East Jordan In College "Who's Who"

East Jordan is "on the map" of "Who's Who Among Students" in American Universities and Colleges." Harvey Park Harrington, senior at Michigan State College, son of Dr. and Mrs. H. M. Harrington, has the distinction of a place on the roster of outstanding students in the 1938 edition of this blue-stocking College publication.

Students are not selected because of scholarship alone, but also because of their record in extra curricula activities. Listed among Harvey's college honors are: President of Excelsior honorary club, member of Blue Key, secretary-treasurer Student Council, associate editor of State News, Editor of Spartan, president of Press Club, member Board of Publications and co-chairman Vocational Guidance program.

East Jordan appreciates this recognition that has come to one of its college students.

High School Baseball Team Loses Second Contest Here

The local high school baseball nine dropped its second contest of the season here last Wednesday afternoon as Boyne City's Big Reds easily won a 7 to 2 decision. The Red and Black playing miserably committed a total of 14 errors afield and were unable to hit the opponents pitching to any great extent.

Bradley started on the mound for the visitors but was relieved by Godwin in the first with one run in the bases loaded and no one out. Godwin retired the side striking out the first two men to face him and taking an easy pop out for the third out. A Lockman worked behind the plate for the visitors.

Saxton worked all the way for the Jordanites giving up but 7 hits while striking out ten. Holley did the receiving.

Hausler with 3 hits in four trips to the plate led the visitors offensive attack. V. Gee with three hits and Saxton with one were the only boys able to hit the offerings of Godwin.

New Policy At Temple With Four Shows A Week

Inaugurating the summer schedule the Temple will start this week with four complete changes of program each week. The changes will be Sunday and Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday (Family Nights), Thursday and Friday, and a one day bill on Saturday.

The opening show under the new policy brings us Shirley Temple in one of her grandest pictures, "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," for a two day showing Sunday and Monday. In this enjoyable entertainment Shirley has the support of an unusually able cast: Slim Summerville, Jack Haley, Gloria Stuart, Bill Robinson, Randolph Scott and Dixie Dunbar are the more prominent. The full week includes:

Friday, Saturday: A new Hop-A-Long Cassidy story, "Cassidy of Bar 20" with William Boyd.

Sunday, Monday: Shirley Temple, Bill Robinson, Slim Summerville, Jack Haley and Randolph Scott in "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm."

Tuesday, Wednesday: Family Nights: Zané Grey's "Born To The West" with John Wayne and Marsha Hunt, Lone Ranger No. 7.

Thursday, Friday: Jone Boles, Gladys Swarthout and John Barrymore in "Romance In The Dark."

The Temple has also completed arrangements for the early presentation of "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs." The most unusual production to ever reach the screen this production is creating box-office history wherever shown. Announcement of the play dates will be made in this paper next week.

Work Started On New Dock

SEARS PILE DRIVER STARTED WORK MONDAY, MAY 9

Work has begun on a new dock, which will be erected at the foot of Esterly St., where the city dock was formerly located. This work, under the supervision of S. P. Rines, is being done by the WPA, with the Sears Dock and Dredging Co. of Charlevoix driving the piling.

The dock when completed, will extend 4 ft. above the water, 150 feet out into the lake, and will be 30 ft. in width, according to Mr. Rines. This will enable boats of considerable size to be accommodated in East Jordan.

Piles for this structure were obtained last winter by WPA workers, who, with their pile puller have been working near the old shingle mill and some near the former location of Mill "B".

According to present plans the entire structure should be completed by July 1st. This should be a vast improvement for East Jordan, for in the past boats of any size had no place to dock.

"Wrecking Fever" Hits East Jordan

The urge to wreck old buildings in the business section of the city has progressed to quite an extent in East Jordan this spring.

On the annual clean-up day volunteer workers cleaned up the lot, belonging to Bill Taylor, just north of Freiberg's, on Main St. The Zitka Building on Mill Street, recently purchased by George Rubingh of near Ellsworth was completely demolished a few days ago and the lot is now being cleaned up. The buildings, formerly owned by the late Thomas Wood are now in the midst of being torn down. The old Company Boarding House on Main Street, owned by Gilbert LaClair of Ellsworth, which was partially destroyed by fire last winter, has been torn down by Mr. LaClair, and to show him East Jordan's appreciation several volunteer workers cleaned up the lot on Clean-up day. A constructive piece of work. It should be kept up.

Child Health League Met Last Wednesday

The May Day meeting of the Child Health League was held in the City Building, Wednesday afternoon, May 4th. There were a goodly number in attendance, amongst whom were a number of ladies representing Cedar Valley and Ranney Districts. They gave an account of the progress of the Dental project in their schools. The new officers elected for the coming year were as follows:

Unit Chairman — Mrs. M. Harrison.
Sec'y - Treas. — Mrs. Frank Crowell.

The following is a summary of the work accomplished during the past year:

Furnished a bulletin board for the Nurse's office.

Supplies for maternity cases were wrapped and made ready for sterilization.

Clothing was solicited and distributed.

Furnished transportation for children taken to clinics outside of East Jordan, and made arrangements for committee members, and others interested to attend the Conference of Social Workers at Traverse City.

Assisted with records, etc., at the several clinics held at the school.

Made four dozen capes to be used at school clinic examinations.

Promoted the Dental Correction Program for the third grade.

At the close of the business meeting Mrs. Guggesberg, P. H. N. gave an interesting report after which she introduced the speaker, Dr. Joseph Egley, of the Northern State Sanitarium. Dr. Egley gave a very interesting and instructive talk on "Tuberculosis," stressing several points, such as, having examinations, for in that way active cases are discovered while in the early stages and are much easier to arrest than advanced cases; and absolute rest very important for a T. B. patient.

After the program tea and wafers were served and a social hour was enjoyed by all present.

IN MEMORIAM
May 6, 1938
In loving memory of Shirley R. LaCroix, who passed away eight years ago today.

Gone from us leaving beautiful memories death can never take away. Sadly missed by Parents and family.

The highest point in Michigan, 2,023 feet above sea level is in the Porcupine mountains near the western extremity of the upper peninsula.

Livestock Sales Ass'n Born

EVENT TO BE HELD AT EAST JORDAN FAIR GROUNDS ON THURSDAY, JUNE 16

At a meeting held in the East Jordan City Building on Monday night, May 9, a new organization, the Jordan Valley Livestock Sales Association, was born. Representatives of all agricultural cooperative associations were in attendance. A permanent board of directors was set up consisting of the manager of each cooperative association and company in both Antrim and Charlevoix Counties. These managers represent the cooperative agencies in the following locations: Ellsworth, Elk Rapids, Bellaire, Mancelona, Charlevoix, East Jordan, Boyne City, Jordan Valley Co-operative Creamery and Charlevoix Agricultural Society.

The following officers were elected to initiate and develop this first attempt: Chas. P. Murphy, president; William Stanek, secretary and treasurer; and Bernie Klooster, vice president.

The first sale will be held on Thursday, June 16, at the fair grounds. New facilities will be constructed to handle this sale. All animals consigned must have a certificate indicating freedom from Bang's Disease and T. B. Each animal must be close to freshening or within one month after. Each animal will be inspected by a representative of the association in order to insure a high quality sale. A commission charge of five per cent will be made for each cow sold, and a two per cent commission if the animal is bid in by the owner, to cover expenses. As a nucleus each cooperative company is contributing twenty dollars to make the first sale possible.

All farmers who have one or more high quality cows that will meet all specifications are urged to list their name with any of the above named cooperatives, with the State Bank of East Jordan; John Ter Avest, East Jordan; or the county agent of either county. The idea looks good, the success will depend upon the number of choice animals consigned to this sale, so think the matter over. Let's get together and put this over.

B. C. Mellenkamp,
County Agr'l Agent.

Charlevoix Thinclads Win Meet Here Last Friday

Coach Coleman's Charlevoix thinclads with 74 points to 32 for East Jordan and 21 for Boyne City who placed third, had things pretty easy as they made a run away of the track and field meet held last Friday afternoon. Paced by their all around star performer Bergman who carried off four first, in the broad jump, high jump, high and low hurdles, seemed bound for the conference championship this week end.

The Red and Black were unable to cop a first place but picked up several seconds and thirds. Boyne City's point making seems to be up to a boy named Hausler who copped the 100 and 220 yd. dashes.

The conference meet will be held at Charlevoix this week, Saturday.

The results: Pole vault, Gallagher, Charlevoix, 10 ft. 3 in. Shot put, Carey, Charlevoix, 40 ft. 10 in. High jump, Bergman, Charlevoix, 5 ft 5 in. Broad jump, Bergman, Charlevoix, 19 ft 8 in. 100 yd. dash, Hausler, Boyne City, 10:4.1. 220 yd. dash, Hausler, Boyne City, 23.9. 120 yd. high hurdles, Bergman, Charlevoix, 16.8. 200 yd. low hurdles, Bergman, Charlevoix, 24.9. Mile run, Ellison, Charlevoix, 5:16.7. 880 yd. run, Olach, Charlevoix, 2:15. 440 yd. dash, Carey, Charlevoix, 59:2. 880 yd. relay, Boyne City, 1:44.4.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to extend our sincere appreciation to our many friends and neighbors for their many acts of kindness, the beautiful floral offerings, also Rev. Mathews for his comforting words.

George Mayhew and Family.

The Spirit of The Dance

An inspirational pageant depicting the purpose and value of dancing in its many forms will be presented on Thursday evening, May 19, at the East Jordan High School auditorium commencing at 8 o'clock.

The story of the dance in many countries with the background of the new movement in dance is related in charming style. The dancing festivals present a concise view of the basic principles upon which rests the technique and spirit of the different types of dances. A good definition of "Dance Art" as those forms of the dance which are expressive, which conform to aesthetic principles, and

Mr. Dudley preached.

Death Claims Thomas Hoy

Thomas Hoy passed away Saturday evening, May 7, 1938 at the county Infirmary where he has made his home for the past three years.

Mr. Hoy was born in Stratford, Canada, Sept 22, 1870, the eldest son of Thomas Hoy and Jennie Hart, deceased. Tom, as he was better known, came from Canada with his parents at the age of 12 years, and spent his early manhood in and around this vicinity, later on going across the straits following up the lumber industry.

Surviving are the following brothers and sisters: Ralph Hoy of Owendale, Mich.; Charles of Detroit; Mrs. Victor LaCroix and Mrs. Ray Kinmer of East Jordan; and Mrs. Jack Grylls of Detroit.

Funeral services were held at the Watson Funeral Home Tuesday afternoon, May 10, conducted by Rev. James Leitch. Interment at Sunset Hill.

Mrs. George Mayhew Passed Away Apr. 27th

Mrs. George Mayhew passed away at her home in Jordan Township, Wednesday, Apr. 27th, after several weeks of illness.

Mary Jaquay came to East Jordan with her parents in 1870. She married to Geo. Mayhew on Nov. 27th, 1888. To this union were born ten children. She is survived by her husband and seven of the children; Harold of Detroit, Mrs. Walter Fineout of Boyne City, Gilbert of East Jordan, Mrs. Arthur Snyder of Traverse City, Erwin of Pontiac, Oral of Boyne City, and Mrs. Walter Helleman of East Jordan. Also by twenty-six grand children and two great grand children. Three brothers also survive: Geo. Jaquays of East Jordan, Walter Jaquays of Pellston and William Jaquays of Detroit.

Funeral services were held Saturday, April 30, at the Methodist church, conducted by Rev. J. C. Mathews. Interment was at Sunset Hill.

Mrs. James Steenburg Passed Away At Detroit

Mrs. James Steenburg passed away at the home of her son, William, at Detroit, Friday, April 29th 1938.

Mary Byrne was born in Toronto, Canada; April 16 1854. She came to Michigan with her parents at the age of 13 and settled in Big Rapids, where she was later united in marriage to James Steenburg. To this union were born four children. Mr. and Mrs. Steenburg resided in Big Rapids thirty-one years and moved to Charlevoix County where they lived for ten years. They then came to Detroit where they took up their residence with their son William at 1885 Fullerton Avenue. Mr. Steenburg passed away 8 1/2 years ago.

She leaves to mourn her loss one son, William and three grand-children in Detroit, also a brother, Martin Byrne of Big Rapids, and relatives in Grand Rapids. She was held in high esteem by her many friends who will miss her.

