CRIMSON WAVE NOW CHAMPS

Redshirts Clinch Title With 13-0 Victory At Boyne City Last Saturday

East Jordan's high flying Crimson Wave traveled to Boyne City last Saturday and, two hours later, left Shaw Field with a 13 to 0 victory and a well earned Tip Conference championship for 1935. It was the Redshirts first appearance on Boyne's new field and, for Boyne, it was an unforgettable appearance.

Boyne, entering the game set to stop the Jordanite's aerial attack and end runs, found a neat surprise as the locals opened up with a heavy bombardment thru the line. The Crimson received to open the fray and lost no time in marching down the field. However, as they neared the Red & Blue goal, a penalty set them back and Boyne took the ball over on their own 4 yard line. Boyne immediately punted and the Redshirts marched down the field again; this time ending when Bill Ellis got thru the line for five yds. and a touchdown. Dave Pray added the extra point on an end run.

Although the Redshirts drove hard, Brotherton's scrappers managed to keep their goal line uncrossed during the second and third quarters. In the final period, the Crimson put on another drive and George Walton ended it all by romping thru the line for our final touchdown. He tried it again for the extra point but Boyne was wise to it this time and piled 'em up.

Boyne was all set last Saturday for a big evening celebration. They were going to have a big dance, present the champions and all that sort of stuff. "Oh My Gosh! How they must have felt." (If none of you can realize what it must have been like, just think back a few weeks when a Cheboygan team played a Homecoming game here.) Boyne presented the champions all right, but they didn't know their names.

This Friday afternoon the Crimson Wave has its chance to make itself absolutely undisputable Northern Michigan "C" champions, by taking a tough Gaylord team into camp on the West Side Athletic Field here.

While the Jordanites were winning the Tip title Saturday, Petoskey was gaining a tie with Cadillac for the Big Six title at Traverse City by nosing out the Trojans 20-19 in a grueling battle.

Frank Decker, 48 Passes Away At Charlevoix Hospital

Frank Decker passed away at the Charlevoix hospital, Sunday, Oct. 27. He had been ailing from bowel trouble for years but was taken seriously ill only a few days before his death.

Francis Alfred Decker was born in Leelanau County April 28, 1887, his parents being Charles and Josephine Decker. When still a child he came with his parents to this region. On Nov. 16, 1911, he was united in marriage to Miss Edith Myrick and they followed the farming occupation. For several years past they have occupied a farm in South Arm Township just north-east of East Jordan.

Deceased is survived by the wife and the following sons and daughters—all of this city:—Franklin, Roland, Mrs. Alma Hosler, Margaret, Nellie, Blanche, and the infant son, Philip. Also the following brothers and sisters:—Len Decker of Onaway; Mrs. Carrie Bolser, William and Martin Decker of East Jordan; Oscar Decker of Onaway; Arthur of East Jordan and Lewis—residence not known.

Funeral services were held from the Watson Funeral Parlors Wednesday, Oct. 30th, conducted by Rev. John Cermak, pastor of the M. E. church. Burial was at Sunset Hill.

WHEN LOVE COMES TO A "TOMBOY"

"Goose Fair", a fascinating new serial novel, illustrated in full color, starts in The American Weekly with Sunday's Detroit Times. It's an appealing story about a charming girl who did not realize she had grown up.

Many Awards To This County

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY HAS FINE SHOWING AT GAYLORD

Exhibitors from Charlevoix county walked off with many of the major awards in the Top O'Michigan Potato, Apple and Seed Show held last week at Gaylord. For the first time in Potato dept this county won first in the county exhibit, followed closely by Otsego and Emmet. In the open place of Russet Rural pecks, Lee Sneathen of Charlevoix won second; Heston Dyer, Boyne City, won ninth; G. C. Ferris, East Jordan, eleventh; Sam Houtman, East Jordan, twelfth; John Noble, East Jordan, thirteenth; and Lewis McDonald East Jordan, fifteenth.

In the place of Katahdins, Elmer Hott and son of East Jordan, won second on his peck and first on a bushel of certified seed. W. K. Straw and son of Charlevoix picked up two firsts on a peck and bushel of Irish Cobblers. Edward Kowalski of East Jordan, won fourth on a peck of Russet Burbank and Albert Umland of East Jordan fourth on his sample of Katahdins.

Not content to let their elders win so many awards, the Smith-Hughes boys and 4-H Club members crashed through. The outstanding exhibitor in the Junior department was Einer Olstrom of East Jordan, whose peck of Russet Rurals was judged the best in the entire department. Both the Smith-Hughes exhibit of East Jordan and the Kiwanis 4-H Club of Charlevoix won first places in their respective competition. Within the Smith-Hughes exhibit, Ernest Rude of East Jordan, had the second best peck in the department, while Gardel Nice won first in the Katahdin.

The Kiwanis 4-H Club of Charlevoix made up of Fred Fratrack, Donald Stevens, Max Blanchard, and Albert Routley, finished on top. The sample was second in the Katahdin competition. The Peninsula 4-H Club of East Jordan won third place and within this group appeared the names of Einer Olstrom, Howard McDonald, Albert McDonald, Wilbur McDonald, and Robert Houtman. The Tainter Corner 4-H Club exhibit of Boyne City, was made up of samples from Melvin Somerville, Ned Anthony, Allan Lockman and Lyle Anthony.

In the apple division, Douglas Tibbits of Boyne City, carried off about half of all first places. Among his winnings were sweepstakes on plate, and best individual apple. He had a most splendid exhibit which was attractively put up and included a choice assortment. Evelyn Orchard of East Jordan had a very fine exhibit, although small in size.

On Friday forenoon the dramatics contest was held with four one-act plays in competition. In this contest Atwood won first and will represent this district at the State contest. Second place went to Otsego county and third to the Barnard Grange of Charlevoix county. This year's show, although smaller than some years, was a very enjoyable event and the quality throughout was all that could be desired. At the annual banquet held on Thursday night, we were favored by an address from Mr. Thomson, Commissioner of Agriculture.

B. C. Mellencamp, County Agr'l Agent.

Wallace Beery and Jackie Cooper Starred At The Temple This Week

It will be hard to miss a single one of the new shows that are announced this week for the Temple Theatre because we can't remember such a string of attractive entertainment. The first bill on Friday and Saturday brings us one of Zane Grey's best to the screen, "Thunder Mountain" with George O'Brien starred. On this same program the official pictures of the Louis vs Baar Fight will be shown. An unusual feature of these fight pictures is that every knockdown is in both slow and regular motion.

Perhaps the Sunday, Monday, Tuesday program is the high spot of the week with Wallace Beery and Jackie Cooper in their finest picture, "O' Shaughnessy's Boy" as the main attraction. "Starlit Days at Lido" a beautiful all-color featurette is also on this bill.

Next Wednesday and Thursday the Family Nite feature is one of the seasons gayest comedies, "The Bishop Misbehaves," with a cast overflowing with stars. Just the thing to cheer the whole family up for the entire week. Well, we'll be seeing you at the Temple!

Combined East Jordan — Gaylord Bands To Play Here This Afternoon

The E. J. H. S. vs Gaylord H. S. football game is here this afternoon. Director John Ter Wee, having charge of both these bands, plans to have both them out this Friday afternoon, weather permitting. This means a combined band of 75 to 80 pieces that will parade downtown before the game which is scheduled for 3:00 p. m. It will be worth hearing and seeing so let's hope for favorable weather.

M-66 Part of Oil Aggregate Road Surfacing Projects

The State Highway Dep't announced Tuesday the location of eleven oil aggregate road surfacing projects to be directed jointly by the department and the works progress administration.

Two of these projects are on M66, viz:—Charlevoix County, 4 miles on M66, East Jordan to Charlevoix, $50,000; 87 men. Antrim County, 3.8 miles on M66, M131-north, $30,000; 54 men.

R. F. D. Carriers Met At Boyne City

A special meeting of the R. F. D. Carriers of this District comprising Charlevoix and five adjoining counties, was held in Boyne City Saturday night. Some eighty members of the R. F. D. Carriers Ass'n and their Auxiliary enjoyed a delightful supper at the Gym served by the ladies of the Presbyterian church. Following the supper they adjourned to the Presbyterian church parlors where a round table was held. Among those present and who addressed the gathering were Past National President W. G. Armstrong and Mrs. Armstrong—Auxiliary State President—of Niles; State President Harold Laug and wife of Coopersville; and Auxiliary State Secretary Mrs. Mary Brown of Petoskey.

Gaylord Here This Afternoon

CHAMPIONSHIP PARTY AT HIGH SCHOOL TONIGHT

Due to a change in the date, Gaylord High School team will close the football season here today (Friday), instead of Saturday, as previously scheduled.

Local students are planning a big Championship dancing and novelty party tonight in the high school gym. The game will start at 3:30 p. m. and the party will get under way about 8:00 p. m., the proceeds to be used to help cover athletic expenses.

The students say it will be a novelty party but we don't know just what the novelties will be. The East Jordan & Southern say they have brought in no new Steinways and we doubt if they will be giving away any paid up life insurance policies. So—what will the novelties be?

Unless some of the football squad comes down to earth, it will be a novelty if we beat Gaylord today. In their present state of mind (as this is being written) they (E.J.) are a beaten team before they ever take the field. Because they have just won a Tip Title, many seem to think they have only to raise their finger and Gaylord will fall on its knees. We hope they change their minds before Friday, as there is no reason why they cannot beat Gaylord, but whether they will is a different story. In their present state of inflation, they are a perfect setup for a slaughter and may find themselves at the "Championship" party tonight, in somewhat the environment Boyne City found itself last Saturday. The boys which this applies to can let it sink in. The others can forget it, but East Jordan would like to see their Crimson Wave real champions, rather than get the title by winning just enough games to nose out the other fellow. Come on fellows, you have been crowned champions, which means you are the best Class "C" team in the North. Show the homefolks you are deserving of the title, and we'll all have a big time at the party tonight no matter what the novelties are.

Ernest Burnham P. T. A. Guest Speaker Here Next Thursday

"All Living Together" will be the subject of an address to be given by Ernest Burnham of the Dept. of Rural Education, Western State Teachers College, Kalamazoo, who is the guest speaker for the P. T. A. on Thursday evening, Nov. 14 at the School Auditorium at 8 o'clock.

Our school being consolidated and Agricultural, special effort has been made to secure the speaker. A special invitation is extended to the rural patrons. Parents in rural districts wishing to attend notify your bus driver. Public invited.

Pomona Grange To Install Officers

The regular meeting of Pomona Grange No. 40 will be held at Barnard Grange Hall Saturday evening, November 9. There will be a co-operative supper at 6:30.

The new officers elected for the next two years will be installed. Report will be given from State Grange at Big Rapids.

Anna Warner, Secretary.

Will Hold Hearing On Potato Marketing

Public hearing on a proposed marketing agreement on potatoes will be held at Traverse City, Nov. 11.

The hearing is for the purpose of determining whether it is for the public interest to provide regulations for the interstate shipment of cull and low grade potatoes. The purpose of such regulation would be to improve the prices paid to farmers for the present crop of potatoes.

No marketing agreement can be placed in effect by the secretary of agriculture until the agreement is signed by 50 per cent of the potato handlers in the area and by two-thirds of the producers. Local administration of any agreement would be placed in the hands of a district committee.

