JAMBOREE ONLY ONE WEEK AWAY

SMELT ARE RUNNING — SHOULD BE IN PEAK
FORM BY MARCH 26th

With the National Smelt Jamboree only one week away, and the silvery fish already starting their annual pilgrimage to the Jordan spawning grounds, East Jordan is already taking on the Jamboree atmosphere.

Sportsman's Park is in better condition than ever before. The boardwalks along Manhattan and Long Islands have been reinforced to handle the weight of the Jamboree crowds. Manhattan will be lighted, as usual, thus adding a carnivalistic tone to the already colorful night show. One noted sports writer made the following statement last year in the National Sportsman magazine, "The smelt dipping at East Jordan, where a name made famous since biblical times, a network of islands lighted in carnivalistic fashion, long handled steel nets, and thousands of milling people combine to present one of the most colorful night sporting events in the country, is something worth traveling hundreds of miles to see. The National Smelt Jamboree, one of the most unique celebrations on record today, stands in a class by itself." Probably this is the reason that cars bearing license plates from as far away as New York and Alabama are seen on Main St. here during Jamboree time.

This year Gerald Warren will have charge of Smelt Headquarters at the Alibi Gun Club. All visitors, upon arrival, are asked to register there. Information regarding the town or celebration will also be available there.

Dinty LaLonde, Teddy Kotowich, Keith Dressel and John Porter are working overtime lining up the parade. Liberal prizes are being offered for the best comic floats, and some fine wild life floats are also being prepared.

The coronation this year will be a real spectacle. Under the guidance of Al. Warda and Hollis Drew, new robes of royal hues, truly befitting such a dignitary as the National King of Smeltium, have been made and will make their initial appearance the 26th. The King will also wear, for the first time, a crown of solid copper; the crown was hammered out at Michigan Tech. in Houghton.

The "Newaygo-Newton" spitting contest will be held in the same place as last year, on the central Bulls-eye court marked out on Main Street.

The stag banquet will again be held in the Armory with Maurine Guy of Saginaw, who is widely known for his Paul Bunyan narrations, as Toastmaster. As usual, fireworks will signal the "Charge of the Night Brigade."

People having rooms to let get in touch with Hawkins immediately, for with the number of inquiries being received daily, rooms will be almost at a premium.

In another column will be found an article regarding the Wild Life banquet, being held at the school house Friday evening, March 25th. This is open to both men and women.

Outdoor writers will be here enmasse for the Jamboree and, they assure us, no "scoops" will be missed. Photographers and newsreel cameramen will also be here to "shoot" the celebration from all angles.

Committees are all co-operating to the fullest and the public will see the finest Jamboree ever staged. A complete program will be published next week.

Smelt Photos Go By Wire

NEW SYSTEM WILL BE USED
HERE MARCH 26th

Word was received Wednesday that pictures of the Jamboree here will be made and sent to Chicago via wire this year.

George Housley of the Chicago Daily News and a crew of photographers will arrive in town on Friday. They are bringing telephonic transmission equipment with them so that pictures of the coronation, spitting contest, etc. can be rushed to Chicago, via wire, in time to make the late Saturday afternoon papers.

Among other photographers on hand will be Emile Montemurro, Fox Movietone News cameraman; Ken Eddy, Pathe News cameraman; and representatives of Acme and AP news syndicates.

Garden Club To Hold First Meeting of Year

The East Jordan Garden Club will hold its first meeting for 1938 at the City Building on Wednesday afternoon, March 23rd, commencing at 2:30 o'clock.

Subject for discussion will be "Preparation of the soil and planting the garden." All ladies interested are invited to be present.

Mr. Corbus of W.S.T.C. To Speak Here Before P.-T. A. Next Tuesday

The East Jordan P.-T. A. organization has secured Mr. Corbus of the Western State Teachers College to speak here at the High School on Tuesday evening, March 22nd, commencing at 8:00 o'clock.

Mr. Corbus will give a talk on what subjects should be taught in our schools and changes which might be made to better fit our pupils to meet their problems outside of school. Schools of Michigan are greatly concerned with present-day trends in school curriculum or subjects studied in our schools. Some favor more of the arts, while others prefer a more academic course of study.

It is hoped that a large number of all those interested in our school will attend. There will be no admission charge and the public is cordially invited. Tuesday evening, March 22 — 8:00 o'clock.

SPECIAL WARNING

East Jordan, Mich., Mar. 16th, (Special to Associated Press) — In view of present European conditions, a special warning was issued from National Smelt Headquarters here today concerning any ambition Adolph Hitler might cherish toward gaining control of Michigan smelt. In short the statement read:—

"Hitler may have the Austrian crown; he may have the mineral deposits of Czechoslovakia; but any attempt, on his part, to gain control of smelt deposits of Escanaba, Boyne City or East Jordan will mean WAR! Michigan smelters will defend, to the death, their finny tribe and fishy rights."

Meanwhile, plans go serenely forward for the National Smelt Jamboree here March 26th; the Boyne City Smelt Festival on the same date; and the Northern Michigan Smelt Jamboree at Escanaba, April 7th to 9th.

Franchises To Be Submitted To Electors At Spring Election

During the period from March 8 to 12 the township boards of 35 townships in Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Osego counties have granted franchises to the Top O' Michigan Rural Electric Company, an REA cooperative, to construct and operate its lines and transact retail business. The matter of the confirmation of these franchises will be submitted to the electors of each township at the regular election to be held on April fourth.

Leon W. Miller
Project Counsel.

Wild Life Ban- quet Next Friday

MANY NOTABLES OF OUTDOOR WORLD WILL BE PRESENT

A sell-out crowd is contemplated for the Wild Life banquet, which will be held in the High School Gym, next Friday evening, March 25th, as a part of National Wild Life Restoration Week.

The banquet will open at 6:30, and Joe Bugai, in charge of the affair, says plans are completed. The banquet, a smelt supper, will be served by the Latter Day Saint ladies.

Although the main event of the evening will be the showing of motion pictures, made in various parts of the Michigan wilds, by Walter Hastings; many other outdoor notables will be present for the evening, and will be introduced to the crowd. Hastings, who is official photographer for the Michigan State Conservation Dept., may have the pictures which he made of our local girls last summer on the river. He also made pictures of the swans and Sportsman's Park. The pictures were made for the Cleveland Exposition, and since it closed last fall, they have been shown throughout the country. If they are out of circulation by next week, Walt. will bring them.

Others who will be present will include Ed. Dreier, chief photographer for the Michigan Tourist Associations; Ernest Jack Sharpe, better known as "Newaygo Newt"; Paul Mower, Outdoor Editor of the Chicago Daily News; Ray Voss, outdoor editor Grand Rapids Herald; Jack VanCoevering, present National King of Smeltium and President of Outdoor Writer's Association of North America; Emile Montemurro, Fox Movietone News cameraman; and Geo. Bishop, Sec'y Upper Michigan Development (Tourist) Bureau.

A surprise or two is also being contemplated, should present plans materialize.

Only two hundred and fifty tickets will be sold for the banquet and, those desiring tickets should see Joe Bugai immediately.

Cook — Fruin

(From Battle Creek Moon-Journal, Sunday, March 6.)

Following a short honeymoon trip, Mr. and Mrs. Hollis B. Fruin will be at home to their friends after Monday at 35 Eldred street. Mrs. Fruin is the former Miss Frances Cook, 35 Eldred street, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cook of East Jordan, Charlevoix County, and Mr. Fruin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Fruin, of Bellevue. They were united in Marriage Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Cuson, of Lansing, and officiating at the single ring ceremony was the Rev. J. F. Bowerman, of the Sonoma Methodist church.

Snapdragons and roses were used as decorations in the Cuson home for the ceremony, which was witnessed by 25 guests, and the wedding music was furnished by the bride's sister, Miss Jacklyn Cook. A floor length gown of white slipper satin was worn by the bride, and her bridal bouquet was fashioned of white-roses. Miss Lillian Clark, maid-of-honor, chose a gown of porcelain blue chiffon, and her bouquet was also of roses. Kenneth E. Mulvany, of Bellevue, served as best man.

For the ceremony, both Mrs. Cook and Mrs. Fruin wore gowns of navy blue sheer, and corsages of Talisman roses. Immediately following the marriage, a reception was held at the Cuson home for the guests, and snapdragons and roses graced the bridal table. As a going-away outfit, Mrs. Fruin wore a royal blue three-piece suit, with navy accessories. Mrs. Fruin is a faculty member of the Prairieview school, and Mr. Fruin is employed at the Wilcox-Rich company.

Mrs. Anton Rebec — Gold Star Mother — Passed Away, Monday

Mrs. Anton Rebec, 65, passed away at the Charlevoix hospital, Monday, March 14th, following an illness of several years duration.

Marie Votruba was born in Bohemia in April, 1873, her parents being Mikal and Josephine Votruba. At the age of 15 years — in 1888 — she came to this country and located in the Bohemian Settlement in Jordan township. Later on she was united in marriage to Anton Rebec and has since made her home at the Settlement.

Mrs. Rebec was a Gold Star mother — a son, Albert Martin Rebec, was killed while serving his country in France during the World War. It is from his name the local American Legion post derives part of its name "Rebec-Sweet." Mrs. Rebec was a member of St. John's Catholic church.

She is survived by her husband and six daughters and son, viz:— Miss Mary Rebec, Saginaw; Mrs. Frances Wanek, Saginaw; Mrs. Walter Woodcock; Mrs. Neta Gerard, East Jordan; Mrs. Sophia Fetting, Fife Lake; William Rebec, Lapeer. Also by 15 grandchildren; as well as neices and nephews both in the United States and Bohemia.

The remains were brought to East Jordan where funeral services were held from St. Joseph Catholic church, Wednesday forenoon, conducted by the pastor, Fr. Malinowski. The remains were placed in the vault at Sunset Hill and will later on be laid to rest in St. John's cemetery at the Settlement.

Lansing — More taxes, not less, are in prospect for Michigan as the result of new developments.

All employers will be asked in 1939 to pay unemployment compensation taxes. The state law at present exempts employers who have less than eight workers on their payrolls from the state levy. Extension of social security benefits to cover 300,000 workers in small business has been advocated consistently by Frank Picard, chairman of the state unemployment compensation commission. In an address before the AFL annual banquet in Detroit last week, Governor Murphy voiced his approval to Picard's request as a legislative plank for 1939.

Personal property, including household furniture, would be placed on the tax rolls in Michigan if it valued more than $1,000 under plans of John N. Fegan, chairman, state tax commission. Fegan's declaration that he intends to enforce the personal property law, enacted in 1893, stirred a rebellion at the state capitol city where the board of assessors served notice that the Fegan order would go unheeded. The city council had been asked formally to employ 75 persons to check furniture and household belongings in 24,000 homes.

CONTEST GO HAYWIRE

Jugville, Mich.

Mister Ray Voss, Outdoor Editor, Grand Rapids Herald.

Dere Ray:—
I see where them East Jordan folks have selected March 26 for their annual Sportsman's Jamboree and Newaygo Newt National Spitting Contest, as they think them smelt fish will be runnin' best at that time.

