THE ANNUAL NATIONAL BIG SMELT JAMBOREE

AT EAST JORDAN, SATURDAY, MARCH 26th, WITH SMELT BANQUET AND WILDLIFE PROGRAM THE PREVIOUS NIGHT

At a very enthusiastic Boosters meeting held Tuesday evening in the City Hall, which was sponsored jointly by the Chamber of Commerce and the Sportsmen's Club, definite plans were made for holding of the annual National Smelt Jamboree, coronation of the national King of Smeltium, etc. with the traditional pomp and dignity that befits the occasion.

All committees were appointed, and from present indications the Jamboree is to be bigger and better than ever, with many new, novel, and entertaining features.

While the Jamboree is slated for Saturday, March 26th, the firing gun will be sounded on Friday, March 25th, with a smelt banquet and a wildlife program to be held at the High School Auditorium, with sports writers as guests of honor. While the Jamboree banquet is traditionally staged, the Friday evening celebration will be for men and ladies alike. Arrangements for this wildlife party have been placed in the hands of Joseph F. Bugai.

Every year as March arrives this great big "little city" of the northland begins to assume an air of anticipation. A new trend of activity begins and the citizens take on an attitude of expectancy.

It is the time of year those streamlined, silvery denizens of the deep know as smelt, also become restless and start their wild, mad-rush up the Jordan River so they may spawn and propagate, thus continuing an ever increasing family cycle.

Yes, and further down the state, in that territory known as "The Land of Newaygo Newt", there is another slight sign of activity. Old Newt emerges from his winter's hibernation, gets out his "eatin' tobacco" and starts limbering up his non-skid quid to make sure he will be in fine fettle by March 26th, so, if necessary, he can defend his world's champion spitting record of bull's eyes at thirty feet, against the crop of upstarts that have sprung into action around the nation trying to better his record. Oh yes, and there has been activity in the camp of United States Champion long distance spitter Ernie Head of Detroit, also figure spitter Ken Usher of Charlevoix. There will be plenty of action.

For on March 26th, sportsmen from all over the country will assemble at the East Jordan Sportsmen's Jamboree to dip smelt and compete in the Newaygo Newt National Spitting Contest.

The following committees were appointed, the first named on each committee acting as chairman:

General Chairmen: C. Bowman and E. K. Reuling.
Banquet: Chas. Murphy, Howard Porter, Sam Rogers, Chris Taylor.
Tickets: M. Meredith, C. G. Isaman, Kit Carson, Austin Bartlett.
Coronation: Al. Warda, Hollis Drew.

Parade: Dinty LaLonde, John Porter, Ted Kotovich, Keith Dressel.
Program: Ole Hegerberg, Earl Clark, Geo. Ferris, Frank Crowell.
Housing and Reception: W. E. Hawkins, Fred Vogel, Bert Lorraine, E. Madison.
Newt Spitting Contest: Joseph F. Bugai, Vern Whiteford.

Finance: Clarence Healey, Robert Campbell, P. Penfold, Ira Bartlett.
Registration: Gerald Warren.
Publicity: George Secord, Joseph Bugai, Gayle Saxton, Chas. Malpass.
Further details will be announced in the next issue of the Charlevoix County Herald.

An Appreciation

To the Citizens of East Jordan and Vinity.

We wish to express our sincere appreciation for the good response so many have made in making it possible for us to erect our new church building on the West Side, especially do we thank the East Jordan Lumber Co. and other business places who have accommodated us. And we extend a hearty welcome to everyone to join us in worship and giving thanks to God for His goodness to the children of men on our long awaited opening day in the new church.

There will be special services in preaching, song, and music on Sunday, March 6, at 2:30 p. m., and 7:30 p. m.

The Full Gospel Mission People and Pastor, James L. Shelton.

Notice To Tax-Payers

The tax roll for the City of East Jordan will be returned to the County Treasurer on March 5th. All personal taxes must be in by that date.
G. E. BOSWELL,
City Treasurer.

Beg Your Pardon

One of those blessed errors that occasionally creep into every newspaper was perpetrated by The Herald in the last issue.

Under the caption "Former Local Business Man Dies At Flint", the name of the deceased should have read E. E. BROWN and not E. E. Hall. Just how this mistake was made is beyond us, but think the publisher of this newspaper was a victim of mental aberration at the time he wrote it.

East Jordan Student Wins Speech Contest

Miss Virginia Bartlett, of East Jordan, carried off the honors in a speech contest conducted by Prof. John Murray's class in public speaking at Argubright Business college at Battle Creek last week Tuesday. The contest—a Washington birthday celebration—consisted of patriotic addresses on the lives of Lincoln and Washington. The contest was held during the regular afternoon assembly at the College and upon its completion the student body selected Miss Bartlett as the winner by secret ballot.

Miss Bartlett was winner over nine finalists previously selected from a larger group. Her subject was "Mother of George Washington."

Interesting Address Given By Mr. Lake At P.-T. A. Gathering

A fine program was enjoyed by those attending the Parent-Teachers Association meeting last Monday evening at the East Jordan High School. The first part of the program consisted of a flute solo by Frances Lenosky, and a clarinet and flute duet by Mr. Ter Wee and Marty Clark.

The speaker of the evening—Mr. John Lake of Petoskey—a former member of the pardon and parole board, gave a very vivid and enlightening picture of some of the work of this board, also many facts of interest regarding Michigan prisons and reformatories, in his talk on Crime.

The unanimous decision of the group was that an evening was well spent at this meeting.

Demonstrates Sandwiches For Study Club Women

Marion Martin, of the Home Service Department of the Michigan bakery in Traverse City, was in East Jordan on Tuesday, March 1, to fill a booking on the program of the East Jordan Study club.

The local club met in the evening and showed marked interest in Mrs. Martin's talk and demonstration on the art of making and serving fancy tea varieties of sandwiches. Thirty women were present.

Mrs. Helen Cohn introduced Mrs. Martin.

Fredric March In Stirring Role At Temple

With two of the new pictures at the Temple based on historical high lights and one a Charlie Chan mystery, the new weeks announcement will bring joy to lovers of actionful drama. The first bill for Friday and Saturday has a modern setting in war-torn Shanghai. Titled "International Settlement" it stars George Sanders, Dolores Del Rio and Keye Luke.

Sunday, Monday and Tuesday features Cecil B. DeMille's epic production, "The Buccaneer" with Fredric March, Franciska Gaal, Walter Brennan and Ian Keith. Laid in the stirring period of 1812 when the swashbuckling pirate Jean LaFitte is credited with saving the Nation it presents one of the most thrilling and colorful, adventure-romances ever produced by DeMille.

Family Nights on Wednesday and Thursday bring the latest of the Charlie Chan stories, "Charlie Chan At Monte Carlo", to the Temple screen with Warner Oland as usual in the stellar role.

First Annual Ice Carnival

AT EAST JORDAN RINK A HUGE SUCCESS

East Jordan's first Ice Carnival held here in many years proved to be a huge success at the State Street Skating Rink last Sunday afternoon, February 27th. The condition of the ice was fine for so late in February and although a chilly wind prevailed an estimated crowd of from two to three hundred persons turned out either to participate or watch the running of the events. The afternoon's program was set up by the local Chamber of Commerce, assisted by local WPA recreational leaders.

Fancy skating races for boys, girls, men and women, and the regular skating period fulfilled a fine afternoon of entertainment, which is hoped to lead to more such events of its kind in future years, or even another this winter, weather permitting.

Following are the results of the races in the order of which they were run:

1. Dash, Boys 12 and under:—
1st — Bruce Miles.
2nd — Junior Kamradt.
3rd — James Persons.
2. Dash, Girls 12 and under:—
1st — Jean Dennis.
2nd — Frances Sommerville.
3rd — C. Kemp.
3. Dash, Boys 13 - 16:—
1st — Jr. Clark.
2nd — Rodney Gibbard.
3rd — Harry Watson.
4. Dash, Girls 13 - 16:—
1st — Jean Bugai.
2nd — Jean Dennis.
3rd — Jean Campbell.
5. Dash, Men Open:—
1st — Thomas Breakey.
2nd — Rodney Gibbard.
3rd — Robert Schroeder.
6. ¼ Mile, Boys 13 - 16:—
1st — Rodney Gibbard.
2nd — Jr. Clark.
3rd — Harry Watson.

Canners Lose At Tournament

WIN FROM CHARLEVOIX BUT PETOSKEY BON TONS TOO MUCH

In the opening game of the Bellaire Independent Tournament the local Green and White Canners basketball quintet won over the Charlevoix Resorters 41 - 34 in a very rough encounter. The game played Thursday evening on the Bellaire court was the second meeting of these two teams this season, the Canners winning in two overtimes in the previous engagement a few weeks back.