4-H Crops Show a Huge Success

AT CHARLEVOIX — 35 ENTRIES IN VARIOUS CLASSES

The Charlevoix County 4-H Crop Show was held last Monday and proved to be one of the outstanding occasions of the year. In the first place it was very gratifying to note the fine interest shown by the club members. All the afternoon everyone was busy putting up his exhibit, or helping others to put up theirs.

The big event of the day was the fine banquet served at 6:30 in the I.O. O.F. building. This banquet was sponsored by the Charlevoix Kiwanis club, who have so splendidly sponsored the club program in the Charlevoix area. All of the club members in the county were guests of the Kiwanis Club.

Featuring the program was a very able address by Judge Read of Mt. Clemens, who inspired the younger generation of farmers to greater efforts. Short talks were given by Mr. Sloan, chairman of the committee, Clarence Meggison, and Mr. Dhasler who extended the appreciation of the parents for the wonderful co-operation given by the Kiwanis Club.

Last, but not least, were the remarks by County Agent Mellencamp who introduced several outstanding club members in the county and announced the awards. In the Russett Rural class, the members of the Peninsula Club of East Jordan walked away with high honors, first place by Einer Olstrom, second by Howard McDonald, third by Albert McDonald, and fourth by Wilbur McDonald, all of East Jordan, and fifth place by Melvin Sommerville of Boyne City.

In the new Katahdin class, first place was won by Fred Fratrack, second by Donald Stevens, third by Albert Routley, fourth by Max Blanchard and fifth by Leonard Evers, all members of the Charlevoix Club. In the bean classes, first was won by Melvin Sommerville and second by Lyle Anthony, both of Boyne City.

Vernon O. Cook walked away with first honors in the corn competition. In the two entries of pop corn, first place went to Chas. Griffin, and in the poultry, Albert Routley was first.

It is hoped that another year this phase of activity will be enlarged so that each of the three cities in the county may carry on a similar program. In other words, instead of having 35 entries, why not have 100 of our fine boys carrying on this constructive project activity?

B. C. Mellencamp, County Agr'l Agent.

Council Proceedings

Regular meeting of the Common Council of East Jordan held at the Council Rooms, Monday, Nov. 4, 1935. Meeting called to order by the Mayor. Roll call: Present — Aldermen Dudley, Hathaway, Hipp, Maddock, Sturgill, Rogers and Mayor Carson.

News Review of Current Events the World Over

President Raps Tugwell for Budget Prediction—WPA Job Program Moves Rapidly—Farmers Indorse Corn-Hog Control for 1936.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD
© Western Newspaper Union.

REXFORD G. TUGWELL, undersecretary of agriculture and once considered head man of the "brain trust," made a speech at Los Angeles the other day that called forth a sharp rebuke from President Roosevelt. Addressing a Democratic gathering, Tugwell asserted that the administration could satisfy every humanitarian demand and still balance the budget in 1938.

Mr. Roosevelt, in a press conference, scolded the newspapers for printing what he called "crazy stories" and went on to declare that Tugwell's assertion was almost as unfounded as the predictions thrown out by many political observers that the budget probably would never be balanced again. Tugwell's statement wasn't quite as "wild" as the newspaper stories, he remarked, because Tugwell knew a little more about the budget than the newspaper men.

The President said he and his advisers were about to make a study of the financial situation, and that until the budget is finally drafted about the first of the year not even he knows what shape it will take. Every effort, he said, would be made to hold the regular government departments down to the figures of this fiscal year, but he would make no predictions as to emergency expenditures.

JOB S for 3,500,000 needy persons by November 15, and an end of the dole by December 1. That was the forecast made by the New Dealers in Washington, and it appeared probable of accomplishment. Officials said states will receive no direct relief allotments from the government for December and that the November grants will be greatly reduced. The employment program is a month behind schedule, but is now being carried forward rapidly. Every state director of the PWA has been given a job goal by Administrator Harry L. Hopkins and was told by that gentleman:

"The responsibility for carrying out these objectives, through providing work on approved projects, rests squarely on you."

As November opened these state administrators had $1,018,947,649 to spend, and every day Comptroller General McCarl was putting more to their credit in the federal treasury. Of the $3,330,843,803 tentatively approved in WPA project values by President Roosevelt, McCarl had passed $2,450,293,894. Of the $1,060,207,831 definitely allocated for WPA by the president, McCarl had countersigned treasury warrants for all but $41,260,182.

NEW DEALERS have scored a major victory, and are correspondingly elated. By a majority of something like 10 to 1, the corn-hog producers have voted for a continuance of the crop adjustment through another year. Incomplete returns from the referendum showed that the program was favored by a majority in every one of the 33 states from which votes were received.

"It is only natural that we should be pleased with the apparent approval of adjustment given by corn and hog farmers," said Chester C. Davis, AAA administrator, as he watched the returns come in at Washington. "If the final results bear out present indications another voluntary contract will be offered for both corn and hogs."

In a formal statement Davis emphasized earlier assurances that the AAA would seek a 25 to 30 per cent increase in hog production next year, saying the "need for increasing the present pork supply of the nation... will be kept in mind in plans for the next adjustment contract."

Before the results of the voting were known President Roosevelt announced tentative plans for making the AAA over from an emergency to a permanent agency. Observers in Washington concluded that Mr. Roosevelt intends to make the AAA a major campaign issue next year and to rely for re-election largely on the voters in those western states that have received the largest cash payments in the carrying out of the crop adjustment program—taking it for granted that he will carry the solid South.

CONTINUING the administration's policy of "enabling farmers to market their crop in a more orderly fashion," Secretary of Agriculture Wallace announced a corn loan of 45 cents a bushel on the 1935 crop, available from December 1 until next July 1. The Commodity Credit corporation had already approved this and asked a commitment from the R. F. C. to provide the necessary funds.

Wallace estimated that about $150,000,000 would be advanced to corn growers under this program. Borrowers must sign the AAA corn-hog contract contracts. The loans will be made on corn which, if shelled, would grade No. 3 or better. The grade requirement last year called for was No. 4. The loan rate then was 55 cents a bushel.

PREMIER MUSSOLINI defies the League of Nations and its sanctions. In a speech at the inauguration of the new university in Rome he said:

"In the face of an economic siege toward which all civilized people of the world should feel supreme shame, in the face of an experiment which they wanted to test, for the first time, against the Italian people, let it be said:

"We will oppose it with our most implacable resistance, with our most firm decision and with our most supreme contempt."

However, it was announced in Geneva that the duke was willing to negotiate for peace with Ethiopia, and there was a possibility the league would delay for 15 days the application of further penalties.

King Victor Emmanuel issued a decree putting the entire Italian merchant marine on a war basis.

Prime Minister Baldwin's reply to Mussolini's defiance was a blunt assertion that Great Britain was prepared to resort to force, if necessary, to carry out the sanctions. Said he: "We mean nothing to the league if we are not prepared in the end, and after grave and careful trial, to take action to enforce its judgments."

The British government made new protests to Italy against Italian press attacks on Britain and anti-British propaganda in Egypt, and three more destroyers were sent from Gibraltar to Malta.

WHILE the League of Nations is going forward with its plans for the imposition of sanctions against Italy, its officials asked the United States government to comment on this policy, for the attitude of this country is considered vital to the success of the program.

Secretary of State Hull replied promptly but with extreme caution, avoiding comment on the action taken by the league powers and inferentially declining to cooperate in the sanctions.

The answer, whose tenor was dictated by President Roosevelt, was sent to Minister Hugh Wilson at Bern. It only set forth the moves made by the United States under the neutrality act and restated our government's hope for world peace. In press conferences Mr. Hull stressed the fact that this country will continue to move independently to keep free and untangled as President Roosevelt has promised.

AMERICAN citizens are not respecting the embargo on shipments to Italy and Ethiopia to an extent that satisfies the administration. Therefore the President issued this statement:

"In dealing with the conflict between Ethiopia and Italy I have carried into effect the will and intent of the neutrality resolution recently enacted by congress. We have prohibited all shipments of arms, ammunition, and implements of war to the belligerent governments. By my public statement of October 5, which was emphasized by the secretary of state on October 10, we have warned American citizens against transactions of any character with either of the belligerent nations except at their own risk.

"This government is determined not to become involved in the controversy and is anxious for the restoration and maintenance of peace.

"However, in the course of war, tempting trade opportunities may be offered to our people to supply materials which would prolong the war. I do not believe that the American people will wish for abnormally increased profits that temporarily might be secured by greatly extending our trade in such materials; nor would they wish the struggles on the battlefield to be prolonged because of profits accruing to a comparatively small number of American citizens.

"Accordingly, the American government is keeping informed as to all shipments consigned for export to both belligerents."

Secretary of State Hull issued another statement calling upon American citizens to desist from trading with either Italy or Ethiopia. Such trade, he declared, was conducted "at the expense of human lives and human misery."

EARTHQUAKE tremors that were felt in many localities all the way from Spokane and Calgary to New York and Boston were severest in Helena, where at least two persons were killed and many injured. Numerous buildings weakened by the former tremors in the Montana capital were thrown down and the property losses were considerable.

CONSTITUTIONALITY of the Guffey coal act, a highly controversial measure, is to be passed on by the Supreme court. The way was opened when Justice Jesse Adkins of the District of Columbia Supreme court granted to the Carter Coal company a temporary injunction restraining government enforcement of the act.

In allowing the issuance of a temporary injunction, Justice Adkins denied another order which would have restrained the government from collecting the penalty prescribed by the act for noncompliance. He directed that the coal company post a bond of $1,500 a day for ten days to insure stockholders of the company against a loss through imposition of the penalty should the act be held constitutional.

Regardless of the District Supreme court's decision on the constitutionality of the act, the test case will be carried to the Supreme court for a final decision by the company or the government, attorneys said.

LIBERTY League's committee of 58 more or less eminent lawyers got into trouble by offering free legal services in anti-New Deal litigation. Someone protested to the American Bar association and that body's grievance committee has been asked for an opinion on the ethics of the offer. It was reported that the members of the league's committee had been cited for unethical practices, but the bar association denied this had yet been done.

THERE is no lack of potential candidates for the Republican Presidential nomination. The latest boom to be informally launched is for Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas, often mentioned as a possibility.

The other day there was a gathering in Topeka of party leaders, including members of the state committee, state office holders, congressmen and Senator Arthur Capper, and after some oratory they unanimously and enthusiastically endorsed the governor for the nomination. Landon had not indicated whether he would be a candidate. If he will, the movement will probably give formal status at the annual Kansas day dinner in Topeka on January 29, the seventy-fifth anniversary of the state's admission to the Union.

TWO tragic airplane accidents marked the week in the United States. The huge Boeing bombing plane built for the army, largest land plane in the country, was being tested near Dayton, Ohio, when it fell and burst into flames. Maj. P. P. Hall, chief testing pilot, was killed and four others were injured. Lieut. R. K. Giovannoli and L. F. Harman risked their lives to rescue those trapped in the wreck and were themselves painfully burned.

Another Boeing plane, re-built and undergoing tests by the United Air Lines, crashed against a small hill near Cheyenne and the four occupants were hurled to death.

HONDURAS suffered one of the worst floods in its history. Fully 115 deaths resulted, and the property damage is estimated at $12,000,000, half of it sustained by the United Fruit company. Reports of the disaster reaching Tegucigalpa were meager and vague, and the mortality list may be greatly increased later.

