EASTER AT THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

The Presbyterian Church services Easter morning and evening will center around the Resurrection of Jesus Christ. The sermon theme of the morning service at 10 o'clock will be "The Greatest Truth in the World." There will be the following special music:
Organ Prelude—"Meditation."
Anthem—"Open the Gates of the Temple," by Ladies' Chorus.
Anthem—"King of Kings," by Mixed Chorus.
Organ Offertory—"Cantilene."
Organ Postlude—"Triumphale."
At six o'clock p. m., there will be an Easter program under the auspices of the Sunday School. This program will consist of Bible passages that tell of the Creation, the Fall, the Effect of Sin, the Atonement for Sin, the Death and Burial of Jesus, and the Resurrection. The music will consist of solos, duets, quartets, and congregational singing. This will be a program out of the ordinary and will be devotional and inspirational.

Detroit—Carl Watson, 21, is held for counterfeiting 1931 automobile license plates. He was arrested when a neighbor told police he had seen old plates painted to resemble new ones nailed to the outside of Watson's garage. Watson admitted changing the plates and said he had read of the ruse in newspapers.

Jackson—The space occupied by the school at the New Michigan State Prison will soon be expanded 75 per cent to permit instruction through the eighth grade. It has been announced by Warden Harry H. Jackson. The school has an enrollment of 1,400 students in classes as high as the sixth grade and there are 400 inmates taking advanced courses, according to the warden.

Birmingham—Three Birmingham boys abandoned their back yard rifle range after they had hit two children while shooting at tin cans. Ariel Boughner, 12, narrowly escaped losing the sight of one eye when a shot struck her. Earlier in the same day a shot struck Gordon Robinson, 10, in the leg. The boys shooting were Charles Smith, 13; Donald Helfertick, 12, and Wilbur Shlieske, 13.

Flint—Joseph Shears, has filed suit for $25,000 against owners of the house in which he lives, and proprietors of an exterminating company, alleging that fumigation of the house last month paralyzed his brain. Injured his heart, impaired his sight and made it difficult for him to remember. He said he became unconscious when he entered the house where the defendants had placed pots and kettles containing exterminating compound, and has not recovered from the shock.

Saginaw—Herbert Schorn and his bride, spent their honeymoon in the Saginaw County Contagion Hospital, waiting for treatment to clear their throats of diphtheria germs. Schorn quarantined because germs were found in his throat, broke quarantine, and eloped with his landlady's daughter. When they returned to Saginaw, Schorn was placed in the contagion hospital, only to escape. He consented to return when authorities said his bride would have to go too.

Detroit—During the first 20 days of the annual enrollment period for the Citizens Military Training Camps in Michigan there were 829 applications, more than half the quota of 1,600 for the State. Phelps Newberry, civilian aide to the Secretary of War, has announced. He said responses had never before been so heavy. Gogebic, Delta, Cheboygan, Grand Traverse, Kalkaska, Wexford, Missaukee, Osceola, St. Joseph, Branch and Monroe counties have already passed their quota.

Too much make-up is a sign of unrefinement. In fact, it leaves a bad taste in one's mouth.

FARMERS, DON'T BUY CHEAP SEED

The Michigan State College Farm Crops Department has examined and tested quite a number of lots of "bargain" seed and forage crop seed mixtures, submitted by Michigan farmers, and purchased from out-of-State mail order seed firms. Not one lot was found fit for planting, states Professor Howard Rather of the Farm Crops Department. Some "bargains" contained as much as 5,000 weed seeds per pound; thereby making it possible to introduce from 50,000 to 100,000 seeds per acre. Such seeds as mustard, thistles, and catchfly were predominating. Not only that, but as high as 36% was found to be dead seed.

Here's one typical example: A $9.60 alfalfa "bargain." An alfalfa offering was stated as a big value at a low price, a star bargain of the first magnitude, a substantial quality all for $9.60. Let's see what the case really was. The tag claimed 97.5% alfalfa, 1.5% inert matter, usually dirt, 1% weeds and 90% germination. Upon examination 36% of the seed was shriveled and brown, worthless for planting, the germination was 51%, that 12% of the seed was hard, leaving 36% dead seed. Not only that but over 5,000 weed seeds of ten different species was found. At $9.60 per bushel, plus postage, the cost of the sound alfalfa seed in this bargain was around $20 per bushel or $2.00 higher than high quality, northern grown alfalfa can be bought. Where in the devil is the bargain?

We all appreciate that money is scarce, but for land sakes don't buy seeds that are unfit to use and then kick about all the impurities that adorn your field and about the poor stand. Buy seeds that are handled by reliable dealers, that have a tag showing all the information and your money will be profitably spent.

TREATED SEED HELPS SMALL GRAIN YIELDS

The number of bushels of oats and barley grown per acre and the consequent profits from these crops can be materially increased in Michigan by the treatment of the seed to prevent oat and barley smut and stripe, blotch, and scab of barley.
The treatments recommended for these seed borne diseases by the plant pathologists at Michigan State College are comparatively cheap and are effective when the directions are carefully followed. The treatments should be given just before the grain is to be planted.

