Program For Winter Carnival

EAST JORDAN'S SECOND ANNUAL AFFAIR, SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 18

Local winter sport enthusiasts have now but to sit back and hope for ideal weather for East Jordan's Second Annual Winter Carnival, which will be held at the State Street Municipal Skating Rink Saturday, Feb. 18th. An organized program for afternoon and evening activities have already been set up by the committee in charge.

The following program will be run off promptly as scheduled.

Afternoon Activities
2:30 — Races for all age groups.
3:30 — Figure skating exhibition by Charlevoix Skating Club.
4:00 — Continuation of races.

Evening Activities
7:30 — Presentation of awards to the various winners of the afternoon races.

8:00 — Fancy Skating exhibition by the Petoskey Figure Skating Club.
8:30 — Coronation of East Jordan's Winter Queen, Miss Louise Bechtold.

9:00 — Broomball game. Ironton Chamber of Commerce vs. the East Jordan Chamber of Commerce.

9:30 — General Skating.

The racing program will be handled in the same manner as last year, with the following races for the various age groups. Anyone wishing to enter the contests are asked to register at the Municipal Rink: Dash, boys 12 and under; Dash, girls 12 and under; Dash, boys 13-16; Dash, girls 13-16; Dash, men open; 1/4 mile boys 13-16; 1/4 mile men open; 1/2 mile boys 13-16; 1/2 mile men open; 1/2 mile girls 13-16; 1/2 mile men open; 1/2 mile girls 13-16; Relay race four laps for the high school championship.

According to Mr. Roberts, both Charlevoix and Petoskey will bring in outstanding skaters to give exhibitions. Invitations have been sent out to Petoskey, Mancelona, Boyne City, and Charlevoix Winter Queens, to attend the Carnival as guests of honor. The coronation of the queen, accompanied by her court, will be the big event of the evening. The broomball game should be a wow!, with the East Jordan C. of C. entertaining the Ironton C. of C.

A public address and sound system will be on hand to add interest to the celebration. The high school band may also be on hand to furnish additional music.

The rink Wednesday evening of this week was in the best condition it has been this winter. Large crowds have turned out each evening with the rink supervised by local recreational leaders.

Again we are hoping for ideal weather and with it everyone can be assured that the Second Annual Winter Carnival will be a huge success.

Kelly Warns That March First Is Auto Tag Deadline

With the deadline approaching when the 1938 license plates will no longer be legal, Harry F. Kelly, Secretary of State, points out that over 5,000 automobile titles, lost by their owners in the past, are being held by the Department until their owners realize their loss and inquire for them.

If the correct addresses were known, these titles would of course be sent to their owners, but the file of "lost titles" contains only those which postal authorities have returned after not being able to deliver because of faulty addresses given by applicants for titles.

Kelly points out that annually thousands of people are frustrated for a time at least by a frantic search for their car titles which they must present when they apply for plates.

With well over 1,200,000 motor vehicles still without their 1939 license plates and the deadline set by law at midnight, February 28, Kelly points to an inevitable jam at every Department of State Branch Office in the State at the end of this month. He stresses the fact that the 1937 legislature designated the last day of February as the final date for plate or permit purchase each year and neither the Secretary of State or any other official of the State or municipal officer has any discretionary power to extend the date permitting the use of 1938 plates. He suggests that those deferring their purchase of plates through necessity make certain at this time that they have their titles available.

Motorists are urged to purchase their plates as early as possible to avoid the discomfort of standing in line. Half-year plates are now on sale at all Branch Offices of the Department of State.

Garden Club Meets Tuesday Feb'y 21st, At The Library Bldg.

The East Jordan Garden Club will hold its first meeting for 1939 on Tuesday, February 21st, at 2:30 p. m. in the library.

Every member is urged to be present with a houseplant in bloom and a suggestion for the summer program of the Garden Club. Plants and suggestions will be discussed as part of the program.

Mrs. Hitt, chairman of the membership committee, is now collecting annual dues ($0.25), and states that all members who register before publication of the new Garden Club year book will be listed therein.

At this first meeting the Garden Center committee will open the Garden Center for service.

Visitors are invited.

F. & S. Banquet Next Thursday

ROTARIANS IN CHARGE OF FATHER & SON BANQUET

The annual Father & Son Banquet will be held Thursday, February 16, in the High School auditorium at 6:30 p. m., sponsored by the East Jordan Rotary Club. The Methodist Ladies Aid will serve, and the usual fine meal may be expected.

A short program has been arranged by the committee. After some music and short talks, the main speaker of the evening, Rev. John Van Straate, will be introduced by toastmaster Howard Porter. Rev. John Van Straate of Saulte Ste. Marie is very entertaining, as well as instructive.

Rev. J. C. Mathews has charge of ticket sales which will be $1.00 for father and son. Everyone turn out and make this annual affair a success.

Canners Win Number Ten

HAD A REAL JOB ON TO DEFEAT KALKASKA MERCHANTS

The East Jordan Canners came near losing its winning streak at nine in a row here last Thursday evening, as the Kalkaska Merchants held the Jordanites to a slim 36 to 28 decision. In chalking up its tenth straight triumph the Sinclairmen were far off form, their passing erratic, their defense loosely set up, and their shooting far from what is expected.

The Canners regular took the lead in the opening period 11 to 8, and were replaced by the alternating combination in the second stanza, as the visitors crept up the score standing 15 to 14 at the intermission.

In the opening minutes of the third period the Kasky men became the first team to lead—the Jordanites this winter as they went into the lead on two successive field goals. Here a called time out aided the locals to get back on their feet as they went on to take a comfortable 31 to 21 lead at the close of the third stanza. Again the alternating lineup came back in and this time succeeded in staving off the visitors final quarter efforts.

The game was cleanly played throughout with only a faint resemblance, at times, of the previous meeting of the two teams.

Captain "Spin" Cihak, topped the Jordanite scoring column with 12 points, L. Nelson was high man for the visitors with 9.

Community Forester's Popular

OVER ONE HUNDRED NOW RECORDED IN MICHIGAN

Spread of school and community forest movement in Michigan is reflected in a recent check made by the forestry department of Michigan state college revealing that the state now numbers 105 recorded forests. In addition there are a considerable number of community forests some of which have been in operation for a number of years.

The law giving legal status to community forests was enacted in 1931. In order to encourage the movement the forestry division of the conservation department has given more than seven million pine seedlings for community forest plantings during the last seven years.

Due to the large number of requests received it has been necessary to place a limit on the number of trees given without charge to any one agency. In case additional trees are desired they may be purchased either from the conservation department, the forestry department of Michigan State college at East Lansing or from the regular commercial nurseries. The law defines a community or municipal forest as a tract of land operated for forest crops by a city, town, school district, township or county. No taxes may be levied against a community forest established under the Michigan act.

State foresters regard the community forests as of high educational value. They serve not only to demonstrate the need and possibilities of reforestation specifically but also to call attention to the need for fire protection, the importance of trees to wildlife and outdoor recreation and the part that reforestation can play in solving the idle land problem. Schools in the vicinity of the forests use them to demonstrate forestry, botany, nature study and other subjects, both directly and indirectly.

County Wide Dairy Meeting

AT EAST JORDAN THURSDAY NIGHT, FEBRUARY 16th

Selecting more carefully the dairy sires in Michigan dairy herds would assist dairymen to have a larger volume of similarly bred cattle raised for home purposes and also available for sale of surplus livestock, according to A. G. Baltzer, extension specialist, Michigan State College.

To assist dairymen in, first, locating sires with good inheritance, and second, developing plans to stimulate use of such well selected sires over a longer period of time will be among the topics discussed in connection with the dairy-breeding school on Thursday night, February 16, in the East Jordan City Building starting promptly at 8:00.

Through record keeping in dairy feeding organizations, valuable information is being gained relative to the transmitting factors of milk and butterfat tests in dairy cattle, using such information in selecting young bulls for future herd sires is a possibility that Michigan dairymen can use to improve the dairy cattle inheritance.

The Jordan Valley Cooperative Creamery is cooperating in this series of dairy meetings and, as an added inducement for you to attend, are contributing a free lunch at the conclusion of the meeting. This is the second meeting held in the series with the third one scheduled for Thursday night, March 16. Some entirely new information will be given you in regard to the selection of the dairy sire which should be of great interest to you as a dairyman. Don't fail to attend. A most profitable evening can be assured you so make your plans now and bring your neighbors with you.

Many Attend Ironton C. of C. Meeting Held February 1st

Despite threats of a blizzard, some 115 people from Boyne City, Charlevoix and East Jordan Chamber's of Commerce were on hand for the "coming out" party of the newly organized Ironton Chamber of Commerce Wednesday evening, February 1st.

The event, which was a stag affair, consisted of an oyster supper, served by the Ironton boys and, how those oysters disappeared.

After the supper, Pres. Wm. Sanderson, of Ironton C. of C. introduced George Hanson, who acted as toastmaster for the evening.

Several fine talks were given on the resort prospect of the four communities. Among the speakers were Ed. Reulling of East Jordan; Dr. James Fairchild, president of the newly organized Boyne City Chamber of Commerce and, Rev. Buck also of Boyne City; Bob Bridge, Oscar P. North and Clair Webster of Charlevoix. George Hemmingway of Ironton gave the address of welcome.

The Charlevoix Kiwanis club sang "The Man on the Flying Trapeze."

The East Jordan male quartet had a tough "break" and were unable to sing, due to a couple of sprained gaskets and a badly wrenched boiler on their steam calliope.

East Jordan's congratulations and best wishes for a successful career goes to Ironton for their newest undertaking.

New Book For Tourist

COVERS CABIN CAMPS AND TOURIST ROOMS. READY APRIL 1st.

A new type of tourist information booklet designed to be of assistance to those who come to Michigan and plan to stay in cabin camps or tourist rooms, now is being compiled by the West Michigan Tourist and Resort Association and will be ready for distribution about April 1.

The book will list only the better tourist room-places and cabin camps. The places will be inspected before they are listed and inspections will be made several times during the year to insure for the traveling public that they maintain a high standard of cleanliness and service.

"We have found that the better tourist rooms and cabin camps are eager to cooperate with the Tourist Association in making this information available to motoring public," Hugh J. Gray, secretary manager of the Association said in announcing the plans for the book. "It is our hope to make this book self supporting," he said, "but we do not plan to make a profit on it."

"Our purpose in preparing this listing is that we may be of greater service to the touring public which plans to stay in cabin camps or tourist rooms on their trip to Michigan, from whom we receive thousands of requests for information each year, and to the Michigan residents who are legitimately in that business," Mr. Gray said.

"We have tried to reach all of those whom you think might be interested in such a listing, through correspondence and by personal solicitation," Mr. Gray continued. "It is possible though that we may have missed some of those who should be listed and if that is the case we hope that they will contact our office in Grand Rapids before the booklet goes to press."

Mr. Gray pointed out that, in addition to the listing in the book, each tourist camp or tourist room is loaned an enamelled metal sign to identify them as members of the Association. It is planned to bring out 25,000 copies in the first printing and if this is not sufficient to meet the demand to print more.

By using the facilities of the Tourist and Resort Association it will be possible to put these books into the hands of our prospective guests before they leave their homes. They will be distributed principally through the outstate offices in Chicago, Cleveland, Cincinnati, St. Louis and Detroit.

RODE AWAY FROM HOME

St. Johns — Although children sometimes get the urge to run away from home Frances Blaha, 15, who lives near Laingsburg, is different. She rode away from home, mounting a horse on Tuesday, she rode until Wednesday afternoon, when a deputy sheriff found her coming into St. Johns.

The hair of the whitetail deer is hollow; in the winter when the coat is heavy it will float the animal in water, dead or alive.

