EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 14, 1932.

NUMBER 42

Gov. Brucker At Petoskey

ON OCT. 20th FOR CAMPAIGN ADDRESS.

Announcement has been made of arrangements for a Republican rally at Petoskey on the evening of Thursday, Oct. 20, at which time Governor Wilber M. Brucker will make the principal address. The rally will include, in addition to Emmet County, the counties of Charlevoix, Antrim, Otsego, Cheboygan, Presque Isle and Montmorency, and through the newspapers of those counties an invitation will be extended to all Republicans to attend the meeting.

Chairman John A. Lake of the Emmet County Republican committee plans to hold the meeting in the Pennsylvania Park if weather is favorable, and in the Temple Theatre if not.

Governor Brucker is known to have many personal friends and supporters in Emmet and surrounding counties, who have desired his presence here for a campaign talk before the elections of Nov. 8th.

This week the Governor speaks in Detroit, Mt. Clemens, Flint, Lansing and Jackson, closing the week at Monroe. During the third week of October he will preside in the dedication of a portion of the new cement road between St. Ignace and Sault Ste. Marie, which occurs on the day following his talk in Petoskey.

MRS. R. ATKINSON TAKEN BY DEATH LAST TUESDAY

Mrs. Robert Atkinson passed away suddenly at her farm home in Wilson Township, Tuesday, Oct. 11th, 1932, following a 2 1/2 weeks illness from a carbuncle and spinal meningitis.

Edna Leda LaValley was born at Mancelona, Michigan, August 25, 1886, her parents being Mr. and Mrs. George LaValley. She came to East Jordan in 1895 and in 1903 was united in marriage to Robert Atkinson at East Jordan. They resided here until 1926 when they moved to Flint, Mich., where they made their home until May, 1932, when they returned here and located on a farm in Wilson Township. She was a member of the M. E. Church and, in fraternal circles, a member of the Mystic Workers and the Rebekahs.

Deceased is survived by her husband; a daughter, Mrs. Grace Fairchild of 6406 W. Fort St., Detroit; her father, George LaValley of East Jordan, and the following brothers and sisters: Guy and Seth LaValley, East Jordan; George Jr., and William LaValley, Detroit; Clinton LaValley, Muskegon Heights; Mrs. Nettie Peterson, Detroit; and Mrs. Emma Hayner of Flint.

Funeral services were held from the East Jordan Methodist Church, Thursday afternoon, Oct. 13th, conducted by the pastor, Rev. James Leitch. Burial was at Sunset Hill.

SUPERVISORS PREFER CHARGES AGAINST ROUSE

At the Wednesday meeting of the Charlevoix County Board of Supervisors, charges of irregularities in office were preferred against Highway Commissioner, L. C. Rouse of Boyne City, and a date of hearing set for next Monday, Oct. 17th, at 8:00 a. m.

At a previous meeting of the Board, N. J. Rovick of Boyne City was elected County Poor Commissioner to succeed Jerome Cole.

William K. Straw of Marion Township was elected Road Commissioner to succeed W. E. Byers whose term of office expires and who was not a candidate for re-election.

ROBERT MCBRIDE DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Robert Young McBride passed away at his home in East Jordan, Saturday, Oct. 8th, 1932, following an illness of over a year from carcinoma.

Mr. McBride was born in Benbrook Ontario, Dec. 15th, 1872, his parents being Joseph and Eleanor McBride. On Dec. 20th, 1899 he was united in marriage to Emma Secord at Tilsonburg, Ont. They came to the United States and Michigan in 1904 and located at Deward, Mich., when that town was a thriving lumbering center. In 1914 they came to East Jordan and have since made this city their home. Mr. McBride was a member of the Presbyterian Church, a meat cutter and clerk by occupation, and for recreation was an ardent sportsman.

Deceased is survived by his wife and three daughters: Mrs. Kit Carson of East Jordan; Miss Aura McBride of Kent City, and Mrs. Kenneth Brown of Stockbridge, Mich. Also a grandson, Robert G. Brown, and the following brother and sisters: Joseph McBride of Hagersville, Ont., Mrs. Wm. Anderson, Hamilton, Ont., Mrs. John Farraday, Preston, Ont., Mrs. L. McLennan, Victoria, B. C.

Funeral services were held from his late home Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 11th, conducted by Rev. C. W. Sidebotham, pastor of the Presbyterian Church. Burial was at Sunset Hill.

COACH SHED AND CONTENTS WERE BADLY BURNED

Fire in the Coach shed of the East Jordan & Southern Railroad Monday afternoon caused a damage estimated at approximately $1,000.

The blaze, of undetermined origin, destroyed part of the building, a combination passenger and baggage car, and a Russell snowplow. A small insurance was carried on the contents of the building.

HENRY FIKE, CONSERVATION OFFICER PASSES AWAY

Henry Fike, 43, for the past eight years Conservation Officer for Charlevoix County, died Friday night at his residence in Charlevoix from heart trouble.

Mr. Fike had been confined to his home for a considerable length of time earlier in the year from the same ailment, and only recently had resumed his duties. He was thought to have recovered, thus his death was a shock to his family and friends.

Mr. Fike was formerly a resident of Boyne Falls, where he operated a taxi and trucking business and acted as deputy sheriff for a period of 12 years. He made his headquarters in Boyne Falls for some time after his appointment as Conservation Officer, and had lived in Charlevoix for two or three years, moving there after the stress of his duties in the west end of the county made such a move advisable. Mr. Fike's record as a Conservation Officer was a very efficient one.

Surviving besides the widow are a daughter, Vivian, and two sons, Neil and J. C., at home; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Fike of Charlevoix; two sisters, Mrs. O. Gillis of Charlevoix, and Mrs. Rose Hettrick of Boyne Falls.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon from the Baptist Church, with Rev. W. H. Reusch officiating. Interment was at Brookside cemetery in Charlevoix.

RED CROSS UNITS TO RECEIVE QUOTA OF CLOTH

Word has been received from the County Chairman of the Red Cross that East Jordan, Eveline and Wilson Townships will soon receive their quota of the cloth that the Government is this year distributing throughout the United States through the agency of the Red Cross.

The basement room of the City Library has been secured for Thursday of each week where the "Cloth" committee and other helpers will meet and cut out and distribute the garments to be made.

All women who are eager to have a part in this splendid work are urged to come and learn about the plan of sewing, distributing, etc.

Watch the paper for the announcement of the first meeting.

E. Jordan Takes Harbor Game

BY 31-0 SCORE. LOCALS KEEP GOAL LINE UNCROSSED.

After being pushed deep into their own territory during the opening minutes of the game, East Jordan's "scarlet wave" unleashed a savage attack and swept over Harbor Springs here last Saturday afternoon by a score of 31-0.

As a result, the Red and Black is one of the few teams, if not the only team, in this section have an uncrossed goal line so far.

As the game opened, Harbor's offensive drove the ball back to our 20 yard line, and for a few minutes it looked as though our team had a full afternoon's work and then some cut out for them. The boys held for downs on the 20 yard line and took possession of the ball there. Hignite carried it to the 25 yard mark on the first play. Bob Sommerville then broke loose, on an off-tackle smash, and ran 75 yards down the north sidelines for the first touchdown. Clark passed to Hignite for the extra point.

At this point the Harbor attack seemed to wilt and East Jordan took the offensive, although the "Little Jay" boys battled every inch gamely.

The second score came about the middle of the second quarter. East Jordan had advanced the ball to Harbor's 25 yard line when Harbor took time out. On the next play, Hignite, aided by some sparkling interference from the rest of the team, turned left end for the score. A line plunge failed on the try for extra point. Score: East Jordan 13; Harbor 0.

A quick move by Hignite gave us our third touchdown just before the close of the half. With the ball on the Harbor 40 yard line Clark passed to Max Bader, who carried it to the 5 yard strip before he was stopped.

Line plunges carried the ball to the 1 yard line, then Clark passed across the goal to Sommerville, but a Harbor man batted the ball down. As it fell to the ground behind the goal, Hignite dove and grabbed the ball in time to make the pass complete, for the score. Again the try for extra point failed. Score: East Jordan, 19; Harbor Springs, 0.

A one yard punt by Harbor placed the ball in position for East Jordan's fourth touchdown, when the wind carried the ball outside on Harbor's 16 yard line. On the first play Bob Sommerville cut around right end for the score that ran the total to 25 points. Again the try for extra point failed, this time, a drop-kick, which passed between the uprights but several feet too low. That finished the scoring in the third quarter.

Two complete passes in succession put the oval across the goal line at the start of the last quarter, but East Jordan was offside and the ball was called back. However, a few minutes later a pass from Clark to Hignite was good for the final six points.

Good work on the part of the East Jordan line kept Harbor from getting started after the first few minutes. Time and again our men broke thru to pull Harbor men down for losses. The Harbor aerial attack also failed to get under way.

For Harbor Springs Gillispie at tackle played a great game as did Capt. Sorensen at halfback.

Score by Quarters:
Harbor Springs 0 0 0 0—0
East Jordan 7 12 6 6—31

Proposed Amendments

TO STATE CONSTITUTION TO BE VOTED UPON NOV. 8th

IN TWO PARTS PART ONE

There will be submitted to the electors, at the General Election to be held on Tuesday, November 8, 1932, the following proposed amendments to the Constitution of this State and referendum on Act 55, P. A. 1931, being An Act to regulate the manufacture, etc., of oleomargarine, etc.

Proposal No. 1
The proposed amendment to Article XVI, Section 11, is as follows:

"Section 11. The legislature may by law establish a liquor control commission, who, subject to statutory limitations, shall exercise complete control of the alcoholic beverage traffic within this state, including the retail sales thereof; and the legislature may also provide for an excise tax on such sales; providing, however, that neither the legislature nor such commission may authorize the manufacture or sale of alcoholic beverages in any county in which the electors thereof, by a majority vote, shall prohibit the same."

This proposed amendment, if adopted, will repeal prohibition of the liquor traffic and will authorize the Legislature to establish a liquor control commission to control the alcohol beverage traffic and also authorize the Legislature to provide for an excise tax on sales; provided that manufacture or sale of alcoholic beverages may not be allowed in any county in which the electors vote to prohibit the same.

Proposal No. 2
The proposed amendment to Article X, by adding Section 21, is as follows:

"Section 21. The total amount of taxes assessed against property for all purposes in any one year shall not exceed one and one-half per cent of the assessed valuation of said property, except taxes levied for the payment of interest and principal on obligations heretofore incurred, which sums shall be separately assessed in all cases: Provided, That this limitation may be increased for a period of not to exceed five years at any one time, to not more than a total of five per cent of the assessed valuation, by a two-thirds vote of the electors of any assessing district, or when provided for by the charter of a municipal corporation: Provided further, That this limitation shall not apply to taxes levied in the year 1932."

This is a new section to limit the amount of taxes assessed against property. This proposed amendment, if adopted, will limit the total amount of taxes assessed against property for all purposes in any one year (except 1932) to one and one-half per cent of the assessed valuation, except taxes levied for the payment of obligations already incurred; provided that said limitation may be increased for not to exceed five years at any one time to not more than 5 per cent of the assessed valuation by a two-thirds vote of the electors of any assessing district or when provided for by the charter of a municipal corporation.

