EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 5, 1928.

NUMBER 40

Finest Lyceum Ever Presented

EAST JORDAN COURSE TO HAVE THREE FEATURE ATTRACTIONS

It would be quite impossible for us to represent to East Jordan the entertainment coming to our very doors in the next few weeks. The finest Lyceum ever presented, not alone to East Jordan but to northern Michigan, will be given to local citizens with the coming of "Private Peat," October 29, 1928, and the famous play of Drinkwater's "Abraham Lincoln," the course ending Dec. 4th with the Digiorgio Orchestra.

You will note there are only three numbers on the course. A radical change from past seasons. The quality making up for the lack of numbers for the course represents the three strongest numbers the great Red Path Bureau claim to have on their list.

"Private Peat" is the outstanding speaker of the World War period. Literature will be passed out by members of the committee so that you can read something of the background and setting of "Private Peat." The play of "Abraham Lincoln" by John Drinkwater is without question one of the greatest productions being given in America today. This number has never been sold north of Grand Rapids before. It is therefore not only an opportunity for East Jordan and vicinity, but for all northern Michigan.

The cast is composed of twelve of the original company of New York City—giving some idea of the magnitude of the production. To quote a little from literature describing vividly something of the actual play.

"John Drinkwater's famous play gives a picture of the Great Emancipator unbelievably real and gripping. It is a drama of character, powerful, simple, moving. Drinkwater reveals the very soul of Lincoln."

It is arranged in six scenes. The first scene pictures Mr. Lincoln at his home in Springfield at the time he is notified that he is the chosen candidate for the Presidency. There is a scene showing him and his Cabinet at the Declaration of War; then, an incident in his home life in Washington, and a second meeting of the Cabinet at the signing of the Emancipation Proclamation. There is a scene dealing with the surrender of Lee at Grant's headquarters, and another portraying the final tragedy at Ford's Theatre. Each of these scenes is historically accurate, and vividly and beautifully portrayed.

It is said by some that have seen it that it is a production that you will remember it the rest of your life. Any one who is a lover of the Great Emancipator in American history would go many miles to see it, if he knew just what the play really is, and how it is produced with all the latest necessary scenery and background.

The coming of the "Abraham Lincoln" play has already been advertised in many of the towns within a radius of fifty miles and any number of prominent citizens signified their intention to be present at this performance. We are well aware of the fact that East Jordan alone could not make such an undertaking a success without outside co-operation. The community and the committee securing these attractions are to be congratulated.

A single ticket would cost at least $5.00 anywhere in one of our larger cities for the play alone. The committee is not asking $5.00 for this play, but $2.00 for the whole course of three numbers, and $1.00 for any school students. It is doubtful if any person in our community can afford not to take in at least the play—"Abraham Lincoln." The single admission alone is very near as much as the whole course. "Private Peat's" lecture and the Orchestra production will be at the High School Auditorium; the play at the Temple Theatre on November 8, 1928.

Hammond — Bartholomew

Miss Helen Hammond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Hammond, and Emmanuel Bartholomew, son of Mr. Mrs. Frank Bartholomew, of this city, were united in marriage at the home of the groom's parents on Bowen's Addition last Thursday evening, Sept. 27th. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Scott Bartholomew of Ashton Mich. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Roy Nowland of this city. The bride was attired in a pink silk crepe de chine gown. The "bridal party wore pink and white rosebuds. The ring service was used. A wedding supper was served to about 20 guests.

On Saturday evening, a party and miscellaneous shower was tendered the young couple at the home of the bride's parents, to which about 100 guests were present. They received many beautiful and useful gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Bartholomew will make their home in Lansing.

Their many friends join in wishing them a long, happy and prosperous journey through life.

Amendments To State Constitution

PROPOSALS TO BE SUBMITTED TO ELECTORS NOV. 6th.

There will be submitted to the electors, at the General November election to be held on Tuesday, Nov. 6th, 1928, the following proposed amendments to the Constitution of this State:

ARTICLE V.

The proposed amendment to Article V, Section 3, of the Constitution, to be submitted at the General Election Nov. 6, 1928, is as follows:—

"Section 3. The House of Representatives shall consist of not less than sixty-four nor more than one hundred members. Representatives shall be chosen for two years and by single districts, which shall contain as nearly as may be an equal number of inhabitants and shall consist of convenient and contiguous territory; but no township or city shall be divided in the formation of a representative district, except that when a city is composed of territory in more than one county, it may be divided at the county line or lines: And provided, That in the case of cities hereafter organized or created or territory annexed to an existing city, the territory thereof shall remain in its present representative district until the next apportionment. When any township or city shall contain a population which entitles it to more than one representative, then such township or city shall elect by general ticket the number of representatives to which it is entitled. Each county, with such territory as may be attached thereto, shall be entitled to a separate representative when it has attained a population equal to a moiety of the ratio of representation. In every county entitled to more than one representative, the board of supervisors shall assemble at such time and place as shall be prescribed by law, divide the same into representative districts equal to the number of representatives to which such county is entitled by law, and shall cause to be filed in the offices of the secretary of State and clerk of such county a description of such representative districts, specifying the number of each district and population thereof according to the last preceding enumeration."

This proposed amendment, if adopted, will provide that townships and cities shall not be divided in the formation of a representative district, except that when a city is composed of territory in more than one county, it may be divided at the county line or lines, and also that in the case of cities hereafter organized or created or territory annexed to an existing city, the territory thereof shall remain in its present representative district until the next apportionment.

ARTICLE XIII.

The proposed amendment to Article XIII of the Constitution, by adding a section to be known as Section 5, is as follows:

"Section 5. In exercising the powers of eminent domain and in taking the fee of land and property that is needed for the acquiring, opening and widening of boulevards, streets and alleys, municipalities shall not be limited to the acquisition of the land to be covered by the proposed improvement, but may take such other land and property adjacent to the proposed improvement as may be appropriate to secure the greatest degree of public advantage from such improvement. After so much of the land and property has been appropriated for any such needed public purpose, the remainder may be sold or leased with or without such restrictions as may be appropriate to the improvement made. Bonds may be issued to supply the funds to pay in whole or in part for the proposed improvement, but such bonds shall be a lien only on the property so acquired and they shall not be included in any limitation of the bonded indebtedness of such municipality."

This proposed amendment, if adopted, will authorize municipalities in taking land that is needed for the acquiring, opening, and widening of boulevards, streets and alleys, to acquire land and property adjacent to the proposed improvement, in excess of the land to be covered by the same, to sell or lease the remainder thereof; and to issue bonds to pay for the property so appropriated without the same being included in any limitation of the bonded indebtedness of such municipality.