Jamboree Set For March 25th

PUBLICITY FOR CELEBRATION BEING SENT OUT

The date for the annual National Smelt Jamboree has been set as March 25th, this year, and auto and letter stickers are already being sent to various parts of the Midwest.

The Jamboree will again be sponsored by a joint committee from the Jordan River Sportsmen's Club and the Chamber of Commerce. The committee consists of C. W. Bowman, Cal Bennett, Charles Murphy and Sam Rogers of the Sportsmen's Club, and Percy Penfold, Howard Darbee, Ole Hegerberg and Ed. Reulling of the Chamber of Commerce. Geo. Secord, Joe Bugai and Paul Lisk again have charge of publicity and communications.

Inquiries have already come in from Illinois, Indiana and Ohio, regarding the Run and Jamboree, and from all indications, smelt fever is attacking outsiders earlier this year than ever before.

Joe Bugai, Earl Clark and Geo. Secord met with the Boyne City Rod and Gun Club Tuesday evening and discussed ways for the two cities to cooperate with their celebrations. Boyne City's festival will probably not come the same day as East Jordan's this year, thus the two towns will be able to attend each others celebrations.

Plans For Recreation Hall Going Forward

Plans drew rapidly to a head regarding the idea of a recreation hall for boys, at the weekly Rotary club meeting Tuesday noon, Feb. 7. Dr. B. J. Beuker, who had charge of the meeting, told of plans for a recreational hall. He also spoke of a plan that had been formulated for a resort-reality company, which would be of considerable benefit to East Jordan's tourist business.

Rev. G. Russell Parker, of the Congregational church at Charlevoix was then introduced by Dr. Beuker. Rev. Parker has had charge of a recreational hall at Charlevoix for several years, and, although the hall there is now closed because of difficulties in finding a proper building, told of the benefits and difficulties of such an idea. He favored the idea of a hall for both boys and girls, stating that at times, their hall there entertained a crowd of from 200 to 300 children, and several married people. Entertainment was furnished by a pool table, ping-pong table, various games, and magazines.

Robert A. Campbell will have charge of the next meeting.

Four Star Week For Temple

To us the announcement of the Temple attractions for the coming week is exciting news and it will be with regret that any of the fine entertainment is missed.

Opening the parade of hits is the Saturday bill of mile-a-minute thrills "Road Demon" starring Henry Armetta, Bill Robinson, Lon Chaney, Jr., and Joan Valerie. A new release of the Sport Adventure series, this exciting drama has a background of the Indianapolis Speedway and those hardy heroes who risk neck and purse to the plaudits of the roaring crowd.

"Thanks For Everything", freshest and gayest musical comedy hit for ages, is the Sunday and Monday opus and features Jack Oakie, Adolph Menjou, Tony Martin, Jack Haley, Herman Bing, George Barber, Warren Hymer, Binnie Barnes and a host of other outstanding talent. Packed with hilarious fun and sprinkled with song hits this is grand entertainment.

Family Nites on Tuesday and Wednesday brings us Boris Karloff in the startling inside story of "Devils Island." Telling a searing story of unbelievable truths this tense story will hold you spell bound.

A grand picture, "Kentucky", ends the week on Thursday and Friday with a stirring tale of American Gentlemen and American thoroughbreds. Entirely in beautiful Technicolor this moving drama stars three well-loved players, Loretta Young, Richard Greene and Walter Brennan, each contributing a memorial performance.

Yes Indeed, quite some entertainment! And well just say, "Thanks For Everything."

AN APPRECIATION

We wish to express our sincere appreciation to relatives and other friends for their many useful and kindly remembrances to us on the occasion of our Golden Wedding Anniversary. — Saturday, Feb'y. 4th. — Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Warden.

Thirty-five Years As Publisher of East Jordan's Newspaper

With this issue of the Charlevoix County Herald the publisher, G. A. Lisk, rounds out his thirty-fifth year as owner and editor of East Jordan's Newspaper.

The writer purchased The Herald on Feb'y 10th, 1904, of Roy L. Lorraine who had guided its destinies for the previous three years. In 1904 East Jordan had a village form of government with L. A. Hoyt as president and Chas. A. Hudson clerk.

With lumbering operations in full swing throughout this region and reaching up to Deward and Frederic, East Jordan was a busy center of activity.

For the most part, these thirty-five years have, for the Publisher, been years of hard labor, but a labor which has had, outside of the financial end, rich compensations. Newspapers have in the past thirty-five years made big strides in advancement, due to the fact that publishers have adopted better business methods. Better business methods have brought better newspapers and the people like it and support them better.

Your Publisher takes a small amount of pride in knowing that he took over a rather poorly-equipped printing plant and, during these years, has built up the equipment and job stocks until today East Jordan can boast of having in its midst one of the finest country printing offices to be found anywhere in the State.

During the past few years, your publisher has been leaning more and more on his son, Paul, to carry on the many details of the work. A young man who has smelt printers ink from birth, he has taken naturally to the work and, as he develops, your Publisher finds it a great convenience to load more and more of the work onto his shoulders.

What the future holds in store for The Herald can only be a conjecture, but if the people of this community are inspired by the true community spirit — and we have no doubts on this score — then working hand in hand, the possibilities are large and the growth and importance of this section will be greatly increased. In all good work the present publisher extends a ready hand.

With a thousand thanks for past support, and with a hope for a Bigger and Better East Jordan, we are,

Yours To Serve,
G. A. LISK, Publisher.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—John F. Stevens was self-educated as an engineer. Therefore, he was an eclectic and readily made use of a retired murderer to accomplish a desperately important end, regardless of the lack of engineering precedent. He is now 86, one of the greatest of American engineers, the first engineer in charge of planning and building the Panama canal, recently awarded the Hoover medal by the American Society of Civil Engineers at its eighty-sixth annual meeting in New York.

The murderer who came in handy was a Montana Blackfoot Indian. Jim Hill's new railroad, west-bound from St. Paul, was rather impulsively started. It ran slapping into the impenetrable wall of the Rocky mountains. There was an Indian legend that there was a pass over the divide, along the course of the Marias river. Mr. Stevens, a young engineer for the railroad, talked to the Blackfoot about it. There was such a pass. They knew all about it. But not all of Jim Hill's wampum could bribe them—even to point in that direction. This Marias pass was the dwelling place of evil spirits, of sorcerers, of dreadful demons, and all who went that way lost either their lives or their reason.

Mr. Stevens mushed over the mountains with the thermometer at 50 degrees below zero and found no pass. But, by chance, he found a wanderer in the wilderness, a Blackfoot driven out by his tribe because he had killed a man. The Indian had been having a difficult time. A few devils and monsters, more or less, meant little to him. They made a deal. The story of their days-on-end scramble to the roof of the continent through five feet of snow and bitter cold, with Mr. Stevens sleepless as he kept an eye on his homicidal guide, is one of the classics of the conquest of the wilderness. They found the pass, and their return was another desperate adventure. But soon the scream of locomotives was crying down the demons, who, presumably, moved on.

When the Panama canal was projected, John F. Stevens fought through, against weighty opposition, the lock principle against the sea-level plan. The engineer in charge, from 1905 until he was succeeded by General Goethals, he flattened all the demons of disease and disorder which had licked De Lesseps. General Goethals rated his work as among the greatest of engineering achievements. He was minister plenipotentiary to the Soviets in 1917, remaining six years and reorganizing and rebuilding their railroads.

DR. VANNEVAR BUSH, testifying on the patent system before the national economy committee at Washington, is the inventor of a "mechanical brain," or "thinking machine." It is as big as a sawmill that solves problems "too difficult for the human brain." It works nicely, and Franklin Institute awarded him a medal for it.

One can think offhand of a lot of vexing problems that might be tossed into its hopper these days. Set up in congress, dealing the answers on war and peace, national defense, relief and a balanced budget, it ought to save a lot of money.

Dr. Bush, former vice president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, became president of the Carnegie Institution on January 1 of this year. He is one of the most distinguished mathematical physicists in America. A tall, genial, bespectacled scientist, with a slightly stooped and somewhat stringy figure, with untamed hair, he leads reporters quite out of their depth. His metallic cerebration was just one of many of his interesting devices and discoveries, including, particularly, research in the transmission of electric power, to which he has made notable contributions.

The son of a distinguished Boston clergyman, he romped through Tufts, Harvard and M. I. T., picking up three degrees in three and one-half years, thereafter teaching at M. I. T.

On February 19, 1936, addressing the New York Patent Lawyers' association, he was severely critical of the American patent system, for its "appalling fixity and lack of adaptability." At the current committee hearing, he comments it, but both meager news reports are out of their context, and Dr. Bush doubtless could defend himself against charge of inconsistency.

Weekly News Analysis Isolation vs. Internationalism: Senate Debates Foreign Policy

By Joseph W. LaBine

THE PRESIDENT'S VISITING FIREMEN
The conference was secret, but someone spoke.

EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst, and not necessarily of the newspaper.

Defense

In dealing with today's international situation the U. S. government has its choice of two methods. Any citizen may hold to one or the other method with equal righteousness:

(1) Strict neutrality and isolation. Europe's affairs are no business of ours. We should have no arms secrets, no secret alliances; all U. S. activities should be strictly aboveboard because secrets are undemocratic and tend to create public doubt about the government.

(2) The antithesis. In 1939 one hemisphere's problems are another's. If the institution of democracy is worth saving we must join other nations in aggressive combat against dictators. This need not mean war, but constitutes economic and military favoritism to one group of nations, with sanctions against others.

In post-World war history, not until the current winter have there been two contrasting foreign policies found such ardent champions as to cause a marked rift in Washington. Champions of the latter (favoritism) are President Roosevelt and administration leaders. Opposed is practically every Republican senator and congressman, plus a formidable bloc of insurgent Democrats. That this difference of opinion is partly a reflection of political animosity is a foregone conclusion. Administration forces favor internationalism as expressed in Secretary of State Cordell Hull's reciprocal trade treaties; contrariwise is the traditional Republican tenet of high tariff walls and the isolation that inevitably accompanies them.

This winter's foreign policy battle got its real start when a bombing plane crashed in California, bouncing out a representative of the French air ministry whose presence in the U. S. had previously been kept secret. The subsequent revelations that President Roosevelt had approved sale of U. S.-made warplanes to France, though army secrets were being carefully guarded from all foreigners. A few days later the senate's military affairs committee constituted itself a body of visiting firemen (see photo) to call on the President and get the real facts about a rumored U. S.-French military alliance.

The secret President Roosevelt reportedly told his visitors was so choice that some anonymous committeeman blurted to the press—the minute the conference ended, which bespeaks the futility of any administration attempt at sharing its military secrets with congress. The alleged secret: That the U. S. is following a policy of selling arms to "independent states" as opposed to dictators; that the U. S. will give Britain and France every assistance but troops in case of war; that the "frontiers of the United States are in France."

If a vote were taken, most people would sympathize with the President's foreign policy, i.e., to help Britain, France and China against Japan, Italy and Germany; to improve trade and political relations with South America, where dictator states are attempting to gain sway. But for the President to speak openly of his purpose brings the situation into a shockingly sharp focus for the first time.

The net result will probably be open-congressional revolt against secret alliances, against favoritism in military exports and even against the President's emergency defense program, which many legislators think is unjustified in view of the tax burden it would create. Tossed in along with other subjects of resentment will be a broadside against the treasury's highly-secret stabilization fund, which congress fears is being used to further monetary agreements with Britain and France.