The Sinclair men opened up fast to tally a 14 to 1 lead at the close of the opening period. The score at the intermission stood 22 to 9 and from here on the locals, using a two-team combination, coasted to victory. The locals thoroughly outplayed the Charlevoix men probably to more of an extent than the score is apt to indicate.

Gayle Saxton, with 14 points, led the Jordanites offensive attack, Radle leading the Charlevoix men with 10. Hegerberg and Russell stood out, performing well on the locals defensive setup.

SIX BEST PHOTOS DEPICT RURAL MICHIGAN

Out of the scores of photographs submitted to the Publications Department at Michigan State College, the above six were selected as most interesting and representative of phases of Michigan rural life.

College Names Photo Winners

If it's true that a camera won't tell a lie, then Michigan is a right interesting and beautiful state, proved in the scores of pictures submitted in a recent photographic contest conducted by the Publications Department at Michigan State College.

Judges found difficulty in picking the ones that best suited the terms of the contest. Purpose was to find pictures illustrating the most interesting phases of rural life in Michigan.

Six photos finally found their way to the top. One—submitted by Mrs. George Thompson, Saginaw, shows a baby trying to get its share of some milk in a bottle while a baby lamb is also trying to get its share.

From Lynn H. Grove, Pewamo, came a picture of a farmer near Traverse City plowing a garden with a Holstein bull for power.

Feeding deer was the title given one picture which came from the Upper Peninsula. William Harjis, Paynesville, submitted a picture showing his brother Emil feeding a young deer in an inclosure near Victoria dam in Ontonagon county.

Mrs. George Thornburn, Mason, submitted several photographs. One is called "Fals" and shows an attractive girl sitting on a fence over which a friendly farm horse is stretching its neck.

Two other pictures rated a place in the contest because they are among the best that will ever be taken of similar subjects, in the opinion of the judges. One is by Florence Culver, Grand Rapids. Judges called it "Homeward" as it shows a herd kicking up the dust as the cows go down the trail alongside a rail fence. The other is of Tahquamenon Falls in Luce county, submitted by Cora Shady, Newberry.

Chamberlain Planning Anglo-Italian Agreement and Four-Power Pact . . . France in Dilemma

Chancellor Hitler delivering the sensational speech in which he defied the world, declaring Germany was not afraid of war. Above him is seen General Goering. This is a radio-photo from Berlin.

Edward W. Pickard SUMMARIZES THE WORLD'S WEEK

Anglo-Italian Plans

SUPPORTED by a large majority in the house of commons, British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain moved rapidly toward realization of his plan for European appeasement, the basis of which was to be a speedy truce with Italy, to be followed by a four-power pact including Britain, France, Italy and Germany.

The earl of Perth, British ambassador to Rome, had conversations with Italian Foreign Minister Ciano and was then called to London for further instructions.

Immediate cessation of anti-Italian propaganda in the British territories in the Near East in return for which Italy will guarantee not to include anti-British propaganda in its Bari radio broadcasts.

Withdrawal of foreign "volunteers" from Spain was to be demanded by Britain, and it was understood in London that Chancellor Hitler of Germany had agreed to that, and that Italy would not refuse, although Mussolini especially wishes that Franco be granted belligerent rights.

France in Tight Place

FRANCE, it was expected, would adopt a course parallel with that of Britain, for, as Foreign Minister Delbos said, she might otherwise find herself isolated in Europe. However Premier Chamberlain served notice on Chamberlain that the French would join in the proposed four-power pact only if protection were assured for Czechoslovakia and Austria.

The Chamberlain plan leaves out Soviet Russia, an ally of France, and the French also seemed likely to lose another ally, for Poland, it appeared, was about to enter into an agreement with Germany against Russia.

Isolationists Cheered

AMERICAN isolationists saw in the new European developments the eclipse of the internationalism fostered by President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull, and were greatly encouraged in their determination to keep the United States free from foreign entanglements.

McNutt Hullabaloo

PAUL V. McNUTT, high commissioner to the Philippines, came home to report to the President, and as soon as he arrived in Washington his enthusiastic friends staged a big reception for the purpose of booming him as Democratic nominee for the Presidency in 1940.

McNutt said he was not a candidate for any office, but Senator Sherman Minton, Governor Townsend and other leading Democrats of Indiana insist he should be nominated in 1940, and no one doubts that he would like to be so honored.

Chandler in Race

GOVERNOR A. B. ("HAPPY") CHANDLER of Kentucky formally announced his candidacy for the senate seat occupied by Alben W. Barkley, majority leader. He said he would try to confine his fight to state issues, but would not hesitate to take issue with the Roosevelt administration if it interfered in the primaries in behalf of Barkley.

Green Hits Lewis' Plan

MOVING to stop John Lewis and his C. I. O. from gaining political control of Pennsylvania, the American Federation of Labor revoked the charter of the state federation. President Green announced that action with a declaration that the votes of 400,000 "loyal" federation members in Pennsylvania "cannot be delivered" by "self-constituted labor leaders, ambitious for political power."

Lewis and his unions are planning to elect Lieut. Gov. Thomas Kennedy to the governorship. He is secretary-treasurer of the miners' union.

Coal Prices Revoked

FACED with growing litigation, the national bituminous coal commission announced it had taken the advice of producers and labor unions and voted unanimously to suspend its schedule of soft coal minimum prices, marketing rules and regulations. The prices had been set aside by the courts in numerous cases.

Franco Regains Teruel

FRANCO's insurgent forces recovered possession of Teruel, Spain, and continued their progress toward the Mediterranean coast. In the recaptured city they took more than 16,000 prisoners and buried 9,000 government dead. Rebel warships bombarded the coastal cities of Valencia and Sagunto and were in turn attacked by government bombing planes.

Rumania Goes Fascist

RUMANIA is now a Fascist corporative state of guilds patterned after Italy. This was settled when King Carol proclaimed the new constitution, which provides for a parliament composed of guilds of farmers, workers and intellectuals. Both the chamber of deputies and the senate are reduced in size and election of members is to be by trades and professions, not by political parties.

The king will appoint half the senators and will have veto power over all legislation. All Rumanians are declared equal, with radical distinctions, and religious freedom is granted with the Orthodox Rumanian church as the state religion. Trials by jury are abolished and the death penalty reintroduced for certain crimes.

Hungary Offers Pay

JOHN PELENYI, minister from Hungary, revealed that his government has proposed a readjustment of its "war debt" whereby it would repay the United States the full amount of its original loan but without interest.

Parker Gilbert Dies

S. PARKER GILBERT of New York, who at the age of thirty-two won fame by his brilliant work as agent general for war reparations, died of heart disease. After completing his job in Berlin he became a partner in J. P. Morgan & Co., dealing especially with matters of international finance.

Army Planes' Great Flight

SIX bombing planes of the United States army air corps successfully completed an epochal mass flight of 6,000 miles from Miami, Fla., to Buenos Aires. The only intermediate stop was at Lima, Peru. From there the bombers roared over the snow-capped Andes and landed at the Argentine capital, where thousands cheered the aviators. The planes carried 48 men besides the flight commander, Lieut. Col. Robert Olds.

Washington Digest National Topics Interpreted by William Bruckart

Washington.—Changes in President Roosevelt's policies have been coming so fast lately that about all I am able to do this week is to review the situation. I have gathered information and advice from many official sources in an earnest effort to understand what is happening, but with all of that I am quite incapable of what I would regard as a complete analysis.

The proper basis for a start, therefore, appears to be with recollection that one of the cardinal policies of the Roosevelt administration was control of agricultural production to accomplish higher prices. Another basic plank is the foreign trade policies under which reciprocal trade treaties have been negotiated with numerous foreign nations.

Well, the higher prices began to materialize. They came along to the point where eight or ten months ago there was genuine evidence of a speculative boom. Mr. Roosevelt said recently in a statement to the press that the outlook on this circumstance was a bit alarming. Suddenly, however, the depression settled down on the country. The President took note of it after a time and announced that prices had to come down in order to encourage buying by the consumers.

That brings me to the recent conviction of the oil companies in a trial that was held at Madison, Wis. As far as I have read the record by the government was that the oil companies had used a pricing system which was fostered by the infamous NRA, a policy laid down by congress. Secretary Ickes of the Department of the Interior, now one of the loudest mouths in the chorus of bust trusts, insisted on the oil companies getting together. He wrote letters to them to that effect. Of course, the NRA was held unconstitutional but the decision was based on the question of congressional authority to delegate powers to the executive officers.

We might also look at some of the tactics employed by the government. Robert H. Jackson, who was the spearhead and spokesman for the trust busting drive, lately has been promoted to the job of solicitor general of the United States.

Now, while the trust drive has been on (and some folks have been cruel enough to charge that the trust busting drive is to keep the folks from realizing we are in a depression), another thing has happened. I refer to the passage of the new farm aid legislation. I have not been able to understand the law, but Secretary Wallace calls it one of God's blessings to the farmers because he says that it will reduce or limit production and thereby force a greater return to the farmers.

