Guernsey Show and Picnic

ALL DAIRYMEN INVITED TO EAST JORDAN AUGUST 16.

All dairymen are cordially invited by the Charlevoix County Guernsey Breeder's Association to attend their Third Annual Guernsey Show and Picnic to be held at East Jordan on Saturday, August 16th.

This occasion is the leading dairy event of the year and a wonderful program is in store for all farmers interested in dairy development and progress. The Guernsey Breeder's Association and Cow test Ass'n are sponsoring this big show and are indeed anxious to entertain you.

Last year over 30 of the leading Guernseys in the County were shown and judged and this year, fully as many will be on display. Ribbons will be awarded the winners in the various age classes.

You will be very much interested in hearing Professor E. L. Anthony, head of the Dairy Department, Michigan State College, who is visiting us for the first time. He is a splendid speaker and comes to us bubbling over with dairy contacts and experiences.

W. D. Burrington, State Guernsey Fieldman, will again be with us and discuss topics close to all owners of Guernseys. Another feature will be the awarding of diplomas to dairymen who have had herds averaging over 300 lbs. of butterfat. These are awarded by the National Dairy Council in recognition of this splendid achievement.

Then we are glad to announce that Carlton Smith and Robert Cummings of Charlevoix, two leading dairy club members, will give a demonstration on fitting a calf for the show.

A picnic dinner in East Jordan Tourist Park will be enjoyed at the noon hour with free coffee furnished by the Association. The program will begin promptly at 1:00 o'clock fast time on the grounds. Features will be the address by Professor E. L. Anthony, talk by W. D. Burrington, demonstration by two dairy club members, report of last year Cow test Association, awarding of diplomas to our leading dairymen, and the judging of some 30 head of our leading Guernseys.

No matter what breed of cattle you are interested in, we are very hopeful that you will bring your family, as well as a well filled lunch basket and spend the day with us. Let us make this a real County Dairymen's Picnic, and one never to be forgotten.

FIND NO TRACE OF MISSING MEN FROM BOAT FIRE

With no more trace of either the missing yacht "Two Brothers" or the three missing men, as a result of the search Saturday and Sunday, hope is about abandoned for finding anything further from last Wednesday's boat explosion and fire, off Norwood. A burned spar, hatch cover, awning and gas can from the yacht owned by Carl Bogren, of Petoskey, are all that have been found.

Search was maintained Saturday and Sunday by many ships between Charlevoix and Northport but nothing further added. Death of the men, a mystery at first, is now considered as fact, and friends and relatives believe all three died in the explosion or were stunned and drowned when their yacht went down.

Carl Bogren, his half brother, Fred Lundberg, both of Petoskey, and Samuel Hamilton of Charlevoix, were enroute home from Northport in the yacht when it caught fire and blew up last Wednesday night, seven miles off Norwood.

Ship patrol has now been abandoned but the shore patrol will be maintained by coast guards and interested friends and members of the families. It is believed that if the bodies were not caught in the wreckage, they will come to the surface and drift onto shore, likely somewhere in Northern Michigan.

Eveline Orchards Complete Cherries

SHIPPED THEIR FANCY STOCK ALL OVER UNITED STATES.

The Eveline Orchards completed last week their harvest of sweet and sour cherries with the largest crop of sour cherries they have ever gathered.

Prof. L. R. Taft, in charge of the Orchards, states that they had over 75 tons of cherries and during the last six days picked, over 30 tons of sour.

The fancy sweets were mostly packed in four-pound containers and parcel posted to Texas, the New England States, and as far West as Colorado. This means that this Charlevoix County product is commencing to receive a nation-wide recognition. The sour cherries went mostly to the East Jordan Canning Co.'s plant in this city.

During the peak weeks of the harvest, Prof. Taft states that 75 persons were employed at the orchards. At present the Orchard is picking and marketing harvest apples and plums. The apple crop is much better but not so large as in past years.

SUNDAY PROGRAM AT INTERLOCHEN

The National High School Orchestra will play on Sunday afternoon, August 17, at 3:00 p. m., C. S. T., at Interlochen Bowl. Joseph E. Maddy is the conductor; Vladimir Bakaleinikoff, the guest conductor. Brahms' Symphony No. 3 will be directed by Bakaleinikoff. Prelude and Love Death from "Tristan and Isolde" by Wagner should interest serious music lovers.

The program at 7:00 C. S. T., goes over the Columbia Broadcasting System's network of 53 stations, through the courtesy of the Grigsby-Grinow Company, makers of the Majestic Radio. The Band, Orchestra, and the Camp Choir will be heard over the air. The broadcasting is done from the state at Interlochen Bowl in full view of the audience. It is very interesting to witness.

At 8:00 C. S. T., the National High School Band, Austin A. Harding, conductor, gives a program. Lee M. Lockhart, whom most of you will remember as the conductor of the band in 1928, will be the guest conductor. Come and hear your favorite marches.

St. Charles—Stanley Szweczyk was drowned in the Bad River here, while swimming with his wife and son. He sank soon after entering the water and physicians expressed the opinion he went swimming too soon after eating his dinner.

Blanchard—A $30,000 fire destroyed the meat market operated by William Mallory, a general store owned by A. Kersey, and the residence of J. L. Smith. The blaze was believed to have started in the market. Firemen from Edmore and Mt. Pleasant aided the local department.

Battle Creek—Mrs. Mary Pauline Kistler, who died here at the age of 95, had lived for 50 years in the old homestead south of Battle Creek, which was pointed out as one of the oldest structures in Calhoun County. Less than 12 hours after her death the house was destroyed.