ARTICLE V.

The proposed amendment to Article V, Section 9, of the Constitution, is as follows:

"Section 9. The compensation of the members of the legislature shall be three dollars per diem during the term for which they are elected, and they shall receive no further compensation than as specified in this section for service when the legislature is convened in extra session. Members shall be entitled to ten cents per mile and no more for one round trip to each regular and special session of the legislature by the usually traveled route. Each member shall be en-

NUTRITION PROJECT FOR CHARLEVOIX COUNTY WOMEN

Charlevoix County women will resume their study of nutrition under the direction of Miss Muriel Dundas, Nutrition Specialist of Michigan State College, early in October.

The first meeting will be held at the Boyne City Library on Thursday, October 11th, at 10:30 a. m., eastern standard time.

Following the project started last year which included standards of health and well-being, and the relation of food habits to health, meal planning will be the topic for the second year's work.

Due to the many requests for demonstrations of actual food preparation, the State-wide plan has been revised slightly to include some material of this nature. This will be given in groups and leaders desire it.

The course as it has been planned for the year includes the following discussions:—

1. Courtesy in the home. Table service and table etiquette.
2. General principles of meal planning. Preparation of light desserts.
3. Planning meals for the family. Preparation of supper dishes.
4. The school child and his noon meal. Sandwiches and foods for the lunch box.

According to the county agent, B. C. Melencamp, who has charge of the organization of the groups, 10 communities with over 100 women have enrolled for the project. Though the second year's work is based upon the fundamentals learned in the first, anyone desiring to enroll in the project, or new groups wishing to enroll may do so by communicating with your county agent. An invitation is extended to any community in the county to organize and select two ladies to act as their leaders, who will receive the instruction at Boyne City, and then give the same work at a similar meeting in their own locality.

If you are interested in making it possible for your community to get this valuable information, drop a card or phone your local agent at Boyne City, and he will only be too glad to assist.

B. C. MELLENCAMP, County Agent.

Man may want but little here below, but he wants it just as quick as he can get it.

This Was a Real Radio Wedding

Four-day Fair Next Year

Fire Prevention Week

A PROCLAMATION BY THE GOVERNOR OF MICHIGAN.

To the People of Michigan:—

In Michigan as in other States it is the practice to set aside a week, usually in the autumn, to be known as Fire Prevention Week. Its purpose is to inspire public activity against fire losses which annually destroy the people's resources. Losses from fire, most of them needless, in this State last year totalled more than SIXTEEN MILLION DOLLARS. This was a reduction of a half million dollars as compared with losses during the preceding year. Yet there were 2,000 more individual fires. Despite public education concerning the causes and frequency of fires there were 56 of them every twenty-four hours—a spark kindled every 30 minutes. Loss of 300 lives chimaxed the general disaster. The direct monetary loss totalled $46,574 each day in the year, or thirty-two dollars per minute. Believing that fire prevention is the economic and patriotic duty of every Michigan citizen, I hereby proclaim

MICHIGAN FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

OCTOBER 7th to 13th

I urge citizens to make special effort to reduce the fire hazard; to dispose of accumulated waste material, inspect chimneys, wiring, ventilation and heating equipment; and make repairs necessary to safety. The pulpit and press which encourages mercy, wisdom and safety is once again relied upon to call the people's attention to the necessity of each doing his part. The safety extension work of the Michigan Fire Chief's Association may well be supplemented by the efforts of individual citizens.

Through concerted action it is confidently expected that the lives and properties of all may be made more secure.

Given under my hand and the seal of the State, at the Capitol in Lansing, this 17th day of September, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty-eight, and of the State of Michigan the ninety-first.

FRED W. GREEN, Governor.

John S. Haggerty, Secretary of State.

"THE KING OF KINGS" WILL BE SHOWN HERE

In response to many requests from his patrons, Manager Glenn Thomas, of the Temple Theatre, has booked Cecil B. De Mille's production, "The King of Kings," which will be shown here soon. This is the picture that was presented to crowded audiences for six months at the Gaicety Theatre, New York. It enjoyed exceedingly successful runs in Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia, Los Angeles, and many other cities in this country and abroad.

Praised by Reviewers

In filming this wonderful story of Christ, Mr. De Mille displayed daring, the work being even more venturesome than his "The Ten Commandments" and the pitfalls many. The unanimous praise of the reviewers in all the metropolitan centres indicates that his effort proved successful. He employed all his own personal resources and exhausted the new and old technic of the screen. He was aided in the work by representatives of many faiths and research scholars of authority. Miss Jeanie MacPherson, the scenarist, is said to have wrought a more finely constructed story than that of "The Ten Commandments."

Favorites in Cast

Among the 18 stars of the production are such favorites as H. B. Warner, Jacqueline Logan, Rudolph and Joseph Schildkraut, Victor Varconi, William Boyd, Montagu Love, George Siegmann, Theodore Kosloff, Julia Faye, Robert Edeson, Sam De Grasse. In fact, the cast of principals is a roster of eminent names in pictures. Approximately $2,500,000 is said to have been expended on the production. As the actors embody the cherished characters of the New Testament narrative, so the hundred great sets faithfully realize the scenes in the life of Jesus.

The picture was shown with extraordinary success in this country and abroad and it won the commendation of press and public alike. Its beauty and charm evoked the general praise.

NIGHT COUGHS QUICKLY RELIEVED.

Coughs and colds usually grow worse at nightfall. Most coughing is caused by an irritation of the throat or bronchial tubes, which continued coughing only aggravates. Such coughs are quickly stopped and controlled by Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. Hold the dose for a time, low in the throat as for a gargle, then swallow. Relief follows at once. Effective alike for children and grown persons. Try it.—Hite's Drug Store, adv.

DIPPING INTO SCIENCE

Country Vs. City Air
Why is the country air purer than that in the city? Aside from dust, smoke and gases, city air is less pure because of the lack of foliage and because of the greater number of people. Foliage absorbs carbonic acid gas and gives back oxygen to the atmosphere. On the other hand human beings do just the opposite.

State News in Brief

Big Rapids—The second annual West Michigan Potato Show and apple exhibit will be held here Nov. 21 to 23.

Stanton—James White, 25 years old, of Howell, driver of an experimental truck, was killed five miles east of here, when the truck went into a ditch. It is believed White fell asleep while driving.

Pontiac—Miss Margaret Hovey, of the Aviation Golf and Country club, injured in an automobile accident on the Baldwin road, and who suffered the amputation of her right arm at the City Hospital, is dead from shock.