"Our program seeks a balanced system of prices such as will promote balanced expansion in production. . . . This is not a policy of restriction; it is a policy of abundance." I seem to recall some phrases of a few years back which described the plans as leading, first, to higher prices for agricultural products through "scarcity"; then, there came "the more abundant life" and later balanced abundance. I assume the "balanced expansion" must represent something taken in between the other policies, but I frankly do not understand. That is the reason why I have attempted this report to you by way of a review.

Although admitting that much of the new program is too deep for me to analyze, there are certain phases of it which have been operative and from which results have begun to show. Take the reciprocal trade treaties as an example. I came across some figures down at the Department of Commerce the other day and they were something of a revelation. They showed that in 1937 this nation of ours was importing more agricultural commodities than it exported. I could not find when that condition had obtained before. Certainly, there have been few times in our history when that has happened.

The department figures showed that the United States imported 18 per cent more commodities from the farms of the world than it exported from our farms. Further examination of those statistics reveals the disturbing fact that the bulk of those imports were things which our American farmers could have grown right at home. I can find no other reason for the condition than that the reciprocal trade treaties which were to bring us prosperity have taken prosperity to some other farmers.

Trade Treaties and from which results have begun to show. Take the reciprocal trade treaties as an example. I came across some figures down at the Department of Commerce the other day and they were something of a revelation. They showed that in 1937 this nation of ours was im-

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK... By Lemuel F. Parton

NEW YORK.—In 1929, at the age of seventy-one, Frederick H. Prince, the Boston banker, was still playing polo. He has great faith in the durability of the institutions of men, institutions and governments, as long as they behave themselves.

Time Better Than Reform for Business He left for Europe to forget about business for a while and intimates that it would be a good thing if the government would be similarly neglectful. "Washington should stop trying to reform business and leave the situation to time," he says.

Time has treated him nicely and he may well give it a testimonial. At seventy-nine, he is the grand seigneur of American business. Only four years ago, he engaged in a hard-hitting slugfest over the control of Armour & Co.

He got what he was after—the chairmanship of the board. He has many such trophies, having controlled 46 railroads, and, in general, one of the biggest cuts in the American dream of any man in his day. His (mainly liquid) fortune is estimated at around $250,000,000. But, for many years, he says, he has made it a point to be about $20,000,000 in debt. That is revealing in connection with his ideas about money and success. He emphasizes the dynamics of money. It isn't money unless it is working. Stagnant money just dries up and blows away. Hence you draw cards even if you do have to drag a few chips for markers.

He's a little too heavy for polo, with a massive gray head, deep sunken, pondering eyes, and heavy, gray moustache; a bit grim, perhaps, but not formidable. When, early in October, 1929, a small black cloud appeared on the horizon, he viewed it with a telescopic eye, saw it for what it was, and got out of the market.

The cyclone never touched him. Until a few years ago, he was still riding to the hounds at Pau, in southern France, master of the hunt. He has marble palaces here and there, one of them the former mansion of Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, at Newport. Remarking that he has been in business 55 years, he says this little squall will blow over in two or three months.

THE reason isn't quite clear, but these days, the colleges compete for tuba players as well as athletes.

Dr. Walter Albert Jessup deplores this and other phases of the scramble for students in the annual report of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, of which he is president. The fight seems to be entirely in the field of extra-curricular activities. No mere scholar gets competing bids from rival faculties.

Since he became head of the Carnegie foundation, in 1933, Dr. Jessup has been a consistent deflationist, so far as education is concerned. He wants fewer and better students in the colleges. He assails the colleges which would "teach anybody anything." He is against educational trimmings, excrescences and gadgets, as the little Scotch ironmaster doubtless would be if he were looking over the current scene. Other leading educators join him in this, but the big mill has to have plenty of raw material, to keep on grinding, or else become just a crossroad plant.

So they go after even the tuba players. At any rate, each can blow its own horn.

Dr. Jessup was president of the University of Iowa from 1916 to 1933. A native of Richmond, Ind., he was educated at Earlham college and Columbia and gathered several honorary degrees in later years. He was superintendent of schools in Indiana and dean of the college of education of Indiana university. He has won high distinction in the educational field and is the author of a book on arithmetic.

One gathers that he would not recommend Benny Goodman for a college faculty and that quite probably the next Carnegie report may find adversely on the shag, the eeper and the susy-q. He is for low kicking and high thinking, as against the prevailing reversal of this formula.

Giants Short Lived

The circus giant, the man with abnormally long legs or other abnormalities of frame, is a short-lived human. Tall men fall into two classes, those who attain their extraordinary growth because of inherited tendencies and those who become freaks because of some upset in the glandular functions. The man who "comes by his height naturally" usually lives a normal life span, but the freak seldom attains middle age. An insurance company, given to research in such matters, found that a number of men ranging from 7 feet 6 inches tall to 8 feet 7 inches had an average life of thirty-four years. The oldest died at forty-five, the youngest at twenty-seven.

2 WAY RELIEF FOR THE MISERY OF COLDS

Take 2 BAYER ASPIRIN tablets and drink a full glass of water. Repeat treatment in 2 hours.

If throat is sore from the cold, crush and stir 3 BAYER ASPIRIN tablets in 1/2 glass of water. Gargle twice. This eases throat rawness and soreness almost instantly.

All it usually costs to relieve the misery of a cold today— is 3¢ to 5¢—relief for the period of your cold 15¢ to 25¢. Hence no family need neglect even minor head colds.

Here is what to do: Take two BAYER tablets when you feel a cold coming on—with a full glass of water. Then repeat, if necessary, according to directions in each package. Relief comes rapidly.

The Bayer method of relieving colds is the way many doctors approve. You take Bayer Aspirin for relief—then if you are not improved promptly, you call the family doctor.

Safety Workers Recruit Science In Battle on Highway Fatalities

Automatic Gadgets Will Eliminate Human Element in Autos of the Future, Say Pioneering Engineers—Read and Gasp at Their Elaborate Precautionary Plans!

By JOSEPH W. LaBINE

Automobile accidents dealt sudden death to 39,700 persons and cost the nation two billion dollars last year.

That is not news. It is an all-time record and a disgrace which should be emblazoned in letters of fire along every highway of the land, although it already has screamed from many headlines in the last few weeks.

But today, for the first time, there is a definite, organized war being carried into every corner of the United States by an army of 8,000,000 who, with their families, make up a quarter of the nation's population, in an effort to drive the grim reaper from the highway once and for all.

THAT IS NEWS.

And scientists today are able to predict confidently that the time is in sight when science will take over the control of a moving car when it is not safe to leave the control in the driver's hands—and restore that control to the driver at times when nature would ordinarily take it away from him.

THAT IS NEWS, TOO.

Twelve far-seeing national, civic, educational and business organizations are recruiting the troops for the war on death.

One would expect to find lined up in such a campaign the American Automobile association, the Automotive Safety Foundation, the Highway Education board, the International Association of Chiefs of Police, the National Automobile Dealers' association and the National Safety council—and so they are.

But it is encouraging to learn that the banner is also being carried by such ordinarily independent groups as the American Legion, the General Federation of Women's Clubs, the National Congress of Parent-Teachers and the National Grange. Particularly the National Grange, for in the rural areas more automobile accidents result in swift and horrible death, relatively, than in the more crowded thoroughfares of the cities.

Science Takes a Hand.

And it is especially heartening to discover that two active groups represent the scientific resources of two great universities. These are the Traffic Safety institute of Northwestern university in Evanston, Ill., and the bureau of street traffic research of Harvard university at Cambridge, Mass.

Two "crystal-gazers" of science—Dr. Miller McClintock, director of the Harvard bureau, and Prof. John M. Lessells, of Massachusetts Institute of Technology—recently startled the automotive world with visions of the day science will make highway accidents next to impossible.

Dr. McClintock speaks of the day to come when invisible "electric bumper" rays will prevent one motorist from colliding with another, no matter how careless he may be.

"It is possible to lay in the pavement itself electrical cables which, when a car comes to a dangerous curve or around an obstruction, would automatically take the steering from the driver by radio control and thus center the car over the curve and steer it safely around the curve or obstruction," Dr. McClintock explains.

Pointing to the success of "invisible eye" controls in other fields, the scientist predicts the use of electric bumpers. This would be made possible by installing infra-red lights in the rear of automobiles, which would actuate photoelectric cells in front of other cars. This "invisible eye" would reduce the speed of a car overtaking another too rapidly.

Lighting the Way.

Cars of the future may themselves turn on and off the lights used to illuminate highways at night, it is predicted by Dr. Mc-Clintock. This development will also make use of infra-red light rays and photo-electric cells, he says.

When the first "one-lunger" chugged down Main street, a speed of 30 miles an hour was considered remarkable, and as a result, no particular demand was put on the brakes. Nowadays, stock cars are manufactured with much greater speeds, and more efficient brakes have followed—brakes which can bring cars to a stop in less than half the distance formerly required, if the proper traction can be obtained on the road surface.

