Charlevoix Co. Goes To Town

AT NORTHERN MICH. POTATO AND APPLE SHOW

Miss Zietler Chosen Queen. Einer Olstrom and D. D. Tibbits Win Sweepstakes on Potatoes and Apples.

Exhibitors from Charlevoix county more than held their own at the recent Northern Michigan Potato and Apple Show, in competition with exhibitors from 31 counties. Highlights of the entire show were the splendid exhibits from the East Jordan area. Outstanding in the exhibits were the Smith Hughes collection of four exhibits under the direction of Mr. Russell Eggert, Smith Hughes instructor, and the Advance community 4-H club under the leadership of Einer Olstrom. In fact Olstrom's peck sample of Russet Rural won the sweepstakes award as being the best peck in the Junior department.

The Advance Potato club as a group had the best club exhibit in the show. Following Olstrom's sample which won first were Wilbur McDonald, Raynor Olstrom, Howard McDonald and Robert Houtman winning 2,3,4 and 7 positions in the individual exhibit.

In the Smith Hughes competition the group exhibit likewise won first in very stiff competition. In addition the first three places in the individual places were won by John Ter-Avest, Don Shepard and Roland Holland. The fourth sample making up the exhibit by Curtis Nicloy won first in the "other varieties" class. This was a peck of Russet Burbanks. Thus it would seem that the top positions went to Charlevoix young folks. All the more credit can be given these future farmers in that they selected their own potatoes from the field, selected the best 32 potatoes for the exhibit and actually put them up at the show without any outside help. Mr. Eggert likewise makes the statement that the same holds true with the Smith Hughes boys. Apparently the old adage of "learn by doing", certainly has worked out as these boys certainly know their potatoes. Elmer Hott, East Jordan, won high recognition when his peck of Katahdins placed first in this class. It was a beautiful peck and attracted a great deal of attention. Mrs. Edward Kowalski again maintained her reputation by having a peck of Russet Burbank placing 5th.

In the hundred pound samples 9 samples were shown with M. E. Ericker, Boyne City, Heston Dyer, Boyne City, Lewis McDonald, East Jordan, and Elmer Hott, East Jordan, receiving blue ribbons for a premium of $5 each. Second places were won by Mrs. Ora Allen, Boyne City, Ailee Todd, Boyne City and Sam Houtman, East Jordan for premiums of $2.50 each. Claude Shepard, East Jordan won third on his hundred pound sample for $1.50.

In the apple division this county was represented by three exhibitors, Eveline Orchards, D.D. Tibbits and Floyd Griffin. In the bushels of McIntosh Eveline Orchards won second, in Northern Spy Tibbits won first, in Snows Tibbits received first. In Wagners Eveline Orchards won first and Floyd Griffin second, in Wealthys Tibbits was first with Griffin second, and in "any other Variety" Eveline Orchards won first, second and fifth, Floyd Griffin fourth, and Tibbits 7th.

At the annual banquet held on Thursday night, the big feature was the selection of Northern Michigan Potato Queen. Miss Jean Zietler, Charlevoix was handed a beautiful bouquet of flowers by Mr. Wilson McDonald of Petoskey, the emblem of victory. Miss Zietler will now represent this section at Detroit in January when the State Consumers Show will be held. Competing with her will be three other district queens, so here's luck to you, Miss Zietler.

Next years show will be held in Cadillac where prospects point to another highly successful event.

Missionary Under Fire In Shanghai

Walter Turner Tells of Conditions in Shell-Torn City

The following letter recently received by Russell Thomas of Eveline Orchards should be of interest to many. Rev. Turner is an independent missionary who with his faithful wife has been carrying on in China for many years. Anyone desiring to help may send their contribution direct to the address given or may leave it with Mr. Thomas or bring it to the Union Gospel Tabernacle where a special offering will be taken next Sunday evening for this cause. We vouch for the genuineness of the appeal and the worthiness of Brother and Sister Turner.

PASTOR WALTER M. TURNER
P. O. Box No. 872
Shanghai, China
September 28, 1937.

Dear Bro. Thomas:
Peace be still: God spoke these words beloved to our heart at midnight Saturday, September the 18th after witnessing the most terribly air raid and bombardment we have ever seen. Shot and shell and the sound of heavy artillery in the near distance made us realize what the awful toll of lives would be to many innocent combatants. Far into the night the air raids kept up, it was impossible to rest, as we beheld fresh fires breaking out everywhere and as our hearts grew somewhat fearful we were calmed by that still small voice saying "Peace be still" bringing much comfort to our hearts.

We are not evacuating by the grace of God as the Chinese are needing us as never before, no funds have come in for two months, no food is available without cash. Please pray for us. We have rented two buildings with faith in the concession for the Chinese coolies who are homeless and for these rents and their food we also covet your prayer. Daily services are held in these buildings to encourage the hearts of the Christians and to draw the homeless heathen in to hear the word of God. Many heathens passing by, their little bundles under their arms (all their earthly possessions) weary and footsore stop to listen to the word of God and often find their peace and rest in Christ, Hallelujah!

The building we are living in has been bombed, the roof blown off, quite a number of people killed and injured. The roof is being put on and we are sheltered here, ministering to our Chinese.

Our new Woosung Church (rented) that we had just finished and began special services in has again been bombed and burned as in 1932. Naturally we were very sad and discouraged as we again saw the labor of over twenty years burned by the enemies' guns. Praise God we shall understand it better in that day of all days when "He" cometh for His Own.

We are in great need of woollen blankets, many of our coolies are without any bedding whatsoever, others whose only earthly possession is the garment they have on — for this great need we covet your prayers. Funds for clothing for the sick and homeless are also greatly needed. There are over fifteen hundred cases of cholera. Pray God beloved to protect us from this dread disease, "He" alone is able. One of our coolies has just passed away with this dread disease.

As we are writing you, we are witnessing another aerial fight and bombs are dropping again and again, big fires in many places. We need your prayers and co-operation as never before to stand true in the gap. Help us to keep God's coolie work open here. Many missionaries have gone but God says Thou remainest. We are only able to carry on the Master's work here as God lays us upon hearts at home.

Do not be afraid to trust your love into "His" keeping, they are bound to come safe, it is His work. Please send all love gifts to Rev. Walter M. Turner, Chinese Post Office Box 872 Shanghai, China (Via Hongkong). Don't forget beloved to add Via Hongkong as we do not want our mail to enter Japan.

Your Co-Workers for Lost Souls,

The Rev. Fr. John Gabriels performed the ceremony in the presence of about 25 guests.

The bride wore a cedar brown three-piece suit with brown accessories and a corsage of yellow orchids. Mrs. Clark B. Redner, the matron of honor, wore a green suit with brown accessories, and a corsage of yellow tea roses. Clark B. Redner attended the bridegroom.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Coy wore a black crepe dress with matching accessories and a corsage of gardenias. The bridegroom's mother wore a black crepe dress and also wore a corsage of gardenias.

Jordanites Win From Gaylord

BY 12 - 6 SCORE. NEXT GAME IS WITH BOYNE CITY

Coach Abe Cohn's high riding Crimson Wave will pull down the curtain on the 1937 football season, Saturday at Boyne City, where the Red and Black clash with the powerful Big Red team there. The Jordanites, fresh from their 12 to 6 triumph over Gaylord here at the homecoming game last Friday will be aiming to stop Boyne's supremacy in Northern Michigan Class C circles. The Red and Black will be given little chance to topple this powerful machine, which took its first beating in two years last Saturday as they were downed 18 to 18 at Cheboygan.

The Jordanites turned the tables Friday as they resorted to the air to beat the Blue and Gold here before a large homecoming day crowd. Tired of being dubbed unable to stop opponents aerial attacks, the Cohnmen put across their winning marker in the third period on a 15 yd. toss Bennett to Sonnabend, who scampered 40 yds. to score. Gregory, local full-back, scored the locals first touchdown early in the opening quarter as he carried it over from the three yd. marker. Lovelace, Blue and Gold

M. S. C. Players

Rely Upon Milk

Nearly all the players on the football team at Michigan State College drink milk by the pint and quart three meals a day.

In a survey undertaken to prove the value of milk during National Milk Week, Nov. 14 to 20, the players indicated that milk is a good food 52 weeks of the year. Coach Charley Bachman gives them credit for intelligence at the table as well as in classroom and on the football field.

These husky boys differ widely from the average person. For the nation the average milk consumption is less than a pint a day just as milk. Estimates are that the average family is spending 22 cents of each food dollar for milk and milk products. Some medical authorities suggest that this wisely could be increased in 35 cents of each food dollar to purchase milk, butter, cheese, ice cream and other milk products.

Michigan's milk industry is largely one of home consumption. The state has approximately 900,000 producing cows, according to estimates of A. C. Baltzer, extension dairyman at the college. Forty-eight per cent of the milk is consumed locally as fluid milk. The college is helping sponsor National Milk Week in the state. For aid to the milk industry and the health of residents in the state, staff members recommend wider use of milk throughout the year.

