EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN, FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 1931.

NUMBER 6

Co-op. Creamery To Be Located At East Jordan

ABOUT FOUR HUNDRED PRODUCERS AT ORGANIZATION.

Of great interest to all dairymen of Charlevoix County is the realization of our dreams for an agency that will give the producers of dairy products a better price. Some 400 farmers gathered at East Jordan last Thursday afternoon for the purpose of organizing the Creamery. Arthur Howland, Marketing Specialist of the Michigan State College, was present and steered the group through the legal entanglements and other problems that always arise in a new organization. The total of 354 farmers signed the membership agreements which should give the new organization the kind of support so necessary.

After adopting the tentative By-laws and Articles of Association, the election of the Board of Directors resulted as follows:

Elmer Murray, East Jordan.
Arlo Wickersham, Charlevoix.
Robert Watson, Central Lake.
Howard Stephens, Boyne City.
Ed. Nemecsek, East Jordan.
Harold Nyland, Ellsworth.
Archie Murphy, East Jordan.

Immediately after adjournment the first Board of Directors meeting was held and resulted in the following Officers being elected:

Elmer Murray, President.
Arlo Wickersham, Vice President.
Archie Murphy, Secretary-Treasurer.

It is sincerely hoped that with this splendid Board of Directors, well distributed throughout the area, and with the splendid support as indicated by the number of stockholders that the new Co-operative Creamery will accomplish wonders for the dairymen of Northern Michigan. Thus the start has been made in the right direction. The ultimate success now rests in the hands of the dairymen and the judgement and executive ability with the Board of Directors.

B. C. MELLENCAMP,
County Agr'l Agent.

Note—Through oversight, Mr. Mellencamp failed to state that the first subject before the meeting was the matter of location, which was overwhelmingly decided in favor of East Jordan.—Ed.

WATCHMAN WATCHES AGAIN AT FILMING OF "THE SPOILERS"

Thirty years ago, in the rocky canyon of Saturday Creek up back of gold-mad Nome, W. A. Doyle, a young fellow just up from Kalamazoo, sat and watched Rex Beach jot down the notes from which "The Spoilers" was born as one of the best selling novels of all time.

After an elapse of thirty years, early in 1930, and thirty miles back in the mountains from Hollywood, W. A. Doyle sat and watched "The Spoilers" come to life.

This first all-talking version of the renowned Beach thrill drama will be shown at the Temple Theatre, East Jordan, Saturday and Sunday, Feb'y 7-8.

Doyle is a watchman at the Big Tujung dam, a vast storehouse for water that offers a good part of southern California flood protection during the winter rains. In Big Tujung canyon, not far from the dam, Paramount built a large location camp for "The Spoilers." There, Gary Cooper and an important supporting cast, under the direction of Edwin Carewe, recorded it as an all-talking screen production of feature scale.

Pontiac—An explosion of hundreds of gallons of chemicals, including naphtha, in the warehouse of the Baldwin Rubber company, started a fire which caused loss expected to run in excess of $25,000 and imperiled the lives of two workmen. Thomas Walsh, one of the two men, was burned about the face and hands; the second, Car Hardy, escaped injury. Persons living near the plant said the explosion shot flames for 100 feet into the air and blew the north end of the warehouse 30 feet away.

Lansing—The State Tax Commission has begun a survey of local taxation costs throughout Michigan and probably will have a report to make to the legislature on the subject. Melville B. McPherson, chairman of the commission and a member of the special Committee of Inquiry into Taxation, has sent a letter to every county clerk in the state asking for a copy of his 1931 budget. If it is higher or lower than last year, an explanation is sought. Later similar letters will be sent all city clerks.

ELEVENTH ANNUAL FATHER AND SON BANQUET, FEB'Y 11

Great interest is being manifested in the coming eleventh annual Father and Son Banquet, given under the auspices of the Men's Fellowship Club in the High School Auditorium on Wednesday night, Feb'y 11th, at 6:30 standard time.

The program being prepared will be an interesting and lively one, consisting of several musical instrumental numbers, selections by the Orchestra, and two numbers by the High School Boy's Glee Club. The speaker of the evening, Dr. W. W. Whitehouse, Dean of Albion College is a very able speaker, and should be heard by every man and boy of East Jordan. Do not fail to get your ticket and be present at this great feast of good things.

NEW MAPS TO BE ISSUED BY STATE DEP'TS.

A map of Michigan, combining the maps formerly issued by the State Highway Department and the Parks Division of the Conservation Department is now being prepared.

The new map is being prepared by the Highway Department and the Parks and Land Economic Survey Division of the Conservation Department.

For several years the Highway Department has been issuing a highway map of Michigan and including some features of conservation projects. During the same period the Parks Division has been issuing annual maps indicating State parks, forests and game refuges, and showing the main State highways.

In the interests of economy the two Departments this year are co-operating in issuing a combined map which it is believed will serve a more valuable and practical function.

The new map will be ready for general distribution next spring before the opening of the tourist season.

E. J. GRADUATES MAKING FINE RECORD

The following letter was received by Miss Merritt:

I take pleasure in giving you information concerning the students we have enrolled from East Jordan. Their records are as follows:

Bea Boswell, shorthand, has marks ranging from B to A-plus. The A's predominate, an excellent record.
Harold Gidley has a B-plus, two B's and an A-plus, also a very good record.

Cathola Lorraine has two A-plus, four A's and one B.

I wish all of our students could make records like these. It would speak much better for the High School from where they come. I want to congratulate you and your school upon sending us students of this type.

Yours—very truly,
Grover C. Baker, Registrar
Ferris Institute,
Big Rapids, Michigan.

Bad Fire At Gidley & Mac's

OFFICE AND STOREROOM GUTTED. PRESCRIPTION CASES SCORCHED

Fire of an unknown origin destroyed the contents and gutted the interior of the office and storeroom of the Gidley & Mac Drug store about 8:30 a. m., Wednesday. The flames leapt out of the room and badly scorched the prescription case together with valuable contents.

Only the prompt response of our Fire Department prevented the fire from reaching disastrous proportions. Hardly a minute elapsed from the time the fire-call was put in until the fire truck, manned by our firemen were at the store and were quelling the blaze with chemicals.

