EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN, FRIDAY, JUNE 6, 1930.

NUMBER 23

Our Schools To Graduate 33 Students

BACCALAUREATE THIS SUNDAY
EVENING AT H. S. AUDITORIUM.

The regular Commencement of the Class of 1930 of East Jordan High School takes place Friday, June 13. Dr. Paul F. Voelker, President of Battle Creek College, former President of Olivet College, will give the address at 7:30 o'clock p. m., central standard time. Baccalaureate is this Sunday evening, June 8th at the same time. The address will be given by Rev. C. W. Sidebotham of the Presbyterian Church. Special music by the Presbyterian Church choir is part of the program. Thursday night, June 12th, the Seniors will give a Prophecy Play in which all the members of the class take part besides the regular Valectictory and Salutatory. The Class Day play was written by members of the class assisted by Mrs. G. W. Kitsman and Miss Leitha Perkins. The program therefore is entirely a new idea for Class Day and varies greatly from the usual stereotype Class Day program. All programs will be at the High School Auditorium.

Baccalaureate program in East Jordan has always been an interesting as well as impressive event in the Commencement Week. The presence of many parents and friends is desired for it gives a certain atmosphere that is appreciated by the students who will make their bow to High School activities. The Commencement exercises should be of an outstanding nature again this year. Dr. Voelker, who will give the address is one of the strongest Commencement speakers in Michigan. The presentation of honors will be especially interesting to the parents and many friends.

At all programs, seats will be reserved for parents and relatives of the graduating class. However they are requested to be on time for it is almost impossible to retain the seats later than 7:30. The Juniors and their ushers will not be held responsible if you come later than the above time and find that you cannot get a seat.

The Commencement Program has been arranged so that it will be brief but full of interest every moment. The Freshmen class decorate for Baccalaureate, the Sophomores for Class Day, and the Juniors for Commencement.

Thirty-three young people will receive their diplomas. Twenty-four girls and nine boys. The present Senior class represents about as high average of scholarship as any class that has graduated from the East Jordan Public Schools in a long time. Sixteen members of the class come in the "B" rank—well into half the entire class. Four members of the class are outstanding students. Helen Severance, Carl Weaver, Minnie MacDonald and Ivis Pickel had "A" averages. Helen Severance, the Valectictory of the present class made one of the very best records that has ever been made in the East Jordan High School, being a student of very unusual ability. Carl Weaver was not far behind, followed closely by Minnie MacDonald and Ivis Pickel. They are among as good students as you will find. Taken altogether the class has made a good scholarship record.

Class Colors—Blue and Gold.
Class Flower—Yellow Rose.
Class Motto—(None).

Bank Bandits In The Toils

INTENSIVE MAN HUNT ROUNDS
THEM UP IN TWO DAYS.

Four masked bandits held up the Antrim County Savings Bank at Mancelona last Monday morning about 9:30 and all four were in custody Wednesday night.

And for the approximate $950 they secured, a heavy price in blood was paid.

In a Hospital at Petoskey today lie four victims of the hold-up, viz.: Fred and Leonard Elliott, two of the bandits.

Two possemen—Dr. John Gerver of Bellaire, and R. C. Bennett, former Alba banker.

At Mancelona the first victim of the bandit's shotgun, Herbert Sullivan, a world war veteran, is recovering from minor injuries.

Fire Siren Gives Warning
Three masked bandits entered the Mancelona bank Monday forenoon while a fourth acted as lookout. Armed with revolvers and sawed-off shot-guns they compelled three customers who were in the bank lobby to lie down on the floor. Going behind the railing they ordered the two clerks to open the vaults.

At this juncture E. L. J. Mills, cashier entered un-noticed through a back door and, taking in the scene in one glance, made just as quiet but a hastier retreat, stepped to a telephone and put in a fire call. The town's fire siren screamed an emergency call which brought merchants, farmers, just plain residents and others rushing to the bank.

