Home Economics Extension Leaders Given Second Lesson

On Tuesday and Wednesday, November 9 and 10, the local leaders in the county nutrition project received their second lesson from Miss Robert Hershey, nutrition specialist of the Michigan State College. It was gratifying to note that every group was represented at either the Boyne City or Charlevoix training centers. While the correct number of group members has not been accurately summarized, close to 225 ladies are discussing nutrition. The following communities and leaders are keenly interested in this extension program: Barnard—Mrs. Earl Waffle and Mrs. Edd Gregory. Burgess—Mrs. Ida Burns and Mrs. Alice Willis. Charlevoix—Mrs. Wm. Higman and Mrs. Edith Novotny. Harbor Bay—Mrs. Howard Stephens and Mrs. J. A. Kotesky. Marion Center—Mrs. Mamie Straw and Mrs. Florence McGhan. South Arm—Mrs. Archie Murphree and Mrs. Carl Ellsworth. South Boyne—Mrs. Edith Bowles and Mrs. Florence Watson. Advance—Mrs. Hattie Franks and Mrs. Maude Noble. Boyne River—Mrs. Emaline Howard and Mrs. Martha Kobylczak. Deer Lake—Mrs. Rena Newkirk and Mrs. Edna Petts. East Jordan—Miss Anita Ruhling and Mrs. Reta Bader. Evangeline—Mrs. Lavina Lockman and Mrs. Lillie Gardner. North Boyne—Mrs. Ethel A. Sayles and Mrs. Clara Tompkins. Peninsula—Mrs. Harriet Russell and Mrs. Mary Reich. Clarion—Mrs. H. Hinkley and Mrs. George Malloy. German Settlement—Mrs. Effie Weldy and Mrs. Emma Behling. Great credit is due these community leaders for their time and energy devoted to receiving the lessons and then extending this information to the women in their community. In the winter months it is sometimes quite an effort to make the trip to town, but nevertheless the work goes on, due to their splendid cooperation. The next lesson will not be given until after the holidays. B. C. Mellencamp, County Agr'l Agent.

County Epworth League Meets at East Jordan

The Charlevoix County Epworth Leagues, including representatives from Charlevoix, Boyne City, Ellsworth, Barnard, Boyne Falls and East Jordan, eighty-six in all, met at the Methodist Church, Sunday, Nov. 7, for an afternoon and evening meeting. Rev. Alexander of Charlevoix and Rev. James Leitch of East Jordan had charge of the devotionals. The business session was presided over by Warren Davis, county president of Boyne City. The group pledged eighty-five dollars toward the missionary work of the Epworth League. A co-operative lunch was served, supervised by mothers of the local League, after which songs and stunts were enjoyed by the group. At the evening session an interesting talk was given on "The World War and the Meaning of Armistice Day," by Harry B. Matthews, County Treasurer of Antrim Co. Musical numbers were given by Mary Jane Patterson of Ellsworth and Ernest Potter of Barnard. Rev. Glen Frye, Dist. Superintendent, was present at this meeting.

Union Thanksgiving Services To Be At Methodist Church

The Union Thanksgiving Service will be held this year in the Methodist Church Thanksgiving morning at 10:30. Rev. John Matthews will be in charge of the devotional portion of the service and Rev. C. W. Sidebotham will preach the sermon. The customary Thanksgiving offering will be received.

Northern Michigan Class C All Honor Teams

Five seniors of Coach Abe Cohn's 1937 edition of the Crimson Wave were honored when the Northern Michigan Class C all honor teams were announced Monday. Captain Bud Porter, tackle and LaVern Archer guard, both stalwarts in the local line for the past two seasons were given positions at right tackle and right guard respectively on the first team. Eugene Gregory, big and hard plunging back was selected as fullback on the second team. Wm. Bennett, another back, was selected at halfback post on the second team for his fine blocking and defensive play. Mike Hitchcock received honorable mention.

Probably the outstanding back ever to hit Northern Michigan football circles came to the front this fall in the person of Elwood Hausler, Boyne City quarterback, who has had football fans on their toes all fall with his brilliant running and his uncanny field generalship, which led the Big Reds to its second successive football championship. We believe him to be worthy of state recognition, his work will overshadow many of the downstate stars regardless of the class.

This year's edition was a very hard one to choose because of so many star performers from several schools. The elections were as follows:

- First Team
LE—B. Pearl—Charlevoix.
LT—Dillon—Boyne City.
LG—House—Charlevoix.
C—Linburg—Rogers City.
RG—Archer—East Jordan.
RT—Porter—East Jordan.
RE—Bradley—Boyne City.
LE—Hausler—Boyne City.
LH—Gallagher—Charlevoix.
RH—Schultz—Rogers City.
F—Kanipe—Boyne City.

- Second Team
LE—Carey—Charlevoix.
LT—Gandzar—Boyne City.
LG—Lockman—Boyne City.
C—Hanna—Harbor Springs.
RG—Fineout—Boyne City.
RT—Brewer—Harbor Springs.
RE—H. Green—Boyne City.
LH—Lovell—Gaylord.
LH—W. Bennett—East Jordan.
RH—Newhouse—Rogers City.
F—Gregory—East Jordan.

Those given honorable mention were: Withers and E. Nowland, Charlevoix; Lake and Mazur, Gaylord; Turnpseed and Hardy, Mancelona; Newman and Bradford, Harbor Springs; Beeman, Boyne City; Gaspard, Rogers City; and Hitchcock, East Jordan.

Crimson Wave Closes Season

LOSE TO BOYNE CITY 20 TO 0 IN WELL PLAYED GAME

The local Crimson Wave made their last bow to the 1937 football season Saturday, losing to the Big Reds at Boyne City 20 to 0. Although the Cohnmen were beaten they put up a game fight forcing the powerful machine of the rival city to play their best. The Crimson Wave outplayed their opponents in the opening quarter as they began a threatening drive, which fell short on the ten yard line. Early in the second period Boyne brought the ball to the E. J. 20 yard line where Hausler tossed a pass, which we will have to admit was a fluke, to Bradley in the end zone, who stood directly between two local defences. The try for the extra point failed being blocked by Archer, the local lineman. Hausler then broke loose to return a punt 35 yards to locals 10 before he was brought down, he then went through the line to the 1 yd. marker, where Lockman smashed over for the second touchdown. Lockman then tossed a pass to Bradley, which was good for the extra point and as the boys left the field at the half time, Boyne was out in front 13 to 0.

Neither team was able to score in the third period, although the locals began hitting on their pass plays only to no avail for they were stopped on the 25 yard stripe. In the final frame with the ball on their own 45, Lockman tossed a 15 yard pass to Hausler, who after a sensational bit of running went over for the third counter, Capt. Kanipe, kicked the extra point to bring the total to 20. The Jordanites as a last hope again resorted to passing, with Bennett and Saxton hrowing but were again stopped as Hausler took the ball on the 20 yard line on an interception.

Hitchcock, Capt. Porter, Strehl, Bennett, Gregory, Gibbard, Morgan and L. Archer wore the Crimson Shirts for the last time and the absence of these boys next fall will leave Coach Cohn with quite a job of rebuilding.

A marked man by every local tacker, Saturday, was a young lad Hausler, yet he, turned in another marvelous performance which again had Northern Michigan football fans yelling. This boy was directly responsible for all three of the touchdowns. He is entitled to all state recognition and unless we miss our guesses he is one of the outstanding performers in his state as well as in this section.

MARRIAGES

Knight—Capelin

On Saturday evening, Nov. 13th, June E. Knight, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd C. Knight, of Petoskey, became the bride of Robert L. Capelin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Capelin, of Boyne City. The ceremony was conducted at the home of Rev. and Mrs. James Leitch, of East Jordan. The happy couple were attended by Miss Agnes Drouse, of Petoskey, and Arthur Halleron, of Boyne City. They will make their home in Boyne City.

4-H CLUB NEWS

CLUB LEADERS AND MEMBERS HOLD IMPORTANT CONFERENCE

Judging by the attendance, interest and enthusiasm manifested at the 4-H club leaders training meeting held in the East Jordan High School last Tuesday night, the 1938 program will be highly successful. Shortly after 6:00 the guests sat down to a pot luck supper which certainly was the best ever. Our sincere thanks are extended to Mrs. Leatha Larson and Mrs. Strehl, 4-H club leaders and the wonderful group of club members for their assistance in taking charge of the banquet arrangements. Without being asked, the club members decided to contribute scalloped potatoes and meat loaf, and waited table in the most approved manner.

Over 100 leaders and club members enjoyed the evening. Immediately after the banquet Miss Bird gave a splendid outline of the hot lunch activity and general club programs. Then the group was divided, with the respective sections being handled by Mr. Walker and Miss Bird.

Last week all of the schools in the county were visited that had indicated a desire to participate in this wonderful program. Within the next week or so it is expected that nearly all of the clubs will be officially organized and busily engaged in carrying out the requirements of the various projects. Last year 398 project members started club activity, of which 371 actually finished. This year indications point to fully as large a membership as last year. Any group not having been visited, will be visited if you call, or drop a card to the office. Let's have a most successful year in 1938.