The fire originated in a storeroom and office, seemingly in one corner, and burned rapidly, consuming valuable reserve stock. A door leading into the room furnished an outlet for the flames which destroyed, wholly or in part, a large amount of the pharmaceutical stock. Odors from the fire prevailed throughout the store, and it is not known at this time just how far-reaching the loss is.

The store remains open, the main loss, at the present being unable to fill most prescriptions.

Mr. Gidley cannot at this time estimate the loss. Insurance was carried on the stock and an adjuster is expected here in a few days. The building is owned by Mrs. John Monroe, and the cost of re-building the room will be considerable.

MASONS AND STARS HOLD PLEASANT SOCIAL AFFAIR

One of the pleasantest social events of the season was the Masonic-Eastern Star party given in the lodge rooms Tuesday evening.

A minstrel show, directed by Al Warda, with Mrs. Henry Timmer accompanist at the piano was the main feature of the evening's program and from the opening overture, preceding the entry of the minstrels, Messrs. Bechtold, Ter Wee, Ted Malpass, Seiler and Eggert, with Al Warda as interlocutor and Messrs. Watson and Snelenberger as end men, to the closing chorus, the audience was in a continuous gale of laughter.

The fun and jokes were interspersed by the following solos: "Neptune, King of the Sea," John Seiler.

"Play In Your Own Back Yard," Ted Malpass.

"Old Pal," R. L. Eggert.

"Like a Romance in a Story," John Ter Wee.

"Laugh It Off," R. G. Watson.

"My Gal Don't Love Me Any More," Al Warda.

"Go 'long Mule," C. Snelenberger.

The male quartet, Messrs. Watson, Eggert, Seiler and Bechtold sang "The Bells of St. Mary's" and "My Bungalow of Dreams." The artistic quality of the accompaniments added to the splendid rendition of these numbers.

During the intermission, Mr. Sanderson, accompanied by Mrs. Sanderson, favored an appreciative audience with a flute solo.

Mrs. Sanderson sang a solo in her usual delightful manner.

These musical numbers were followed by a comedy in one-act, "Joint Owners in Spain," which was given by an all-star cast, under the direction of Mrs. Secord. The parts were taken by Mesdames Muse Sloan, Mabel Scofield, Amanda Shepard and Miss Ethel Crowell. Their clever performance was enthusiastically received.

The minstrels then sang their closing chorus, after which refreshments were served.

The public will have an opportunity to see and hear both of these productions in the near future, as they are to be repeated at the entertainment the American Legion are preparing to put on at the Theatre.

Sportsmen Club Being Organized

LACK OF ORGANIZATION IN PAST HAS BEEN HANDICAP.

Twenty East Jordan sportsmen met with District Game Warden Ed. Duell of Boyne City Monday noon at the Russell Hotel for the purpose of forming a Sportsmen Club. Lack of organization in the past has handicapped the game situation in this section.

The immediate objective of the local sportsmen is control of the coming smelt run in the Jordan River. Duell asserted that without question there was as large a smelt run in the Jordan a year ago as in any stream in Northern Michigan, but was over before most people realized it had taken place. Unknown to many sportsmen, it was announced at this meeting that the Jordan River is the largest smelt stream in northern Michigan.

It is planned to screen the Jordan at the mouth of Deer Creek, about a mile from where the Jordan empties into the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix, thus giving East Jordan what is believed will be the most ideal smelting conditions of any stream in the north. Deer Creek is a stream about 15 feet wide and about 2 to 3 feet deep and runs a half mile up to the local Michigan Public Service Company's dam.

It was said by Game Warden Duell that the smelt run takes place much earlier in the Jordan and Boyne rivers than farther south and that it was expected that the smelt might start to run soon after March 1st.

The names of some 50 local sportsmen were read as supporting the organization of the Sportsmen's Club. Another meeting will be held in the near future in the High School Auditorium.

The Athletics defeated the Masons in a close hard fought battle Monday night, Feb'y 2nd, and thereby jumped to the front in the League standings. The final score was 17 to 16.

The hard hitting Athletics took a nice lead in the early stage of the game but the steady going Masons gradually caught up and passed them, only to falter and let the victory slip when it seemed so near.

In the first game of the evening the Iron Men proved their worth by pounding out a one-sided victory over the American Legion, ending the game with a score of 23 to 8. They took no chances on the speedy Legion nine and kept pounding in runs to the very end.

On Monday, Feb. 9, the Masons and Foundry will play off their tie for second place in the League. The second game is between the Athletics and the Legion.

League Standings

| | Won | Lost | Percent |
|------------|-----|------|---------|
| Athletics | 2 | 0 | 1000 |
| Masons | 1 | 1 | 500 |

PAVING PLEA WINS CHANGE IN ROAD PLAN

Construction of 10 miles of concrete pavement on M-131 between Kalkaska and Westwood in Kalkaska County in 1931 and 1932 was recommended to the State Administrative Board at Lansing, Wednesday by its highway committee. The board had previously authorized gravel construction, but re-considered after hearing a delegation from Northern Michigan Tuesday.

Under the terms of today's resolution the grading and drainage structures will be completed this year and the pavement laid in 1932.

At the hearing held Tuesday, a delegation of over 75 representatives, were present from Northern Michigan to protest against the proposed gravel construction. Those present from East Jordan were Mayor Gidley, John Porter and L. G. Balch.

A Communication

Remus, Mich., Feb. 2, 1931
Mr. Archie M. Murphy,
East Jordan, Michigan.

Dear Sir—
Since attending your meeting last Thursday, I have given the situation up there a great deal of thought.

I don't know whether the people at Ellsworth are seriously considering building a creamery or not. If they are, steps should be taken at once to show the farmers of that community that they are making a very serious mistake if they allow themselves to be drawn into any such deal. By so doing they will help to defeat the very thing they want to accomplish.

Their aim is to get better prices for their butterfat. To obtain this, several important factors must be kept in mind—volume and a minimum of expenses per pound of butter manufactured. If all the cream in that territory is brought to one plant there is no question about getting a large volume. When you have that, under efficient management, the per pound expense will be very low, and the result will be good prices for butterfat. If this same amount of cream is divided among two plants it will be necessary to raise double the amount of money to build and equip the two plants, and it will be necessary to have two managers and two buttermakers, plus other help. In other words, the overhead expense will be nearly doubled, and the farmer pays the price.

