Charlevoix Co. Largest Winner

AT TOP O' MICHIGAN POTATO AND APPLE SHOW.

East Jordan Choir Wins In Singing Contest.

WHILE D. D. TIBBITS SHINES IN APPLE DIVISION.

Although the Top O' Michigan Potato and Apple Show is past history now, the accomplishments of a small group of Charlevoix County farmers is making new history.

In many ways this year's Show was the greatest ever staged, especially when one considers that the growing season was not favorable for good type and size potatoes and thereby it was more difficult to select the kind of potatoes that win.

Charlevoix County was represented this year by the best collection of potatoes and apples that we have ever exhibited, as the fact that $323.00 in premium money was brought back with us when the fireworks were over, will prove.

Many farmers as well as city folks attended the Show from this county and were amazed at the fine display. Never before have apples showed up as well as this year.

One of the features of the Show was the Choir Singing Contest, which is possible through the efforts of R. E. Olds, Lansing Automobile Manufacturer. For the first time, Charlevoix County was represented by a contestant. The Presbyterian Choir of East Jordan broke the ice, so to speak, and easily walked away with the first prize of $60.00 with their splendid choir of 14 members.

In the apple division D. D. Tibbits of Boyne City proved to be the outstanding exhibitor of Northern Michigan when he walked away with $97 in premium money. His greatest achievement was the winning of sweepstakes on a plate of Wagners, on a tray of Snows, and in having the best apples of the entire Show. In addition his score card showed 3 firsts on plates of apples, 2 seconds, and 2 thirds. In trays he showed 5 firsts, 2 seconds, 1 third and two awards of merit. In bushels he had 1 fourth, 1 sixth, and 1 award of merit.

Evelyn Orchards of East Jordan was the largest exhibitor of the Show and ran Tibbits considerable competition, winning $52.00 in premium money.

They won in plates 1 first, 3 seconds, and 1 third. In trays it was 2 firsts, 2 seconds, 4 thirds, 1 fourth, and 2 awards of merit. In bushels they showed 1 award of merit and in the fancy pack class 1 third and 1 fourth.

In the potato division Harry Behling of Boyne City kept up his reputation of being Charlevoix County's best all around exhibitor, having the best potatoes of the entire Show, in having the 2nd best peck of Russett Rurals exhibited in winning third on bushel of Russetts and in having the best peck in Charlevoix County.

Frank Behling won 2nd place in the Beginner's class in Russett Rurals, and 7th in the open class on same sample.

In Irish Cobblers, George Sneathen and Lee Sneathen had peck exhibits winning 5th and 6th respectively.

In the bushel-class, Harry Behling won 3rd, and W. H. Henley, Charlevoix won 9th. Other exhibitors in this class were George Meggison and Henry Eckert, Charlevoix; R. V. Liskum, East Jordan; Frank Behling and Wm. Petts, Boyne City.

In the Beginner's Class Frank Behling won 2nd, Gordon Boyer, East Jordan 7th, Fred Ranney, East Jordan 8th, Henry Eckert, Charlevoix, 9th; Wm. Behling, Boyne City, 10th, and Gwendolyn Hott, East Jordan 12th. Other exhibitors in the Open and Beginner's class were Geo. Meggison, W. H. Henley, Lee Sneathen, R. V. Liskum and Wm. Petts.

The East Jordan Potato Club had a club exhibit which won 3rd place. Within the club Gordon Boyer won 1st, Fred Ranney 2nd, and Gwendolyn Hott 3rd. Two other exhibitors were Ralph Shepard and Alfred Crowell.

In the class for all 4-H club exhibitors Gordon won 4th, Fred 5th, and Gwendolyn 6th. Other entrants were Joseph West, Boyne City and Robert Tainter.

The fine exhibits by the club members were particularly striking, as in many cases they won over the parents. A club boy won first in the Beginner's Class over some 50 exhibits by the adults.

In the County Exhibit Class, which consists of 12 peck samples as a group Charlevoix County won 2nd place. This class affords the stiffest competition of the Show and we are highly elated over the splendid showing.

In conclusion will say Charlevoix

NORTH KILLER FOUND GUILTY

Judge Parm Gilbert in Circuit Court at Charlevoix last Friday sentenced George McAfee, Boyne Falls farmer, to Jackson prison for the remainder of his life for the murder of James Mosley, his neighbor. Physicians who examined McAfee reported to the Judge that he was sane.

The murder occurred two weeks ago as the victim was at work at his farm. McAfee stood in his own farm yard and fired five shots from a high powered rifle into Mosley's body, and the latter died instantly. Mosley is survived by his wife and 8 children. McAfee was unmarried.

Cornelius Gatliff, wife beater, was sentenced to from 1 1/2 to 3 years in prison.

County can be very highly gratified over our winnings at this Show and that already our leading exhibits have been sent to the State Potato Show, which will be held in East Lansing during February, and at which time we expect to give another good account of our fine spuds.

NEW BONKURA ENDS RHEUMATIC AND NEURITIS PAIN

"Food felt like a rock in my stomach. Pain was so intense, I could not work for weeks at a time before I took BONKURA."—Harvey Hubbard Owosso, Mich.

BONKURA unlike other medicines acts on both the UPPER and LOWER BOWEL. Pleasantly, yet POSITIVELY it drives out all old waste matter, which has poisoned the stomach, liver and kidneys. This causes indigestion, liver and kidney trouble, neuritis and rheumatism. BONKURA IS SOLD and guaranteed by: GIDLEY & MAC DRUG STORE. adv.

M. E. CONFERENCE WELL ATTENDED

The meeting of the Sub-district Conference for the northern half of the Grand Traverse District of the M. E. Church, which was held in the local Methodist Church was a fine success from every view-point. From the opening address which was given by Rev. John Clemens, of Manistee, a former pastor of the local church, to the closing address by Rev. Chas. Kreuse, of Petoskey, all carried a high strain of inspiration. The meeting closed by the singing of the large chorus choir of 35 voices under the direction of Rev. John Lockyer, of Charlevoix. There were 50 Ministers and delegates present. The Banquet at 6:15 was served by the Ladies Aid Society, and was up to their usual fine quality.

