At their meeting last Friday, the Officers and Directors set the dates of the forty-seventh annual Charlevoix County Fair as the same as held this year—the last Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of September, 1931.

P. T. A. HELD REGULAR MEETING

First regular meeting of P. T. A. was held on Oct. 9th, in the Junior High Room of the High School.

Meeting was called to order by the President, Mrs. G. W. Bechtold.

Rolls were rendered by some of the pupils of the sixth grade.

Some interesting P. T. A. programs are being broadcast over Station WJR on Sunday afternoons. On Oct. 26th Mrs. J. K. Pattengill will give a talk.

Song by Al Warda.
Some very interesting questions were handed in and discussed.

The Supervisors of the different counties were asked to act favorably on the James Couzens Health Fund.

The next meeting will be on the evening of Nov. 13th. A short play will be put on and a small admission charge will be asked, at the close, a pot luck lunch will be served.

These meetings prove to be most interesting and everyone is invited to attend.
Alice M. Smatts.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere appreciation of the many acts of kindness extended us by friends during our recent bereavement, and for the beautiful floral offerings.
Mrs. James A. Cihak and Family.

Another good place for a zipper would be on string beans.

RUSSELL HOTEL CHANGE OF MANAGEMENT

An important business change was made in East Jordan the past week when the Russell Hotel was leased to Mrs. Alice Joynt of East Jordan.

Mr. and Mrs. Shiers and family left for Winemar, Wis., where Mr. Shier's brother is located. Their going is a matter of sincere regret both locally and among the traveling fraternity of the State at large.

Mrs. Joynt has had considerable experience in this line of catering to the public, and will give East Jordan's leading hostelry as good, if not better service than heretofore.

L. C. ROUSE ELECTED ROAD COMMISSIONER, DEFEATS S. E. ROGERS

One of the liveliest meetings that has rattled the doors of the Court House at Charlevoix for some time, took place when the Board of Supervisors convened for their regular October session.

The "headliner" was the election of a Road Commissioner, S. E. Rogers of East Jordan, one of the present incumbents being a candidate, and the determination of the center and the eastern part of the county having representation on this board by some candidate from Boyne City.

When a Commissioner was elected two years ago a fluke crept into the incident through a strange turn of political affairs, and F. H. Wangeman, of East Jordan, was elected on the Board. Mr. Rogers also resided in East Jordan, and since the occurrence, keen disappointment reigned over the center and eastern part of the county.

The past two weeks' activities in the county have indicated, previous to the board meeting, the determination of these people to elect a Commissioner back in their territory. It was not until the very closing hours of the battle did the crowd opposing the re-election of Mr. Rogers choose their candidate. The choice finally fell to L. C. Rouse of Boyne City, who was elected to the office by an overwhelming vote of 20 to 5.

Other county officers were elected as follows:

County Poor Commissioner, Jacob Chew, East Jordan.

County Park Commissioner, W. P. Porter, East Jordan.

School Examiner, M. E. Otterbein, Charlevoix.

County Canvassers: T. J. Smith, Boyne City; Herman Goodman and Wm. F. Bashaw, East Jordan.

The session promises to be a lively affair throughout. Dissatisfaction of long standing among the Supervisors of the County Fair, its management and officers, promises the next real attraction with the probability that the Supervisors will at this session withdraw the financial aid of the Fair.—Boyne City Correspondence in Petoskey News, Oct. 15th.

STANDARD OIL STARTS NEW AD CAMPAIGNS

Autumn campaigns to advertise premium gasoline and new motor oils have been started by the Standard Oil Company of Indiana. Large ads will be used in more than 1,550 newspapers in thirteen middle west and Rocky Mountain States in this major undertaking to assist marketing by use of newspaper space.

The advertising of gasoline will undertake to impress on the motoring public the great success the Company has achieved in sales of its premium product, New Red Crown Ethyl, and will feature the endorsement the product has received also from independent dealers who are handling gasoline on a reseller basis.

"Amazing Acceptance," "First in the Field," and "Evidence" are to be catchwords of the campaign.

The motor oils advertising will consist of a series of ads which will strikingly picture and explain the ability of the winter grades of the new oils to flow at freezing temperatures when other oils tested remain solid.

Spring and early summer advertising smashes, coupled with vigorous selling effort, have greatly increased popularity of the premium gasoline, Red Crown Ethyl. The new oils, Iso-Vis and Polarine, have also achieved an outstanding success on the market.

Dr. H. W. Dicken Passes Away

COMMUNITY SHOCKED BY SUDDEN DEATH OF PROMINENT CITIZEN.

Dr. Hugh W. Dicken, prominent local physician and former Mayor, passed away at the Reycraft Hospital, Petoskey, at eleven thirty Wednesday night, Oct. 15, 1930 of a streptococcus condition that settled in the muscles of the heart. Dr. Dicken had been about his usual practice until noon a week ago Monday when he was suddenly seized by a severe chill and was immediately taken to Petoskey where his condition proved serious.

A sad coincidence was the fact that the Doctor was taken to the hospital a year to the day that his beloved son, Hugh, passed away. Many of his friends knowing that he had even played golf a few days previous were depressed to learn of his serious illness and were doubly shocked to hear of his death. Seldom does a town have a more valuable and prominent citizen than Dr. Hugh Dicken. A leader in nearly every walk of life; a most honorable and gracious gentleman to meet; always optimistic, having a very happy philosophy of life; a supporter of all activities of the boys and girls in the community; interested himself in all social activities to the extent that he took part in as well as supported them. Being formerly a great athlete and end on the University of Michigan Football team back in '95 and '96, he always attended one or two of the annual games, and always prominent on the sidelines at the local High School games and in fact all other school activities.

Dr. Hugh Dicken was born at Mt. Clemens, Michigan fifty-four years ago January 30. He attended High School at Romeo, Michigan, from which place he entered the University of Michigan. He was married to Miss Susan Dickenson of Harbor Springs on July 30, 1898. To this union was born two boys, Hugh and Dick.

