing more people to the showrooms, day after day, than any other automobile ever drew before. It is focusing the attention of America by quality-standards so new, so advanced and so epochal as to preclude any thought of comparison.

FARM PROBLEM

LOOVER MEETS

Urges Expenditure of Hundreds of Millions on a Workable Program .

FAVORS HIGHER TARIFF WALL

Farmers Must Control and Adminis ter Federal Farm Ald, Says Candidate.

HOOVER ON FARM RELIEF: An adequate tariff is the founda ion of farm relief.

Working out agricultural relief is the most important obligation of he next Administration.

The object of our policies is to establish for our farmers an income equal to those of other occupations. Farming is and must continue an individualistic business of small units and independent ownership.

If the farmers' position is to be improved by larger operations it must be done not on the farm, but n the field of distribution.

Our platform lays a solid basis upon which we can build. It offers an affirmative program?

Nature has endowed us with reat system of inland waterways. Their modernization will comprise a substantial contribution to midwest farm relief and development of 20 interior states. There is no more vital method of farm relief.

PALO ALTO, Calif.-Herbert Hoo ver met the farm question fairly and s larely in his Address of Acceptance at the Stadium of Stanford University Nearly one-third of his address was devoted to this subject, which Hoove termed "the most urgent economic problem in our nation today." He de chired bluntly that farm relief mus not be delayed by any monetary con siderations, urging that "a nation which is spending ninety billions a year can well afford an expenditure of a few hundred millions for a workable program that will give to one-third of its population their fair share of the national prosperity."

The candidate pledged himself to a farm-aid plan in which farmers shall themselves control and administer the f. deral financial assistance which he proposes to put into effect.

The most urgent economic problem in our nation today is in agriculture, he said. "It must be solved if we are to bring prosperity and contentmen to one-third of our people directly and to all of our people indirectly have pledged ourselves to a solution.

"In my mind most agricultural discussions go wrong because of two fa se premises. The first is that agri culture is one industry. It is a dozer distinct industries incapable of the same organization. The second false premise is that rehabilitation will be complete when it has reached a point comparable with pre-war. Agriculture was not upon a satisfactory basis be fore the war. The abandoned farms of the northeast bear their own testi mony. Generally there was but little profit in midwest agriculture for many years except that derived from the slow increases in tarm land values Even of more importance is the great advance in standards of living of al occupations since the war. Some branches of agriculture have greatly recovered, but taken as a whole it is not keeping pace with the onward march in other industries

Cause and Effect

"There are many causes for failure agriculture to win its fu na: mal prosperity. The after-war de flat. n of prices not only brought great direct losses to the farmer, but he was often left indebted in inflated dol lars to be paid in deflated dollars Prices are often demoralized through gluts in our markets during the har vest season. Local taxes have been in creased to provide the improved roads and schools. The tariff on some prod ucts is proving inadequate to protect him from imports from abroad. The increases in transportation rates since the war has greatly affected the price which he receives for his products Over six million farmers in times o surplus engage in destructive competi tion with one another in sale of their product, often depressing prices below those levels that could be maintained.

"The whole tendency of our civiliza tion during the last 50 years has been toward an increase in the size of the units of production in order to secur lower costs and a more orderly ad justment of the flow of commodities to the demand. But the organization of agriculture into larger units must not be by enlarged farms. The farmer has shown he can increase the skill of his industry without large operations He is today producing 20 per cen more than eight years ago with about the same acreage and personnel Farming is and must continue to be an individualistic business of small units and independent ownership. The farm is more than a business; it is a state of living. We do not wish ft con verted into a mass production ma chine. Therefore, if the farmers' post tion is to be improved by larger opera tions it must be done not on the farm but in the field of distribution. Agri culture has partially advanced in this direction through co-operatives and pools. But the traditional co-operative is often not a complete solution. "Differences of opinion as to both causes and remedy have retarded the completion of a constructive program of relief. It is our plain duty to search cat the common ground on which we may mobilize the sound forces of agri-cultural reconstruction. Our platforma solid basis upon which to build is offers an affirmative program

Tariff and Waterways

"An adequate tariff is the foundation of farm relief. Our consumers increase faster than our producers. The domestic market must be protected. For eign products raised under lower standards of living are today compet ing in our home markets. I would use my office and influence to give the farmer the full benefit of our historic tariff policy.

