DIPPING INTO SCIENCE

How Lizards Change Color

Chameleons and some lizards have power to change color

Some of the cells within their skin are filled with yellowish oil drops, some cells contain small granules which look white from reflecting light, and still others contain brown or reddish pigment. Contraction of different parts of the skin at the will of the lizard causes the different cells to function.

EAST JORDAN GIRLS WIN STATE HONORS

Bea Boswell and Katherine Wageman rank high for State honors as typists. They competed in the State Scholastic Contest held at Mt. Pleasant last Friday, Miss Boswell winning first, with a speed of 62 words per minute, and Miss Wageman winning second with a speed of 57 words per minute which are exceptional speeds for first year typists. These records placed East Jordan second in the Vocational Division of Class C schools. There were 93 schools represented by about 1700 students at this Contest. On Saturday these girls entered another State Contest at Kalamazoo.

At this Contest they competed with students entirely out of their class so far as size of schools was concerned. This Contest was comprised of winners of the 19 District Contests held in various parts of the State a few weeks previous, which included such schools as Lansing, Cadillac, Saginaw, Flint, Monroe, Battle Creek, and Grand Rapids. Here Katherine Wageman won second place with a speed of 59 words per minute and Bea Boswell won fourth place with a speed of 55 words per minute. This means that East Jordan has the second and fourth best first-year typists in Michigan. They are honor students in other classes as well.

Only one other student from this District, a boy from Petoskey, succeeded in placing in the State Contest. He placed third in second-year typewriting.

The commercial students are to be highly commended for their interest in winning State honors. They earned their own money to send these girls to the State Contest. Had it not been for their interest in doing so, East Jordan would not have been recognized. The Commercial Department extends their word of appreciation to the girls individually because they paid their own expenses while at Mt. Pleasant. Had they not been willing to do this, East Jordan would have been out of the Scholastic Contest.

Faint heart or complexion never won a husband.

Hart—The valedictorian and salutatorian of the Hart High School this year are twin sisters. They are Ruth and Ruby Van Sickle, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Van Sickle, who own a farm near here. The girls are 18.

Jackson—Umpiring a baseball game proved disastrous for Emil Renfer, 32 years old. Renfer was called upon to make a close decision at home plate. The base runner, catcher and umpire went down in a cloud of dust. When the air had cleared it was found that Renfer's leg was broken.

Mt. Clemens—Quiet cows give more milk, and music keeps them quiet, so the cows at the Detroit Creamery farms on Gratiot road near here are getting radio concerts daily. The huge barns of the company have been fitted with loud speakers, and the radio is turned on at milking time and the songs and music are kept going while the animals are being groomed.

Jackson—Formation of the International Aircraft Company, of Jackson, and plans to build an airplane factory in this city within six months, were announced here. The company has completed arrangements to purchase the assets of the International Aircraft Corporation, of Cincinnati. It will build two planes, a three-place open-cock-pit biplane and a six-place cabin biplane.

Owosso—Roy Wing, 13 years old, is in the Memorial Hospital, suffering from a bullet wound in his stomach, received when a revolver he was carrying in his belt was discharged. The boy had attended a motion picture theater and on the way home became excited in talking over the picture with his chum. He gesticulated too wildly and the revolver was fired. Despite his wound, he walked a mile to his home. He is expected to recover.

East Lansing—Flint Central High School won the band championship of Michigan by a third of a point from Grand Rapids South High School at the State music Contest held here recently under auspices of the Michigan State College. It is announced by Ada Bicking, assistant superintendent of public instruction and director of music education. The orchestra championship was won by Hamtramck, with Grand Rapids Union second.

Traverse City—Fifty business men who leased Ransom field six years ago and three years ago bought it to hold until the city should take it over as a municipal airport, may decide to lease the property to the city for interest and taxes, until a municipal airport can be constructed on another site. An airport commission, appointed by Mayor George Lardie, virtually has decided that the 80-acre field should be abandoned in favor of a more expensive project.

SPUDS MAKE APPEARANCE IN CITY SIZE CONTAINER

Keeping in step with the changing trend of consumer demand, the Michigan Potato Growers Exchange, of Cadillac, has gone into the big cities with potatoes of guaranteed quality and has begun selling them in 15-lb. cloth sacks.

Buffalo was the first city where this new sales method was undertaken this season and the first carload of northern Michigan potatoes offered in these convenient sized containers drew 10 or 12 cents more per sack than the prevailing market price for just plain spuds.

This was an experiment and followed a recent retail survey in Chicago which showed that the average consumer purchase of potatoes there is about seven pounds at a time. Lack of storage facilities makes it necessary for the city housewife to purchase in smaller quantities than was the custom a generation ago, it is found.

The Buffalo experiment with potatoes put up in the small, convenient sized containers brought orders for 2,000 bags within a few hours. The bulk of these orders were from the higher-class residential sections.

The potatoes in the first shipment were graded and packed by the Boyne City Farmers' Marketing Ass'n. The sacks used were branded with the "Chief Petoskey" trademark of the Michigan Potato Growers Exchange. Thus, the trade name could be placed in the homes where demand for specific brands originates. This was the chief purpose of the experiment this winter.