KNOP—HENNING

On Wednesday, Nov. 6th, at 2:30 p. m., a beautiful wedding was solemnized by Rev. Helmuth Schultz at the Ev. Lutheran parsonage at Petoskey, Michigan, when Louise Laura Knop, daughter of Karl F. Knop became the bride of Edward C. Henning, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Henning of Beverly Hills, Chicago, Illinois.

The bride wore a white silk flat crepe dress and veil of plain tulle, which was held close to the head by a band of pearls, and carried a bouquet of yellow roses and maiden hair fern. The bride was attended by her sister, Margaret, who wore a blue-green satin dress trimmed with Spanish lace, and carried a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums and fern. The groom was attended by Albert H. Knop of Wilson Township.

The young couple will tour the western States on their honeymoon, after which they will make their home in Chicago.

DIPPING INTO SCIENCE

Glands of the Skin

Two kinds of glands are in the skin, those that give out the perspiration and those that give off oil. There are approximately two million sweat glands all over the body, but they are most numerous on the forehead, hands, and soles of the feet. The oil glands open most ly into hair follicles, keeping the hair glossy and preventing the skin from becoming too dry.

Glenna Collett Wins Again

Glenna Collett won the women's golf championship of the United States for the fourth time and the second consecutive year, over the Oakland Hills course, at Detroit. She defeated Mrs. Leona Pressler of Los Angeles, 4 and 3, in the 36-hole final, which was as fine a golf match as women ever played.

Vassar—Lewis Davis, 70 years old, lost his life when his farm house, a large frame structure three miles north of Vassar, was destroyed by fire. His wife, a son, Lee, and a daughter, Olive, escaped in night clothing.

Escanaba—One of the largest trout feeding stations in America will be established at the Thompson Fish Hatchery site near here. It will be capable of rearing to fingerling size over 3,500,000 trout and will serve as the center of distribution for stocking the trout streams of the Upper Peninsula.

Ann Arbor—Rolling up the biggest score in its gridiron history, Ann Arbor High opened its football season here by defeating Durant high, 91 to 0. Ann Arbor tallied three touchdowns in each of the first three periods and added five more in the final quarter. Durant failed to make a single first down.

PRESBYTERIAN CHOIR WINS PRIZE

The East Jordan Presbyterian Choir which entered the Choir Contest at Gaylord last Friday, in connection with the Top O' Michigan Potato Show, won the first prize of $60. The Choir sang one anthem of its own selection, "Praise The Lord Oh My Soul," by Roland Smart. In addition each choir participating rendered a prescribed anthem, "Now Let Every Tongue Adore Thee," by Sebastian Bach.

By request the choir will repeat at the morning service next Sunday the two anthems they so successfully rendered at the contest.

Those who were in the choir last Friday were: Messrs W. H. Sloan, J. Ter Wee, J. Seiler, R. G. Watson, G. W. Bechtold, W. H. Malpass, J. Porter, H. Porter, and Mesdames Seiler, Sanderson, Duncanson, Sloan, Secord, Bechtold and Balch.

MUSICAL GIVEN BY MARJORIE HOYT A TREAT FOR ALL

A good crowd gathered at the Methodist Church last Friday evening, Nov. 1st to hear Miss Marjorie Lucille Hoyt perform on violin and piano.

It was a treat for all present to hear this fifteen year old girl play the violin, with the splendid piano accompaniments played by Mrs. M. E. Hoyt, the girl's mother. And where Miss Hoyt can handle the bow in a masterful manner, she also showed her ability on the piano. Among the outstanding numbers on the program was Concerto No. 7, by Debussy for violin, and two piano duets—Rhapsodie Hongroise No. 2, by Liszt, and Hungarian Dance No. 7, by Brahms.

The writer enjoyed seeing and hearing mother and daughter play these last piano numbers in such a masterful way.

And it was no wonder, that, after the last number Zigeunerweisen, for violin, when Miss and Mrs. Hoyt walked off the stage under a hearty applause, the audience sat for fully two minutes before they realized it was the last. Come again Marjorie, and don't wait too long.—Contributed.

RED CROSS ROLL CALL

From Nov. 11 to Nov. 28 we will be asked to participate in the annual roll call of the American Red Cross. This appeal will be made to every city, village and hamlet in the State. There should be a generous response.

The Red Cross maintains a permanent organization. It is ready to respond to a call, no matter from what part of the country it may come. Funds for this regular maintenance are obtained through the enrollment of membership in the national organization by the various chapters each year. We do not know where the next blow to humanity will fall. That we have been spared in this State is our own good fortune, but we are equally as interested in as though it were here in Michigan.

The Red Cross, "common mother of us all," is the angel of mercy that steps in when death and devastation have wrought their havoc. The dollar given to aid their work is used to alleviate suffering and repair waste places. Year after year it continues its work for humanity, never seeking high places of glory, but content to go down into the valleys to minister to those in need. Let Michigan citizens meet this annual appeal in the spirit that it should.

Leading Grid Scorer

Al K. Marsters of Arlington, Mass., leading grid scorer of the country and Dartmouth's big hope for a berth on the mythical all-American eleven this year, practicing the forward passes which have made him one of the season's joys for grid fans. He is figured prominently in Dartmouth's classic struggle with Harvard at Cambridge.

PENINSULA
(Edited by Mrs. E. Hayden)

Dave Running of Huron County came up Sunday, Oct. 27 to the Arnot home and returned Monday, taking Miss Eula Arnot with him. Miss Eula will stay there and finish High School. Miss Eula will be greatly missed by the young people here.

Fred Earl motored up from Detroit first of last week and took back a truck load of potatoes, then returned and took back some barrels of sweet cider and if he has good luck selling that, will return this week for more cider. F. H. Wangeman made the cider for him.

A very good crowd attended the dance at the Gleaner-Temple Saturday evening, Nov. 2nd and had a fine time.