It looks to me that this move to build a second creamery was started by some men who know nothing of what is required to operate a creamery successfully—and the farmer is used to gratify their selfish whims. I hope your farmers will see the fallacy of such a move before it is too late and all unite in one big organization.

I have been in the creamery business long enough to know what can be done, and when I say that your proposition is just as good as ours is at Remus, I am not guessing, provided you stick together.

Let no farmer be misled by glit talkers who may have a selfish motive. If they unite they will win. One strong organization is better than two weak ones.

Yours truly,
M. J. PRUTZ

Church Honors Senior Elders

LARGE GATHERING AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, LAST THURSDAY.

Last Thursday, in as fine a social function as perhaps has ever been held in East Jordan, the adult friends of the Presbyterian Church gathered in large numbers for a supper and program in honor of the two senior Elders of the Church, W. P. Porter and W. E. Malpass.

The supper was under the direction of the Ladies Aid of the Church, and that is testimony enough that it met all the requirements of the most fastidious appetite.

It would be hard to visualize East Jordan without the two men who were the guests of honor. They have been among the larger employers of labor in this region. For a number of years both men, directly or indirectly, were associated with the fortunes of the lumber industry. Now that that industry has passed, both men continue to reside here, and are planning and working for the welfare of East Jordan.

These men have been associated in the active work of the Presbyterian Church here for over 45 years; each has a son who is a Trustee of the Church, and each has children who are active in the Young People's Organization.

Miss Agnes Porter brought some photographs that were taken in the early days of the city, which were enjoyed by those who saw them.

The Community Singing, led by Mr. Sloan, fulfilled the advance stipulations that it must all be at least 25 years old, and that there must be nothing sad about it. It was a delightful feature of the occasion. The male quartet also added to the pleasure of those present by the rendition of some old songs.

Mrs. Charles Malpass introduced the guests of the evening with a fine and fitting original poem. Letters were read from distant friends, Dr. A. W. Johnstone, who is now in Florida, who was the pastor of the Presbyterian Church at Cadillac for 35 years; Dr. John Gardner, pastor of the First Congregational Church of Riverside, Calif.; Dr. W. M. Lampe of the West Side Presbyterian Church of St. Louis, Mo.; Dr. Selby Vance of the Theological Seminary of Pittsburg; Prof. J. W. Thompson of the Faculty of Music of Knox College; Dr. Roy Vate, pastor of the Woodward Ave., Presbyterian Church of Detroit; and Dr. George Buttrick, author, and preaching minister of the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church of New York City. These men represent the finest scholarship and platform eloquence of the country.

Some of these letters referred to the fact of the wide influence of the local church in several foreign countries and in various educational institutions. The Church supports in full Rev. Roy Harper, a Missionary in Brazil.

Dr. G. W. Bechtold spoke a few words of appreciation from the viewpoint of the community, and W. H. Sloan from the standpoint of the Church. A. J. Duncanson brought out the fact that it is impossible to present these men with anything in a monetary way that can adequately express the regard in which they are held, but as a token, merely, of esteem, in behalf of friends he presented them with fine lettered writing portfolios, as a remembrance of the occasion.

The responses of Mr. Porter and Mr. Malpass were typical of the men. They expressed their affection for the community, the desire that the Church with which they are connected may stand as a beacon light of the Gospel, that it may ever uphold law and order, and be ready to serve unto the uttermost. They spoke of the satisfaction it is to have the friendship of those with whom they are associated in community and in Church.

The happy gathering dispersed after singing "Blest Be the Tie That Binds." The writer has never heard that fine hymn sung with greater heart feeling. It brought to a fitting close an occasion that will always be a happy memory with all of the large number who were there.

The following letter from Dr. G. A. Buttrick, of New York City, is typical of the several letters from distant friends that were read:

New York City, Jan. 16, 1931

My dear Mr. Sidebotham:

It is a matter of glad concern to know of the purpose of the East Jordan Presbyterian Church to honor its two senior Elders, W. P. Porter and W. E. Malpass.

Inasmuch as Mrs. Buttrick and myself gratefully regard your church as our summer church home we wish to share in the celebration, and to add our word of congratulation and good wish.

wishes to the many that will be offered to the honored guests.

Not often can a church claim two Elders each with a son in the Trusteeship of the same church and each with grandchildren in the Young People's Organization. That happy succession is its own tribute, and there is furthermore the tribute of admiration and affection from church, community and summer colony. It is a tribute richly deserved—won by strong, kind and consecrated character.

Here are two lives like the Jordan River—rising in pure springs, gathering strength along the way, flowing more resolutely when obstacles appear, providing many a joy, and bringing beauty, strength and fruitfulness to their environment.

Now that they have passed the turbulent stretches of their course their years are flowing deeply. May their years long flow deeper through green pastures, to be received in God's good time into the unfathomed lake of his eternal love.

Very sincerely yours,
George A. Buttrick

Traverse City—Frank Flees, Leelanau County farmer, who collected $1,700 insurance after his home near Lake Leelanau burned six years ago was sentenced by Judge Fred S. Lamb, of Cadillac, to a year in the Michigan State Prison at Jackson. Tony Rice, and his brother, Theodore, who admitted setting the fire, drew three-year sentences in the Michigan Reformatory at Ionia. Flees was ordered to repay $1,700 to the insurance company.

Lansing—The State's present deficit is "at least $6,250,000," says Gov. Brucker. In a budget prepared for the legislature, former Gov. Fred W. Green set the shortage at slightly less than $4,700,000, or about the amount of the deficit, according to his figures, which existed at the close of the Groesbeck administration. "The deficit will run considerably over that figure," said Gov. Brucker. "We do not know the exact amount yet, but it will be at least $6,250,000."

"That's farthest from my mind," said the girl pointing to her foot.

VETERANS CROWD SOLDIERS' HOMES

Federal Wards Mostly Heroes of World War.

Washington.—Nearly 70 per cent of the men who are living in soldiers' homes in the United States today are veterans of the World war, and still in increasing numbers each year they call for help from the government for which they dared death 12 years ago. The World war veterans who seek the haven of the soldiers' homes, besides, are younger than the men of other wars who ask help. Their average age is estimated at thirty-four years.

From 1921 until 1927 the total population of the dozen homes averaged throughout the year from 12,500 to 14,000. In the fiscal year ending last July the total increased to 19,518, and November 30 of this year there were 28,908 inmates, including more than 5,000 on leave.