The bandits, their plans thwarted by the siren, scooped up what bills and currency was piled on the counters and withdrew to their automobile where, according to some reports a Negro chauffeur awaited.

As the invaders whisked down the street Herbert Sullivan, World war veteran, stepped from a dry goods store where he clerks across the street from the bank, jumped onto the automobile of Dr. F. G. Rifenberg who was driving by, and gave chase. Sullivan fired several shots, at least one of which penetrated the fleeing car as it sped towards Bellaire.

When about five miles out of town, the bandit car stopped and as the pursuers approached the bandits opened fire with a shotgun and knocked Sullivan off the running board. Sullivan was wounded about the face and chest, but his condition is not considered serious. The bandit car continued on as Dr. Rifenberg, himself unarmed, gave up the chase.

Bad Mixup at Bellaire
Posses to hunt down the bandits were formed immediately and among them was Dr. John Gerver and son of Bellaire who were stationed at the Lindner farm near that village.

Another posse drove up to the farm and both posses were driving autos similar to the one reported being driven by the bandits. The two posses mistaking each other commenced firing upon the other, the one barricading itself in the Lindner dwelling. In the melee Dr. Gerver was shot and lay just outside the house for some two hours before the mistake was discovered. During the two hours a crowd of some 1500 people gathered around the scene.

First Bandit Taken Monday Night
The first of the quartet of bandits was taken late Monday night by State police as he emerged from his hiding place at the side of a highway and attempted to make his escape. After a seven hour grilling he is said to have confessed to Capt. L. A. Lyons of the State police that he was a member of the gang. He gave his name as Sylvester Elliott, of Kalamazoo, age 22.

Elliott also revealed that the plans of himself and his companions went wrong after they abandoned their machine. He stated that they were supposed to have been met at the spot they deserted their car by another machine in which they were to have made good their escape. Elliott formerly lived in Northern Michigan.

Elliott was taken to Bellaire and in Circuit Court, Wednesday, pleaded guilty to robbery armed. He has not, as yet, been sentenced.

Other Two Elliotts Taken at Alba
Tuesday morning Fred and Leonard Elliott went into Alba for food. They were suspected and followed by civilians. Among the searchers was R. C. Bennett who encountered the two bandits in a field of alfalfa. Bennett ordered them to surrender and they responded by opening fire on him with a shot gun, the shots entering his chest and abdomen. This brought others of the posse to the scene and they fired a number of shots at the hiding brothers, wounding both and taking them into custody. All three wounded men were taken to Petoskey where they are confined in a hospital.

Fourth Bandit Taken at Cadillac
Lawrence Morrison of Kalamazoo, the last of the bandit quartet was taken into custody at the home of his father in Cadillac Wednesday night. He was apprehended on information furnished by the three Elliotts and is said to have confessed.

The Making of Criminals
[Excerpt from article in Wednesday's Petoskey News.]

Fred, Jr., in a sordid story which he told haltingly this morning from his bed in the hospital, expressed regret that his wife and mother were suffering for the misdeeds of the boys and laid the blame for their lack of early training on their father, who has a business in Big Rapids in which he deals in ferns and flowers. This accusation was upheld also by others who had known the family in Big Rapids.

Fred, Jr., has a former prison record, having served 11 months in Ionia for robbing a grocery store in Battle Creek, while Sylvester, who was captured first, once served 18 months for stealing a car. Leonard, who is only 15, also has been arrested before. Others in the family are a brother, Rupert, in Ann Arbor, and three sisters and a still younger brother at home.

The party, including Lawrence Morrison, former policeman, left Kalamazoo last Wednesday, State police have established, and according to Fred Elliott planned to rob a safe in Big Rapids which they had formerly "spotted" as being an easy job. The lure of a bigger haul was too much for them however, and, knowing of the location and surroundings of the Mancelona bank they headed for Mancelona. They had not been in the vicinity long, however, before attempting the robbery there.