Funeral services were held Monday, May 2, 1938, at 9:00 o'clock from Visitation Church in Detroit, the Rev. Craven conducting the service. The remains were taken to Big Rapids where it was laid to rest by her husband in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Ransley Isral Wells Dies At Caro, Mich.

He is also survived by eight grandchildren and seven great grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at the Huston Funeral Home in Caro. Burial in Caro cemetery.

4-H CLUB ACHIEVEMENT DAY ATTENDED BY 800 FARM FOLKS

Last Tuesday, April 26th, the largest attendance ever to enjoy the 4-H Club Achievement Day were present and commented favorably on the most wonderful display exhibited by 4-H club members throughout the county. The program started shortly after ten o'clock with free moving pictures at the Palace Theatre in Charlevoix. A special program was secured for the occasion and, judging from the enjoyment of the audience, it certainly was the most pleasing event of the entire day.

From 12:30 until 1:30 it seemed that a never ending stream of humanity made its appearance in the dining room of the high school to receive chocolate milk and ice cream cones. The ice cream treat was a surprise being contributed by the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club to show their appreciation of the wonderful program being accomplished by over four hundred club members.

The afternoon session was featured by the style revue in which nearly one hundred girls made their appearance on the stage wearing the dresses they had completed as their club project. They made a most pleasing appearance in their new dresses which indicated the high quality of workmanship. It just didn't seem possible that these young girls, many only ten and eleven years of age, could possibly have done such fine work.

Another feature was a short concert by the Charlevoix High School Band under the direction of Max Smith. Their numbers show rare perfection from such a youthful organization. The address of welcome was given by Oscar P. North, Superintendent of schools, with the response very capably given by Miss Jean Black of the Marion Center school. An exceedingly fine musical number was given by Elizabeth Penfold and Frances Malpass of the East Jordan club, followed by tap dancing by Marilyn Davis and Jean Dennis, also from East Jordan.

William C. Palmer, Commissioner of schools, extended his greetings to the 4-H club members and added his well chosen words of encouragement and inspiration. Probably the big feature of the day anxiously awaited by hundreds of young folks, was the awarding of pins and medals and the announcement of the county honor roll by Miss Olga Bird, Assistant State Club Leader, Mr. Kenneth Ousterhout, Bellaire, who judged the handicraft articles and Mr. O. F. Walker, District Club Leader, who awarded pins to the leaders who were so greatly responsible for the success of the program.

The county honor roll is a means of recognizing the most excellent club work being accomplished by the club members. From this list of county honor members some twelve to fifteen delegates will be selected to attend the northern Michigan Club Camp at Gaylord during August of this year. Also gold seals were placed on the certificates of achievement of those who were selected as outstanding members of their own group.

In the hot lunch project there were seven schools that were placed on the county honor roll in recognition of the very attractive posters developed and type of work carried on. Two posters, from Walloon Lake and Horton Bay, were selected to represent this county at the Michigan State Fair. Also Marion Center received special recognition as having accomplished the most outstanding program among the hot lunch groups.

In the clothing project there were 119 girls enrolled with 113 finishing. In the wood identification contest, which was open to all club members in handicraft club work two boys, John R. Clark, Tainter School and Lavern Link, Hopyard School, received the highest score and can represent this county in this contest at the club camp.

This year for the first time an electrical project was developed at East Jordan under the leadership of Lester Walcutt. These boys had a wonderful display of electrical connections placed on plywood. In this activity the exhibit shown by Glen Trojanek received the highest recognition and the name was added to our list of county honor roll members.

It is very worthwhile to note that in the winter project just completed there were four major types of activities which were clothing, handicraft, hot lunch and electricity. The county summary shows that there were 249 girls and 231 boys who had projects and of this number 238 girls and 225 boys finished. Thus out of 480 beginners 463 projects were completed for a percentage of 96 1/2 finishers which is the largest winter program ever completed in the county.

B. C. Mellenkamp
County Agr'l Agent.

COLLEGE NAMES CARNIVAL QUEEN

Beauty, personality, scholarship and campus activities resulted in the selection of these three coeds at Michigan State College as the queen and two attendants for the second annual all-Ag carnival and open house Friday, May 20, at East Lansing. The queen, center, is Ruth Starke, Arcadia. Her two attendants are Judith Corrigan, left, Grand Rapids, and Gertrude Sidebotham, East Jordan.

Hitler and Il Duce Meet

ITALY will not interfere with Nazi Germany's plans to help the Sudeten Germans in Czechoslovakia and perhaps to annex the territory they inhabit. In return, Germany will do nothing to check Italy's plans in the Mediterranean, especially in northern Africa.

But Italy is averse to forming a military alliance with Germany and will not permit itself to become involved in a decision of war or peace over the Czechoslovakian question, and is rather in favor of the British plan for a four-power agreement among Britain, Italy, Germany and France for European peace.

That is briefly what is believed at this writing to have developed in the first momentous conference between Hitler and Mussolini in Rome. No official statement was given out immediately.

Hitler, according to reports, opened up with a long statement concerning British rearmament, seeking to wean Mussolini away from his tie-up with England. And he asked Italy's support in his demands for return of Germany's lost colonies.

Il Duce, it was said, told the Fuehrer that German help in defeating loyalist Spain was vital, but Hitler was noncommittal on this point.

Hitler was given a wonderful reception in Rome. He was lodged in the Quirinal palace, being officially the guest of King Victor Emmanuel. The city was lavishly decorated and elaborate demonstrations and reviews were staged to impress him with the power and discipline of Fascist Italy.

After several preliminary conferences in which Foreign Ministers Von Ribbentrop and Ciano participated, Hitler went to Naples and witnessed a naval review that was a startling revelation of Italy's sea power.

One Italian who didn't cheer the Nazi chieftain was Pope Pius. In an address at his summer home, Castel Gandolfo, to which he had conveniently retired, he deplored as a "sad thing" the raising of the Nazi swastika in Rome on Holy Cross day, the day of Hitler's arrival.

Labor Act Denounced

WILLIAM S. KNUDSEN, president of General Motors, speaking before the United States Chamber of Commerce, declared the Wagner labor relations act is the "largest drawback to good industrial relations."

Discussing the strikes that have tied up his company's plants at various times in recent months, Knudsen said in a prepared address:

"The national labor relations board set up to administer the act makes no pretense even of paying any attention to the employer's side of the case."

"He can only be heard when he is summoned, and he knows before he goes that there is no record of a single decision where he has had a ghost of a show. So what!"

The Chamber of Commerce adopted a resolution strongly urging the repeal of the labor relations act, and asked that "management and labor work together without recourse to the federal government."

Other resolutions were substantially as follows: Demand for relief from present tax burdens, the fight transferring itself from the undistributed corporate profits tax and the capital gains tax to the broader field of an annual tax bill which has jumped 30 per cent in the last two years to a total federal-state-local levy of $13,500,000,000 a year.

Urgent request for drastic revision or repeal of the national labor relations act.

Caution and warning on the renewed government spending program, apart from relief expenditures.

Insistence that White House sentiments favoring private enterprise be put into practice through peace with the utilities, abstention from further innovations in government control, and encouragement of private industrial expansion.

George H. Davis of Kansas City was re-elected president of the organization, and John W. O'Leary of Chicago, chairman of the executive committee.

President Roosevelt, who was on a fishing trip on a cruiser in South Atlantic waters, was heard from only indirectly in addresses by Jesse Jones of RFC, Secretary of War Woodring and Chester C. Davis of the federal reserve board.

Ireland Elects Dr. Hyde

DR. DOUGLAS HYDE has been made the first president of Ireland—the former Irish Free State. He was invited to take the post by the two largest parties and, being unopposed, was declared elected by acclamation and at once inaugurated for a seven year term beginning June 1. Though chosen to be head of a predominantly Roman Catholic state, Hyde is a Protestant. He is seventy-eight years old and one of the leading champions of the use of Gaelic, the old Irish language. He is a retired university professor and has written a number of books.

The inauguration of the president was marked by the release of six prominent political prisoners, the only Republicans still held in jail.

Crop Control Revolt Grows

THROUGHOUT the Middle West the revolt against compulsory crop control was spreading rapidly under the leadership of the Corn Belt Liberty league. Plans for incorporation of the league in several states were being perfected and many branches were organized. Unfortunately for the corn growers, their representatives in congress seemed to be inactive.

In the South the cotton and tobacco growers were equally resentful of the control features of the farm act, and southern senators told the senate of the revolt among their constituents so forcibly that the senate adopted a series of amendments to the law designed to appease them. One provides that any cotton acreage allotment within a state not desired by the farmers receiving it may be apportioned among other farmers within that state. Another amendment would placate the growers of certain types of tobacco.

Big Navy Bill Passed

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S $1,157,000,000 naval expansion bill was passed by the senate by a vote of 56 to 28.

The measure empowers this government to surpass the rearmament programs of other nations with construction of the most powerful warships ever floated. However, it precludes the possibility of the United States precipitating a race of superwarships by limiting the size of future battleships to treaty specifications of 35,000 tons unless it is determined foreign powers are building in excess of treaty restrictions.

In the latter event, the United States will be authorized to construct super-dreadnaughts of 45,000 tons, armed with deadly 18-inch guns.

Primary Results

RETURNS from four statewide primaries were hailed by Democratic leaders as national party endorsement of President Roosevelt's program; but Republicans rejoiced over an apparent 30,000 G. O. P. plurality in South Dakota.

The Florida victory of Senator Claude Pepper, New Dealer, in a three-cornered race, on top of New Deal victories in Alabama and Indiana, drew this statement from Democratic National Chairman James A. Farley:

"These primary elections show definitely that, in spite of the screaming propaganda by the successors to the Liberty League and the spokesmen of the Liberty league policies, there exists no falling off in President Roosevelt's prestige and that the nation approves the legislation the President has advocated."

In Alabama the only significant occurrence was defeat of former Sen. Tom Heflin for the house in his old home district.

Senate Mileage Grab

WITH a mighty chorus of "ayes" but no tell-tale record vote, the United States senate put over a $222,000 congressional mileage grab.

By another voice vote, the senate refused to restrict the payment of the mileage (20 cents a mile) to members who actually went to and from their homes between the special session ending December 21 and the regular session beginning January 3. Senator Borah tried in vain to prevent the grab, which he denounced as a disgrace.

Franco Restores Jesuits

GENERALISSIMO FRANCO'S Spanish rebel cabinet ordered re-establishment of the Society of Jesus in the territory controlled by the insurgents. This act set aside a government edict which more than six years ago dissolved the Spanish Jesuits and confiscated their property, estimated at more than $30,000,000.

Franc Is Devalued

THE French government announced that the franc was devalued and stabilized at 38.80 francs to the dollar and 179 to the pound. Officially the act was called "de facto stabilization." This was believed to mean the franc would be allowed to fluctuate above this level but would be held by the equalization fund from falling below it in conformity with Premier Edouard Daladier's pledge to the nation.

Railroads Vote Pay Cut

FIFTEEN per cent reduction in wages of 925,000 union workers, effective July 1, was voted by the Association of American Railroads at a session attended by the executives of more than a hundred railway companies. They declared the two most important reasons for this action were loss of revenue and increases in operating costs.

George Harrison, chairman of the Association of Railway Labor Executives, said: "We don't propose to submit to wage reductions. The action of the roads is ill-advised and unfortunate and will have a tendency to obstruct the President's recovery program."

D. B. Robertson, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, declared: "There will be no wage reduction agreed to by railroad employees."

Manufacturers' Program

THE National Association of Manufacturers, meeting in New York, declared that federal pump priming to stimulate business would be futile "unless it is accompanied by governmental policies that will permit business to accept the priming and go forward."

The association's board proposed a seven point program for revival of business activity. It included:

"Declaration by the federal government that it will not proceed in competition with private utilities.

"Revision of the Wagner act so as to make it a workable instrument for curtailing labor disputes.

"Prompt solution of the underlying railroad problem.

"Avoidance of new federal reform legislation that will result in a fresh period of uncertainty at a time when the nation should be concentrating upon making jobs."

Timber Company in Court

CIRCUIT JUDGE FEINBERG of Chicago issued an injunction tying up five bank accounts said to contain more than half a million dollars in funds of the Resources Corporation International, which is under investigation by the federal securities and exchange commission.

