Ministers To Gather At E. J.

MONDAY, FEB'Y 1st. MET AT BOYNE CITY LAST MONDAY.

A very fine meeting of the Little Traverse Bay Ministerial Association was held Monday in the First Presbyterian Church at Boyne City. At noon 15 men sat down to a delicious dinner prepared by the Woman's Bible class of the church.

After dinner Rev. J. N. Booth of the Christian Church of Petoskey presented a book review of "The Ethics of the Christian Minister" by Harmon. Mr. Booth took the place on the program that had been given to Rev. E. S. Doan, who was confined to his home by illness. After the presentation of the book review a general discussion was led by Mr. Booth in which many problems of ethics of the ministry were presented. Some of the men related experiences and problems which were very illuminating.

Those present from Petoskey were Rev. J. N. Booth, Rev. G. A. Weaver, Rev. Fred J. Peters, Rev. A. P. Fischer, Rev. A. H. Pellowe and Rev. E. P. Linnell. Others included Rev. G. E. Smock and Rev. Paul Boodagh of Boyne City; Rev. James Leitch and Rev. C. W. Sidebotham of East Jordan; Rev. David Shugg of Gaylord; Rev. John Alexander of Bellaire; Rev. C. J. Kendall of Central Lake; Rev. Jewell of Horton's Bay and Rev. Harold Salmon of Grayling.

It was unanimously voted to hold the next meeting at noon on Feb'y 1st at East Jordan. It was also voted that each man was to bring a book from his library to loan to another minister for a month. The secretary of the Association, Rev. Guy Smock of the Boyne City Presbyterian Church was made librarian.—Petoskey News, Jan. 5.

FOURTH GENERATION IN AN UNBROKEN LINE

Lots of babies are blessed with grandparents and great-grandparents, but it falls to the lot of baby Lyle Wageman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Wageman of East Jordan to be in the fourth generation in an unbroken line on both sides, with the exception of his great-grandmother, Mrs. Oscar Wageman, who passed away in 1919. On his mother's side are her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Capelin, and Mr. and Mrs. William Capelin of Boyne City. On his father's side are Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Wageman of East Jordan and Oscar Wageman, also Mrs. Frank Wageman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Beers of East Jordan. Oscar Wageman, 86 years of age, was born in Germany, his grandfather being one of the officials of the government. He came to this country with his wife in 1880 and located in Boyne Falls forty years ago. He can speak several languages, is still hale and hearty and makes his home with Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Wageman. A. J. Beers, also little Lyle's great-grandfather, is 90 years of age. When eight years old, he started school at the Indian Presbyterian Mission, being one of two white children attending. He was only sixteen when he managed his own fish boat, and later married Miss Jennie Black of Charlevoix, and homesteaded the land now known as the Charlevoix Golf Club, and are now residing near East Jordan. He remembers old King Strang and the last of the controversy of the Mormons on Beaver Island, and can relate many an interesting tale of the Indian mail carriers who traveled on foot between Traverse and Mackinaw.—Petoskey News.

Not Much of Buffalo Carcass Went to Waste

It is generally known that the slaughter houses of Chicago utilize all parts of slain cattle, but it is not so well understood that the Indian of half a century ago was nearly as economical of the buffalo he shot down on the western plains. How the bison carcass was used was related by Dr. Melvin R. Gilmore, curator of ethnology of the University of Michigan Museum of Anthropology.

The flesh and fat, dried and packed in leather cases and sealed over with fat, kept as food for long periods. The hides made clothes, robes, bedding, tent covers, mocassins, ropes, skin boats and minor articles.

The shoulder blades were used in the manufacture of hoes and squash knives, spades and other tools; the long tendons were twisted into thread and made into cordage; the horns served for spoons, cups and war-club heads, and to make tops and other toys for children; the hair was twisted into yarn, the teeth were fashioned into beads, and the hoofs, musk and tough forehead skin were boiled down to glue.—New York Times Sunday Magazine.

Harbor Springs Wins 19 to 14

NORTHERN H. S. BASKETEERS TOO MUCH FOR E. JORDAN.

Harbor Springs won a very good Basketball game here Wednesday night from East Jordan—19 to 14. Advance reports gave the impression that the Harbor Springs team was rather weak this year. They showed no signs of it on the local court.

With the return of Williams at Center and Francis at Guard they have a fast, rangy, strong outfit and any of the Class "C" towns hereabouts should take the Harbor team into serious consideration. Williams has been out with a broken arm and Francis for a time was back in his work.

The preliminary game between the reserves of Harbor and East Jordan resulted 21 to 8 in favor of Harbor. East Jordan didn't display any outstanding star on the reserve squad.

The first team game started with a rush, East Jordan making five points before Harbor hardly got started. Walter Ellis grabbing the ball after the tip off on the first toss of the game and made a basket from the center of the floor. East Jordan won the first quarter 5-3. However Harbor quickly steadied and led 6-5 at the half, holding the locals scoreless. In the second half Harbor gradually pulled away to a 11-5 lead. At the beginning of the last quarter the local boys seemed to show signs of real fight and ran the score to within 3 points of the Harbor total—the score at that time being 17-14. But another rather easy basket for Harbor toward the end of the quarter left the final score 19-14.

The locals did not play a bang up game. They seemed to break rather slowly. In fact the game was a rather unusual one in many ways.

Harbor showed superior all round playing and deserved to win. They may have had a few extra breaks but possibly a better team made the breaks.

For Harbor Springs, Juilleret was the star, making three free throws and three baskets—a total of nine points. Herrick and Williams each scored four for Harbor. Ellis was the star on the local squad, making six points. Howard Sommerville made four and Martin Sommerville and Bill LaLonde two each, so that the scoring was pretty well distributed on both teams. The line-up and score follows:

Harbor Springs	East Jordan
Vivantto RF	W. Ellis
Juilleret LF	H. Sommerville
Williams C	V. Heinzelman
Gillespie RG	G. Sherman
Francis LG	W. LaLonde

Substitutions—Herrick for Vivantto, Hignite for Ellis, and M. Sommerville for Heinzelman.

Score by quarters:

	1	2	3	4
East Jordan	5	0	0	9	14
Harbor Springs	3	3	3	10	19

Referee—B. K. Buchen of Boyne City.

The next game will be a test of strength between a fast Alumni team and the High School outfit Wednesday night, Jan. 13th. Followed by a Mancelona game at Mancelona on Friday, Jan. 15th. It looks at this time as though Mancelona was the strongest Class "C" outfit in the conference. This should be a good game for some of the fans to see.

