Ramblers Again Defeat Crimson

BOYNE CITY H. S. TAKE FINAL GAME HERE 19 - 0

Coach Brotherston's Boyme City Ramblers forced the local Crimson Wave into 4th place of the final standings of the Little Eight Class C Conference, winning over the Jordanites 19 to 0 here last Saturday afternoon. The Coachmen had hoped to break a jinx, which has hovered over local football aggregations since 1906. Boyme has held the supremacy on a local gridiron since that date.

Eight seniors donned the Crimson jerseys for the last time in Saturday's season final. Capt. Hite, Simmons, Sloop, Joyn, Malpass, and DuWayne Penfold, lineman; R. Saxton and L. Cihak, backs.

Boyme took the opening kickoff on their own 23 yard stripe and on successive plays went over to score. Poirier, Boyme quarterback, picking up 5 to 7 yards per try, carried the ball straight down the field as the local forward wall tried hopelessly to stop him, finally scoring from the 5 yard stripe. Lockman tossed a short pass to the left to Hosegood to add the extra point. Then came the Coachmen's only real scoring threat of the game, as Penfold taking a short kick was bunched down on the middle field. G. Gee on a forward-lateral play went to the Boyme 30. Gee hit the line three times to make another first down on the 18; but here further advance was stopped by a determined Red and Blue forward wall. Boyme came back again in the second period for another touchdown, Hosegood taking a long pass in the end zone, tossed by Lockman. The try for an extra point failed in an incomplete pass.

The Jordanites settled down after the intermission to play a much better brand of ball but the Ramblers' power broke loose again near the end of the game as Goodwin scored on a short pass in the flat zone. The Coachmen made several minor threats to score throughout the last half, with an assorted aerial attack. Poirier, Hosegood, and Fineout were outstanding for the victors, the latter playing in the local backfield all afternoon, as he would come charging in time and again, from his tackle post, to mess up the local offensive plays. Glen Gee, Red and Black full-back boosted his stock for the All-Conference team with his all around offensive and defensive play. Malpass and Antoine played leading roles in the local line.

Another season comes to a close as the lads lay up the heavy armor in favor of the lighter basketball equipment. It was a great season, the team winning 4, losing 2, and tying 1, and all in all Coach Cohn did a fine job with the boys, considering the injuries to three mainstays of his team early in the season.

Non-partisan State News Letter By GENE ALLEMAN Michigan Press Association

Lansing — Swinging the pendulum of public opinion in protest against labor radicalism — the 1937 sit-down strikes in automobile and manufacturing factories, retail stores and even private utility plants — has returned to Republicans in power and responsibility in Michigan.

It was not so much an affirmative vote of confidence in Frank Fitzgerald and the remainder of the Republican state and legislative ticket. It was a ballot protest.

For many months political observers have been aware of a "jelling" of public opinion against the over-enthusiastic demonstrations in Michigan of the C. I. O. Lewis' defeat in the Detroit municipal election was a forerunner. Gallup polls have consistently shown that the C. I. O. was in high disfavor with the electorate.

In the judgment of this commentator, the November election afforded the people of Michigan their first opportunity to spank the sit-downers. And in doing so, they had to spank Governor Frank Murphy and his administration. It was just inevitable.

Republicans in Control

The beneficiaries of the ballot protest were the Republicans who returned to authority again at Lansing.

Whereas Governor Murphy had an unruly state senate, with the balance of power in the hands of republicans and a few conservative Democrats, Mr. Fitzgerald will have no legislative alibi in 1939.

The senate is under republican control 23 to 9, while the house is predominantly G. O. P., 74 to 26.

Presiding over the Senate will be 80-year-old Luren D. Dickinson, of Charlotte, a man of remarkable mental power who returns to Lansing for his eighth term as lieutenant governor. Dickinson's popularity is an indirect compliment to the "oldsters" in Michigan, many of whom favor the Townsend Plan. Fitzgerald catered to Townsend support with a promise to ask the legislature to pass a resolution urging Congress to consider the $200-a-month pension scheme.

Case and Brown

Country editors fared well in the Michigan election.

Within a few thousand votes of Murphy was Leon D. Case, secretary of state who publishes a weekly paper at Watervliet. Case led Nowicki, Starr, Fry and Gundry in popular support.

Next to Dickinson and heading other Republican nominees for state office was Vernon J. Brown, aspirant for auditor general. Brown is editor-publisher of the Ingham County News at Mason and is completing his tenth year of service in the legislature.

Significant also is the fact that Case and Brown consider their newspapers to be "independent" in politics.

VanWagoner in Power

The No. 1 man of the Michigan Democratic party today is Murray D. VanWagoner, commissioner of the state highway department.

Two weeks before the balloting his department conducted a secret "straw vote" throughout the state. It showed Fitzgerald to be a sure winner and estimated the plurality at 45,000.