Pontiac—Pontiac's new airport should be named in honor of Harry Brooks, Birmingham, chief pilot for the Ford interests before his death in an accident in Florida last spring, the city commission was urged by the Pontiac Junior Chamber of Commerce. Brooks was a member of the organization.

Bad Axe—Archie Pearce, 17 years old, suffered a broken wrist, wrenched leg and bruises when he fell from the second to the first story of the high school building here. The lad, who is a cripple, is accustomed to sliding down the banister because of difficulty in walking. His hand slipped causing the accident.

Saginaw—One of the largest dairy farms in this section of the state will be established by John W. Watson and Lawrence Bannan, former county club leader. Watson and Bannan have purchased the George Nason farm at Chesaning, comprising 360 acres, and have acquired the herd from the Hemmeter farm.

Wyandotte—Michael Glinka, 65 years old, of Wyandotte, was killed instantly when he fell under a freight train on the New York Central tracks at the Ford avenue grade crossing. Witnesses said he apparently was waiting for the train to pass. Just before the last car drew abreast he stumbled. Glinka is survived by several sons.

Vassar—Thomas Ashe, a farmer living two and a half miles west of here, suffered burns in a fire that destroyed his home. Firemen from Frankenburg fought the blaze but it had such headway it was impossible to save anything but a few pieces of furniture. A sum of money in the kitchen was destroyed. The loss is estimated at $10,000.

Saginaw—Showings of gas and oil have been encountered by the Saginaw Prospecting Co., in the deepening of the Deindorfer Woods Well, to a point that makes it geologically at least the deepest yet drilled in Michigan. The new showing of oil and gas was found at a depth of 3,325 feet, about 190 feet into the Monroe limestone, a stratum not heretofore tapped in Michigan drilling.

Monroe—Ground will be broken in November for Monroe's new Mercy Hospital, to be operated by the Sisters of St. Joseph of Kalamazoo, it was announced here by the board of directors. The new institution representing an investment of about $250,000, probably will be ready for occupancy in July, 1929. Present plans are for a 58-bed hospital, so arranged that it may be enlarged.

Pontiac—When she tripped on the stairs at her home while carrying a small rifle down the steps preparatory to going target shooting, Miss Genevieve Chandler, 22 years old, was shot once through the chest. The bullet broke one rib and punctured her lung. She was rushed to the City hospital. The girl was found at the foot of the stairs by a barber who operates a shop in the basement of her home. He was attracted by her screams.

Lansing—Persons in line at voting booths at the time the polls close are not entitled to vote, Atty-Gen. Wilbur M. Brucker ruled in an opinion here. The opinion was asked by Charles A. Watts, assistant corporation counsel, at Grand Rapids, in which city those in line at the time the polls were closed were denied the right to vote. Brucker held that only those who had entered the polling places and whose names had been checked off the registration books may vote legally after the closing hour.

Lansing—War department aid for the construction of a bridge across the Straits of Mackinac is being sought by Gov. Fred W. Green and Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, it is reported here. According to plans, Senator Vandenberg will go to Washington and return with an assistant secretary of war, who will look over the possibilities and possibly make recommendations. In certain cases, it is understood, bridges and highways may be designated as "military" and Federal benefits accrue.

Ionia—On a plea of guilty to a charge of violating the state prohibition law, Alfred Noyes, 54 years old, was sentenced by Judge Royal A. Hawley to life imprisonment in the Michigan State Prison at Jackson under the habitual criminal code. Noyes was sentenced under a section of the code providing life imprisonment for a fourth felony. Noyes had been convicted of grand larceny in Clinton County in 1896; of burglary in Eaton County in 1902, and of burglary in Eaton County in 1905. He is now married.

Pontiac—Jack Travis, 31 years old/ was sentenced to serve 4 1/2 to 5 years in State prison at Jackson after being found guilty of carrying concealed weapons by a jury in circuit court.

Calumet—The first snow of the season fell here recently heralding the coming of winter. No records were broken, however, as snow fell on September 12 in 1923 and earlier than that in other years.

Howell—Definite steps toward the establishment of a municipal airport were taken here when Mayor John Wrigglesworth appointed Councilmen William R. Reader and Bert Woodhams to investigate a number of sites.

Detroit—Baby Stell, the 7-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Stell, 18656 Binder avenue, was found suffocated by bedclothes in her crib one morning. A physician was called but efforts to revive the child failed.

Pontiac—Fifteen days' freedom was traded by Hugh McGinnis, 28 Judson street, for an hour's ride in a taxicab here. McGinnis hired the cab and rode about town until his bill amounted to $9. He then told the driver he had no money. He was given the jail sentence on a disorderly charge.

St. Charles—Charles Parker, 59 years old, guard for the state highway department on a piece of road construction a short distance north of St. Charles, died of injuries received when his automobile was struck by a Pere Marquette switch engine in the village. Parker had just left work and was going home when he drove directly in the path of the locomotive.

East Lansing—One of the entomological specimens arousing curiosity here is a species of moth, native of the West Indies, and not known to breed at all in the United States, which was discovered in Lansing recently by M. G. Farleman, a graduate of Michigan State college. The moth, when discovered, was feebly trying to fly; its wings were badly scarred. The species is popularly known as Black Witch.

Muskegon—R. L. McCredy, Muskegon angler, made the strangest catch of his career the other evening while casting for muskellunge in Mona Lake. Was it a fish? It was not. Mr. McCredy caught and landed a petican. Just as he cast out his plug he received a strike in midair, and then followed a battle in which 150 feet of line was used. McCredy exhausted the bird, tied its legs and has it on display at his home. Its wing spread is seven feet.

Elsie—Leonard Burdick, 35 years old, foreman of the Elsie fire crew and village night watchman, was seriously injured in the explosion of a chemical tank in the village hall. A fire truck in charge of Burdick had made three runs to the home of Chester Reed, a mile northeast of Elsie, where fire destroyed the upper part of the building, and its tanks were being refilled by Burdick when the explosion blew off the cap of a tank, which struck Burdick in the head.

Owosso—The State Exchange bank building at Bancroft, 15 miles south of here, was destroyed by fire entailing a loss of $35,000. The bank building housed the grocery and meat market of W. E. Parker and company, the Woodmen and Pythian lodge rooms and a beauty parlor owned by Miss Lois Byan. The fire started in the basement of the bank and had a big start when discovered. A heavy fire wall prevented it from spreading to the store of B. J. Love, next door.

Mason—Immediately following the close of the pheasant hunting season on Oct. 31 the State will liberate 2,300 pheasants that have been reared at the Mason Game Farm. Each bird will carry a small metal leg band serially numbered. When the hunting season opens in 1929 hunters will be asked to return the bands from any birds shot with information as to when and where the bird was taken. In this way the Department hopes to check the migratory habits of the birds.