In the end a cumbersome, loud-voiced and highly opinionated congress may find itself incapable of taking a constructive hand in foreign policy. Though rightfully indignant over a Pan-Democracy alliance because future Anglo-French friendship is problematical, Massachusetts' Sen. David I. Walsh summed up the entire exasperating situation quite well: "In God's name, who are we (the U. S.) to determine where truth and justice exist? When we attempt it, we will find ourselves in trouble."

Treasury

Depressions hatch pension plans and this winter's congress is deluged with panaceas to make the U. S. safe for old people. Believing most such plans (like Townsendism) to be impractical, the administration has offered congress its own ideas via proposed amendments to the social security law.

Biggest amendment is that calling for a start on old-age benefit payments in 1940 instead of 1942, annuities to be based not on payroll taxes actually paid out on wage rates. Hence the social security board would simply make believe that benefit recipients had been paying taxes throughout their adult lives instead of a mere four years. Other proposals would (1) provide supplementary pensions for aged wives, (2) help widows and orphans of social security's insurees, and (3) enlarge the program to include farm laborers, seamen, servants, domestics and self-employers.

TREASURY'S MORGENTHAU
Social security is costly.

Starting hearings on this program, the house ways and means committee was started to learn that more social security would cost tremendously more money, so much in fact, that Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. was reported stroking his chin perplexedly. Morgenthau figures:

(1) It would cost $1,000,000,000 a year more than at present.
(2) Social security's hoped-for 1980 reserve of $47,000,000,000 would be cut to $7,000,000,000, meaning that the U. S. must find from $1,250,000,000 to $1,500,000,000 new annual taxes to continue financing the program.

If the above details bother the committee, still more trouble will hatch when California's Rep. Bertrand W. Gearhart asks abolition of the present payroll tax and substitution of general revenue levies for a pay-as-you-go social security. Since the government must already levy extra taxes to pay interest on funds it is borrowing from social security's reserve fund, Mr. Gearhart's plan has attracted many congressmen who think it is fallacious to tax the public for borrowing funds the public has already been taxed for via social security. If the Gearhart plan is adopted, general revenue taxes must be hiked $1,000,000,000 a year at present (under the unamended social security act), twice as much in 1950, four times as much in 1980.

Europe

After a nation wins so many victories as Nazi Germany has won in the past 12 months (Austria, Czechoslovakia, Spain) it can practicably adopt a "peace" policy and continue to win concessions from weaker powers, who thereby gain the privilege of sighing with relief. In Germany's case a "peace" policy is the more practicable because the Reich must consolidate the past year's gains and pay temporary attention to repairing its internal structure.

How permanent Europe's "peace" will be is conjectural. But following Chancellor Hitler's half-threatening, half-conciliating speech before the Reichstag, most of the continent was able to settle back while the wisecracks drew a prediction from the hat. The prediction: That a peace era is dawning with Hitler at the reins, during which Italy will win territorial concessions from France, and Germany will regain her war-lost colonies. Moreover the Reich will probably wheedle a trade treaty out of Britain and—most dangerous of all to permanent peace—a military-economic peace with Russia. Point-by-point:

Russia. Thoroughly scared by the chance that Germany will dominate a Pan-Ukrainian movement in south Russia, the Soviet is ready to come to terms with Hitler. In exchange for surrendering his Ukrainian plans Der Fuehrer could tap Russia's endless supply of foodstuffs. The possibility is confirmed by Izvestia, Moscow Communist organ: "Should Germany extend a hand to Russia, it will not remain floating in the air." The gravest consequences might result from such an alliance, for Russian resources and manpower, coupled with German ingenuity, could throw a dictator scare into the entire world.

Colonies. Most of Germany's former colonies are mandated to Britain. Hitler's speech demanded their return and the next day Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain told the house of commons he would not discuss colonies with Germany without "an agreed and ample measure of disarmament." This showed Mr. Chamberlain is nevertheless willing to return the colonies, and since the Reich's conquest is already almost complete Hitler should have no objection to a temporary arms reduction.

Trade. Hitler's speech declared the Reich "must export or die." Next day Robert Spear, Hudson of the British overseas trade department said he believed "there is plenty of export trade to go around." More important was the announcement that German and British industrial representatives will soon meet at Duesseldorf to consider "mutual trade and economic problems."

Italy vs. France. Hitler promised to aid Italy in case of war, obviously referring to Mussolini's territorial claims against France. Since German-British relations are reaching an amicable stage, Britain would therefore not be prone to aid France against a German-Italian combination. Hence it can be predicted that Italy may get her share in the Suez canal, plus ownership of the Djibouti-Addis Ababa railroad.

Trend. Having boxed its way into a position of dominant European power, the Reich is now ready to press its pants and assume a role of respectability.

Public Works

Created in 1933, the public works administration pays 55 per cent of local-sponsored construction projects. Scheduled to expire in 1940, PWA still has $1,500,000,000 in projects on file and would like to become a permanent agency to combat unemployment and centralize federal relief projects. Soon to be offered is an administration bill embodying this program. No special annual appropriation will be asked but congress will get data to show the necessity of creating a "permanent financial reservoir" of $1,000,000,000 a year.

Transportation

With fairs on both east and west coasts this summer, U. S. railroads figured most vacationists would take in one or the other, might even take in both with a little incentive. Just announced by the Association of American Railroads is a "grand circle" fare plan which bids fair to boom 1939 passenger travel. The scheme: Beginning April 28, a person in any point in the country can travel to both New York and San Francisco exhibitions and back home at a total coach fare of $90. First class fare is $135, plus space charges.

Trend

How the wind is blowing . . .

TEMPTATION—To lure 4,000 hunger strikers "back home" from their protest against corn beef hash, California's San Quentin prison set out coffee—with cream and sugar.

REFUGEES—New York's Rep. Samuel Dickstein is drafting legislation to open Alaska to European refugees, a move recently suggested by German Jew-baiters.

MANGANESE—The price of Arkansas manganese, "starch for steel," has reached its highest point in years, thanks to European rearmament.

DRILL—"Squads right" is being omitted tentatively from new U. S. army drill regulations.

Genuine Strain Being Placed Upon Administration Control of Senate

President's Appointments to Public Office Are Upsetting To Some of His Followers; Roper Virtually Forced Out As Secretary of Commerce to Make Room for Hopkins.

By WILLIAM BRUCKART

WNU Service, National Press Bldg., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON.—President Roosevelt's followers in the senate of the United States are finding it increasingly difficult these days to stay off of a hot seat. Indeed, if I read the signs rightly, they are getting rather restive and there is a genuine strain being placed upon the administration control in that body of congress. Whereas, it appeared a month ago that the anti-administration senators would break out of control only on major issues, it now seems that there is a real threat of danger to the President on minor, as well as major, questions.

The new developments have come, and are continuing to come, from what some believe to be an unwise course on the President's part in the matter of nominations to public office—appointments that must have approval of the senate. Whether the President is to blame, personally, for placing these distasteful names in the mouths of senators, or whether, as heretofore, the condition results from the activities of the "inner circle," the effect is the same. It is a very real problem for the administration advisors to ponder, and it is entirely possible that Mr. Roosevelt will get a slap in the face by senate rejection of some of the nominees for judgeships and other public offices. It is just possible that some senators will gag at swallowing several of the names. If that happens, what will be left Mr. Roosevelt's mastery of the senate thereafter will be meaningless.

Observers here in Washington heard many private remarks of a very uncomplimentary character last fall when Mr. Roosevelt named Gov. James V. Alfred of Texas to a federal judgeship. It was so plainly political that some individuals who are very close to Mr. Roosevelt were disgusted. They did not speak out then, but they are bolder now.

Shortly thereafter, Mr. Roosevelt named Floyd Roberts to a federal judgeship in Virginia. Now, apparently, Mr. Roberts is about as well equipped to be a judge as I would be—if we are to believe the public statements of Senators Carter Glass and Harry Byrd, both Democrats, and both acquainted with the life and record of Judge Roberts.

Roper Virtually Forced Out As Secretary of Commerce

Subsequently, Daniel C. Roper was virtually forced out as secretary of commerce in order to make room for removal of Professional Reliever Harry Hopkins to a cabinet job. Hopkins thereby was taken out of the line of red hot fire about his spending policies. Homer S. Cummings quit as attorney general and Frank Murphy, Michigan's lame duck governor, was given the post.

Former Sen. James P. Pope who was licked in the Idaho Democratic primaries was named to the directorate of the Tennessee Valley authority from which Dr. Arthur Morgan was so unceremoniously dismissed. Rumor has it that former Sen. Fred H. Brown, lame duck New Hampshire Democrat, is to be given the juicy job of comptroller general of the United States as soon as it is evident that congress will not vote abolition of the general accounting office.

Rep. T. Alan Goldsborough of Maryland lately has been named a federal judge for the District of Columbia. It will be recalled that it was Mr. Goldsborough who invited President Roosevelt into Maryland last summer in the attempt to purge Sen. Millard Tydings from the Democratic ranks. In fact, it was at Denton, Md., Mr. Goldsborough's home town, that the President made his most vicious attack on Tydings and delivered his eulogy of praise for David J. Lewis in the senatorial primaries.

There have been other appointments mixed in here and there, some important, some just run-of-the-mine jobs, and they have not met unanimity. Even the selection of Professor Felix Frankfurter as a justice of the Supreme court of the United States did not arouse enthusiasm among the senators who voted approval of the nomination. Personally, heard several senators remark that the Frankfurter appointment was so much better than that of Hugo Black, a year ago, that it was refreshing to vote for him. Yet, they added a qualification. Justice Frankfurter has brains, a fine mind—but he is looked upon as the father of so much of the New Deal that his presence on the highest court appeared none too pleasing.

Nomination of Amlie of Wisconsin Creates Fuss

But all of these appointments now seem to have been only a build up to a climax. They were to be followed by an appointment that caught the senators in the ribs. It was the nomination of former Rep.

Thomas F. Amlie, Wisconsin progressive and also a lame duck, to be a member of the interstate commerce commission. That nomination went to the senate without even the great progressive, Senator LaFollette, knowing about it, and there are those in the senate who believe that Senator LaFollette would have advised against it, had he been consulted.

There is a very real possibility—although not conclusive—that the senate will reject the Amlie appointment. The pressure against him is quite unusual. Even the legislature of his home state adopted a resolution, memorializing the senate in opposition to confirmation.

Whatever virtues Mr. Amlie may have, his qualifications to be a member of the interstate commerce commission cannot be numbered in that list. He knows nothing about transportation; he is not an economist, and if his record as a member of the house of representatives here is a proper criterion, he is as lacking in judicial characteristics—well, he simply does not have them. His work in the house was distinguished by the fact that he headed a conglomerate group which was attempting to "co-ordinate liberal thought" in the nation. But apparently the folks in Wisconsin rather doubted his value for they refused to select him as the progressive senatorial candidate—who, incidentally, was doomed for a licking anyway in the November election.

Appointments Upsetting to Followers of President

One never can tell what trades may be made within the great club known as the senate, but surely Mr. Amlie will be discussed fully before he is confirmed. And as I said above, he may not be approved at all. The appointment may be the straw that breaks the camel's back.

When Mr. Roosevelt began making appointments three or four months ago that were upsetting to some of his followers, they had to decide between their loyalty to him and their convictions. The bulk of them stood by him. He was the head of the Democratic party; party unity was, and is, essential, and they justified the votes in confirmation in various ways. The Hopkins and Murphy appointments were confirmed because it always has been the philosophy of senators that cabinet jobs are intimate associations with the President. He is entitled, therefore, to have whom he desires to sit with him at the cabinet session and to advise him when he seeks advice. I think there was an inclination to accept Mr. Murphy, too, because it was known he wanted to crush the sit-down strikes at their inception and was confronted with White House refusal of support. There were fewer votes against him for that reason than against Secretary Hopkins. On the other hand, Senator Vandenberg, the Michigan Republican, said he voted against the nomination because "the issues were the same as in Michigan's election last fall when Mr. Murphy was repudiated."

