EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN, FRIDAY, MAY 29, 1931.

NUMBER 22

National Cherry Festival

TO BE HELD AT TRAVERSE CITY JULY 15-16-17.

This year's cherry queen will be the holder of a prouder title than that held by any of her predecessors. By virtue of a concurrent resolution adopted by the State Legislature, the festival has been re-christened. It is now the National Cherry Festival, and the pretty Miss who wins the crown will, of course, be the National Cherry Queen.

Indications at festival headquarters in the Chamber of Commerce, Traverse City, are that the competition for the crown among the communities of Cherryland, will be most spirited. On the day after it received notice that the contest was on, Manistee, which furnished last year's queen, had laid plans for an elaborate competition, in the hope of repeating. Northport, where the Leelanau County Cherry Growers' Institute has charge of the selection, finds that its women's clubs are taking a hand in helping the institute with its task.

Traverse City has always been the scene of a heated contest. Two popular high school students, Anna May York and Maxine Weaver, are among the early entries.

Dr. R. P. Sheets, chairman of the contest committee, has informed all local chairmen that their selections must be made before June 7. The final selection will be made in the Lyric Theatre, Traverse City, on the evening of June 10th. Judges will be selected from outside cities, so that fairness may be assured to all contestants.

Announcement is to be made soon of the tour being arranged for the queen, preceding the festival dates, July 15, 16, and 17. Indications are that Governor Philip F. LaFollette, of Wisconsin, son of the late "Fighting Bob," will be a guest, along with Gov. Wilber M. Brucker, and Mayor Frank Murphy of Detroit.

DIXIE STATION UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT

Gilbert LaClair, Assistant at Station in East Jordan Past Three Years, Received Appointment.

Perhaps of more than passing notice, is the announcement this week from the General Oil Company, distributors in this section of the State, for Dixie products, of the appointment of Gilbert LaClair of East Jordan and formerly of Ellsworth, to the position as Manager of the Dixie Station of Ellsworth.

For the past three years, Mr. LaClair has held the position as assistant under Roy Nowland of East Jordan and has a wide acquaintance in both East Jordan and Ellsworth.

The oil company whose products have a wide distribution throughout Northwestern Michigan, no doubt considered Mr. LaClair's ability and knowledge in the merchandising of their line and acted wisely in the appointment.

The Company contemplates extensive improvements in the near future in the plants both at East Jordan and Ellsworth and we congratulate Mr. LaClair on his new appointment.

One likes to know important people, even if he doesn't care for their company.

JUDGE C. L. BAILEY DIES AFTER YEAR'S ILLNESS

Funeral services were held at Bellaire, Sunday afternoon for Probate Judge, Clayton L. Bailey of Antrim County. Rites were held at the Bailey home under Masonic auspices.

Judge Bailey, who was a prominent Attorney and widely known, died Friday, after a year's illness. His assistant, Mrs. Jessie M. Hunt, has conducted the office, assisted by Judge Fred H. Pratt, who came once a month from Traverse City.

Born in Allegan, Judge Bailey moved to Mancelona in 1888, where for 15 years he was Postmaster and was connected with the legal department of the Pennsylvania railroad. He came to Bellaire from Mancelona and had served as Circuit Court Commissioner as well as Probate Judge. This office he has filled steadily for 10 years and had previously served two terms.

Besides the widow, four sons survive, Leonard and George, who conduct a hardware store in Bellaire; Harry of Rapid City and Leon of San Francisco. There are three grandchildren.

POTATO DEMONSTRATIONS CARRIED ON BY FOUR FARMERS

Of interest to potato growers in the County will be several demonstrations, two of which will indicate the influence of date of planting on yield and quality, and the other two on the benefit of liberal application of commercial fertilizers.

Harry Behling of Boyne City and W. K. Straw of Charlevoix are the two co-operators in ascertaining the influence of date of planting. These two demonstrations are made in replicate plots to make the results accurate. Three plots of four rows each were planted the middle of May, the next planting will be the latter part of May, and the last date will be around the 10th of June.

In the case of the fertilizer demonstrations Lee Sneathen and D. E. Ingalls of Charlevoix are the co-operators, and are planning on using high analysis fertilizers in amounts from 500 pounds to 1500 pounds per acre. Mr. Sneathen will also use different spacing distances, which will enable us to find out the most profitable planting distance to be used.

We have a notion that the quality of Michigan potatoes can be bettered by planting early, by harvesting early (by the first of October), by planting close (from 12 to 15 inches apart in the row) and by using liberal amounts of high analysis fertilizer. Whenever results are obtainable they will be published, so let's watch the progress of these experiments.

B. C. MELLENCAMP, County Agr'l Agent.

For Street Wear

This neat little suit in silk crepe with double-breasted jacket makes a very attractive outfit for street wear.

Willie: Maw, if we have another kid besides me and Mary it'll be a Chinaman.

Mother: Why, Willie, who told you that?

Willie: Well, the teacher told us that every third person born was a Chinaman.

BUILD ENTIRE TOWN AS SET FOR NEW FILM

"You can't take pictures here. This set is not completed," said a visitor to Wesley Ruggles, when viewing the town of "Osage," constructed at the Radio Pictures' ranch for "Cimarron," starring Richard Dix.

"It is completed," said the director. "Why, some of the buildings are only half up, everything is unpainted and there are boards, nail kegs and planks scattered all around."

"That's exactly what I want," explained Ruggles. "The town of Osage in 'Cimarron' was a half-constructed boom town. This is an exact reproduction."

Most of the dramatic action in the Edna Ferber story, to be shown at the Temple Theatre, East Jordan, Friday and Saturday, June 5th and 6th, takes place in the town of Osage. As the story progresses so does the town. In the end it is a seething city of skyscrapers.

83 ATTEND CLINIC AT CHARLEVOIX

On Thursday, May 21, a Crippled Children's Clinic was held at the offices of the District Health Unit. The Children's Fund of Michigan operated with the Michigan Crippled Children's Commission in conducting the largest clinic of that type ever held in this district.

Eighty-three children registered at the clinic. Many of these received recommendations for treatment by Dr. Carl Badgley, the Orthopedic Surgeon in charge. Thirty of these children were from Charlevoix County.

Follow-up calls will be made on each case by the local nurses to interest the parents in obtaining corrections. The District Health Department wish to thank the local people whose co-operation helped to make this clinic so successful.

When the average man makes his wife a costly present it's a sign that he has a guilty conscience.

AMELIA DAVIS AGED 83 YEARS PASSES AWAY

Mrs. Amelia Davis passed away at the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. Lon Smith in this city Tuesday afternoon, May 26th, 1931, following a short illness from pneumonia and heart trouble.

When a small girl she came with her parents to Kent County, Michigan, where, in 1868 she was united in marriage to James M. Davis. They came to Jordan Township, Antrim County later on. Mr. Davis died May 23, 1907. Mrs. Davis has made this city her home the past 7 years.