Milk in a glass contains more lime than a glass of lime water in offering teeth building material. Because milk has no waste such as husk or hull the fluid appears to be an ideal food, offering a more complete supply of food elements than any other solid or liquid.

Man Killed In Auto Crash

HEAD-ON COLLISION ON EAST JORDAN - BOYNE CITY RD. SATURDAY A. M.

One man was killed and six injured during the early hours of Saturday morning in a two-car collision near the Gunsolus farm on the East Jordan - Boyne City county road.

Peter Speltz, well-known Boyne City resident, died in Petoskey a few minutes after he was taken there from the scene of the accident. Five of the injured men are reported recovering in hospitals while the sixth suffered only minor hurts.

According to Wm. Taylor, Charlevoix county deputy sheriff stationed at East Jordan, Mr. Speltz was driving home from Traverse City where he and five others had attended an Eagles Lodge event. About three miles outside East Jordan, his car collided head-on with one driven by Clifford Dennis, of East Jordan.

According to Taylor, Mr. Speltz had allowed his car to veer to the left and was trying to get it back on the right side of the road when Dennis' car came over a hill and hit it. Dennis suffered only minor hurts.

The other injured men, Boyne City residents, all riding with Mr. Speltz, were: Chris Christianson, scalp wound and skull and chest injuries; Jerry Van Dorne, leg broken in two places; Kenneth Lane, scalp wound; Oley Erickson, both arms broken; and Walter Wurm, arms broken and chest injuries.

The men were treated by Dr. Guy Conkle and rushed to the hospitals. Both cars were badly wrecked.

TAMMANY HALL ROUTED

La Guardia and Dewey Winners in New York . . . Detroit Rejects Candidates Backed by the C.I.O.

Edward W. Pickard SUMMARIZES THE WORLD'S WEEK

La Guardia's Victory

TAMMANY HALL went down to its inglorious defeat in the New York municipal election. Its mayoralty candidate, Jeremiah T. Mahoney, who was supported also by Jim Farley and Senator Wagner, was thoroughly whipped by Fiorello H. La Guardia, candidate of the fusionists, the Republicans and the young American Labor party.

Second in interest only to the mayoralty vote was the fact that Thomas E. Dewey, the young man who smashed organized crime and the rackets in New York, was elected district attorney, defeating Harold W. Hastings, the Tammany nominee.

The Republicans regained control of the New York state assembly, and of many upstate cities.

C.I.O. Loses in Detroit

THE first important venture of the C. I. O. in politics turned out disastrously for the Lewis organization. Patrick H. O'Brien, its mayoralty candidate, declared on the stump that "labor must seize the reins of government in Detroit and every other American city."

In addition, all the five C. I. O. backed candidates for the common council were decisively whipped.

In New Jersey Senator A. Harry Moore, Democrat, was elected governor over Lester H. Cleo, Republican, but only by virtue of a big majority in Hudson county.

James M. Curley, who has been three times mayor of Boston and once governor of Massachusetts, tried again for the mayoralty, but was defeated by Maurice J. Tobin, like Curley a Democrat.

Philadelphia went Democratic, as did Pittsburgh, which re-elected Mayor Cornelius Scully.

Borah Talks Plainly

WHILE Republican national committeemen were gathering in Chicago for an important meeting, Senator Borah of Idaho jumped into print with a vigorous denunciation of the plan, favored by Hoover and Chairman Hamilton, to hold a mid-term Republican convention next spring, for the formulation of party policies.

Senator Borah

"We have heard a great deal about usurpation and dictatorship in recent years," said Borah. "There could be no greater exhibition of usurpation or dictatorship in politics than for a few accredited men undertaking to fix the principles and policies for 17 million voters without ever having consulted the voters or received their indorsement in any way."

"The Republican party is in its present plight largely because leaders of the party too long neglected to take counsel of the voters. Leaders acted upon the theory that the voters would be led or cudgeled along the road pointed out by the leaders."

Brussels Conference

FORMAL opening of the far east peace conference in Brussels brought out speeches by the chief delegates of America, Britain, France, Italy and Russia. Davis for the United States denounced resort to armed force as a means of settling international disputes, and urged Japan and China to seek a settlement of their conflict "by peaceful processes."

He continued: "We believe that co-operation between Japan and China is essential to the best interests of those two countries and to peace throughout the world. We believe that such co-operation must be developed by friendship, fair play, and reciprocal confidence. If Japan and America are to co-operate it must be as friends and not as enemies. The problems underlying Chinese-Japanese relations must be solved on a basis that is fair to each and acceptable to both."

Eden for England and Delbos for France seconded these sentiments. The Italian representatives made it clear Italy would not stand for any coercive measures against Japan.

China was represented by Dr. Wellington Koo who said: "We desire peace, but we know that we cannot obtain it in the presence of Japanese aggression. So long as aggression persists we are determined to continue our resistance. It is not peace at any price that will render justice to China or to the credit of civilization."

A committee was named to send an appeal to Japan to open peace negotiations with China, and Germany was asked to reconsider her refusal to take part in the conference.

Labor Hits Duke's Tour

RESOLUTIONS denouncing the American tour of the duke and duchess of Windsor as a "slumming trip professing to study labor" were adopted by the Baltimore Federation of Labor, and approved by President Green of the A. F. of L. They attacked Charles Bedeaux, the duke's friend, as sponsor of the "stretch-out system."

Officials of the Committee for Industrial Organization, while refusing to be quoted, said the attitude of their organization on the Bedeaux system was "well known."

Official and social Washington, which had been in doubt as to what to do about the distinguished visitors, was relieved when Sir Ronald Lindsay, British ambassador, announced he would give a state dinner for the royal couple, as he termed them, the day after their arrival. Immediately thereafter it was made known that President Roosevelt would entertain the duke and duchess at luncheon in the White House.

The duke's talk on arrival was to be broadcast over all major networks, but the British Broadcasting company announced it would not pick up Windsor's remarks for rebroadcasting in England.

Bedeaux said the duke while in the United States would observe these sixteen heavy industries:

Heavy machinery, light machinery, heavy chemical work, oil refining, textiles, tobacco, steel, rubber, either coal or metallic ore mining, automobile manufacturing, prepared foods, meat packing, logging, timber setting plus lumber, milling, pulp and paper production and vegetable and fruit packing.

Almost Recognition

GREAT BRITAIN decided to let Franco, Spanish insurgent chief, send consuls to England, and to send official agents to the part of Spain he controls. This, it was said in official circles, did not imply recognition of Franco, but British Laborites thought it did, and consequently assailed the government. Anyway, it was apparent Britain believed Franco was right when he said in Burgos "the war is won."

Wallace Plan Attacked

SECRETARY WALLACE'S "ever normal granary" plan is "politically inexpedient, economically unsound, and fundamentally unworkable," according to the Cash Grain association of Chicago which submitted a brief to a senate subcommittee at a hearing in Springfield, Ill.

British Are Enraged

JAPAN and Italy have been vigorously twisting the tail of the British lion, and if they keep it up, that mighty beast may be stirred to action. Within a few days five British soldiers were killed and a number wounded by Japanese shells in the fighting at Shanghai. The English there charged the killings were deliberate, in retaliation for the aid the British gave a "suicide battalion" of Chinese in escaping from a warehouse in Chapei, the native quarter, to the international settlement. The British and Japanese admirals had a hot dispute over the right of the former to prevent the passage of Japanese launches up Soochow creek.

Soon after the Japanese began shelling the residential area of the settlement and an outpost where English soldiers were quartered was destroyed. Continuous shelling of Shanghai by the invaders endangered the British and American lines on the border of the international settlement and shells fell close to the American warship Augusta, Admiral Yarnell's flagship.

Japan is angry over the alleged help Britain is giving China in the warfare and there is a movement in Tokio to break diplomatic relations with London. This is urged by the "council on the current situation," an unofficial body composed of high army officers, political leaders and other influential persons. The council adopted a resolution warning that unless Britain "reconsiders its improper attitude" Japan may be forced to take certain steps of "grave determination" against Britain, despite the "deep friendship existing between the two countries for the last sixty years."

Japanese troops invaded a part of the international settlement guarded by American marines and seized a Chinese junk loaded with rice. General Beaumont, commander of marines, immediately entered a protest and the Japanese apologized but the marines did not consider the incident closed because the Japs didn't return the junk.

The British government was not expected to take any action that would further anger Japan lest it should endanger the success of the party in Brussels. But wise observers do not believe the nine-power treaty conference will have any definite results.

More Piracy

ITALY'S latest twist of the lion's tail came in the form of the bombing and sinking of the British steamer Jean Weems in the Mediterranean by a "pirate" airplane.

The London Daily Herald's Barcelona correspondent reported that the Spanish loyalist government asserted that the plane bore markings showing that it was piloted by Bruno Mussolini, son of the Italian premier. The pilot gave the freighter's crew only five minutes to take to lifeboats and then sank the Weems with bombs.

The British battle cruiser Hood was sent at full speed from Palma, Majorca, to Barcelona to investigate the attack.

In parliament the critics of the government, led by David Lloyd George, demanded a stronger British Mediterranean policy. Lloyd George flayed the government for bolstering up the international committee on nonintervention in Spain, whose history after 14 months he denounced as "discreditable and dishonorable."