When it gets to cases like the Alred appointment for Texas Judge and the Roberts appointment in Virginia, there simply is no explanation available—unless as I said, the "inner circle" is leading Mr. Roosevelt into a morass. Senators Glass and Byrd are going to fight the Roberts nomination. Senators Sheppard and Connally were not consulted about the judgeship in their state. As far as it has leaked out, nobody was asked whether the Amlie appointment would arouse enthusiasm or hatred.

Congress Shows Disposition To Assert Independence

The proposition thus settles down to only one possible answer. Since the last election removed the rubber stamp from the hands of the New Dealers and the congress has shown a disposition to assert its independence of the unselected "inner circle," they are resorting to a new strategy. They can not always control congress but they have access to the appointive power vested in the hands of the President. They have this because they have the President's ear and they take pains to see that none of the practical politicians, like Vice President Garner, or Sen. Pat Harrison, or Speaker Bankhead, wield any influence.

The strategy may work. It may put into numerous governmental posts and judicial positions men who will continue to execute New Deal plans. That, of course, is a brilliant move if it works. There is, however, more to think about than that. The trend toward the middle of the road, emphasized in last fall's voting, can be given greater momentum by the tactics of forcing upon the country policies against which the electorate expressed themselves. In that event, the Democratic party will be the victim.

Modern Berlin Retains Unique Native Habits

Prepared by National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—WNU Service.

Berlin is without the slums found in many large cities of the world, far less venerable. Many unfit dwelling houses on narrow streets have been torn down. In their place stand settlements—groups of apartments offering decent, moderately priced quarters for workers' families. Nearly 3,000 have been constructed. Some have small gardens attached.

In addition to the city-developed settlements are some huge ones sponsored by industrial enterprises. The outstanding example is that of the Siemens company, that colossal producer of electrical machinery, which was established in 1847. Its Berlin plants employ more than 120,000 workers. Siemens Stadt has grown up around the works, forming an integral part of Berlin. There are model apartments, schools, hospitals, churches, playgrounds, and theaters.

The Allgemeine Elektrizitaets-Gesellschaft, the General Electric company of Germany, has likewise gone far in developing proper housing for its 47,000 Berlin employees.

The task of aiding the needy is being largely handled by the winter aid campaign. There are in the whole of Germany one and a quarter million voluntary workers contributing their services, which has kept administrative costs of the organization down to 1 per cent of the total sum handled.

Principal among the methods of raising money are lotteries, the sale of badges and little handmade ornaments of negligible cost, and the one-dish meal once a month in private houses, restaurants and hotels.

Away from the City

"Where on earth are all the people?" you find yourself asking as you walk through the deserted streets on a fine Sunday afternoon. Certainly at this same hour the Champs Elysees is thronged with a chattering, strolling mob.

But this is not France! We are in Germany, land of probably the most devoutly nature-loving people of the Northern Hemisphere. The Berliner, with his sisters and his cousins and his aunts and grandfather and grandmother thrown in—has joined in a daybreak exodus to woods and lakes.

Those who own some sort of boat go by the water route. By eight o'clock rivers and canals swarm with craft. Faliboote, small folding canoes with double-bladed paddles, predominate. In the motley van are also canoes of American pattern, the Crown Prince Frederick of Prussia, afterward Frederick the Great, court-martialed by his own father.

Far-Away Names

About two hours' drive east of Berlin, you come across a strange phenomenon of nomenclature. Near Kuestrin, in the Oderbruch, a region of fertile flat lands watered by the Oder river, you stare with incredulous astonishment upon encountering a group of villages which bear the names "Maryland," "Saratoga," "Hampshire," "Pennsylvania," and "Jamaica." Even more exotic were "Malta," "Sumatra," and "Ceylon."

The houses are of typical North German architecture, with little emphasis on the picturesque. But the roofs of these nondescript buildings harbor the descendants of a group of would-be pioneers who longed to gaze over far horizons.

The story of how the villages acquired their names is interesting. It seems that in the days when Frederick the Great was forming the villages of the Spree-Havel district into the semblance of a city, there rose up a group of restless souls who wanted to transfer their destinies to America and other such outlandish spots.

Frederick, opposed to the colonizing idea, said a firm and peremptory "No!" He offered them instead lush lands lying along the banks of the nearby Oder—and, as a sop to their thwarted wanderlust, suggested they name their new settlements after faraway places. With commendable docility they settled sailing boats of widely diversified rigs, motorboats no bigger than bathtubs sputtering along by the thrust of outboard kickers, sleek, rangy launches, small yachts gliding with clever arrogance through crowded lanes. At intervals the ranks open up for the passage of river steamers plying from Berlin's center to outlying resorts.

Lining the shores are series of tent cities, aggregations of wood-and-canvas week-end domiciles. Huddled together at the water's edge stand the units of these flimsy colonies, a welter of happy confusion. From cookstoves comes a hunger-teasing aroma of browning sausages; coffee bubbles on the second burner. Dishwashing, a communal affair, engenders endless chaffing and laughter.

Flaxen-haired, sun-crippled youths wrestle with accordions, the instruments panting and wheezing in melodious exhaustion. On grassy fields fat women in purple chemises rush nimbly about, hurling blue rubber rings over the heads of their shouting relatives. Brown arms thrash the water of the lake into diamond showers.

The Koepenick district is one of wistful, nostalgic beauty. Langer See, Mueggel See—scene of the annual yachting races—and Teufels See (Devil's lake) lure hosts of wanderers. On an island stands the Castle of Koepenick, which has played an important role in Prussian history. Here was the trial of down, sublimating their extravagant desires by building dikes to curb the wandering habit of Oder's banks.

German Oddities

There is a streak of sentimentality in the Berliner character that expresses itself in many ways which the sophisticated urbanite of other countries would probably sum up as " quaint." What, for example, could be "quainter" than that splayfooted anachronism, the dachshund? Yet this comic-strip creature still holds leading place among canine pets in Berlin.

Following, in order of popularity, seem to come the hairy-chinned schnauzer and the boxer with his worried, conscientious black muzzle. Many department stores maintain a special room for the parking of shoppers' pups. Each dog is assigned a bed and blanket. While Mistress seeks bargains, "Lux" or "Lumpie" waits chained to his post, sniffing reproach.

Another oddity of department-store custom is the brass rack just inside the street door, fitted with slots for holding the cigars of male customers. One never succeeds in securing a satisfactory explanation of how the rightful owner can be assured of recovering his original stub.

An anomaly of the public-utility situation is dual ownership. Part of the system is owned by the city, the rest is the property of the state.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

Lesson for February 12

PETER HEALS A LAME MAN

LESSON TEXT—Acts 3:1-10; 4:8-12. GOLDEN TEXT—Then Peter said, Silver and gold have I none; but such as I have give I to thee.—Acts 3:6.

Is Christianity on trial? Answers would differ, depending on varying points of view. Assuredly Christ is not on trial. He is the Son of God and the only Saviour of men, and we are "on trial" as to our attitude toward Him. It is also certain that the true Christian faith is not on trial. Even the liberal and so-called modernistic leaders confess that it is the only faith that has proved itself in the crucible of daily experience.

There is a sense, however, in which Christianity as a whole is on trial. The Church which professes to represent Christ on earth has failed miserably at so many points that the world is looking at it with the same cold suspicion with which the Church was viewed in the time of Peter. The question which one can feel on every hand even though it is not asked in words, is, "What have you that will meet the unprecedented need of the individual—the social order—the whole of humanity?" There is a sufficient and a satisfying answer, but it is not found so much in the temporal realm as in the spiritual. We have something to offer that is better than silver or gold—the salvation which is found in none other than Jesus Christ, our Lord.

I. Better Than Silver and Gold (3:1-8).

The lame man had long since abandoned hope of anything more than the coins that he could beg as he sat at the temple gate. He is typical of our hardened and cynical age which is interested only in what it can get in cash, and in what that money will buy. Even Christian people seem to have forgotten that "a man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth" (Luke 12:15).

God has for us things far better than silver and gold—deliverance from the power and penalty of sin, glad liberation from the limitations of spirit which hold us down and make us content with the paltry alms of men. Where are these things to be found? In Christ. How are they ministered? Through His faithful servants. Peter and John were the kind of men who, though busy, had time to pray (v. 1). If you know men or women like that, cultivate their friendship, look intently to them in faith (vv. 4, 5), receive their help (v. 7), and above all, believe in their Christ (v. 8), and you will receive that which is better than silver and gold.

God healed this man's body, but what is more important, He healed his spirit (v. 8). We need that kind of healing for the spiritual cripples of our day. The weak-kneed, lame-ankled, and spirit-darkened individuals in our churches and communities need the touch of God. Perhaps you may be used to bring them His message of deliverance and power.

II. Wonder and Amazement (3:9, 10).

It has been suggested that one of the weak points in the ministry of the modern church is the lack of such miraculous deliverances from sin as those which caused the unbelievers of a generation or two ago to look with wonder on the ministry of the Word. After all there is no testimony just like that of a redeemed and transformed life. Men may argue with our philosophy, question our theology, but a redeemed life is a walking testimony in a community that no scoffer can refute.

There are two reactions recorded in the context of our lesson which reveal the possible attitudes of men toward such experiences. Some were amazed and believed in Christ (4:4). Others hated the cause of Christ (4:16, 17) and they cast the preachers into prison (4:1-3). Did this discourage them? No, indeed. They knew that they owed allegiance to God rather than man (4:19, 20), and consequently used their very trial as an opportunity to proclaim

III. The Pre-eminent Saviour (4:8-12).

Note here again that the speaker was a Spirit-filled man. That is the absolute prerequisite to effective proclamation of the truth. Observe also the care with which Peter makes known that he and John are to have no personal credit or glory. They "have something there" that might well be applied to present-day religious activity when many men must either have all the glory, or go off and start a new work where they can have it.

Let us make much of the clear teaching concerning the person and work of Christ which is found in these verses, particularly stressing His place of absolute pre-eminence as the one and only, and, at the same time, the all-sufficient Saviour of mankind. Let us not forget that "there is none other name under heaven given among men whereby we must be saved" (v. 12).

WHAT to EAT and WHY

C. Houston Goudiss Offers Timely Advice on Keeping Children Well in Winter; Warns of Several Dangers

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

ONE of the ways by which her community judges a woman's success as a mother is by the health and well-being of her children. If they are energetic, rosy-cheeked normal boys and girls who have a high resistance to infections, such as the common cold, and if they display the good dispositions that we usually associate with buoyant health, then the verdict of friends and neighbors is usually that of a job well done.

To help her children maintain top health and vitality, a mother must constantly be alert to the various factors that help produce this ideal estate. And at the same time, she must likewise be on-guard against the common conditions that may contribute to lowered resistance, especially fatigue and improper diet.

Winter Hazards

It has been said that in winter the body is on trial—and this is as true of children as of adults. Extremes of temperature require adjustments on the part of the body, and in most parts of the country, children are called upon constantly to switch their environment from a house which is all too frequently overheated to an outdoor temperature that may be below freezing.

While cool, outdoor air is stimulating to children in normal health, some children withstand it much less successfully. This is particularly true of those who are improperly nourished; who are over-fatigued or suffer from poor circulation.

When it is very cold outdoors, it is wise to have children come in from their play periodically to warm up. And if a child appears to suffer from the cold unduly, it is wise to have a physician check up on his health.