Many of the things that mark East Jordan as an unusual small town are due largely to the handiwork of Dr. Dicken. Among other things, good streets, boulevard lights, and many other improvements. The advertising of East Jordan through the band and its part in attempting to secure a fifth normal school Dr. Dicken played a most prominent part. Running for the State Senate a number of years ago, to show his interest and sportsmanship, he carried the whole East Jordan High School Band at his own personal expense to nearly every town of any consequence in northern Michigan in the senatorial district.

Among other civic activities in which Dr. Dicken took an active part was the two terms as Mayor of the City, a member of the School Board for sixteen to eighteen years, head of the Legion, prominent in all East Jordan war activities—also having an outstanding war record himself. Interested in the local military company before and during the late war, he offered his services to his country almost immediately at the outbreak of hostilities, going to Camp Chillicothe, Ohio, where he became First Lieutenant in the Medical Corp. Not long afterwards he was made Captain and finally received the very distinct honor of becoming Major in the Medical Corp. At one time he had the entire responsibility of three thousand men on the front lines in France along the famous Chemin Des Dames Road which was in the very center of the fighting on the western front close to the main British Army.

Dr. Dicken was a graduate of the University of Michigan and a very successful physician. His first practice began at Cross Village when it was still tinged with a great lumber industry. His first patient was an Indian girl. Later he moved to Harbor Springs, then to East Jordan where he has been for nearly thirty years, also where Dr. Dicken and his fine family have been prominent in local affairs, winning a legion of friends who to say that they will

Harbor Springs Interrupts East Jordan Record

LOCALS LOSE TO RESORT TOWN GRIDIRON WARRIORS 16-0 LAST SATURDAY.

The local High School Football team assumed its biggest job to date when it took on the strong Harbor Springs team, Saturday. So far the local team had made an enviable record by winning 13-0 from St. Ignace, from the strong Lake City team 2-0, and holding the supposedly strong Charlevoix team 6-6. The above showing was all that the local fans could expect from a green team and it was not surprising that they lost to Harbor Springs 16-0. However, after the game started many local fans were surprised that Harbor came out as well as they did. For although the Harbor team outweighed Coach Cohen's boys twelve pounds to the man and had nearly three times as many veterans, the first half was practically an even affair although Harbor did score nine points. These points were more the breaks of the game than the greater strength of the Harbor team. In fact the breaks of the game were largely for Harbor throughout. This of course being due to a more experienced team, making and taking opportunities away from a green team.

Harbor kicked to East Jordan to open the game. The locals fumbled the ball, Harbor recovered. This at once put the boys at a great disadvantage. They fought back with determination to force Harbor to kick. For most of the half the ball saw-sawed in the middle of the field. East Jordan missing two or three glowing opportunities to score by the aerial route. Finally on a fumbled punt which was picked up on the five yard line, a mistake in judgement allowed Harbor to score two points. Instead of punting, the quarterback called for an end run where the aggressive Harbor team broke through and tackled the ball carrier behind the line for the two points. The ball went back to the twenty yard line, East Jordan kicked. East Jordan recovered the punt on Harbor's thirty yard line. For about ten minutes in the second quarter they completely out-played the Harbor team and had men entirely free on two different occasions had the passers made any kind of a toss, East Jordan would have scored. At this juncture the locals lost the ball and almost immediately Harbor punted it back where the real climax of the game took place. Two of East Jordan's men apparently wiggled with greenness stood with almost folded arms while Harbor Springs man ran fifteen yards to fall on the ball, recovering the punt on Jordan's twenty yard line. After very strenuous work led by Bradley and Daybird, Harbor's star backfield men, they finally carried the ball to the locals five yard line where it took four hard line plunges to put the ball over. The East Jordan line showed a determination that should have gotten better results. Harbor kicked the goal, making the score 9-0 where it remained until late in the third quarter.

There is no question but what Harbor outplayed the local team decidedly in the second half. The regular football through the center of the line was about even but when it came to all round end running and passing the locals were shown up by the resort town team. The thing that really put Coach Cohen's boys out of the running was the fact that the ends and backfield seemed to have butterfingers and no matter where the ball came to them, they proceeded to drop it to the green sward. Otherwise they would have been in the game. To make matters worse the boys did not make or accept opportunities. It seems to the writer that they should have run the ends and passed continually. However, it is easy to tell what should have been done after it is over and the fact that the boys were green and that they were playing one of the strongest Class C teams in this section might account for the apparent lack of punch on the part of the greatly miss Dr. Dicken, is putting it very mildly.

Dr. Dicken carried an air of dignity that is not only valuable to one's self but carries over into community affairs and has a lot to do with the standing a town has among its neighbors.

Dr. Dicken leaves to mourn his death, his wife, his only son, Dick Dicken of Boyne City; two sisters, Mrs. Dr. Hosom of Detroit, and Miss Carrie Dicken of Ann Arbor, and a host of friends.

Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon at two o'clock from the home.

MISS KENDALL, FOOD EXPERT HERE OCT. 20-21-22

"One out of every four children does not obtain proper food," said Blanche Keller Kendall upon her arrival in town today. "This condition is not dependent upon the family income. The children of the wealthy—just as frequently as those from families with restricted means—suffer from lack of proper body-building elements in their food."

Miss Kendall will conduct a Better Baking School on Oct. 20, 21 and 22, in K. P. Hall, East Jordan. She will stress, in her lectures, the importance of balanced diet—as well as the most economical and most appetizing way of producing balanced diet.

Demonstration on the platform will include suggestions for short cuts in kitchen operation, new recipes for luncheon and party dishes, and pointers on how to save money through economy in cooking methods.

Miss Kendall has been interested for many years in 4-H Club work. She has been awarded the State Championship in bread making for Minnesota. She is well versed in every phase of domestic science and will demonstrate many new and interesting recipes.

Classes in Miss Kendall's school open daily at 2:00 p. m. Each session will last two hours. Samples of Miss Kendall's baking will be distributed among the audience.

There will be no admission charge for the school.

The local team in the second half. Late in the third quarter the Harbor team made a consistent but steady sixty yard drive for the East Jordan goal, crossed it and kicked the goal for the extra point, making the final count 16-0.