Cribbage Tournament And Roast Beef Were Features

The first of a series of cribbage tournaments between the three K. of P. Lodges, namely, East Jordan, Central Lake and Charlevoix took place Wednesday night of last week. 82 men sat down to a most excellent banquet. Roast beef was the chief dish, roasted by those brother cooks—Orrin and Ira Bartlett.

The three Lodges have had some most excellent times in the past. This perhaps climaxed their good times to date.

Central Lake and Charlevoix lodges will have to start an endurance cribbage practice first competing, as the Culbertson-Lenz bridge tournament or continue to accept defeat at the hands of the East Jordan cribbage experts. For again the latter two towns met defeat.

The average for East Jordan was 97 net, Central Lake 91 and Charlevoix 87. The captains of the teams were Art Knowles of Central Lake, Art Fitch of Charlevoix, and Dick Lewis of East Jordan. The star players of the whole tournament were Steve Covey and Joe Montroy who tied with the highest score of 163 points, followed closely for second place by Eli Bowen with 145. The next tournament will be Tuesday of next week at Central Lake.

Baseball Teams Deadlocked Again

NEW SCOREBOARD IS BEING MADE.

With the season practically half over, this year's Indoor champion is still a dark horse, hiding somewhere and evidently unable to push his head above the other three teams.

As a result of last Monday's games the League once again went into a deadlock, the Legion climbing up even with the Foundry while the Masons crawled on the same level as the Indies.

In the first game the Legion won from the Indies 14-6, and the Masons won the latter from their old rivals, the Foundry 15-13 to even the count for the season, the "Ironmen" having won the opening tilt with them.

"Squeeze" Green pitched the opener for the Legion and held the Indies well in check after the first inning.

McKinnon pitched the first two innings for the Indies. Davis went in the third and stayed until the fifth when manager Dennis crossed them up with a "Connie Mack" act and pitched the rest of the game himself. There was nothing wrong with Charlie's pitching except that it came a little too late, for the damage had already been accomplished.

Green allowed ten hits and struck out six Indies.

McKinnon allowed 12 hits in two innings. Davis, 8 hits with one strikeout in two innings and Dennis 4 hits with two strikeouts in three innings.

Score by innings:

Legion	2 5 4 2 1 0	14 24 4
Indies	3 0 2 0 0 1	6 10 6

Batteries: Green and St. Charles; McKinnon, Davis, Dennis and F. Bennett.

Although they were outit, the Masons won from the Foundry 15-13 in a close and exciting contest. The Masons grabbed the lead at the start of the game but the "Iron Boys" were always close enough to keep things interesting.

The Masons fell on Ted Malpass, who had been getting along in great shape so far this season, for 15 hits.

Roberts pitched the first four innings for the Masons. Seiler then took over the mound and remained until with one out in the seventh. Roberts was called back to check a rally which threatened to tie the score.

Malpass was touched for 15 hits and got two strikeouts in four and one-third innings. Shay gave two hits and got one strikeout in two and two-thirds innings.

Roberts allowed 11 hits and got one strikeout in four and two-thirds innings while Seiler allowed 7 hits with one strikeout in two and one-third innings.

Score by innings:

Masons	2 2 1 3 5 0	2 15 17 3
Foundry	0 1 1 4 2 3	2 13 18 5

Batteries: Roberts, Seiler and Cohen; Malpass, Shay and Griffin.

We hope to have the new scoreboard in shape for Monday night. This will give the score by innings.

Answer To Misleading Statem'ts

THAT APPEARED IN THE CHARLEVOIX COURIER UNDER DATE OF DEC. 30, 1931.

At the regular December meeting of the County Road Commissioners, I offered a resolution to divide the County equipment among the three garages, Comm'r Rouse tried to make believe it was to be divided into three districts as it was during the $350,000 road bond issue. This argument sounds about as ridiculous as opposing the $10,000 for the unemployed on M-75.

Comm'r Rouse and Comm'r Byers agreed to what the resolution called for but did not want it in writing. Perhaps, so the equipment could be handled like the distribution of the gasoline and oil for the County in the year of 1931.

Comm'r Rouse tells us of cutting expenses. The large tractor was driven past the Shell Gas Station to the General Oil Station at East Jordan to fill with gasoline and back to the Shell Gas Station where it was grading, and the crew had to wait until it got back. Last summer three good graders ran out of Boyne City, one out of Charlevoix, and one that was worn out was stationed at East Jordan. Boyne City graders had to go for miles over hard surfaced roads before they could grade south and west of East Jordan. While this was selling more gas and oil from the General Oil Stations, it made it more expensive for the county to operate from that unit. I do not believe the Board of Supervisors would consent to closing the East Jordan garage after spending over $4,000 to build it.

Comm'r Rouse tells about a larger balance in the October report. He didn't tell why we had this larger balance, first the State paid over $10,000 to maintain M-66 between East Jordan and Charlevoix. Most of the bus routes of East Jordan Consolidated Schools go over M-66 and snow plows must be stationed at county garage at East Jordan to keep roads open successfully and economically. Around $15,000 to $20,000 was paid for equipment before Mr. Rouse was a member of the Road Commissioners. Rental was being paid, from this investment into the equipment fund in the year 1931. While wages were cut, there was more gas and oil used than in previous years.

Copyrighting the Bible
Of course the Bible itself is common property. But various special or revised editions of it are copyrighted. A Bible publisher, for instance, may copyright his system of indexing or his illustrations. The American Standard Revised Version is "copyright, 1901, by Thomas Nelson & Sons, New York, to insure purity of text." Subsequent revisions have been similarly protected by their publishers or editors.

Too Efficient
The amplification of radio which brings to our ears the babble of the atoms in a mothball and the molecular clamor in the heart of an onion is all very well, but if the time ever comes when it makes vociferously audible the unuttered thoughts that we are thinking about one another behind a mask of sweet smiles the world will be filled with embarrassing moments.—Boston Transcripts.

State News in Brief

Menominee—Menominee County has been paying insurance on a building torn down eight years ago.

Grand Rapids—An experimental return to the 5-cent fare will be instituted in January by the Grand Rapids Street Railway Co. on its bus lines.

Mt. Pleasant—The Pure Oil Co. drilled in its fourth natural gas well in Broomfield Township, Isabella County. The gas flow was estimated at 4,000,000 cubic feet.