"A large portion of the spread be tween what the farmer receives for his products and what the ultimate consumer pays is due to increased transportation charges. Increase in railway rates has been one of the pen alties of the war. These increases have been added to the cost to the farmer of reaching seaboard and for eign markets and result therefore in of foreign countries have thus been in directly aided in their competition with the American farmer. Nature has endowed us with a great system of inland waterways. Their modern ization will comprise a most substantial contribution to midwest farm relief and to the development of twenty of our interior states. This moderniza ation includes not only the great Mis sissippi system, with its joining of the Great Lakes and of the heart of mid west agriculture to the Gulf, but also a shipway from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic. These improvements would mean so large an increment in farm ers' prices as to warrant their construction many times over. There is no more vital method of farm relief.

"But we must not stop here. "An outstanding proposal of the Par ty program is the whole-hearted pledge to undertake the reorganization of the marketing system upon sounder and more economical lines. We have already contributed greatly to this purpose by the acts supporting farm co-operatives, the establishment of in termediate credit banks, the regula tion of stockyards, public exchange and the expansion of the Department of Agriculture. The platform proposes

REPUBLICAN RECORD

Our problems of the past seven years have been problems of reconstruction; our problems of the future are problems of construction They are problems of progress.

During these years our popula tion has increased cight percent Yet our national income has increased 45 percent. The number of families has increased 2,300,000 and we have built 3,500,000 new and better homes. We have equipped 9,000,000 more homes with electricity, and through it drudgery has been lifted from the lives of women. The barriers of time and distance have been swept away and life made freer and larger by the installation of 6,000, more telephones, 7,000,000 radio sets and the service of an additional 14,000,000 automobiles.

By rigorous economy, federal ex penses have been reduced two billions annually. The national debt has been reduced six and a half billions. Taxes have been reduced four successive times. We have doubled savings deposits and near ly doubled life insurance.

President Coolidge has not only given a memorable administration he has left an imprint of rectitude and statesmanship on our country.

to go much farther. It pledges the creation of a Federal Farm Board of representative farmers to be clothed with authority and resources with to still further farmers' co-operatives and pools and to assist generally in solution of farm problems but especially to build up with federal finance, farmer-owned and farmer-controlled stabilization corporations to protect the farmer from the depressions and demoralisation of seasonal gluts and periodical sur-

Will Cost Money

"Objection has been made that this program, as laid down by the Party Platform, may require that several hundred millions of dollars of capital be advanced by the Federal Govern ment without obligation upon the individual farmer. With that objection I have little patience. A nation which is spending ninety billions a year can well afford an expenditure of a few hundred millions for a workable program that will give to one-third of its nopulation their fair share of the nation's prosperity. Nor does this proposal put the government into busi ness except so far as it is called upon to furnish initial capital with which to build up the farmer to the control of his own destinies. "This program adapts itself to the va riable problems of agriculture not only today but which will arise in the fu ture. I do not believe that any single human being or any group of human beings can determine in advance all questions that will arise in so vast and complicated an industry over a term of years. The first step is to create an effective agency directly for thes purposes and to give it authority and resources. These are solemn pledge and they will be fulfilled by the Re publican Party. It is a definite plan or relief. It needs only the detailed elab ration of legislation and appropri: ions to put it into force.

"During my term as Secretary o ommerce I have steadily endeavore o build up a system of co-operation etween the government and business Under these co-operative actions all dements interested in the problem of a particular industry such as manufac turer, distributor, worker, and consumer have been called in council together, not for a single occasion, but or continuous work. These efforts have been successful beyond any expectation. They have been accom-plished without interference or regulation by the government. They have secured progress in the industries. remedy for abuses, elimination of waste, reduction of cost in production and distribution, lower prices to the consumer, and more stable employ-ment and profit. While the problem varies with every different commodity and with every different part of our great country, I should wish to apply the same method to agriculture so that the leaders of every phase of each group can advise and organize on pollcies and constructive measures. I am convinced this form of action, as it has done in other industries, can benefit farmer, distributor and con-

Greater Opportunities

"The working out of agricultural relief constitutes the most important ob-ligation of the next Administration. I stand pledged to these proposals. The object of our policies is to establish for our farmers an income equal to those of other occupations; for the farmer's wife the same comforts in her home as women in other groups; for the farm boys and girls the san opportunities in life as other boys and girls. So far as my own abilities may be of service. I dedicate them to help secure prosperity and contentment in that industry where I and my forefathers were born and nearly all my family still obtain their livelihood "The Republican Party has ever been the exponent of protection to all our people from competition with lower standards of living abroad. We have always fought for tariffs designed to establish this protection from imported goods. We also have enacted restrictions upon immigration for the protection of labor from the inflow of workers faster than we can absorb them without breaking down our wage levels.