Now, they are real nice folks up around East Jordan, an' most all the big guns of the outdoor world flock up there to take in the celebration.

That bein' the case an' that Spittin' Contest bein' held in my honor, I always try to figure out some new feature for their entertainment.

But I have had the dernest bad luck. Maybe ya remember that last year I took my spittin' cat, Tobias, up there with me, but he'd jest had a mastoid operation an' wasn't well enough to spit.

(That's the story we give out to the public. The truth is — a few days before the event Tobias got mixed up in one of them triangle love affairs an' got the worst of it. Not physically but at heart, an he was so down in the mouth he jest couldn't spit.)

'Course it's natural fer cats to spit, so this year I planned to give 'em a real novelty — a spittin' rabbit — but things have gone wrong agin.

This is how it was: I caught me a nice, big, snow-shoe rabbit an' put in most of the winter tryin' to train it to spit. It would chaw the tobacco all right, but instead of spittin' it would always swallow the quid.

Well, sir! One day last week I got purtty discouraged, so I got out the green jug that I keep full of cider, thinkin' them spirits might step mine up a bit, when all of a sudden I'm hit with what I think at the time is a great idea.

I'd heard about hard cider makin' fellers spit like a nickle, so I sez to myself, sez I, I'll slip a good snort of it to that snow-shoe rabbit. 'Tain't small change I'm lookin' fer; to heck with the nickle bizness; if I can jest get that rabbit to even spit it'll be a good start.

Well, sir, Ray, I slipped him a good big snifter an' waited fer results. 'Twarn't long 'fore I got 'em! But not the kind I'm expectin'. That rabbit kicked up his heels a time or two then headed straight for old Bugle. (That's my houn' dog). Now, Bugle is a well-behaved dog an' I have taught him to leave my other animal pets alone, but what that rabbit done was jest a little bit too much fer even old Bugle to stand.

I'd been workin' fer weeks tryin' to teach that rabbit how to spit, an' with the aid of that hard cider, he finally did! His aim was perfect, but his judgment was terrible, for he spit slap-dab, ker-splat right in old Bugle's face!

That was too much fer any houn' dog to take. He gave me one quick look of defiance, opened wide his powerful jaws an' that was the end of the new feature attraction I had planned fer the folks attendin' the March 26 Sportsman's Jamboree at East Jordan.

It was also the end of that jug of cider. A feller has to have somethin' to console him after seein' a whole winter of rabbit trainin' end up so tragically.

Wishin' you the same, I am
Yer Rural Highness, NEWAYGO NEWT.

P. S.—There hain't time fer it now but I'm goin' to start workin' on Spearmint, my pet blow snake. He oughta make a good spitter. I'll start workin' on him now so he ought to be real good by next year.

N. N.
P. S. S.—The reason I call him Spearmint is because he's so Wringley.

HITLER TROOPS SEIZE AUSTRIA

Reich Army Enters Vienna... Invasion Forces Schuschnigg to Resign... European Powers Thrown Into Panic by Germany's Startling Coup... United States to Keep Hands Off, Secretary Hull Says.

Edward W. Pickard SUMMARIZES THE WORLD'S WEEK

Coup Amazes World

STRIKING with startling rapidity Adolf Hitler's motorized army crossed the Austrian frontier, seized Vienna, forced Austrian Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg to resign, and placed a full-fledged Nazi administration in command of the Austrian government.

Jittery European governments were thrown into a panic as they learned of the German leader's astounding coup. Britain and France sent Hitler identical protests against the Austrian invasion, warning of grave reactions, and several other powers were reported to have joined in the protest.

In Washington, Secretary of State Cordell Hull announced a hands off policy toward the European crisis, and noted leaders gave their opinion that there was no immediate danger of a general war, although they regarded the present situation as highly dangerous.

Hitler's Austrian coup was a demonstration of the rapidity of modern armed forces. In less than twelve hours, 50,000 picked troops had advanced into Austrian territory and had forced the fall of the Schuschnigg government.

Faced with overwhelming forces, Schuschnigg broadcast the following message to the Austrian people: "The President of the republic has received from the (German) Reichfuhrer and chancellor an ultimatum demanding that his own candidate be appointed head of a new Austrian government."

"President Miklas asked me to tell you that the policy of the Austrian government is to recede from force so that no German blood shall be shed."

"I yield to brute force. We must avoid bloodshed. Our troops have been ordered to retire before German troops and await further developments."

"May God protect Austria." It was announced the plebiscite Schuschnigg had called for Sunday to permit the people to vote on whether the country would remain independent or submit to Nazi rule had been called off.

Arthur Seyss-Inquart, Hitler's personal representative in the Austrian cabinet, assumed the post of chancellor, and a new cabinet composed of Nazis was announced.

Meanwhile, Italy's reaction to the German coup was watched with interest, and it was believed to have placed a heavy strain on the Rome-Berlin accord.

Bridges engaged in hot debate with administration senators. He defended his investigation resolution in a long speech in which he made detailed charges against the TVA administration and characterized Lillenthal as a "Hitler" seeking to assert dictatorial powers over the Tennessee valley.

SHIFTING our diplomatic representatives in Latin America, President Roosevelt sent to the senate these nominations: Meredith Nicholson of Indiana, now minister to Venezuela, transferred to Nicaragua.

Boaz Long of New Mexico, now minister to Nicaragua, transferred to Ecuador. Antonio C. Gonzalez of New York, now minister to Ecuador, transferred to Venezuela.

Hoover Sees Hitler FORMER President Herbert Hoover, in Europe to study conditions, had long talk in Berlin with Adolf Hitler, who expounded his views on world politics, and was entertained by other Nazi notables.

LEADING EVENTS

VIENNA - Austrian government nazified after ultimatum by Hitler. German troops cross border.

ROME - Italy was declared by diplomats to be facing a serious situation as the Nazis marched into Austria. Official Italy refused to comment on the danger to the Rome-Berlin alliance and the presence of Hitler's troops on Italy's border.

LONDON - British warn Germany in "strongest possible terms" of dangers of Austrian action. Cabinet meets today.

PARIS - France, without a cabinet, protested to Berlin against the seizure of Austria, but appeared helpless to act against the coup.

BERLIN - Germans are jubilant as radio tells them their army has crossed into Austria following Nazis' seizure of power.

PRAGUE - Czechoslovakian cabinet studies new Nazi peril.

Austrian - Czechoslovakia border about 40 miles from Vienna, said trains and automobiles arriving there were filled with refugees from Vienna.

Hungary was said to be strengthening and reinforcing the defenses along the closed Austrian frontier following an emergency cabinet meeting.

TVA, Pot Boils

DETERMINED to get the "low down" on the controversy among the directors of the Tennessee Valley authority, President Roosevelt summoned to the White House Chairman Arthur E. Morgan and his colleagues, David Lillenthal and Harcourt Morgan.

It was believed in Washington that if they could not compose their differences he might ask all of them to resign.

Upon the outcome of this conference depended the action of congress leaders in relation to the resolution calling for a senatorial investigation of the entire TVA setup, sponsored by Senators Bridges of New Hampshire and King of Utah, and Senator Norris' proposal that the inquiry be conducted by the federal trade commission.

Senator Byrnes of South Carolina put forward the suggestion, liked by many, that a single administrator be substituted for the three-man board of TVA directors, this one man to be selected by a joint committee of congress.

Norris thought this plan had good features but would prefer a board of three business executives, who, in his opinion, would be more capable of administering the project than engineers, lawyers or other experts.

Senator Byrnes of South Carolina put forward the suggestion, liked by many, that a single administrator be substituted for the three-man board of TVA directors, this one man to be selected by a joint committee of congress.

Diplomats Shifted

SHIFTING our diplomatic representatives in Latin America, President Roosevelt sent to the senate these nominations:

Meredith Nicholson of Indiana, now minister to Venezuela, transferred to Nicaragua.

Boaz Long of New Mexico, now minister to Nicaragua, transferred to Ecuador.

Antonio C. Gonzalez of New York, now minister to Ecuador, transferred to Venezuela.

Wheeler in Action

SENATOR WHEELER of Montana took the lead in opposing the bill for a reorganization of the executive branch of the government, and the debate took on many of the features of the senate battle over the Supreme court enlargement measure last year.

Sen. Wheeler

Wheeler said that if congress approves the measure it ought to close up shop and go home. He was assailing the provision of the bill authorizing the President to transfer, regroup, consolidate, or abolish any government bureau or agency or the functions thereof.

"We have got to recognize the fact," said Wheeler, "that under Democratic institutions there is sometimes inefficiency in government. Certainly there can be more efficiency, although it is not always obtained, under dictatorships."

"The American people have got to recognize that it is necessary for them to pay the price in order to maintain their liberties. I say to the senate that it is far better that we maintain the bureau we now have than it is to turn over dictatorial powers to the President of the United States and admit to the world that the congress of the United States, overwhelmingly Democratic in the house and in the senate, is incompetent to function."

Byrnes said that Wheeler was imputing dictatorial ambitions to President Roosevelt and that he even feared for the safety of the republic. In replying to this, Wheeler intimated that he believed the republic would survive despite President Roosevelt.

Family Firm Tax Killed

GREATLY to the surprise of the majority leaders, the house, considering the tax bill, adopted an amendment offered by McCormack of Massachusetts, striking out the $45,000 surtax on family or closely-held corporations. This so called "third basket" levy was eliminated by a vote of 180 to 124.

Then the representatives voted to add 25 cents a gallon to the tax on distilled liquors.

Chairman Doughton of the ways and means committee and Fred Vinson, who wrote the bill, vainly warned the representatives that the President would veto the measure unless that surtax were included. Democratic members of the committee were hurriedly called together to study possible "replacement" taxes to make up for the loss in revenue due to this change, and treasury officials pondered new sources of revenue.

But Doughton, sore from his first defeat, said the house would go ahead with passage of the bill and leave the problem up to the senate.

McCormack and his supporters—all the Republicans and many Southern Democrats—contended the surtax would penalize family-owned corporations, ultimately forcing them into the hands of monopolists.

War Pact Rumors

DESPITE official denials, the rumors that the United States and Great Britain have entered into a secret war alliance persisted and were given credence when the house of commons was told by the parliamentary undersecretary of the admiralty that there was an agreement between the two nations under which the American navy will be permitted to use the facilities of the great British naval base at Singapore on payment for services given.

This privilege has been extended to no other nation. Secretary of State Hull would not confirm the existence of the agreement, but department officials admitted an understanding had been reached and that it would greatly increase the potential strength of our navy in the Far East.

Our navy base in the Philippines has no drydocks large enough to accommodate battleships.

Cleveland's Clean-Up

CHARGES were made in Cleveland by Judge Alva R. Corlett that Chicago labor leaders raised $25,000 in a plot to bribe a woman juror in the trial of Don A. Campbell and John E. McGee, alleged labor racketeers. The two men had just been convicted of extortion. They were sentenced by Judge Corlett to serve from one to five years in the penitentiary and were taken there at once to block their efforts toward release on appeal bonds.

