EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN, FRIDAY, MARCH 27, 1936.

NEW KING READY TO ASCEND THRONE

Greatest Smelt Jamboree On Record Due Tomorrow.

LARGE DIPPINGS OF SMELT TAKEN FROM THE JORDAN WEDNESDAY NIGHT

With a crowd containing sportsmen, outdoors writers and photographers from all parts of the midwest and Ontario already gathering, the Fourth National Smelt Jamboree, held here tomorrow, will doubtless prove one of the feature spring celebrations of Michigan.

After two or three days of inactivity, due to high water in the river, the smelt run got under way strong again Wednesday evening. Everybody was getting smelt and many heavy catches were made.

King Jay H. Metcalf of Grand Rapids, who last spring was crowned "King Henry the First, National King of Smeltium", is already on hand and will officiate at the coronation of his successor tomorrow. Just who the new King is will not be known till coronation time. He will ride in a special king's chariot at the head of the parade which follows immediately after the coronation. The crowning will take place in front of the Temple Theatre at 4:00 p. m. the parade following probably about 4:20.

The banquet committee has everything lined up to handle the stag affair at 6:30 p. m. Three hundred tickets were printed for it and it looks as though it will be a sell-out long before supper time. Many outdoors celebrities will be on hand and another peppy program is being arranged.

One of the features of tomorrow's celebration will be the parade. Just what all is lined up, we don't know, but Dinty stated Tuesday that more than fifty horses will appear in it. Although it isn't a stock procession, it has been rumored that there is plenty of laughing stock in it. Dinty, Teddy and Jack also have some dandy comedy acts that will start at 2:00 p. m. and continue until parade time.

Paul Bunyan, his ox, "Babe" and their blue snow will be coming across the Straits tonight on the Chief Watam, and will be here in plenty of time to join the show tomorrow.

Word has been received from the Pathé news reels, that they will probably be on hand to shoot the coronation, parade, and make shots of the dipping at night.

As soon as the banquet is over, the nightly war, or as Ray Barnes puts it, "The Charge of the Smelt Night Brigade", will be on again.

For the folks who find the wielding of a fourteen or sixteen foot smelt net a little too difficult, the Smelters Ball will get under way as soon as the "buns spread with nice juicy mustard" have been cleaned up. The ball is due to start about 9:15.

Tomorrow, it's the fun-frolic of the State. Jamboree Day — may joy be unconfined and the best of success to the new King — whoever he may be or from wherever he may hail.

Canners End Season Monday, March 16 At Charlevoix

The East Jordan Canner five closed a very successful season, Monday, March 16, when they won over Charlevoix 88 to 27 on the latter court. Their only defeat of the season was given them in the Kalkaska tournament by a strong Hannah-Lay five of Traverse City. In this lone defeat the locals displayed a good brand of basketball but were unable to put the ball through the net when they needed it the most. They were second in this tournament and for their efforts they were awarded eight miniature gold basketballs.

In their string of victories they have beaten Charlevoix three times; Alba, Elmira, Kalkaska and Ellsworth twice each; and Central Lake, Grayling and Kellers of Traverse City once each. Most of their victories were lopsided affairs with the exception of one of the Charlevoix and Elmira games. This is a record for any team to be proud of and everyone should be pulling for them to repeat this record next year.

In the final game Swafford led the locals, scoring with 13 points with Hegerberg close behind with 12. Kirby was high man for Charlevoix getting 12.

County Agricultural Planning Committee Sizes Up Agricultural Problems

The recently organized county agricultural planning committee held their first meeting in the Boyne City Federal Building last Tuesday, March 17, with 17 out of the 20 present. This is the first time that a committee so representative of agricultural efforts in the county has met.

Then the results of the 1935 census were presented which accurately portrayed the trends and changes in agricultural activity in this county.

Rose Marie At The Temple For Three Days

In bringing us "Rose Marie" this week, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, the Temple has selected what is perhaps the most popular of all romantic musicals. The perfect blending of romance, music and adventure is laid against the primitive wilds of Canada and the glamorous atmosphere of famous Mounties and carefree Indians form the perfect setting for Jeanette McDonald and Nelson Eddy's colorful musical-romance. It is entertainment of the highest calibre.

Other programs announced are in direct contrast to "Rose Marie" including gay comedy and stirring action. On Friday and Saturday the widely read railroad story "Whispering Smith Speaks" will be presented with the virile George O'Brien starred. And on next Wednesday and Thursday (Family Nites) the new team of Ida Lupino and Kent Taylor will appear in "Smart Girl". Also on this bill a new "Vince Barnett comedy" "Brain Busters" and a featurette "Easy Pickins" with the Cabin Kids will be presented.

For a dollar you can get a book explaining the Townsend Plan. Or 10 chances on a punchboard.

Forty-two State Forestry CCC camps operated in Michigan during the period from April 1, 1933, to October 1, 1935, and since that time the number of camps in operation has varied from 24 to 36.

The meeting was called to order by Chairman Mrs. Earl Ruhling. Roll call was taken, minutes of the last meeting read and approved. Nomination by Mrs. Gunsolus for Mrs. Paul Lisk as new leader. Ballot cast that the same leaders carry over for another year. Ballot cast that Mrs. Paul Lisk carry over for Secretary for another year. Mrs. Paul Lisk cast the ballot that Mrs. Bader serve as our treasurer for another year. Mrs. G. A. Lisk made a motion that Mrs. Frank Cook act as our recreational leader for another year.

Achievement Day will be held Tuesday, May 5, at Boyne City. After the leaders return from Lansing in August, a meeting will be held at the Tourist Park. The first regular meeting for next year will be held in October at Mrs. George Kloosters'. There being no further business the meeting was turned over to the leaders.

The Leaders, Miss Bernice Bashaw and Mrs. Blanche Thompson, have carried out their work very well this year and we know they will do as well if not better next year. We extend our deepest appreciation to them. At the last meeting they gave out interesting pamphlets, one on "Production of Family Food Supply" and "Appetizing Dishes from Farm Products." Also two smaller leaflets, one "The Family Food Supply Plan" and "Steps for Making Popcorn Cottage Cheese". They gave a very interesting demonstration on making the popcorn cheese. We all had a helping of it with our lunch so we knew it was good. Visitors are welcome to attend these interesting demonstrations.

Incidence of Disease in Preschoolers in District No. 3 in 1935

District Health Unit No. 3, constituting the counties of Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Otsego, was very fortunate in having very few cases of communicable diseases among our children under six years of age during 1935. We are very fortunate in this respect, as it is in this early age group that communicable disease is the most serious.

During 1935 measles led the list with 49 cases; chickenpox was next in importance with 26 cases; scarlet fever placed third with 11 cases; whooping cough was fourth with 7 cases; typhoid fever was fifth with 4 cases and infantile paralysis with 2 cases. We had a marked reduction in scarlet fever from 78 cases in 1934 to 11 cases in 1935, but on the other hand, there was a marked increase in measles, chickenpox and typhoid fever. One thing in particular that we notice is the fact that we did not have a single case of diphtheria or smallpox in the preschool child. This is due to the large number of smallpox vaccinations and immunizations against diphtheria in this particular age group and this record can be continued only insofar as parents assist in having their children immunized.

The following rules are so important with regard to the control of communicable disease in the preschool child that we feel that they should be repeated again this year:

1. Keep the child away from sick people.
2. Isolate a sick child in the home, and do not allow the other children to come near.
3. Teach the child to wash his hands before eating, and after using the toilet, by having him do this daily.
4. Keep the child in the best health possible, that he may build up a strong resistance against germs.

Temple To Install Latest In Lighting Fixtures

The Temple Theatre is again making another step in modernization with the ordering of a completely new type lighting system that is proving a sensation in deluxe city theatres. Mr. Drew announced that the new fixtures will make possible a complete change in color effect with each picture providing an atmosphere in keeping with the tempo of the picture or may be used and changed to fit special occasions such as holidays and the seasons of the year. It is expected the installation will be completed in about three weeks and gives the Temple the distinction of being the first theatre in the State outside Detroit, to be so equipped.

News Review of Current Events the World Over

Eastern States Devastated by Great Floods—Germany Condemned by League Council—President Asks Billion and Half for Relief.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

Western Newspaper Union

STATES of the Central East and New England suffered severely from the most unprecedented floods. Scores of lives were lost and the vast property damage cannot yet be estimated. At least 150,000 persons were made homeless. Conditions were worst in western Pennsylvania. The Monongahela and Allegheny rivers, uniting at Pittsburgh to form the Ohio, poured raging torrents down over the great industrial city, driving the people from their homes and places of business. The famous "Golden Triangle" between the rivers was completely inundated; transportation and communication systems were suspended and power plants were put out of commission so the city was plunged in darkness. The plight of the suburbs was equally bad.

Farther east, Johnstown was entirely flooded and the terror-stricken inhabitants fled from their homes, but the great Quemahoning dam was holding and the danger of a repetition of the disaster of 1889 seemed to be passing. Dozens of cities and towns along the Susquehanna and its tributaries were under water, and in New York the Mohawk, Hudson, Schuylkill and Delaware rivers were out of their banks and rapidly rising. The Potomac, too, became a raging flood and in Washington an army of men was working feverishly to save the buildings and monuments in the flatlands.

Ten thousand persons were rendered homeless in the New England States and about a score lost their lives. The emergency there was greatest in the valley of the Connecticut river. Many cities were cut off from rail transportation and also were without light and power.

American Red Cross rose to the emergency, as always, mobilizing its forces to relieve the suffering. Admiral Cary T. Grayson, its national head, issued an appeal for a fund of $3,000,000. President Roosevelt also called for this amount in a proclamation. Secretary of War Dern was appointed emergency flood relief head by the President and immediately ordered the generals commanding six corps areas of the army to extend full aid for prevention of loss of life and destruction of property.

Work Relief Administrator Harry Hopkins gave blanket authority to all WPA officials to employ their workers in any way necessary in rescue work and in strengthening levees.

The United States Coast Guard sent many power launches, provisioned and manned, from the Chicago area to help in the relief work at various points. To prevent robbery and vandalism National Guardsmen were on the job at Pittsburgh and other places.