Lansing—Gov. Wilber M. Brucker overruled objections of Secretary of State Frank D. Fitzgerald and the Building Committee of the Administrative Board voted to construct a new State Police post at East Lansing.

Hillsdale—Only 18 violent deaths have been reported in Hillsdale County for 1931. There were four suicides, nine motor fatalities, two drownings, a railroad crossing death, an accidental shooting and one man was kicked to death by a horse.

Petroit—E. S. Hatheson, manager of the touring department of the Automobile Club of Michigan, has received word from Ohio, Illinois, Ontario and New York that Michigan 1931 license plates would be recognized in those states until March 1.

Charlevoix—John Priebe, a farmer of Bay Township, pleaded guilty in Circuit Court to a charge of arson for the burning of his home. He was sentenced to two to 10 years in Jackson Prison. A desire to collect insurance was said to have been the motive for his action.

Sney—An eagle, slightly wounded when it was mistaken for a hawk, was taken alive near here recently. The captive bird, which stands three feet high, has a wing spread of six feet and is believed to be about one year old. It was shipped to the Presque Isle park at Marquette.

Lansing—The Michigan State Fair showed an operating loss of $52,153 this year, according to a report by the State Accounting Division. Income from the Detroit exposition amounted to $253,584, compared with expenses of $315,737. In 1930, the loss was $36,157. The loss this year was the greatest in the history of the fair.

Kalamazoo—A 7,000,000-gallon water reservoir with connecting mains is to be built by the City of Kalamazoo during the coming year at a cost of $210,000. Bids will be received in February. Between 60 and 70 per cent of the cost will be for labor, it was announced, and the project is expected to help the unemployment situation.

Lansing—Receipts from the operation of the State ferries across the Straits of Mackinac this year were less than $2,000 below those of 1930, according to a report of the State Highway Department. Total revenue for the season just closed was $384,455 compared with $386,297 a year ago. The ferries carried 220,163 passengers and 121,000 cars.

Grand Rapids—Gale Denton, three-year-old son of Ray Denton, fell and cut his forehead while playing with Christmas toys. He was taken to a physician's office, where an anesthetic was administered so that the cut could be stitched. While his head was bent forward the food he had eaten at dinner regurgitated and he choked and died.

Lansing—Plans for paving 15 miles of M-15 between Davison and Millington "as soon as weather permits," are announced by G. C. Dillman, State highway commissioner. The Federal Government will participate in the cost. M-15 is designed as an alternate route from Toledo to Bay City. The road is paved from the intersection with U. S. 10, at Clarkston, to Davison, and from Millington to Bay City.

Detroit—Stanley Zawada, seven-year-old "gunman for a day" entered Jackson Prison to start paying the price the law exacted for the two hours during which he committed three robberies in Detroit, held a score of persons at bay with his pistol, stole three automobiles, engaged in a running gun fight with police and finally was captured near Ann Arbor. Giving an alias, he was taken to court in Ann Arbor, pleaded guilty and was sentenced and has started to serve a 25 to 40-year prison term.

Fraser—Following in the footsteps of his father, Erhard Wuggazer, of Fraser, preached his first sermon at St. John's Church there. He has been a student at Concordia Seminary, St. Louis, Mo. His father, the Rev. Theodore Wuggazer, Sr., is pastor of the Fraser church. Two other sons also are ministers. One of them, the Rev. Martin Wuggazer, is pastor of the Trinity Lutheran Church at Center Line and the other, the Rev. Theodore Wuggazer, Jr., is a minister in Birmingham.

Lansing—Michigan realized $20,179,486 through the issuance of 1931 automobile license plates, according to Frank D. Fitzgerald, secretary of state. For 1930, the collections were $21,334,209. The decrease of $1,154,723 is important to Michigan counties which annually receive back from the State an amount equal to half the weight tax (license plate) collections. Despite the fact that about 81,000 fewer automobiles were in operation, gasoline tax collections to Dec. 20 of this year were $24,142,862 as compared with $23,617,026 last year.

White Rock—Two badgers, the first seen in this section in years, were caught near here recently by four farmers, George Admer, Richard Huffman, Joseph Rodgers and Carl McNiece, who had set out with hounds to round up the chicken thieves that have been at work in the vicinity of late. The badgers, which weigh about 25 pounds each, are believed to be the guilty parties. They were cornered and captured after a hard fight in a wooded tract about 100 yards from the Hugman farm.

Albion—Jumping in front of a train, Robert C. Taylor, 67, engineer, designer and inventor, was killed here. He was superintendent of three Michigan Electric Railway shops.

Battle Creek—Charles Chidester, 93 years old, known as "Battle Creek's Burbank" for his experiments with grapes, is dead. He developed the Chidester grape and the T. T. Lyon variety.

Spices in History

A favorite dish of wealthy medieval Romans was "liver of the capon, steeped in milk and becafcioes, and dressed with pepper." Dante refers to one Niccolo di Stenna, "who first the spices' luxury discovered." The pharaohs of Egypt were after death preserved with spices, whose antiseptic and preservative qualities were as famed as their fragrance and flavor in those times.

At one time Venice controlled the trade in spices, which were brought overland from the Orient in immense caravans until the sea route around the Cape of Good Hope was discovered by the Portuguese. It was in quest of a shorter route to the East Indies, home of the spices, that Columbus was sent off by Queen Isabella on the voyage which resulted in the discovery of America.

Smelt are now being caught in such large numbers from the docks at Boyne City that local residents are seeking an outside market for them, according to Ed. Duell, Conservation Officer. Until this year smelt could be taken by hook and line only in deer water and through the ice in Lake Charlevoix. Now they are crowding toward shallow water. Most of the hook and line fishing is being done at night. Many individuals have reported catches of from 300 to 400 of these species in a single night. The smelt are selling for 1c each in Boyne City.

The funeral of A. J. Maynard, former Boyne City, Kalkaska and Traverse City banker and business man, was held Wednesday at Traverse City. Michigan farmers are the most prosperous agriculturists in the United States, a compilation by the federal census bureau shows. Seventy nine per cent of the farmers of Michigan own automobiles while only 58 per cent have cars for the United States as a whole. There are 150,922 cars on 133,565 farms in the State, indicating that many farmers own more than one automobile. Twenty-one per cent of the State farmers own trucks, compared with 13 per cent for the United States. There were 36,768 trucks on 34,894 farms. About 19.5 per cent of all farms had tractors, while only 13.5 per cent of the farms of the United States possess "iron horses."