This is the first real opposition the locals have been up against and it looks as though they had learned enough football, so from this on, there will be a different exhibition. At last reports, Coach Cohen is revamping his team with the idea of getting a greater punch and the writer is confident this is possible for the local lads are real scrappers and have a good deal of ability. In spite of the fact that the boys as a team did not come up to all expectations Saturday, many individuals shown to advantage. This is especially true of Frank Sweet, on the line, who played one of the best games of any man on the field Saturday. He broke through the line time and again to lay a heavy Harbor man on the turf with a resounding thud. Peter Hegerberg and Roy Gunderson also played good games on the line. Peter Hegerberg was noticed to gather in an armful of Harbor Springs men a number of times and to make it easy for them pulled them down on top of himself—which isn't always the best practice. But he did not seem to care where they fell as long as they came down. Howard Sommerville played his usual stellar game at end. In the backfield, Ellis and Halstad played excellent football. Ellis in dodging through open field and Halstad carrying the main East Jordan punch throughout the game. Local fans have every reason to think that any team that makes its appearance from now to the end of the season against the locals will have a good appetite for their evening meal. For Harbor Springs the all-round punch was carried by one Mr. Bradley—a good example of the great original American athlete. Another Indian boy by the name of Daybird made life miserable for the local team at most inopportune times. Booth and Laneto on the Harbor line were towers of strength. Following is the score by quarters:

Harbor Springs.....2 7 7 0—16
Referee—Frenz of Traverse City.
Umpire—Makel of Gaylord.
Headlinesman—Swafford, East Jordan, W. S. T. C.

REID, MURDOCH & CO. TOOK IN LAST WEEK 200 TON RED BEETS

During the week ending October 11th, the local Canning Plant of Reid, Murdoch & Company took in and paid for in cash approximately 400,000 lbs or 200 ton of red beets. This tonnage was taken in less than 3 days due to the necessity of holding off hauling on account of storage room.

The produce taken in represents a distribution of some $2800 to the farmers of this community in less than three days. The record day was Thursday, Oct. 9th, when 112 tons of beets was weighed over the Company's scales and almost $1800 paid to growers.—Ellsworth Tradesman.

Lectures To Be a Feature

AT TOP O' MICHIGAN POTATO AND APPLE SHOW.

While the hundreds of exhibits of potatoes and apples have been the main attraction at the Top O' Michigan Potato and Apple Show at Gaylord, Oct. 29 to 31, those persons planning on attending this year should arrange to attend the lectures and discussions.

The first meeting is on Wednesday noon when the certified seed growers of the Top O' Michigan will attend a luncheon. Speakers at this luncheon will be J. R. Liermore of New York State, H. C. Moore of Michigan State College, and Guy Eppler, Master Potato Grower of 1929.

Immediately following this program the regular afternoon program will be held when an opportunity will be given the potato growers to hear O. F. Jensen of the National Fertilizer Association and I. J. Mathews of the Potash Importing Corporation discuss potato fertilization. Apple growers will have a chance to hear D. H. Hootman, Horticulturist of the Michigan State College.

On Thursday afternoon, R. Wayne Newton of the Michigan State Farm Bureau, Burt Wermuth, Editor of the Michigan Farmer, and R. J. Baldwin, Director of Extension of the Michigan State College will talk.

A special potato dealers meeting is also scheduled to follow this afternoon program.

The junior folk will have a luncheon program on Thursday noon to be addressed by Prof. Carl Spitzer of Petoskey. Club winners will also be announced at this time.

The women's program in charge of Glenna McCrary of Alpena will be held Thursday afternoon. Miss Edna Smith in charge of Home Economics at Michigan State College will be the main speaker.

Then, the main event of the day (Thursday) the banquet at 6:30 p. m. Al Weber, Editor of the Cheboygan Observer, will be Master of Ceremonies which will include music, singing, talks and announcements of awards. Don't fail to take in the Thursday program including the banquet.

On Friday morning at ten o'clock, the annual Top O' Michigan Town and Country Choir Singing Contest will be held. There will be two to three hours of good singing at this contest.

The eighth annual show will close at three o'clock on Friday afternoon. All features of the Show will be held at the newly constructed 4-H Club Camp just north of Gaylord city limits except the singing contest which will be held at the Gaylord Auditorium across from the Court House.

A big time is being planned by the management. Every farmer in the Top O' Michigan, whether a potato or apple grower or not should plan to attend at least one day; many people take in all three days.

Secretary.

JAMES A. CIHAK PASSES AWAY

James Albert Cihak passed away at Lockwood Hospital, Petoskey, Saturday, October 11th, 1930, from dropsy and heart trouble. He had been ailing for the past few years and had been at the hospital for treatment some three months.

Mr. Cihak was born in Bohemia, Sept. 17, 1884, his parents being Frank and Josephine Cihak. When a small boy he came with his parents to the United States and they located in Jordan township, Antrim County.

On June 26, 1911 he was united in marriage to Frances Kruzka at Manistee, and they have made East Jordan their home for the past 17 years, where Mr. Cihak was employed on the E. J. & S. R. R., and at their roundhouse.

He is survived by the wife and two sons, Edward and George, at home; his father, Frank Cihak Sr., of East Jordan; four brothers and three sisters, viz.—Joseph, Frank M. Jr., and Bohumil Cihak of East Jordan; Louis of Munising; Mrs. Mary Kubeck of Grand Rapids; Miss Josie Cihak of Chicago, and Mrs. Nettie Hurlbert of East Jordan.

The remains were brought to East Jordan and funeral services were held from St. John's Catholic Church in the Bohemian Settlement, Tuesday forenoon, Oct. 14th, conducted by the pastor, Fr. T. J. Liebek. Interment at the cemetery in Jordan township.

Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

Carter was telling a group of young people something of the story of his life. He was what the world would call a very successful man. He was prominent as a banker; he was at the head of many organizations and boards of influence; and in spite of the fact that he was looked upon as a political power, his integrity and his character had never been questioned. I had singled him out when he came into the room, for he was a person of distinguished appearance—tall, straight, square-shouldered, and perfectly poised.

