CLASS C CHAMPS KEPT THEIR UNDEFEATED RECORD

The Big Red eleven of the rival city, with a 20 to 0 win over the Crimson Wave at the West Side Football Field here Saturday, kept their undefeated record intact as they became the undisputed champions of Northern Michigan. The Big Reds can boast of having the best defensive team in the North for not one of their opponents were able to cross their goal line. The Boyne City boosters can be justly proud of their team as they compiled one of the best records of any Boyne Eleven in the last decade.

Boyne chose to receive the opening kick off taking it on their own 38 yd. line they shoved the ball down on a pass from Kajawski to Dickerson in the end zone. Kanipe booted the extra point. The remainder of the first quarter was a seesaw battle both teams kicking frequently. Early in the second period the Crimson Wave put on a sprint which carried them to the Boyne 12 yard line where Captain Bowman failed to score from a kick from placement. This march threw a scare into the hearts of the Boyne fans as it looked for a while as if the Jordanites might score. The locals out-played the visitors in this period and as the boys left the field at the half time it began to look as if the locals might pull the surprise act.

In the third quarter the Boyne lads began to take advantage of the locals ineffective pass defense scoring a touchdown early in the period as Kajawski romped from the 8 yard line. As the third period ended, they had again advanced the ball to the local's 8 yard line. On the first play of the final quarter an East Jordan line man was off side the ball being advanced to the 3 yard line where Kanipe went over for the final touchdown. As the game ended the Big Reds had the ball on the Jordanites 1 foot mark where they were being held for downs by the game Jordan linesmen. The Jordanites showed they have a hard tackling team, as they held to stave off the final onslaught.

Coach Cohn loses several valuable players this year as Captain Bowman, Johnson, Umor, Duplessis, Winston, A. Penfold and Stanek played under the Red and Black for the final time. Considering their inexperience the locals have fared well this year in winning games, tying one, and losing three.

George E. Mayville, 80, Former E. J. Resident Dies At Boyne City

(From Boyne Citizen)

George Edward Mayville, age 86 years, was born Jan. 9, 1890 at Bay City, Michigan.

His parents, Alex Mayville deceased and Mrs. Julia Mayville, who reside at East Jordan. He came to this county as a small boy, spending his childhood on the farm of his parents near East Jordan.

He was married September 26, 1905 to Martha Lisum. He passed away October 26 with apoplexy at his home at 429 N. East St. after an illness of six weeks. He had made his home here for 31 years and was employed at the Michigan Tanning and Extract Company for twenty years. He was a member of the Presbyterian Church and also a member of the order of Eagles.

Besides his widow he leaves to mourn an only child, Mrs. Elsie Bennett and two grand-daughters, Margaret and Beverly Bennett also his mother of East Jordan and two sisters, Miss Laura Stewart of Flint, and Mrs. Lillian Bulow of East Jordan; four brothers, Joseph of East Jordan, Lewis of Muskegon, Albert of Greenville, and Lawrence of Leeland, Michigan.

Funeral services were held at the home on Wednesday, at 2:00 p. m. with Rev. Guy Smock of Boyne City and Rev. E. P. Linnell of Petoskey, officiating. Burial was at Maple Lawn.

Complete Tabulation Of Election Returns Are Announced Today

This issue of The Charlevoix County Herald contains a complete summary of results of the November 3 general election, rushed to us following a national compilation of statistics.

This tabulation is especially timely, since it provides the grand climax to America's straw poll mania, to the claims and counter claims that were hurled back and forth during the campaign, and to the endless conjecture regarding Republican strength in California, for instance, against Democratic strength in Massachusetts.

It is the final answer . . . the real poll to end all polls! We suggest that you save it for later reference.

Michigan Railroads Expend Large Amount In Improvements—Expansion

Michigan railroads this year spent more than $9,840,000, the largest amount in five years, in improving and expanding the state's railroad "plant", according to figures compiled by the Michigan Railroads Association.

Track operation formed a major item, new ties, rails and ballast and maintenance work costing $4,728,836. For bridge building and repairs and building repairs, additions and modernizing $2,631,138 was expended. More than 200 freight cars were added to the lines' rolling equipment and 3,500 freight cars were given major repairs or were rebuilt or equipped with special loading devices or safety features. More than a score of passenger coach, diner and sleeping cars were air-conditioned, an activity that is expected to receive considerable attention from the state's railroads in 1937.

November payrolls indicated an 8% increase in employment on Michigan railroads during the year, the Association reports.

Mink May Be Trapped After Nov. 15

The mink, one of the lesser predators which does not spurn a meal of fresh-killed rabbit when it can get it to vary a diet of mice, shrews and other similar species, may be shot from Nov. 1 to Jan. 31, inclusive.

Because of its relative scarcity and its value as a fur-bearer, state law provides a two-month open season for shooting this animal, but limits trapping of mink to about four weeks. At other times of the year mink have legal protection against hunting and trapping in view of their fur-value. However the mink does not offer a very large target and because of its elusiveness and its white winter coat it may not be readily shot, conservation men agree.

Trapping of mink is permitted only during the open trapping season on muskrats which runs from Nov. 1 to Nov. 30, inclusive, in the upper peninsula. In the lower peninsula north of townline 16 and west of Saginaw bay mink may be trapped together with muskrats from Nov. 15 to Dec. 15, inclusive. South of that line the trapping of muskrats and mink is legal from Dec. 1 to Dec. 31, including the "Thumb" district.

MARRIAGES

Bashaw — Snyder

The marriage of Miss Irene Bashaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bashaw, and Mr. Jason Snyder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. S. Snyder, was solemnized at St. Joseph's Rectory, Friday evening, Nov. 6, Fr. Joseph Malinowski officiating. They were attended by Miss Ann Klawinski and Victor Millman.

Both young people are well known, having lived in East Jordan and vicinity all their life and are graduates of the local school. For quite a few years Mrs. Snyder has taught piano lessons in East Jordan and a few years ago started to teach students in Ellsworth along with her East Jordan pupils.

Their many friends join in wishing them a life of success and happiness.

They are at home to their many friends in the music studio rooms in the Votruba Building.

Last Monday evening the ladies of St. Joseph Church sponsored a dinner at the school in honor of Mrs. Snyder. After the dinner, which was enjoyed by about sixty ladies, the bride was presented with many beautiful and useful gifts.

Must First Have A Bounty Hunter's Contract

Michigan hunters who shoot coyotes, bobcats or wolves during the open deer hunting season from Nov. 15 to Nov. 30, inclusive, must first have a bounty hunter's contract in presenting the predator for bounty payment, the department of conservation announced.

No bounties are paid to individuals who do not hold state-issued bounty contracts for predatory animal control. The bounty on wolves and coyotes is $10; on bobcats $5.

Any hunter desiring to have a contract before entering the woods may obtain one free of charge at any of the following district conservation posts: Gladwin, Baldwin, Traverse City, Roscommon, Mio, Atlanta, Boyne City, Newberry, Escanaba, Crystal Falls, Marquette, Baraga and Ewen.

Fraud Accident Plea Used By Racketeers

Don't wire case in response to an emergency message signed "Cousin Elmer" even if you have a cousin Elmer. That is, don't part with your money until you investigate.

This is the advice of Lieut. Van A. Loomis of the detective bureau of the Michigan State Police, who has been directing a search in a dozen counties for racketeers who are making phony accident telegrams pay. The trick, according to Lieutenant Loomis, is to obtain the name of a relative of a person with money. Later, this person will receive a wire signed with the relative's name, stating the signer has been in an automobile accident and requesting ten, twenty-five or fifty dollars at once.

In nine cases out of ten, the apparent urgency of the request from someone dear results in prompt dispatch of the money. The racketeer appears at the distant telegraph office with forged credentials, collects and moves on.

A telephone call to the usual address of the "accident victim" in such cases would avert loss. Establishing the request as a fraud, a tip-off to local or state police may result in apprehension of the perpetrator.

'Scaredeer' Protects Carrots

Chasing the neighbor's chickens out of your garden has its vexations, of course, but they don't compare to the trials of keeping noisy deer out of your carrot patch.

The remedy suggests a companion for that venerable agricultural institution—the scarecrow.

Bothered for successive nights by deer sneaking into his carrot patch for free lunches, George Underhill, a farmer living southeast of Boyne City, first tried part-time posting of a watch, but that cost too much sleep without much result, the deer coming in when the watch was absent. Finally resorting to the same psychology that has for years of tilling been the antidote for crows, Underhill set up what should be defined as a "scare deer," a lifelike figure on a post which fools the deer while the owner and his family sleep in peace, knowing that their carrots will still be there in the morning.

Underhill suggests that his experience with the "scaredeer," might offer some hope to prospective hunters who will be opening the deer-hunting season Nov. 15.

Michigan can never issue an auto license plate in the geographical shape of the state. It is an advantage of having an upper and lower peninsula.

To The Patrons of the East Jordan School District

We are again starting our hot lunch project at school. The WPA office at Charlevoix has very kindly furnished help in carrying on this work. They have also furnished some funds. In addition to this, we shall have use for a great deal more food as we shall feed approximately three hundred per day. We can use all kinds of fresh or canned vegetables, beans, cereals, and potatoes. We shall be glad to receive any supplies you have and wish to donate to the school.

We have secured a storage place and can take care of perishable vegetables immediately. If you can contribute something toward this project send it at once. If you can't bring it to the school in person, the bus driver will be glad to haul it if you will put it on the bus. We shall also be glad to send a special car around to pick-up surplus foods if you can not use the above mentioned ways of delivering it to the school.

EDITORIAL

"OUR PRESIDENT"

If Landon or Lemke or any of the other candidates for president had won the election what would the majority of the Americans be thinking; or would they be worrying? Let us imagine for a moment that one of them is beginning his term as president of the United States. Is he going to be able to pay our debts, to keep as many men working as are now working? Will he attempt to keep us out of European wars and disagreements? Is he going to remember the drought and flood stricken people? We shall never know!! Regardless of who is president we should try to cooperate with him in every way for the good of our country.