Another Tree-sitter

LARGE DELEGATION ATTEND CLUB CAMP AT GAYLORD

Judging by the interest, enthusiasm and large attendance, this year's annual Junior Encampment at Gaylord held last week was the greatest event in our Boy's and Girl's Club program.

From all of Northern Michigan, these rural boys and girls came, five hundred strong, like a mighty army, bringing new contacts, new ideals and an enlarged vision. All through the week a busy program was carried out daily, including contests, demonstrations, judging, educational projects, and nature studies.

For the first time, the use of the three new buildings was possible and this made a splendid set-up for entertainment of this great group. One was used as a girl's dormitory, another as a boy's dormitory and the third as the dining room.

Can you imagine around six hundred, all seated at the same time, then you can imagine the thrill of camp life.

The feature of the week was the elimination contests and demonstrations that were held to select the teams that win the honor of attending the State Fair at Detroit with transportation paid by the Fair Ass'n. The best teams from each County vied with each other for supremacy.

While final results are not known from all contests, Charlevoix County has the honor of being represented by a Canning Demonstration team of Misses Hazel and Mabel Mosley of Boyne Falls. Their demonstration was canning of greens and chicken and was splendidly given.

Charlevoix County had thirty-three club members in attendance the full week, the largest we have ever had, in addition to many more who spent one day at the camp. Much credit is due Miss Nita Shearer of Charlevoix, who acted as leader of our delegation throughout the week. Following are the members attending camp for the entire week:

Those in attendance for one or two days were: Fred Ranneby, Howard Whaling, Oswald Hoesgood, Versel Crawford, all of East Jordan. Frieda Greiner, Mary Perrin and Dick Straw of Charlevoix. Ruby Boyer and Helen Korthase of Boyne City. Hazel Mosley, Mabel Mosley, Beth Simpson, Arlene Simpson, Oneta Simpson, Violet Russell, Georgia Reece, Amaryllis Detcher and Mary Nicwander, all of Boyne Falls.

In addition, the Clothing and Handicraft Club members of the Marion Center School were guests one day with their leaders, Mrs. Chas. Withers and John Dutcher. This makes a total of 60 club members of Charlevoix County who were in attendance. Let us hope to continue this fine program.

Viking Ship Sails Up the Mississippi

The Viking ship Ronald Amundsen, which sailed from Norway in July, 1920, to follow Lief Ericson's route to America, is here seen in the Mississippi river on its way to St. Paul, Minn. In order to make the river trip a ten horsepower motor was installed. Capt. Gerhard Folgero is in command of the little vessel.

INTERESTING SERVICE AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, SUNDAY

The service at the Presbyterian Church last Sunday morning was of unusual interest. The preacher was Dr. Roy Brown of the Irving Park Presbyterian Church of Chicago. In his prayer he referred to the fact that the congregation was gathered from almost every part of the land. There were Ministers from six States and the laity represented every section of the country.

Dr. Brown said that from the sentimental point of view it was a peculiar pleasure for him to preach with Dr. Selby Vance, of Pittsburg, in the congregation. When a young lad Dr. Brown was received into church membership by Dr. Vance at Gerard, Kansas, and from him received the inspiration to enter the Christian ministry. Since that time Dr. Vance has become one of the foremost teachers of theology in the country, while Dr. Brown has served for a number of years in the Philippine Islands as a missionary and is now a highly regarded pastor of an influential church in Chicago. After the lapse of many years these two friends met in this church service in East Jordan.

Dr. Brown preached a simple, yet profound, and extremely practical sermon on the theme of "Building According to the Pattern Given in the Mount."

The music was under the direction of Miss Edith Thompson of Wilson College, Chambersburg, Pa. Miss Rose, of the College of Lexington, Ky., played the pipe organ. The words of the anthem sung by the double quartet from Sequenota were those of the well known hymn "O Love That Will Not Let Me Go." The music was the composition of Prof. John Winter Thompson of Knox College, Galesburg, Ill., who sang with the double quartet. Mr. Thompson has many warm friends in East Jordan and the fact that he was the composer, gave an added interest to the beauty of the music. The anthem was repeated at Sequenota in the evening. Six of the number who took part in the rendition are music teachers of high standing.

East Jordan has many citizens who are lovers of fine music who were keenly appreciative of the fine treat, and it is doubtful if the equal of the anthem has ever before been heard here.

Most Valuable Pottery

Peachblow ware is the most valuable of Chinese pottery. It belongs to the Chinese potteries, which are transmutation glazes embracing a type of flume color. These glazes differ from red to a delicate pink, which is peachblow.

Peachblow products have realized prize amounts in salesrooms, and many of these pieces are exhibited in museums. They are no longer made. Originally, peachblow was made in King-te-Chin and was considered as a perfect example of the potter's art—Washington Star.

Women Become Silent Sex

Women of England, especially professional women, have acquired a new virtue—silence. Newcomers into the professions are outdoing the men in their desire for professional etiquette, and refuse to advertise. Many people have declared that successful professional women are less "human" than successful professional men. It is claimed that they suffer from a "superiority complex" and a sort of "divine right of queens," hemming themselves in impenetrable barriers of silence and self-importance.

Grew in It

"—and grandma, I was so scared, I 'most jumped out of my skin," said David, in telling his grandmother about a scare he had recently experienced. "Grandma, seeking to 'draw him out,' asked, 'David, what is your skin?'"

The little boy put his hand on his chin and pondered for a minute. Then he said firmly, "Grandma, my skin's jus' 'sumphin' I grewed in."