Such traction is a simple matter when road surfaces are dry, according to Professor Lessells, editor of the technical journal of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

Eliminating the "hazard zone"—where wet pavement causes skidding accidents—will be one of science's greatest contributions to traf-on the road—10,000,000 more cars than now choke the highways!

Here are traffic developments predicted for the future: (1) Guiding cars automatically by invisible rays from cables in a street. (2) Ending motoring's "hazard zone" with—in effect—a battery of windshield wipers through non-skid methods. (3) Infra-red rays from car to car to slow down vehicles approaching too rapidly. (4) Radio beam warnings from one car to another. (5) Electric eyes to control highway lighting so that any given area is illuminated only when traffic requires it.

Except for the relatively few heavy traffic routes which are properly lighted, the inadequate systems used for illuminating the highways, and the blinding glare of headlights on the road, are two chief reasons given for rural roads being the scene of most fatal auto accidents.

Science is developing a new system of highway lights for certain areas which will supply long-range visibility without glare—illuminating the road so that a driver can see as far ahead as in clear daylight.

Glareless Headlights.

Because the taxpayers would groan if all highways were floodlighted by this new lighting system, traffic experts say that glareless headlights will be necessary on 90 per cent of the highways. Here, too, science has the answer in development of polarized glass for headlights and windshields to eliminate glare without reducing the amount of light on the road ahead.

Looking to the car of the future itself, the public is assured by the auto makers that the cars of the next few years will make the present models look more antiquated than the first horseless carriages.

A crystal-gazing picture of what

Dr. Miller McClintock, director of Harvard university bureau of street traffic research, examines a model "city of the future," where traffic will move quickly along super-highways.

fic safety, according to Professor Lessells.

Pointing out that the solution of the problem must be found at the point where the car makes contact with the road, Professor Lessells adds: "If we can instantaneously create a dry surface, over which the tire is always passing, the car's brakes will keep it under control. I anticipate that some way will soon be found to make this possible."

Autos on Increase.

The car owner who thinks that traffic safety will come only when fewer autos are on the highways is in for a big disappointment, if a recent survey of automobile and traffic experts means anything. They expect, on the basis of present trends, that the next 20 years will find 37,000,000 motor vehicles kind of a car today's driver may be riding in tomorrow, is given by Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, World war ace, and engineering "prophet."

Captain Rickenbacker predicts: "It will be an attractive car to ride in. In size and appearance the interior will be like a small living room. It will be air-conditioned and there will be no noise or vibration."

"You will have to look twice to find the engine. It will be less conspicuous than in cars today. It may be x-shaped or it may be radial like certain airplane engines. It may be in front or it may be behind. In any case, it will be lighter and more compact but just as powerful as the engines you are used to."

For Your Spring Wardrobe

DRESSES that not only satisfy your present craving for something new and spring-like, but also look ahead to a later season, too. Make them yourself at home, for very much less than you usually spend on clothes. You'll find it very easy to do, with the sew chart that accompanies each pattern.

Corsette Waistline.

If you have a slim figure, this is the afternoon dress for you! The fullness over the bust, the sleeves cut in one with the shoulders, and the lifted waistline, are just as flattering as they can be! It's the kind of dress you can wear to bridges, luncheons, meetings, and for every afternoon occasion, with the assurance that it is not only smart but becoming.

Slenderizing House Frock.

Especially designed for full figures, this house frock follows straight, tailored lines, and fits beautifully. You can get into it in nothing flat, and it doesn't take long to make either, thanks to the complete and detailed sew chart that comes with your pattern. Make it up in a pretty, small-figured printed percale, and trim it with rows of old-fashioned rick-rack.

A Frilly Home Cotton.

TIPS to Gardeners

Grow Better Flowers

GROW better flowers by planting them in the kind of soil in which they can perform best. Though your soil may be good and rich, certain flowers will not do as well in it as in poorer ground.

In rich soil plant zinnia, petunia, portulaca, snapdragon, stock, heliotrope, marigold and salvia.

Nasturtium, love-lies-bleeding, Joseph's coat, celosia, alyssum, California poppy, calendula, love-in-a-mist and hollyhock are suggested by the Ferry Seed Institute for growth in poor soil.

Heavy soil containing clay is good for sweet peas, pansies, stocks, carnations, scabiosas, snapdragons and most of the popular perennials.

The following prefer a soil of light texture: Petunia, Portulaca, celosia, hollyhock, love-in-a-mist, annual phlox, calliopsis, nicotiana and all the climbers.

In garden plots that are partially shaded grow calendula, balsam, mignonette, pansy and vinca.

King Coal

Statistics disclose a most unusual finding. Since the American colonies formed a country of their own in 1776, mined coal tops in value that of mined silver and gold. Since that year coal mined in the United States—up to last year—had a market value of $41,271,000,000.

This is about six times the value of all the gold and silver mined in this country during the same period. The produced coal value was enough to pay the government's current debt in full and still be $5,000,000,000 to the good.

Keep your body free of accumulated waste, take Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. 60 Pellets 30 cents.—Adv.

In a game which virtually decided the Championship of Northern Michigan Independent basketball circles, the powerful Bon Ton Bakers of Petoskey eked out a last minute 41 to 38 win over the local Cannners team Friday evening in the Semi-finals of the Bellaire tournament. The Petoskeyites trailing 38 to 35 with but one minute remaining to play, tossed in three successive field goals to win one of the most thrilling battles ever put on at Bellaire.

The Cannners fighting desperately kept within range of the Petoskey sharpshooters all the way, managing to pull out in front near the end of the game. The Cannners, only to be humbled by such a devastating drive as the Bakers were able to put up. It was the second defeat the Bon Tons have administered to the Jordanites this winter.

East Jordan's defensive setup was again unable to stop Ted Dombroski, crack sharpshooter of the Red and White, who led his teammates to victory, counting 20 points. This lad, playing his second year in Independent Basketball, has been burning up the hoops of enemy courts in this section of the state this winter. His ability warrants him as a fine college prospect, who should be scoring for some college rather than the Bakers. Saxton with 13 points, was high scorer for the Jordanites, and again the work of Hegerberg on defense stood out.

In a game deciding the consolation prize of the tourney Coach Alex Sinclair and his East Jordan Cannners found little trouble in defeating the Bellaire Merchants 49 to 32 to win the awarded 12 inch trophy.

The Jordanites still stinging from their defeat of the Bon Tons the night previous turned on the pressure, easily humbling their weaker opposition furnished by the Bellaire boys.

Every member of the Green and White shared in the scoring against the Merchants. Guy Russell headed the barrage with 14 points. Smith, with 9 points, was high man for the losers.

The management of the tourney did a fine job running off the affair. Grimm of Mancelona did an excellent bit of officiating throughout the three days of competition. Half the Bon Tons, the winners and a fine group of players, who are always in there, playing for all they're worth, with a fine team spirit, courteous to opponents, and respecting decisions of officials.

Lutherans In "German Settlement" To Observe The Lenten Season

Friday evening March 4, begins the first of a series of mid-week devotional services in Christ Ev. Lutheran Church, "German Settlement". The supreme motive of these devotions is — to hold up Christ, the Christ of the Cross, as the only hope of a dying world. Excepting this first service to be held this Friday evening at 8 p. m., all the remaining services will be held every Thursday evening thereafter at 8 p. m. The pastor, Rev. V. Felton, will deliver meditations on the general subject: "His Passion". The members of the "Settlement" are requested to make the best use of this opportunity to enrich their lives spiritually.

The public is also cordially invited to these services.

V. FELTON, Pastor.

National Wildlife Restoration Week

Following President Roosevelt's proclamation setting aside March 20 to March 26 as national wildlife restoration week, various conservation leagues, sportsmen's clubs, women's organizations and other groups in the state have embarked on a program of special meetings.

Michigan participation in the national event is under the guidance of a state committee headed by Prof. Paul A. Herbert of Michigan State college.

One of the special activities being held in connection with the programs is a wildlife essay contest for school children. This is sponsored by the Michigan wildlife restoration week committee in cooperation with the state department of public instruction and the state department of conservation. Both state and local prizes will be awarded.

Mrs. W. C. Howe of Overlook farm received an air mail letter from her brother, John Henry, who is a sailor, from Lima, Peru, last week. She was also fortunate enough to be tuned in to pick up the message the American Flyers to Argentine sent back from Valpariso, Chile, on their way home.

Will MacGregor was the first to get his ice house filled, at Whiting Park, got it done Tuesday. A. B. Nicloy of Sunny Slopes farm filled his Saturday. Healey and son filled their ice house Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Elton Jarman who are stopping at Gravel Hill, south side were Sunday, dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. K. Hayden at Pleasant View farm.