Potatoes are just potatoes to the city buyer as long as he sees them taken out of hundred pound bags or bushel crates or barrels, but when he notes a trade-mark on a convenient sized bag and learns that a commodity of extra good quality is packed therein, a demand for this product is set up. This was found to be the case on the Buffalo market and the Exchange aims to supply that demand for select potatoes in 1929.

PLAN FOR WORLD SCOUT JAMBOREE

1,500 American Lads Will Go to England.

New York.—Fifteen hundred American boys will make a pilgrimage to England this summer to take part in the greatest peace-time encampment of boys that the world has ever known. The group will be the official representatives of the Boy Scouts of America at the World Jamboree to be held at Birkenhead, across the Mersey river from Liverpool, England, from July 31 to August 18 this year. Fifty thousand Boy Scouts representing 42 different nations will pitch their tents and for two weeks will work and play together. The World Jamboree is being held to celebrate the twenty-first birthday of the founding of the Boy Scout movement and also to pay tribute to Sir Robert Baden-Powell, chief scout of the world, who founded the movement. More than 400 acres of ground will be under canvas when the World Jamboree opens on July 31.

In patrol units of eight, under adult leaders, the American Scouts will embark from a score of different ports and landing at Liverpool, Harwich, Grimsby, Hull, Goolie and Newcastle, will pilgrimage to the Jamboree camp. Many of the American Scouts will embark on special trains from the various English seaports and be carried to Birkenhead and Upton. From there they will be transported by motor to Arrow park, where the world-gathering is to be held.

Reports from the International Scout Bureau, at London, England, state that more than 15,000 Boy Scouts are expected from countries outside of the British empire. The Dominion and colonial possessions of Great Britain will send an additional 2,000 scouts to the Jamboree and the remainder of the group will be made up of English Scouts.

Many notables from continental Europe will be present at the Jamboree. In previous Jamborees held at four-year intervals, the kings of England, Sweden and Denmark have attended. This year, the prince of Wales will be a guest at the Boy Scout encampment. The actual dates of the Jamboree are from July 31 to August 18, but most of the Scouts from abroad will spend additional time visiting with Scouts of continental Europe and in tours to places of historic interest.

Boston School to Give Posture Scholarships

Boston.—A "posture scholarship," recognizing the importance of correct posture, or the right use of the body as the basis of health, said to be the first of its kind, has been established at the Boston School of Physical Education, according to Miss Mary F. Stratton, director.

The award will be made annually to the young woman who throughout the school year shows the most intelligent understanding of posture and poise. Students of the school will choose the winner, the award being subject to ratification by the director and executive committee.

The fund is to be known as the Marguerite Sanderson scholarship in recognition of the outstanding services of Marguerite Sanderson, first president and one of the founders of the institution.

Survivor of Merrimac Adjudged Incompetent

Falls City, Neb.—George Barker, eighty-six, one of the last survivors of the crew of the Merrimac, famous iron battleship of the Confederates during the Civil war, lives in the past. Although his memory is as clear as a bell concerning the events of that famous Merrimac-Monitor battle, he has been adjudged incompetent to manage his own affairs by a sanity commission in District court. Old age has undermined the veteran's mentality and the present has slipped from his grasp.

"Boots" Weber to Keep Nickname in New Job

Los Angeles.—Charles ("Boots") Weber has risen from a job as a cigar clerk to the position of director of the $15,000,000 corporation which manages the vast California interests of William Wrigley, Jr., millionaire manufacturer and baseball magnate. The only stipulation made by Wrigley in entrusting Weber with his business that "Boots" retain his nickname.

Dons Suit of Another; Is Left Without Pants

San Francisco.—When Le Vene Sears appeared in police court to answer a charge of petty theft he didn't come before the bar of justice in a barrel but it almost came to that. Sears was arrested after Ivan H. Parker saw Sears on Market street wearing a suit of clothes that Parker had sent to the cleaners. The cleaners' boy returned the suit to Sears' address, where Sears received it gratefully. And he wore it until Parker spotted his suit and called the police. Parker recovered his suit and Sears—well, he was just a bit embarrassed until a kindly policeman fitted him out with trousers.

WHAT HAVE I DONE TODAY?

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

WHAT have I done today to make a better world for some one's sake?

What child is happier for a smile, What man for comradeship awhile? What woman today has found in me A touch of knightly chivalry? There are such chances all the way To serve, what have I done today?

For, if I cannot think of one Good deed my busy hands have done, Cannot recall a single word The hearts of sadness should have heard.

If I have been so much concerned With my affairs I never turned To answer some one's sudden call, What matter if I lived at all?

Oh, I may dream of things to do When I have put my own dreams through, But heaven does not count as such The gifts of those who have too much. But how God loves—For God is just—The beggar who divides a crust.

Tomorrow is too far away To count. What have I done today? (© 1929, Douglas Malloch.)