MOTION PICTURES OF JORDAN RIVER FOREST FIRE

Lansing, June 4.—The most spectacular forest fire motion pictures ever taken by the Conservation Department were photographed during the recent Jordan River valley fire. May 11th.

Pictures showing the fire which swept more than 2,000 acres were taken during both the day and night. Those films will become a part of a new forest fire reel to be released by the Educational Division of the Department next fall.

KNIFE KEEPS SPIREA BEAUTIFUL ALL YEAR

Spirea, of the Bridal Wreath-type, should be pruned during the summer to increase its attractiveness; after the flowering season is over, according to the horticultural department at Michigan State College.

The summer pruning should remove the smaller branches which have borne flowers and which have few leaves upon them. It will sometimes be necessary to remove a whole cane from the shrub, but, usually, only the ends of the branches need to be cut back to a point where there are vigorous, leafy side shoots.

Many of these flowering branches will have dead tips and their removal improves the appearance of the plant. The pruning permits the younger wood to have a better chance to grow, and the bush will produce more flowers the year after pruning.

No pruning of the plant during the winter or early spring will be required if the summer pruning of the flowering branches is practiced.

ARMY ASKS BIDS ON SIX FIGHTING TANKS

Wants Powerful But Light Armored Machines.

Washington, D. C.—Six fighting tanks of a type far superior to the World war machines with which the army now is equipped will be acquired by the War department within the next few months. Letters asking manufacturers to bid on contracts for constructing the new tanks and an armored car were sent out at the direction of Gen. Charles P. Summerall, army chief of staff. Delivery of these vehicles will give the army its first service protected tanks since World war days.

The new machines will be modeled on the Christie combined wheel and track laying tank and armored car demonstrated to the army and members of congress last summer. The specifications call for tanks protected against projectiles from the service rifle. The armored car is to be protected by armor plate against steel jacketed bullets.

Speed and Stability Sought
The new machines are to be seven times as fast as the World war light tanks and will have at least four times as much fire power. They will have far greater mobility of action and more stability. Whereas World war tanks had to be overhauled every eighty miles, the new Christie vehicles are expected to travel more than 500 miles before needing repairs. They will travel on solid rubber tires on hard roads and on caterpillar tracks across country.

The specifications call for tanks which can travel 40 miles an hour over roads and 30 miles an hour over fields. They will have four speeds forward and one in reverse. They also must be able to operate at one mile an hour. The tanks will have eight wheels, be from 17 to 20 feet long, and have spring suspension tracks. Protection will be provided by nickel steel plating from one-half to five-eighths of an inch in thickness. Eighty gallons of gas will be carried in specially protected tanks.

Engines to Be in Rear.
Because of trouble experienced with tanks not providing proper visibility for the drivers, the War department has directed that the new machines be built with the engine in the rear and the driver's place in front. The specifications call for a turret built so that the gunner can fire in any direction except directly up. A 37 millimeter semi-automatic weapon capable of 30 to 40 rounds a minute and a 30 caliber machine gun will be installed in each tank.

Before being accepted the new tanks must show ability to cross ditches three feet in depth, climb a 35 degree dirt slope without detachable grousers, and display ability to go through barbed wire. They must also run 100 miles on hard roads in eight successive hours.

Marriage Commissioner Named by Richmond, Va.

Richmond, Va.—J. H. Binford Peay is Richmond's new marriage commissioner, succeeding the late "Parson" James D. Lyle, who died recently at the age of eighty-nine. Lyle succeeded "Parson" James Madison Macon, the first to hold the office. Macon was appointed to the post 20 years ago by the late Judge Sam Witt of Hastings court, for accommodation of couples regularly ordained ministers refused to marry because one or the other had been divorced.

"Parson" Macon advertised widely that he specialized in marrying divorced people. As a result, he did a land office business of matrimony. "Parson" Lyle was more conservative, doing little advertising. He was the last survivor of a Richmond military company which did guard duty at Charles Town, W. Va., when John Brown abolitionist, was hanged.