WANG CHING-WEL, premier of China, and two other officials were wounded by an assassin in Nanking. Martial law was declared there immediately. The Rengo (Japanese) News agency, crediting Chinese sources, said the assassin was a member of the central executive committee of the Kuomintang (ruling Chinese party). Chinese sources asserted he was a citizen of a foreign power. The Reuters (British) News agency reported Wang's assailant was a Japanese newspaper man.

POLITICAL gossip in Washington is that Senator Vic Donahay of Ohio may be invited by the administration to be the Democratic candidate for Vice President next year. Mr. Garner, of course, can have a re-nomination if he really wants it, but there is some reason to believe that he would prefer to retire to private life after nearly forty years of public service. Donahay's impressive victory over Simeon Fess in 1932 and his well known vengefulness lead some prominent Democrats to think it would be wise to put him on the ticket as Mr. Roosevelt's running mate.

JIMMY WALKER, former mayor of New York, has ended his three years of self-imposed exile and returned to the metropolis. Tammany Hall, which "made" him politically, took no part in the welcome accorded him, but enough others joined in the affair to fill seven or eight boats that met the liner Manhattan at quarantine. These included delegations from the Friars club, the Lambs club and the Grand Street Boys' association of which Jimmy was vice president. At the docks there was a tremendous throng to greet Walker and his wife, the former Betty Compton.

DELATED reports told of the terrific hurricane that swept across the southern peninsula of Haiti and that was followed by devastating floods. There was no way of estimating the number of fatalities, but they were believed to be as many as two thousand. Entire populations of many valley villages were wiped out.

NEWS from MICHIGAN

Cambria—N. R. Stahler recently found a puffball mushroom that measured 51 inches in girth and weighed 14 pounds.

Stanton—A fire, starting from defective wiring, destroyed the interior of a three-story building here with a loss estimated at $27,000.

Mount Pleasant—Michigan is now the leading oil producing state east of the Mississippi River, rating higher than Pennsylvania in recent weeks.

Grand Rapids—Western Michigan will make its bid for the moving picture industry. A move to establish the industry on the eastern shore of Lake Michigan is now under way.

Jackson—One of the finest Jersey herds in North America was broken up when 114 heads of stock owned by the C. B. Hayes Jersey Farms, south of Jackson, were auctioned off for $27,000.

Ann Arbor—Because deer, in certain areas of Michigan, are increasing faster than their winter food supplies, prompt reduction of their population was advocated here by P. J. Hoffmaster, director of the State Department of Conservation.

Grand Rapids—Grand Rapids is promised its first white collar relief job in a project which the WPA is launching here. This is the compilation of a handbook on scenic, historical and industrial points of interest for use of tourists or history students.

Yale—Plans to revive the once-flourishing flax industry here were perfected with the agreement of the City Council to deed five and one-half acres of land to Bodey's American Fabrics Co., of Chicago, as soon as Bodey's spend $20,000 on buildings on the site.

Marshall—Adopting a resolution providing that county funds appropriated for relief purposes be administered only by the poor superintendent, the Calhoun County board of supervisors virtually has divorced the county from the State Emergency Relief Administration.

East Lansing—The Department of Public Safety will spend $70,000 to establish auxiliary telephone broadcasting equipment at two State Police posts. A $40,000 expenditure will provide a 5,000-watt transmitter at Houghton Lake, and a 1,000-watt transmitter at Paw Paw will cost $30,000.

Mt. Clemens—The finishing touches are being put on a brick building north of here which will be known as Castaway Castle. It will be a modern home for stray and unwanted animals. Long runways in grassy fields will give the sick and lost pets a chance to romp and play. The project is a hobby of Dr. W. Austin Ewalt, a retired veterinarian.

Lansing—Gov. Fitzgerald has named Fred W. Green, former governor, as chairman of the Michigan Committee of the Will Rogers Memorial Association. The association has its offices in New York and its work is under the supervision of Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, World War ace. The nature of the memorial to Will Rogers has not been decided.

Ann Arbor—Edith Folkoff and Ascher Opler, University of Michigan student radicals suspended for violation of a University rule, have been reinstated. Miss Folkoff and Opler complied with the conditions specified at the time they were suspended, that they guarantee in writing that they will not willfully violate any University rules in the future.

Mount Pleasant—Construction was started recently on the oil pipeline from the Crystal oil field to Toledo. The 140-mile tube will provide the first direct outlet to the Ohio refining center for Michigan oil fields. It is expected to bring Michigan oil in direct competition with mid continent crude oil which has been the major source of supply for the large refineries in Toledo in the past.

Battle Creek—The sixth Inman appendix came out October 29 when Elmer Inman, 29, of Union City, submitted to an operation. The last previous victim was his father, Jess Inman, who was operated on Oct. 8. His sister, Daisy, lost her appendix Oct. 3, and previously his brother, Harry, with his two daughters, Ilene and Dorothy, were relieved of appendices. It wasn't planned that way, it just happened.

Cass City—Harry T. Crandall, Jr., of Cass City, added to his collection of blue ribbons at the American Royal Livestock Show at Kansas City, when his Cotswold sheep took all the prizes in their division. In the Oxford Division Crandall's rams, lambs and ewes captured four second places. He also had the grand champion lamb and the champion crossbred wether lamb. Crandall's animals have placed highly in national shows for several years.

Lansing—With the inauguration of a statewide safety campaign, Michigan has determined to keep death off the highways and streets. Speed restrictions on dangerous stretches of highway will be imposed, with maximum speed designated by roadside signs, as soon as the signs can be posted. Severity in dealing with violators of traffic laws will be practiced and literature designed to make the public safety-conscious is being prepared. All members of the State Administrative Board have been appointed to promote safety.

Washington.—In days not so far in the distant past, an argument could be developed in any community where there were more than a handful of Democrats if one took the position that the rights of the federal government were predominant over states' rights. States' rights constituted an issue that never died politically until the New Deal arrived on the scene at Washington. Through some two years or more now, we had heard very little about states' rights. Yet, within the last few days, we have found that the states' rights issue was not dead. It was only sleeping, and it has come to life in a really big way.

States' Rights
New Deal policies have been consistently policies of centralization of power in the hands of the federal government. New Dealers have enacted much legislation and have carried out many programs that appear to be contrary to the views which used to be held by advocates of states' rights. These things have been accomplished with almost no complaint from the Democratic side and with only a minimum of squawking from New Deal opposition from whence came complaints about regimentation and extension of government functions into the field of private enterprise in competition with the government's citizens.

Latently, however, some thirty or thirty-five cities have awakened with a shock and have rendered one New Deal program a severe jolt by that awakening. I refer to the plans for government construction of the so-called low cost housing projects. These were and are intended to provide apartments or small homes for families in the very low income brackets and to provide work for labor in their construction. Eventually, it was hoped, the program would use up a good many hundred million dollars of work-relief-funds. Some has already been spent; some projects have been completed, and these results coincided with the arrival of tax paying time in certain localities. That was the crux.

To show what has happened in those cities and areas wherein the low cost housing projects have been planned or completed, let us take a particular case, namely, the housing project in Atlanta, Georgia. It is of no use to cite the facts in all of them, because the Atlanta case is typical.

Atanta Project
Secretary Ickes and his Public Works administration had spent approximately three million dollars in the construction of the Atlanta housing layout. No sooner had this been accomplished, however, than the city of Atlanta awakened to the fact that it would get no taxes nor will the state of Georgia get taxes from this great investment. The project was ruled by Comptroller General J. R. McCarl to be federally owned. As such, it was not subject to state or municipal taxation. The city of Atlanta and the state of Georgia had been deriving taxes from the real estate now owned by Uncle Sam.

It was Atlanta's turn to move. It announced through its properly constituted city authorities that if there were no taxes, then Atlanta could not furnish fire and police protection for the property nor could it supply water for the tenants nor would it permit children of those tenants to attend the Atlanta schools as free students. Atlanta contended that it bears the burden of these expenses and it was not going to add to that burden without reimbursement.

Secretary Ickes sought then to offset the Atlanta ultimatum by tendering funds, taxpayer's money, to the city of Atlanta equal to the amount he thought the city would receive in taxes. Again, Mr. McCarl stepped in. He said that since the property was owned by the federal government it was not subject to taxes and therefore a payment to the city of Atlanta out of federal funds constituted a gratuity. In other words, it was an illegal proposition.

The comptroller general's ruling was so definite and positive that those who have been boosting and boasting about low cost housing projects have been stunned. Frankly, they do not know which way to turn. Thus far, they have not discovered a ray of light to lead them. The housing projects are held in abeyance.

Enter Taxation
The housing project situation brings to the fore a condition which apparently had not been generally recognized. It relates, of course, to the general subject of taxation but it has a bearing upon many policies now operative, and which, it is fair to say, have been described by President Roosevelt as experimental. Since they are experimental, it seems to me they ought to be examined from this taxation phase. One can understand readily the base of the objection. There is hardly a city or town or even any other kind of taxing district in the United States where the tax rates are not at the very peak which the people can carry. That was shown most vividly a year ago when Congress thought it necessary to enact legislation permitting municipalities the privilege of declaring themselves virtually bankrupts and according them the right of compromising with their bondholders under a decree of a United States court. So, when we think of taking away taxable property in any city and making it non-taxable by conversion from private to federal government ownership, we see how it adds a further burden of taxes to the remaining privately owned property. That is the reason why many municipalities are fearful of government ownership of railroads, for example, since the railroads are heavy taxpayers in every community they serve. Laying aside the question of merit or lack of merit in the proposition of government ownership of railroads, no municipality can afford to overlook the loss of tax receipts that would follow government acquisition of those carrier properties. They pay real estate taxes in the United States annually of more than three hundred million dollars. Of course it is distributed in thousands of places but whatever the amount may be in your community or any other, it represents a tax source which the local government can ill afford to lose.

It is the same, although to a lesser degree, with respect to the housing project. In this statement I mean only as to the local tax phase. It has, however, another very important tax angle. Property, or the income from property, everywhere is subjected to three tax assessments. First, the county or city in which the property is located takes a tax toll; second, the state gets a share, and thirdly, the federal government either by income or some other tax gets its hand into the pocket of a property owner.

In the case of the low cost housing project, it was necessary to calculate the rental rate on a base so low that it would be impossible for the total receipts to pay off the government investment. This had to be done if the low cost housing was to be supplied at a rate the poorer classes could pay. It is seen, therefore, that there was a deficit staring the project in the face. To meet this deficit certain federal funds were to be set aside regularly which, coupled with the receipts from the tenants, would serve to amortize the original cost. From the standpoint of liquidating the cost of the building, this is fine but it does not impress one as being so wholesome when it is shown that the government's contribution comes out of the general fund of the Treasury which in turn comes out of the general taxpayers of the nation.

And so it is with a great many other of the experiments where such programs place government-owned agencies or industries in competition with citizens. Take the Tennessee Valley hydro-electric project for another example. The federal government has placed more than $131,000,000 in that venture. The present Tennessee Valley Corporation has taken over these properties at about one-third of this amount—a net loss to the government. But that is not all. The vast project that has been developed in the Tennessee valley and through the adjoining counties and cities is not subject to state taxation nor do the cities that are being served by Tennessee river electricity get any taxes from this source. It may be sound in the theory but I am fearful that the inbred opposition to federal government encroachment on local affairs sooner or later will cause a new explosion. It will come from the original feeling that state's rights ought to be superior to federal rights except where states have delegated that authority to the federal government in the national Constitution.