Lansing—Gov. Fred W. Green's majority over George W. Welsh in the Republican primary Sept. 4 was 222,119 votes, according to the official count compiled by the State Board of Canvassers. The Governor received 421,505 votes and Welsh 199,388. Luron D. Dickinson defeated his nearest rival, Fred Woodward, for the Republican nomination for Lieutenant-Governor by 30,200 votes. William A. Comstock, candidate for Governor on the Democratic ticket and unopposed polled 47,269 votes.

Bear Lake—Each year thousands of small fish have found their outlet from Bear Lake and been carried by the strong currents into the swamps, there to die and be eaten by crows when the waters lower instead of increasing the piscatory population of the lake. As the result of activity by the Bear Lake Community Club, the conservation department has installed a small mesh screen across the mouth of the outlet. The screen allows the free passage of water, but prevents the fish from entering the fatal territory.

Lansing—Sight-saving classes for the education of children with defective vision in 15 years have made their most progress in Ohio, Michigan and New York, the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness announces. Ohio is ranked first because its 57 classes provide one for every 19,740 children of public school age, and Michigan is second because its 33 classes provide one for every 22,272 school children. New York's 77 classes provide only one class for every 25,939 children between the ages of six and 16 years.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause." But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25¢ today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store. GIDLEY & MAC, Druggists, adv.

Halliday did not require that knowledge; he had suspected it before. But it gave him a lever. One attempt had already been made by Bethel to get back into the house. Time was getting short; before long we would have to go back to the city, and although he knew by that time who and what Bethel was, he could prove nothing. To go was to abandon the case.

He could not secure the arrest of a man because his lens prescription was the same as the murderer's. Or on the strength of an unsigned book manuscript left behind the wall of the den. He could not prove that Muggie Morrison had died in the process of the experiment. Gordon had puzzled over because the mud on the truck wheels corresponded with the red iron-clay on the lane into the main house. He could not prove his own interpretation of the abbreviations S. and G. T. so liberally scattered through the diary. And he could not prove that it was Bethel who, looking for the broken lens in or near the culvert, had found my fountain pen there. A fact which Gordon had noted in the Journal as follows: "I have them now, sure. W. P. was here last night and left his fountain pen."

But he could, through the Livingstones, take a chance on proving all these things. And against Livingstone's protests and fears, prove it he did.

"As a matter of fact," he says, "they were in a bad position themselves, and they knew it. They had to come over again!"

Things were, indeed, rather parlous for the Livingstones. "As a matter of fact," Halliday says cheerfully, "I gave the police a very pretty case against them. It was all there, according to Greenough. Even to the hand print!"

But he held them off. He had done what he wanted, turned the police along a false trail and was free once more to travel along the true one. And in this he says, and I believe, that his purpose was not mercenary.

"The situation was peculiar," he says. "The slightest slip, the faintest suspicion, and he was off."

And he goes back again to the subtlety and wariness of the criminal himself; so watchful, so wary, that throughout it had even been necessary to keep me in ignorance.

"You had to carry on, Skipper," he says. "In a way, the whole thing hung on you. Even then, you nearly wrecked us once."

Which was, he tells me the night of the second seance, when the criminal actually fell into the trap and entered the house. Livingstone was on guard upstairs that night, and everything would have ended then probably.

"But you spilled the beans," he accuses me.

From the first the seances were devised for a purpose, and I gather that some of the phenomena were deliberately faked, in pursuit of that purpose. On the other hand, Mrs. Livingstone has always been firm in her statement that "things happened" which she cannot explain. The sounds in the library, the lights and the arrival of the book on the table are among them.

But trickery or genuine psychic manifestations in the end they served their purpose. I called the third seance, and the mystery was solved.

It is not surprising that my memory of those last few moments is a clouded one: I was, of all those present except the police, the only one in complete ignorance of the meaning of what was going on about me. Edith knew, and was bravely taking her risk with the others; even my dear Jane knew a little; no wonder she required her smelling salts.

Actually, out of the confusion, only two pictures remain in my mind: One was of Greenough staring at Livingstone, and then jerking aside the curtains of the cabinet, where Halliday and Hayward had opened the panel and after turning on the red globe hanging there, were stooping over a body at the bottom of the ladder.

The other is of that figure at the foot of the stairs.

I know now that it could not have been there; that it was lying, dead of a broken neck, at the foot of the ladder. I have heard all the theories, but I cannot reconcile them with the fact. How could I have imagined it? I did not know then who was inside the wall.

I am not a spiritist, but once in every man's life comes to him the one experience which he can explain by no law of nature as he understands them. To every man his ghost, and to me mine.

In the dim light of the red lamp, dead though he was behind the panel, I will swear that I saw Cameron, alias Simon Bethel, standing at the foot of the stairs and looking up.

Chapter IV

Who are we to judge him? If a man sincerely believes that there is no death, the taking of life to prove it must seem a trivial thing.

He may feel, and from his book manuscript hastily hidden behind the wall of the den we gather he did feel, that the security of the individual counted as nothing against the proof of survival to the human race.

But that he was entirely sane, in those last months, none of us can believe. Cruelty is a symptom of the borderland between sanity and madness; so, too, is the weakening of what we call the Herd instinct. It is well known at the University that for the year previous to his death he had been distinctly anti-social.

Certainly, too, he fulfilled the axiom that insanity is the exaggeration of one particular mental activity. And that he combined this single exaggeration with a high grade of intelligence only proves the close relation between madness and genius: Kant, an able to work unless gazing at a ruined tower; Hawthorne, cutting up his bits of paper; Wagner's periodical violences.

The, very audacity of his disguise, the consistency with which he lived the part he was playing points to what I believe is called dissociation, toward the last there seems to have been a genuine duality of personality: during the day old Simon Bethel, dragging his netless foot and without effort holding his withered hand to its spastic contraction; at night, the active Cameron, making his exits on his nocturnal adventures by the gun room window, wandering about incredible distances; watching the door of Gordon's room and locking him in; learning from me of Halliday's interest in the case, and trying to burn him out; very early realizing the embarrassment of my own presence at the Lodge, and warning me away by that letter from Salem, Ohio.

It seems clear that he had not expected me at the Lodge; Larkin apparently told Gordon, but Gordon neglected to inform him. Just what he felt, what terror and anger, when I greeted him at the house on his arrival will never be known. I remember now how he watched me, peering up at me through his disguising spectacles, with the beer cube in his hand, and waiting. Waiting.