Mrs. Will Gaunt of Three Bells Dist spent Friday afternoon with Mrs. W. C. Howe at Overlook farm while Mr. Will Gaunt helped Mr. Howe get hay into the farm.

Mr. and Mrs. James Hecock of Petoskey and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Scott of Boyne City and Mrs. Frank Beal of Advance called on the D. D. Tibbits family at Cherry Hill, Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Geo. Staley of Stoney Ridge farm was ill all last week with a severe cold.

Skating on Newson's Lake, which has been fine most of the winter, was spoiled by the slight storm of rain and snow, Saturday night.

Buddy and Vera Staley and their cousin, Lloyd Jones of Stoney Ridge farm, spent Monday evening in East Jordan.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Loomis and son Clare of Gravel Hill, north side, spent Sunday with Mrs. Loomis' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harlo Sweet in Advance.

There was a stork party for Mrs. Kenneth Russell of Ridgeway farms at the home of Mrs. Ray Loomis, Gravel Hill, north side, Friday, where a lot of sewing was done. Nine women joined in a pot luck dinner and three more came in the afternoon. Besides doing a good turn, they spent a very pleasant day.

Quite a number from the Peninsula attended the funeral of Samuel K. Persons in East Jordan, Tuesday afternoon.

C. C. Mullett of Fremont visited the F. H. Wangeman farm in Three Bells Dist., Saturday.

Master Lyle B. Wangeman of the F. H. Wangeman farm has the mumps.

Mr. and Mrs. David Gaunt and Mr. and Mrs. Will Gaunt of Three Bells Dist. entertained Mr. and Mrs. Robert Myers of Mountain Dist., Sunday. The special occasion was Mr. Myers birthday anniversary (Monday, Feb. 28). They had a splendid dinner. Mrs. Clarence Johnston and grandson Basil Moore joined the party in the afternoon when ice cream and cake was served.

Fred Earl, who has been in Boyne City for a while, came to the David Gaunt home Thursday evening and plans to leave Tuesday for the southern part of the state to seek employment.

Mrs. Robert Myers of Mountain Dist. spent Tuesday afternoon with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Gaunt in Three Bells Dist.

Orval Bennett of Honey Slopes farm drove his team to Boyne City, Saturday, the first time in four weeks because of the icy roads about four inches of snow fell Wednesday covering the ice and it was wet snow so it has not drifted.

E. J. Crimson Wave Triumph Over Mancelona Quint.

Coach Abe Cohn's Crimson Wave upset the dope here last Thursday evening when they triumphed 28 to 20 over the Orange and Black of Mancelona on the local court. The Mancelona boys, who hold the third place position of the conference standings were favored to take the Cohnmen in stride.

The Jordanites, who have been improving from game to game throughout the season, were at top form playing the veteran Mancy machine, who at times this season have shown a fine brand of basketball. The Crimsonites held a two point disadvantage at the end of the opening period, trailing 9 to 7, but managed to grab the lead, at the intermission, leading 14 to 13. The locals continued to dominate the play throughout the final half, outscoring the visitors in each of the final two periods.

R. Saxton and C. Bulow shared the offensive attack of the locals with 6 points each, Cihak and Holley each counted 5, Antoine 3, Bennett 2, and Isaman 1. Bailey and Hardy counted 7 each for the losers.

Coach Harry Jankoviak's Reserves again met with defeat, losing 17 to 14 to the Mancy Seconds. The local Jr. High team dropped the opening game of the evening to the Mancelona Juniors, 16 to 12.

The Red Shirts take up in tournament competition Friday evening when they meet up with the Red Raiders on the Charlevoix court. Boyne City plays Harbor Springs Thursday evening.

Plates For '38 Take 1,500 Tons of Steel

Motor vehicles of the state will be carrying 1500 tons of Michigan steel in the form of license plates in 1938 — an increase of about one-third over tonnage of previous years. The 10,000 gallons of enamel covering these plates weighs about 40 tons.

The increased purchase of Michigan steel and paint arises through decision of Leon D. Case, Secretary of State, to substitute metal half-year permits for the windshield stickers of previous years. About one plate in three is a half-year permit. Stickers were purchased in previous years from an Illinois firm.

The 1937 legislature added a 25 cent fee to the cost of half-year permits, to cover bookkeeping and other costs. Metal plates are made at the State Prison of Southern Michigan for about 11 cents a pair, and provide much-needed prison labor; the stickers cost about 4 cents each.

What you ask of a Bank

Depends Upon What You Know About a Bank

A great many people do ask impossible things of a bank—just because they do not thoroughly understand what are the right and the wrong principles of conducting a bank.

There is a reason back of every safe rule in banking. The banker does not act from whim, or favor this person or that; he follows the charts of experience. He tries to steer a safe course, as the captain does with a great liner. Nobody asks the captain to head for an iceberg. Nobody should ask the banker to depart from any of the sound principles which give protection to the bank's depositors.

Used Cars Must Look Good, Too

DETROIT—The automotive industry long has recognized the influence which women exert in the selection of motor cars, and each year has seen greater emphasis on the style, comfort, and appearance factors which mean so much to feminine buyers. It has remained for Ray Whyte, proprietor of Eastern Chevrolet Co., Detroit, to apply this fact to his used car operations, by appointing a young woman to check each reconditioned used car, inside and out, before it is offered for sale. Miss Rosemary Melford, who does that unusual job, is shown checking over the interior of a car whose upholstery has gone through the mending, vacuum cleaning, and scrubbing which these units receive in addition to mechanical adjustment and repair.

CHAPTER I

They sat facing each other, separated by thirty-seven years, two utterly different temperaments, and six feet of priceless wine-colored Bokhara that covered the old davenport. James Lambert, who found it difficult to relax when he intended to be unrelenting, sat stiffly, arms folded, at his end of the six feet. Leonora at hers was curled up in the manner of a little girl, her head with its aureole of pale gold hair resting upon a velvet cushion—one small, silver-clad foot dangling against the gorgeous color of the old Bokhara like some barbaric jewel from the Orient.

be interested in the welfare of his own sister?
“I'm only his half-sister,” the girl corrected, “and there are times enough when he wishes I wasn't. Oh, I know what a good egg Ned is—in his own way; but he hasn't a spark of imagination. He never sees the other fellow's side. He's content to eat breakfast at precisely the same time each morning, and to know where he'll be every hour of the twenty-four. He's perfectly satisfied with Corinne and her beautiful kept house which changes with every changing style so you can't find your way around if you happen not to go there for a month. Corinne never does anything that isn't ‘done,’ you know; but she makes him comfortable, and that's all Ned asks of life—comfort, plus an increasing bank balance. He's a superb example of the successful, white-collared American business man, like—”

Nora paused, suddenly inarticulate.

ence with a question: “Like his father?”
“You're not his father,” began the girl, then stopped, fearing to hurt him. “I mean—”

“I've been Ned's father longer than I've been yours, Nora,” he reminded her with unaccustomed gentleness. “The boy was less than two years old when I married his mother; and he's been compensation, as far as such a thing is possible, for all the trouble that came later.”

“Meaning—me?”
She shouldn't have said just that, of course; but her lip trembled a little, and James forgave her. He responded instantly: “Don't be a goose, dear! I've never regarded you as a trouble—not for a minute. A problem, perhaps, because I don't always understand you, and you often rub me the wrong way. But I want you to be happy, Nora, and safe; and I can't see safety for a woman, or happiness either, unless there's a certain stability in the man she chooses. Don Mason hasn't got that stability; and I doubt if it's possible for him to acquire it now. I don't call him a ne'er-do-well, though—”

James Lambert's hand went up in the forbidding gesture popular with traffic officers.
“Don't go all over South Africa again, I beg of you. All this remarkable young man did there was to get into a diamond rush that netted him nothing. That is,” he glanced at her sternly, “nothing but memories. Now look here, Nora. It's no use quibbling. You're blinded just at present by all the fellow's exploits; but you're young and impressionable. You can forget him. I'll send you abroad again if that will help. I'll even go with you myself, though I loathe travel. Ned tells me—”

She spoke evenly, coldly, yet hot color dyed her face and something told her foster-father that she was nearer anger than he had ever seen her. But he was angry himself as he retorted in a voice like ice: “Is it anything deplorable for a man to up just now. If I felt that Ned really cared about me it would be different; but he's never cared, not like a real brother—not as—as you care, Dad. Sometimes I feel—Oh, hello, Don! Come in. Dad wants to see you.”

The young man paused on the threshold. He did not speak, yet one knew instinctively that he was asking: “Is this a declaration of war, or a friendly counsel?” It was, perhaps, only a few seconds that he waited in the illuminating silence, but, facing him, James Lambert was conscious of a pang of envy. Here was Youth! Youth at its best and—brightest. What arguments could a man of sixty use, he asked himself, to counteract the sense of high adventure which this boy brought with him into the quiet room.