Van Wagoner, a practical politician, had foreseen the election result last summer when he weighed the advisability of becoming a candidate for governor in open opposition to Murphy. Reviewing summer political events, you will recall that Leo J. Nowicki, who opposed Murphy's labor policies and served sit-downers with a snappy ultimatum while the governor was away on a speaking tour, was also in a willing mood to sidetrack Murphy in the primary, if he could. Furthermore, Edward Fry, state chairman, had openly spanked the governor at Mackinac Island in a caustic statement that was almost unprecedented.

His brother, Theodore Fry, has made no secret of his dislike of Murphy's policies and was quite reluctant to become a candidate for a fourth term. All this is political history.

Like a jig-saw puzzle, it assumes a definite pattern in the light of Nov. 8.

Campaign Financing

The attitude of so-called "Big Business" in the recent campaign was unexpected.

Whereas you might have thought that industrial plutocrats would rush into the Republican state central committee's arms with open check-books — considering the labor grief which they have experienced and the possibility of a baby Wagner act and a wage-hour act in 1939 — they actually did nothing of the kind.

In fact, the state committee was secretly disappointed.

Automobile manufacturers were cool as proverbial cucumbers. James

Thomson, the Jackson chairman of the Republican state committee, spent fully half of his time trying to scrape together enough money to meet each week's payroll. Officers of General Motors, Ford, Chrysler and other companies were adamant to pressure.

With no campaign gift strings of this kind attached to him, Fitzgerald may surprise legislators with a liberal labor program. It is possible.

One Amendment Wins

Only one amendment, the "Good Roads" prohibition of gas tax and vehicle license diversion, survived the general protest vote Nov. 8.

This amendment was backed by the Good Roads Federation who utilized every media to publicize it. Newspaper advertising was employed on a state-wide scale to present arguments for adoption.

Class C Football '38 Honor Roll

VARIOUS COACHES MAKE SELECTIONS, MONDAY

Now that the football season has come to an end as far as Northern Michigan schools are concerned, every ardent fan has been expressing his ideas as to the selections for the various positions of the annual Tip O' Michigan conference all-honor teams. This fall the picking of such a team has been left entirely up to the coaches representing the eight schools in the Northern loop, abandoning the old policy of each individual sportswriter coming out with his selections each year. It is believed that the new policy tends to be far more accurate and is more apt to meet with the approval of the players and fans.

At a special meeting of the coaches Monday evening at Boyme City, two all around aggregations were formed through the coaches viewpoint as to ability, carried out by the player over the period of a full season.

The following members of the local Crimson Wave were given honors: Glen Gee, high scoring, hard driving, speed merchant, and effective defensive back, carried off the left half-back post of the first team. "Tich" Saxton, field general, passer, and alternating punter, was chosen as quarterback on the second squad. Glen Malpass, stalwart of the forward wall, landed the right tackle berth on the same team. Antoine and Capt. Hite were given honorable mention for their seasons performances.

Following are the selections made by the coaches representing all eight competing schools —

First Team
LE — Hosegood — Boyme City
LT — Fineout — Boyme City.
LG — Nowland — Charlevoix.
C — Suttiff — Boyme City.
RG — Mauti — Rogers City.
RT — Hardy — Mancelona.
RE — Turnipspeed — Mancelona.
Q — Schultz — Rogers City.
LH — Lovelace — Gaylord.
RH — G. Gee — East Jordan.
F — R. Newhouse (C), Rogers City.

Second Team
LE — Fields — Onaway.
LT — Malpass — East Jordan.
LG — Ruel — Rogers City.
C — Johnson — Onaway.
RG — Kosmirik — Harbor Springs.
RT — Savina — Rogers City.
RE — Thomas — Mancelona.

Farmers Becoming More Interested In Building Septic Tanks

There is no question but that farmers are now equipping themselves with all the modern conveniences that may be found in the city. With the coming of electricity and the conveniences made possible as a result, many inquiries have been received in regard to appliances, etc.

It would seem that among the most important conveniences would certainly be a means of sewerage disposal. This last week two septic tanks have been built in the county under the supervision of the local county agent. On Tuesday one was built for James Rayman, south of Charlevoix, who is in the process of finishing his new house. They are delighted with the prospect of having an up-to-date bathroom for the first time. Then on Wednesday a septic tank was built for Theodore LaCroix, East Jordan. The entire job was completed in one day including the digging out of a hole 7' x 5' x 6 1/2' which is some kind of a record, I believe.

Not alone this, but another tank will be built for Levern McGhan next week. This makes around 35 septic tanks that have been constructed by farmers in this county with indications pointing to many more in the near future. Yes, Agriculture marches on.

Lovely Crush-Resistant Velvet Graces the Mode

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

gowns done in velvet as here shown one cannot but be impressed with the fascinating necklines that are so flattering.

ONE of the most gratifying fashion developments of the present season is the widespread use of lovely crush-resistant velvets. In a time of elegance and glamor, reflecting as it does the opulence of pre-war days, velvet, rich and supple, ever regarded as the aristocrat among fabrics, becomes the outstanding medium for dress-up gowns designed in the grand manner. For daytime, dinner or evening wear youthfully streamlined or picturesquely bouffant, velvet declares high fashion and crush-resistant velvet means the added blessing of as complete practicality as serge or any other dependable material offers.