Proposal No. 3
The proposed amendment to Article V, Sections 2, 3 and 4, is as follows:

"Section 2. The senate shall consist of thirty-two members elected by single districts numbered from one to thirty-two inclusive. Each even numbered district shall, in the year nineteen hundred thirty-four, elect one senator for a term of two years. In the year nineteen hundred thirty-six and every fourth year thereafter, each even numbered district shall elect one senator for a term of four years. Each odd numbered district shall, in the year nineteen hundred thirty-four and every fourth year thereafter, elect one senator for a term of four years. The senatorial districts shall be and remain as now constituted, established and numbered, as follows: The first (1st), second (2nd), third (3rd), fourth (4th), fifth (5th), eighth (8th), and twenty-first (21st) districts shall consist of the County of Wayne and the senatorial districts now existing therein continue as now established by law.

The sixth (6th) district shall consist of the counties of Kalamazoo and St. Joseph.

The seventh (7th) district shall consist of the counties of Berrien and Cass.

The eighth (8th) district shall consist of the counties of Allegan, Barry and VanBuren.

The ninth (9th) district shall consist of the counties of Branch and Calhoun.

The tenth (10th) district shall consist of the counties of Hillsdale and Jackson.

The eleventh (11th) district shall consist of the counties of Lapeer, Macomb and St. Clair.

The twelfth (12th) district shall consist of the counties of Oakland and Washtenaw.

The thirteenth (13th) district shall consist of the county of Genesee.

The fourteenth (14th) district shall consist of the counties of Ingham and Livingston.

The fifteenth (15th) district shall consist of the counties of Clinton, Eaton and Shiawassee.

The sixteenth (16th) and seventeenth (17th) districts shall consist of the county of Kent and the senatorial districts now existing therein continue as now established by law.

The nineteenth (19th) district shall consist of the counties of Lenawee and Monroe.

The twentieth (20th) district shall consist of the counties of Huron, Sanilac and Tuscola.

The twenty-second (22nd) district shall consist of the county of Saginaw.

The twenty-third (23rd) district shall consist of the counties of Muskegon and Ottawa.

The twenty-fourth (24th) district shall consist of the counties of Bay, Sabella and Midland.

The twenty-fifth (25th) district shall consist of the counties of Gratiot, Ionia, Mecosta and Montcalm.

The twenty-sixth (26th) district shall consist of the counties of Lake, Manistee, Mason, Newaygo and Osceola.

The twenty-seventh (27th) district shall consist of the counties of Antrim, Benzie, Grand Traverse, Kalamazoo, Leelanau, Missaukee and Wexford.

The twenty-eighth (28th) district shall consist of the counties of Alcona, Arenac, Clare, Crawford, Gladwin, Iosco, Ogemaw, Osceola, Oscoda and Roscommon.

The twenty-ninth (29th) district shall consist of the counties of Alpena, Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Emmet, Montmorency, Otsego and Presque Isle.

The thirtieth (30th) district shall consist of the counties of Alger, Chippewa, Delta, Luce, Mackinac, Memominee and Schoolcraft.

The thirty-first (31st) district shall consist of the counties of Dickinson, Gogebic, Iron and Marquette.

The thirty-second (32nd) district shall consist of the counties of Barga, Houghton, Keweenaw and Ontonagon.

In the event of a consolidation of counties or a change in county boundaries, the legislature shall designate the senatorial district of which said combined counties, or counties changed in territory, shall be a part."

"Section 3. The house of representatives shall consist of one hundred (100) members elected for a term of two (2) years from representative districts established as follows: A ratio shall be obtained by dividing the population of the state as ascertained by the last preceding United States decennial census, by one hundred. Any county containing less than the ratio of population shall be attached to a contiguous county or counties to form a district bonded by county lines and containing not less than one full ratio of population. Each such combination of counties and each county not included in any such combination shall constitute a representative district. There shall be apportioned to each representative district one representative for each full ratio of population. Any representation then remaining to be apportioned shall be assigned to those representative districts having the largest unrepresented fractions of the ratio of population. In each representative district containing but one county and entitled hereunder to more than one representative, the board of supervisors may, and, if the number of representatives exceeds four, shall, at its first regular or special session following each apportionment of representative herein-after provided for, divide such representative district into house districts composed of compact and contiguous territory: Provided, That not more than four representatives shall be elected from any one house district and each representative shall, as nearly as may be, represent an equal number of inhabitants. In each representative district containing more than one county and entitled hereunder to more than one representative, the chairman of the boards of supervisors of the counties included in such district or a majority of such officers shall and in the event that a majority of such officers do not agree then the secretary of state shall forthwith, after each apportionment of representatives hereinafter provided for, divide such representative district into house districts formed on the same basis and subject to the same restrictions that are hereinbefore provided for in the formation of house districts within representative district containing but one county: Provided, That such house districts are not required to be bounded by county lines. For each representative district containing more than one county, the secretary of state shall file in his office a description of the house districts therein, specifying the

Direct Vote For President

NAMES OF PRESIDENTIAL ELECTORS IS DISCONTINUED.

Many inquiries have been received by the Department of State in recent weeks about the method by which Michigan will vote for President and Vice-President at the November Election.

For the first time in Michigan's history, the names of the various candidates for President and Vice-President will appear on the ballot. Formerly the ballots have listed the names of the properly designated presidential electors and it was necessary for voters to cast their ballots for the presidential electors, who in reality elect the nation's executives.

This led to considerable confusion among voters because of the fact that voters could not find the name of their choice for President on the ballot. To eliminate this confusion, the election laws were amended by the 1931 Legislature.

This change provided that instead of the names of the 19 presidential electors appearing on the ballot at the head of each party ticket, there should appear the name of the various presidential candidates.

Under the present law, a vote on the November ballot for the presidential candidate of any of the parties, constitutes a vote for each of the 19 presidential electors of that party. Thus the ballot has been shortened considerably, confusion has been avoided at the voting booths and there has been no change in the national plan of electing a President.

number of representatives to be elected from each district and the population thereof, and in each representative district containing but one county, the board of supervisors of such county shall cause to be filed in the office of the secretary of state a description of the house districts therein, specifying the number of representatives to be elected from each district and the population thereof."

"Section 4. At the first regular or special legislative session following the adoption of this amendment, and thereafter at the first regular or special session following each decennial United States census, the legislature shall by law, in accordance with the provisions of this constitution, establish the representative districts and apportion anew the representatives to the representative district using as the basis therefor the last preceding decennial United States census: Provided, That if the legislature shall fail to make an apportionment as herein provided for, or if the apportionment made hereunder by the legislature shall be declared unconstitutional by a court of competent jurisdiction, apportionment shall then be made by the secretary of state as herein provided, within ninety days after the adjournment of such legislative session or within ninety days after final determination of the unconstitutionality of such apportionment as the case may be. Apportionment by the secretary of state shall be enforced, if necessary, by a writ of mandamus upon petition of the attorney general, or any prosecuting attorney or city attorney of this state. The secretary of state shall certify to, and shall include in the next succeeding publication of the public acts a record of the final apportionment made, containing the number and description of each representative district and the population thereof according to the last preceding United States census, and shall also file the same with the clerk of each county within the state."

The present Constitution provides the state senate shall consist of 32 members elected for 2 years by single districts. It does not designate the senatorial districts. This proposed amendment, if adopted, will provide that the term of office shall be 4 years instead of 2 and will divide the state into 32 senatorial districts by counties, as indicated in section 2 of the amendment. It will also authorize a consolidation of counties or change in county boundaries for senatorial districts. The even numbered districts and odd numbered districts alternate every 2 years in electing senators for the 4 year term. If this proposed amendment is adopted, the senatorial districts will be fixed by the Constitution the same as now fixed by statute.

The present Constitution designates the house of representatives to consist of not less than 64 nor more than 100 members, to be chosen for 2 years by single districts, containing as nearly as may be an equal number of inhabitants. The representative districts are fixed by the Legislature. The proposed amendment to section 3 will, if adopted, provide for 100 members elected from districts established as designated therein.

FROM THE BEGINNING

At his fur post, Sunset House, in the Canadian north, Jim Stuart, trader in charge, with his headman, Omar, rescue a girl from an overturned canoe in the lake. She is Aurora LeBlond, daughter of Stuart's rival in the fur business. In a spirit of fun, she and Jim arrange to exchange notes on a certain island. LeBlond, with Paradi, his half-breed lieutenant, arrive in search of the missing girl. Paradi displays hostility toward Jim, though LeBlond acknowledges his debt of gratitude. Going to the island to see if Aurora has left the promised note, Jim is ambushed by Paradi and forced to travel toward the LeBlond post. On the way he overtures the boat, leaving his enemy on the beach. Jim's superior, Andrew Christie, displeased at Stuart's trade showing, allows him, at his request, one year to "make good." Paradi bribes an Indian to ambush Jim and Omar. The attempt fails, and Jim takes the Indian to LeBlond. After hearing the story, LeBlond discharges Paradi. Jim and Aurora arrange a rendezvous, at which they acknowledge their mutual love, though Aurora is returning to Winnipeg, and Jim has planned a canoe trip to make a personal appeal to the Indians, who have persistently refused to trade their furs with him.

hands over the upturned paterboro on the beach, seeking possible damage, when Esau returned with a lighted candle.

"Not a mark," he announced; "dey want to steal her, but Smoke he hear dem too quick."

"Well, we know now what to expect from the Pipestone country," said Jim gloomily, with a shake of his head. "Do you suppose it was that Wagosh?"

"No," said Omar, "he know de dog was here."

"We'd better paddle straight to the islands in the morning and talk to them as if nothing had happened."

"Ah-hah, we go to de camp, first ting. I see wat dat Wagosh say."

By sunrise they were on their way. As the strange canoe approached the fishing camp on the islands, groups of shawled women gathered in front of the tipis. Men, visiting their gill-nets set in the channels, stopped their work to call to each other, curious of the identity of the strangers. For the canoe of a white man had seldom nosed its way over the waters of the Pipestone lakes, deep in the heart of Keweenaw.

A rabble of wolfish dogs met the canoe as it slid into the beach of an island. Leaving Esau in the boat, with the challenging Smoke who, with stiff mane and bared fangs, answered the snarls of the Indian huskies, Omar and Jim stepped ashore.

"We are from the Lake of the Sand Beaches," announced Jim in Ojibwa to an old Indian, with face seamed with wrinkles, who left the group of women by the tipis and met them. "I wish to speak to the hunters who trade there. Send word to the other islands."

With face immobile as stone, the grizzled veteran scrutinized Jim and Omar through keen, mink-like eyes, before he replied.

"What are your names?" he asked quietly.

"I am Stuart, of the old company," said Jim, "and this is Omar, my head man." There was a shrewdness, an intelligence in the rugged features of the old man which impressed Stuart, and he wondered if he, too, were under the spell of Jiwgwak, the sorcerer.

"You have journeyed far. What have you come to the Pipestone to tell us?"

Irritated by the calm insistence of the Ojibwa, Omar broke in. "You will hear when you have called the hunters together. Send these boys here with word to the other islands."

The weathered skin of the Indian's face creased with a dry smile as he countered: "Who are you to give orders in the Pipestone country?"

Omar laughed goodnaturedly as he passed the Indian a plug of niggerhead. "My father has swallowed the fins of a dore and they prick his throat. There is tobacco and tea in the canoe. Send for the hunters."

With a grin, the old man ordered some boys, who stood near the group listening to the talk with hushed interest, to take Stuart's message.

"What d'yuh think of him? Has Paradi got him?" whispered Jim to Omar.

"I am an old man, and it is far," he answered.

A look of satisfaction touched Omar's fierce eyes. "In our canoe is flour, tobacco and tea. You are a wise man and our friend," he said significantly. "The old company will not forget Zotaire."