Early hatching of commercial species of fish is expected in various hatcheries because of continued mild weather and high water temperatures, the fish division of the department of conservation said recently. Trout eggs hatched in late January and early February last year while whitefish hatched in early March, nearly a month earlier than in ordinary winters. Similar conditions prevail this year and an early hatch is expected. Approximately 134,000,000 lake trout and whitefish eggs are now hatching in federal and state stations in Michigan. Of these 7,590 quarts or 48,500,000 eggs are lake trout and 2,140 quarts or 85,500,000 eggs are whitefish. Taking of spawn this year was much less than during 1930, the department reports.

More than twice as many timber wolves were taken by State hunters during 1931 than were taken in 1929, a report received by the department of conservation from H. P. Williams, leader of predatory animal control. During the past year State hunters took 898 predatory animals including 71 timber wolves. During 1929 the catch totalled 739 predators including 34 wolves. Among other predatory species taken during the past year were 666 coyotes and 161 bobcats.

Several schools in Ionia County have already been forced to pay their teachers—in scrips due to lack of funds and plans have been announced by the Ionia city school board for the strictest of economies to make the $20,000 which remains in its treasury last as long as possible. The Ionia board later will be able to borrow against delinquent taxes, but that course is not open to some others. A number of school boards found their funds tied up by the closing of banks last fall.

Marriage Rate Among Youths Is Increasing

St. Louis, Mo.—The marriage rate among young people between eighteen and twenty-four has been steadily increasing since 1900, Peter Kasius, executive secretary of the Missouri Social Hygiene association, said here.

Twice as many girls between the ages of fifteen and nineteen marry on the Pacific coast as compared with the number of marriages between the same ages in the New England states, Kasius said.

"Climatic conditions, religious views, social upheavals and cultural, economic and educational factors influence such young marriages," Kasius declared.

Trio Kill 67 Rattlers in One Hour's Time

Great Falls, Mont.—Three young men recently killed 67 rattlesnakes within an hour in the hills four miles north of Vaughan near here.

Many of the snakes were from five to six feet in length and some of them were ten years old. The snake hunters said there were probably 500 of the reptiles in a small area. Most of them were found in rabbit holes.

It was believed that the snakes were preparing to "hole-up" for the winter when they were found by the men.

Enforce Uniform Dress to Keep Girls in School

Port Huron, Mich.—Miss Margaret Franklin, Port Huron high school, dean of women, was responsible for the enforcing of the rule requiring a uniform dress for all girl students. The rule, which requires a garb of middles and skirts, is to be rigidly enforced to prevent a further decrease in the enrollment, as many students have left the school because they were unable to dress as well as other girls, according to Miss Franklin.

Forestry Service Man Wins Fishing Honors

Kemmerer, Wyo.—Wyoming fishing honors for 1931 went to Bert Cheeseman, a member of the United States forest service, who caught a 14-pound trout in the Green river. Cheeseman battled the fish, which was the largest rainbow trout ever taken in western Wyoming, for nearly an hour before he landed him. Cheeseman used a small reel and the usual tackle to land the fish which was 30 inches long.

The Men on the Dead Man's Chest

By Clifford Raymond

Ingredients of this very different mystery story:

GORE—Many buckets of blood. But very expert blood letting, we assure you. Not fifteen murders, as you might suppose from the old song, but enough, all very deftly accomplished, all very satisfactory, and a hint of more at the end which can leave nothing to be desired.

GATS—Of course. The story opens in the Dutch Mill dance restaurant on the near North Side of Chicago.

GALLANTRY—Of a sort. Every one wanted to take care of poor Maisie, though she always fixed her clock so she never had a chance at a breach of promise suit and never got within miles of alimony or a dowry. And the Tiger-Lily inspired ardor to a shivery degree.

GAIETY—More of this than anything. The most entertaining, unexpected and erudite foot-notes. Is the gentle author's tongue in his cheek?

Fashion Yields to Lure of Velvet

BY CHERIE NICHOLAS

WITH each passing hour, more velvet-minded grows the world of fashion. The "reason why" for this ever-increasing enthusiasm for velvet is perfectly simple and logical, seeing that, clad in it, every woman always appears at her loveliest.

Then, too, this gesture of glamorous beauty which velvet ever makes, is as much a matter of fact during the day as during the night hours and vice versa. Designers are particularly glorifying the name of velvet, this season, in that they are emphasizing its charm with striking accents of white fur, preferably ermine or fox. The two evening wraps and the formal afternoon jacket suit pictured tell a story of typical trends.

In her deluxe suit of black velvet trimmed with an ermine scarf collar, the debutante, posed at the top to the left in this group, lacks nothing in the way of swank when it comes to smart restaurant or afternoon tea-time apparel. A white satin blouse fastening at the neck in a casual bow adds to the soft lure of this costume. Made-moiselle is hatted with a jaunty little velvet tricorne. Of course it sports a captivating veil with dotted border—most hats do, or should do to qualify as being "to the mode."

The velvet suit whether it has a short jacket or a three-quarter coat is proving a theme of outstanding importance. Not only is black velvet chosen for these dressy costumes but velvet in rich greens, wine-reds, browns and other delectable hues finds equal favor. When one considers the versatile moods a velvet suit may be made to express through tuning the blouse worn with it to the occasion, the investment becomes one of economy rather than extravagance. Tailored satin or silk crepe is the general rule for the Informal blouse with most luxurious sheer metal cloths or exquisite lace for the very dressy bodice.

As to the evening wrap made of velvet, it holds the center of the stage. It may be as fanciful, as demure or as sophisticated as you please. It may be short or it may be floor length or it may stop anywhere between. The two types shown here are extremely interesting, each having an individuality of its very own.

The short wrap, shown to the right, with its caplike sleeves is a pretty caprice which attracts immediate attention because of its unusualness. Its borderings of ermine interpret the black and white note effectively. There is an under-bell-shaped sleeve which ends in an ermine band just below the elbow. Gardenias are the only decoration on the neckline.

The lovely semi-fitted wrap, below in the picture, as seen in the original, is of flame-colored transparent velvet, its styling with a unique treatment of scallops at once calls forth admiration. The bell sleeves and the hemline of this charming coat flare in a harmony of lines. The gorgeous white fox collar adds a note of enchantment. This model would be ever so smart developed in black velvet with the white fox for striking contrast.

Not every velvet wrap depends upon fur trimming to give it distinction. Some of the most outstanding have no other adornment save a mass of intricate shirring or perhaps a garniture of cleverly twisted or braided effects of self-velvet.