Morocco Uprisings

NATIONALIST uprisings in French Morocco, which have been giving the French government a lot of trouble, are blamed on agents of "a foreign totalitarian power," meaning Italy. The disorders, mainly in Casablanca, Fez and Medina, were quelled by troops, mostly Senegalese legionnaires, and hundreds of arrests were made.

The nationalists plotted to set up an independent Arab state with Moulay Allal El Fassi as king.

Budget Conference

WHILE members of congress were beginning to move toward Washington for the extraordinary session, President Roosevelt in his Hyde Park home was busy planning "means of carrying on the government program. Especially was he interested in the budget, and related financial matters, and to advise on this he called in Mariner S. Eccles, head of the federal reserve system. Treasury Secretary Morgenthau and Budget Director Bell already were there, and all listened closely to Mr. Eccles' talk concerning current business conditions and the stock market situation.

Mr. S. Eccles

It was decided by the President that the Commodity-Credit corporation should provide $35,000,000 for the corn loans, obtaining the money from the RFC and repaying the latter agency when congress makes the necessary appropriations. Officials of the Agriculture department gave corn growers assurance that the government will loan 50 cents a bushel on the large 1937 crop. The loans will be made, according to current plans, on field corn testing 14.5 per cent moisture content or less. The 50 cent rate will be reduced on corn containing more moisture.

Washington Digest

National Topics Interpreted by William Bruckart

Washington.—The old mother hen, congress, has settled down, prepared to hatch something from the nest of crop control eggs. At this stage of the proceeding, no one can make a guess as to the brood that congress will produce any better than a farmer's wife can tell what will be hatched by a real hen in her chicken house.

About all that can be said for sure is that President Roosevelt called congress into special session to enact crop control legislation and, therefore, there is likely to be crop control legislation of some kind. It may not be hatched in the special session; the chances are that the many differences of opinion and the many demands cannot be reconciled in the six weeks which the special session may occupy before the regular session of congress convenes in January.

In addition to the lack of time in which to maturely examine crop control questions, a rivalry has developed between the house and the senate over the honor of drafting and putting through the law which will tell the farmers what they can and what they cannot do as farmers. Let me say just here that such a rivalry may work to the benefit of agriculture because it is bound to mean a compromise between the house and senate on the legislation that finally is enacted. In other words, extremists, for and against any proposal, will have to yield and this may possibly result in some workable program for crop control.

The main question before congress is the type of crop control law to be enacted. There are two kinds. Control may be compulsory or it may be voluntary. Most of the powers that be in the Department of Agriculture seem to favor the compulsory kind—a law that will tell the farmers they can or cannot do certain things and if they violate the decree, they can be punished. Many groups of farmers, however do not want that sort of thing. In consequence we find in congress now proponents of both the compulsory and the voluntary programs and each side appears to be determined in its position.

We have seen both types used. Potato growers will remember how the potato control law laid down the rule that a quota of production should be imposed upon every farmer and that he must pay 45 cents per bushel above the value of his potatoes for every bushel produced above his quota. These growers will remember also the agricultural adjustment administration requirement that all potatoes sold must be packaged in a certain way that was prescribed for the grower by the AAA. In this connection it will be recalled how there was a penalty in addition for those who failed to properly package the potatoes they sold. Beyond these requirements, there was also a penalty prescribed to be invoked against any person who did not properly package his potatoes and place a government stamp thereon.

Besides all this, there was an "informal" section in the potato control law. It provided something of a bounty for any person who relayed to the authorities any information he had respecting failure of any farmer to comply with the law and the regulations issued thereunder. It was reminiscent of prohibition days when informers were paid to squeal on bootleggers.

The compulsory cotton control law was less stringent but it had penalties attached so that any cotton farmer who failed to comply with the regulations had to pay a tax on cotton produced over and above his allotment. This tax was so high—50 per cent of the value—that it amounted to a fine as punishment. The other kind of cotton control law, the voluntary plan, had no penalty provisions. This control was exercised by issue of subsidies or payments to farmers for raising various crops provided they limited the amount to the dictation of the AAA. Thus, under the voluntary control, the farmer could take the government's money and limit his crop to what the AAA said was his quota and thus be paid for compliance. Or, he could refuse the government's subsidy and raise what he pleased.

Now, in addition to these propositions, Secretary Wallace of the Department of Agriculture, is promoting what he calls his "ever normal granary" plan. This is to serve as supplemental to the crop control on the production side. The secretary has an idea that the federal government can take the surplus of good years off of the hands of farmers and hold them through the lean years when poor crops have failed to produce the amount required for American home consumption.

The secretary's "ever normal granary" plan is a red hot poker and there will be plenty of sparks flying off of the handle as well as the hot end when this thing is debated in congress. Opponents of the secretary's scheme contend that this program is straight out regimentation and that it goes as far in this effect as anything done by either the Fascist Mussolini or the Communist Stalin. It takes no stretch of the imagination, therefore, to see what is just ahead in the matter of a controversy for crop legislation for the reason that each of the programs that has been thus far advanced contains political dynamite.

Chairman Jones of the house agricultural committee began work on drafts of bills for crop control long before the session convened. Several weeks prior to the opening day of the special session, Mr. Jones appointed six sub-committees; each was charged with drafting legislation applicable to a specific commodity. In doing this, Mr. Jones threw the door wide open. He included six farm crops to share the alleged benefits of crop control legislation, including the "ever normal granary" surplus control program. The sub-committees were directed to work out legislation covering cotton, wheat, corn, tobacco, rice and dairy products. Inclusion of rice and dairy products came as a surprise. Heretofore, there had been little talk about including rice and none about dairy products. The information that filters into Washington is that a majority of the dairy people have no particular hankering for government dictation in their business. Chairman Smith of the senate agricultural committee likewise has been busy. Throughout the summer he has been attempting to get a line on farmer sentiment by a number of hearings in various parts of the country. From all indications, Chairman Smith, who comes from South Carolina and is a farmer in his own right, is not enthusiastic about too much government dictation in the field of agriculture.

Over on the house side of the Capitol, Secretary Wallace has many followers. Obviously, he will co-operate with them very closely. Indeed, some of the house members who do not like Mr. Wallace or his "ever normal granary" scheme are referring to the Wallace supporters in the house as "Henry Wallace's boys." That indicates better than anything I can say how deep-seated the feelings are.

To add to the complexity of the job facing congress, President Roosevelt has said definitely that if there are subsidies paid to farmers in connection with crop control legislation, that legislation must carry additional taxes to take care of the bounty payments authorized. Simmered down, therefore, what Mr. Roosevelt has said is that if the farmers want that kind of crop control legislation, they and all consumers must pay for it with added taxes.

I have heard general commendation of the President's position. It surely represents a straightforward policy by the Chief Executive in this regard. He has told the country now that he is willing to support agricultural subsidies through control of the crops if the whole country which has to pay the bill is willing to bear the extra taxes that are required.

Having presented the picture as I see it, it seems almost unnecessary to add that there will be two enormous lobbies bearing down on congress in the special session as well as probably in the regular session that convenes in January. I think I foresee now how Secretary Wallace and those who believe with him are going to operate both within and without the administration. That is to say, there will be administration pressure and when anyone says that there is administration pressure, they are saying nothing more or less than that the administration is lobbying. It has always been that way and it is no exception that the Roosevelt administration does the same sort of thing. The other lobby will embrace a considerable representation of farmer sentiment that is opposed to Washington dictation and which feels that additional taxes will have to be absorbed in part at least by agriculture. This happened in the case of a processing tax which was thrown out as unconstitutional. It will happen in every case for the reason that no one is going to absorb taxes when they can be passed on. When they are passed on to the farmers, that is the end because the farmer has no place to send them. The consumer is in the same fix.

In addition to this farm sentiment, the lobby in opposition to the Wallace program likely will find certain phases of other industry aligned with it. It will in all probability find a certain share or segment of consumer opposition because the consumers will have to pay in higher prices.

what Irvin S. Cobb thinks about:

Species of Candidates. SANTA MONICA, CALIF.—It takes all kinds of candidates to make up this world. Maybe that's why the world seems so overcrowded.

There's the candidate who belongs to all the secret orders; if he left off his emblems, he'd catch cold; knows every grand hailing sign there is; hasn't missed a lodge brother's funeral in years; can hardly wait for the next one to die. No campaign complete without him.

Candidate specializing in the hearty handshake, the neck-embrace, the shoulder-slap, the bear-hug, the gift of remembering every voter by his first name, and the affectionate inquiry regarding the wife and kiddies. When he kisses a baby, it sounds like somebody taking off a pair of wet overshoes. Usually has a weather-beaten wife needing a new hat. Strutty candidate who's constantly leading an imaginary parade of 50,000 faithful followers. Loves to poke his chest away out and then follows it majestically down the street. A common or standardized species.

Biblical Wisdom.

IN THE Book of Nahum, Chapter II, I came upon this verse: "The chariots shall rage in the streets, they shall jostle one against another in the broad ways; they shall seem like torches, they shall run like the lightnings."