The injunction was issued on the petition of Magnus C. Brinkman and his wife, Anna, of Sheboygan, Wis., stockholders in the corporation. At the same time Judge Feinberg ordered a hearing on appointment of a receiver for the company, which was organized in 1931 to sell timber cutting contracts on 2,000,000 acres of Mexican lands. The suit, filed by Attorneys William A. Rogan and William C. Burns, names 21 individuals and five subsidiary corporations.

The Brinkmans, who own $2,000 in stock of the corporation, charge that its chairman, Harper S. Hoover, through fraud, has got more than $2,000,000 belonging to the company and has converted it to his own purposes.

My Friend Joseph

By Lillian Oakley
© McClure Newspaper Syndicate, WNU Service.

THOUGH a strong wind was blowing, driving sheets of rain across my front yard, I wasn't surprised to see Joseph, my little seven-year-old neighbor, making his way up the front walk. Yesterday was my birthday and he was here when the postman brought me a five-pound box of candy, and Joseph has a weakness for good chocolates.

He comes puffing in and while he sheds his waterproof coat he looks around for the candy. But all the candy spots are vacant. My bonbon resistance is below normal on bad days and I have put all the sweets away and resolved not to bring them out for a week. But now from past experience I know that without once asking me for any candy Joseph will soon have me bringing out my five-pound box and urging him to take all he wants. He has an indirect method all his own that never conflicts with any of the rules of etiquette and always gets him what he wants.

He pulls a low stool in front of mine, looks up at me and says, "Guess who I'd be if I could be anybody I wanted to be?"

This is easy for he always wants to be Tarzan or Dizzy Dean. But I'm all wrong.

"Not today," he says with emphasis, "today I'd be 'Laddin An' His Lamp."

"And guess what's the first thing I'd tell that old genie to do after I rubbed my lamp?"

This isn't really meant to be a question so I simply sit still and look interested.

"I'd tell him to build my mother the finest house in town an' furnish it full of the finest furniture in town an' have a hot supper on the table ready for her when she got home from work. And I'd make him give me some money an' I'd go down town an' pay all of her bills an' put 'em on the table by her plate." He finishes exultantly.

Joseph has no father and the bills that have to be paid at the end of every month hang heavy over his head.

He clasps both little hands around one knee and rocks himself backwards and forwards on the stool and smiles over this happy surprise for his mother. Then he looks around at me as if afraid I am feeling neglected. "Then," he says with enthusiasm, "I'd rub my lamp an' when that old genie came I'd tell him to bring me a motorcycle just like the road cops ride only littler, an' a police uniform an' a machine gun that could shoot forever an' a five-pound box of candy just like the one you got for your birthday yesterday. And," he adds with a smile that shows all of his dimples, "I'd bring you down about half of the candy."

The object of his visit has been attained. And he leaves with his pockets full of my birthday chocolates, the rain having let up somewhat.

"What Knows He of England Who Only England Knows?"

"Even after months in England my wife sometimes had to call upon the housemaid to translate some item in the laundry list, or to interpret between her and the grocery boy," declares Mr. Harry A. Frank, the irrepressible globe-trotter, in "Footloose in the British Isles." "In England a 'vest' is an undershirt, not a waistcoat. 'Suspenders' are garters, and 'braces' are suspenders. A child's underwaist is a 'bodice,' while rubber boots are 'Wellingtons.' The word 'sweater' still strikes many of the English as a trifle low-class and odoriferous; they call it a 'jersey,' 'jumper,' 'pullover,' or 'cardigan.'

"In the draper's shop (which means drygoods store) unbleached muslin is 'calico' and calico is 'cottonprint.' Cheese-cloth is 'butter muslin,' and instead of using cutting flannel for a

Some people look on the bright side of things so persistently that they wind up the proud possessors of a gold brick.

Big men get the best jobs, I'm told. Because the small men are so often overlooked?

Then there was the man who was so lazy he bought a Great Dane so he wouldn't have to stoop over to pet it.

Money doesn't grow on trees. Just the same, it's the smart birds that get it.

Name Is Poetry

It seemed curious that any place should be named "Llanfairpwllgwyngyglogogerychwyrndrobwlillandysiliogogoch." Yet a little Welsh village bears this 58-lettered name. It is a locality of charm and beauty. Llan is "church." Fair is "of Mary." Pwll Gwyngyll is "the pool of White hazels." Goger is "rather near," while Chwyrn Drobwl is "the swift whirlpool," and Tysilio gogoch is "of Tysilio of the red cave." Is it not therefore suggestive of romance and beauty enough to visit the village of the Church of St. Mary by the Pool of White hazels near the swift whirlpool of St. Tysilio's Church of the Red Cave?—Detroit News.

NEW YORK.—Georges Bonnet, France's new foreign minister, has been a vigorous advocate of a British-French-American alliance.

French May Join Four Power Pact
He is regarded as more in accord with the Chamberlain policies than his predecessors.

With the downfall of the Left government, the conclusion of an Anglo-Italian agreement and the appointment of M. Bonnet, interpreters of European politics see an advance toward a four-power pact, possibly five-power, with Poland in, and the further isolation and immobilization of Russia.

The abandonment of the French-Soviet treaty is expected to be an immediate issue in what is regarded as a sharply clarifying outline of dominant conservative policy in France and England.

M. Bonnet, shrewd, suave, dressy, is a somewhat rakish figure, with his hat usually on the back of his head, but a personage of power and dignity in the political forum. He is of the younger school of French politics, and, in that connection, one of the best J'ai Alai players in France.

At his country place at St. Georges de Didonne, he spends much time making incredible kangaroo leaps, playing pelota basque, as they call it there.

M. Bonnet Cuts Didos on Estate

But, in statesmanship, he is no rubber-heeled bounding basque. He is rather a wary and adroit fencer. When he was appointed ambassador to the United States in January, 1937, he brought with him a year's supply of truffles and pate de foies gras. He had to take most of it back, however, as, in July, he was recalled to save the franc in the Chautemps cabinet.

He was supposed to have saved it, but, as usual, it didn't stay saved, and, in the turn of the Ferris wheel, which is French politics, he was down under and up again.

He is an economist, but also a philosopher and author, in the chamber of deputies from southwest France at the age of thirty-six and a former minister of budget, pensions and finance. He budgets a few wisps of hair carefully across his bald pate and surveys the world warily through gold-rimmed spectacles.

JAPAN'S strongly authoritarian government, with its feudal carry-over, has never fitted exactly into any of the molds of ultra-modern absolutism.

Spotlight Now on Jap Strong Man
The intensifying issue of fascism may force out the present government spotlights several likely-looking "strong men" as possible successors to Premier Konoye.

The only one with apparently clearly formulated ideas, and a fluent line of totalitarian talk is War Minister General Hajimi Sugiyama.

After several years of European post-graduate studies in direct action, he returned to talk of "national renovation," "decadent parliamentarism," "unity and discipline," and the like. More than any other leader, he employs the standard terminology of fascism—if that means anything.

On May 27, 1937, he gave the diet quite a lacing and said that it would have to behave, or "we will dissolve it." Since he was then a member of the ruling military triumvirate, this was no casual editorial "we."

Sugiyama Tells Diet to Behave
While he is fifty-eight years old, he hits big-time politics with a strong momentum, not a contender for high place until 1936, and hence not track-sore, like some of his rivals. He did not become a general until 1936, after the army revolt early in that year. He had been vice-minister of war and head of the military air force.

His heavily underslung face, resting, neckless, on a heavy torso, is asymmetrical, with one eyebrow always cocked, one side watchful and the set of a Benda mask of a dictator. He is of the army caste, graduated from the national military college. He represented Japan at the 1926 disarmament conference at Geneva, remaining in Europe for several years thereafter.

Washington Digest

National Topics Interpreted by William Bruckart
National Press Building Washington, D. C.

Washington.—In the midst of all the politics and planning in the national capital, there has lately come to the surface one of the deepest and most bitter rows that has developed incident to the administration of Franklin D. Roosevelt. It is the controversy, long smoldering, between the President and the newspapers of the country. It is out in the open now, and the struggle is a desperate one.

To go back a few years, it will be remembered how Mr. Roosevelt was described as having a very friendly press when he entered the White House. He continued to maintain the most pleasant relations between his office and the newspapers of the country, and especially with the Washington correspondents, until doubt began to develop in the minds of some editors as to the soundness of New Deal policies in 1935. The number of opposition editors increased and in 1936 it was generally said that the President had only about one half of the newspapers supporting him. But even then, Mr. Roosevelt continued to have exceedingly cordial relations with the corps of correspondents who report on national affairs under a Washington date line.

The Washington correspondents and columnists who found little or no fault with the New Deal began to dwindle in numbers eventually. Now, as a guess, I would say that probably only about one-fourth of the five or six hundred writers believe heart-and-soul with New Deal policies. This does not mean that those who observe weaknesses or vulnerable points in the New Deal do not write their commendation when they believe it is due. The difference is that they are no longer completely "sold" on New Deal statements or propaganda without digging further into every situation. As a result, obviously, attention is directed daily to those weaknesses, as well as the strong points, of the New Deal; the news is no longer all ballyhoo for the New Deal.

Another result is that White House press conferences no longer are the jovial, carefree meetings filled with laughter, good-natured jibes and exchanges, friendly shots back and forth between the President and the correspondents. On a number of occasions, quite the contrary has been true. The President has spoken some very harsh words now and then about news dispatches from Washington by certain writers. He has not minced words when some Republican writer, like Mark Sullivan of the New York Herald Tribune syndicate, for instance, wrote his observations of a critical nature. Altogether, I believe it can be said that the newspaper criticism at times has got under the President's skin and has made him quite irascible and squeamish. I do not mean to say that this condition obtains every time the President meets with the press, but it has happened with greater and greater frequency of late that Mr. Roosevelt has found fault with what the correspondents were writing.

Such things, generally, are not written. Newspaper men usually do not inject themselves into rows, nor do they consider that they are more than the eyes and ears for their readers. That is to say, they consider their work impersonal and for the reason that it is impersonal seldom take the public into their confidences on matters that seem to them to be purely personal in nature.

In the last two weeks, however, the differences between the President and his advisors, on the one hand, and the editors throughout the country and their Washington correspondents, on the other hand, at last have been brought into the open. That is, and I believe this is a fair statement, Mr. Roosevelt has brought the row into the open.

The match seems to have been touched to the dynamite by Mr. Roosevelt at a recent "off the record" session which he held with the members of the Managing Editors' society. The society meets annually in Washington and always during their stay, they are invited to a White House meeting. In the past, such meetings have promoted a better understanding between the editors and the administration, but the last session appears to have done exactly the opposite.

It is not permissible to disclose what goes on in those meetings and, not having been present, I cannot vouch for details of the recent meeting. I know, however, that heretofore the editors came away always feeling that benefits of the meeting had been important. At the last meeting, according to common understanding around Washington, the discussion was heated. The President's remarks to the editors must have been vicious. In any event, there were few of the editors came away in a good humor. Indeed, at a breakfast of the society the next morning, one managing editor challenged his colleagues with the question: "Are we mice or are we men?"

Again asserting my inability to vouch for all of the statements that have deluged Washington since the meeting, I know that many of the editors were "red headed" or "hot under the collar" or whatever your favorite expression may be. And well they may have been if it is true that the President told them they had no genuine knowledge of public sentiment in their several communities, nor did they have any real influence. But the crowning shot, according to report, was a pointed inference that the President better understood what the country needed than the editors.

Immediately thereafter the American Newspaper Publishers association, at its New York meeting, had before it a report calling for the elimination of politics and politicians from control of the radio or the press. The report cited Mr. Roosevelt's frequent use of the air-planes for his "fireside chats," and it added:

"The inescapable task of the American press is to guard against any encroachment upon American democracy by the federal government with radio as the instrument of political power."

That incident, of course, was not ignored in Washington. While there was no word from the White House, the newspapers were the target for an intemperate speech by Sen. Sherman Minton of Indiana. Senator Minton has been a New Deal mouthpiece through the last year and only a few persons believed that he was speaking his own views. Most observers thought he was doing a "Charley McCarthy" for those in the New Deal who needed a ventriloquist and a forum then and there to get their views printed.