PRESENT GRID SKIT FOR HOMECOMING

A skit purporting to represent the local football team of 1903 in action, was written and produced by an alumni group, under recreational supervision at the East Jordan high school homecoming assembly. The picture, back row, left to right included the following impersonations: Jay Hite, '98 local druggist (George Secord); Howard Porter, '06, of the East Jordan Lumber Co. (Gayle Saxton); Harry Simmons, who did not graduate, present chief of police, (Charles Dennis); Will Malpass, '08 East Jordan Iron Works (Edward Stanek); Bert Bennett, lumberman, (Thomas Joyn); H. H. Fuller, former coach (Joe Wilkins); front row: Raymond Swafford, '24, Acme teacher, (Robert Blair), who acted as the waterboy and Clarence (Dinty) LaLonde, school bus driver, as the referee. Allis for the absent members included the 35 year age limit and securing an old age pension.

Before the game started, the referee removed a horseshoe from one player's bandaged foot, a brick 12 pound shot, hammer, Indian war club and hunting knife. The group went through with their ideas of how they thought football was played in its early stages. At the close, the referee was chased from the stage and out through the auditorium by the team, enraged by a bum decision.

East Jordan Masons Attend Lodge At Bellaire

Friday, the local lodge of F. & A. M. went to Bellaire by special train to attend a convocation of Masonic Lodges from Traverse City and Gaylord. The Grand Lodge officers exemplified the 1st degree in Masonry and impressed all those in attendance with the beauty and dignity of the 1st degree (in Masonry) when properly performed.

Due to the fact the Zephyr was out of commission it was necessary to make up a train for the trip. Even though a late start was made, engineer Farmer promised to make up for lost time, and so fast did the train tear along, none of the passengers were able to even see the town of Hitchcock. It is believed this was the fastest trip ever made by the local train.

At the Bellaire station, the lodge was given a cordial welcome by the Bellaire lodge, who drove them to the new Community Hall, where a banquet awaited them, put on by the Eastern Stars.

All those who made the trip expressed their opinion that it had been a very unique experience traveling by special train and suggested that a like trip be made to Bellaire with the Eastern Stars in the near future.

Gala Holiday Week At The Temple

Thanksgiving Week at the Temple brings our theatre goers a regular avalanche of truly fine entertainment throughout the entire week. The Sunday and Monday bill presents "The Firefly" in which Jeanette MacDonal is co-starred with the new sensation, Allan Jones. Acclaimed by both press and critics this production is one of the season's finest and comes to the Temple direct from its two-day roadshow engagements. On Family Nights, Tuesday and Wednesday, comedy is king with Olsen and Johnson headlining the cast of "All Over Town." These famous comedians are a sure cure for the worst case of gloom extant and it is our suggestion you take all your troubles and worries to the Temple on Tuesday or Wednesday... they'll all go up in laughs!

The management has gone to considerable effort in preparing an extra fine holiday show for Thanksgiving and has booked the following subjects for the gala Thursday and Friday: Robert Montgomery, Rosalind Russell, Mickey Rooney and Robert Benchley in "Live, Love and Learn." Two special featurettes also on this bill are a Laurel and Hardy comedy, "Blotto," and the Pete Smith special subject, "The Romance of Radium." An extra Thanksgiving Matinee is scheduled for 2:30 on Thursday with the regular 10c-15c matinee prices prevailing.

Special note of the evening showing times of "The Firefly" should be made as, due to the great length of this special attraction, the usual times for Sunday and Monday are changed to 6:45 and 9:15 p. m.

Will Elect '38 Committeemen

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY SOIL CONSERVATION COMMITTEE PLANS ELECTION

The farmers of Charlevoix county will select the committeemen for the 1938 Agricultural Conservation Program during the two weeks between November 29 and December 11. At this annual voting the farmers elected will have the opportunity of administering the 1938 Agricultural Conservation program.

This national program is for the purpose of promoting better management of soil by encouraging farmers to raise a larger acreage of conserving crops and to carry out good management practices. Among these practices are the use of lime, the seeding and fertilizing of legumes and grasses, the use of green manure crops and the planting of forest trees and other practices which tend to maintain soil resources.

Notice and dates of the election meetings will be mailed to all farmers in the near future. Anyone who is a farmer will be entitled to vote for the 3-man community committee, the chairman of which will be a member of the county Board of Directors. The success of the Program in the community and county depends to a large extent on the election by the farmers, of capable committeemen, who are themselves good representative farmers.

TODAY In Your Paper

Beginning today: "Christmas Bride," the romantic story of Gregory Sterling and Margaret McLaren, in our feature section. Irvin S. Cobb sarcastically hands out "instructions for raising cannon fodder." In 20 years you have a nation ripened for ruin, he explains. True Christians are "laborers together with God," explains the Rev. Harold L. Lundquist in his Sunday School lesson for November 21. James Roosevelt, co-ordinator of eighteen or more government agencies as his father's secretary, is discussed this week by William Bruckart's "Washington Digest." E. W. Pickard's "Weekly News Review" sees boost for business in Secretary Morgenthau's budget-balancing speech, and in President's new housing plan.

Edward W. Pickard SUMMARIZES THE WORLD'S WEEK

Balance Budget: Morgenthau

BUSINESS men of America received a cheering message, presumably direct from the administration, delivered by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau. Addressing the Academy of Political Sciences in New York, Mr. Morgenthau declared the time had come for balancing the budget, but said this should be accomplished without additional taxation.

Encouragement for industry and business was stated thus: "The laws should be so written and administered that the taxpayer can continue to make a reasonable profit with a minimum of interference from his federal government."

Moreover, the treasury head went on record as opposed to a continuance of the era of unlimited government spending. Said he: "The basic need today is to foster the full application of the driving force of private capital. We want to see capital go into the productive channels of private industry. We want to see private business expand."

The plan advanced by Mr. Morgenthau for balancing the budget was to bring next year's expenditures, under the 1939 budget which takes effect next July 1, within this year's revenues. To achieve a balance, exclusive of debt retirement payments, the present scale of expenditures would have to be sliced $700,000,000, he added.

President's Building Plan

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, in a conference with several business leaders, told of his new plan for checking the threatening depression by stimulating private home building by private capital. He revealed no details, but Chairman Eccles of the reserve board said the President was confident such a program would reach full scope next year. Eccles was unprepared to say whether the undertaking would be directed through a new government agency, but thought legislation of some sort probably would be necessary.

One suggestion is that the social security reserve be used for loans for home construction. At present it is being used to pay current government expenses.

The recent decline in residential building is generally held responsible to a large extent for the slump in steel mill activity from 90 per cent of capacity to 40 per cent.

Shanghai Falls to Japs

STUBBORN defense of Shanghai by the Chinese came to an end when the Japanese troops made their way across Soochow creek and occupied the entire city. The defenders retired westward and prepared to block the way of the invaders toward Nanking.

The victorious Japanese spread death and destruction through Shanghai, and mercilessly shot down the Chinese groups which were trapped in various quarters. They turned machine guns on a platform inside the international concession from which a number of foreigners were watching the fighting, and Pembroke Stephens, correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph, was killed.

Brazil Has a Dictator

GETULIO VARGAS, president of Brazil, is now dictator of that country. In a coup that was unopposed he dissolved all legislative bodies and put into effect a new constitution with corporative features. He issued a manifesto declaring the suspension of payment on all government debts abroad.

The foreign relations ministry in Rio de Janeiro said Vargas' coup was not connected with European political ideologies and denied reports Brazil planned to join the German-Japanese-Italian pact against communism.

Reasons for Thanks

AMERICA can be thankful for the blessing of peace, President Roosevelt asserted in a proclamation designating November 25 as Thanksgiving day.

"A period unhappily marked in many parts of the world by strife and threats of war finds our people enjoying the blessing of peace," he said. "We have no selfish designs against other nations."

At the outset of the proclamation the President said, "the harvests of our fields have been abundant and many men and women have been given the blessing of stable employment."

Bloch to Head Navy

ABOUT the first of next February the American navy will have a new commander-in-chief in the person of Admiral Claude Charles Bloch, nominated by Secretary Swanson to succeed Admiral Hopper. The son of a Czechoslovakian immigrant and a native of Woodbury, Ky., he is now fifty-nine years old.

After his graduation from the naval academy Bloch served under "Fighting Bob" Evans on the U. S. S. Iowa in the Spanish-American war and was cited for "meritorious" service in rescuing Spaniards from burning ships of Cervera's squadron. During the World war, as commander of the transport Plattsburg, Bloch won the navy cross for "distinguished service."

Judge Graham Passes

WILLIAM J. GRAHAM, presiding judge of the United States Court of Customs and Patent Appeals and for nine years a Republican congressman from Illinois, died of heart disease at his home in Washington. He was sixty-five years old.

Our Navy Grows Rapidly

SECRETARY OF THE NAVY CLAUDE A. SWANSON reported to the President that the navy is stronger than at any time since war days and is moving steadily up to the full strength permitted by the treaties abrogated by Japan. It will not go beyond the limitations in those pacts unless other nations do so.

Under its big replacement program the department has under construction two new battleships and has appropriations for 85 other warships. These include three aircraft carriers, one heavy cruiser, nine light cruisers, fifty-five destroyers and seventeen submarines.