France's proposal to submit the Franco-Russian treaty to The Hague court was said by a spokesman for the German delegation to be futile and useless. He also said the plan suggested by the English, to police the Rhineland zone with an international force, was "absolutely unacceptable."

A third provision, for drawing up a system of mutual guaranties among the Locarno powers, to operate in case of an attack, the spokesman said, was "unnecessary because Germany has no intention of crossing her frontiers."

None of the Germans, however, even intimated that Hitler would withdraw any of his troops from the Rhineland.

Hitler was continuing his speech-making tour in Germany. At Koenigsberg he said:

"For once a single man comes forth in Europe behind whom stands a whole nation. He extends his hand to other nations. Whoever dares reject this hand, behind which 69,000,000 people are united, must bear responsibility in the eyes of history. I have been the herald of the German people for more than three years. I am now the herald for peace in Europe."

SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE

WALLACE announced the establishment of five regions for administration of the soil conservation and domestic allotment act, substitute for the invalid AAA. H. R. Tolley, administrator of the new plan, said the department already has begun a field service to administer the program in various states. As under the AAA, the leading part within the states is to be played by the farmers' county and community committees.

H. R. Tolley

Mr. Wallace also directed discontinuance of the four commodity divisions whose work of liquidating AAA production control programs will be taken over by the regional directors. The order leaves intact other administrative units of the AAA, such as the division of marketing and marketing agreements, division of program planning, and the division of the consumers' counsel.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

packed up his fishing tackle and started South for his annual angling cruise, this time on the new Presidential boat, the Potomac. He made a brief stop at Winter Park, Fla., where he received an honorary degree from Rollins college. His plan was then to board the Potomac and spend about two weeks on his old-fishing grounds off the Florida coast.

Mr. Roosevelt had invited as his fishing companions his eldest son, James; an uncle, Frederick A. Delano; and three mates of his fishing cruise of last fall, Capt. Wilson Brown, United States navy; and Col. Edwin M. Watson, United States army, his military aides, and Capt. Ross T. McIntire, United States navy, White House physician.

SEIZURE OF PRIVATE TELEGRAMS

Black committee has resulted in a fierce warfare of words between John J. McSwain of South Carolina, chairman of the house committee on military affairs, and William Randolph Hearst, newspaper publisher. Senator Black withdrew the subpoena on the Western Union company in the Hearst case but first made public what purported to be a copy of a telegram from the publisher to one of his editorial writers in which McSwain was called "a Communist, in spirit and a traitor in effect." McSwain promptly read this in the house and then vigorously and eloquently defended himself and denounced Hearst.

The publisher retorted with an open letter to his editorial writer in which he said:

"McSwain is a politician of the lower order, and his extreme radical pacifism is a danger to the peace and protection of the nation, and to the safety of the men, women and children who constitute the American people."

ONE AND ONE-HALF BILLION DOLLARS

will be needed to carry the Works Progress Administration through the coming fiscal year, according to President Roosevelt's figuring. Therefore he asked congress to appropriate that sum. He thought it would be sufficient to care for the destitute unemployed, together with $1,000,000,000 in unexpected previous appropriations and the $600,000,000 carried in the budget for the civilian conservation corps and various public works.

Limitation of federal relief expenditures to this figure, however, is dependent upon re-employment of substantial numbers of the idle by private industry, the President said.

As the President's message was presented, Speaker Joseph W. Byrns revealed that Mr. Roosevelt had advised his leaders that any increase in the appropriation over his estimates must be accompanied by new taxes to provide revenues to cover the added cost.

RUSH D. HOLT, the young Democratic senator from West Virginia, gave notice that he would continue to hammer at the Works Progress administration until a senate investigation was ordered. He demanded an inquiry into all relief activities under charge of Administrator Harry L. Hopkins, and other agencies affecting relief, the RFC, OWA, and FERA.

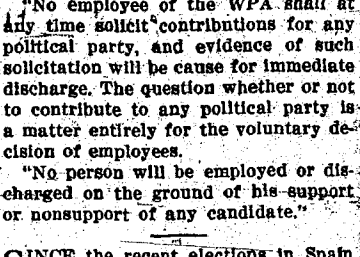

In reply to some of the charges made, Mr. Hopkins issued this bulletin:

"No employee of WPA is required to make any contribution to any political party. No WPA employee's job will be in jeopardy because of failure to make such contribution."

"No employee of the WPA shall at any time solicit contributions for any political party, and evidence of such solicitation will be cause for immediate discharge. The question whether or not to contribute to any political party is a matter entirely for the voluntary decision of employees."

"No person will be employed or discharged on the ground of his support or non-support of any candidate."

SINCE the recent elections in Spain the riots staged by the leftists have been growing more vicious daily, and after disorders at Logrono in which a number of persons were killed the Spanish army was aroused to vigorous protest. Premier Manuel Azana was told by the officers that unless his new left government adopted measures to stop the widespread violence the army would take the maintenance of order into its own hands.

Manuel Azana

Carlos Masquelet, minister of war, was said to be in sympathy with the army's demand.

Azana held a heated conference with Francisco Largo Caballero, president of the Socialist party and is said to have told him that he believed revolutionary Socialists were responsible for most of the disorders, demanding that the violence cease immediately. Largo insisted that the Socialists be permitted to demonstrate, but finally gave in to the premier and issued orders to all Socialists to behave themselves.

Despite strict censorship imposed by the governor of Logrono it was learned that incendiaries there set fire to six convents and churches, four rightist centers and a rightist newspaper, and then attacked the army barracks, attempting to seize artillery.

THE TREASURY REPORTED THAT INCOME tax collections for the first 16 days March amounted to $281,758,032, or a gain of 46.4 per cent over the $192,429,413 in the corresponding period last year. Practically all collection districts registered an increase.

Since the first of the year, the Treasury said, $361,425,990 has been collected on the income tax, an increase of 45.6 per cent over the $248,060,132 gathered in for the same period of 1935.

probably the greatest of latter-day Greek statesmen, died in Paris, where he was in self-imposed exile, following an attack of grippe. He was seventy-two years old.

VenizeLOS, former premier of Greece, fled from the island of Crete last March after a revolt he headed collapsed. He was tried and sentenced to death, but King George after his recall offered him amnesty. VenizeLOS, however, refused to return, declaring "Greece will never see me again." He was an ardent republican and denounced the restoration of the monarchy.

SECRETARY OF LABOR PERKINS

was accused of harboring hundreds of deportable criminal and radical aliens in the United States by Senator Robert R. Reynolds of North Carolina when he introduced a resolution calling upon the Labor department to furnish information allegedly withheld from congress.

Senator Reynolds' resolution said that request had been made of Labor department officials for information concerning "in excess of 2,600 aliens in the United States known to and allowed by the Department of Labor to remain in the United States, although subject to deportation." The request, the resolution stated, was refused.

PROCEEDING WITH ITS GREAT

parliament program, the British government has named Sir Thomas Inskip, attorney general since 1932, to be the co-ordinator of the entire scheme, giving him a newly created cabinet post. This selection by Prime Minister Baldwin was a surprise. It had been thought the place might go to Winston Churchill, Neville Chamberlain, Alfred Duff Cooper or Sir Samuel Hoare.

Sir Thomas is known as an "anti-linguist." He is sixty years old and always is calm and unflustered in the house of commons or at the bar. It will be his duty as defense co-ordinating minister to synchronize activities of the army, navy, and air services.

COMPROMISE BROUGHT TO AN

MICHIGAN NEWS BRIEFS

Lansing—The State Liquor Control Commission states that its net sales in February totaled $2,251,756, an increase of $255,560 over January.

Jackson—When fire destroyed a barn and its contents, 30 sheep and scores of turkeys and chickens were burned to death on the farm of Fremont Rappleye, near Pleasant Lake.

Sturgis—Teachers in Sturgis schools will receive a 26 per cent increase in salaries next year, under a $54,000 budget approved by the board of education. Janitors' salaries were raised 20 per cent.

Negaunee—Like the man who hung up an ostrich egg as inspiration for his chickens, the City of Negaunee is hanging up its own ostrich egg for the rest of Michigan. The 1935 taxes amounted to $368,574.10, and all but $5,071.01, or 1.9 per cent has been paid.

Grand Rapids—Grand Rapids will have to raise $475,000 for relief, direct and indirect, for the fiscal year 1935-37. There are now 1,829 persons listed as unemployables on direct relief rolls. Direct relief will require $300,000, and $175,000 is needed for work projects.

Lansing—A bulldog went to jail here because he blew the horn in his owner's automobile. After a half-hour of steady horn blowing, police found the dog had planted a forefoot on the horn button and left it there. The owner had left the dog in the car while he went shopping.

Rochester—Rochester claims to have the longest concrete highway bridge in the State. It is 816 feet long. A longer bridge of 846 feet connects Michigan and Wisconsin at Menominee; but part of it is in Wisconsin. Other large bridges at Benton Harbor and over the Manistee River in Manistee County are 671 and 614 feet long, respectively.

Holland—Word was received here that the Council of Hope College has been bequeathed $20,000 and one-third of the residuary estate of the late Miss Mary Bussing, of New York. The Western Theological Seminary, of Holland, receives one-third of the residue. Miss Bussing, who died in New York Nov. 15, left $319,000 in specific cash legacies by her will.

Port Huron—The Kiwanis Club of Port Huron has asked the international organization to approve a movement to have the Postoffice Department issue a stamp to commemorate more than a century of peace along the Canadian border. A miniature reproduction of the boundary plaques erected on the border by Kiwanis clubs is suggested for the stamp.

Muskegon—The Fjell Line, Norwegian steamship company has announced that direct passenger service between Great Lakes ports and Europe would be inaugurated this spring. Three steamers with Passenger accommodations will offer fortnightly service to London, Rotterdam, Antwerp, Hamburg and other ports. The company's lake and ocean freight service will be continued.

Grand Rapids—Kent County had 18,000 more acres under cultivation in 1934 than in 1929. Federal farm census figures reveal. Just over 200,000 acres of crops were harvested in 1934. Production of corn, hay, oats and Irish potatoes increased in the five years, three times as many potatoes being harvested in '34 as in '29.