Portland—Climbing a 30-foot tree despite the handicap of a wooden leg, Cliff Starkweather, a farmer living near the city, hanged himself in woods near his home.

Howell—Lester Bruft, 30-year-old Marion Township farmer, killed himself with a shotgun. He had worried over financial difficulties. He leaves his wife and two children.

Jackson—The state prison commission has sold to the city of Ionia, 40 acres of prison land to be used for an airport, according to John W. Miner, Jackson member of the commission. The price was $4,000.

Merrill—Mrs. Emily Pech was drowned while swimming in a gravel pit four-and-a-half miles south of this village. Miss Bertha Peters, who tried to save her, sank and was rescued by Harold Brown, of Ithaca.

Tri-County Grange Rally

AT EAST JORDAN H. S. AUDITORIUM WEDNESDAY, AUG. 20.

A Tri-County Grange Rally will be held at East Jordan, Wednesday, Aug. 20th, at the High School Auditorium.

It is hoped to have a National Speaker as well as a State speaker. Several interesting numbers will be rendered by local talent.

The afternoon meeting will be a closed session and after this various games and stunts will be pulled off for which prizes will be awarded the winners.

The evening program will be open to the public and all who care to come are cordially invited to do so.

A pot luck dinner will be served at noon and supper will be pot luck too. It is hoped that every Grange in Charlevoix and surrounding counties will attend and enjoy a pleasant day.

North Branch—Stanley Kowlowski, 14 years old was injured fatally when a team of horses ran away, throwing the boy from a cultivator and dragging him 80 yards. He died on the way to the Marlette Hospital. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kowlowski, who live on a farm six miles northeast of North Branch.

Greenville—A birthday party with 3,000 friends and members of his former congregations in attendance, was staged here for Rev. Ole Amble on the occasion of his eighty-third birthday anniversary. Rev. Amble was pastor of the five Danish Lutheran churches near this city for 52 years, having retired about two years ago. During his term of service here Rev. Amble officiated at more than 800 marriages, 2,500 baptisms, and 1,800 funerals.

Hillsdale—It is nothing in the life of 10-year-old Clifton Sott, of Waldron, to break an arm or two. With his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Sott, he went to Manchester to visit relatives, and fell out of a cherry tree and fractured his left wrist. The family returned to Hillsdale. He had been home only a few moments when Clifton fell down the front steps and broke his right wrist. Two years ago he incurred a fracture of the right shoulder in an auto accident.

Saginaw—Nearly 250 Saginaw County farmers, preparing to begin the harvest of 5,000 acres of beans, have signed agreements in the last few weeks to sell their 1930 bean crop to the Michigan Elevator Exchange, the co-operative marketing organization sponsored by the Federal Farm Board. The agreements were signed at eight meetings conducted throughout the county under auspices of the county agricultural extension service, the Michigan Elevator Exchange and Michigan State College.

Port Huron—Despondent for several weeks over the death of a child, Mrs. Susie Vigelis, 26 years old, ended her life by drowning in Black River. Joseph Vigelis, a farmer, and husband of the dead woman, stated that Mrs. Vigelis had threatened to end her life several times and that she was under a doctor's care. When Vigelis returned home from his milk route, Mrs. Vigelis was missing. He immediately started to search the river bank. He found the body lying face downward in less than two feet water.

Flint—Slashed on the right thigh by a three-pound dogfish which he was attempting to take from a hook, Henry Zaro, 12 years old, of Flint, was taken to the Hurley Hospital. Several stitches were required to close the wound. The boy caught the dogfish in the Flint River, under the Dort highway bridge. After landing it Henry found difficulty in removing the hook from its mouth. The dogfish, 14 inches long, showed fight, and in the struggle the boy was speared by a sharp fin.

Marquette—The purchase of the Porcupine Mountain area of virgin forest as a national park was advocated at a meeting of the State Conservation Commission and the executive committee of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau here. This tract of timber, comprising about 100,000 acres, had been urged as a State park, but the groups believe the cost too great for the State to assume alone. Should the government not be interested the State will be urged to acquire at least a part of it for a park.

Rockford—For saving her playmate, Gordon Weaver, 11 years old, from drowning, Betty Lou Johnson, 11 is receiving the plaudits of Rockford residents. Gordon stepped into water over his depth in Rogue river. Betty and a woman were the only spectators. Betty tied a rope around her waist, tossed the loose end to the woman and plunged after Gordon. Both disappeared and the woman, frightened, dropped the rope in the water and ran for help. When assistance arrived Betty had pulled Gordon to safety.

VOCATIONS AND AVOCATIONS

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

Seleucus, who lived in Syria three hundred years or so before the beginning of the Christian era, had a really first-class job of being king which ought to have kept him busy and contented his soul, but it did not. He was perfectly daff on the subject of building. I am sure he studied building plans during all his leisure hours when as king he was not signing things. He built innumerable cities, we are told, not because there was need for them but because building was for him recreation, a sport which stirred his imagination and took his mind off his regular business. Having built one magnificent city, he moved on to another. It took money, of course, and work, but labor was cheap and gold was plentiful in Syria and kings must be amused.