SUMMER 4-H CLUB PROGRAM UNDERWAY

During the last week considerable activity has been manifested by a large number of rural boys and girls in projects to be carried on this summer.

Already the Barnard Calf Club has been organized with a membership of around twelve boys. Canning Clubs have been started at Ironton and Bay Shore. A Potato Club has also been organized in East Jordan with eight members. We expect great results from this club, of which many members have already completed two successful years. One of its members is putting in five acres this year, and financing it himself.

Then too, Bean Clubs are being organized at Walloon Lake, East Jordan, and Burgess. Other Dairy Calf Clubs will be started in Boyne City and Ironton.

It is indeed gratifying to note the interest and enthusiasm shown by such a large number of boys and girls throughout the County. In the majority of cases the girls in the Canning Clubs will can at least 50 quarts of fruit and vegetables, as well as jellies, jams, preserves, and canned meats. The boys in the crop projects are raising not less than one-half acre of beans, corn, and potatoes and are doing all the work possible, themselves.

At this early date it is impossible to submit the names of the various club members, but somewhat later this will be done.
B. C. MELLENCAMP, County Agr'l Agent.

Michigan Happenings

A bill which its sponsors say will provide the State with a powerful weapon against communists and other radicals has been adopted by the Senate. It already had passed the House. The bill would bar any person of foreign birth who entered the United States illegally from maintaining a residence in Michigan. The ban also would apply to any person who fulfills the United States Government's definition of an "undesirable alien." Such a person would be prohibited from "sojourning at all" within Michigan's boundaries.

Michigan's only quadruplets celebrated their first birthday on May 19. They are girls, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Morlok, of Lansing. The babies, Edna, Wilma, Sarah and Helen, have passed their first year normally and in good health, except for a slight influenza attack last winter. Helen has not developed quite as rapidly as her three sisters, who have eight teeth each. Helen, an incubator baby, boasts only four teeth. She weighed less than three pounds at birth.

Miss Stella Lee Brunt, who went to night high school when she was 21 and then worked her way to an M. A. degree at the University of Michigan, is now the adopted daughter of Chase Salmon Osborn, former Michigan governor and lecturer and writer. The adoption took place in a special court session in chambers in Sylvester, Ga., on April 30. Miss Brunt, who has been literary secretary to Osborn for many years and whose home is in Hamilton, Ont., is 37. Osborn is 72.

Seven cows in the herd of Neal Calaway of Allen Park, valued at $1,000, were bitten by a police dog. Rabies was not suspected until a first cow died after developing paralysis in the hind legs, and later all but two of the cattle died or had to be shot. Other stock on the farm were penned up separately, vaccinated and closely watched. Health authorities also inoculated all members of the Calaway family and those neighbors who had drank any of the milk.

Adjustment has been made in a marriage license tangle, which resulted in two couples having the same marriage license number. The mistake was caused by a clerk in Detroit Common Pleas Court who had not reported to the county clerk that he gave a license to Mr. and Mrs. William Carothers, bearing license number 370,885. It was later discovered another couple obtained a license under this number. The Carothers were assigned a new number.

Milburn Stabler, 39-year-old Lansing coal dealer, and his two sons, Lawrence, 11, and Greenfall, 9, were drowned in Morrison Lake, three miles northeast of Clarksville, when an outboard motorboat which Stabler was testing overturned. E. W. Roe, a brother-in-law of Stabler and his business partner was in the boat but was rescued after clinging to the craft. The wives of both men witnessed the tragedy.

DEATH IS LAID TO ROYAL CURSE

Man Killed by Poison in Laboratory; Princess Bride Ends Life.

Rumson, N. J.—Did the sinister curse which for 40 years dogged the royal Hapsburgs abroad span the Atlantic to strike down Donald Shields Andrews, brilliant and wealthy chemical engineer, in his elaborately equipped laboratory at Rumson?

Andrews' divorced wife, daughter of the former Crown Prince Rudolf of Austria-Hungary, ended her life by drinking a fatal poison at the second Victory ball in London on Armistice day, 1919.

Forty years ago her father, who was the son of Emperor Franz Josef, and his paramour, Baroness Marie Vetsera, were found shot to death in a hunting lodge deep in the royal preserves in Austria.

Truth Never Revealed. Suicide? Murder? The outside world has never learned definitely.

Donald Shields Andrews, son of Matthew Andrews, Cleveland ore magnate, from whom he inherited more than $1,000,000, found his death lurking in a glass containing cyanide of potassium.

The poison, dead, at rattler's bite, had been placed on a table in the laboratory alongside another glass partially filled with water. The supposition is that Andrews reached for the water, but instead grasped the cyanide.

Surely, so many, there was no motive for the suicide theory in this instance. It was pointed out that Andrews, who was thirty-six, had no business or domestic troubles and although he had been treated for a nervous disorder, was in good spirits only a few minutes before he drank the deadly poison.

But those acquainted with the curse hovering over the Hapsburgs and those close to them cannot but associate this latest tragedy with it. It serves to recall his romance with the princess.

She Was His Elder. Young Andrews, whose father, was a business associate of Mark Hanna, was enrolled at the Sheffield Scientific school at Yale when he first met the princess, then known as Mrs. Alma V. Hayne. She had divorced a captain in the British Flying corps some time previously and was several years the senior of Andrews.

The young man's father objected strongly to the affair and it was said at the time employed detectives to prevent the marriage. However, Andrews and the princess eluded the sleuths, and the ceremony was performed on April 24, 1915.

The couple went to Europe on their honeymoon. A month later the husband returned alone. From abroad came a statement purporting to emanate from Mrs. Andrews, that she had married the Yale man only to keep him from carrying out a threat of suicide if she rejected him.

Andrews went into seclusion and from daylight until dark labored incessantly in his luxurious workshop. On the day of his death he had gone to the laboratory at 4 a. m. In mid afternoon John Ross of Red Bank N. J., friend and business associate of Andrews, called.

A sinister silence enveloped the place. With some trepidation Ross pushed his way into the room where Andrews lay on the floor, dead. Chief of Police Joseph Herdon investigated and because of the presence on the nearby table of the cyanide and water decided that death had been accidental.

But others shake their heads and mutter of the Hapsburg curse.

YOU WILL BE SERVED MOST SATISFACTORILY IF YOU MAKE THIS HOTEL YOUR HOME WHILE IN PETOSKEY

A modern hotel of today is becoming more and more a greater necessity in the realms of commercial activity. Men and women in ever increasing numbers are forced, because of their business, to make the hotel their home away from home. Also people coming from nearby towns and farms find it more convenient to stay over night at this modern hotel, that maintains reasonable rates, than to make the trip home and back again to complete their business.