Either of two methods may be used for treating seed for smut. Formaldehyde is used with each method. With the sprinkling method, one pint of formaldehyde is added to 30 gallons of water, the oats are thoroughly sprinkled, and are covered for from two to eight hours. One pint of formaldehyde is added to five pints of water for the spraying method of treatment, the oats are sprayed while being shoveled from one pile to another, and they are then covered for five hours. One pint of the chemical will treat 60 bushels of seed with the last method.

If planting is delayed, the treated seed should be put in a layer three or four inches deep and should be raked over three times each day.

Stripe, blotch, and scab of barley can be controlled by the use of organic mercury dusts such as Ceresan. This is applied in a tight container which can be rotated. The dust is used at the rate of three ounces to a bushel of seed. The dust is poisonous and treated barley can not be used for feed.

BARNEY OLDFIELD JOINS RADIO STARS

Barney Oldfield and Sousa and his band will be the entertainment stars on a special hour program with which Standard Oil of Indiana will undertake to attract a big radio audience at 9 p. m., Central Time, Thursday, April 9. Between musical numbers furnished by Sousa's Band, Oldfield will tell of the high spots in his career as an automobile race driver.

Pat Flanagan—the announcer, Oldfield, and T. E. Allen, secretary of the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association, will all talk from the Indianapolis Speedway as thirteen motor cars complete there a test run which has been going on since March 17. Mr. Allen is to tell how the test was conducted and what it accomplished. The broadcast will be carried by WMAQ, Chicago; WXYZ, Detroit; WOWO, Fort Wayne; KOIL, Omaha; KJZ, Denver; KMBG, Kansas City; KMOX, St. Louis; WECM, Bay City; WFEM, Indianapolis; WCCO, Minneapolis; WISN, Milwaukee; KSCJ, Sioux City; KFH, Wichita, and WMT, Waterloo.

"Enough alfalfa for all the livestock on my farm" would be a good slogan for any farmer to adopt. How many farmers fail to raise sufficient high quality alfalfa to care for their own needs? A well drained, sweet, fertile soil is absolutely necessary for best results with alfalfa. We speak about a surplus of wheat and some other crops, but who ever said we had a surplus of fine, leafy legume roughage?

R. E. Decker, Extension Specialist in Farm Crops from the Michigan State College, will be in charge of these meetings. This is no longer a theory, but actual results indicate how best to prepare soil for alfalfa, how to fertilize, how to handle the crop from beginning to end.

Attend your nearest meeting and let's discuss these most important subjects. Bring your problems with you.

MASONS WIN CHAMPIONSHIP

To the victors belong the spoils, all hail the conquering Masons, who in a ball game, so hectic, and so full of thrills, downed the Iron Works, by a margin of one score.

The last inning was blazed, indelibly in the minds of all who witnessed it, for in this inning fortune smiled on the Masons, yea even laughed, and enabled them with two men down and trailing by four runs, to finally win by a score of 16-17.

The Iron Men played well, but the bludgeonings of chance were too much for their skill and they finally succumbed, ending the closest and most successful season of indoor ball we have ever held in East Jordan.

League	Standings	Won	Lost	Percent.
Masons		6	4	600
Iron Works		5	5	500
Athletics		4	5	444
Am. Legion		4	5	444

CHARLEVOIX INDOOR TEAM DROPS TWO CONTESTS

Defeated in Close Games With East Jordan—Initial Showing Good.

Charlevoix's Indoor Baseball team, playing in their first competition during the past week, dropped two close decisions to the fast and more experienced East Jordan aggregation.

A contest played in the Charlevoix Gym last Thursday evening was a nip-and-tuck affair throughout. The local battery of Fitzpatrick and Powers held the Jordanites well, but their superior fielding and heavy-clouting finally pulled them through to a 26 to 24 victory.

In a return game Monday evening at East Jordan, Charlevoix lost 25 to 19, after leading up until the late innings. "Bill" Zerbis pitched all but the last inning for Charlevoix and did good work.

Inasmuch as Charlevoix's team might be termed as a pick-up bunch with practically no previous practice, their performance was even more than anticipated. With a little more experience, the local boys should make it tough going for any team in this region.—Charlevoix Courier.

MICHIGAN BELL TELEPHONE CO.

Anne Campbell,

well-known and beloved Michigan poetess, has caught the romance so often associated with the telephone and has expressed it charmingly in the following lines, reprinted by special permission of the author and of The Detroit News, which published the poem November 13, 1930. (Copyright, 1930):

Long Distance Telephone

Over the lonesome miles, your voice meets mine in space,
And in a few short sentences you say
Enough to pull the sun out from his hiding place
And turn my nighttime into glorious day.
In days gone by beneath the window of his love,
The troubadour sang goldenly and long,
His chosen lady listened from her room above,
And drifted off in slumber to his song.
Now in a few crisp phrases flung across the wire
You tell me all that warbler could impart.
The telephone has grown to be the modern lyre
From which the lover sends his singing heart.