The SANDMAN STORY

ABOUT THE SEWELLELS

PROBABLY every one, when they think it over enough, is thankful not to be anyone or anything else.

Often some one will say: "Oh, dear, if only I had all the money so-and-so has I would be able to do this and that," but if it came right down to it they probably would not be willing to entirely change places.

They would want their own homes, or their own families, or their own little favorite pets or toys or surroundings.

They would want something perhaps they didn't have but they wouldn't be willing to give up what they had in exchange—even though it didn't have any great value or worth according to what the world would think.

It would have value and worth to the one to whom it belonged and that is what counts.

In the same way people wouldn't want to be other than people. They wouldn't want to be dogs and lie on the floor.

They wouldn't want to be pussy cats and purr. Boys wouldn't want to be girls and girls wouldn't want to be boys—that is not all the time, though sometimes it does seem as though boys could have more fun.

Mostly, though, girls can play the same games and they have others to enjoy which they couldn't enjoy if they were boys, such as playing house, dressing up as big ladies, and all those nice games.

Now the Sewellels, relations of the mountain beavers, felt much the same way, too.

"I've always been thankful," said Sewellel, "that I wasn't a Mrs. Rat or a Mrs. Mouse, or even a Mrs. Cat or a Mrs. Dog."

"I have been glad all my life," said Mr. Sewellel, "that I wasn't born a Mr. Rat or a Mr. Mouse, or a Mr. Dog."

"It is fine to be satisfied," said Mrs. Sewellel.

"It is, indeed," said Mr. Sewellel, "and it is even finer to have a family name of which to be proud. Wouldn't it have been dreadfully sad if you had fallen in love with a Mr. Kangaroo for example? It would have been equally sad if you had fallen in love with a Mr. Pig."

"It would have been just as sad if you had fallen in love with a Miss Kangaroo, and still more dreadful if you had fallen in love with a Miss Pig," said Mrs. Sewellel.

"Of course," said Mr. Sewellel, "we are related to the Mountain Beaver family which is very fine. We look like a good-sized muskrat."

"That is, each one of us, looks about that size."

"But our lives are like the lives led by the Beaver families."

"We burrow in damp, and marshy ground and we work when it rains as the prairie dogs do."

"We are fine, strong fighters and we are as brave as brave can be."

"We are all that," said Mrs. Sewellel.

"Yes, and more than that, too," said Mr. Sewellel.

"We are very rare."

"We come from British Columbia and from California, but we like it here in the zoo for we are shown off with great pride."

"The keeper tells visitors that they will see some animals they have never seen before."

"And then he shows them Mr. and Mrs. Sewellel."

"The keeper knows we're rare and how pleased he is when people say, with surprise—"

"I've never even heard of them before."

"Ah, my dear Mrs. Sewellel, we have a great deal for which to be thankful."

"We have a superior name, we haven't become common or usual. We are a treat for the visitors to see."

"We work hard as our cousins, the Beavers do, and we're brave, very brave."

"Yes," agreed Mrs. Sewellel, "I have always been thankful that I was a member of the Sewellel family!"

THE WHY of SUPERSTITIONS

By H. IRVING KING

SINGING AT TABLE

TO SING at table is a sign you will be disappointed or that you will have bad luck. This superstition is rather common in the rural districts and is evidently a survival from the ancient conception of a charm as words of power cast in a metrical form to be sung or chanted. This idea has already been noticed in considering the superstition with regard to involuntary rhymes. The majority of these ancient magic songs perhaps were like the poems which celebrated the healing power of Apollo or the healing song chanted by his relatives over the wounded Odysseus. The runes of the old Scandinavians are good examples of the versified charmed charm—and they were not always beneficent charms by any means. Among the northern races at least witches and warlocks "dropped into poetry," when they wove their hellish spells and cast their baleful charms. Witness the witches scene in "Macbeth." Early man, in short, appears to have conceived the magic power of words as being greatly increased, either for good or evil, when the words were sung in a versified form. There was something mystic about a song: it was not to be lightly dealt with. Now a person who begins to sing at table may, for all you know, be casting a spell upon the food or on the eaters thereof. Some idea of runic incantations appears to linger in the idea that "it is bad luck to sing at table."