Lansing—Employment and payrolls in Michigan industries receded slightly during February but employment still remained above the comparative 1935 period, the Department of Labor and Industry reported. Employment last month was 4 per cent higher than in the same period last year but 2 per cent under January. Payrolls were 10.5 per cent under January and 4 per cent under February, 1935.

Port Huron—Plans for a proposed bridge across the St. Clair River from Port Huron to Sarnia were again delayed by word from the Government that it intended to build an extra boat channel at Point Edward, where the Canadian termination of the bridge is to be. The Army Board of Engineers has demanded that the bridge be heightened and the approaches lengthened to provide clearance for the channel.

Lansing—State relief officials reported the first decrease of welfare case loads of the winter. Where 78,274 resident families were on relief at the end of February, only 76,823 were listed a week later. Dr. William Haber, SERA administrator, said the decrease probably came because of further WPA employment. "Michigan's relief load apparently is now stabilized," he said. "For five weeks it has been between 74,000 and 78,000 families."

Marquette—A safety school plan which has reduced accidents involving CCC trucks in the Upper Peninsula to one for each 350,000 miles traveled may be adopted for CCC camps throughout the United States. The 8,000 CCC youths in the Upper Peninsula camps are required to attend classes in traffic safety. Nine months ago, the accident rate for the 200 CCC trucks was one for each 12,000 miles. Not only has that rate been reduced, but there was neither a fatality nor an injury chargeable to a CCC truck last year.

Washington Digest

National Topics Interpreted By WILLIAM BRUCKART

Washington. — Overshadowing all else in the national capital at this writing is the controversy that is boiling and surging around the head of Alabama's Democratic Senator Black, who is the chairman of the senate's lobby investigating committee. As an offshoot of this controversy, the federal communications commission is in water much too hot for bathing and it begins to appear that when the steam blows off the communications commission is likely to be a thoroughly discredited federal agency because of the part it played in Senator Black's unprecedented seizure of private telegrams from the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies.

Need Curb on Inquiries

Speaking generally, it has been seldom that a United States senator has ever attempted to assert the authority that Senator Black has used and it is equally unprecedented that a federal agency has gone to the extremes that characterized the action of the communications commission in connection with the seizure of the messages.

But some good may come from the police court prosecution tactics employed by Senator Black and some good may come from the accusations leveled at the communications commission because that body helped Senator Black carry out his plans.

The country-wide indignation that has arisen from Senator Black's usurpation of power has brought to the front a question that needs public attention and needs it badly.

I refer, in this connection, to the steadily expanding efforts of congressional investigators, especially senatorial investigators, to take over, as their own, powers that always have been regarded as reserved exclusively to the courts. The consensus among Washington observers certainly is that the legislative inquiries have developed to a point where the most humble requirements of justice have been and are being completely ignored. Whether they are so intended, these inquiries, and this includes investigations conducted by committees not only of congress but of state legislatures and even city councils, are approaching the point where they are almost tyrannical.

It goes without saying, then, that the time has arrived for citizens to assert themselves. These inquiries will not proceed when the elected legislators, state or national, learn that the people do not approve of such high-handed tactics.

In order to have an understanding of the latest of these escapades, it is necessary to review briefly what has happened in the case of the senate lobby investigating committee. Almost a year ago the committee sought the aid of the federal communications commission which had the color of authority in law for investigating the business of the telegraph companies. Senator Black issued a broad subpoena, directing the telegraph companies to make available any and all messages his committee desired. Communications commission agents then went into the telegraph company files, read everything they could find and made copies of all of the messages which those agents, under guidance of Black investigators, thought would be helpful to the Black committee in exposing operations of private individuals.

Black's Activities

The purpose of this, as outlined by Senator Black, was to locate clues to the machinations of business interests who were seeking passage or defeat for legislation pending in congress. The Alabama senator wanted to "show up" lobbyists. He contended and has maintained consistently that "these muckrakers of great wealth" could not accomplish any influence in congress unless it were done secretly and "in the dark."

In other words, Senator Black persuaded members of the communications commission to help him in his fishing expedition. He persuaded that organization that it should become a party to an unprecedented effort designed as a dragnet, a movement to snare anybody and everybody who had used telegraphic service.

The Black plan was carried out in secret. Senders and receivers of messages which those agents copied knew nothing about it. The operation was just as much "in the dark" as any of the lobbying about which Senator Black complained, even more so. It was only by accident that the facts became known but when they did become known, the lid was promptly blown off.

The end is not yet, nor is it even in sight. One federal judge has issued a restraining order against such tactics and a half dozen other applications for similar orders are pending. Undoubtedly, the questions, whatever the rulings may be, will find their way eventually to the Supreme court of the United States.

The senate itself is looking into the situation. It has, by resolution, asked the federal communications commission to make a report stating the facts and by what authority it acted.

Not Wholly to Blame

In defense of Senator Black's action in the lobby investigation, I think it can fairly be said that he is not wholly to blame if he has gone further than any other in the program of inquiry and prosecution upon which he has launched. Little by little, bit by bit, the senate has arrogated to itself authority hitherto not used by it. Little by little, it has encroached upon what many believe to be the jurisdiction of the courts and in a like manner it has taken unto itself powers hitherto supposed to have been exclusively reserved to the executive department of government.

It would seem, then, that if other senate committees had established the precedent, Senator Black could properly use the same methods. The trouble in his case is that he did not stop at limits previously set, discreditable as those limits were, but went beyond them.

To repeat, there is every indication that some good will come out of this circumstance. Important men and brilliant lawyers and great organizations like the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, the National Association of Manufacturers and the American Liberty League have taken note of the steadily expanding power claimed by the senate. This means that the questions involved will get into the courts. It is to be hoped that they will be presented to the courts in such a manner that the questions may be finally and lastingly answered, that the powers of the legislators may be delimited and that a definite expression may come from the judiciary that will determine whether members of the house and the senate can serve at once as legislators, judges and prosecutors.

So there is much hubbub about the whole thing and if one may judge from the line of conversation generally heard around Washington, Senator Black is on the hot spot, and the spot thus far has shown no indications of entering a cooling stage.

Senate Investigations

long have been considered by many people as a modus operandi that creak with unfairness. Unbiased observers frequently have criticized them because of the methods employed. It seems absolutely necessary that the senate should have power to call witnesses, to ask legitimate and proper questions and to force answers. If it is going to enact legislation to correct evils, it must be equipped with such powers. But the point is that in seeking such information, the senate has consistently permitted its committees to act in a fashion that can be described by no other word than outrageous. I have watched them over a period of nearly twenty years and seldom, if ever, has there been an important investigation that did not degenerate sooner or later into a condition that savored of police court procedure.

Respectable citizens have been subpoenaed, have gone before the committees willing to tell their complete story, anxious to co-operate and have found themselves treated as outlaws and criminals. This situation has become so prevalent in senate investigations that when any citizen is subpoenaed to appear before a senate investigation these days, his neighbors and friends begin to ask each other what crookedness is involved. In other words, the psychology of the senate investigation, as it has developed through the last fifteen or twenty years, has become one that reverses the constitutional right of an individual that he is innocent until he is proved guilty.

For several years, there has been a bill pending in congress designed to prevent, or at least reduce, lynchings. The theory back of it is that many times innocent persons have been lynched and that every one has a right to a trial by jury in a properly constituted court. Over across the Atlantic ocean, dictators have operated and have employed the "blood purge," the summary death sentence or the execution without granting the accused the right of defense. Undoubtedly some persons guilty of murder or rape, have been lynched; undoubtedly the "blood purge" by the Nazi rulers destroyed some bad characters and undoubtedly the summary executions by the Soviet or the Fascists of Italy have provided death for individuals who were festering sores to humanity, but there can be no doubt that in the case of the lynchings or in the case of the "blood purge" or the summary executions, many innocent persons have had their lives snuffed out.

So it is with senate investigations. Undoubtedly they have uncovered some dirty crooked dealings. Undoubtedly they have brought to public attention activities and conditions that ought to have been exposed. Yet, the fact remains that nearly all of our people are decent people, law abiding and self-respecting. And when senate investigations go beyond proper limits they approach, if they do not wholly become, tyranny.

In Defense of Senator Black's Action in the lobby investigation, I think it can fairly be said that he is not wholly to blame if he has gone further than any other in the program of inquiry and prosecution upon which he has launched. Little by little, bit by bit, the senate has arrogated to itself authority hitherto not used by it. Little by little, it has encroached upon what many believe to be the jurisdiction of the courts and in a like manner it has taken unto itself powers hitherto supposed to have been exclusively reserved to the executive department of government.

It would seem, then, that if other senate committees had established the precedent, Senator Black could properly use the same methods. The trouble in his case is that he did not stop at limits previously set, discreditable as those limits were, but went beyond them.

To repeat, there is every indication that some good will come out of this circumstance. Important men and brilliant lawyers and great organizations like the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, the National Association of Manufacturers and the American Liberty League have taken note of the steadily expanding power claimed by the senate. This means that the questions involved will get into the courts. It is to be hoped that they will be presented to the courts in such a manner that the questions may be finally and lastingly answered, that the powers of the legislators may be delimited and that a definite expression may come from the judiciary that will determine whether members of the house and the senate can serve at once as legislators, judges and prosecutors.

GERMANY WAS FORCED TO DENOUNCE

the Locarno pact because the Franco-Russian assistance treaty was directed only against the reich and ranged 275,000,000 people against it. That is what Joachim von Ribbentrop, Hitler's adviser on foreign affairs, told the council of the League of Nations when it met in London to pass on the complaint of France and Belgium that Germany had violated both the Locarno pact and the Versailles treaty by remilitarizing the Rhineland.

Joachim von Ribbentrop

Nevertheless, the council by unanimous vote condemned Germany as a violator of both treaties. How she shall be punished, if at all, remained to be determined. France and all her allies wanted the imposition of sanctions; Italy could not be brought to favor that, being herself subjected to such penalties; Great Britain, striving to preserve the peace, sought some middle way out of the dilemma.

Representatives of Britain, France, Belgium and Italy devised a plan which provides for a conference of world nations to draft economic, disarmament, and security plans. This plan also provides that Germany, in the meantime, would agree not to fortify the Rhineland and, pending a new agreement with Germany, Britain would guarantee France's security.

The French especially liked this because it amounted to a military defensive alliance with Britain, but they did not believe it would be accepted by Germany.