Wealth has wings but it doesn't have any tail that you can put salt on. Love thy neighbor as thyself, but don't let your wife catch on. One nice thing about playing a typewriter is you don't have to keep time.

One type of wife expects things of her husband. Another type suspects things. The fellow who finds it hard putting anything over on his wife might try smothering her with a gunny sack.

Roman Pottery Kiln

Found on Isle of Wight
Newton, Isle of Wight.—Accidental discovery of a Roman pottery kiln near here has aroused widespread interest and speculation as to whether the Romans made this island the headquarters for the extensive manufacture and distribution of pottery during their occupation. Excavations are under way to substantiate this theory. Some crude imitations of Samian ware and some pieces of clay from Osborn were found in the kiln, indicating the Romans obtained at the pit the clay they used for the yellowed pottery found often in the island.

Bride Still Has "Carfare Dime"

Boston.—Twenty-five years ago, just after their marriage, Fred Darling handed his bride a shiny ten cent piece, saying: "If you ever want to leave me you can use this for carfare." The same dime, somewhat worn with age, was exhibited recently when the Darlings celebrated their silver wedding anniversary.

Lansing—A bill which would establish an eight-hour day in the mining and quarrying industries was introduced by Rep. James F. Jewell, of Hubbell. Employers of men working in mines, mills and quarries would have to pay them time and a half for work in excess of eight hours, except in cases of emergency when life and property was in danger. The penalty for violation of the law would be a fine of from $50 to $500, each day's violation being considered a separate offense.

It is understood some of the complaints were directed against the political comments of Jerry Buckley before he was slain by gunmen.

AVERAGE COST OF RENO DIVORCE, $350

Sharp Bargaining May Get It for Less.

Reno, Nev.—The average cost of a Reno divorce is about $350, although it is possible, with some sharp bargaining, to obtain a decree for less.

The minimum fee for an attorney in an uncontested action is fixed by the Nevada Bar association at $250, but the actual fee ranges from $50 up. The fees probably average $250 for the plaintiff, to which is added about $25 for an attorney for the defendant. If there is trouble with the defendant and he refuses to sign a power of attorney or decides to contest the suit, the costs mount.

Probably the average New Yorker of moderate means spends about $1,000 for a Reno divorce, including railroad fare, living expenses for three months and attorney's fees. However, it is possible for a person to travel from New York to Reno and return with a decree in hand at a cost of as low as $600.

No attorney will advise a person from New York to come to Reno without a "power of attorney" from the prospective defendant in the case if it is at all possible to procure one. Such divorces, granted by default when the defendant is not represented in court here, are unrecognized in New York state.

The cost of having an attorney in court to represent the defendant, making the divorce decree legal anywhere, ranges from $10 to $200.

It is necessary to remain in Reno for three months before the divorce action can be filed, but the divorce will be granted immediately if the applicant has that most valuable power of attorney.

Otherwise the defendant must be served personally with a copy of the complaint, or by application, and then 40 days must elapse before the divorce is granted. One does not, however, have to remain in Reno or Nevada during that 40-day wait, but must be here for the hearing.

Finds Auto Horns Are Many Times Too Loud

Montreal.—Life is too loud these days, and this unnecessary clamor is not conducive to good health or good hearing. Prof. H. E. Reilly of the physics department of McGill university told the Kiwanis club recently.

Enemies of noise have collected some interesting data in a recent survey and have come to the following conclusions, he said:

1. That a policeman blows his whistle 10,000,000 times louder than necessary.
2. That the blast of a steamboat siren is 100,000,000 times louder than necessary.
3. That an automobile horn is sounded 50,000,000 times louder than is necessary, and on a clear day can be heard ten miles away.
4. That dogs bark too loudly.
5. That boys shout too loudly.
6. That the milkman, the groceryman, the baker, and the butcher's boy all ring the doorbell too long.

Oklahoma Indian Voter Gets His Zoology Mixed

Sapula, Okla.—A Creek county Indian, whose name election officials refused to disclose, depends on zoology for his political preferences.

A Republican canvasser at the poll told the Indian that he would see a rooster and an eagle on the ballot.

"Put a cross in the circle under the eagle," the Republican friend advised. When the Indian left the booth his friend accosted him.

"Did you vote under the eagle?" "No see eagle," the Indian answered. "Saw buzzard and chicken. No like buzzard; I mark under chicken."

Aged Man Wants His Pet Canine Buried With Him

Detroit.—Robert O. Oesterreich, who is eighty and who doesn't expect to live much longer, fears his pet and only companion, Jeanie, an aged Pomeranian, will not be cared for after his death, so he has asked the Humane society to kill the dog mercifully and bury it with him.