"The Republican principle of an effective control of imported goods and of immigration has contributed greatly to the prosperity of our country. There is no selfishness in this defense of our standards of living. Other countries gain nothing if the high standards of America are sunk and if we are prevented from building a civilization which sets the level of hope for the entire world. A general reduction in the tariff would admit a flood of goods from abroad. It would injure every home. It would fill our streets with idle workers. It would destroy the returns to our dairymen, our fruit. flax, and livestock growers, and our other farmers."

Prohibition

On the subject of prohibition, Mr. Hoover repeated his recent declara-tion: "I do not favor repeal of the 18th Amendment. I stand for efficient enforcement of laws enacted thereun der. Our country has deliberately undertaken a great social and economic experiment, noble in motive and farreaching in purpose. It must be worked out constructively." And he added the following comment:

"Common sense compels us to re alize that grave abuses have occurred -abuses which must be remedied. In vestigation can alone determine the wise method of correcting them Crime and disobedience of law cannot be permitted to break down the Con stitution and laws of the United States.

"Modification of the enforcement laws which would permit that which the Constitution forbids is nullification. This the American people will not countenance. Change in the Constitution can and must be brough about only by the straightforward methods provided in the Constitution itself. There are those who do not believe in the purposes of several pro visions of the Constitution. No one denies their right to seek to amend it. They are not subject to criticism for asserting that right. But the Republican Party does deny the right of anyone to seek to destroy the mir poses of the Constitution by indirec-

And yet-what a night!

A man is a fool who, preparing to spend a night in a haunted house. where a terrible crime has been re committed reads during the early evening the idiotic imaginings which other men have conjured out of their own disordered fancies. Even before I started the untimely ringing of Clara's alarm clock, upstairs, set my nerves to jangling. And there was a certain psychological preparation for me in the very steps I was obliged to take in order to get out of the house. For a man of my age to put on his pajama cont, and re tire into his bed otherwise fully nerve-racking enough in itself. He says be found me in a corner, gibbering, and I dare say he did, but I must have told him my story with sufficient clear ness, at that, for he left me slone again in that damnable place and ran outside. And as I had no intention whatever of being left alone again for the remainder of my life, I ran also There was nobody outside the win the thing that, according to Halliday. saved me from being sent today to

It showed unmistakable signs of entirely human investigation. At least a hand with the usual equipment of thumb and fingers has left more than one impression on it.

Later: And now where are we? an willing, even anxious, to accept Halliday's verdict, that the sounds we both heard in the library were due to an east wind blowing down the chini ney, plus the settling and creaking of the old portion of the house

But we have just returned from an out and I heard him coming out into inspection, in broad day, of the marks outside the boarded-up window of the

There is a complete imprint of the hand on it, and it shows a broad short thumb and a curved little finger. What "Funny," he said. "I thought I is more, there is a complete absence of the usual whorls and ridges of the ordinary hand. One could take this imprint and put it side by side with the one in the bowl of putty. They

Halliday seems to have seen a great and very shortly after he reappeared light from somewhere, but to me the and asked me to change places with situation is as absurd as it is mudden ing. It is as outrageous as that; out of some forgotten corner of my mem ory, I should have dug up a triangle I came down rather more rapidly within a circle, to find it cropping up soon after as the signature to a crime

August 25 Five days have passed since the turned and then, more or less holding murder, and we are apparently as far from its solution as ever.

What work is being done is now centering about the county detective bureau in the city. A deputy constable keeps up a more or less casual surveillance of the property during the day, but is careful to depart be fore twilight. The dragging of the bay has once more been stopped, and Benchley's idea of an unknown enemy of Bethel's has apparently been aban doned in favor of Gordon as the

At the same time we are not without developments, of a sort.