Every community that can boast of such a hotel as above named is sure of much recognition over the surrounding country. The proprietor of this hotel has realized that to maintain a modern service and receive patrons from every walk of life he must have the prices within the reach of all. To prove that he has attained his object let us say that whenever a local hotel is mentioned it is the PERRY HOTEL. All the rooms at this hotel are comfortably furnished and tastefully decorated, have plenty of ventilation and with bath, either hot or cold. They give you the advantage of excellent service, which is of the highest character and provides for most any want desired. At this hotel "Guest is King," meaning that when you register your name as a guest of this hotel they are at your service as long as you wish to stay—be it just overnight or for months. A home resident is just as welcome here as a traveling salesman.

They have in connection a modern dining room where you will find foods well cooked, wholesome and deliciously appetizing. The prices are very reasonable for all meals. Really it would not be a modern hotel were it not for its modern dining service. In this Business Review we are glad to refer all our readers to THE PERRY HOTEL in PETOSKEY and advise them that there is not a better home away from home than this one.

The retailers have come to know that they can get from them the very best goods on the market, hence they seek no further market. They have a reputation far and wide as business men of wide experience and straightforward methods and it is not surprising that the volume of the business is ever increasing.

The word "service" has been much mis-used of late, but as applied to this firm takes on its full significance. They not only insist upon prompt and courteous service, but they have provided for their dealers the best in quality. Their brands of pure foods are known all over the section. They long ago determined to see that their patrons received the better quality which the consumer demands in these days and therefore it is not strange that patrons of stores who receive their goods from this wholesale grocery house seldom think of buying elsewhere. There is a great deal more to the business of conducting a wholesale grocery house than the average man understands.

This is an essential business that requires at its head a man of experience in the buying world and executives who are familiar with the details and the necessity for adequate distribution. It is such houses as this one that add to the convenience and comfort of the modern householder and provides wholesome goods of the highest quality at the most reasonable prices.

The officers and employees of the PETOSKEY GROCERY CO. are clean-cut, affable and accommodating to a marked degree.

We are pleased in this edition to direct your attention to this establishment as a distinctive feature of the commercial efficiency of the community and to the management as among the leading citizens of the community who materially assist in making this community more progressive and more attractive from a commercial standpoint.

"Sea of a Gun"

The origin of this expression is obscure. The first literary use that we have of it was printed in 1708, and is to be found in British Apollo, No. 48. In 1840 it was used by Thackeray in Pencil-studies. It is an epithet of contempt in slight degree, and was applied originally to boys born afloat when wives accompanied their husbands to sea. One admiral declared that he was actually thus cradled under the breast of a gun carriage—Literary Digest.

HISTORY'S MYSTERIES

Selected Stories That Will Prove Astonishing, True and Strange

The Tichborne Heir

WHEN a legal trial lasts more than six months and costs in excess of $1,000,000 in total expenses to the state and the defendants, it is to be supposed that some definite decision will be reached. But not in the famous case of the missing heir to the Tichborne fortune, for here the decision of the court was only partially satisfactory and the adherents of the claimant to the Tichborne millions maintained to the last that the presiding judge had been tricked by a shrewd ruse on the part of the opposing counsel.

Though the final chapter in the case was written as late as 1898, the affair had its start nearly a century ago with Sir Edward Tichborne, an English baronet of considerable wealth. Sir Edward having no sons, the heir to the title was his nephew James; who, in turn, had two sons, Roger and Alfred. Roger, the elder, is described as being of a headstrong, excitable disposition and, on this account, was sent abroad for two years as a sort of probationary period to prepare him for his announced marriage with his cousin, Katherine.

It was in 1852 that Roger Tichborne resigned his commission in the British army and sailed for South America, to take part in commercial pursuits in that section of the world. After knocking about Latin-America for a little over a year, word reached him of the death of his grand-uncle and the succession of his father to the title—thus making him the next in line for the Tichborne millions. Accordingly, Roger set sail from Rio de Janeiro on board the Bella, a ship which mysteriously disappeared at sea. When the news of the loss of the ship reached England, Lady Henrietta Tichborne, mother of Roger and Alfred, refused to credit the account of the wreck and stoutly maintained that her son must have been saved—adding that Roger had appeared to her in a dream and had informed her that he was safe and that she would have no cause to worry about him, though she might not hear from him for some time.

In spite of the fact that the passage of the years brought no trace whatever of the missing man and that the death of the elder Tichborne caused his younger son, Alfred, to succeed to the title and the estate, Lady Tichborne continued her apparently useless search for Roger and, fourteen years after the loss of the Bella, detectives in her employ discovered what appeared to be a clew, in a man named Thomas Castro, a wanderer in Australia, Castro, who bore a striking resemblance to Roger Tichborne, was brought to Paris and there "identified" by Lady Tichborne as the man who had supposedly gone down on the Bella nearly fifteen years before.

Here enters the second mystery connected with the case—the first being the strange loss of the ship at sea. Why, when her younger son already held the baronetcy and enjoyed the Tichborne fortunes, was Lady Tichborne so insistent upon locating her elder son, a ne'er-do-well, and why did she fight his claim against his "brother" up to the very moment of her death not long afterwards?

At the trial which ensued a number of Roger Tichborne's friends positively identified Castro as the missing man, while several of the sailors of the Osprey, an American vessel, testified they had rescued a number of men from a ship's boat bearing the name Bella, among them a delirious man who declared that his name was "Roger" and who was none other than this same Castro. When additional witnesses described a birthmark which Roger Tichborne had had and similar marks were found upon Castro, the case appeared to have been won by the plaintiff.

But the counsel for Alfred Tichborne demolished the whole framework of evidence by producing a sealed envelope which Roger Tichborne had given to his fiancée just before he had sailed for South America and challenged the claimant to the Tichborne title to describe its contents. Manifestly at a loss for an answer, Castro made a wild statement about having broken off his engagement to his cousin and having left instructions in the envelope to this effect. The counsel for the defense then broke open the seal and read as follows:

"If God spares me to return and marry my beloved Kate within three years, I promise to build a church and dedicate it to the Blessed Mother."

This disclosure had the effect of a bombshell and the case was immediately thrown out of court, Castro being later tried for perjury and sentenced to ten years imprisonment, after which he came to America, going back to England only shortly before his death in 1898. But there are many who claimed that the document upon which the entire case had hinged was not authentic and that the court had acted hastily in accepting it as such—pointing to the fact that Lady Tichborne had accepted Castro as her elder son and emphasizing the preponderance of evidence in his favor. For this reason it cannot be stated that the many mysteries connected with the celebrated "Tichborne case" have ever been solved—nor is it likely that they ever will be.