Von Ribbentrop, accompanied by an imposing lot of experts and secretaries, was sent by Hitler at the request of the council. The reichsminister had consented to be represented after British Foreign Secretary Eden assured him he would do his best to persuade France and Belgium to consider Hitler's new security plans after Germany had been formally condemned for its action in the Rhineland.

In his address before the council Von Ribbentrop emphatically asserted that France by approaching soviet Russia in concluding "what really was a military alliance," did not respect the Locarno treaty. And the Soviet-Czechoslovakian agreement, also, he declared, constituted a further danger to the reich.

what Irvin S. Cobb thinks about:

High Collars and Adams' Apples
BEVERLY HILLS, CALIF.—The moot question of whether the east coast or the west coast is America's artistic center is one of the most mootful you ever encountered. Temporarily, though, it's being eclipsed by the burning issue touching on what the well-dressed man will wear around his goozle.

New York's tastiest dressers are encasing their necks within high linen walls—the highest since Jericho. I hear—whereas Hollywood's defenders fight on for the rakish not to say whimsical, open-throated effect—in other words, 'tis a war between the shut-ins and the fresh-air fiends. Maybe you don't think this is important, but they do.

Today, typical champions of these clashing schools of thought met here face to face. Sunset boulevard's entry was unbuttoned so far down in front he practically was being served on the half-shell, and one and all had a fascinating view of his Adams' apple as it raced up and down, the same as a fox squirrel on a snag. Like a boy chinning himself on a board fence, Fifth Avenue's challenger was hidden behind the tallest, stiffest, farthest collar I ever beheld.

Kid Movie Actors Stamped

ACCORDING to honest estimates, exactly one child in 3,000,000 gets a chance to qualify as a child actor in the pictures—not an outstanding star, mind you, but just a reasonably successful juvenile performer.

These figures have been broadcast in a laudable effort to check the flood of hopeful parents who pour into Hollywood, seeking large salaries and fame for Junior or precocious little Doris, and finding, instead, only disappointment and heartbreak and finally despair and often destitution.

So I'm repeating the doleful warning. It won't do any good, grown-up vanity and greed and ambition being what they are.

Headaches From Economic Messiahs

ALBERTA, in Canada, produced an economic Messiah, a spouting John the Baptist of the dispensation, who came out of the wilderness with a lovely device called a "social credit system" which, among other pleasant things, guaranteed every adult in the land $25 a month for life.

So the voters overwhelmingly elected him as premier and from over the dominion flocked in thousands to share in the distribution. Now they're husted; the budget is a sieve; citizens are faced with ruinous taxes—and nobody yet has collected that twenty-five a month.

Industrial depression always spawns its self-anointed saviors who promise to restore prosperity by giving money they haven't got to people who haven't earned it. After a while, in spite of human folly, good times return.

Crystal Gazing in World Affairs

TODAY we have a few fresh-lidd predictions by good old Doctor Cobb, palm-reading, crystal-gazing, numerology (during income tax week) and car washing.

France will save her face and Ethiopia will lose its points. The Rhineland, being German, will keep right on being German, as it should.

Although perhaps making some snoots at each other—for public consumption—behind the scenes Adolph H. and Benito M. will have many a hearty laugh together.

Several smaller nations will get painfully crushed in the jam—as usual. England will positively not get crushed in any jam, also as usual.

Japan will discover the Chinese are responsible for the whole mess and grab off another slice of territory.

Gov. Hoffman Overlooks a Bet

IN THEIR efforts to impeach the prosecution's key witnesses, Governor Hoffman and the other attorneys for the defense in the Bruno Hauptmann case are overlooking a bet.

There was one person who testified most damagingly against the cause to which they have devoted themselves. Under oath, this person solemnly declared that, on a certain night, alongside a certain cemetery, he recognized the voice of the kidnaper, falsely bargaining for the return of a baby already murdered, as the voice of their client.

True, this individual has gone abroad since a trial jury and a high court decided the proof justified conviction. But his whereabouts is known. In accordance with the present campaign, why not fetch him back and attack his evidence as spurious—attack his credibility, as an honest and a truthful man? The name is Lindbergh.

Senate Lobbying Investigators in Session

Efforts of Lobbyists Are Probed

After a long period of study, the design of the 200-inch telescope and dome of the California Institute of Technology has reached a point where preliminary sketches have been completed. The tube of the telescope, about 20 feet in diameter and 80 feet long, will weigh about 125 tons. This includes the 200-inch mirror, lying on a special support system at the lower end of the tube. It is estimated that five years will be required to complete this great telescope which will gather and focus light that started out from distant stars millions of years ago.

Smart Jacket Dress With Bows of Print

1834-B

Versatility is an engaging quality in this little two piece frock. Make it feminine with bows and a belt of bright print, or slightly mannish with round buttons and a narrow belt.

The hip length jacket with its cut-away effect and front panel are the dominating features of the dress. Notice how the gathers peep cunningly in back and front beneath the circular yoke. A simple skirt, but not too simple to be attractive. Individualism is attributed to the wide tailored pleats in the front.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1834-B is available for sizes: 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Corresponding bust measurements 30, 32, 34, 36 and 38. Size 16 (34) requires 4 1/2 yards of 35-inch fabric plus 1/2 yard of contrasting material.

RAIN OR SHINE—WRIGLEY'S IS THE STANDARD OF QUALITY

We're Debunked Again—Busy Jocko Doesn't Hunt Vermin

Monkeys have been much maligned. When they go over each other's fur in their cage, occasionally nipping something between their front teeth, they aren't hunting for what you think they're hunting for. So says Dr. H. E. Ewing, entomologist of the United States National museum, in the Journal of Mammalogy, and he backs up his opinion with the agreement of several fellow scientists. Monkeys given the ability to keep clean are highly unlikely to be verminous, the zoologists declare.

But if that isn't what they're after, what are they hunting for? Doctor Ewing made some close observations and a few experiments. In the end it settled down to just hair. When Jocko finds a loose (or perhaps just a loosening) hair on his mate's back he plucks it out—and nibbles it up.

Safety Committees To Be Drawn From Points Throughout State

In order that the four point traffic safety program devised by the State Safety Council may be coordinated and uniformly supported, membership on four advisory committees will be drawn from points throughout the state, Orville E. Atwood, Secretary of State and Council Chairman makes plain.

In the selection of committee members to be made soon, political affiliation will not be considered. Some 25 of 30 citizens of Michigan will be asked to serve on the Recodification committee which, under direction of David H. Crowley, Attorney General, chairman, will be faced with the task of framing the recommended changes to the state's motor vehicle laws to the 1937 legislature. The Michigan Bar Association will be represented on this committee. In addition there will be a Safety Educational Committee and an Engineering Committee.

The latter committee will make extensive use of information being gathered by the State Highway Department, in conjunction with the Federal Government, in the course of a comprehensive survey of the state's highways.

Highlights of the recommendations for motor vehicle law changes will include strengthening of the drivers' license law, and periodic compulsory inspection of all automobiles. The educational phase envisions expansion of school safety instruction and public appeals to adults. Uniform enforcement of existing laws and the closing up of loopholes against persistent violators, is contemplated in the scope of work to be encouraged by the Enforcement Committee, while the Engineering Committee will seek adoption of uniform signs and signals and the development of modern traffic plans.

Debt Adjustment News

Cleveland M. Bice, Secretary of the Charlevoix County Farm Debt Adjustment Committee has just received a report of Debt Adjustments completed in the State of Michigan for the period September 1st to January 31st, 1936.

Two hundred and eighty-two cases were closed involving obligations amounting to $585,115. The total reduction of indebtedness amounted to more than $152,271, or an average reduction of $540 for each farmer.

Debt Adjustment is now under Federal Supervision and part of the Rehabilitation Division of Rural Resettlement Administration. Each individual adjustment is based upon the farmer's assets and ability to pay. The committee acts as an intermediary between the farmer and his creditors and all adjustments are made voluntarily for the mutual benefit of both the farmer and his creditor. This service is available without cost, and in those cases where the farmer is obligated beyond his ability to repay, the committee endeavors to effect a settlement or reduction of debts in accordance with what he can pay.

Thousands of farmers have received assistance through this service and in many instances without this help they would have been unable to continue their farming operations and provide for themselves and their families.

Home Gardens Aid Farm Purse

Savings in the family food bill of as much as $700 can be made through careful cultivation of a small home garden plot less than one-half an acre in area, according to H. L. Seaton, instructor in vegetable gardening, horticulture department, Michigan State College, East Lansing.

Fresh vegetables during growing season and sufficient for canning and storing for a family of five have been successfully raised by many Michigan families in recent years, he says. Home gardens can be planted from an initial investment of $15 for seeds. In some instances, a small additional sum for fertilizer is necessary.

"Gardens should be planned to meet dietetic needs," he says. "Almost all of the 2600 pounds of vegetables prescribed by nutrition experts as the annual need of a family of five can be raised on well-tended plots of from one-quarter to one-half acre."

Types of vegetables recommended are green or leafy vegetables, those in which fruit or seeds are eaten, and root and bulb crops. Equal amounts of each type should be planted to guarantee surpluses for canning and storing.

Interest in home gardens as well as in the "thrifty garden" movement sponsored in many Michigan cities is increasing. Mr. Seaton will begin a series of weekly broadcasts at 1:30 p. m. Thursday, April 9, from WKAR, Michigan State College station at East Lansing.

Two bulletins now available at the college bulletin department are Extension Bulletin No. 4 on the Home Vegetable Garden and Circular Bulletin No. 140 on Home Production of the Family's Food Supply.

Pennsylvanian Cold in June, Hot in December

Charleroi, Pa.—While thousands ran to the cold showers for relief during summer heat waves, George Gosney sought hot water and hummed "Turn on the Heat," and with autumn's first kiss promising cold weather, he prepares to shed his clothes and stroll through the snow, wishing for more cold to make him warm.

He's the original "June in January" man, and he got that way through no choice of his. He suffered a sun stroke July, 1933, while an employee of the state highway department. Since then his reaction to the thermometer's fluctuations has been the reverse of correct.

Sunshine drives him to heavy blankets; icy winds bring him memories of the equator; he's shiverproof in dead winter.