Guard Against Frostbite

Over-exposure must be avoided, particularly in cold, damp weather. For under these conditions, doctors warn, there is always a danger of frostbite. They say that whenever the temperature falls below 8 degrees Fahrenheit, children should not be permitted to play outdoors. If they do, the cold may act upon the tissues so that part of the body is deprived of its blood supply. This is most likely to occur in the fingers, toes, nose or ears which thereupon become frozen. The combination of wind and low temperature is especially dangerous and frostbite frequently occurs at temperatures up to 14 degrees Fahrenheit when there is a strong wind.

Mothers should be on guard against frostbite when the temperature is below 24 degrees Fahrenheit, however, and at all times during the winter, see that children are warmly clad. This need not mean that they are so bundled up as to preclude the possibility of active play. Suitable clothing consists of garments which provide warmth and protection against dampness, without restriction at any point.

Two layers of wool, such as that provided by a woolen sweater and playsuit are considered preferable to one too-bulky garment. Feet and hands should, of course, be well protected.

Don't Overheat the House

Only a little less serious are the consequences of dry, overheated indoor air. It is unfortunate that so many people keep their rooms entirely too warm in winter. This not only widens the gap between indoor and outdoor temperatures, but may be extremely irritating to the delicate membranes of the nose and throat. Most authorities consider an indoor temperature of about 68 degrees Fahrenheit satisfactory.

Is Your Child Lazy?

We often hear mothers complain that their children are lazy in cold weather . . . and they seem to have less pep and energy than in other seasons. If by that they mean that their children are less active, it may be that this can be attributed in part to the bleak, shorter days that do not always invite outdoor play. But sometimes a child displays such a reduction in his activities as to appear indolent. Then the mother must seek the physical or emotional factors that may be responsible. For true laziness suggests a body that is not functioning normally.

Quite possibly the child's diet is not meeting his bodily require-

AROUND THE HOUSE

When Washing Glass.—A little starch added to the water used for washing windows, mirrors and glassware not only helps remove dirt but gives a lasting polish.

For Baby's Safety.—Never try to carry baby in one arm and some other hard-to-manage article in the other when going down stairs.

Damp Brushes and Cloths.—Cleaning brushes and cloths should never be put away until they are entirely dried out. They are most attractive to roaches in their dampened state and almost always become rank and unpleasant, and of no further use in the cleaning time.

Patterns SEWING CIRCLE

HERE'S a practical, slenderizing dress that large women will thoroughly enjoy for their busiest days of housework. And a trim little bolero frock that's gay and fresh as a spring morning, just the thing for shopping, business and general wear. They are so easy to make that even beginners will enjoy working with these easy designs—each of which includes a step-by-step sew chart.

Diagram design that you can complete in a few hours. And it's so easy to work in that you won't be satisfied with less than half a dozen. Wide armholes, a darted waistline that looks slim, a skirt with sufficient width, all assure freedom for action. It's easy to put on, too, as well as to iron, because it buttons down the front. Percale, calico and gingham are good materials for this.

Tailored Bolero Dress. Even without the sleeveless bolero, this dress is a charming style for runabout and street wear. The darted waistline makes you look slim and supple. A scalloped closing, edged with braid or binding, and puff sleeves narrowed into the arm by shirring, complete the effect of youthful charm. Make this right now of flat crepe, silk print or thin wool. Then repeat it later in summer cottons; it's a design that you'll use many, many times.

The Patterns. No. 1615 is designed for sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48 and 50. Size 36 requires 4 3/4 yards of 35-inch material, with 1/2 yard for cuffs-in-contrast. No. 1674 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20 and 40. Size 14 requires 5 1/2 yards of 39-inch material, with 3/4 yards of braid to trim. Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1020, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. Price of patterns, 15 cents (in coins) each.

ments. An undernourished child usually tires easily and is disinclined to exert himself. The food may be adequate as to quantity, but not as to quality. For example, a diet that is too highly concentrated, contains too little bulk or cellulose, may cause a tendency to faulty elimination. This, in turn, is frequently responsible for lassitude. The remedy is often a simple dietary change—the addition of a salad to the daily diet; or possibly the use of stewed dried fruits in addition to a fresh fruit or fruit juice daily. Of course, the child should also have two servings of vegetables besides potatoes, one of which should be of the green leafy variety. Also a quart of milk daily; breads and cereals, at least half of which may preferably be the whole grain variety; an egg daily or at least three or four weekly; one serving of meat, fish or chicken, and another serving of a protein food, such as cheese. Some form of vitamin D should be included in the diet of young children, especially during the winter months.

It is also most important that children follow a daily routine that includes plenty of time for sleep. And for younger children a daytime nap is usually advised.

Children Need Healthy Mothers. Mothers must give attention to the children's health. But let them give some consideration to their own. The tired, nervous mother is very apt to transfer some of her own fatigue and nervousness to her child. So in arranging your child's rest periods and diet, in looking after proper habits of elimination, make sure that Mother, too, and better still every member of the family, follows this same sound health program. ©—WNU—C. # RAW THROAT

If Your Sore, Scratchy Throat Comes from a Cold—You Can Often Get Fast Relief this Way

1. To ease pain and discomfort and reduce fever, take 2 Bayer Tablets—1 in 1/2 glass of drink a glass of water.

2. If throat is raw from cold, crush and dissolve 3 Bayer Tablets in 1/2 glass of water . . . drink.

Just Make Sure You Use Genuine BAYER Aspirin

The simple way pictured above often brings amazingly fast relief from discomfort and sore throat accompanying colds.

Try it. Then—see your doctor. He probably will tell you to continue with Bayer Aspirin because it acts fast to relieve discomforts of a cold. And reduce fever.

This simple way, backed by scientific authority, has largely supplanted the use of strong medicines in easing cold symptoms. Perhaps the easiest way yet discovered. But get genuine BAYER Aspirin.

HUGH BYRON RUSSELL

Mr. Hugh Byron Russell passed away at his farm home, Maple Lawn, Sunday about 9 o'clock p. m., February 5, 1939. Although he had been an invalid from heart trouble for some two years and a hospital patient most of the time since last May, he had been desperately ill for two weeks with erysipilas in his face and head, and the end came unexpectedly.

Mr. Russell came to the Peninsula from Kent Co., Mich. in 1895 with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Russell, Sr., and lived at Ridgeway farms where he has worked until he purchased Maple Lawn farm some years ago. He was united in marriage to Mrs. Harriett Jarman Conyer in October, 1893, and has since made his home on his farm. Mrs. Russell and a step-son, Jack Conyer, survive, beside a brother, Frank D. Russell of Ridgeway farms and other relatives in and near Grand Rapids.

Mr. Russell was a highly respected citizen, a good neighbor, and until his health failed was very active in social and fraternal affairs, being a Gleaner and a member of the I.O.O.F. He was a charter member of The Eveline Arbor of Gleaners.

He will be greatly missed.

DO YOU REMEMBER THOSE "COMIC" VALENTINES?

The "comic" remembrances that used to vulgarize every February 14 began with the pagans and happily ended in the Gay 90's with the sourest insults imaginable — but they may have done some good, after all, as you will learn if you read the article on Valentine Tokens in The American Weekly, the great weekly magazine with the February 12 issue of The Detroit Sunday Times.

IT'S A HIT! The NEW Firestone CHAMPION TIRE

Because IT'S THE ONLY TIRE MADE WITH THE NEW SAFETY-LOCK CORD BODY and GEAR-GRIP TREAD

CAR OWNERS everywhere are acclaiming the extra blowout protection and non-skid safety of the new Firestone Champion Tire. And automobile manufacturers, knowing its outstanding performance, have adopted it for their new 1939 models. On every hand you hear, "It's the most effective tire we have ever had on wet pavement and in mud and snow!" It's the hit of 1939!

The Firestone Champion Tire is a completely new achievement in safety engineering and the result of a new and revolutionary means of locking greater safety into the cord body of a tire. This is accomplished first, by the use of a new type of tire cord called "Safety-Lock," in which the cotton fibers are more compactly interwoven to give greater strength. And then the fibers in each individual cord, the cords in each ply and the plies themselves are all securely locked together by a new and advanced Firestone process of Gum-Dipping, which provides amazingly greater strength—and greater strength means greater safety.

The new Safety-Lock cord construction gives the added strength that makes possible the use of the new thicker, tougher, deeper Firestone Gear-Grip Tread, which provides remarkably longer non-skid mileage. This sensational new tread is called "Gear-Grip" because of its unique design which has more than three thousand sharp-edged angles that grip the road with a sure-footed hold to protect against skidding and to assure a safe stop.

Come in today and equip your car with a set of new Firestone Champion Tires, the only tires made that are safety-proved on the speedway for your protection on the highway.

Father and Son Banquet In St. Joseph School To Be Annual Event

One of the largest gatherings of men and boys attended the Father and Son banquet at St. Joseph School Monday evening, February 6th. This banquet was sponsored by the Holy Name Society for its senior and junior members.

Charles Bishaw, chairman and head-chef has done wonderful work feeding fifty members who, really, were pleased to know that he possessed such culinary art. Aiding him in the kitchen and dining-room were: Joseph Kenny, Vernil LaPeer, Cyril Dolezel and Edward Bishaw.

Rev. Joseph Matinowski, toastmaster for the evening, spoke of the aim of the Holy Name Society and explained what it means to belong to a society which number four million members throughout the world; men and boys of every walk of life. Next he called Glen Supernaw, the president of the Society; John F. Kenny, the senior member and one of the oldest members of the parish who spoke of the early days in East Jordan; Charles Strehl, the past president; Joseph Bugai, who spoke of respect we owe to elders; Harry Jankoviak, who spoke of the necessity and importance of attending meetings; finally for the junior members spoke James St. Arno, Jr., who gave a good account of himself.

The feature of the program and greatly appreciated by the members were the musical numbers rendered by Arthur Gerard and Charles Burbank in several duet numbers and Francis St. Arno in two solo numbers. How much the members appreciated their singing was shown by the tremendous applause. The program ended by singing the Holy Name hymn "Holy God We Praise Thy Name" by all members.

The Holy Name Society plans to make this Father and Son banquet for the members an annual affair.

Bell Telephone Co. Promoting Winter Sports Throughout Michigan

In the belief that Michigan provides everything in the way of both natural and man-made facilities for healthful winter sports, and that it is in the interest of all its residents that the state be promoted as a winter playground, the Michigan Bell Telephone Company is carrying a series of three winter sports promotional advertisements in The Charlevoix County Herald and approximately 250 other Michigan newspapers. Elsewhere in this issue of The Herald appears the first of this series.

These advertisements are designed particularly to direct the attention of Michigan residents to the fact that their own state is unexcelled for winter play. They also contain a list of points where organized programs of winter sports have been announced.

If travel to those and other points in Michigan can be promoted, it will be in the interest of the whole state, creating business and employment for many persons, officials of the company believe — for "what helps Michigan helps us all." Therefore the company is advertising Michigan's advantages as a winter playground in the same way it has advertised the state as a summer playground the past dozen years.

KNOWING

Those We Serve and Their Needs

When one of our patrons speaks of getting good service from this bank, what does he mean?

He means that our officers did not merely give him perfunctory attention. They took the time and the pains necessary to give him as nearly as possible the type of banking co-operation his needs of the moment called for.

That sounds simple enough. It is simple. But we could not do our best if we did not feel that we are daily performing a really helpful service for those who come to this bank.

MICHIGAN—for All Sorts of Winter Sports!

MICHIGAN's natural facilities for winter sports, perhaps unexcelled anywhere in the country, are worthy of promotion. Thousands of visitors should be attracted here from outside the State, and Michigan residents can be shown that they need not leave their own State to enjoy the finest of winter sports.

All Michigan will profit from such promotion, in which the Michigan Bell Telephone Company wishes to do its part. This is the first of a series of three advertisements, appearing in 250 Michigan newspapers, to promote Michigan as an outstanding winter playground.