But the disguise held. My own very slight acquaintance with him, my near-sightness, my total lack of suspicion, all were in his favor. And, of the perfection of the disguise, it is enough to say that Gordon apparently never suspected it. He did suspect the paralysis.

"He moved his arm today," he wrote once, in the diary. "He knows I saw it, and he has watched me ever since."

"It takes very little to change an appearance beyond casual recognition," Halliday tells me. "The idea is to take a few important points and substitute their opposites. Take a man with partial paralysis; one side of his face droops, you see. Well, he can't imitate that, but he can put a fig in the other cheek and raise it. Put hair on a bald-headed man, and watch the change. And there are other things; eyebrows now."

Only once did I come anywhere near the truth, and then it slipped past me and I did not catch it. That was on the night he sent for me. After he had struck Gordon down. He was frightened that night, we know now. Gordon was suspicious; might even have gone to the police.

And that night he tested his disguise and me.

Much of the explanation of that tragic summer becomes mere surmise naturally. There is no surmise, however, necessary as regards Cameron's coming to the third seance, at my invitation. So far as he knew, we still believed that Simon Bethel was dead. That our circle, so innocent in appearance, so naive, was a cleverly devised trap seems not to have occurred to him. My frankness, the product of my ignorance, would probably have reassured a man less driven by necessity than he was.

But even had he suspected something, I believe he would have committed other attempts, to enter the house and secure the manuscript, had failed. And any day some bit of mischance, a mouse behind a panel, a casual remark, and this book of his, with its characteristic phrasing, its references to his earlier works, would be in the hands of the police.

With what secret eagerness he accepted my invitation we can only guess. Halliday, carefully plotting, had already discounted his acceptance in advance.

"I knew he would come, of course," he says. "He wanted to get in. We offered him not only that, but darkness to cover any move he wanted to make. It had to work out."

And here he explains the necessity of having the criminal caught flagrante delicto. It had to be shown, he says, not only that Cameron had written the manuscript, but that it was he who had hidden it where it lay.

"The case against 'dm stood or fell by that," he says.

But aside from this, much of the explanation of that tragic summer becomes pure guesswork. We have, however, elaborated the following as fulfilling our requirements as to the situation:

We know for instance that on old Horace Porter's developing interest in spiritism, Mrs. Livingstone referred him to Cameron. But we do not know why that interest developed.

Is it too much, I wonder, to say that the house itself led him to it? In this I know I am on dangerous ground, and it becomes still more dangerous if one grants that Mrs. Livingstone's gift of a red lamp led him to experimenting with it.

We do know, however, that after he had had this lamp for three months or so, he got in touch with Cameron, and it seems probable that such experiments as were made there at night with this lamp roused Cameron to fever heat.

Mrs. Livingstone believes there was a pact between them, the usual one of the first to "pass over" to come back if possible. We do not know that, but it seems plausible. Neither Halliday nor I believe, however, as she does, that Cameron killed the older man, in a fit of rage over the rejection of his proposal to carry their investigations to the criminal point.

What seems more probable is that Cameron had very early recognized the advantages of the house for the psychic and scientific experiments he had in mind, and that he finally submitted the idea to old Horace. With what growing horror and indignation they were received we know from his letter.

Fears Tiger-Tread

CARE OF VETERANS PROMISED BY HOOVER

WASHINGTON.—Addressing a delegation of veterans representing the various war service organizations of the District of Columbia, Herbert Hoover declared against reduction of expenditures for the care of veterans. He approved the policy of Republican administrations during the last seven years in showing ex-service men the utmost liberality.

Mr. Hoover's remarks to the delegation were as follows:

"I believe all of America recognizes our national obligation to our veterans. The country today is providing pensions and compensations to 835,292 men and women, with insurance and adjusted compensation to over four million more. The total expenditures of the government in this direction now exceed $578,948,000 annually, and represent the one important division of the government where the policy has been justifiably to increase rather than to reduce expenditures. This has also been the one important division of the government where the drive for reduction of expenditures has been applied only for economy in its administration—not against the veterans. It is the one division where large measure of increased expenditure of the government has taken place during the past seven years. This is as it should be. This government must not be extravagant but it must be just."

DIPPING INTO SCIENCE

New Plating Process

Although it has long been possible to use most metals—such as gold, silver, nickel, etc.—for plating purposes, it was not until this year that a process for plating aluminum was perfected. Aluminum is the most resistant of all metals to chemical and natural corrosion. Therefore this new discovery is very important to industry. The process was perfected by Uni-Ver of Illinois chemists.

HOOVER CALLED LABOR'S FRIEND

Sympathy for Workers Prompted by Memory of His Own Early Toil.

URGED 8 HOUR STEEL DAY

Induced Manufacturers to Establish Industry on That Basis After 30-Year Struggle.

WASHINGTON.—The intention of Herbert Hoover to keep to a high level the standards of the American home and to do so by continuing his efforts in behalf of labor is shown in a pamphlet, "Hoover and Labor," released by the Hoover for President Labor Council of the Republican National Committee.

During his entire career, beginning at the age of 12 when he was tossed into the world to earn his living, Mr. Hoover has worked wholeheartedly in the cause of the working man. As a laborer himself, as a worker in the mines in his youth and, since 1921, as Secretary of Commerce, Mr. Hoover has studied the problems of American labor and has aided in the solution of many of them, the pamphlet shows.

Aided Long Fight in Steel Mills
Mr. Hoover's labor record is an open book. Policies that have benefited labor have won his unwavering support in every instance, the leaflet reveals.

"In supporting Mr. Hoover," it states "American workers will be voting for one of their own kind."

The brochure further goes on to show that Mr. Hoover's support of the principle of collective bargaining is not mere theory. Prior to 1922 the workers in the steel industry were working 12 hours a day. This condition Mr. Hoover deplored, as he believed that a shorter working day would not only be of untold benefit to the steel worker, but would result in the long run in a greater output and better craftsmanship.

To this end, in 1922, he brought together the steel manufacturers of America and induced them to establish eight hours throughout the entire steel industry. For thirty years organized labor had been fighting to this end and the pamphlet just issued shows that Mr. Hoover's efforts were successful in bringing to a close that long fight of the steel workers.

Mr. Hoover has always believed in collective bargaining and in addition he has constantly upheld the rights of workers to select their own representatives without interference, influence or coercion from any source. He has always opposed the seven-day week, since general in many industries.

Is High Wage Advocate
In 1920 he said: "In fixing hours of labor in industrial establishments at a point consistent with the health of employees and with proper opportunity for rest and recreation, there should in all cases be provision for one day's rest in seven."

