All Northern Michigan Football Team

A. J. DUNCANSON PICKS FIRST AND SECOND "CLASS C" TEAMS.

The following all northern Michigan Football team was picked by the writer with the assistance of the school men and coaches at the meeting of what has been known as the "Little Six," at Boyne City, Saturday.

The writer made the statement through the Grand Rapids Herald a year ago that the Class C schools of northern Michigan were playing on the average as good football as the average Class B teams of the same section.

I believe this statement is truer this year than it has ever been before, with the possible exception of the Cadillac team, champions of the Big Six of northern Michigan this statement is true.

Boyer City Class C school of the northern Michigan Conference has 4 Class B Football scalps hanging to its belt—winning from Traverse City, Alpena, Cheboygan, and Petoskey—in some cases by lopsided scores. Harbor Springs has taken all its Class B opponents into camp and played a nothing to nothing deadlock with Boyne City. Not far behind the two above mentioned teams who tied for the championship of the northern Michigan Conference, comes Charlevoix.

Most of the games referred to were not upsets but just a case of the better team winning.

At the meeting of what has been called the "Little Six," Saturday at Boyne City, an all northern Michigan Class C team was picked with the assistance of the coaches and other school men present representing each of the northern Conference Schools. When the material was considered as a whole, it was remarked that it is doubtful if the pick of any Class B Conference in Michigan could defeat the following football team.

Poirier of Boyne City, a heady, aggressive player, weight about 155 pounds was picked as the best End of the north.

Foster of Charlevoix, a lighter man by about ten pounds, was chosen as his running mate and perhaps was the fastest end under punts and receiving passes in the Conference.

At Tackles we have men of unquestioned ability. Warner of Gaylord, well unto six feet in height was a fast, hard charging, lineman and more than held his own with any Class B tackle he appeared against. Kelderhouse of Charlevoix was chosen for the other side of the line at tackle. A man over six feet in height, blocking a number of punts and who often broke through the line to hurry the kicker.

It was a very difficult matter to pick the guard positions. Walker of Boyne City, Booth of Harbor Springs and Howe of Charlevoix were all considered. But the record of the teams and their ability to carry out team work through the guard positions gave it to Walker and Booth.

Faunce of Harbor Springs was for the second time picked as the all northern Michigan Center and with his passing is perhaps one of the strongest Centers in Michigan High School circles.

A number of very good backfield men were found. McBride of Harbor Springs for the second time was picked as quarterback and Captain of the team, being heavy, aggressive and one of the hardest charging defensive backs in Class C circles. Two new men appear at the other positions in the backfield.

Quinn of East Jordan was the fastest backfield man in the north. But was handicapped by a very green, young team, with interference would have been a star of the first magnitude. At the other half, Bradley of Harbor Springs, an Indian boy and considered the best all-round back in Class C circles. He really has not been stopped in any game this year. The same can be said for VanHoesen of Boyne City who was chosen without debate as the full back. VanHoesen and Bradley are nearly six feet and weigh over 175 pounds. With McBride, hard charging back and the speed of Quinn it is doubtful if there ever was a better Class C backfield in all Michigan.

FIRST TEAM

Poirier, Boyne City, Left End.
Warner, Gaylord, L. Tackle
Walker, Boyne City, L. Guard
Faunce, Harbor Springs, Center
Booth, Harbor Springs, R. Guard
Kelderhouse, Charlevoix, R. Tackle
Foster, Charlevoix, R. End
McBride, H. Springs, Quarter-Captain.

Quinn, East Jordan, Half
VanHoesen, Boyne City, Full
Bradley, Harbor Springs, Half.
The following deserve Honorable mention:

NEXT SUNDAY IS GO-TO-CHURCH SUNDAY

Many cities observe occasionally a Go-To-Church Sunday. The purpose of this is not to invite non churchgoers to go to church to hear some special speaker, or some extra musical talent. The regular pastors preach and the usual choirs sing. Why then, is it asked, should some such ordinary day be set aside as a Go-To-Church Sunday?

Many people appreciate the fact that there are churches in their community; they are well disposed toward the churches; they would not part with them for a great deal. These people intend to go to church sometime, but the sometime is indefinite, and before they know it a year has passed and they have not gone.

A Go-To-Church Sunday sets a time when all who intend to go to Church sometime are especially invited to attend. Its purpose is to transform the indefinite purpose to go to Church "sometime" into the definite determination to go to church at some particular time. It is also a reminder to those who go to Church occasionally that it is fitting that they go to Church upon this occasion.

Sometimes when a Church has a special distinguished preacher or some outside musical talent some who do not go to Church say they would like to hear the famous preacher and the famous musicians, but they do not like to go when they have never heard the regular pastor, who is the one they call for in times of sorrow, or the choir which faithfully serves during the humdrum seasons of the year.

Next Sunday Go-To-Church, in part because it will be the regular pastor and choir. Go-To-Church and invite sometime one to go with you. Go to the Church of your choice, but Go-To-Church somewhere next Sunday.

Drake, Mancelona, Tackle
Criske, Gaylord, Half Back
Arvilla, Charlevoix, Full Back
Shaler, Boyne City, Guard
Foster, Charlevoix, R. Guard
Neiland, Mancelona, Guard
Rosemeier, H. Springs, Half Back
Bachus, Harbor Springs, Guard
J. Smith, Gaylord, Center
McKinnon, Gaylord, End.

A second team that would give the first team a very interesting scrimmage.

SECOND TEAM

Gary, Gaylord, L. Tackle
Cornell, Harbor Springs, L. Guard
Lee, East Jordan, End
Hipp, East Jordan, Center
Howe, Mancelona, R. Guard
Swanson, Charlevoix, R. Tackle
Johnson, Harbor Springs, R. End
Campbell, Gaylord, Quarter
Supernaw, Charlevoix, R. Half
Stroud, Charlevoix, L. Half
Mackell, Mancelona, Full.

Class C Schools Organize Circuit

MAKE PLANS FOR SPORTS CONFERENCE SATURDAY AT BOYNE CITY.

At a meeting of representatives of the schools known in the past as the "Little Six" at Boyne City last Saturday, a Northern Michigan Athletic Conference was formed. The organization to be composed of the following Class C schools: Boyne City, Charlevoix, East Jordan, Gaylord, Harbor Springs, and Mancelona. However it was suggested that the organization be left open for one or two other northern Michigan Class C schools—having in mind Onaway and Rogers City on the east side of the State.

All of the above towns are strong in athletics and this year have won a majority of their games with Class B schools.

An entry fee of $5.00 was decided upon to go toward the purchasing of athletic trophies for the championship football, basketball and track teams. The first trophy to be awarded for basketball to the team with the best percentage of games won.