With the trend toward a more gracious mode of living reflected in the current luxurious fashions, it was inevitable that the floor-length velvet dinner gown should come into its own as an important part of the fall and winter style picture. Because of the beautiful draping qualities and lovely glowing colors of these fine crush-resistant velvets, designers have been inspired to new heights in the creation of this type of gown.

There are no hard and fast rules of period or line observed in fashioning the new velvets. You may express yourself in a youthful dirndl or you may go gracefully Renaissance in a trailing gown whose heart-shaped décolletage is cut low to show a De Medici yoke of fine lace, or you may adopt the new swirling skirt and high fitted bodice that gives you a nipped-in waistline with a becoming square neckline. See the illustration herewith and be convinced of the versatility expressed. Glimpsing a group of

The dirndl idea gains increasing momentum this season through its adaptation to soft-draping velvets which lend new allure to styles with fitted bodice and full skirt. The dinner gown pictured to the right, with softly shirred sleeves, square neckline marked by jeweled clips, slim waist and floor-length full-cut skirt shirred on in gleaming soft folds, is an excellent version of this new vogue. It is not too expensive for college clothes budgets, and remember the velvet is crush-resistant. The amusing little dinner hat with this dress is made of two ostrich plumes with curled tips falling forward to accent the tip-titled line.

To the left in the illustration lace and velvet are beautifully combined in an entrancing dinner gown which has a fine alençon yoke set in at both back and front, making an exquisite background for the heart-shaped silhouette décolletage. The high-shouldered short sleeves, fitted waist with soft shirring at the front, and sweeping full-cut skirt reflect the vogue for romantic styling à la Renaissance. The velvet is also one of the practical crush-resistant weaves, equally lovely in black or in jewel colors.

Centered in the picture is a moderately priced dinner gown available either in rich colors or in sooty black. The soft crush-resistant velvet that fashions this ravishing dress glories in a becoming, squared neckline accented by little looped ties of self-velvet at the front. The fitted waistline, full cut skirt and brief puffed sleeves are modish features of this dress, which in its classic simplicity is a perfect foil for smart accessories. This adorable gown is glorified with one of the very new tiny dinner hats made of a single swirled ostrich plume.

Silk-Metal Weave

Of course if you are dating up for cocktail and matinee parties, for teas, afternoon receptions or other social events, you must have at least one really scrumptious frock that is not too formal but just formal enough to fit into the picture. The mode here shown is just such. It is of rich herringbone silk-and-metal weave "set off" with brilliant buttons. The skirt is box-pleated and the entire costume down to the slightest detail is meticulously styled.

Black Antelope High Style Note

Women in the smart set are selecting accessories of black antelope to wear with their colorful wool frocks, also with a black frock, for the all-black costume with striking gold costume jewelry is still a reigning favorite. Shoes, bags, hats, gloves, belts and hats of the "sooty" black antelope suede, impart an air of elegance and refined taste to any costume. If adds to the voguishness of the antelope suede ensemble if the bag milady carries be of enormous size for the larger bag is a this-season hobby with the fashion-wise.

Muffs Are Smart For Evening Wear

Evening chic this season includes fur-trimmed toques and matching muffs. A long black broadcloth evening coat is accompanied by a large muf of chinchilla and a chinchilla trimmed toque. With an evening fichu of white ermine goes a melon shaped ermine muf, both accented with the small black tails.

Lanvin shows an evening muf in white fox, with a white fox cape, to wear with a dress of plaited white chiffon.

Gold-Striped Frock

A smart black wool dress of Lanvin's has vertical stripes of gold and a plaited panel down its front. Brilliant red velvet collar and cuffs give it a youthful air.

Dartboard Hat Is Fad

The dartboard hat, with top laid out like a dartboard and three darts for hatpins, is becoming a craze among women in England.

Ideal Woman Is Matter of Man's Taste

By PATRICIA LINDSAY
© Bell Syndicate.—WNU Service.

EVERY man cherishes in his heart a vision of an Ideal Woman. Naturally this woman is beautiful! Beautiful according to his individual estimate of feminine loveliness. She is usually a vision of perfect contour, lovely stature. Her skin is fresh and radiant and her hair is lustrous. Her hands are soft and capable while her eyes sparkle with vitality and silent wisdom!

Yes, Man's Ideal Woman is a composite of all beauty and all the feminine graces. Not only does her physical beauty satisfy his eye, but her voice is music to his ears. The quality of her mind intrigues him, and her soul—that intangible something every person possesses—is his inspiration.

Men currently are favoring the more feminine type of Olivia de Havilland. Her physical beauty and gracious personality make her alluringly charming in the eyes of the modern man. She comes close to being his ideal woman.

Through life, Man seeks this creature of divine loveliness. For her he lives, works and plans. This Ideal Woman is the animating power behind progress and activity, and the closer you resemble her the more joyous and abundant will be your life!

If you wish for love, admiration, success, happiness—Be beautiful! Delight in the joy of feminine power which comes from the knowledge that you are a creature of charm and that your personality is compelling!