Earlier in this discussion I mentioned the ruling by Comptroller General McCarl who acted, of course, as the head of the general accounting office. This agency was created with a very definite purpose in mind. Congress wanted some independent group or authority to watch all federal expenditures to make certain that they were made in accordance with law. A good many years ago when this job was done by the comptroller of the treasury, it was not infrequent that an adverse ruling by the comptroller put the comptroller in a tough spot.

Always the Goat
Mr. McCarl is not popular. Privately and publicly, he has been criticized, sometimes in language hardly printable. These complaints always have come from someone whose idea of spending money was found by Mr. McCarl not to be in accordance with the law. Always, he was the goat.

He has been the goat much more under the New Deal than ever before. Every time he kicks over a New Deal plan, the sponsors of that plan brand him as a Tory or a Reactionary or as being just plain dumb. He has engaged in controversy with none of them. He has contended that his decisions were rendered in accordance with the law which he was directed by congress to construe. But it is true of all humans. When a pet plan is destroyed, one tries to find somebody upon whom the blame can be pinned.

HERE sleeps the Unknown Soldier?

One day last September hundreds of visitors gathered at Fort George Battlefield park near Lake George, N. Y., to attend ceremonies at the burial of four unknown soldiers of Colonial war days. The bones of the soldiers were discovered in 1931 during excavation for a new state highway between Glens Falls and Lake George and were identified as those of men who fell in 1755 during the "Bloody Morning Scout," led by Col. Ephraim Williams and King Hendrick, chief of the Mohawk Indians, against Baron Dieskau's French and their Indian allies.

Many a Colonial American lost his life and found an unmarked grave in the forests surrounding Lake George and Lake Champlain in those days. So this monument is not only a memorial to the four whose dust was given honored burial this year but also to all the other Unknown Soldiers of the days when Great Britain and France were striving mightily for mastery of this continent.

Where sleeps the Unknown Soldier?

In the churchyard of the quaint old Presbyterian meeting house in Alexandria, Va., stands a monument which bears this inscription: "Here lies a soldier hero of the Revolution whose identity is known but to God. "His was an idealism that recognized a Supreme Being, that planted religious liberty on our shores, that overthrew despotism, that established a people's government, that wrote a Constitution setting metes and bounds of delegated authority, that fixed a standard of value upon men above gold and that lifted high the torch of civil liberty along the pathway of mankind. "In ourselves his soul exists as part of ours, his Memory's Mansion."

It was away back in 1828 that the body of this unknown hero of the struggle for American liberty was discovered. The Catholics of Alexandria had purchased some land near the Presbyterian burial grounds upon which to build St. Mary's church. While workmen were excavating for its foundations they accidentally extended the trench beyond the building line of the church and came upon an old box about the size of a coffin.

When they cleared the earth away from it they discovered that it was an ammunition box and upon opening it they were amazed to find the body of a soldier dressed in Continental uniform. Who was he? No one will ever know, for there were no identifying marks on either the uniform or the box.

Nearly half a century after this Unknown Soldier had died he was reburied close beside the old Presbyterian meeting house, but another century was to elapse before due honor was paid to his memory. As the years passed, memory of the discovery of his body in 1828 grew dim and the site of his new grave was almost forgotten. Then Mrs. Mary G. Powell, historian of the Mount Vernon chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution and widow of an officer who had served on the staff of Gen. "Stonewall" Jackson in the Civil war, came across the record of the reburial. Her researches disclosed the site of the grave and through her influence the American Legion post in Alexandria with the co-operation of other patriotic societies erected a temporary marker over it on Washington's birthday in 1928.

Then, under the leadership of Mrs. Josiah Van Orsdal, president of the National Society of the Children of the American Revolution, a movement was begun to erect a permanent memorial over the grave. Money was contributed by children from all parts of the country and in April, 1929, the monument was completed. The inscription for the tomb was written by William Tyler Page, author of "The American's Creed," and the dedicatory address was delivered by Secretary of War James W. Good.

Where sleeps the Unknown Soldier? In the environs of the city of Mexico is a little cemetery in which stands a small granite shaft. On it is inscribed these words:

"To the memory of the American soldiers who perished in this valley in 1847, whose bones collected by the country's orders, are here buried—750"

Only that and nothing more. The names of the 750 are forgotten now, if indeed there was ever any record of them.

They are the Unknown Soldiers of the Mexican war.

Where sleeps the Unknown Soldier?

Out in "the barren land and the lone, where the Big Horn and Yellowstone" flow among the buttes and upland plains of Montana, workmen, excavating for a road across the Crow reservation in 1926, uncovered parts of a skeleton and among the bones found two bullets and several uniform buttons. The place was a little coulee in a valley where a famous battle was fought on June 25, 1876. That was the day when Crazy Horse and Gall and White Bull and Two Moons and their Sioux and Cheyenne warriors swept like a red wave of destruction over Gen. George Armstrong Custer and his troopers of the Seventh cavalry.

And so on June 25, 1926, a casket, bearing the pitiful remnants of one who had been written down as "missing" after "Custer's Last Fight," was borne to a little plot of ground near the town of Garryowen. Preceded by a riderless horse, saddled, bridled and bearing boots and cavalry saber reversed, it was followed by both red men and white who had fought on that field 50 years before—by Gen. E. S. Godfrey, a lieutenant under Custer, and seven other survivors of the old Seventh and by Chiefs White Bull and Red Hawk and half a dozen other aged Indian warriors.

Then three volleys crashed over a new-made grave and a bugle wailed out "taps" as the fighting men of '76, both friend and foe, paid their last farewell. Today a great slab of granite marks the last resting place of this Unknown Soldier of the Indian wars.

Where sleeps the Unknown Soldier? Back in 1863 Gen. Braxton Bragg at Tullahoma, Tenn., sent an official dispatch to the Confederate government at Richmond. After paying high tribute to the officers serving under him in the western theater of the war, he said:

"However much of the credit and glory may be given, and probably justly given, to the leaders in our struggle, history will yet award the main honor where it is due—to the private soldier, who, without hope of reward and with no other incentive than a consciousness of rectitude, has encountered all the hardships and suffered all the privations. Well has it been said: 'The first monument our Confederacy rears should be a lofty shaft, pure and spotless, bearing this inscription: To the Unknown and Unrecorded Dead.'"

Could Braxton Bragg have looked into the future, to less than three years after the end of that struggle, he would have seen erected, near the home of his comrade in arms and commanding general, a memorial which honored the memory of the "unknown and unrecorded dead." In one part of the national cemetery at Arlington, former home of Robert E. Lee, a huge monument of rough-hewn granite and polished marble bears this inscription:

"Beneath this stone repose the bones of 2,111 unknown soldiers gathered after the war from the fields of Bull Run and the route to the Rappahannock. Their remains could not be identified but their names and deaths are recorded in the archives of their country and its grateful citizens honor them as of their noble army of martyrs. May they rest in peace."

Some of them wore the Union blue and others the Confederate gray in the War Between the States. But now their mingled dust is that of 2,111 Unknown Soldiers—Americans all!

Could Braxton Bragg have looked still farther into the future—to November 11, 1922—this is what he would have seen:

A great crowd is gathered at Arlington, which is now a national cemetery. The President of the United States is paying tribute to a soldier home from the wars.

Today a white marble tomb, magnificent in its simplicity and bearing the inscription: "Here rests in honored glory an American soldier known but to God," is one of the most sacred shrines in all America.

For there sleeps the Unknown Soldier of the World war.

Lesson for November 10

EZEKIEL TEACHES PERSONAL RESPONSIBILITY

LESSON TEXT—Ezekiel 33:7-16.
GOLDEN TEXT—So then every one of us shall give account of himself to God.—Romans 14:12.
PRIMARY TOPIC—A Prophet Encourages His People.
JUNIOR TOPIC—A Watchman on Duty.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Does God Care What I Do?
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Individuals Accountable to God.

Ezekiel prophesied in the land of the captivity. The purpose of his ministry was threefold: (1) To show the house of Israel that they were in captivity because of their sins (14:23). (2) To show that God is righteous in his visitation of judgment upon them (7:8, 9). (3) To sustain their faith by assuring them of their national restoration, the punishment of their enemies and their final exaltation among the nations when Messiah shall reign.

I. God's Sovereign Right to the Souls of Men (18:1-4).
Every man is personally responsible to God.

II. The Moral Obligation of Sons to Their Father (Ezek. 18:14-20).

While the law of heredity gives the child a sinful nature and when the child arrives at the age of moral responsibility it begins to sin, God holds such responsible for their deeds.

III. Ezekiel's Responsibility (Ezek. 33:1-9).

As a prophet of God certain responsibilities were imposed upon him. There is a sense in which every disciple of Christ is a witness for him and therefore is responsible for the giving of his testimony to sinners. His responsibility is set forth under the figure of a watchman. Two things were required of a watchman.

1. To hear the words of God's mouth (v. 7). The source of the message of every minister and Sunday School teacher is God's holy Word. Just as the prophet did not originate his message but received it of God's mouth, so it should be with every minister and Sunday School teacher.

2. To sound the warning (v. 7). After hearing God's message he was to speak it out and proclaim it to the people. A watchman today is both to hear and to speak. The people are to be warned of the impending danger. Failure to sound the alarm makes the watchman guilty of the blood of the sinner.

IV. God's Attitude Toward the Sinner (vv. 10, 11).

God has declared in his Word that unfaithfulness on the part of his people would cause them to "perish among the heathen," that they would "pine away in their iniquity" (Lev. 26:33, 39). In view of this pronouncement some are disposed to say that their case is hopeless. To meet this attitude of despair the prophet assured them that God had no pleasure in the death of the wicked, but that his sincere desire was for the wicked to turn from their way and live. Regardless of what their past had been, they were given the assurance that the future was bright if they heeded God's command and plea. No one need to despair because of sin, for God's grace is greater than human sin.

V. The Sinner's Personal Responsibility (vv. 12-20).

God created the members of the race personal beings, giving them freedom of choice. They have moral discernment enabling them to distinguish between the right and the wrong. They choose, therefore, according to the quality of their being.

The following principles govern the sinner:

1. Past righteousness will not avail for present sins (v. 12). When a righteous man turns to iniquity, his past seeming righteousness will be of no avail.

2. Past sins do not make impossible present acceptance with God (vv. 12-15). By virtue of the operation of the law of habit, every sinful act makes it harder for the sinner to repent, but God's grace is such that if the sinner repents God will forgive and restore.

3. Restitution required (vv. 15, 16). The proof of penitence is that, so far as possible, the sinner makes amends for wrongs done.

4. God's ways are equal (vv. 17-20). God holds man responsible for his own deeds. The child is not condemned because of the deeds of his father, nor can it be said that the fathers have eaten sour grapes and the children's teeth are set on edge. This does not do away with the law of heredity. Regardless of what one's past life has been, God's grace in Jesus Christ blots out his record and he stands accepted in the Beloved.

The power that is supported by force alone will have cause often to tremble.—Kossuth.

Easy to Make Pajamas
Please Sleeping Beauty

PATTERN 2362

You're sure to want several pairs of these adorable pajamas when you find how easy they are to make. Why not have your week-night ones of some pretty cotton or flannel which launders easily? Then you just must have one pair in a luscious shade of blue or tearose silk, for gay week-ends away from home, and your "nightly" wardrobe isn't complete without one pair of dress-up pajamas of some heavier material for lounging or lazing, particularly if you're a Campus Queen. The tailored shirtwaist top may tuck into the bell-bottom trousers which "get the hang of it" from a triangular yoke and snug elastic waistband.