Each team is required to play at least four other conference teams in football and at least six games with conference teams in basketball to be eligible for the trophy awards.

An executive committee to be appointed from each school represented will meet the second Saturday in December at which meeting a constitution will be drawn up and the officers elected.

Mr. O. P. North, Principle of the Charlevoix High School acted as temporary chairman and Coach Tillotson of Gaylord as secretary.

After the business session an all northern Michigan Class C football team was picked. The good feeling and enthusiasm was encouraged further by a banquet at the Wolverine Motel.

UNION THANKS-GIVING SERVICE

According to custom there will be Union Thanksgiving Service in East Jordan on the morning of Thanksgiving Day. This year it is the turn for the service to be held in the Methodist Church and Rev. C. W. Sidebotham, pastor of the Presbyterian Church will preach the sermon. The public is invited to attend.

BOYS' AND GIRLS' WINTER CLUBS

Considerable interest and enthusiasm has been manifested in the organization of Clothing, Handicraft and Hot Lunch Clubs during the past month. Many new localities have organized clubs for the first time and several are now carrying on club work for the second and third consecutive years. This type of work is gaining in popularity each winter and from all indications a much larger enrollment will be received than at any other year. At the present time 17 clubs are fully organized with a membership of 134 boys and girls who are actively engaged in making numerous articles which are of practical value and can be used in or about the home.

The girls learn to darn and patch, hem dish towels, and make two articles of apparel. The boys make the bench hook and five other articles such as a boot jack, book rack, coat hanger, tie rack, feed scoop, milk stool, nail box, sleeve board, shelf, window support, and many others too numerous to mention.

Following are the Clubs, Leaders and Members:

CLOTHING CLUBS

Norwood School—Mrs. Ruby, Alward, Leader, 6 members.

Loeb School—Miss Beatrice Straw, Leader, 4 members.

Curfew School—Miss Olga Schultz, Leader, 6 members.

Boyer Falls School—Miss Anna Wellington, Leader, 12 members.

Deer Lake School—Miss Norma Moore, Leader, 5 members.

Clarion School—Miss Jessie Cork, Leader, 13 members.

Bay Shore School—Miss Nita Shearer, Leader, 6 members.

Nowland School—Miss Clara Daugherty, Leader, 7 members.

Marion Center School—Mrs. Chas. Withers, Leader, 16 members.

Total members—75.

HANDICRAFT CLUBS

Marion Center School—John Dutcher, Leader, 10 members.

Clarion School—Miss Josephine Ellis, Leader, 10 members.

Ranney School—Mrs. Alma Brown, Leader, 5 members.

Walker School—Mrs. Ruby Steuck, Leader, 7 members.

Boyer Falls School—Arthur Middleton, Leader, 5 members.

Norwood School—Richard Kirby, Leader, 9 members.

Curfew School—Miss Olga Schultz, Leader, 6 members.

Irbnton School—Mrs. Bernice Knop, Leader, 7 members.

Total members—59.

Two or three schools have not definitely decided upon the organization of club work, but it is expected when all is settled that there will be about 20 clubs carrying on work this winter with close to 200 club members.

New Potato Grading Law

COUNTY AGENT MELLENCAMP INTERPRETS THE PROVISIONS.

As a result of having many inquiries coming to my office relative to the new potato grading law, the following brief explanations will be submitted hoping it will clear up the situation for both the growers and the retailers.

Of Importance to the Grower

Growers are not compelled to grade or tag potatoes when they sell their own production direct to the consumer, and do not require a license to sell their own production. They must grade, and mark each container, in all other sales. Growers must have a license when they buy for re-sale, truck, grade, or load for re-sale all potatoes other than their own production.

Potatoes must be graded and stamped on the premises where prepared for market. Preparation for market means proper grading and proper marking or stamping. When graded on the premises where prepared for market and when legibly and conspicuously labeled, stamped, or tagged with the name and address of person or persons responsible for the grading and the name of the grade, together with the true net contents, and thus delivered to the retailer, the grocers responsibility then begins.

Whosoever, buys, trucks, grades, or loads for resale must have a license, which costs $1.00 and good for one year from the State Commissioner of Agriculture.

Responsibility of Grocer

Retail merchants must not offer for sale, or sell, potatoes which are not graded, each container must be marked as required unless he sells direct from the sack or container already graded and properly marked, and in plain sight of the customer.

The retailer can not, however, empty potatoes from the sack or container above described into a bin or other receptacle, or mix them with other potatoes unless he again grades such potatoes in accordance with the requirements of Act. No. 220 and when selling same marks the individual packages going to the consumer and of course securing a license to grade potatoes.

The single instance in which the grocer is released from marking the individual packages going to the consumer is when he sells direct from the container, already graded and marked and in plain view of the consumer.

The stamp, label, or tag used by the retailer shall be securely affixed to the package going to the consumer, and shall be printed in letters not less than 3-16 of an inch standard type as for example:

State News in Brief

Bad Axe—Mr. and Mrs. George Whitelam, of Bad Axe, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary recently, in the Bad Axe Presbyterian Church. The Rev. G. E. Carpenter, pastor of the church, officiated at the re-enactment of the wedding.

Lansing—To relieve further the congested condition at Marquette Branch Prison, 150 inmates are to be transferred to Jackson, Arthur D. Wood, pardon and parole commissioner, announced. Recently several transfers have been made, as the new prison at Jackson was enlarged to provide accommodations. Wood said no date for the transfer had been set.

Kalamazoo—Inflammable decorations must be removed at once from every public meeting place in Kalamazoo, according to an order issued by Fire Chief Charles Russell, after a survey of 60 restaurants, dance halls and other public meeting places. The inspections were made at the request of the State fire marshal, as a result of the Study Club fire at Detroit two months ago.

Battle Creek—Mrs. Ida Marks, wife of a Calhoun County farmer, was convicted in Circuit Court here, of having tortured Lillian Zanger, 6 years old, who had been placed in the Marks' home by the child's widowed mother. The jury announced the verdict after deliberating two hours and Judge Blaine W. Hatch sentenced Mrs. Marks to two to five years in the Detroit House of Correction.

East Lansing—Ellen Terry, C. Coolidge, and Milt Gross are students at Michigan State college, according to the 1929-30 student directory, just issued. Charles A. Lindbergh, listed in last year's directory, received his degree in engineering last June. Smiths lead with 28 of that name at State this year. There are 20 Millers, 19 Johnsons and 13 Joneses. The total listing shows an enrollment of 3,017.

Detroit—Failure to open the door of his garage at 2720 Hooker avenue before he started the motor of his automobile caused the death of Arthur O'Day from carbon monoxide fumes. O'Day lived at 2723 Hooker avenue and rented the garage from Leo Goodman. Goodman, when he saw smoke coming from the garage roof, investigated and found O'Day dead on the running board of the machine.