Mr. Minton jumped all over the newspapers. None of them would print the New Deal side, he asserted; none would be fair. They simply are awful things, these newspapers. The report of the newspaper publishers, mentioned above, was described by the senator as "an exhibition of unmitigated gall." Some newspapers were accused of "spewing out their propaganda" against the New Deal and he charged that the New Deal "simply can not get its side of the story printed."

The senator certainly got his side of the case printed for the metropolitan dailies reaching Washington gave him vast space—and also they subsequently gave him editorial attention. Senators on the floor listened to Senator Minton, too, but only Senator Norris of Nebraska and Schwellenbach of Washington took any notice. Senator Schwellenbach felt impelled to make a few well-chosen remarks about the way the press has treated the New Dealers, including himself.

And, I almost forgot about it! Senator Minton introduced a bill that would send an editor or reporter to jail if they printed any information which they knew to be incorrect. The guilty persons could be fined many thousands of dollars, too, under the Minton bill. I guess the reason I almost forgot about the Minton bill to punish editors was because nobody took it seriously, least of all the colleagues of Senator Minton in the senate. It will go into a committee pigeonhole and will never be heard of again.

Involvement of radio and its control by the federal government in the "freedom of speech" battle calls to mind that there has been much complaint lately concerning the federal communications commission. That agency has supreme authority over the radio stations of the country. They cannot operate without a license. The law which set up the commission gave authority to license stations for three years, but as a matter of practice the commission never has issued a license to any station for a period longer than six months. In consequence, every station owner and operator has to come into the commission twice a year and file an application for renewal of its right to operate.

The complaint is that the broadcasting industry is running on a six-months' basis, uncertain at all times about its future status. Twice a year, therefore, any station owner has to make a guess whether his investment is worth anything. One of the charges against this practice, a charge hurled by David Sarnoff, president of the Radio Corporation of America, was that the short-period licensing practice "leaves the door open for indirect and insidious censorship." The charge, of course, considers the possibilities of underhanded activity that always are available to an individual in public office.

C. Houston Goudiss Noted Food Authority

Describes the ACID- and ALKALINE-ASH FOODS and Explains Their Role in Maintaining the ACID-BASE BALANCE of the Body ★ ★ ★

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS
6 East 39th Street, New York City.

ACIDITY is the topic of the hour. On every side we hear people complaining that they have too much acid in their systems, that they suffer from acid stomach, acid headaches, acid mouth, acidosis. In fact, most adults fancy themselves victims of a great battle between acid and alkaline forces, with the acid having the better of it.

They confuse gastric acidity—which is entirely normal, for the healthy stomach is always strongly acid—with the potential acidity of foods which leave an acid residue following digestion. And many of them are convinced that they should take drastic steps to overcome the danger of acidosis.

The Vogue of Acidosis
There are fashions in disease, just as in dress, home furnishings and automobiles. Ten years ago, we heard much about the evils of auto-intoxication, and it was some time before people realized that they had been misled by the extreme claims of those who had some sort of remedy to sell. And now it is acidosis that is the most talked of complaint. Friends caution one another against this or that food, with the mistaken idea that it causes or aggravates an acid condition. Food faddists have frightened thousands by suggesting that acidosis is brought about by mixing various kinds of foods.

Health Endangered
Indeed, we have come to a point where the fear of a so-called acid condition is assuming proportions which indicate the possibility of real trouble unless the American people get the true facts and put aside these foolish delusions. Physiologists believe that fear and worry have a detrimental effect on digestion, and, in turn, on the general health. Thus eating meals in constant fear of acidity may upset the digestion and bring about the very symptoms that you are trying to avoid. One well-known authority contends that perhaps 90 per cent of digestive distress, attributed to the kind or combinations of food eaten, is actually due to unfavorable mental or emotional states, and other causes such as over-eating, even when fatigued, or consuming at one meal too many foods that are difficult to digest. It, therefore, becomes apparent that thousands of people are contributing to their own discomfort as a result of fear, ignorance, or a blind belief in misleading claims which are opposed to scientific facts.

Acidosis Uncommon
The danger is not from acidosis, but from the fear of this bugbear, and from self medication in the belief that certain remedies are required to overcome a fancied condition. For in spite of the large amount of acid produced in metabolism, the blood normally remains remarkably constant and slightly alkaline, due to a highly efficient buffer system.

Perhaps you wonder, if this is so, why doctors and dietitians talk so much about the acid-base balance.

The Acid-Base Balance
To understand this phrase, you must know that every food leaves an ash when burned in the body, just as ashes remain when coal or wood is burned in a furnace. In the body, the ash consists of valuable minerals which are required in large amounts to maintain optimal health. Some foods, such as meat, fish, eggs and cereals, leave an acid ash because the predominating minerals are phosphorus, chlorine and sulphur. Other foods, chiefly milk and most fruits and vegetables, leave an alkaline ash because the remaining minerals are principally calcium, magnesium, potassium and sodium. These are the base-forming foods.

Besides the alkaline ash and acid ash foods, there is a group of foods, including sugar, cornstarch and purified fats, which are so highly refined that no minerals remain after they are burned; and some other foods, such as butter and cream, leave a balance of the two types of ash. These are known as neutral foods.

Cannot Trust Your Tongue
The sense of taste cannot be relied upon as a guide in determining which foods are acid and which alkaline. For example, cereals, which are bland to the taste, have an acid reaction following digestion. Bread, likewise, is acid forming, although you would not suspect that fact from its taste. On the other hand, potatoes, though somewhat similar to bread in flavor and food value, are one of our most valuable alkaline foods, and dried lima beans are the most highly alkaline of any food known.

If it seems curious that such bland foods should have an acid ash, you may find it even harder to believe that oranges, lemons, grapefruit, peaches and tomatoes, which taste acid in the mouth, leave an alkaline ash following digestion. But the fact is that the body performs a clever bit of chemical engineering and the final effect on the blood is alkaline.

Homemaker's Responsibility
A balanced diet must include sufficient base-forming foods to neutralize and counter-balance the effects of the acids formed in metabolism. That is one reason why it is so important for the homemaker to provide her family with plenty of milk, fruits and vegetables, in addition to the necessary meat, fish, eggs and cereals. In general, one is likely to feel better when base-forming foods

Showing Which Foods Are Acid and Which Alkaline
ONE of the principles in planning a balanced diet is to include at least enough alkaline, or base-forming foods, to balance the acid-forming foods. To help you distinguish the foods that belong in each group, C. Houston Goudiss offers to send a free chart listing the principal acid-ash and alkaline-ash foods. Address C. Houston Goudiss, 6 East 39th St., New York City.

Milton, Scott, Defoe, Bach Late-Flowering Geniuses

Sir Walter Scott was forty-three before he began to attract attention by his writings. Bach did not compose until he was past forty. Milton was sixty when he began to compose "Paradise Lost." Daniel Defoe was fifty-eight when he produced "Robinson Crusoe." Chaucer's "Canterbury Tales" were the product of his old age.

Have You a Question? Ask C. Houston Goudiss

C. Houston Goudiss has put at the disposal of readers of this newspaper all the facilities of his famous Experimental Kitchen Laboratory in New York City. He will gladly answer questions concerning foods, diet, nutrition, and their relation to health. You are also invited to consult him in matters of personal hygiene. It's not necessary to write a letter unless you desire, for post-card inquiries will receive the same careful attention. Address him at 6 East 39th Street, New York City.

predominate, at least slightly, in the diet over acid-forming foods. Some authorities believe that this may be due not so much to their effect on the acid-base balance as to the fact that they provide such splendid amounts of vitamins, minerals and fiber.

However, one must not make the mistake of becoming so enthusiastic over building a highly alkaline diet that one overlooks good foods necessary to round out a balanced diet.

To those homemakers who take seriously the important job of feeding a family, and wish to be correctly informed, I shall gladly send a chart showing which foods are alkaline and which acid. It can be used as a helpful guide in planning a balanced diet.

Send for this chart and increase your food knowledge. In the meantime, don't under any circumstances allow misguided individuals to frighten you into joining the vast army of acid-minded people who are so concerned over the possibilities of acidosis that they haven't time to enjoy life.

Questions Answered

Mrs. R. McK.—Generally speaking, the ideal weight for men and women over thirty is their normal weight at the age of thirty. From that time on, the scales should be watched, and the food intake reduced as soon as a gain is noticed. When maturity is reached, food is no longer required to support growth, and unless muscular activity is maintained at a high level, the total energy requirement will gradually decline.

Miss M. V.—Indeed I am not against the eating of fried foods, except in abnormal conditions where, for some reason, the fat intake must be restricted. The moderate use of fried foods, which have been properly cooked, makes the diet palatable and interesting.

Mrs. S. T. R.—No, egg whites most certainly are not toxic, except to people who have an allergy toward this food. For all normal individuals, they offer an excellent source of protein.

GARDEN GOSSIP
EDITED BY CAROLINE HARRINGTON
Letters and questions on garden topics will be welcome. They will be published and discussed in this column.

Dear Mrs. Harrington:
The Garden Club is sponsoring a painting campaign this spring, and it hopes to receive the cooperation of the business men of the town.

The A & P store has its annual new coat of shining red paint. The Healey showroom and gas-station are also being renovated.

We hope the good work will continue until the downtown and residential sections look like new.

Most of the yards on Main Street and many on the side streets have been raked and the shrubbery pruned.

Don't you think a great deal can be accomplished if the townspeople will endeavor to make this campaign a success?

Civic Committee of Garden Club Chairman.

I indeed I do think that with everyone helping a great deal can be accomplished! And so many ARE helping! So much has already been done, such important improvements are planned, not only by the business men but by all who call East Jordan "home" and are proud of it. The Mayor's proclamation of a Clean-up Week did away with the last possible excuse for unsightly rubbish heaps left over from the winter. Lawns, sleek and well groomed, trees in fresh leaves, tulips "brightening the corners where they are"—all seem to be in the conspiracy which will restore to East Jordan her natural charm and beauty. It will also help the campaign if all Garden Club members will cooperate with the Civic committee by reporting to Garden Gossip the improvements they see.

Dear Mrs. Harrington:
I had supposed that grape-hyacinths were always dark blue until I saw some white ones growing in Mrs. Shedina's border garden. It set me to wondering if there are also pink and yellow ones like real hyacinths.

So many improvements are being made in East Jordan this spring, and now out steps the Charles Dennis house in dress parade with something new in house paint—aluminum, which, Charles says, there is nothing quite like for filling up cracks, crevices, worm holes, etc., that need filling up on old houses. Even one house all perked up with paint gives any street that face lifted appearance!

Mrs. Davis Shepard (a few of her memories of pioneer days appeared in Garden Gossip a few weeks ago) can tell us new things about old flowers. Several of us had been trying so hard to grow lavender plants envied anyone who had one. Seeds would not grow for us, and then Mrs. Shepard told us that small slips root almost as easily as Wandering Jew if taken indoors and given slight attention. She also has a pot full of small plants grown from seeds taken last fall from her one hardy bush. So perhaps in another year each member of our Garden Club can have a "lavender" if not the "old lace" associated with it.

Oh, and by the way, what has become of the geranium with the white-edged leaf? I have not seen one for a long time.

the fourth and sixth frames. The locals also had a very bad day, field making 8 fielding miscues.

St. Arno worked on the mound for the Jordanites turning in credible work whiffing 11 men in the seven innings he twirled. Holley did the backstopping. Gallagher and Smith formed the winning battery. Smith with three hits in four trips to the plate was the leading hitter of the afternoon.

Umpires — Todd of Charlevoix and G. Saxton of East Jordan.

remember seeing a geranium with a white-edged leaf for a long, long time. I would like to, so here and now I am paging this old time friend. I would like a few slips of one for my plant boxes which I must be starting soon.

I know Mrs. Shepard's lavender bush, even her promise of a slip from it. Am already counting the sweet lavender sachets I shall make this fall from my bush! Or is this fall too soon? I must ask Mrs. Shepard.

One coat of paint never stops with one coat of paint. It always shines like "a good deed in a naughty world" and usually starts a long line of improvements. Its "sphere of influence" is sure to be wide.

Grape-hyacinths in colors other than blue or white are not in the half dozen or so catalogs I have here. But I did find a lovely name for the white ones—they are called "Pearls of Spain."