ARMS BEAR BURDEN OF NEW SMARTNESS

The sleeves must be different if the winter frock is to be a sartorial success. Mildly has become so sleeve conscious that it must be trying for the designer to think up new and better sleeves for each succeeding model. Even leg-o'-mutton sleeves still persist, though in modified design.

Just now, afternoon frocks are re-joycing in bishop sleeves, that wide, full sleeve beloved by the younger woman. The full part of that type of sleeve is generally in a color contrasting with the body of the frock, or if the dress is black, white lawn or georgette is usually favored.

Then, for dinner wear, we have glittery, gleaming sleeves made entirely of sequins or else of net embroidered with strass or colored stones.

When the sleeve is tight and perfectly plain, it is generally cut with an almost geometric precision, so that it gets easily. But never, never, is a sleeve entirely devoid of novelty or interest. Not even in the least expensive frock, which, after all, is only a duplicate of its more costly sister.

New Wrapped Waistline Not for Stout Women

Not satisfied with quietly raising our waistlines, fashion now goes in for advertising the fact by means of girdles that wrap around well up over the waistline, and a few inches below. This is a fashion meant for the slender, and of which the generously proportioned woman must be chary. Evening gowns frequently introduce a wide girdle of crystal or colored bead embroidered material around the waist. Often a contrasting color makes this wrapped girdle more emphatic.

Net Ruffles Used to Bedeck Evening Gowns

One will delight in the chance to wear ruffles this season when it comes to dressing in evening gowns especially. Chanel has made a gown that is one mass of narrow net ruffles extending from heel to very low neckline. They are made of net and palely tinted.

COLOR CONTRAST

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Note the smart diagonal fastening of the stunning blouse which is posed over one of the new straight-of-line skirts which are so fashionable. The ensemble combines two novelty woolen weaves, the material for the skirt being in black with a blouse in the popular spanish tile which always contrasts effectively with brown or black. The scarf and the cuff edgings are of black boucle. The square buttons are in black and red. The black felt hat is edged with krummer. Very smart are the black patent leather oxfords which are worn with this striking outfit; likewise, the patent leather bag which milady carries. Ornamental stitching done in ecru enhances the shoes.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

(By REV. F. E. FITZWATER, D. D., Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(© 1931, Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for January 10

THE FIRST DISCIPLES

LESSON TEXT—John 1:19-51.
GOLDEN TEXT—The next day John seeth Jesus coming unto him, and saith, Behold the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Makes Five New Friends.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Makes Five New Friends.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What It Means to Follow Jesus.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Bringing Others to Christ.

I. John Pointing out the Lamb of God (vv. 19-34).

Through the testimony of John the Baptist, his disciples were directed to Jesus. His theme was "The Lamb of God, the Sin-bearer of the World."

II. Two of John's Disciples Followed Jesus (vv. 35-37).

As a result of the Baptist's testimony, two of his disciples left him and followed Jesus. One of these disciples was Andrew (v. 40) and presumably the other was John, the apostle. When John pointed out Jesus as the Lamb of God, the long-expected Messiah, these disciples sought further acquaintance with Jesus. Through John's testimony, they looked upon the Lord. When they looked, they believed. The proof of their belief was their following after him. John speaks, the disciples hear and follow. The whole plan of salvation is wrapped up in this simple testimony and action.

III. The Two Disciples Abiding with Jesus (vv. 38, 39).

1. Jesus' question (v. 38). Seeing the disciples following him, Jesus' most kindly inquired as to their object.

2. The disciples' reply (v. 39). They answered his question by inquiring as to his dwelling place. Their reply showed their desire to go apart privately where they could disclose their hearts to him. Knowing their hearts, he invited them to his place of abode. Therefore, for the remainder of that day they held sweet intercourse with the Master.

IV. The Disciples Bringing Others to Jesus (vv. 40-46).

This portion of the lesson is one of the most inspiring passages of the Bible for the encouragement of soul winning.

The very genius of Christianity is self-propagation. The usual method is to begin with those nearest us—home folk and relatives—and then pass out to ever widening circles. The disciples, who were with Jesus in blessed fellowship, go at once to tell others of the priceless treasure they have found.

1. Andrew brings Peter (vv. 40-42).

This is a beautiful example of brotherly affection, expressing itself in bringing another to Christ. The best place to begin our testimony to Christ is among our kinsfolk (Luke 8:30). This was a great piece of work for Andrew, for Peter became one of the pillars of the church of God. This was in keeping with what Christ announced, for when Jesus beheld him he said, "Thou art Simon, the son of John. Thou shalt be called Cephas"—meaning a stone.

2. Philip bringing Nathanael (vv. 43-46). Christ found Philip the following day as he would go forth into Galilee. Philip followed him in response to a personal invitation. Then Philip found Nathanael and witnessed to him concerning the messiahship of Jesus. He said unto him, "We have found him, of whom Moses in the law and the prophets did write, Jesus of Nazareth" (v. 45). Christ is the sum and substance of the Old Testament. Nathanael was somewhat skeptical, but was honest. The proper thing is to invite the skeptical to put Christ to a test. Christianity welcomes inquiry.

V. Nathanael Seeing and Hearing Jesus: Testifies to His Deity (vv. 47-49).

As soon as Nathanael heard and saw Jesus, all his doubts rolled away. Jesus proved that he was the omniscient One. We do not know what Nathanael was doing under the fig tree. Perhaps he was praying for heavenly light and guidance. Jesus saw him while there. He who is willing to be led shall surely come to the light (John 7:17). He who acts upon the light given shall see greater things (vv. 50, 51). Angels ascending and descending upon the Son of man with the open heavens show that Jesus Christ is the means of communication between earth and heaven (Heb. 10:19, 20; Eph. 2:18; Gen. 28:12).

This narrative concerning the experiences of the first disciples exhibits the following stages of Christian experience:

1. Hearing about Jesus (v. 36).
2. Looking upon Jesus (v. 36).
3. Following Jesus (v. 37).
4. Abiding with Jesus (v. 39).
5. Witnessing for Jesus (vv. 41-45).
6. Bringing others to Jesus.

The Present Duty
Between the great things we cannot do, and the small things we will not do, there is great danger that we shall do nothing. There are not a few people waiting for an opportunity to be heroes, or something unusually brilliant, who in the meanwhile are not ordinary useful citizens.

Meet God
"Meet God in the secret place each day before you come in contact with the world."