THE BAYONET

THE bayonet, which is a sort of blade attached to the end of a rifle, is not a distinctively modern weapon of warfare—far from it.

Indeed, history indicates that the bayonet in practically its identical present-day form has been used for almost three centuries. And if we include the long jousting spear, which undoubtedly furnished the inspiration for the bayonet, its origin dates much farther back.

The term itself, by a peculiar coincidence, has a double origin. The article itself was first manufactured on a large scale in the town of Bayonne, France. And it was the Basque province of Bayonetta whose troops, in the course of one of their spasmodic conflicts with their neighbors during the middle of the Seventeenth century, first improvised the weapon in its present form. Modern bayonets are of various shapes and are often used as trenching tools, as well as for assault.

I've been "presented" many times to many folks in many climes, but I can't just recall today, just anyone I met that way.

It's strange, the people we recall. We never really "met" at all. For some we just were talking to, and knew before we hardly knew.

And so I never really fret if folks I've met or haven't met. If you're the kind I understand, I sort of like, then here's my hand.

IMMORTALITY

"A man die shall he live again?" This has been the universal quest. Job of old asked this question, so did the philosophers and the poets.

all fears and all pains—like the eternal thunders of the deep—into my ears this truth: "Thou livest forever."

Many ask for definite proofs of immortality. Frankly there are none. No one ever came back to tell us what it is like or where it is.

The stars shall fade away, the sun grow dim with age, and nature sink in years; but thou, O Soul, shall nourish in immortal youth.

Dear Editor:

THE other day I met a novelist. What kind of a typewriter do you suppose he uses? An old 1904 model where you lift up the carriage to see what's been written.

I've noticed several other well-to-do writers still cling to some old typewriter of their youth. They seem to feel it's friendly and will be patient with them if the thoughts don't come right at first.

Many a good idea has been jotted down on the back of an envelope; many more, probably, than on any new-fangled desk memo pad. An idea is a weak, timid thing to start with; it needs to be encouraged.

WHY DO WE DIET?

WE HAVE a letter inveighing against "this reducing business" which has now become so common with us.

"Wherever you go," she says, "you find women trying to look thin and to be thin. Styles are made for thin women and to make them look thinner; and the dieting reverberates all over."

"And it seems to me we're all following like sheep the edicts of the Paris fashion makers. Just as they tell us how we shall wear our skirts they tell us how we shall have our figures."

I think there is more to it than Paris dressmakers. I think the vogue for slenderness is an expression of the age. I think it is perhaps an outgrowth of as well as in keeping with the present spirit of movement, activity, speed.

Men, too, are concerned now about their figures as they never were before, and regular exercise, combined with restrained eating for the purpose of avoiding fat, is practiced by them to an extent that would have been undreamed of in the days when buxom beauties took pride in their curves.

Leanness is, to my mind, a physical manifestation of an age that is personified in the airplane, the wireless, the radio. The portly, settled look that was in keeping with a slower tempo is today an anachronism.

This isn't a "settled" world today; and, in my opinion, the regime of exercise and restricted diet which is practiced in the name of modernity and by many women in pursuit of today's ideal of feminine smartness or beauty is the best thing that could possibly have happened, barring extremes, from the viewpoint of health, of longevity and of greater enjoyment of life.

SANDWICHES FOR LUNCH

A GROWING boy and a man in active work should have substantial food to supply waste and build the body. Hearty sandwiches are needed for the lunch basket.