Once a man who became such a ward of the government was ranked a pauper, and his family kept his whereabouts secret. Today, however, there is an eagerness evident in the attitude of the veterans and of their relatives.

Welfare organizations and charitable groups have the same view. They believe they are doing a good work in getting veterans permanent homes in these institutions and they believe that needy veterans belong in the care of the government.

There are accommodations for 22,320 men in the soldiers' homes, and most of them today are caring for more than their capacity.

Peiping "Night Life"

Enlivened by Cabarets

Peiping China.—While the government at Nanking has issued a mandate forbidding western-style dancing in the capital, Peiping's "night life" has been stimulated by the addition of a number of Chinese cabarets, in which Chinese girl partners are available at fixed fees for each dance.

At the same time Chinese politicians, who flocked to Peiping hunting for jobs in the new government are finding recreation in the foreign-style hotels.

For a number of years Peiping (then Peking) was satisfied with two "night clubs," in which Russian girls acted as partners. These cabarets had their ups and downs, but managed to keep going. Today they are profiting by the renewed activity.

But the latest novelties are the purely Chinese night clubs, of which there are now several. They are owned and operated by Chinese, with Chinese dancing partners, and their patrons are mostly Chinese. Managers who learned the business in Shanghai are in charge.

Sing-song girls in Peiping, who have had two bad years before the city again became a sort of capital, are determined to learn western dancing and qualifying as dancing partners. Several of them already have abandoned the old-style methods for the western innovation.

Woman Regains Eyesight When Teeth Are Pulled

Chicago.—For fourteen years Mrs. Lillian Wallace, thirty-eight years old, wife of a chef at the Great Lakes Naval Training station, had been blind in the left eye. Visits to expert oculists were futile and she was advised to have the sightless eye removed to save the good right eye. She refused. Recently Mrs. Wallace had five teeth extracted. She went home and set the table.

Her jaw ached and to ease the pain she rubbed it. In doing so she covered her right eye. As she rubbed she seemed to brush away a web from the left eye. Suddenly the blurred image of a fork appeared. Then furniture and walls appeared. Doctors said that sight had been almost completely restored after a lapse of fourteen years.

Woman Recives Letter Mailed to Her in 1907

Wapanucka, Okla.—A letter written January 23, 1907, has just been received by Mrs. Susie E. Standifer at her home in Wapanucka.

The letter was written by the late Tams Birby, chairman of the Dawes Commission, which had charge of the allotment of lands of the Five Civilized Tribes.

It referred to a claim Mrs. Standifer and members of her family had filed on a Choctaw allotment. It stated the secretary of interior had denied the claim.

Mrs. Standifer was unable to explain the reason for the long delay in delivery of the letter.

Television Brings Out New Methods in Make-Up

New York.—Television has required a brand new art of makeup. And it is a strange one.

In order that lips may appear as lips should, they are coated with chocolate brown. The face is covered with a deep ivory. Grease paint and dark shades are used to bring out high lights around the nose. In the case of eyes, the entire face is covered with a paint almost dark enough to be called brown.

Extraordinary makeup methods are required in television, in order to preserve such important features as the nose, which has an unpleasant way of disappearing when the usual paints and creams are used.

NATURE'S FIREWORKS IN STRANGE FORMS

Most Beautiful of All Are the Auroras.

Washington.—When St. Elmo's fire flashed from the spars and mastsheads of ships in San Francisco bay recently sailors took it as an omen of bad tidings.

"St. Elmo's fire, or corpse candles, as it is sometimes called, is a common bit of nature's fireworks in the tropics. It is 'news' only when it appears as far north as San Francisco," says a bulletin from the National Geographic society.

"Extremely dry weather and accumulations of atmospheric electricity at different levels are the conditions needed for a night display of this most eerie of nature's strange lights. Most are spars of ships, and sometimes steeply topped mountain peaks, act as 'brushes,' somewhat like the brushes on an electric motor. They carry electricity of a different level and power than that of the air about them, and at the point of discharge emit a purplish, glowing spark, and a crackling or fizzing noise—similar to that of a faulty motor.

Patron Saint of Sailors
"Sometimes before a storm ships are aglow with carnival-like displays of these sputtering fireballs. The name St. Elmo is an Italian corruption of St. Erasmus, patron saint of Mediterranean sailors. In Europe St. Elmo's fire is considered a visible sign of the guardianship, rather than a portent of evil.

"Most beautiful of nature's pyro techniques are the auroras; the aurora borealis in the northern hemisphere and the aurora australis, its southern hemisphere equivalent. Each is better known under its common name, northern lights or southern lights.

"Scientists are still at odds concerning the origin of the coronas, rays, arcs, cross-crosses and other discharges of red, green, yellow and blue lights that brighten the skies in the neighborhood of Hudson bay and along the Norway coast. Mother earth's fourth of July comes twice a year, in mid-March and mid-September.

"It has been observed, however, that the earth is at these times directly opposite the sun spot zones. According it is advanced that the auroras are the result of electric disturbances set up by sun spots. Very bright displays of northern lights are almost always accompanied by a magnetic storm, disrupting telegraph, cable and radio currents. Observers of aurora displays report that some of them have a crackling sound, like the rustling of silk.

Underwater Fireworks

"Phosphorescence in the sea, Neptune's fire water, has nothing to do with the substance that goes into the manufacture of matches, despite a remarkable resemblance and an obvious derivation of name.

"For, although sea water contains salts of phosphorus, called phosphates, it has no free, uncombined quantities of the element. Luminescence, the name preferred by recent investigators, is a more appropriate term. The light is largely the result of the oxidizing or burning of minute particles of dead animal and vegetable matter, the oxygen being derived from small amounts dissolved in sea water.

"Some forms of sea fire are highly incandescent, giving off an intense, almost white, light. It is difficult to believe that one would not have one's fingers burned by touching it. Others are golden yellow, blue, and even red, and green, giving weird, uncanny effects on dark nights.

"One of the strange forms of nature's fireworks familiar to every one is heat lightning. Heat lightning is not lightning at all, except in a reflected sense. This soundless spectacle usually follows a flash of real lightning so far away that the sound cannot be heard nor the actual flash seen. The light is projected, like a movie, on a high strata of clouds."

Street Parking Barred in Town at Hoover Dam

Washington.—Cars parked at the curb will be a thing unknown in the town in Nevada which will house the working force constructing Hoover dam. A ground plan, mapped in advance, will furnish ample parking space and keep idle automobiles entirely off the streets.