Pattern 2362 is available in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 takes 4 yards 38 inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

Address orders to the Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., 243 West Seventeenth St., New York City.

WISE BOY

Youth—You haven't said a single word for 20 minutes.

Girl Friend—Well, I didn't have anything to say.

Youth—Don't you ever say anything when you have nothing to say?

Girl Friend—No.

Youth—Well, then, will you be my wife?

Coverage

"Don't you wish you were a happy barefoot boy again?"

"No," said Senator Sorghum. "Covering doesn't make the difference. A barefoot boy isn't necessarily any happier than a bald-headed man."

After the Party

First Guest—Say, those cakes of Mrs. Jones' certainly were hard.

Second Guest—I'll say they were. Maybe that's why she said, "Take your pick" when she passed them around.

Those Mad Wag

"My car runs a little way and then stops."

"A spurt model, eh?"

Every man is personally responsible to God.

II. The Moral Obligation of Sons to Their Father (Ezek. 18:14-20).
While the law of heredity gives the child a sinful nature and when the child arrives at the age of moral responsibility it begins to sin, God holds such responsible for their deeds.

III. Ezekiel's Responsibility (Ezek. 33:1-9).

As a prophet of God certain responsibilities were imposed upon him. There is a sense in which every disciple of Christ is a witness for him and therefore is responsible for the giving of his testimony to sinners. His responsibility is set forth under the figure of a watchman. Two things were required of a watchman.

1. To hear the words of God's mouth (v. 7). The source of the message of every minister and Sunday School teacher is God's holy Word. Just as the prophet did not originate his message but received it of God's mouth, so it should be with every minister and Sunday School teacher.

2. To sound the warning (v. 7). After hearing God's message he was to speak it out and proclaim it to the people. A watchman today is both to hear and to speak. The people are to be warned of the impending danger. Failure to sound the alarm makes the watchman guilty of the blood of the sinner.

IV. God's Attitude Toward the Sinner (vv. 10, 11).

God has declared in his Word that unfaithfulness on the part of his people would cause them to "perish among the heathen," that they would "pine away in their iniquity" (Lev. 26:38, 39). In view of this pronouncement some are disposed to say that their case is hopeless. To meet this attitude of despair the prophet assured them that God had no pleasure in the death of the wicked, but that his sincere desire was for the wicked to turn from their way and live. Regardless of what their past had been, they were given the assurance that the future was bright if they heeded God's command and plea. No one need to despair because of sin, for God's grace is greater than human sin.

V. The Sinner's Personal Responsibility (vv. 12-20).

God created the members of the race personal beings, giving them freedom of choice. They have moral discernment enabling them to distinguish between the right and the wrong. They choose, therefore, according to the quality of their being.

The following principles govern the sinner:

1. Past righteousness will not avail for present sins (v. 12). When a righteous man turns to iniquity, his past seeming righteousness will be of no avail.

2. Past sins do not make impossible present acceptance with God (vv. 12-15). By virtue of the operation of the law of habit, every sinful act makes it harder for the sinner to repent, but God's grace is such that if the sinner repents God will forgive and restore.

3. Restitution required (vv. 15, 16). The proof of penitence is that, so far as possible, the sinner makes amends for wrongs done.

4. God's ways are equal (vv. 17-20). God holds man responsible for his own deeds. The child is not condemned because of the deeds of his father, nor can it be said that the fathers have eaten sour grapes and the children's teeth are set on edge. This does not do away with the law of heredity. Regardless of what one's past life has been, God's grace in Jesus Christ blots out his record and he stands accepted in the Beloved.

Friends

Friends are as companions of a journey, who ought to aid each other, as preservers on the road to a happier life.—Pythagoras.

A Mother's Love

If there be aught surpassing human deed or word or thought, it is a mother's love!—De Spradaro.

Force

The power that is supported by force alone will have cause often to tremble.—Kossuth.

Easy to Make Pajamas Please Sleeping Beauty

You're sure to want several pairs of these adorable pajamas when you find how easy they are to make. Why not have your week-night ones of some pretty cotton or flannel which launders easily? Then you just must have one pair in a luscious shade of blue or tearose silk, for gay week ends away from home, and your "nightly" wardrobe isn't complete without one pair of dress-up pajamas of some heavier material for lounging or lazing, particularly if you're a Campus Queen. The tailored shirtwaist top may tuck into the bell-bottom trousers which "set the hang of it" from a triangular yoke and snug elastic waistband.

Pattern 2362 is available in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28 and 30. Size 16 takes 4 yards 33 inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number, BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

Address orders to the Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., 243 West Seventeenth St., New York City.

WISE BOY
Youth—You haven't said a single word for 20 minutes.
Girl Friend—Well, I didn't have anything to say.
Youth—Don't you ever say anything when you have nothing to say?
Girl Friend—No.
Youth—Well, then, will you be my wife?

Coverage
"Don't you wish you were a happy barefoot boy again?"
"No," said Senator Sorghum. "Covering doesn't make the difference. A barefoot boy isn't necessarily any happier than a bald-headed man."

THE SCHOOL BELL

"China was civilized long before Japan, but she has not made progress for many years until now Japan, whom you American people taught to manufacture by machine, and to do many other things, is a modern nation, while China is ancient in her methods. Japan is even now threatening your manufacturing with her cheaply made (in the sense that labor is cheap), goods. She is not starving as she is so often pictured. Why, if all food supplies were cut off from Japan, she would only have to do without food for a day and a half in a year. She has but one acre of land to a family, while 'crowded' Italy has nine acres. This goes to show what cheap living can do for a nation.

"Would the Japanese be in school at this hour? Would they be still asleep? Do all young people of school age go to school? Let me tell you something. Today in China only 1 out of 10 children is fortunate enough to go to any kind of school. How is that? In many places where I travel in China I see a lot of young people of your age crying — tears running down their cheeks — crying for school. You don't cry to get to school. You cry to get out of it. I hope you will always bear this picture in mind — a picture of young people crying, eager to learn and crying for school. You have all the opportunities that we don't have. I hope you will make use of your opportunities when you have them.

"I am here in your state just for a few weeks to give a number of lectures to groups in your state. So your professor was kind enough to invite me here to say a few words to you students. (The main reason he invited me here was to show you my funny face). I hope that you will pay more attention to the far East from now on. If my presence has created some interest, my purpose has been accomplished."

THEY ride with greater safety in the new Ford for 1936. It's not so much that V-8 engine power and pick-up which them clear of traffic tangles — although this, too, helps make the new Ford a safer as well as a more thrilling car to drive. But it's mainly because every feature of the new Ford measures up to the standard of V-8 engine quality. The Ford Motor Company was not satisfied with putting an engine from the luxury class into a car selling as low as $510. It insisted that everything else be in keeping with the fine-car quality beneath the hood — safety, as well as roominess and comfort. Your neighborhood Ford dealer invites you to check critically and in detail the Ford's many luxury-class features.

21 Trillion Microbes to One Double Handful

Life teems in the soil with inconceivable numbers and activity. Dr. Charles Thom of the United States Department of Agriculture, in a recent talk to world soil scientists at Oxford, England, said counts of soil bacteria have shown as many as forty-six billions of active organisms in a gram of decomposing plant material. There are 28 grams in an ounce, 16 ounces in a pound. A gardener picks up a double handful of mellow compost and there may sit through his fingers, among other things, a living microscopic host represented by a figure that reaches halfway across the usual newspaper column—21,000,000,000,000.

DON'T SLEEP ON LEFT SIDE, AFFECTS HEART

Gas Pressure May Cause Discomfort. Right Side Best

If you toss in bed and can't sleep on right side, try Adlerika. Just ONE dose relieves stomach GAS pressing on heart so you sleep soundly all night.

Adlerika acts on BOTH upper and lower bowels and brings out foul matter you would never believe was in your system. This old matter may have poisoned you for months and caused GAS, sour stomach, headache or nervousness.

Dr. H. L. Shoub, New York, reports: "In addition to intestinal cleansing, Adlerika greatly reduces bacteria and colon bacilli."

Mrs. J. S. Miller: "Gas on my stomach was so bad I could not eat or sleep. Even my heart hurt. The first dose of Adlerika brought me relief. Now I eat as I wish, sleep fine and never feel better."

Give your stomach and bowels a REAL cleansing with Adlerika and see how good you feel. Just ONE dose relieves GAS and chronic constipation. Sold by all druggists and drug departments.

Quick, Complete Pleasant ELIMINATION

Let's be frank. There's only one way for your body to rid itself of the waste matters that cause acidity, gas, headaches, bloated feelings and a dozen other discomforts—your intestines must function.

To make them move quickly, pleasantly, completely, without griping. Thousands of physicians recommend Milnesia Wafers. (Dentists recommend Milnesia Wafers as an efficient remedy for mouth acidity.)

These mint flavored candy-like wafers are pure milk of magnesia. Each wafer is approximately equal to a full adult dose of liquid milk of magnesia. Chewed thoroughly in accordance with the directions on the bottle or tin, then swallowed, they correct acidity, bad breath, flatulence, at their source and at the same time enable quick, complete, pleasant elimination.

Milnesia Wafers come in bottles of 20 and 48 wafers, at 35c and 60c respectively, or in convenient tins containing 12 at 20c. Each wafer is approximately an adult dose of milk of magnesia. All good drug stores carry them. Start using these delicious, effective wafers today. Professional samples sent free to registered physicians or dentists if request is made on professional letter head.

SYNOPSIS

As Alan Garth, prospector, is preparing to leave for his mining claim in the Far North, a plane lands at the airways emergency station. In it are Burton Ramill, millionaire mining magnate; his daughter, Edith; and Vivian Huxby, pilot and mining engineer. Believing him to be only an ignorant prospector, the men offer to make an air trip to Garth's claim, although they refer to his samples of platinum-bearing ore as nearly "worthless." Edith Ramill, product of the East, plainly shows her contempt for Garth. Through Garth's guidance the plane soon reaches the claim site. Huxby and Ramill, after making several tests, assure Garth his claim is nearly valueless, but to "encourage" young prospectors they are willing to take a chance in investing a small amount.

No more was needed to confirm Garth's suspicions. He glided across the glade and ran on through the woods like a startled caribou. The thick growth of spruces screened him from the view of anyone up on the open tundra.

He vaulted upon the wing of the monoplane and ran along it to jump into the cockpit. In a moment he had hold of Huxby's tool-kit. He went at the engine like a skilled airplane mechanic.

When, after a few moments of quick work, he replaced the tool-kit and ran back out the wing, there was a small metal object inside his buckskin shirt. He jumped off and slipped away to an alder thicket, a short distance along the lake bank.

Less than three minutes later, he heard a heavy puffing and wheezing and the snap of dry branches. Then the three staggered into sight. Mr. Ramill was purple from exertion. His mouth gaped wide with his gasps for breath. Neither his daughter nor Huxby was winded. But both were flushed from the exertion of supporting the portly millionaire.

The girl's expression was one of disgust and anger. She stopped several feet short of the plane.

"Oh, d—n! Why the rush? We're out of sight now. I'm going to take a rest."