W.N.U. SERVICE

BY WILLIAM BYRON MOWERY

Here in this Canadian Northland where outlawry was rare and furtive, here on the mighty Mackenzie where river boats time and again carried unguarded cargoes of half a million in furs and gold, a brazen daylight attack upon a big steamer was simply unthinkable. Yet the attack had come—the unthinkable had occurred. The law would act speedily, and in this connection but one man was mentioned: "Baker! Alan Baker! Sergeant Alan Baker—at Fort Endurance!" One passenger was heard to comment: "If Alan goes after the bandits, or whoever goes, he'd better take his luck along!"

LIGHTS OF NEW YORK

The usual New York crowd of sky-gazers circled around the big truck to superintend the hoisting of a huge steel girder to its destined resting place, many stories above the street. The ground end of the job was being expertly handled by two big fellows and another worker, who made up in breadth what he lacked in height. As the attached cables started the girder on its upward way, it slipped, ever so slightly, in its sling. The two stalwarts instantly leaped clear of the truck, and came to a stop only when they were well outside of any danger zone. The squat gentleman, on the other hand, stood as steadfast as the boy on the burning deck, calmly watching the mass of steel right itself and resume its skyward journey. This display of stolidism evidently annoyed the two who had retreated so hastily. As they returned, one said disgustfully to the still placid man of humanity. "Say, ain't you nobody's sweet-heart?"

Charles Hanson Towne was enumerating for me those known in the arts who had come from his birthplace, Louisville. He named Thompson Buchanan, Fontaine Fox, Henry and Shelley Hull, and Isaac Marcrosson. Then he turned to A. E. Thomas, who was sitting close by.

"Were you born in Louisville, Al?" he asked.

"No," said Mr. Thomas, "I was not, and I can mention several other cities where I was not born, but which, strangely enough, appear to have achieved a certain measure of recognition."

As a matter of fact, Mr. Thomas originally was a mountain boy. He came from the Berkshires.

A man driving his automobile down Long Island picked up a little urchin who was tramping along the road. He began to talk to him pleasantly.

"What do you do out of school hours?" he asked.

"Oh," said the small boy proudly, "I help my father and mother. They showed me how to fall out of cars, without hurting myself, and people give them money."

In another moment a little urchin was again tramping along the road.

A tender-hearted New York woman recently sailed for Europe. When the ship reached Southampton, she was distressed by cries and moans, which came through the dusk from the direction of a nearby dock, and insisted upon knowing what the trouble was. A fellow passenger hazarded the reasonable guess that the sounds came from a boatload of cattle, destined for France. This so upset the woman that she sat down and wrote a scathing letter to the local S. P. C. A. It was later discovered that the anguished cries had been produced by a dredge, working all night on the nearby channel.

A man who made his money in a hurry caught a cold in his head and went to a well-known nose and throat specialist. He found the waiting room full of patients and when the doctor's attendant took his name and asked him to sit down, he offered her $10 if she would get him in ahead of the others. She refused the money and told him she was sorry but that he would have to wait his turn. He did so, with ill grace, and in the meantime the nurse told the doctor what had happened. The doctor didn't say anything, but after he had seen the man and treated him, he charged him just three times his usual fee.

The piece, the largest ever mined in this section, will be used for advertising display purposes.

Marriage for Reform

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

There used to be a familiar saying years ago when a young woman entered into a marriage contract with a rather wild and unregenerate partner that she had married him to reform him. There was also among some the feeling that such a reform was possible though I do not now recall that any specific illustrations were brought forward to prove the case.

I general, those who were led into matrimony with the purpose of bringing about their reformation kept on in the same crooked path that they had previous, been following.

There is an old Norse legend of a farmer named Gudbrand and his wife who lived very happily together, the wife never trying to reform her husband.

"Now you must know," the story goes, "that this man and his good wife lived so happily together and understood one another so well, that all the husband did the wife thought so well done, there was nothing like it in the world, and she was always glad whatever he turned his hand to."

They owned their farm, they had one hundred dollars in the bank, and they had two cows, one of which they decided to sell. Gudbrand undertook to sell the cow, but no one in town would buy her.

On the way home he met a man with a horse for which he traded the cow. As he progressed he made a succession of trades, and came one after the other into possession of a pig, a goat, a sheep, a goose, and a cock. This last he disposed of for a shilling and then spent the shilling for a bite to eat.

On the way home he met a man who, upon hearing the details of his bargaining, wagered him a hundred dollars that when the wife heard the story Gudbrand would be roundly scolded. However, she, like a sensible woman, approved everything he had done.

Fond Hubby: I phone my wife a dozen times a day.

Friend: I know several men who do the same thing.

Mrs. Smyth: Then the wedding was not altogether a success?

Mrs. De Peyster: No; the groom's mother cried louder than the bride's mother. It was considered very bad form.

Kindness to His Chum's Mother Wins Him $50,000
Ottawa, Ill.—Many acts of kindness to an elderly woman, whose only son met death in the Spanish-American war, won for John G. Schumacher a reward in the shape of a legacy valued at more than $50,000. The gift was provided in the will of Mrs. Elsie Campbell.

Schumacher and Mrs. Campbell's only son, Irving, were boyhood chums. Campbell enlisted in the Spanish-American war. He died on his way home and was buried at sea.

After that Schumacher always looked after Mrs. Campbell as a son would. When she died the members of the Schumacher family were surprised to learn that Mrs. Campbell left them the bulk of her large estate.

Kin-of Mark Twain, 81, Popular Trick Skater
Shellsburg, Iowa.—Skating ability of a man eighty-one years old, with skates 76 years old, attracted many persons at the Cedar river. They watched him cut his name, and out-danced skaters many years younger. The skater is George Clemmons, cousin of Samuel Clemens (Mark Twain). Skating is his favorite winter sport and rarely a day passes when the ice is thick enough that he is not out on it. Clemmons, born in Iron-ton, Ohio, was a drummer boy in the Civil war. He knew Mark Twain well.

Judge Rules Autoist's Excuse Was a Good One
Duluth, Minn.—A hit and run driver who fled after an accident in which his car smashed the fender of a taxicab was excused in Municipal court when he told the judge his reasons. "My mother-in-law was in the taxi, your honor, and I had a woman, not my wife, with me," the man explained.

CLIPPERTON ROCK AWARDED TO FRANCE

Is One of Loneliest Islands on Globe.

Washington.—An arbitration award gives to France its first possession on the Pacific coast of North America. Clipperton Rock, a desolate spot of land 870 miles off the Mexican coast, has just been placed under the tricolor by King Victor Emmanuel of Italy, arbiter, to whom France and Mexico submitted their claims of ownership.

"Clipperton Rock is one of the loneliest and least visited islands on the globe," says a bulletin from the National Geographic society. "It is about the same distance from the nearest Mexican port of Acapulco as the Bermuda Islands are from New York. Like the Bermudas this lonely island rises sheer from the bed of the ocean. It is surrounded by dangerous coral reefs.