The town is the first to be laid out with all the exigencies of the automotive age in mind. It will be on a transcontinental highway, which will neither pass through the business streets nor through the back yards and undesirable sections. Instead it will wind past the government buildings, through parks, and choice residential areas.

150,000 Newspapers in Oddest Collection

Berlin.—One of the largest collections of newspapers in the world has just been made available to the public. The collection is at Aachen and was founded in 1896. There are 150,000 newspapers and among the oddities are an Eskimo newspaper and a number of manuscript newspapers from the middle of the last century. There is also a spiritualistic newspaper printed on black paper with white characters.

SUGGEST RATIONS TO LOWER COSTS

Use Wheat, Barley and Oats in Feeding Cows.

Dairymen can cut feed costs by substituting wheat, barley, and oats for corn and hominy feed in dairy rations, at present prices, and by feeding a grain mixture with a protein content that corresponds to the roughage fed, advises Prof. F. B. Morrison, head of the department of animal husbandry at the New York State College of Agriculture. He suggests formulas for use with various types of roughage for feeding dairy cows.

In these formulas wheat or barley may be used, depending on the local prices. For dairy cows these grains have substantially the same value per ton. Since wheat is a heavy, concentrated feed, it is best not to use more than 600 pounds of ground wheat per ton of dairy feed. Also some bulky feed, like oats or wheat bran, should be included in the mixture.

Ground rye may be substituted for wheat or barley in these formulas. Since rye is usually not quite as palatable as these grains, it is best not to use more than 300 to 500 pounds of rye per ton of feed.

When little or no legume hay is used, feed a 24 per cent total protein mixture, as: 300 pounds of ground wheat or barley; 300 pounds of ground oats; 350 pounds of wheat bran; 350 pounds of gluten feed; 400 pounds of cottonseed meal; 200 pounds of linseed meal, and 100 pounds of glutted meal.

With mixed clover and timothy hay and corn silage use a 20 per cent total protein feed, as: 600 pounds of ground wheat or barley; 600 pounds of ground oats; 300 pounds of gluten feed; 200 pounds of cottonseed meal; and 100 pounds of linseed meal; and 200 pounds of soy bean meal or gluten meal. With clover hay and corn silage only 18 per cent total protein is needed in the grain mixture, made as follows: 700 pounds of barley or wheat; 700 pounds of oats; 200 pounds of gluten feed; 200 pounds of linseed meal, and 200 pounds of cottonseed meal.

With alfalfa hay and corn silage the grain mixture can be reduced to 16 per cent total protein, containing: 800 pounds of ground barley or wheat and barley; 800 pounds of ground oats; 200 pounds of gluten feed; 100 pounds of linseed meal; and 100 pounds of cottonseed meal.

Fish Oil as Corrective for All Dairy Cattle

There is a possibility that dairymen will soon be feeding fish oils as generally as do the poultrymen. The latter feed cod liver oil to avoid rickets in growing stock, to hold the health of the laying flock and to improve hatchability. It is now being demonstrated that fish oil that is rich in vitamin D will result in healthier calves, will increase the useful life of the cow and is, in a measure at least, a safeguard against breeding troubles. There is still an excess of cod liver oil over what is used for human consumption and for poultry. Investigations in the United States prove the plichard oil, 4,000,000 gallons of which are produced annually from California sardines, is as rich in vitamin D as cod liver oil. Tuna oil, less abundant, is equally rich. Salmon oil is half as rich. The use of these oils in dairy rations should receive more attention from the research men on our experimental farms and in our colleges.

During First Two Weeks Feed Calves Whole Milk

It is preferable to feed whole milk to calves during the first two weeks after birth, but in case this cannot well be done, whole milk feeding may be limited to one week. Small calves, such as Jerseys and Guernseys, should be given about seven and one-half pounds of milk a day. Larger calves, such as Holsteins, Ayrshires, Short-horns, etc., should be given ten pounds a day until they are at least two weeks old. If this cannot be done without too much trouble, two feedings a day will suffice, but a little smaller quantity of milk should be given. That is, a calf that will consume seven and one-half pounds a day in three feeds should not be given more than about six and one-half pounds a day in two feeds. Overloading the calf's stomach should be carefully avoided. See to it that the milk is always fed at an even temperature of about 95 degrees Fahrenheit.

Mixture for Cows

A grain mixture for cows can be compounded from three or four feeds, but a variety of five to seven grains is advisable. Such a mixture will usually be more palatable and carry plenty of bulk, both features necessary to get the best results. A mixture that is palatable will stimulate the flow of digestive juices which in turn will mix best with the ration when it is bulky. In this way the grain mixture is more thoroughly digested and the best results are obtained.

COEDS SHOW LACK OF SENSE IN DIET

Young Women Are Criticized in College Research.

Columbia, Mo.—Smearing lipstick on too thickly, failure to manicure the finger nails properly, not eating fruit daily, being hungry too often between meals and contracting colds easily are just a few of the things which may be the tell-tale indications that a college girl is not overly intelligent—or, to be scientific about it, not very high in her "I. Q."

These facts and many other intimate glimpses into the life of college girls have been brought to light by the research of Mrs. Esther Stearn, professor of chemistry at Christian college, a girls' school here.

Many Are Dieting
The investigation showed that 86 per cent of all college girls are dieting to reduce their weight.

In making the study, the twenty-five students ranking highest in the intelligence tests were compared to the lowest twenty-five. Two hundred and twenty-five other cases were considered.

Ninety per cent of the low "I. Q." group use lipstick, while only 70 per cent of the other group employ it, the report showed. Over 50 per cent of the high group give daily care to their finger nails, while only 25 per cent of the lower group do their daily manicure.

Seemingly the mentally bright get that way by practice, for they spent an average of fifteen hours each week at their studies, while the lower ranking students spent only 11.9 hours.

Fruit Aids Mind.

It would also seem that being intelligent is another manner of keeping the doctor away, for 48 per cent of the high group never went to the infirmary, while only 28 per cent of the low group escape medical attention.

While both groups use candy in about equal quantities, only 50 per cent of the low ranking students eat fruit each day, as compared to 75 per cent in the other group.

HIS $15,000 FARM COST HIM 2 CENTS

Writes Washington, Finds Unclaimed Land.