Her father was beyond words. As she let go of his arm he slumped down with a suddenness that almost pulled Huxby over on top of him. The mining engineer peered back through the spruces, and around at the thicket where Garth lay in wait.

"Just one more go, darling," he appealed. "The fellow must know how to handle his rifle. If he comes in sight of the plane before we get out of range—Please, sweetheart! Remember it means millions to us—millions! I'll give you that emerald necklace we saw at Tiffany's."

"You certainly will! And Dad will do more. I'm to have a third in this mine that you say is worth so much. Is that clear?"

"Yes, darling; take hold," Huxby urged. "We both agree."

She waved him towards the plane. "Fetch a flask. We'll never get him aboard without a bracer."

Huxby ran to vault up on the wing. The girl had pointed out the obvious fact. Her father was in a state of collapse from overexertion. He could not move until revived, and he was too heavy for them to lift bodily.

The engineer swung into the cabin and hastened back ashore with a flask of whisky. During his short absence Mr. Ramill had ceased to gasp. He could draw deeper breaths. Two or three swallows of whisky tautened his flabby muscles. Helped by his daughter and Huxby, he struggled to his feet and staggered out along the rock shelf to the plane.

The wing end stood neck-high above the ledge. While Mr. Ramill took another bracer of whisky, Huxby boosted the girl up on the front edge. She grasped hold of her father's collar. Huxby gripped his thick legs below the knees and heaved. Mr. Ramill's hands were on the wing edge. He pulled with all his whisky-borrowed strength. His corpulent midbody rose above the edge of the wing.

Huxby gave a last upward heave. It enabled the girl to drag her father over on the convex surface. Huxby vaulted after to help her lift the prone millionaire to his feet. They started to lead him along the wing top to the fuselage of the plane.

Behind the backs of the three, Garth stepped—clear from the alders and came forward, silent as a stalking lynx. Midway between the head of the plane and the spruce to which it was tied, he stopped and lowered his rifle, butt down, to lean on the muzzle.

"Hullo," he sang out. "What's happened? Mr. Ramill?"

At the first word, Huxby tensed and glanced over his shoulder. He let go of Ramill. After a moment he jerked around and thrust out his automatic pistol towards Garth.

"Swing up that rifle, butt end forward," he ordered.

"Why, what d'you mean?" Garth questioned, his mouth half agape.

"I mean business," Huxby answered. "Hold up the butt—up above your head; then come forward and lay the rifle on the wing."

Garth rounded his mouth still more.

"My word, man, you must be stark mad. I've no thought of shooting you."

"I'm taking no chances. Put that rifle on the wing, or I'll fill you full of lead."

"Mad—mad as a March hare," muttered Garth. "Don't shoot."

He lifted the rifle overhead, butt forward, as ordered, and advanced, still gapping. He came within a step of the wing edge and paused. The girl was gazing at him with open contempt. He had been such an easy dupe. Her father looked grave, yet made no move to interpose when Huxby leveled the pistol and took deliberate aim.

CHAPTER III

Outbluffed.

A man of iron nerve might have risked death from the leveled automatic of the mining engineer by taking a sudden dive under the wing of the monoplane. Once in cover, anyone quick with a rifle would have had an even chance against the holder of the pistol.

Garth made no such daring break. He obeyed the order to lay his rifle on the wing top.

"There you are," he said. "That should clear your head of your crazy notion I'm dangerous."

Huxby met this with a cold smile. "You're right in part, you poor fish. It would be crazy to fancy you're at all dangerous. I'm the one who has the gun, and I'm ready to use it. For the lake bank."

Less than three minutes later, he heard a heavy puffing and wheezing and the snap of dry branches. Then the three staggered into sight. Mr. Ramill was purple from exertion. His mouth gaped wide with his gasps for breath. Neither his daughter nor Huxby was winded. But both were flushed from the exertion of supporting the portly millionaire.

Garth rounded his mouth still more.

Garth rounded his mouth still more.

engineer pilot made a hasty examination of the magneto. He sprang out on the wing, in a cold fury.

"The d—d sneak has crippled the motor. Give me the pistol."

Mr. Ramill held up a restraining hand. "One moment, Vivian.—Now, Garth, what have you done?"

Garth smiled. "Merely removed one of the breaker points, Mr. Ramill. It's platinum, you know, and that's what we're bargaining over. The point is quite safe here, inside my shirt."

"Shoot him," said Huxby. "We're not going to be done by a fool trick like this. Shoot the idiot. Go on, chief. He's only a lousy woods bum. It's a matter of a million at the least."

The older man leveled the pistol. "Garth, you heard him. You've played a silly trick. We have the drop on you. If you value your life, bring that stolen breaker point here, and be quick about it."

"How about the line, sir?" Garth inquired. "If I let go, the plane will be swept out into the lake."

"Tie it again."

"What if I'd rather not?"

For the second time Miss Ramill chimed in on the talk: "It would be just too bad for you, woody boy. Dad is a better shot even than Vivian."

"A better shot and a no less cool thinker," Garth replied. "How can I hold this rope if I'm shot? Those falls and the rapids below—Hold on there, Huxby! Not so fast. You can come ashore; but Miss Ramill and her father will come with you. There'll be no rush to catch the line until all three of you are off the wing."

Mr. Ramill started with Huxby out along the wing. His daughter did not move.

"If you fancy I'll leave the plane, you can guess again."

Her father spoke in her ear. None too graciously, she took the offered arm of her fiancé. Side by side, the three came out to the end of the wing. Mr. Ramill handed the pistol to Huxby, and knelt, ready to slide over the front edge. The girl jumped down lightly, without waiting for assistance. Huxby handed her the rifle, laid the pistol on the wing edge, and grasped Mr. Ramill's hands.

As the portly millionaire slid over, off the wing, Garth let go of the rope end and sprang forward. The loop whipped from around the spruce trunk. He grasped the slackened line and flipped it out into the swift rush of the milky stream.

The head of the released plane at once started to swing offshore. Huxby grabbed his pistol and leaped down to grasp the wing edge. He shouted for the others to catch hold. But the unexpected bump of the edge against their heads had made both father and daughter crouch down.

Huxby stepped back to brace himself for a shove against the rotary out-thrust of the wing. His rear foot went over the round of the water-polished ledge. The wing thrust him on outwards. Before he could let go, both of his feet were off the ledge top. He slid down with a splash into the swirling water.

The engineer plunged upstream three of four steps to a split in the glassy-faced ledge. He clawed up the rock shelf, drenched to the armpits by the milky water. But his right hand still grasped his automatic pistol.

Once more Garth seemed to have acted the part of a fool. For a few moments Miss Ramill and her father had crouched motionless, dumfounded by the letting loose of the monoplane and its shove of Huxby off the ledge.

Garth stood like an unconcerned on-looker. While the engineer was still struggling up out of the stream bed, Mr. Ramill took the rifle from his daughter and aimed it at Garth.

"Take your time, Vivian," he called. "I have him covered."

"Hu-wait," panted Huxby. "Leave him—to me."

He stood dripping till he caught his breath. A flit of the pistol barrel made sure it was free from water.—He took a step closer to Garth, his eyes cold, his lips tightened in a bitter smile.

"Another clever trick, Jack—and your last. I'll be generous and give you half a minute for your prayers."

Garth eyed him gravely. "That is indeed generous. Shall I reciprocate by praying that you and Miss Ramill do not suffer too long from the tortures of flies and starvation? Mr. Ramill may possibly be able to get over the pass, though I doubt it. In any event, the first muskug will stop him. You and Miss Ramill probably will last for two or three weeks longer."

Huxby glared. "You tricky devil! Clever, aren't you? Here is where you last less than a minute."

"Yes?" Garth smiled. "I might suggest to Mr. Ramill that he reflect upon the inadvisability of murder in Canada. The Northwest Police always get their man. If he is unaware of the fact, I might appeal to the womanly gentleness of Miss Ramill."

"Go ahead," Huxby sneered. "You're welcome to try."

"Why bother them needlessly?" Garth came back at him. "My dear man, you are no rash fool. Had you been other than what you are, do you suppose I would have walked up so innocently and let you get the drop on me?"

The coolness of tone and look that went with the question compelled Huxby's consideration. His eyes narrowed. "Out with it."

"You see I have you sized up right," Garth replied. "You're neither a hot-head nor a fool. All your moves are based upon cold-blooded calculation. In this case, you'll calculate these factors: If you kill me, you will most certainly starve to death, unless you first sink in the silms of muskug bog. The only other alternative is for you to stay here and freeze at the first onset of winter. Platinum is of no more use to a dead man than is gold."

The mining engineer stood silent. Garth went on:

"We are speaking of what concerns you most. So I'll not mention the no less certain death of your partner and the lady to whom you are engaged. The other side of my argument is that, if I am not murdered, I can guide you back to the Mackenzie. What if you then had another chance to steal my claim? Wouldn't that be a big inducement?"

"Lower your pistol, Vivian," Ramill ordered. "Garth has us outplayed. He holds the ace. Look at the plane. It's heading straight down the lake towards the falls. There's no chance for it, unless the wind veers."

Garth nodded. "This breeze will keep on blowing down off the glacier until the first autumn blizzard. It's a shame, sir, to crack up so fine a plane. But you would have it."

"You and Huxby. You may be a financial pirate, Mr. Ramill; that's not saying you're a hypocrite. You'll not lie that I'm responsible for this mess. I gave you a chance to share my claim. In return, you've done your best to blik me out of it all. This is the result."

The big "pirate" looked him in the eye.

"I offered you cash down. You refused. Said you wanted to play out the game. So far, you've taken most of the tricks. That monoplane cost me forty thousand dollars. You see it heading for a total loss. Let it go. The question now is the next play—Vivian, what do you suggest?"

Huxby regretfully eyed his pistol. "It's a damnable fact we can't kill the slick devil. We'll tie his hands, and start him guiding us out of this hell-hole at once."

Garth smiled. "What! still up in the air? Better come down to earth and face the other facts also. For the same reason you can't kill me, you can't make me guide you. I knew exactly what I was doing when I wanted the plane adrift. I knew I was putting you all in a hole out of which none of you can hope to escape without my help. If I die, every one of you will die. I've faced death many times. I am not afraid to meet it. None of you dare chance starvation or freezing. I do not need you, but you must have my help, or perish. Though you now have the guns, I am master of the situation. All three of you will do whatever I consider necessary to get you out alive."

"When do we start?" Huxby demanded to know.

Garth looked at Mr. Ramill. "It's a guess. May be two weeks. More probably three."

Miss Ramill flared, outraged. "What! Hang around this disgusting hole a single day? We'll start this instant."

Duns by Post Forbidden

by the U. S. Government

Despite all that has been said on the subject of dunning by postal card, says Pathfinder Magazine, there still exists some confusion on this matter. Section 471 of the United States postal laws and regulations says in part: "Any postal card upon which any delinquencies, epithets, terms, or language of an indecent, lewd, lascivious, obscene, libelous, scurrilous, defamatory, or threatening character, or calculated by the terms or manner of style of display and obviously intended to reflect injuriously upon the character or conduct of another, is unmailable."

The Post Office department has ruled that this "threatening" provision covers cards which threaten bringing of suits or legal action in the event accounts or debts, etc., are not paid. However, this does not include notices of fraternal and other organizations of dues, assessments, etc., even though they call attention to the fact that failure to remit will result in suspension or other action. Neither does it include notices of when accounts will be due nor a respectful request for settlement of current accounts. But in any case such payments must not appear to be nor be referred to as past due.