The judge said he was informed of the bribery plot by Eliot Ness, Cleveland safety director, whose investigation resulted in the indictment of Campbell and McGee.

We Take Two Islands

UNDER orders from the President, Secretary of the Interior Ickes added to the island possessions of the United States which he supervises two little bits of land in the Pacific—Canton and Enderby islands, in the Phoenix archipelago. Their value is as stopping places for transoceanic air flights to Australia.

Included in the President's order are lands in the Antarctic first visited by Admiral Byrd and other Americans.

Washington Digest National Topics Interpreted by William Bruckart National Press Building Washington, D. C.

Washington.—From this seat in the grandstand the view is quite clear that New Deal leaders are going out in this summer's primaries to nominate New Dealers against the conservative old line Democrats.

It is not the purpose here to report on every one of the states or districts where the battle is impending between New Dealers and old line Democrats. I shall attempt, however, to outline a few of them to establish what is going on and how the New Dealers are maneuvering to get a better grip on Democratic party machinery.

To do this clearly, it seems to me it ought to be recalled how President Roosevelt and numerous of his spokesmen have threatened those Democrats who have disagreed with New Deal policies in any serious way. The fight over the President's plan to rebuild the Supreme court of the United States caused a serious split in the President's support and it was immediately thereafter that threats were forthcoming about those who had refused to go along on the court reorganization.

About the time that fight was in its most bitter stage, it will be remembered, Senator Guffey of Pennsylvania made a radio speech in which he attempted to kick certain Democrats out of the party. The White House denied any connection with that speech, but there were few who believed Senator Guffey was acting on his own initiative.

There was comparative quiet for awhile, but those with ears to the ground noted many minor rumblings that, to the political wise, could mean only one thing. Those rumblings presaged another earthquake. They are increasing in intensity, too. We hear them from many directions.

Young James Roosevelt, son and secretary of the President who is just now serving on a tour of duty as a lieutenant colonel in the marine corps, was in Florida last month. While there he took occasion to say publicly that Sen. Claude Pepper, a New Dealer, ought to be renominated and re-elected.

I am told from sources that I believe have an understanding of the Florida situation that young Mr. Roosevelt's endorsement may be the deciding factor in a close race. That is to say, the race was so tight between Senator Pepper and the able young Rep. Mark Wilcox that one guess was as good as another.

Now, however, Representative Wilcox is asking the voters whether they shall determine who their senator shall be or whether they shall be told by the White House. It is said that broad resentment already has been created; so much resentment, indeed, that recently Mr. Wilcox made the statement that no campaign would be necessary on his behalf if only "Sistie" and "Buzzie" Dall, grandchildren of President Roosevelt, would give Senator Pepper their endorsement.

New Deal Error

Over in Pennsylvania another kind of a situation has bobbed up. In that state, the bosses have had trouble agreeing on their candidates, and finally they took their troubles to the White House. (I mean the Democratic bosses which have supplanted the Republican bosses who used to rule Pennsylvania.) The result of the White House confab was that Governor Earle will run for Democratic nomination to the senate so he will be alongside another New Dealer, Senator Guffey, and Charles A. Jones, Pittsburgh attorney, was picked as the nominee for governor.

These selections were made by the state committee, which is controlled, of course, by New Dealers, and therefore those are about the only names of importance that will be voted on in the statewide primary. But the significance of these things is not so apparent until it is known that two or three important Democrats in Pennsylvania have withdrawn and have "retired from politics" as a result of the situation.

Now, in Indiana, there is still another picture. It is probably the most interesting of any now taking shape. In the Hoosier state, we are started off with an announcement from the steps of the White House by Governor Townsend that "Van Nuys must go." He referred to the Democratic Senator Van Nuys who had the temerity to oppose the President's court packing bill and who generally is regarded as much more of a Democrat than his colleague, Senator Minton, who remains inside the New Deal fence always.

The Indiana picture is further complicated by the smoke rings Paul McNutt is blowing around. Mr. McNutt, a former governor of the state and now high commissioner to the Philippine commonwealth, is running for the New Deal nomination for the Presidency like the well-known jackrabbit. He says, however, that he is not a candidate for anything. It is a statement that is hard to believe because the McNutt airplane flight from the remote islands, the speeches across the United States, the free food-free drink-free publicity party given for Mr. McNutt at an outstanding Washington hotel—all combine to spell the launching of a political boom of some kind. So, in Indiana, the Democratic state committee soon will be setting up a slate of its choice—and that choice will be satisfactory to the President. It means that these will be New Dealers. That is apparent because of the death sentence already pronounced for Senator Van Nuys. Of course, Mr. Van Nuys isn't licked yet, but that is the picture.

Then, the Indiana situation is, or ought to be, of great interest to the Republicans. I am told that if the Democratic committee, controlled as it is, should ditch Senator Van Nuys, he may decide to run as an independent candidate for re-election. He probably would not get anywhere in a machine controlled state like Indiana, but he might draw enough away from the Democratic vote to enable a Republican to win.

Now, out in Indiana there is a right up-and-coming young fighter on the Republican team. He is Rep. Charles Halleck. By virtue of the fact that he is lone Republican congressman from Hoosier territory, Mr. Halleck is in a splendid position to set off some fireworks. Mr. Halleck is highly regarded by Democrats and Republicans in the house. He is young, vigorous and keen. Furthermore, Mr. Halleck is neither a conservative nor a radical, and we are hearing more and more of a swing in the country that probably will land our political policies in the middle of the road, instead of on the wild-eyed programs of most New Dealers or the moss-backed policies of hide-bound Republicans of yesteryear.

As I see the picture in Indiana, therefore, it is not impossible to conjure up a situation in which the New Deal attempt to drive Senator Van Nuys from politics would backfire to the extent of electing a Republican senator.

Kentucky also provides a battleground. In that state, I think New Dealers made a great mistake and it may eventuate that the mistake will cost them dearly. Senator Barkley, the Roosevelt spokesman in the senate, is going to have to fight his hardest to win renomination over Gov. "Happy" Chandler. Kentuckians here who know the politics of their home state tell me that the governor is a real challenger and that he is a campaigner of genuine ability.

Concerning the New Deal mistake: it will be remembered when Mr. Roosevelt interfered in senate affairs by indicating his choice for the leadership upon the death of the great Senator Robinson of Arkansas. That was the occasion when the President wrote to Senator Barkley, addressing him as "Dear Alben," and thereby attached a title that has proved such a source of levity. When it became apparent that Mr. Barkley would meet opposition, the New Deal promoted a testimonial dinner for the senator and sent numerous New Deal wheel-horses to Louisville to attend. Among them was Marvin McIntyre, assistant secretary to the President. Well, the Chandler folks built up a testimonial luncheon for the governor on the same day. Although Mr. McIntyre reached Louisville in time, he "just could not make it" to get to the Chandler luncheon. So that was that, and hundreds of Kentuckians at once decided that the New Deal was going to have Mr. Barkley and that made them say to themselves that they would choose their senator. It is of such incidents that political victories and political defeats are made.

Another battleground yet to be mentioned is Iowa. Senator Gillette was among those who did not like the President's court reorganization-scheme, and said so. From there on, he has been a marked man. He will have to fight for renomination, therefore, against a New Dealer—rather, an opponent of New Deal selection. Representative Wearin has announced that he will be a candidate for the Democratic nomination.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—Many years ago, in South America, this writer was always hearing somebody mutter "Perros!" (dogs), as he passed by. It expressed dislike of all North Americans. Upton Sinclair's book, "The Jungle,"

Propaganda Trick Hurt U. S. Trade

about the Chicago packing-houses, had been carefully mistranslated, in a widely circulated version, which made multitudes of South Americans believe all North Americans ate dogs. Even in remote jungle towns, I found European trade scouts and salesmen making diligent use of the book. It was the neatest trade propaganda trick of the century.

The one-sided battle has continued through the decades. Late reports are that South American radio stations are belting Uncle Sam with everything at hand, and, to the same degree, apostrophizing Italy, Germany and Japan.

For this reason, there appears to be more than meets the eye in the printed story of our new airway rearmament, and the assignment of a new short-wave channel for broadcasts to South America.

With Secretary Hull, Dr. L. S. Rowe, director general of the Pan-American union, pleads for "stronger cultural ties" in the first broadcast. Spanish translations follow the English version.

While all this is in the name of "peace and good-will," and official announcements carry no hint of a defensive propaganda war, it appears to be the answer—perhaps the only possible reply—to the widespread smearing campaign against the U. S. A. in Latin American countries.

The sixty-six-year-old Dr. Rowe is a happy choice to head America's "cultural," if not propaganda, outreach in this direction. He has become widely known and decidedly persona grata in South America in his 32 years of pleading and proselytizing for solidarity, friendship and understanding in the Americas.

He has fraternized with South Americans more than any other northerner, lecturing, writing, evangelizing and expounding his doctrines of friendly co-operation—always on the high plane of cultural and intellectual intercourse. He has been head of the Pan-American union since 1920, succeeding John Barrett.

LIFE begins at forty for Gracie Fields, English Music Hall actress, who curtsies to the king and becomes a commander of the Order of the British Empire. It is another Jane Alger story, this tale of the Lancashire mill girl who became the highest-paid entertainer in the world.

Her earnings from her 5,000,000 gramophone records, and from the stage and cinema have reached $750,000 a year. Her film, "Mr. Tower of London," ran seven years. She lives simply with her mother, who manages her affairs, and never has anything more than pocket money. Every so often she visits Rochdale, the mill town where she sang for pennies at the age of seven, and has a rollicking time, singing for her old friends.

She was a "half-timer" in the cotton mills, half the day in school and half at work.

In 1930, she made a brief appearance at the Palace theater in New York. It wasn't much of a success. She explained afterward that she had been warned in England that entire audiences in America chewed gum together and in time, with dreadful facial contortions. This frightened her and spoiled her act, although, she admitted, there was only one observable gum-chewer.

She was glad to land safely in England, where she is widely beloved and known as "Good Old Gracie."

Just a few days before her fortieth birthday, she returned home from a party at four o'clock in the morning. The milkman, the policeman on the beat and a street-sweeper ceremoniously handed her a morning paper with her name in the king's honor list. She is tall, blonde and merry.

TIPS to Gardeners

Choosing Flowers

IF YOU want flowers that come into bloom early, plant seeds of nasturtium, Virginia stock, zinnia, sunflower, bachelor's button, and alyssum.

Among the easiest flowers to grow are the nasturtium, alyssum and California poppy.

To achieve brilliant color in the garden with a minimum of effort, grow petunia and zinnia. They require some care early in the season, but once established they grow luxuriantly, and nothing provides more color.

If snapdragons and asters, though among your flower favorites, are barred from your garden because of the prevalence of rust and wilt, return them to their deserved places by getting rust and wilt resistant varieties from your seed dealer.