If Oesterreich could make provision for the dog's welfare after his death it might be different, but he now receives $3 a week from the welfare board for his own sustenance. He has nothing more.

Royal Ring Lost in 1869 Found by German Farmer

Berlin.—A Buedingen farmer, tilling his soil recently, found an old ring inscribed "Napoleon III—Empereur. 1861." The treasure was taken to the burgo-master and investigation revealed that the ring had belonged to Louis III, grand duke of Hesse, who received it as a present from Napoleon in 1861. He lost it when out hunting in 1869.

Fur Spats for Men Is Fashion in Germany

Berlin.—Berlin is setting a fast pace for European fashion lately, and the latest fad to appear on the streets here is a fur-trimmed spat. Fur of a color to match the hue of the spats themselves boldly flaunts itself to the public from underneath the trouser cuffs of well-dressed gentlemen. The style is widespread in Germany; it is said.

LIGHTS of NEW YORK

An admirer gave Dr. Frederick W. Hodge of the Museum of the American Indian a bottle of Chinese rose wine. In a scientific spirit of investigation, Doctor Hodge poured a little of it in a glass and drank it. After he had dashed a pail of water down his throat, and the fire was under control, he looked at the label to see if he had happened to take sulphuric acid by mistake. Beside the label was pasted a set of directions in English. The directions read:

"To drink, put one spoonful in glass of water," below that was another paragraph beginning:

"For external use—"

I recently had the pleasure of talking with Vernon d'Arnaile and learned about singers from him. I never knew before, for example, that Jenny Lind is said to have had a voice that was none too good in the middle register, but which had higher notes that were as sweet and clear as bells; that Mario had a beautiful, but rather small tenor voice; that Adelina Patti still retained at the age of seventy some of the wonderful notes that made her famous and that at fifteen was the greatest singer in the world; and all sorts of things concerning modern singers. It always is interesting to talk with some one who knows his subject and it was all the more interesting to talk to Mr. d'Arnaile, because he was singing in opera in Italy in the days when I was loafing over there.

A young woman, born and bred in New York, visited some friends who have a farm. Her chief delight was finding the nests of hens which wandered from the boxes provided for them and laid eggs in outlying places. She tracked a couple to the barn and was triumphant concerning her sleuthing. One day her host declared that he had heard a hen cackling out in the woods and said he believed it had a nest there. This was enough for the city girl. She demanded the direction and all available information. Indus-trially searching the woods in question, she came upon a nest in which were piled four dozen eggs. This was by far the biggest find of the season, and she took somewhat more credit than Christopher Columbus, who only made an egg stand on end. It was some time before the visitor learned enough concerning hens to realize that they do not pile up their eggs and that the nest was a plant.

The cows also engaged the city girl's attention. They were gentle animals, but she so alarmed one of them, by trying to tie an old sheet around it, in a humane effort to shield it from the flies, that it almost had to be lassoed at milking time.

As every one knows, Eddie Rickenbacker was, before the war, in the automobile racing game. He went to France as the driver of General Pershing's car. John N. Wheeler asked him how he happened to take the job.

"I went in as General Pershing's driver," replied Rickenbacker, "because I wanted to be transferred to the air service and thought this was the quickest means to accomplish it, but when I asked for the transfer, the general didn't seem to favor the idea."

"How did you finally get the transfer?" asked Wheeler.

"Well," said Rickenbacker, "I gave General Pershing a couple of rides that convinced him that where I belonged was in an airplane."

This is a dog story, which my informant swears is true. A couple living in Merion, Pa., bought a dog, but couldn't keep it at home. The animal would disappear regularly every morning and just as surely return sometime after noon. The couple got tired of this and finally sent the dog to a kennel, where they thought it might be broken of the habit of running away. One day a conductor and a brakeman came to the house.

"Did that dog of yours get killed?" they inquired. The family explained what had happened.

"Well," said the trainmen, "that dog used to come to the station every morning and sneak aboard the 9:30 for Philadelphia. Finally, it got so we knew him, let him ride and petted him. When we got to the city, the dog always would disappear for an hour, but never failed to show up in time to catch us when we came back at 11:30. We missed him, wondered what had happened to him, and found he belonged to you. So we just came to ask if the dog had been run over or anything."

New Idea in Baby Culture

Omaha.—The latest wrinkle in baby culture, according to Mrs. Ted Savicky, is for the mother to eat a handful of walnuts each day for several weeks before the baby is born. This is to insure the baby good teeth. Ronald Lee, sixteen-day-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Savicky, bears out her theory. He cut his upper right molar ten days after birth.

Fish Provide Jobs

Wareham, Mass.—Wareham, one of the biggest scallop producing points along the New England coast, helped solve the local unemployment problem during recent months by granting a bounty of $1 a bushel on star fish, which prey on scallops.

"Miss Curly," said the office manager apologetically to his stenographer one morning, "I would suggest that you do not write letters to your young man during office hours. Smith & Jones report that we sent them a shipment of love and kisses instead of the tar and axle grease they ordered."