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

PERSISTENCY AND FAITH

THERE are many untraveled roads in which you may waylay Success, and bid it stand and deliver. To the unobserving, the unadventurous and the indolent, these gold-paved highways are invisible, yet within easy reach of anyone with courage to tread them, move ahead, work and be patient.

The Fates have decreed, for some reason of their own, that these roads which take with certainty to the heights are not for the changelings and slothfuls who call themselves men, and prate over dinner tables, deaf to the well-meant advice of those who are still pressing onward, thrilled and delighted in the chase.

From one stage of success to another these unyielding leaders of progress keep going, climbing, rising every hour to greater power and influence.

In the beginning of their careers, as poor boys without aid or influence, these world leaders gave heed to sane counsel. They scoffed not such words of wisdom as Lord Northcliffe expressed when asked what particular quality or qualities he regarded as of supreme importance to enable a man to make his mark.

"Persistence," he replied. "Of course, sound health," he added reflectively. "is almost indispensable to doing any big work in the world. But, after allowing for proper care of one's health, persistency is the one quality which is essential to solid, sustained achievement.

"You must have faith in yourself, faith in your purpose, faith in your plans."

PERSISTENCY AND FAITH! Turn those compelling words over and over in your mind. Think about them, keep them with you, paint them in bold letters where they may always be seen. Lord Northcliffe thought most people did not work enough, and that in the work they did they wasted time, particularly in the evenings and often late into the night in "idle, aimless and pointless talk during the hours that could be devoted more profitably to sleep."

He himself went to bed every night at 9:30. He started work promptly every morning at 6:30, with his secretaries on hand, ready to attack the day's duties. This system gave him freedom for golf and other recreations; freedom for reading; freedom to enjoy himself in addition to attending to a great deal of business.

Lord Northcliffe was a great believer in a good night's sleep and early rising, but persistency and faith, he was sure, arrest the petrifying influence of idleness, awake dormant abilities, and take straight to S-U-C-C-E-S-S!

The SANDMAN STORY

ABOUT THE ROBINS

"I ALWAYS try to be the first one," said little Mr. Robin Red Breast. He was hopping about, enjoying the very early spring flowers which were coming out on the bushes and in some of the flower beds. He was enjoying too, the green grass.

Such things were very popular with Mr. Robin Red Breast.

"Yes, you always come ahead of me," said young Master Robin. "You must make a very early start."

"I do," said little Mr. Robin Red Breast.

"But," said young Master Robin, "aren't you afraid you will find that there still will be some cold cold weather? Aren't you afraid you will find it very hard to keep warm?"

"I often think of starting sooner and then I say to myself: 'Master Robin, it is warm where you are. It may be chilly for some time where you are going. Be wise and do not take chances."

"The First Robin," They Cry. "The First Robin of the Year."

"Yes," said little Mr. Robin Red Breast, "I, too, think of that."

"But I am willing to take a chance on the cold, and I'm willing to be a little chilly at times for the sake of the great welcome I receive. And because, too, of the joy I give to those who've been seeing snow and feeling cold and who long for the warmth of spring."

"They feel it will be warmer when they see me, and they know that even though chilly days still may come, that spring is really on the way and that it will come very soon."

"Oh, young Master Robin, there is no thrill in the world so great as being the first robin to arrive. Of course, others come along with me and stop at different places, but as we come along I hurry over to this city park.

"And people suddenly notice me. I've only just arrived, of course."

"But they wonder if I've been here a little while and they haven't noticed me."

"Ah, no, they notice me quickly. I can tell you that!"

"Yes, the people notice me. The children see me and their happy, gay, shrieks of delight just make my little robin heart beat with joy."

"And the grownups see me—ladies and gentlemen, too. But the children are the very first to notice me."

"The first robin, they cry. 'The first robin of the year.'"

"And my feathers almost seem to tremble with excitement."

"I'm told by my brothers and cousins and friends who go to the country that it is just as exciting there."

"But I always come to the city for it seems to me a city park needs me more."

"And to hear the excitement I make and the joy I bring I will risk a little chilly weather, young Master Robin."

"So will others of the family who make very early starts. They know the great joy and excitement of being a first arrival."

"Oh, young Master Robin, if ever you heard that cry of joy which comes when you're first noticed hopping about you would never miss again hearing it."

"It is something I cannot describe. My robin words are too few in which to properly describe it to you."

"But I will try to do so in this way:"

"It is as though the people suddenly felt my new happiness in their hearts, and so much of it, too, that they wanted to send forth that happiness around about them."

"And they send it forth by their joyous voices and we creatures of the early spring catch some of it as it goes around."

"Almost it is as though they said: 'Little Mr. Robin Red Breast you have brought us so much joy—see! We have lots of happiness to spare. Here, take some of ours and when the cool days come hold the happiness close to your dear little heart so that it will keep you from being sorry you came so early.'"

"That is the way it feels to me."

And young Master Robin said:

"Next year I will be one of the first arrivals. I've made up my robin mind to that, little Mr. Robin Red Breast."