Mutton Sandwich. Mix one cupful of chopped cold mutton with a tablespoonful of ground mint, two tablespoonfuls of chopped pickles, two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, one tablespoonful of chopped onion, and salt and pepper to taste. Mix well and spread on dark or light bread.

Another of mutton: Mix finely chopped roast mutton with thousand island dressing and use with lettuce on buttered rye bread.

Veal Sandwich.

Take one cupful of chopped veal, one small carrot, one small onion, a few sprigs of parsley, chop, season well with salt and pepper and moisten with olive oil and lemon juice or a simple french dressing. Use on any kind of bread.

Veal Loaf Sandwich

Take a slice or two of leftover veal loaf, break it up with a fork and mix with salad dressing and chopped olives. Mix to spreading consistency and use with crisp lettuce on buttered white bread. The sliced veal loaf may be used itself as sandwich filling, adding a little lettuce for moisture and a bit of mayonnaise on the lettuce.

Spiced Veal Sandwich.

Take one cupful of minced veal and one-half teaspoonful each of vinegar, horseradish and dry mustard, one tablespoonful of tomato catsup, a drop or two of tabasco sauce and mayonnaise to spread.

Mock Chicken Sandwich.

Take one and one-fourth pounds of lean veal, cook with one onion in water until tender. Put through the food chopper with one bunch of celery, one green pepper and two hard-cooked eggs. Mix with salad dressing and spread on buttered slices of whole wheat bread.

Mock Chicken.

Take one pound of lean pork, balled, put through the food chopper with four stalks of celery, three sweet pickles, one-fourth of a pound of nuts. Mix with mayonnaise. This mixture keeps well and tastes much like chicken.

Mock Chicken Sandwich.

Take one pound of cold roast pork, four hard-cooked eggs, one cupful of nutmeats, six stalks of celery. Grind the ingredients and add enough mayonnaise to moisten. This will be sufficient for two loaves of bread.

Why We Do What We Do

By M. E. THOMSON, Ph. D.

WHY WE HAVE A TEMPER

I KNOW only one man who does not seem to have a temper. I have known this man under all sorts of conditions. I have wintered and summered with him but I have never seen him ruffled. He is an exception I am sure. The overwhelming majority of human beings have temper.

Of course we do not all have the same kind of temper. Some have their temper pretty much under control and others let it get away with their judgment, while not a few apparently have no control at all.

Temper is usually regarded as an evil. But my calm and placid friend has taught me that the lack of temper may be a serious handicap. This man lacks the punch and pep that gives force and character to a normal personality. He is tasteless and colorless, like ginger with the taste of sawdust.

Temper, like all other inborn human traits of disposition, is a necessary ingredient of personality, but like any other ingredient there must be just the right amount—not too much or not too little. It is the abuse or the extreme display of temper that is bad as is the extreme of any trait likely to end in disaster.

Temper was more useful to our savage ancestors than it is to us; and yet we cannot dispense with it.

Temper under control is like a dynamo. It drives the personality and aids him to make something of himself. We have temper because on occasion we need to be aroused from our indifference and really to something violent, something strong and effective, something that will call forth every ounce of strength in our body.

Temper is violent because it needs to be for the purposes for which it was intended. It is too useful to eliminate or to let run wild. We need better and stronger tempers constantly under leash and harnessed to will and personality.

NUTTY NATURAL HISTORY

THE HOOPSMUH DEER

THE hoopsmuh deer, which formerly was quite plentiful around Jackson's Hole, Wyo., is named from the peculiar whooping-cough sound with which it calls its young. The fawns, imitating the hoopsnakes found in the vicinity, pass the time by taking their tails in their mouths and whirling at an amazing speed. Hunters become so dizzy that they fall to hit them, but by the time the tails are worn off, the adult deer, nor having learned to be wary, fall an easy prey to the hunters.

We are here shown one of the few tailless adult deer that has survived, having single and double peanuts for head and body. Ears are popcorn and horns are cloves, and the legs are made of toothpicks. The parts are fastened together with chewing gum.