Looks Like a Sail.
"Mariners who have sailed near Clipperton Rock say that the island, which is about two miles in diameter and reaches a height of 60 feet, looks like a sail at a distance. Upon closer approach it presents the appearance of a castle rising from the waves.

"Most ship captains give Clipperton Rock a wide berth. In fair weather it is easy enough to steer clear of its encircling reefs, but in times of fog a ship could be wrecked before the sounding lead could give any warning of land. Soundings less than a mile offshore give no bottom at 150 fathoms (900 feet).

"The island, destitute of any vegetation, is inhabited only by a small Mexican garrison. It was annexed by France in 1857. A party of Americans next claimed it and attempted a settlement. When France protested to this country in 1897, the United States recognized French sovereignty. But the same year President Porfirio Diaz, of Mexico, claimed and seized the island. Later Diaz agreed to submit the matter to arbitration of the king of Italy and abide by his decision.

Possible Seaplane Base.
"While the sail-like rock is the most conspicuous feature of the island, most of the new French possession is a huge ring or belt of coral sand, inclosing a circular lagoon which varies in depth from a few inches to 300 feet. The lagoon water is brackish and during the dry season smells strongly of ammonia. It could be used, however, as a seaplane base, for at all times it affords a quiet anchorage and taking-off place.

"Native food supplies are meager, insufficient in themselves to support human life. This was demonstrated about 12 years ago when, during one of the acute periods of the Mexican revolutionary struggles, supplies could not be sent to Clipperton Rock. All the garrison there, with the exception of one man, died of starvation before a ship could be spared.

"Sharks swim about the island, and in the big lagoon there are a number of knobs of land above water on which countless sea birds lay their eggs. These eggs are good eating.

"Some time ago the Mexican government leased Clipperton Rock to the Pacific Islands company, which expected to exploit the guano deposits of the bird-breeding rocks. A wharf 400 feet long was built out to the edge of the reef, but, as the sea breaks beyond it, the wharf will have to be extended before ships can use it. The Mexican name for the island is 'La Isla de la Pasion'; or the Isle of the Passion."

Grain Rusts Formed by Natural Crossing

New Importance Given to Barberry Eradication.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)—WNU Service.

The reason certain rust-resistant varieties of wheat and rye lose their resistance to stem rust is that new hybrid forms of rust constantly arise.

Dr. Moses N. Levine and Dr. Ralph U. Cotter, pathologists of the United States Department of Agriculture, suspected that new rust forms were originating by the interbreeding of old forms and were overstepping the bounds of resistance of certain so-called resistant varieties of both wheat and rye not formerly damaged by either parent rust. The reaction of this hybrid was almost identical with that of a rust, described in 1911, and scientifically termed Puccinia graminis Hordel, which, the scientists now assume, originated by a similar process of hybridization in nature.

The discovery gives new importance to barberry eradication throughout the wheat belt, for it is while the rust spores inhabit the barberry leaf that various strains interbreed and create new hybrids. For many years it has been common knowledge that stem rust survives in northern wheat-growing regions only by means of the stage produced on barberry bushes. In warmer regions rust can survive without barberry bushes. It now becomes evident that no plant breeder can be sure his new variety of wheat or rye will remain resistant to rust in the presence of barberry bushes on which new hybrid forms of rust may arise.

Care of Young Turkeys Is of Much Importance

When the poults are very young the hen should be placed in an enclosure made over four boards a foot wide and twelve or fourteen feet long set on edge and well nailed together to prevent falling. In a week the little turks will learn the call of the hen and not be so likely to follow moving objects and thereby become chilled. When the hen is first turned out, care must be exercised not to let her go to a branch or get in swampy land. Until poults are six or eight days old, they seem to relish and to grow on rolled oats and chopped grass or soy bean leaves. They should have all the clean sour milk they will drink. After ten days they may be gradually given cottage cheese, dry bread crumbs and wheat bran. A change of feed for turkeys should always be made by mixing with a former food or they may refuse to eat enough to keep up the growth of body so important to combat disease.

If turks are to be allowed to range at an early age, they may be turned into a pasture field where the grass is short and it is dry. They soon follow the mother hen and in a few days they will come up for food at any regular time. They always come in before night if they find food waiting.

Cattle Feeding Has No Definite or Set Rules

Cattle feeding is a business that does not adapt itself to any definite rules. About the only thing that is certain is that conditions change. Because Farmer Jones did it this way, or that way, with success, is not sufficient reason for assuming that his plan will repeat on his farm or your farm.

To be a successful cattle feeder, learn all you can about the business from different sources, and then fit these different factors into your own farm conditions as best you can. Nobody knows what the future market will be. On a rising market it is well to have your neighbor's corn in your cattle, but on a mean market too much of the other fellow's corn may ruin the feeder.

FARM NOTES

Call upon your grocer to save you a few shallow boxes for seed flats.

One dollar invested in 18 per cent bulk superphosphate to mix with manure can be counted on to return from $5 to $8 in increased crops.

Try some pole beans this year as a space economizer. One pole occupies little more space than one hill of bush beans and gives a vastly greater supply of beans.

When the horses are allowed one feed a day of good alfalfa or clover hay, with all the other roughage they will eat, no grain will be required until the last few weeks before spring work begins.

Corn silage, up to ten or fifteen pounds per day, is good for horses. It should be fed with some good hay, however. Moldy silage must be avoided as it is poisonous to horses and frequently causes death.

Plant a better string bean this year than you did last if last year's showed any signs of string. There are real stringless string beans now. Look over the catalogues of reliable seed houses. They will tell you.

With feed scarce in many sections and grain costs relatively high coupled with the unsatisfactory cattle market, there may be a tendency for feeders to cut their feeding period short rather than lengthen it.

Mother's Cook Book

It is well to teach your boy to wash his hands, to be polite, to learn his lessons, but there is nothing you can teach him that will have more to do with making a man of him than to grind into his mind daily that he is to keep his word, even if it takes a leg.—W. C. Dunlap.

EVERYDAY GOOD THINGS

WHEN there seems to be nothing for a vegetable that appeals, cook some pork chops and serve with them:

Onions and Apples.

Slice three or four onions and cook them in a little bacon fat until transparent, then add twice as many sliced apples, two tablespoonfuls of sugar, salt and a few dashes of white pepper. Stir during the cooking and season again before serving. A sour or tart-apple is best for this dish.

Salmon Macaroni.

Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter and stir in two tablespoonfuls of flour when well mixed add two cupfuls of tomato soup and cook two minutes. Add a large can of flaked salmon, one chopped onion and salt and pepper to season; simmer five minutes. Make a border of three cupfuls of cooked macaroni on a hot platter, pour inside the salmon mixture and sprinkle the top with one-half cupful of grated cheese and garnish with two sliced hard-cooked eggs. Serve hot.

Chicken Vegetable Loaf.