Analyze Your Beauty Assets

Success in whatever you desire from life lies in your determination to make the most of yourself—to glorify your birthright!

So many women give up too easily. Just because they were not born with permanent waves in their hair, or with legs like the famous Dietrich's, they let themselves grow discouraged. They don't take time to analyze their own beauty assets.

Perhaps a woman has a crooked nose which causes her no end of dismay. But her voice might be so beautifully pitched that by concentrating on it she could so fascinate others that they wouldn't be aware of the crooked nose! Impossible? Not at all!

Every woman is born with some physical beauty and a few compelling characteristics. The Perfect Woman does not exist. Each woman should strive to accent her good points and to dim her less glamorous ones. She who does that successfully comes near to being one man's Ideal Woman. The art of keeping the external You beautiful, and the inner You lovely at the same time, is worth striving for. Look around you. Isn't the woman who has mastered that art getting pretty much what she wants from life?

HINT-OF-THE-DAY

Most of us have some opportunity for getting out-of-doors and being active one way or the other—playing games, being interested in a sport for exercise, gardening, or bicycling. There are numerous ways to work off that excess poundage and bring your measurements down to appealing lines.

If you are not active out-of-doors in games or sports, then you must do daily calisthenics, preferably in the open air, simple corrective ones planned for the particular parts of your body which you wish to proportion nicely.

Stretching Man's Lifetime

A French anthropologist credits civilization with stretching man's lifetime far beyond that nature allowed under wild conditions. The average man can expect to live about sixty years. For women the average lifetime is sixty-four. In other words, the average person lives longer than the longest-lived humans in the good old Stone age.

Growth of Norway Pine

A Norway pine tree 35 years old will average about 7 inches in diameter at breast height; under average conditions such a tree will be about 40 feet high.

C. Houston Goudiss Describes the Body's Vital Need for Vitamin C; Names Most Significant Sources of This Substance

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

OF ALL the vitamins that should be included in the diet every day, none, perhaps, is more important, nor more frequently provided inadequately, than vitamin C.

There are, I believe, two reasons for this. First, unlike some of the other vitamins, vitamin C is not stored by the body, so that it is impossible to build up a reserve supply.

In order to maintain top health, it therefore must be furnished in the diet every day. Second, the C vitamin is more easily destroyed than some of the others, for it is oxidized upon exposure to the air, and is usually partially destroyed in cooking. That accounts for the well-known rule that it is usually desirable to include in the daily diet some raw foods, such as cabbage or citrus fruits. The rule may be waived, however, when tomato juice or cranberry sauce are included in the menu. For careful experiments have determined that, because of their high acid content, these two foods retain their vitamin C to a remarkable degree, when commercially canned or when cooked quickly in the home.

Long years before the first vitamin had been discovered, and when the science of nutrition was still in its infancy, English physicians observed that the use of orange juice would help to cure children of a serious disease characterized by a sallow, pale complexion, flabby muscles, and a painful inflammation of the membrane surrounding the bones of the legs. And as early as 1795 it was also discovered that British sailors could be prevented from developing the painful and serious disease of scurvy if they were given a regular ration of lemon juice which had been evaporated to a syrup. It was because lemon, then called lime, juice was invariably prescribed for the navy that British sailors came to be known as "limies," a term which is still in use today.

Vitamin C is produced by plants during their growth. It is found in juicy stems, bulbs, roots, tubers and fruits.

Outstanding among the fruits are the citrus family, including oranges, lemons and grapefruit; tomatoes and cranberries. Raw cabbage is a good source as is watercress.

So important is vitamin C that one or more generous portions of a vitamin C-rich food should be consumed daily, preferably at every meal.

Orange and tomato juice have been used interchangeably for quite some time as a convenient and easily available source of vitamin C. In recent years, some experiments performed at a leading university have given a high ranking to cranberries on this score, so that they, too, may be ranked as a significant source of vitamin C.

very time when it is important to eat generously of fruits to fortify the body against fall and winter ills. Their tart flavor helps to stimulate appetite and their fruit acids promote intestinal tone.

Neither the maturity nor variety of the fruit appears to have any influence on the vitamin content, and even when cooked, as whole fruit sauce, they retain from 75 to 80 per cent of the original vitamin C content of the fruit. Cranberries are also a fair source of vitamin A which is not impaired by cooking, and they contain iodine, iron, copper and manganese.

Because they are such a versatile fruit, cranberries can be utilized throughout the menu and at any meal. Thus orange and tomato juice may be varied at breakfast by serving a cranberry conserve, jelly or sauce, or a cranberry juice cocktail. For lunch or dinner, this same fruit may be served as an appetizer; with the meat course; or used to make a variety of attractive desserts.

If vitamin C-containing foods are included generously in the daily diet, the homemaker may well feel that she has provided her family with an important form of health insurance.

Questions Answered

A. F. G. Jr.—Green salads do play several important roles in the diet. They furnish bulk or cellulose, minerals, vitamins and water, and therefore help to balance a meal.