Gradually the bark canoes from the fishing camps assembled at the island where Jim and Omar waited. Some of the men and women came forward with friendly "bo-jo's" and shook hands with the strangers. Others hung back, conversing in whispers, their grave, questioning faces picturing their misgivings concerning this white man from the House of the Devils.

Zotaire calmly gazed into the blood-filled features of the half-breed.

"I am an old man, and it is far," he answered.

A look of satisfaction touched Omar's fierce eyes. "In our canoe is flour, tobacco and tea. You are a wise man and our friend," he said significantly. "The old company will not forget Zotaire."

"Hard to tell."

Jim sauntered to the old Indian as he talked rapidly to the group of curious and awed squaws near the tipis. "You have seen many long snows come and go," he said in Ojibwa. "You have lived long and seen the faces of many men. Look at me! Do I speak with a single tongue?"

The old Indian met Jim's eyes with candid gaze. He removed the pipe he had filled with Omar's tobacco, spat, then replied: "I know the face of the white man. In my youth I voyaged many long snows for the old company down at Fort Hope on the Albany. There I learned from the Oblate father that there is no truth in medicine men. But the people here will not listen to me."

"They believe this Wabeno, Jiwgwak?"

"Yes, many believe him and the Frenchman, Paradi."

Jim was stirred by the open speaking of the shrewd old man. Here was a possible ally. He must be cultivated.

"What is your name?"

"Ovide Zotaire, they called me at Fort Hope; my father was half French."

"Where is this Jiwgwak, now?"

"He summers in the Sturgeon river country, three sleeps toward the big water."

"Have you ever seen this Frenchman, Paradi?"

"Yes, he was here the last long snows; he came with a dog-team."

"What does Jiwgwak tell the Ojibwa about me and the post of the old company to keep them from bringing me their furs?"

Old Zotaire laughed as he replied: "He says that the good spirits he talks with tell him that the House of the Setting Sun is the home of devils. He says you have the evil eye."

"And the people believe him?"

"Some do, but not all."

"What do you think?"

"Jiwgwak is a Jeskikib, a liar. Paradi keeps his tipi filled with tobacco and furs."

Jim glanced at Omar, who listened beside him. The face of the half-breed was black with rage. The muscles of his square jaws bulged as his teeth crunched. His little eyes snapped, as he leaned toward the old Indian. "You show me de trail to de Sturgeon riviere?"

Zotaire calmly gazed into the blood-filled features of the half-breed.

"I am an old man, and it is far," he answered.

A look of satisfaction touched Omar's fierce eyes. "In our canoe is flour, tobacco and tea. You are a wise man and our friend," he said significantly. "The old company will not forget Zotaire."

Devils. From the actions of the men and squaws it was evident to Stuart that Jiwgwak's efforts, successful as they had been in keeping the trade of these people from Sunset House, had failed to instill fear of him personally, except among the most superstitious. For at his request, they had come to look at him and listen to his words.

After passing tobacco to the men, Jim told them that their fathers for two hundred years had traded with the old company, and always had received fair treatment. To save them from a longer journey south, the old company had built a post on the Lake of the Sand Beaches, and wished to trade with them. But Paradi had come among them with lies which only children would believe. In his pay was a false shaman who lived on the bounty of the North-West company.

As Jim mentioned the name of Jiwgwak, from a group of young men in the rear of the Ojibwas rose groans of protest.

"It is a lie!" shouted a youth; but the voice of Zotaire lifted above the clamor of dissent.

"Bisan! Keep quiet!" commanded the old man. "You listened to Paradi when he said that this man who speaks had the Evil Eye and talked with devils. Now listen to him, and judge for yourselves who speaks with a double tongue."

Jim's heart leaped at the old Indian's defense of him. Here was a friend in need. Then Jim told the Indians that he would come in December, the little moon of the spirit, with dog-teams loaded with honest trade-goods, and save them the long trip south.

At the announcement there was a nodding of heads among the older men, but from the rear of the assembly, groans and cat-calls. However, when Omar told them of the disgrace of Paradi by his own chief—how he had been sent to Nipigon, a husk fell upon the swart-faced audience.

Shaking hands with most of the older men and women, Jim returned to the canoe, to find Esau and Omar squatted on the beach, watching Zotaire trace with his fingers a rough sketch of the trail north to the Sturgeon river.

Through the afternoon the three friends paddled down the first of the Pipestone lakes and made camp on an island near the outlet. To the north lay other and larger lakes of the Pipestone chain, which formed the headwaters of the Sturgeon river. Eating their supper of bannock, fried pike, and tea, they considered the situation as they smoked.

"Too bad old Zotaire wouldn't come with us," regretted Jim. "He seems to have influence with these people."

"He had fear to travel to de Sturgeon," replied Esau. "He tell me dey might keel heem eef dey foun' heem wid us."

"Parades and Jiwgwak got plentes fren' up dere," added the brooding Omar.

"We're in for trouble on the Sturgeon, I guess. But I'm going to find that crooked fakir...trouble or no trouble," snapped Jim. "I've got just one year to get some of that fur, or quit."

For a space, Omar looked at his discouraged chief, as he sat, elbows on knees, head in hands. Then the half-breed rested an iron-hard hand on Jim's shoulder, as he said: "We stay een dees cuntree and hunt for dat Jiwgwak until de ice drive us sout'."

"But suppose we do find him, how're we going to break his hold on the Indians?"

"Leave dat to Omar and Esau."

"What d'you two intend to do? You can't kill him, you know, 'you old wolf. You'd ruin me if you did. And they'd get you before you got out. Remember, you've got a family."

The black eyes of Omar twinkled as they met the sphinxlike gaze of the old Indian. "Esau and Omar find de way to feex dat wabeno."

But Jim saw little hope in the situation. He had recklessly undertaken to double the trade of Sunset House within the year by getting some of the Pipestone and Sturgeon river fur from LeBlond. But would these Ojibwas trade with him when he stole a march on his rival and came to them on the snow in December? However, there was but one line of action open at present, and that was to visit them, show himself, and talk to them as he had talked to the fishing camps up the lake. Then the thought of the girl who had begged him to stay at Mitawagagama until she went south drove his present quest from his mind. Was he ever to see her again? Would she come back in the spring? If she did, she would find a defeated fur trader, out of a job, who had had the boldness to make love to a girl who could only pity him. As the quiet lake went rose colored under the flush of the afterglow, and the shadow-packed spruce of the adjacent shores of the mainland deepened from purple to violet, Jim smoked with his bitter thoughts, while Omar and Esau talked together in low tones. Then, as his clouded gray eyes lifted from the embers of the supper fire into which he had been staring, a cold nose touched his hand and a massive, hairy head nudged his arm, while a pair of slant brown eyes sought his.

"Hello, Smoke!" Jim circled the neck of the dog with his arm. "Smoke loves Jim, even if he's a poor fur man, and a fool to love her."

As if sensing the mood of the man who held his devotion, the dog whined his red tongue acrossing Jim's hand.

Sound Dietary Idea
Bacon, in his Regiment of Health, says: "Beware of sudden change in any great point of diet, and if necessity enforce it, fit the rest to it; for it is a secret, both in nature and state, that it is safer to change many things than one." And again: "It is a safer conclusion to say, 'This agreeth not well with me, therefore I will not continue it.'"

Loss to Countryside in Passing of Ox-Team

Where there are no big draft horses, the mule is the only real rival of the ox in farm work. Mule breeding in the South and the importation of the five big breeds of horses from northwestern Europe into the United States, rather than the invention of the tractor, finally displaced the ox as a source of power on our farms and in our lumber camps.

The passing of the ox is one of the penalties of progress. It is one of those cases where our esthetic feelings are sacrificed to productive efficiency. Oxen at work are more decorative than horses, mules or tractors. They give one the impression of irresistible power. There is something primitive about the way they are yoked and their power applied. Their very slowness—the way they lean against the yoke, and the way the yoke creaks under the strain—all heighten the effect. The countryside has lost one of its charms since oxen went out of fashion. Besides, skill in driving oxen is becoming one of the lost arts.

But they are altogether too slow for this fast age. While we like to look at oxen, we are certain that we should not like to ride behind them. We prefer to go whizzing in an automobile, so there seems to be nothing to be done about it. But we can't help feeling that we lose something by being so terribly progressive. Progress, like every other good thing, costs something—Exchange.

Wooden Leg Uninsurable
The Supreme court of California has decided that a workman cannot collect a workmen's compensation liability benefit for injury to a wooden leg. In the case of John Driscoll, a teamster, whose wooden leg was broken when his horses shied and threw him. The case was bitterly fought, three judges dissenting from the majority of the bench. It was urged that loss of an artificial member was a real disability. The majority held that a decision favorable to the workman would open the door to claims for damage to crutches, eyeglasses and false teeth.

Teaching
The landlady was in a sentimental mood when dinner was served. "This is the anniversary of the death of my poor, dear uncle," she sighed. "He was a sea captain, and went down with his ship this day five and twenty years ago. I was only a child when he went away, but I remember he gave me a pet lamb as a parting gift."

The boarder regarded his lamb cutlet with mournful interest. "Poor, dear lamb!" he murmured reproachfully. "And you've killed it at last!"

"Parades plays with you to get your fur," went on Omar in Ojibwa. "He is a liar, and LeBlond is through with him; he has sent him away to the south. You will see him no more."

At the words, the Indians exchanged surprised and puzzled looks. For a time the older man smoked in silence, his eyes on the fire; then he addressed Jim. "You do a foolish thing to come to the Pipestone country. The hunters fear you."

"Do I look like one to be feared?" demanded Jim opening his arms. "I come from the old company who gave you and your fathers honest guns and blankets, flour and tea, before LeBlond poisoned your hearts against us. I come here now to seek your friendship and kill the lies of this Paradi. This moon, in the south, he cried to have me shot, and his master LeBlond has sent him away. If I say but the word the fathers in Ottawa will send men and take him to the railroad to be punished."

As Jim spoke the Indian's small eyes probed his frank features as if attempting to measure his sincerity. "You seem to speak with a single tongue," said the Ojibwa. "Your eyes are not the eyes of a liar, but the hunters fear your medicine. They say you are the friend of demons. I came to warn you not to journey into the Pipestone country."

"What is your name?" asked Jim, impressed by the speaker's sincerity. "My name is Baptiste Wagosh. This is my son."

"Where is the shaman, Jiwgwak?" asked Esau, abruptly.

Wagosh scowled at the question. He looked hard into the swart faces of Omar and Esau thrust toward him.

"Why do you ask?"

"Because," answered old Esau with a grin, "he is a false shaman, a wabeno, and is paid by Parades to keep the trade for LeBlond."

Wagosh and his son exchanged significant looks. "Jiwgwak is a big medicine man," replied the older man, quietly, "this is his country. Go back to Mitawagagama, before it is too late."

The blood darkened the bronzed face of Jim Stuart as he replied: "Go back and tell your people that the old company traded with their fathers' fathers, and wishes to trade with them. I have come to talk to them as their friend and will not be driven out by this false shaman, this wabeno, Jiwgwak, who is paid by the French."

With muttered "ho-jo's" the Indian and his son went to their canoe and paddled away into the gloom.

"Well, what d'you make of it?" asked Jim of his friends. "You think they'll do as he said—try to drive us out of the country?"

"Eef dey tink we got devil wid us, dey might try somet'ing, ah-hah."

"Well, are we going to be driven out by this Jiwgwak?"

Omar spat into the fire and puffed for a moment before answering. "Esau and Omar tak' good care of dis Jiwgwak—nevair fear dat. But we want fur dis long snows—so we go easee."