Five years ago the total number of under age yessels was 101 of 728,050 tons, with twenty-three vessels of 122,500 tons under construction. Today the navy has 113 vessels of 869,230 tons under age, and eighty-seven vessels of 335,565 tons under construction.

Farm Measure Ready

VOLUNTARY crop control for wheat, corn, rice and cotton; and compulsory limitation of tobacco production, are provided for in the new farm measure drafted by the house committee on agriculture for action in the extraordinary session of congress.

Secretary Wallace's "ever normal granary" plan is included in the bill. The measure also provides for "tariff equalizing" taxes which would be actually a revival of the processing taxes which the Supreme court declared unconstitutional. These taxes would be applied only to wheat, cotton and rice—3 cents a pound on cotton, 20 cents a bushel on wheat and 1/2 cent a pound on rice.

For the protection of consumers the bill provides that when prices of the respective commodities exceed parity by 10 per cent the secretary of agriculture shall call outstanding commodity loans, thus releasing stored commodities and in this way preventing excessive prices.

President's Birthday

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT has authorized the use of his fifty-fifth birthday, January 30, for the promotion of the nation-wide fight on infantile paralysis. As in previous years, the day will be celebrated in many cities with balls. This time the funds raised thus will not be handed over to local agencies but will all go to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis which was created recently by Mr. Roosevelt. The President has approved the appointment of a committee headed by Keith Morgan of New York to arrange for the celebrations.

Washington Digest National Topics Interpreted By WILLIAM BRUCKART NATIONAL PRESS BLDG. WASHINGTON, D. C.

Washington.—Supporters of the New Deal, as well as its opponents, are watching a new experiment by President Roosevelt with more than passing interest. They are watching this experiment because of various circumstances, including obviously its political phases, for they realize that the President has stepped out into a hitherto untrod field, unexplored ground, in this new experiment.

Chiefly because it is something entirely new and not because any one yet can tell what is going to happen, I want to report this week on the President's plan to have his eldest son, James, his No. 1 secretary, serve as a clearing house between the Chief Executive and some eighteen or more government agencies. Roosevelt, the younger, has been designated by the President to sit down once each week with heads of each of the enumerated agencies and talk over their problems, iron out those which he can help solve, co-ordinate the work between them as far as he is able to do so, and, most important to the men with whom he deals, decide which questions confronting these units of government may be matters for the President's personal consideration.

It is a big order. But Jimmy, as he is known around here, is a big man, at least physically, because he stands something like six feet, one inch. He is twenty-nine years old.

The audiences at the White House with Jimmy have already started and the agency heads who have sat through the conferences seem well pleased. At least, there has been no criticism yet, no signs of jealousy or indications of dissent among those who are called upon to take up their problems with the young secretary to the President. In fact, I have heard in only a few places a revival of the punning that went out a couple of years ago when the "Roosevelt for King" game was in its heyday, and Jimmy was laughingly labeled as the crown prince. Thus, the plan surely seems to have started off most auspiciously. But as I said, what success, what trials and tribulations, await it, no one can say.

Undoubtedly, President Roosevelt has started a plan of action that has much to be said in its favor. It has, of course, many possibilities of trouble, and there surely is argument against having the White House secretariat determine policy when the President has been elected to that job. Yet, at this time, credit must be argued along with signs and portents of trouble. First, let us recognize that the office of President of the United States is a man-killing job. There is nothing like it anywhere else in the world. There are not too many men who can stand up under the load of work and worry that is continually on the shoulders of the head of the nation. There is no way possible for him to escape it. Vacations? Sleep? Absence from Washington? Not a chance. The work and worry is with him always, every minute out of his twenty-four hour day.

Thus, if there is any way that can be devised to lift some of the burden, it ought to be done. No way has been found heretofore, however, and the millstone continues around the President's neck. On the other hand, this is a democracy. In the opinion of many persons, there already is too much power lodged in the hands of individuals who were not elected, but were appointed, to office. The President has vast power and he has to unload it somewhere into the hands of those he appoints. Nevertheless, throughout the federal government scores of men and women exercise very great authority over your life and mine who were personally selected by the President—for whom none of us voted when we voted for a presidential nominee. Result: red tape, rules and regulations, do's and don'ts galore, until we hardly know whether we can eat our food without transgressing or failing to comply with some federal regulation.

All of that is by way of saying that by implementing the relationship between the President and men and women whom he has appointed to office through the insertion of an added wheel of authority, there lie potential changes in all of these governmental policies. And there lies the possibility of changes being made, for better or for worse, without the President having knowledge of them.

What of the personal side—the feelings of the officials who have to deal with a young man who can speak, to some extent at least, for his father, the President? As I said earlier, thus far none of the conferences have given any indication of disturbed feelings. They may never have any thoughts along this line. Yet, I venture this observation: if they don't resent having the President's son tell them what to do, or not to do, at some time or other, the officials concerned will be unlike most other human beings.

Business Outlook

The Department of Agriculture is quite pessimistic about the business outlook for next year. In a series of reports, analyzing general conditions, which the department issued the other day, it made no effort to conceal its belief that there is something wrong in the business situation far beyond the recent violent decline in the quotations of the stock markets.

These reports and conclusions take on considerably more weight when it is recalled that several other agencies of the government, notably Secretary Roper of the Department of Commerce, have sought vainly to make it appear that business is "good." At the same time, I think attention ought to be drawn to the fact that Secretary Wallace of the Department of Agriculture is striving to have congress pass legislation to aid the farmer. It is just possible that he thinks his objectives can be achieved more easily if the congressmen are made to believe that general business and agriculture are taking a real tailspin. That is the politics of the situation, but business reports spread on the pages of newspapers seem to show that a bad slump lies ahead.

Recently, I wrote in these columns how business was as spotted as a leopard; that some firms were making more money than ever before, and how some others were getting by only because the volume was large and faced difficulties if the volume declined. The Agriculture department statements, based now on facts and figures, show even a worse picture than I described several months ago. They indicate strongly that 1938 is to be considerably lower in the level of business than 1937, and that spells trouble.

For example, the agriculture statement predicts that there will be "a less favorable demand for farm products" in 1938 than in 1937. Home domestic demands are down and appear likely to stay down, and the export market holds no hope for an increase. Emphasizing the dependence of consumption demand upon general business conditions, the department statement explained there was no certainty as to the length of time the present slump will continue. It added that "prospects are against a sufficiently early and vigorous rise in 1938 to bring the average of industrial activity and of consumer incomes up to that of 1937."

But from the standpoint of the farmer, the picture is made worse by the department's statement. It points out how there has been a rise in production costs of crops and livestock and how, staring the farmer in the face, are more of these increases, adding:

"Along with the higher wage rates, farmers apparently will have to pay somewhat higher prices for farm machinery, automobiles, building materials, equipment and supplies. On the other hand, the prices of feed and seed will be substantially lower next spring than a year earlier."

The department did not go into detail in explaining these increases in production costs and increases in prices for things the farmer buys. It should have given facts and figures on these for they are basic and the picture is incomplete without them. Everyone knows, of course, that farm labor wants more money for its work and has been getting more in the last two or three years. Department of Labor statistics show this, and they show as well how much additional labor is receiving in its pay checks from industry. The automobile industry which has been organized by John L. Lewis and his C. I. O. labor group has been forced to pay much higher wages and naturally those wages have been added into the cost of the automobile which any one buys.

The automobile industry was only an illustration. The same is true all along the line. The truth of the matter is that federal taxes which have been conceived by the President's brain trust professors and applied without stint or limit to industry are upsetting the whole agricultural as well as the whole business structure of the country. The load of taxes, together with a lot of queer-looking and cock-eyed regulations, have continually increased the cost of production of everything from black-eyed peas to locomotives.

What Irvin S. Cobb Thinks about

Growing Cannon Fodder. SANTA MONICA, CALIF.— To produce this crop takes time and planning.

First your veterans must grow past fighting age because those who survive the horrors of one war never willingly enlist for another. Meanwhile be sure the women have been bearing children, since children are the seed corn of your future sowing.

As the newer generation grows up dose it on the old reliable P. P. P. formula — parades, pomp, propaganda. Bands and guns and flag - wavings, 'murderous preachments and manufactured patriotism; they all help to fertilize against the ultimate harvesting.

Befuddle the first-born on dreams of drunken glory. Teach him the neighbor over the way is an enemy who must some day be crushed without mercy. Make him believe his country's destiny demands revenge for old hurts, reprisals for old losses, widened boundaries writ in blood.

And then, in about 20 years, you have a nation ripened for ruin, a race of mothers ready to offer their sons to the slaughter. It's a slow crop, but a sure one, and highly gratifying to professional sword-rattlers and power-mad dictators, to profiteers and financial hijackers. Let's see, come 1938, it'll be just about 20 years since the last time the world cut its own throat.

Two-Faced Politicians. SOMEBODY says the type of politician who swaps worthless promises before election for the public's confidence—and its votes—reminds him of Janus. Janus was a god with two faces, and the ancients finally got so they couldn't trust either one of them. But it took them a long time to catch on.