QUEENS OF THIS AND THAT RULE IN PARIS

Beauty Contests Reveal but Little Beauty.

Paris.—Galveston has much to answer for in Europe. In maintaining international beauty contests the Galveston boosters have revived a dying custom of electing queens that is spreading until it seems likely that everybody but the bearded lady and the horse-face girl will be elected beauty queen of something or other.

The very latest is Mlle. Yvonne Demoussier, who was elected queen of the tripe strippers at the tripe strippers' annual ball.

The queen of tobacco sells tad cigars at a drafty counter. She used to be a nice girl; but since her coronation she seldom gets her hands free from her lipstick and talcum, and her hauteur is such that customers feel as if they should salaam and bump their heads on the tiled floor when she deals out short change.

Queens of Everything.

Queens of Montmartre, queens of Montparnasse, queens of each of the twenty wards of the city, queens of the artists' models, queens of the mannequins, queens of the salesgirls, queens of the trolley conductors, queens of the waitresses, laundresses, and window washers jostle each other in the illustrated papers. Recently there was crowned a "queen of the Corsicans of Paris," Mlle. Simone Ferrari was elected, crowned, robed in fake ermine, surrounded by maids of honor, and solemnly enthroned.

There are only eighty-six other "departments" of France with colonies in Paris, each of which will have a queen or her regarded as not inferior with proper regional pride.

A queen of the concierges (janitors) was elected a month ago.

Nor is Paris alone afflicted with the beauty-queen rash. A "worst queen" was elected in Berlin to the thump of foaming steins.

The Galveston beauty show, which is responsible for most of this produced a pretty poor lot of European beauty queens this year. Maurice de Walleffe, the man who last year tried to make knee dress suits what the well-dressed man will wear scouted all over Europe supervising the elections. But this is one of the things that they do not so well in Europe. They are not so democratic and not so thorough about it as in the United States.

Girls who are sure of their beauty seem to place it in doubt by competing to prove it. Furthermore, the custom of judging the candidates in bathing suits has not yet won its way over here. It shocks European the ories of modesty. The candidates are few and they are judged on their faces and ankles.

When the lot of them came to Paris from Poland, Rumania, Greece, Hungary, Germany, Holland, Italy, Spain, and other countries, sixteen in all it was appalling to see how much alike they looked and how really empty was their so-called beauty.

Has Double Chin.

The juries from one end of Europe to the other seemed to have ruled out all candidates representing the really individual qualities of their various races. The fascinating differences in type due to centuries of race-breeding were all discarded in favor of the more world variety of standardized Hollywood prettiness.

The German girl looked more French than the French girl and the Hungarian girl more French than either, and they all, with the exception of Miss Greece, who has a double chin, looked like underdone American flippers.

By the time they had been fed through a quantity production hair dressing parlor they had lost what little racial individuality they brought with them.

A real esthetic opportunity was missed. Any traveler knows that European races produced distinct types of beauty, each lovely in its way, quite distinct from the other and impregnated with the history of the races from which they come.

A typical beauty of Bucharest has the profile of the heads on old Roman coins and is a living witness to the fact that the Roman empire once had an important and pleasant colony there on the army road to Byzantium. But "Miss Rumania," on the way to Galveston, tells nothing of this.

A real Hungarian beauty must have a reminiscence of Asia in her eyes, but "Miss Hungary" might be a Kansas City high school girl.

A genuine Polish type can have the black hair, black eyes, white skin, smooth forehead and plenty of Slav strain in her nose and cheekbones and still be entrancing lovely. But "Miss Poland" carries nothing of Poland with her.

Minister Jailed for Feeding Fox Pup

Poplar Bluff, Mo.—Because he took fox pups to his home and fed them Rev. A. B. Sisney was sentenced to 30 days in jail for imprisoning wild animals. Rev. Mr. Sisney declared he found the fox pups in a starving condition.

Homes for Aged

Washington.—Fraternal and religious organizations maintain 580 homes with accommodations for 41,000 independent persons in the United States, according to a census recently completed by the Labor department's bureau of labor statistics.

Ignorance and Attractiveness

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

"Where people wish to attract," an Eighteenth century writer, and a woman, says, "they should always be ignorant. To come with a well informed mind is to come with an inability of ministering to the vanity of others, which a sensible person would always wish to avoid. A woman, especially, if she has the misfortune of knowing anything, should conceal it as well as she can."

It will only add injustice to man that though, to the larger and more trifling part of the sex, imbecility in females is a great enchantment of their personal charms there is a portion of them too reasonable, and too well informed themselves, to desire anything more in woman than ignorance.

A good looking girl with an affectionate heart, and a very ignorant mind cannot fall of attracting a clever young man, unless circumstances are particularly untoward.