JUNIOR PLAY

Last Thursday night the students in the Junior Class who wished to try out for parts in the Junior Play did. The following students were given parts—Kathryn Kistman, Galen Seiler, Arthur Rude, Daphne Keller, Stanley Hale, Irene Brintnall, John Ter Avest, Leonard Smith, and Jean Bartlett.

The name of the play is "Peg O' My Heart". It is a Samuel French production.

The rehearsals for the play started this week. Miss Davis and Mr. Hearfield, who are directing the play, say they believe that the play will be presented in early December.

Anniversary Month Brings Hits To Temple Theatre

Starting the fourth year as manager of the Temple, Mr. Drew announces this week an expanded schedule that will bring us an additional program a week making in all four complete changes of pictures during each week. Under the new schedule Sunday performances will be continuous starting at 2:30 with the 10c and 16c scale in force from 2 till 2:30 and 10c and 25c from then till closing. Also Family Nights will be on Tuesday and Wednesday instead of Wednesday and Thursday as formerly. Among the new hits that will be presented during Anniversary Month we will see Shirley Temple in "Dimples", the Dionne Quints in "Re-Union", Eleanor Powell in "Born To Dance", the new Tarzan picture "Tarzan's Escape", Wallace Beery in "Old Hutch", while others such as "His Brothers Wife", "Sing, Baby, Sing", "Ladies In Love", "Stage Struck" and "Pigskin Parade" will also be billed during this period. Certainly looks like the Temple's greatest entertainment season!

The following is the current Temple program—

Friday, Saturday: Brian Donlevy, Gloria Stuart in "36 Hours To Kill".

Sunday, Monday: Jean Harlow, Cary Grant, Franchot Tone in "Suzy".

Tuesday, Wednesday, Family Nites: Harold Bell Wright's, "Wild Brian Kent."

Thursday, Friday: Robert Taylor, Barbara Stanwyck in "His Brothers Wife."

Plan To Organize A Community Civic Mixed Chorus

Plans are under way to have a Community Mixed Chorus in East Jordan this coming winter. A meeting will be held at the high school next Monday night at 8:00 o'clock where it is planned to organize and hold first rehearsal.

All singers in and around East Jordan are urged to be present and participate. It is hoped that a chorus of at least 70 voices may be organized.

Annual Report of The Charlevoix Chapter American Red Cross

Wednesday, November 11th marks the opening day of the annual Red Cross drive. From that date until Thursday November 26th Red Cross Volunteers will give of their time to solicit funds for this great organization.

Charlevoix County has been very fortunate in having a real live organization of Volunteer Workers. This year will be no exception. The workers in each city of the county will be headed by the following chairmen.

Boyne City—Miss Caroline Geiken
East Jordan—Mrs. Kit Carson
Charlevoix—Mrs. Ed. Edwards.

This leadership together with a host of sub-chairmen and workers makes up the Charlevoix County organization.

Balance on hand October 24, 1935 $163.42. During the 1935 drive the sum of $441.10 was received, and the following is a list of the expenditures—

For Flood Relief, quota	$65.00
Subscribed—$79.57
Home service	114.22
Medical	53.11
National Red Cross	155.82
Misc. expense	10.50

With no outstanding accounts or cases incomplete our chapter now has a balance on hand in the Charlevoix County State bank of $285.44.

Respectfully,
Mrs. R. F. Sloan, Treasurer

State Highway Department Getting Set For The Winter's Battle

The state highway department this week continued its preparations for the coming winter season with the announcement that 56 more miles of snow fence will be added to present supplies.

The new fence, according to State Highway Commissioner Murray D. VanWagoner, is to be used largely on the trunkline mileage in the snow belt added since last winter and also for replacement of a small amount of old equipment. In addition, snow fence will be added along trunkline sections where there was a deficiency last year.

Equipment to be purchased will be the same type as that now in use with wooden slates in which wire is woven. The fence and posts will be so constructed that the fence can be raised or lowered to the proper depth of the snow fall.

Snow fence used by the state highway department is a product of the Michigan prison industries. It is made at the branch prison at Marquette.

In addition to plans for increasing the snow-fence mileage, Commissioner VanWagoner has announced other winter-season preparations. They include a broader information service on the condition of highways, the increase of trucking and snow-plow equipment, and the placing of containers filled with sand at various places along the trunklines to permit truck operators to sand the roads during snow or ice storms.

East Jordan Study Club Met Tuesday Evening

Thirty-three members and five guests of the East Jordan Study Club were entertained with an unusually fine program Tuesday evening, at the home of Mrs. William Swoboda, with Mrs. Jay Hite as co-hostess.

Dr. B. J. Beuker gave an interesting and instructive talk on art, including a resume of its various phases, followed by a more detailed exposition of painting in which Dr. Beuker, himself, excelled.

The values of line and perspective and the color relationship of object and shadow were clearly explained, many points being illustrated by copies of pictures from the great masters of art.

Miss Helen Raatikainen sang a group of songs from Grieg, including "Solveig's Song" from the "Peer Gynt" suite and the "Norwegian Dance" opus 35 number two.

The evening was climaxed with a kitchen shower for the club's bride, Mrs. Jason Snyder, nee Miss Irene Bashaw, in which she received many lovely and useful gifts for her new home.

Many Uses For Snow Fences

SLAT BUSINESS GOOD FOR WOODLAND OWNER

With the approach of cold weather, highway officials of the Northern States are looking to their supply of wood slat fence for snow control. The use of this type of fence to protect highways from drifting snow has increased materially with the public demand for open roads throughout the winter. From a modest beginning about 15 years ago, the use of these fences has extended widely. The idea of snow fences is not new, nor is the manufacture of lath or slats new, but the use of slats woven together and set along highways is of such recent origin that it may still be classified as new. This type of fence can be used for numerous other purposes.

The manufacture of slat fence is a type of small industry that should fit in well with many community forest-management plans, according to the Forest Products Laboratory, Forest Service, U. S. Dept. of Agriculture. From the standpoint of a woodland owner who divides his time between farm jobs and other work, the slat business offers an opportunity that should be more profitable than the usual fuel wood business. It would be reasonable to suppose that cutting of fuel and cutting of bolts for slats would be a good combination, the poorer, rougher sticks going into fuel and the better ones into slat bolts.

The usual highway snow fence consists of wood lath or slats generally 1/2 inch thick and 1 1/2 inches wide, and 48 inches long, spaced about 2 inches apart and woven with wire into sections 50 or 100 feet long and then rolled for convenience in handling. In the earlier fence, plaster lath 3/4 inch thick by 1 1/2 inches wide and 48 inches long was commonly used and even yet it is admitted in some localities. The standard fence lath is a considerably better stick than the plaster lath because of its extra thickness and because it admits fewer defects.

Slat fence can be manufactured in small mills as it requires small capital outlay for equipment and a minimum of skilled labor. Fortunately a slat plant will take a class of timber inferior for lumber. It introduces possibilities for using small timber from woodlots, thinnings of good quality, and inferior logs usually left on cutting areas after the logs merchantable for lumber have been removed.

If other uses for slat fence are developed, lumbering sections of the country outside of the snow belt will have a greater outlet for the same or similar types of slat fence. An important use is for temporary silos. It is reported that in 1934 there were 22,000 of these in use on farms. This is equal to more than 400 miles of fence. Other uses to which the slat fence could be put are general farm fences; chicken and sheep yards; fences around athletic fields, playgrounds, and fair grounds; guard fences around excavations, gravel pits; quarries; trenches for pipe lines; fences around flower and vegetable gardens; fences to control drifting sand; children's play yards; and temporary grain bins. There is a possibility that ornamental fencing might be made, using the principle of snow fence manufacture, but of somewhat heavier slats so shaped, spaced, and supported as to provide a simple low-cost fence.

Ever See A Rabbit Fight?

When rabbits fight, they fight. You have it on the word of two conservation officers at Trout Lake who blundered into the amazing spectacle of one prototype of the timorous, cunning Easter rabbit trying to destroy another.

"First we saw a furry ball, rolling, bouncing, whirling out into the road," said F. P. Furlong, district supervisor, or, who with Irving Ladd was on patrol. "It broke apart and our car struck one of the twisting, kicking objects and left it still kicking in the road."

"While we watched through the back window, the other rabbit came back like a flash and took the injured one in its mouth. It then shook it like a dog does a cat. Tiring of this, it would spring on its face and strike the inert body with its hind feet so hard as to be thrown forward a yard or so. Then it would jump quickly back, kick and bounce away again. We watched for several minutes, then drove on."

Although they had never before seen a rabbit fight, the two officers hadn't thought rabbits put so much action into their arguments.

Celebrate 82nd Anniversary

Mrs. Ella Barkley was guest of honor at a dinner party Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Rogers, the occasion being her eighty-second birthday. Thirty relatives enjoyed a bountiful dinner, birthday cake, and all the rest.

CUTICURA SOAP & OINTMENT

FROM AROUND MICHIGAN

Mt. Pleasant—Federal drain projects in Clare and Isabella counties were halted to permit WPA workers to join in the sugar beet harvest.

Lansing—"Father Lansing," in addition to his many other duties, is a landlord. The city owns 15 houses and a factory and collects $4,974 annually in rent.

Mt. Pleasant—An oil strike 15 miles northwest of here in Sherman township, Isabella county, caused wild excitement, as oil spewed out of the casing before it could be shut in. Oil men saw the strike as a forerunner to a new pool.

Ionia—An employee at Michigan reformatory "got" a pheasant perched on a fence post as he was taking a crew of prisoners to one of the reformatory farms by throwing a cabbage at it. The missile stunned the cock and before it could recover, the cabbage-heaver had killed it.

Jackson—A proposal has been made here for using space over the Grand river bed as a parking lot for automobiles. The plan calls for a reinforced concrete covering over the sides of the river bed where a project now is under way to inclose the stream in a 10-foot concrete channel.