Chapman was a farmer who sixty years ago or so was raising corn and hogs and cattle out by Burr Oak grove in Vermillion county. His agricultural interests should have held him for there was much labor needed on a farm in those days; but not so. He was all right as a farmer, but what he enjoyed most was fixing things, making things go after they had ceased to function. Anything that had wheels in it fascinated Chapman. Crippled mowers and sewing machines, clocks and watches which refused to go were to Chapman a source of the keenest delight. He used to come around once a year and ask to stay all night. He wasn't out for the money, for if anything needed fixing whether it were the sewing machine or father's old watch, he was glad to put everything in perfect order simply for our lodging and feeding him and his horse. The next morning he was on his way. It was for him romance, adventure, the joy of life, an avocation which gave him the keenest pleasure. He enjoyed it for itself as Bronson Alcott used to enjoy lecturing, and you will recall that he came back to Concord once after a month's pilgrimage, having made a dollar, and in the meantime having lost his overcoat.

A Hindu priest came to the country town a dozen miles or so distant from the neighborhood in which I lived. There was no church in the town worthy of the name, but within two years he had one built, and then he moved on to another and larger town. He was a faithful shepherd of his flock, but his avocation like that of Seleucus was building. So as long as he lived he moved from one town to another always leaving a beautiful church behind him. It gave him enthusiasm; it kept him young and interested in life.

The man without an avocation is sure to grow stale, to dry up, to lose interest in life, and to become ineffective in his vocation. Maybe Seleucus was a better and a happier king because of the cities which he built.

To the Voters of Charlevoix County

I wish to announce my candidacy on the Republican ticket for the office of County Clerk. Since being appointed to office of County Clerk in July 1929, I have given all the duties of said office faithful attention. I am unable to see each voter in the county personally as the duties of office prohibit me from making such a campaign, but I respectfully solicit your vote and support at the Primaries Sept. 9th, and if nominated and elected I shall continue to perform the duties of County Clerk in a prompt, efficient and courteous manner.

Frank F. Bird For Register of Deeds

I wish to announce that I will be a candidate for re-election on the Republican ticket at the Primary Election, Sept. 9th, for the office of Register of Deeds for Charlevoix County. If nominated and elected I will give the public the same prompt and efficient service that I have in the past.

FRANK F. BIRD

To the Electors of Charlevoix County

It is my duty as a candidate for nomination as County Treasurer to inform you, and particularly those of you who do not personally know me, as to who I am, my reasons for being a candidate and what I stand for. I have lived in Charlevoix County the greater part of my life, was graduated from Boyne City High School in 1912. After taking a year of commercial work in Albion College and general agriculture in M. S. C., I purchased a farm in Hayes Township where I have lived fifteen years. For ten consecutive years I have been Supervisor of Hayes Township and also a member of the Auditing Committee of the Board of Supervisors. During that time it has been my duty to keep in close touch with the financial affairs of the county and I have discharged that duty to the best of my ability. The knowledge of county business gained by this experience naturally leads me to feel that I could be of some service to the people in the office of County Treasurer. I know the burden of taxation and the need of lessening that burden whenever and wherever possible. The office of County Treasurer affords many opportunities in this respect. If chosen to the office it will be my earnest and constant endeavor to perform my duties always in the interest of the people and give them the benefit of a careful and safe business policy.

I am offering my candidacy for your consideration at the Primary Election, Sept. 9, 1930. It will be impossible to see all of you personally but I welcome inquiries and am willing to leave the whole matter to your best judgment.

Sincerely yours,
HOWARD C. STEPHENS

Chicago Man Marvels at Amazing World of Today.

Chicago.—A young man on his honeymoon was stricken with total blindness—thirty years ago.

One day recently, his vision suddenly restored, he sat bewildered by the side of the woman who for three decades had been his guide, his companion and his wife, and—until he closed his eyes again—she seemed unreal.

Three days before the man—J. F. Fish, 2425 North Sawyer avenue—sensed the beginning of the miracle that was coming to him.

He was in his own living room. His wife was there. The feeling he had was as if a black curtain before his eyes became less black at the lower edge and a misty gray border grew.

For some time he considered this without saying anything. Probably it was just an illusion, he thought. But the gray border widened. It became translucent—and then—transparent. He exclaimed:

"My dear, I believe—I really believe that I am beginning to see!"

She started up—then resumed her seat. Her pulse beat fast. But his was beating faster. He continued:

"There are vague shapes. The outline of a door—over there—a chair—is that your hand on the back of the chair?"

Suddenly the whole of the old black curtain seemed to be drawn aside, and the eyes behind the curtain—eyes which last had looked upon the world in the year 1900—saw the amazing world of today.

The original loss of his vision was the result of a blow on the head. The restoration was time's slow healing of that injury.

Atlanta Children Fall Far Without Injury

Atlanta, Ga.—Atlanta's parents hope the city's epidemic of long-distance noninjury falling records is ended.

Two-year-old James Chastee, Jr., started the competition with a 25-foot fall from the second-story window of his home. The next day James was a little sore in one hip but he was seen looking out of the same window from which he flopped the day before.

That record stood one day. Then Ruth Jansen, four, fell 34 feet out of an upstairs window into a rose bush which must have withdrawn its thorns, for she wasn't even scratched.

George Williams, adult titleholder, has completely recovered from a five-story fall down an elevator shaft which left him whole but somewhat bruised.

Later Mrs. Corn Hunter fell eight inches down one doorstep and fractured a wrist.

Woman Asks to Talk to Board as to Husband

Washington, N. C.—After an elderly woman demanded that the issue in question with her husband's commissioners "one at a time," it was decided to defer action until August in the matter of continuing work of the county home demonstration.

Fifty women appeared before the board to urge retention of the county's services.

The elderly woman took the floor. "Mr. Chairman," she said, "I ain't much for talking to a big bunch of men like this, but I sure can tell it to 'em one at a time. If you all are thinking of doing away with the home demonstration agent, I'd like to have the opportunity of seeing each member of the board by himself and talking to him like I been used to talking to my husband."