Although he is reticent on the sub ject, Balliday seems to feel that the experiment the other night, incomplete as it was, negatives the theory that the man I saw escaped by the broken window in the library.

"Then where did he go?" I asked. "That's the point," he said. "Where did he go? When we've answered that we'll have answered a number of things."

But he tells me, surprisingly enough, that he has taken up a sort of temporary residence in the house "Whoever tried to get in the other night may come back again," he says I have offered to stay with him, but not, I dare say, with any enthusiasm But he declines with a smile. "You are too psychic, Skipper!" he says. But it is perfectly evident that he does not want me. This morning, going unexpectedly into the boathouse, where this con-versation took place, I found him sitting by his table, and spread out be fore him the bit of linen, the cipher the broken lens and the top of the ether can which constituted our vari ous exhibits before I was gently elim had a box of figs and a hand mirror pectedly he was studying himself in

As he immediately asked me it cared to go fishing, which I did not, 1 saw that he was not prepared to make

The other development, although it does not solve the crime, or touch on it, came to me through Lear today and throws a new and interesting light on poor old Bethel himself. Lear did not like his errand sone prefers a presumptuous skepticism to an irrational credulity, and knows no middle ground. Those things which lie beyond his understanding he re fers to as "poppycock," a favorite wor

"Poppycock!" he said, and cleared his throat.

He had fallen into step with me but at that he stopped and faced me "Now, see here, Porter," he said. good bit of talk going around. Some of your friends are say ing that you and Jane are laying the blame on some d—n fool nonsense about the bouse itself. That's poor hearing, and it's ridiculous into the bargain. The Morrison girl was not killed in the house."

"I'm not sure she wasn't. At any rate, he was. And I believe the same hand killed them both."

"But a human hand, of course? You're not going to say—"
"Oh. I admit that," I said. "But there are a lot of curious things. If you think the house is normal, spend a night there and see."

'Normal!" he snapped. "Of course e house is normal. It's the people in it who aren't." And warming to his subject: "You and Cameron should be locked up together. And Pettingill." he added.

-Which brought him to Cameron, and his errand.

ANNOUNCEMENT

I wish to announce to the voters of Charlevoix County, that I am a candidate for the Republican Nominaion and re-election for the office of County Clerk at the Primary Elec-tion Sept. 4th, 1928. If nominated and re-elected I shall continue to give the same efficient and courteous service as I have in the past. Your sup-port is respectfully solicted.

Louis E. Anderson

REPRESENTATIVE STATE LEGISLATURE

Charlevoix District, (of Leelanau and Charlevoix Counties.) (Republican Ticket)

PRIMARIES-SEPT. 4, 1928.

Sutton's Bay, Mich., Aug. 11, 1928 Le the Voters of Charlevoix County: Now that Mr. Louis E. Anderson's petitions have been filed for candidate for the office of Representative in the Legislature from our Charlevoix-Leelanau District, and he is probably unknown to a great many of you people in Charlevoix County, I thought it would be of interest to you and your friends, to receive from some one who know intimately, information as to what kind of a man

Here in Leelanau County, we respect him very highly, both for his splendid manhood and ability in busiiess. He stands for, and is able to put across, the things that will best enifit the Charlevoix District.

Forty-three years old, educated in ne Northport High School, Alma College and The University of Wisconsin, and with a successful business experience of nearly twenty years, he is splendidly equipped in every way to represent our District at Lansing. Married, and having three children, he naturally stands four-square for all the better things in community life. He is conscientious, consistent and tolerant of others.

As Supervisor, since 1921 of the largest Township in our County, he has learned the needs of the farmer and as well, understands the resort problems, and how to lend encouragement to that important matter. He encourages good roads. He is awake to the needs of the taxpayer, and especially in this northern section of the State where so many school districts have been so hard hit since lumbering operations have ceased. He knows every need of a community like ours and has the ability and will do everything possible to alleviate those needs.

If Mr. Anderson receives your support and nomination at the Primarie Sept. 4th, you will have in him a 100 per cent Representative, and one who, because of the confidence the State administration and members of the Legislature will have in him, will be able to do splendid service. C. H. THOMAS,

Pros. Attorney, Leelanau County