OLDEST FORD DRIVER

J. M. Crow, 89, of Ethel, Miss., the oldest Ford driver in Mississippi, traversed the historic old Natchez Trace in a covered wagon eighty-seven years ago.

AS rugged today at 89 as the age in American history he so picturesquely typifies, J. M. Crow of Ethel, Miss., is the oldest Ford driver in Mississippi and one of the oldest in the United States.

When as a babe of two years he rode with his parents in one of a train of 30 covered wagons out of Cobb county, Georgia, into Mississippi, the old Natchez Trace followed by the brave little band was still infested by the swashbuckling ruffians whose bloody outrages gave that era its place in this country's history as "the outlaw era."

One of his vivid memories is hearing, as a boy of six, the news of General Scott's victorious assault on the heights of Chapultepec which ended the Mexican War in 1847, and his proudest memory is of honorable service as a Confederate soldier during the Civil War. When the southern cause collapsed, Crow was compelled to trudge 400 miles on foot to the old homestead at Ethel where he settled down to reap a family.

In the intervening years he has seen the lumbering stagecoach give way to the fleet automobile and the comfortable motorbus, the soggy gumbo and rough corduroy roads of his childhood to the wide, paved roads of today, and although he was long past middle age before the modern automobile became commonplace he is as enthusiastic a driver as youngsters who can boast less than one-quarter of his years.

Five generations of Crow's family are frequently seen together in his Model A Ford, the second of its type Crow has owned and driven.

THRICE SENTENCED TO DEATH BY RUSS

Texan Tells of Experiences in Russia.

New York.—"We're very sorry but we'll have to take you out and shoot you." Three times during his three years in 22 Russian prisons Julius Chevalier, native Texan and former British soldier, heard this doom. Yet he lived to tell a tale of the tragedies and absurdities and grim politeness of the system in an address recently before the Brooklyn council, Boy Scouts of America.

"Russians may be divided into three classes: Those in prison, those who have been in prison and the dwindling few who are on their way," said Chevalier. He explained that the police, working on the theory that the authorities expect a convict for every crime, "round up any number of innocent people and offer them their choice of crimes—and evidence to take their pick of or go into the exile of the prison camp."

Prefer to Plead Guilty.

Knowing the terror of the camp, they choose to plead guilty, Chevalier explained, and take a sentence of usually ten years.

"But a ten-year sentence in Russia is not as bad as it sounds," he said. "Amnesty for holidays reduces it to about two and a half years. After half of this term has been served the prisoner may go home for week-ends, and after two-thirds, he may be paroled. Long waits for trial reduce it further. I know of one prisoner who waited ten months before receiving a ten-year sentence and was then released with an apology for keeping him waiting so long."

Chevalier's fate lay in the irony that his best man gave him away twice. In Russia, he explained, the wedding ritual demands that the best man give the groom over to the bride. The best man who delivered him to his bride later delivered him to the police. "Under present conditions, one doesn't know a friend there. A mother may be forced to turn against her son, and there is mistrust everywhere," he said.

Jailed for "Staging Party."

Eight hours before he was scheduled to leave the Caucasus because his property was confiscated and he feared an imminent revolt, Chevalier was jailed "for staging a farewell party without permission, but obviously for abetting the revolution," he declared. Here he received and outlived his first death sentence and waived opportunities to escape, feeling secure as an American citizen.

Taken to the execution ground, with apologies, three times, Chevalier saw hundreds shot. But as the others were hog-tied and bundled into the truck and he was permitted to sit with the driver, he had no fear. He was sentenced to ten years at Kem, where he organized a power plant and sufficiently distinguished himself to win freedom early last year. Meanwhile his wife had died in a camp at Constantinople.

Stark tragedy was in his story, under the humor of Russia's penal absurdities. He was assigned to register the prisoners as they entered the camp in the Caucasus. "Many were shot before they could report to give their names. They were shooting them downstairs and examining into their gutt upstairs a few days later."

Among the manufacturers listed are two noodlemakers, five producers of insect powder, two makers of sausage casings, three snuff manufacturers.

The directory lists 318 John Smiths, 89 Mary Smiths, 164 John Johnsons, 57 Mary Johnsons, 184 William Joneses, and 41 Mary Joneses.

One Herbert Hoover, an engineer, appears, one Richard Roe, and 80 Frank Murphys, including the mayor.

Italian Parliament Cheap for Citizens

Paris.—Italians pay less for the daily upkeep of their parliament than any other European country, according to a comparison of parliamentary expenses.

It is estimated for each 1,000 citizens the daily cost of the Italian parliament in ten centuries, or approximately two-fifths of 1 cent. Other European parliaments average more than 1 franc per thousand inhabitants.

More Than Million in Twenty States Fed by Red Cross Volunteers.