"You're right, Omar, we'll go slow. They're wild and superstitious—these people. They might even ambush us if we don't handle them right. We've got a tough job ahead of us, but it's the only thing that'll save Sunset House—reaching these Indians."

Jim rolled up in his blanket to struggle with the problem which faced him, while the voices of Omar and Esau, smoking by the dying fire, reached his ears in muffled monotone. But desperate as were the present fortunes of Jim Stuart and Sunset House, he shortly found himself back on the sand beach at Mitawagagama, gazing into the dark depths of Aurora LeBlond's changing eyes; watching the sunlight caught in the meshes of her thick hair, listening to her low laugh.

Long since, the embers of the fire had grayed and died, leaving the camp in gloom. Overhead the night had thickened, masking the stars. Through the spruce no air stirred. Like a blanket, the murk had settled upon the great lake. Except for the heavy breathing of three muffled figures there was no sound.

Curled near his master, nose-buried under bushy tail, Smoke dreamed of snow-shoe rabbits leaping before him, of lurking timber wolves and the white sterna of fleeing caribou. Then, at a sudden, his visions of the chase faded and he stirred uneasily in his sleep. Presently a faint sound drifted to his pointed ears. He slowly lifted his head. His black nostrils quivered, but the air told him nothing.

Again his keen ears caught an almost imperceptible sound. The great dog rose to his feet, his back hair stiffening, his nose testing the air, as he listened. Then, satisfied, with a ror he leaped toward the lake. There was a muttering warning, the sound of moccasined feet, the creak of paddles, as the husky reached the beach to snarl his challenge to the unseen enemies who had faded like ghosts into the gloom. Then Omar, grasping his gun, followed by Esau and Jim, reached the shore.

Seizing the dog by the nose to choke his yelping, Omar listened, head close to the water, to get the direction of the retreating canoe; then fired twice. "Take dat!" he muttered.

"Light a candle, Esau. They were after the canoe when Smoke heard them," said Stuart. "They may have ruined her!"

Already Omar was groping with his

Fable of Freddie and the Bow-Wows.

By GEORGE ADE

(C. Bell Syndicate.—WNU Service)

ONCE upon a Time there was a Modern Product named Freddie. He had been seeing Life in all of its Phases—the Sunshine and the Storm, the Smiles and the Tears, the Tranquility of Peace and the Scourges of War—ever since the Year of his Birth, 1915, so that in 1932 he was permitted to look back over a varied Career of 17 Years, checking up the miraculous Changes which had been wrought by the Introduction of the Oxford Bags, the Dance known as the Charleston and Chocolate-covered Ice Cream, to say nothing of nothing with Regret the Appearance of many Influences which threatened to disintegrate Civilization.

It was Last Year that Freddie began to shave and become Misanthropic. Perhaps he had quaffed too freely from the Golden Bowl of Pleasure. More than likely he had, even as many another Man of the World, become surfeited with artificial Pleasures and was beginning to discover the Hallowness of the whole Ball of Wax.

Having run the Gamut of Pleasure and followed every Primrose Path leading to a Movie Show or a Candy Store, it is no Wonder that he became sated with Empty Enjoyments and was disposed to adopt a Cynical Attitude.

If the lifted Eye-Brow and the cold Smile lurking at one Corner of the Mouth, when the Subject of Woman was brought up, seemed subtle Indications that he held Pessimistic Views in regard to the much-discussed Sex, it must be remembered that he had drunk the Pleasures of a Dancing Academy to the very Dregs and had Whiled away the Hours with every Type of Vamp under the High School Age.

Before blaming Freddie for being so Bloozy, one should charitably consider that he was a Man who, in taking his Fling, had been played upon by the Fates and had endured and suffered.

Not long ago he crawled out one Morning and sat on the edge of the Pad, brooding over the Decadence of the whole Social Organization. There had been many Changes since the remote and glorious Days of 1930 and Freddie, surveying them in the cold Light of Experience was compelled to admit that doggone Few of them had been to the Good.

Jewelry Strictly Banned. For instance, there was his Shirt. Why hadn't some one taken some Action or done something in regard to Shirts in general? The Prince of Wales had made it practically impossible for any Fellow who was up to Snuff and a real Dinger to wear anything except a Blue Shirt with Soft Collar attached. At first these Blues had been O. K. Full of Snap, Peppy, you understand. They looked Great in conjunction with any kind of College Diagonal or Knitted Effect in the Cravat Line. Regular old Yale and Harvard Stuff.

Then, when the Prince had every Hot Dog in the World sporting a Robin's Egg Blue with a discouraged Collar, what does he do but pull out for Matabeleland, Rhodesia and the Argentine, leaving all the Chaps flat? They had waited Week after Week for a Genius to rise up and reveal some such Inspiration as an up-and-down striped Collar keeping Company with a clay-colored Shirt and a Buttery Bow of rich garrulous Shade, but evidently no Sartorial Hero had the Courage to dispute a Supreme Authority. No wonder Freddie had to sigh deeply as he sized up the hateful Garment, which was made of the material used in lining Suit Cases.

After that he permitted himself to give way to melancholy Reflections on the Matter of Stick Pins. He knew that he could not wear one without becoming a Social Pariah but he asked himself why these pleasing little Ornaments had been taken away from the Man of Fashion. He had some approximate Pearls and a ruby-red Set with Twinklers and often he longed to flash them on the World and make it a happier Place of Residence, but he had the Dope on what Men are wearing this Year and he had studied all of the Sock and Clothing Ads and he knew that America's Junior Aristocracy must ever carry a Pained Expression but avoid Jewelry.

Within a Few Minutes he was visited by another great Sorrow. Schooled, as he was, by Contact with a Hard World, he forgot himself for the Moment and almost made a Display of Temper. It was while he was applying the Goo which is supposed to lay the Hair straight Back, the same as on a Bird Dog, and give it the gloss of Patent Leather.

"I wish to the Dickens," he exclaimed, "that some one would get up a Gleamola that would do the Work!"

Before him, stark and threatening, loomed the Ordeal of Breakfast. Would it be Melon or Grapefruit and, in either Case, what Assurance did he have that it would be served cold and ripe?

On the Morning of the Day which held so much Tribulation for Our Hero, the Toast was too thick and scorched on one side and the Coffee had a funny Taste. The Pioneers who came out and built the Log Cabins did not suffer all the Hardships. We'll tell the bleeding World!

unsatisfactory Food and slow Service that he made certain caustic References to Modern Journalism. He said the Papers were getting punk. This candid Criticism was evoked by the Fact that he could not find under "Social Happenings" any Reference to the slick Party he had attended the Night before.

Just when he was beginning to edge out into the Sunshine he ran plump into a Cloud of Gloom and was in the Depths of gloom more, it seemed that the Bonehead at the Garage had failed to fill the Car. If Freddie chafed under the Delay and spoke sharply to the Menial, it must be taken into Consideration that he had trained his Relatives to anticipate his wishes, consequently it irked him to be stood up like a Wet Umbrella. Especially when the Cigarettes didn't seem right. Not enough imported Tobacco in them. Life was turning out to be a bitter Experiment but he tried to bear up.

Of course, he was ashamed to drive past Gertrude's House in a Last Year's Car. Why, he asked, had he been cursed with a Bad, who was not only Tight but also Tyrannical? What was the Big Idea of all this Mooching about getting Home by 2 a. m.?

As he loafed along the Country Lane, accompanied by a hardened Roue who would be 19 in January, he was doing barely 55 miles an Hour, when a Constable with Bad Manners flagged him and slipped him a Summons. He wondered, if Conditions were any worse in Soviet Russia.

While he was at Lambton he said, he could remember the Times when Ple a La Mode was dandy.

The new Release at the Picture House was the same old Junk. He said they had a lot of Mutts out in Hollywood.

He walked out of the Dancing Dump after a fretful Two Hours, because the Jazz was all over Three Weeks Old.

His Parents couldn't get a Word out of him at Dinner. They had green Olives on the Table, knowing all the Time that he preferred Ripe ones, stuffed. It began to look like a Conspiracy.

At the Party that Evening he had to admit, in the Presence of several care-worn Veterans attending the Prep School, that Girls were not nearly as Nifty as they were away back in 1920.

Bermudians Will Buy Portrait of Founder

The Bermuda Historical society has entered into negotiations for the purchase of the portrait of the founder of the Bermuda colony, Sir George Somers and his wife, now in a private collection in England, according to the Bermudian, the pictorial magazine of Bermuda. The islands were long known as the Somers Islands, partly in his honor and partly in description of the climate, while the first capital of the Bermudas, St. George's, preserves his Christian name and commemorates the patron saints of England.

Sir George Somers was one of the Elizabethan sea-dogs who made England's name feared on the seas at the close of the Sixteenth century. He made three voyages to the West Indies, on the third of which, en route to the starving settlement in Virginia, he was shipwrecked on one of the coral reefs of Bermuda. Here he built two ships of the native cedar, and continued his voyage, but returned from Jamestown later in the same year for provisions. He died of a fever in Bermuda soon after his second landing on the islands, but his companions continued to England. It was probably from one of the sailors of this vessel that Shakespeare heard descriptions of the islands which he made the setting of "The Tempest."

Fiddler Crab's Fiddling

Except as bait for the fisherman, there is no known excuse for the existence of the fiddler crab, which abounds in the mud flats of the south Atlantic coast. He frequents the deserted portions of beaches, and colonizes under the barnacled wharves, drilling the wet sands with thousands of tiny twisting tunnels. At the mouth of his home he stands, poised, tense. And all of a sudden, for no apparent reason, the ungainly claw moves jerkily up and down. It at once becomes apparent why he is known as a fiddler. It is as if he were drawing an unseen bow across an invisible violin. Whatever it is that is responsible for the fiddling activities seems to influence all the crabs in the vicinity, and it would seem as if they were part of one great orchestra. Some of the shore natives insist that this is an exchange of signals among them.

Youthful Statesmen

William Pitt was premier of England when he was only twenty-four and Charles James Fox was recognized as the greatest debater in parliament when he was about the same age, having made his entrance in that body at the age of nineteen.

John Young Brown of Kentucky was elected to congress when he was twenty-four, and too young to take his seat under the provisions of the Constitution. He was elected to the Thirty-sixth congress, but couldn't take his seat until the second session. This same Brown was again elected to the Fortieth congress, but his seat was declared vacant on account of a disloyal act. Again he was elected to the Forty-third and Forty-fourth congresses and later was governor of Kentucky.

Jumper Frock a Smart Campus Item

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

FASHION has re-discovered the jumper or gimpie frock, if you so prefer to call it. Now that this interesting type of dress has been put on the map again, joy reigns in the realm of campus, school room and office, for was there ever or could there ever be any style of frock more practical than the one which can change its sleeves and its neckline effect at a moment's notice simply by taking into itself a different blouse or gimpie?

Most of the fashion columns and pictures and cables from Paris are delivering the message of contrasting sleeves and no doubt the revival of the jumper frock is directly traceable to this influence. As one designer expresses it, "they make the frock"—such as, for instance, sleeves of tissue metal cloth or those which are muchly be-spangled or embroidered which sound a brilliant note for some of the handsomest velvet, satin or crepe dinner gowns shown in the new collections.

Which all goes to show that the call for contrasting sleeves seems to be "opportunity knocking at the door" of the jumper frock to become formal when it so elects. Which is exactly what has happened—formal as well as Informal jumper or gimpie dresses. The velvet gown cut low to the waistline with suspender-like straps over the shoulder worn with a generously sleeved blouse or gimpie of exquisite lace is one of the new numbers on the program of stately evening costumes.