"Mr. Hoover believes that the surest road to prosperity is that which leads to prosperity for the masses," the pamphlet says. "While advocating mass production and the use of labor-saving machinery, he has earnestly advocated that labor share in the increased production through higher wages and the adoption of the best conditions of employment in the world. His record in the Department of Commerce and his public utterances demonstrate the earnestness and sincerity of his interest in the workers of our country, who have always looked upon him as a friend."

Digging into the public utterances of the Republican candidate for president, the pamphlet reveals that in his dealing with the question of the restriction of foreign immigration, Mr. Hoover believes that our first concern is to provide employment for our own people and others already here before we permit the admission of many from other countries to compete with American labor. At the same time, in his address of acceptance at Palo Alto, Calif., in August, he promised to do his utmost to amend the immigration laws to relieve unnecessary hardships upon families.

As a basis of protection for the American working man Mr. Hoover believes firmly in the Protective Tariff, the booklet reiterates in pointing out the dangers of a change in administration policies at the present crucial period.

Community Building

Proper City Planning Recognized as Vital

There might have been a time when cities of this country had an excuse for growing up in a sprawling, haphazard manner, with little or no regard to what the future needs of the communities might be.

The situation is different today. The cities, a great majority of them at least, have been established. Their growth or lack of growth is largely a matter of record. It is possible to gauge with some accuracy the nature and extent of future development. It is possible also to plan for that development. A recognition of this fact is perhaps the one big achievement of American cities generally in the last decade or so. Planning and zoning have been adopted in hundreds of cities and have made some progress in most of these.

The condition is the subject of a report by a national advisory committee on city planning and zoning that was appointed by Secretary Hoover of the Department of Commerce. The report, prepared by a group of widely known authorities, states that cities now have found that regulation of growth pays. It is coming to be accepted as a business proposition. The protection of home areas, the designation of certain districts for industries, the opening or widening of streets in accordance with traffic needs, the establishing of parks and playgrounds within easy reach of the people and other similar planning all have become a serious concern to the alert and enterprising city of today.

Uniform Signs Make for Highway Safety

An important step to promote highway safety was recently taken by the United States bureau of public roads in co-operation with the state highway departments, in adopting uniform standards for warning signs to be used throughout the country.

The motorist will no longer be confused by a multiplicity of signs of various designs and degrees of legibility. Hazards will be indicated by signs which will be uniform in all states and which will plainly indicate the kind and degree of danger.

The new signs make use of a system of different shapes, thereby increasing their value at night. The shape indicates the degree of hazard and if the motorist cannot read the legend, the shape will tell him the degree of caution required. Twenty states are now actually engaged in erecting these standard warning signs, and other states have signified their intention of doing the same.—Scientific American.

Protecting Highways

Highway engineers generally agree that an expenditure of, say, $1,500 for grass seed to protect the embankments of highways against washing will oftentimes save the expenditure of $15,000 for the repair of such embankments after they have been damaged by washing. Of course the grass also beautifies the highways, and this is not an unimportant matter, but the main purpose in grassing highways is the preservation of the banks, and not the beautifying of the highways, although the latter is not to be despised.

By all means Tennessee's highways should be preserved against the effect of surface water, and the roadbed itself cannot be permanently preserved unless the embankments are protected against crumbling. The few dollars spent for grass seed is wholly inconsequential compared with the great number of dollars saved in the repair of crumbling embankments. It would be a penny-wise and pound-foolish policy to discontinue the grassing of our roadsides simply to save a few dollars in grass seed.—Nashville (Tenn.) Banner.

City's Money Well Spent

Now that we know the worst about our cities, perhaps there will be a greater effort made to abolish the ugly and substitute the stightly. Although beauty is not something to be weighed by the pound, and although its beneficial results cannot be computed by the yardstick, somehow or other those cities that have achieved beauty in any degree feel that it has been money and effort well spent, although nobody should get the idea that money alone can purchase beauty for a city. There must be the eye of the artist and his sympathetic desire to achieve beauty. Let this rivalry by all means not be slackened.—Exchange.

Making for City's Growth

Location with respect to railroads or rivers and accessibility to areas of varied raw materials have had much to do with the permanence and growth of cities in the past. These factors still will count; but another vital consideration will be the attention a city is ready to give to matters affecting the comfort, convenience and general welfare of its inhabitants.

Costly Neglect

A paint expert declares that farmers in this country lose about $800,000,000 a year from depreciation on farm buildings, resulting from failure to protect them by adequate paint.

Sweet Clover Is Partial to Lime

Inoculation and Firm Seed Bed Are Important in Securing Stand.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
Sweet clover will grow almost anywhere, providing there are more than 17 inches of rain and sufficient lime in the soil. However, in spite of the fact that sweet clover is a hardy plant, it is not always easy to get a stand.

In a new publication just issued by the United States Department of Agriculture as Leaflet 23-L, "Sweet Clover," some of the essentials of sweet clover culture and utilization are discussed by Dr. A. J. Peters, agronomist of the bureau of plant industry. A copy of the leaflet may be secured upon request.

Three Essentials

Three things are especially important in securing a stand of sweet clover, according to Doctor Peters. They are lime, inoculation and a firm seed bed. It may not always be necessary to neutralize an acid soil, but sweet clover commonly must have lime if it is to do well. Inoculation of the seed or soil is advisable where the crop is to be grown on land that has grown neither alfalfa nor sweet clover before. A firm seed bed is necessary. Many failures have been shown to be due to lack of rolling or compacting the soil after plowing.

Sweet clover may be utilized as hay, pasture, and for soil improvement purposes. As a hay crop, however, it is not equal to alfalfa or red clover. As a pasture, a good stand of sweet clover in its second season will furnish more grazing than any other plant known. It is also an excellent crop for soil improvement, and fortunately it will serve both as a pasture and a soil improving crop at the same time. In some sections it has been found that the increased yields of sugar beets due to sweet clover were practically the same when the crop was turned under after being pastured as when the entire crop was turned under.

Value as Soil Builder

The value of sweet clover as a soil improver lies in its ability to take nitrogen from the air through the nodules on the roots, to store this in its thick roots and in the stems and leaves, and to deliver it by rapid decay when it is turned under. Much of the nitrogen in the top growth of the first season moves into the roots in the fall and is stored there. The new growth in the spring is made from this stored nitrogen, and in April and early May, as the nitrogen in the tops increases, that in the roots decreases. This feature and the fact that it starts growth very early make sweet clover an ideal green manure for corn. It is not necessary to wait for a large spring growth before turning under; usually there will be no more nitrogen May 15 than there was April 15, and the field can be plowed just as soon as plowing can be done after a few inches of growth have been made to insure that the tops will die and not come up in the corn.