"My father taught me many lessons," he said, when he began talking, "and one of these which left a lasting impression on me was a sentence which he wrote in my copy book and which I was to produce in an effort equal my father's careful penmanship. 'Whip George Carter,' it said. I am not sure that I fully understood its meaning at the time, but I understand better now. It is the problem of self-control. If one is to get anywhere in the world he must subdue himself—his body, his mind, his emotions."

I had watched a baseball game that afternoon. There was a long drive by the batter out to right field beyond the reach of the outfielder, it seemed at first, but he started for it.

"He won't get it," we all said in chorus, but we were mistaken. He had the trained eye, and the swift feet, and just as we thought that he had no chance, he reached out with one hand and snatched the ball from the air. He had learned perfect control of his body.

It was only a little later that the umpire made a decision which the on-lookers questioned. The official had called the runner out, when it seemed quite evident that he was safe. The coach, a husky middle-aged man, jumped to his feet, excited, abusive, shouting words which may not be printed. But the umpire was probably right, for he was in a better position to see than were the rest of us, and besides it was his business to make the decision. The coach was a man who had not learned to whip George Carter—his emotions were still unshredded.

Grissold is young and talented, but the habit of drink has got possession of him. He does not always drink to excess, but every so often he comes home drunk. He knows it is a bad habit, and in his sinner moments he knows that for him some day it will spell ruin.

"It is too much for me," he admits. "I can't manage myself. I suppose I shall always drink."

Wilson can't get down to work. He has a good mind, but it is stubborn, lazy, given over to moods, and he has never got it under control. He struggles with it at times, but it has never really been whipped.

It is a great fight, this, which we have daily with our minds, our bodies and our passionate emotions. Few of us have ourselves properly whipped.

BE YOURSELF

MOST persons are imitators. We all like to follow the crowd. The appeal of the popular seems to be the line of least resistance. "Everybody is doing it," has become the accepted explanation of present-day conduct. We like to follow the fashions. In proportion that we do so, do we become imitators of some other person's ideas. Somebody or a group of persons starts a fashion to wear a certain kind of garment in a certain way with definite size and shape with the result that everybody does the same. Why? Because it is the thing to do regardless of the fact that such a fashion may not be particularly becoming in our special case. Our own taste may dictate an entirely different style, but we do not have the courage to make the venture, because it is not the fashion. We want to be like the crowd. We very seriously desire to follow the crowd. We dare not be ourselves.

It is interesting to note how a certain type of amusement catches the attention and patronage of the crowd. It has become popular because the public supports that particular amusement with its enthusiasm and gate receipts. When popular enthusiasm begins to wane, as it is sure to do if given time enough, we wonder what in the world we saw in it. Our disillusionment leads us to conclude that we really never did find any enjoyment in it, we did what the crowd did, and that may have brought us a sort of satisfaction for the time being, but nothing of permanent value. While the easier way is to follow the crowd, the harder way is to go contrary to the crowd. We dare not be ourselves. It seems almost impossible to be original.

To do a certain thing because you know it is right, to live in a certain location because it appeals to you, to wear a certain garment regardless of prevailing style because you like it, to say what you think regardless of popular opinion, which is most likely to differ with you, to refuse to appear artificial by using facial cosmetics—is to dare to be yourself. Being original may not win popularity, but it will win real friends who will believe in you and trust you. The most valuable possession you have is yourself. Why sell it to the crowd? "To think own self be true and it must follow as the night the day—that canst not then be false to any man."

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

"ALIVE AND KICKING"

THIS is an expression that slips off our lips, leaving us utterly unconcerned as to its intrinsic and original import. At first sight, this phrase would seem to imply simply a certain state of animated existence. Deeper investigation, however, turns up the interesting discovery that the turn of the expression "alive and kicking" is a direct allusion to the child in the mother's womb after quickening. That is how it started.

The SANDMAN STORY

GRUNTER, THE PIG

"W ELOOME, welcome, the pigs welcome you, squeal, squeal, grunt, grunt."

A new pig had come to the Pig Pen, and all the pigs were grunting and squealing.

The new pig's name was Grunter. He was not a baby pig, nor was he a grown-up pig. He was an in-between pig.

He had a little twisted tail and short bristly pink-white hair and pink eyes and a very rognish way of looking out of the sides of his eyes.

His snout showed that he belonged to the pig family. It was the same snout that runs through the whole family.

"I have a Good Digestion," Grunter insisted.

"Grunt, grunt," said Grunter. "I'm glad to come to this Pen."

"It looks as though you had good pigweed around, and the farmer looks as though he fed you well. In fact it looks as though he fed you too well."

"It's a good thing I've come. You might all have collapsed from indigestion if I hadn't come just in time."

"Grunt, grunt, what does he mean?" asked Grandfather Porky.

"Squeal, squeal, what does he mean?" asked Sammy Sausage.

"Grunt, grunt, what does he mean?" asked Brother Bacon.

"Squeal, squeal, what does he mean?" asked Little Black Squealer.

"Grunt, grunt, what does he mean?" asked Sir Percival Pork.

"Squeal, squeal, what does he mean?" asked Sir Benjamin Bacon.

"Grunt, grunt, what does he mean?" asked Pinky Pig.

"Squeal, squeal, what does he mean?" asked Master Pink Pig.

"Grunt, grunt, what does he mean?" asked Pinky Pig's mother.

"Squeal, squeal, what does he mean?" asked Mrs. Pink Pig.

"Grunt, grunt, what does he mean?" asked Mrs. Pinky Pig.

"I mean," said Grunter, "that I can eat a little of your food for you, too, as well as my own share—I will do this for each one of you—and then you will not get indigestion."

"Ah, but you might," said Grandfather Porky Pig, "and we could never treat a newcomer that way. We could never permit you to get indigestion. Better far that we get it!"

"No, we could never let you get indigestion," said Sammy Sausage.

"It would not be kind," said Brother Bacon.

"We wouldn't have the heart to do such a thing, to let you get indigestion," said Sir Percival Pork.

"It would be unfair," said Sir Benjamin Bacon.

"Very unfair," said Mrs. Pinky Pig.

"Most unfair," said Mrs. Pink Pig.

"Decidedly unfair," said Pinky Pig.