Might I be pardoned for thinking of a homelier simile? I'm thinking of the pack-rat of this western country. The thrifty pack-rat slips with stealthy tread into your camp whilst you slumber and carries off something of value. But he doesn't steal it—nothing like that. He merely exchanges with you, you being asleep at the time. He leaves a dry twig behind and totes off a side of meat. He confiscates one of your boots, but, in return, confers on you a couple of dead cactus stalks. His intentions may be honest, but there is no record showing where a pack-rat ever got the worst of a trade. I figure he's part Scotch.

And the profits resulting from his professional dealings certainly may be likened to the career of many a chronic officeholder now flourishing in our midst.

This Man Dewey. WHEN the Republicans get out the hound-dogs to run down their 1940 nominee, they might search in the tall timbers of Manhattan island.

There's a young fellow there, the name being Dewey, and he being kin to the great admiral whose deeds crackled at Manila one May day morning like the lightnings on Mount Sinai. He comes of old Yankee stock. He hails from a debatable state, Michigan; lives in a pivotal state, New York. Still in his mid-thirties, he smashed the foulest, securtest nests of labor racketeers and vice racketeers in America.

He married a sweet Texas girl, as southern as they make 'em. Her grand-uncle was Jeff Davis. My daddy was Jeff Davis' relative, too. And this young Dewey trained for grand opera. Speaking of this charm thing, think of a President who'd wind up his fireside radio chats singing "Home on the Range."

Yes, sir, the G. O. P. might go farther and fare worse.

Nordic Supremacy. RECENT events bring to mind a little story of some years back when night-riding patriots in an Arkansas county felt called on, as a sacred duty imposed upon all true Caucasians, to put the Black brother in his place; said place, in at least one instance, being a colored cemetery.

Also, there had been a flood of notices to vacate sent through the mail to members of the African race, followed by unpleasant surprise parties did the recipients fail to heed the gentle warning.

So the community was getting more Nordic by the hour and the sound of the Anglo-saxophone was heard oft in the stilly night. That's the scene and the plot. Now for the sketch:

Pelagria Perkins meets Hookworm Hostetter on Main street. "Hooky," says Pelagria, "effen you wuz to git a letter frum dese here w'ite shirts, whut would you do?"

SAGA OF SILK

Lowly Worm Achieves Its Moment of Glamor

Not a pretty thing itself, the silkworm contributes to the world's beauty by spinning the raw silk for stockings to clothe lovely legs like those of June Claire, above. Below, the Picture Parade marches through a silk stocking factory.

Raw silk, as spun by the worm, arrives in American factories from abroad, braided as are little girls' curls. It is unraveled from the tight, individual bundles and once more becomes lengthy strands.

Long strands of raw silk are woven by machinery into single strands; these, in turn, are wound on bobbins, ready for the weaving machine.

Almost magically, the strands on the bobbins of the machine operated by the man and woman above turn into flat, woven silk. Coming out of the machine, they are the exact size of the finished stocking. The stocking is folded and sewed, heel and toe sewed on separately.

When the stockings in this factory have been dyed, dried and shaped, they are given accurate tests for strength in the machine shown above. Then, before being boxed for the stores—and the legs—they are once more inspected (left).

A queer sight are the metal driers which shape the stockings.

Push Gobbler as National Bird

Los Angeles, Calif.—The American eagle will have to give up his job to the turkey gobbler, if the Northwestern Turkey Growers association gets its way. Senators and congressmen of 14 states were asked to make the turkey the national bird at the next session of congress. It was argued that the turkey, besides being the symbol of Thanksgiving, is native to America. Misses Edith Lawrence (left) and Pat Gergen are pictured above showing how the turkey would look in the eagle's place against the American shield.

Ye Council Eats Right Well After Ye Slick Barter

Deer Is Thanksgiving Meal and Indian Is Goat.

IF AMERICANS this Thanksgiving are well able to appease both their consciences and their appetites, their moral dexterity is no better than that of their forebears on the town council at Danvers, Mass., in the year 1714. Venison, rather than turkey, made up the piece de resistance on a Thanksgiving feast there, but religious complications arose, as recorded by Rev. Lawrence Conant, of that city:

"After ye blessing was craved by Mr. Garrich of Wrentham, word came that ye buck was shot on ye considering this a just and rightful sentence on ye heathen, and that a blessing had been craved on ye meat, ye council all partook of it but Mr. Shepard, whose conscience was tender on ye point of ye venison."

In nearby Boston a few years later the arrival of autumn with its storing of the winter supply of salt pork brought mingled thanksgiving and chagrin to a boy named Benjamin Franklin, who often became restless during the long graces which accompanied Massachusetts meals. So one day after the pork had been dutifully stored away, he suggested that if his father would only "say grace over the whole cask, once for all, it would be a vast saving of time."

Bear meat is no longer generally available for the Thanksgiving dinner.

In the latter half of the same century, whenever a feast was in order in the back country of Virginia and the Carolinas, young Daniel Boone or some other hunter would go out to find venison or bear meat to mix with pork in the habitual "great stew" of such a celebration. With it were served roast pork or bear or broiled venison.

Bear and venison are no longer generally available for the Thanksgiving dinner, but turkey is still one of the mainstays.

Mr. Shepard's conscience was tender, and so was poor Pequot's back.

Lord's day by Pequot, an Indian, who came to Mr. Epes with a lye in his mouth like Ananias of old.

"Ye council therefore refused to eat ye venison, but it was afterward decided that Pequot should receive forty stripes save one, for lying and profaning ye Lord's day, restore Mr. Epes ye cost of ye deer, and con-

A Thanksgiving Prayer

For what we have, though small it be,
We thank thee, Lord.
For the simple joys of serenity,
We thank thee, Lord.
For the gentle touch of the friendly hand
Of those who love and understand,
We thank thee, Lord.

Of all thy gifts the greatest three
Are friendship, love and fidelity.
Let others pray for the harvest's yields,
For the golden grains of the fruitful fields,
Humbly our prayer to thee we send
That when we've reached our journey's end,
Someone may say, "Farewell, good friend."

HOW OFTEN CAN YOU KISS AND MAKE UP?

FEW husbands can understand why a wife should turn from a pleasant companion into a shrew for one whole week in every month. You can say "I'm sorry" and kiss and make up easier before marriage than after. If you're wise and if you want to hold your husband, you won't be a three-quarter wife.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. ## 'Trick' Auto Plates Grow Greatly in '38

Along with other records for business volume being currently established in the Department of State, Leon D. Case, Secretary of State, has found that the fad for special numbers for automobiles has reached an alltime high.

To meet the 1938 demand for low or special numbers, nearly 30,000 sets of plates numbered below 1,000 in various combinations of letters, have been set aside throughout the state, but the supply will not be adequate.

The great stream of requests for special numbers means, among other things, that the distinction of special plates will shortly have all but disappeared, Case believes.

Considerable attention has been attracted to the diversity of reasons offered by those who seek special plates, or special combinations of letters and numerals. By all odds, the hardest request to fill recently, came from a numerologist, who eyed the entire range of available plates seeking one which would unmistakably convey some cryptic message to others of his turn of mind.

For years, when only numerals were used, low numbers were of considerable attraction. A few years ago, the introduction of letters greatly increased the number of special plates possible, but the public's appetite for them was not appeased. In 1933, the series of AA plates, along with FF, EE, VV and other more familiar letter combinations, will be virtually snowed under by new ones devised to meet the demand. It is believed the urge for special numbers will be reduced as more and more plates of this kind are made available.

It has been the idea of the present secretary of state, as it apparently was of his immediate predecessors in that office, that if you can make people happy by giving them the license plate numbers they want, why not? However, if it gets to be too much of a burden on the staff, sooner or later some secretary will devise a system that will do away with the whole matter of choice of plate numbers.

Armadillo Has Two Main Shields
Many animals are farmed or hunted for skins, furs, or food, but the armadillo is reared and hunted for its shell, notes a writer in London Tit-Bits Magazine. The armadillo is about 20 inches long and has two main shields, on shoulder and hip, which are connected by nine movable bands of bony plate. It is this entire covering that is so coveted, and artistic as well as almost everlasting baskets, lamp-shades, and presents are fashioned from it. Incidentally, in breeding armadillos, one queer fact is noticed: a litter is always four in number, and all are of the same sex. This fact still puzzles the scientific world.

Statue of Capitol Building
The statue of an Indian on the dome of the Capitol at Washington is the figure of a white woman, and symbolizes liberty. It is often erroneously supposed to represent an American Indian, owing to the fact that from a distance the helmet on the figure somewhat resembles the bonnet of an Indian war chief. The artist, Thomas Crawford, named the statue "Armed Liberty," but ever since it arrived at the Capitol it has been officially known as the "Statue of Freedom."

County Wide Bang's Disease Program Already Under Headway

After over two years of Bang's disease work in this county, we are now glad to announce that a complete county wide test is now under headway. Dr. B. J. Killhan spent three days last week accompanied by your county agent in visiting supervisors for the purpose of organizing the work in their respective townships. We want to make this 100% perfect, so if by mistake any herd is missed, let us know right away.

Already the program is being carried on in Hudson, Boyne Valley, Chandler and Melrose township. When this work is completed Charlevoix county with Antrim county will be the first two counties in the State to have had a complete county test, which means that all surplus stock can be sold at a premium. This will mean many thousands of dollars to the farmers of these two counties in higher prices.