Fremont, Neb.—A few weeks ago Irvin Bucklin, Fremont disabled war veteran, wrote to the Department of the Interior at Washington, asking for information as to government lands still open to homesteaders.

There was correspondence back and forth—a blue print or two, and legal descriptions.

The upshot of this correspondence was that a few weeks ago Bucklin hauled a load of lumber for a cabin to a strip of choice land right in the center of what is generally known as the "bread basket of the nation." It is called this because the land is unusually fertile and especially adapted to wheat raising.

Within a few days after Bucklin had built his little cabin on the homesteaded property, L. O. Fitzsimmons of Fremont, husband of former Catherine Husenetter, who is a daughter of the original homesteader of the land in this area, came up to Bucklin's shack with a deputy sheriff and ordered Bucklin off.

He showed his papers. Bucklin said nothing, but next day he visited the sheriff's office and showed papers which tended to prove he had filed a homesteader's claim on the strip and had got clear rights from the government.

The sheriff blinked his eyes, but was finally convinced this was an amazing truth. Here was a strip of the finest land in Nebraska, right in the heart of the thickly populated section of the state which had been completely overlooked for forty years or more.

In all there is nearly a fifty-acre strip which was forgotten and to which Bucklin will receive his patent to the land as soon as he has proved it up, which will be on April 1. Conservatively the land is worth between $12,000 and $15,000. A nice gift from the government for only a two-cent stamp and a little figuring.

There was no road to the homestead and Bucklin was told that passing over adjoining land would be considered as act of trespass and would result in prosecution.

Finds a Way Out—and In. Bucklin consulted county surveys and discovered that a field road that he desired to use was on the county line and in reality county property for use as a public highway. However, it has not been used in years and the Husenetter family had just appropriated the highway and were farming it.

Now, Bucklin has been assured of possession, access and exit of his new farm. All is cleared up now and he will have a deed to the land and be richer by many thousand dollars.

"I was just lucky," he said, while in his one-room shack on his newly acquired farm. "Nobody else ever happened to make inquiries I guess."

Recently he was offered $9,000 for the place but he says he is going to live on it with his mother and does not desire to sell at any price.

Roman Soldier of 400 A. D. Unearthed in Italy

Rome.—A sarcophagus of a warrior, one of the largest hitherto found, adorned with bas-reliefs representing battle and hunting scenes, was unearthed recently by workmen employed in digging drains in the city of Brescia.

On removing the lid which weighed over two tons, the body of a warrior was found still in a very good state of preservation.

Several tufts of reddish hair-covered his skull, which was pierced on the left side by a spear thrust; his teeth were intact, as were the armor, helmet and sword.

Five bronze coins, greatly corroded by time but believed to belong to the fourth century after Christ, were found clutched in the soldier's right hand.

The huge engine, which will be used for experimental purposes on a freight route between New Haven, Conn., and New Bedford, Mass. It is equipped with a new type of bearings.

Faces Life Term in Theft of Copper

Shanghai.—Theft of a single copper worth only a small fraction of an American cent may bring capital punishment to Li Lin-fa.

Li is accused of nine robberies within a fortnight, ranging from $9,000 (Mex.) to one copper. The one-copper robbery was committed in company with two accomplices and, according to Chinese law, robbery in a group of three persons or more may be punished by death.

In view of the complete circumstances, the prosecutor has indicated that he will press for the extreme penalty in the smallest of the nine cases.

LIGHTS OF NEW YORK

A girl, pretty and young, rented a room in Brooklyn. It was in one of those houses where lodgers are permitted to cook their own meals and the girl was particular to see that the little gas stove was in working order. She paid a week's room rent in advance, as is the custom in such cases, went out and bought a small bunch of flowers, came back and put them in a glass, plugged the keyhole and door cracks, lay down and turned on the gas.

When at last they opened the gas-filled room, the girl was asleep forever. Her purse held a little money, but neither there nor on her clothes could any identifying mark be found. The police finally discovered, in the waste-paper basket, a torn and crumpled sheet of paper with the names of some illustrators on it. They visited the first one on the list, told him he would have to go to the morgue and see if he could identify the girl.

This didn't make much of a hit with him, as he is naturally a highly-strung, nervous fellow, but he took a friend with him and accompanied the police. For purposes of this story, we will call the friend John Doe. It was night. As the party reached the street, the policeman saw a large automobile and evidently knew the chauffeur, because they asked him to drive them around to the morgue. He said he would, as he was on his way back to the garage and had nothing to do. They told him the story and the name of the artist and his friend.

It seemed to the artist that the morgue was a dark and mysterious place.

They showed him the girl, and it was a bit of a relief to him to discover that he never had seen her before. When they came out and shut the door behind them, the automobile was still waiting. They started toward it, when suddenly from the dark doorway they had left, came a wailing voice, saying:

"John Doe! John Doe!" To say that the artist and his friend were startled would be to understate the case. Pale and trembling, they hung on to each other. A laugh came from the waiting car.

"Don't be scared," called the chauffeur. "I just couldn't resist it. I once was a stage ventriloquist. I called 'John Doe,' because I couldn't remember the other guy's name."

That is the end of the story, but I might say that the police never identified the girl. None of the artists whose names she had written down had ever seen her. Apparently she had thought of trying to get work as a model and had copied their names out of magazines or a telephone book. The car, by the way, was said to belong to a dignitary of the church.

Those who turn out articles under the name of some prominent person have become commonly known as "ghost writers." A new wave of interest in the collection of autographs, especially among schoolboys, has given this profession a new twist. There are now "ghost autographers." If some of those most in the public eye stopped to write their names for all who ask, they wouldn't have time for anything else and also would develop writer's cramp. So substitutes autograph practically everything except their checks.

Although he happens to go with a crowd who have their shirts made, a man I know, for reasons of economy and because he thinks they are just as good, buys his at the nearest furnishing store. Everything is all right except the sleeves, which are always too long. For a couple of years he has been trying to persuade his wife to shorten them. The other day she met him with a smile, saying:

"Well, those shirts are all right now."

"Great," said the man. "You certainly were sweet to fix those sleeves."
"Yes," said the wife, "they'll be all right now. I bought you a pair of arm garters."