Lansing—Advice to deer hunters who are lost is contained on a card issued by the conservation department. It says: "If you get lost, don't get excited. You will probably be able to find a fire tower or its telephone line. Follow the wires. They will take you to town. If it is dark, build a fire and wait until morning. Don't tire yourself out walking in circles. Always carry a compass and matches."

Pontiac—Clair Deneau, 32 years old, 24 Hovey street, was killed when he was buried under sand at the gravel pit of the American Aggregates Co., at Oxford. He was caught in a sand conveyor belt and thrown into a pit where the belt continued to pile sand on top of him until the engine could be stopped, but by that time he was buried so deeply it required 25 minutes to dig him out. He was dead when reached.

Lansing—Michigan's road building programme for 1929 produced 460 miles of new pavement, an increase of more than 15 per cent over 1928, the previous year, according to a report issued by the State Highway Department. The state completed 335 miles of new 20-foot concrete, widened pavement on 32 miles of road, making an amount equivalent to 16 miles of new 20-foot concrete, and laid 43 miles of asphalt and 45 miles of macadam and bitumen.

Mt. Clemens—Pilots at Selfridge Field have been instructed to discontinue low flying over the Canadian shore line of Lake St. Clair, even in quests for missing boats and men, as the result of protests made by duck hunters on the Canadian side that the planes frighten the ducks away.

Lansing—Michigan hunters are increasing in number. Over 400,000 small game licenses have been sent out to date, necessitating conservation officials to order more. Last year 360,000 were disposed of.

Detroit—"How about givin' me a bit o' change to help me get out to Mt. Clemens to see my sick mother?" This appeal, which is used frequently in varied forms by professional panhandlers, was put to a Detroit real estate man one day. The latter, who was just about to step into his automobile, took the beggar at his word.

"Why, we're going to Mt. Clemens right now and you can go along," he said. Whereupon he and his companion pushed the panhandler into the automobile, and despite the latter's loud protest, actually drove him to Mt. Clemens to see his "sick mother."

Ortonville—P. A. Sherman, an Ortonville man, was the hero of a railway wreck near Oakdale, Tenn. He hobbled about on a broken ankle and flagged two trains that might have plunged into the wreckage of the Ponce de Leon, in which scores, including Sherman's wife and son, Ellis, were injured. Climbing from his overturned coach, Sherman flagged a northbound train and then hobbled some distance down the track to flag a southbound train. The Shermans were returning home from Chattanooga, Tenn.

AVIATION SPURS MAPPING PROJECTS

Survey of Unsettled Areas Is Urged.

Washington.—The surveyor's transit and rod and the airplane are supplanting the covered wagon and the pick and shovel of the early pioneer in present day opening up of the unsettled areas of North and South America, according to Dr. William Bowie of Washington, D. C., speaking in Mexico City at the Pan-American Institute of Geography and History.

Doctor Bowie, one of three delegates from the United States to the first meeting of the newly organized institute, was designated by the National Geographic society. He is chief of the division of geodesy of the United States coast and Geodetic survey and a world famous authority on isostasy.

Charting Potential Resources.
Maps which give precise locations, elevations, and other topographic information constitute the framework of further surveys of forest, mineral, plant, animal, water power and other forms of potential wealth, the speaker explained.

"Therefore the engineers and other leaders in industry are making their wants known in regard to topographic mapping," he continued. "It has truly been said that only a rich nation can afford to develop its natural resources and its industries without previously having executed the topographic surveying and mapping. Thus are avoided wasteful mistakes of the past in road building and railway construction by routes which are circuitous and in areas which have not the latent resources or are too far from markets to be profitable.

A major program of the institute is the co-ordination of topographic surveys already made independently; and stimulation of mapping programs of the governments themselves.

Another imperative demand for mapping of hitherto unexplored areas arises from the commercial airplane lines, Doctor Bowie said, for airplanes now are using routes over tracks which know neither the highway nor the steel rail.

"We have heard much in recent decades of the application of scientific principles to agriculture and other great industries in exchange of goods and in communication," Doctor Bowie said. "But science can only go a certain distance towards bettering the condition of humanity and making civilization nobler without having geographic facts. It is here that the geographer must supplement the work of the physicist, the chemist, and the engineer. For without geographical information and background the other sciences cannot be efficiently employed in the utilization of the resources which Nature has given boundantly to the nations of the world.

Not Thoroughly Mapped.
The officials of the National Geographic society have expressed frequently, and do on this occasion through me, their opinion that civilization will be greatly advanced by an early completion of the mapping of the world.

"We all should like to see the day when there is an adequate topographical map covering the area of each of the countries in the Western hemisphere. Much mapping has been done in my country but only 43 per cent of the United States has as yet been topographically surveyed and many of the map sheets are inadequate to meet the modern needs of agriculture, mining, development of hydroelectric power and extension of transportation and communication systems."

Doctor Bowie concluded with a resume of the expeditions sent out for the past quarter of a century by the National Geographic society, showing how the society's numerous explorations have added a remarkable variety of data to our knowledge of the world in which we live.

Ants Eating Courthouse, Los Angeles Is Warned

Los Angeles, Calif.—County Entomologist Harold Ryan warned officials at the county courthouse that wood eating white ants, known as termites, have invaded the halls of justice. He said something would have to be done to stop the infinitesimal jaws of the insects from chewing the joists and beams, or justice will need a new home. Last year the termites, which have done millions of dollars' damage in this section in the last few years, ate away the wood foundations of several minor county office buildings behind the courthouse.

Bandit Keeps Promise and Also Victim's Watch

Bar Song of Solomon in New British Bible

London.—In the new version of the Bible published by the National Sunday School union, the censors fell with special severity on Solomon's toils and utterances. The Song of Solomon, considered throughout the ages as one of the gems of literature was totally suppressed as being likely to corrupt the mind of youth.

MAKING PEOPLE HAPPY

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

Peder Victorious, in O. E. Staivang's novel of that name, is puzzling his little head. "As many of us older people have often done, over the purpose of living. I am sure that in our more serious moments the question has often occurred to us of why we are here and what life is all about. There were many mysteries to Peder; emotions stirred within him, strange longings took possession of him, revolt from things as they are disturbed his soul. Making people happy—that was the best thing in the world that anyone could do, he finally concluded. He had found a reason for living and never again did the road seem so rough or so uncertain. He knew now what it was all about.

It is rather a selfish world in which we live, and far be it from me to claim that selfishness is always to be condemned. Self-seeking has resulted often in great accomplishment, great inventions, great progress and reforms. But selfishness seldom brings happiness either to the self-seeker or to his associates.