The jumper frock of black rough crepe shown to the left in the picture is a most practical type for the campus, since it permits of variety and freshness of appearance by merely substituting different blouses. In this instance the blouse with its stylish wide-at-the-shoulder sleeves is made of crepe so as to simulate shirring.

Plaid to wear with his same black crepe frock is a timely suggestion, for the outlook is for a "plaid season." Designers are doing very interesting and novel things with plaid and they especially sponsor the jumper frock worn with a plaid blouse. Perhaps there is none more attractive than the blouse made of plaid velvet, and the best of it is, it's "different" and, it goes without saying, extremely flattering.

Another argument in favor of contrasting gimpies is they make possible the transforming of formal evening frock into a less formal afternoon type. The picture to the right is a good illustration of this. One of its clever points is that the dress wraps around and ties at the side to the back so that when off it can be laid flat and folded for traveling—ideal for the college girl's wardrobe.

A new color combination this season and one which is becoming very popular is pink with the new dark red wine shades. For the jumper frock this color alliance is very effective. The dress, of course, being in a deep wine shade with pink rough crepe or a triple sheer weave for the blouse. Another attractive idea is the blouse of lace dyed the same color as the dress which it posed over it.

GAY COLORS MARK NEW SPORTS SUITS

The new sports clothes for fall will appear in every color of the well-known rainbow. Especially the knitted things.

Of course, the dark browns and hunter's greens, the wine reds and navy blues won't be crowded off the fashion map. But they are to be joined by a riotous array of colors.

The new knitted sports suits, many with long belted coats and others in the popular swagger suit styles, will appear in multi-colored stripes, plaids and gay solid colors.

Bright shades of red and green will be prominent on the sports fashion map. For instance: Emerald, pea green, rust pimiento, cherry red and the lighter wines.

The dark sports suits will be brightened up by gaily striped sweaters and blouses.

"Down-in-Front" Effect Feature of Late Hats

The new down-in-front hats are most alluring, most amusing. The hat itself is set rather high up on the head, but a soft little feather fancy or a soft little bow comes down over the brow at one side.

They are most becoming, these new hats, and far more becoming to many women than the off-the-forehead hats ever were.

Velvet and wool jerseys are used for some of the new little hats that are shown now in Paris. They are light and soft and altogether most charming. And they are made, of course, in all the smart color combinations.

Chiffon Quite Correct for Wear in Evening

Quite correct is printed chiffon, even if some women have declared themselves against prints for evening. A pretty evening frock is of black chiffon with a small floral print in green, white and red. Wide shirtings give the waistline a wide belted look and the frock has a tiny vestee of alencon lace and there are white velvet flowers just above the waistline.

Making a sensation these days are some most original feather boas. With a white chiffon dress one woman wears a bon of white coq feathers, wired to curve up gracefully over the shoulders.

SATIN SLEEVES

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

The frock of rough surfaced crepe which has satin sleeves is playing a stellar role in the new autumn fashions. Usually the sleeves are very wide at the armhole or they are apt to be leg o' mutton style or some styling along generous lines which makes them conspicuous for according to the dictate of style creators, sleeves must be made the center of attraction. The scarf of satin tied in a soft bow at the neck adheres to the new high-about-the-throat silhouette.

Detachable Furs for Autumn Coats Latest

Coats coming out for autumn wear are cut on depression lines, which really means that it is going to be very fashionable to have detachable fur trimmings that can be used on various clothes. First fall fashions being seen on the rue de la Paix include many separate capelets, draped collars and scarves and sets to be worn with several frocks and coats. Straight long coats, tied on and buttoned up ones are on the style card.

Trees That "Migrated" Millions of Years Ago

If you want to see what the forests of California and Oregon looked like millions of years ago, just take a trip to South America. There, on the slopes of the Venezuelan Andes, you may see living trees that closely resemble species once native to the western coast of North America, a Carnegie Institute of Washington expedition to this South American region has revealed. This discovery, made by Prof. Ralph W. Chaney of the University of California and Dr. Erling Dorf of Princeton university, was based on a comparison of the foliage of the South American trees with leaf prints of the ancient west coast trees that are found as fossils in the rocks of today. It upholds the theory that the forest, that once existed in North America were pushed south as the climate became increasingly cold and dry.—Detroit Free Press.

Girl at the Top in Health Tests

THOUSANDS of boys and girls all over the world, thousands of them right here in the West, are being restored to health and strength by the purely vegetable tonic and laxative known as California Fig Syrup and endorsed by physicians for over 50 years.

Children need no urging to take it. They love its rich, fruity flavor. Nothing can compete with it as a gentle, but certain laxative, and it goes further than this. It gives tone and strength to the stomach and bowels so these organs continue to act normally, of their own accord. It stimulates the appetite, helps digestion.

A Kansas mother, Mrs. Dana Allgire, 810 Monroe St., Topeka, says: "Bonnie B. is absolutely the picture of health, now, with her ruddy cheeks, bright eyes and plump but graceful little body and she stands at the top in every health test."

Much of the credit for her perfect condition is due to California Fig Syrup. We have used it since babyhood to keep her bowels active, during colds or any children's ailments and she has always had an easy time with them. She always responds to its gentle urging and is quickly back to normal."

Ask your druggist for California Fig Syrup and look for the word "California" on the carton so you'll always get the genuine.

Errors

The little I have seen of the world teaches me to look upon the errors of others in sorrow, not in anger. When I take the history of one poor heart that has sinned and suffered, and represent to myself the struggles and temptations it has passed through, the brief pulsation of joy, the feverish inquietude of hope and fear, the pressure of want, the desertion of friends, I would fain leave the erring soul of my fellow man with him from whose hand it came.—Longfellow.

Get Rid of a Bad Headache in Few Minutes

Because of Quick Dissolving Property BAYER ASPIRIN Starts "Taking Hold" 3 or 4 Minutes After Taking

Due to important, scientific developments in the world-famous Bayer laboratories, almost INSTANT relief from headaches, neuralgia and rheumatic pains is being afforded millions.

Because of a unique process in making and tableting, Genuine Bayer Aspirin is made to dissolve almost INSTANTLY in the stomach. Hence it starts to work almost instantly. And this "takes hold" of the average pain or headache in as little as three or four minutes after taking. The fastest, safe relief, it is said, ever known for pain.

Remember, it is Genuine Bayer Aspirin which provides this unique, quick-acting property. So be sure you get the Real Article—GENUINE BAYER Aspirin when you buy. Naturally you want the fastest, possible relief—and that's the way to get it.

To identify the genuine, see that any box or bottle of aspirin you buy is clearly marked "Genuine Bayer Aspirin." And that any tablet you take is stamped clearly with the name "Bayer" in the form of a cross. Remember—Genuine Bayer Aspirin cannot harm the heart.

NO TABLETS ARE GENUINE BAYER ASPIRIN WITHOUT THIS CROSS

It was an all-day meeting with pot luck dinner. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Archie Howe on Wednesday, Nov. 9th. Pot luck dinner.

USE BEET SUGAR GOVERNOR URGES

Governor Brucker called upon Michigan residents to aid the State's beet growers in a proclamation urging the use of beet sugar. The Governor's proclamation, in part, follows:
"The beet sugar industry will release for circulation in Michigan more than 10 million dollars during the period of a few weeks. This will be a tremendous economic advantage to the farmer, the beet worker, the factory worker, the transportation systems, the machinery, equipment and supply men, the quarry men and the coal miners. Also the merchant will be thus enabled to sell other goods needed by those engaged in this industry and its allied groups.
"Briefly, Michigan's beet sugar industry:
"Gives employment to more than 35,000 Michigan wage earners and farmers.
"Distributes over $3,500,000 in wages annually.
"Pays more than $500,000 in State and local taxes.
"Distributes over $6,000,000 to Michigan farmers.
"Purchases more than $2,000,000 worth of Michigan products.
"Uses thousands of Michigan-made automobiles and trucks.
Therefore, I, Wilbur M. Brucker, Governor of the State, urge the people of Michigan to support the beet sugar industry of Michigan which is vital to the agricultural and industrial prosperity of the State by demanding Michigan sugar, and refusing any substitute offered for Michigan sugar."

NEW BANK LAWS WILL CUT LOSSES

For every dollar on deposit in Michigan State Banks on Jan. 1, 1931, less than one penny will be lost through bank failures.

This striking statement was made by Governor Brucker in disclosing the great strides that have been made since the special session of the legislature, at the request of the Republican administration, adopted the new far-seeing banking laws.

These laws, while extending greater protection to depositors, liberalize and modernize the laws providing for the re-opening of State Banks. On Jan. 1, 1931, Michigan-chartered banks had deposits in excess of one billion, two hundred forty-five million dollars. Before January, 1931, seven banks had closed and since that date 109 more closed their doors. These 116 institutions had deposits of $79,190,528.

But already 27 of these banks have been re-opened and there are 35 additional institutions where the work of re-organization gives every promise of being successful. These 62 banks will return to depositors $51,364,347 without loss.

Others of the remaining 54 closed banks will be re-opened. These 54 institutions have less than $24,000,000 in deposits, or approximately 1.8 per cent of the total deposits in state banks on Jan. 1, 1931. Yet this amount does not represent loss to depositors, according to Banking Commissioner Rudolph E. Reichert, who declared that in cases where banks are compelled to liquidate through receiverships, the depositors will receive dividends that will easily bring the net loss down to 1 per cent or less.

PENINSULA REBELS VS. PENINSULA GRANGE

The 1932 Peninsula Baseball season ended Sunday, Oct. 9th, with a game between Peninsula Grange, managed by William Shepard, and Peninsula Rebels, managed by Harold Lee.

It was an interesting game throughout—the score being 0-0 until the last of the third inning when Charlie Dennis of the Rebels run in the first score. Red Gee and Vail Shepard followed suit by running in two more scores in the same inning. This made the score 3-0 in favor of the Rebels. The score remained so through the fifth inning when the Umpire called the game ended on account of the rain.

The Rebels played a perfect game, making no errors. With this we credit the Rebels with the 1932 pendant and hope to see more such games next year.

NEWS from MICHIGAN

Grand Haven—A wound in his foot from a rusty nail has cost the life of 14-year-old William Swiftney. He died of lockjaw.

Ludington—Fred Bentz, Amber Township farmer, was killed when he accidentally shot himself in the forehead while hunting crows.

Ludington—A. B. Nichols is held here charged with having forged the name of his mother, who is treasurer of Sheridan School District No. 3, to 11 checks, totaling $149.

Oxford—Oxford High School has a class of 17 boys enrolled in a cooking course. Miss Selma Martinson is the instructor, giving them a course in camp cookery and preparation of plain foods.

Kalamazoo—No clues have been found by detectives investigating the $4,800 robbery of the B. Cleenewerk & Son cigar store. Robbers used a truck to haul away 73 cases of cigars after chiseling a hole through a brick wall.

Monroe—Mayor Jacob Martin has named a committee of five city officials to map a program of public works to employ welfare labor and to seek a loan to finance the projects. Monroe County supervisors will attempt to float a $45,000 loan for relief expenditure.

Mt. Clemens—The old Pagoda Band, once the pride of Mt. Clemens, has played its swan song. The bandmen, 20 in number, have been inactive for a number of years, and had forgotten that they had a balance of $700 in one of the local banks. They met briefly, divided the spoils and again went into retirement.