He's ready to present his case, one of the most weird in medical history, to the workmen's compensation for his distressing condition.

When word of his case reached newspapers, dozens of amateur Mayos penned their ideas of the "infallible" cure to Gosney, whose Bentleyville home became cluttered up with advice involving snake oil and muskrat hides.

Physicians have beaten the early symptoms of his affliction—rash, chills, exhaustion—and hope for his recovery.

Hawaiian Sugar Cane Is Saved From Deadly Pest

Honolulu.—Intricate, detective work, tedious as tracking a criminal, was credited with saving Hawaii's sugar cane from invasion by one of the deadliest plant "killers"—the giant moth borer.

Several months ago a resident imported 12 bulbs of Heliconia, an ornamental plant, from Panama. They were fumigated, inspected, and passed quarantine, and about to be released when Dr. H. L. Lyon, head of the pathology department of the Hawaiian Sugar Planters' association suggested fumigation might not have been sufficient.

The bulbs were kept under observation and recently Lyon discovered a large moth flying about the quarantine room. It was identified as the giant sugar cane moth borer, which had emerged from a root stalk of Heliconia. The stalks were destroyed.

Unwitting release of the moth upon Hawaiian cane fields might have proved disastrous, since no effective parasite for it is known.

This Factory Makes Beggars "Invalids"

Madrid.—A factory for making beggars "invalids" has been discovered here by a Spanish journalist who lived for a month on the streets of Madrid, as a beggar. An apparently one-armed beggar introduced him to this factory of synthetic injuries, which is run by a man who was formerly a sculptor, but now makes a comfortable living by setting healthy beggars with infirmities. His work consists largely of creating the appearance of one arm, or one leg, but he can also give his clients "blindness."

TRIM WAISTLINES CALL FOR SALADS

Salads are becoming the most popular food dish of the day, according to Katherine M. Hart, assistant food manager, Union Building, Michigan State College, East Lansing.

First course salads are replacing soup and fruits while main course salads gain in popularity over regular dishes, she claims.

"The salad is 'stepping out' today," says Miss Hart. "No longer can it be considered a mere side dish. For many a tempting salad is now a meal in itself."

"Thanks to the advice of doctors and dietitians, and the almost universal desire to avoid extreme waistlines, the popularity of the salad has increased tremendously of late."

Miss Hart recommends the following salad combinations as side dishes:

- With fish—cucumber salad, mixed vegetable salad.
- With cold meat—potato salad, stuffed tomato salad, macaroni, cheese, and olive salad.
- With chicken—pineapple salad, asparagus salad, gingerale fruit jelly salad, cranberry salad.
- With duck—watercress and orange salad; apple and celery salad, green gage plum salad.
- With pork—cabbage and pineapple salad, apple and raisin salad, grapefruit salad.
- With lamb—chicory or lettuce salad, with Russian dressing, mint jelly salad, raw carrot salad.
- With veal—stuffed prune salad, tomato and celery salad, pickled beet salad, sauerkraut and olive salad.
- With beef—head lettuce salad, asparagus salad, apricot salad, cole slaw salad.

- Just be smart. Treat your home as you do your automobile. Make repairs quickly, before the damage spreads.

Athletic "Smelt" Supper

The first annual High School Athletic Smelt Supper will be given Friday night, March 27th, at the East Jordan High School gymnasium. The men of the city have their senior smelt banquet and this serves for the High School athletic boys of the city. The men of the faculty, school board and Mayor of the City will be the honored guests for the evening along with the athletic boys of the senior class. This is a custom that should be an incentive to carry on every year in the future. A very fitting time to enjoy the feast after the strenuous season of football and basketball is over with and before the spring athletic season starts. The supper is pot luck and is being furnished by the boys of the athletic squad who are returning to school next fall. The decorations for the tables will be miniature smelt nets made by the shop class. The girls of the home economics department will serve.

Merchant Builds Own Alarm; Saves Cigar Box Cache

The following article, taken from a Detroit publication, indicates that a former East Jordan business man has joined up and is now a full-fledged "G" Man.

A home-made burglar alarm rigged up two months ago by Carl Stroebel in his hardware store at 13928 Michigan avenue, served its purpose with a vengeance Monday evening — and at a most inopportune time from the standpoint of the Detroit boy who inadvertently set it off.

Thanks to the hardware merchant's brain child, Casimir Zychewicz, 15, of 3348 Clippert St., Detroit, is a prisoner at the Juvenile Detention Home, Detroit, facing a charge of attempted larceny.

For some time past Mr. Stroebel has made a practice of keeping part of his cash in a cigar box which was secreted behind a counter near the center of the store. This is a more or less common precaution among storekeepers. They do not care to keep all their eggs in one basket — or cash register — and take this means of saving part of their cash in case of a holdup.

Twice in the past, Mr. Stroebel's cigar box cache has been looted. This irked him, to say the least. At length he fixed up a simple buzzer system to provide an alarm in event the box was disturbed.

He was busy in the front end of the store Monday evening, waiting on all persons — a policeman in plain clothes; none less a personage than Patrolman Anthony "Murphy" Stember, court officer in the court of Judge Leo R. Schaefer. Suddenly and very unexpectedly he heard the alarm to which his ear had been tuned for a long 60 days.

Rushing to the site of his hidden hoard, he found the cigar box on the floor. And a very sheepish Casimir was standing beside it.

"Murph" promptly "done his duty."

Hotel Men Give Potato Suggestions

60 hotel managers in Michigan and nearby states have written their candid opinion of the Michigan potato with comments that have value for each of the farmers in the state producing the annual crop of 20 to 25 million bushels.

Medium to large potatoes from 6 to 24 ounces attract hotel managers. Other preferences by the majority of hotel managers are for tubers oblong to round in shape, white or yellowish skin color, cooking white and remaining white after cooking or baking.

Other comments obtained in the survey by H. G. Moore, Prof. in Farm Crops and B. R. Froulx, Prof. of Hotel Administration at Michigan State College were, "use better seed", "handle more carefully after digging", "produce a good potato", "keep the money at home", "plant early enough to ripen before fall" and "advertising is a large factor in selling potatoes."

Some farmers obtain as high as 75 per cent in grading for market standard U. S. Fancy grade, yet the usual commercial production is far below that in the state, leading at times to careless grading that fails to attract the critical eye of the purchaser. 36 out of the 39 Michigan hotel managers answering the questionnaire purchase potatoes on grade. The majority report that they pay considerable attention to variety and what state they are grown in. It would seem that Michigan potato growers could produce a type of potato that are desirable from the hotel viewpoint.

Chevrolet's high-compression valve-in-head engine gives economy without equal!

Every test proves it's more economical . . . Every Chevrolet owner knows it's more economical . . . And every person will readily understand these simple A-B-C reasons why it is more economical

The Chevrolet engine is the most economical automobile engine produced today, because (1) it is a six-cylinder engine, and (2) it is a valve-in-head six-cylinder engine. . . Its six cylinders use less gas and oil — in fact, use the least gas and oil — because six cylinders are the most economical combination used in modern automobiles. . . Its valve-in-head design cuts modern gasoline consumption still lower because there is less loss of heat through the walls of the combustion chamber in valve-in-head engines, and the advanced construction of the Chevrolet engine gives maximum heat (or power) saving. . . Most important of all, Chevrolet's more efficient cooling system, pressure stream oiling and the greater accessibility of all working parts result in more dependable operation, over a longer period of time, with the lowest maintenance costs.

SYNOPSIS

Kerry Young, a lad of seven, is prepared to flee the burning lumber camp of his benefactor, Jack Snow, who took the youngster to live with him at the death of Kerry's mother.

"Dama Mel's cigars!" said West beneath his breath, tossing his smoke away and making a wry face.

On his return to the table, the good-natured atmosphere which had prevailed for those last few hands disappeared.

It was West's deal. He rifled the cards twice adeptly and cut them for a third time.

He found them, all right! He roared and gathered them in the hand which held the deck.

But his other hand held a second deck from beneath his belt and when he came up the one pack was thrust into the little stein shelf.

Kerry Young did not know this. But his heart rapped smartly with suspicion.

"Cut 'em, James!" the man said. "And cut 'em deep because I've got another feeling about this hand!"

He looked about and grinned, more affable than he had been since Kerry entered the game.

Young saw that clearly. Back to the top of the deck went the section that Hinkle had cut away.

"The king," said its possessor, "will risk a dollar."

Kerry looked at his down card. It was the nine of spades.

"The man at his left came in; Kerry, thinking quickly, paused and caught a little nicker of misgiving on Tod West's face.

He tossed a dollar bill to the pot. "A hundred and eighteen dollars!" That's too much to lose.

"And a dollar!" said Jim Hinkle promptly and Tod nodded wisely.

The rest, also, saw the raise. Tod set the deck on the table before him, ostentatiously, Kerry believed.

The showing king drew a ten spot; the four caught a nipe, Young was given a deuce and beside Hinkle's queen dropped another.

"Oh-oh!" muttered Tod. "You must've felt her coming," turning himself a king.

Excitement showed in Jim Hinkle's sallow face. Why shouldn't it? With queens back to back and now a third?

"Well, now, James . . . I'm just a little bit proud of what I've got. I've beaten those dam' queens once or twice tonight.

"By gosh, Jimmy, you tryin' to beat me?" An onlooker laughed. "I think you're downright tryin' to take my money and that ain't quite right. . . . Back at you with twenty!"

His voice snapped on this last and the watchers crowded closer to the chair backs.

"Well, seein' as you've got so much confidence and seein' as how we've got cards comin' . . . Call!"

Three cards were dealt, now, with two showing; a pair of queens, with a lone king against them.

Hinkle shifted his weight. He wet his lips and looked nervously at Tod's hand. Then, as if deciding on caution after a struggle, he called.

"Now for the last heat, Jimmy. To you, m' lad, a troy, and to me, hesitating as he looked at the card he turned, from the deck and let a smile cross his face.

So that was it! Kerry thought to himself. Obviously, Hinkle had three. Tod, from a cold deck, had dealt himself the case king.

West was sitting back in his chair, smiling coolly. The place had grown very still.

"Beat the kings," West said. "If you can and care to!"