Hot School Lunches and Balanced Rations Given to Drought Victims—Seed Programs Instituted on Wide Scale

More than 1,000,000 persons in 622 drought-stricken counties of 20 States came under the care of the American Red Cross in what developed into the most extensive relief operations in half a century of ministering to stricken humanity.

Measures to lessen the severity of the blow inflicted by drought were taken as early as last September, when seed was distributed to more than 58,000 families for the planting of rye and other pastures, and to more than 27,000 families for the planting of kitchen gardens. The expenditure for this purpose amounted to $326,800. Green vegetables were made available up to the first of January.

Early in February another Red Cross garden program got under way and 507,000 packages of seed were distributed in 15 states. Quarter-acre plots were planted to beans, beets, cabbage, carrots, collard, sweet corn, kale, lettuce, mustard, okra, onions, peas, spinach, squash, tomatoes and turnips. Once again were farm families given the opportunity to participate in their own salvation.

A comparatively mild winter contributed to the success of the Spring and Fall seed campaigns. Many habitual single-croppers were introduced to the advantages of kitchen gardens, balanced cropping and balanced diet. Numerous land-owners have expressed the opinion that this constitutes the one apparent blessing to come out of the drought catastrophe. The United States Department of Agriculture and the local county agricultural agents and home demonstration agents cooperated in making this part of the relief operations, outstandingly successful.

Balanced Meals Served

Red Cross feeding was aimed at adequacy and scientific correctness, as well as simple economy. In large numbers of schools, where children were found to be attending with little or nothing in their lunch boxes, hot meals were served at noon. A typical menu consisted of vegetable soup and bread one day; thick beef soup or stew with vegetables another day; cocoa or milk and cheese, peanut butter, or jam sandwiches, a third day.

In some places where lunches were not served in the schools, but were provided for in the regular food orders, each family having school children received extra staples for school lunches including peanut butter, raisins, prunes and tomatoes. Red Cross nutritionists instructed mothers in the preparation of lunches.

County health officers and private physicians commended the adequacy of rations procured on orders issued by Red Cross chapters, which were filled at local stores. Besides the usual staples, such as corn meal, flour, lard, meat, beans and potatoes, such items as canned salmon, cabbage, tomatoes, vegetables and milk were provided. Each order being adapted to the special needs of the family for whom it was issued. Where pellagra threatened, eggs, yeast and other preventives were given.

Thousands of Volunteer Workers

Many thousands of volunteers, through their local Red Cross chapters, gave freely of their time, experience and efforts, as in other Red Cross disaster operations. They searched out needy cases in their communities, many persons being restrained from asking assistance because of pride. Chapter committees investigated circumstances, distributed food and clothing.

More than 500 carloads of foodstuffs were contributed. These were given free haulage by railroads. Farmers of more fortunate sections embraced the opportunity to help their pastoral cousins of the affected area. Shipments ranged from live poultry to fish, from grain to grapefruit. Carloads of flour, eggs, beans, vegetables, onions, rice, corn and mixed vegetables were included.

As the result of co-ordinated Red Cross chapter efficiency, not one authenticated case of starvation as a result of drought has been uncovered.

Large quantities of new and used clothing were distributed. In direct consequence many school children resumed their studies who had been kept at home for lack of sufficient protection from the elements. In some instances, rural schools that had been closed were enabled to reopen as a result of Red Cross relief work.

States involved were: Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, Missouri, Montana, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia, West Virginia.

Many of these States had been hard hit by a succession of floods, crop failures, low prices and economic depression, and drought constituted a climax to the cycle of distress.

"Wherever I went," wrote one observer, "I made a point of asking what would have happened if the Red Cross had not been able to respond. In widely scattered points, from leading citizens, came the answer that undoubtedly there would have been many deaths directly from starvation, with epidemics preying upon the undernourished."

Soy Bean Hay Equal in Feed Value to Alfalfa

At the Indiana station soy bean hay proved to be about 9 per cent inferior to alfalfa. At the South Dakota station results from a similar test indicated soy bean hay to be 6 per cent better than alfalfa for dairy cows. At the West Virginia station soy bean hay proved to be slightly superior to alfalfa for milk production, and at the Tennessee station it was quite a bit superior. At the Wisconsin station, in one case, milk production was slightly larger when alfalfa was fed as compared with soy bean hay. The weights of the cows were also slightly better maintained on the former than on the latter. In another test at the same station the two hays were practically equal in feeding value, but more of the soy bean hay was wasted by the cows than of the alfalfa.

Thus we see that on the whole soy bean hay, when well cured and cut at the right time, is practically equal in feeding value to good alfalfa.

Intensive Campaign to Control Oriental Moth

Growers in the section in which the oriental fruit moth is already present are preparing to wage an intensive campaign to control this pest during the coming season.

As the opening gun in battle the growers will give their orchards a deep thorough cultivation. This kills those that pass the winter in the soil. This is quite a per cent of the total number that live over.

The other methods of control which are suggested by those who have worked on this insect will be used later in the season. It will be a hard battle but unless the grower wins, this year's crop in these sections seriously infected will be worth almost nothing.