Beat two eggs, add one cupful of milk, three cupfuls of cooked chicken, one and one-half cupfuls of small peas, one cupful of diced carrots, one small onion, one teaspoonful of mustard, two teaspoonfuls of salt, pepper to taste and one teaspoonful of minced parsley and two teaspoonfuls of minced sauce. Mix and make into a loaf and bake fifty minutes. Serve with:

Mushroom Sauce.

Melt four tablespoonfuls of butter add four tablespoonfuls of flour; after cooking a teaspoonful of onion in the fat simmer with one and one-half cupfuls of milk, one can of mushrooms, salt, pepper and minced parsley to taste. Cook five minutes.

My Neighbor

Says:

TO WASH a flannel skirt—soak it in cold water overnight, so it will not shrink. Then wash it in warm water and put in a very little borax. Rinse in cold water and dry in a good wind. When almost dry, iron on the wrong side.

Left-over bacon, end pieces, etc., are all precious adjuncts in flavoring other food combinations. A plain bread stuffing is much improved by the addition of chopped bacon. Add one-half cup of the bacon to two cups of bread crumbs. Lessen the amount of salt called for in the recipe.

To clean light colored felt hats rub the entire surface with fine sandpaper and dust lightly with a white powder.

A little sugar sprinkled into the water in which potatoes are boiled will make them white and floury.

When it is necessary to iron a rough-dry garment at once, try this method: Dampen it, roll tight, wrap it in a cloth and then in paper, and put into the oven while the irons are heating. Evaporation will cause it to be thoroughly dampened in a very few minutes. But care must be taken that the oven is not hot enough to scorch the garment.

ELEVATOR CHIVALRY

WHAT kind of chivalry is that? That in the lift will doff its hat to women that you never knew. But not the one you're married to?

What kind of chivalry, my men, is that that doffs its derby then, When other ladies present are, Except the one who runs the car?

What kind of chivalry is this? That not a painted maid will miss, And yet whose chivalry will fail The woman with a scrubbing-pail?

What kind of chivalry is not For women with a harder lot, But to the idle doffs its hat— What kind of chivalry is that? (© 1931, Douglas Malloch.)—WNU Service.

Your Home and You

By Betsy Callister

FOR THE KITCHEN

THE most useful clock in the house is the kitchen clock and interestingly enough it is the clock that usually keeps the best time. Probably because kitchen clocks are chosen for service anyway and are not kept around merely for ornament when they no longer tell the truth, as is often the case with more ornamental living-room clocks.

There are electric clocks made for the kitchen—very smart and simple and in various colors to go with possible kitchen color schemes—blue, green or yellow. Fastened on the wall in a prominent position in the kitchen a clock of this sort is well worth while, keeping correct time all of its own accord. A practical, useful sort of wedding present one of these clocks would make for any bride.

Once it would have been considered rather absurd to select any sort of kitchen equipment for a wedding present, but young women today are so generally interested in having attractive, well-equipped kitchens and kitchen things are so attractive that the old prejudice has ceased to exist. For the young couple who are planning to go to housekeeping in their own little bungalow, what news would be better than the fact that Uncle Bill was planning to give them a really fine electric or gas stove, and that Aunt Nellie was going to spend her wedding present quota for kitchen utensils to match—colored enamel or aluminum with colored handles?

This is one of the most progressive establishments in the community and is equipped with the latest and best mechanical devices for the making of old carpets into beautiful rugs. They are the best rug and carpet cleaners in the county. Every rug is thoroughly cleaned. They look just like new when returned from this establishment.

They are doing an extensive business in this line and the work is giving universal satisfaction. They have specially prepared the plant to take care of out-of-town customers and are equipped to do this class of work for out-of-town customers in the quickest possible time.

New good rugs are costly and buying cheap rugs is false economy, but here in our own community, we are fortunate in having a concern that from the standpoint of expenditure and equipment is able to weave from old carpets and rugs, a floor covering that you will be proud to own. And the cost of having the work done is not as much as the price of a cheap inferior rug, filled with cotton yarns and which will hold its new appearance only a few weeks at the most. A good rug should last for years and it is with that thought this reliable concern turns out its work.

You can have rugs woven any size you wish—you can have several small rugs or one large rug. And you will be agreeably surprised to see how your old worn rugs and carpets can be made into soft well wearing rugs—rugs that will give years of wear and will be as an addition to the furnishing of the living room, the dining room or the bedrooms.

Their long experience in rug weaving and the fact that they really know the business gives customers that feeling of security of dealing with a responsible concern.

The most approved methods have been installed and all work is executed in a highly scientific manner. If you will turn over part of your work to them you will find that you will be saved the purchase of many new carpets and rugs by the high grade work which this plant features.

In this review, embracing as it does the most salient features of our onward progress, we wish to compliment PETOSKEY RUG CO.

The LOCKWOOD HOSPITAL is convenient for the people from all over this section of the county.

The very finest of equipment, careful nursing and the most able professional service is a feature of this hospital. Features general hospital service. Are prepared to take care of emergency cases.

There is nothing more important to the onward progress of our community than a hospital service of this kind provided over by those who have made a special study of the needs of the afflicted—those who are unfortunate because of physical or mental defects. They feature general hospital service, general practice and surgery. They give the most patient service here.

The management is to be commended, upon devoting their life to the work which is so much needed to make everyone fit to be a Spartan. The change in the methods from the olden times is well illustrated in the work of this hospital which typifies modern civilization.

This well known hospital occupies commodious quarters, is excellently appointed and the clinic and kitchen are most modernly equipped. The rooms are all well furnished and pleasant in every way. Cheerfulness and an air of hope are inspired by the furnishings which have been selected by the decorators with this idea in view.

They give all patients a thorough examination and during treatment they are cared for by nurses who are able, painstaking, and follow the directions of the medical department.

This accounts for the rapid recovery of people going here and for the fact that they remain in good condition for years afterward.

They are always prepared to take care of urgent cases in the most rapid and efficient manner but it is always best for those who are expecting to go to the hospital to make arrangements in advance. This insures a private room and many conveniences. The special department for emergency is always ready for any unforeseen service.

As the purpose of this review edition is to give the outside world an adequate idea of our social, industrial, artistic and professional progress we deem it quite appropriate to call the attention of the public to the efficiency and great work that is being carried on at the LOCKWOOD HOSPITAL in PETOSKEY.

DAIRY FACTS

REDUCING LOSSES ON LIVE STOCK

Heavy Toll Caused by Shipping Fever and Other Ills.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
Precautions to take in shipping live stock are contained in Leaflet 38-1, Maintaining the Health of Live Stock in Transit, just issued by the United States Department of Agriculture. The leaflet deals chiefly with the prevention of hemorrhagic septicemia, or shipping fever, and related maladies that have caused serious losses among cattle received at public stock yards and country feeding points.