There is a great satisfaction in making other people happy. The happiest people I have ever known are those who have made sacrifices for other people; who have given up what they themselves most wanted in order that they might contribute to the comfort and happiness of others. Peder Victorious was not so far wrong after all. One has not lived in vain if he devotes himself to making people happy.

Faustin Wirkus, an American tenant, was crowned king of the island of Gonave, a little unpopulated island off Haiti, so W. B. Seabrook tells us in his Magic Island. There were a number of reasons, perhaps which led to this exaltation of an inexperienced and rather ordinary citizen, but the chief reason as I read the story was that, despite as he was in fact and god as the natives sometimes thought him, it was largely because he did his best to make his simple subjects happy that made him really King of Gonave. He rebuilt the base of Jules Narclisse's engine almost with his own hands; he brought in blooded hogs as a substitute for the scrawny stunted razor-backs with which the island was infested; he brought in a new variety of melons, he sent an old peasant woman across the mountains quite against her will to submit to an operation for cataract and brought her back seeing and thinking Wirkus god himself. No wonder they made him King, for he spent his time in making his subjects happy.

The story is told by Sir James Barrie that when the boy's mother was ill because of the death of an other son, the doctor said to James, "Try to make your mother laugh; it will do her more good than medicine." He did his best, and when the doctor came back the next day the boy had a long string of black marks to show how many times he had been successful in making his mother laugh and all these years since this man, most beloved a long-play writers and story tellers, has been doing his best to make people happy.

It's time to CHANGE to winter grades

WINTER is near.

Is your car ready? Three steps are necessary to put your car in shape to meet the heavy demands of cold weather driving.

- 1—Change the lubricant in the differential and transmission, using Polarine Transmission Oil (Winter) or Iso-Vis Lubricant (B).
- 2—Have the chassis thoroughly greased.
- 3—Flush the crankcase with Polarine Flushing Oil and refill with winter grade of either Iso-Vis or Polarine recommended for your car.

These three steps are vital to the good conduct and smooth operation of your car this winter.

Iso-Vis and Polarine meet every winter need. They maintain their viscosity and lubricate thoroughly at any operating temperature. They're highly refined and scientifically correct for all motors.

If you use Polarine—drain the crankcase every 500 miles for maximum efficiency and economy. If you use Iso-Vis, the constant viscosity oil—you can drive a thousand miles or more without changing, for Iso-Vis wears and wears and wears.

THE DESERT MOON MYSTERY

By Kay Cleaver Strahan

© by Doubleday Doran Co., Inc. WNU Service

"But—the body was never there. Is it possible that you don't know that Gabrielle Canneziano was murdered right there on the stairs, where she fell, and where she was found?"

"How in blazes could I know it?" Sam said.

"My word! Weren't you present when the body was moved?"

"No, I—well, I didn't care about being."

"The fingers of her right hand were clutching the stair tread with the grasp of death. Nothing can disprove that. Dead fingers cannot be made to clutch."

"How do you know that?" Sam demanded. "About her fingers, I mean."

"When I saw the body in the crematory in San Francisco."

"What?"

"I always do that, when I can. Before I sent you my telegram, I had gone to see the body."

"Did—does Danny know that?"

"No. It might be better not to tell her. It is a necessary part of my profession. The crematory people realize that; but, since people are often very sensitive about it, they prefer that the relatives should not know that they allow it. As I was saying, I saw, then, that the fingers on the right hand had been broken. The undertaker had done that, you understand, in order that they might look natural to fold."

"When I had received your telegram engaging me to take the case, I telephoned to the coroner and the undertaker in Telko. They corroborated the opinion I had formed, from the fingers, about the death clutch among other things. Those proved that she had been killed on the stairs, by someone who had been coming downstairs behind her. How did it happen that you did not know this?"

"As soon as I realized what had occurred," Sam explained, "I cleared everybody right out and locked the door. I knew that it was necessary for the coroner to examine the body before it had been disturbed."

"How very, very sensible," Miss MacDonald said. But I did not quite like the way she said it.

I looked at my watch and said that it was time for me to be starting to get dinner. She asked if she might help me. I thought that she was trying to be polite, and I was making my refusal just as polite, when she interrupted me.

"Please, Mrs. Magin," she urged "You mentioned at breakfast that you had only one inefficient girl to help you, just now. I love housework, of all sorts. And I want to get intimately acquainted with this house. The best way to do that is to work in it, isn't it?"

Sam winked at me. "She isn't going to let you out of her sight, Mary."

Miss MacDonald tried to smile, but she made a failure of it.

"But you don't need to worry, Mary," Sam went on, "because one thing, now, is dead certain. If Gaby was murdered there on the stairs, it is impossible that any member of this household could have done it. It was, anyway. But now—it is sure. That clears us all."

Miss MacDonald flashed out, in one of her rarely shown tempers. "What utter nonsense," she said.

CHAPTER XIII

New Clews.

When it came to helping in the kitchen, that girl was more help in five minutes than Belle, Sadie and Goldie, all three of them together, had been in half a day. She didn't ask questions. She didn't say where is this, and how do you do that? She pitched in as if she had been working in that kitchen with me for the past twenty years. How she knew where I kept the potatoes, where the best paring knife lived, and the particular kettle that was best for cooking the potatoes in, I don't know, and I never shall know. Most mystery stories, especially of late, have an element of the supernatural in them. I tell you, that girl's knowledge of my ways, and the manner in which she took hold in the kitchen, are as supernatural as anything ever brought to my notice. The first thing I knew, she was peeling the potatoes, and peeling them thin and clean. She didn't ask how many would be enough. When she got them peeled and washed, she put them on, in boiling water, with no inquiry as to where I kept the salt. She did not talk as she worked. I was glad of that; for, after three solid hours of conversation, I needed, badly, a silent space.

I wanted to think. Those last words of hers, "utter nonsense," in answer to Sam's statement, kept ringing in my ears.

I tried to think whether there was any way a person could get upstairs without coming through the house. We had no fire escapes. There were no trees close enough to the house that anyone could swing to an upstairs window from one of them. There were no vines growing on the house. Without about a twenty foot ladder, which we didn't have on the place, and which would be hard to go conveying about, to say nothing of disposing of it afterward, there was not any possible way for anyone to get to the second floor of our house, except by means of the back or the front stairway.

Since Gaby had been killed on the attic stairway, and since all who knew about that sort of thing agreed that she had been dead at least two hours when we found her, she must have returned to the house sometime between four and five o'clock, and have stolen upstairs with none of us seeing her. Since she could do that, there was no reason to suppose that someone else could not have done the same thing; either coming in with her at the time, or coming before or after she did. I had to conclude that another person certainly had done just that; had entered the house and had gone upstairs during that hour. Why? The person whom she had been fearing? Not one of us, that seemed a certainty. And yet, Miss MacDonald had said, "nonsense."