Thank you for your good letter, Betzy B. Please come again soon.

Dear Mrs. Harrington:
Your note about wood ashes for delphiniums amused me because I once treated mine the same way. I was also told never to use fertilizer on them. A delphinium grower has since told me they need much fertilizing, and do not especially need wood ashes. By the way this same expert suggested spraying with Bordeaux very early in the spring before the leaves are showing.

I should like to know the name of the church whose members are doing such a fine job of the old house they have built over at the corner of Williams and Third Streets. We should appreciate such a fine spirit.

Iva Garden.

We live and learn, Iva! But it wasn't wood ashes. No, indeed. My magic ring was of coal ashes, — cinders, if you please. Wood ashes were distinctly barred. I was under the impression that so much as one teaspoonful of wood ashes would be fatal — to the delphiniums, of course.

Some one in whom I have a great deal of confidence has lately suggested that as soon as delphiniums show their heads above ground they should be dusted with common sulphur. He said a piece of cheese cloth, or an old silk stocking, or a salt bag, — any porous container, — would make a good sifter. Sulphur prevents mildew, is good for other plants, too.

The little white church — its name 'The Seventh-day Adventist Church' — grew out of much hard physical work as well as a fine spirit! The dismantling of the old house, its remodeling, the painting and repairing, the grading, the interior decorating, even the cleaning of its windows, — all represent loving service and a steady purpose in the face of many difficulties. We wish to congratulate the pastor, Rev. Leonard C. Lee, and the church members on their accomplishment.

Dear Mrs. Harrington:
We have a number of Easter lilies and an azalea which we would like to keep if we can. Do you know if it is possible to do so?

W. H. Sloan.

Most Easter lilies are of a hardy variety, and have been "forced" into bloom. This forcing so weakens the bulbs that florists consider them quite worthless for commercial purposes after they have once bloomed. However I have had excellent luck with forced tulip bulbs which I planted in my yard after they had dried off in the pots. Usually they multiplied and bloomed quite freely the next year, and though the flowers were not so large as on the florists' potted plants, they made a grand bright spot of color in my garden.

This year I am going to treat my Easter lily just as I would the tulip bulbs. I am going to let it dry off. Then I shall take it out of the pot and put it in a suitable spot in the garden (a well-drained sunny spot). "Even if it lives," said my not too hopeful florist friend, "it will not bloom next year, but it may bloom the second year."

And so, with the hope of that second blooming, I am going to give my Easter lily a chance for its life.

The azalea is a house plant. When it finishes blooming sink pot and soil in your garden. In the fall it will be ready to take into the house, and with ordinary care and a bit of plant food should blossom beautifully again.

(Edited by Mrs. E. Hayden)

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Crane arrived from Detroit to their summer home, Cedar Lodge, Monday, May 1. Mrs. Crane will stay all summer but Mr. Crane returned to Detroit, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harlow Sweet of Advance celebrated Mothers Day by taking dinner with their daughter, Mrs. Ray Loomis and family, at Gravel Hill, south side.

The David and Will Gaunt families of Three Bells Dist. and the Clarence Johnston family of Richardson Hill celebrated Mothers Day with dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Myers in Mountain Dist.

The Gaunt families had for callers Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Crowell and little daughter of Dave Staley Hill, and Miss Robins of Petoskey.

The Star Sunday School observed Mothers Day by presenting new Devotional Hymns, donated by Mr. Stone of Detroit and East Jordan. The oldest mother present, who happened to be Mrs. J. W. Hayden of Orchard Hill, received one as a personal gift, and to the mother who had the most children present, whether she was there or not, received one, and there was a tie; Mrs. A. Reich of Lone Ash farm had four children there and Mrs. F. K. Hayden of Pleasant View farm was there with four children. Each received a copy of which they are very proud. There were 34 in attendance.

Miss Alberta Tibbits and her landlady, Mrs. Ethel Herzog of Lansing, came up Friday evening to Cherry Hill and stayed until Sunday afternoon. They with D. D. Tibbits visited Mrs. Tibbits at the Charlevoix hospital and report her very ill.

LeRoy Nicoly of Sunny Slopes farm returned to school last Monday after an absence of three weeks tussling with the mumps and complications.

Miss Vera Staley and Master Buddy Staley of Stonek Ridge farm attended the Music Festival in Charlevoix, Saturday.

Lloyd Jones and Buddy Staley of Stoney Ridge farm caught a fine mess of perch at the Ferry, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Will MacGregor of Boyne City moved out to Whiting Park the first of the week and will have the filling station and stand in operation very soon. Mrs. MacGregor was on duty as caretaker all the week.

Curtis Brace of near East Jordan visited his sister-in-law, Mrs. Louisa Brace at Gravel Hill, south side Tuesday.

Geo. Jarman of Gravel Hill, south side, received a letter from his son "Bob" Evert Jarman who has been in one hospital or another for more than two years and now in Ann Arbor saying he feels fine, and if he passed the final checkup he would be home early this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Winborn of Birmingham have spent the last week of April at their farm at Holy Hill and returned to Birmingham Wednesday.

Mrs. H. B. Russell and son Jack who spent last week at Orchard Hill spent Saturday night and Sunday with Mrs. Joe Perry in Boyne City and visited Mr. Russell at the hospital in Petoskey, Sunday. Mr. Russell seems real comfortable and to be improving, but will be there some time yet.

Mr. and Mrs. Orval Bennett and family of Honey Slope farm joined a dinner party at the home of Mrs. Bennett's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Papineau. Their other daughters, Mrs. Tracy LaCroix and family of Advance Dist. and Mrs. Geo. Fine and family of near Clarion were the rest of the party. Mr. and Mrs. Papineau had the thrill of attending the service of Dr. Kennedy at a church in Boyne City. Dr. Kennedy married them in Traverse City thirty-five years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lisher and family of Petoskey were dinner guests of the A. Reich family at Lone Ash farm and after dinner both the Lishers and Mr. and Mrs. Reich called on Mr. and Mrs. Rolland Beyer in Three Bells Dist.

Mr. and Mrs. Derby A. Hayden and four sons of Boyne Falls were dinner guests of Orchard Hill Mothers Day and called on the F. K. Hayden family at Pleasant Hill farm and attended the Star Sunday School.

Mr. Barney Reburg of Petoskey was dinner guest Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Healey and son Clayton at Willow Brook farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hayden of Hayden Cottage entertained Mr. and Mrs. Otto Novack and son Bert of Mancelona for dinner Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm Frank and son Charles of Far View farm called on Mr. F. K. Hayden of Pleasant View farm Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Loren Duffy of Mountain Dist. spent Sunday afternoon with the Ray Loomis family at Gravel Hill North Side.

George Staley of Stoney Ridge farm has 11 lambs from five ewes four pairs of twins and one set of triplets all doing fine and getting all their nourishment from the ewes. Can anyone report something better? The lambs are sired by Peter owned by C. A. Hayden of Orchard Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Nicoly and two sons motored around Lake Charlevoix Sunday afternoon and called on Mrs. D. D. Tibbits at the Charlevoix Hospital and on Mr. and Mrs. Vernard Hurd near Charlevoix and Mr. and Mrs. Vern Hurd near Horton Bay.

Mrs. Pat O'Brien of Southern Michigan called on Mrs. C. A. Crane at Cedar Lodge Friday enroute to the Soo to visit her son and family Mr. and Mrs. Will O'Brien.

Mr. and Mrs. Ting Warden and family and Miss Eva Crowell of Jackson motored up Saturday A. M. visited the ladies parents Mr. and Mrs. Fred Crowell at Dave Staley Hill until Monday morning.

Coffee Cups Defeat Oden Merchants

The newly organized Coffee Cup softball team blasted their way to a one-sided 26 to 5 victory over the Oden Merchants in their opening game of the Petoskey League, there last Thursday evening.

M. Cihak, L. H. and P. Sommerville worked for the winning battery. R. Engle, L. Ziegler, and K. Engle worked for the losers.

The Jordanites clinched the victory in the second inning as they pushed across 13 runs. L. Sommerville with 4 hits in 5 trips to the plate led the locals offensive barrage. M. Cihak, Kenney and L. Sommerville hit home runs. L. Ziegler with two hits in three times at bat led the losers offensive attack.

The locals play the Pott's Cleaners at Petoskey Thursday evening.

Have You a Favorite Cake Recipe?—Send It In It May Win Cash Prize

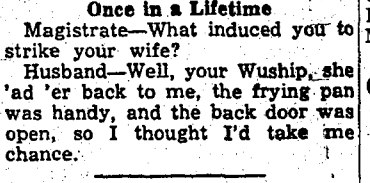

WHEN you decide to give your family a real treat and you bake one of those luscious, tempting chocolate cakes, or it may be a delectable marble cake or a delicious devil's food cake, made from your favorite recipe, and the folk all reach for a second, or perhaps a third, helping—now isn't that gratifying! How amply rewarded you feel by the remarks of appreciation going around the festive board such as "Oh, boy, what a cake!" from little Willie, said with a mouthful, to "I must have another piece if I burst!" from Dad.

But here!—you may have still further reward coming to you. The very recipe that the family makes so much over may be the one to take the first prize of $25, or one of the five second prizes of $10, or one of the ten third prizes of $5 in the Cake Recipe Contest. And why not?

C. Houston Goudiss, noted food authority, who for 30 years has exerted a wide influence on the food habits of this nation through his lectures and books, and who at present conducts the food department in this newspaper known as "What to Eat and Why," is conducting a cake recipe contest with cash prizes to be given to persons submitting the best recipes. Your recipe will be judged on the basis of its nutritional and wholesome value. It need not be a marvelous creation for the eye to behold. The judges of this contest may agree with your family that your favorite recipe IS THE BEST! For further particulars see the announcement elsewhere in this issue of this newspaper. There is nothing to buy. No letter to write. Just send in your favorite cake recipe. It may win a prize.

Once in a Lifetime Magistrate—What induced you to strike your wife? Husband—Well, your Wuship, she 'ad 'er back to me, the frying pan was handy, and the back door was open, so I thought I'd take me chance.

ABSENT-OR ABSENT-MINDED

Either One—You Lose

If you're away from home a prowler can easily loot the place of papers and valuables.

Also, if there's "nobody home" mentally—and it happens at times to all of us—you may not remember where you put important documents that are needed in a hurry.

But you're protected against yourself, and everybody, and almost everything else, when your valuables are in a safe deposit box. That is the best place for them, and the cheapest.

How much a few cents a month might save you! Why not act upon this suggestion?

CHAPTER VIII—Continued

"Ganded! How could you possibly offend a Lambert, Martha, after all you've done for us? But there's more to this business than you understand." The man's face darkened. He was recalling a hot June day—a blow that had left his jaw lame for a week. "There are things one can't forgive, or . . ."

He paused, not knowing just how to proceed; and the woman said, in the gentle way she had told him many truths in the years gone by: "Excuse me, Mr. Ned, but there's nothing we can't forgive—if we care enough. Run along up now. Run up and see your father."

"And when I got there," Ned told his wife later that evening, "Dad was sitting in the big wing-chair in Nora's bedroom. There was a fire on the hearth, and the place did look more—well, more cheerful, perhaps, than the rooms downstairs. He was reading a letter, but when he glanced up and saw me he stuffed it into a pocket, which made me wonder if it was from Leonora. I thought—honestly, Corinne, I sort of felt that he didn't like my finding him there. He got right up and said: 'Why didn't you telephone? If I'd known you were coming over I'd have been downstairs.'"

"Did you go down then?" "No. It was plain he wanted to; but I said: 'Sit still, Dad. I'm only going to stay a minute. Did you know that Nora sailed for Italy this afternoon?' You see, Corinne, I thought it was better to speak right out. I felt, after what Martha'd said, that it might do him good to talk, if he once got started."

"What'd he say?" "Nothing, for just a minute. I think my question took him a bit off guard. But you know Dad! He can always pull himself together. And after a minute he said quietly: 'Yes, I know.' That's all, Corinne. It made me feel almost uncomfortable—as if he'd said: 'It's none of your business, Ned. Get along home.' You know what I mean?"

"Oh, yes, I know!" Corinne's eyes narrowed unpleasantly. "He made me feel that way just after Nora left, when I was trying to tell him that he'd done exactly right. I'm fond of your father, Ned, but there are times when he irritates me to distraction."