Mammoth and Dixon Caves

Mammoth and Dixon caves in Kentucky are mentioned in public documents of record in 1799. It has been proved that Dixon cave is a continuation of Mammoth.

Housewife's Idea Box

Always Hem Dish Cloths

Some housewives use unhemmed cloths as dish cloths. This is not advisable because the lint which comes off these cloths is likely to go down the sink drain and result in stoppage. The time and trouble to correct the stoppage will be far greater than the time and trouble it takes to hem the cloths.

What Do You Think?

In spite of what the courteous Japanese diplomats may say, we still cling to the belief that if Manchukuo is an independent state, so's matrimony.—Boston Herald.

The Man Who Knows

Whether the Remedy

is SAFE is Your Doctor.

Preparations

BEFORE you take any preparation you don't know all about, for the relief of headaches, or the pains of rheumatism, neuritis or neuralgia, ask your doctor what he thinks about it—in comparison with Genuine Bayer Aspirin.

We say this because, before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin, most so-called "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as being bad for the stomach; or, often, for the heart. And the discovery of Bayer Aspirin largely changed medical practice.

Countless thousands of people who have taken Bayer Aspirin year in and out without ill effect, have proved that the medical findings about its safety were correct.

Remember this: Genuine Bayer Aspirin is rated among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and all common pains... and safe for the average person to take regularly.

You can get real Bayer Aspirin at any drug store—simply by never asking for it by the name "aspirin" alone, but always saying BAYER ASPIRIN when you buy.

More, We Say

Worries tire you out by the end of a long day as much as physical labor.

I FEEL FINE

Mothers read this:

A CONSTIPATED child is so easily straightened out, it's a pity more mothers don't know the remedy.

A liquid laxative is the answer, mothers. The answer to all your worries over constipation. A liquid can be measured. The dose can be exactly suited to any age or need. Just reduce the dose each time, until the bowels are moving of their own accord and need no help.

This treatment will succeed with any child and with any adult. Doctors use liquid laxatives. Hospitals use the liquid form: If it is best for their use, it is best for home use. And today, there are fully a million families that will have no other kind in the house.

The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a doctor's prescription, now so widely known that you can get it all ready for use at any drugstore.

Blind Heroes Guided by Wives in Strange Town

A two-hour journey from Belgrade reveals one of the strangest villages in the world, where all the husbands are blind and the work of the colony is directed by the wives who see.

The town of Vetrnik is the first blind war veterans' colony in Yugoslavia, the first in a program of land settlements for the blind undertaken by the government.

The government institute for the blind arranged many marriages for unmarried blind veterans and aids the couples in the settlement at Vetrnik. The men are employed in useful crafts and the household work and operation of the colony are managed by the wives.

Now Science Explains Why So Many People Past 40

Feel That They're Slipping Losing Their "Grip" on Things

Many people "round 40 think they're growing old." They feel tired a lot... "weak." Have headaches, dizziness, stomach upsets.

Well, scientists say the cause of all this, in a great many cases, is simply an acid condition of the stomach. Nothing more.

All you have to do is to neutralize the excess stomach acidity.

When you have one of these acid stomach upsets, take Phillips' Milk of Magnesia after meals and before going to bed. That's all!

Try this. Soon you'll feel like another person! Take either the familiar liquid "PHILLIPS'" or the convenient new Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets.

ALSO IN TABLET FORM: Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets are now on sale at all drug stores everywhere. Each tiny tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

Self Restraint Easiest

Everyone needs restraint; if he can't apply it himself, some one else will have to do it.

A Three Days' Cough Is Your Danger Signal

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with anything less than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble to aid nature to soothe and heal the inflamed membranes as the germ-laden phlegm is loosened and expelled.

Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, your druggist is authorized to guarantee Creomulsion and to refund your money if you are not satisfied with results from the very first bottle. Get Creomulsion right now. (Adv.)

Watch Your Kidneys!

Be Sure They Properly Cleanse the Blood

YOUR kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as nature intended—fail to remove impurities that poison the system when retained.

Then you may suffer nagging backache, dizziness, scanty or too frequent urination, getting up at night, puffiness under the eyes, feel nervous, miserable—all upset.

Don't delay! Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are especially for poorly functioning kidneys. They are recommended by grateful users the country over. Get them from any druggist.

DOAN'S PILLS

what Irvin S. Cobb thinks about:

They Who Live by the Gun.

SANTA MONICA, CALIF.—They live the life of Riley, these veteran gangsters of the old established firms, but they die the deaths of dogs. Their successors come and go. Let us hope they'll keep on going faster than they keep on coming.

With that St. Valentine's day massacre emblazoned in red letters on the civic score board, Chicago still holds the lead for a single clean-up, but you can't say the boys around New York aren't trying. Dame Rumor hath it that very few of the gentlemen in permanent residence there are entirely satisfied with Alcatraz—the life is too confining, for one thing—but, even so, my guess is that Mr. Al Capone, snug as a bug under a rug, is kind of glad about one fact: that long-term policy of health and casualty insurance which Uncle Sam issued to him—with the clause permitting travel eliminated—still has quite some time to run.

Borah for President. BILL ALLEN WHITE says Senator Borah is good presidential timber. Well, the Republicans might go further and fare worse—they probably will.

Once I was sure most of the smart tricksters were naturally Republicans, just as most of the honest idiots were naturally Democratic. Lately, though, the Republicans have borrowed many of the sterling half-witted tactics of the opposition. Where there's a choice of two ends, they'll take both.

Besides, to any set of party bosses, Borah, as a candidate, would be absolutely hopeless. He makes up his own mind, instead of sending it to some reliable old guard laundry. He says what he believes. He believes what he says. When he talks, he talks about issues, not about Borah.

Pigskin and Sheepskin.

ONCE the student sought the college. Now the college seeks the student. Preferably her scouts seek the lad who perhaps is muscle-bound from the neck up and may have a head shaped like a pineapple cheese, but, if stoney and supple otherwise, he brings deathless fame to dear old alma mater by making the all-American and graduating with the degree of PFP—perfect forward passer. So it's watch the pigskin, boys, and the sheepskin will take care of itself.

Many a jerkwater university has been made immortal by one noble cub built on the general lines of a piano-mover. And with a whole team of such scholastic prodigies, she can hire a coach at four times the salary the prey gets and amount to something as an educational center.

Well, why not? The nations most capable of governing themselves are those whose youth learned discipline, self-control and sportsmanship.

Hands Across the Sea.

VARIOUS subtle diplomatic tricks having failed to lure us into pulling England's chestnuts out of the fire for her—and who ever saw England with a burnt paw if there was a sucker handy—it's almost time for our devoted kinemen of the mother country to dig up the line about hands across the sea and that other equally lovely line which goes so well when played on your Anglo-saxophone—the one about blood being thicker than water.

No use reopening ancient sores, but students of our Revolutionary history will perchance recall that the first hands across the sea were what you might call hired hands, being Hessian mercenaries rented at so much a head to conquer us. Whereas of later years, the most familiar hands across the sea were those greedily outstretched to clutch the Yankee's dollars, then clenched into angry fists did the said Yankee so much as hint he'd like a little something on account.

So, while the League of Nations stews in its own thin and impotent gravy, let us acknowledge that blood is indeed thicker than water—but piously continue to give thanks for 3,000 miles of the water.

The Horse and Buggy.

FRONT pages came packed with tidings to stir the pulse—war, earthquake, a famous woman dier in a crash; death for men in high places; another Cuban hurricane making up; a tragic finish for a great cartoonist whose wit and skill gave joy to millions. It's as though fate had her grim wash day, too.

Even so, the budget of news seems strangely incomplete. Let's look the flaming headlines through again to see what's lacking. Oh, yes, this must be it:

None of the younger Roosevelts got pinched over the week-end for speeding or even for violating traffic rules. Possibly the returns from the back-pedals aren't all in yet. Anyhow, the President has no cause to complain that the boys belong to the horse-and-buggy age.

Costume of Suede Is Top o' the Mode

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

STOP, look and listen for it's most important news we are telling you—all about the latest sensation in fashion, namely the costume done entirely of handsome, colorful suede. In the perfectly stunning dresses, jackets, swagger coats and many-piece ensembles of all-leather which are stepping out into the limelight this season, an epoch-making chapter is being written into the annals of fashion history.

A significant thing about this intriguing all-leather movement is that designers have discovered that suede adapts itself with equal facility to formal as well as casual sports styling. Which is a line of thought to which our minds must adjust would we fully appreciate the broad scope covered in the new leather fashions, since hitherto the mention of leather in a style sense meant its use for sturdy sportswear only. In the new order of affairs—suede qualifies as apply and happily as a medium for the loveliest and daintiest of formal evening apparel as it does for the sturdiest of outdoor garments.

To prove to your satisfaction the truth of the above assertion, we invite you to glimpse the "love of a gown" as pictured to the left in the illustration. The lady of the evening as here portrayed is Bette Davis of cinema fame. She is wearing an exquisite gown of white chevrilla suede. Which goes to show that Hollywood agrees with Paris in this all-leather vogue now sweeping throughout the style centers of the world. An adorable gown, you will admit, is this beguiling suede formal. It has the sleek, suave lines to which so many of fashion followers aspire. A high neckline in front with low backline outlined with braided suede adds further distinction to this charming gown.

Suede evening wraps are also in high fashion, either of the short jacket styling or in loose swagger lines. Capes, too, if you please, some of which are elegantly collared with white fox.

To the right in the picture, Kathleen Burke, another favorite, is wearing a five-piece ensemble done entirely of handsome suede, in a fascinating tone of rich hunter's green. It is one of the hand-laced types (the skirt is sewn together with leather thongs) such as is foremost in fashion this year. In fact, laced leather is the password to high style in the thrilling suede outfits that are being turned out for fall and winter. For the seams to be laced together as here shown dates your costume as being unmistakably a "laced word" creation.

In the instance of the five-piece "set" here shown, lacing is carried out along the edge of the side-front fastening of the form-fitting skirt, also on the collar and revers of the swagger coat and two-buttoned vest. A saucy youthful suede beret together with a miser's drawstring bag completes this perfectly stunning street outfit.

As to the cunning outfit below in the group, it tells at a glance that it has gone decidedly "football." It is Maureen O'Sullivan, of film prestige, who in flying colors is scoring her touchdowns in this hand-lace suede suit of devastating chic. Even the buttons are laced as is also the pig-grain leather football hat. Her bag is of the same leather ingeniously shaped like a football. The suit's standup collar is news.

CREPE AND VELVET

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Velvet enters into every phase of the mode this season. The afternoon dress which combines velvet with wool or silk is a highlighted number on the present style program. In the model pictured the designer has introduced velvet very effectively. The flowers at the shoulder are also of velvet. A high military-type neckline accents the chic of this costume.

COLOR PERVADES WHOLE ENSEMBLE

Color is not content this season to be a splash or a dab—it pervades the entire ensemble from tip to toe and has finally invaded the field of woman's most conservative color accessory—silk stockings.

The traditional beige and gray tones have made way for red and green stockings. Wine red stockings are smart with all of the wine tones. Suede green silk stockings are worn with greens and browns, with green suede or antelope gloves, shoes, and bags to match. Very sheer, two and three thread hose, in green or red make their debut for dresser wear.