Those Old Testament prophets certainly peered a long way into the future. Because I traveled by night through a main thoroughfare leading from Los Angeles to the sea and vice versa, and I knew what Nahum was describing.

But not even an inspired seer of the Bible could imagine a record of traffic mortality so ghastly as the one we've already compiled in this year of grace 1937 A. D. (automobile destruction)—or a people so speed-mad.

How to Fight Japs.

WHENEVER we have a Japanese war scare, I think of Uncle Lum. Whittmore, back in west Kentucky, who loved to dispense wisdom as he hitched one practiced instep on a brass rail and with his free hand fought the resident flies for the tidbit of free lunch which he held in his grip.

One day a fellow asked Uncle Lum, who had served gallantly in the Southern Confederacy until a very hard rainstorm came up, what he'd do if the yellow peril boys invaded America.

"I'd hunt me a hollow tree in the deep woods," he said. "Yes, son, the owls would have to fetch me my mail. I been readin' up on them Japs. They're fatalists."

"What's a fatalist?" demanded someone.

"Near-er I kin make out," stated the veteran, "a fatalist is a party that thinks you're doin' him a deep pussonal favor when you kill him."

Hollywood Fashions.

SOME evnious style expert says Hollywood fashions are too garish. If he's talking about Hollywood males, I say they're just garish enough. If they were any more garish than they are, visitors would have to wear blinders, and if they were any less garish, Italian sunsets would stand a chance in the competition. And I want the championship to stay in America.

Billy Gaxton picks out something suitable for a vest to be worn to a fancy dress party and then has a whole suit made out of it. Bob Montgomery's ties are the kind that I buy in moments of weakness and then keep in a bureau drawer because I'm not so brave as Bob is; and also I keep the drawer closed because I can't stand those sudden dazzling glares. And Bing Crosby is either color-blind or thinks everybody else is. But his crooning is mighty soothing. And so it goes—red, pink, green; purple, orange, sky-blue and here and there a dash of lavender.

Our local boys gladden the landscape with the sort of clothes I'd wear, too—only my wife won't let me. Stop, look, listen! That's our sartorial motto, and these jealous designers back east can kindly go jump in a dye-pot.

Home of the Celt

Little reference is made to Britain in the ancient classics, save that Pliny speaks of it as the "Looking-on Peninsula," with its eye and vision set upon the Atlantic, and Caesar tells something of the fighting qualities of the Veneti who inhabited the southwestern seacoast. As is well known, it is the home of the Celt, and neither the highlands of Scotland nor the west of Ireland, nor Wales can produce a finer type of that ancient race that dowered Europe with a civilization long before Homer sang of the Greek gods.

30 MINUTES AFTER Eating-Drinking ALKALIZE

AFTER A HEAVY MEAL..
AFTER A LONG EVENING

The fastest way to "alkalize" is to carry your alkaliizer with you. That's what thousands do now that genuine Phillips' comes in tiny, peppermint flavored tablets—in a flat tin for pocket or purse. Then you are always ready.

Use it this way. Take 2 Phillips' tablets—equal in "alkalizing" effect to 2 teaspoonfuls of liquid Phillips' from the bottle. At once you feel "gas," nausea, "over-crowding" from hyper-acidity begin to ease. "Acid headaches," "acid breath" over-acid stomach are corrected at the source. This is the quick way to ease your own distress—avoid offense to others.

But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery. Symptoms may be swelling backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, setting up nights, nagging, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder derangement may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination. There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. ## "WOLF!" CRIES SOUND ONCE MORE

Calamity Howlers, Foreseeing Unutterable Doom, Try Today, as in Years Gone By, to Scare the Pants Off Us.

The calamity howlers have predicted many dire reckonings for us all, but here we are, hale and hearty. Despite predictions, our farm lands have not become dust-blown deserts (upper right) and our people are not facing famine as are some Chinese (lower left). The end of the world has not come as predicted by Wilbur Glenn Voliva (upper left) or Robert Reidt (lower right).

By WILLIAM C. UTLEY

WITH news of catastrophes and wars reflected in the headlines often enough to give the nation the jitters, the 1937 "calamity howlers" are emerging from their hiding places like groundhogs from their burrows with a new batch of fearful predictions.

Suicidal war, man-made deserts, plagues and blights which will surely bring devastation to all farm lands—these have always been among the favorite topics of the skilled and unskilled prophets. Today, the bombing raids and the uncertainties of a new institution in human affairs—undeclared war—are giving an added note of terror to the old familiar war songs.

It is yet too soon to tell whether the optimists or the pessimists in the war scare controversy are correct, but only the booming of cannon and the whine of shells could out-shout the other calamity-howlers who are raising their voices in lecture halls and before microphones.

According to some prognosticators, the fertility of the soil in the United States is being reduced at such a rapid rate that the country will some day reach the status of China, and instead of $90 worth of food being available for every person in the country, there will be only about $15 worth.

Most widely spread of all the present-day calamity-howling is the ominous prediction that the "dust bowl" will emerge as an American Sahara where only one-fifth of the present population of 127,000,000 could possibly exist.

Few, today, raise the cry that the end of the world is coming, as they frequently used to.

The end of the world! That cry that once struck terror into the hearts of men, and which is still remembered when bombs and shells go screaming through the air, calls to mind the fear-stricken days of Mother Shipton.

She not only predicted the end of the world, but foresaw the Great Fire of London, the deaths of kings and princes, the invention of automobiles and steamships, the American Revolution and hundreds of other world-shaking events.

The only trouble with Mother Shipton was that she never existed, for her famous prophecy was later proved only a clever forgery, written and supposedly discovered after the described events had passed into history. Nevertheless, for one breathless night in 1879, nearly every church in England was jammed to the doors with the faithful, who confidently awaited the end of the world, as the non-existent prophetess had foretold.

When William Miller shouted "Doom" in the autumn of 1843, thousands of America's believers in the Second Advent trembled, went home, and prayed—while taking the last stitches and tucks in the resurrection gowns they were to don that night. At 12 o'clock they went out on the hilltops to await the end of the world. They waited until morning.

Then the Rev. Mr. Miller explained that his calculation—derived from an assumption that the 2,300 Biblical days from the time Ezra went into Jerusalem signified 2,300 modern years—was in error, because of the time lost in the change from Julian to Gregorian calendars. He announced that the next year was the time for the Last Judgment, but many years have passed since 1844, and with them, the Millerites.

Another Doom Proves Dumb. In 1925 Robert Reidt of Freeport, Long Island, made Page One of most newspapers by predicting that the world would end February 26, 1926. Collision with a comet would demolish this planet, he said. Nothing more was heard of Mr. Reidt until 1932, when he "revealed" that New York City would be destroyed at 11 o'clock Sunday night, October 9. The appointed time came—and went. He was last reported running a tea-room.

The "cry of 'Doom'" was taken up again in 1933 by Arthur B. Ware, who tried to prove there is something in a name. The Britisher flooded the world with pamphlets, booklets and announcements that the earth would cease to exist on June 12.

Two years later Wilbur Glenn Voliva, cult leader of Zion, Illinois, took up the torch of prophecy. Mr. Voliva wasn't sure whether the world would end in 1935 or 1936.

The second group of calamity-howlers—those who try to shake the faith of pioneers with the cry: "It can't be done!"—have pretty generally suffered the same disappointment that overtook those who predicted the end of the world.

Calamity-Howlers Still Wail. Even Columbus, who had to contend with his share of scoffers, did not envision the day when ships with a net tonnage of 130,717,015 would cross between the Old World and the New, as they did in 1936. Nor did the Wright brothers foresee the time when glistening liners of the airlines would chalk up a record of 439,000,000 passenger miles in one year, as they are doing now.

There are still many calamity-howlers who defy history with predictions of dire happenings about to occur.

In 1934 Professor Gustave Meyer said that there would be an epidemic of scarlet fever of terrible proportions in the United States navy. Nothing to confirm this can be found in navy medical records, however, and the 103,000 men in the navy rolls are ample evidence of another prediction that went wrong.

A modern pioneer in the prediction of calamitous events was R. P. Hearne, noted British economist. Writing for the London pictorial magazine, The Sphere, he said in the issue of October 10, 1920:

"Within ten years the power monopoly of coal will be broken and it will be broken not by political and economic methods but by the arrival of a new fuel which will replace coal! Long before our coal measures are exhausted, coal mining as we know it today will have ceased, and the coal strike will become as obsolete as coal itself."

Some calamity-howlers arouse the country with forecasts of slow and horrible annihilation.

A moderate warning, which was taken up and distorted with fearsome results, was issued by Dr.

Jacob G. Lipman. After exhaustive studies with the aid of a corps of 30 WPA engineers and statisticians, Dr. Lipman submitted a report last June, which said, in part:

Warns of Soil Destruction. "We have about 200 years to go unless we start seriously conserving our soil and renewing it where it has been destroyed or impoverished. The six most vital elements of the soil, essential for our food supply; are nitrogen, phosphorus, potash, calcium, magnesium and sulphur. Nearly all of them are being used up at the rate of many million tons a year."