"Go right on," continued Gloria, "with anything you have to say concerning A. Leon and little Marion. Just speak up. You'll not hurt my feelings."

"Are there likely to be any unfortunate sequelae to your mutual imprudence?" blurted out Mr. Gormine.

For a moment she was honestly puzzled. "Sequelae? Sounds like those wigglers you find in ponds."

"Results. I mean a—child," asked the badgered interrogator, in an agonized half-whisper.

There was an idea! This bird was full of them. Gloria would never have thought of that, herself. It opened up limitless possibilities. She had an inspiration.

"How can I tell—yet?" she murmured.

"That seems to bring matters to a standstill for the present," said he, utterly dispirited.

Gloria found herself in strong disagreement with this view. She was for action, immediate and definite.

The lawyer hesitated. But beneath that spinsterish exterior was dogged courage to pit against the mortification of the spirit.

"Cannot this unhappy complication be arranged on a financial basis?"

The words were soft music to Gloria's waiting ears. She performed a rapid mental calculation.

"Why not?" said Gloria agreeably.

"Ah! Now we are arriving somewhere."

"Maybe we are and maybe we aren't. It depends. What's your proposition?"

He reflected. "We might go as high as a thousand dollars," he said wearily.

"Do, I understand that you decline—"

"You don't understand simple arithmetic if you think one grand is money for my broken heart."

"As practical people, let us omit the broken heart. What is your suggestion?"

"Fifty," pronounced Gloria. She had figured this as a good starting point.

"Fifty thousand dollars?"

"My dear young woman! It is absurd. Outrageous."

"Think of my reputation."

Mr. Gormine snorted in a moral manner. "You should have considered that before it was too late."

"It's never too late for a jury to consider it."

"We might go to twenty-five hundred," said Mr. Gormine with a painful effort.

"Chickenfeed."

"Five thousand." Desperately and through a constricted throat.

"Nothing doing!"

tell you what I'll do, Big Boy. I'll take a chance. I'll sign off for twenty-five grand. Not a cent less. Come on; what'd you say?"

"It's outrageous. It's extortion. But I'll go to fifteen thousand and that is positively final."

"Zowie! Cash deal."

"You would hardly expect me to have that amount on my person."

"No checks. They bounce."

"This is Wednesday. I will return here next Monday with the cash and the papers for your signature."

"Sounds fair. But you'll agree to say nothing to A. Leon in the meantime."

"Certainly. And you?"

"That goes for me, too. One more thing. Don't show around here again till you come with the cash. Then telephone and I'll meet you in the village."

Gloria had no idea of taking risks with her project, by giving him a chance to see the real Miss Van Stratten.

"Very good."

"It's a deal," cried Gloria, with an irrepresible skip.

CHAPTER X

Small streams back in the hills whispered together by day and conspired by night against the peace and security of the solid earth. Ravines which had been dry since the memory of local man, became sluiceways for little torrents.

"I'll go fifteen thousand and that is positively final."

Clunk, studying the skies, held troubled conference within himself, and put in his spare moments secretly tinkering with his flat-boat.

For three days and four nights the downpour never let up. On top of weeks of bad weather, this turned the countryside into a swampy slither.

Making an early morning tour of inspection of his drowning property, the owner of Holmestholm returned from the lake front carrying on his shoulder a small canoe with a gaping puncture near the bow.

"Dock gone; boats gone," he reported to the depressed company, gathered for breakfast. "Lake's higher than I've ever seen it. I picked this—He set the damaged canoe on the floor—'out of a bushy'."

"D'you think it's likely to keep on?" queried Gloria.

"I don't see any break."

"So what?"

"Lord knows! Cottagers across the lake are moving out. I hear that Becker Brook dam is overflowing. Oh, well, the worst that could happen to us is to be marooned for a while."

"It would be perfectly sweet to be shut in for a couple of weeks with this congenial company," remarked Marne. "Noah's ark, with the animals not too carefully selected."

Her glance drifted to Kelsey Hare who continued to eat his egg with an absent expression. It was as near as she had come to speaking to him since Holmes' revelations.

"I'm off it," asserted Moby Dickstein. "This is no place for me. I think I'll wire the Big Fella and be moving to the Park House."

"If a car can get through," qualified Martin Holmes. "The road this side of the turn looks as if the bottom had dropped clean out."

Moby retired to gather his belongings. Gloria and Martin went to the kitchen to inspect supplies. Stepping out on the porch for a look at the sullen skies, Marne was followed by her screen-lower.

is your place. Temporarily, anyhow. I should be the one to leave."

"You've got a stake in staying," he pointed out. "From what Gloria has told me, you need the salary."

"We'll, it's handy and pleasant," she admitted.

"I think I'd better tell you something," he pursued after some hesitancy.

"For my own good, I suppose."

"He flushed at her tone but went resolutely on: "Snydacker is onto the game."

"Which game?"

"Yours. The Van Stratten bluff. He's found out that it's a plant."

"Oh! Has he?" The tidings left her thoughtful rather than perturbed. "How? Did you tell him?"

"I didn't say how," he returned. He was not going to give away Moby Dickstein, drunk or sober.

"No; I didn't tell him. But I assure you, it's true."

"So I'm just plain Miss Adelina Ashcan to him. As to you."

"I don't know anything about that," he muttered, reddening again.

"If you don't mind my curiosity, why are you telling me this?"

He stared out into the storm. "You've had a pretty tough job of it here," he said slowly. "You've had to put up with some raw stuff, including"—he grinned ruefully—"a pretty rotten actor opposite you. On the whole, you've been game about it. I don't like to see you get the worst of it. How matters stand between you and Snydacker personally"—he stopped to swallow something distasteful—"is none of my business."

"That's right. It certainly isn't."

"—but if you can figure out some way to back up your bluff and carry on, you'd better get busy on it before the mighty A. Leon gets back."

"For a gentleman who has been living on another man's alias," she taunted, "you seem awfully particular about who I am."

"I don't care who you are or why you're pretending to be someone you aren't," he broke out. "What you are sticks out all over you."

"Don't tell me. It might hurt my feelings."

"And for a girl of your breeding and your antecedents—oh, any fool could tell!" he insisted angrily as, suppressing a gasp of astonishment she undertook to interpolate—"for main streets. Then the following crowd of noise-makers ducks the bridegroom in the old log watering trough."

It Galena, Mo., the groom is baptized in the James river if he will not provide a treat for those besieging him. In another Missouri town the groom is supposed to push his bride in a wheelbarrow around the public square several times while his friends follow on foot or in cars with the horns constantly honking.

Some of the other wedding customs of the hills have died out. It is no longer arbitrary that the in-laws dinner be given at the home of the bride's parents. Weddings are not so elaborate as in the old days when scores of people would be invited to the wedding dinner, served early in the afternoon. No longer do the neighbor women bake for days in preparation. But the charivari continues.

your kind of girl to have to fake and wheedle and cheat—"

"I haven't wheedled," broke in Marne, flaming. "And I haven't cheated."

"Nor faked?" said Kelsey quietly. "Are you talking to me about faking?"

"Well, it's tragic. You must need your job terribly, to do it." Discouragement darkened his face.

"However, you make it plain that you don't need any help from me, or, at least that you won't take it. Would you get along better if I left?"

She cocked an ear at the roaring creek. "Leaving the sinking—house?" she inquired.

"I get the analogy. Thanking you on behalf of self and fellow rats—"

"No; please! I'm sorry." Her hand shot out to touch his sleeve. "That wasn't fair."

"Not quite. I'm sticking."

For quite a while; in fact, to the finish, if I'm any judge, was Marne's silent thought as she marked the outthrust of his jaw.

"Moby's fed up with it," she volunteered. "He's leaving this afternoon if he can get through."

The question of traffic was solved after luncheon by the arrival of a particularly trim and smart roadster. From it stepped a pink and fatted man who stared uncertainly about him until he caught sight of Moby Dickstein emerging for a look at the dripping heavens.

"Hullo and all hail and all that," said the arrival. "Do you belong here?"

"Yop," answered Moby, suspicious of the stranger. "What got you past the No Admittance sign?"

"I want to see Miss Van Stratten."

"Oh, you do. Do you know her?"

"Certainly, I know her."

"Know her long?"

"Since she was a kid," replied the newcomer.

Moby leaned forward, lowering his voice to an eager and confidential appeal. "What about her? On the up-and-up, now; what is she?"

"Apparently she's the star of this crazy performance." Mr. Liggett Morse grinned.

"Yeah. But what was she before?"

"Miss Marion Norman Van Stratten," returned the other explicitly. "What's the idea?"

"Can that bunk. I'm asking you, on the level. If you don't know, say so."

"I ought to know. As the star of this fool show she's my invention, you might say."

"Your invention!" retorted Moby, dumbfounded by the impudence of this claim. "I invented her. Why, I've practically got a copyright on her."

"You're batty," said Mr. Morse, beginning to be annoyed.

"Who's batty? Did I build her up, or did you?"

"Build her up? To what?"

"To stardom. That's what. From practically nothing."

There was a hurry of footsteps on the stairs. From her window Marne had seen and recognized the car. In an excess of homesickness for her own world she cast herself upon the plump and receptive neck of its representative.

"Oh, Liggy!" she cried and hugged him.

"Who is this guy?" demanded Moby.

"The name," said its owner, "is Liggett Morse."

"He says he invented you," stated the aggrieved First Assistant.

Marne returned to earth and said: "I expect he is responsible for my being here. And Liggy believes I'm a hundred per cent genuine."

SAFETY TALKS

Rural Traffic Accidents Increase

Traffic accidents in the rural districts are mounting by leaps and bounds. Since 1924, the National Safety Council says, motor vehicle fatalities have increased 172 per cent. In cities over 10,000 population they went up but 30 per cent.

Of course, the council points out, a large part of this increase may be the result of much-increased rural travel. But most traffic authorities believe, however, that the more favorable city record can be traced to the more effective traffic control measures in municipalities.

In 1937, the loss of life to traffic accidents in rural districts and cities under 10,000 population was 27,400. In cities over 10,000, there were 12,100 killed.

While collisions with pedestrians constituted the major fatal accident problem in cities, rural districts had their greatest difficulty with collisions between two or more motor vehicles.

Star Dust

★ Two 'Happy Endings'
★ Another British Girl
★ Tex Ritter Shuns Horse
By Virginia Vale

THEY'VE been having "happy ending" trouble with "Idiot's Delight." In the play, the hero and heroine prepared to die together. But that didn't seem to work out too well when the picture was previewed, so another ending was prepared, to be used if other pre-release audiences liked it better than the original one.

Now that Vivien Leigh is scheduled to shoot into stardom (if "Gone With the Wind" turns out well for her), some of the pictures in which she appeared in England will be released again over here. Meanwhile we have the word of Ernie Westmore, the demon make-up man, that another girl from the British Isles will "burn up Hollywood." Her name is Maureen O'Hara, for screen purposes; in real

VIVIEN LEIGH

Life it's Maureen Fitzsimmons. She hails from Dublin, is 18 years old, and is the discovery of Erich Pommer, discoverer of Marlene Dietrich. She is working in London in the new Charles Laughton picture, "Jamaica Inn" as Laughton's leading lady.

Tex Ritter, Monogram's singing cowboy, is on a two months' personal appearance tour, with four members of the musical unit used in his pictures. They are traveling by car, with Tex in his trailer, and expect to stop in 52 towns before they return to the studio and another series of westerns.

There's to be a new hair cut for the ladies, named for Ina Claire. It will be launched with tons of publicity. Of course, Miss Claire has the kind of hair that will take and hold any kind of hair-do, and can have it whipped into shape by an expert three or four times a week, or even every day, which makes things tough for her imitators.