Machine to Prevent Erosion

In some parts of this country a great deal of land is lost by erosion. Valuable top soil is washed away by rainstorms, leaving worthless soil which cannot be utilized for any purpose whatever. This loss is frequently very serious, for in the course of time an entire field may be affected. Government scientists have been giving the matter some attention and have developed a machine which is said to overcome the action of the elements. It is a plow with several shovel-like blades with an alternating vertical motion, and as it passes over the ground it leaves a series of small hills and hollows. The water is held and allowed to sink into the ground instead of passing over it and carrying the soil with it.

Fight COLDS

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil contains a wealth of Vitamin A. This increases resistance to those winter colds that are apt to spread through the family. So smooth is this emulsion, so pleasantly flavored, that it lacks the fishy taste usually associated with cod liver oil. Doctors recommend it for men and women. Scott & Bowne, Bloomfield, N. J. Intricacies of Kinship Part of Southern Life

Perhaps one of the most characteristic modes of behavior in the South is the business of kinship, in which particular the southerner surpasses even the New Englander. Howard Mumford Jones writes, in Scribner's Magazine. It sometimes seems to me that everybody in Virginia or South Carolina or Georgia is related to everybody else.

If a marriage takes place, the fact is conversationally recorded; then comment turns at once to the question of the family ramifications involved. If a political appointment is announced, it soon appears that the appointee is cousin to somebody else.

The system is so intricate that the tactful northerner, after one or two unhappy blunders, learns to preface any comment on a public character, literary, political, or what not, with the polite hope that the subject's relatives will not misunderstand his remarks.

In a day when the family is supposed to be breaking up, the business of "claiming kin" in the South probably is less patent than it used to be; yet it is one of the most powerful forces in southern life, and one the implications of which, I believe, few southerners realize.

Early Paper Money
 In Europe paper to represent money first came into use, apparently, during the Middle Ages when the Jewish financiers of those days reinvented the bills of exchange of Babylonia and recorded them in ink on parchment and paper.

The Bank of St. George at Genoa and the Bank of Venice were the first corporations to use paper money. Their bills were bullion certificates. Because the use of these receipts were so much more convenient than carrying about heavy bags of gold and silver, they became popular with merchants and even circulated at a premium over coin.—Detroit News.

Denver Mother Tells Story

Nature controls all the functions of our digestive organs except one. We have control over that, and it's the function that causes the most trouble.

See that your children form regular bowel habits, and at the first sign of bad breath, coated tongue, biliousness or constipation, give them a little California Fig Syrup. It regulates the bowels and stomach and gives these organs tone and strength so they continue to act as Nature intends them to. It helps build up and strengthen pale, listless, underweight children. Children love its rich, fruity taste and it's purely vegetable, so you can give it as often as your child's appetite lags or he seems feverish, cross or fretful.

Leading physicians have endorsed it for 50 years, and its overwhelming sales record of over four million bottles a year shows how mothers depend on it. A Western mother, Mrs. R. W. Stewart, 4112 Raritan St., Denver, Colorado, says: "Raymond was terribly pulled down by constipation. He got weak, fretful and cross, had no appetite or energy and food seemed to sour in his stomach. California Fig Syrup had him romping and playing again in just a few days, and soon he was back to normal weight, looking better than he had looked in months."

Protect your child from imitations of California Fig Syrup. The mark of the genuine is the word "California" on the carton.

BY ELMO SCOTT WATSON

JANUARY 17 is the anniversary of the birth of Benjamin Franklin and many Americans of many different trades and professions who claim him as one of their own will join in honoring his memory on that date. For "the many-sided Franklin" and "Franklin, the versatile," have become proverbial in referring to this man. But no trade or profession has a better claim on him nor a better reason to celebrate his birthday than the printers and publishers of this country. For it was as a printer that he got his start in life. It was as "B. Franklin, Printer," that he first made his mark in the affairs of colonial America, it was under that title that he first became a publisher and, for all the world-wide fame that he attained as a statesman, a philosopher and a scientist, he retained a keen interest in printing and publishing to the end of his days.

"I doubt if Franklin would have attained to his eminence among the immortals, if it were not for his good fortune—and the world's good fortune, to have learned the printing trade," writes Henry Lewis Bullen, founder of the Typographic Library and Museum at Jersey City, N. J. In the book "The Amazing Benjamin Franklin," published in recent years by the Frederick A. Stokes company, "His father wanted him to be a tallow candle. Had he obeyed, I fear that his fame, if any, would have been local to Boston. There is nothing inspiring or forceful in tallow or its products, but which of all civilization's greater forces can equal the power of the printer's types?—truly none.

"Franklin was a diffident man, by no means an orator, timid about rising to speak—an unwilling speaker—averse to the arts by which politicians gain their fame and purposes. Invariably he sought to influence his countrymen and their friends by means of his leaden types, composed in his own shop. They gained him a world-wide audience, which was convinced by their silent but wide-extended voices that their master was uttering the profoundest wisdom in the guise of common sense—the most uncommon element in men's conduct. Benjamin Franklin used many forces successfully in his unparalleled career, but his most powerful thunderbolts were found in the cases holding his 'invaluable' printing types."

Franklin's career as a printer started in 1718 when he was twelve years old. He was apprenticed to his brother, James Franklin, a printer, who was publishing the New England Courant in Boston. Young Ben secretly wrote articles for the Courant and was delighted when his brother, not knowing their authorship, published them until James Franklin discovered the sources of them and severely lectured young Ben for his presumption. But when James Franklin was imprisoned for printing in the Courant articles which gave offense to the colonial assembly and prohibited from printing the Courant any longer, he was glad enough to have it issued under the name of his brother, whose indenture was thereupon cancelled. So at the early age of seventeen, young Ben became a newspaper editor and publisher.

This arrangement did not last very long, however, and because of differences which arose between the two brothers, Ben left the Courant and started out for new fields. Disappointed in his hope of finding work as a printer in New York, he went on to Philadelphia and there he obtained a position as a printer for Samuel Keimer, who had one of the two printing establishments in the Quaker city. Encouraged by which he placed under the management of his grandson, Benjamin Franklin Bache, the son of his beloved daughter, Sarah Franklin Bache, Franklin retained his interest in this printing business to the end of his days, constantly giving his grandson the benefit of his experience and having a sort of general supervision over the enterprise. Then on April 17, 1790, the busy career of Benjamin Franklin ended in the city where he had risen to his first fame—Philadelphia. He was buried in Christ Church Burying Ground there. However much his simple soul would be remembered as "B. Franklin, Printer," his relatives evidently thought that an epitaph befitting his world-wide fame was more appropriate than likening him to an "old book." So the epitaph which he had written for himself nearly a half century before was not placed upon the stone of his grave.