Mrs. F. C. L.—Most authorities now advise giving semi-solid foods to infants before the end of the first year. Usually the cereals, vegetables, and fruit pulps are carefully strained so that they are finely divided and free from harsh particles which would irritate a baby's delicate digestive tract.

GARDEN GOSSIP
EDITED BY CAROLINE HARRINGTON
Letters and questions on garden topics will be welcome. They will be published and discussed in this column.

Dear Garden Gossipers:

Here is the report of the Arboretum Committee just as I made it on November 16th, before the Garden Club. I hope that you will read it and talk about it, go to see the site — you know it well, that splendid tract of partly wooded land just east of the school — and write in your suggestions to be published in Garden Gossip:

On Friday evening, November 4th, 1938, the Arboretum Committee met. Mr. G. R. Hemingway, R. Eggert, B. C. Mellencamp, Mrs. Guy Watson, Mrs. Howard Porter, Mrs. W. H. Malpass, — met at the home of the chairman, Mrs. H. M. Harrington, to discuss ways and means of establishing an arboretum of native trees and shrubs in or near East Jordan. Besides the committee members there were also present Howard Porter, W. H. Malpass, and Dr. H. M. Harrington.

After a short general discussion it was found that the committee members were agreed that the proposed arboretum should consist only of such trees and shrubs as grow naturally in this location, and that a site having a variety of soils and exposures, preferably with running water, was required. At this point in the discussion Mr. Eggert told us of a 40-acre tract which is adjacent to the school and a part of the school property. On this tract Mr. Eggert has already done some pine planting.

This piece of land, part of which is a beautiful wooded ravine, has the necessary exposures and soils, a creek running through it, and some cleared ground. It seems ideal for the purpose of an arboretum, and Mr. Eggert says that he would welcome the cooperation of the Garden Club to this end.

Howard Porter expressed confidence in the cooperation of the school board.

G. R. Hemingway of the Charlevoix County Nurseries made a most generous offer of nursery stock for plantings, and assured the committee that there would be no lack of contributions from nurserymen throughout the state.

Mr. Eggert said that probably the tree markers could be made at the school, thus cutting down on expense.

When the committee met it was thought that our first possibly biggest problem seems to have solved itself. However, there is another problem — that of insuring permanence to the project.

Immediately after the committee met Mr. Mellencamp and I each wrote to Mr. O. I. Gregg, Michigan State College, asking him for his cooperation in making plans for a suitable arboretum, and also, as suggested by Mr. Hemingway, I wrote to the Arnold Arboretum of Jamaica Plains, Mass., (an old and famous arboretum) asking for information as to how they have made certain that their work would be permanent.

At the suggestion of the committee, we have also asked Mr. Gregg, when he is next in East Jordan, to address a group from the Garden Club relative to the proposed arboretum.

Mr. Gregg responded to our letters at once and states that he will gladly cooperate with us, and that he will try to be here to speak to us on the evening of November 21st.

Before Mr. Gregg can go to work, however, he must have a map showing the boundaries of the arboretum, the position of the trees and shrubs now growing on it, and the location of the creek running through it.

The map is to be on the scale of 1 square inch for every 50 square feet of the property — that is, each 50 square feet of the 40 acres will be represented by 1 square inch on the map.

On each square inch of the map will be indicated the trees and shrubs growing in the corresponding 50 square feet of our arboretum. You can readily see what an undertaking it is — this map making, but Mr. Eggert is willing to tackle it. It is his way of expressing enthusiasm for what an arboretum will mean to East Jordan.

As soon as possible he and his agricultural students will go over the ground, take measurements and record them and prepare a lay-out for Mr. Gregg's use. Mr. Mellencamp suggests that there are many practical ways in which we may help Mr. Eggert make the map, and sets us an example by offering a day of his time to the work.

If Mr. Eggert will call for volunteers, I am sure there are many of us who would be grateful for the privilege of having a part in laying the foundation of this arboretum of which we are some day to be so proud.

I will report on these matters and on all others relating to the arboretum through the Garden Gossip column from time to time as they progress.

Caroline Harrington, Chairman.
November 16, 1938.

FROM THE DIARY OF AN OB-SERVANT BYSTANDER

Nov. 7th: While driving yesterday we noticed some cosmos and dahlias still untouched by frost, quite unusual for so late, I am sure. There is still time to plant spring flowering bulbs.

Nov. 8th: Such a cold windy day — with a lot of rain, and some snow, the first of the winter. Drove to Petoskey. The lake was beautiful and blue but very rough — the waves going clear over the breakwater.

Nov. 10th: Chickadees are such cheerful little birds and I am always glad when they come back — perhaps they are always here, but we never notice them in the summer. It is because there are so many other birds?

Nov. 12th: We noticed today the beautiful little pine Mr. Seiler has set out on his property just bordering the road. Such plantings add so much to the attractiveness of our country — especially evergreen trees.

Nov. 13th: Another cold windy day with a little snow. I suppose the deer hunters will love this weather but I dread it a little as it is getting so late it may be here for the winter.

On his home plantation, Mount Vernon, George Washington planted 70 trees which are still living to testify. (In the words of the poet, Henry Van Dyke) that "He that planteth a tree is the servant of God, He provideth a kindness for many generations, And faces that he hath not seen shall bless him."