I remember, again, her strange mad actions immediately after she had received the code letter. I remembered how she had looked in the hall that day, when I had told John that I thought I had seen the ghost of Sin. In Gaby's note to Danny she had written that she had purposely kept her fears and her danger a secret from Danny. Undoubtedly, the secret was written in the code letter. Had she told Danny partly the truth about the contents of that letter, or had she told her falsehoods from beginning to end? Or had Danny told us only a part of the truth? Why did we all keep forgetting how Danny had tried to call Gaby back, when Gaby had started on that fatal walk?

I have said before, and I say again, I knew that Danielle Canneziano had not murdered her sister. But I knew, too, that if she had some reason, some better reason than I could conceive, for keeping quiet, for not telling everything she knew, Danny was capable of so doing. I remembered our talk in her room on the morning of the fifth of July. I remembered how she had acted when her engagement ring had slipped from her finger—and I tried to turn my thoughts into different channels.

There was Chad's suicide and his confession. It could be possible that he had killed himself because he adored Gaby. But that would not account for his confession to the crime. It could mean but one thing—a desire to shield some one. Would he have cared about shielding some unknown scoundrel who had crept into the house and killed the girl whom Chad loved? Had Chad, then, mistakenly suspected Martha, or Sam, or John, and killed himself and left the note to aid one of them? Not likely. Men do not kill themselves, leaving a written confession to a crime of which they are innocent, because of some mere suspicion.

I remembered my conversation with Hubert Hand in the hall that morning. What was it that he had thought I had overheard in the cabin and had bribed me not to tell? It was reasonable enough to suppose that, at that time, he had hoped to keep his entire story, his prison records, his reason for coming to the Desert Moon, his relations with Mrs. Ricker and Martha, a secret; just as I had hoped to keep the fact of finding Sam's pipe ashes a secret.

Sam's pipe ashes, again. If someone had put them there, in an effort to implicate Sam, it would have had to be someone who knew Sam's ways. My thoughts were off again. You can't, I told myself, get ahead of a following shadow by running away from it. You have to turn and face it, before you can go the other way. I faced it.

John. He had left the ranch at two o'clock. He could easily have gotten back by four, or shortly after. Suppose that he had left the machine down the road, quite far down the road in the spot where the tire tracks showed that the machine had been stopped and started again. The spot where we thought he had changed a tire? He could have climbed the fence, taken a short cut to the house and gotten here in half or three quarters of an hour. He could have met Gaby; could have stolen into the house with her. He could have killed her, and stolen out of the house again. A short cut across the fields, and a drive to the house would get him here by six o'clock—the time he did get here. If he could be wicked enough to murder, he could be wicked enough to arrange clews to throw suspicion on his father and his sister. If he were low enough to do that, he would be low enough to rob her of a little money. In other words, grant that John is a blonde, and you can go along and grant that he has blue eyes and tow hair. It was all of it false, I told myself, from its wicked beginning to its wicked end, false and unfair. But I had faced it. Now I could turn and go in another direction.

I had not realized how deeply I had been thinking, dawdling over my work in consequence, until I saw that Miss MacDonald had taken up the pork chops, and had them in the warning-oven, and was making gravy as smooth and tasty looking pan-gravy as I ever saw.

"Good Lands!" I Said, "I've Certainly Come to One Conclusion."

"Good lands!" I said. "I've certainly come to one conclusion."

"It is a little early for conclusions, isn't it?" she asked.

"It is a lot too late for this one."

"Please—" she began; but, for once, I got the best of her.

"My conclusion is," I said, "that by hook or crook, Sam Stanley has got to get me some efficient help in this house. When I think of what I've put up with, all these years in the way of help, and then see the way you pitch in, it makes me mad all over."

"I wish," she said, "that I might drop this case, right now, and stay here for all time, and be your assistant and a thoroughly domestic person, and forget that there were crimes and criminals in the world."

"Maybe," I said, eagerly, but knowing of course that it was too good to come true, "when you've finished with this case, you could do that. You'd be one of our family, and Sam would pay—well, I guess anything you'd care to ask."

"No," she smiled. "It is tempting—now. But that desire of mine to give up my profession is a phase, that I always pass through at the beginning of each difficult case. In a few days when I begin to get hold of something and when things begin to take shape all my love of the work will return. It is only at first, when I seem to be in a maze of mystery, like this, that I get so discouraged. I always do it right at first, and I always think that here is the case of which I am going to make an absolute failure."

"Have you ever failed, on a case?" I asked.

"Indeed I have, on several. It is queer, though; in each case that has been a failure, it has seemed that the solution was written plainly from the start. It was—written all wrong. Judging from that, I should be an usually successful in this case."

Poor girl, no wonder that she was discouraged. She has given me leave now that it is all over, to use any of her notes that I care to use in the writing of this story.

"Far be it from Lynn MacDonald," she said, when I asked her about using the notes, "to refuse advertisement of one of her banner cases. My rivals will say that I succeeded in this because, as often happens, my luck stood by me. But you and I, we understand about luck, don't we, Mary?"

"If you aren't afraid," I said, "that your notes may give away some of the secrets of that luck of yours, so that your rivals will be able to lay their hands on some of the same brand?"

She laughed. "I never write down a secret. That is a safe enough rule for an honest person, who plans to remain honest. For a dishonest person, or for one who contemplates any sort of evil, or admits the possibility of such a course, the safe rule would be: 'Never, under any circumstances, put pen or pencil to paper.'"

As Sam would say, "It is a poor rule that won't work both ways."

The notes that Miss MacDonald had made, before this conversation of ours, that day in the kitchen, and on the evening of that same day, July eleventh, are as follows:

July 7. Saw body in crematory late tonight. Cause of death, strangulation. Probably work of an expert. Look for Japanese on ranch. Broken fingers on right hand. Beautiful costly gown, lingerie, etc., indicating wealth and good taste.

July 8. Rose, my assistant, who has shadowed twin sister, reports nothing verdig on suspicion. She attended services at crematory. Evidence of genuine grief. Returned to hotel one telegram sent to Desert Moon ranch. Received no company. Mailed no letters. Did no shopping.

I received telegram from Desert Moon ranch engaging me on case. Explicit directions concerning train probably due to inconvenience of meeting trains in rural community, and not due to a desire to have me on the same train with Miss O. However note.

Telephoned to coroner and undertaker, requesting them to give me conference in Telko. Also, had coroner verify list of names, as published in "Examiner" of all persons present on ranch at time of murder. Note—absence of all ranch employees at the time. Note extreme reluctance of both coroner and undertaker to give information of to meet me in Telko.