In attempting to evaluate the services of Benjamin Franklin as a printer and a publisher, one is confronted with the same wealth of material which characterized all of his other activities. So it is difficult to pick out the things which can be designated as his greatest contribution to the journalism of this nation. This general statement, however, can be made: Franklin was as far in advance of his times as an editor and a publisher as he was in many of his other roles. Many of the innovations in the newspaper business which we regard as modern developments are nothing more than a repetition of their successful use by Franklin.

Among his outstanding achievements in the printing and publishing business and allied industries are these:

He was the first to attempt to illustrate the news in an American newspaper and also the first to publish questions and answers in a newspaper.

He made the first newspaper cartoon, the famous picture of a snake cut into sections to represent the colonies before the Revolution—a powerful pictorial editorial which was widely copied and used by other patriot newspapers.

He was instrumental in establishing 18 paper mills in the colonies.

He was the first "to turn to great account the engine of advertising, now an indispensable element in modern business."

He was the first proponent of the "chain newspaper idea." He did this by setting up in business young journeymen printers, supplying printing office equipment, paying one-third of the running expenses and receiving one-third of the net profits, an arrangement which was an advantage to all concerned. He established such "branches" in seven different places: Charleston, S. C.; Antigua and Jamaica in the West Indies; New York city; Lancaster, Pa.; New Haven, Conn., and in Georgia.

Of Franklin's idealism in his work as a printer and an editor, we find this revealing statement in his autobiography:

"In the conduct of my newspaper, I carefully excluded all libelling and personal abuse, which has of late years become so disgraceful to our country. Whenever I was solicited to insert anything of that kind, and the writers pleaded, as they generally did, the liberty of the press, and that a newspaper was like a stage-coach, in which anyone who would pay had a right to a place, my answer was that I would print the piece separately if desired, and the author might have as many copies as he pleased to distribute himself, but that I would not take upon me to spread his detraction; and that, having contracted with my subscribers to furnish them with what might be either useful or entertaining, I could not fill their papers with private altercation, in which they had no concern, without doing them manifest injustice.

"Now, many of our printers make no scruple of gratifying the malice of individuals by false accusations of the fairest characters among ourselves, augmenting animosity even to the producing of duels; and are, moreover, so indiscreet as to print scurrilous reflections on the government of neighboring states, and even on the conduct of our best national allies, which may be attended with the most pernicious consequences. These things I mention as a caution to young printers, and that they may be encouraged not to pollute their presses and disgrace their profession by such infamous practices, but refuse steadily, as they may see by my example that such a course of conduct will not, on the whole, be injurious to their interests."

Sir William Keith, the governor of Pennsylvania, to set up in business for himself, Franklin started to go to London to buy equipment for a print shop. The help which Keith had promised to give him was not forthcoming and young Ben found himself stranded in the British capital. But the energetic young colonial was soon employed at Samuel Palmer's printing house in London and after that in the printery of John Watts, one of the leading craftsmen of the time.

Franklin spent 14 months in England, then returned to Philadelphia and went to work again in Keimer's shop, this time as foreman. At once he demonstrated the initiative and ingenuity which was to characterize his whole life. Keimer's supply of type was limited and his wants could not be satisfied without sending to England. So Foreman Franklin made a mold for casting letters and supplied his employer with the type which he needed.

In 1728 he formed a partnership with a certain Hugh Meredith, with Meredith furnishing most of the money for the enterprises and Franklin most of the brains. It was at this time that he wrote the famous epitaph which he hoped would be placed on his gravestone when he died and which, from its tone, indicated that he desired no higher honor than to be known as "B. Franklin, Printer." That was the name which appeared over his print shop when Meredith withdrew from the partnership two years later.

In the meantime Franklin had bought out the Pennsylvania Gazette, a newspaper started by Keimer soon after Franklin left his employ. A short time after he had assumed sole management of the printing business, he was appointed public printer by the Pennsylvania assembly. In 1732 he wrote and began publication of his famous "Poor Richard's Almanack," the average sale of which was for 25 years more than 10,000 copies annually. Franklin was not only a good printer and a good editor but he was also a good business man, so his printing enterprise flourished so well that in 1748 at the age of forty-two he was able to retire from active business. He had accumulated a substantial fortune and was now ready to devote his time to his scientific experiments and his great variety of other interests. Although his partner, David Hall, took active charge of the printing business in 1748, Franklin retained a financial interest in it until 1765. Then the wider field of statesmanship called him. He went to London as agent for Pennsylvania in the dispute with the Mother Country over taxation and soon found himself the bold defender of the rights of all the American colonies.

But even though the years which followed found him busy with many other affairs, Franklin never got entirely away from his first love—the printing business. In the memorable year of 1776 while he was representing the new nation in Paris, he established a small printing office in the French capital to be used for propaganda purposes and incidentally as a school of printing for his two grandsons. When he left France he was one of the most famous men of his time. But at heart he was still "B. Franklin, Printer," so he brought home to America with him the printing equipment he had used in Paris and a complete type foundry, both of

PROGRAM

Friday, Dec. 18 we had a very nice program which was enjoyed by the High School, Junior High and many older folks. The program consisted of a play given by a few seventh grade girls. Songs were sung by Paul Sutton of Central Lake, and the Girl's Glee Club. Buddy Porter played a Xylophone solo. Music was "broadcast" by the "Five Pals," Alba Brooks, Albert Omland, Alfred Crowell, Bud-Thomas and Dale Kiser. This was a very good number which consisted of mouth organs, guitars, and the piano. ENGLISH

The first two English classes had a review Monday. The funny thing was that they remembered everything except what they had studied the very last day before vacation.

The English three class is reading Tennyson's "Idylls of the King." They find several differences in his treatment of the subject matter than in Malory's, one of which is his use of allegory and he shows the life of his own time through his writings instead of just King Arthur's time.

The fourth year English class is studying the eighteenth century literature. Many authors such as Steele and Addison and the writers of "Robinson Crusoe" and "Gulliver's Travels" enter into this study. It is interesting because it is the beginning of the later pleasures we find in literature today and it is also the beginning of journalistic work.