Some men went to a seaside resort to play golf and put up at a hotel. One of them, who takes his game very seriously, announced that he was going to bed early so that he would be fit to shoot the game of his life in the morning. The others gave him time to get to sleep and then called him on the telephone. One of them told the serious golfer he was sorry to disturb him, but that he was the trouble man of the telephone company and that a break in the circuit had been traced to his room. The man protested that he wanted to sleep but was told that the break had put the whole circuit out of order and that repairs must be made at once. Would he stand a foot from the telephone and speak? Would he stand three feet away and speak? Would he go to the middle of the room and speak? The victim each time did as requested. Coming back to the telephone, he asked:

"Could you hear me then?"

"Yes," came the reply. "Now, please stand on your head and speak, and then go back to bed, you big mutt."

The golfer lay awake most of the remainder of the night trying to figure out the most painful death for persons who needed killing.

New Fabric May Cut Bills for Pressing

Bradford, England.—The discovery of a process which may appreciably cut women's pressing bills and solve one of the greatest problems of the dress trade has just been made known here. It is a creaseless fabric which is to make its appearance for the spring fashions.

The new material is made from a combination of artificial silk yarns with fine woolens. It will have a "crepe" finish, and is expected to start a new fad.

Dyers have been busy experimenting with the colors most suitable for the new fabric. They have decreed that "prune" shade dresses will be very popular next year. The new "prune" shade materials will be both in wool and silk, both for evening and afternoon wear. Electric blues and pearl grays also will be popular, they predict.

Edison's Home Town Plans to "Light Up"

West Orange, N. J.—The home town of Thomas A. Edison recently made plans to "light up" after it was charged the town was the "most poorly lighted." The board of trade agreed a committee should be named to "do something about it" after Terence A. Mulvey, president of the board, said strangers were "shocked" at the badly lighted streets in the inventor's home city.

Inscription Reveals "Modesty" of Queen

Calro.—The carved hieroglyphics covering the obelisk built to the order of Queen Hatshepsut have just been deciphered by a group of Anglo-Egyptian experts. The inscription concludes: "I, Queen Hatshepsut, have caused this obelisk to be erected here, that travelers from all over the earth may come to see—and seeing, say, 'what a wonderful woman she was.'"

Cat Causes Crash

West Newton, Pa.—A cat riding on the rear seat of an automobile was the innocent cause of a crash here. When the cat meowed, Jasper Yex, Collinsburg, driver of the car, turned to see what it was all about. The machine hit a telephone pole. The cat was uninjured.

Frost: "Where do the jellyfish get their jelly?"

Prost: "From the ocean currents, I guess."

"In Hawaii they have the same weather all the year round."

Dumb Man Talks by Aid of Scientific Device

New Orleans.—Science has provided a new voice for Harry T. Maguire. He was equipped with an artificial larynx by A. P. Woody, an engineer.

Maguire lost his voice six months ago when an operation on his throat necessitated the cutting away of his larynx to save his life.

Woody has been using an artificial larynx for six years, speaking distinctly through it. He obtained the one which Mr. Maguire used from Dr. E. I. McKesson of Toledo, Ohio.

Woody also had a special silver tube, which he has perfected, made for Maguire. This fits into the wind-pipe and attaches to the breathing valve. This breathing or check valve is fitted into a rubber hose through which the breath passes. The hose is held in the speaker's teeth while talking. A vocophone is fitted about an inch from the upper end of the hose.

Teacher: "Johnny, if you are always very nice and polite to all your playmates, what will they think of you?"

Johnny: "Some of 'em would think they could lick me."

"Now that we are married, perhaps I might venture to point out a few of your little defects."

"Don't bother, dear. I'm quite aware of them. Those little defects prevented me from getting a much better man than you are."

Conveyors Carry Ford Car Parts

Trains unload in the plant.

Bodies starting through the shop.

Conveyors carry wheels with mounted tires over a line on which cars pass to completion.

The highly important part played by conveyor systems in all Ford Motor Company manufacturing and assembly plants is graphically shown in the above three pictures taken in the recently opened Edgewater, N. J., plant. One of the pictures shows how parts may be unloaded from freight cars within the plant only a few feet from the various assembly lines. Another picture shows automobile bodies starting their trip on a conveyor while the third view is of the conveyor system used to bring wheels to the chasses which are also moving on a conveyor. As indicated in the picture, a constant flow of wheels on which the tires have already been mounted moves around and over the chassis assembly line. As a chassis enters a section, workers, in groups of four, each take a wheel from the hoists and fasten it to the chassis.

Heads of two buck deer, their antlers firmly interlocked were found by Frank Knowles, Ludington, Conservation Officer, in the woods of Mason County. The deer had apparently starved to death when they were unable to untangle their antlers following a fight. Instances of bucks locking their horns during fights are relatively common in Michigan. A year ago a game refuge keeper found two bucks in this condition, but saved the lives of the animals by breaking the antlers with a club.

Personal Prejudice

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
 Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

Bascom had a letter in his hand when he walked into my office. An unopened letter it was, too, but it was evident from the handwriting and from the address in the corner from whom it had come.

"I have a letter from Anderson this morning," he said, holding out the envelope. I haven't read it yet, but I know even before I do so that it will make me mad."

Bascom had a prejudice against Anderson. He disliked the man no matter in what role he was playing and he had no especial reason for doing so. It was just that whatever Anderson did was wrong in Bascom's eyes.

Clayton didn't like butter, or at least he said he didn't. The mere mention of the word would give Clayton nausea. He could scarcely sit at the table comfortably if the butter plate was in sight. If you told him that something he was eating contained butter he would push back his plate and call the meal finished. And yet if he were not told of the presence of butter he would eat with relish anything that contained it. It was not the taste of butter, or he odor of it, which he disliked—it was just the idea and for this absurd prejudice of his he could give no adequate excuse.

There came to me in the mail this morning a flat of fifty words representing organizations, ideas, and nationalities.

"Read through the list of words and phrases listed below," I am told. "Consider each one not more than five seconds. If it calls up a disagreeable association, cross it out."

I was a little surprised—I was even annoyed to discover how many of these words called up distasteful and displeasing reactions in my mind. I know very little of socialism, for example, and should have neither an agreeable nor a disagreeable emotional reaction to the word, but its effect on me is distinctly unpleasant and is so without reasonable foundation. I am thoroughly opposed to war and yet "disarmament" gives me a sensation of repugnance.