Years afterward James was to recall every detail of that scene: how as Don stood there his hair seemed to be blown back from his forehead by a mountain breeze—how tanned his neck had looked above the collar—how broad his shoulders—how strong his hands. And how, as the girl came forward, his eyes which had been shrewd and questioning, changed, softened, lighted as if by magic.

“You wish to see me, sir?”
James thought: “I wish I may never see your handsome face again,” but he gripped the outstretched hand in not unfriendly fashion as he replied with crisp finality: “Only to say that I'm taking Nora abroad for the next year.”

For one startled moment Don's eyes met Leonora's—held them. What he read there James never knew. He said, a smile curving his engaging mouth: “Our tastes are similar! I meant to do that very thing myself.”

“Indeed?” There was a world of sarcasm in the lifted eyebrows. “On a thousand dollars?”

Don said, quite seriously: “It shouldn't take a thousand, Mr. Lambert. I've been from Persia to—”

“See here,” James broke in with impatience, “it doesn't in the least matter where you've been. I've no doubt you traveled steerage—roughed it—even mixed with the darkies as a deck passenger. May I ask if you ever traveled with a woman?”

“Oh, Dad!” warned Nora; but the young man silenced her with a laugh.

“Sit tight, my dear. Your father's not insulting me. He's merely pointing out the fact that a feminine companion complicates things on a journey. He's right, of course; but as it happens, Mr. Lambert, I did travel for ten days with a girl I picked up outside of Shanghai. We—”

He paused because James Lambert had made a strange sound in his throat. Nora recognized it as the forerunner of a storm—a sort of distant thunder. If possible that storm must be averted, and she said hurriedly: “Don didn't mean, Dad—”

“And do you mean,” blazed her father, thoroughly roused, “that you'll consider marrying a fellow who admits traveling with strange women—‘picking them up’ here, there, God knows where? Do you understand, child?”

To his amazement a short laugh came from Don.

“Calm down, everybody,” he pleaded. “Calm down. The lady in the case was above reproach. This adventure of mine which sounds so wicked to you, Mr. Lambert, occurred during a Chinese rebellion. The girl got separated from her family and I took her under my brotherly wing, as it were, until we found them. Would you have had me leave a fellow countrywoman to the tender mercies of the bandits who had wrecked our train?”

Nora laughed; while her father experienced the unpleasant sensation of appearing foolish. This made him angrier still, and he exploded: “Why didn't you say so in the first place?”

“I'm under the impression,” replied the young man suavely, “that you didn't give me time. What I started to tell you, Mr. Lambert, is that we got on famously despite unnatural conditions and innumerable hardships. She was a sport, that girl. I've often wondered why I didn't fall for her—that is, I wondered till I met Nora.”

James, still slightly ruffled, snorted like an angry horse.

“Very pretty. Very pretty indeed; but you must consider the fact that my—that Nora has been accustomed to every luxury. Hardship is something she doesn't dimly glimpse.

You're twenty-seven, and according to Nora you've accumulated only a thousand dollars. If she's mistaken, I apologize. If she's right, what, may I ask, have you to offer her compared to what dozens of the men she knows could offer?”

So it was war! The young man comprehended.

Ask Me Another A General Quiz

- 1. Who gave the name “Empire” to the state of New York?
2. What is a Rhodes scholar?
3. The portraits of what two women have been used on United States postage?
4. On what date does the government fiscal year begin?
5. What do the Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse represent?
6. What secretary takes precedence in the President's cabinet?
7. What is a translucent substance? A transparent substance? An opaque substance?

The Answers

- 1. It is attributed to George Washington, who mentioned it in an address delivered in 1784 as being “at present the seat of empire.”
2. A non-English student awarded a scholarship at Oxford university from a fund which was established by the will of Cecil Rhodes.
3. Those of Martha Washington and Pocahontas.

'Safe upon the solid rock the ugly houses stand; Come and see my shining palace built upon the sand!'

The “shining palace” was a sanctuary for Nora and Don Mason... a refuge for two veteran globe trotters... a place to hang their hats when new sights and sounds became tiresome. It was to this “shining palace” that Nora invited James Lambert, the strong-willed stepfather who loved her but vowed never to forgive her elopement with the globe-trotting Don Mason.
James Lambert did not come... not until Nora's valiant spirit had almost been broken in the face of terrible adversity. But his belated coming brought forgiveness and new courage to a despairing couple.
“Shining Palace” by Christine Whiting Parmenter is a sincere story that abounds with adventure and romance... a serial you'll remember for years to come!

DORIS DENE'S COLUMN

Marriage With Divorce in View Is Scorned by Honest People.

DEAR MISS DENE: I have been going with a girl for five years and love her in a certain way. She loves me and has given up everyone else in the world for me. I feel that it is my duty to marry her and intend to do so. But I want you to tell me if I am doing the right thing. I know that I can be happy with her alone but none of my friends like her—and she does not fit in well with the people I've always gone with. She and I have agreed to get married and then if things do not work out well, to separate after a year's time. I think this is the only fair thing to do.—P. M. D.

ANSWER—The lady must be all-fired anxious for matrimony if she's willing to make an agreement of this sort. For even the most infatuated sweetheart would be loath to undertake marriage on such a cold-bloodedly pessimistic basis.

It seems to me you're asking for trouble in planning a date on which you will separate by mutual consent if things don't work out well. Under the circumstances they're bound to work out badly. With both of you watching the calendar and reminding yourselves that every day brings you nearer the possible moment of separation, you will hardly have time to get used to each other—or to learn how to compromise.

After five years, P. M. D., you should know whether you're happier with the girl you love—or with the friends whose opinion worry you. Surely by this time your allegiance to your sweetheart has alienated the affections of your imitation friends and left you with a pretty good idea of which relationships are most precious. The friends who have stuck to you in spite of their being opposed to your fiancée are going on with their loyalty—through your marriage and everything else. You have no cause to worry about them.

Neither should you worry about the crowd you know whose standards demand a different sort of sweetheart for you. Their praise or blame cannot affect you—except superficially. There is no case on record of a man's giving up his true love in order to please the opinion of some superior group—and finding that the crowd's approval compensated him for his loss of a sweetheart.

DEAR DORIS DENE: I have quarreled with my husband and left him because he prefers his mother to me. We lived with his mother up till last week and then I left. My husband is still with her. His mother can't stand me and made my life a torment. I love my husband and want him to be with me always. But apparently he doesn't care enough for me to give up his mother.—S. T.

ANSWER—Just a minute—just a minute! You're jumping to conclusions so fast you haven't time to see where you're going. Because your husband doesn't desert his mother in order to follow you is no indication that he doesn't love you. There may be any number of reasons for his behavior and you ought to consider some of them before forming such an unfavorable opinion of your spouse's brand of devotion.

In the first place, he may feel quite rightly, that you should have talked over the situation with him reasonably, before flouncing out of the house in a temper. Your sudden exit may have hurt him so that his pride prevents his following you. Did you honestly give him a chance to understand how strongly you felt on the subject?

Now the man of the house may argue that you knew before you married that you were scheduled to live with Mother-in-law—and that since you married on that understanding, you're not playing fair now in walking out on the job. Isn't it true that you knew what you were in for, when you married a man who perhaps had to support his mother?

And if your husband is his mother's only standby, he can hardly be blamed for refusing to desert his big responsibility—without a good deal of consideration and planning. Wouldn't it be selfish of him to throw over his mother, and fly after you, regardless of her feelings? If you'd been wise you wouldn't have created a situation in which your husband was left in such an awkward position with both contestants.

The romantic lover of fiction might have dropped everything, and torn after his departing wife, pleading with her to return. But the sensible everyday man who feels his duty toward his mother keenly, who believes in fair play and reasonable treatment—is slow to forgive the tempestuous darling who has thrown his life into chaos with her abrupt departure. He may love her deeply and tenderly yet feel that her own action has made it impossible for him to help her immediately.

If you honestly feel, S. T., that the right is on your side, and that your leave taking was warranted from every point of view, have no fear—since in that case your husband will assuredly come after you to make peace. Life alone with mother will not prove a satisfactory substitute for the devotion of a loving wife. And the man left to endure such a dismal substitute will have a chance to figure out the rights and wrongs of the case.

Conquering "Hazard Zones"

Picture Parade

On a hundred battle-fronts, scientists seek ways of combating hidden dangers—that menace health and happiness—the unconquered "hazard zones" of everyday life. Prof. John M. Lessells of Massachusetts Institute of Technology (left) and Dr. Miller McClintock of Harvard university's traffic research bureau, declare rainy, slippery pavements are the "hazard zone" of motoring. Professor Lessells, authority on friction, believes he can eliminate this evil by—in effect—placing a battery of windshield wipers under the car!

Above photo illustrates the "hazard zone of motoring." But every other phase of everyday life has its "hazard zones," a few of which are illustrated below. How many can you identify? Answers given by number below.