Also remember that we want to include family cows in all of the towns and cities in the county. In the case of Boyne City, kindly phone your extension office. In the case of Boyne Falls, Clarion and Walloon Lake, and inform your supervisor so that all animals may be tested on the East end of the county right away. The program will be continued, moving westward so that by the middle of December the county will be completed.

County Agr'l Agent

Telephone Rates Reduced on Holidays Starting Thanksgiving Day

Reduced rates for long distance telephone calls will be made effective for Thanksgiving Day this year, according to an announcement by C. L. Johnson, manager in this area for the Michigan Bell Telephone Co.

The reduction will be made effective by the application throughout the day, as well as Thanksgiving eve and night, of the long distance rates regularly in effect after seven o'clock every night and all day every Sunday. This will be the first time especially reduced rates have been offered for Thanksgiving day, the telephone company official states.

They will apply between points within the United States, and, in general, will reduce the cost of calls where the regular day station-to-station rate is 40 cents or more.

The announcement was made following the filing of the reduced rates by the Michigan Bell Company and their approval by the Michigan Public Utilities Commission at Lansing.

A schedule of similar reduced long distance rates also was filed and approved for the coming Christmas and New-Years days.

Men Who Do

When I look at history I see it as man's attempt to solve the practical problem of living. The men who did most to solve it were not those who thought about it or talked about it or impressed their contemporaries, but those who silently and efficiently got on with their work.—J. B. S. Haldane.

CHAPTER I

Gregory Sterling rode slowly out of town toward his little shack among the hills. He had just come from signing the papers which gave over to the Blue Star Production company full right and title to the land for which he had grubbed and starved and fought and almost died. He was going back to pack up and leave!

Ten years before, a mere lad with a sore heart and a great determination, Greg had come to the Far West and taken up land, worked hard, raised a few cattle, striving against great odds year after year. Now suddenly within the last few months a rich yield of oil had been discovered and the land which had been so hard to subdue had become worth millions.

Greg said it softly over to himself when he was out on the desert alone:

"I'm clearing out! I'm going back East. I'm going home wealthy, just as I said I would!"

"But it won't be home!" he added. "Not with mother gone! There'll be nobody there I care about. Nobody left! Not even little Alice Blair!"

He had never expected this thing. The utmost he had hoped for when he first came out to these wilds had been the right to do as he pleased, to hide his stricken young life after the death of his mother, to hide away from people who thought they were elected to manage him, and earn a meager living through hard daily toil.

Then suddenly in a night he was rich! He was going back! Back to the place where they wouldn't lend him $20 to start a newsstand down near the station. Back where they wanted him to be bound out to learn a trade!

The moon was shining when he reached his shack. He could see its silver light on the opposite hillside. His eye lingered on the wide expanse of sky, the purple mountains, the dark plumy woods, the river winding like a silver thread in the valley. Would he some day be homesick for all this quietness as he had longed for his home when he came out here?

It was a little past noon the next day when he finished packing and cleaning, for he took a certain pride in leaving everything immaculate. On the saddle were fastened two bundles, one sewed into an old piece of burlap bag, to be forwarded to him in his home town, the other, crudely wrapped in newspaper, containing a few necessities that he was taking with him.

When he reached the settlement town and left the bony old horse with his new owner he found an uneasy regret in his heart at parting from him, and when he bought his ticket he stuffed it into his pocket with a strange distaste.

An unanticipated shyness came upon him.

He gravely stepped forward, swung himself aboard the lowest step, his newspaper bundle under his arm, and quite casually rode out of town into the great world.

A few days later Gregory Sterling stood at the front window of the luxurious room that had been assigned him in the great new apartment hotel in his home town, looking out at the street that had been a meadow when he went away.

He had chosen the Whittall house from the list the taxicab driver had suggested because it seemed to be located out on the edge of town, and his soul was weary for the quietness and peace of his wilderness lodge. He had spent several days in Chicago shopping, having acquired what seemed to him a ridiculously large supply of clothing and several quite correct pieces of baggage. Porters and hotel clerks no longer looked at him askance. He was as well turned out as any modern young man could be.

The street was wide, and the little park ran down the center, making a boulevard of it. Traffic was whirling on either side, but the little park in the middle made a haven, a wide nice pleasant place to rest between the crossing. There were paths of cement wandering across the park, curving this way and that among the trees, and there were flower beds with late fall flowers in blossom.

A girl was sitting on a bench under a tree, drooping, as if she were tired and discouraged. It was good to have a bit of green in the midst of the whirl, a quiet place where the traffic could not come, for tired people to rest in. But better still if the meadow were there the way it used to be!

Then suddenly as he gazed the girl slumped in a little crumpled heap and slid off the bench, as if she no longer had the power to help herself.

Greg sprang toward his door and started down the stairs, thankful that he was only three stories up, forgetting that an elevator could travel faster than his feet.

The doorman was startled as Greg burst hatless into the street. Meantime a crowd had suddenly gathered and were staring. The clerk of the hotel came out and looked across to the park.

Greg gave one wild look around and gathered her up into his arms. "Get me a taxi!" he ordered.

A boy dashed out into the road and stopped a taxi. A shabby man hurried to the fountain and filled his hat full of water from the basin. A woman walking through the park produced a bottle of smelling salts.

Greg wet his handkerchief in the hat and wiped the girl's forehead and lips. He let the woman hold the bottle of smelling salts under her nostrils, and they were rewarded by a long, slow, trembling breath from the girl, and then a lifting of the fringes of the eyelids just for a fleeting instant that showed great, dark, troubled eyes.

But Greg saw the taxi draw up at the curb, and he swept them all aside and carried his burden over. He got in with her in his arms.

"The nearest hospital, quick!" he ordered, and they whirled away.

"I'd like her to have someone with her all night," said Greg. "I'd feel better that way. I feel sort of responsible because I found her, at least till her folks get here."

"Of course you could have a special nurse if you're willing to pay for it," said the doctor thoughtfully.

"I'd like to have a special nurse," said Greg decidedly.

So presently a pleasant-faced capable young woman appeared and took charge. Greg motioned her out in the hall and talked to her in low tones.

"This girl was sitting on a park bench when I first saw her from my hotel window," he told her, "and while I was watching she fell off the bench. I brought her here and I'm arranging for her to have this room as long as she needs it till she is able to go away. But she doesn't know me and I don't know her. Maybe she might not like it to have me meddling in her affairs, but you don't need to say anything about it, do you? Just let on the hospital put her in here, can't you? I don't want to put her under any obligation."

"I see," said the nurse. "We'll fix that up all right."

"I wonder," said Greg almost shyly, "if I should leave you my telephone number would you call me in case you found out, or there was anything at all that I could do to help? In the night or any time! There's a telephone in my room. It wouldn't bother me a bit."

leaving the gaping crowd to discuss the incident. Greg sat holding the girl in his arms, looking down at the white face against his shoulder. He drew his breath in sharply. If she was living yet!

There! They were stopping! Yes, this was a hospital building. A white-clad doctor appeared! A nurse! They tried to take her from him, but he bore her swiftly up the steps.

"Hurry!" he said. "She may not be gone yet!"

"The emergency ward is full!" he heard a nurse's voice say sharply. "That fire! They kept bringing them in! Two have died already, but the beds are full!"

"Take her to a private room!" he commanded.

"A private?" another nurse said. "Who is she? We can't put her in a private room unless we know she can pay."

"I will pay. Get her somewhere quick!" said Greg.

She was on a bed at last, with a doctor and nurse working over her. Finally the doctor straightened up and looked around.

"Hm!" said the doctor, touching her pulse again. "A clear case of starvation, I guess. That's all!"

"Starvation!" said Greg, aghast. "You don't mean it! Not in a city full of people!"

"Oh, yeah?" said the doctor brusquely. "You don't pick food off trees in parks. Does she look like a girl who would go to your back door and beg?"

He turned to the nurse and gave low-voiced directions.

They were pressing a spoonful of something between the white lips now, and the girl on the bed drew a slow, quivering breath again and opened her eyes for an instant.

"That's it, sister," said the doctor cheerfully. "You're going to feel better now in a minute."

"A cup of that broth as soon as you can get it, nurse," he said in a low tone, keeping his finger on the pulse. Then to Greg, who was standing anxiously by:

"Yes, sir, you find 'em like this every day. Proud as Lucifer, lost their job, nowhere to turn. All the worse for them if they happen to be good."

When the broth was brought the patient swallowed obediently but did not open her eyes again.

"Will this nurse stay by her all night?" Greg asked the doctor while the nurse was feeding her the soup.

"Oh, she'll be in and out all night," said the doctor. "You know she has this whole hall to look out for."

"I'd like her to have someone with her all night," said Greg. "I'd feel better that way. I feel sort of responsible because I found her, at least till her folks get here."

"Of course you could have a special nurse if you're willing to pay for it," said the doctor thoughtfully.

"I'd like to have a special nurse," said Greg decidedly.

So presently a pleasant-faced capable young woman appeared and took charge. Greg motioned her out in the hall and talked to her in low tones.

"This girl was sitting on a park bench when I first saw her from my hotel window," he told her, "and while I was watching she fell off the bench. I brought her here and I'm arranging for her to have this room as long as she needs it till she is able to go away. But she doesn't know me and I don't know her. Maybe she might not like it to have me meddling in her affairs, but you don't need to say anything about it, do you? Just let on the hospital put her in here, can't you? I don't want to put her under any obligation."