Now, when the leaves are gone from the trees, the winter birds are coming back. It is the right time to commence bird study. Hopping or gliding about on the bare branches, searching for food, they are easy to see, and if you will set a table of suet, nuts, seeds and crusts for them, they will come to you in flocks. An old dead tree stub makes the best of all feeding stations, for the wormy wood attracts woodpeckers, nuthatches, sapsuckers.

On my kitchen window sill a pot of parsley from the garden of Mrs. Conway is "doing fine, thank you," and

AN EXPERT

The young man with the high-powered sports car had come to take her out for the day. Her mother, a thoughtful woman, was making a few preliminary inquiries.

"Do you know what to do if the car breaks down, young man?" she asked.

"Certainly I do," he replied.

The two young people were very late returning that night. The fair young daughter rushed to her mother's room.

"Oh, mother!" she cried. "The car did break down. But Jack knew exactly what to do, and—we're engaged!"—London Answers Magazine.

Help Needed

He was, in fact, the absent-minded professor, and he was strapping hanging. The other arm clasped half a dozen bottles. He swayed to and fro. Slowly his face took on a look of apprehension.

"Can I help you sir?" asked the conductor.

"Yes," said the professor with relief. "Hold on to this strap while I get my fare out."—Stray Stories Magazine.

November is the month when meteors, or, as most of us call them, "shooting stars," are seen in the night sky, for at this season our Earth passes through a swarm of meteors known as the Leonids (accent on the first syllable.) The Leonids take about 33 of our years to make their trip around the sun. In 1833 and again in 1866 they gave a fine display of heavenly fireworks as they came in contact with our atmosphere, but in 1899 and in 1932 the Leonids did not put on such a good show as was expected — only a few meteors fell to Earth to reward the patience of those who watched for them. Dr. George Bechtold has gone hunting, but first he carefully put his rose garden to bed in a thick mulch of fallen leaves. On one bush is a big red bud, (and this is November 13th.)

On Tuesday, November 8th, Ray Benson, living on the Ed. Nemecek place, said that wild geese had been going over for at least two weeks. Evidently they do not mind heading into a strong south wind.

EXPERT TELLS HOW TO STORE ONIONS PROPERLY

Whether in June or January, the demand for onions knows no let-up. Many dishes, both humble and aristocratic, owe their tastefulness to this basic "flavor" food.

The grower who would meet this year's round demand, however, harvests his onions only once a year and must somehow protect them successfully against changing temperatures if he is to get better prices when onions become less plentiful. Storage facilities become increasingly important as farmers recognize that it's good business to hold the finest stock for late winter deliveries.

Onions must be well ripened when stored. Plenty of ventilation, coupled with a temperature of from 80 to 90 degrees, should be maintained in the storage house during curing time. The onions should be stored in crates in such a manner as to permit the free circulation of air around them.

The necessary movement of outside air through an onion storage house requires properly spaced ventilators both at the floor and ceiling levels so that when the vent doors are open a current of air can continuously rise up and out.

Experts have a homely method of determining when onions are sufficiently cured in storage. At this stage, they say, onions will "rattle like blocks of wood" when poured from one crate to another.

After the onions have been cured the temperature of the house should be reduced to about 36 to 40 degrees and held there.

To be able to cure and then hold proper temperatures, an onion storage should be constructed along lines suggested by the United States Department of Agriculture. Agricultural engineers state that in addition to adequate ventilation, insulation built into walls and ceiling is necessary to offset climatic temperature changes.

Insulating board is recommended as being the most practical and economical. However, one should take the precaution to select an insulation board that is weather-proofed, moisture resistant and protected from attack by dry rot and termites. Experts estimate that for a stored crop of 1,500 bushels a house 16 by 36 feet in size will be needed. For a 10,000 bushel storage the house should be 32 by 72 feet.

From his garden up there, Clarence Johnston brought to The Herald office last week samples of dahlias, zinnias, pansies, tomatoes, and some field peas—all without a sign of frost on them.

Well Diggers Find Fish 200 Feet Down
DECATUR, MICH.— The month's best fish story—and a true one—is provided by men drilling for oil on a farm near Fish Lake. When down about 200 feet, the water pump at the well became clogged. Pulled up for inspection, it was found that two pike were entangled in the mechanism. The well is about 80 rods from the lake.

Cherry Growers Initiate Gigantic Advertising Campaign

Last week a fine representative group of leading cherry growers of Northern Michigan met at Traverse City to discuss the advisability of launching an advertising campaign to increase the consumption of cherries. In spite of the fact that a very, very poor crop was harvested this year, the cherry market has been demoralized by a large carryover and a poor demand.

Many of the cherry growers express themselves as being very favorable to levying a charge of something like a quarter of a cent per pound to be used in advertising cherries. Some even thought if necessary one half cent per pound would be a good program. It was definitely proven that the cranberry growers had made a success of advertising their product. The same is true with orange growers, pineapple growers, grapefruit growers, and others who have demonstrated the necessity of advertising their product.