Alma—The State highway department has discontinued the use of salt well brine on trunk line gravel roads, as a dust layer, following protest by citizens. It was found that the high content of sodium chloride in the brine was causing damage to vegetation and to the finish of automobiles.

Watersmeet—An unforgettable lesson in natural history nearly startled the pupils of Watersmeet school "out of their wits" recently. While they were concentrating on an assignment, a ruffed grouse roared through an open window, over their heads and crashed squarely against a blackboard.

Clare—Clare County may be open to deer hunters, but the Board of Supervisors is encouraging hunters to seek other fields. The board has ordered 22,000 no-hunting signs printed for free distribution to land owners, explaining that it wanted the Clare County deer herds conserved and that it believed it was dangerous to allow hunters to roam the county with high-powered rifles.

Fenton—Fenton, the neat little Genesee town with a genius for advertising itself, has a new gag. A couple of years ago it pointed to itself on its centennial by circulating wooden nickels. And now it claims to have Michigan's biggest hot dogs. A local dealer is selling them. They are 10 inches long, which is close enough to 12 inches to permit advertising "Hot dogs, 10 cents a foot."

Lansing—A list of 15 projects involving the expenditure of more than $1,800,000 was reported completed recently by the state highway department. The projects involve 69.4 miles of road work, two grade separations and one bridge. The road work consists of 26.9 miles of concrete pavement, 15.5 miles of oil aggregate surface, 16.5 miles of grading and drainage and 10.5 miles of gravel surfacing.

West Branch—The West Branch blue gill rearing pond, only one of its kind north of Grand Rapids, has been completed by the CCC employees of Camp Ogemaw. Work on the project, which is sponsored by the fish division of the department of conservation, was started nearly a year ago. Approximately 1,000,000 blue gill fry will be planted in the pond late next spring, to be fed, and finally to be planted in lakes of Michigan a year from now.

Marlette—Charles Cuthbert, 77 years old, who was partially blind, was burned to death recently after saving his crippled son and his housekeeper from their burning home. Cuthbert, who was on the first floor, was awakened by smoke. He went upstairs and roused his son, Ray, 40, and the housekeeper, and went outdoors with them. Then he reentered the house in an attempt to extinguish the flames and was trapped. The home was destroyed.

Lansing—Motorists may soon gratify their longing for low license numbers, according to a recent announcement from the office of the secretary of state. A new series of numbers in the 1937 line will be limited to two numerals followed by a single letter such as 1A, 1B, etc. All letters of the alphabet except I, Q and O will be used, but the numbers will run no higher than 12. The regular series will be continued as will the very special series made of a letter followed by two ciphers, such as M00, H00 and P00.

Bay City—Residents in widely distant parts of the state, from Grand Rapids, Lansing, Bay City, and Grant reported seeing a bluish-green light, marking the course of what is thought was a meteor, which flashed across the skies on the morning of October 29th. The meteor was said to have fallen in the vicinity of Grant but no trace could be found. Astronomers at the University of Michigan stated that meteors are not usually visible in daylight and generally cannot be seen for more than 50 miles.

Ogemaw—Page Mr. Ripley! August Dickman has a razor which has seen real service. He has used it constantly for 53 years and has never had it honed.

Ionia—Twenty-three tons of apples were scattered along US-16, when a big semi-truck and trailer went off the road and turned on its side. No one was injured.

Reed City—Alfred Bear, of Reed City, won the plowman championship at the fifth annual Horse Day and Plowing Contest. John Lucas, of Tustif, exhibited the champion colt. Louis Gabel & Son and Ward Fradenberg owned the light and heavyweight teams in the pulling events.

Bay City—Condemnation of 1,129 acres of land in Isosco County for forestry purposes is asked in a suit filed in Federal Court here by the National Forest Conservation Commission. Two similar actions seeking condemnation of land in Crawford and Oscoda Counties were filed recently.

Coldwater—Edwin Swain, a farmer, and his son John, 7 years old, went hunting. The father was armed with a double barreled shot gun and the boy with a sling shot. Edwin let go both barrels at a rabbit and missed. The boy let go with the sling shot and scored a hit between the rabbit's eyes.

Mt. Pleasant—The new $73,000 McArthur—Strange hospital and clinic, located here, is now open. The 33-bed hospital has the most modern equipment available. The personnel includes 25 employees, including three doctors, a dentist, a laboratory technician, a physiotherapist, and a staff of 10 nurses.

Portland—James Storey, Sebawa farmer, found a large rat in his car just after he had driven out of his yard. In an effort to stomp the rat to death Storey lost control of his car, which went through a ditch, broke down a fence and came to stop in a field. The car was damaged, but the driver escaped injury—and killed the rat as well.

Lansing—The Michigan Sanatorium association has called for a revision of the laws governing the care of persons afflicted with tuberculosis. Sanatorium executives suggested that the state take over the financing of hospitalization for indigent tuberculous and assess the costs back to the counties on the basis of their assessed valuations.

Lansing—After rising last year, Michigan's birth rate has once more resumed its downward trend, according to a report received from the state health commissioner. It seems the high mark for total births was 1927, when the figure was 99,940. And the low was 1933. The business graph and the birth graph followed each other down then, the rate dropping to 16.6 as compared with the 1927 rate of 22.26.

Grand Rapids—Western Michigan's great snowstorms of last winter were recently echoed in the courts here. A justice court jury awarded Mrs. Ada M. Traxler Glover, wife of a gospel mission minister, damages of $389.95 for the improper impounding of the Glover automobile. Police contended the car blocked snow plows. The jury found that two police tickets placed on the car before it was impounded were improperly made out.

Lansing—Michigan's income in 1933 was $1,841,000,000 or $325 per capita, as compared with a per capita income of $748 in 1929. The decline between the two years was 54 per cent for the state, while for the nation it was but 44 per cent. Ranking seventh in size of population, Michigan ranked sixth among the states in total income in 1929 but dropped to ninth place in total income in 1933. Of the total national income, the state received 4.4 per cent in 1929 and 3.7 per cent in 1933.

Traverse City—Neil Morrison, farmer in Acme township, harvested 1,220 bushels of Russet Rural potatoes from a measured field of 4.4 acres. The crop graded only 4 per cent No. 2 tubers and yielded 277 bushels per acre. Morrison also grew 10 acres of Katahdins, which produced at the rate of 200 bushels per acre. The latter field has been certified by the Michigan Crop Improvement association. There were even fewer seconds in this field than in the Russet Rurals, Morrison said.

Sault Ste. Marie—Anyone, who wants to know how the preferences of men and women voters differed in the election should study the returns from two Sault Ste. Marie precincts. In one of this city's 10 precincts there are 475 women and no men. In another, there are 450 men and no women. For convenience in balloting, the over-size fifth precinct was divided several years ago, not by changing boundaries, but by segregating the men and the women. The precincts are known as the fifth men and fifth women.

Glen Haven—Many shoals and points about the Great Lakes are referred to as "graveyards" of ships, but South Manitow Island is the "graveyard" of sailors, according to old residents. Between 30 and 100 unknown sailors have been buried through the years on the Island when their bodies were washed ashore from wreckage. Wind currents at this point in Lake Michigan made it difficult for the old type of windjammer ship to weather a storm and avoid the unfriendly stretch of barren coast.

Party Line-Ups in 10 Congresses

This chart shows how Republicans and Democrats will share seats in both houses of seventy-fifth congress, as compared with nine preceding congresses.

Election Sets a New Record With 43,000,000 Votes Cast

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, elected to a second term by a greater plurality than any candidate has ever enjoyed in the past, finds himself now with perhaps more power than has ever before been trusted to any man in the world. He polled some 25,500,000 popular votes, to set a new all-time record. Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas, his Republican opponent, was a bit shy of 16,000,000, while William Lemke, the Union party candidate, polled about three-fourths of a million.

These results were based upon 107,309 districts reported out of the 122,722 in the United States. It was estimated that the total vote, with all districts reported, would approximate 43,000,000 also a new all-time record.

The American people, providing the incumbent Democratic candidate with 523 votes in the electoral college to 8 for Governor Landon, also voiced their approval of the New Deal by materially increasing the Democratic majority in both houses of congress.

The senate in the Seventy-fifth congress will find the Democrats with 75 of the 96 seats, outnumbering the opposition more than 4 to 1. The house of representatives, where the Republicans had hoped to recover as much as 125 seats, will see the Democrats even stronger than before, holding 334 seats against 89 for the G. O. P.

PRESIDENTIAL VOTE BY STATES

President Franklin Delano Roosevelt swept to re-election on the crest of the largest wave of votes, both popular and electoral, ever cast for a Presidential candidate, it was apparent with 105,251 districts reported out of a total of 122,722 in the United States. The table below shows the number of districts reporting in each state, the popular vote, the electoral vote and the winner's plurality in each state. Pluralities are estimated, since in most cases complete returns will not be available for some time:

SIGNIFICANCE OF INSCRIPTION ON OUR DOLLAR BILLS

A Treasury department circular states that the design on the back of the new one dollar silver certificates presents for the first time on any money issued by the United States, a representation of both the obverse and reverse of the Great Seal of the United States, first adopted in 1782, prior to the adoption of the Constitution.

The reverse of the Great Seal shows an unfinished pyramid, surmounted by an eye in a triangular glory. The pyramid bears in Roman numerals the year of the Declaration of Independence, 1776. Above the eye is the Latin motto "Annuit Cœptis," rendered as "He (God) favored our undertakings." The motto at the bottom, "Novus Ordo Seclorum," is translated as "A new order of the ages."

The eye and triangular glory symbolizes an all-seeing Deity. The pyramid is the symbol of strength and its unfinished condition denotes the belief of the designers of the Great Seal that there was still work to be done. Both the mottoes on the reverse of the seal are condensations of excerpts from Virgil's Aeneid.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Stomach Gas So Bad Seems To Hurt Heart

"The gas on my stomach was so bad I could not eat or sleep. Even my heart seemed to hurt and I was agitated. Adierka. The first dose I took brought me relief. Now I eat as I wish, sleep fine and never feel better."—Mrs. Jas. Miller.