"I see," said the nurse. "We'll fix that up all right."

"I wonder," said Greg almost shyly, "if I should leave you my telephone number would you call me in case you found out, or there was anything at all that I could do to help? In the night or any time! There's a telephone in my room. It wouldn't bother me a bit."

rest, turned our age-old study of the weather into a science. Not until Buchan and Fitzroy accumulated data from all over the world were we able to forecast with reasonable accuracy.

Today the forecasts are made out after reports have been sent to the meteorological department of the air ministry from hundreds of observers, including coastguards, air-men, sailors, and other meteorologists in all parts of the northern hemisphere.

But in 1861, when a daily paper first published weather forecasts, there was a flood of protests. Questions were asked in the House of Commons. Wasn't it duping the public to issue such forecasts?

And as a result the government brought pressure to bear upon the press, and the weather bulletins were temporarily dropped!

If a certain Scottish schoolmaster, about eighty years ago, had not been a spare-time plant-hunter, he would probably have lived and died an obscure dominie. But his hobby has indirectly caused his name to become a household word, says a writer in London Answers Magazine.

He was Alexander ("Cold Spell") Buchan, 1829-1910. Being a botanist he studied the weather in order to try to choose fine days for his plant-gathering expeditions. Cyclones, isobars, high-pressure systems and so on gradually got a grip on him—until he gave up teaching to become head of the Scottish Meteorological society.

The work he and Vice Admiral Fitzroy did in studying weather conditions all over the world, charting the winds, keeping records of cloudiness, rainfall, temperature, and the "Sure, I'll let you know if there is any change or anything you can do. But I guess you needn't worry. The doctor seemed to think her heart was pretty good. And I'll be right here all night."

CHAPTER II

Greg went into the dining room and ate a good dinner, surprised to find that it was well on toward eight o'clock. Why, it had been still daylight when he took that girl to the hospital!

While he ate he was thinking about the hospital. He remembered various bronze tablets he had seen about on the walls as he waited for his receipt to be signed at the office.

Why wouldn't it be a nice thing for him to endow one of those rooms so it could be used for strangers? He could put up a tablet on the door with his mother's name, a memorial to her.

The idea made him quite happy, and after he had finished his dinner he went out and walked beside the fountain in the little park, strolling past the bench where the girl had sat, even sitting down upon it a moment to wonder why she had sat there, and what had happened that had brought her into such a sorrowful situation.

As he got up his foot struck against something in the grass, something soft and yielding that slid across the pavement as he hit it.

He stooped and picked it up wonderingly. It was a flat purse with a strap across the back, one of the kind that most girls carried. It had a look of thinness about it that betokened nothing inside. He took it over and stood beneath the archlight studying it and turning it over thoughtfully. Could that belong to the girl he had picked up, and could she possibly have dropped it as she fell?

It proved to be absolutely empty save for a thin letter addressed to Miss Margaret McLafan, 1456 Rodman street, that city. There wasn't even a penny in the little middle purse that obviously was meant for change. His heart went out with pity toward the poor child, for he felt absolutely certain that his pocketbook belonged to the girl he had picked up in the park.

He studied the envelope carefully. Where would Rodman street be?

He looked at the letter again uncertainly. It was postmarked Vermont but the town was so blurred it was unreadable. Ought he perhaps to know what was in that letter? Well, not yet anyway. If he could find her people nothing else was his affair.

MORNING—To get quick heat, open the Ashpit Damper wide and close the Check Damper. Add fresh fuel only when fire is burning briskly, leaving an exposed spot of live coals directly in front of the firedoor. If you find it necessary, gently shake the grates, if they weren't shaken the night before.

DURING DAY—Control fire with Check and Ashpit Dampers. Don't use Turn Damper to regulate fire daily. Keep it closed as nearly as possible without hampering the free burning of the fire.

NIGHT—Shake grates gently until the first red glow shows in ashpit before banking fire. This cone, wet ashes down and clean ashpit. Always open the Check Damper and close the Ashpit Damper when banking fire. Keep them that way until gases burn from fresh fuel. Then close them. Never leave the firedoor open after fire is banked.

What Is the Human Mind? Is "Mind-Reading" Possible?

Duke University Experiments May Prove Existence of Telepathy.

By WILLIAM C. UTLEY

MISTER, have you ever "played a hunch"? Transacted a business deal against your better judgment because "something told you to"? Moved over to a new fishing spot because you "had a feeling" the bass would be there and they were?

Lady, has your "intuition" ever told you anything your eyes and ears could never discern?

Almost everyone has experienced these things or known someone else who has. Some tell of the most startling experiences with a sincere conviction that cannot be denied: Of dreaming that a dear relative has died, and finding upon investigation that it is true; of writing on sudden impulse to a friend who has not been heard from in years, only to receive a letter, written by the friend on the same kind of impulse in the next mail; or experiencing an inexplicable premonition while visiting that there is a fire at home, and rushing there just in time to rescue the baby from a flaming death.

What is the explanation? Chance coincidence? Or "sixth sense" . . . "mind reading" . . . telepathy?

Is there any means of reaching the mind other than through the five recorded physical senses? Science has scoffed in the past. But today a controversy fanned by newspaper stories, popular books and radio programs has whetted the country to a new boom of interest in telepathy. Scoffers are still in the majority . . . but few of them can explain away the amazing implications of certain experiments which of recent months have fascinated millions.

What Is the Mind?

These are the experiments conducted by Dr. J. B. Rhine and several associates in the department of psychology of Duke university, at Durham, N. C. Of late an adaptation of these experiments has been employed by the Zenith Foundation in a weekly Sunday night radio program which invites listeners to become "guinea pigs" in the interest of science.

Dr. Rhine sought the answer, or experimenter took a shuffled pack of ESP cards, in unknown order, and laid them before him, face down. The subject was asked to concentrate upon the cards while the experimenter removed them from the pack, one at a time, without looking at them. The subject called for each card the symbol which first flashed into his mind. The call was recorded. When the entire pack had been disposed of (and the original order maintained) the actual order of the cards would be observed and checked against the order called by the subject.

Since there were five cards each of five different symbols in a pack, pure chance would permit a correct call of 1 card in 5, or 5 cards in 25. But more than a few of Dr. Rhine's subjects were found to be able to call consistently an average of far more than 5 right out of every 25 cards, in a series of several thousand runs through freshly shuffled packs. Some of the consistent high scorers at times scored 21 and even 25 hits out of a possible 25. The chance odds against such performances, even in thousands of runs through the cards, are so enormous as to be of astronomical proportions!

Subjects who, under the right conditions, could consistently call from 6.5 to 10 or 12 cards per 25 offered, were not highly unusual. The "right conditions" were a feeling of confidence in their ESP ability, interest in the work and physical and mental wakefulness. Even the best subjects were found to slip back to the chance average when they were self-conscious, skeptical of their ability at the time of growing bored.

Such subjects found little appreciable differences in their averages when they called the cards "down through" the pack, that is, without the observer removing any cards until the whole 25 had been called.

Convinced ESP Is Answer.

In fact, it made little difference whether or not they were in the same room with the recorder. Tests were conducted exhaustively with subject and experimenter in rooms 100 and 250 yards apart; a telegraph signal would indicate each ten seconds that a new card had been drawn by the experimenter from the pack, and the subject would whether any "guess" he has made is right until he is all through guessing.

Dr. J. B. Rhine, whose "extra-sensory perception" tests stirred the scientific world.

"The assumption has also been made," says this same writer, "that, in the long run, pure guessing would result in an average score of 5 guesses right out of 25. But mathematicians point out that this assumption is not necessarily correct. Five may be the most likely score on any one run through the deck, but it may not be the average over a large amount of runs because possible scores may extend on one side down to zero but no lower—a variation of only five points. In the other direction, possible scores range all the way up to 25—20 points above the most likely score."

Still, in hundreds of thousands of mechanical selections, in which the cards were admittedly called by pure chance, the Duke researchers found the average to be almost exactly 5 hits per 25 cards selected.

Now the experiments with which we have dealt here include only clairvoyance—the extra-sensory perception of objects, characters on cards. Dr. Rhine has also conducted exhaustive experiments in telepathy—the extra-sensory perception of mere thoughts. Here is how that is tested:

No cards are used. The "sender," in one room, gives the ready signal to the subject, in another room—or miles away, for that matter. He then concentrates upon the first symbol (the same symbols are used mentally as those appearing on the ESP cards), chosen at random. The subject records what he believes the symbol to be. After ten seconds there is another signal and the operation is repeated; and so on, through 25 calls. At the finish of the run the subject's record is checked against the order of the symbols as recorded by the experimenter.

Some subjects actually made higher scores in the "telepathic" tests than they did in the objective tests. In three daily trials, one subject made scores of 19, 16 and 16, in her first experience in ESP work. And she was stationed 250 miles from the sender, with ranges of mountains separating them!

Radio Telepathy Test.