Perhaps no spot in the Holy land, is cherished more reverently than Jacob's well at the entrance of the valley of Shechem. Times has little changed the appearance of this hallowed spot since Jesus is said to have revealed himself to an inquirer here as the long-promised Messiah. The landscape on which his eyes rested 19 centuries ago stretches out before one's eyes today as unimpaired of the lapse of centuries as though it were only yesterday. He journeyed amid its scenes, healing the sick. This is the vision many will cherish through the years as one of the unique experiences of life.

Suppress Emotion and Live Long, Says Doctor

The very best way to lengthen your days, according to Doctor Ortle, head of the Cleveland clinic, is to live without emotion. Love and hate injure the bodily organs, and lay the foundations of such diseases as diabetes, high blood pressure and heart disease; whereas, more selfishness and callousness, presumably, conduce to old age—though whether they supply the troops of friends that Shakespeare stipulates as the consolation for old age is a more doubtful proposition.

It is possible, of course, that Doctor Ortle is right, and that humanity would live longer if it lived as coolly as a fish. It is by no means certain, however, that those who repress their emotions escape altogether from the ill that flesh is heir to, and in any event, some of us may hold that life on such terms is hardly worth living.

First American Iron Works

In 1841 G. W. Scranton of Oxford, N. J., attracted by the rich deposits of iron and coal in the Luzerne valley, Pennsylvania, bought a tract of land there and established iron works. He was later joined there by S. T. Scranton, W. E. Dodge, a director in the Erie Railroad company, who knew the Scrantons conceived the idea of having the Scrantons make rails for the Erie railroad. The company was having difficulties in getting rails from England, and the cost was excessive. A contract was made with the Scrantons to furnish 12,000 tons of rails at $48 a ton, which was about half the cost of the English rails. Dodge and others advanced the money to purchase the necessary machinery, and the rails were ready for delivery in the spring of 1847.

FISH-JAW OIL IS SOARING IN PRICE

Used for Lubricating Delicate Mechanisms.

Washington.—Because the increasing numbers of aeronautical instruments, watches and other delicate mechanisms are causing a shortage in the supply of fish-jaw oil, a government agency has undertaken a survey of the sources of such lubricants. Oil from the jaws of porpoises and blackfish, which now is chiefly used to lubricate these mechanisms, has soared in price.

"For two centuries porpoises have been taken in nets off Cape Hatteras," says a bulletin from the National Geographic society. "Today they are also fished along the coast of Finmark, the northernmost province of Norway and along the Atlantic shore near Morehead, North Carolina."

"Porpoises winter off the South Atlantic coast. Schools may be seen almost daily, passing just outside the surf. The largest animals reach a length of seven feet and weigh about 300 pounds."

Porpoise Fishing.

"The porpoise fishermen are as expert as fishermen who literally live in the codfish fisheries off New England and Newfoundland. Lookouts are stationed on the beach above and below the point where the porpoise fishers await signals. When a school of porpoises is sighted, boats equipped with large seines are launched. The seines are joined, forming a semicircular pen with one end secured to the beach. The netmen are able to watch the progress of a school of porpoises by the position of the lookout who walks along the beach abreast the school."

"When the animals enter the pen, the offshore end of the net is rushed ashore. The porpoises lunge at the net and attempt to jump over and dive under the mesh, but fishermen are usually stationed in boats outside the pen to scare the surging animals toward the shore. Near the beach a smaller net is laid around the main portion of the school which is beached first. Then the remainder of the school is swept in by the larger net."

"Although jaw oil is an important product of porpoise fisheries, the animals also are valuable for their body oil, which is extracted from the blubber by boiling."

Blubber a Delicacy.

"In northern Norway the blubber is eaten by the fisherfolk who consider it superior to many other sea foods. The fish not consumed is salted for exportation, while the entrails and bones make good fertilizer. For many years the Indians along the Maine coast have supported themselves by capturing porpoises."

"Porpoise meat also is consumed aboard whaling boats. Whalers capture porpoises by harpooning. The blubber not consumed is cut into longitudinal strips 4 to 5 inches wide, then minced, and placed in pots to boil. Each animal yields about two gallons of body oil. Porpoise jaw oil is produced by removing the animal's lower jaw and extracting the oil-containing blubber, which is boiled gently. A single jaw contains about a half pint of jaw oil."

"Blackfish jaw oil is of equal merit for lubrication. These fish, which widely range the Atlantic ocean, are usually captured by harpooning."

"These men deserve all the attention and consideration we can give them," Percy Stephens, representing the architect, said.

Chicken Thieves Leave

Poem in Poultry House

Ashgrove, Mo.—Chicken thieves are getting poetic, farmers living near here reported to Sheriff Marcell Hendrix recently.

One Ashgrove farmer went to his poultry yard in the morning and found his entire flock of chickens gone except one hen and an old rooster.

Posted in a prominent place in the poultry house, was this note: "We steal from the rich— "We steal from the poor: "We leave these two so you can raise some more."

Island of Cyprus Once Famous for Its Copper

Cyprus and copper are synonymous. In ancient times the island was famous as the best-known source of the red metal that made the Bronze age possible, says a bulletin of the National Geographic society. But whether the island was named for copper, or copper for the island, remains one of the mysteries of history.

What is left of Cyprus' copper ores is not rich, but an American company works the mines and removes considerable quantities of the mineral. This, and a British company mining asbestos; the amber (a paint pigment) diggings; a silk reeling plant, and several cigarette factories constitute the island's industrial plants.

The only railway is narrow gauge, about 75 miles long, extending across the island from east to west.

The men have a distinctive costume—a straw hat with a mushroom brim, a plain shirt, sometimes with a jacket; voluminous Turkish trousers whose seats are tucked into their belts for cross-country walking, and heavy leather boots with their tops turned down and tied above the calf.

The Moslems wear a kërchief with lace flower fringes about their red turbans, and pink and orange shirts, blue trousers and purple stockings.

Tut-Ankh-Amen's Wife

The beautiful head of a princess, carved in limestone and delicately painted, is the gem of an exhibition representing the results of excavations by the Egypt Exploration society at Amarna and Armant. The head is no bigger than a walnut, yet the details are perfect. It was found in a house in the slum quarter of Amarna, and is believed to belong to a seated statue of Ankhepaaten, wife of Tut-Ankh-Amen. There is also a crock of gold, found with much other silver and gold treasure, supposed to have been a robber's hoard. A large collection of jewelry dates back, some of it, five or six thousand years.