In your rock garden, try some of the following: African daisy, linaria, lobelia, statice, verbeña and Virginia stock, among the annuals; and columbine, English daisy, forget-me-not and Iceland poppy, of the perennials.

Truth in Speaking

Speak not at all, in any wise, till you have somewhat to speak; care not for the reward of your speaking, but simply and with undivided mind for the truth of your speaking.—Carylile.

On the Right Track

In Chicago, the world's greatest railroad center, hundreds of trains arrive and leave daily over a network of tracks. Gliding through the "yards" on a streamliner from the Pacific coast, passengers see suburban trains going west, others going north, passing and re-passing each other. Unseen, but directing this complex flow of traffic is the train dispatcher, who calmly sits at his desk making marks on a long sheet of paper. Telephone, telegraph and teletype are at his command. There is no fuss or bother in this quiet room which should—by all standards of human behavior—be a madhouse of activity. At any given moment, the dispatcher can report the exact position of every train on his division, no small feat in a railroad center like Chicago.

Accidents are almost unknown in metropolitan terminals like Chicago and New York, certainly much less commonplace than in outlying districts. One of the leading safety factors has been the block signal, which divides trackage into sections and automatically stops trains at danger points.

There are several thousand miles of trackage in the Chicago area, but the dispatcher knows the exact position of every freight car. He determines their fate and watches solicitously over their contents, especially if they contain rush shipments or perishable commodities which must be directed to their destination immediately. Freight pickup and delivery from such bustling points as Chicago's huge Merchandise Mart constitutes a mammoth task in itself, but the dispatcher takes it in his stride.

Adding to the dispatcher's duties in a center like Chicago are the numerous trains from other rail systems which use his tracks part of the time, or which switch freight from their line to his. Many of these changeovers are daily, scheduled occurrences. Others happen unexpectedly.

Snow blocks the tracks or a "hot box" is reported. Immediately the dispatcher sends working crews and equipment to the scene of trouble so that trains may continue to move. A few minutes later he is advised that an incoming train carries an invalid. Result: The dispatcher sends a "red cap" to meet the train, armed with a wheel chair. He is truly the "nerve center" of a railroad system, a man whose stupendous responsibility dwarfs the duties of law makers and captains of industry. Yet he lives unknown to all but the fellow railroaders whose actions he guides.

Lesson for March 20

KEEPING THE BODY STRONG

LESSON TEXT—Mark 6:53-56; Judg. 13:12-14; I Cor. 3:16, 17; Rom. 12:1, 2.
GOLDEN TEXT—Now therefore beware, I pray thee, and drink not wine nor strong drink, and eat not any unclean thing.—Judg. 13:4.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The Body God Gave Us

JUNIOR TOPIC—For Jesus' Sake, INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Liquor, Drugs, and Tobacco Do to Health.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—How Intemperance Affects Health.

The universe of God is perfectly organized in every respect. Beings that function in the spirit realm are spirit beings, not subject to the limitations of the physical world. We who dwell and serve in the physical world are equipped with physical bodies which are ideal instruments for our present existence.

With all their shortcomings and frailties, our bodies are indeed marvelous machines, intricate and delicate, yet unbelievably hardy and durable. They are a gift from God, and it is our express responsibility to glorify God in our bodies (I Cor. 6:20).

1. How to Have a Strong Body.

It is obvious that not every one has equal physical strength and health. In some measure this is by divine providence or at least by God's permissive will, and those of us who find ourselves thus limited do well to count on His grace for patience to use what we have for His glory. But not one of us wants to yield hopelessly to our inability. Rather we will do our best to overcome it. We want to know

1. How to cure weakness (Mark 6:53-56).

God alone can heal the sick. Even in our day when science has made such strides in the healing art, we note that the most successful remedy or system of treatment is the one that clears the way for what men call nature, but we know to be God, to work. Jesus healed the multitudes in the land of Gennesaret; He heals in America.

2. How to prevent weakness (Judg. 13:12-14).

The mother of Samson, who was to be a Nazirite, was to drink no wine and to observe careful dietary regulations before he was born.

Note also that if it is bad for a man to have such poisons in his veins before he is born, surely it is poor judgment to put them in after he comes to the age where he controls his own life. We need to watch our diets, and we have much valuable help on that point. We also need to give serious attention to the use of narcotics. It may surprise some to know that the term narcotics includes not only drugs and alcoholic beverages, but also tobacco, and such common things as tea and coffee.

Other abuse of the body, such as overwork, neglect of rest, etc., may well be mentioned. The besetting sin of some Christian workers is the destruction of their bodies, the very temple of the Holy Ghost, by overwork.

II. How to Use a Strong Body.

Unfortunate as it is to observe that some who would serve the Lord have to struggle with the weakness of the body, it is far sadder to note that all too often those who have strong bodies forget to use that strength for God. Our Scripture portions give us two excellent guiding principles. Our bodies should be

1. Kept for God (I Cor. 3:16, 17).

These verses refer to the body of the Christian, for only of him can it be said that his body is the temple of the Holy Ghost.

The Holy Spirit is a person, the third person of the blessed Trinity. He comes to dwell within the soul of the Christian immediately upon his being regenerated, thus making his body the temple of the Holy Ghost. A clear grasp of that truth solves the problem of what we should do with and for our bodies. We must keep them well and clean. We dare not defile them in any way. The body of the Christian is kept for God.

2. Yielded to God (Rom. 12:1, 2).

It is a high and noble sacrifice to die for Christ.

But our call just now is to be a "living sacrifice." There are times when that may seem harder than to be a martyr. We do know that it is not always easy to live through the drab, difficult, and sometimes "treadful" days, with a clear and shining testimony for Christ. But it can be done and is always to His glory. It is by the transforming grace of God that we are enabled to live such a life.

Pretty Things for Easter

THESE three dresses are up high on the list of fashion's favorites, and you can easily make them at home by using our simple, easy-to-follow patterns, each accompanied by a complete and detailed sew chart. Start right now, for even if there's a shiver in the air at this moment, Easter is not very far off! And you'll want to be ready!

Dress With Lifted Waistline.

This is a very, very popular fashion because it makes you look so slim and graceful, what with the waistline high in front, and soft gathers above it, the gently flaring skirt. Made up in a prettily print or silk crepe, it will be lovely for Easter and for all Spring. Be sure to wear a bunch of flowers at the neckline.

A Jumper Frock for Girls.

This is one of the sweetest and most becoming styles ever invented for girls of school age, just about the time they begin to shoot up so fast that you can almost see them grow! Make the jumper of linen, gingham or percale, and why not make two or three blouses to go with it? One of linen, one of dimity, and one of organdie.

Everybody Likes Dirndl Frock. The square neckline, the full rippling skirt and tight little waist, are so flattering to slim figures! Here's a charming dirndl with just the right air of quaintness and freshness about it. Choose a gay flowered print, or a cheerful plain color, pale or bright. But be sure, whether you make it up in silk or cotton, to choose a crisp fabric so that the skirt will flare as it should.

The Patterns.

1481 is designed for sizes 14 to 42 (32 to 42 bust.) Size 16 (34) requires 3 1/2 yards of 39-inch material.

1996 is designed for 6 to 14 years. Size 8 requires 1 1/2 yards of 39-inch material for the jumper; 1 1/2 yards for the blouse. Also 2 1/2 yards of bias facing for neck and armholes of jumper.

1480 is designed for sizes 12 to 20 (30 to 38 bust.) Size 14 (32) requires 3 1/2 yards of 39-inch material, plus 1 1/2 yards of ribbon for belt and 3/4 yards of braid or ribbon for trimming.

Importance of Pressing.—Most hems should be pressed twice, once after tacking, and again after the seam is finished. Press the hems on the wrong side over a damp cloth.

Warmed Over Roast.—If a good portion of a roast is left over, soak it 30 minutes in cold water and then roast again for a short time. It will be like a fresh joint.

To Prevent Iron Sticking.—When pressing curtains, add half a teaspoonful sugar and a quarter teaspoonful salt to each table-spoonful of starch.

Don't Sear Meat.—Searing meat will not hold the juices in, as was formerly believed, but will cause greater shrinkage and loss of fat and moisture.

Keeping Lemons Fresh.—Lemons can be kept fresh and firm by placing them in a wide-necked pot or jar and covering with water.

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them!
Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood-stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure.

When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out.

Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance.

The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste.

First Run of Smelt Found 20 Years Ago

Because a husband who had been sent to draw a pail of water for the family wash, hauled up a pail of fish instead, thousands of smelt dippers are making ready for seasonal renewal of a unique sport.

Although smelt dipping did not immediately become a sport, discovery of the famous Beulah run, first known in Michigan, was forerunner of the recreation in which thousands now take part annually. But Newt Ely, Benzie county clerk, was not looking for smelt when he went to Cold creek in Beulah one spring morning in 1918. In fact, Mr. Ely didn't know what a smelt was and anyway he was after water with which to fill Mrs. Ely's wash tubs.

When he pulled up a bucket of silvery fish and then noticed that the six-foot width of stream was filled from bank to bank with a struggling mass of fish, he forgot about the family wash and ran to tell neighbors of his discovery. Not many, if any, among the excited villagers who gathered to view the phenomenon thought that this run would be a yearly occurrence. In fact, only a few, according to the records, made an attempt to net the fish, the majority preferring to stand in wonderment and watch.

Since then, with recurrence of the Beulah run and the discovery of similar runs in other streams, smelt dipping has become a yearly sport offering both recreational and commercial value, marked by community celebrations in many parts of both the lower and upper peninsulas.

East Jordan is usually the scene of the first yearly smelt run, followed closely by the run at Boyne City. This year the official date at East Jordan has been set for March 25 - 26.

The Beulah run is due about a week after the smelt appear at East Jordan. Streams in Traverse City district are entered about the same time, while runs in the upper peninsula begin a little later. At Escanaba the event has been officially scheduled for April 7, 8 and 9.

The fish were not identified as smelt until 1922, after which it was learned that the Michigan fish commission had planted smelt in Crystal lake in April, 1912.

Although the smelt dipping season has been participated in by thousands each year, fisheries investigators have not found convincing evidence that the supply is being depleted, and it is believed that a heavy take is necessary to keep this prolific species from becoming too numerous for the good of other kinds of fish.

"I WANT A TELEPHONE IN THIS HOUSE!"
Suppose I get sick? After all, I'm only human. And if I do get a touch of colic... or have a nervous breakdown... do you know what'll bring it on? Worry! Yes sir, worrying about how long it would take us to get the doctor. Or suppose the house catches on fire? When you need the Fire Department nowadays you don't write a letter, or go after them on a mule. No sir. You hop to a telephone! And what about my mother? She's got marketing to do. She has to take advantage of the bargain sales. Sometimes she needs to get in touch with Dad during the day. And there are errands to be run. Well, she can't do all those things without a telephone... and at the same time give me the attention I expect. "All Dad would have to do is call the Telephone Business Office. I'd do it myself if I could just get out to a pay station. But I can't... So is it any wonder that worry is keeping me awake half the day?"