Granted that the American farmer has dissipated his resources, that is not to say that behind the scenes science is not perpetually on guard to offset mankind's carelessness. On the debit side, floods and droughts have magnified the devastation, but means of restoring the soil are being constantly developed and improved.

Dr. P. D. Peterson, agricultural expert for the Freeport Sulphur company, is one of those who debunks the terror of the dying soil. "History, if nothing else, should teach that dire predictions of soil exhaustion are risky," he says, "because the same acres have been farmed and reformed for centuries in Europe and are still producing abundant crops."

He declares that American acres should be more productive rather than less, pointing out that scientific prescriptions in the form of balanced fertilizers and chemical compounds which enrich the soil are being added to the century-old practice of crop rotation. Sulphur, like nitrogen, phosphorus and potash, is required by all growing plants and animals, Dr. Peterson explains; soils deficient in sulphur will not support normal plant growth, but such deficiencies are being met by adding sulphur to the soil, either alone or in fertilizer mixtures.

Fungicides and insecticides, to which sulphur is also important, are conquering other menaces against which older generations were powerless, and have completely altered the situation, he says.

Still other modern "wolf" cries point out that in 1936 nearly 100,000,000 bushels of wheat were "burned away" as great, stifling clouds arose from the Dust Bowl.

Farmers of the great wheat belt, however, have refused to yield to panic, and they are giving the most effective answer yet devised to the calamity-howlers, by taking the steps necessary to overcome the difficulties in their path. They are using such simple and logical defenses as picket windbreaks and ranks of trees. They are plowing furrows at right angles to the prevailing winds, so that the sweep of the storms will be broken up.

Incidents such as these may combine to prove that calamity-howlers do have a value in dramatizing the menaces which threaten mankind. While whole countries are mentally thrown off balance by their fulminations, enough heat is generated to weld together the constructive elements in the community. This was seen in large-scale enterprises for reclaiming the soil, and may be repeated if the howl becomes loud enough, so that new measures for healing other ills will be forthcoming.

Mixed Sets of Silver Are Often Attractive

DEAR Mrs. Post: My husband's family has presented me with his deceased mother's flat silver. The pattern belongs to the mid-Victorian period and is not, at least in my eyes, at all attractive. However, my husband loves it and expects me to use it with his same amount of joy. I shall of course do my best to conceal my dislike for it although I had so much wanted to add to my own silver where pieces were needed. What worries me is having to use together some silver of one kind and some of another decidedly ornate type. I suppose there is nothing for you to answer except that it will look pretty terrible, but it would be consoling to know that you have seen really attractive tables where mixed patterns of this description were used. Frankly, have you?

Answer: Yes, I have. I agree with you that if you were able to buy new silver it would be much better to have it match. But many, many tables in beautifully appointed houses are set with mixed silver, and the reason is obviously that very few can, or want to, discard inherited silver, especially that which has a sentimental association.

DEAR Mrs. Post: On which side of the aisle do the bride's parents and friends sit? A friend tells me their correct places are on the left but does she mean left from the position of the pews or of the chancel?

Answer: They sit on the left side entering the church and facing the chancel.

Coming Out Party

DEAR Mrs. Post: Does a formally worded invitation to a coming-out party require an answer of any kind, and who is expected to send the debutante flowers and what does one say to her in the receiving line?

Answer: If the invitation includes no request for an answer, then none is expected. While leaving cards at the party or sending them if you can not go, is a formal exaction which, even in this day of informality, is still considered courteous, it is also one which most hostesses no longer expect except from strangers. Beaux and family friends usually send the debutante flowers although even they need not feel that their not being able to afford any should keep them from going to the party. When going down the receiving line, an intimate friend might tell the debutante how pretty she looked, but a stranger would merely say, "I hope you are going to have a wonderful time this winter," or "... a happy time this winter." Or if the party comes at the end of several, she might say, "I hear that you are having a wonderful time this winter."

Seat Hog Problem

DO YOU think it fair that the girls coming early to a school meeting keep best seats next to themselves for their particular friends who come in later? We feel that those who come first have a right to these best seats and we wish you would express your opinion before we bring the matter up for discussion at the next meeting.

Answer: This is one of the great abuses found in all assembly rooms where the audience is not given reserved seats. For a fairly large group to keep one extra seat is perhaps not out of the way, but to send someone on ahead, as is commonly done, who spreads a coat out in each direction for six or eight who come at their leisure is an evidence of extreme lack of appreciation of the rights of others. We can all understand that people in one group like to sit together, since this is only natural. But either they should all come together and then take best available seats or else they should be satisfied with seats at the side or in the back. In short, they should keep seats that are not especially desirable.

To Be Wed in Brown

DEAR Mrs. Post: I am being married in a street dress in the presence of only a dozen relatives and friends. I intended getting a brown dress since my traveling coat is of mixed browns with a beaver collar, but on second thought perhaps brown would be as unsuitable on this occasion as black. I am referring to the superstition that black suggests bad luck for those in the wedding.

Answer: The reason black is avoided at weddings is that it is the color of mourning. There is no such association with brown. The only possible criticism of brown is that it might seem sombre unless lightened in some way by color at your throat or by carrying bright colored flowers.

Blue Moons

Once in a blue moon is supposed to mean never, or hardly ever. But we learn from a high meteorological authority that blue moons are seen.

There was a blue moon reported at Santa Barbara, Calif., last year, colored as brightly as the blue of a rainbow and seen through a thin veil of magenta-hued cloud.

A blue moon was noted by the astronomers in Ireland during the eclipse of 1927, and after the explosion at Krakatoa, when volcanic dust floated all over the world, blue moons and green were reported.

WOMEN WHO HOLD THEIR MEN NEVER LET THEM KNOW

NO matter how much your back aches and your nerves scream, your husband, because he is only a man, can never understand why you are so hard to live with one week in every month. Too often the honeymoon express is wrecked by the nagging tongue of a three-quarter wife. The wise woman never lets her husband know by outward sign that she is a victim of periodic pain. For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age." Don't be a three-quarter wife; take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and go "Smiling Through."

Boyer City Football Squad To Baptize "Brotherston Field"

Football fans will have their last chance this year to witness Boyer City's unique football machine in operation at the "homecoming" game with East Jordan this Saturday, November 13, at Boyer City.

All indications point to this game as one of the best of the season, both teams being in fair condition, with the exception of a few injuries for Boyer.

East Jordan gridders have been putting a bag-of-tricks in play all season and now show the fastest improvement of any other team in the conference. They do not hope to defeat Coach Brotherston's aggregation — but solemnly vow to cross the Red and Blue goal line.

If everything turns out as intended, there will be a sound wagon on the field to announce line-ups and furnish music.

Boyer City also displays one of the best Pep Teams in Northern Michigan. Don't miss a chance to see these four girls "do their stuff".

In keeping with the importance of this concluding game of the season, it is announced that it will be first to be played on the newly-named field — "Brotherston Field." The student body, in honor of Coach J. E. Brotherston of Boyer City, formally voted that this new name be accepted. With this in mind, it is expected that the entire alumni of Boyer City will turn out in a body in addition to all the townspeople in recognition of the home-coming game.

The Three R's AND TELEPHONE TAXES

Approximately $29,000,000 of the money which the people of Michigan have paid for telephone service over the past ten years has come back to them in the form of primary school education for the boys and girls of the state.

That is because taxes assessed by the state against certain utilities, including the Michigan Bell Telephone Company, are paid into the primary school fund. From there the money is distributed among the 83 counties of the state, and helps support the elementary, grammar and high schools.

Money alone could not account for Michigan's high standards of public education. Our state has been fortunate in the men and women entrusted with this work—the superintendents of public instruction, state, county, city; the local school boards, Parent-Teacher associations, and the individual teachers.

This Company makes the largest individual payment into the primary school fund. During the past ten years the Company has paid into the fund $28,978,000, this year's payment alone amounting to $2,624,092.47. This is an important contribution to a school system to which is entrusted the education and character-molding of 960,000 boys and girls — Michigan's school children today, her citizens of tomorrow. These taxes are in addition to the Company's Federal and miscellaneous taxes.

Pride in Perfection

A GREAT deal of the joy of life consists in doing perfectly, or at least to the best of one's ability, everything which he attempts to do.

There is a sense of satisfaction, a pride in surveying such a work—a work which is rounded, full, exact, complete in all its parts—which the superficial man, who leaves his work in a slovenly, slipshod, half-finished condition, can never know.

It is this conscientious completeness which turns work into art. The smallest thing, be it well done, becomes artistic.—William Matthews.

Old Masters

The question arises as to what percentage of the paintings called "old masters" are fakes. No compilation of statistics is available. By way of illustration, however, of the volume of the business done in spurious "old masters" it is said that 2,000 paintings attributed to Van Dyck have been sold to art collectors and galleries, whereas the artist actually produced only 70 paintings during his lifetime.

ME STAY HOME FROM WORK? NO SIR! NOT WHEN GENUINE BAYER ASPIRIN EASES HEADACHE IN A FEW MINUTES

The inexpensive way to ease headaches—if you want fast results—is with Bayer Aspirin.