Jim cleared his throat. He counted his money slowly and said, "I'm betting fifty dollars, and as he shoved in the last of his money Young heard the breath catch in his throat.

"Them queens!" he said. "You boys have to learn about women from me! I beat 'em with aces once tonight. Now, it's kings. . . . Kings beat queens, Jimmy? Three? You got three of the gals?"

"Three queens," the man said huskily. "That's what I figured, along at the last. So I just called, you bet, out of cash. My kings, James, 'cashed 'emselves a triplet, too!"

Hinkle slumped back in his chair weakly. In the depths of his eyes was acute distress.

"Caught the case!" Tod West was saying as he reached forward with both hands for the pot.

"Just a minute!" It was Kerry Young's voice, with snap and iron in it; and Kerry Young's hand lay in an arresting grasp on West's wrist.

Tod broke short his speech. He plunged a look hard into this stranger's face.

"Jim, how much did you lose in this pot?" Kerry asked. "You were even, you said, a while ago."

"Hundred 'n' eighteen," said Hinkle unsteadily. Young nodded. "A hundred and eighteen dollars!" That's too much to lose.

ing. But I've an interest in it beside that. I've been sitting in the game and when I see a man stripped of his last dollar on a crooked deal."

Tod was on his feet, a rush of crimson rage flooding his face, and his right hand was whipping at his breast, jerking open the shirt. Buttons gave, exposing the sweat-stained strap across his chest and the segment of shoulder holster.

It happened quickly; with such desperate quickness that Young could not hope for escape by flight. Before him was the table. To right and left were seated card players, too amazed and shocked and fuddled to be aware of what happened, let alone to be able to move quickly.

He rose, with a swift, flowing movement. As he rose, his hand dropped into his coat pocket.

"Stop it!" he snapped and his voice was a rasp and as West's baleful eyes caught the lift of that coat, saw the rigid projection within the pocket, he added in a half whisper: "Put 'em up. Quick, or I'll . . ."

The great hand, clutching at the pistol grip in that shoulder holster, hesitated. Young's voice was imperious; his manner commanding.

Slowly, West obeyed, panting as he stood there, swaying just a little; and then the rest stamped for safety.

Once more, he left a threat unfinished. For an instant longer West held his ground and then the hand in that pocket twitched.

Quickly, with a light tread, Young stepped close behind him. A prodding projection pressed the small of the larger man's back.

From the doorway a man swore in surprise. Tod West carrying a gun? It was incredible!

"Now," the stranger was saying as he backed away, "you may do as you damned please!"

Tod chose to turn and face Young who was halted in mid room, censure for all eyes. The hand which had covered West was still in his side pocket; that sharp, menacing projection still held firmly against the cloth.

decks? . . . Course there are! You c'n find a half dozen on the stein shelf!"

"Perhaps," said Kerry with a shrug. "Perhaps, West. You may be able to alibi yourself neatly, but you know and I know!"

He went slowly forward a few steps. "Know the, West?" he asked. "Know me? Never saw me, eh? . . . Maybe, then, it'll refresh your memory to recall things."

"After I saw you steal from Jim, here; after I saw you cheat a poor man for a few dollars, Tod West . . . after I saw your smallness now, I say, then I knew that I didn't take the wrong letter-file the day old Jack Snow went broke!"

Color drained from Tod's face but into his eyes came a glimmer, a craft, covering and subduing the gush of insane temper such as had swept them when he reached for his gun, yonder at the card table.

"Don't you know me?" Kerry taunted when he did not speak. "Don't you remember me at all? . . . I'm Young, Kerry Young. . . . And I took out the file you told me to take, that day old Jack had his death blow!"

"You're . . . Wrong!" Jack Snow's question crossed his countenance. "It all means nothing to me. Who you are, what you are . . . I don't know. Except this: you're a rat!"

A man growled: "We're with you, Tod! You're no crook!"

"Fair enough," he said and smiled in triumph. "It answers the one question that's . . . bothered me. You've come a long ways, Tod West, from a thieving, burning bookkeeper. It's hard for men to think their king can do wrong, I see. But . . . step carefully, Tod West. I've sowed seed tonight; some seed always sprouts!"

He hitched at his belt with a frankly swaggering gesture.

"After all these years, the job was done quickly; in mere hours. And now I . . . I can be on my way."

He turned on his heel and made slowly for the door.

A buzzing murmur filled the room. Eyes were on Kerry, on Tod West, standing there with much seething in him. He had a role to play, this West. He had a reputation at stake, loyalties to consider . . . perhaps things to fear.

He found voice at last. "Hold up there, you!" Kerry was at the threshold.

"You're a rat!" West said again heavily. "You're a . . . damned rat! What's the idea, tryin' to make me out a crook? Blackmail?"

"I never seen or heard of you! And I've only this to say, after callin' you a rat. Just this: you'd best be on your way come sun-up! Your kind's not wanted here!"

"That's tough on me, Tod West," he said. "I'm through, here. I stumbled on the thing I've wanted to know for years. And I'd like to be gone, being the roaming kind. But if there's one thing I'm more afraid of than taking root it's . . . it's being driven, Tod West!"

He began to laugh. "So I've got to stay! I've got to light a wile!" He went out into the darkness and his deep laughter floated back to them.

A fierce exultation racked him and he did not look about; did not see Nan Downer standing there in the edge of the light shaft from a window, one hand spread across her breast.

CHAPTER V

At about the time Kerry Young was finishing his evening meal, Nan Downer and Ezra Adams, short, squat, gray-haired logging-country doctor who had driven out from Shoestring, the county seat, walked slowly across the trestle from Nan's headquarters to West's Landing.

The old man listened attentively and unconsciously slowed his pace as the girl's story progressed toward its climax. Her voice, though low, was quick and tense, and once it caught in a sob.

"And that's that, Ezra!" she said tremulously. "It's me or . . . or the property. Oh . . . with sudden bitterness—"I've had a feeling all along that he wasn't the man the country thinks him to be!"

"That's your womanly intuition. And my opinion was a . . . doctor's . . . guess."

They talked for a time, standing in the dusk and then the girl said: "Now, for Jim and Elsie Hinkle's troubles!" and led him resolutely on.

Uncle Sam Fast Becoming the Greatest Tree Planter

Tree planting in this country is looking up, according to the United States forest service. In 1935 the forest service's own planting on national forest lands was very close to a quarter million acres, more than that planted by all agencies—federal, state, and private—in 1934 when the total was 206,833 acres.

Uncle Sam, although relatively new at it, is becoming the world's leading tree planter. Up to last year, his grand total of plantings by all agencies amounted to only 2,394,897 acres, equal to about half the area of Massachusetts. This year's plantings in the national forests alone will increase the total by more than 10 per cent. There are more than 102,000,000 acres in our national forests alone, and the estimated total forest acreage in this country is over 500,000,000 acres.

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

It is a far cry from the narrow streets of Jerusalem, winding among squat little stone houses centuries old, to such broad thoroughfares as Fifth avenue in New York city and Michigan avenue in Chicago, lined with ultra-modern skyscrapers of steel and concrete. Thousands of miles and hundreds of years of history separate the crumbling walls of the Colosseum in Rome and the Hollywood bowl, yet on April 12 all of these places will witness the gathering of multitudes of people, all animated by a single purpose—the celebration of Easter Day.

For Easter Day, like Christmas Day, is observed throughout the Christian world and of a total of nearly 1,850,000,000 persons on this earth who accept some form of religion, approximately 680,000,000, or more than one-third, are Christians. Although the observance of Easter by these millions may vary in form in different countries, the essential spirit of their celebrations of the day is the same, whether it be in the Orient or Occident. They are reaffirming their faith in the words of the Man who said "I am the resurrection and the life."

It is that faith which leads them onward and upward. Figuratively, it leads them to the better life. Literally, it leads them to climb the rocky slopes of mountains for sunrise services on Easter morning whether it be to the summit of Mount Rubidoux near Riverside, Calif., there to worship before the Serra cross, as has been done every Easter morning since 1909, or to the top of some hillside in Greece, there to plant an Easter cross, as has been done every year for centuries. Of all the Easter celebrations none is more interesting than the one in Jerusalem, centering around the Church of the Holy Sepulcher where took place the event which gives Easter its deepest significance—the resurrection of Jesus Christ. The principal ceremony there is the appearance of the Holy Fire, which symbolizes the triumph of the Christian faith, renewed each year in commemoration of the first victory after Calvary.

In the "Eternal City"

Closely connected with the early history of the Christian faith is Rome—the "Eternal City." There during Easter week a cross is erected in the center of the historic Colosseum, where so many Christian martyrs suffered death because of their faith. Here impressive services are held throughout the week, coming to a climax on Easter Day. These services are symbolical of the fact that their martyrdom was not in vain and give even more meaning to the eternal truth of the declaration "I am the resurrection and the life."

Even more interesting are the Easter observances in the Vatican City. All the major basilicas have on display their most precious relics. At St. Mary Major the purported cradle of Bethlehem is brought forth. Those attending mass at the Lateran can view the skulls of Saints Peter and Paul and a bit of what is believed to be the true cross. Other pieces of the cross are shown at Santa Croce in Gerusalemme and at St. Peter's, the last named having in addition the reputed lance of the Roman centurion who speared the side of Christ and the "holy veil" of napkin offered to Christ by St. Veronica.

St. Peter's, now included in the new Vatican City state, is the scene of the traditional "procession of the three martyrs," commemorating the Mother of Christ, Mary Magdalene and Mary the mother of James, mentioned in the gospel of the day as having visited Christ's sepulcher on the first Easter morning.

(Photo copyright, Harris and Ewing); 4. An Easter Sunday parade on Fifth Avenue, New York city, in the gay nineties; 5. Sunrise services in the Garden of the Gods, Colorado Springs, Colo.

The altar near the one where the pope officiates is adorned with all the precious ornaments usually kept zealously guarded in the treasury of the Basilica. These include some priceless specimens of the goldsmith's art, done by Benvenuto Cellini and Michelangelo.

In the city of Florence there is a striking ceremony, known as the "explosion of the sacred cart," which takes place on Holy Saturday, the day before Easter. The "sacred cart," under all its coverings of red damask, flowing ribbons and garlands of flowers, contains fireworks, rockets, pinwheels and other inflammable affairs. A fuse on top of it is connected with a wire that leads to a spot just above the high altar of the near-by cathedral.