After lengthy discussion a committee was selected to meet with committees from two other districts in the state to decide on a program. We are glad that the chairman of this most important committee is John Porter, East Jordan, who is sold on advertising and who is representative of both the grower and the canner. All cherry growers in this county will watch with interest the development of the advertising program.

Cold Winters Point Trend To Double Windows

With long-range weather forecasters predicting that the coming winter will mark the start of a new 11-year weather cycle with white winters in the ascendancy, home-owners have especial reason now to check up on the heat-producing and cold-excluding efficiencies of their homes.

Those home owners who wish to be kind to their furnaces and pocket-books this year— since we are on the upward slope of the "moisture curve" that means blizzards and zero temperatures — will be particularly interested in tests made by Prof. G. L. Larson at the University of Wisconsin that show fuel cost savings averaging 30-3 per cent accomplished by modern insulation of doors and windows by storm sash. One test house showed an actual average saving, in normal winters, of $88 per year in fuel bills.

"So much research has gone into scientific insulation of windows, and so many refinements have been made in sash types, that "window conditioning" has become a definite branch of the practical "art" of protecting the home against cold," says Paul MacAlister, director of the Permanent Exhibition of Decoration and Architecture in New York. "With it the thrifty householder can, in the interests of economy and comfort, lock out wintry blasts without sacrificing the artistic, decorative and health benefits that large window areas give to a house."

Although "window conditioning" sounds rather technical, the process is quite simple. It consists of creating a locked panel of air between two panes of glass in both windows and doors. This may be done either by permanent double glazing in one sash or by installing storm sash.

Methods and materials have undergone a great deal of refinement in recent years, Mr. MacAlister points out, so that new types of double-glazing installations are easily applied, have handy provisions for cleaning and ventilating, and come in various styles that harmonize with the architectural treatment of any type of home. New forms of outer sash work as effectively and easily on casement-type windows as on the conventional "up-and-down" or double-hung type.

The housewife best appreciates window-conditioning because it reclaims large "premium" areas near windows in many rooms of the house which, without such insulation, would be lost as far as warmth and comfort are concerned. She wants to sit by the window to knit or sew or read, and she wants to be able to let the baby roam the room at will, without fear of drafts.

But the man of the house, beset by fuel bills, can be re-assured as to the expectable cash return on his window-conditioning investment by results of the Wisconsin experiments, which showed that, on the average for moderately-priced homes, the fuel savings resulting from window insulation paid for the installation in one-and-one-third seasons. In other words, before he was halfway through the second winter, all the fuel bill savings— averaging 30-3 per cent— had become "velvet", and meanwhile the family was enjoying the added dividends of comfort and health.

Weeds In Seeds Peril To Buyer

Average farm seed purchasers know too little about what they can acquire in the form of new weed hazards, if inquiries coming to the farm crops department of Michigan State College are a guide.

Although the present state seed law in Michigan appears adequate, it does not regulate farm to farm sales.

"Beware thy neighbor is the rule at times," says R. E. Decker, farm crops specialist at the college. For he finds that ignorance on the part of both seller and buyer often leads to spread of weeds.

What are these typical weed seeds that might find spread in Charlevoix County?

With alfalfa and clover seeds, says Decker, a purchaser might find seeds of such weeds as buckhorn, wild carrot, dock, sorrel or some of the mustards. It is even possible to acquire sticky cockle or hulled quackgrass.

Oats can contain mustard which sticks in the oat hull, quackgrass or Canada thistle. Wheat sometimes includes chess and cockle.

Even city seed buyers need to beware. For in purchases of poorly cleaned lawgrass seed there might be chickweed or crabgrass. These two weeds are among the most serious worries of those who try to maintain an attractive greensward.

Considerable protection is offered in the state law. This requires anyone offering seed for sale, except that moving from farm to farm, to have this seed tagged, showing purity, stating the percentage of foreign seed, percentage of inert matter and the percent germination with the date of the germination test.

THE REAL TROUBLE

Robinson's liquor was disappearing in a manner which he thought suspicious. So he talked to his new housekeeper about it. "Your predecessor," he said, "was a very trustworthy woman. You see that bottle—" "I hope, sir," interrupted the housekeeper, "you don't think that I would stoop to touch it. I come from honest English parents, and—" "I'm not grumbling at your parents," retorted Robinson. "It's your Scotch extraction that I'm complaining of."—Montreal Star.

Had Her Tooter

An eight-year-old girl is pioneering in her first year of public school after three years in a small private school. She told her mother one of her little classmates had asked her if she ever had a tutor, and said she had answered, "Of course." "Why did you tell her that?" the mother inquired. "Do you know what a tutor is?" "Of course I do, mother," replied the little girl with a patronizing smirk, "it's something to toot on!"—Kansas City Star.

OUT OF THE PICTURE

"Weren't you nervous when you saw that there were thirteen at the table?" "Yes, until I found out half of them were dead ones, already."