All-Conference Team Announced Here Tuesday

Charlevoix's undefeated Red Raiders, by virtue of their victories in Regional competition at Petoskey last week, swing into the state finals when they open up at Big Rapids, playing Sterling, the winner of the Mt. Pleasant finals. The Charlevoix men easily won the top honors at Petoskey, polishing off with victories over Grayling and Rogers City. They are held as one of the favorites in the state tourney this week.

Three of their members were given positions on the All Conference Team announced here Tuesday. Harbor Springs and Boyne City each placed a man on the first team. The selections were as follows: K. Carey, and Richardson of Charlevoix, forwards; Brower, Harbor Springs, center; Hausler, Boyne City, and Gallagher, Charlevoix, guards. Hausler, Gallagher and Carey repeat this year, winning similar honors last spring.

The second team lines up as follows: Sheaffer, Boyne City and Fillmore, Kalkaska, forwards; Brown, Charlevoix, center; Mazur, Gaylord and Bergman, Charlevoix, guards.

Those given honorable mention were Hosegood and Kamppe, Boyne City; Pearl, Charlevoix; Ring and Hardy, Mancelona; Mosher, Grayling; Newman, Harbor Springs; and Saxton of East Jordan.

Grasshopper Battle Opens In Charlevoix County

Strategic defense of Michigan's crops is being planned throughout counties in the state where grasshoppers were prevalent in previous growing seasons and where fall counts of eggs indicate the 1938 horde of crop eaters may be even more numerous.

Several thousand farmers cooperated in township and county-wide projects in 1937. County agricultural agents, including B. C. Mellencamp, Boyne City, in Charlevoix County, are making a survey now to determine how many farmers are interested in fighting the pests this year.

Supplies of government purchased poison and mill feeds apparently will be available from funds not exhausted in the 1937 hopper battle.

Work of the farmers in their community groups includes distribution of the poison bran and sawdust bait after county organizations take care of storing the supplies and mixing the preparation for spreading on infested areas.

Although fall and winter counts of grasshopper eggs indicate 1938 may see the hoppers in plague proportions in some counties, there is hope for success. Entomologists at Michigan

Adapted Seed Must Be Used In Agricultural Conservation Program

Seed for alfalfa and red clover seedings for which payment will be requested under the 1938 Agricultural Conservation Program must be adapted seed, according to Charles D. Shepard, Chairman of the Charlevoix County Agricultural Conservation Committee.

This means that the seed should be northern grown. The best seed for Michigan is that which is grown in Michigan, Wisconsin, Utah, Montana and other northern States and Canada.

When farmers purchase seed this Spring, they should have executed the special seed form to establish evidence to be used in claiming payment under the Program. This form can be obtained at the county office at Boyne City, Michigan, and is to be signed by the person from whom the seed was obtained, whether it was purchased from a dealer, a grower, or was seed used by a farmer who produced his own.

These forms have already been placed in the hands of the various seed dealers in the County and for your own protection be sure to have them signed when making any seed purchases.

Forestry Projects Increasing In Interest

Many farmers are becoming more and more interested in forestry programs. Up to date there have been completed 8 woodlot improvement demonstrations with several more scheduled in the immediate future. These demonstrations have attracted the attention of many farmers in their community and have done much toward encouraging the better care and management of farm woodlots.

Now to encourage tree planting, five planting demonstrations have been arranged for this spring. Under the direction of Mr. Wines, Junior Forester, Camp Wolverine, up to five acres of young trees are to be set out at each demonstration. This work will be done the very last part of April or the first part of May and thus farmers will have the opportunity of seeing how this work is done to best advantage.

The following five demonstrations have been arranged.

W. D. Burmeister - Boyne City
George Hemmingway - E. Jordan
James Novak - East Jordan.
John Taylor - Boyne City.
Chas. Shepard - Boyne City.

It is hoped that a great number of farmers will visit their nearest demonstration when the schedule is announced later on in April.

$11,500,000 Deficit:
Declining revenues of the state sales tax have added more than $4,000,000 to the state deficit at Lansing, according to figures compiled here by Harold D. Smith, state budget director.

On Nov. 14 the deficit was computed at $5,000,000 by Smith.

By the end of the present fiscal year, next June 30, the red ink entry will be $11,500,000, and that amount is subject to revision again if times do not improve immediately.

The legislature generously dipped into the state treasury to the extent of around $125,000,000. Executive vetoes reduced this to $110,000,000 with anticipated revenues for the year totaling $102,839,000. When industrial plants were forced to lay off thousands of workers, welfare needs jumped skyward and $2,000,000 was advanced for relief. Close to $3,000,000 more will be needed before the year ends.

Special Session?
Allocation to Michigan of approximately 30 per cent of the new $250,000,000 WPA appropriation by Congress is believed to have removed the possibility that the state legislature would be summoned this spring for a special session.

Cautions by Senator Prentiss Brown that a legislative session might prove disastrous during a political campaign, the governor announced that the sole need for a session was to provide funds for unemployed and that he hoped the federal government would bridge the gap. A decision this week is likely.

Washington's action in allocating a major share of the fund to Michigan is recognition of the belief that the automobile industry led the nation out of this last depression and that, being the first to enjoy good times, it was likewise the first to feel ill effects.

Michigan now has 118,000 persons working on WPA projects.

91% Read Newspapers
Success of the "over the top" offensive to break the used car jam is being hailed jubilantly by motor manufacturers in Michigan.

It means renewed hope that thousands of workers can be called back to their jobs at automobile factories.

The manufacturers put up $1,250,000 to advertise the National Used Car Exchange Week, and two-thirds of all this went into newspaper advertising space. Until after the World War, the automobile leaders were wary about using newspaper space to tell the story of their new models. The fact that the newspaper played a major part in the national drive to sell used cars is another evidence that the Carnegie Foundation, in a recent survey made by a University of Chicago expert, was right when it found that:

91% of all adults read newspapers regularly.

41% of all adults read magazines regularly.

Whether the hometown paper serves 500 people or 5,000,000 people, it can't be beat as the most economical, effective medium to tell a sales story.

Anti-Ford Tax
Defeat of the "third basket" tax by the House of Representatives at Washington is being hailed here as another sign of public support for Henry Ford.

The proposed tax was aimed at family-owned corporations and was generally considered as being aimed at the Dearborn manufacturer.

Twenty years ago Henry Ford was a Democratic candidate in Michigan for the United States senate. He was defeated by Republican Nominee Newberry, and the subsequent investigation into the Newberry $100,000 slush fund is now a matter of history.

While Ford is far from being a "little business man", he still enjoys wide-spread popularity. Twenty years after his unsuccessful campaign in Michigan as a Democrat, you find Ford winning a signal victory with the support of Democrats at Washington.

reported to have spent some $3,420,000 for new automobiles. Of that sum around $1,000,000,000 represented their equity in their old cars.

On Jan. 1 of this year passenger cars in service were valued at $7,500,000,000 - proof indeed that we are not so bad off as radical agitators would like to have us believe.

It is well established that the automobile industry has more far-reaching effects on the national prosperity than any other industry. In the matter of taxes alone, the automobile and its cousins, the truck and bus, were responsible last year for $1,500,000,000 in public revenue.

New Farm Benefits
Because Michigan in 1937 rated ninth in winter wheat yield and tenth in corn production, the new federal farm act is not expected to benefit this state as much as it will others in the Middle West.

These facts were the basis of a protest by John Strange, state commissioner of agriculture, against the ever-normal granary plan when it was considered in Congress several months ago.

And yet, the new benefits will bring approximately $4,000,000 more to Michigan farmers than under the 1937 act. Special bonuses to small producers, who earn payments under $200 a year, have been authorized, averaging $13 per farm.

Growers will receive 10 cents a bushel on corn, 12 cents a bushel on wheat, and 3 cents a bushel on potatoes.

SYNOPSIS

James Lambert tries in vain to dissuade his beautiful foster-daughter, Leonora from marrying Don Mason, young "rolling stone," whom he likes but of whom he disapproves according to his conventional business-man standards. He tells her: "Unless a house is founded upon a rock, it will not survive." Leonora suspects the influence of her half-brother Ned, always jealous of the girl since the day his father brought her home from the deathbed of her mother, abandoned by her Italian baritone lover. Don arrives in the midst of the argument, and Lambert realizes the frank understanding between the two. Sitting up late into the night Lambert reviews the whole story of Nora as a child, at boarding school, studying music abroad, meeting Don on the return trip. In the morning he delivers his ultimatum, to give Don a job with Ned for a year's show-down. When Nora suggests the possibility of running away with Don, Lambert threatens disinheritance. Don agrees to the job.

CHAPTER II—Continued

By the end of the first month Don's nerves were taut and he had lost his appetite. At the end of three he had lost ten pounds. Later still, when a strained expression gathered about his eyes, Nora began to worry, though, scolding himself for this reaction to "a steady job," Don had not complained. Then came an evening when he telephoned that he was too tired to come out, and heard her quick-drawn breath of disappointment.

"But, Don, it's the night of the Careys' dance and I'm all dressed!" "It is!" Dismayed surprise showed in his tired voice. "My dear, I forgot completely; but if you don't mind being a bit late I'll—"

She broke in then with sudden understanding: "Of course we won't go if you're used up, Don." "But you wanted to go, Nora!" He spoke in genuine distress. "You've been looking forward to it—a lot. See here, would you go without me? Tag along with Corinne and Ned? Honestly, darling, I'm all in. Top tired to eat."

Said Nora, very quietly: "Are you keeping something back, Don? Are you sick?"

A reassuring laugh came over the wire. "Of course not! But I haven't been sleeping well for weeks, if you want the truth; and last night was rather the worst on record. I didn't close my eyes till daylight. I'll be O. K. tomorrow; but—don't think me a piker, will you?"

"Crazy!" "And you'll go to the dance with Ned? Promise?"

She laughed and told him to sleep the clock around; but she didn't go to the dance.

Next evening the girl said out of a silence: "Don—it's appalling."

Watching her lover closely she had observed, with something of a shock, how those months of confinement had changed his whole appearance. It had been a gradual change, of course, and seeing him daily Nora had not realized the growing hollows below his cheek bones, or that the tan born of years in the open was quite gone, leaving his face with an unnatural pallor. Even his sea-blue eyes that made her think of sun-lit, dancing water, were more opaque, more lifeless; and his feet which always seemed to touch earth lightly, dragged now as he crossed the room to sit beside her.

"What's appalling, beloved?" "You," said Nora. "You" (her voice trembled) "I'm not worth the price, Don."

He kissed her, not pretending to misunderstand.

"I'm the best judge of that, dear. Play to me, won't you—something that'll make me believe there are things in the world like brooks, and birds, and wind on the prairie? I'm stifled."

It was the first admission of the sort that he'd allowed himself to make.

Nora played for an hour, lulling Gypsy strains at first that led Don's troubled spirit far away to the "green pastures and still waters" for which it hungered.

The music grew quieter. . . . Old things . . . things one remembered . . . Rubinstein . . . Mendelssohn . . . Ah! Beethoven! The Moonlight Sonata, played as only Nora played it. . . . So quiet; so sure; so firm and yet so tranquil. . . .