Beekeeping Best as One-Man Task

Average Keeper Will Make Most Profit With 400 Colonies.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)—WNU Service.

The average beekeeper will make the most profit if he limits his business to 400 colonies, the number he can care for single-handed, the United States Department of Agriculture says. He may be a first-rate bee handler, but the temperament of a good beekeeper generally is not the temperament for managing employees efficiently.

What One Man Can Do.

One man can do practically all of the work required for 350 or 400 colonies, even during rush seasons, the department learned by studying for three years the records of beekeepers in widely separated regions of the country. With an apiary of this size, however, he will need some additional means of income. Beekeeping is at its best, generally, as a supplement to farming. One man in New York state, who farms 100 acres and cares for 70 colonies of bees learned from experience that a 70-colony apiary is equivalent to about 40 acres of land in both income and labor.

One beekeeper, who spends little time in his apiary and is an inefficient employer of labor, had a labor cost of more than $6 per colony. He lost 58 cents a colony one year, and $1.75 a colony the next year. But not all good beekeepers are poor managers. One who owns 1,800 colonies reported a yield of about 250 pounds of extracted honey from each colony and a total income of $23,887 in 1928, or a net income of $11.76 for each hour he worked with the bees. He hires labor and knows how to use it. Other beekeepers have reported returns of $2.40 to $5.50 an hour for their time in the apiary.

Practices Studied.

The department has studied beekeeping practices in Colorado, Wyoming, Utah, Idaho, Montana, Iowa, New York, Michigan, Ohio and Minnesota. During the next few years the department will complete its nation-wide survey by studying beekeeping on the Pacific coast, on the Dakota plains, in Texas, and in the South.

Scientific High Points in Plowing for Crops

(By DR. M. C. SEWELL, Associate Professor of Soils, Kansas State Agricultural College.)

The largest item of expense in producing cereal and annual forage crops is tillage.

The most important tillage operations are plowing and cultivating. Reduction in depth or frequency of plowing, or number of cultivations necessary for economic yields, materially reduces the cost of raising the crop.

Plowing deeper than six inches for cereals or row crops—excepting root crops—is never warranted.

Timeliness—early plowing—is the important factor in wheat tillage—July-plowed ground produced eight bushels to the acre more than September-plowed ground.

Nitrogen conservation is the thing for which the farmer plows, not moisture conservation.

The dust mulch is no longer considered a useful practice. Cultivation sufficient to keep down weeds is all that is necessary—additional plowing is wasted.

Efficient tools, especially power equipment, is of utmost value in tillage in the light of discoveries as to the value of timeliness in plowing.

And another thing, telling the truth always will save wear and tear on your memory.

"A week after their wedding they were throwing crockery at each other," said a landlady in court recently. It is not every couple that settles down to married life so quickly.

Here's Why We Recommend Wolverine Shell Horsehides!

They Stay Soft... and Outwear Ordinary Work Shoes

YOU'VE probably seen the advertisements of these famous Wolverine Shell Horsehide Work Shoes in your farm paper. Everything the Wolverine people say about them is absolute fact. They do wear longer and give greater comfort. One customer after another tells us so.

The picture above explains why Wolverine uses only the one-sixth of a horse's hide around the hips that contain a shell. And in resistance to wear, it compares with ordinary hide as your finger nail compares with your skin.

You'll also find that Wolverine Shell Horsehides dry soft after soaking. They always look neat and trim because the tops are scuff-proof, the seams don't rip, and acid rolls off them like water off a duck's back.

From ankle-length to knee-high, you'll find your favorite style in Wolverines. They cost no more than ordinary good work shoes. Come in and try a pair today.

Last Thursday night was the final night of smelt fishing on the Boyne river. Many people were there to see the sport as well as to enter into it. The crowd was small as compared to previous nights and the catches were hardly satisfying. Residents of Boyne City were wondering whether or not they will have a run again next year as very few of the fish have gone up the stream as far as the dam where they spawned and then returned to the lake. This year, however, wardens report that they have found no large run farther up the stream and many people express their doubts as to whether or not the fish will return to amuse the crowds next year.—Petoskey News.

TEN PRECEPTS TO RULE DAIRYMAN

Colorado Expert Tells How to Produce Best Milk.

Ten commandments for a dairyman, which, if followed religiously, should aid dairymen in producing milk that is always clean, fresh and healthful, have been prepared by John O. Tolliver, secretary for the Colorado Agricultural college, extension service.