The key to the reduction of shipping losses, according to the author, Dr. A. W. Miller, assistant chief, bureau of animal industry, is greater care in handling, which in turn conserves the vitality of stock so they can better resist the hardships of travel. Among the devastating influences to be especially avoided are exposure to severe weather, changes in the routing of feeding and watering, excitement and overexertion.

The leaflet contains recommendations on the care, feeding and watering of cattle before, during and after shipment. The use of biological products for preventing shipping fever is likewise discussed. Numerous illustrations supplement the text, showing desirable means of handling stock as well as conditions to be avoided.

The leaflet is part of a systematic endeavor by the national live stock and traders' exchanges, railroads, the National Live Stock Producers association, government live stock specialists, and others to reduce the heavy toll of losses caused by shipping fever and kindred ailments. Conservative estimates have placed the loss at fully a million dollars annually, and in some years it has been as high as four million dollars.

Copies of the leaflet may be obtained by writing the office of information, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Special Care of Dairy

Tinware of Importance

New tinware, such as milk cans, dippers, buckets, etc., as well as new separator tinware rusts more easily than old used tinware. The reason is simple. Metal surfaces do not have a perfectly impervious glaze like glassware or crockery. They are more or less porous. With use these pores soon become filled up with a sort of a film grease, which then serves as a protective coating for the metal.

It is very important, therefore, that the tinmed parts of a cream separator be given extra care the first month or two. That is, they should be thoroughly dried either with a dry cloth or by being hung in a warm, dry place, or both. This matter is one of special importance nowadays, since a very large proportion of cream separator sales are replacements, and where a farmer gets a new separator in trade for his old one, in most cases he will follow with the new machine the same washing program he had been following with his old one, with the result that the new tinware rusts where the old tinware did not. He does not realize that new tinware requires greater care than old, and he particularly does not realize that when his old separator was new it was regarded as something out of the ordinary and the best care possible was none too good for it.

Hay Roughage Useful in Winter Ration for Cows

Feed all the roughage the cow will clean up. This will be approximately three pounds corn silage and one pound of hay, or five to six pounds of roots and one pound of hay, or one pound of dried beet pulp soaked 12 to 24 hours before feeding and one pound of hay, or two pounds of legume hay or other dried roughage, for each 100 pounds of live weight. Where at all possible it is desirable that both a succulent and a leguminous hay be used in the roughage portion of the ration. The most economical production of milk is not ordinarily otherwise possible.

Feed the grain mixture according to the amount of milk produced. This means about one pound of concentrates for each three to three and a half pounds of milk produced. In the case of a Jersey or Guernsey, or for each three and a half to four pounds of milk produced when feeding an Ayrshire, Brown Swiss, or Holstein.

Succulent Feed

Corn silage has become a standard ingredient in the winter ration in most of the larger dairies. It provides succulence—succulence is a general term used to describe the tonic or conditioning properties of green feeds forming the bulk of the usual winter ration. It not only supplies succulent feed but also affords a convenient and economical way of harvesting, storing and feeding the corn crop. A dairy farm without a silo is almost an unknown quantity these days.

Honors Won by Sailors

One-tenth of the American navy's enlisted personnel wear good-conduct medals. An enlisted man must have served more than eight years to gain a good-conduct medal, and a bar may be added each four years thereafter, provided his marks are such to warrant a medal. When three or more good-conduct medals have been awarded the man is entitled to wear the gold service stripes and gold rating badge.

"Burning Up" Witches

Even in this day and age there are some people who believe in witches. "Burning the Clave," an ancient custom of which the object is to free the inhabitants of the city from witches for another year, is annually celebrated at Burghhead. Blazing embers are carried through the town and hung through open doors of houses to burn up the witches.—London Tit-Bits.

Michigan's Iron-Mining Area

The iron mines of Michigan are in the Upper Peninsula, near the shores of Lake Superior and near the Menominee river, particularly in Marquette, Baraga, Gogebic, Ontonago, Iron, Dickinson and Menominee counties. Some of the chief mining towns are Iron Mountain, Ishpeming, Negaunee, Crystal Falls, Bessemer, Iron River, Ironwood, Menigamme, Republic, etc.

Bullet's Velocity

The speed of a bullet as it leaves a rifle is 2,700 feet per second. That is approximately five times the speed of the fastest airplane. It should be understood that the velocity of a bullet decreases rapidly, while the speed of an airplane remains constant. It is for that reason that a comparison, as given above, is only for the speed of a bullet as it leaves the muzzle of a rifle with the speed of a fast plane.

Phases Turned on Dogs

The dog watch aboard ship is the short watch of two hours. In civilian employments it usually means the "late trick" in the wee small hours. To "let loose the dogs of war" is a picturesque way of saying that the battle begins, or any other sort of conflict. It is an idiomatic expression, coming to us from soldier speech, and may refer to the time when certain nations actually used dogs with spiked collars in battle.

Cow's Butcher-Weights

The amount of bone in a cow varies with the cow. The maximum per cent of bones is 22.49. The hide is usually 6 to 6 1/2 per cent of the live weight of the carcass; the heart from 3 to 4 pounds, the liver from 8 to 9 pounds, and the tongue from 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 pounds. The shrinkage of cattle in butchering and dressing ranges from 33 to 52 per cent.

Gossip as Flattery

According to Richard Le Gallienne who wrote on the fascinating subject, it is an exceedingly flattering thing to be chosen as a subject for gossip, and one of the most gratifying forms of success. Although he has voted for 35 years and even held public office, Fred J. LeBlanc, 56 years old, a resident of Caseville, just recently became a citizen of the United States when he took the oath of allegiance in Detroit with 199 others. Informed by his father that he was a citizen, Mr. LeBlanc, who was born in St. Filip, Ont., exercised the rights until he appeared in Bad Axe as a character witness in a naturalization case. He was asked to prove his citizenship and then found that his father had only first papers.

Two Michigan iron mines were winners and two others won honorable mention in the 1930 safety contest conducted by the Bureau of Mines at Washington. The winner in the metal mine class was the Penn Iron Mining Co., Vulcan, Mich., which worked 318,402 man-hours without a single accident causing "loss of time." Two of the five honorable mentions in this class also went to Michigan mines, the Brule Mining Co., of Stambaugh, and the James Mining Co., of Iron River.

They were revived by a pulmotor crew of the Detroit Fire Department and taken to the Redford branch of Receiving hospital.

Large Trees Killed by Drought Are Good

Excellent Plan to Cut Material for Farm Use.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)—WFO Service.

What to do with large trees killed by the drought is a question asked by many farmers who own woodlands. If the timber can be salvaged economically, the forest service, United States Department of Agriculture, advises cutting it now. If a market cannot be found for this material, it is better to cut it for future use on the farm than to let it go to waste in the woods. Many mature trees have succumbed in some of the drought-stricken sections, and if they can be used now it is better to cut them before they begin to decay. Trees containing saw logs may be good for lumber, and crooked or diseased trees can be used to augment the fuel-wood supply.