"Extremely unfair," said Master Grandfather Porky.

And Pinky Pig's mother said:

"Oh, so unfair! We could never be so unfair as to do that."

"Oh, you needn't worry about me," said Grunter. "I have a good digestion."

"Ah, but you must not take chances with it. Any day your digestion may go back on you, and if you ate too much, it would be taking chances," said Grandfather Porky.

"What Grandfather says is right," said Brother Bacon.

"Quite right," said Sammy Sausage.

"Grandpa knows a lot," said Pinky Pig.

And the others all said the same, as they twisted their little tails and looked at Grunter out of their pink eyes.

Grunter looked at them out of his pink eyes and twisted his little tail, too, and said:

"Grunt, grunt, grunt, grunt, grunt, grunt. No more luck for me here than at home in my home pen. But you all seem a nice lot even though you don't offer food hospitality to me, so I'll stay here, thank you, thank you, grunt, grunt, grunt."

"You're welcome," said all the pigs.

"You're very welcome to our mud, our society, our grunts and our squeals, but not to our food, grunt, grunt, squeal, squeal, not to our food!"

And with that understanding the new arrival remained.

Lansing—The dog law of Michigan is incorporated in a bulletin just issued by the United States Agriculture Department as a model to be followed by other states in legislative efforts to control the ravages of sheep-killing dogs. One of the most important considerations in formulating a dog law, says the bulletin, is to obtain the moral support of the people. "An unjust law does not have the support of the people," it says, "and without their support officers will not enforce the law."

Saginaw—James Taylor of Saginaw, was shot and killed by a deputy sheriff, while stealing potatoes from a farm nine miles west of here on U. S. 10. He had fired first, officers said. Taylor was found loading potatoes in a parked car while Deputies Orville Cole and James W. True were patrolling the road in search for petters' bandits. As Cole threw the rays of a flashlight on him, he saw Taylor raise a pistol to fire. He ordered him to drop the weapon. Taylor fired, but missed the officers. Cole sent a bullet through his heart.

AUCTION SALES

The most important thing connected with a sale is advertising it. Indeed that is practically the whole story. It makes all the difference between success and failure. Whether your sale is poor, fair, "pretty good," or extra good, depends on how well you advertise it.

Just as you are reading this advertisement because you are interested in Auctions, so the prospective buyer of the property you have for sale reads your advertisement.

A VERY IMPORTANT POINT

In advertising your Sale remember that it is necessary to cover the whole region to get the best results. Your Sale is not a neighborhood affair. Your neighbors will know about it anyway. You want bidders that come 10, 12, 15 and 20 miles, the strangers with the cash in their pockets.

To get these buyers you must place your advertisement where it will attract their attention. The Charlevoix County Herald of East Jordan and The Ellsworth Tradesman have a special combination offer for the same Auction Sale advertisement to appear in both publications. This assures a wide coverage in both Antrim and Charlevoix Counties.

DON'T BE "PENNY WISE"

Remember that all your goods are to be sold at one time, and upon that one day depends whether you make or lose perhaps several hundred dollars. A few dollars expense is nothing compared with having your sale well advertised.

If a merchant is going to have a sale he does not hesitate to advertise it liberally. Yet he is in business 365 days every year, his store is being advertised all the time, and if his sale is not a success he can make good the loss later on. But if your sale is not a success, you can never make good the loss, because you are in the selling business for only one day.

Don't forget this point: If you advertise your sale thoroughly, you will know that you have done your best, and you will always be satisfied. If you skimp on the advertising, and save a few dollars, then if your sale is not satisfactory you will always blame yourself for not spending a little more money and doing it right.

REMEMBER

Your eggs are all in one basket. You have $500 or $1,000 or $2,000 worth of property all to be sold in ONE day. Without a crowd your goods will sell at a loss. With a good crowd you may make hundreds of dollars. One bidder may make you enough money to pay all your advertising and your auctioneer besides. The cost of the advertising is NOTHING compared with the risk you run in selling a thousand dollars' worth of property. The question is not "Can I afford it?" but rather, "Dare I take any chances?"

"A sport sweater you originally disliked often grows on you as you wear it."

Dear Editor:

IT DOESN'T take much to satisfy some people, and that's a fortunate thing about life.

For instance, a young fellow I know used to work in a store, but he disliked it. Now he has a desk job, at the same pay. But he calls it a promotion because he can sit down to his work.

Another friend worked and saved for a new home for just one purpose. "I'm going to build the kitchen so small that we'll have to eat in the dining room," he said. Wrong again; now he eats in the breakfast nook.

It's all right to be modest in your expectations, perhaps, but I believe in having plenty of ambitions and keeping them assorted. Then if only part of them mature, at least I've got something.—Fred Barton.

THE WHY of SUPERSTITIONS

By H. IRVING KING

MARKS ON HADDOCK

AMONG the fishermen of the Atlantic coast from Newfoundland to Sandy Hook—if not indeed further south than the Hook—there is a saying that the black line along the sides of the haddock is due to the fact that the fish was once seized by the devil's finger and thumb; but slipped through and escaped, retaining the mark made by the infernal digits.

Ancient amulets, sculptures and drawings show that in the dim ages of obscure antiquity a deep significance was attached to a combination of the hand and the fish. A hand grasping a fish was a favorite and powerful "charm" and is met with in southern Europe in the form of an amulet today. Just what the esoteric significance of the hand grasping the fish was is obscure—but there was one.

And as Ellworthy remarks "there is hardly a custom or occult practice of the ancients which may not be traced somewhere or somehow among their modern descendants." The primitive mind seeks an explanation of everything, even the markings on a fish. In explaining the markings of the haddock the hand and fish superstition naturally asserted itself. "The marks are black—it was the devil's hand that tried to grasp it. And furthermore we have the superstition reinforced from Norse mythology in which Thor tried to catch Loki, the god of destruction, when Loki was in the form of a salmon; but Loki slipped through his fingers and the salmon still shows the marks of the struggle in his tail.

THE VERSATILE TOAST

WITH a good electric toaster, or a long fork and a grate fire, one may enjoy such a variety of good things. It is surprising what a number of dishes may be based upon toast as a foundation.