When the last note of that matchless lullaby had died away, Don was asleep, his head pillowed on one arm, his face more peaceful than it had been for many weeks.

CHAPTER III

Nora grew noticeably thoughtful after that evening. Don had slept for a long time while she sat beside him gazing into the fire, as if its slowly fading glow might light her way. It was all so futile—this whole experiment, she mused. The time-worn simile of the round peg in the square hole came back to her. That was Don, poor boy! She knew full well that the year's sentence James Lambert had imposed on him would make no difference in their future; yet unless he stuck it out the older man would look upon him as a failure—a ne'er-do-well.

What was her duty? the girl pondered. It was useless to expect a product of the metropolis like her father, to understand or even make allowances. His whole world was the well-ordered world of the successful business man. His horizon was bounded by city streets. What more should one ask of life than a steady job and a salary which supported in comfort those one loved? was his sole argument. He saw no other. He could not comprehend what such an existence meant to Don, nor dimly vision that call of the Gypsy trail which tugged at the young man's heart, leading him onward, making of life a glorious adventure.

So the girl grew more thoughtful, more quiet in the days that followed. Don said: "You've lost your pep, darling. What's happened?" and Nora laughed at him. But when her father questioned her one evening, a night when Don, pleading a dull head, had gone home early, she made no effort to evade the answer. He said: "Something's upset you lately. What's the matter, child?"

"Life," said Nora.

James smiled.

"What's wrong with life, dear?"

"What's right?" countered the girl, shrugging.

Her father's eyes grew puzzled as he regarded her.

"Have you and Don been quarreling?" he asked.

Nora laughed softly.

"It would be hard work to pick a fight with Don," she answered. "No, we haven't quarreled; but—I'm worried about him, Dad."

"There's nothing to worry about, my dear. Things are not going badly. I'll make a business man of Don Mason yet, Nora, if you'll give me time."

"You'll make a corpse of him more likely," the girl retorted with so much bitterness in her voice that James raised his head, looking at her in blank amazement.

"What do you mean?"

"I mean that all his nerves are raw—on edge, Dad."

"Nerves!" The contempt in her father's exclamation cut Leonora to the quick.

James said, after a tense silence: "See here, Nora, it's absurd to think that a year in a well ventilated, modern office can cause a breakdown such as you hint at. That young man's was anyway, the picture of health. If there's anything bothering him now it must be, as you say, a case of nerves, which seems to my mind, almost nonsensical. If he'll make an attempt to pull himself together—get the best of the trouble instead of dwelling on it—"

"Dwelling on it!" broke in Nora with indignation. "Why he's never mentioned it! But I'm not blind, Dad, and the signs are there for anyone to read. I think you ought to call 'time up,' don't you?"

"Time up?"

"I mean it, Father. This simply can't go on. Don's lived in the open since he was eighteen. Office life stifles him; and Ned—"

She paused, while her father observed gravely: "We'll leave Ned out of this discussion, if you don't mind."

"How can we?" the girl demanded with intrinsic honesty. "Ned's half the trouble. He makes Don frantic, pouncing on him unexpectedly—watching everything he does—snooping—"

"That's both insulting and unjust," James interrupted angrily. "Ned means to be helpful. If his methods are upsetting to this young man it's not your brother's fault, Nora, but his own. And considering that—that—"

"That Ned would welcome an excuse to throw Don out the door?" finished Leonora. Then, as her father snorted, she went on: "Now don't explode, Dad. It gets us nowhere, besides being bad for you. Perhaps I have no right to ask a favor anyway, but I'm asking one now: if you've any love at all for me, darling, and I know you have, I ask you to show it by putting an end to this experiment."

But James was obdurate. He was also angry.

"I gave him a year, Nora. I don't like a quitter."

Two red spots flamed like twin banners on Nora's cheeks.

"That's not just, Father. Don's never suggested giving up. But there's something in him that you and Ned can't understand, I suppose. He's not impatient, Dad. I think he scorns himself a little for chafing at things which other men accept so naturally. And that's bad for him too. Don't you see, Father, it's like whipping a tired horse to keep a man of Don's sort tied to a ledger. It stifles him. And I warn you now that rather than see his spirit—the thing I love about him, crushed and broken unnecessarily, I'll go away with him."

The man's lips tightened.

"And forfeit all I mean to do for you, my dear?"

"Money's not everything, Father."

"How should you know, who've never been without it?" he retorted. "Ned's right. I've spoiled you, I suppose; and now I must pay the penalty." Then, because he was hurt and angry James said something he regretted later. "Well, take your choice; but if the fellow quits, and you quit with him, I'm through with you, Nora. And when the cupboard is bare—when the lack of silk stockings and silver slippers becomes hateful and you're tired of your bargain, don't come to me for help. Remember that."

Had he struck the girl, he could not have hurt her more.

Never before had her father felt such anger at Leonora. That she should even contemplate the idea of eloping with Don Mason, after what he considered his forbearance in giving the young man a place in his own office, was utterly beyond

"I don't wonder your father hates to give you up."

James Lambert's unimagineable comprehension. Since that long-gone, tragic day when the girl discovered their real relationship, her foster-father had felt that she was grateful for everything he had tried to be to her. Now he wondered; and, wondering, grew bitter. Yet in a pathetic, lonely way James could not bear to be at odds with Leonora, his wife's last gift to him. Tossing restlessly on his bed that night, he longed to go to this dearly loved daughter whom he could not always understand—to make his peace and ask her to forget his harshness; but because of a stubborn streak deep in his nature, the man could not do it; and this illuminated moment which would have brought them infinitely closer, passed and was gone.

It was, however, no small measure of comfort that the girl's morning greeting was unchanged. If Nora's night had been as restless as her father's, nothing revealed the fact. She kissed him as usual, poured his coffee and chatted amiably of nothing in particular. But that evening James, who had been thinking, invaded the room where Leonora was playing to her lover, and sat for a half-hour watching the young man closely.

Nora was right, he admitted. The fellow had changed deplorably. Queer that he hadn't observed it sooner. Don looked what James called "peaked." And he was very

Camel's Hair Is Used for Packing, but the Animals Weep If Carelessly Plucked

The Mongolian camel grows very long hair to protect him during the bitter months of winter, and, as the weather becomes warmer, his coat falls away in strips and patches. Whenever we wanted to pack a box of fossils, we simply pulled the necessary quantity of wool off our camels, writes Roy Chapman Andrews in Asia Magazine. No finer packing-material could be devised, and a new crop continually appeared as the weather grew warmer and the camels shed more readily.

But a certain amount of care had to be exercised in plucking the poor beasts; for a camel, in spite of his size, is a very delicate animal. If we removed his underclothes too suddenly, he was very likely to catch cold and to whimper in the most disconsolate way, while great tears ran out of his eyes.

pale; not paler than Ned, perhaps, but shockingly paler than he had been six months ago.

Still, was there any reason for alarm? James thought not. Don's pallor was merely the result of an indoor existence. Absurd for Nora to worry about his health. In another month or so he would become acclimated—get used to it—stop champing at the bit as he did now. And there was no doubt that Don Mason needed discipline. He'd been his own master since he was eighteen. It was high time he learned to meet responsibilities, or how was he to take care of a girl like Leonora? And they were both young enough. It wouldn't hurt them to wait a little longer. He'd give them a trip abroad as a wedding gift if Don would agree to settle down after they got back.

James smiled to himself, pleased at this new idea. It should be a trip de luxe, by George! A trip such as that young vagabond had never dreamed of. Trust Nora for that! She appreciated the luxuries of travel. Only a few months to wait; and unless Don proved himself a quitter . . .

He arose, roused by the cessation of Nora's music. She said: "Want something, Daddy?"

"No. I've left my book round somewhere; but it's not here."

Don, too, had risen. He said, smiling: "Won't you stay for a while, sir? I haven't the exclusive right to Nora's evenings."

"Perhaps not," responded James, "but I haven't entirely forgotten my own youth! Besides, I want to turn in early. Lost sleep last night, and the music has made me drowsy. Good-night, daughter."

He kissed her; nodded pleasantly to Don, and went upstairs.

"I don't wonder your father hates to give you up," said Don. "If ever I have a daughter as sweet as you, Nora, I'll be forced to stifle murderous intentions toward any fellow who makes love to her."

"And yet," she answered, "Dad hurt me last night, frightfully."

"How, dear?"

She told him, not all, but part of that momentous conversation.

"It was cruel, Don. I—I almost left him. I came near going straight to you and begging you to run away with me."

"I'm not the sort that runs, Nora," he said.

She considered that.

"Not even if I asked you to, my dear?"

Don shook his head.

"Never—unless things get more desperate than they are now."

"But you're nearing the end of your rope, Don," she protested.

"What good will it do us to stick it out if you lose your health?"

"The young man laughed, confessing: "I'm a lot more likely to lose my temper! Sometimes—"

He stopped abruptly, and Nora asked: "Has Ned been bothering?"

"Oh, let's forget it!" Don said in an attempt to end the discussion.

"I'm going home, Nora. I seem to sleep better when I turn in early. I don't see how you put up with me—a girl like you. I never show you any sort of a good time. I even forget when I promise to take you to a dance! I—honestly, dear, I've wondered lately . . ."

"What have you wondered?" she questioned as he looked away.

"I've wondered if it might not be better for us—to part, Nora."

The girl caught her breath, then said, her voice unsteady: "Better for you, or—me, Don?"

Sensing her hurt he took her into his arms with tenderness.

HOW to SEW

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

Stitch a Shirred Valance to Buckram

PLANNING draperies is as exciting as planning a new frock. Color, fabric, suitability, style. Curtains sound the keynote of a whole room, and this is the time of year to be thinking about them. The chintz draperies with shirred valance shown here are dignified and yet charmingly informal. They are easy to make; they have the smart tailored effect that is usually obtained only by using a valance board, yet they are hung on ordinary double curtain rods of the type shown here at A.

The side drapes are made of full widths of the chintz and are hung on the inside rod with plain casings at the top. Cut the valance material the desired depth and twice as long as the space it is to fill after it is shirred. Hem the ends and bottom. Now, make a row of gathers along the raw edge at the top, another row 2 1/2 inches below the first and a third row 1/2-inch below the second. Cut a piece of buckram 4 inches deep and as long as the outside curtain rod. Bind the ends of this strip. Place the shirred valance edge wrong side down on the strip of buckram as at B. Cut a casing strip wide enough for the rod to slip under it after the edges are turned, and place it over the valance edge as at C. Stitch the casing strip and the valance to the buckram as shown. Turn the valance over to the other side of the buckram and stitch through the other two rows of shirring as shown. Slip the outside curtain rod through the casing and the valance is ready to hang.

Are you in a rut about your curtains? Do you know the different methods that decorators use to give windows individuality? In her book SEWING for the Home Decorator, Mrs. Spears has told the whole story with sketches and text. Slipcovers, difficult dressing tables, and making of lamp shades, how to bring furniture up to date and many other technical problems are treated in this useful dollar-saving book. Readers wishing a copy should send name and address, enclosing 25 cents (coins preferred), to Mrs. Spears, 210 So. Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill.