The instant the pain starts, simply take 2 Bayer tablets with a half glass of water. Usually in a few minutes relief arrives.

Bayer tablets are quick-acting because they disintegrate in a few seconds—ready to start their work of relief almost immediately after taking.

It costs only 2¢ or 3¢ to relieve most headaches—when you get the new economy tin. You pay only 25 cents for 24 tablets—about 1½ apiece.

Make sure to get the genuine by insisting on Bayer Aspirin.

Beware Coughs from common colds That Hang On

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with any remedy less potent than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and aids nature to soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membranes and to loosen and expel the germ-laden phlegm.

Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, try Creomulsion. Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefits obtained from the very first bottle. Creomulsion is one word—not two, and it has no hyphen in it. Ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

The bow boatman, yonder, cried out in alarm, lifting his paddle high, and went overboard to escape this menace.

The lurch caught Rickman off balance as he lunged forward and grasped a gun lying on packs before him. He cursed sharply, tried to hold the weapon and clutch for the rail at once; the rifle slid into the water with a splash and the man in the stern dived from his seat for sanctuary.

For a moment they held so, Shaw's gun full on his enemy's breast.

"You are not going on, Rickman," he said evenly. "It's the end of your march! The ma'm'selle proceeds, unpursued!"

The other's eyes were busy, now that a second had elapsed and the hammer not fallen. He laughed dryly. "So, you would shoot a man down, unarmed?" he asked and the taunt was stinging.

"The end of your march . . . in all things!"

"In cold blood . . . and three to one?"

The taunt struck home. He could see Shaw's mouth settle. He moved a hand, then significantly toward the knife at his belt.

"For long I've wished this," he muttered. "But . . . man to man, without odds!"

"Man to man! you beg for that new, eh? You, a snake, begging for such? Well, I'll demonstrate to you what decent folk will do, how far decent men will go . . . with snakes."

The muzzle dropped, he squeezed the trigger. Water splashed and the flattening ball ripped crunching through the skin of Rickman's canoe below the water line.

Silence a moment. He could hear the water gurgling about the other's feet. Lower settled the canoe under Rickman. It lurched and listed; it went awash and the trader, abandoning effort to keep it righted, vaulted to the lake, supporting himself with a hand on the gunwale.

"So!" cried Rodney. "You men, —to Jacques — 'ashore with you! He has no supporters; I'll have none. He's asked for it, at last! I'll take no advantage . . . Ashore, now!"

They went over the side, frightened, and swam slowly for the reeds away from which he was drifting in the breeze, faces over their shoulders, watching him in a sort of terror.

Then Shaw slipped his knife from its sheath, clamped it between teeth and seizing a paddle, face dark with fury, drove forward. Two strokes, three. He dropped the paddle, half rising to lunge and pounce upon his adversary.

But Rickman could read the plan of attack as clearly as though it had been written down for him. He waited that pulse beat until Shaw should be poised for his leap and then, cat-like, he shot out a great hand, grasped the moving canoe, shoved it, twisting it and Shaw, upset by the joggling, sprawled with a splash.

Grinning, then, Rickman, supporting himself with a hand on the canoe bow, saw the other break the surface, saw him turn and strike out, swimming for him, heard his rattle of rage through the teeth set on the knife blade.

"Ha!" he cried, swinging the canoe mightily. "Ha, Shaw! Plans go awry!"

The stern swept toward the swimmer, blocking his way as Rickman drew himself to the far side, leaning over at Shaw, now lifting a hand for support.

Rodney breathed rapidly. The excitement, the unexpected plunge, the quick effort to close, had taken toll on his strength. He began working himself hand-across-hand along the canoe to be at Rickman. But, even as he went, Rickman moved on the opposite side, keeping more than an arm's length between them, laughing, laughing . . .

"Dunce!" he cried. "Dunce! The other end to, I'd have drilled you, Shaw! I'd have drilled while you whimpered for fair fight! But now . . . Will you wait for me, or will you come?"

Shaw swore hoarsely and started working his way around the canoe, but on ahead went Rickman, laughing until, winded, his pursuer rested again.

"Our trader loses his wit?" Rickman jeered. "Our trader forgets that inland nothing is banned. He plays the gentleman and . . . perishes, eh?"

One of Rodney's legs cramped and he grimaced in pain. He was breathing through open lips, now, failing to recover strength in this snatch of a rest period.

Minutes counted; seconds, even, were precious . . . Slowly Shaw worked himself along the canoe as Rickman jeered. The man was confident, expecting, and with good reason, to see Shaw relax his grip at any moment, helpless through weakness even to keep his nostrils above water. They were face to face, directly opposite one another. Shaw drew his knees upward until they touched the canoe bottom. He spread his feet wide, he shot them forward, he brought his heels together.

Almost before his legs gripped Rickman he saw surprise and chagrin sweep the man's face. He hooked his own elbows over the rail. He crossed his feet and jerked his legs inward with all the might left in them, with all the steel and courage in his heart. Rickman cursed sharply, once, a curse that had begun with contempt and ended with fearful surprise. He had not reckoned strength like this.

The man let go the canoe with his knife and stabbed downward to cut the legs dragging at him. His other hand could not hold him safe. In a trice he was under water, direction of the slashing blade going wrong, dragged beneath the canoe, feeling hands grapple for him . . .

Rickman's blade slashed out but Rodney caught the wrist. He closed and they rolled over once and came up face to face, both strangling, free hand of each gripping the knife hand of the other.

Rodney's head was under his adversary's chin, now, forcing him backward; legs twined about one of Rickman's thighs, binding it close, giving purchase for the boring of that head. His back was gradually forced against the side of the canoe.

That determined skull worked in against Rickman's throat and he squirmed for breath. His left shoulder was wrenched cruelly as Shaw found leverage on the arm. He could not breathe, could not wriggle free. Fingers on his right wrist were slipping down, working over the hand, searching for his knife. He tried to let it go but those other fingers would not permit.

"Enough!" he gasped. " . . . turn back . . . my oath . . ."

The words carried to Rodney's understanding through the roaring and pound in his ears. They were sweet, they gave him more than desperate determination to go on. He gripped the tighter with his legs on that thigh, drove his head the harder into Rickman's gullet; began to work on that right hand, drawing it in, forcing it to yield, holding it from driving his way, bending it down and backward to wrench the shoulder until the fingers would flex.

"Enough!" His own right was free, now, and Rickman was sinking beneath him as the hold on the canoe was broken. Shaw went under himself, but still held that thigh close, driving the chest down with his head, pulling that arm up from behind.

He sid his knife against ribs, holding it there, seeking for purchase to drive it home and then Rickman, with a last foundering move, rolled him over, there in the green, suffocating depths. But as he turned, his back pressed the blade point. It held an instant, gritted on bone and plunged . . .

With a quiver Rickman went limp. His arm flexed, his body twitched . . . And then Rodney was rising, rising slowly, almost lazily, commencing to swim indifferently, as in a dream.

Jacques was staring hard at him. "It is done, master," he said. "One may now return in peace."

"We do not return, Jacques, we march on."

It was on the second night that they rounded a bend of the great Mississippi to see the point of fire on the dark point of land before them. They approached without hail, silently, but Annette's men had detected them. One was standing there in the half shadows, rifle at ready, as Jacques leaped out. "Shaw!"

"Ay!" He swallowed, as if the next were of tremendous import. "The ma'm'selle . . . She is where?"

"Around the point . . . She walked as I prepared food." She Rodney moved slowly past the small fire, heedless of the stares of the men clustered there. He went on along the narrow strip of stony flat beneath the towering heights, moccasins making no sound while his heart flailed his ribs.

He stopped suddenly. She was standing there, cloak drawn about her. She was very still but after a time he could see that her hands worked slowly, caressing something they held.

"Annette?" he said in a whisper, almost timidly.

She tilted her head as if the sound had been so faint that she could not distinguish the direction from which it came.

"Annette!"—louder. The girl turned and one hand whipped to her throat.

"Rodney? Rodney! It is . . . you?" He could only nod. Beholding her through new eyes, with honestly desiring eyes, he had no words. She was so lovely!

"I . . . I found your letter," he said simply.

She waited silent and motionless. "I've come to say, first, Annette, that things which do not matter elbow themselves in. Like trade. Like freedom . . . These never should have mattered. Habit, like, made them matter. Or blindness . . . Whatever it was, this trade and what it represented, stood in the way of important things . . . holy things . . ."

He lifted a hand in a gesture of futility. "Why try to explain? I was a fool. I was arrogant, unthinking, ignorant of values. I hurt and tortured you. I . . . I struggled to awake you and then turned away. I know now, Annette, that the things I believed to be true in my last hours at Mackinac were not true. Without you, I would be under guard, on my way to a cell. Or, without you, I would be lying dead, buried among the Pillagers. I know what happened . . . Some of it . . . Rich told me

THE END

And I have come this way to tell you . . . to say to you . . . to thank you for my life, Annette . . . my life!"