Toast as toast, well-buttered, with a bit of marmalade, conserve or jelly and a cupful of tea makes a most satisfying meal. Toasted sandwiches never lose their appeal; a finger of toast with a small cooked sausage placed upon it and accompanied by a slice of nicely fried apple, is another meal worth serving. Rarebit mixtures, grated cheese mixed with cream spread on sandwiches and toasted brown, are always enjoyed. The following are a few of the thousand dishes one may serve with or on toast:

Chicken Marenago.
Cut up a roasted or stewed chicken into sections, but do not bone. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and dredge with flour, then fry until brown. Cover with the following sauce and cook ten minutes: Take one-fourth of a cupful of melted butter and one-fourth of a cupful of flour, mix well, add one and one-half cupfuls of chicken broth or water and chicken jelly, if at hand. Add one cupful of canned tomato, a small onion chopped and fried brown, one teaspoonful of salt, one-eighth teaspoonful of pepper, a dash of cayenne and three or four slices of crisp brown bacon. Lastly add one can of mushrooms; cook all together with the chicken five minutes and serve with toast points as garnish for platter.

Toast, So Good.
Spread well-browned toast with butter and grated maple sugar, sprinkle with cinnamon and serve with tea.

Toast and Oysters.
While the oysters are cooking prepare the toast, butter, and cover with oysters and serve. A pint of oysters will serve six persons. Cook in butter until their edges curl, add a cupful of cream, and when the oysters are cooked and the cream bubbling, pour over the prepared toast. Crisp curls of bacon may go with the oysters, making a most tasty dish. Serve with a cupful of good hot coffee.

THE RIGHT TIME FOR A GIRL TO MARRY

"WHAT do you consider the right age for marrying?" one of our readers asks. And with that she sends me a recent editorial giving statistics gathered by a life insurance company on the probability of marriage at various ages.

"A girl's chances of marriage fall off sharply after she reaches the age of twenty-five, while the young man's chances increase for a time after that age," we are told. "The twenty-year-old girl has a better chance of marrying within ten years than the young man of the same age. By the time each reaches the age of twenty-five, however, the tables are turned, for the young woman has less chance as years go by and the young man more chance to take the marital vows."

"We don't know what the moral of this should be," the editorial continues, "other than the obvious advice for girls to marry when they get a chance, and young men to take their time and be cautious."

"We can subscribe to the latter part of that moral for girls as well as men, for they are useless in need of advice to be 'cautious.'"

"But it is a dangerous and a vicious 'moral' that would advise girls that at the right time for them to marry is as soon as they have the chance! Must we invoke that old saying, 'Marry in haste, repent at leisure'?"

The right age for a girl to marry is when she meets the right man—not, oh, not by any means when she has her first chance, unless the two events happen to take place at the same time! Of course, many a Mr. Wrong originally looked like a Mr. Right, and we have even heard of cases where a girl married without love and later learned to love the husband with whom she lived happily ever after!

But to give ourselves the benefit of the doubt in this lottery in which, it has been said, "Every woman marries a stranger," a girl should at least be positive at the time that the man upon whom depends the whole future trend of her existence is the right man, and not merely the first man who has asked her. There have no doubt come times to some single women when it seemed to them that almost any husband would be better than no husband at all. But if those women only knew it, they were living lives of joy and delight compared to women who felt themselves crucified by marriage to the wrong man.

To know for certain that a man's true name is Right-For-You is something that no mortal can tell you. Hearts have been known to go wrong, and heads, too. But if a girl wants at least to give herself the "breaks," the right time to marry is when the man who to her is Mr. Right asks her.

ALWAYS LATE

By Douglas Malloch

I WATCH the ships sail past the town, and past the pier, and past the light.

The night will very soon come down, and, oh, it will be dark tonight. This house will have an empty chair, that house will have an empty bed—

There always are the women there with eyes of mist and hearts of lead.

Yes, youth will proudly sail away, and think how fine a ship she is; I think about a mother gray, perhaps a little wife of his.

Not all the countries he shall find are worth their waiting months or years, Are worth the sorrow left behind, a sweetheart's sighs, a mother's tears.

And there are sailors on the land, as there are sailors on the sea, Who do not seem to understand how long a wait a wait can be.

Not all the world of waiting wives must wait upon the shore Until some wanderer arrives, until some husband seeks his door.

And so I say to you, O men who sail the land or sail the foam, As soon as God will let you, then, if God will let you come, come home.

It always seems that men delay, it always seems that women wait. And, if a season or a day, returning ships are always late.

Why We Do
What We Do

by M. E. THOMSON, Ph. D.

WHY WE ARE NEVER SATISFIED

NONE of us is completely satisfied. Before we get what we want we think we are going to be thoroughly happy, but always there is something ahead of us that we are looking forward to.

Complete satisfaction means stagnation, death and decay. There is no greater spur to achievement than the desire to reach a notch higher in the social scale, in one's profession, in expanding a business, in making money, or whatever it is that we are striving for.

We are never satisfied, because we live in an imperfect world. No matter how far we may go in any line of activity there is always room for improvement.

The average man thinks he would be satisfied if he could run a hundred yards in ten seconds. But the athlete who can run it even a little under ten seconds is all the more eager to run it just a little faster.

The more we have the more we want; the more we can do the more we want to do.

Dissatisfaction is a mark of ability and ambition. It is often the mark of progress. The man who aims at a target on the ground close by may hit it with ease while the man who aims at the sun shoots much higher although he will miss his target by a big margin.

There is less chance for perfect satisfaction for a man of skill and ability than for the poor fellow who has nothing and can do nothing. The English philosopher, James S. Mill, must have sensed this psychological truth when he said, "It is better to be a human being dissatisfied than a pig satisfied; it is better to be a Socrates dissatisfied than a fool satisfied."

NUTTY NATURAL HISTORY

BY HUGH HUTTON

THE APPALACHIAN OWK

TRAVELERS often catch sight of this solitary bird of prey, soaring from some lonely crag overlooking a tobacco field. It is the chief enemy of the snipe, which is found in abundance along the well-frequented highways in this district. When an unsuspecting snipe is sighted the owk dives headlong at it and carries it off in its strong talons to its lair to cool off.