I should hesitate to make such a statement myself, but when a shrewd and intelligent woman is responsible for the idea I can only find confirmation of her opinions in my own experience. This tendency of the intelligent, clever and well informed to mate with the ignorant is, I believe, not confined to my own sex. I have often seen it illustrated in women of superior intellect. The explanation, I presume lies in the vanity of human beings and especially in men. Nothing feeds a man's vanity more than the feeling of his superior knowledge. Ask him for information which he has at hand, listen to his tale of adventure, his accounts of his investigations, his schemes for improving economic conditions or for reorganizing the government and you flatter him at once. He begins to think you a person of unusual insight and perception. The dumb wife is usually a good listener, and a clever husband likes nothing better than to fill her with useful information. Nothing so irritates a vain, even though he be an intelligent man than to be corrected in his statements of alleged facts, to find someone who knows more than he himself about the subject which he may be discussing. It is for this reason that "brilliance" often fascinates, charms, and intrigues the man of superior training and intelligence.

It is this weakness in man which led me to an understanding of Burns' matrimonial bargain. He was a handsome young fellow, both physically and mentally strong. He was exceedingly well informed not only upon law, which was his profession, but upon a half dozen other subjects quite remote from legal lore. He must have been very vain, for the woman he married, though well enough looking, was intellectually a total loss. I had never supposed that outside of a feeble-minded asylum, any person could be quite so dumb as an evening's social intercourse with Mrs. Burns proved her to be. There could have been no other reason excepting her total ignorance which had charmed Burns.

Petoskey—Emmet county expects to be the first to provide a county airport, coming in under the state airport law and perhaps with state aid. Harbor Springs and Petoskey will make first payment on the land and the board of supervisors has voted to appropriate the remaining payments at its next October meeting, do the grading and fix the buildings. A hundred planes, representing the southern and northern peninsula air tours, are expected here on June 12 and 13, to dedicate the field.

A SANCTUARY OF BEAUTY

WEALTH has created many memorials; built churches, endowed colleges, made possible scientific investigation, built hospitals, created benevolent institutions for the alleviation of human suffering; and in many other ways wealth is responsible for organized efforts in behalf of a better humanity.

Contrary to the usual custom by which organizations were created or memorials founded for philanthropic purposes, a new and entirely different type of memorial finds expression in the recent gift of Edward W. Bok to the state of Florida. The splendid and generous memorial, located at Mountain lake, is a bird sanctuary where many new kinds of birds are safely housed and where many rare specimens are perpetuated. It is a memorial for the preservation of the life and song of birds. The architectural beauty is enhanced by a Gothic tower which rises about 200 feet, in the belfry of which are 61 bells or chimes. These at stated times fill the environment of the sanctuary with wonderful music.

It is a sanctuary dedicated to Beauty; not to the memory of a great statesman or philanthropist, nor does it commemorate an important historical event, but just Beauty.

In his address at the dedication of the memorial, former President Coolidge said, "Because of the mere existence of this strange sanctuary of beauty the streets of distant cities will be cleaner, more trees will be planted, public buildings will take on more beautiful lines, life everywhere in America will be more graceful and complete."

The memorial will remain a silent witness to one of the fundamental principles of life, which very much needs emphasis in these days of strain and speed—that material things are only of monetary value, but the cultivation of a vivid sense of Beauty will always lead upward and onward in the efforts of humanity to attain the ideal.

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

"SHEEPS' EYES"

TO SAY that he is casting "sheep's eyes" is a popular characterization of a lovesick swain. Naturally, it is assumed that the reference is to the vacuous and seemingly helpless expression that is the sheep's! We learn, however, that this is merely a coincidence, the phrase having had its origin in an ancient Welsh wedding custom.

Beginning centuries ago it was long the practice among the country people of Wales, for the groom at a wedding to present the bride with a sheep's head. A substitute, when the young man's means did not permit of this, was two bright buttons called "sheep's eyes."

It is now long since this custom went into oblivion, but we have a relic in the expression "sheep's eyes" applied to lovers or those who act as if they might be thinking of going together to the altar!

State News in Brief

Marquette—From two to four feet of snow covered this region recently following a rain which turned to snow. Several inches of snow also fell over a large part of the copper mining territory.

Detroit—Detroit's postal receipts for April totaled $1,020,159, as compared with $947,460 for April of last year, or an increase of 8 per cent, according to figures given out at Washington, D. C. by the postoffice department. This was about twice as great as the rate of increase for the 100 other principal cities of the country for the same period.

Calumet—Eight-year-old Anne Remala was hurled to her death against the revolving blade of a power sawing machine on her father's farm near here. Her father witnessed the accident. The girl was watching her father saw cord-wood. When he turned away for a moment the youngster crept closer to the belt which operated the machine and her clothing became entangled.

Detroit—Seventeen grandchildren, one great-grandchild, and four sons were among the friends and relatives who joined in expressions of thanksgiving at the recent golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. William Diehl, 3581 Grand avenue. Mrs. Diehl, who is 71 years old, is a native of Detroit. Mr. Diehl, 75 years old, came to this country from Germany in 1872. He is a real estate and insurance agent.

Mackinac City—The state has been offered one mile of the shore line of the Straits of Mackinac lying adjacent to Wilderness Park in Emmet County for $15,000. The proposition will be accepted provided a lease granted the County Road Commissioners for a right-of-way along the beach is abrogated. This addition would give the State almost complete control of the shoreline for 10 miles west of Mackinac City to the headquarters building in the park.