Navy blue hose are high style with a blue town suit collared with raspberry red velvet and worn with a matching hat. With a Veronese-green dress accented in brown green silk stockings and brown shoes are news.

Some New Shades Added to Hosiery for Autumn Wear

Hosiery, this fall is here in a variety of new shades. In keeping with a growing feeling of luxury in the evening mode, smart complements will be provided for the gold, silver, and bronze slippers worn with gowns of Eastern influence. For daytime a series of browns will be best liked—golden brown, wine brown, brownish taupe with a rose cast, natural beige and coppery brown—to go with autumn colors.

Smother Hair Styles

Smother hair styles are being seen for early fall. Advance styles would indicate that the elaborate rows of curls, popular for many months, are to be laid aside—until we all change our minds again.

Handbag Made of Wood

A smart handbag is large and flat, designed to look like an enormous compact, and it is made of wood in a dark brown natural finish.

Buffet Suppers Popular Custom

Fashion That Fills a Need; How They May Be Served.

Buffet entertaining is becoming increasingly popular in the United States. For generations it has been a custom in England both for breakfast and luncheons. In houses where servants are many there can be a freedom about meal hours—except dinner—that is impossible in the homes without them. The family and guests come to breakfast when their business or pleasure dictates. On the buffet are foods, kept hot over spirit lamps and hot water compartments, and each person helps himself (or herself) to these things.

Luncheons may be as intermittently enjoyed, and when guests come from distances, and may not arrive simultaneously, buffet service is most satisfactory.

In this country buffet serving of refreshments is frequently followed, and buffet suppers are in vogue. They may be in spacious houses for reasons similar to those abroad, or it may be because of the smallness of living quarters that the buffet idea is welcomed. When a fashion fits a need, and is pleasing to those of wealth and of moderate means alike, it is doubly popular.

Self-Service.

If a hostess wishes to be in the living room and yet have her guests well served, she can manage excellently either with or without servants provided the meal is in buffet style. If she has no maid whatsoever, all foods must be ready and in abundance, on the dining table and the buffet or serving table. She will have to see, either herself or with the aid of assistants among her friends, that enough plates, dishes, and silver, are kept clean and ready to use whenever needed. It is necessary to have replenishing plates at hand ready with foods to be exchanged for the empty serving dishes, such as sandwiches, cakes, etc.

At a buffet supper, host and hostess may, and should, be ready to see that guests are supplied, not that they are required to serve them, but by saying such things as they pass among guests, as:

"I hope you will enjoy the rarebit. It's in the chafing dish."

Or, if oysters are to be enjoyed:

"Now, as there's an R in the month I hastened to have some scalloped oysters. I trust you like them. It's a favorite dish of mine. Please help yourself."

When Hostess Serves.

Often the hostess or the host serves one dish from the buffet, at least for a few servings, and asks the others to help themselves to whatever they find on the table. This may be needed to get guests started. If either host or hostess notice some one without coffee, or minus sandwiches or biscuits, it is graceful to pass them things—whatever they are.

Buffet refreshments are apt to be very simple. It is sufficient to have a punch bowl with ice in it and the beverage with a tray of fresh glasses, and one for used ones; a ladle by it, and plates of cakes, and perhaps sandwiches also. Plates, silver, napkins, and candles, salted nuts, etc., are on buffet dining table.

United States Consumes Half of World's Lumber

According to "The Year Book" of the New York Society of Architects, "the United States produces and consumes, roundly, half of all the lumber of the world. About 80 per cent of all residences in the United States are wood-built; and on the farms, 98 per cent of all structures. On account of its abundance, prevalence and comparative cheapness, lumber has been crucially associated with the economic history of the country.

"Even today, after the advent of many different competing materials, the lumber industry ranks near the top with some 20,000 mills, $7,000,000,000 of capital investment, employing directly and indirectly more than a million men in good times and a larger producing capacity than it had when the mills were twice as numerous. With the disappearance of the frontier, the industry is changing from a purely extractive to a reproducing industry. The private forests are beginning to be systematically regrown and perpetuated; already about 40 per cent of all lumber comes from renewed forests. Back of this adaptation are the vast public forests containing about one-half the total standing timber, which are on a sustained yield basis."

New Amusements in Grades

Various assortments of new books, puzzles, and games were brought from the Teachers' Institute for the grade children. Mrs. Hager's room has several books of short stories, poems, some about Indians, as well as paint books, and books of handicraft. In the line of games the children may now enjoy tidley winks, dominoes, and picture puzzles. Each grade has something to enjoy after the day's work is finished. All the pupils feel very well satisfied for they not only enjoyed the two days vacation, but also what their teachers brought back with them.

Xmas Planning Done Early

The fifth graders of Mrs. Larsen's room must be very charitable, for they have already begun to think what they can do for unfortunate ones to brighten their Christmas. The girls are making rag dolls which they will dress for children in the orphan homes. The boys are planning to make wooden toys for the same purpose. These gifts will certainly make many little children happy — the ones who receive and the ones who give.

Why Get Up Nights

Use Juniper Oil, Buchu Leaves, Etc. Flush out excess acids and waste matter. Get rid of bladder irritation that causes waking up, frequent desire, scanty flow, burning and backache. Make this 25c test. Get juniper oil, buchu leaves, etc., in little green tablets called Bukets, the bladder laxative. In four days if not pleased your druggist will return your 25c. Hallowe'en Parties in grades

Hallowe'en was celebrated in the good old-fashioned way in the grade building. Each grade had a party with fudge, popcorn, and apples for refreshments. The rooms were decorated with pumpkins, witches, black cats, and all the other things that accompany the Hallowe'en tradition. In preparation for the "holiday" they had been reading Hallowe'en songs.

So We Heard—

Mr. Stuetel in Shop: "Warren have you anything to do?"
Warren Duplessis: "Nope."
Mr. Stuetel: "Sharpen this knife so sharp I can shave with it."
Warren: "Why don't you get a razor?"

A Poet Created in Chemistry

"The Inquiring Reporter" discovered an unusual written offering, with the aid of Mr. Walcott, recently. One may call it unusual from this point of view: One doesn't expect to find unclaimed "poetry" lying around in such abandon — especially in a chemistry laboratory. Whether or not it is truly "poetic" — well, you may be the judge.

THE DREAM OF A CHEMISTRY STUDENT

In the interests of Chemistry
Oh, what hideous crimes
Are daily committed in
These barbarous times.
In the interests of Chemistry
Mad scientists die
When into the mysteries
Of nature they pry.
Young students in high school
Must burn midnight oil
Pouring over long formulas,
Their brains in turmoil.
In the midst of my slumbers
I find no escape.
I see my instructor;
I tremble and shake.
In the interests of Chemistry
Of experiments he brags,
And roughly before me
My young brother drags.
For the sake of my brother
I must help if I can,
I rise from my bed
And follow the man.
In the interests of Chemistry
He has all his class
Perversely in the Commercial room
Assembled en masse.
In the interests of Chemistry
He turns a big crank
And my brother snaps upright
With a back-breaking yank.
In the interests of Chemistry
The mad teacher remarks,
"I want this whole class
To watch closely the sparks."
Sparks dance on the face
Of my red-headed brother,
They race up his nose,
And I hasten away.
In the interests of Chemistry
What hideous crimes
Are nightly committed
In these barbarous times!

Peppy Pep Meeting Peps!

Overflowing with enthusiasm and pep the student body marched into the auditorium Friday afternoon while the band played a peppy song, and yelled some peppy yells led by the peppy yell leaders. Why? To pep up the team to beat Boyne City in the game Saturday, November 2.

Freshies Appreciate Busses

In answering the question "What is the distance from your home to school?" asked on the Freshman questionnaire, replies ranged all the way from, one and one-half blocks, to twelve miles, making the average distance per person about three and one-fourth miles.

Photography is new Activity

Mr. Roberts Organizes Camera Club
Everyone knows to what degree Mr. Roberts is interested in photography, and what achievements have been his in that field. But soon he will not be the only one who can take pictures successfully, for he has organized the East Jordan Camera Club, consisting of Howard Malpass, Billy Stokes, Neil Mackey, Alston Penfold, Keith Bartlett, Albert Richardson. Perhaps a few more who are interested will join later.

Junior Play Under Way

The Juniors have begun rehearsing their play, "The Charm School," which is to be given November 22. The cast includes Jacklyn Cook, Jane Davis, Virginia Saxton, Ruth Darbee, Clarence Bowman, Donald Johnson, Arthur Marshall, Eva Dennis, Stella Stallard, Winifred Zitka, Katherine MacDonald, Alston Penfold, and Wylon Payne, under the direction of Mr. Bippus and Miss Perkins.

Debaters Anticipate First Debate of Season

Seven students, Mary Seiler, Lois Rude, Frances Lenosky, Doris Velay, Arthur Marshall, Arthur Rude, and Barbara Stroebel, who are out for debating this year are working hard in preparation for the first inter-scholastic debate of the season to be held on November 15 at Boyne City.

It's News When —

Mr. Bippus runs around in red pajamas!
Bud Strehl actually studies for a physics test instead of going Hallowe'ening.
Mr. Roberts uses photography bulbs to detect visitors on Hallowe'en.
Mr. Eggert directs a choir in a filmy evening gown.
The school building is comfortably warm!
as Mr. Wade pointed out, he speaks in assembly about something besides running through the halls.
The Juniors don't dare postpone their party for fear their cider will become hard!
Daphne Keller tells Sherman Thomas to shut his mouth and Mr. Bippus thinks the command meant for him!

Judging Team Goes To Gaylord

A group of eighteen boys accompanied by Mr. Eggert went to Gaylord Wednesday, October 30, to judge and identify potatoes and apples as to variety and quality at the Top O' Michigan Potato and Apple Show. The Smith-Hughes potato and apple exhibit from East Jordan won first place.

In Appreciation

Ernest Rude, who returned home from his trip to Kansas City last week wishes to thank the citizens and organizations of East Jordan who contributed toward making this trip successful and thoroughly enjoyable. The efforts of Mr. Eggert, who made the necessary arrangements, are sincerely appreciated.

A Correction

Due to the omission of a line in the typing of an article on the debate in modern history class, the credit was given to the wrong members of the winning team. The affirmative team, which won the debate, was composed of Mary Seiler, Harold Carney, and Frances Lenosky, and not Lois Rude, Maxine Touchstone, and Gerald Ager as was stated incorrectly last week.

Athletic Pictures Adorn Corridors

A beautifully tinted and enlarged picture of our enthusiastic yell leaders, Kathryn Kitman and Jane Davis, greeted the eyes of the students Monday morning, as the pleasing effect was noticed. It was photographed and prepared by the high school principal, Mr. Roberts, who seems to have a devoted interest in this hobby.

Game Ends in Big Victory!

Jordan Skunks Boyne 13 to 0
The ancient rivals, East Jordan and Boyne City met Saturday, November 2nd, on the field of battle to play the championship game of the season. Both teams were "rarin'" to go, and as the opening signal was given, shot into action.

Dr. No Young Park Enthusiastically Received

Last Tuesday, October 30, students had the very great privilege of hearing Dr. No Young Park, well known Chinese scholar, lecturer and author, speak in the High School Auditorium. The full import of Dr. Park's speech can not, of course, be gained by merely reading it. But if you will keep before you, as you read, the vision of an amicable, laughing, joking Chinaman — a good-looking man for a Chinaman — you will be better able to understand his message.