Besides the snipe the owk subsists on well-done breaded veal cutlets. The owk luckily got this picture of the owk while watching a live snipe in the process of cooling. Its head is a single peanut and is fastened at the upper front end of a brass nut. The wings are split almond shells and the feet split peanuts. Short pieces of toothpick are fastened to the peanuts with chewing gum to form talons.

It's fortunate for the average man that he doesn't know half the things he would like to know.

We Americans have little trouble keeping the commandments. It's the doggone amendments that bother us.

Our form of government seems to contemplate giving half the people what they want and making all the people pay for it.

Another good result of these hard times is that you can get two gallons of gas put into your tank without being asked whether you are trying to wear the car.

That 90-year-old New Jersey man who says he hasn't drank a bit of water for 40 years might be surprised if he knew how much of the stuff they are putting into milk and moonshine nowadays.

HARBOR GAME

The East Jordan Football team has been quite successful this year in winning every game until defeat came last Saturday with the game with Harbor Springs. There was a big turnout for both Harbor Springs and East Jordan. The weather was ideal for football. Our boys displayed good team co-operation, and they certainly fought hard and did their best. One of the boys, Frank Sweet received quite a cut above the eye, but this did not stop him from playing. Roy Busseler also was hurt quite badly, he received a broken rib. The boys all did their best, that is all we could expect when playing with such a team as Harbor.

FRESHMEN

The Freshman class in English are now writing essays and themes on "directing people." If we want to know how to explain some direction we'll just call on the Freshman. They have not had any parties lately, but it probably won't be long now.

SOPHOMORES

The Sophomores are now writing conversations of different people. From these conversations the rest of the class guess who the people are. Be careful of your conversation, you might be on the list. Don't be surprised then if you hear yourself being repeated.

JUNIORS

The Juniors have just now started on their English Grammars. They also made good with their Stand at the game last Saturday.

SENIORS

The Seniors had a party last Friday night at the Tourist Park. A good time was had by everyone. The English class are now discussing the play—Macbeth, by Shakespeare. They have found out you surely cannot come to any good by evil.

GRADES

The first grade are putting up Hallowe'en decorations.

The second graders spent a few minutes out of doors last Friday. They are now putting up Hallowe'en decorations. Six mothers visited the second grade this week.

The boys and girls of the third grade had a spell down in which the girls won. They are beginning to decorate for Hallowe'en and are making a large Hallowe'en poster. Over the week end two cocoons burst open and now there are two monarch butterflies.

The following fourth graders had "A" in spelling all week: John Pray, Melvin Gould, Francis Holland, William Royce, Betty Sturgill, Anna Kraemer, Beatrice Valencourt, Marion Hudkins, Marie Essenberg, Ralph Stallard, Elaine Collins, Margaret Decker.

Louise Bechtold has made a poster "Fruit and Vegetables." Buddy Porter is making a nice autumn poster, "Children Gathering Apples."

The fifth graders are studying about coffee. The A section are studying the American Indian thru stories and plays, and are making an Indian village and collection. The room is decorated for Hallowe'en.

The sixth graders have elected the following officers for this year: Ruth Sturgill, President; Kate MacDonald, Vice-Pres.; Robert Winstone, Sec'y; James Keat, Treas. Forty-five sixth graders had 100 in spelling. Jane Davis is the pianist this week. The sixth graders took their lunch out to the woods Tuesday afternoon. They collected leaves and other specimens for nature study. A committee was appointed to arrange a short program for Hallowe'en. Ruth Sturgill spelled the school down Friday afternoon.

WEST SIDE

Wednesday, the second and third grades are going to have a baseball game with the fourth and fifth grades. A rather unusual kind of busy work has been carried on by them. They have been making cats and dogs out of rubber inner tubes.

The fourth and fifth grades have both boys and girls on their baseball team. They play as many innings as they can, every nice day, at recess time. At present they are looking forward to the game with the second and third grades.

They have now joined the junior Red Cross and are planning to make things for Christmas, soon. These things will be sent to children in other countries, who they hope will enjoy them. The membership roll is on the wall of their room and each student has a red cross pin. A magazine is sent to them once a month.

The love a man has for himself is exceeded, by only one thing—that which some silly woman will have for him.

WHERE WEATHER MAN ACTS LIKE VILLAIN

It Was Real Hot in Kansas This Summer.

Topeka, Kan.—It has been rather hot all over the United States this summer, but in Kansas the weather man has been acting up like a demon.

For instance, Jule Trowbridge is a farmhand in Gove county. He was employed on the farm of Rev. Gerrit Snyder near Gove City. One afternoon he was directed to walk over to some stacks of barley and bring in some equipment. He walked through the stubble and his feet kept getting hotter and hotter. He looked down and both feet were actually on fire. The friction of the leather of his shoes on the hot ground and the hot straw of the stubble actually set his shoes on fire. Trowbridge took off his shoes and began fighting the fire in the stubble field. Others came to his aid and when the fire was out Trowbridge was taken to Dr. R. L. Ruttan at Grainfield and his burned feet dressed.

Bolled Goldfish.

The records of the Kansas state fire marshal contain authentic reports of numerous fires in homes caused entirely by sun rays. In one instance the sun rays struck the beveled edge of a mirror and then reflected to the rug and set the rug on fire. In another home a bubble in the glass of a window made a magnifying glass of the spot and set fire to a bed.

W. A. Smith of Snokomo walked into the living room of his home late one afternoon and noted that the goldfish were dead. He reached into the bowl and his hand was blistered. A sun ray had struck the bowl and had literally boiled the fish to death. At least that's his story and he has the bowl but no fish to show for it.

There have been innumerable fires caused by steel getting too hot. Some stacks of hay and wheat have been burned and many fields swept by fire as the result of pitchforks standing in the hay or straw and catching the hot rays of the sun. There are a few instances of where pieces of wire left in stubble fields have become so hot as to set fire to stubble, and there are a few reports of where high and dead grass along fences have been set on fire by the heat of the wires.

Cars Driven Backwards.