Those who signed up to donate work on the road from the Fred Wurn place to the D. N. McDonald place, start work Monday morning. It is hoped by putting the road in pretty good shape it may be possible to get the snow plow to come through that way, thus making it possible for the school bus to run on the regular route most of the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Russell and daughters, Alice and Doris, motored to Traverse City Saturday, taking Mrs. Russell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mose LaLonde of Chaddock Dist., there to live this winter, so Mr. LaLonde may be near a heart specialist. Mr. LaLonde's health is much better than a year ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Gus Olstrom and son of Advance Dist., made a very pleasant call at Orchard Hill Sunday.

A. B. Neely of Sunny Slope farm and Geo. Jarman of Gravel Hill helped C. H. Tooley of Advance Dist., shred corn, Saturday.

Miss Eva Crowell of Dave Staley Hill, who has been out of school for some weeks because of illness, did not return to school last week, but will start Nov. 4th.

The usual crowd are planning on going hunting to the U. P. next week.

George Loomis of Detroit and Mrs. Maudie Lyle of Bridgeport, Mich., motored up last week and visited at the Ray Loomis family at Gravel Hill.

Mrs. Edith Tibbitts and Miss Albertha Tibbitt of Boyne City spent Sunday at Cherry Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Tibbitts and family of Cherry Hill took in the Top O' Michigan Potato and Apple Show at Gaylord all last week and captured $97 in premiums, although his northern spys did not make a showing. Mr. Tibbitts reports getting as high as $2.25 per bu. for Wolf River apples which he shipped to Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Healey and son, Clayton of Willow Brook farm motored to Rapid City Sunday and visited Mrs. Charles Hoepheray, life long friend of Mrs. Healey.

MARGUERITE CHURCHILL

During the season 1927 and 1928 Marguerite Churchill, now a leading lady in movietones, was the youngest leading lady on the New York stage. She is still in her teens and was born on Christmas day, in Kansas City. Miss Churchill is five feet six inches tall, weighs 124 pounds, has beautiful long auburn hair, dark brown eyes, and a gracious aristocratic poise. Her only hobby is dramatic art.

For Meditation
By LEONARD A. BARRETT

A FLYING FISH

NOT many years ago it was thought incredible that automobiles should ever supplant the horse and wagon, and today we assume the same attitude toward the airplane. Many persons confidently affirm that planes will never take the place of automobiles. Is it not within reason to believe that, if traveling in the air can be made as comfortable and safe as land travel, the airplane will become a very common method of transportation? Granted that this comfort and safety can be assured, the outstanding advantage of the airplane over the automobile would be speed.

A recent effort to attain a new record of speed was made by a scientist in Germany. He claims that the airplane he is making will fly from Berlin to New York in six hours. In order to accomplish that speed it is necessary to attain an altitude of not less than forty thousand feet, which he claims his ship can reach in one and one-half hours, by traveling upwards at an angle of forty-five degrees instead of soaring in circular fashion. At this altitude the pressure of the atmosphere has no effect, so that with hermetically sealed engines, it is possible to attain a speed of from four hundred to five hundred miles an hour. As no charts are available for traveling at such a height, the pilot directs his course according to directions received from the earth by radio. The ship resembles a large fish. It is twenty-two feet long and weighs about one-half ton. Six hours of travel would not be costly as it has been estimated that the trip from Berlin to New York would not consume more than ten dollars worth of fuel.

While it may be possible for air travel to supplant automobiling for the tourist who may enjoy the novelty and the speed of the former, it is a serious question if the airplane can ever accommodate a very large percentage of those who travel or transport heavy freight in large quantities. First, the horse and wagon—followed by the cable car, now the electric trolley, followed by the automobile, geared to run at eighty-five miles an hour, now a flying fish—Berlin to New York in six hours—What next? Glen Smith, a pupil of J. W. Morse at Grand View school, west of town, swallowed a shingle nail last Thursday. He was rushed to town and Dr. Duffie took an X-Ray picture, but could not locate the nail. However the boy appears to be getting along fine, as though a hardware diet were just the thing for him.

The hob-goblins were out last Thursday night here, according to all reports. Corn fodder was piled on the Supt. of School's porch; an electric light pole cut down and cattle, ready to be loaded on a car, were turned loose. At Ellsworth, Isaman's cars in the junk heap suddenly became run-a-bouts and "Willie's-nights. The Barber, Forrest Dewey was out with them for a while, but after he retired from the scene, his wood pile took legs and walked around in front of the shop and piled itself in every conceivable position.

The road on M-31 between Eastport and Elk Rapids was completed a week ago Monday, and is one of the finest highways in this part of the State. We remember the time that it took us, with an ox team, from 1 a. m. to 10 p. m. to make the trip to Elk Rapids and back. Later, with a better ox team we made it in ten hours. Then we walked there to attend a Teacher's Institute, and back again in ten hours. Afterwards we drove it with a horse and buggy in six hours, and now we drive there and back, the 40 miles with a little Ford in an hour and a half. If we get that 'ere aeroplane, and if we get married, we expect to make the round trip while our wife is milking old Spot.

I was sorry that there was eagerness mixed with the pity in John's voice, as he asked, "Did Martha tell you that she committed the murder?"

"No. Other parental heritages of hers were a lying tongue, and slyness. She persisted in her denials to me. But it is all so evident."

"Gabrielle joined Martha at the rabbit hutch. You know how one sits down on one's heels to peer in at the rabbits in the low hutch. I think Gaby must have been squatting, so when Martha jumped at her and overpowered her. Martha was strong, you know. Her hands were very strong. She had hated Gaby ever since Gaby had come. Martha had said to me, dozens of times, that some day she thought she would kill Gaby."

"Seized unaware, it would not take long to strangle a person. Martha must have done it in two or three minutes. She took the bracelet then, rolled the body under the clump of berry bushes, right there, and came straight into the house."

"She showed no feeling of guilt, because she had none. At that moment, we should all have suspected something. We should have known that girl would not, suddenly, have given Martha the bracelet. Later, she told you about it, didn't she Sam? And you left Chad in the barn, to hoodwink Hubert, and came up and hid the body for her?"

"By G—d, I did not," Sam said. "No need to deny it, now Sam," she said. "It was the deed of a good man. Martha was never responsible—but courts might not have understood. Now we will all shield her—keep her secret. Chad's confession will satisfy the world. Danny must know, I suppose; but no one else need ever know."