It is telepathic tests similar in some ways to these which are being employed on the Zenith Foundation's radio program. In the first program, listeners were told that a selecting machine in the studio would be operated seven times during the test, each time selecting a color—black or white (if, indeed, they may be called colors). A committee of ten scientific observers would, after each selection, concentrate upon that selection for a period of ten seconds. Listeners were also asked to concentrate and keep a record of what they believed the selections to be. The observers were sworn to secrecy and the machine was operated in a closed booth. Selections were recorded, but kept under lock and key, not to be opened for a week, when listeners' records would have time to reach the studio.

Unbeknownst even to the sponsors or to the studio attaches or listeners, the observers purposely left the third and seventh trials blank, to determine whether the public at large naturally has a preference for either black or white which might affect its choice in the other trials, in which the machine actually selected a black or white space.

Approximately 20 per cent of those who replied called four of the five actual trials correctly, a mark one-third over "chance expectation."

But most interesting of all is the fact that a sizable number of listeners who sent in all five answers correctly also designated blanks on the third and seventh trials, although they were not told that these trials were blanks!

Dr. Rhine does not attempt to explain what "extra-sensory perception" is—whether it is akin to radio waves (a theory he rejects for reasons too detailed to recount here) or some other transference of energy. He will be content if he proves to the world of science that there is some door to the human mind other than through the recognized senses. And he would, of course, like to discover just where the human mind fits into the general scheme of things—in fact, what the mind really is, after all.

But at present he will continue his amazing work and follow the advice of Sir Isaac Newton:

"Let hypotheses alone until the facts require them."

Lesson for November 21

CHRISTIAN WORKERS

LESSON TEXT—1 Corinthians 3:10-15; Galatians 6:8-10.

GOLDEN TEXT—And let us not be weary in well doing: for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not.—Galatians 6:8.

PRIMARY TOPIC—In Our Church.

JUNIOR TOPIC—What Can I Do to Help?

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Can I Do for Christ and the Church?

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Need for Christian Workers.

"Laborers together with God"—such is the glorious and distinctive title of true Christians, according to the verse just preceding our assigned text. Unfortunate is the all too common error of regarding only pastors and missionaries as the workers in God's vineyard. While we recognize that there is a special calling for some men to leave their vocations and devote their entire time to the Lord's work, let us be sure properly to stress the importance of every Christian's being a worker for God.

The portions assigned for our study present the privilege and responsibility of Christians as fellow-workers with Christ, under the figures of builders and of seed sowers.

I. Builders of the House (1 Cor. 3:10-15).

The first requisite of a building is a foundation and it must be strong and true. Builders for Christ have a sure foundation stone in Him.

1. The Foundation—Jesus Christ.

There is only definite assurance in Paul's word concerning the foundation. It is perfectly clear to him that there can be no Christian faith without Jesus Christ. Such a statement sounds almost childish. One might well assume that no intelligent person would claim to be one of God's builders, and reject his foundation stone. But, alas, many are they who claim to be Christians, who profess to be raising a structure of Christian life and testimony, but who have set aside the only possible foundation on which to build.

2. The Master Builder—and his builders.

Paul was a pioneer. He declares his ambition and calling to be "to preach the gospel not where Christ was named, lest I should build on another man's foundation" (Rom. 10:25). Such a privilege does not come to all men, but let those who thus serve learn of this "wise master builder" that they may lay only one foundation—Jesus Christ.

"Let every man take heed how he buildeth thereupon." It is a serious matter to serve the Lord as a builder, for it is possible to go badly astray at this point as well as in laying the foundation.

3. The materials—good and bad.

Whether we apply Paul's words to the building of our personal spiritual life or to the work we do in the church they are equally serious and urgent. "The day"—when Christ returns, and we shall stand before him to give account of the deeds done in the flesh—will reveal by flaming fire whether we have been faithful, true and diligent in preaching God's Word, in prayer, in sacrificial service for Christ, or have sought to introduce into our lives and into the churches we serve the "wood, hay, and stubble" of unspiritual schemes, neglect of God's Word, prayerlessness.

Saved? Yes, but entering into God's presence as a man who has escaped from his burning house with nothing but his life.

II. Sowers of the Seed (Gal. 6:6-10).

The figure changes. No longer are we builders—but rather sowers of seed. Would that it were all good seed that were sown—but we see the sowing to the flesh as well as to the Spirit. This is true

1. In our own lives. The inexorable law of sowing and reaping prevails in the moral realm as truly as it does in the physical. Men who would never expect wheat to grow where they have planted thistles, seem to expect that they may sow in their own lives the seeds of selfish indulgence, of careless neglect of the things of God, and still somehow reap the fruit of good character and noble living.

2. In the lives of others. We may be tempted to take attractive by-paths and short-cuts to win the interest and allegiance of men to ourselves and the church, but they will prove to bring but corruption and destruction. Spiritual seed will always produce spiritual life.

3. Waiting for the harvest. Harvest must be patiently awaited. We know it to be so in natural things; the same is true in the spiritual realm.

A Message of Love
One of the last slowly murmured sayings of the American poet Whit-tier, as he lay a-dying, was this: "Give—my love—to—the world."

Worth-While Living

rather some hope of an answer to the age-old questions: What is the human mind? Where does it belong, if anywhere, in the scheme of our knowledge as a whole?

"... If a century of investigation by hundreds of able minds has left the nature of the mind still so profoundly obscure," he writes in "New Frontiers of the Mind," his book which is currently a best-seller, "it is not easy to go on hoping that beating the same pathways of research, even for another hundred years will bring us to the goal. . . . If the recognized and the usual in our search have so far failed us, it is time to turn, in the matter of our method, to the UNrecognized and the UNusual."

Thus he explains why Duke university's psychology department seven years ago began a long and laborious investigation of what he calls "extra-sensory perception"—the ability of certain persons to perceive through some channel other than the senses as we know them.

Students, faculty members and their families, in fact almost anyone who could be interested, were sought as the subjects of the tests. Preference was given to those who could recall some "psychic" experience in their lives or in their families; on the assumption that they might be better subjects for ESP ("extra-sensory perception") experiments.

How Tests Were Made

Dr. Rhine and his associates devised a special deck of 25 cards as standard equipment for the tests. The deck contained five cards each of five different characters: a square, a cross, a circle, a star and a series of wavy lines.

Here is an example of how one of the earliest tests worked: The write down what he thought the card was. When the test was over, results would be checked against the actual order of the pack. Some subjects actually had more success with this method than when they were seated in the same room with the experimenter.

To Dr. Rhine and his staff such phenomena are convincing proof of "extra-sensory perception." They are convinced that cheating, consciously or unconsciously, has been ruled out, by their methods, and that the odds against such sustained performances are far, far too great to permit their explanation on the grounds of coincidence.

One recent series of scientific articles purporting to "debunk" the Duke experiments offered several explanations, among them that cues were being given, probably unconsciously, to the subject by the experimenter. But this could hardly be possible when the experimenter did not know himself the order of the cards until the pack had been examined AFTER the subject had finished calling.

Another explanation is that the results are simply lucky. But the odds against the kind of scoring that is being done, they say at Duke, are so enormous as to rule this hypothesis out.

"Dr. Rhine assumes," says one scientific writer, "that this same chance (1 to 5) holds straight through the 25 guesses. It would if each card were returned to the deck after the call and the deck shuffled. Actually, as a star is removed, the chances on that suit are lessened slightly and the chances on other guesses increased."

Criticizes Duke Mathematics.

But this can hardly hold water when the subject does not know

 The Boy Scout Troop No. 1 of East Jordan have been meeting Wednesday evenings at the gym under the supervision of Arnold Dedoes. The troop has a hike once a month at which Gerald DeForest and John Smith take charge. Mr. Richard Malpass supervises the advancement once a month and Lester Walcutt has charge of the work done by the troop. Bob Sloop is the senior patrol leader. The membership of the troop is now 22 and more new members are expected soon.
 Last Saturday while the troop were on a hike to Pinney's bridge, they had the pleasure of having a large buck run in front of them. All they lacked was deer season and a gun.

TO A FLIVVER
 I think that I shall never live To see a really perfect 'fliv'— A 'fliv' that has both pep and speed— A thing that all good flivvers need. A 'fliv' that always seems to know Just when to start, stop and go. A 'fliv' that may in summer wear A nest of hornets in her spare. Upon whose engine rust has lain, That intimately lives with rain. Flivvers are made by Ford I know, But only God can make them go. Paul A. Hanson.

4-H CLUB BANQUET HELD
 A 4-H Club pot-luck supper was held in the East Jordan High School building Wednesday, November 10. The tables were laid for only seventy, but about one hundred and twenty attended. These included leaders and representatives from each club in the county. About twenty schools in all were represented. Shamrock plants (the shamrock leaf is the emblem of 4-H Clubs) and shamrock doilies were used as decorations.
 The local 4-H Club with the aid of Mrs. Leatha Larson planned the supper and furnished meat loaf, scalloped potatoes and pickles. Sandwiches, salads, cakes, and jello were furnished by the other clubs. Mr. B. C. Melencamp, county agricultural agent, donated cocoa and chocolate bars.
 After the supper the girls and boys separated and Miss Olga Bird talked to the girls while Floyd Walker talked to the boys. Both spoke on requirements for the various years of 4-H Club work.
 The club at this time wishes to thank Mrs. Charles Strehl and Mrs. Warren Davis for their assistance.