A copy of the leaflet may be obtained by writing to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Jersey Black Giant Is Preferred for Its Meat

The market for poultry often discriminates against black fowls, which has perhaps caused some breeders to stick to other colors when they in reality prefer blacks. This has been one of the greatest boons to the Jersey Black Giants. They are black, to be sure, but the ideal Giant quill is white where it enters the skin, and once dressed there is none of the disagreeable color remaining that happens when other black breeds or varieties are dressed. Add to this one fact the several others such as growth, heavy weight, vigor and beauty, not forgetting that the Giant is the largest of smooth-legged chickens, and the poultry raiser has a bird hard to beat.

Short Farm Notes

One-fourth of American soil is best suited for growing trees.

Do not let cattle into the wood lot to destroy young seedlings.

Milk, cod liver oil, corn products, and leafy green food make chickens grow.

The European corn borer can be controlled, but it will take time, plus concerted and concentrated effort.

Since 1850 the leading states in the production of maple sugar and sirup have been, in order, New York, Vermont and Ohio.

With sweet corn, it has been observed that hills planted with large kernels mature quicker than those that grow from small seed of the same variety.

One way for farmers to avoid the expense of buying fence posts in the future is to plant a small area of hard to black locust, European larch, or white cedar. These will furnish posts in 15 to 25 years.

Concrete floors will reduce our costly fire bill

Popular sentiment has demanded that our modern hotels, apartment houses, schools, theatres and office buildings be fire safe throughout. To be thoroughly fire safe a building should have concrete floors beneath the hard wood, linoleum, carpeting or other surfacing. If we demand fire safe construction in larger buildings we should also demand it in our homes.

A large proportion of residence fires start in the basement. Concrete first floors will prevent them from spreading to the upper rooms. In addition, concrete floors prevent structural sagging and plaster cracking.

May we tell you about them?

REPUBLICANS GIVE FARMERS HOME MARKET MONOPOLY

WASHINGTON. — The American farmer under Republican administration has had practically a monopoly of his home market. In this protected market he disposes of 85 per cent of his products at prices higher than are paid elsewhere in the world for like products. This is pointed out in the Republican campaign textbook.

The complete book is being printed in installments of which the first is devoted entirely to agriculture, and includes pertinent extracts from Herbert Hoover's acceptance address, the agricultural plank of the Kansas City platform and other pertinent data relative to the farm situation.

In addition to this, there is a recital of the Republican party's constructive legislation in behalf of agriculture since 1920, a provision intended to show that the promises now being made to the farmers by Mr. Hoover and Senator Curtis spring from a sympathetic attitude and therefore will be fulfilled in good faith by the Republicans.

The problems of agriculture are treated from an economic rather than a political viewpoint, and emphasis is laid on the freedom from economic fallacies of the agricultural legislation already passed by Republican congresses which includes 24 measures since March, 1921, when the Republicans came into office.

CITY OF EAST JORDAN REGISTRATION NOTICE.

For General Election Nov. 6th, 1928.

To the Qualified Electors of the City of East Jordan, State of Michigan.

Notice is hereby given that in conformity with the "Michigan Election Law," I, the undersigned City Clerk, will, upon any day except Sunday and a legal holiday, the day of any regular or special election or primary election, receive for registration the name of any legal voter in said City not already registered who may APPLY TO ME PERSONALLY for such registration. Provided, however, that I can receive no names for registration during the time intervening between the Second Saturday before any regular, special, or official primary election and the day of such election.

The last day for General Registration does not apply to persons who vote under the Absent Voters' Law. (See Registration by Affidavit.)

OCTOBER 27, 1928—LAST DAY for General Registration by personal application for said election.

Notice is hereby given that I will be at my Office under Postoffice on—OCT. 13 and OCT. 20, 1928 From 8 o'clock a. m. until 8 o'clock p. m., on each said day for the purpose of REVIEWING the REGISTRATION and REGISTERING such of the qualified electors in said CITY as SHALL PROPERLY apply therefor.

The name of no person but an ACTUAL RESIDENT of the precinct at the time of registration, and entitled under the constitution, if remaining such resident, to vote at the next election shall be entered in the registration book.

REGISTRATION BY AFFIDAVIT
Sec. 10—Registering of Electors: Regular Session of 1925—Any absent voter, as defined in this act, whose name is not registered and who shall claim the right to vote by absent voter's ballot at any election or primary election, may at the time of making application for absent voter's ballot, present to the City Clerk an affidavit for registration which shall be in substantially the following form:

AFFIDAVIT FOR REGISTRATION STATE OF MICHIGAN,
County of _____ ss.

I, _____ being duly sworn, depose and say that I am a citizen and duly qualified elector of the Ward of the City of _____ in the County of _____ and State of Michigan; that my postoffice address is No. _____ street, _____ or R. F. D. No. _____ P. O. _____; that I am not now registered as an elector therein and that I am voting by absent voter's ballot at the election (or primary election) to be held upon the _____ day of _____, 192____, the application for which ballot accompanies this application; that I make this affidavit for the purpose of procuring my registration as an elector in accordance with the statute that I make the following statements in compliance with the Michigan Election Law: Age _____; Race _____; Birthplace _____; Date of naturalization _____; I further swear or affirm that the answers given to the above questions concerning my qualifications as an elector are true and correct to the best of my knowledge and belief.

Taken, subscribed and sworn to before me this _____ day of _____, 192____.

Signed _____
Notary Public in and for said County, State of Michigan.

My Commission expires _____ 192____.

Note—If this acknowledgement is taken outside of the State, the Certificate of the Court that the person taking the acknowledgement is a notary must be attached.

REGISTRATION OF ABSENTEE BY OATH.

If any person whose name is not registered shall offer and claim the right to vote at any election, or primary election, and shall UNDER OATH, state that he or she is a resident of such precinct and has resided in the WARD TWENTY DAYS next preceding such election, designating particularly the place of his or her residence and that he or she possesses the other qualifications of an elector under the constitution; and that, owing to the sickness or bodily infirmity of himself or herself, or some member of his or her family or owing to his or her absence from the City on public business or his or her own business, and without intent to avoid or delay his or her registration, he or she was unable to make application for registration on the last day provided by law for the registering of electors preceding such election, then the name of such person shall be registered, and he or she shall then be permitted to vote at such election. If such applicant shall in said matter, wilfully make any false statement, he or she shall be deemed guilty of perjury, and upon conviction, be subject to the pains and penalties thereof.

Provided, That any city may provide by its charter or by resolution approved by a majority of the members of its legislative body for the registration of such sick and absent voters on the last Saturday preceding any election or primary election at the places of voting in the several voting districts of such city, instead of on election or primary election day.