A vision of the faithful Martha slinging teacups, caused Ned Lambert to smile a little. Then his wife asked: "Did you speak of Nora any more?"

"We did because I rather forced the subject—not because I was curious, you know, but I wanted to help him if I could. Dad's had such a lot of trouble through his family, Corinne. I've always—ever since I was old enough to think about it—wanted to feel that I, who've never gone against his wishes, had made it up to him. But tonight, sitting there in Nora's bedroom, it came over me that I was accountable for this last break that's hurt him more than anything since the trouble with my—my mother."

"You accountable!" Corinne closed the most talked of novel of the month, forgot its 50 unread pages, and gave him her entire attention. "Of all the absurd statements! What would your father have had you do when that fellow hit you? Turn the other cheek?"

"It was a jaw, dear," Ned reminded her in a feeble attempt at humor. He hated his wife to get "worked up."

"If that's supposed to be funny," she retorted, "I don't see the joke. Why, you were black and blue! If your father hadn't stood by you he'd have been a beast, Ned. Well, what else did you say?"

"Not much. I ventured the remark that I wondered how their trip was financed; and Father answered with that uncanny way he has of understanding something you haven't said: 'Well, I didn't finance it. If that's troubling you, that riled me a little, I'll admit, but I kept my temper. I felt so sorry for him, Corinne. I've never thought of my father as being an old man; but he looked old tonight, old and unhappy. I decided not to say anything further about Nora; and then with the best intention in the world, I put my foot in it!'"

Ned smiled, regretfully. "It was this way: As the atmosphere seemed a little strained I got up and began moving about the room. That's such a beautiful room, Corinne."

"Beautiful? That shows your ignorance of such things, Ned," Corinne spoke as one with authority. "I'll admit it has a sort of charm; but it's no special period, so in an artistic way it's not correct. Why, that wing-chair you spoke of is covered with flowered chintz—and there are silk hangings at the windows! Imagine making such an error. And the bed and bureau are early American, while the rug (which must have cost your father a small fortune, too) is Oriental. Besides, so many books are out of place in a bedroom. Any good decorator would tell you that. But Nora refused any advice, you know; and that room's just like her. Awfully pretty if you admire that sort of thing, but—well it's really a hodge-podge."

"A damn fine hodge-podge," retorted Ned. "And it was that early American bed that made the trouble. I've always thought it the handsomest bed I ever saw. I stopped beside it to admire one of the posts. I never expected to stir Dad up when I asked where it came from. He didn't answer right away, so I turned around and—honestly, Corinne, he looked as if someone had struck him. Then he pulled himself up and said: 'It came from a country auction down in Maine. It was a rainy day. Only one antique dealer to compete with and he didn't know his business. I got that bed for forty dollars.'"

"I said: 'You certainly got a bargain, and any time you want to get rid of it . . .'" "Well," prodded Corinne as her husband stopped.

"That, it seems, was my mistake. Father said, and his voice was exactly as cold as if I'd been some smart Aleck trying to get the better of him in a business deal,

"What do I care about a son."

"That, it seems, was my mistake. Father said, and his voice was exactly as cold as if I'd been some smart Aleck trying to get the better of him in a business deal,

"What do I care about a son."

"That bed is not mine to get rid of, as you unpleasantly put it. It belongs to my daughter." Just that, Corinne.

Ned's wife sat up so suddenly on the chaise longue that the great American novel dropped unheeded to the floor.

"He has no right to answer you like that, Ned. I hope you told him so."

"Oh, calm down, my dear. I didn't have to. I guess he saw by my face how awfully surprised I was, for he came over and put his arm across my shoulders—said I mustn't pay any attention to him—that he was upset about something. We didn't quarrel. Never have, you know. We sat down again and talked about nothing in particular—the stock market—the weather—anything in fact, except Nora! He promised to go to bed soon as I left."

But James Lambert didn't go to bed just then. He sat quite still in Nora's big wing-chair ("I want one big enough to curl all up in, Daddy!") until he heard the front door close and knew that he would not be interrupted. Then he drew from a pocket the letter he was reading when Ned came in. Not that he didn't know it pretty well by heart, having already perused it a dozen times, as he did all Nora's letters. His eyes lingered on the signature—those childish, black crosses below it. James knew instinctively that she had kissed them as she used to in the days of little-girlhood. The same Nora, and yet not the same . . . Never, never, he vowed with stubborn bitterness, would she be the same to him . . . Never again would he let her get near enough to hurt him . . .

And then, softly: "I wonder if she could possibly have seen me, there on the pier . . . I don't believe so . . . I kept well back until the very last, and there was such a crowd . . . But it was strange, too, the way she waved at the last moment . . . very strange . . . I could have sworn, even at that distance, that her face brightened . . ."

CHAPTER IX

It is a wise Providence that blinds our eyes to what lies ahead. Nora little thought as she stood on the deck of the Larino with Don's hand on hers, that she would be twice a mother before she saw her native land again—that she was to descend into the shadow of death herself—that she was to watch fine lines etched by the ruthless hand of Care gather about Don's happy, sea-blue eyes—that she was to fight for the life of a little boy-tossing with fever in far off Cape Town.

Her first son was born in England on a May night. The winter had gone well. As Carl Venable promised, Don's "Letters from Capri" were welcomed with enthusiasm by the London editor; and the same letters (supplemented by thumbnail sketches by the great Venable) found a ready market in America.

And living in Italy was inexpensive. Nora soon made a home of the tiny pink villa with its glimpse of sapphire waters and rocky hillsides, which Constance Venable had ready for their arrival.

"This is the most heavenly spot," (she wrote her father) "and I'm fast becoming a thrifty Italian housewife, or should be if I weren't compelled to stop my work every few minutes to drink in the beauties of this twin-humped camel of an island, kneeling so gently in the blue, blue waters of the Mediterranean. It's well worth the effort of climbing the million or so steps that lead to our front door (I can hear you say, 'Don't exaggerate, Nora. It's a bad habit!'), to gaze down on this wealth of flowers and foliage. Nature was in a lavish mood when she fashioned Capri. I wish you could see it, Dad. In fact, the only thing needed to make me supremely happy would be to look out some day and discover that my handsome father had overcome his prejudice against every country not flying the Stars and Stripes, and was climbing that rocky path, though he wouldn't have breath enough to kiss me when he reached the top."

"The Venables are only five minutes' walk (perhaps I should say climb) away; and if you could look upon the seascape Ven's painting now, you'd mortgage the house to possess it. Incidentally, they have a beautiful piano on which they seem to consider it an honor for me to practice; so my fingers won't grow stiff, as I had feared they might. There are four young Venables ranging from sixteen to six—such jolly youngsters! And their mother is every bit as good a mother to me as she is to them, though she can't be fifteen years my senior."

This was quite true. Nora had not counted on Constance Venable in vain. "You say it's to be in May?" the older woman questioned thoughtfully. And then: "We must take you to England. Not that bambinos don't arrive daily in Italy!" she smiled; "but my Phil was born in London and I had a most skillful doctor. The nurse was a wonder, too. I'll write at once and engage her for you, Nora. I'll arrange everything. You'll want a room in a nursing home; and I'll write the doctor. We were planning to sail for New York the first of May. I must tell Carl to put it off another month."

And no protest on the part of Leonora would make her change. "Of course I shall stay with you!" she said, almost indignantly. "Don't you know that our Alice wouldn't be here if it weren't for Don? He kept on working over her when everybody told him it was useless. Nothing you ever ask of us, Nora, will be too much."

What Don and Nora never knew was that half the expenses incurred by the arrival of this first son of theirs, were paid by Carl Venable, who would have paid them all had it been possible to do so without arousing Don's suspicions. All the young couple ever knew was that the bills were far, far less than they'd anticipated; for Nora was very sick indeed.

Don sometimes wished he could forget that nightmare time when the firm hand of an English doctor thrust him unceremoniously from the bare, white room which sheltered Nora.

"Get outside and sit down, my dear chap," he commanded briskly. "She won't suffer any more."

He had a very English accent, that doctor, which made Don wonder if the man were quite efficient! There was a bench in the corridor and he sank down on it, very weak as to knees; wondering how long this horrible business would go on; why the universe had to be populated in such a manner; and what for had they sent him out and let Connie Venable stay inside?

And after an interval which seemed hours, there came from beyond that door a cry like nothing he had ever heard before, but Don knew it instantly for the wail of his first-born. It was then that all the remaining strength went out of him, and he wiped the sweat from his forehead and said: "Thank God it's over!" But no one came from Nora's room except a nurse. She had a blanket-wrapped bundle in her arms, and was hurrying so fast she didn't see him; but when she returned a minute later without the bundle, Don caught her skirt, and though his question wouldn't seem to come, the girl appeared to understand and told him hastily: "It's a boy. A splendid little boy, but . . ."

And with that "but" he was left alone again. The door closed, though during the moment it had opened a strong and sickish scent of ether drifted out to him. It was Constance Venable who came next (after a lifetime, it seemed to Don, with that nurse's ominous "but" still ringing in his ears); and with one look into Connie's face his heart stopped beating. Literally. He told Nora afterwards that he died for a minute. And then Constance sat down and took his hand. She said: "You've a son, Don—a beautiful little boy—and he broke in harshly: 'What do I care about a son? What's happened to Nora?'"

Constance was still stroking his hand as he'd seen her stroke the hands of her children when she wished to calm them. She answered: "Nora will be all right, Don. I don't care what they say, she will be all right! There were—complications—something no one had foreseen. Just at the last we very nearly—lost her; but she will be all right."

Then, after another aeon, the door opened. It was the English doctor—the man with the accent. He threw one significant glance at Connie and laid his hand gently on Don's shoulder.

"She needs you, old man," he said—just that—but Don knew, and Constance knew, what he was thinking; and Connie still held Don's hand when he crossed the threshold of that quiet room.

He stood there looking down on Nora, a Nora as white as the bed on which she lay—as white as marble. Her eyes were closed. Don could not see her breathe. He wondered . . . And then the doctor spoke, softly: "I'd take her hand, my dear fellow, if I were you."

His voice, despite the accent which had sounded so la-de-da an hour before, was very kind. And because no one had thought to bring a chair, Don dropped to his knees beside the bed and took that white, strangely transparent hand into his own. He had forgotten the nurses, the doctors, and Constance Venable. He said (so Connie told him later), "Come back, Nora. I can't go on without you. Come back, dearest."

Procrustean Act Doubles Oil Supply; Research Is Credited for Big Increase

Most boys and girls have read in the old Greek myths about Procrustes, who welcomed travelers at his home in a lonely spot beside the road. Procrustes had only one bed, but he always made his wayfarers fit the bed. If they were too long, he chopped off their feet. If they were too short, he stretched them on a rack. Finally, he was slain by Theseus.

Saucer-eyed as are youngsters reading the exploits of Procrustes, even grown-ups blink in amazement at the achievements of chemists in the petroleum industry in stretching, shrinking and reshaping petroleum molecules. Nature has given this country a bountiful supply of crude oil, but some of the oil molecules are too large and some too small to fit the requirements for gasoline in modern high-compression motors.

Petroleum chemists have discovered effective methods to break down the fat molecules into smaller ones. Chemists also are able by other methods to rebuild molecules to a desired size and composition. What this juggling means to the average person is just this: if the petroleum chemists were unable to perform a Procrustean act, an additional 1,000,000,000 barrels of oil would have to be brought to the surface every year to meet the gasoline demand of the 25,000,000 motorists in the United States. Chemical research in the oil industry has had the practical effect, by reducing the amount of crude oil needed, of doubling the oil reserves of the United States. Without these chemical achievements of the petroleum scientists, the price of gasoline would be beyond the means of millions of families.

Yellow-Bellied Sea Snake
Though the yellow-bellied sea snake may not be ferocious-looking, it is nothing to get gay with, according to a writer in the Washington Post. A member of the dreaded cobra clan, it is among the most deadly of poisonous reptiles. In captivity it is particularly dangerous, becoming sullen and striking at everyone. It is the only poisonous sea snake found in the waters around America, although there are 49 other species just as deadly, elsewhere. As the name indicates, this slender snake is a brilliant yellow underneath, though its top side is black. It has no gills, must come to the surface to breathe. It is sometimes caught in fishing nets.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

By REV. HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, Dean of the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago, © Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for May 15

TESTING DISCIPLESHIP BY SERVICE

LESSON TEXT—Mark 10:17-31. GOLDEN TEXT—Come . . . and follow me.—Mark 10:21.