July 9. Spent day in shadowing Miss O myself. Her observations as usually excellent.

Rose's research through back files of Nevada papers provided following information.

Samuel Stanley, ranch owner. Very wealthy. Exemplary character. High standing throughout state of Nevada. Philanthropic.

John Stanley, adopted son of S. Stanley. Distinguished himself on University of Nevada football team 1916, 1917. Enlisted in air service for war, 1917. Mother's Field when armistice was declared.

Hubert Hand, Winner of chess tournament held in Reno, 1914, 1915.

Mrs. Ollie Ricker. No report.

Hubert Hand, Egotistic. Clever. Judgment suspended.

Ollie Ricker. Life has treated her badly. She has put on armor against it. Stupid. Perhaps stily. Judgment suspended.

Danielle Canneziano. Criminal type. Alibi proves him not guilty of the murder, but he is probably involved. Why did he come here?

July 11. Evening.

Heard case history today from Mr. S. and Mrs. M.

Temporarily destroyed all first impressions as recorded. Remember, however, the value of mistaken impressions is usually important.

Multiplicity of clews most amazing in my entire experience. Would seem to indicate that many of them are false clews.

Most important clews:

1. John's unnecessary errand. Length of time gone.

2. Victim's evident fear as she walked through room. Unusual costume for short walk on the place.

3. Miss O's calling after her sister.

4. Canfield's suicide and confession note.

5. Victim's note to Danielle Canneziano. Proof of her fear.

6. Death of Martha Stanley. Miss ing box containing sleeping powders.

7. Canneziano's presence on the ranch.

Clews of less importance:

1. Contents of beaded bag: Empty purse, missing bill-fold, crumpled handkerchief, broken cigarette holder, note from Hubert Hand, cigarette case with two cigarettes missing, empty matchbox.

2. Code letter.

3. Pipe ashes on bag and carpet. Not necessarily Mr. Stanley's. Probably fixed false clew.

4. Tattling shuttle. (Doubtful.)

Clews of most importance:

1. Entire story concerning the money from robbery being hidden on Desert Moon ranch.

2. Victim's peculiar actions after receiving code letter. Quarrel with Mr. Stanley.

3. Mrs. Ricker's story. Her reason for telling it. Did she believe it?

4. Mrs. Magin's desire to remove pipe she.

5. Miss O's reluctance to tell of them. Her final complete confession of her suspicions concerning Mr. Stanley.

6. Hubert Hand's unnecessary confusion concerning his past life.

Clews of least importance:

1. C. Canfield's owners of ventriloquism. Probably greatly overrated by members of household.

2. Playing of radio between two and four o'clock that afternoon.

3. Martha's reference to a surprise in which she and Hubert Canfield were involved. Possibly untrue.

4. Mrs. Magin's evident antagonism toward the victim.

5. Mr. Stanley's prompt action in locking the attic door and his refusal to have the body touched until the arrival of coroner.

6. Reason for victim's having given bracelet to Martha Stanley at that time?

Negatives:

1. No clews of any sort discoverable in victim's room.

2. No clews of any sort discoverable in attic.

3. Lack of motives for crime by persons at present instinctively suspected.

4. No dogs on a ranch of this size.

Now, as I read over these notes, my good opinion of myself rises until it runs over the pan. I declare to goodness, the list of clews made out by Lynn MacDonald, crime analyst, is not much better than the list made out by Mrs. Magin, cook and housekeeper. She has done hers in better form, and she has included a few things that I left out. But, most of the included things were unknown to me at the time I made my list. Many of the other included things did not amount to shucks. For instance, we have no dogs on the ranch because the dogs in northeastern Nevada have a habit of running out and associating with rabid coyotes, contracting rabies, coming home and biting who ever is conveniently to hand. For instance—but never mind. As I said before, poor girl, no wonder she was discouraged.

As indicated by her notes for July eleventh, a that afternoon Miss MacDonald had cleaned the attic, thoroughly, and had found nothing to pay her for her trouble. Keeping me in the dark, as she had, I supposed, when she said early next morning that she wanted to clean the living room, that she had got at least a hat full of clews from the attic.

The interest in the Stereopticon Sermon-Lectures, on the subject: "The Five Crises in the Life of Jesus" is very keen, judging from the large attendance last Sunday night, for the second number. The two very beautifully illustrated songs were well received. The third number next Sunday night which will be: "On the Hillside with the Common People. The Growth of Popular Favor."

There will be a meeting of the official members of the Church next Monday night at the Parsonage.

The Men's Fellowship Club will meet at the Church next Tuesday night at 6:15.

The Thanksgiving service will be held Thanksgiving morning at 10:00 o'clock standard time. Rev. C. W.

Sidebotham will deliver the address. Next Sunday is "Go-To-Church" Sunday, may every family in East Jordan be in some Church next Sunday. Just get into the habit once more of going to Church somewhere. You need the Church, and the Church needs you.

WAS EARLY SETTLER OF THIS PLACE

Robert M. Webster, whose death was recorded in last week's issue of The Herald, was among the early settlers of East Jordan, coming here in 1873—56 years ago.

Deceased was born at Honeyoye Falls, New York, August 18, 1840. On Jan. 1st, 1867 he was united in marriage to Elizabeth P. Severance at Holly, Mich. She passed away and he was later married to Mrs. Kate Baldwin, who died a few years ago.

Mr. Webster was a veteran of the Civil War and was at the Grand Rapids Soldier's Home at the time of his death, Nov. 9th, 1929. The remains were brought to East Jordan and funeral services were held from the M. E. Church, Nov. 12th, conducted by the pastor, Rev. James Leitch. The remains were laid to rest at Sunset Hill with Masonic honors.

If there is anything harder to satisfy than a man's appetite it is a woman's curiosity.

CLUBBED TO DEATH

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

The minister was not complaining exactly; he was simply making a statement of fact.

He had been out calling on his parishioners as a faithful pastor should, and he had found none at home. Father and mother and children were all out attending to their social duties. Not had he confined his calls to the village. Out in the country as well the house doors were closed and the windows down, and no one came when he knocked at the door. Hard roads and the automobile had made it easy for the country dwellers to wander afar. There was a time when country life isolated women especially, and during the winter or the busy season in the spring they might not get outside of the yard for weeks. Not so now.

We all have our clubs and our societies, and we are slaves to their demands. There is Mason, for instance. He is a professional man with marked athletic and religious tendencies. He has a family, but he belongs to things, as they do. Last week's program was possibly a little more congested than usual—possibly not. There was a business meeting of the officers of his church on Sunday at nine, so that he had to leave the house shortly after breakfast. Church services are at eleven and he does not like to be absent. He was invited out to dinner at one, there was a tea at the house of one of his acquaintances at four, and he was due to make a short speech at a fraternal meeting at six. The day was pretty well taken up by the time he arrived home, and he had seen very little of his family. The medical society meets on Monday, the Rotary club on Tuesday, the City Commercial club on Wednesday, and so on throughout the week. Noon or night he is almost never at home.