PROVISION IN CASE OF REMOVAL TO ANOTHER PRECINCT.

Any registered and qualified voter who has MOVED from ONE ELECTION PRECINCT of a Ward to another election precinct of the same Ward shall have the right, on any day previous to election day, on application to the City Clerk, to have his or her name transferred from the registration book of the precinct from which he or she HAS REMOVED to the registration book of the precinct in which he or she THEN RESIDES. Such elector shall have the right to have such transfer made ON ELECTION DAY, or Primary election day, by obtaining from the board of inspectors of election of the precinct from which he or she HAS MOVED a CERTIFICATE OF TRANSFER, and presenting the said certificate to the BOARD OF ELECTION INSPECTORS OF THE PRECINCT IN WHICH HE OR SHE THEN RESIDES.

Dated Sept. 15, A. D. 1928.
OTIS J. SMITH, City Clerk.

Dr. Blanche M. Haines, director of maternity and infancy work for the children's bureau of the United States Department of Labor, has returned from an extended trip through the South, which took her through flooded districts in Arkansas and burning brush in New Mexico, during her work of teaching the women the care of infants and prenatal care of themselves.

Community Building

Artistic Walks Make for Home Beautiful

Perhaps there is nothing that lends more to the appearance of the surroundings of a home than neat, artistically placed walks and driveways. Careful thought given to their placing and arrangement at the time they are built will more than repay the owner in the attractiveness they will add to the exterior of the home. Every lawn offers a variety of possibilities in location and arrangement.

Like streets and highways, walks and driveways must be designed to meet the needs of those who use them. While it is generally desirable to have them take the most direct route, pleasing effects can often be obtained by the use of graceful curves. It is folly to destroy a fine tree because it happens to be in line with the route of the walk or driveway; a graceful curve around the tree does not inconvenience any one and it will add to the beauty of the home surroundings. Often such curves can be arranged so that the garage is partially hidden behind a clump of trees or bushes. In building such curves provision must be made for the growth of the tree to prevent it from raising or cracking the concrete. Often it is possible by the use of colors mixed in the concrete to give a pleasing tone to the surface, and if desired the walk and driveway can be made somewhat decorative by marking off the surface into geometrical patterns which will harmonize with the architecture of the house.

Shrubs Give Beauty to Garden or Park

Relatively large numbers of shrubs should be used in nearly all landscape plantings, whether these are upon home or public grounds.

Very often there will be ten times as many shrubs as trees. The importance of these shrubs is especially marked upon small home lots, whether about the farmhouse or in the crowded city. It is essential, therefore, that every one who undertakes to develop his own grounds, or who has any responsibility for public grounds, should understand the care of shrubbery.

And since the most serious annual attention probably lies in the pruning, special consideration may fairly be given to this topic.

Shrubs of most species may be pruned with excellent results either in midsummer or early spring. If the summer season is chosen the work should be done soon after the year's growth is completed, and this point is reached earlier than most persons suppose. Generally speaking, July 15 to 31 may be taken as the most favorable time for summer pruning.

Business on Golf Course

McComb has in the Golf Club a business asset as well as a source of recreation. More and more commercial deals are being transacted between friends, for the great value of warm personal contacts in business affairs is having increasingly wider recognition. A large number of these connections are made on just such places as the golf course. Connections that will add to the pleasure and competence of commercial transactions because of the friendly understanding enjoyed by buyer and seller. The well-known and much-talked-of "Tired Business Man" can rest in these surroundings, the good reputation that counts so enormously in the success of his business. In our opinion the professional man of McComb would find that an afternoon or two of golf every week would be of surprising benefit to his every interest.—McComb (Miss.) Journal.

Rents to Be Compared

A comparison of existing rents and existing ground values in various cities of the United States is being made by the National Association of Real Estate Boards through a questionnaire which will be sent to all member boards.

The association is asking its member boards to state the actual rents being received for property in the best business districts, in secondary business districts and the like. It is asking at the same time the ground values current in these same sections of the city.

As a result of this study it expects to make possible a valuable comparison of relationship between rents and ground values over the country.

Take Interest in Schools

The citizens of Troy and Pike should take it upon themselves to show their interest in the local schools by visiting them. We feel sure that teachers and school officials will be glad to see the parents of the pupils and there will be a better understanding all around. Few grown people take enough interest in the work of the schools. There is no more important activity in this community. The teachers who train our children are wielding great influence upon the future of Troy. Luckily, most of them are extremely conscientious in their work, but that does not mean they would not be glad to see that the nature of their task is appreciated. Troy (Ga.) Messenger.

How Do You Buy?

When you enter a store to buy anything, how do you ask for it? Do you call for the articles by name, or do you generalize—a can of tomato soup; a bag of flour; an aluminum kettle; so many square yards of linoleum; a meat grinder?

It is much better and far more satisfactory to specify the articles you want by name, for merchandise that is good enough to be sold by name is almost always better in quality, and usually no higher in price, than goods of uncertain lineage and less certain quality.

The advertising columns of this newspaper carry advertised names that are familiar to millions of people. Soap, flour, sugar, cereals, kitchen ware, rugs, linoleum, automobiles, etc. They represent those articles that stand for the best in their respective classes of merchandise—quality all through.

Advertising keeps these names before you constantly. Advertising is a constant reminder that the articles you want are the same articles that you see advertised day after day—that justify their being by the service they render. And advertising brings you news—of inventions, discoveries, improvements that keep you up to date.

Tell the sales-clerk what you want by its advertised name, You'll get it—and your money will purchase full value. It pays to read advertising and remember advertised names.

One touch of humor makes the whole world grin.

A man seldom gets so full of emotion that he has no room for dinner.

If you have to cover the distance, it doesn't lend enchantment to the view.

A woman can never throw anything straight except kisses.

The "ardent lover" is at sea when his best girl throws him overboard.

A promise is but a small outlay from which large returns are expected.

Why is the hired girl of foreign birth called a domestic?

You can never tell what a woman or a jury is going to do.

Lots of men can sympathize with the moon when it reaches its last quarter.

WASHINGTON CALLS HER GRACIOUS AND CAPABLE

Official and unofficial Washington, alike, knowing Mrs. Hoover well, call her gracious, capable, and of pleasing personality. She is also known for her wide variety of interests. She was National Chairman of the girl scouts; has travelled with her husband all over the world; is a graduate mining engineer; is co-translator with Mr. Hoover of a medieval German mining text book; the holder of several college degrees; and is recognized as an ideal hostess, wife, and mother.