It is not an unusual sight to see motor cars of a certain well-known type being driven backwards across the Kansas prairies. The burning sun on the differential on the rear axle had burned out the grease and wrecked the gears so that the cars would not run forward at all. Tourists had to drive home or to the next service station sitting on the dashboards and piloting the car backwards.

But the hot weather has been great for the birds. They got cooked in insects. Motorists driving across the prairies strike grasshoppers and butterflies and other insects in large numbers. The heat of the radiators and the boiling sun cooked the insects. When the cars stopped anywhere the birds swarmed down upon the front of the car and began to eat. Some motorists were kind enough to spread a blanket over the braces and lamps so the birds could pick the insects in comfort and not get their feet burned.

Yep, it surely has been terrifically hot in Kansas—as well as other places.

World Needs New Drink,

French Diplomat Says

London, England.—The world needs a new drink.

That is the belief of Viscount d'Abernon, famed trade diplomat and wartime chairman of the liquor traffic control board, who recently declared before the licensing commission that not only is a substitute for alcoholic drinks wanted, but a "vast fortune" awaits the inventor of one.

"In view of the fact that alcohol does badly what it sets out to do," declared Viscount d'Abernon before the commission, "also that it is not a true stimulant and that the euphoria (sense of feeling well) it brings is not exempt from injurious reaction, I continue to believe in the concoction of some preferable substitute."

"Not only would the discoverer thereof earn the gratitude of humanity, but a vast fortune would be his as well." Viscount d'Abernon then gave it as his opinion that the new beverage would have to be appealing to the palate and would have to have effects that would appeal to the drinker more than present-day liquor.

Thirsty Chauffeur Wins

Beer Money in Hungary

Budapest.—Ladislav Almassy who, while driving his employer's car, met with an accident resulting in the death of his employer, has won the law suit which he brought against the heirs of his late boss. He claimed that the accident afflicted him with an unquenchable thirst and that unless he used costly preventive medicines he would be obliged to drink from 20 to 28 pints of beer a day.

The court decided "that must not be" and awarded him a pension of $4 a month.

Spring Uncovered

St. Louis.—Record low water on the Mississippi river due to dry weather in the Middle West, uncovered part of the old levee here, and a spring of bubbling water, which came through the stone paving. Levee hands have used it for drinking purposes.

LIGHTS of NEW YORK

The Empire Trust building, on the old Waldorf site, is rising rapidly to the sky and the new Waldorf is taking form, but those of us who came to New York some time ago never will cease to miss the old Waldorf Astoria that Bolt and Oscar made famous. Kings stayed there; presidents visited there; the old ball room, at dances or dinners, saw every leader of society, finance and politics within its walls. The Dutch Treat club held its annual dinners there. Before prohibition, the Waldorf bar was almost like the sidewalk tables of the Cafe de la Paix. Sit there long enough and you would see the world go by; although many of its citizens stopped a while. There are hundreds of hotels in New York, but not one of them has the atmosphere of that old hostelry at Thirty-fourth street and Fifth avenue.

There are other vanished landmarks which have their place in the book of memory. The Astor house oyster bar where you sat on stools and men opened oysters faster than you could eat them; Moquins, where you found artists and newspaper men, drinking claret and indulging in deep argument; Martins; the Hoffman house; old Delmonicos, The Brevoort, the Lafayette, Faunces tavern and a few of the other old-time places still stand, but Healy's and Relenwebers are things of the past, and so is Cap Churchills.

Churchills was a great place for morning newspaper men. Herbert Bayard Swope and I used to stop there regularly on our way uptown, usually about three o'clock in the morning, for ham and eggs and a bit of gossip. Cap Churchill was a great follower of the track and used to lay his bets on a horse for straight and show. A bet on a horse to finish first or third is still called by his name.

Then there was the famous Jacks, where you could find Rex Beach, Fred Stone and T. A. Dorgan, better known as Tad. That was the place where the trained waiters could be depended upon to throw out an entire college football team, when the boys got too rough. It was there that Hype Igoe used to play a ukulele, until Jack issued orders that it should be taken from him at a certain hour of the early morning and placed in the ice-box for safe keeping. All the theatrical world patronized Jacks. Most of the rest of the world could be found there at one time or another. Rubens has taken over a lot of that trade and the night clubs and speakeries have the rest.

As far as cooking goes, New York can furnish any type you desire. German cooking, for example, at Luchows; French, at L'Aiglon; Swedish at Henrys; Italian at Moris or Monettas; Turkish at the Bosphorus; Spanish at Fornos; Mexican at Chill Villa; Bavarian at Munich tavern; Japanese at Tokiwas; Russian at Lorange; English at the White Horse tavern; Chinese at the Chinese Delmonicos; Southern at the Dixie kitchen. These are only a few of the many eating places of various nationalities.

Every nation in the world almost is represented in some part of New York by its restaurants, stores and theaters. Somewhere in the city, practically every language is spoken. Aladdin could not rub his lamp and wish for anything which money could not buy somewhere in New York. Mice and elephants, diamonds and glass, airplanes and diving suits, you can buy them all, if you have the price. New York is one of the gateways and storehouses of the earth.

The Motor parkway runs for about fifty miles down the center of Long Island. It costs a dollar to enter it in a car and, since the Wall Street crash, business has fallen off. Motorists now stop to consider that a dollar will purchase several gallons of gasoline. The parkway, with its infrequent traffic, still gets the dollar from millionaires and lovers—and for the same reason: they can get along faster on it.

I am told that, on a chill autumn day, the hands of a stranger playing the golf course at Great Neck grew cold, so he beat them together. At the clapping sound, 51 actors stopped in the middle of their swings and took a bow.

I saw a cigarette smoker, the other day, go to three places before he could buy the particular brand he fancied. No other brand would do. Then he went to a gathering of friends where he smoked every brand of cigarette offered him.

Get Marriage Blank From Slot Machine

Moscow.—In order to facilitate marriage and divorce for the proletariat and to save the trouble and labor of going to a registrar's office to get the necessary papers, the authorities have introduced slot machines which will deliver the blanks after the required coins have been dropped into the coin receivers.