Battle Creek—In compliance with a Circuit Court order, street car service here was discontinued recently. It was the first time in 50 years the city has been without street car service. Bus service has been established on a temporary basis, pending a referendum of the city's voters on a franchise for the company.

Lansing—Only three counties of the State do not permit Sunday hunting in any manner despite the fact that several others have provisional Sunday hunting laws, the Department of Conservation said here. The three are Lenawee, Monroe and Sanilac. In Tuscola, Shiawassee and Washtenaw Counties Sunday hunting is permitted only to property owners or lessees.

Flint—A mother and her two daughters are under sentence to the Detroit House of Correction for arson. They pleaded guilty. Mrs. Mary Hermans, 45 years old, must serve 5 to 20 years. Mrs. Ruth Hutchinson, 23, is under sentence of 1 to 20 years and Mrs. Isabel LaFlin, 17, was sentenced to 6 months to 20 years. They admitting setting fire to the Hermans residence to collect $2,000 insurance.

Sault Ste. Marie—William H. Dowrick, 65 years old, of Marquette, a railroad employee, was burned to death when his automobile caught fire after plunging into a deep ravine on M-28, near Strongs, 50 miles west of here. Mr. Dowrick, who was on his way to the Sault, where his wife was visiting, was alone in the car. His body was burned beyond recognition and the car was destroyed.

Detroit—The largest number of co-eds in the institution's history, 143, has been enrolled this year at the University of Detroit, according to Florence Donohue, registrar. Of this number 50 are freshmen, 32 are sophomores, 25 juniors and 36 seniors. The increase is attributed to the addition of a new secretarial course in the Commerce and Finance College. Approximately 3,300 students are enrolled in the five colleges of the University.

Birmingham—War on poison ivy has been declared by the Birmingham Village Commission. "Many complaints of serious illness caused by poison ivy have been received," James W. Parry, village manager, reported. "If the commission authorizes it, we will begin a campaign for the elimination of the vines on private property as well as along the highways." Boy scouts have agreed to make surveys and report locations of the ivy, and residents generally are requested to do the same.

Adrian—Stockholders of the Erie & Kalamazoo Railway recently held the ninety-ninth meeting of the company. Herman Young, of Jersey City, N. J., vice-president and secretary, was the only one of the nine directors present. The meeting is a formality. The road never touched either Kalamazoo or Erie but in its infancy ran from Toledo, then known as Port Lawrence, to Adrian. It then was the only railroad west of Schenectady, N. Y. Its right-of-way now is leased to the New York Central Railroad.

Cedar Lake—Michigan may soon have its spider and snake battle. With the idea of either establishing or debunking stories from other states about spider and snake fights, two cages have been set up in front of a Cedar Lake store. In one is a rattlesnake and spider. In the other is a snake from the spotted adder family and a spider. At this writing no blows have been struck. In fact, the contestants appeared fairly friendly with one spider sitting on the adder's head part of the time.

Reed City—A lilac bush in the yard of Mrs. Ray Wing here was in partial bloom. The buds appeared after a frost.

Sturgis—Maryann Pearl Nusbbaum, 2, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Nusbbaum, city employee, is dead from the effects of eating poison berries.

Bay City—Dismantling of the Bay County Courthouse has been started and will be completed in 12 days to permit immediate construction of a new $500,000 building.

Detroit—Burns suffered when he pulled a percolator full of coffee off a shelf caused the death of Robert Turner, 16-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Turner.

Owosso—Albert Maudlin, 68-year-old retired farmer, of Bancroft, burned to death when his home was destroyed by fire. Maudlin, a cripple, is believed to have attempted to start a fire in the kitchen stove. He lived alone.

Ionia—Earl Price, Grand Rapids salesman, began a 15-day County Jail sentence because a Belding woman objected to a kiss. He was arrested for assault and battery. The warrant, a year old, was served when Price returned to town.

Grand Rapids—Mrs. Ellen Clinton, 23 years old, died soon after she was found unconscious in the kitchen of her home here, with a fire smoldering in the floor and walls. She was burned about the head as she lay unconscious but physicians believed shock caused her death.

Kalamazoo—Elbert Reid is back in the Kalamazoo State Hospital after spending nearly two weeks in a cave five miles west of the city. Dressed in an improvised costume made of burlap bags, Reid had lived in the cave since he escaped from the hospital. He said he subsisted on berries and herbs.

Coldwater—Isaac Eaton, 77-year-old farmer, died of exposure. Eaton was found on the floor of his barn 12 hours after he had been knocked to the ground, as a hog upset a ladder on which he was working. Eaton's leg was broken. He told his family he fought off hogs with a pitchfork when they molested him during the night.

Owosso—Encouraging business reports have come from several sources here. Railroads report increases in carloading ranging from 7 to 34 per cent. The American Railway Express agency has shown an 81 per cent increase in business for September over July, and postal receipts in September showed a 10 per cent gain over August.

Clare—Albert Thurston, an employee of the Clare Road Commission, was hoping the Treasury at Washington will be able to decipher his badly scorched roll of bills. Thurston hid the bills in the ashes of his stove during the summer, and recent chilly weather caused his wife to build a fire in the stove unaware of the bills. Retrieved by Thurston, a bank sent the money to Washington to be replaced.

Ann Arbor—And now there comes gold from grizzly bears. Four silver-tip grizzly hides were brought from the Yukon by Prof. Dow V. Baxter of the University of Michigan and given to Prof. E. C. O'Roke, university authority on parasites. After carefully combing the hides, Professor O'Roke examined the combings under a microscope and found tiny flakes of gold. Where did the bears find the gold? Even the professor gives up.

Detroit—On the way home with a sack of flour given him by the Welfare Department, Robert Cunningham, 60 years old, collapsed in Green Ave., near the Wabash Railroad tracks, and died instantly. Physicians said the effort of carrying the twenty-five pound sack of flour and his haste to get home induced a heart attack. Cunningham and his family had been receiving aid from the Welfare Department for some time, it was said.

Detroit—The last electric Interurban has rumbled over Detroit streets. The last car made the final run between Detroit and Cincinnati, closing 30 years of electric traction service out of the city. Failure to renew its franchise in Monroe, was the principal cause of the traction company's suspension. With its discontinuance, only one electric line remains in operation in Michigan—the one between South Bend, Ind., and Benton Harbor, Mich.

Charlevoix—A lighthouse keeper on Beaver Island who has been on the mainland of Michigan but four times during his thirty-year career, will celebrate his recent resignation by making a cruise to the Gulf of Mexico. He is Dominick Gallagher, born and raised on the island. Three of his four trips from the island were necessitated by the death of relatives and the fourth by an operation. Gallagher plans to make a boat cruise across Lake Michigan to Chicago and then follow the Mississippi river to the Gulf.

Dearborn—With Dearborn welfare money in their pockets, seven families left Dearborn to homestead unclaimed land in Northern Michigan. The families will continue to receive the welfare fund allowance until they can clear their land and obtain a harvest. Each has 150 acres near Johannesburg, in Otsego County. All of the men have farming experience. Clerk E. Greene, Dearborn welfare superintendent, said, "the city saves money while giving these men a chance to establish themselves and become self-supporting."

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for October 16

THE HOME AND THE COMING GENERATION

Genesis 18:17-19; Deuteronomy 6:4-9; I Samuel 1:24-28; Mark 10:13-16; II Timothy 1:5, 6.
GOLDEN TEXT—Train up a child in the way he should go; and when he is old, he will not depart from it. Proverbs 22:6.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Timothy's Home.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Honoring God in Our Homes.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Helping to Make Our Homes Better.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Home Ideals for Today and Tomorrow.

I. The Home Which Is to Be (Gen. 18:17-19).

The particular home in mind here is Abraham's. He was not only to become the head of a home, in the ordinary sense, but also the head of a nation through which particular blessings should come to the whole world.

1. Abraham to be the head of the home (v. 18). The husband is the head according to divine arrangement. How blessed it is when the lawful head of the home recognizes his responsibility, and in the fear of God seeks to discharge it.

2. Abraham's responsibility for instruction of his family (v. 19). God was about to destroy Sodom. The interests of humanity were at stake in the judgment upon this wicked city. It was God's purpose that Abraham should teach his descendants as to God's purpose through them. It is a father's solemn responsibility to teach his children the purpose and ways of God so that they may in turn take their place and become a blessing to the world.

II. God's Word, the Foundation of the Home (Deut. 6:4-9).

The home has a vital teaching function. The child develops slowly. It remains in the home for a long time, to give an opportunity to be taught the things of God. To teach God's Word to the children is a solemn obligation imposed upon parents.

1. The central truth to be taught (vv. 4, 5).

a. The unity of God (v. 4). This fundamental truth should be lodged in the mind of the child in its tender years.

b. Man's supreme obligation to God (v. 5). It is to love God supremely—heart, soul, and mind.

2. How the truth of God is to be kept alive (vv. 6-9).

a. It is to be diligently taught to the children (v. 7). This is a responsibility that dare not be delegated even to the Sunday school and church.

b. It should be talked of to the children everywhere and under all circumstances (v. 7). Impressions will thus be made upon the mind which cannot be effaced.

c. It is to be bound upon the hands and placed as frontlets between the eyes (v. 8).

d. It is to be written upon the posts of the house (v. 9).

III. Children Should Be Dedicated to the Lord (I Sam. 1:24-28).

The union of man and woman in holy marriage is for the propagation of the race. Parents have a solemn responsibility and should esteem it a great privilege to give their children to the Lord. The example of Hannah in giving Samuel to the Lord should encourage all parents to follow her example. According to her vow, she took Samuel to the sanctuary and gave him over to the priest, to assist in the ministry in the Lord's house.

IV. Jesus' Attitude Toward Children (Mark 10:13-16).

1. Mothers desired that Jesus might touch their children (v. 13). Doubtless they had witnessed the healing power of His touch and coveted it for their children. All Christian parents want their children to come into contact with Jesus Christ.

2. The disciples' rebuke (v. 13). Thinking the children were too insignificant to engage Jesus' attention, they rebuked the mothers for bringing them to him.

3. Jesus' reply (v. 14). He declared that of such is the kingdom. Therefore, the children have a right in the presence of the King.

4. Jesus blessed the little children (v. 16). He took them up in his arms and blessed them. Christianity is peculiarly favorable to children.

V. The Godly Home (II Tim. 1:5, 6).

Timothy's wise and faithful mother and grandmother carefully nurtured him in God's Word. He knew the Scriptures from childhood through their training. His faith came to him not through laws of heredity but through the careful teaching of God's Word. The factors involved were godly ancestors, a Christian home, and diligent study of the Scriptures.

WORDS OF WISDOM

- Love never covets.
- Self-conceit is always a hard master.
- Pride is always hard on a man's clothes.
- Many a man believes himself because he has to.

Town With a History

Tokat, in Turkey, is a city of red-roofed houses and luxuriant gardens, interspersed with shabby slums. Back of Tokat is a medieval citadel. During the Middle Ages this fortress was practically impregnable. A few men ensconced on the heights could repel an entire army. Many armies passed through this town during its long history, for it is on the pathway taken by many of the hosts which came from Asia to invade Europe or from Europe to invade Asia. Tokat now numbers about 20,000 inhabitants, many of whom are occupied in the manufacture of cotton, leather goods and copperware.