When the clergyman celebrating the solemn high mass reaches the "gloria in excelsis Deo" (glory to God in the highest), and the bells begin to ring out from the steeple and the organ begins to play, an artificial pigeon with a sky-rocket embedded in its tail shoots down the wire and out over the heads of the congregation into the square beyond. Sizzling as it speeds on its way, it soon hits the fuse on top of the cart, igniting it and setting off all the concealed fireworks.

The flaming dove that thus sets the cart on fire is alleged to be symbolic of the Holy Spirit which, in the version of the Acts of the Apostles, descended upon the assembled disciples in the first Pentecost day in that form.

In Spain Easter celebrations are not confined to Easter Sunday. Instead Holy Week is an interminable series of rejoicings and celebrations of many kinds. There are seven successive days of processions and religious celebrations in which all the inhabitants participate, from the aristocracy down to the humblest. One after another the various societies, each wearing its distinctive hood, parade through the streets carrying their images, some remarkable for their artistry, some for their richness, all for their sumptuousness.

Bull fights also add to the gaiety of Holy Week. These bull fights, in which the best toreros of the country assemble to dispatch the most notable bulls, begin by a drive in which the bulls are driven by their besmen by night through the parts of the city most frequented by day. This drive is a spectacle full of interest, especially when, one of the bulls breaks ranks and tries to escape.

In Holy Week also occurs the famous procession in which coaches decorated in Spanish style parade to the Plaza called Real de la Feria, in which are the numerous buildings of the clubs, societies and individuals which form their headquarters, there to hold balls and celebrations and invite their friends to see and hear the dances and songs. The women at this time deck themselves in garments which add to their traditional enchantment.

The processions do not always keep to the narrow streets of Seville. They also go from town to town through the neighboring country to bless the fields and make them fruitful for the next harvest.

The Moravian Easter

Another picturesque Easter service which will be held within the boundaries of the United States will take place in the Salem part of Winston-Salem, N. C., and in the towns of Bethlehem, Nazareth, Schoenock, Emaus and Coopersburg in Pennsylvania. There members of the Moravian church will follow the custom of nearly 200 years and greet the Easter morning sun in their "God's Acre" (cemetery) with singing and trombone playing.

In dozens of other American communities open air sunrise services will be held on Easter morning. This practice originated in California and the first service of this kind was held in 1809 on the summit of Mount Rubidoux, near Riverside, where stands a cross erected to the memory of Fra Junipero Serra, the pious Franciscan monk who first brought the cross to California and founded the missions in that state.

Other notable Easter morning services in California, each of which attracts thousands of worshippers, are those in the great Los Angeles coliseum, in the Hollywood bowl, at the Tower of Legends in Glendale and in Pasadena. At Stone Pipe Wells in the famous Death valley a cross has been erected and there services are held on Easter morning in memory of the pioneers who lost their lives on the desert.

Every year thousands of people attend an Easter sunrise service in the Garden of the Gods near Colorado Springs, Colo.; in the Wichita mountains of southwestern Oklahoma a sunrise service is held on the summit of one of the rugged granite hills; and in the city of Neosho, Mo., in the Ozarks thousands of people from surrounding communities attend an Easter "sing" in the natural amphitheater of Big Spring park.

In virtually every town and city in the United States there will be the usual "Easter Parade" on Sunday morning, April 12, with the outstanding displays of new finery being shown on Fifth Avenue and Michigan Avenue in those "fashion centers," New York and Chicago. For even though this parade lacks the religious significance of other celebrations, it is an essential part of the observance of the day whose spirit is "resurrection" and "new life."

JESUS EXPLAINS THE KINGDOM

LESSON TEXT—Luke 13:18-30.
GOLDEN TEXT—And they shall come from the east, and from the west, and from the north, and from the south, and shall sit down in the kingdom of God.—Luke 13:29.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Good News to Men.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Talks About His Kingdom.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—My Part in Extending Christ's Kingdom.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Requirements for Citizenship in the Kingdom.

I. Jesus Teaching in the Synagogue (vv. 10-21).

The presence of a sorely afflicted woman called forth Jesus' sympathy and he, therefore, healed her. This action on the Sabbath day provoked severe criticism on the part of the ruler of the synagogue. Jesus quickly silenced his objections by showing that this good deed was entirely in keeping with the purpose of the Sabbath day.

1. The parable of the mustard seed (vv. 18, 19).

a. Its unimportant beginnings (v. 18).

It begins as the least of all seeds and grows to be the greatest among herbs. The parentage and humble circumstances of Jesus the King greatly perplexed the people. That twelve unlettered fishermen should be selected as his advisers was still more amazing.

b. Its vigorous growth (v. 19).

Though small in its inception, the work inaugurated by Jesus Christ has become mighty in power.

c. Its lodging capacity. The birds which find lodgment in a tree do not represent the children of men who find safety and salvation in the church, but they are predatory beings waiting to pluck the tender buds or to prey upon the ripened fruit. The effects of such lodging are evil, blighting even to the spoiling of the tree.

2. The parable of the leavened meal (v. 21). When the scriptural significance of the meal, the woman, and the leaven is known, the interpretation is easy.

a. The meal. Meal in Scripture means something wholesome and nutritious. It was used in one of the sweet savour offerings which typify Christ (Lev. 2:1-3) and was the food for the priests (Lev. 6:15-17).

b. The leaven (v. 21). In the Scriptures leaven is invariably a type of evil, as the following examples show (Exod. 12:5, Lev. 2:11; Matt. 16:6, 12; 1 Cor. 5:6-8).

c. The woman. In normal life the woman is the administrator of the home, not its head. Her responsibility is to take the bread provided by the head, prepare and distribute it to the household. In Scripture we find false doctrine being taught by a woman. Dealing with doctrine is forbidden to women (1 Tim. 2:12). In 1 Timothy 4:1-3 we find that apostasy will be brought in through false teaching in the ranks of God's people. The meaning of the parable, therefore, is that the true doctrine of the meal given for the nourishment of the soul will be officially corrupted by false doctrine. The children's food is thus corrupted by their mother.

II. Jesus Teaching in the Villages and Cities (vv. 22-30).

Jesus knew that he was on the way to Jerusalem to be crucified. He was, therefore, making an effort to reach every person possible with the gospel.

1. A question asked (v. 23). We do not know just why this question was asked. It may have been out of curiosity or by some Jew who prided himself on being of the elect.

2. The Lord's answer (vv. 24-30). He did not answer directly, but by likening the blessing of the kingdom to a banquet hall in a palace.

a. The gate of the kingdom is strait and the way narrow. It is easy to see from his teaching, as well as from observation, that the saved are few. The fewness is not due to either Christ's unwillingness or inability to save, but the unwillingness of the sinner to come to him.

b. The immediate duty to set forth (v. 24). Regardless of what others are doing, the personal obligation is upon everyone to strive to enter.

c. The door to be shut (v. 25). God's patience will not last forever. His mercy is to end and his judgment will follow. Love and grace spurned will eventually in the manifestation of divine wrath.

d. Pleading for entrance on the ground of knowing Christ (vv. 26, 28). This plea is met by the awful command to depart, and even calling them "workers of iniquity."

e. A day of weeping and gnashing of teeth (v. 28). The very sight of the faithful ones enjoying the blessing of the kingdom, while they themselves are shut out, will be extremely awful.

Laughter and Tears

God made both tears and laughter, and both for kind purposes; for as laughter enables mirth and surprise to breathe freely, so tears enable sorrow to vent itself patiently. Tears hinder sorrow from becoming despair and madness.—Leigh Hunt.

Truth and reason are common to everyone, and are no more his who speaks them first than his who speaks them after.—Montaigne.

PATTERN 5297

The old-time well—the bucket hanging there, just waiting to be embroidered in its natural setting. And what a lovely and colorful wall-hanging you'll have when finished! You can use as many bright threads as fancy dictates when you begin to "paint" the old-fashioned garden in lay-daisy, French knots, running and single-stitch. And you needn't frame the panel—just line it and hang it up.

In pattern 5297 you will find a transfer pattern of a wall-hanging 15 by 20 inches; a color chart; material requirements; illustrations of all stitches needed; directions for finishing wall-hanging.

Why Physicians Recommend Milnesia Wafers

These mint-flavored, candy-like wafers are pure milk of magnesia in solid form—much pleasanter to take than liquid. Each wafer is approximately equal to a full adult dose of liquid milk of magnesia. Chewed thoroughly, then swallowed, they correct acidity in the mouth and throughout the digestive system, and insure regular, complete elimination without pain or effort.

Milnesia Wafers come in bottles of 20 and 48, at 35¢ and 60¢ respectively, and in convenient tins for your handbag containing 12 at 20¢. Each wafer is approximately one adult dose of milk of magnesia. All good drug stores sell and recommend them.

Will Pay 20c Per Hour
For Impressed Labor

Twenty cents an hour will be the rate in effect during 1936 for labor impressed by law for the suppression of forest fire in Michigan.

This rate, established by the State Conservation commission at its March meeting, is the same as last year. Authorities at Lansing in charge of fire prevention and suppression declare that much less trouble has been experienced from incendiarism in the forest zone under the 20 cent rate than when the rate was higher.

Leading A Double Life?

How do you treat those who are closest to you? (No, we're not selling nerve pills!) Do you try quite as hard to be pleasant and amusing at home as you do at school in the presence of your classmates and teachers? Perhaps this is a question that a very few of us would like to answer truthfully. But when we come to think of it we owe mother and dad for our chance of gaining an education, and they would stick by us when all our closest friends failed. Sometimes we wonder if this is absolutely true, but they must wonder, too. Maybe they haven't the money for that "swell show", but at least we can express our thanks to them for what we get by our actions instead of that usual casual token of appreciation, "Thanks Dad."

Program Day Set

The second grade pupils have decided to have every Friday afternoon for a program day. Any pupil can participate if he wishes to do so, but he must do his practicing by himself. Among the things given in the program last Friday were poems, songs, and riddles.