Lansing—It is anticipated by the fish division of the Conservation Department that some of the 5,000 trout which were tagged and released last year will be taken during the coming season. Sportsmen will materially assist the department if they will send all tags taken from such fish to J. Metzler, University of Museum, Ann Arbor. The length of the fish in inches and the location taken should be given when sending in tags. These tags will be returned if desired.

Lansing—Construction work on the new Grand Trunk railroad right of way between Birmingham and Royal Oak will be renewed within the next three weeks, Kit F. Clardy, assistant attorney general, predicted here. Activities ceased early last fall because of several injunctions. Clardy said the decree in the litigation recently decided by the supreme court, will be ready within two weeks. Under this decision, all owners of lots in the subdivisions through which the railroad now passes are entitled to damages.

Lansing—Michigan's most forehanded cigarette dealer appeared in the person of M. H. Butler, who runs a general store at Marine City. He sent $5 to the secretary of state, asking that he be supplied with that amount in the cigarette package revenue stamps provided for under the new law. The law will not be in effect until August 27, so Butler will have his stamps in plenty of time, even though they can not be sent to him until arrangements are made to have them printed, which will be sometime in July.

Flint—Fifty years ago the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Baldy took place. Recently they were buried side by side at Centerville, Mich. Mr. Baldy, 76 years old, despondent because of the death of his wife, 69, on the eve of their golden wedding anniversary, took poison and died a few hours later in the Hurley Hospital. His last minutes of consciousness were devoted to speaking with regret of the fate that marred what was to have been a happy anniversary. They had lived in Flint 16 years, coming here from Manistee County.

Lansing—The total vote in the recent State bird contest held by the Michigan Audubon Society is as follows: Robin, 45,541; chickadee, 37,155; bluebird, 17,024; goldfinch, 15,866; cardinal, 12,288; quail, 8,792; Baltimore oriole, 6,855; house wren, 5,432; meadow lark, 4,978; red wing blackbird, 4,255; song sparrow, 3,071; downy woodpecker, 2,941; morning dove, 2,390; whippoorwill, 2,268; boblink, 1,920; kingbird, 1,840; cedar waxwing, 1,320; brown thrasher, 1,039; rose breasted grosbeak, 1,598; purple martin, 997; and catbird, 576. Grand total, 184,209, including 2,860 votes for 69 other birds.

Monroe—Henry Billow, 64 years old, a farmer, was found dead in a field on his farm in Whiteford township. He had been sowing oats and was stricken with heart disease. The body was found by his son when the man failed to respond to the dinner bell. Coroner Edward Rupp and Sheriff Sidney Eaton investigated and decided no inquest was necessary.

Buchanan—Despite late frosts, southwestern Michigan will have a bumper apple yield in 1929, in the opinion of Alfred D. Hall, Buchanan orchardist.

Charming Vera Veronina, the featured "movie" player, was born in Odessa, Russia. Her first motion picture work was in Vienna. THE WHY of SUPERSTITIONS

By H. IRVING KING

PALMISTRY

PALMISTRY or chiromancy—divination by the palm of the hand—is a pure superstition though from time to time efforts have been made to exalt it into a pseudo-science. It flourished in Assyria, Chaldea and Egypt thousands of years ago and was believed in by the philosophers Plato, Aristotle, Antiochus of Askalon and Claudius Ptolemaeus. Its country of origin is supposed to have been the plains of Babylonia.

The Chaldean priests reading destiny not only in the stars—but in all sorts of natural phenomena. They discovered that on the palms of no two men were markings exactly similar. What could that mean? What but that for which they were always seeking, a key to the door of the future? And as a man's hand is a rather personal matter it was the man's personal future which was inscribed there. Besides, among the ancients the hand was always imbued with a certain mystic character: it was the symbol of power and of a divinely ordered fate; an idea which we still retain in such expressions as "I saw it in the hand of God."

Though palmistry was seriously regarded during the Middle Ages it soon disappeared everywhere except among the wandering gypsies. But in the nineteenth century it reappeared as one of those mental epidemics which now and then seize upon mankind and in the "Eighties" flourished as a popular delusion in Europe and the United States. The attack was sharp but short-lived; and though the superstition still has its votaries, and some "mediums" add it to their other accomplishments, it has mostly been relegated back to the fortune-telling gypsies.

FOR THE GOOSE
"USE to Have" might keep the pride nourished, but it's mighty poor food for the stomach.

Tryin' to find the same thing might make two people close; but not as close as tryin' to hide it.

FOR THE GANDER

DIPPING INTO SCIENCE

Fountain of Water Spout
An unusual disturbance of the air at sea which causes the currents to form a whirling motion sometimes leaves an inner portion almost void of air. The proper contact of this hollow, twirling vacuum with the water may cause the water to be sucked up to fill the empty space. This forms the water spout.