Adierka acts on BOTH upper and lower bowels while ordinary laxatives act on the lower bowel only. Adierka gives your system a thorough cleansing, bringing out old, poisonous matter that you would not believe was in your system and that has been causing gas pains, sour stomach, nervousness and headaches for months.

Dr. E. L. Shook, New York, reports: "In addition to intestinal cleansing, Adierka greatly reduces bacteria and toxin loads. Give your bowels a REAL cleansing with Adierka and see how good you feel. Just one spoonful relieves GAS and stubborn constipation. Leading Druggists."

What Irwin S. Cobb Thinks about

Apaches Going Sissy.
SANTA MONICA, CALIF.—

A missionary on an Arizona reservation says the Apache, once the fiercest of the tribesmen, is going plum' sissy, and when a movie company took a group of Indian extras on location these original Americans, being stripped for action, got terrible cases of sunburn. They'd worn clothes so long their tender skins couldn't stand the heat.

There's a lesson here, although, so far as the victim is concerned, it's probably too late to do anything about it. Once we'd backed the noble red man into a pair of $3 pants we had him famed. Sitting Bull, in war bonnet and buckskins, was a splendid savage, but, wearing overalls and a hickory shirt, he became just a brunette farm hand.

The derby hat may be the homeliest creation ever devised for human use, but it's the crowning triumph of civilization, and the most pacifying for alien folks, as witness Haile Selassie, looking now rather like a Filipino bellhop on his Sunday off.

Humans Becoming Monkey-Like.
A professor of psychology advances the thought that mankind, in ages to come, may be headed for the all-fours posture which once the species did use—if you accept the evolutionary theory, which most of us do, because we like to think of some people we know as having had monkey-like creatures for ancestors. We say to ourselves, the poor things aren't entirely over it yet.

But the learned gentleman who's trying to lift the veil of the future overlooks the lessons of the present. He should study New York and Newport society when European royalty is in our midst.

Denouncing the Baby Derby.
When Prime Minister Hepburn denounced Toronto's so-called baby derby as "the most revolting, disgusting exhibition ever put on in a civilized country" a lot of us gave three loud, ringing cheers.

That eccentric Canadian millionaire, who left his fortune for a contest seemingly devised to prove that the human species has a strain of Potomac shad in it, unintentionally came near to making cheap and sordid the loveliest thing on this earth, which is motherhood.

To see families engaged in a race to bring babies and yet more babies into the world, merely on the hope of getting paid for it; to realize the certainty of vulgar squabbling over the prize; to know that inevitable lawsuits will absorb most of the money—well, there are many who oppose birth control. But deliberately fostered birth control may have its drawbacks, eh, what?

The Fate of Big Bolsheviks.
Here's what has happened to the original Bolshevik leaders, the fathers of the Soviet setup:

Trotsky, in exile and due to stay there if he values his health; Kameneff, exiled, recalled, executed last August; Zinovieff, executed; Rykoff, demoted, arrested and trial impending, hence regarded as bad insurance risk; Radek in the same fix and said to be worried, and I wouldn't blame him; Tomsky, committed suicide to avoid something even more unpleasant; Kiroff, assassinated; Mikoyan, got out in time and stayed out; Bukharin, under suspicion and arrest impending, odds against, 9 to 5; Evdokimoff, executed; Smirnof, executed; Lenin, died a natural death, but then Lenin always was different; Stalin, Bubnoff and Krylenko, all going strong, but you never can tell, so would do well not to play too far in advance.

War Vs. Preparedness.
As one who saw the first few months and the last few months of warfare on the Western front, I'm like nearly every other man or woman who witnessed those things—I hate war.

It's the next morning of drunken glory. It's a stench, an obscenity, a vain wastefulness, an unutterable indecency. It's a machine which sucks in at the hopper the beauty, the youth, the hope of the world and spews out from the spout the finished product—broken bodies blinded eyes, maddened brains; dead men and dying men and ruined men.

But because we are against war and because we believe the best insurance for continued peace is proper preparedness in times of peace, and because we behold half of civilization on the edge of war again and wonder where they'll strike after they've torn one another's throats, we do sort of worry to see our country cut down on its defenses.

Washington Digest

National Topics Interpreted By WILLIAM BRUCKART

Washington—It is only a few short weeks until the Seventy-fifth congress convenes and so naturally the preliminary grinding of legislative wheels is now being heard. Of course, there has been no legislative program formulated. Little of a specific character can be done in this direction until the fog and the smoke of a campaign drifts away. Nevertheless, beneath it all there are definite signs to guide us, to show some of the important questions that will naturally force their way to the front rank of consideration by congress as soon as it is formally organized January 3.

While I do not take much stock in many of the ideas or schemes that are receiving consideration, or to which sponsors are trying to direct attention, it is perfectly evident that one of the major questions to receive congressional attention this year is the plight of business. I mean that there are countless governmental policies that directly affect business and the debate of the recent presidential campaign has awakened such widespread interest in general business that congress cannot avoid debate on the subject.

There are many members of the house and senate, including a goodly number of those lately elected or re-elected, who feel that the Washington government has been meddling too much into the affairs of private business. They feel, and I believe with justification, that unless many of the government-handicaps are withdrawn, unless many of the restrictions and the superfluous rules and regulations are removed, business cannot go ahead as it apparently would like to do.

It is said that many corporations would like to engage in plant expansion and increase their pay rolls by many thousands of workers but they are afraid to do so under present laws and policies. They cannot feel a sense of safety and corporate funds, after all, are just like many belonging to an individual. Those who manage it or own it will not invest it unless they can be assured of policies by the government at Washington that give them an equal chance, at least, to obtain a return on the money they invest. In other words, corporations are just like individuals who will not risk their money unless they have confidence that the odds are favorable to them.

Word came to me the other day through official channels to the effect that a gigantic and well-known corporation was ready to expand its whole productive capacity if it could be certain that federal tax laws were going to be revised so that they consisted of tax laws rather than tax penalties on business chances. The word was that this corporation expected to spend about one hundred forty-two millions; that the authorization for the work had been approved by the corporation's board of directors and that blue prints of the plans had been drawn. But all of this had been done upon a contingent basis.

You will say that this is an isolated case, and it is. But it is isolated to the extent that I am not able to name names and identify directly hundreds of other corporations that are exactly in the same boat. To an extent, information that other corporations are following the same policy is hearsay; yet, I have every faith in the reports concerning general plans along these lines and I am firmly convinced of the sincerity of business managements generally to go ahead if the Washington government permits them to have confidence that they will not be destroyed by taxation later.

It seems to me there are three phases of federal government policies and laws that serve to retard business recovery.

Spending Policies

I mentioned taxation and government regulation or bureaucracy. There is a third. It is the spending policies that have been followed and that have resulted in the enormous federal debt with a budget still unbalanced.

I do not know which of the three is held to be the most important among business generally. Regimentation and bureaucracy breed a fear in the minds of so many business leaders that as long as bureaucracy in Washington continues to be as widespread as it is, this segment of the business structure is going to remain quiescent. Another segment will do nothing in the way of expanding operations when the tax laws are taking such a tremendous toll and actually serve as an impelling force against the desires of business to increase its own revenue.

The third factor of influence, that of government spending, throws a fear into the hearts of every business man. As long as the budget is unbalanced and spending, even wasting of money continues, there is an unsettling influence at work which keeps business interests from making new plans. The reason is that an unbalanced budget and wasteful expenditures constitute a continual threat of inflation. Especially is this true when the Chief Executive has the power to change the value of money.

The business men, as far as my information goes, take the position that it is worse than useless for them to attempt to increase their production or mold plans regarding their business as long as they cannot feel sure that the value of the money they use will be the same tomorrow that it is today.

Frequently I have heard evidence substantiating the observations I have made above. These business interests provide the outlet for tremendous amounts of money now lying idle in banks. In other words, these business interests are the potential borrowers of billions of dollars that are not now being used and the fact that they are not borrowing this money simply cuts off the use of a very important force in our economic life.

Further, the fact that business is not borrowing money and engaging in expansion of production has the very vital result of preventing employment of labor. The American Federation of Labor announces that there are something like eleven millions of workers still unemployed. Yet, the question must be asked how or why business would want to do a better job in behalf of itself and help labor by employing additional workers at the same time when its own government continually harasses it in one way or another. No amount of criticism by those responsible in the government can force business to take a chance with its money. It must have a reasonable guarantee that its government will allow it to have at least a reasonable profit or else the money will continue to remain idle.

Undoubtedly, we will see a very great many bills popping around the capitol, bills designed to relieve business of this or the other handicap now believed to be hanging over it.

Expect Many Bills

The bulk of them will receive no consideration because the bulk of those bills will be loosely drawn and will be representative only of the desires of a particular segment of commerce or industry. But as the situation now appears we can expect to see something done about the tax laws in the forthcoming congress. It appears fairly certain to me, for example, that the ridiculous surplus earnings tax enacted by the last congress must be rewritten. Because the bulk of our business is handled by corporations, it ought to be important to give corporations consideration as a class. They had specific attention from the New Dealers and this despised corporation tax on surplus earnings was the vehicle upon which many of the nitwits among the New Dealers attempted to ride. Business, generally speaking, opposed enactment of the statute but business was not able to overcome the Roosevelt control in congress. Hence, the tax law was enacted and corporations are paying the penalty.

But it might be asked whether anything better can be expected in this session of congress. The answer is that there are more members of the house and senate now who recognize that the competitive system of doing business always in operation in the United States heretofore should not be destroyed. It can be expected, therefore, that something will be done about that tax law and just as certainly, something will be done in a legislative way about the numerous rules and regulations that constantly interfere with the free transaction of business. These rules and regulations, of course, were drafted under authority given by congress but my conversations among house and senate leaders convince me that these men see the error of their previous enactments. They are willing to be somewhat more bold, coming as they do fresh from the elections. And they are rather likely to insist upon legislation which will help rather than hinder.