These facts affect his family's happiness and comfort very little, however. His wife's time is almost equally taken up with her own organizations. She has her bridge club, and the Ladies' Missionary society, an art club and a reading circle, and at least two afternoons are given up to golf. One must be in good physical condition if one is to keep up the pace at which we go these days. Mrs. Mason has not very much time at home either. Nor have her children. They are off at school most of the day, and for the evenings they have their social organizations, their dancing clubs, their scout activities and something or other to take them away from home the greater part of the time.

It is so generally. We belong to so many things, we are so obsessed with social and professional and religious and political and other activities that we have little time to spend at home. We must be learning a tremendous amount, or doing a great deal of good, or possibly wasting our energies. At any rate we are not over-developing some influences. Are we being clubbed to death?

The Bank's Origin

The term "bank" originally meant the bench at which the money changer sat. When he failed in business his bench was broken up, hence the work bankrupt.

The old-time banker rendered little or no service to his customers besides changing foreign monies.

The modern bank renders a broad service, provides safety for funds, pays interest on deposits, makes liquid and usable the credit of the community, provides safe investment counsel and stands ready at all times to make available to you the knowledge and experience of its officers.

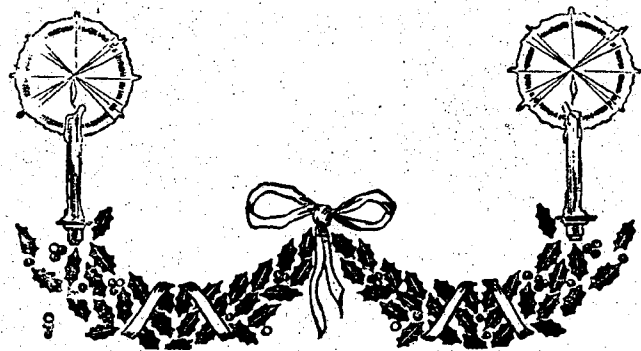

We invite you to make use of any of our various services.

NEXT SUNDAY IS Go-To-Church Sunday

Everyone in East Jordan and the surrounding country is urged to plan to Go-To-Church next Sunday. Go, if possible, to the Church of your choice; but be sure to Go-To-Church next Sunday.

IT'S TIME TO PLAN FOR CHRISTMAS PRESENTS

Some of the Bazaars are over, but some are still to come, and there is always Xmas to plan for.

A pretty towel or apron always sells. Pillow Slips with a little color are popular and easily made. Lunch Cloths, Buffet Sets, etc., always in season.

We have, by the yard, a 54 inch Oyster Linen, heavy, round thread that is easy to work on and the right width for a table cloth.

Don't forget we have four sizes of Initials, for Handkerchiefs, Napkins, Pillow Slips, Sheets, Table Cloths, Towels and any number of uses.

Shoes for 25 cents the pair.

E. J. Wins Debate

On Nov. 14 East Jordan certainly showed that it contained some well-coached debaters. Miss Perkins' team—Frances Brown, Carl Weaver, and Helen Severance, proved to Charlevoix that the present system of the Jury should NOT be substituted by a Judge or Board of Judges. Frances Brown, first speaker for the negative, started the argument going by showing that the Judge system would introduce new evils. She was backed up by Carl Weaver who claimed that the present system did not contain sufficient evils to warrant its abolishment. Then Helen Severance stepped upon the platform and proved that the Jury system contains many advantages over the Judge system.

Their words, clothed with keen reasoning power, bore weight upon the audience, and proved to be convincing to the judges. The score was 3-0, in favor of East Jordan.

Travels With a Bus

Not only were the Debators thrilled on that eventful night of the mental war with Charlevoix, but also those who were fortunate enough to ride in Mr. Crowell's bus to the debate. The time going over was spent in singing, and when we arrived at the Charlevoix schoolhouse, we discovered there were 24 of us, in all. The result of the debate left us in an optimistic humor, so we were able to sing even better on the way home. A grand discovery was made on Main Street, that the bus had a good strong horn. A new yell was also devised thus: We Won! We Won! By Golly, We Won! Nevertheless, Margaret Staley proved to be a confident yell leader, and she was given the strong support of all who rode in the bus.

Basketball

When the last Football had been safely tucked away in the locker room, the next thing we looked forward to is Basketball.

The basketball enthusiasm is always aroused the first of the year by having a class tournament between the Frosh, Sophs, Juniors and last but the most important, the Seniors.

This year the Juniors won the tournament but not until after they had had a hard fought battle with the Seniors. The Seniors however have some excuses—the main one being they played with four men practically the whole last quarter. But the Seniors are not making any alibis however, for they lost, fighting gainly and to the writer's opinion, they lost to a better all-around team.

The following is the way the tournament stands and the players that represented each class in the tournament.

Home Economics

The third year girls in Home Economics are learning a little efficiency about business. Along such lines as making out checks, deposit slips, receipts and notes.

They are also giving reports on books suitable for children at the different ages.

The girls in Applied Arts are studying the different types and the colorings suitable to them. The girls are also making some plans for Christmas. They are going to take dishes and paint different designs on them, making very pretty gifts for Xmas.

Books

The English classes are observing book week. Book week began Nov. 17th and ends Nov. 22nd. We are casting our votes Wednesday, Nov. 20th for our favorite book. The Library has received some new books. A great deal of them went in immediate circulation. This tells us that

AN ORDINANCE GRANTING TO THE EAST JORDAN ELECTRIC LIGHT & POWER COMPANY, A MICHIGAN CORPORATION, THE RIGHT TO CONSTRUCT AND MAINTAIN CONDUCTORS FOR CONDUCTING ELECTRICITY IN, ALONG AND UPON THE STREETS, ALLEYS, AND PUBLIC PLACES OF THE CITY OF EAST JORDAN, AND TO CONDUCT A BUSINESS OF DISTRIBUTING AND SELLING ELECTRICITY THEREIN.

ORDINANCE NO. 52

The City of East Jordan ordains:

Section 1. Consent, permission and authority is hereby given, granted and vested in the East Jordan Electric Light & Power Company, a Corporation organized and doing business under the laws of the State of Michigan, its successors or assigns, to manufacture, generate and use electricity and to construct, operate and maintain poles, wires, cables, conduits, and other fixtures for the purpose of transmitting, distributing and supplying electricity through, in, over, upon and under the streets, lanes, alleys, highways, and other public grounds and places in the City of East Jordan, in the State of Michigan, and in the territory that may hereafter become a part thereof, and to furnish, supply and deliver electricity for lighting, heating and other purposes to the said City of East Jordan and to the inhabitants and users of electricity within the limits of the said City of East Jordan as now or hereafter established.