Tolliver's long experience as deputy state dairy commissioner and chief inspector for the dairy commissioner, has familiarized him with dairying problems. Here are his ten commandments:

1. Thy cow stable and corrals shall be kept clean at all times and bad odors shall not persist therein, so that the milk inspector shall say to thy neighbors, "Surely, this man is a dairyman."
2. Thy manservant shall be healthy and shall be clean in all respects and his hands shall bear witness concerning his work. Yea, cleanliness is next to godliness.
3. The milk thou sellest shall be cooled at once after it is drawn from the cow.
4. Thou shalt keep thy plant clean in all respects; the ceiling, walls and floor shall bear testimony concerning thy work.
5. Thy product shall be fresh and well flavored. Verily, age is to be respected, but old milk will not be tolerated.
6. Daily thou shalt labor washing and sterilizing thy milk bottles and equipment so that it may be said, truly, this man is worthy of his hire.
7. Use thine own milk bottles and cans lest some man rise up against thee and say, "Thou thief."
8. Pasteurize properly, all milk purchased from other dairymen because thou dost not know what care has been taken in producing it.
9. Thou shalt not sell dirty milk nor milk which has been produced in an unclean place. Dirt shall be kept out of milk not strained out. Yea, verily dirt in milk is an abomination to man kind.
10. Thou shalt not water thy milk but shall sell a good, clean, well-flavored, healthful product which shall cause thy customers to rise up and bless thee.

Locate Dairy Barns on Well Drained Ground

The dairy barns and lots should be located on a well-drained piece of land. Good drainage from the barn and in the lots is very necessary. If possible the building should be located on a hilltop. If this is not possible, then good drainage ditches should be provided so that the lots will drain quickly. The milk barn may be located on the brow of the hill with the open feed sheds and feed lots on the southern slope of the hill. The milk barn should, preferably, be situated north and south, facing east so that all parts of the building will receive the greatest amount of sunlight each day. There should be ample room in this stable to allow 600 cubic feet of air space per cow, or stall, and sufficient light to provide at least four square feet of light space per cow. One of the most serious defects of barns, particularly old barns, is lack of sufficient light. Plenty of light is one of the most essential things about a barn from the standpoint of the health of the animals and sanitation. Sunlight destroys germs, and where there is plenty of light unclean conditions are easily discovered and corrected. A dark barn is usually a dirty barn. The windows should extend almost to the ceiling so the sunlight will reach all parts of the floor if possible.

Cleanliness Safeguard for Newly Born Calves

Cleanliness is the best safeguard that we can give the newly born calf. Up till fall the calves have been arriving on pasture where nature makes things clean. Troubles are seldom encountered under these conditions. But now the calves are arriving in the stable. A clean box stall is the preferable place. It is a good precaution to disinfect the navel immediately, as much trouble enters by this source. Given a good start, the calf should do well on good feed—if the feed pails are kept clean. Dirty feed pails are the abomination of the average stable and the cause of more digestive disorders than all other causes combined. Where the farmer will take the trouble to not only wash but scald the calf pails once daily he will miss a lot of tribulation in calf rearing.

Feed for Calf

A common fault in feeding calves during the first month is to feed too much milk. This is especially true during the first few days. The milk from the dam is not yet fit for human consumption. There is a lot of it. The tendency is to be liberal with the calf to the calf's hurt. The stomach of the little creature is adapted to milk little and often. Overfilling brings on indigestion and scours. The very largest calf should not get over eight pounds of milk daily for the first week.

POTPOURRI

Flies
 There are 40,000 known species of flies. While there are several common traits and resemblances, the most noticeable is that all have but two wings. Gnats, blow flies, mosquitoes, and midges are the most common groups in addition to the "house fly." If one of her offspring were killed, one female house fly would produce 131 quintillion descendants in six months. (© 1931, Western Newspaper Union.)

WHAT A WORLD OF GRIEF IT SAVES YOU

WE KNOW a seed house that proves each season's crop of seeds in their own trial gardens before they offer them to the public. Flowers and vegetables grown from these seeds must measure up to definite standards, or else the entire crops from which the samples were taken are burned.

We know a manufacturer of dry batteries who tested a new product two years before he sold a single battery to a single dealer.

We know a manufacturer of an anti-freeze solution for automobile radiators who spent two years testing his product under all conditions before he said a word in advertising about the merits of his goods.

We know a manufacturer of household pharmaceutical products whose self-imposed standard of purity and efficacy is even higher than that laid down by the United States Pharmacopoeia and the National Formulary.

If we mentioned their names you would recognize them immediately. You probably would say, "I plant those seeds," "I use that battery," "I use that anti-freeze," "My medicine cabinet contains those products."

Those four instances cited are typical of every reliable manufacturer in America. Millions of dollars are spent annually to develop, to improve, to standardize, and to take the guesswork out of merchandise. Other millions of dollars are spent in advertising to tell you about them.

All of which is to say that in putting your trust in advertised merchandise you save yourself the bother, the expense, the disappointment—yes the danger—of experimenting and discovering for yourself which make of soap, breakfast food, radio tubes, lingerie, gasoline, tea, electrical device, stationery—or what-not—give you the most service for your money.

The news columns of this paper keep you informed of the latest international, national and local happenings. The advertisements keep you informed of the newest, most advantageous, most reliable merchandise that America's most progressive makers are producing.