"But I tell you—" Sam shouted. "I don't know how, without raising her voice, she made it sound through his shouting, and silence it, but she did. 'Sam—don't. Why can't we be honest, now, among ourselves? You see, I know that both you and Martha were on those stairs when the body was put there.'"

My thoughts jumped out into words. "Chad must have known it, too. He must have decided that he'd rather die than betray either Sam or Martha."

"He might have thought it," Sam said, with a lack of emphasis that edged stupidity. "He could not have known it. It is not true."

"Mrs. Ricker," John questioned "what makes you think that dad and Martha had both been on the stairs?"

"Sam's pipe ashes were strewn about. And there was an old tating shuttle, with which I had been trying to teach Martha to tat, that morning. She had it in her pocket. It must have dropped out. I think that Mary tried to clean the pipe ashes away. They were gone when I saw the body the second time. I should have tried to do it, but I didn't think I had no time. I was frantic with fear."

"Wait," she answered our looks and our exclamations of astonishment. "I will explain. Martha and I, as you know, were alone here in the house while the rest of you were out looking for Gaby. Martha was sleepy. I was worried about her sleeping so much, and tried all sorts of ways to keep her awake until bedtime. I kept sending her out to look at the sky, to see whether a storm was coming to spoil her fireworks. She would run out, and right in, again, to curl on the davenport and try to sleep. Finally, though, she stayed outside for a long time."

"When the wind rose, I looked first for Martha. I called her several times before she answered. Finally she came around the house from the direction of the rabbit hutch, again. Surely, you must have noticed, as I did, that she had seemed strangely excited during all the late afternoon and early evening. At the time, I thought it was because she had been given the monkey charm and because she was to have the fireworks."

"Father, what is a camping site?"

"My boy, have you never seen your Aunt Emma on a camping trip?"

Customer: Are those eggs strictly fresh?

Grocer: George, just feel if those eggs are cool enough to sell yet.

"No, Richard," said she, "I cannot marry you, but I'll be a sister to you."

"Good. How much did we inherit from our father?"

"But, when we were alone, she talked very foolishly—even for her. She began with it again, when she had answered my call. She kept insisting that soon we were all going to be surprised about something; something very nice, that had to do with Chad—but she would never, never tell what it was. As a rule, I should not have paid any attention to such talk. But, for some reason, her excitement, and her insistence about a surprise, disturbed me. I spent some minutes quizzing her. I even tried to bribe her. I could get nothing from her but further talk about the nice surprise."

"Then the storm came and I ran upstairs to begin closing the house. I thought I'd begin with the attic and come down through the house. I tried the attic door. It was locked and the key was missing. I was alarmed. Possibly, because we were all disturbed concerning Gaby's absence; and possibly, because inside doors are so seldom locked here. I remembered the old skeleton key hanging in the broom closet. I ran down and got it."

"I opened the door. I saw the body. I touched it—and knew, even before I saw the tating shuttle there, and the beaded bag, covered with Sam's pipe ashes. I snatched the shuttle and hid it in my dress. At that instant, through the open window at the end of the hall, I heard your voices, as you ran up the road from the garage to escape the rain. I shut the door, locked it, and ran downstairs. Do you know, when I met you, I had that key in my hand?"

"Mary came up to me to help me close the French windows. I did not think I had a wild desire to rid myself of that key. I was determined to protect Martha, at any cost. Mary's pocket was hanging like an open bag, right below me. I dropped the key into it. It was a frightful mistake. If I had kept it, and thrown it away, every one in the house would have been exonerated. It was, as you know, the one link that connected this household with the crime. That is, after Mary had cleaned away the pipe ashes. The little fleck or two of them, which Danny saw, might have fallen there days before."

"Mary," Sam questioned, "were my pipe ashes on the bag? Did you stop to clean them off, before you gave the alarm?"

"Yes, they were, Sam. Yes, I did."

"Then," Sam said, "whatever put the body there, put the pipe ashes there to throw suspicion on me; and whoever it was, knew my habits, too. He must have put the tating shuttle there, as well, for good measure. Does anyone of you think that Martha would have had the wits to save ashes out of my pipe and put them on the bag?"

"Chad!" John almost sang it, in his eagerness. "He was wise enough, and fool enough. His one idea was to protect Martha. He helped her get the body up there, between seven and eight o'clock, and he put the ashes there to shield her. I said fool enough. But, come to think of it, he knew what he was doing. He was protecting her with the one person in the house who could not have done it; with the one person that no Nevada jury would convict. Then, he turned around and shielded dad with his death and his written confession. From start to finish, it works out, plain as day. Gosh! Say—it is terrible. Gosh—horrible! Think of it—But, thank God, it is cleared up, anyway."

"Cleared up, anyway" is right," Sam said, and looked around at all of us, pityingly, like he'd look at a litter of sickly puppies.

"All satisfied, then?" he questioned. "All satisfied that Martha killed her, and that Chad carried the body upstairs and hid it for her, and left the false clues—including the tating shuttle, for reasons unknown—and came down, merry, and happy enough, until he took a sudden notion to write a false confession and walk out and shoot himself through the head?"

"Dad," there was pleading in John's voice, "you don't mean to say that you can't see the thing? That you aren't satisfied with this absolutely logical explanation?"

"Yes," Sam answered, with his most dangerous drawl, "that's what I mean to say. It takes more, or seems to, to satisfy me than it takes to satisfy some folks. Satisfied? Not by a d—n sight!"

John lost his temper. "For the love of Pete, why aren't you? What would satisfy you? Say? What are you trying to do? Do you like the case against me so well that you can't give it up? What's the use of backing straight facts?"

"D—n your straight facts. We haven't got any. I've a few straight fact questions, though that will blow this story galley-west. Here's one of them:

"Does it stand, to reason that, for two months, Gaby lived right here unharmed by Martha? But that, on the very day, when she feared death from some outside enemy, Martha should kill her?"

"It is coincidental," John admitted.

"But, just the same, there are lots of coincidences. We all meet them, all the time."