B. CITY DEFEATS E. JORDAN
 Although East Jordan was defeated by Boyne City Saturday, the local team put up one of the hardest fights the Boyne team has had.
 In the first quarter the East Jordan team out-played the Boyne team, going far into Boyne's territory in the first minutes of play, but was unable to score.
 Boyne's first score was made by a pass to Goodwin which he caught over the goal line. The second was by line plunges in the second period. The third was made in the early part of the second half. No more scores were made, leaving the final score 20 to 0 in favor of Boyne City.

SIDELINE JABBER
 Frank Strehl, who had recently moved to Flint, has returned to East Jordan and is now finishing his school year here. Frank was a regular in the backfield last year and is a good hard tackler and blocker. He was ineligible to play in the Gaylord game, however, because his credits had not yet arrived from the Flint school. Strehl played the guard position part time in the Boyne game. We wish he could have been with the team the entire season instead of only the last two weeks.

If you had happened to glance around as you walked past the drinking fountain at about 3:15 last Friday afternoon you probably would have noticed that among the football boys gathered there, there were ten that seemed to be especially nervous. These ten boys were ten seniors who were expected to say a few words to the assembly at the pep meeting. This procedure is gone through every year. The senior boys that are playing their last game for East Jordan are always expected to say a few words. Most of them did say a few words — very few, but never-the-less the pep was kept up and an old high school custom was not broken.

It is a rare occurrence in football when a tackle on the line makes a touchdown but this almost happened at the Boyne City game last Saturday. When quarterback Saxton called play "No. 13" Mike Hitchcock, right tackle, gritted his teeth and hoped that everything would click. On the signal "Let's go" Saxton faded back and threw a lob pass over the center of the line to Gregory who had managed to lose most of Boyne's would-be pass interceptors. Gregory was tackled on the spot but on his way down he lateraled to Hitchcock who was good for about ten more yards after eluding several Boyne tacklers. There was only one man between Mike and a touchdown (but Boyne beat East Jordan 20 to 0 as you've probably heard.)

POSTER MACHINE HELPS
 If something needs advertising at school and you are looking for Mr. Wade, you're liable to find him either using or instructing some one on how to use the new poster machine. This machine is quite a money saver to any organization who wishes to do any advertising and also is quite handy for signs for the bulletin board. To it is attributed a great part of the success of the Junior dance, the pompon sale, and the large crowds at the football games.

BAND & ORCHESTRA PROGRESS
 The East Jordan High School Band and Orchestra have progressed much this fall under the direction of Mr. John Ter Wee. Nearly every section of both organizations are much stronger and better this year than they were last and are still improving. Even the eighteen new beginners are proving to be an asset.
 Both band and orchestra are leaving their more simple music and are beginning more difficult numbers. The band began practice on a new book of snappy marches which have been heard when the band has played at the various pep meetings and football games. Last Monday the band left this book to begin work on "Trombone Blues" and "New Colonial March."
 In a recent pep meeting students were asked to back the musical organizations as well as the teams, you back them, and by festival time East Jordan High will have one of the best bands and orchestras in Northern Michigan.

FIRST DEBATE
 In its first regional debate the East Jordan team lost to Onaway Wednesday, November 10.
 The East Jordan team composed of Frances Lenosky, Irene Brintnall, and Douglas Johnson were accompanied by three other debaters and their instructor, Miss Mary Elizabeth Finch. The East Jordan team upheld the negative of the question Resolved, that the several states should adopt the unicameral-form of legislature.
 After the debate the East Jordan debate team accepted an invitation from Miss Parker, the debate coach of Onaway, to a light lunch.
 The next debate will be with Afton, Friday, November 19, at the East Jordan High School.

ARMISTICE DAY
 Throughout the nation Armistice Day was celebrated in many different ways. The high school recognized the event by giving its annual program.
 For an opening number a twenty piece band played a few selections. This was followed by a "Reveille" on the bugle played by Joe Wilkins, East Jordan's bugler. The third number on the program was a talk given by John Smith about "Conditions Bringing on the World War." The guest speaker of the day was Rev. Matthews who spoke on "Conditions of the World Today." The entire assembly then sang the Star Spangled Banner accompanied by the band.
 The program was impressively ended with "Echo Taps" by the bugler. The local American Legion donated its flag for stage decoration.

SOPHOMORE PARTY
 The floor show at the sophomore party last Friday was an outstanding success. Bud St. Arno and Glen Incalls sang "Nobody's Darling" But Mine," accompanied by the guitar.
 As an encore the boys sang "Red River Valley" and "When Father Was A Little Boy." Bud then sang a solo, "Silver-Haired Daddy of Mine." Peggy Drew gave a tap dance. Then a unique question and answer game was carried on by Dorothy Saneck and Bud St. Arno. Mr. John Smith, sophomore class adviser, made a short talk.
 Dorothy Thomas announced the numbers.
 The grand march was led by Bruce Bartlett and Evelyn Collins.
 Later in the evening cocoa, jello, and cake were served.

CHATTER
 We were glad to be able to pick out a FEW glomores at the party last Friday. The other classes' outdid themselves in attendance. By the way, what happened to the cocoa?
 Wonder where Art Rude picked up the lovely parasol he twirled so daintily at the Boyne game?
 Miss Finch is very adept in handling the Pontiac — particularly in reverse!
 Wonder why Miss Smitten wasn't at the Sophomore party. Mr. Smith was there!
 How did you like the faculty yell in assembly last Friday? They really had some volume. Congrats go to Mr. Eggert as leader.

JR. HIGH STUDENT CONGRESS
 A junior high student congress has been formed in the seventh and eighth grade classes. This organization is to aid in making a better school and to organize the seventh and eighth grade into a unit.
 Last week the congress, under the direction of Mr. Kenneth Heafield held a campaign for its officers. There will be two representatives from each class. Election was held November 11. The officers elected are as follows: Chairman, Gerald Green; Secretary, Ernest Mocherman; Treasurer, Betty Strehl; representatives from eighth grade, Fred Bechtold and Jacklynne Williams; representatives from seventh grade, Leland Hickox and Ernest Stallard.

PING PONG TOURNAMENT
 Fifty-two boys have entered the practice ping pong tournament which started last week. This tournament is preliminary to the big one for school championship, to be held later in the year. The boys themselves are largely managing the affair.
 The ping pong tables have been repaired in the shop classes. Also new equipment has been ordered — three paddles and four dozen balls. The equipment box has been repaired and a new padlock has been obtained for it.

POTATO AWARDS
 The entire community should feel gratified at the excellent placing of the rural teams representing the local school at the Northern Michigan Potato and Apple Show in Petoskey, November 4.
 The boys competed against school systems much larger than East Jordan's.
 Their superior rating was due not only to the student's ability and perseverance, but also to the fine leadership and co-operation of Mr. Eggert, instructor of Smith-Hughes Department, and B. C. Melencamp, sponsor of the 4-H Club.
 On Tuesday, November 9, an assembly was held in the auditorium to present the awards to the winners in the Northern Michigan Contest. The introductory speech was given by Mr. Eggert. The opening number was a talk given by John Ter Avest on "How to Select A Potato Exhibit." "Why The Bother" was explained next by Einer Olstrom, an alumni of East Jordan and also the Sweepstakes Winner.
 The stage was decorated with the huge, colorful "Future Farmers of America" banner. Leonard Thompson gave the F.F.A. creed. Then came the presentation of the awards by Mr. Eggert. These are the winners:— In the Smith-Hughes Exhibit for Russet Rurals, first place to John Ter Avest, second place to Donald Shepard, and third place to Ronald Holland.
 For Russet Burbanks, first place went to Curtis Nicloy.
 East Jordan also ranked highest on the entire Smith-Hughes Exhibits. In 4-H Exhibits for Russet Rurals, the ranking was as follows:— First place, Einer Olstrom; second place, Wilber McDonald; third place, Raynor Olstrom; fourth place, Howard McDonald.
 Of all 4-H Exhibits the East Jordan Peninsula Potato Club ranked first. As a closing number B. C. Melencamp gave comments of 4-H and Smith-Hughes work in agriculture.

Today's Freight Trains

AMERICA has always been a great user of railroad freight service. Ours has been a major dependence on that service.

Have America's railroads speeded up their freight service to keep abreast of this faster era?

America has the fastest freight trains in the world.

Many of them travel on schedules as rigid as passenger schedules.

Many of them are speedier than passenger trains were 15 years ago. Many of them have cut from 5 to 20 to 30 hours off of their 1930 schedules.

Basically, America's freight trains have been speeded up 55% in the past six years. Freight trains with average speeds above 45 miles per hour are becoming the rule.

In 1922 the average freight train carried 676 tons of freight; consisted of 38 cars; maintained an average speed (including all stops) of 11.1 miles per hour, performed in the average hour a service equivalent to carrying 7,479 tons of freight a mile, with payments for loss and damage to freight amounting to $1.11 per car loaded with revenue freight.

Today the average freight train carries 731 tons; averages 46 cars per train; has an average speed of 16.0 miles per hour; has an hour-performance equivalent of 11,718 ton-miles; and claims for loss and damage have dropped to 50 cents per loaded car.

A fast-moving world requires fast and efficient freight service. America's railroads are providing it.