In Action

An ex-naval gunner's mate dozed off in front of the kitchen stove and let his evening paper fall against the red-hot bars. "Fire!" exclaimed his startled wife, and the paper blazed up. Waking up with a start, the gunner rammed the cat into the oven, banged the door and roared, "Ready, sir."

Too Candid

Between Friends

"Say, old chap, you're a good friend of mine, aren't you?" "Sure. And you're a good friend of mine, aren't you?" "Sure. And say, I want to borrow ten dollars." "Quiet, Fido, quiet. Listen. So do I, and if you can find anybody with a few bucks to spare, let me know, will you?"

Good Reason

Oldest Inhabitant—I be ninety-four years of age, sir, and I haven't got an enemy in the world. Village Parson—That is a most beautiful thought, William. Oldest Inhabitant—Ay, so it be, sir. I've outlived 'em all.

Mysterious

First Boarder—What's this in my plate? Second Boarder—It may be soup. It's happened here once or twice lately.

Why Not?

"How do you do, Dr. McGregor?" said Jones, addressing a tall Scot in the local bar. "Ye've made a mistake. I'm no' Dr. McGregor." "No? Well then you must have a double." "Thank you, I will that!" was the reply.

WITH THE ANTRIM COUNTY AGRI. AGENT W. Kirkpatrick, Extension Agent

75,000 SEEDLINGS PLANTED IN ANTRIM COUNTY DURING YEAR.

With the planting of 20,000 seedlings during the past week as demonstration plantings by CCC boys from Camp Kalkaska, Antrim County's reforestation project has seen 75,000 seedlings planted since early last spring, according to Walter G. Kirkpatrick, County Agricultural Agent. These plantings have mostly been made on land that was at one time cleared and on which people attempted to make a living, only to find that the land was not suitable for agriculture.

The 75,000 seedlings planted included seven demonstration plantings by the CCC Camp at Kalkaska, school, county, municipal and private plantings.

The demonstration plantings were made in various parts of the county in order to give people living in all parts of the county an opportunity to see the plantings being made and later watch the plantings as they grow. These plantings were made on the farms of Martin Madison, Banks Township; Elmer Murray, Echo Twp.; Jerry Dewey, Custer Twp.; Merritt Fox, Milton Twp.; F. H. Hastings, Central Lake Twp.; Thos. Buell, Warner Twp.; and Ward Primrose of Star Twp. All of these plantings were well attended by local people and are open to inspection, it is expected that many private plantings will be made next year and years following as a direct result.

School Plantings were made this spring by 4-H Clubs from the schools of Bellaire, Alba, Mancelona, and Ellsworth. In these plantings, boys and girls alike were given actual experience in the planting of seedlings. A check of these plantings this fall indicates that nearly a ninety per cent live was experienced. It is expected that these schools will continue with the planting project each spring and if the land can be obtained, other schools will increase next years number.

Municipal plantings include those by the County of Antrim which has a half a section of land in Mancelona Twp. that it has been planting on for several years. The villages of Bellaire and Mancelona also have Municipal Forests which they are developing. Bellaire's forest area totals well over one hundred acres.

There are many tracts of land in Antrim County, varying in size from small acreage to many, that are suited only for forest lands. At the present many of these areas are laying idle while some are being pastured.

Michigan Ranks 12th In Poultry

Michigan ranks nationally about 12th in a huge poultry industry, yet too many of the state's 196,000 farms are keeping laying flocks without records and without profit.

To make poultry more efficient and profitable, a new bulletin has been compiled by the farm management department at Michigan State College "Profitable Poultry Management," Special Bulletin No. 294.

Eighty-three per cent of farms maintain a flock either large or small in this state, according to the last census. Cost figures obtained by K. T. Wright indicate that among co-operators in the cost studies the most efficient poultrymen were able to show a net annual return of 86 cents a hen. The same study for the least efficient showed other poultrymen had an average loss of 21 cents a hen.

Five production factors were considered. These included eggs laid by the average hen in a flock, fall production, feeding efficiency, death loss and culling percentage, and labor efficiency. Flocks studied were above the average in size and efficiency. Yet in Wright's opinion this only emphasizes the effect of poor management by less efficient and more average poultry keepers. The bulletin offers proof of the effects of watching the most important factors for profitable management.

Fifteen counties in the state are credited with more than a quarter million chickens each. Allegan leads, followed by Ottawa, Lenawee, Saginaw, Huron, Hillsdale, Monroe, Tuscola, Sanilac, Van Buren, St. Clair, Kent, Macomb, Washtenaw and Berrien.

A total of 1,500 human lives and the destruction of more than 1,300,000 acres of standing timber were the toll of the United States' most disastrous forest fire, known as the Peshtigo fire, which occurred in Wisconsin in October, 1871.

The Agricultural Adjustment Administration considers Forest Plantings as a soil building practice and the payments received from such will practically pay for the seedlings needed to plant an acre of land. Land planted to seedlings will not only be growing a crop of timber but will also eliminate such land from being a grasshopper breeding area, in many instances eliminate soil erosion and conserve moisture through acting as a windbreak as well as making game cover.

People interested in price lists of seedlings and further information are invited to consult the County Agricultural Agent.