It may be, of course, that organized labor will be powerful enough to force consideration of legislation shortening all hours of labor. I do not know how it can be done because there is every evidence that such legislation would be unconstitutional. It probably can be done by the state legislative bodies but not by the federal government. While, as I said, organized labor may force consideration of this sort of thing, there is little doubt in my mind that congress will stand out against enactments of this type, first, because of the apparent lack of constitutional support and, second, because it would constitute a further harassment of business during a period when everyone who is sane wants to see business get going again.

Fetching Blouse and Skirt

Today's pattern—two separate garments—gives you an idea how chic you can appear when clothes are chosen with taste and discrimination.

An unusually flattering neck treatment with the folds giving way to a jabot effect and surplice closing, lends distinction to the blouse fashioned in a solid crepe, pastel silk, or gold metal, while the skirt relies on a slenderizing front panel ending in pleats to relieve its essential simplicity. Try a satin, velveteen, silk, crepe, or velvet for the skirt.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1958-B is available for sizes: 14, 16, 18, 20, 42, 44 and 46. Corresponding bust measurements 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 16 (34) requires two and five-eighths yards of 39-inch material for the blouse and two and one-eighth yards for the skirt. Price of pattern, 15 cents.

Send for the Fall Pattern Book containing Barbara Bell well-planned, easy-to-make patterns. Exclusive fashions for children, young women, and matrons. Send 15 cents for your copy.

Household Questions

If you want to modernize an old paper parchment shade make slashes in the top about an inch deep and run grosgrain ribbon through them, tying in a small bow with long ends at one side. Brown, dark blue or black ribbon is very smart on a white or cream shade. You could do this with inexpensive paper shades.

Place straws in lunch boxes when cocoa or milk are included. The children will delight in using them during the lunch period.

Powdered borax added to the water when washing fine white flannels helps to keep them soft.

When cooking a bird in the oven roast it in the usual way until it is nicely browned, then turn the back upward and let it remain so until done. This causes the gravy to run into the breast, making it soft and tender.

Use scissors for cutting up leftover fish, meat or fowl. This also applies to leftover vegetables.

Sometimes when the gravy from roasts is not quite as dark as you want it to be, try adding a little kitchen bouquet. Just enough to color it.

Paper white narcissi planted in a bowl containing pebbles and water will last from November to March if bulbs are renewed as those in bloom fade out.

ASSORTED
Personal Christmas GREETINGS

21 Folders and Envelopes with your name neatly imprinted on each one and packed in artistic box, set of 21 $1.00

FRIENDLY remembrance at Christmas is appreciated by every one and much pleasure attached to the sending of these kindly messages of friendship and good will. Your pleasure and satisfaction are greatest if the greeting is particularly adapted to the recipient as well as being an ambassador of good will representing you. Likewise, the one receiving the message finds in it greater significance than comes in a standardized greeting. You would not write the same letter or send the same gift to all on your list. The same course is best to follow in sending prepared Christmas Greetings, rather than strike an average with one kind of greeting only, and is just as easily done by using the choice selection of twenty-one different greetings.

Produced by an organization long successful in creating Personal Christmas Greetings that please and satisfy, this assortment has the requisite variety of expression in picture and word. These Christmas folders, mostly parchments, are high grade in every respect; have Christmasy designs of unusual artistic value on front and inside pages and sentiments ranging from strictly conventional and warm personal expression of friendliness. Each sentiment is beautifully arranged in hand lettering. Every item meets a definite need on your list.

Be sure to see this Assortment before ordering your Personal Christmas Greetings, as here is pleasant and convenient solution of the problem of what to send this year and at surprisingly low cost, including imprinting of name.

No orders accepted after December 15th.

SYNOPSIS

Dr. Greeding, a wealthy and talented middle aged surgeon, is possessed of seemingly supernatural powers. Occasionally he can wish for something extraordinarily to happen and have the wish fulfilled. Greeding meets Ira Jerrell, a wealthy business friend of his own age, who tells him he loves his daughter, Nancy, and would like to marry her. Dr. Greeding is pleased and tells Jerrell he has a clear field. Nancy, however, is in love with Dan Carlisle, an assistant professor at the University who has little means. They discuss marriage, but decide to delay talking to her father about it. Nancy, who has been playing tennis with Dan that afternoon, tells her father she had been playing with a girl friend. Greeding knows this is untrue and is secretly enraged. Stepping into his wife's room, his eye falls on a marble statuette which he dislikes. He picks it up, wishing he could smash it to bits. Suddenly it is snatched from his grasp as by an invisible force and burst asunder. Mrs. Greeding is greatly disturbed over the mysterious destruction of the statuette. The doctor reveals that Ira Jerrell wants to marry Nancy. On the way to a dinner party a car cuts in front of Greeding's. He angrily expresses the wish that the driver would break his neck. An instant later an accident occurs in which this very thing happens. At the dinner the Greedings meet Prof. Carlisle, Dan's father, and his daughter Mary Ann. Dr. Greeding is intrigued by Mary Ann, who is a surgical nurse. Mrs. Greeding tells Prof. Carlisle about the destruction of the statuette and he indicates it might have been caused by a "poltergeist," a "racketing, mischievous spirit."

He said quizzically: "That's not the same Judith Plank with whom you played tennis this afternoon."
"Judith?" she repeated in astonishment, forgetting her mendacity; and then suddenly she remembered, and her cheeks were crimson. She retreated from him, white and startled; turned and ran up the stairs. He had only meant to tease her; but by her flight his almost forgotten anger was a little revived.
"Nancy!" he called. She stopped, half turning. "You mustn't ever lie to me, Nancy," he said sternly.
She hesitated, facing him doubtfully; but after a moment she descended to meet him ascending. On the step above him, she said appealingly:
"I'm sorry, Father. I—a girl—"
She laughed in confused dismay. "Well, a girl instinctively wants to keep some things secret," she confessed happily.
And before he could speak, she added: "You're right. It wasn't Judith, this afternoon. It was Dan Carlisle. When you asked me who was here, we'd only just found out that we love each other! That was why I—fibbed to you!"
Doctor Greeding touched her shoulder affectionately, guarding his tones. "No reason why you shouldn't tell me and your mother, is there?" he asked quietly.
"I was afraid you wouldn't—"
"Never be afraid of me, Nancy," he urged. "You'll always find me on your side."
"Then you don't mind my—loving Dan!"
"I mind your being afraid of me," he kissed her again, and he added judicially: "As for Dan, I hardly know him, Nancy. Bring him around more often. Let your mother and me get acquainted with that young man." And he suggested: "After all, there's no hurry. You and he will want to treasure this new happiness in secret for a while."
Then, before she could either assent or demur, he said: "Good night. It's late, my dear."
She hugged him warmly. "You're sweet!" she whispered. "Good night, Father!" And ran up the stairs.
He followed more slowly; and in his own room, the door closed behind him, he stood fixed and rigid, frowning. But in the end he dismissed Nancy for the present from his mind, and opened the volume he had brought upstairs.

CHAPTER III

Next day Doctor Greeding was not his usual self while in the operating-room. Ordinarily he worked without conscious effort, smoothly and swiftly; but today each procedure required a conscious concentration.
Doctor Mayhew, his assistant, observed this; and Miss Rimes, the surgical nurse, likewise felt it, and reacted to Doctor Greeding's tension by a definite failure in her usual efficiency. Once when without looking toward her she reached for dissecting scissors, she offered him the knife instead, and the point punctured his glove, so that he had to change.
Such accidents had occurred before; but today Doctor Greeding was in no case to meet the incident equably and calmly. Fortunately the skin was not even pricked; yet many a surgeon had lost a finger, or a hand or an arm as easily as this; and he told Miss Rimes so, in dry, cutting tones.
Even while he spoke, he realized suddenly that he disliked Miss Rimes intensely. She was an efficient nurse; but he recognized now that she was a dark, unlovely woman. He had never before thought of her except as an automaton; and his physical distaste for her lent an unintended heat to his rebuke. She made no defense; but afterward in the corridor he saw her talking with Doctor Mayhew; and there was a hint of tears, of hysteria, in her manner. So Doctor Greeding belatedly repented his heat; and back in his office, he summoned Doctor Mayhew and by way of amends bade him grant Miss Rimes a month's full-pay vacation.