Royal Dreams Typified by Palms The desire of every man to be a king is typified by Rio de Janeiro's great number of royal palms. Dom Joao, king at the beginning of the Nineteenth century, had planted the first seed of the royal palm himself and ruled that the tree was to be exclusively his. To preserve his monopoly he ordered every seed from it gathered up and burned, but the residents of Rio who wanted to imitate royalty bribed his slaves to sell the seeds. As a result royal palms soon sprang up everywhere.

Madam, a Voguish Silk Print for You

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

EVER since children started calling mother by her first name, mother has done her best to live up to this indirect compliment by looking younger each year. She massages and exercises until her figure reverts to girlish proportions, and having studied fashions intensively in order to seek out lines and colors that will do the most for her, she makes a wise and happy choice when she steps forth arrayed in a costume of charming silk print that causes all who behold to pay compliment to her perennial youth.

For the woman whose years have gone "fortyish" or which lead into the "fascinating fifties," life as it is today holds interesting possibilities.

So often the complaint is voiced that fashion news and pictures utterly ignore the needs of mature women, catering only to the whims of youth that glories in sylphlike will o' wisp figures. Well, now, what about the charming fashions herewith illustrated? Madam, of "no-age" identity, these flattering silk print costumes are pictured especially for you.

The model centered in the group is submitted as an ideal selection for the woman engaged in a roundelay of daytime activities. Designers well versed in the art of dress declare that scroll designs that brighten monotonous with a dash of color are flattering to the important figure as they do not appear spotty. The model pictured presents a daytime dress of black-with-white scroll printed silk crepon worn under a full length unlined wool redingote. It has a velvet collar and is styled with a vent-in-the-back so as to insure freedom in movement. A white pique touch softens a becoming high neckline. The bodice top has a slenderizing long line and carries two rows of tiny buttons repeating the detail of the coat. The attached skirt is box-pleated, the pleats stitched down to keep the hips slim. In reality this is a one-piece dress with a two-piece look. Note the very narrow belt.

A new silk print with a chintz pattern in floral and leaf design as shown to the right has a flattering adjustable low V-neckline with sash crossing under the bosom and tying in the back. Well placed pleats are released below the hipline to give movement and interest to the skirt. The effect of the double waistline is becoming to short as well as tall women. The Watteau straw beret as worn with this costume is the rage in Paris and the promise is that it will be a leading fashion not only for spring but throughout the summer months. Which means that milliners inspired by the beautiful Watteau paintings are creating "pretty lady" hats that accent utterly feminine charm.

Silk evening prints in brilliant pastels that flaunt huge, bold floral designs are the outstanding mode for evening. And so, now that we have shown you a print costume for practical day wear and a more dressy print for afternoon functions, we are completing the trio of prints you'll love to wear with a gorgeous gown for formal evenings. See it pictured to the left. How becoming the huge scatter-florals can be to the woman with the important figure may be seen by this stunning evening gown of black chiffon with distinguished large multi-colored flower print. This lovely model may also be had with a triangular scarf to match that can be worn to soften the neckline or, if you will, wear it gracefully over the head as a protection to the hair.

SMART THREE-PIECE By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Jacket suit plus a topcoat is the three-piece outfit for spring that will be your most economical buy no matter how much you pay for it. Costume suits such as pictured are the smart thing for immediate wear. This model is in the natural wheat tones that are coming out in full force this spring. For the coat the designer uses a smart, nubly tweed that contrasts to the smooth surfaced wool that makes jacket and skirt. The relation of suit and topcoat is accented in that the short jacket is, as you will observe if you look closely, bound with the identical flecked wool that fashions the long coat. With the topcoat removed you have your spring tailored jacket suit all ready to wear with the intriguing blouses that are so important in current modes.

EVENING GOWNS OF LACE FOR SUMMER By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Evening dresses are, of course, the expected spot for lace to shine. And so it does, but outside of all the regular and expected places, it takes new precedence in putting in the note of color which is so very chic for summer. In fact, the surest sign of a new evening frock is this two color idea. Pink venise sleeves in a black dress, a red lace bolero incrustated in a gray lace dress, or a black lace bodice and volant from the hips, as Worth sees it, black over pink as Ardansse prefers to get her nude effects, bottle green over gray as Paul Roy likes his evening things, not to mention the long white evening cape in lace of Rosevienne or her incrustations of green lace torsades in a black lace dress. Piquet prefers to emphasize his long corselet line with lace just as he underlines the richness of his slip skirts with either matine or black val, but always in contrast to the color of the fabric. And has anything more ingenious been thought of than his minuscule lace striping (actually 2 millimeters in width) of a day dress, looking at a distance like a pencil stripe?

Bolero Gives Old Evening Dress New Lease on Life

An old evening dress can take a new lease on life, now that the bolero is offered in such a variety of themes. Those who like a trim, tailored type of jacket will be interested in the versions that are made of sharkskin or printed linen. They have boyish collars and stitched trimming.

White sharkskin is recommended for wear over a black frock while those printed linens will look well with vivid or dark shades, especially if the wearer is among the winter cruisers. Embroidered organ-die and shirred marquisette that are available in white or pastel tints transform a tailored costume into a frivolous and a very feminine one.

WHAT TO EAT AND WHY

C. Houston Goudiss Discusses PROTEINS— The Foods That You Cannot Live Without

Eminent Food Authority Explains Why No Protein Means No Life—Describes the Kind and Amount Required for the Best Growth in Children—Good Resistance, Vigor and Endurance in Adults.

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS
6 East 50th St., New York.

FOOD is—and always has been—the central problem of life. But only in recent years has its true power been revealed, as a result of scientific investigation.

Fortunately, we now know what constitutes sound nutrition, and it is possible for every homemaker to plan meals that will enable her family to eat their way to health.

Topping the list of food essentials are the proteins. The Dutch chemist, Mulder, who hit upon this name, made a wise choice, for it means "to take first place." And certainly the proteins are first in importance. For they are the stuff of which our bodies are built. Without them, there would be no life.

Every man, woman and child has a fundamental need for protein, because it is an essential component of every living cell and makes up a large part of the solids of a muscle cell. Evidently, a great many of the glandular principles and substances, which control the functions of the body, are also protein in character.

Protein is the only food element that contains nitrogen, and next to water, nitrogen is the chief constituent of the human body.

Protein Builds Bodies.
A new born baby weighs, on an average, from 7 to 7½ pounds, and the adult into which it grows may weigh 20 to 30 times as much. The vast amount of tissue necessary to construct a man is built chiefly from protein.

Once the adult body is built, however, protein is not required for the growth of new tissues, except under certain conditions, such as during pregnancy, when one is recovering from a wasting illness, or when an athlete is in training and the muscles are increasing in size.

Keeps the Body in Repair.

There is, however, a maintenance requirement for protein—which continues throughout life, and which applies to both children and adults. For the body may be compared to a machine, on which it is necessary to make allowance for the wear and tear of parts. Protein is the only substance that will rebuild the millions of cells which each day cease to function.

Thus, we see that protein performs two vital services—First, it builds new tissues; second, it repairs worn-out tissues.

The Building Stones of the Body.
Protein is found in many different foods, but unfortunately, not all proteins are equally valuable.

That is because protein is a very complex substance, resulting from the union of 22 or more simpler substances containing nitrogen, and called amino acids. These are the true building stones of the body. Some protein foods may

For Your Scrapbook

THIS issue contains the second of a series of articles entitled "What to Eat and Why," written by the noted food authority, C. Houston Goudiss.

In these articles, which appear weekly in this newspaper, Mr. Goudiss discusses in a clear, interesting and understandable manner the everyday problems of food as related to the building and maintaining of health in children, young people and adults, as well.

Mr. Goudiss, author, lecturer and radio speaker, is known throughout the country as the man who knows food "from soil to serving, from table to tissue." The homemaker will want to clip and save each one of these articles for the valuable information that is contained therein.

have only 7 amino acids represented in their substance; others may have as many as 15 or 16, and these also may be varied by the proportions of the kinds present.

Proteins Vary in Value.

Some of these amino acids are necessary to build new tissue; others will not build tissue, but are capable of repairing worn-out cells. Some protein foods are, therefore, more valuable to the body than others.

It is absolutely essential that the homemaker, charged with the responsibility of feeding a family, should be able to distinguish between those types of protein which are adequate for both growth and repair, and those that are only useful for maintenance.

For if the diet does not contain an adequate amount, or the right kind of protein, our bodies will be badly built and they will be improperly repaired and cannot wear well. As Dr. Eugenie V. McCollum of Johns Hopkins University, the world-famous investigator and discoverer of vitamin A, puts it: "Unless the right kinds, with respect to the size and shape, are furnished by the food proteins, the exact pattern on which the muscle must be constructed cannot be formed and, in this case, growth is interfered with."

If you were building a house you would consider nothing less than the finest materials. You would know that cheap lumber and poorly made bricks could not produce a lasting building. In the same way, you must learn to discriminate between the various types of protein used for the supremely important purpose of building your children's bodies, or keeping adult physiques in perfect repair.

Some foods cost more than others and you should not be guilty of spending hard-earned money for expensive protein foods when the same amount of nourishment could be more economically obtained from an inexpensive source.

Where to Find Protein.

Proteins that will build new tissue, as well as replace worn-out cells, are known as complete proteins. In this class we have meats, fish, cheese, milk, eggs and some nuts.

Incomplete proteins are found in grains and products made from them, and in the legumes—that is peas, beans, lentils and peanuts.

The proteins of these foods are of high nutritive value, however, and when supplemented with other proteins, such as those of milk, will meet every bodily requirement.

How Much Protein?

The protein requirement varies according to size, age, and the kind of protein foods consumed.

To allow for growth, children require twice as much protein per pound of body weight as adults. That is to say, an adult requires daily one-thirtieth of an ounce for each pound of body weight, but a child needs one-fifteenth of an ounce for each pound of body weight.

The amount of protein food should usually constitute from 10 to 15 per cent of all the calories taken. If this plan is faithfully followed, there will be more than enough to take care of every requirement, because experiments indicate that a man who weighs 154 pounds, or 70,000 grams, needs a minimum of 44 grams of protein every day.

In planning the family dietary, a safe rule to keep in mind is to include in the daily diet: a quart of milk for every child, a pint for each adult; one egg, one serving of meat, fish or chicken, one serving of another protein food such as cheese, dried peas or beans, or a main dish made with nuts.

You can achieve wide variety and still provide an adequate protein ration within the limits of this rule. For milk may be served as a beverage, in soups, puddings, and as cream sauce. Eggs may likewise be varied in their method of preparation, or concealed in other foods. There are many fine meats, and the number of ways in which fresh, canned, frozen or dried fish can be served is legion.

Both cheese and nuts make sandwiches, salads and desserts, as well as main course dishes. Peas, beans and lentils can appear as soup, mock roast or croquettes. Grain products, which include cereals, macaroni and bread, may appear in any course in the meal.