"Hazard zones" explained: (1) the "hazard zone" affecting millions of children improperly reared in metropolitan slum districts; (2) the "hazard zone" of floods, still unconquered despite great engineering progress; (3) the "hazard zone" of medicine, the common cold from which no one is yet immune; (4) baseball's "hazard zone," the pitch that sometimes hits a batter, like it hit Mickey Cochrane last year; and (5) the "hazard zone" of fire fighting, rural areas out of the fire apparatus' range.

Another "hazard zone," undeclared war. Example: "Panay" sinking.

Lesson for March 6

SERVING WITH WHAT WE HAVE

LESSON TEXT—Mark 6:1-13.
GOLDEN TEXT—Such as I have give I these.—Acts 3:6.
PRIMARY TOPIC—When Jesus Went Home to Nazareth.

JUNIOR TOPIC—On a Journey for Jesus.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Serving With What We Have.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Serving With What We Have.

One of the difficulties we mortals face in dealing with spiritual things is that we interpret things in the realm of the spirit according to the principles and measurements of the physical world. We are quick to say "We cannot" on the basis of logical human reasoning, when an appreciation of the power of God operative on our behalf would enable us to say "We can," and having left God out of our thinking we find that indeed we cannot.

The lesson before us presents two pictures from our Lord's second visit to his home country, Nazareth. On His first visit he had tried to thrust Him over the precipice, and He in all the glory and poise of the Son of God had walked through their midst and gone His way. Now He comes again with His disciples. We then see how His home folk virtually made the power of the omnipotent God impotent because of their unbelief. On the other hand we see the weakness of men made mighty because of obedience to the command of God.

I. The Paralysis of Unbelief (vv. 1-6).

The world, the flesh, and the devil have brought forth a dark list of wicked things, but perhaps the most destructive and distressing of all is the foundation sin of unbelief. When we think back to the underlying reason for any sin or weakness in man it will be found that there is a failure to believe God.—Men do not believe what He says about sin and its penalty, nor do they believe Him when He offers them grace and strength for victory.

At Nazareth the unbelief which limited the Son of God revealed itself in two questions—

1. "Whence hath this man these things?" (v. 2).
They could not deny His mighty works so they turn their attack on His person. "Is not this the carpenter?" (v. 3). Essentially this was envy, "the difficulty of acknowledging the superiority over themselves of one of their own number" . . . (Morgan).

We are ashamed of the attitude of the men of Nazareth, but we follow in their footsteps.—Heavy among the burdens a Christian worker must bear is the unbelief and ridicule of his own people. Because a man has sold us groceries, or painted our house or driven a taxi in our town we cannot see how he could ever be a preacher or a missionary. Well, he can, and it is such folk that God often calls.

2. "What is this wisdom?" (v. 2).
The wisdom of Jesus was the wisdom of God (John 7:16). But how could they know that? How can we know? In John 7:17 Jesus gave the answer: "If any man will do his will, he shall know of the doctrine, whether it be of God, or whether I speak of myself." We see then that the reason for their unbelief was really an unwillingness to do the will of God. The controlling motive of their life was wrong. Had they been moved by a desire to do God's will, and a purpose to live in accordance therewith (even though there might have been failure in that earnest effort), they would have known that Jesus had His wisdom from God.

II. The Power of Divine Commission (vv. 7-13).

Just as unbelief hinders even the Son of God, so faith in God and obedience to His command makes of weak and poorly equipped men the mighty servants of God. In fact, their very dependence on Him for all things sets them free to devote themselves fully to the ministry of preaching and healing.

Note that they went "two by two." We have forgotten that divine plan, and often send men into remote and dangerous pioneer work—alone. Man needs fellowship; he needs counsel and control.

Consider also how they were to learn to trust God for their daily sustenance (vv. 8,9). They suffered no lack (see Luke 22:35). These rules for the life of religious workers were modified later (Luke 22:36), but the principle remains the same—the man or woman who is not ready to depend on God for everything had better not set out to follow Him. It is a blessed and delightful life!

Resisting Interference
It is sometimes pretty hard to do something you feel is right against the interference of all the world and her little brother. Sometimes it's a good thing to say "right or wrong, that's my story, and I'm going to stick to it," no matter how many well-meaning friends may advise otherwise.—Ouisse Vapel.

HOW to SEW

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

A Colorful Luncheon Set

WE HAVE been hearing a good deal about American handcrafts lately. Of course, quilts have always been important among our needlework handcrafts. So many readers have written asking me for more of the old-fashioned embroidery stitches that were used in making crazy patchwork that I have collected dozens and dozens of these quaint stitches from old quilts.

This gay little double house effect built upon blanket stitches with chain stitches flaunting from all gables was the invention of someone's great-grandmother and I couldn't resist using it for a luncheon set of light blue linen. It originally adorned a light blue satin patch in a quilt and all the other colors indicated here in the sketch are the original colors.

All the strands of six-strand mercerized embroidery thread were used for the luncheon set. The mats were hemmed first and then the blanket stitches were taken through the hems to make a firm edge as shown at the lower right. All the other stitches used are clearly illustrated. Just the edge stitches without the little houses were used for the napkins. Many more authentic old patchwork stitches are illustrated in a new leaflet which is free upon request with the booklet offered herewith.

Have you a copy of Mrs. Spears' new book SEWING? It contains forty-eight pages of step-

AROUND THE HOUSE

Cleaning Hair Brushes.—To remove grease and dirt from hair brushes and combs, wash them in a quart of water to which a teaspoon of ammonia is added; rinse and dry in the sun.

Fluffy Meringue.—If you like fluffy meringue for your pies, add a teaspoon of baking powder to the well-beaten whites of two eggs before adding the sugar.

Sweet Omelet.—A tablespoon of sugar added to the regular omelet batter will produce a sweet omelet that is especially popular with youngsters.

Washing Parsley.—Parsley washed with hot water keeps its flavor better and is easier to chop.

Glowing Lamps.—Here's a tip for country readers who use gas or lamps. Never wash the glass globes as it makes them crack. Sprinkle methylated spirit on a clean soft rag, rub it on the globes, leave for a few minutes, and then polish. They'll be like new.

RODNEY GIBBARD

Rodney is a brown-eyed, blonde lad, possessing an intellect of which the senior class may well be proud. Born in 1921 speaks for itself that somewhere along the line Rodney skipped grades — which — according to records, were both first and second.

Rodney is the second son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Gibbard, and his birth place is near East Jordan — date June 10.

Rodney is a two-letter man in football and an outstanding basketball player as well. His favorite subject is science.

He is a little difficult to interview — particularly on the subject of girls. When questioned as to anything definite on this topic he merely looked dreamy and said "Not yet" which might be taken two ways.

Rodney's hobbies are winter sports and swimming.

His pet aversion is "Caps and Gowns." This, however, isn't serious as they enter into life but few times, so its safe to say Rodney will forget this aversion and wear them and smile with equal ease.

Rodney says his future work as yet is unsettled. It is hoped that it will be in the field of science for which Rodney has outstanding ability.

STANLEY CLARE HALE

Stanley Clare Hale, son of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Hale, was born in Detroit, Michigan on April 10, 1919. Stanley attended school in East Jordan until the third grade. He then moved to Detroit where he completed the sixth grade. After that time he moved back to East Jordan and has remained to complete high school at E.J.H.S. Stanley's favorite subject, strange as it may seem, is chemistry. Next fall he hopes to find employment in Detroit and also study architectural technology.

Stanley is the happy-go-lucky senior lad with brown wavy hair, hazel eyes, and freckles.

Stanley has played the clarinet in the band for three years, was a member of the Etiquette Club for one year, and was the dashing lover, Christian Bryant in the junior play, "Peg O' My Heart."

He is also a great admirer of Sonia Henie. She is his favorite actress and skating star and her first name is his favorite expression, much to the disgust of the typing students. His aim in the line of sports is to give Miss Henie some stiff competition. Other activities that he likes are dancing, skiing, and swimming.

RUTH EVELYN GALMORE

Ruth was born August 31, 1920 to Mr. and Mrs. Tony Galmore in the city of East Jordan.

The stars say she comes under the sign of Vergo and the following is a brief horoscope for those born under this sign: "You are of a speculative turn of mind and frequently are troubled by over-anxiety. You are endowed with unusual discrimination and are exceedingly careful of details. You are prudent, practical, and act with fore-thought and justice. You are very clever in many pursuits, but are most likely to succeed in those of a commercial nature."

This horoscope is far too brief to touch on Ruth's outstanding qualities — so in all-fairness a few lines should be added.

She possesses a charming smile and has all the qualities that make a fine friend and companion.

Ruth has never attended another school, of which fact she is justly proud.

She enjoys singing and has been a member of the Glee Club for the last three years. She has taken an active part in 4-H work and holds membership in both Etiquette and Commercial Clubs.

Ruth likes outdoor sports and excels in skating and swimming. Her favorite subject is typing — hobbies are sewing and dancing.