The commissioners lost no time in deferring action.

Black Locust Good for Posts and Poles

Has High Rank as Durable Wood for Use in Ground.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Black locust, because of its high rank as a durable wood for use in the ground, in its demand for fence posts, stakes and poles, says the forest service, United States Department of Agriculture.

Black locust makes rapid growth on good soils and will grow on poor and dry soils. It is easily propagated. In good soils or in regions naturally favorable to the tree, plantings of black locusts have returned substantial net profits in periods of ten to twenty years.

Its strong spreading root system makes black locust a valuable tree for checking soil erosion in gullies and on steep hillsides.

Black locust, however, has a serious enemy known as the locust borer and the menace of this insect should be carefully considered before choosing black locust as a tree to plant. The forest service says, "Since the borer is a sun-loving insect, on good soils or in locations of more vigorous growth, where weeds, underbrush, or other trees produce sufficient shade on the trunks of the trees the borer causes little or no injury. No practical control measure for treating infested forest plantations is known."

The increasing scarcity of chestnut for posts, poles, and stakes has done much to stimulate interest in the possibilities of growing and in the planting of black locust, according to the forest service.

Farmers' Bulletin No. 1028-F, "Growing Black-Locust Trees," first issued by the United States Department of Agriculture, contains data on the profitable culture of this species. Single copies may be obtained free from the Office of Information, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Nitrogen Not Favored for Buckwheat Plant

Buckwheat should be sown on land that is not very rich in available nutrients. This means that the land should not contain much humus or be land where the humus is not in a form to give much available nitrogen.

Such a newly plowed sod. On rich land it makes too much growth of tops with a small amount of grain, and also it will keep up a growth too late in the fall to give a good quality of grain.

The buckwheat plant is inclined to bloom for grain while it continues to make growth of tops, or vegetative growth. The seed may be drilled in or broadcasted and harrowed, but drilling is the most satisfactory. It is sown at the rate of about a bushel to five pecks per acre. Buckwheat has no soil building qualities when grown for a grain crop.

Sweet Clover Does Not Thrive on Sour Soils

Sweet clover does not grow satisfactorily on sour soils. However, where the subsoil is sweet, it is possible to get sweet clover to grow by giving it enough lime to get a start.

L. V. Kephart, agronomist of the United States Department of Agriculture, has simplified the application of limestone in small quantities with the development of a plan whereby 400 to 500 pounds of hydrated lime is mixed with the inoculated seed for each acre.

The mixture is then sown through the fertilizer attachment of a grain drill.

In this way the lime in its finest state is brought into close contact with the seed and becomes immediately available to the seedlings. When the plants are once established its roots go down to the deeper soil where lime is available.

Farm Hints

It is unwise to sow weeds with one hand and fight them with the other.

Overfeeding not only wastes feed but it may lower production as well.

To keep a paint brush in good shape, brush the palm out thoroughly, wipe it on a cloth, and hang it in raw linseed oil.

There is no more pleasing decoration for the house than artistic boxes of pinks used at the windows or on the porches.

Care in spacing potato rows will make spraying easier and more efficient. Spray nooms are not flexible to crooked rows.

United we stand and divided we fall is all right in its place, but the pasture divided into smaller plots and grazed in rotation grows the most feed.

Top dressing pastures is especially desirable with a new seeding. When the soil is acid and lime cannot be applied, top dressing may be necessary to insure a stand, especially if clover is included in the seed mixture.

Cutting trees from the farm wood lot that measure 12 inches in diameter at five feet from the ground does not yield a profit, while trees that are 24 inches in diameter yield a profit of about $10 a tree.

Closer Culling
Low Producers

Three Things to Do to Make All Dairy Herds More Profitable.

(By O. E. Reed, Chief of the Bureau of Dairy Industry, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.)

There are three things we can do to make our dairy herds more profitable. Cull the low producers; feed the others according to what they can produce when well fed; then breed intelligently. Let's consider what we can accomplish by culling the low producing cows from our dairy herds.

Studies by the bureau of dairy industry, United States Department of Agriculture, of the production, feed cost, and income records of cows on test in dairy herd improvement associations, have shown that the elimination of the lowest producers from the dairy herd not only increases the average production per cow, but always results in increasing the cash income over cost of feed per cow. Therefore, if any dairyman is dissatisfied with the income which he makes over cost of feed, he can always increase that income per cow by culling a little closer.

Surplus of Dairy Products. At present, when the surplus of dairy products in this country is abnormally high, and when prices are correspondingly low, closer culling is one of the ways of getting better results immediately. Our figures indicate that culling the lowest producing 1 per cent of the dairy cows in this country would not lower the milk and butter fat production as much as 1 per cent, but only one-fifth of 1 per cent; and that culling the lowest producing 10 per cent of our cows would not lower the milk and butter fat production 10 per cent, but only 5 per cent.

Some people say that it is not good logic to blame the low producers when there is a surplus of dairy products in this country. I am not interested in whether it is the low producers or whether it is the high producers that cause the surplus, but I am mightily interested in the fine effect which the culling of the low producing cows from our dairy herds has upon the pocket book of the dairy industry.

Family Cow Profitable. However, not every low producing dairy cow in the United States represents a loss. There are farms where the family cow lives principally on feed that would otherwise be wasted, and she may be cared for by labor that could not earn as much in any other way. We are talking now about the commercial dairy.

In the commercial dairy there seems to be little danger that the culling will be too severe. If all our commercial dairy herds were culled as they should be culled, the production of milk could be so controlled that it could be kept constantly in balance with consumption. That, of course, would be the ideal situation.