His voice sank to a whisper. "Rodney! Oh, Rodney! I claim the responsibility for mischief; you demand it! Can it ever be decided? No! Neither will grant the other responsibility. I know I will not . . . But does that matter?"

"It does not matter . . . now," he said and for the first time touched her.

His hands trembled on her arms, on her shoulders. She stood rigidly, however, without response.

"But you came this way, Rodney, just to say these healing words. And you left your establishment with Rickman near? Was that wise? Might he not do you harm?"

"Rickman," he said, "is gone." "Gone?"

"Forever." He felt her shudder and sway, then. Gently, he drew her close with one arm, feeling for her hand with his other. He found it, clasped on a limp and formless shred.

The hand opened, depositing in his what it had held.

"What's this?" he asked, puzzled. "The black feather, Rodney . . . The plume Crooks gave you on your arrival. Symbol of invincibility!"

She laughed softly at his astonishment.

"You dropped it when they arrested you. I found it, dear Rodney. I have kept it since as a symbol . . . a symbol, perhaps, of hope. That some day you might long for an attainment which cannot be measured in the powers of men's bodies or the depth of their courage or the sharpness of their wits, but instead in the tranquility of contented hearts . . ."

"And now I . . . I yield it to you!"

A tremor ran through him. He shook his head.

"No. Keep it, Annette. The thing I now know which is the objective of all men rests in your hands, cupped in your gentle palms. Keep, with my heart, this token . . ."

Greatest Amount of Our Restlessness Comes in the Last Few Hours of Sleep

When you wake up after a sound night's slumber you may feel as though your rest was unbroken and continuous all night long. Really, though your rest was unbroken and ing pattern of deep sleep, stirring movement, near-arousal and then sinking down into the depths of quiet sleep again. This pattern is repeated over and over throughout the night, but as morning approaches the depths of sleep become shallower and the sleeper is easier to awaken before the alarm clock finishes the job.

This pattern of sleep was found in the course of experiments conducted at the department of physiology of the University of Chicago with both dogs and human beings. By electrical means the tossings and stirrings of the sleepers were recorded and measurement was made of the degree of noise required to disturb them.

Each person seems to have his own pattern of movement and level of sensitivity to noise, and he tends to follow this pattern more or less regularly, the investigators said in reporting their findings to the Journal of Experimental Psychology.

The ease with which a person can be awakened is related to the length of time since he last moved rather than the time of the night. Individuals differ in both restlessness and soundness of their sleep, but the differences are not always in the same direction for both factors. On the average, the most quiet sleeper is the one most easily aroused, it was found.

In a normal night's sleep, the greatest amount of tossing and also the most frequent spontaneous awakenings of the sleeper come in the last few hours of sleep. Toward morning the sleep becomes shallower and shallower. Sometimes, however, the sleeper will settle down toward the end of his sleep for about forty-five minutes of quiet, deep slumber like that he enjoyed during the first of the night.

A strange adventure befell these two people from opposite ends of the earth . . . it shattered precedent . . . it brought a new and better life to each.

"CHRISTMAS BRIDE" is an intensely human serial story. It recounts the transformation of a man's heart and soul . . . shows him abandoning the fruitless pursuits of an idle life, adopting in its stead a purposeful attitude.

You'll enjoy every installment of this great serial, from the light-hearted opening chapter to the gala Yuletide climax. You'll laugh, cry and sigh as the crafty novelist shifts her characters in an ever-changing, ever-intiguing pattern of events.

THE AUTHOR

Grace Livingston Hill is one of America's most prolific writers, having produced more than 50 novels and serial stories in addition to numerous short stories. Her first attempt was a child's book written at the age of 10. Widow since 1897, she supported her two children with the income from her literary work. Numberless testimonials from people in every walk of life testify to the unique value of her writing . . . inspirational, yet practical to the extreme.

OF INTEREST TO THE HOUSEWIFE

Whipping of Cream.—If whipped cream will not stand up, it is often due to the fact that the cream is not sufficiently chilled. It is important, too, to have a heavy cream of the right butter fat (20 to 30 per cent) and 12 to 24 hours old. The cream must be cold, and is best beaten in a cold container.

Inexpensive Stew.—Chop two onions and a large carrot finely, and cut a pound of neck lamb into small pieces. Put into a saucepan with one cup macaroni broken into small lengths, cover with warm water and season. Let it simmer gently for one and a half hours.

Removing Blueing Spots.—Blueing spots on white clothing can be removed by boiling in clear water.

Serving Omelets.—Omelets should be placed on hot platters to keep them from falling.

Save Table Surface.—If you will place a folded cloth under a dish which contains foods to be beaten you'll find the table surface will be saved many marks and the dish will be kept steady.

Scaling Fish.—Fish may be scaled easily by first dipping them into boiling water for a minute.

Ox-Tail Pie.—Wash ox tail in salted water and joint; put into pan, cover with water, and simmer until almost cooked. Line bottom and sides of pie dish with slices of raw potato sprinkled with pepper and salt. Cover with strips of bacon, then place ox tail in center and pour in stock; season and cover with more slices of potato. Cover with pastry and bake in a quick oven.

Built on Air Lots

The Merchandise Mart is built over tracks of the Chicago & North Western railway. The railroad retains ownership of the area on which its tracks operate. It sold air lots, representing possession of the space above ground occupied by the entire building, and numerous miniature ground lots necessary to sink caissons. The air was actually subdivided into lots and the diagram of the aerial real estate filed in the office of the recorder of deeds of Cook county, Ill.

What They Learn at School for 'Angels of the Airways'

BEFORE she is sent aloft to keep airline passengers comfortable and happy, the air stewardess must learn the ropes in special classes, such as the ones conducted at Kansas City, Mo., and pictured here.

The girls, most of whom are graduate nurses, must be taught the proper manner in which an air stewardess greets passengers at the door of a plane; how to move about in the aisle; what to say and what not to say in conversing with passengers; the correct way to serve hot food prepared in the plane's buffet; how to make up a berth neatly and correctly (as pictured at right); the correct make-up of face and nails, and dozens of other things.

A prospective stewardess must be of somewhat mechanical bent, too, for she must understand instruction in the building of an airliner; in the heating system of the cabin; why and how a plane flies, and the duties and ability of the pilot while aloft.

Serving a hot meal to a passenger in the clouds is no simple trick. The student shown above is practicing the deft art and doing very well, too. A typical meal which might be served aloft to an airline passenger would include fried chicken or lamb chops, potato chips, fruit salad, coffee and nuts.

Paper dishes are usually used for meals in the sky, but the silverware must be polished (as shown above) in the liner's compact buffet.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for November 14 THE CHRISTIAN MINISTER

LESSON TEXT—I Timothy 4:6-16; II Timothy 2:14.
GOLDEN TEXT—Neglect not the gift that is in thee.—I Timothy 4:14.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Two Brave Preachers.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Two Brave Preachers.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Why and How Ministers Are Trained.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Christian Minister in the Modern World.

"The Christian Minister"—there is no greater calling among men, but none is more often the target for misrepresentation and abuse by those outside, and all too often the victim of the carelessness, weakness, and sin of those within its own circle. On the other hand it has had, and continues to have to this day, within its ranks such a noble army of faithful and sacrificial men as would probably be impossible to duplicate in any other calling.

The study of today's lesson should arouse in the hearts of Christian people a high regard for the ministry as a calling, and a kindly purpose to aid their minister to live up to its glorious possibilities. Every true minister who studies it will find his spirit humbled before God in thanksgiving for the privilege of service, and in prayer that he may be forgiven for his failures and empowered for the work of the future. The need for such a study is indicated in the verses just preceding our lesson, namely, I Timothy 4:1-5, where we read of the express warning of the Spirit of God that in the latter times there should be teaching and preaching which departed from the faith, substituting men's wisdom for God's Word. One who looks around him cannot but feel that we have fallen upon that evil day.

I. What to Preach (I Tim. 4:6-9).
The "good minister of Jesus Christ" preaches the words of God. To do this he must himself be "nourished" by them. Spare your preacher the necessity of running errands, serving on boards and committees, and encourage him to study his Bible.

Preacher, are you studying God's Book, learning and teaching "good doctrine"? If so you will have no interest in or time for "profane and old wives fables."

II. How to Preach (I Tim. 4:10-12).

1. Sacrificially (v. 10). The man who regards the ministry as a nice, easy, respectable occupation is not in the same calling as was the apostle Paul. In fact, there is nothing to indicate that he is in the Christian ministry at all, for in that calling there is labor and suffering of reproach. This is not something to be borne in a spirit of resigned submission. The minister knows and "trusts in the living God," and gladly bears every responsibility with which God may entrust him.

2. Authoritatively (v. 11). The minister of Christ speaks for God. In doing so he teaches with assurance and is to "command" men in the Lord's name. All too often the servants of the Lord feel and act like "grasshoppers" (see Numbers 13:33), and everybody else regards them as feeble and impotent, when they should be "strong in the grace that is in Christ Jesus" (II Tim. 2:1).