Ruth says her plans for the future are not fully developed — we wonder about that!

GIRL SCOUTS HAVE TREASURE HUNT

The girl scouts have found that a treasure hunt can be difficult as well as fascinating.

Tuesday the scouts had a treasure hunt and then gathered at the school building for eats planned by Betty Strehl, Jean Simmons, and Helen McColeman.

Margaret Strehl, Jean Galmore, and Suzy Porter had planned the entertainment, and Shirley Sinclair, Elaine Healey, and Muriel Galmore served as the clean up squad.

MICHAEL HITCHCOCK

In the spring, the most welcomed season of all, Micheal (or Mike to us) came to live at the Hitchcock home. The date was May 17, 1919. Mike possesses a brawny physique. "Should make a good football player," probably was a frequent comment before high school days. And he has done so. It happens that Mike went out for football all four years at high school, playing guard on the team for three years. Football is just one of the many sports he was active in, because he enjoys all types, both indoor and outdoor. He was also on one of the basketball and baseball teams each year.

Mike has been a very helpful member to his class, and has aided in carrying out all that they undertook to do. He was on the Freshman Fair, J-Hop, and Junior play committees.

Mike has always lived in East Jordan, so naturally his favorite town is East Jordan.

In school Mike finds his favorite subjects are in agriculture. This however, doesn't mean that Mike intends to follow up that kind of work.

One of Mike's favorite radio stars is Charlie McCarthy, but he has many other ones too numerous to mention.

His favorite dish is sherbet and when it is around, so is Mike.

Keeping "keepsakes" of his friends is one of Mike's favorite hobbies, and he claims to have quite a collection. All through his school years Mike has been a steady and willing worker, always willing to help a friend and assist him in any way.

Mike has brown hair and brown eyes and a pleasing personality. He has won many friends with his friendly smile. These assets will help him to carry out his life's work which at the present time has not been decided upon.

LAST YEARS GRADUATES

Continuing our research into the activities of last year's graduates we find that—

Ruth Hott is training for a nurse at Sparrow hospital, Lansing.

Phyllis Ann Inman is married to George Hutzler and is staying home.

Froma Isaman is staying at home.

Marion C. Jackson is working in East Jordan and is married to Jane Davis.

Donald Johnson is working as a clerk in the CCC.

Elizabeth E. Jones has moved away.

James E. Keats is working in Muskegon.

Russell Grant Knapp is staying at home helping on the farm.

Thelma Mae Looze is married.

Katherine E. MacDonald is attending a business school in Muskegon.

Neal Mackey is staying at home and is working.

Alma Wylon Payne is attending Central State Teacher's College in Kalamazoo.

Alston Penfold is working in Chris Taylor's restaurant.

Anne Reich is taking a business course in Lansing.

Capota Richardson is staying at home.

GEOGRAPHY CLASS LETTERS

Faraway places are always interesting. Geography students have found it so. Letters sent by members of the geography classes to faraway regions have been answered by students from schools all over the United States, Canada, and even European countries.

Leland Hickox has received a letter from Kansas; New York students have written to Joan Farmer, Audrey Shelton, and Patty Sinclair; Donna Gay has a letter from Illinois; Bill Walden from Indiana; Patty Sinclair, from Missouri; and Russell Conway, from Arkansas. Answers have come from Pennsylvania for Audrey Shelton; from California for Bill Saxton; and from Connecticut for Bernice Olson. Joan Farmer received one from New Hampshire; Frances Wright, from British Columbia; Lottie Hitchcock, from Virginia; Mildred Green, from Texas; and Barton Vance, from Kentucky.

These letters have all given information about the products and activities in the region they came from.

Some of the pupils have written to students in other countries and of these Patty Sinclair has received an answer from Sweden; Audrey Shelton, from Germany; Paul Wilkins, from France; and Elizabeth Penfold, from Holland.

BIRTHDAY REMEMBERED

As has been the custom in recent years the school celebrated the birthdays of Washington and Lincoln in an assembly program last Friday.

First, the band played the Revolutionary War tunes, "Yankee Doodle" and "Red, White, and Blue."

Harold Carney told how the national anthem was written and played it on his cornet, with the rest of the band accompanying him in a softer tone. Succeeding this a review of the life of George Washington was given by Frances Lenosky.

The second part of the program was opened with several civil war tunes. "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp," "My Maryland," "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground" and "Marching Through Georgia."

A group of high school girls, dressed in costumes of that period, danced the Virginia Reel; Artie Houtman gave a review of the life of Abraham Lincoln; and the band played another national song, "America."

"The Perfect Tribute," dealing with Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, was given by Arthur Rude, followed by the band's playing the "Star Spangled Banner," which ended the program.

LAST PEP MEET OF YEAR HELD

The final pep meeting of this school year took place Thursday before the game with Mancelona.

The band opened the program playing a march and then the school "pep song."

Kathryn Kitsman, senior cheer leader, introduced the new cheer leaders and each led a yell.

The school's popular guitar player, Burl Walker, entertained, as did Jean Dennis and Marilyn Davis who tap danced.

This being their last appearance this year on the home floor the members of the three basketball teams (junior high, reserves, and the first team) were named and made a brief appearance on the stage.

After this Gayle Saxton, a former high school basketball star and now a member of the independent team, gave a short talk. Clare Wade paid tribute to Kathryn Kitsman, who has so faithfully served as cheerleader for the last four years. The program was ended with the school loyalty song.

BASKETBALL DANCES

The last dance of the series of dances sponsored by the junior class after basketball games was held after the game with Mancelona, Thursday, February 24th.

Committee men in charge of these were Bob Crowell, Bud Hite, Tom Joyn, and Albert Jackson.

With an admission charge of ten cents the juniors took in approximately five dollars for each of the four dances.

All of these the school's electric victrola was used to furnish music and, even though the victrola sometimes goes on a strike in the middle of a piece, most dancers feel that the music is as "swinging" as any of the orchestras which might have played.

EIGHTH GRADE ENGINEERS

The 8-B section has turned engineer minded and constructed a device to provide the required amount of humidity in the library, which is used as a classroom in the morning.

A committee of girls sewed the cloth required and dyed it a green shade. The boys made the supply tank for the water. The engineer in charge of the operation of the system is Robert Strehl.

The girls committee consisted of Alberta Walden, Alice Carson, and Ellen Moore. The boys' committee was made up of Robert Strehl and Bernard Sturgell.

BULLETIN BOARD FOR LIBRARY

With the proceeds from their candy sale at the band and orchestra concert, the 8-B section has bought materials to construct a bulletin board for the library. The committee in charge of the candy sale consisted of Alberta Walden, Dorothy Kamradt, Maxine Boyer, and Athelia Ketchbaw.

The boys who are constructing the bulletin board are Pete Hammond, Sonny Hoaler, and Robert Strehl.

WILD LIFE CLUB

A new club has been organized in the junior high school. It has adopted as its name the Wild Life Club. At present it consists entirely of eighth graders, but seventh graders will be admitted later.

At the first meeting the following officers were elected: Harry (Pete) Hammond, president; and Dorothy Kamradt, secretary.

The club plans some interesting field trips in the spring.

NEW ELEMENTARY BOOKS

Forty-five new library books for use in the elementary grades are now ready to be placed on the shelves. The selection is taken from the Reading Circle Books, 1937-1938, recommended by the Michigan Reading Circle.

The list is as follows:—

GRADE NEWS

The first grade pupils appreciate their new lavatory, fountain, and flooring.

One afternoon last week Mrs. Bartlett's room came in to visit. They read stories, played games, and made George Washington hats.

The second grade celebrated Washington's birthday by reading stories and telling interesting events.

The third grades are making a scrap book of pictures with an original story, written by the pupils, to be put in with it. The story following the grade news is an illustration.

The fourth grade gave a Washington play last Tuesday afternoon. They have made posters of Washington and Lincoln—pictures and stories.

The fifth grade in Mrs. Benson's room made baseball place cards for the Father and Son banquet. The geography class is making a tapestry poster showing pictures of the map of the great lakes, cherry picking, and the boats in the straits.

HOW THE BOW AND ARROW WAS INVENTED

Once upon a time, a long, long, time ago, there were people who didn't look like us at all. They lived in caves. Isn't that funny to what we live in now? As our story opens, it is in a cave. A man called Squeetoes is playing with a stick. He was bending the stick back and forth and letting it loose to see how far it would go, when all of a sudden he had an idea. He took some deer skin and cut it into strips, tied it round each end of the stick, and bent it. Then he put his finger back and forth on the string as we do sometimes on our own bows and arrow and said, "Hear it sing, Fleetfoot? Hear it sing?" "Yes," said Fleetfoot. "Fleetfoot, I've an idea," said Squeetoes. "I will put a stick in the string and pull it back and let it go." Then the stick flew for a long way. That's the way the bow and arrow was invented.