George Raft's departure from Paramount was not exactly unexpected. It came as a result of his refusal to play the lead in "Magnificent Fraud." Lloyd Nolan has formed the habit of stepping into the parts that Raft doesn't want, so he did it this time. Last August, when Raft refused a role in "St. Louis Blues," the same thing happened.

To this desk came a touching story about a cocker spaniel named "Rudy," given to Tommy Riggs by Rudy Vallea a year ago. According to this little tale from the press representative, the dog always listened to the Riggs Saturday night air shows. It began to pine in a corner when a dog character was introduced on the program, not knowing that the dog was played by Brad Barker, an animal imitator.

And, ran the story, a doctor friend of Riggs' claimed that, when "Rudy" died the next day, it was because of "the nearest thing to a broken heart that he had ever seen in an animal."

That doctor should have consulted the elevator boy in Riggs' apartment hotel, who confided to me the fact that the dog died of distemper. But distemper doesn't make a touching little story for press agents.

Got any hobbies? Dave Elman, conductor of "Hobby Lobby," declares that, according to statistics, the life of modern man is prolonged for several years through intelligent use of leisure time in cultivating them. If Elman himself doesn't look out he'll need something more than a hobby to prolong his. Since none of his "Hobby Lobby" guests arrive in New York before Monday morning, he works from nine o'clock Monday morning until at least midnight Monday night interviewing them and preparing the material for his broadcasts.

ODDS AND ENDS—Gabriel Heatter wishes that he could get another guest for "The People" who'd attract as many listeners as Tom Mooney did. Right along with the announcement of the "Gone With the Wind" stars comes the information that Walter Connolly, who was signed long ago, won't be in the cast; his options expired, and he'd got rather tired of the whole thing. Jimmie Cagney's sister has been making excellent screen tests.

New Wash Materials Remind It's Time for Spring Sewing

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

AS A proper approach to the perennial spring sewing program that soon will be staged in countless households, we know of no gesture that will so inspire to hurry and get going as to take a day off and go fabric sight-seeing. We make the prediction that at just a mere glimpse of the new textiles with their refreshing departure from the old, in the way of texture, patternings and colorings, you will feel an urge stirring to cut and to taste and to sew.

In this day and age when wonders are being performed in the way of textures and weaves, it becomes absolutely imperative that the woman who would sew successfully must know materials. This is especially true in regard to wash fabrics that are a revelation as to what science is achieving in the way of non-shrinkage, color-fast-boil-proof tones and tints and in the way of weaves of entirely new origin. Consider for example the new spun rayon fabrics that are as lovely and exquisite in texture as imagination can conceive.

When you ask to see these fascinating new spun rayons take note of their marvelous colorings—that are so refreshingly different from the usual run. Many of the beautiful hues and motifs for design are traced to fine Chinese porcelains that excel in subtle soft blues and canary yellows, lime greens, peach-bloom pinks and cherry blossom reds. You'll love these new wash fabrics that are so handsome they really do not look like washables, but they are and what's more they are treated to an anticrease process that greatly enhances them from the practical standpoint. Some of the smartest washable crepes combine the newest fabric (spun rayon) with one of the oldest (pure linen).

It's amber jewelry you will be wearing if you are up to the moment in style. The revival of this familiar gem is important fashion news. The new amber jewelry reveals untold beauties. The colors range from golden yellow to rich antique mahogany tones. The lovely transparent quality of the stone is especially effective in the new floral designs. The leaves and foliage of many flowers are formed of delicately shaded or veined amber. In the picture a very up-to-date young woman enhances her gown with amber flower jewelry.

You can get these winsome spun rayon crepes in delectable monochromes or in prints that are so lovely mere word pictures fail to describe them. On your fabric sight-seeing tour be on the lookout for prints that stylize a flight of snow white birds against a sky of peachbloom pink or a seashell motif on a lime green background and you will thus sense the charm and beauty of the new spun rayon crepes.

Softer to the touch than all wool, yet cozier than cotton by far is an imported material that looks like and feels like a million, yet it can be sent to wash with a carefree mind for the fabric has been sanforized-shrunk. See to the left in the picture a housecoat made of this new flannel (half wool, half cotton) which is lightweight as thistle-down. This particular smart plaid fabric tailors to perfection.

To the right in the illustration unusual charm is expressed in a quaint dirndl dress of flowered cotton poplin—one of the dependable modern cottons in that it does not shrink out of fit when washed. It is trimmed with Czechoslovakian embroidery and buttons in authentic Czech design. Wear it over shorts and cummerbund when en route to active sports, or as a full-time daytime dress. Either way, it is perfect with its matching bonnet.

You will find a bolero costume made of gingham (faithful standby) much to your liking. Why not enter it on your sewing-list, for this two-piece is easy to make, so why not look up a reliable pattern and have it in readiness to wear this spring with dainty blouses? The model centered in the group is in blue and white check. The skirt is flared for fullness. The long-sleeved bolero jacket has wide revers and exposes cuffs of white pique caught with large mother-of-pearl links. Matching gingham trims the rough straw sailor hat she has in her hand.

Rebirth of Amber Petticoat, Tiered Frocks Real News

If you see a glimpse of lacy frou-frou peeping from under her neat little afternoon dress of silk crepe, do not make the mistake of saying "Pardon me lady, your petticoat is showing." If you do milady is apt to airily reply, "Sure, that's the intention." Yes! It's only too true, petticoats are in fashion and furthermore the so-called petticoat dress that is causing so much excitement in fashion's realm is actually styled so as to reveal a tantalizing glimpse of its frill.

Another sensation on the dress program is the new flounced silhouette. Fashion is flouncing everything that will gracefully yield to flouncing. Daytime skirts rise tier upon tier done in a restrained way while soft afternoon and evening frocks are widely flounced in the good old-fashioned now very new-fashioned way.

Open Toes, Heels In New Footwear

The vogue of open toes and open heels has reached such a state that it will be difficult before many weeks to find even an Oxford which supplies good foot coverage. Shoe styles for spring have been placed on exhibition and indicate that pumps and Oxfords as well as sandals expose the toes and the back of the heels.

Protect Feet Robust weather calls for rugged footwear.

Daintiness in Women Wins Men's Favor

By PATRICIA LINDSAY

MEN loathe careless grooming. In fact I think that men are inclined to be more fastidious about us than we are about ourselves! That statement will probably bring an avalanche of mail contradicting me. Well anyway, men, do like us sweet-smelling, tidy in our dress and noticeably well-groomed.

It isn't too easy to keep fresh as a flower, or crisp looking as a lettuce leaf. It takes special little rituals. We must bathe more frequently and more thoroughly. We must think to apply a deodorant powder or liquid under our arms, on our feet and across our backs (if there is where you perspire). Light floral scented colognes help to keep us cool and the alcohol which they contain plays a part in personal daintiness.

Fresh as the French countryside from which she comes is pretty Annabella, whose exquisite daintiness is one of her greatest assets on the screen.

But more than that we have to be ever so careful about wearing fresh underthings and hose each day. If you haven't an abundant supply, you must form the habit of rinsing yours out each night.

Job-Hunting Girl Over 30 Has Competition

JUST this week a girl over 30 came to me in sheer desperation. She needed a job and couldn't get one. "I am a secretary," she said, "with eight years of experience here and there. I'm not keen about secretarial work, but I'll take any job. I simply have got to work! Yet every place I apply they more or less tell me they want a younger girl. What shall I do?"

Her plight is a common one to girls over 30 who, married or single, find it necessary to seek employment this summer. When industry slackens, jobs become scarce and applicants for the jobs increase.

It is quite obvious why the younger girl is preferred. She asks a smaller salary, she is more easily trained to the work, she has no home ties to distract her during the day, and usually she is more attractive because she is about 10 years younger! All in all she is stiff competition for the older girl.

If the girl who sought my advice had asked me for a job I would not have given her one. Why? First of all she had let herself grow discouraged. I know it isn't easy to show enthusiasm when your stomach wants food and your roof rent is due. But where will she get by showing her troubles to a prospective employer? He has his own; he will hire good spirits more quickly than experience. He doesn't want to look up from a knotty problem and see a drab, disheartened female dragging herself around his office, does he? "I'm not keen about secretarial work," she had said. Well that's just too bad if she wants a job as a secretary! Who is going to hire her knowing she will have little interest in her work? Not a soul!

Martyr Type Has No Place

"DON'T" enjoy feeling depressed," is the advice Mrs. Richard Mather Boardman gives to women, especially women over fifty. "Almost nothing is important enough to upset one's peace of mind if you look at it squarely. We should enjoy life, for living is fun. Don't make it hard for yourself and for those around you. How much we are inclined to worry over problems which never materialize! You can overcome every difficulty by going a step at a time."

This is the philosophy which Mrs. Boardman practices. And she has reached prominence by living the very rules she teaches the young girls who flock to her unique New York school. Though an grandmother several times, she has the vitality and alertness of a woman half her years and she carries on a busy social life along with the running of a large institution.

Her progress has not been a path of roses. She has met difficulties which would have felled many a woman, but her approach to life has been positive—never negative.

FARM TOPICS

WELL-FED LAYERS PRODUCE HEAVILY

Several Important Factors Must Be Considered.

By C. O. Dossin, Poultry Extension Specialist, Pennsylvania State College, WU Service.

Flocks of White Leghorns laying 60 per cent or better should consume at least 25 pounds of feed per 100 birds daily at this season of the year.

Size of bird, type of house, heated or non-heated, rate of production and use of lights are all factors which must be taken into consideration when figuring feed intake. Unless birds eat large quantities of feed they cannot maintain body weight and produce heavily.

Some poultrymen make a practice of feeding their birds all the scratch feed that they will eat at night and about half that amount in the morning. Fresh mash is usually fed each day. Increased feed intake can usually be obtained by stirring the mash in the feeders with the hand each time a trip is made through the building. The use of a fleshing mash or fleshing pellets at noon each day will also increase total feed consumption.

Some poultrymen make a practice of dabbing paint on the plumage of a few birds so they can be readily identified. These birds are then weighed at frequent intervals so as to keep a check on the weight of the flock.

Good Care and Feeding Thwarts Shipping Fever

Greater protection during shipment and careful management immediately after live stock arrives on the farm will lighten losses from shipping fever, says Dr. W. L. Boyd, Missouri university farm, veterinarian.

En route to the farm, either by truck or train, live stock is subject to many hazards—irregular feeding and watering, and bad weather among them. This applies especially to young stock, which may suffer serious loss in vitality. Regular feeding and watering plus protection against the weather will make the stock less likely to contract the fever.

Care and feeding of the animals once they are on the farm is the second important "ounce of prevention." Feed them a balanced ration, and don't attempt to get them on full feed too soon, cautions Doctor Boyd.

The use of vaccines and serums for the prevention and cure of shipping fever should be attempted only by trained veterinarians. To expect favorable results from vaccines, they should be administered soon after the animals arrive.

Houses Need Litter

Litter serves a triple purpose in the laying house. It serves to keep the floor warm, it helps to keep the house dry, and it provides material in which the birds can scratch. It is therefore necessary to have the floor littered for the pullets. The most satisfactory litter is highly absorbent and will not pack. Various materials are used such as straw, peat, and oat hulls. These materials are placed on the floor of the poultry house to a depth of about 2 inches; when straw is used it should be applied to a depth of 6 to 8 inches.

In the Feed Lot

Potatoes to be fed to pigs should be cooked for best results.

Purebred pigs gain a third faster than scrubs, and on a fifth less feed for each pound of gain.

For best results in curing the meat, hogs should not be fed for 24 hours before slaughtering.