"It wasn't a coincidence that Gaby was afraid of meeting, when she walked out of this house on the fourth of July. Here's another question."

"Mrs. Ricker, she says, was plumb convinced that Martha committed the murder, and that I helped her by carrying the body upstairs afterward. She thought this the night of the murder, and the next day, and ever since. Why, then, didn't she come to me and, anyway, put out a feeler or two in my direction?—She knew that I'd go as far to save Martha as she would go. I wouldn't protect John, nor any other person on this place; but Martha was a child—yonger, even, than a child in some ways. Mrs. Ricker knew that I'd save Martha with my last dollar, and, as somebody said the other day, with my last lie. Mrs. Ricker and I were alone together for more than half an hour the morning of the fifth. Why didn't she give me a hint, then, of any of this?"

"I—I was afraid," Mrs. Ricker answered. So long as she was living, I was afraid of everything—of every one. I was afraid of myself. I dared not think I dared not look."

"Now, now," Sam said. "I see your point in that, especially since talking had got you in had one. But—see here. I said a while ago that I'd always known you were a good woman. Well, I am going to keep on knowing it for the present. Now you, thinking as you say you think, directly accused Danny the other day. That was not the act of a good woman."

"G—d, Ollie!" Hubert Hand burst out. "He is going to try to pin it on you, to save Martha and the Stanley name—even yet."

"You," Sam said, "are a liar."

"Safe enough. I wouldn't fight you, and you know it, old man."

Sam jumped to his feet. I had to stumble over John, but I managed to reach Sam first, and to stand in front of him. "Boys, boys," I begged. "Not here. Not in this house tonight. Remember—"

Hubert stuck his hands in his pockets and walked away. Sam dropped into his chair. The telephone bell, in the other room, began to ring.

SEVENTEEN AND SEVENTY

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

Frank and one of his father's friends were born upon the same day of the same month. Frank is seventeen and Mr. Barton is seventy. There is a considerable difference in their ages and in their points of view.

"How I wish I could live my life over again," we hear people say. "What a thrill it would give me if I could once more be young."

There are great advantages in being young, it is true, but Barton does not envy Frank these prospects and opportunities. He has lived through youth and young manhood and middle age, and now at seventy he is quite contented.

Frank is in high school, and he does not know exactly what he wants to do, or, even if he did know, if he would be able to accomplish his desires. His mother thinks he should study medicine, his father would like to have him take up engineering, and if Frank himself has any desires, it is to study international law and foreign language and go to the Orient and be an attaché to some foreign diplomat.

He has all sorts of desires and emotions and has not yet learned to control or direct them. He is just now seriously in love, and instead of spending his time in study and work, he wastes it in a welter of worry and uncertainty as to when he can marry and whether or not the girl will wait for him until he finishes his education, and he can get a job sufficiently remunerative to support the two—or more of them. He is restless and often discontented, and uncertain as to what the future holds for him. Youth is not always happy even if it is freed from heavy present responsibilities, and a great uncertain future spreads out before Frank.

With Barton it is quite different. He has been happily married for more than forty years. All the emotional longings of youth have been satisfied or inhibited. He has no future to worry about. The work and the duties and the pleasures of today are all that concern him. He isn't thinking about the sort of job he will get; he has no concern as to whether or not his sweetheart will wait for him or be true to him, for she sits across the table from him three times a day and he knows she will be faithful to him as long as life shall last. He has worked intelligently enough and has practiced economy and exercised judgment and forethought so that his temporal wants will be adequately provided for as long as he may live. Nor does he have any forebodings as to what will happen after life for him has ended as he knows is inevitable before many years. He has faith enough not to be afraid.

Maybe he is wrong, but if given his choice Barton would prefer to be seventy rather than seventeen. The bustle and worry and uncertainty of life is all behind him and for him the best is yet to come.

"What! A weather bureau?"

The Weather Bureau at General Motors Proving Ground, at Milford, Mich.

Testing a car's performance in heavy rain. From actual photograph.

Drawn from a photograph of a car being tested on snowy roads.

VISITORS to General Motors' 1268-acre Proving Ground marvel at the sight of a complete weather bureau and ask what it is for.

The answer is that in the testing of cars every possible factor that might affect a car's performance is considered by General Motors' engineers.

So precise are some of the tests that even the difference between a sunny day and a partly cloudy day—or between a north breeze and a south breeze—is considered.

With each day's record of the mechanical tests applied to a car on the roads and hills of the Proving Ground is included a report of the exact weather conditions prevailing. The engineers then can know how weather affects performance, and can have a comparable record so that every car tested is given an equal opportunity to prove itself under exactly the same conditions.

Advance models of all the cars listed below were proved at the Proving Ground before they were introduced to the public. Read about them; then clip and send the coupon.

State News in Brief

Ludington—Henry H. Seman, of Crystal Valley, was sentenced to 90 days in the County Jail by Malcolm Chinnery, justice of the peace, for hunting deer out of season.

Port Huron—The St. Clair county board of supervisors voted to vacate the present detention home, which the state fire marshal has declared a fire trap, and to lease another building for the same purpose.

Clare—Glenn Post, farmer living near here, owes his life to Eugene Warren, 18-year-old farmhand, who drove off a maddened bull that was trampling Post under foot. Warren, unarmed, grabbed the bull by the nose and horns and subdued him.

Coldwater—C. L. Johnson, 52 years old, a decorator here, was killed instantly by a hit-run-driver. Johnson was standing on a curb when struck and was hurled several feet into a car used by the Coldwater chief of police. He leaves a widow, a son and a daughter.

Bay City—After sawing through iron bars and then breaking the window, thieves entered the wholesale tobacco store of the Morris Tobacco company at 300 McKinley avenue and carried away nearly a thousand dollars worth of tobacco and cigars. Police believe the robbers used a truck to haul away their loot.

Lansing—When flames gutted the apartment house in which Irene Gogarn has been living, her wedding trousseau, a valuable fur coat and gifts tendered her by friends in expectation of the ceremony, were destroyed. The only clothes she saved from the fire were those she was wearing while at her duties at the state capitol.