However, to bring about such an ideal state of affairs, the dairyman must have production, feed cost, and income records of his cows. How is he going to get such figures? As far as I know, the most practical way to get such information, at a cost he can afford, is through the work of the Dairy Herd Improvement associations, or similar organizations of dairymen.

Carrying Capacity of Many Pasture Crops

That sudan grass furnishes more feed from July 1 until the first frost than any four other pasture crops and that yellow and white sweet clovers also afford abundant pasture but do not fatten and finish cattle like other pasture crops and are not equally relished—these are the indications of a five-year experiment on the carrying capacity of five pasture crops at the end of the second year's work. J. W. Wilson, director of the state agricultural experiment station at South Dakota state college, announced recently.

Cattle, sheep and hogs were used in the investigations to determine the number of each that could be grazed on one acre of white sweet clover, yellow sweet clover, alfalfa native pasture and sudan grass. The results indicate that under the same soil and weather conditions, one acre of each pasture is sufficient for the following number of 550-pound steers: alfalfa, two head; white sweet clover, three head; yellow sweet clover, three head; sudan grass, three head; and native pasture, with bromine grass predominating, two head.

Simple Plan to Kill
Pests of Squash Vine

If a squash vine wilts within a few hours, a vine borer has reamed out the stem near the ground. This borer always works near the roots. The best way to control it is to cover about every second joint of each stem as it grows so roots will form at the joints. The vine will live even though the borers do get at the main stem near the first root. This covering should be done now so the vine will have many roots a little later in the season when the borers are the worst.

Ordinary squash bugs are hard to kill with poison dusts or sprays. They will crawl under a shingle at night, however, and two or three shingles placed near the center of the vine will act as traps for them. The bugs can be crushed in the early morning before they begin to move. Their shiny brown, clustered eggs on the under side of the leaves should be crushed also.

BUS DRIVER SAYS

"A minute's wait ain't expensive. It's the life, the pain and the dough you sometimes pay for bein' in a hurry that's costly."

(By MARCUS A. DOW.)

I said this was goin' to be a fair and impartial layin' out and for that reason I am goin' to bruise the shins of a million or two yaps.

A dame come to a crossin' on a busy street in a drivin' town in the Middle West. They had a cop on that corner. They also had traffic lights which turned from green to red just as the dame got there. She was leadin' a little boy by the hand. It was her kid, about four years old, and he kept lookin' up into his mother's face, trustin' like. Did that dame wait for the traffic light to change or for the cop's whistle? She did not. She stood a fadin' second or two leavin' over the edge of the curb like a horse clumpin' at the bit. She was one of them restless yaps arin' to go.

Then she went, dashed into the street draggin' that poor kid with her. A truck was comin' and she thought she could beat it but a drivin' fool in a tourin' car was passin' that truck on the left while goin' over the crossin' and she couldn't see it from the curb. She saw it when she was in front of the truck, got petrified with fear and stood stock still in her tracks until the truck hit her and knocked her under the wheels of the tourin' car. She got off with a busted leg and couple of ribs stove in but it was the finish for the poor little kid with the trustin' eyes and childish confidence. Even the hard boiled cop turned his head away. The truck driver, a tough lookin' egg, stopped his death wagon and got out, shakin' like a leaf.

On the pavement back of the hind wheels lay a crushed little bundle in a white sailor suit, curly yellow hair matted down with streaks of red and little face smudged with oil and dirt.

Does he kick hurt a little? If it does write this in your book of good resolutions and stick to it.

"When crossin' streets I will not try to beat traffic. I will obey all traffic rules same as automobiles are supposed to do because I don't want to get bumped off yet."

By helping her in the intelligent management of her household, advertisements free her hands for direction, for pleasure, for the graces of living. They tell her of products and appliances that lighten her work. They tell her of foods, clothing and equipment that can be advantageously bought. They tell her of countless ways in which she can manage her home more economically and with more success.

BABIES SHUNNED IN HECTIC CITY LIFE

Births Show a Decline of 78,063 in Year.

Washington.—There is a premium on babies in the United States. Last year 78,063 fewer children were born than in 1928, bearing out a theory which has become yearly more pronounced since 1921, the vital statistics division of the Commerce department reports. And this, according to Dr. T. F. Murphy, chief statistician of the division, is the price of modern social standards which move Americans to settle in cities, to share, man and wife alike, in the rigors of earning a living and to practice the principles of birth control.

To no one of these factors, nor to all combined, however, would Dr. Murphy attribute the declining birth rate which last year alone reduced the number of babies born in every 1,000 of population from 19.7 in 1928 to 19.

Due to Many Factors. The cause underlying the surprising trend is much more complex and due to a combination of factors so involved as to become almost impossible to interpret, he believes.

He thinks that America's restrictive immigration laws are in a large measure responsible, citing statistics to show that the birthrate has always been higher among the immigrant class, the foreign-born population.

Doctor Murphy observes also that Americans are marrying later in life than in the days of the nation's youth, and that the number of marriages are decreasing year by year.

"We are becoming a nation of elfin dwellers," he said. "People are leaving the rural districts and going to work in the cities. They marry, both members of the union continue to work for a living, and there is neither time nor always the inclination to raise a family.

Results Felt in Schools. According to the United States officers of education, the results are felt in the schools. Communities which are increasing in population are showing actual decreases in the number of children in the lower grades, the office reports.

In all but four of the states, Arizona, Michigan, Montana and Tennessee, the number of births was smaller in 1929. The greatest decrease for any one state was in Pennsylvania, where 11,245 fewer births were reported. Florida, with a decline of 9.8 per cent, reported the greatest percentage decrease.