Doctor Mayhew suggested doubtfully: "I'm afraid, after her mistake this morning, she may feel this is a reproof!"
"Not at all," Doctor Greeding insisted. "It is simply that I think she is overworked, tired."
But the other man persisted in his view; and Doctor Greeding reluctantly summoned Miss Rimes and in Doctor Mayhew's presence made amends.
"I owe you an apology, Miss Rimes," he confessed. "I was tired this morning, nervous; and I blew off steam at your expense. I'm sorry."
She assured him, eagerly: "I was clumsy!" But when he spoke of the vacation he proposed that she should take, she protested: "Oh, I can't just now! With Miss Johnson ill, there's no one to handle the work; and I'm not tired, really."
"Nonsense!" he said in fraternal kindness. "We'll manage!"
After she had left the office, Dr. Mayhew asked: "Who will you use in her place? Miss Ryan?"
Doctor Greeding hesitated. He had not considered this problem; but now he smiled in swift appreciation of the fact that luck once more had played his game. But he only said guardedly:
"I have some one in mind. Let it rest for now."
But when Doctor Mayhew was gone, he rang for his secretary. "Will you phone Miss Mary Ann Carlisle," he directed, and gave Professor Carlisle's name and address. "Ask her to come in and see me, if she can; say I may have some work for her."
An hour later, Miss Carlisle was announced. "Our meeting last night may have been fortunate for us both, Miss Carlisle," he said to her. "I don't know if my secretary told you why I wished to see you?" She shook her head, and he explained: "My surgical nurse, Miss Rimes, has been working too hard. I've given her a vacation, and that leaves us short-handed. Naturally, I thought of you. I believe you said you've had some experience in assisting?"
"Yes," she agreed. "I worked with Doctor Homans."
"His specialty was the brain, of course," Doctor Greeding commented, in no hurry, content to watch her, to go slowly. "My work is more general." He added: "However, a few days will give you the routine, I'm sure." And he smiled. "I'm proposing, you understand, that you come in and work with me."
"I've been doing special nursing; but I should be glad of a more steady income." She smiled faintly. "As you may imagine, with two rather improvident professors in the family—"
He chuckled. "Naturally." They discussed finances. "Then suppose we try it," he suggested. "If we are both satisfied, there is no reason why you should not stay on indefinitely. Even after Miss Rimes returns. You can alternate with her, and there are a lot of details outside the operating-room which you can divide between you."
She asked calmly: "Shall I start now? Or report in the morning?"
And thus, swiftly the matter was arranged. Doctor Greeding drove home that afternoon in his usual easy mind. The tragedy of the day before, he began to dismiss as the coincidence it had appeared to be; he could ignore the formless, terrifying shapes that floated in the background of his thoughts.
So soon as he came home, he asked for Nancy.
"She's gone into the country with Dan," Mrs. Greeding explained. "To some little inn for dinner." She watched her husband doubtfully; but he said, in a disarming tone:
"I saw her for a moment last night when she came home. We had a little talk. Myra. Probably I was wrong to be—dogmatic, yesterday, to play the angry parent. Dan's all right, I expect." He hesitated, conscious of a faint confusion. "As a matter of fact," he said, smiling at his own thoughts, "I think better of the Carlises than I did yesterday. I even engaged Miss Carlisle to take Miss Rimes' place, this afternoon."
She stared at him, frank doubt in her eyes. "Ned, was that wise?" she wondered. "After all, while she may be a charming dinner partner—"
"Oh, I shan't keep her on unless she does her work," he said casually.
"She's entirely too attractive to be a nurse," Mrs. Greeding insisted.

"Mary Ann is one of these independent young women, perfectly sure of herself and of everything else; resentful of—conventions."
"You make her sound dangerously fascinating," he said, amused, and touched her arm affectionately. "You've always had the notion some siren would carry me away, Myra. In spite of the fact that none has ever even tried!"
She smiled at him. "Nonsense, Ned. You know I never worry about you, my dear!"
"You never need to," he assured her gently.
So Mrs. Greeding was silenced; but there was not long any doubt in Doctor Greeding's mind that Mary Ann was competent. She was like a second pair of hands. At the operating-table she anticipated his desires before they took shape in his mind. She watched his fingers and the progress of the operation; and when he was ready for knife, scissors, snaps, retractors, he found the desired implement in her hand, awaiting his grasp. He found the morning's work left him fresh and free from fatigue; he thought his own technique improved, and told her so.
"Miss Rimes was excellent," he said. "But—I shall be tempted to overwork you, even after her return. You must protect yourself against my impositions."
She smiled and said: "I never saw anyone whose work was at once as unhurried and as swift as yours." And he was by her approval absurdly pleased.

She Smiled and Said: "I Never Saw Anyone Whose Work Was at Once as Unhurried and as Swift as Yours."

They progressed by degrees from acquaintance to friendship. Doctor Greeding committed to her attention the matter of that man whose death he and Mrs. Greeding had witnessed.
"I saw the accident," he explained. "It—touched me. For no particular reason, I am inclined to do something for his family, if they need help of any kind."
He was not blind to the approval in her eyes as she promised to investigate.
Subsequently, Mary Ann reported that the man was an automobile mechanic; and he had been, on that particular evening, in haste to come to the hospital, where his wife was about to be delivered.
"But the accident has its compensations," she confessed. "He appears to have been a worthless sort. He used to be a chauffeur in a nice family; and the daughter of the house eloped with him. I went to see her, last night. She told me that after they were married, when her husband realized that her father would not support them, he was furious; and since then he has mistreated her abominably. Now that he's dead, she's going home, forgiven, happier than she could ever have been as long as her husband lived!"
Doctor Greeding found in this discovery a surprising satisfaction. He had since the tragedy moved warily, like a stranger in a great power-plant who avoids contact with the machinery about him, lest he loose forces beyond his understanding and control. But now, assured that this man for whose death he felt responsible was better out of the world, than in it, a treacherous feeling of infallibility took lodgment in his mind.
Yet outwardly there was no change in the routine of his days, except that he saw more and more of Mary Ann. He no longer disturbed himself so much about Nancy and Dan. Nancy had agreed with him as to the wisdom of delaying for a while any formal announcement of her engagement, and he had always banked on his luck. He did so now. Jerrell was seeing much of Nancy, for Dan had gone to Newfoundland to fish for salmon, and Nancy's time was free . . .

Doctor and Mrs. Greeding kept open house every Sunday afternoon and evening; and any number of people were apt to drop in, casually, without forewarning. Jerrell took advantage of one of these occasions; and after supper he and Nancy disappeared together. When later they returned, Jerrell joined Doctor Greeding in the library.
They spoke at first of casual things; Jerrell said presently:
"By the way, Nancy tells me she knows Dan Carlisle."
Doctor Greeding was instantly on guard. "You know him?" he asked. "Only through his book," Jerrell said. "That is an able piece of work. A textbook not only for college classes, but for business men, and investors too."
The doctor smiled. "I haven't read it," he confessed, and turned the conversation into safer channels. "I suppose you're as busy as usual?"
"Just now, yes," Jerrell assented; and after a moment's hesitation, he explained: "I'm taking an interest in a new outfit, Associated Cottons. We're proposing to cover the field from plantation to retailer, in one way or another. Of course I'm not personally connected with the technical end; only with the financing. We issued the stock privately at ten, and then had it listed. It's around eighteen now."
He looked at the ash on the end of his cigar. "It's apt to sell off a bit this month and next," he said. "But we expect it to hit fifty by the first of October."
"Your profession has always interested me," Greeding assented in an indifferent tone, but he was not indifferent. If Jerrell said Cottons would hit fifty, it was likely to do so. He filed the information in his mind. "I never speculate, myself," he added, unnecessarily.
But despite his disclaimer, he telephoned next day an order to Paul Master, who handled his investments, to buy a block of Cottons . . .
Jerrell continued to see Nancy frequently; and Doctor Greeding, watching his daughter without seeming so to do, thought that she was fairly ill at ease in the older man's company. When Dan came back from Newfoundland and brought a fourteen-pound salmon to Nancy, Doctor Greeding proposed to Mrs. Greeding:
"Why not invite the Carlises over for dinner? We'll have the salmon!"
Mrs. Greeding said sensibly: "I expect Dan would rather have steak. After all, he must have eaten salmon in Newfoundland till he feels like one himself."
The doctor chuckled. "He won't care what he eats, as long as he can be with Nancy," he pointed out.
Mrs. Greeding suggested: "Mr. Jerrell has been here so much while Dan was away. I think Nancy has—enjoyed seeing him."
"Give Dan a chance to repair his fences then," Doctor Greeding retorted. He saw her surprise, and said with a chuckle: "I'm not taking sides, Myra. I'm for a fair fight and let the best man win. Dan's probably all right. If he's anything like his sister, he's an able young man. Mary Ann has done very well with me. She's much the best nurse I ever had."
"You mean that we should invite Mary Ann too?" she asked doubtfully.
"Of course," he assured her. "And Professor Carlisle. Make it a family party!"
Mrs. Greeding, in the end, although with a clear reluctance, agreed. Professor Carlisle and Dan and Mary Ann would come to dinner on Tuesday night.

So Dan grinned, and he too disappeared. Doctor Greeding sat at one end of the table, the Professor at the other; for Professor Carlisle had filled the pipe which he preferred to a cigar, and the Doctor had no desire to come near the source of that scent so offensive to his nostrils.
For a little, nothing was said. Then Doctor Greeding remembered certain matters almost forgotten; and he said, making his tone casual:
"Professor, Mrs. Greeding tells me that you gave her, that evening at the Jordans', quite a lecture on poltergeists. She had so much to say about it that I came home and read up on the subject myself. Do you seriously think there is any truth in these tales?"
Professor Carlisle smiled faintly. "I should hardly expect you to accept them," he confessed.
Doctor Greeding chuckled. "But I'm not completely incredulous," he protested. "I had a friend once who confessed to some personal experiences of the sort."
Professor Carlisle looked at him with a new interest. He said, at hazard: "It has often seemed to me that an open-minded physician must observe in his practice many things not easily explained by any medical formula."
Doctor Greeding nodded. "That is true," he said. "I do remember occasions when things seemed to go unusually well, in the course of an operation; when my fingers were successful without my mind's being fully conscious of the sources of that success. For instance, there was a man with a crushed and lacerated arm, necessitating amputation; it was during my days at the City, on relief work. An artery tore loose and retracted into the upper arm. Ordinarily, this means a swift and extensive dissection in order to catch the end of the vessel and check the hemorrhage. I did it in a matter of seconds; and even now, I don't know just how it was done. The artery seemed almost to thrust itself into my reach."
He continued: "But I wasn't referring to any experience of my own. This friend of mine— He hesitated guardedly. "Well, you know the old belief, Professor, that to be born under a caul was lucky. This chap was born under a caul; and I think he was always secretly a little proud of the fact, feeling that he was set apart from other men by that circumstance."
The Professor smiled. "He wasn't also, by any chance, the seventh son of a seventh son?" he suggested in ironic amusement.
Doctor Greeding chuckled. "No. An only child," he admitted; and he went on:
"We grew up on adjoining farms, and if there are poltergeists, I suspect that he was one. I remember that when he was a boy, if he was left alone in a room, something was apt to fall and break. Of course, he was always blamed, and punished. His father used to say he whipped this youngster not for breaking the thing in question, but for lying about it afterward."
Professor Carlisle commented: "Boys have lied before, and will again."
"I know," Doctor Greeding admitted stubbornly. "But this boy always denied, even to me, that he had done the things for which he was blamed. I remember once we were haying, on a hot day in July; and they put us in the mow to stow the hay, and the hay caught fire. The barn, in fact, burned to the ground. Fortunately, it was a small hay-barn, across the road from the house, used only for storage, and the loss was not serious. But there, again, he was blamed. They insisted that he had lighted a match, or done some other folly." He chuckled. "He bore the welts of that affair for days," he said; and he asked: "Isn't this the stuff poltergeists are made of?"