Hudson—William McVay, 27 years old, lost his life in a fire which destroyed his farm house in Hudson Township, southeast of this city. His wife was burned seriously and was removed to the Blair Hospital, Morenci. The fire which destroyed the house and all contents, started by an explosion of kerosene used to kindle a fire in the kitchen stove.

Grand Rapids—A committee, of which W. H. Gilbert is chairman, has been appointed by the Association of Commerce to confer with representatives of the Pere Marquette Railway company relative to a new terminal passenger station here. One of the sites recommended is on the west side of Grand Rapids, almost directly opposite the present union station.

Stanton—Merle B. Wrisley, aged 26 years, who was arrested at the home of his mother, Mrs. William Venton, near Vestaburg, charged with stealing beans from the elevators at Carson City, Butternut and Vestaburg, made a signed confession and went before Judge R. A. Hawley in circuit court. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to Jackson state prison for six to 15 years.

Marshall—A sinkhole of such proportions that the road is impassable for a distance of 12 rods has developed in the county highway ten miles north of Marshall, where the county road commission commenced work some weeks ago on filling a depression. Five thousand yards of dirt have been dumped into the hole. The road bed has sunk several feet and is partially under water.

Jackson—J. Howard Shorney, convicted by a Circuit Court jury here of slaying his wife, Alberta, in his home here last July, was sentenced to 35 to 50 years in the Michigan State Prison by Judge John Simpson. Shorney, who is 25 years old, is the son of a Baptist clergyman. He was convicted of having killed his wife following a quarrel during which he questioned the paternity of an unborn child.

Detroit—The business of Detroit department stores during the first nine months of the year increased 16.7 per cent over the same period of 1924, an increase nearly double that in any other large city in the United States, according to a report on retail trade made public by the Federal Reserve Board at Washington, D. C. Detroit's nearest rival was Toledo, where department store business showed an increase of 8.9 per cent for the period.

Johannesburg—Henry Ford has purchased a complete lumber camp outfit from the Johannesburg Manufacturing company to be placed in his museum at Dearborn. The outfit purchased by Mr. Ford is a replica of lumbering camp equipment since the beginning of lumbering operations in Michigan. Every article carried in the old time camp is included in the equipment. Mr. Ford is planning to remove the entire equipment to Dearborn, where it will be preserved for posterity as an example of the methods and equipment used in lumbering.

Ann Arbor—University of Michigan students after this year will be required to carry identification cards bearing their picture, their signature, and other information showing their right to attend classes and have other university privileges. The purpose of the identification cards, it is announced, is to prevent persons not students from obtaining university privileges, to prevent students of one school from attending lectures at another and to keep persons from obtaining library books under fictitious names.

Dispose of All Surplus Fowls

No Profit in Holding Cockerels Longer Than Twelve Weeks.

All surplus males, indeed all of the cockerels whether they are to be raised or not, should be removed from the company of the pullets before they are old enough to become bothersome. On most farms it is the custom to sell the males at the age when they weigh about 2 pounds each. Chicks that are hatched before the first of April bring good prices at the 2-pound stage. This should be by the time they are 10 or 12 weeks old, or earlier. Many grow good broilers of 2 pounds in eight weeks, sometimes in six.

No Profit in Holding.
There is no profit in holding the cockerels longer than 12 weeks, unless they are to be kept for breeding purposes, or to supply a special market. I know of a number of poultry men who supply motorists chicken lunches and dinners during the summer and early fall. These men make a good profit by holding the cockerels to a later date, sometimes to the age of four or five months, because they can dispose of them at a large price to the traveling public, says a writer in the Indiana Farmer's Guide. Poultry men who are located on main-traveled roads should consider this method of making larger profit from their flocks. It is a field of endeavor not yet overworked. Cockerels to be kept for breeders should be removed to a separate house and range. If there happens to be but one good range available, let the pullets have it. It is of more importance to them than it could possibly be to the cockerels. However, it is a good plan to take good care of the males. Remember, they are responsible, jointly with the females, for the future welfare of the flock.

Grow Good Pullets.
There is one last rule that poultry men should observe in endeavoring to grow good pullets. Be careful in changing them to the laying quarters. I would house the birds just before they start laying or as soon as a few eggs are found. Do not delay the matter, as they learn to hide the eggs in out-of-the-way places; also, and most important of all, never house the cockerels with the pullets. It is time enough to introduce males when hatching eggs are needed a year later.

Fattening Turkeys on Range Is Proper Plan

In getting the turkeys ready for market it is a good thing to begin feeding a little night and morning about the middle of September.

The feed should be very light at first and the amount gradually increased until about ten days before marketing, when they should be given all they will consume three times a day.

In the beginning equal parts of wheat, oats and corn may be given, but the proportion of corn should be gradually increased until the last of October, when they should be fed on corn alone.

As a usual thing, results are not satisfactory where the birds are confined during the fattening period.

Advantages of Broccoli Over Cauliflower Plant

Broccoli, says a "Vegetorial," in the Journal of the Market Garden Field station, Massachusetts Agricultural college, has two distinct advantages over cauliflower, which it closely resembles. The grower is almost certain of a crop of broccoli even under rather adverse circumstances. Then, too, after the terminal head of broccoli has been removed, side shoots continue to develop, which carries the crop through a long season, from July to freezing weather. The vegetable is increasing in popularity in this country. The variety, Christmas Calabrese, is a satisfactory one to plant.

Plants Not Forced Will Endure Low Temperature

Garden vegetables such as cabbage, tomatoes, etc., will endure lower temperatures and greater extremes of drought without injury, after transplanting, if grown more slowly in the forcing bed than is customary. Such vegetables grown in a seedbed of sandy soil, low in plantfood, watered sparingly and ventilated freely, have large fibrous root systems, short, stocky, firm, woody stems and a concentrated sap of low freezing point. Vegetables grown in a seedbed of rich soil, highly manured, abundantly watered and in a high temperature with little ventilation, have scanty root systems.

Feeding Soy Bean Hay

Soy bean hay may be fed to dairy and beef cattle and sheep and, to a certain extent, take the place of linseed meal or other similar concentrates used for balancing the grain ration. To illustrate, a ration for a dairy cow composed of 20 pounds soy bean hay, five pounds ground corn, four pounds ground oats and one pound linseed meal, contains as much digestible protein as 20 pounds sudan grass, four pounds corn, and three pounds linseed meal.