Violet Light Expert Finds Remedy for Crime

Chicago.—A defense against forgeries is reported by Dr. A. J. Pacini, expert in ultraviolet light. To Dr. Clarence Muehlberger and the heads of the crime detection bureau of the Northwestern university, he said:

"If a business executive makes a rule of using a few drops of a particular chemical solution in the ink with which he signs all of his important documents, the fluorescence or glow peculiar to that solution will always be visible in the signature when it is placed under ultraviolet light. A forgery of that man's signature, on the other hand, would reveal an absence of this characteristic and the signature would be branded indisputably as a fake."

Find Strange, New Sect Known as "Tremblers"

Bucharest, Rumania.—There was recently discovered at Veresti, in the Botolani district in Rumania, a strange new sect styling itself the "Sect of the Tremblers." Its leader gives himself the title of patriarch. It has not many adherents. At their meetings the members lie flat on the ground trembling continually; they believe that they are able to shake off their sins in this way. They have assemblies twice a week at which they weep for many hours.

Oldest Soldier

London.—Sergt. William Brerton, ninety-two, Britain's oldest soldier, joined the army as a drummer boy in 1853, lived for months in India on salt junk and biscuits after a four months' journey on a sailing ship, and received two pence a day for "real fighting with bayonets all the time."

Parachute Jumpers Must Carry Spares

Washington.—Individuals making parachute jumps for exhibition, testing, training or demonstration will be requested to wear an auxiliary parachute, under a new amendment to the air commerce regulations announced today by Clarence M. Young, assistant secretary of commerce for aeronautics. The amendment becomes effective August 1, 1930.

"The auxiliary parachute must be so arranged that it can be operated in the event the first parachute either fails to function or becomes fouled on any part of the plane or body of the jumper," Mr. Young said. "While it is common practice for parachute jumpers to carry an auxiliary parachute, there have been times in the past when this has been neglected."

Leaf-Spot Causes Big Beet Losses

May Be Controlled to Some Degree by Timely Dusting or Spraying.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The leaf-spot disease of sugar beets, which is responsible for serious losses to beet growers in some areas, may be controlled to a considerable degree by spraying or dusting, say experimenters of the bureau of plant industry in Circular 115-C, published by the United States Department of Agriculture. The development of the disease depends primarily on temperature conditions and the distribution of rainfall. Only in years of unusual weather conditions does the leaf-spot disease cause severe losses in the eastern area of sugar-beet culture. The situation is more serious in Iowa, southern Minnesota, Nebraska, and northern Colorado; the disease does its greatest damage in the Arkansas valley of southern Colorado and it is only in exceptional years that beet growers escape serious losses.

Cause of Disease.

The disease is caused by a parasitic fungus which is introduced into the field by infected seed or it may enter as wind-blown spores. The spore-bearing material from the beet tops and refuse of a previously diseased field is the most important source of infection. Long rotations help to restrict the infection. Careful control of irrigation and good drainage in beet fields create conditions unfavorable for the multiplication and spread of the parasite. There is hope that plant breeders may eventually develop beets of commercial value which are resistant to the leaf-spot disease. In the meantime the Department of Agriculture offers the results of spraying and dusting experiments which promise to be of value to growers, particularly in the areas where leaf-spot damage is severe.

For control of leaf-spot in the vicinity of Rocky Ford, Colo., either Bordeaux spray or copper sulphate-lime dust applied from three to five times during the growing season at intervals of approximately two weeks gave favorable results. The treated plots on the average produced a heavier tonnage of beets, and the beets showed a higher sugar content. The cost for a season's dusting is estimated at $8 to $9 an acre, with the probability that the cost can be reduced if dusting becomes common enough to warrant development of efficient machinery and the purchase of materials in carload lots. The gains from treatment, measured in increase in tonnage and sugar sometimes amounted to $20 an acre or more.

Heavy Leaf-Spot Toll.

"Present knowledge of leaf-spot epidemiology does not permit forecasting the years of heavy leaf-spot occurrence," say the authors of circular 115-C, "and such plant protection must be viewed as a form of crop insurance. From the experience of the last 20 years in the Arkansas valley of Colorado in which all but four or five have been years of heavy leaf-spot toll, such insurance seems warranted for that area—in many other areas, such as Michigan, for example, this type of plant protection will probably be most serviceable as an emergency control measure."

Those interested in the details of the experiments, and in the discussion of the application of the experimental results, may obtain a copy of circular 115-C, "The Sugar-Beet Leaf-Spot Disease and Its Control by Direct Measures," by applying to the Office of Information, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Close Grazing Keeps Grass Young and Rich

Since young grass, consisting largely of leaves and comparatively little stalk, is richer in proteins and soluble carbohydrates and is more readily digestible than older grass in which more stalks have developed, a pasture should be grazed sufficiently close to keep young leaves growing and prevent development of too much stalk, the United States Department of Agriculture says.

British investigations show that complete grazing once in three weeks during a good growing season is sufficient to maintain a high nutritive content in the pasture.

The relatively high protein content of leaves and the high nutritive value of proteins indicate that the supplement needed for young and closely grazed pastures is a relatively high carbohydrate feed, such as corn.

Effect of Fertilizer on Quality of Corn

Numerous reports of fertilizer experiments with corn have demonstrated the effect in improving the quality of the crop. Generally increased yields are accompanied by higher quality. A number of records show the relation between yield and quality of corn harvested on experimental plots by the Purdue university agricultural experiment station. The results are averages of yields for five years on eleven fertilizer plots located at five different parts of the state. Increased yields due to fertilizer applications are accompanied in every case by a marked increase in percentage of sound corn.