Disease bacteria hold annual reunions in uncleaned poultry houses and on contaminated ranges.

Eggs with a large amount of thick albumen poach better and stand up longer under storage conditions.

Each American farmer produces food and fiber for an average of three and a half persons in town.

South Louisiana farmers grow a squaslike vegetable of the cucumber family called the vegetable pear.

Keep farm machinery under cover and it will grow old gracefully, advise agricultural engineers at Massachusetts state college.

Tennessee farm women are estimated to have saved $8,000 in a year's time by making their own bed mattresses.

About one-third of the farmers in the United States don't put all their eggs in one basket, but have an outside business or industrial income.

Some people believe that scrubs of purebred stock can not be given a pedigree. This is not true. Scrubs occur in all breeds of purebred stock.

A Bit of Embroidery For Small Son's Suit

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS
DEAR MRS. SPEARS: Those pages of embroidery stitches in your Book 2 have interested me greatly. I can never remember from time to time how to do even feather stitching. It is ingenious the way you show how to make each kind of stitch, and I turn to your book often. I have a small son now four and a half years old, and have always enjoyed making his clothes and trimming them with little touches of embroidery. Do you think he is too old for this? B. H.

You still have a year or so if you keep the suits smart and boyish. I am sketching an embroidered trimming idea for you here. The thread should match the color of the trousers. Mark an outline for the embroidery with pencil as at A. Work over this with tiny chain stitches as at B; then make larger chain or loop stitches as at C and D.

Mrs. Spears' Sewing Book 2, Gifts, Novelties and Embroideries, contains 48 pages of step-by-step directions which have helped thousands of women. If your home is your hobby you will want Book 1—SEWING, for the Home Decorator. Order by number, enclosing 25 cents for each book. If you order both, a crazy-quilt leaflet with 36 authentic patchwork stitches will be included free. Address Mrs. Spears, 210 S. Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill.

ACHING COLDS

Relieve Their DISTRESS This Easy, Quick Way!

To bring speedy relief from the discomfort of chest colds, muscular rheumatic aches and pains due to colds—you need more than "just a salve"—you need a stimulating "counter-irritant" like good old warming, soothing Musterole. It penetrates the surface skin breaking up local congestion and pain resulting from colds. Ryan better than a mustard plaster—Musterole has been used by millions for over 30 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. In three strengths: Regular, Children's (mild) and Extra Strong, 40¢. Approved by Good Housekeeping Bureau. All druggists.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste
Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.
Symptoms may be nagging headache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.
Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is vital when these signs are present. Doan's Pills have been found by thousands of men and women to be the most effective remedy for kidney trouble. They have a nation-wide reputation. An endorsement by great people of the country over. Ask your neighbor!

Cohnmen Are Back In Stride

DEFEAT BOTH GAYLORD AND CHARLEVOIX QUINTS IN SCRAPPY CONTESTS

Coach Cohn's rapidly improving Red and Black basketball aggregation scored its second victory of the season over Gaylord here last Wednesday evening, as they topped the Blue and Gold, 33 to 24.

The Jordanites started out on a real scoring spree from the opening whistle piling up a long 24 to 11 lead at the intermission. Gaylord came back strong during the final two periods, to outplay, and outscore the locals 13 to 9, but their efforts were fruitless as their disadvantage at the halftime proved to be too great a handicap.

The Blue and Gold fresh from their upset victory over the powerful Mancelona quintet, were determined to avenge the first defeat handed them by the Cohnmen, in a tilt played in their own back yard. Gaylord's offensive attack was built around its two guards, who gave the fans a real treat with caging several long, past midcourt, shots.

Cihak and Saxton each counted 10 to lead the Jordanites, Lovelace with the same number, tallied high for the losers.

Cogh Jankovik's reserves were defeated for the second time this winter by the Blue and Gold seconds, who won out 26 to 22, after a hotly contested match.

Members of the Gaylord high school and East Jordan high school bands combined for the evening, as they added pep to the occasion. Mr. Ter Wee has been doing his part this season, having his hand on hand to hold up their backing in the high school teams. He has been at the games several times this season. This column has neglected to give him his due credit, for they really have been doing a fine job.

Wins First On Kathadins

ELMER HOTI TAKES PRIZE AT STATE SEED SHOW

The 28th annual Michigan State Seed Show was held last week in connection with Farmer's Week at the Michigan State College. The potato exhibits represented all sections of the state and surely represented the best that Michigan has to offer in respect to this crop.

While all the announcements have not been received at this time, we find that Elmer Hoti, East Jordan, won first place in the state-wide competition with his peck of Kathadins. Harry Behling, Boyne City, won second with a peck of White Rurals, third with a peck of Chippewas, and 8th with his peck of Russet Rurals.

In the 4-H club competition the county exhibit was placed in the white ribbon group and in the individual competition LeRoy Nicloy, East Jordan, and Raynor Olstrom, East Jordan, were placed in the red ribbon group. Howard McDonald's peck appeared in the white ribbon group. Curtis Nicloy was fifth with a peck of Russet Burbank's in the "Any Other Variety" class.

While we are not entirely certain, tentative announcements state that the Smith-Hughes exhibit, from the East Jordan school, was placed in the red ribbon group. We cannot, at this time, state how the individual exhibits were placed within the group collection but without a doubt some of them should appear in the blue ribbon group as they were outstanding in quality.

Another packed house saw Coach Cohn's high school Crimson Wave best the Charlevoix Red Rayders 19 to 14, here last Friday evening, for its fifth conference victory this season.

The local triumph was the first scored over Charlevoix quintet since 1936, and the first scored over them on the home floor for more than ten years.

Charlevoix began in the same usual manner with its smooth functioning passing attack, which set up their plays to lead 7 to 2 as the first period came to a close. Here the Cohnmen changed their defensive tactics, going into an aggressive man to man, picking up the Red and White all over the court, thus the visitors were overtaken at the half-time with the score knotted at 7 all.

The Jordanites came back in the third period to take the lead on three successive tallies, and from here on to the end protected their lead and finally won out in one of the most exciting games ever played here.

Charlevoix's poor free throw percentage cost them the victory as they were able to make good but 4 of their 21 attempts from the foul circle.

L. Cihak led the local offensive attack with 9 points, Withers was high scorer for the Red and White with 8. Jack Isaman, local center, turned in a marvelous performance on defense stopping the lanky six foot six inch, Brown, cold, as the latter was able to shoot twice (by actual count) from the court.

The officials handling the game did an excellent job as the game, although hotly contested was cleanly played throughout. Robert Cornel of Petoskey and Stanford Nelson of Harbor Springs acted as referee and umpire respectively.

The local Reserves walked all over the Charlevoix Seconds winning 33 to 18, in the opener.

Kalkaska comes here Friday for its only game with the Red and Black this season. The Kasky boys from all reports have a fairly good outfit and should give the Jordanites plenty of opposition, but from the way the Crimsons have been playing of late they should be slight favorites to win.

Garden Gossip

Edited by Caroline Harrington
Letters and questions on garden topics will be welcome. They will be published and discussed in this column.

Organized only last May, the Central Lake Garden Club has accomplished wonders in civic improvement. Through its efforts, and the cooperation of the NEA and NYA, the city park has been enlarged and improved, camping facilities have been installed, including an enclosed kitchen, stone fountain, and toilets. Trees, 240 in all, have been set out, rock gardens made, and flowers and shrubs planted. The village rest rooms have been remodeled, the beach made safe for small children, and during the early winter toys were painted and repaired for the Christmas of 25 needy families.

During the year of 1938 the club admitted 98 members, and is now starting a campaign to enlarge its membership to 150. The East Jordan Garden Club extends congratulations and best wishes to her very active sister organization for continued success in the new year's work.

Dear Mrs. Harrington:
I have the loveliest azalea in full bloom, a dainty peach-pink. It was given to me a year ago, and was beautiful then, but it seems to me it is much nicer this year, and has grown a great deal. It was taken from the pot and kept in the garden all summer. We brought it in last fall, and I have given it the same care as ordinary house plants, — plenty of water, a little commercial fertilizer now and then, and a cool place in which to live. It amply repays me for the little care it has been given. I thought azaleas were hard to grow, but I am going to put mine in the garden again in the spring, and see if I can keep it another year.
Laura Malpass.

The Oden Fish Hatchery has found a way to protect the young fry without destroying the kingfishers, herons and other birds that prey upon them. Five of their ponds are already covered with screens, and a new project is under way to cover the remaining ponds with the aid of CCC labor. We are all glad that we can have the fish and the birds, too. And for that matter, I would have no fish rather than see the cruel pole traps installed at any of our rearing ponds.

Last fall my California fuschia, all summer thrifty and beautiful, drooped and withered in spite of me. I thought it had died, but when I started to empty the soil from the pot I noticed some small pinkish-purple, very much alive looking nodules so I quickly put the soil back, feeling just about as I did when I found I had broken the little rootlet from the African violet leaf. All winter I have cherished the hope that the "sleeping beauty" was not disturbed too much for her good, but I am still on the anxious seat. This is no success story, such as Mrs. Malpass tells in today's column. Just the same, I have not given up hope for Mrs. Winstone, Sr. tells us that the California fuschia always sleeps the winter away. When the grass begins to get green Mrs. Winstone puts the pot in a sunny window, first cutting away the withered plant, waters it, and soon her fuschia is up and getting ready for summer business.

State Garden Clubs, Inc., publishes the following from the Mississippi Bulletin:

"A crop of Christmas trees can be grown in eight to twelve years."
"A crop of fence posts can be grown in twenty years."
"Pulpwood can be harvested from the forest plantation in twenty-five or thirty years."
"Forests protect the land from erosion and help to regulate stream flow by holding vast quantities of water in storage, following every rain or snow storm."

PROBATE ORDER

State of Michigan, The Probate Court for the County of Charlevoix. At a session of said court, held at the Probate Office in the City of Charlevoix in said County, on the 6th day of February A. D. 1939.

Present: Hon. Ervan A. Ruegsegger, Judge of Probate, In the Matter of the Estate of H. Henry Cummings, Deceased.

Truman Ramsey, a creditor, having filed in said court his petition praying that the administration of said estate be granted to himself, or to some other suitable person.

It is Ordered, That the 3rd day of March A. D. 1939, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, at said probate office, he and is hereby appointed for hearing said petition;

It is Further Ordered, That public notice thereof be given by publication of a copy of this order, once each week for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing, in the Charlevoix County Herald, a newspaper printed and circulated in said county.

Mrs. Sloan reports that both the "lord and lady cardinal" have been seen at the depot. Mr. Sloan says that the pheasants come every day, sometimes in considerable numbers, to partake of the hospitality of the Sportsmen. Mrs. Sloan is

The stretch of country between Seven Mile Point and Good Hart on the road to Cross Village is reported to be as good for fruit growing, as can be found in the north. Deep water offshore furnishes protection against frost — and it is said the leaves stay green longer in the fall, and the buds open later in the spring than they do elsewhere in the county. "Cherries may well be Emmet county's future major crop," says the Emmet County Graphic in comment.

Contradicting stories I have heard, deer were plentiful in the Jordan River Valley 60 years ago says Mr. Webster who can remember seeing them brought in, sometimes a sleigh load at a time, and sold at the local butcher shop. The hides were tanned by Mr. Webster's grandfather.

A letter from the Conservation Department advises that Victor Milliman's beautiful snow picture, taken on the side of our arboretum, will be used on the cover of a coming issue of the Conservation magazine. "Nice work if you can get it."

If you do not think there is life in the winter woods, go out and take a look at the maples and osters now brightening up the landscape with budding twigs and shoots. This has been an easy winter on growing things, few sub-zero days to halt the life process.