PRIMARY TOPIC—A Young Man Jesus Loved.

JUNIOR TOPIC—What a Rich Man Needed.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Proving Our Loyalty to Christ by Service.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Marks of Discipleship.

"The almighty dollar"—how triumphantly it rules in the affairs of nations and of the men who make up nations. The world's measure of success is how much one can "make," and "no questions asked," as to how one made it, if he but avoid the legal pitfalls that may land him in jail. Even that is no longer a disgrace, for men who have defrauded others serve a term in jail to "pay their debt to society," and then return without shame to enjoy the use of their ill-gotten gains. Skill in the arts and sciences is rated according to its financial value. Brains and beauty are commodities of the market place. Liquor is permitted to destroy our people because it provides a profit.

The minds of men and women of decency and intelligence revolt at the whole situation. Let us encourage them as we improve the opportunity today to present God's moral and spiritual standards.

I. Self Before God (vv. 17-22).
The rich young ruler had many advantages and virtues. He was young, life was before him, vivid was his imagination, strong was his body. He was educated, and developed intelligence is an honor to any man. He had position, which can always be used for good. He had money, which when rightly gained and used, is a powerful and honorable possession. Above all, he had the priceless jewel of good character. Notice that he had kept the commandments, that he came before the Lord in humility seeking truth, and that Jesus "loved him" (v. 21).

Almost any father would be proud to own this young man as a son. Many churches would welcome him to membership and even to leadership. Jesus dealt with him honestly, however, and went to the root of his difficulty which was that he loved himself and his possessions more than he loved God. Therefore he must give them up before he could really follow Jesus. Sad indeed was his refusal. He came running (v. 17), but he went away sorrowful (v. 22).

What stands between you and a full surrender to Christ? Face it honestly. Be thankful if your pastor or a friend frankly points it out. Shun those who would "pat you on the back" and assure you that all is well. A cancer will kill unless it is cut out. The surgeon's knife may hurt, but it is an instrument of good.

Note that the statement of Jesus in verse 18 is not a denial of His deity, but a definite claim that He is God. He says in effect, "If you call me good you must recognize that I am God."

II. God Before Self (vv. 21-27).
The disciples, who evidently shared the common opinion that money could do almost anything, were surprised to hear that riches were really a hindrance to spirituality, because (v. 24) of the tendency of men to trust in their wealth and forget their need of God.

Jesus does not leave the rich man without hope, for he goes on to say that what is impossible for men and even for the rich man himself is entirely possible with God.

Two things need emphasis in this connection. First, let those of us who have little of this world's goods be thankful that we have, at least, been delivered from this temptation. It may well be an expression of God's love and grace toward us. Second, let us thank God for every man of wealth who has given himself and what he has into God's hands.

III. The Last Before the First (vv. 28-31).
The ways of God are confusing and humbling to the flesh. The way up in spiritual things is to go down (Mark 9:35). Those who are first in the eyes of men are often last in God's sight. Others whom men count as least stand highest in God's sight because they are faithful and true to Him. The world looks at the missionary of the cross and says, "He has sacrificed everything," and knows nothing of the "hundredfold" reward even in this life, "and in the world to come; eternal life" (v. 30).

Man's Humble Origin
And the Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and the man became a living soul.—Gen. 2:7.

The Live Minister
The minister who gets out of touch with men will soon forget to speak their language.

What to Pray For
What should we pray for? Everything which we need.

Hail to Pilgrim Mothers

Bruce Barton, the nationally-known writer and advertising executive, tells of an incident that happened at a celebration in Boston in honor of the landing of the Pilgrim fathers. He says that after several laudatory speeches had been made by men, a woman got up and said: "I am tired of hearing so much praise of the Pilgrim fathers. I want to say a word about the Pilgrim mothers. They had to endure all that the Pilgrim fathers endured, and they had to endure the Pilgrim fathers besides."

MEN LOVE GIRLS WITH PEP

If you are peppy and full of fun, men will favor you to dance and picnic. BUT, if you are cross, listless and tired, men won't be interested. Men don't like "quiet" girls. For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure. Make a note NOW to get a bottle of world-famous Pinkham's Compound today WITH-OUT FAIL from your druggist—more than a million women have written in letters requesting benefit. Why not try LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND?

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Wastes. Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fall to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery. Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination. There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

A Run in Your Hose?

Picture Parade

Cheer up, Miss and Mrs. America! Science is working day and night to find why stockings wear out, and what to do about it. Staff members of the Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory, who test everything from hosiery to steel, know more about it than most women.

"Test walkers" recently worked for the laboratory. In the morning they were dispatched by A. R. Ellis, laboratory president. Each night their shoes were removed and the stockings examined. Experts washed each pair in its own private beaker every night, then examined them for the first sign of wear.

Some startling facts were discovered about the wearing qualities of various kinds of stockings. Housewives, clerks and stenographers get more runs in their hose than waitresses. But waitresses wear more holes in their stockings than stenographers. More hosiery failures appear first on the legs than in any other part of the stocking.

The "test walkers" came from every "walk" of life. They wore hundreds of pairs of hose, purchased in 50 different cities. Much interest was shown in wear by women in various occupations.

Stenos meet their Waterloo against rough edges of desks. And since their office work is light, they may dance at night.

Contrasted to the stenographer, the waitress is thoroughly tired when evening comes. She's more apt to flop wearily on the bed and leave dancing for Saturday night.

Officials of the laboratory claim that savings of 30 per cent are possible through development of improved products. This means, they say, that American women who now spend approximately $350,000,000 for hosiery every year might tuck $118,000,000 back in their purses by purchasing the right kind of stockings.

"SOAPY SMITH" CHANGES HIS MIND

A MORE notorious political racketeer never lived than "Soapy" Smith. For years he and his gangsters did just as they please up and down the west coast, and when "Soapy" decided to hit for the Yukon during the historically famous gold rush, he took most of his gang of ruffians, cut-throats and robbers with him. Almost overnight "Soapy" gained complete control of Skagway, and soon the town was wide open multiplied by ten.

Skagway's streets became battlefields where provoked and unprovoked gunfights occurred daily as some of "Soapy's" ruffians robbed and plundered outgoing, well-heeled goldrushers and incoming goldseekers alike. At night, raucous voices singing lewd and filthy songs were augmented by cries of "murder" from the street. Might was right in every sense of the word, meanwhile all sorts of gyp-artists, card sharps, confidence men, and shell-game crooks robbed and plundered right and left, keeping out of trouble, because "Soapy," the Big Boss, had arranged the police and judiciary to suit himself.

"Soapy" and his lieutenants planned and executed hundreds of robberies and swindling schemes, growing richer and more powerful the while. Then came news the Northwest Mounted Police were about to escort about $200,000 in notes and gold from Lake Bennett post, to Victoria, British Columbia, via the port at Skagway. Surely this was too juicy a plum for "Soapy" and his gang to miss. Moreover, up to this time, both "Soapy" and his henchmen had balked at any "job" that might make them step into Canadian territory. Even the reputedly daring "Soapy" entertained a healthy respect for the Men of the Mounted.

Here was a job they could pull right on American soil where, by rights, the Men of the Mounted had no business. And so "Soapy" and his brain-trust sat down and schemed, planned and arranged for every emergency. This was to be the job of the decade. "Soapy" organized an army of 100 well-armed men, engaged boats, and planted scouts here and there; the commissioner of the Yukon territory bade good-by, and good luck, to three Men of the Mounted, Inspector Wood and two constables. Their load consisted of their own personal kits, and the $200,000.

After many anxious miles during which the three Men of the Mounted followed the Skagway trail, and nodded the time o' day with furtive-eyed rascals who were evidently "Soapy's" scouts, Inspector Wood and his men arrived at Dyea where they immediately boarded a waiting rowboat and were soon rowing out across the bay. Halfway across several well-armed men in a rather large rowboat manned by half a dozen stout-muscled oarsmen, did their best to intimidate the Northwest Mounted and made several attempts to bring the two boats into a collision. Inspector Wood, handling the steering oar, warned the ruffians to keep their distance or he would fire upon them, and, thus arguing back and forth, the two boats finally crossed the bay without any shootings or drownings. Upon arrival at the wharf, however, Inspector Wood and his men received a rough and tumble reception from almost a hundred ruffians lined up and ready for the big robbery. As the Men of the Mounted stepped to the wharf carrying their $200,000 they were tripped and jostled and pushed about hither and yon as they tried to make their way toward a small steamer that lay alongside awaiting their coming. Kicked and pushed and tripped and otherwise held up and delayed, things began to look really serious. The great robbery was imminent. And then, just when it seemed that the Men of the Mounted were about to be smothered by the mob, the captain aboard the steamer tooted the vessel's horn, and instantly a score of armed members of the Royal naval reserve were over the side and down among "Soapy's" gang. In no time the Men of the Mounted and their $200,000 were snatched from the mob and were aboard the steamer.

"Soapy" Smith, surrounded by at least a score of his most trusted gunmen, had witnessed the whole show from the deck of a tug that was "treading water" nearby. Although he had seen his best plans go haywire, he was still smiling or sneering, when he opened up conversation with Inspector Wood.

"Like ter have yer stay 'round Skagway a day er two, 'Spector," said "Soapy," "it's a mighty nice town . . . y'kin have anything yer want . . . Name it . . . an' it's yores. How 'bout it? 'Spector?"

"Thank you, Mr. Smith," the inspector replied, coolly, "but I must be about my business. I'd advise you to keep off Canadian territory in the future, as you have done, so very well, in the past. Good afternoon, sir."

Afternoon Dresses for You and Your Daughter

THESE two patterns bring you outstanding fashions of the season, the woman's dress very slenderizing and flattering, the little girl's frock as saucy, bright and perky as a daffodil. Each pattern includes a detailed and complete sew chart, with step-by-step, easy-to-follow directions.

Bolero Frock for Little Girl.
This dress has no less than four of the most becoming details in the world—a crisply flaring skirt, sleeves puffed out like little balloons, a brief bolero, and a round collar! Make it up in printed percale (a light, flowery design), paper taffeta, gingham, linen or dimity. Use ricrac or Irish edging to trim the collar and bolero.

Soft Detailing for Large Women.
Notice the soft gather on the shoulders and sleeve tops, creating just enough fullness where it's needed, the lengthening revers, the slim lines of the skirt—all extremely becoming to women who want to minimize their weight. This dress will be lovely in georgette, chiffon or voile.

1505 is designed for sizes 4, 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. Size 6 requires 3/4 yard of 38-inch material for the bolero; 2 1/4 yards for the dress. Contrasting collar (if desired) requires 1/4 yard. 2 3/4 yards of braid for trimming.

1461 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. Size 38 requires 4 1/2 yards of 39-inch material with short sleeves. 4 3/4 yards with long sleeves.

The School Bell

Harken To Its Peals From The School On The Hill.

Adviser — M. C. King.
Typist — Irene Stanek.
Reporter: — Shirley Bulow, Jeanie Bugai, Kathryn Kitsman, Richard Saxton, Jeannette TerAvest, Clara Wade.

SENIOR CLASS ACTIVITIES

Four seniors of the class of '38' rate highest in scholarship for the four years. They are Jessie McDonald first, and then Faith Gidley, Artie Houtman, and Kathryn Kitsman. There were many seniors who also rated very high.

Plans are now being made for class night and the "one day of fun, for seniors only," but they are not yet fully developed.

The class is honored this year to have as its commencement speaker, Dr. George Buttrick of the Madison Ave. Presbyterian Church, New York. Dr. Buttrick is very well known and very popular here in East Jordan.

NEWS STAFF PICNIC SUPPER

The last News Staff party for the year, and the final party for some of the members, took place last week at Kitsman's cottage.

Broiled steaks was the bill of fare with tomatoes, bread and butter, fruit desert, cookies, and orange drink.

After the very informal dinner the reporters and advisers proceeded to take their places in beach chairs on the lake shore. The night was lovely, the stars were out, and so were the mosquitoes. Miss King topped the score of bites received by totaling 27.