3. Actively (v. 12). Whether young or old, the minister is to be an example, a pattern in his active daily life. Note how discriminating is the scripture. He is to be a pattern for others in speech, manner of living, in love, in spirit, in faith, and in purity of life.

III. Who Is to Preach (I Tim. 4:13-16).

1. The man who is divinely called (v. 14). God called Timothy; men recognized that call and ordained him to give his life to the exercise of his God-presented gift. This is the right order for our day.

2. The man who is properly prepared (vv. 13, 15-16). The ministry calls for the best preparation that a man can possibly obtain. He must know how to read God's Word, both publicly and privately. He is to be skilled in exhortation, and in teaching Christian doctrine.

In conclusion, let us consider the portion from II Timothy 2 which properly presents the work of the minister as that of a soldier at war against the world, the flesh, and the devil. He must be prepared to bear hardness, and he must not yield to the temptation to get into "side-lines," no matter how dignified and profitable they may be. His sole business is to serve and to please God.

What Education Means
The real object of education is to give children resources that will endure as long as life endures; habits that time will ameliorate, not destroy; occupation that will render sickness tolerable, solitude pleasant, age venerable, life more dignified and useful, and death less terrible.—Sydney Smith.

A Happy Man
Happy the man who sees a God employed in all the good and ill that checker life.—Gowper.

Are Women Better Shoppers than Men?

GRANTING a woman's reputation for wise buying, let's trace the methods by which she has earned it. Where does she find out about the advantages and details of electrical refrigeration? What tells her how to keep the whole household clean—rugs, floors, bathroom tiling—and have energy left over for golf and parties? How does she learn about new and delicious entrees and desserts that surprise and delight her family? Where does she discover those subtleties of dress and make-up that a man appreciates but never understands?

Why, she reads the advertisements. She is a consistent, thoughtful reader of advertisements, because she has found that she can believe them—and profit thereby. Overlooking the advertisements would be depriving herself of data continuously useful in her job of Purchasing Agent to the Family.

For that matter, watch a wise man buy a car or a suit or an insurance policy. Not a bad shopper himself! He reads advertisements, too!

In the wood turning section, on nut bowls, lamps, napkin rings, and toothpick holders. Those students in electricity have learned definitions, the structure of a dry cell, and of the electrical bell, and how to install and replace flush switches. At present they are wiring doorbells and buzzers.

The sheet metal section, after learning the fundamentals, made funnels and is now working on dust pans. The members of the forging sections are making a staple; and those working on cement have started the construction of blocks and bookends.

The chemistry classes are studying atoms and molecules. Can there be anything as small as a ten-millionth of an inch?

The seventh grade geography classes report that their cotton, sorgham corn, and cactus plants are "doing fine." They are writing letters to every state in the union and plan to trade scrapbooks and souvenirs. Six of the children are corresponding with students in foreign lands.

ASSEMBLIES

More pep meeting assemblies have been held than any other kind this year. A pep meeting has been held before every football game. At the first one, the members of the team were introduced by Coach Abe Cohn. Songs, yells, and short talks by faculty members and guests have featured the pep assemblies.

The band has played for three of them. Seats are reserved at these assemblies in the front rows for members of the Pep Club.

Several weeks ago a safety assembly was held. "Don't be a goof", said Mr. Chester Parkin, who, representing the Automobile Association of America, gave an interesting talk and showed a safety movie.

In addition to these assemblies, several short ones have been called by the administration for school citizenship instruction.

SOPHOMORE PARTY

The entertainment committee met Thursday, November 4, to make plans for the Sophomore invitation party, Friday, November 12. It was decided to have a grand march at the beginning of the evening. Meanwhile there will be dancing, games, and speeches from the chaperons. A short floor show was planned, those asked to take part were Francis St. Arno, Peggy Drew, Evelyn Collins, Bill Dolezel, Arthur Gerard, Blanche Davis, Elaine Hosler, and Patricia Vance.

4-H CLUB

CHARLEVOIX KIWANIS CLUB
ENTERTAINED 4-H CLUB MEMBERS

A most pleasing and enjoyable event took place last Tuesday night, October 26 at the Charlevoix Hotel when the Kiwanis Club had as their guests 4-H club members and Smith Hughes Project members. Approximately 25 crops exhibits were displayed by these young farm lads, representing the Smith Hughes activities under the head of Mr. Russell Eggert, Smith Hughes teacher at East Jordan and the Peninsula Club of the Advance community.

A wonderful banquet was contributed by the Kiwanis club in recognition of the fine work being accomplished by these young folks. It was planned to have moving pictures as the main feature of the entertainment but the films did not arrive on time, so the program was largely made up of short remarks by various Kiwanis club members. Approximately 41 guests were present and their displays brought forth many favorable comments. The Kiwanis club deserves a lot of credit for interesting themselves in this 4-H club program. During the past year they have appointed a committee from their group who have actually contacted the various groups and sponsored this fine program.

The judging of the various exhibits resulted in the following members having the best exhibits. In potatoes: Wilbur McDonald, Einar Olstrom, LeRoy Nieloy and Raynor Olstrom. Corn: Ronald Lyon, Delmer Lyon and Jim Hamlin. Beans: Albert Routley. The best potato exhibits will next be shown at Petoskey this week where it is hoped they will give a splendid account of themselves.

HOMECOMING CELEBRATION

The events of Homecoming completely filled the social calendar of the students last week.

The celebration started with a "bang" Thursday evening, November 4, when about 100 high school students assembled for songs and yells at a huge bonfire in the field back of the school house. A preview of the old time football game for the Friday pep meeting was presented; and short peppy remarks were administered from a soap box by George Secord, Gayle Saxton, Charles Dennis, Edward Stanek, and Bob Blair, the impersonators of the old team and all alumni of East Jordan. The highest point of the program was the funeral march led by the pallbearers who carried a miniature casket adorned in the blue and gold of Gaylord High. The mourning procession slowly marched down into the woods behind the school where the casket was lowered down into the grave while Art Rude gave the funeral address. The mood of the crowd soon changed, however, and the pep session ended by a snake dance through town heralded by yells of astounding volume.

An unusual amount of pep was carried over for Friday's activities. The pre-game pep meeting presented Friday morning was the next event on the schedule. The program in every detail was a huge success. The

"Did you see the lady senator?"
"I did."
"And what was she doing when you saw her?"
"She was powdering her nose."

That's Different

"Do you know that Mr. Softman I was just speaking to?" asked a guest at a tea party of a woman standing next to her.
"O, yes," was the reply.
"I suppose he says those sweet things to all the women he meets?"
"No, he never says them to me."
"Indeed! and you know him?"
"O, yes—I'm his wife!"—New Haven Post.

alumni and parents were honor guests. After the opening number by the High School Band and high school songs and yells, two very interesting talks were given by Mr. Howard Porter and Attorney Edward Reuling. The climax of the program was a clever skit impersonating the crimson Wave team of 1903. Those who took part were Clarence LaLonde, referee; Joe Wilkins, announcer; and the players George Secord, Gayle Saxton, Charlie Dennis, Edward Stanek, Bob Blair, and Tom Joynt.

In the afternoon the combined Gaylord and East Jordan Bands made a fine showing as they marched from the high school to the football field. About six hundred fans witnessed East Jordan's 12-6 victory over Gaylord.

The homecoming celebration ended Friday evening with a dance in the high school gymnasium, sponsored by the junior class.

GAYLORD GAME

Playing here Friday, East Jordan won over Gaylord 12-6 before a large homecoming crowd. The local fullback scored in the first quarter. The Gaylord quarterback scored in the second quarter, East Jordan scored again in the third, by a pass to Sonnabend, making the score 12-6 in East Jordan's favor which it remained the rest of the game.

We EXPRESS APPRECIATION

The Homecoming committee wishes to express its appreciation to the following classes and organizations for the fine cooperation given it:

- The Seventh Grade girls who made and sold pompons.
  - The Seventh Grade boys who made and distributed athletic posters.
  - The Eighth Grade for coloring attractive posters on black boards.
  - The Ninth Grade who took charge of the Homecoming programs by having them printed, soliciting merchants for advertisements which covered cost, and distributing them.
  - The Tenth Grade for decorating the store windows.
  - The Eleventh Grade for sponsoring the dance and decorating the white way posts.
  - The Twelfth Grade for taking charge of Pep Fest, snake dance, and bonfire Thursday evening.
  - The Pep Club for the arrangement of pre-game pep meetings, decoration of curtains, sending invitations to former captains and to parents.
  - To all persons who participated in the Pep Meeting Friday morning.
  - The Fifth grade for its aid in poster making.
- We should like to give the merchants honorable mention for their donations to the Homecoming fund.

THE JUNIOR CLASS

In the past few weeks the junior class has been very active. It sponsored the Homecoming Dance last Friday night and the town and athletic decorations. For the dance the auditorium was decorated with Gaylord's gold and blue and East Jordan's red and black colors. Many balloons were suspended from the ceiling. The class also decorated the lamp posts down town, and the goal posts at the athletic field.

The next class project will be the annual play, which will be given later in the year. The play committee and Miss Mary Elizabeth Finch, advisor, are now selecting it.