Lansing—Michigan's oil production for June amounted to $508,000, and the state's severance tax yielded $10,161, according to the report issued by the tax commission. The tax yielded $9,460 in May. The difference does not indicate the rate of increase of production, it is pointed out, because the sale price of the oil varied and there is no complete record of the number of barrels produced.

Detroit—Jacob Schmidt, Detroit, was cited by the war department at Washington, D. C., for gallantry in action in the World War. The official citation is for Sergeant Jacob Schmidt, Battery B, 51st artillery, coast artillery corps, American expeditionary forces. Harris, who is 13 years old, stayed aloft 608 1/2 consecutive hours in a tree at Merton road and Third avenue. His record, he says, not only gives him Detroit, state and national titles, but the world championship. At least he claims all that. "If I hadn't had that toothache, I'd have stayed up all summer," Harris declared.

Kalamazoo—The Missing Links Golf Club, a neighborhood boys' organization, has turned a vacant lot into an unusual miniature golf course. It was laid out piecemeal by a group of boys who agreed to sacrifice one ice cream cone a week to provide the necessary finances. Two 15-year-old boys, Alfred Johnson and Carl Williams, led in constructing the course. Extensions were made as profits were reaped at the rate of a nickel a game. A radio has been promised the boys by a resident of the community.

Saginaw—In spite of predictions of marine men who have known the Saginaw River for many years that the large lake carrier never could negotiate the crooked channel, this has been accomplished, as a result of dredging by the Government. The L. R. Davidson, of the Boland & Cornelius Steamship Line of Buffalo, carrying 3,000 tons of coal, docked after negotiating the river without incident. The Davidson is 535 feet long with a draft of 16 1/2 feet and a 56-foot beam. She is the largest boat to pass Bay City.

Writing His Own

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

I have known Corwin for a half dozen years or so while he was in college and since he has severed his connection with our educational institution, or I might perhaps better say, since it has been severed for him, He did not do well as an undergraduate. He could apparently find nothing that he liked and he could not quite bring himself to do what was to him distasteful. He has not found anything since he left college that either suited him or that he suited and now he is hunting another job.

He came in a few days ago to ask me to write him a letter of recommendation—one of these "to whom it may concern," a sort of epistolary proprietary medicine which would be a palliative or a curative for all job-hunting ills. I write a great many letters of recommendation, and I try to make them truthful. There is almost always something which one may say commendatory of any of one's acquaintances, but Corwin pretty nearly stumped me. All that came into my mind was that he was extremely good looking and more than ordinarily well-dressed and these two characteristics are a trifle inadequate in a man who is expecting to find a place of responsibility and emolument. I hesitated before acceding to Corwin's request, and I suppose he saw my hesitation.

"Can't you do it?" he inquired. "Well, I have been up against some pretty hard propositions in my time," I said. "I think I can say something. Why don't you try it yourself," I suggested. "What do you mean?" he asked. "You know about your own qualities and characteristics better than anyone else in the world," I answered. "You should be able to evaluate your training, your experience, your dependability, and your own particular strong points. Why don't you write a recommendation for yourself and bring it around to me? If it is true and complimentary, I'll sign it." "I've never thought of that," he said. "I'll try."

The local evening paper this evening was full of the announcements of political candidates, who, in next week's primaries, are coming up for party consideration. I was entertained in reading them to see the estimate which each candidate put upon himself and what qualities he claimed to possess which would particularly fit him to fill the office to which he aspired. Some of them had little material with which to work and showed little skill in working with what they had.

A good many men I meet are dissatisfied with their situation. They feel that they have not gotten on as they should have done. They are out of a job or if they have one, their talents have not been properly recognized. They have not been advanced as they have deserved. I wonder sometimes what they could truthfully say about themselves. It would be a good training for each one of us to sit down and try to write his own letter of recommendation. It might puzzle us to find anything worth while to say.

Curious Monument

This monument in the form of a huge arrow head was unveiled the other day at Old Fort, N. C. It marks the site of a blockhouse erected in 1756 on the frontier of North Carolina province. The monument was unveiled by nine-year-old Margaret Nesbitt, great-granddaughter of the first white person born in the old fort.

Too many things are done well that are not worth doing at all.

POTPOURRI

The Beet Industry

The future of the beet sugar industry may depend on the development of the recent "chemically discovered" sugar made from cotton seed. However, at present the United States produces some seven million tons of beets annually which is valued at close to $75,000,000. Almost the entire crop goes into sugar.

Cutting Soy Beans

A great deal of work has been done by experiment stations to determine the best time to cut soy beans for hay. Cows have been fed the hay at different stages to determine when the greatest feed value is obtained, cutting stages have been made from the blooming stage until the pods began to turn brown. The results of all these tests clearly show that the best stage to cut soy beans for hay is about the time seed are just beginning to form in the pod.

Keep smiling except when you meet a man who wants you to be sad with him.

One kind of tolerance is not caring what a man does if he doesn't bother you or yours.

Fortune Teller: "You want to know your future husband, beautiful lady?"

Lady: "No. I want to know something about the past of my present husband for future use."

"Why can't you be content with your lot?"

"Because I haven't got a lot."

A lot of men couldn't vote as they drink because if they did they might get arrested for stuffing the ballot box.

Prohibitionists need feel no fear of a return of the corner saloon. The corners are all taken up with filling stations.

It's a hard job these days to keep the wolf from the garage door.