Ann Arbor—Dr. Ulrich B. Phillips, professor of American history at the University of Michigan, has been awarded the Albert Kahn fellowship which provides for a year's trip around the world. Dr. Phillips will leave in August. The fellowship is given annually by Albert Kahn, an American residing in Paris, to some American scholar in the interest of better understandings between this country and other nations.

Grand Rapids—A huge tooth dug up on a piece of swamp land near here has been identified by H. L. Ward, curator of Kent Scientific Museum, as that of a mastodon. The tooth is 10 inches long from crown to roots and four inches wide, indicating that its owner was full grown. Mr. Ward stated, and probably weighed between four and five tons. It was found on the Carl Johnson farm, one mile west of Alto, a small place a few miles southeast of here.

Birmingham—Middle Straits Lake, west of here, received its first swimmer of the season the other day. She was Miss Helen E. Kreger, 19 years old. Miss Kreger went to the lake with two girl friends. Each wore a bathing suit "just in case the water was warm enough for a swim." While her friends stood on shore and shivered, Miss Kreger plunged into the water and swam about for several minutes. The temperature of the water was 40 degrees.

Dearborn—Thomas A. Edison will re-enact the discovery of the incandescent light on October 21, at a dinner to be given by Henry Ford here, in celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of his great invention. Eight hundred scientists and industrialists from all parts of the United States will be invited by Mr. Ford to do honor to the 82-year-old electrical wizard. President Hoover has accepted honorary chairmanship of a committee which is arranging to promote nationwide celebration to Mr. Edison's great service to mankind.

LINGERING COUGHS STOPPED

From 651 East 46th St., Chicago, Ill., comes this true story: "A stubborn cough worried me, kept me awake nights. It resisted other cough medicines, but quickly yielded to your good Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. My druggist recommended it, said he had sold it for years with never a disappointed user." Stubborn bronchial coughs, troublesome night coughs, dry tickling coughs quickly helped. Ask for it.—Hite's Drug Store. adv.

Here's where a car leads a tough life

NO General Motors car is turned out of the factory until a fleet of exact duplicates of that model has been found good by the engineers at General Motors' Proving Ground. Such an advance model must prove itself from stem to stern. The tests involve speed, power, endurance, braking, riding comfort, handling ease; fuel, oil, and tire economy; body strength—every phase of car construction and performance. It's a tough life. Such testing would be beyond the means or resources of an individual. 1268 acres of land at Milford, Michigan, are devoted to this outdoor laboratory where hills are steep and roads are vicious. Men who are among the world's best automotive engineers conduct the tests. This tested performance is as much a part of a General Motors car as the chassis. You can't see it. You don't pay extra for it. But you know it as you give the car long use on the road.

 Lansing—Gov. Fred W. Green recently vetoed Senator William F. The bill sought to increase from $400 to $600 a year the sum paid by the state for each vehicle used for the transportation of pupils to and from the schools and would have increased from $1,000 to $1,500 a year the lump sum paid such schools by the State.

Don't Let Your Community Make the Same Mistake

Within recent years many communities have made the mistake of paving their roads and streets at what they considered a "bargain price." The taxpayers thought they would save thousands of dollars. In many instances the maintenance has not only wiped out the hoped for saving, but has exceeded original cost. And in many cases also it has been necessary to build entirely new pavements—of permanent construction.

There are communities, however, which know the cheapest is not always the best. Many of these also built roads and streets several years ago. And they built for permanence with concrete.

These concrete pavements, built in accordance with approved standards of construction, are in, as good condition today as when they were built.

Which of these communities will yours be?

There is no duty we so much underrate as the duty of being happy. By being happy we sow synonymous benefits upon the world, which remain unknown even to ourselves, or when they are disclosed, surprise nobody so much as the benefactor.—Stevenson.

HINTS AND THINGS

ONE of the most valuable hints that ever came the way of a traveler who cannot be cumbered with cleaning fluids is the use of talcum powder—just the kind you use to dust the body after the bath.

Dust it over any grease spot, rub it in lightly and let the garment hang or lie for a day or two to absorb the fat and presto, your gown will be as fresh as ever. Of course French chalk does the same, but one always has talcum powder and it is so convenient.

We hear a lot about the use of cleansing creams on the face instead of a good old scrub with good soap and water. To be clean, feel clean and look clean there has nothing yet equaled the old-fashioned methods. Of course there are some occasions where the water is so very hard that creaming the face is a necessity, but water softeners and soap occasionally will not hurt a good healthy skin. Why is it that men as a rule have such clean wholesome skins? Because they use soap, steam the face and treat it to remove dirt, not rub it in. The soap and water lathering they give the face each day in shaving is the best of reasons why they have good skins.

So many women plaster their faces with creams and lotions, fill up instead of opening the breathing pores of the skin and never consider it necessary to wash them with good soap and water. There are very few complexions which could not be improved by a nightly scrub with soap and water to remove dust and powder which clogs the pores.

The same thing is true of hair; it needs soap and water and brushing to give it the healthy look and luster which we all admire. When the hair becomes dry a good hot oil treatment should be given a day or two before the shampoo, if possible, to let the roots soak in all the nourishment. There can be little help in having the hot oil applied and washed off in half an hour, as is done in the beauty parlors.