Pronghorn Not Antelope; Mixture of Three Others
The pronghorn is not a true antelope; rather a cross between a deer, a goat and a giraffe, with a few characteristics of each. Zoologists say the Rocky Mountain goat is more nearly a true antelope.
The pronghorn is one of the swiftest animals on foot, declares a writer in the Washington Star. He clears prodigious lengths at a bound, but is a better broad jumper than high-jumper. It is said that a 4-foot fence will retain him.
On their native plains pronghorns rely upon fleetness and alertness to protect them from enemies. The warning signal for a pronghorn stampede is the flash of some wary leader's white tail.
The pronghorn shares this warning signal with the cotton-tail rabbit.
Curiosity has cost the lives of many a pronghorn. The timid beasts will pause in full flight to examine an unexplained object.
Hunters often lure their within range by waving a rag on a stick while lying concealed in the grass.

DISCOVERED Way to Relieve Coughs QUICKLY

IT'S BY relieving both the irritated tissues of the throat and bronchial tubes. One set of ingredients in FOLEY'S HONEY & TAR quickly relieves tickling, hacking, coughing, . . . soothes and soothes irritated throat linings to keep you from coughing. Another set actually enters the blood, reaches the affected bronchial tubes, speeds recovery. Check a cough due to a cold before it gets worse, before others catch it. Check it with FOLEY'S HONEY & TAR. It gives quick relief and speed-up recovery.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Be Sure They Properly Cleanse the Blood

YOUR kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as nature intended—fail to remove impurities that poison the system when retained.
Then you may suffer nagging backache, dizziness, scanty or too frequent urination, getting up at night, puffiness under the eyes; feel nervous, miserable—all upset.
Don't delay! Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are especially for poorly functioning kidneys. They are recommended by grateful users the country over. Get them from any druggist.

A Tough Life—That of a Forest Ranger

The life of a forest ranger is not all it's cracked up to be. Instead of spending the summer hunting, fishing and trapping, the ranger is busy protecting game and scenery from visitors and answering their questions.

In the winter, he and another ranger hole themselves up in a log cabin, patrol the boundary of their domain on skis and protect the wild life under their care from the attacks of predatory animals and the guns of men. At night their leisure time is spent in assembling food, wood and clothing to keep warm, and preparing for the next day's tasks.—Washington Post.

Tremendous Victory of President Roosevelt Gives Him Electoral Vote of 523 to 8 for Landon—Congress More, Strongly Democratic.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD
© Western Newspaper Union

"WE LIKE your New Deal policies and have complete confidence in your administration. Go as far as you like."

President Roosevelt

That in effect was the message sent to Franklin Delano Roosevelt by more than twenty-five million American men and women when they voted to continue him in the Presidency for another four years. It was the most tremendous victory ever scored by a Presidential candidate since the days of James Monroe, for Mr. Roosevelt captured the 523 electoral votes of 46 states. Only Maine and Vermont, with five and three electoral votes respectively, were won by Landon and Knox, the Republican candidates. Their popular vote, when all returns are in, and tabulated, may be fifteen and a half million.

The amazing New Deal landslide is looked upon by most unbiased observers not as a Democratic party victory, but a personal triumph for President Roosevelt, an expression of confidence in him and a recognition of the improvement in the country's business and industry. It was so overwhelming that the President may well consider he has been given carte blanche to do as he pleases in carrying his policies on to their logical ends. What he may please to do depends largely on pending decisions by the Supreme Court of the United States on New Deal legislation.

President Roosevelt, moreover, will have at his command a congress more heavily Democratic than were the last two, for the lingering hopes of the Republicans that they could capture enough seats to enable them, in conjunction with conservative Democrats, to put up effective resistance to New Deal measures, were not realized. The New Deal majority in the new senate will be about five to one, and in the house it will be almost four to one. The few Republicans will be permitted to take part in debate, but when it comes to a vote the congress will be virtually a one-party affair.

Governor Landon and Colonel Knox, his running mate, accepted their defeat gracefully and sent to Mr. Roosevelt congratulatory telegrams promising to support, as good Americans, his efforts for the welfare of the country. The President responded with wires expressing his confidence that "all us Americans will now pull together for the common good."

The Republican party, despite its terrific drubbing, is not dead. Its national organization is intact and it, and such organizations as the American Liberty league, the Sentinels of America and the Volunteers, will continue their efforts to keep the ship of state on an even keel and headed in the right direction.

William Lemke, candidate of the Union party, failed to carry a state, and his popular vote was not impressive; but he was re-elected to congress from North Dakota on the Republican ticket.

Incidentally, John N. Garner, who was scarcely mentioned during the hectic campaign, was re-elected vice president and will preside over the senate again. He took no real part in the battle, just riding along with his chief.

Among the well-known Republican senators unseated by the upheaval are Daniel O. Hastings of Delaware, Lester J. Dickinson of Iowa, Jesse H. Metcalf of Rhode Island and Robert D. Carey of Wyoming. The one gain by that party was the Massachusetts seat won by Henry Cabot Lodge II, grandson of the noted senator. He succeeded in defeating Gov. James M. Curley, Democratic boss of the state. The Michigan seat of the late James Couzens was won by Representative Prentiss M. Brown, who beat former Gov. W. M. Brucker. William E. Borah of Idaho, Arthur Capper of Kansas and Charles L. McNary of Oregon, all listed as Republicans, were re-elected; and so was George Norris of Nebraska who ran this year as an independent with the approval of Mr. Roosevelt.

Minnesota Democrats meekly accepted the wrecking of their state ticket by New Deal orders and helped elect Ernest Lundeen, Farmer-Laborite, to the senate. New Hampshire, the only state in which the Presidential vote was at all close, sends a Republican to the senate in the person of Gov. H. Styles Bridges. Other governors who won in senate contests were Theodore Francis Green of Rhode Island, who defeated Senator Metcalf; Clyde L. Herring of Iowa, victor over Senator

Dickinson, and Ed C. Johnson of Colorado, who defeated Raymond L. Sauter.

Among the many Republican members of the house of representatives who failed of re-election were Isaac Bacharach of New Jersey, Chester Bolton of Ohio and Mrs. Florence P. Kahn of California. George H. Tinkham of Massachusetts and Bertrand H. Snell of New York, minority leader, retained their seats. The new house will have five woman members, one fewer than in the last session. Oregon elected its first woman representative, Nan Wood Honeyman, Democrat and close friend of the Roosevelt family.

AT LEAST 25 states elected Democratic governors, and the number may be 27. In only three were the Republican nominees winners. William Langer, independent, won the governorship of North Dakota, from which he was ousted some time ago. Elmer Benson, Farmer-Laborite, was victorious in Minnesota, and Philip F. LaFollette, Progressive, in Wisconsin. New York re-elected Gov. Herbert Lehman, but he ran far behind President Roosevelt. Gov. Henry Horner of Illinois, Democrat, also won, but his vote, too, was far less than that for the head of the ticket.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, leaving Hyde Park for Washington to "try to balance the budget," as he said, authorized the announcement that on November 17 he would start on a cruise on the warship Indianapolis for a rest of about four weeks, and that it was possible he might go to Buenos Aires, Argentina, to open the Pan-American peace conference, on December 1. He may also visit Rio de Janeiro.

JAMES A. FARLEY, manager of the triumphant Roosevelt campaign, resumed his office of postmaster general, attending the first post-election meeting of the cabinet. He said he would serve out his term but refused to comment on predictions that he would not be in the next cabinet. Mr. Farley is about to leave for a short vacation in Ireland.

The Democratic national chairman, commenting on the election, called attention to his exact forecast that Roosevelt would carry every state except Maine and Vermont, and added: "We would have carried Maine if we had put forth the same effort there as we did in the September election."

DEFENSE MINISTER EDOUARD DALADIER sees a possibility of a swift attack on France by Germany, so he urged upon the chamber of deputies army committee the immediate fortification of the Belgian and Swiss frontiers and the speeding up of manufacture of war materials. He asked the committee to recommend an appropriation of 500,000,000 francs to fortify the borders with another "Maginot line" of steel and concrete "pill boxes" and underground passages.

Edouard Daladier

Obligatory physical training for all Frenchmen, beginning at the age of eighteen, was proposed by Daladier as an aid to building up the French army.

The number of professional troops in the army, he asserted, has been increased in the last few months from 106,000 to 144,000.

KING EDWARD VIII, making his first parliamentary appearance since he succeeded to the throne of England, opened parliament with all the traditional ceremony. His throne stood alone in the house of lords and beside it rested the crown which has not yet been placed on his head. Robed in crimson and gold, the monarch read his address to the nation, beginning with his affirmation of the Protestant faith. "My relations with foreign powers continue to be friendly," he said. "The policy of the government continues to be based on membership in the League of Nations."

He took up in turn the points of his government's proposed program. It would, he promised, work with other nations through the league, for peace. It would "persist in efforts" to build a new Locarno treaty and to extend the naval armaments limitations treaty signed last March by Britain, France, and the United States.

The government, he announced, will call an imperial conference in London next May, and that after his coronation he would go to India to be crowned emperor.

Mrs. Wallis Simpson, the king's American friend, had a choice seat in the diplomats' gallery, being accompanied by two other women.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for November 15 THE HEROISM OF CHRISTIAN FAITH

LESSON TEXT—Acts 21:12, 13, 27-34; Romans 9:1-5.
GOLDEN TEXT—Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends. John 15:13.
PRIMARY TOPIC—On the Castle Steps.
JUNIOR TOPIC—On the Castle Steps.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Taking Risks for Christ.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Risking All for Christ.