Recalling "The Most Daring Act of the Age"

Commander Stephen Decatur

The Barbary Coast

Commodore Edward Preble

Blowing up of the U.S.S. Philadelphia

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

IT WAS Admiral Nelson, the great British sailor, who, when he heard of Lieutenant Stephen Decatur's brilliant exploit of entering the harbor of Tripoli and destroying the U. S. S. Philadelphia right under the noses of the Barbary pirates, called it "the most daring act of the age." And now it is another distinguished foreigner who is proposing to pay a tribute to another kind of the desperate valor of a young American naval captain more than a century after he had thrilled the hearts of his fellow-countrymen with his daring.

For Premier Benito Mussolini, dictator of Italy, has conceived an ambitious project of "putting the old Barbary coast on the map" again and making it easy for American tourists to visit the spot where took place one of the most glorious deeds in American naval history. Not only will he make it easy for them to visit the place but it is said that he is planning special inducements to attract them there.

During several visits to Tripoli Mussolini was particularly impressed by the historical attraction the place held for the American people, especially as it has always been more or less closed to them. For there still survive there many relics of America's almost forgotten war with the Barbary pirates at the opening of the Nineteenth century. The hulk of the Philadelphia lies in 25 feet of water, less than 400 feet from the end of the mole, to where it drifted before exploding, and when the sea is clear one can row out and see the timbers. Divers report that the hull is mostly intact and well preserved and it is said that Mussolini even intends to raise the vessel eventually for exhibition purposes.

To take advantage of this American historical appeal, Premier Mussolini is going to cut a broad-tourist trail straight across Italy, Sicily and the Mediterranean to Tripoli. He will have special train services, special sailings and then luxurious hotels in Tripoli to lodge the visitors. The hotels are being built now. It was partly for this new attraction that the Italian government is financing several new liners, which will sail directly for the Mediterranean and stop at Tripoli as well as Naples. The liners carrying winter cruises will be invited to stop there.

The situation which brought about Decatur's chance for glory was this: For centuries the Barbary pirates had preyed upon the commerce of all nations. Finally it became Europe's custom, and also that of America, to make presents of goods and money to the fierce rovers of northern Africa, and when those gifts were not promptly forthcoming the swift galleys of the corsairs ranged the seas and committed every act of piracy in the buccaneering calendar. The cruelty of these rovers was unbounded, their arrogance unmitigated, their demands insatiable.

America, its colonies established as a free and independent nation following the Revolution, its maritime troubles with its erstwhile ally, France, settled, now turned its attention to the vexatious and dangerous problem of the Barbary corsairs. The war really opened in 1801 but it was not until 1803 that the third squadron sent by the United States gathered at Gibraltar under the command of Commodore Edward Preble, one of whose lieutenants was Stephen Decatur, the son of another of the same name who had commanded an American privateer during the Revolution.

After several bloodless encounters, Preble assigned two American vessels, the famous Philadelphia and the Vixen, to the task of blockading Tripoli. This was exceedingly difficult because the coast was a high, dangerous one, full of reefs, shoals and strong, unknown currents, as well as being harassed by strong winds. The difficulty of the situation became acute when the Vixen made off toward the east in search of a Tripolitan cruiser and the Philadelphia, a deep-draught frigate, fell heir to the duties of in-shore chasing.

During the course of this duty the Philadelphia ran on a reef. Immediately the Tripolitans swarmed about the ship and her commander, Capt. Richard Bainbridge, was forced to surrender. Bainbridge tried to sink the ship to prevent her falling in the enemy's hands, but failed. He and his men were thrown in a dungeon in Tripoli and within a week the pirates had the Philadelphia refitted and ready for action against the Americans.

Commodore Preble, hearing of the catastrophe, determined upon a vigorous course of action and making good a promise given Decatur, indicated that the latter was to head the perilous expedition he had projected. Preble first had thought that re-capture of the Philadelphia would be possible, but upon mature consideration resolved that her destruction was the only course. Plans were carefully worked out, and finally Decatur received these instructions from his commander:

"It is my order that you proceed to Tripoli in company with Lieutenant Stewart, enter that harbor in the night, board the Philadelphia, burn her and make good your retreat with the Intrepid, if possible, unless you can make her the means of destroying the enemy's vessels in the harbor, by converting her into a fire-ship for that purpose, and retreating in your boats and those of the Siren. You must take fixed ammunition and apparatus for the frigate's 18-pounders, and if you can, without risking too much, you may endeavor to make them the instruments of destruction to the shipping and bazaar's castle.

"You will provide all the necessary combustibles for burning and destroying ships. The destruction of the Philadelphia is an object of great importance, and I rely with confidence on your intrepidity and enterprise to effect it. Lieutenant Stewart will support you with the boats of the Siren and cover your retreat with that vessel. Be sure and set fire in the gun-room berths, cockpit, storerooms forward and berths on the berth deck. After the ship is well on fire, point two of the 18 pounders, shot down the main hatch and blow her bottom out."

The expedition, consisting of the Siren and the Intrepid, set forth, loaded with combustibles and anxious but eager men. Arriving before Tripoli just as bad weather was setting in, Decatur sent out a boat with the pilot and Midshipman Morris to reconnoiter. Their report was unfavorable, and the decision was against going in. The wind, getting constantly worse, blew a gale and drove the adventurers to the eastward. Recalling that the boats were small, and that they were overloaded with men and combustibles, one can sympathize with Morris in his account of the situation of the Intrepid's crew. He says:

"The commander, three lieutenants and the surgeon occupied the very small cabin. Six midshipmen and the pilot had a platform laid out on the water casks, whose surface they covered when they lay down for sleep, and at so small a distance below the deck that their heads would reach it when seated on the platform. The marines had corresponding accommodations on the opposite side, and the sailors had only the surface of the casks in the hold. To these inconveniences were added the want of any room on the deck for exercise and the attacks of innumerable vermin which our predecessors, the slaves, had left behind them. The provisions proved to be decayed and offensive."

Finally, however, the little fleet again stood before Tripoli, and this time the grim drama was not to be interrupted. With approximately 84 men aboard, the Intrepid, commanded by Stephen Decatur, drifted into the harbor, a pale, beautiful young moon overhead lighting her way. The harbor and town were still; no sound was to be heard but the gentle lapping of the waves as the Intrepid moved quietly to her destination.

Her quarry—the Philadelphia—stood before, a handsome ship, her 40 guns all loaded and double-shotted and well manned. This was the enemy which the little ketch of 60 tons and four small guns faced—and in addition there were the guns of the Pasha's castle as well as other batteries. Furthermore, there were floating defenses close by consisting of two or three cruisers and some galleys.

It was a tense moment and had suspicion been directed against the Intrepid "she would have been blown out of the water and not a man could have escaped." All the men on the ketch were kept concealed except a few in native dress and, owing to the smooth Tripolitanese of the Sicilian pilot, no suspicion was excited aboard the Philadelphia. The watch halted, and the pilot of the Intrepid replied that she had lost anchors in the gale and would like to make fast to the Philadelphia for the night. This was agreed to, but after the ketch was warped alongside the Philadelphia's crew scented danger and there came the cry: "Americans! Americans!"

In another moment the Intrepid had swung broadside on and quickly passed lashings held the two ships locked in deadly embrace. Then Decatur's cry of "Board!" rang out and with a quick rush and the discharge of only a single gun the decks were gained.

The surprise was as perfect as the assault was rapid and the Tripolitan crew, panic-stricken, huddled like rats at bay awaiting the final dash. Decatur had early gathered his men aft; stood a moment for them to gain sight of the enemy, and then, with the watchword "Philadelphia" rushed upon the rovers. No defense was made, for, swarming to leeward, they tumbled overboard; over the bows, through gun ports, by aid of trailing billiards and stranded rigging, out of the channels, pell-mell by every loophole they went—and then, such as could, swam like water rats for the friendly shelter of the neighboring war galleys.

One by one the decks were cleared. Ten minutes after the boarding party swung over the rails Decatur was in full possession of the ship. Events then moved with lightning rapidity. Parties, especially assigned of course, darted here, there and elsewhere, setting fire to vulnerable points. Then, with the ship already a blazing mass which lighted the entire harbor and sent terror to the hearts of the native onlookers, the brave little crew of Americans made for the Intrepid. Then came the struggle to escape, with the town awakened, the Tripolitan batteries coming into action, and the tiny ketch the object of every missile.

Through a veritable hell of gunfire the Intrepid made its way safely out of the harbor and as they did so a mighty explosion shook the earth and sea and a column of flames shot to the sky—the Philadelphia had blown up. The impossible had been accomplished—and not a single one of Decatur's men had been killed!

Shortly after the epic firing of the Philadelphia, Preble recommended to the secretary of the navy that Decatur be promoted. This recommendation was promptly carried out, and the secretary addressed a letter to Stephen Decatur, Esq., captain in the navy of the United States. Decatur was just twenty-five years old, the youngest captain ever appointed in the United States navy.

DAIRY FACTS

SHOWS HIGH VALUE OF DAIRY FINDINGS

Specialist Summarizes Good Results.

By T. S. SUTTON, Dairy Specialist, College of Agriculture, Ohio State University.—WNU Service.

Summarizing some of the results of agricultural experiment stations in various parts of the country, I find that considerable information of practical value to Ohio dairymen has been uncovered recently.

The Missouri agricultural experiment station has found from a study of proven sires that a sire should have ten or more daughters with yearly records in order to predict the average of future daughters with reasonable accuracy.

Workers at the Illinois station report that while green feed enriches the color of milk, proteins from different sources fed in concentrates did not affect the color.

The same experiment station also finds that soybeans are best cut for hay when the pods are well filled. This conclusion is based on the fact that the highest total yield per acre was obtained by cutting at this time, 41 per cent of the total weight was leaves and 30 per cent was pods. Other investigators in Indiana discovered that soybean hay cut when the pods were completely formed, the beans well formed, and the lower leaves turning yellow, is superior for both milk and fat production to hays cut in earlier stages of maturity.

Still other workers in Nebraska have reported some important data concerning the influence of the number of milkings on the production of dairy cows. Analysis of their records show that high-producing Holstein, Jersey, Guernsey, and Ayrshire cows of different ages milked three times a day produced from 39 to 52 per cent more fat and 44 to 65 per cent more milk than do cows milked twice daily. Cows milked four times daily produced from 110 to 127 per cent more fat and from 149 to 160 per cent more milk than do cows milked twice a day.

Herd Tests Valuable to Owners of Dairy Cows

The herd test, says Professor Brownell, New York State College of Agriculture, is popular because it is an economical way to get records on all the cows in a herd. It is possible for members of dairy herd improvement associations to have their records accepted and published in the herd book of the national association. These records are preserved and published in a book each year and serve as an invaluable aid in proving herd sires and in building a sound breeding program. Provision is made by the association for the voluntary cancellation of registration papers on the low producing purebreds, and to remove them from the herd books to raise the general average quality of the breed. To date, about 11 per cent of the Holsteins tested in the herd test have been weeded out and their registry papers canceled.

Grain Ration

When the pasture grass or green feed is only fair cows will want more grain and to keep them in flesh and producing well they should have more. A good rule to go by at this time is one pound of grain to every four or five pounds of milk produced, depending upon the test and the quantity the cow gives. Most grain rations recommended for use with pasture contain about 15 to 16 per cent protein. There are several good pasture mixtures that will give good results.

For a grain ration to feed when the pasture grass is dry and short and when the green feed has lost most of its succulence, one-half the pasture ration and one-half of a 20 per cent herd ration may be fed during this period.

Clean Utensils

Be sure that milk pails and other utensils used for milk are washed promptly after using. First: Rinse them with luke-warm or cool water. Second: Wash them thoroughly with hot water and washing soda. Third: Scald and let dry without wiping. Fourth: Set utensils on rack so that they will drain thoroughly. Let the sun shine on them as much as possible.