Section 2. The poles, wires, cables, conduits and other fixtures provided for under this Ordinance shall be erected or placed under the supervision of the Council of the City of East Jordan, or such officer as it may designate.

Section 3. The said grantee, its successors and assigns shall furnish, supply and deliver all the electricity required by the said City of East Jordan and other inhabitants and other users of electricity within said City at such rates, tariffs and charges and under such conditions and regulations as may be from time to time fixed and established by the Michigan Public Utilities Commission, or its successors, upon application of either party.

Section 4. It shall not be required of the said grantee, its successors or assigns, to extend its lines within the limits of the said City of East Jordan for the purpose of supplying electricity for any use, unless the income derived from the sale of current due to such extension shall be in the opinion of the grantee, or the Michigan Public Utilities Commission, adequate and proper return for the capital expenditure required for such extension.

Section 5. This franchise shall continue in full force and effect for a period of twenty years from and after its acceptance, in writing, by the said grantee, which said acceptance shall be filed with the City Clerk of the said City of East Jordan within thirty (30) days from and after the approval of this Ordinance by the electors of the City voting thereon at an election to be provided.

Section 6. This ordinance and the grant herein contained shall be submitted to the electors of said City for their approval or rejection at an election to be called by the said City for that purpose, and shall become effective when the same has been approved by a vote of three-fifths (3-5) of the electors voting thereon at any such election.

Passed by the Common Council of the City of East Jordan this 18th day of November, Nineteen Hundred and Twenty Nine.

English

The ninth grade are making booklets containing the story of each person's favorite book and author. They are illustrating these booklets by putting pictures in them.

The tenth grade is having each member of the class give a talk on his favorite book. Each of them are also making an original slogan for book week.

The eleventh grade has chosen a topic from a given list to write a theme on. Wednesday each one is going to cast his vote for his two favorite books. Then they are going to draw a composite list of class favorites.

The twelfth grade were responsible for the bulletin board this week. These are some of the pictures of authors they had on it. John Erskine, Sinclair Lewis, Ergar Guest, Dorothy Campfield, Heywood Brune, Erich Remarque, George Bernard Shaw, Count Felix VanLuëcker, John Cowper Powp, Will Durant, Robert W. Chambers, H. G. Wells, Arnold Bennett, and Henry Seidel Camby.

Best Sellers

The week's best sellers is Detroit's representative stores are listed below in the order of their popularity.

Non-Fiction

"Queen Elizabeth," Katherine Anthony; "Prince of Wales," Townsend; "Mansions of Philosophy," Will Durant; "Sea Devil's Foc's'le," Lowell Thomas; "Middletown," Lynd; "Beethoven," Romain Rolland.

The week's best circulators in the Detroit Public Library are listed below

Fiction

"Hans Frost," Hugh Walpole; "Farewell to Arms," Ernest Hemingway; "October's Child," Donald Joseph; "Modesta," G. B. Stern; "Penrod Jasher," Booth Tarkington; "Dark Journey," Julian Green.

GRADES

Constructive Carpenters

The Kindergartners are building a log cabin, suitable for the month, out of wooden blocks. It is placed on moss, and a little boat is harbored in a make-believe river that flows past the cabin. In relation to these things, they are learning poems and boat songs.

Big Demand for Turkeys

Turkeys are still in demand by the first graders who are still making paper ones for decoration. If they keep on, the supply will be so abundant that we will not have to pay much for our Thanksgiving "fowl."

The Call of the Wild

The second graders are still "pulling" Indians out of the Wilds, that is, they are still making a study of them. They are well acquainted, now, with the characteristics and habits of the red men and have traced their civilization fairly well from the beginning.

The Children's Hour

An hour is being spent every Friday afternoon in the third grade room for the purpose of telling stories. Gale Brintnall is chairman of this committee. The pupils are all to have a chance at telling an interesting story, and perhaps the story that they are preparing for Thanksgiving will be the best of all.

Big Program Given

A program given last Friday afternoon displayed the talent and brilliance of the fourth graders. It proved to be very interesting, as well as instructive. Such stories as the following were reported on:

Favorite Fairy Tales, Farm Twins, Prudent, Robinson Crusoe, Bluebeard, Belgian Twins, Little Women, and Little Men. Several "book" riddles were given, and they succeeded in keeping everyone guessing.

Art Gallery to be Constructed

The sixth graders are showing an enthusiasm over English paintings by drawing up plans for an art gallery to be entirely devoted to English words.

They have also made a poster on which the motto "Over The Top" is illustrated by means of the drawing of a mountain. This motto is a very good one, and I think that we should all appreciate it.

Caller—Won't you walk as far as the street car with me, Tommy?

Aged Seven—I can't.

Caller—Why not?

Aged Seven—Cause we're gonna have dinner as soon as you go.

True to Life

Many a wife has helped her husband to the top of the ladder—and then left him there while she decided where else the picture would look good.

BETTER HEALTH—FOR WIFE AND MOTHER.

Just how hard it is sometimes for wife or mother to nerve herself up to her daily tasks no one but the sufferer can tell. Mrs. A. G. Wells, Rocky Mount, N. C., says: "I want women everywhere to know of the wonderful benefit I derived from taking Foley Pills diuretic. They drove away my physical ills, and I am now never 'too tired' to attend to my family and household, as I could not do while suffering from those distressing kidney ailments." Automobiles and The Telephone

Thirty years ago the automobile was a novel plaything which only the well-to-do could afford.

Today the automobile is a necessity. Motor trucks and buses play a large part in the transportation of freight and passengers. Commercial motor vehicles are indispensable.

Motor cars take us out-of-doors, enable thousands to enjoy the advantages of travel and make accessible many beauty spots in every state. Commercially and socially, the automobile has broken down the barrier of distance and made neighbors of all communities.

Michigan leads the world in the development of the automobile. Great corporations, producing a majority of the nation's motor-driven vehicles, have made Michigan the center of automobile manufacture.

Closely associated with and contributing to the growth of Michigan's major manufacturing industry are the telephone wireways. More than 3,000,000 miles of telephone circuits in Michigan serve in the purchase of raw materials, the directing of manufacture and transportation, the contacting of dealers and the buying and selling of the finished product. Telephone wireways carry the voice of motordom throughout the country, and even overseas.

Thus, are wireways serving Michigan's great industry and aiding in the prosperity and growth of our state.

Our policy—"To continue to furnish the best possible telephone service at the lowest cost consistent with financial safety".