Even if pounds were added and mosquitoes very much in evidence, everyone claimed it to be one of the best parties they'd ever attended.

HELEN MAY TROJANEK

The girl that has brown hair, laughing brown eyes, rosy cheeks, and a smile for everyone is Helen TrojaneK, she was typist for the School Bell the first semester. She was born May 12, 1920 to Mr. and Mrs. Albert TrojaneK and is first to graduate from her family.

She is another one of these senior musicians. She has played a clarinet in the band for four years; been a member of the girl's glee club, and plays the piano. She also has been a member of the Etiquette and Commercial clubs. She has taken a commercial course through high school.

Helen enjoys dancing, and has attended the J-Hop for two years. She likes to travel but as yet her busy high school career and her job outside of school occupies most of her time. Other pastimes which she has are hiking, reading, and trying to remember chemistry. She says she doesn't have any favorite sports but likes them all!

Helen does not know exactly what she will do after graduation. But if you pass on those pretty smiles Helen you will win friends everywhere. But by all means, don't forget to save some for your East Jordan pals.

B. E. W. AWARDS

The following students have been granted certificates of proficiency by the Gregg Publishing Company in the first national B. E. W. Contest. All are Junior Business Training students: Mary J. Addis, Freda Alm, Francis Antoine, Bernard Best, Bill Archer, Clifford Ayres, Bruce Bartlett, Helen Bennett, Robert Brown, James Bugai, William Chanda, Mabel Clark, Mason Clark, Evelyn Collins, Helen Crittenden, Boyd Crawford, William Dolezal, Vale Gee, Lena Gikerson, Lois Graham, Marie Gundersol, Permelia Hite, Floyd Holley, Frank Janek, Francis Justice, Tom Joyn, Francis Kaley, Margaret Kaley, Robert Kiser, Nancy LaLonde, Ross Nichols, Mae Pollitt, William Sanderson, Louise Scott, William Simmons, Alice Slough, Vera Staley, Lawrence Stanek, Glenn TrojaneK, Edward TrojaneK, Roland Woodcock.

Although returns on the individual students have been received, the rating of all the thousands of high schools that entered this contest will not be given out until the early part of June.

Miss Artie Houtman '38 is the first senior to win the gold pin awarded by the Gregg Publishing Company to shorthand students who are able to write a five minute take at the rate of 120 words per minute and transcribe it in not more than 45 minutes.

NEWSLETTER

The 4-H Sewing Club presented their adviser, Mrs. Leatha Larsen, with a casserole last week at a special meeting. This gift was in appreciation of her work with them this year.

Twenty three girls have signed up for the club next year.

According to a recent poll, the number of trucks that rumbled by on just one of the days when they monopolized the highway in front of the school, was thirty-eight! It seems rather strange, that the last one seemed equally diverting to students as the first one.

Last Friday the last hot lunch of the year was served. These lunches began in the fall.

What we wonder is — "Why can't perfumes for a change?" All these various sulphur combinations have such a delightful aroma.

which, by skill and taste, create beauty.

The grade teachers are directing their children in folk material of several nations. Among the selections the audience may observe the Japanese Fan Dance, Bohemian Butcher Dance or the Bohemian Polka, Shepherd's Hay of Norway or the Spring Dance of Norway, Danish Mallebrock, The Swedish seven pretty maidens, Russian Cabin Dance, Hungarian Rhapsody, Just Dog, Scotland's Highland Fling, English May Pole and America's Virginia Reel, and best of all, the Dutch — The Dance of the Wooden Shoes. The Boy Scouts are presenting several Indian dances with all its "pow-wows."

Miss Lucille Merry of Gaylord who has done a fine piece of work in Northern Michigan directing boys and girls in the art of tap dancing will present her prize pupils from several towns before an interesting audience. The use of tap dancing for school and recreational use is becoming increasingly popular and the routines offered by the pupils of Miss Merry have been particularly designed for this great show. By adapting the routines to well known melodies as well as original compositions, Miss Merry makes her work doubly appealing. Tap dancing is a satisfying recreational pursuit for both children and adults.

Some of the tap dancing numbers will be "The Three Blind Mice," "Soft Shoe," "Are You Sleeping?" "Buck, Soldiers Brave, Military," "The Mill Wheel," "Copy Cat," "The Soft Shoe," "Hilly Billies" Eccentric: "Loafin'", "Rhythm Buck," "Cadets" Military; "Sophisticate", Waltz; "Kinky Head, Rhythm Buck and a few other special numbers, worth seeing. Beautiful costumes will predominate.

SHERMAN O. THOMAS

Always taking things apart to find out "how the wheels go round," Sherman O. Thomas decided his career while still a lad in kneepants. After graduation Sherman plans to continue his activities in mechanics.

Born in East Jordan April 17, 1919 he has lived and attended schools in Bellaire, Flint, Eveline Orchards, and East Jordan.

This year he has displayed his executive abilities by holding the position, president of the Boy's Glee Club of which he has been a member two years.

Sherman has never participated in the school sports but thinks that football is the most interesting.

Can be found fishing and hunting most any week in those seasons, we'll hope he doesn't do them out of season.

Sherman hasn't confined his interests to just a few things. He has made trips to most all parts of the state and into Canada.

There are things, though, that he doesn't like history and chemistry being among these.

LYLE ROY WEAVER

Tall, dark, handsome, and bashful (the twinkle in his brown eyes belies his bashfulness) are the adjectives most adaptable for our use in describing Lyle, who didn't want to tell any of his "history."

May 25, 1920, was the day honored by Lyle's coming into the family of Mr. and Mrs. George Weaver.

He was born in Boyne City, but has lived in East Jordan most of his life and has always attended East Jordan schools.

Lyle has been a member of the Etiquette Club, the Boy Scouts of America, and has gone out for basketball.

His extra time now is spent on the tennis courts. In the winter it's spent at the skating rink, and in the sum-

LA VERA MAE TRUMPOUR

La Vera Mae Trumpour is the only senior to finish high school on her birthday, for she will be 18 on June third. La Vera was born in Lansing, Michigan and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Evert Trumpour.

Although La Vera attended her early schooling at Lansing and Port Huron, she has attended the East Jordan Consolidated School since the fifth grade. During her high school years La Vera has enjoyed her commercial subjects and literature more than others and has also found that chemistry is her most difficult subject. In typing she has acquired the speed of 70 words per minute on a ten minute test. La Vera has been an active member of the Etiquette Club and Commercial Club. In her Sophomore year she belonged to the news staff and sang second soprano in the glee club.

La Vera is a girl with variable outside interests. Her favorite hobby is keeping her diary, which perhaps could give you a much better biography. Although she is not an outdoor enthusiast she likes to hike. Her favorite sport, however, is dancing. She also enjoys going to the movies and "thinks her favorite screen stars" are Judy Garland and Robert Taylor.

La Vera is a small, wiry girl with brown hair and eyes and plenty of ambition.

Beware of this girl with eyes of brown, because she's a senior that's "going to town."

mer, swimming (with exceptions for the times he spends sleeping, which seems to be the pastime of all pastimes in Lyle's opinion.)

Not knowing what he is going to do after graduation, Lyle says he wants to sleep twenty four hours a day for at least three weeks.

Pleasant dreams!

ERVAN A. RUEGSEGGER, Judge of Probate.

CLASS PARTY

Spring is the one season of the year when classes get in the swing of parties. The tenth and seventh grade classes held their last party for this year last Friday and Saturday nights, in the high school gymnasium. Both parties were uninvitational and ice cream and cake were served. The seventh graders spent the evening playing games and the tenth graders danced. The chaperons for the party included Miss MacDonald, Miss Finch, Miss King, Mr. and Mrs. Cohn, Mr. and Mrs. Walcutt, Mr. and Mrs. Jan-koviak and Mr. Smith.

Find Missing Bus

Kalkaska — Pupils of Hoxeyville consolidated school hitchhiked to and from school a short time ago when their school bus disappeared mysteriously. It was finally found in the woods near Fire Lake, but the youth reported to have taken it is still missing.

Weird Creatures of the Sea!

A page of remarkable paintings in brilliant colors, will be published in The American Weekly, the magazine distributed with Next Sunday's Chicago Herald and Examiner.

ening of the Big Dance Festival.

Don Soules and Amby Soules, who won a great reputation for themselves by taking first place at the Amateur show held in connection with the Grand Rapids Automobile Show last fall, will appear in three of our numbers. Little golden haired Amby, age four, plays a full set of professional trap drums, tap dances and sings. Brother Don tap dances, sings and plays five different wind instruments; trumpet, trombone, mellophone, saxophone and baritone. In their vocal numbers, Amby carries the melody while Don harmonizes. Amby is especially proud of what she terms her "Lovebug Costume" which she wears when she sings a certain popular song. This costume consists of a brief satin trunk with large cellophane wings. They have had several offers to turn professional but their parents choose to have them remain amateurs. Their home is in Bellaire. These two young folks alone are worth the price of admission.

The grand finale of the show and promised to take down the house will be the modern version of the popular dance, "The Big Apple", accompanied by a real caller. The "Shagin" and the "Trunkin" will have you in a ball from laughter. The group consists of six or seven couples of East Jordan high school boys and girls. So follow the crowds to the East Jordan High School Auditorium on the night of May 19 for one of the best entertainments ever put on by our local talent.

The same custom as before about the sale of tickets will prevail again, with prizes going out to the highest sale of tickets. So buy your tickets early and be sure of a seat.

The admission for the athletic show will be 10c for grade children, 15c for high school students, and 25c for adults.

JAMES GIDLEY, Secretary of Board of Education.

SANE BUT FORCED TO LIVE WITH LUNATICS

An article in The American Weekly with the May 15 issue of The Detroit Sunday Times, reviews recent lawsuits concerning sane people who were "chained among the insane", including a wife who got out of the asylum she says her husband and "the other woman dragged her into."

How To Sleep Good

Many things disturb sleep. The most common is bladder irritation caused by excess kidney acids and other waste. Make this 4 day test. Your 25c back if not pleased. Flush he kidneys as you do the bowels. Help nature relieve the irritation that wakes you up. Just say Bukets 25c to any druggist. Locally at Gidley & Mac Drug Store.

Notice!

The Board of Review will meet in the City Hall on Monday, May 16, 1938 and will remain for four days to review the 1938 tax roll.

WM. ALDRICH, City Clerk.

To Prevent... To Cure... CHERRY LEAF-SPOT

CUPRO-K, applied according to recommended schedule, protects the leaves, preventing Leaf-Spot. Even the best cherry growers may be delayed, however, in applying sprays on time and Leaf-Spot appears.

Sprayed on infected leaves, Cupro-K kills the disease—stops it from spreading. Leaves remain and grow, doing their work of ripening the crop and of supplying vigor to the trees.

SAVE 25% LIVES

SAVE LIVES

REPLACE YOUR SMOOTH WORN TIRES AND BE SAFE

LAST year highway accidents cost the lives of more than 40,000 men, women and children and nearly a million and a quarter more were injured. More than 52,000 of these deaths and injuries were caused directly by punctures, blowouts and skidding due to smooth, worn, unsafe tires. A recent survey discloses that 59 million tires now in use are, or will become, smooth this year. Do your part to make driving safer. Replace smooth tires on your car. Come in today and equip with Firestone Convoy Tires and save 25%.

FIRESTONE CAN GIVE YOU SUCH A HIGH QUALITY TIRE AT SUCH A NEW LOW PRICE

Because Firestone saves money by controlling and securing rubber and cotton at the source and by more efficient manufacturing and distribution. These savings make possible more extra values at low prices:

New High Quality—First choice rubber and selected cotton that conforms to Firestone's high standards and rigid specifications.

Long Mileage—Safe, silent tread design made of tough, slow wearing rubber that assures long mileage. Sturdy bars and rugged notches that give full protection against skidding.

Blowout Protection—Nine extra pounds of rubber are added to every 100 pounds of cord by the Firestone Patented Gum-Dipping process which counteracts internal friction and heat that ordinarily cause blowouts.

Puncture Protection—Firestone's patented construction of two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords under the tread that protects against punctures.

Come in today. Let us put a set of these large size, rugged, long wearing Firestone Convoy Tires on your car — remember, you save 25%.