FRIENDSHIP

We all need each other's help for there are many things we cannot do for ourselves. And life is much easier and more pleasant when we have friends who want to help us.

Friendship works both ways. You are ready to help your friend and he is ready to help you.

Just think of this when you think of your bank. You are helping your bank by depositing your money here. And that makes the officers of this bank anxious to help you. So come in when you need advice or the help of a friend.

Freezing Points Vary

While water freezes, or the ice melts at 32 degrees Fahrenheit, some liquids have a different freezing point. Mercury freezes at 39 degrees below zero, alcohol at 202 below zero. Salt water freezes according to the amount of salt it contains, the mark for sea water freezing averages 28.5 degrees above. Alcohol supplants mercury in thermometers used in very cold countries.

SINCE FRIENDS ARE HARD TO FIND

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

SINCE friends, good friends, are hard to find, Why should I be to friends unkind? I guard my gold with so much care, And put it here; and lock it there, Yet thoughtless do, or thoughtless say, And lose a friend along life's way, Although a friendship I should hold Surely as rich a thing as gold.

Since friends, good friends, are good to know, I wonder I neglect them so. I watch my garden for each weed, Yet friends, not roses, are my need. However beautiful the flow'r Men bring me in my final hour To lay upon my breast or brow, My need is friends and friendship now.

Since friends, good friends, are much to me, I wonder that I do not see That other men need friendship— why I pass the lonely stranger by— Why I, who grief have also known, Ever let sorrow grieve alone— Why to all men I am not kind— Since friends, good friends, are hard to find.

(© 1928 Douglas Malloch.)

"Ah, what would the world be to us, If the children were no more? We would dread the desert behind us Worse than the dark before."

GOOD FOOD

TRY this different lemon pie, for a change from the ordinary one: Chiffon Pie.

Mix one and one-fourth cupfuls of sugar with one-half cupful of flour, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one and one-fourth cupfuls of boiling water, stirring until well mixed and cook fifteen minutes. Add the well beaten yolks of three eggs, and juice of a lemon, the juice and rind of an orange and add to the mixture, stirring until well mixed, and cook lightly. Make a meringue of the egg whites and a half cupful of powdered sugar, whip one-fourth of it into the mixture, the rest use as a cover for the top. Brown in a moderate oven.

Mint Sauce for Lamb.

Chop one-fourth cupful of mint, add one tablespoonful of powdered sugar and one-fourth cupful each of orange juice and lemon juice. Let stand in a warm place for half an hour, then serve.

Peach Ice Cream.

This is a delicious ice cream, if the peaches are ripe and rubbed through a sieve. Take a pint of peach pulp, one cupful of sugar and a quart of this cream, or a pint each of cream and milk. Add a pinch of salt, lemon juice, a half teaspoonful of almond extract and freeze as usual.

Ginger Creams.

Take one cupful of sugar, three-fourths cupful of molasses and one-fourth cupful of corn syrup, one cupful of sour milk, two teaspoonfuls of soda, one teaspoonful of ginger, two teaspoonfuls of cinnamon, one cupful of shortening, two eggs and three cupfuls of flour. Add two cupfuls of flour and use the rest to roll out and cut into large cookies. Separate the egg yolks and whites and mix as usual. When baked drop on a teaspoonful of icing made with powdered sugar mixed with cold coffee to make of the right consistency to spread.

Pralines.

Boil one pound of brown sugar with just enough water to dissolve it until it forms a fine thread when poured from the end of a spoon. Str in one pound of pecan meats and when evenly mixed drop into buttered gem pans to cool and make a large thick patty.

DEBATE

The first debate of the season for East Jordan High comes Nov. 15 with Charlevoix. The question is: "Resolved that a Judge or Board of Judges be substituted for the Jury in all trials in the State and Municipal Courts of Michigan. East Jordan takes the Negative side. The team for this debate consists of Frances Brown, Helen Severance and Carl Weaver. We hope that "Patrick Henry," "Benjamin Franklin," and "James Otis" will carry their point through, and thus bring home victory.

A practice debate between the two East Jordan teams and the teams of Traverse City is to be held Wednesday of this week. These practice debates, while they do not count in the League, afford excellent preparation for the actual debates of the season.

Next Wednesday, Nov. 13, the two East Jordan teams will debate in assembly, beginning at 12:15 standard time. The public is invited to attend. No admission will be charged.

HOME ECONOMICS

A Home Economics Club has been organized for both educational and social interests. The following officers have been elected:

President—Alice Keats
Vice Pres.—Cecelia Burbank
Secretary—Louise Shubrick
Treasurer—Helen Kotovich

This club is to meet twice a month, the first meeting to be devoted to the study of home-making and music of other countries; the second meeting to be a social gathering, entirely.

The Tenth grade Home Ec. girls are now learning how to buy woolen and silk materials so that it will be efficient to them. They are making wool garments at present.

Ruth Stallard is the first girl to finish the project of furnishing a bed-room attractively. By making curtains and cushions, and re-arranging furniture, she has entirely remodeled her own room.

The Home Economics Club will sponsor a Home-made Candy and Apron Sale on Nov. 23, at Hite's Drug Store. Everyone is invited to come and bring their Pocketbook.

LIBRARY

Several of the new books that have arrived are mentioned on the ninth grade reading list. Some outstanding one are: Daniel Boone, Wilderness Scout, White; Black Arrow, Stevenson; Homer's Odyssey; Boy's Life of Mark Twain, Paine. Be sure, students, that you at least get a taste of them—there are many more that you will enjoy reading.

The library bulletin board is a historical one this week. Many noted history events are pictured here. These pictures should be of interest and value to everyone in High school.

AG. PARTY BIG SUCCESS.

A model crowd attended the High School Hallwe'en Masquerade dance Thursday night, Oct. 31. Everyone who did not come masked had to pay a fine and by results we judge that the crowd was Scotch for most everyone dressed in custom. There was a fine display of foreigners—Chinese, Japs, Turks, Gypsies, Scotchmen, and also of boys dressed like girls and girls like boys.