Shelton has a strong prejudice against secret societies. He never belonged to one; he knows nothing about their rituals or their serious purposes; he could not bring up a single instance, if called upon to do so, which would throw discredit upon one of these organizations or its members, but still he doesn't like 'em he says, and so when his boy went to college Shelton's only piece of advice to his young heir was not to join anything.

Prejudice, I suppose, is pretty largely the result of ignorance. If we knew people and places and organizations and institutions better we would have fewer prejudices. Reading and travel and association with people and things are sure to break down our prejudices and make us more considerate and broader minded. If some one could once get Shelton into a secret society he might be made to see how simple and harmless most of them are.

Fifth Grade: Buddy Porter is a new member of the fifth grade. He was promoted from Mrs. Hager's room.

Last week during the absence of so many we made several posters. We also spent a few days in review.

Friday, we studied the picture, "The Silhouette" and then tried to cut some. Some of us did real well. We mounted the picture on white paper.

We have a Health Wall in our room on the blackboard. It is a contest to help us remember to clean our teeth at least twice a day, night and morning. Each row having a perfect record may color a brick in the wall.

The Sixth grade is working for good health. Ruth Holt is the health officer and there are eight captains whose business it is to inspect the children of the room for cleanliness of body, clothing and desks. We are careful about our food, fresh air, exercise and our lighting.

Thelma Looze and Alfred Kaley returned to school, Monday. We will be glad when everyone is back.

Ruth Sturgill is pianist this week. Anna Reich and Hilda Jackson are the Monitors.

The "A" class in arithmetic are studying checks and receipts this week.

Colen Somerville, Neal Mackey and Earl Moore had 100 in an arithmetic test Monday morning.

Jacklyn-Cook, Katherine MacDonald, Ruth Holt, Hilda Jackson and Clarabelle Strong had 100 in spelling last week.

For nature study we are learning about the birds which live in northern Michigan all winter, and those which come here for a short time every winter.

"NOAH" PREPARES FOR 1932 FLOOD

Pacific Coast Man Sure Sea Will Engulf Us.

Olympia, Wash.—A dry land Noah is continuing preparations for his personal escape in an ark when the Pacific coast feels the wrath of the Lord and sinks into the Pacific ocean.

There is no question in the mind of William Lound Greenwood, sixty, but that folks along the Pacific slope are going to get a surprise some fine day after the year 1932.

Mount Hope, in British Columbia, will sink into the Fraser river, according to the grizzled "Captain Billy" Greenwood, who never skipped a boat in his life. The coast line will disappear. Victoria, Seattle, and all cities as far south as San Francisco will be swallowed up by huge waves. There will be a second inundation, and then California will get what's coming. In the north the ocean will be halted by the Cascade mountains, but in the south the land will sink as far back as the Rockies.

Panic and death will be everywhere, but "Captain Billy" will calmly knock off work in the sawmill where he is employed, board the "Ark Second" and sail to safety in a craft that sailormen say couldn't float in a calm lake.

Greenwood told all about it, in the astonishing cabin of his astonishing craft.

Eight years ago he started the ark. It will be completed by 1932, when he expects first forerunners of destruction of the Pacific coast to start.

Unlike Noah, "Captain Billy" will take no animals along, aside from his two dogs.

His craft is the despair of seagoing gobs, but Captain Greenwood isn't worried. "Noah was no seafaring man himself, Greenwood pointed out.

Silver By-Product of Other Ores, Bureau Says

Washington.—More than half the world's production of silver is derived from ores valued chiefly for other metals, according to a study just completed by the bureau of mines, Department of Commerce.

The work was undertaken after the recent decline in silver prices to a new low level had provoked inquiry as to the extent to which the white metal is a by-product of the other ores, tending to maintain its production in spite of low prices.

The bureau held that since only one-third the world's silver production is from ores that derive more than 70 per cent of their value from silver, price is of less weight in inducing production than in the case of other metals associated with it. Many mines depending upon ores worth less than $10 a ton, of which silver at 60 cents an ounce makes up more than half the value, probably earn little if any profit at present prices, the bureau said, and production curtailment is likely.

Mexico, producing more than 90 per cent of the world's silver derived from such ore, will be the most seriously affected by a further decline.

A: "You'd believe anything a fool told you?"

B: "Not always; but sometimes you are quite convincing."

Marge: "So your brother tried to get a government job. What's he doing now?"

Ed: "Nothing. He got the job."

He: "You'll change your mind when you look over your birthday gifts."

Variation in Rainfall

The largest annual rainfall of record was 2.05 inches in Assam, India, and the smallest .08 of an inch in the West African coast. Variations in rainfall are caused by the height of a given area above the ocean, distance from the ocean, whether the land is barren or wooded, and other less important factors.

A girl isn't necessarily losing her chemise when she gives a fellow the slip.

Twenty years ago liquor went straight to a girl's head. Now it goes straight to her daughter's mouth.

One thing must be said in favor of Prohibition: it has helped many a college graduate to get a head over-night.

"Jack said he'd kiss me or die in the attempt."

"Gracious! And did you let him?"

"Well, you haven't seen any funeral notices, have you?"

Miss Thirty-Odds: "Oh, Mr. Blunt, this is so sudden."

Mr. Blunt: "I know, but I thought you could stand surprise better than suspense."

KITT'S DRUG STORE

In the modern home nearly everything is operated by switches except the children.

Who? What? When? Where? Why?

The first rule a newspaper reporter learns is to answer five basic questions in the lead of his story: Who? What? When? Where? Why? It is a rule equally good for all people in buying goods. In the answers to those five questions lie the fundamental facts you should know about every article you purchase.

Who made it? Is he reliable? Is he experienced? Will he be in business if the article needs repair or replacement?

What will the article do for you? Will it improve your appearance? Will it save you time, money, effort? Will it make you more comfortable, more happy?

When was it made? Designed? Packed? Is it fresh? Is it the newest model, or latest development?

Where can you buy it? Does your own store carry it? If not, can you place dependence in the store that does?

Why should you buy it in preference to some similar product? Is it superior in design, materials, workmanship? Will it fit your needs more closely?

The answer to these questions, and others, are contained in the advertisements here. They are set forth by manufacturers and merchants for your convenience and guidance. The advertisements are interestingly and sincerely written. They contain information you want to know, and should know, before you make purchases. You will find it well worth while to follow them.

When you buy advertised goods, you know what you are buying—and why.