3rd Grade Goes Judicial

The third grade has passed the law that no pupil in the room shall have a dirty desk. They have chosen a judge and a prison board who sentence all the law-breakers. Three pupils have broken this law and all of them have been sentenced to cleaning their desks once a day for a week and if this is not carried out their punishment shall be prolonged another week.

6th Grade Makes Posters

Original Health posters were made by everyone in the sixth grade. The best of these posters was made by a group of boys. Its title was "A New Arithmetic." Below the title was a cigarette man made of a cigarette body pasted on the paper and head, arms and legs drawn in black crayon. The man was writing on the black board, "I am not much of a mathematician, but I can add nervous trouble to a boy. I can subtract from his physical energy. I can multiply his aches and pains. I can take interest from his work and discount his chances of success."

The pupils have also made a poster showing the progress of the American flag from the times of King Henry VII to our present day flag.

Honor Roll

The following names were omitted from last week's Honor Roll by mistake—
Fourth Grade—Gerald Smith, Bruce Miles, Betty Ann Scott, Betty Jean Higby, and Gladys Larsen.
Fifth Grade—Frances Malpass.

WHO'S WHO

Ralph Larsen

Ralph Bernard Larsen, eighteen year-old son of Mrs. Edward Larsen, has gone to school here in East Jordan all his school career.

His favorite subjects are Latin and bookkeeping because he says "Latin keeps you working all night and part of the next day." He has no dislike in his subjects.

Ralph's hobbies are skiing and reading. He is the reporter of the F. F. A. He says he does not intend to follow up farming as a profession. After he graduates he is going to work for a couple of years and then he wants to study medicine or accounting.

Ralph is a good worker and everyone knows he will find success in whatever field he enters.

Interesting Soph. Project

The Sophomore English classes completed the study of "Silas Marner" last week. As a finale Miss Perkins gave a very unique assignment. Each member of the class was requested to draft a newspaper fitting for the period in which "Silas Marner" was written. Only characters and scenes from the novel were to be used in news items, editorials, and ads.

An unusual amount of talent was displayed — so much, in fact, that the productions were keen rivals to work of the "Associated Press."

The advertisements were particularly outstanding, featuring everything from warming pans to "auction sales."

One front page article was illustrated by the gruesome skeleton of Dunstan Cass when it was removed from the stone pits.

Silas' bags of gold were longingly and enviously brought to light. Each editor speculated on how many "Fords" they would buy in the present day.

The novelty of the assignment was greatly appreciated by the class.

East Jordan One of Eight Schools Set For Debates

The East Jordan High School debating team, Arthur Rude, Arthur Marshall, and Barbara Stroebel, is one of eight teams left in the elimination series of the Michigan High School Forensic Association as a result of the victory over Mt. Morris last Friday, March 20. They are now paired with Gladstone for a debate which leads to the quarter-finals and is to be held April 3. The winners will be assured of receiving trophy cups given by the Extension Division to each school which participates in a semi-final debate. The winners of the semi-finals will be paired for a State Championship Debate in Hill Auditorium, Ann Arbor, May 1. Each team will receive a larger cup and each debater participating in the final debate will be awarded a gold watch by the Free Press.

Good work, team! Keep it up!

Videre Est Credere

Watch out band members! Mr. Ter Wee has threatened to demand an excuse of pupils who miss a band practice.

Mr. Roberts has finally assigned the ninth graders some algebra problems that they are able to work.

There is a spot on the ceiling of room 14 above a ventilator that looks as if one of the art students had tried to paint a silhouette of the Statue of Liberty.

Miss Cook still insists that her Latin classes eat so sleepy she is going to fall asleep herself some day waiting for them to wake up.

Journalism seems to be budding out among the sophomores who had to write newspapers based on "Silas Marner" for English — even to writing editorials.

Some students are complaining that their study periods are so noisy they can't sleep. Maybe it's just that spring is here and the birds sing so loudly.

Question Box

Question: What would you do if someone told you that you had but one minute to live?

"I'd faint." — Marty Clark.

"I'd have heart failure and die on the spot." — Ruth Bulow.

"I guess I'd die in a minute." — Bud Porter.

"I would think of everything I'd done — good and bad." — Captola Richardson.

"I'd eat, drink, and be merry for a minute." — Louise Bechtold.

BANKERS ARRANGING REGIONAL MEETINGS

Studying New Legal and Economic Conditions Affecting Bank Management

STRESS PUBLIC RELATIONS

American Bankers Association Sponsor of Meetings as Part of Nationwide Program of Banking Development

PHILADELPHIA.—Fifteen hundred bankers from fifteen eastern states met here in January in a two day conference devoted to discussions on legislative, managerial, operating and public relations problems of the banking business. This was the first of a series of meetings planned by the American Bankers Association in its nationwide program of banking development under the leadership of Robert V. Fleming, president of the association. Similar conferences will be held in southern and western sections of the country.

"It is the purpose of these working conferences to bring to association members and other bankers a thorough knowledge of the changes in banking laws and rules, provide discussion of better public relations so that there shall be greater cooperation and understanding between the banker and his customers, and to give opportunity for a survey of the problems incident to the Government's competition with our chartered institutions," Mr. Fleming said in opening the meeting.

To Help Government Quit Banking

The discussions at the conference showed that the bankers are ready to make it easier for the Government to relinquish many of its emergency financial services as soon as possible by demonstrating how their institutions are able to render full banking facilities to the public on sound lines.

Bankers generally have recognized that in times of emergency the Government had to come to the assistance of the people, where chartered institutions were unable to do so on account of such conditions. Mr. Fleming said they also realize that possibly many actions which the Government is performing are of a nature which cannot be handled by chartered institutions under the principles of sound banking.

On the other hand, he said, we should survey all emergency lending measures of the Government to judge which of these activities can be properly and soundly taken over by banks in their respective communities.

The attending bankers devoted time to considering the Banking Act of 1935 and the many related regulations and discretionary powers under the Federal law. These were explained by O. Howard Wolfe of Philadelphia, who said he had made a count of the various places in the act where provision is made for discretionary power to be exercised by government officials through regulations.

"Confining the count only to the sections which affect practically all of us, I found there are forty-eight places where discretionary power is given," he said. "It is a problem of no mean importance, therefore, to master banking law as it is today or may be tomorrow."

Bank Taxation and Solvency

Bank taxation was discussed by Charles H. Mylander of Columbus, Ohio, who declared that "the average American is vitally interested in taxation of banks because solvency may depend to a large degree upon the way in which the taxing power is exercised upon them."

To prove his point he cited earnings figures which showed that, in the year ended June 30, 1934, "for the United States as a whole, national banks used $14.89 out of each $100 of net operating earnings, before taxes, in payment of taxes; but in seven of the twelve Federal Reserve Districts the percentage of earnings used for taxes was above average. It was in practically these same seven districts that the greatest number of bank failures occurred in those hectic years from 1920 to 1933."

As an example of how far taxation can go, he quoted official figures showing that in 1934 a large number of small state banks paid on the average $34.23 of every $100 of operating profits for taxes. Mr. Mylander urged that there be "brought home to the average American the self-evident truth that banks, dealing as they do only in intangible property, are not proper subjects for property taxation; that the true measure of a bank's ability to pay taxes is the earnings it can make."

WHEN BANK CROOKS SHOW PREFERENCES

The American Bankers Association reports that non-member banks suffer twice the percentage of burglaries and hold-up robberies as compared with members. Member banks display a sign showing that they receive the protection of the association's detective agents, who cause the arrest of from 150 to 400 bank crooks every year, the organization, which is a non-profit body, says.

"Professional criminals often boast of having sense enough to dodge the far-reaching system of man hunting available to members, so long as there are other banks without this protection," it says. "They recognize the value of the record of the Association's Protective Department, they must pay for every crime with which they can be identified. Detainer warrants have followed them from place to place so that penal servitude for one crime would not expiate other offenses."

The "Other Side" of the St. Lawrence Waterway

THE ST. LAWRENCE Seaway rejected by the U. S. Senate in 1934 on its imagined navigation merits is being stirred into life again with its electric power phases blithely offered as a co-equally important argument. But in neither respect is the seaway needed.

VIEWED as a transportation agency, we already have a lakes-to-the sea route. On it can be, is being, economically borne all the products for which America can find world markets. (Our railroads with their 50% surplus of equipment can handle all traffic given them, now and through the coming generations.)

IT WILL create no new markets, nor new traffic. It is simply a new shipping route, diverting traffic from existing transit agencies. It will function only in summer when railroad efficiency is greatest and need of it would be the least. It will be idle five months each winter when need of it would be greatest.

IT WILL not benefit the auto industry; or the wheat farmer; or bring farm relief; or aid employment; or "cure the depression". It will shorten no trade routes. It has no military value.

VIEWED for its power (half of which belongs to Canada) again the seaway is not needed. The region cannot absorb the vast surplus of harnessed hydro power it now has. The seaway is so remote from consuming (but disinterested) markets that transmission costs would make the new power—as it does present power—so costly as to be unsaleable.

TO ABSORB the contemplated power an industrial district twice as large as Detroit's must be built adjoining the seaway. Without such a nearby market the power and the immense cost of its development would be wasted.

LASTLY, we must furnish the bulk of the new money needed for a project benefiting another nation more than our own and lying more largely in another's territory than in the United States.

FACT, not fancy and emotionalism, should influence our consideration of the seaway. And the fact is America has come to know it as a project that is economically unsound.

Tips On Pruning
Get Wide Usage

Work of two Michigan State College men in developing an apple tree pruning method for the production of fancy fruit of good size with a smaller percentage of culls has attracted attention of fruit growers in many sections of the United States and Canada in addition to use of the method in Michigan.

The "Thin Wood Method" of Pruning Bearing Apple Trees," Special Bulletin No. 265, is based on an investigation by G. L. Ricks and H. P. Gaston. Thin wood pruning consists of removing thin unproductive wood which is of small diameter and makes short terminal growth in a downward direction in the lower and inner parts of the trees. Further quality advance is gained by also using branch thinning in which more of the fruit is removed from weak wood and less from vigorous productive branches.

Horticultural societies in Virginia and Missouri have requested the authors to present their material in meetings. A flood of requests for the bulletin and information has come to the college from Ontario, Connecticut, Missouri, Oregon, Washington, Massachusetts, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois.