Why We Do What We Do

by M. E. THOMSON, Ph. D.

WHY WE HAVE INSTINCTS

WE HAVE instincts because we are animals. In so far as we live on the animal level we live by our instincts. In so far as we live a life of reason, which is decidedly a human prerogative, we get away from instincts.

This will explain a very important difference as well as a very close likeness between human beings and lower forms of life. Animals and insects live wholly by instincts. Therefore their life is a matter of rigid mechanisms. The bird builds her nest without previous training and builds it as her ancestors have built before her.

The acts of the bees and other insects and animals sometimes appear intelligent but there is no reasoning power back of them because animals do not really think. They do all these wonderful things by instinct. Instinct in the animal is purely a matter of reflex activity. One sort of activity leads to another and that to another until the act is completed.

No one knows how instincts originated. It is supposed that they were picked up somewhere along the line of progress, that the individuals who were best able to meet competition lived to reproduce their kind and thus the more capable ones continued to live on. Instincts are inherited. They are persistent tendencies to activity.

As human beings we have instincts to start us on our career but we soon learn many new ways of satisfying the instinctive cravings. Nevertheless these instincts, though greatly modified in expression, remain throughout life to urge us to undertake certain types of activity. They furnish the chief motive force. Intelligence and experience merely find new and varied ways of realizing these ends. This the animal cannot do.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

CONVERSATION

LOOK back over your life and see if somewhere along the line you have not been materially influenced by the sharp sting of a hasty word, something that set you thinking.

Conversation, you know, is one of the principal mental foods, and it is a plentiful pabulum of which the supply all too frequently quite exceeds the demand.

There is good conversation and bad conversation, instructive conversation, and stupefying conversation. We have in the waking hours an almost unremitting contact with the talk of other people; some of it is satisfying, some of it is stimulating; some of it is degrading and some of it is just talk.

But it is with particular regard to the sharper words with which one comes in contact in the course of the years that I want to enlarge.

Everyone of us, at some time or another, is brought face to face with the fact that we are somehow drifting into a becalmed mental condition, intellectual doldrums where only the ground swell of life is felt. All around us the air seems laden with some sort of lethargy. It is almost too much trouble to breathe.

It is such times as this that the sharp-tongued acquaintance proves himself the real friend. It takes a jolt to rouse us from such a state of being and awaken the ever latent human impulse for self-advancement.

And so, much as the sharp word may sting, harsh as the rebuke may seem, uncalled for and unkind as may be the words employed to effect the awakening, it nevertheless wakes us up and starts the impulses going upon which real character is built.

It is the impulse of one human being to be pushful and forward. Conceit and self-satisfaction are traits which under proper leash are by no means evil ones and yet unrestrained they can do a great deal of destruction to an otherwise successful character development.

Once upon a time a congressman with grave unction, striving to impress the listening house with the force of his argument bellowed forth at the Honorable Thomas Brackett Reed of Maine:

"And in this, Mr. Speaker, I know I'm right, and I'd rather be right than President!"

"The gentleman will probably never be either," sentimentally remarked the peppery Reed, who had grown tired of the windy legislator, and there and then the strain broke. The house rocked with unrestrained glee and the unctious one never transgressed its time and patience again.

"A soft answer turneth away wrath," spoke the Master some nineteen hundred years ago. A harsh word, now and then, properly administered, may sometimes prick the bubble of conceit and do equally as much good as the gentle phrase which saves a situation.

It is not always that pacifism in conversations is the needful quality for all people. Kindness, and generosity, patience and forbearance are breeders of love and affection. They are the bread and meat of daily life, but a little salt and pepper now and then help to enliven the appetite for living just as their thoughtful use by the housewife makes things taste better.

Pure Robbery

"My son robbed a bank yesterday."
"What?"
"Yes, he got his first week's pay as assistant to the president."

GOOD CREDIT IS A GOLDEN POSSESSION

A good credit standing like a good name is rather to be chosen than great riches. It carries with it prestige, influence, confidence, honor, trust, faith, and esteem.

One cannot afford to sacrifice this essential part of life, especially as it requires so little effort to maintain it. All that is required is to plan according to one's income, the modern phrase is, "budgeting one's expenditures."

In making purchases on a credit basis one should always have in mind, "Will our income justify this, and leave us in a position to pay this obligation when due?"

This is offered as a suggestion in an effort to aid individuals in this community to maintain a high credit standing, one of the most valuable assets any one can possess.

GAS FORCES WOMAN TO SLEEP IN CHAIR

"Nights I sat up in a chair, I had stomach gas so bad. I took Adlerika and nothing I eat hurts me now. I sleep fine."—Mrs. Glenn Butler.

Even the FIRST spoonful of Adlerika relieves gas on the stomach and removes astonishing amounts of old waste matter from the system. Makes you enjoy your meals and sleep better. No matter what you have tried for your stomach and bowels, Adlerika will surprise you. GIDLEY & MAC, Druggists. adv.