The outstanding event was the entrance of a negro man and his negress with their large uncultured family. The "kids" who rode on a wagon, kiddie car, and a tricycle were quite a howling bunch—all scraping over marshmallows and suckers. A shaggy little poodle followed them up and consequently got his share of the eats.

There was a hop-skip race between the Junior and Senior girls. Here the Seniors "copped" the cup.

An Orchestra made up of High School students and directed by Miss Chandelier furnished good peppy music for everyone to dance by.

The great magician, William Kitman, with the aid of Sam Kling performed a stunt with Chinese writing. These scheming sorcerers had everyone deeply mystified.

Cider and doughnuts were sold in the hall by Junior boys who had good lungs when it came to advertising. Evidently, they were good salesmen and made good profit for the class.

Everyone declares the party was an enormous success.

AG. CLUB

Thursday, Oct. 31 was a busy day for the Ag. Club. While apple and potato judging teams, consisting of 12 boys, were at Gaylord, the remaining ones were responsible for decorating the gym for a Hallwe'en party at which the rest of the high school students were to be guests.

We will certainly have to admit that decorations were suitable to the occasion. Corn shocks, pumpkins and streamers made the room similar in appearance to an old-fashioned barn all ready for the big event.

The only requirement of those who attended was that they be masked. If not, a ten cent fine was duly extracted from the purse of those violating this rule. Doughnuts and cider were sold to help raise money for members of judging teams. Those who have been chosen to represent our school in previous years have had to pay expenses for their own meals while on these trips.

Wednesday, Nov. 6, we are inviting the Mancelona Ag. Club to our meeting. The boys are working hard to learn all they can about apple judging so as to earn a place on the team of three who will go to Lansing to attend the Apple and Flower Show held Nov. 15, 16, and 17.

The twelve boys who went to Gaylord Show saw a very fine display of potatoes and apples, and made note of the fact that Charlevoix County took its share of prizes.

PEPPY ASSEMBLY

The assembly of Oct. 30 was in charge of the Student Council and certainly proved that they were a peppy bunch. Each class put on a "stunt"—the 7th grade, a soprano solo rendered by Miss Martha Gay; the 9th grade, a very critical operation where "Doctor" William Porter attended the patient with a hammer, spike and pinchers; the Sophomores, a blindfold boxing match in which the two fighters were chained to each other in order that they might not get away; the Juniors presented a bit of historical romance in which King "Pete" forced William Tell, alias Martin Ruhlmg, to shoot an apple off his little boy's head, the little boy being Arne Hegerberg. The Senior stunt was a humorous poem presented by Louise Bretz. Altogether, everyone got a huge laugh out of this program, and we appreciated the effort put forth by those students presenting the stunts.

GRADE-BUILDING NEWS

First Grade—The first grade pupils enjoyed their Hallwe'en party Thursday afternoon. They had popcorn and apples for refreshments. It sounds good, anyway.

Second Grade—The second grade have their Thanksgiving curtains put up already. We begin to think of turkeys now. They also are making their November calendars.

Third Grade—The third grade are decorating their room for Thanksgiving. They have chosen sides for a health contest, also. They have some new books for their library table, and some new games.

Fourth Grade—The fourth grade is still continuing their big Movie Attraction. They are also having a feature in the honor of Thanksgiving. They have some blue felt on the table and over this a large piece of glass, giving the effect of water. About the water, they have moss. Hiding about the moss and about the water are Indians. They are made from clothes pins and are dressed in brown trousers and have bright red bands about their heads. They will have more to tell you about this next week.

Fifth Grade—The second division has started fractions, and are getting along fine. The fifth grade has a library. They have painted their furniture red, which consists of a table and two chairs. On the table they have their books. Not everyone can sit up to the table and read, but if they get one hundred in spelling, they have that privilege of using the library. There has been a great deal of improvement lately—several one hundreds. The fifth graders who are taking penmanship are trying for their Palmer pins.

The new curtains which are of a bright color add a pleasant atmosphere to the room these cloudy days.

Sixth Grade—The Sixth graders are going to decorate their room in blue and gold, which are their class colors. Their class flower is the Forget-Me-Not. Class Motto: "Over the Top." Last years class motto was "The Top For Us." You see, they have advanced and are already over the top. Good work! Keep it up.

WEST SIDE NEWS

We have no West Side news this week except that the 4th and 5th graders have received letters from Jullus Metcalf who is in the Potoskey Hospital. These students wrote to him last week.

"There was a panic at the movies last night."

"What, a fire?"

"No, the place was suddenly plunged into complete light."

Student: When I left my last boarding place, the landlady wept.
Landlady: Well, I won't. I always collect in advance.

Wise men always know more than they tell, but fools tell more than they know.

Highways and The Telephone

From woodland trail to corduroy and dirt road; then gravel, macadam, concrete—thus, our highways have evolved.

Yesterday, we traveled twenty miles a day behind a spirited mare; today, we ride one hundred miles of an evening, in a motor car. Yesterday, travel was momentous; today, it is incidental.

From smoke signal and moccasined runner to pony express; from pony express to fast mail; fast mail to long distance telephone—thus, communication has evolved.

Yesterday, we wrote long letters and waited days, weeks, or even months for a reply; today, we lift a telephone receiver and, in a few seconds, have an answer. Yesterday, communication was laborious; today, it is effortless.

Michigan is building one of the finest highway systems in the United States, linking her cities by means of splendid concrete roads and opening a paradise of lakes and forest to all her people and to thousands of visitors.

The Michigan Bell Telephone Company, too, is building highways, modern voice wireways, comparable in every way with the finest concrete roads; these wireways link every section of the state. Michigan's telephone wireways are partners of her other highways of commerce, and an important part of a universal telephone system.

Highways and wireways have helped develop our state, its commerce, prosperity and social life, and wherever your motor takes you over the fine, wide roads of Michigan, you also will find a voice wireway leading to your home and office.

Our policy—"To continue to furnish the best possible telephone service at the lowest cost consistent with financial safety".