"There is always on every farm a need for construction and repair materials," the extension forester of Virginia points out, "and here is a chance to salvage those dead trees and at the same time provide a supply of repair material for years to come. There are many sawmill operators who would be glad to do a little custom sawing. Some of them would take their pay in logs. There are on almost every farm the tools, wagons and work stock necessary to do the logging and hauling.

"Properly stacked and roofed over with the commoner boards, lumber will keep almost indefinitely. Why not cut those trees this winter and have them turned into inch boards, 2x4s, 4x6s, and other sizes needed for the upkeep of the farm?"

Increased Use of Skim Milk Powder for Fowls

Skim milk powder is somewhat cheaper than it was a few years ago and also easier to get. It is carried in stock by most feed merchants, particularly if these feed merchants are in a section where there are a number of poultry farms. Practically all poultrymen are now using more or less milk powder in their mashers. Because of lower cost and availability, more and more dairymen are using skim milk powder in calf feeding, this of course applying only in sections where whole milk is sold. This powder is mixed with water in the proportion of one part of powder to nine parts of water. When brought to a temperature of 95 to 98 degrees, the solution is fed exactly as skim milk would be. Some farmers say that, after calves have been well started on whole milk and have learned to eat grain and hay, the skim milk powder can be mixed with the grain rations and save the trouble of mixing with water and heating.

Good Heavy Oats Useful for Fattening Lambs

Recent tests in Indiana indicate that good heavy oats are equal in value to corn for fattening western lambs. Three feeding trials were conducted involving 150 lambs. Oats, cottonseed meal, clover hay, and corn silage were fed in comparison with shelled corn, cottonseed meal, clover hay and corn silage.

With the oat ration 577 pounds of oats, 51 pounds of cottonseed meal, 261 pounds of hay, and 284 pounds of silage were required for each 100 pounds of gain. With the corn ration 367 pounds of corn, 51 pounds of cottonseed meal, 462 pounds of hay, and 464 pounds of silage were required for the same gain. It is noted that the lambs on the oat ration consumed considerably less roughage which offset the value of the oats consumed.

Farm Hints

All-mash feeding permits greater sanitation in handling the chicks.

Leeks are spectacular subjects for the fall show. Plant a row and hill them up carefully as they grow.

Hardy strains of alfalfa have averaged from 474 to 651 pounds more hay per acre each year than common varieties in experiments at the Pennsylvania state college.

No other hay equals alfalfa for feeding purposes and few crops are better for swine pasture. It also ranks high as a part of the mixture for pasturing other kinds of live stock.

The chick is handicapped by becoming infested with many parasites early in life. An earlier hatched chick gains resistance with age before the parasites become so numerous.

Trebil barley, though a high yielder, has weak straw and is susceptible to "spot blotch." Trials with pigs indicate its feeding value is somewhat lower than that of other kinds.

From breeding time forward to lambing time the ewe may be in a gradual gaining condition. In which case a strong lamb may be expected and a full adder to nourish it with.

Do not spoil a good job of house cleaning by dumping the poultry manure and other material cleaned out of the house in a place where the chickens can scratch in it—just as well not clean the house.

COINS, 2,300 YEARS OLD, EXCEL OURS

Ancient Grecian Coppers Are Superior to Penny.

Princeton, N. J.—The American penny, although produced through the application of the most modern metallurgical knowledge, is distinctly inferior in durability to the Corinthian bronze coins made by the ancient Greeks. It was revealed here recently in the report of Prof. Donald P. Smith and Dr. Earle K. Caley of the Princeton university department of chemistry, who have just completed analytical study of some Greek coins over 2,300 years old.

The report also reveals that coins of the city of Sicyon were made by mass production methods. As in modern mints, the metal was hammered out into sheets and the design later stamped with a die. Both the Corinthian and Sicyonian coins were obtained by Prof. T. Leslie Shear of the Princeton department of art and archeology during explorations in the neighborhood of Corinth and recently submitted to the chemistry department for examination.

Although the Corinthian coins were made in a more laborious way, the report states that "Corinthian bronze was, for the use for which it was intended, much the better, since it was extraordinarily hard. Indeed, the best of the coins examined is, in this respect, distinctly superior to the present United States bronze coinage, although the latter is made with special reference to this quality and in accordance with the most modern metallurgical knowledge."

Corinthian bronzes are inferior to the Sicyonian coins in one respect, it was disclosed, as they are less capable of resisting corrosion for a period of 2,000 years.

Virginia Man Hasn't a Drop of His Own Blood

Bluefield, Va.—The case of Joseph B. Lawrence, sufferer from pernicious anemia, is attracting nationwide attention.

Lawrence appears a perfectly normal man, but not a drop of blood in his body is his own. Every bit was contributed by 20 other persons and he has undergone 51 blood transfusions since December 17, 1929. His system refuses to manufacture its own blood.

Lawrence, who before becoming ill weighed 210 pounds, now weighs 160, a gain of 44 pounds from December, 1929, when he weighed only 116. He looks well and drives his own automobile, but he cannot work, and ever so often has to have more blood furnished to him.

In little more than a year he has gone through 54 operations, counting the transfusions as operations; has had more than 50 X-ray examinations, and has been examined by a score of doctors.

He is thirty-one, six feet tall, and one of a family of seven children.

Hide Gems in Snowballs and Throw Them in River

Hartford, Conn.—Two seventeen-year-old youths, John Halotek and Joseph Pedzyna, have confessed to the police that they concealed several hundred dollars' worth of stolen jewelry in snowballs which they threw into the Park river here recently. They pointed out the spot to detectives, a place where the water is 20 feet deep, but the river is now frozen fast and no attempt will be made to dredge for the gems until spring.

The boys, who admitted that the jewels were the loot of 50 robberies of homes, said they were frightened when a confederate was arrested and decided to dispose of their plunder. They thought that throwing snowballs into the river was as inconspicuous a way as any.

"Mrs. Jones Had On a Wonderful New Dress"

THE Mrs. Jones we're talking about is the sort of woman who, in spite of only moderate means, is always well dressed . . . whose home is furnished with exquisite, though not extravagant, taste . . . whose table is frequently graced with some appetizing new food product . . . whose housekeeping equipment, kitchen requisites, all seem to have been chosen with rare good judgment.

Mrs. Jones is an observant woman. A well-informed woman. A keen judge of values. A careful buyer. She reads the advertisements in her favorite newspaper.

Whatever is new or improved is the realm of merchandise, Mrs. Jones most likely knows all about it. She reads the advertisements.

Whatever store is putting on an unusual sale, Mrs. Jones has probably heard about it. She reads the advertisements.

Are you Mrs. Jones? Or a woman like her?

To get the newest, the best and the most for your money . . . read the advertisements.