Remember: Protect cream when you take it to market. Place a wet burlap sack over the can to keep it cool. Tuck the bars of the burlap sack under the can lid handle. Fill the lid of the can with water. The wet sack acts like a lump wick and drains the water down around the sides of the can. Evaporation does the cooling.

Comparing Milk Color

A machine is being developed to compare the color of milk of one cow with others. This will make possible the elimination of cows that produce pale-colored milk and select those that give a rich-colored milk as demanded by consumers. Breeders will now face the problem of meeting color demand in milk just as they now meet demand for proper breed characteristics, production capacity and individual merit of their animals, a writer in the Prairie Farmer comments.

GRADES

First Grade—The First Grade have made health posters. They are starting their Halloween work now.

Second Grade—The Second Graders welcomed a new pupil, Vernon Faust from Inglewood California, Wednesday.

Fourth Grade—In their Indian work the fourth graders are making scenes. They have two small snakes which they feed bread.

Those who had "A" in spelling were:
 Betty Hixcox
 Glen Trojanek
 Jean Galmore
 Maurice Kramer

Sixth Grade—Section 1—A group of girls in one of the reading classes dramatized the story "You Be the Judge" on Thursday. The boys and girls are bringing material for leaf and seed posters.

Those who had "A" in spelling were:
 Louise Bechtold
 Virginia Davis
 Permelia Hite
 Arnold Moore
 Alice Pinney
 Jane Ellen Vance
 Marie Borcleau
 Jean Bugai

Sixth Grade—Section 2—We are starting some very interesting projects in geography in both fifth and sixth grades. The fifth graders are making a map of North America showing their vacation trip. In the sixth grade we are making a Holland scene in correlation with our study of the Rhineland.

The sixth grade has a very heated debate this week over whether the country or the city is the more desirable place to live.

Our honor roll includes:
 Sonny Bulow
 Anna Kraemer
 Elaine Collins

JUNIOR HIGH

8th grade English Class is reviewing 7th grade work.

7th grade English Class is studying social and business letter writing.

The 7th grade healthy living class is playing baseball, and doing drill work exercise. Class members are getting a lot of muscle since they have started playing baseball.

8th grade Home Ec. girls are learning to make French and flat fell seams.

The 7th grade held a class meeting for the purpose of electing officers.

The following officers are elected:
 President: Kathryn Kitsman
 Vice President: Anna Jean Sherman
 Sec.-Treasurer: Rebecca Bowman
 Advisers: Miss Stroop and Miss Top-liff.

HOME ECONOMICS

The Home Ec. Department had as their guests Monday, Miss Ruth Fregard, our State supervisor of Home Economics and Miss Florence Falgeter, our Federal supervisor of Home Economics education from Washington D. C.

The department should feel especially honored by their visit as Miss Falgeter has only time for visiting 2 out of the 86 Smith-Hughes schools in the state.

Miss Falgeter spoke very briefly to the Home Ec. 10 class in relation to applying art to themselves, their own rooms and surroundings. Having formerly taught related art work she was especially interested in the work the girls are carrying on in the class room.

The girls were complimented on the ease with which they worked under the crowded conditions.

The Class in Home Ec. 10 is about to begin its study of color, one of the most interesting positions of related art work, especially at this time of year when all of nature is a huge color harmony.

The Classes in Home Ec. 9 are starting in a third unit, that of the luncheon. The odor of soups will soon be penetrating the corridors.

Sophomores

The sophomores have a new session room teacher, Miss Roberts. Two members of the class had some bad luck as James Lilak and Jack Bowman had the misfortune of getting hurt. James is back in school and we all hope Jack gets along all right and that it won't be long before he can return.

Freshmen

The Freshman class of 32 will hold its first party Friday night at Lone Tree Point. We all hope they enjoy their first party but, Freshman, don't forget what you said last year: "All Freshmen in bed at nine o'clock."

MILY CLUB

Several members have been selected by last year's members and added to this year's club. A meeting of all was held Wednesday noon at one o'clock. Officers and plans for place and time of meetings were decided. Officers are as follows: President, William Porter; Vice-President, Gilbert Joyn; Secretary, John Vogel; and Treasurer, William Malpass. It was decided that the meetings will be held at the High School, Thursday evening, at 7:30 o'clock.

West Side 4th and 5th Grades—We have a turtle in our room. Vale Gee brought it for us.

The fourth grade is making Geography work books. Each day we put a new page in it.

The fifth grade is making a products map of U. S.

The "A" Spellers in the Fourth grade are:

John Craig	Elaine Hosler
Virginia Kaake	Mary Koivich
Francis Justice	Joey Lilak
Marjorie Mayville	Basil Morgan
Dorothy Roberts	Madaline Shay
Armetta Vermillion

The "A" Spellers in the Fifth grade are: Charles Burbank, James Carney, Jack Engel, Dale Gee, Marion Kovarik, Marjorie Kiser, Ellen Moore, Norma Pramoe, Helen Shay, and Jean Vallance.

Juniors—For Pep meeting last Wednesday two of the Junior boys were supposed to give a speech. Bobbie Sommerville gave a short speech and we don't know where Dale Clark was unless he was out preparing a speech. Anyway he didn't give it.

LANGUAGE

English 3—The students in the English three class have taken up contract work on "The Idylls of the King" which calls for quite a bit of original work. The contracts are for D, C, B, and A work. For instance, the D contract indicates that the student is working for a D. The regular class period is now being used for a laboratory period all of which shows they are very business-like.

English 4—These students are beginning to study the background for the understanding of conditions during the Shakesperian period.

Public Speaking—We have heard that the Public Speaking class is laying plans for a better speech week; but as yet we do not know how they intend to carry out their plans.

HISTORY

Modern History—This class is starting the French Revolution.

Ancient History—The class members are making individual reports on material Mr. Wade has given them.

MANUAL ARTS DEPARTMENT—The Manual Arts Department has an addition to its already large family. The new member is Morris Allen who is fitting in very nicely.

COMMERCIAL WORK

Shorthand 1—The students are doing very good work in their transcriptions and dictations. There is just a small class of seven so there is more competition and each must be prepared to take that daily dictation. Mr. Dickerson is now giving dictation at the rate of 30 words per minute.

We have begun in our Gregg Speed Studies and have good intentions of making that National and Michigan minimum speed rate of 60 words per minute.

Commercial Law—This class is still growing in number. Harold Bigelow, the new number, makes the thirteenth in the class. We hope it isn't so unlucky as it sounds.

REPORTERS ATTENTION!—If you are reporting for anything concerning Mr. Dickerson's classes you must snoop and dig as he has made it known that he won't supply any news, but that you must find it out in true reporter style. This is really the way it should be, for it is desired that people reporting be given a chance to learn some of the real work of a reporter.

HARBOR VS. JORDAN

Bob Sommerville made the first touchdown with a run of 76 yards. One touchdown followed another. Jordan scored 19 in the first half, and Harbor scored no points. But this does not mean that Harbor had given up.

Jordan's line must be congratulated on its good work.

At the half, everyone rushed to the hot-dog stand. Something was needed to freshen up one's throat after the yelling that was done by both Jordan and the visitors.

Jordan's team still had the gold spirit for the second half and made two more touchdowns, making the score 31-0.

Harbor supported their team by a band that played during the game to help cheer the old comrades.

Better sportsmanship could not have been shown by either team. Though Harbor was the loser it took it as good as any team could, and everyone respects them for it.

GEOMETRY

The Geometry classes have been studying the theorem concerning the fact that the angles opposite the two equal sides in a triangle are equal. The following week has been devoted to exercises which utilize this fact. In addition three constructions have been learned: The method of bisecting an angle, and the method of drawing a given angle upon a line at a given point. The most recent work is that of parallel lines. One being the fact that two parallel lines when cut by a transversal, the alternate interior lines, are equal.

In class much stress has been given to the meaning or logic as related to geometric proofs. Memorization has been limited to the minimum. Stress has been given to brevity as applied to the lettering of figures. This helps students to a quicker grasp of the problem.

ALGEBRA

The classes are gaining the concept of positive and negative numbers. Students are beginning to comprehend the significance of subtraction of these numbers. Subtraction of positive and negative numbers seem to be the most difficult of all processes so far.

Counties containing less than the ratio of population shall be joined to form a district. Each county having a full ratio of population shall constitute a district. The board of supervisors of any county entitled to more than one representative may divide such county into house districts to elect not more than 4 representatives from any one district. In districts containing more than one representative, the chairman of the boards of supervisors, or a majority of such officers, or, in case of disagreement, the secretary of state shall divide such district into house districts.

The proposed amendment to section 4, if adopted, will require the legislature following each decennial United States census to establish representative districts and apportion the representatives in accordance with the amendment to section 3 and such census; provided that, if the legislature fails to do so, such apportionment shall, within 90 days thereafter, be made by the secretary of state.

Proposal No. 4

The proposed amendment to Article X, Section 7, is as follows:

"Section 7. All assessments hereafter authorized shall be on property at its cash value. To the value of $1,000, the household goods, provisions, live stock, tools, and stock of his trade, owned by any householder, shall be exempt from all taxation other than to pay public debts heretofore incurred; and the homestead owned and occupied by any householder shall to the extent of $3,000 be exempt from all taxation other than to pay public debts heretofore incurred, and for special benefit assessments for ways. Until 30 days after any assessment roll is completed, filed, and the fact announced in the newspaper believed by the assessing officer to have the largest circulation in the taxing district any person having an interest in any property assessed may determine the assessed value of such interest by depositing with the assessing officer a duly executed offer to sell such property interest (describing it) at any named price, which price shall thereupon become the assessed value of such interest; which offer may be accepted at any time within 60 days after the roll was announced by any person first depositing such price in cash with the county treasurer of the county where such property is located, payable to the order of the offeror upon deposit of a duly executed conveyance of such interest to the acceptor, who may have a decree of specific performance, and the state shall be responsible for the money so deposited."

This proposed amendment, if adopted, will exempt to the value of $1,000 from all taxation, other than to pay public debts heretofore incurred, the household goods, provisions, live stock tools, and stock in trade owned by any householder; and also the homestead owned and occupied by any householder to the extent of $3,000 except to pay public debts heretofore incurred and public benefit assessments for ways. It will also provide that until 30 days after any assessment roll is completed, filed and announced in a newspaper, any person having an interest in property assessed for taxes may determine the assessed value thereof by depositing with the assessor an offer to sell such property at a named price, which shall thereupon become the assessed value thereof; said offer may be accepted within 60 days after the roll was announced by any person first depositing such price in cash with the county treasurer.

Tell it to us—we'll tell the world.
 Get the habit—tell the Editor of your visitors, of the visits that you make or other items of local interest.

"STEP A LITTLE CLOSER, FOLKS!"

YOU see him in the center of a craning crowd. His counter is an upturned box. With nervous gestures, and one eye on the cop at the corner, he dispenses his wares. Perhaps . . . on an impulse . . . you buy.

Next week, when you return to get your money back—as he so confidently promised—you find your sidewalk salesman has moved to fresher fields.

Unlike the street-sharper, an advertised product must have permanence. To become successful, it must gain the confidence of thousands of people. To remain successful, that confidence must never once be abused.

You will find many familiar names among the advertisements in this newspaper. Their messages carry no extravagant claims. They tell you the truth about the products which they feature. They are as dependable as an old friend.

Advertisements are guides to safe purchases.
 Minutes given to reading them are well spent.