We now come to the close of the third missionary journey of Paul. As he came to Jerusalem for the last time in his eventful life he was warned by a prophet, Agabus at Caesarea, that if he went up to Jerusalem he would be bound and given over to the Gentiles.

Heroism of the highest and noblest type has characterized the followers of Christ in all times. Paul was not one to be deterred from what he believed to be God's will by the probability that he would suffer. Like all who follow the Lord Jesus Christ in truth he was

1. Fearless, in Practice as Well as Theory (Acts 21:12, 13, 27-34). Many there are who sing, "I'll go where you want me to go, dear Lord, I'll be what you want me to be," or smoothly repeat consecration vows, who are frightened away at the slightest difficulty, and who feel that they must have been mistaken about the Lord's will for their life at the first indication that his guidance would interfere with their comfort or convenience. No such cowardice or vacillation was found in Paul.

In the first place, he did not intend to have a holy purpose weakened by disheartening talk. How many young men and women have left a place of sacred meeting with God aglow with the purpose of serving Him in the foreign mission field, and then permitted an uninterested friend or relative or employer to talk them out of it.

In the second place, we find Paul carrying through his purpose. When he came to Jerusalem he was counseled to enter the temple to take a Nazarite vow, and thus to satisfy his enemies. Some have commended Paul for thus pacifying those who withstood him, others strongly condemn him for yielding. His purpose was good, but his act led to unfortunate results. An infuriated Jewish mob saw him in the temple and wrongfully accused him of defiling the temple by bringing a Greek into this holy place.

A riot ensued, and Paul would have been killed had not the Roman captain and his band rescued him. Was Paul afraid? He immediately turned his arrest into an unsurpassed opportunity to give a testimony and to make a defense of his ministry (See Acts 21:40-22:22). He admonished others to "be instant in season and out of season" (II Tim. 4:2); he practiced what he preached. He constantly urged faith in God, steadfastness in the midst of trials; he gave full proof of these things in his own ministry.

In all this he did not seek his own glory, or any honor for his own name. The Christian hero knows nothing of heroism for publicity's sake; he does not serve with an eye on the "grandstand." Paul was actuated by a deep and a genuine

II. Concern for the Salvation of His People (Rom 9:1-5).

The Christian worker who knows nothing of "great sorrow and unceasing pain" in his heart over the plight of the unsaved does not follow in the Pauline succession, nor does he know the heart of the Man of Sorrows.

Paul surely did not wish himself separated from Christ, but was so deeply moved that he said he "could wish" it—if it were not wrong—in order to save his brethren.

Do we need a revival of compassion in our churches, and in our own hearts, a yearning over the multitudes about us who are as sleep without a shepherd?

A Golden Link
A mother's love is indeed the golden link that binds youth to age, and he is still but a child, however time may have furrowed his cheek, or silvered his brow, who can yet recall with a softened heart, the fond devotion, or the gentle chidings, of the best friend that God ever gives us.

Love of Our Work
It is only those who do not know how to work that do not love it. To those who do it is better than play—it is religion.

Life
Life is not made up of great sacrifices of duties, but of little things of which smiles and kindness and small obligations given habitually, are what win and preserve the heart.—Sir Humphrey Davy.

Prejudices
Prejudices may be intense, but their lives are limited—to discover when they are dead and to bury them, is an important matter, and no unseemly tears should be shed at their funerals.

Certain of Milady's Vote

THREE post-election candidates for milady's wardrobe, every one of them a winner. Every pattern is accompanied by an illustrated instruction chart giving step by step details for quick sewing and perfect fit—the short cut to an adequate wardrobe.

Pattern 1821, a comely morning frock fashioned along princess lines, is available in a wide range of sizes, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. The smooth fitting and slenderizing hip line joins with the scalloped collar and cuffs in contrast to achieve a flattering effect, and this design is so simply made and so easy to wear, in swiss or percale or lawn or pongee, it will win instant favor. Size 38 requires four and three-fourths yards of 39 inch material.

Pattern 1843, the fitted slip, offers a choice of the strap or built-up shoulder and makes a perfect foundation garment for a smooth silhouette. Fashioned in silk or taffeta or pongee, the pattern employs just six pieces and goes together like a charm. Send for it today, in size 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 or 44. Size 36 requires three and one-fourth yards of 39 inch material.

THE SCHOOL BELL

JUNIOR CLASS GIVES PEP MEET

Friday afternoon, the faculty and students met to live up the pep before the Boyne game.

The students came into the auditorium while the band played. The school songs were sung and there were some yells led by the yell leaders — who were clad in red and black.

Some of the senior boys gave talks — Ralph Duplessis, Lester Umlor, and Alston Penfold.

Mr. Walcutt, Mr. Eggert and Mr. Cohn also gave pep talks.

Some of the students demonstrated the yells with help from the yell leaders. On a whole the students are showing more school spirit than before.

GUESS WHO

Last week's description applied to Sonny Bulow.

There is a girl who goes to the East Jordan High School whom all the boys and girls know very well.

She is a Junior. Her favorite subjects are English and typing. Her favorite hobby is dancing.

This girl has brown eyes, black curly hair, is 5 ft 4 in. tall and weighs 120 lbs. She has a sunny and cheerful disposition as well as a Cheerio for everyone.

Her residence is on the West Side, about two blocks from Nowland's Gas Station, in a large brown house.

One of her favorite cities is Charlevoix, of course we can all guess why.

This girl is also quite interested in sports so you can see her at all football and basketball games.

"Death Takes The Steering Wheel"

The play "Death Takes The Steering Wheel" presented at the High School Auditorium Wednesday night was a very excellent play.

It was exactly like a court procedure, and the audience had to act the way it would act in court. The cast was in last week's paper so we needn't mention that. The defendant was found guilty and was going to be sent to prison for 5 years but was placed on parole with the understanding if he ever touched liquor again he would serve full time in the penitentiary at Jackson, Michigan.

ELECTION RETURNS

Oh! The election is over and everyone is probably glad for all one has heard on the radio and elsewhere has been speeches by orators, proclaiming the reason why they are supporting a certain party and what is the fault with the other candidates running for presidency.

Even the students of this school have been daily discussing each candidate in the classroom and many good arguments were brought up. Then came the third of November with Mr. Oldt and Mr. Roberts handing out ballots to the pupils, so that they might also vote.

We find that after counting these ballots that Franklin D. Roosevelt came ahead in two classes, a tie in one and Landon receiving the majority in the remaining three classes, also amendments 2, 3, and 4 were voted out.

In the grade building one morning we found youngsters of Mrs. Larson's room busy making a booth of sticks and wrapping paper, a ballot box was also present. The children had to register before they could vote and the vote went over as a tie between Roosevelt and Landon.

Coach: Good gang of fellows. Showed wonderful spirit throughout the year.

Richard Saxton, Mgr: Fair but foolish.

Bill Simmons: It'll do in a pinch.

John Sturgill: I think it's swell.

Lester Umlor: Good season for greenhorns.

Glen Malpass: Good.

Roberts: Must be fair; they won half their games.

INDIANS AND PILGRIMS

The fourth grade has been studying the Indians, and along with this they are making hot dish mats and weaving.

They are also starting an interesting study on the Pilgrims. Some of the pupils hope to learn to knit before they are through with the pilgrims.

"SOME TIE"

The mock election that was staged by the fifth grade last Tuesday on November 3rd went over with a boom. In the finals the reports read, a tie between Roosevelt and Landon, Lemkie 1 vote, and Fitzgerald led Murphy by 4 votes.

The fifth graders are going to start in the penmanship contest Friday. That is when they will send away their first entry.

Mrs. Larson's room has charge of the museum this week, and among the many interesting articles the most interesting are as follows: A little colored glass over 50 years old, some old fashioned combs that are 50 years old, a Chinese penny over 25 years old, and an old fashioned wedding belt over 25 years old.

A SICK FRIEND

The sixth graders are very sorry to report that Charles Gothro has been taken to the hospital for an operation of appendicitis. They have all written him cheerful letters hoping he will soon be on the road to recovery.

The sixth grade has received a set of new language work books, and the pupils are all glad to have them.

Joan Eakmer made a very interesting clay brick on which she put some Egyptian writing.

The sixth grade has also made an interesting study on France and its possessions. They have found France to be a very wealthy country.

The sixth grade is very sorry about the death of Frank Compo's father. They are all trying to cheer him up.

SNOOPY SUE

Are you going to miss her much, Sherman?

Stanley, if you would like to play the baritone please handle it more carefully.

Arnie, must you keep pestering Wilma all the time in the 4th hour study hall? Is the essay a keepsake?

Francis, you aren't the only Democrat in the school.

It's strange how the Boyne City girls pepped up the football practice last Thursday night.

How does it feel to win the sweepstakes, Jane?

FOOTBALL

Though the day was plenty cold and everyone on the side lines was hopping around to keep warm, it looked as though the football boys were keeping warm without much trouble.

Especially when Boyne City got the ball and started to run up the field. Well! our men were very close upon them, sometimes tackling and sometimes not. The senior football men played their last game for East Jordan, Saturday. They are: Captain Stub Bowman, Don Johnson, Lester

Umlor, Ralph Duplessis, Bob Winstone, Ed. Etanek and Alston Penfold. They are sorry to leave the team as the team is to have them go. We hope that the team next year won't miss them too much though, but that they will practice a lot (for practice makes perfect) and will come out on the top. Good Luck, Boys.

FRESHMAN PARTY
The Freshman Class held their first party November 6th, which was a great success. They had an amateur program with the following taking part: Alice Slough, Dorothy Thomas, Helen McColeman, Dorothy Stanek, Blanche Davis, and Bruce Bartlett. The rest of the evening was spent in dancing with Miss Raatikainen at the piano. The Chaperons were as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Jankoviak, Miss Westfall, Mrs. Eggert, Mr. Heafeld and Mr. Roberts.