In planning menus, always keep before you the idea that an adequate amount of first class protein makes a first class man, whereas an inadequate amount may lead to stunted growth, functional nervous diseases, lessened efficiency and the earlier approach of old age.

In choosing proteins to feed your family—remember that they take first place among foods, and that upon their wise choice rests your future welfare, your destiny—your life!

Proving Ethics— Polish and Con

When fine furniture leaves the shop of the manufacturer, its finish has been professionally treated, to preserve its beauty—prolong its endurance. And from that time on, this furniture is best maintained by a quality light-oil furniture polish—first, on the shop floor of the furniture dealer—and then in the home. This is acknowledged and accepted as the best way to heighten its beauty—lengthen its life! But unfortunately, many housewives coat the finish of their furniture and woodwork with various shellacs and veneers—using them as a substitute for a fine oil polish and rubbing. And what a great mistake this is! For these coatings form a false finish over the true finish of the furniture; and resin and other destructive elements in them dry out the wood—toughen it—leave a sticky residue. When many layers have been applied, they accumulate as a crust over the finish, clogging it and clouding the natural beauty of the grain. This is the slack way to care for furniture. If the home-maker really "cares for" her furniture, she will frequently rub on a reputable light-oil polish, to preserve it—keep it lastingly lovely!

ARTIE HOUTMAN

Artie Houtman, the only girl in the family, arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Houtman in Nunica, Michigan, May 2, 1920. Artie has blond hair, blue eyes, pretty dimples, and is five foot five inches tall. When she was one year old she moved with her parents to Muskegon Heights where she attended school until the seventh grade. Then she moved to East Jordan and has lived here ever since.

Artie has been a member of the Girl's Glee Club for four years and sings alto. She has been a member of the Home Economics Club two years and is secretary and treasurer this year. She was also a member of the Commercial Club one year.

Artie says her favorite hobby is collecting poems and recipes. Her favorite subjects are history, typing, and shorthand. She enjoys reading and playing the piano. She classes Sonja Heine as one of her favorite actresses and Don Ameche is her favorite movie actor. Skating is her favorite sport. She enjoys listening to Charlie McCarthy's radio program. She says that vegetable soup is her favorite dish.

Artie is the second member of her family to graduate from East Jordan high school. She has four brothers and lives on a farm three miles from town and rides to school in bus-No. 1. Her plans are not fully developed as to what she will do after graduation. But her ambition hinges between being a home economics teacher or a bookkeeper. We wish you luck and success.

HERBERT KEMP

Bleak December was eight days old when Herbert Kemp was born in the year 1919. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lance Kemp of East Jordan. He is the eldest of four children.

Herbert has attended numerous schools. He began his schooling at the Evelyn orchards school, where he attended until the third grade. He accomplished his fourth grade work at Traverse City. The next two years, fifth and sixth grades, he attended school at Bellaire. Settling down at last, he then enrolled at East Jordan, where he has been ever since and will finish.

Herbert's favorite subject is history. He would like to go on to Michigan State but will have to wait a year or so before he will be able to attend there.

Herbert's favorite sports are football, basketball, and dancing. He played center on the football team for three years. But this year, due to a knee injury he had to retire to the bench. He played basketball for two years.

If wrecks are also considered as sports, he is quite fond of them, for he has had three.

Although Myrna Loy is his favorite actress he is greatly amused by the antics of Mae West. Clark Gable is his favorite actor because he thinks that he is a regular he-man off screen as well as on. Herbert's favorite dislike is caps and gloves.

In case you don't know him, Herbert is 5 feet 11 inches tall, weighs 165 pounds, and has blond hair and blue eyes.

ELIZABETH MARIAN COOK

Betty, as she is called, has had one advantage over other members of the Senior Class as she spent three years of high school in Washington D. C.

city of history. Betty, however, displayed excellent judgment in returning to her senior class last September where she received a hearty welcome. East Jordan is Betty's birthplace date September 23, 1920, parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cook.

The stars say very nice things about Betty and the stars never make mistakes — "You are a keen lover of justice and will fight for right to the bitter end. You are fond of beauty in both art and life and have deep cultural interests. You are gifted in possessing many talents and should be very successful in any vocation of art."

Betty possesses a serene temperament not easily ruffled if things do not come her way, therefore has the qualifications for a fine friend and companion.

When interviewed Betty was very modest as to her special activities and hobbies. She did say; however, "Don't put my hobby down as hiking but you might put it down as my pet aversion. A gallon of gas is a better investment than half-soleing your shoes any time."

Betty is a charter member of the Pep Club and is active in all class and High School activities. She is especially interested in commercial work and makes a real showing along this line.

In closing perhaps we should mention the fact that Betty is an attractive brunette with expressive eyes and a smile that leaves a lasting impression.

Through Betty's plans aren't fully formulated, she expects to attend the Strayer Business College at Washington D. C. Success Betty!

HILDA MAE JACKSON

Being born on a cold winter night January 20, 1919, during the war didn't stop Hilda from growing up to one of the most popular girls in her class.

She was born on a farm near Charlevoix but has lived most of her life in Ironton on the "Quaker Oats" farm.

Her first five years of education were received at the Ironton school and the remaining seven years before graduation from high school have been spent attending the East Jordan schools.

She was a member of the Glee Club

one year.

Basketball and swimming hold the most attraction for Hilda in the line of sports as do English and typing in school. Her favorite movie star is Robert Taylor and her favorite dishes are salads "of any kind or sort."

Hilda's hobby, she is excellent at it, is dancing she hasn't missed a school dance as far back as we can remember.

After graduating Hilda plans to take a beauty course in Detroit.

KATHRYN KITSMAN

When Kathryn came into the world October 16, 1920, she brought with her a personality full of vitality, smiles, and the assets it takes to get places. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Kitsman and has always attended school in East Jordan.

Using chemistry, Kathryn's favorite subject, by way of illustration, she might well be compared to flourine, the most active metal known.

Kathryn has played a cello in the orchestra for six years, and, (the first girl to do so) the snare drum in the band for four years.

As for her histrionic ability, she took the part of "Peg" in the junior play, and has the part of "Phyllis" in the senior play.

Kathryn sang in the Glee Club her first two years in high school, and was a member of the Etiquette Club last year.

Being president and a charter member of the Pep Club fits in with being yell leader. The number of games that she has missed during the last four years are limited, for Kathryn was always there to help carry on.

For three years Kathryn has been a reporter for the "School Bell" and in her freshman year was Assistant Editor.

Her hobbies are many, but eating, darning work, and talking and more talking are predominate.

For her life work Kathryn has set as her goal the study of medicine. First she will study to be a laboratory technologist.

After the first two years she hopes to complete her course at Northwestern. We salute you — "Doctor Kitsman."

GRADE NEWS

Mrs. Bartlett's Room.
Jack Frost certainly didn't put anything over the pupils in Mrs. Bartlett's room when he nipped the plants growing in their plant box. The children took out the old plants, planted out for the greenness, and scattered gay little paper tulips in the box.

Last week some of the second graders visited different rooms reading interesting stories.

Miss Morrison's Room.
The pupils in the first grade in Miss Morrison's room have made a very clever March calendar. It has a pretty "March Wind" illustration on it and it helps the pupils to learn the numbers and days.

Fourth Grade — Mrs. Hager.
The fourth graders are studying and reading about the Dutch people. They have made posters with wind mills and other Netherland scenes.
Third Grade — Miss Kjellander.
Japan seems to be the main topic in the third grade room. The pupils are studying about the Japanese and constructing some very clever projects. They are making wooden clogs and are building a Japanese house of paper.

Sixth Grade — Miss Clark
According to news from the sixth grade there is a great secret project under construction.

They say each student is having some part in this undertaking. It is safe to expect that this surprise will be very worthwhile to the school and community as the sixth graders possess both talent and initiative.

March is in the fifth grade.
"The March wind shall blow, and we shall have snow, and what will poor robin do then?" This seems to be the least of the worries of Mrs. Benson's room. Perhaps a better question would be "How can I keep my kite from blowing away?"

The new March calendar in the fifth grade room forgets about poor robin but has numerous children flying kites, kites with real string on them, too. The posters that adorn the bulletin board and walls use kites, people chasing their hats, and umbrellas turned wrong side out for themes.

INDOOR BASEBALL

The east side town team beat the country "All Stars" by a 5 to 4 victory. This game was the best exhibition of the year. "Monk" Chak and "Tich" Saxton formed the winning battery while G. Sieler and J. TerAvest worked for the losers.

SPORTS JABBER

The Sophomores are the school basketball champions. They were the superior team in their game with the Freshman, winning by a score of 74 to 5. Then they beat the Juniors, who had beaten the Seniors, by a score of 20 to 13. The Juniors were the surprise team, finishing up in second place in a close game with the Sophomores.

The eighth grade girls scored a victory over the seventh grade girls by a 15 to 8 score. The battery for the eighth grade was Alice Carson and Dorothy Kemradt. Shirley Sonnabend and Mildred Green worked for the losers. These four girls also seemed to be the outstanding players for their respective teams. The eighth grade started out with a bang and were ahead at the end of the second by a score of 9 to 4, then went on to win, while counting on the batting strength to over do their opponents.

CHOCOLATE CONTEST

Last Monday four seventh grade students received bronze medals from the Kellogg Company for booklets submitted in the "La Belle Chocolatiere" contest. The winners are Joan Farmer, Leland Hickox, Frances Maluass, and Barton Vance.

Each pupil in the contest was sent a large booklet with a picture of "La Belle Chocolatiere" painted by Jean Etienne Liotard that you see on all Baker's chocolate products. In these booklets were the story of "La Belle Chocolatiere," questions, and a completion test. The student then had to add free hand drawings of La Belle Chocolatiere, her picture from a can of cocoa, and also a poem about her. These booklets were then judged by Miss Staley.

"PENNY FAIR"

No one making a tour of the various rooms in the school could be unaware of the fact that a very novel and entertaining event is slated for this Friday night. The blackboards reveal that "The Penny Fair," sponsored by the Home Ec. Club and F.F.A., will take place March 18th.

Only the admission and the ice cream will be over a penny. These will cost five cents. But everything else can be gotten for a little round copper.

One may go through the hall of terror, fish in the fish pond, have his fortune told, and dance for one cent a dance.

Of course there are many other things to enjoy, but those will be the surprises. Oh yes, another thing which might be of interest to some is the Ouija board. It can tell startling tales.

As one of the blackboard advertisements says, "Why don't you do what others are? Save your pennies! and come to the fair."

And perhaps you will be Mr. Hero or Miss Villianess.

DECLAMATION CONTESTS

The local declamation contest will be held next week in the high school auditorium. There will be three speakers, Rex Gibbard is giving the "Declamation to the Boys and Girls of Michigan," Robert Brown "The Eleventh Commandment," and Arthur Gerard is giving, "The Word That Moves a World." The students are under the direction of Miss Mary Finch.
