Winter Sports Program Went Over Big

AN ESTIMATED CROWD OF 2,000 TO 3,000 SEE NIGHT'S EVENTS

Wintersports enthusiasts and ardent outdoor sports lovers were treated with ideal weather and perfect rink conditions here Saturday, Feb. 18th, as the Second Annual Winter Carnival went off in grand style, in the most successful undertaking of its kind ever staged in Charlevoix County. After a threatened storm which subsided late Friday evening, Saturday turned out to be an ideal day with the temperatures ranging between 30 and 35 degrees.

Coach Abe Cohn, acting as official starter, got the racing program under way promptly at 2:30 p. m. to commence the afternoon activities. Intermingled with the local races, were exhibition races by a group of Petoskey speed skaters, brought here by Don Barnes, who is the President of the Northern Michigan Speed Skating Association. Miss Smith of Charlevoix also gave a few numbers in figure and fancy skating. Following are the results of the local racing program, which this year saw the number of participants, almost double of last year's event. Thomas Breakey and Margarite Strehl were the outstanding skaters of the afternoon: (Names are in 1st, 2d and 3d order)

1. — Dash: Boys 12 and under — Jimmie Collins, Floyd Peck, Jack Gothro.
2. — Dash: Girls 12 and under — Louise Bartholomew, Shirley Sinclair, Frances Sommerville.
3. — Dash: Boys 13 to 16 — Ernest Mockerman, Karl Kamradt, Louis Kamradt.
4. — Dash: Girls 13 to 16 — Margarite Strehl, Margarite Collins, Betty Strehl.
5. — Dash: Men's open — Thomas Breakey, Bill Simmons, Bud Hite.
6. — 1/4 mile: Boys 13 to 16 — Bill Pollit, Louis Kamradt, Harry Watson.
7. — 1/4 mile: Men open — Thomas Breakey, Bill Pollit, Bill Simmons.
8. — 1/2 mile: Boys 13 to 16 — Louis Kamradt, Karl Kamradt, Kenneth Bartholomew.
9. — 1/2 mile: Girls open — Margarite Strehl, Margarite Collins, 3rd and 4th place tie: Betty Strehl and Suzanne Porter.
10. — 3/4 mile: Men's open — Thomas Breakey, Robert Sloop.
11. — Dash: Boys 12 and under (2 laps) — Jack Gothro, Jimmie Collins, Jackie Valencourt.
12. — Relay Race (four laps) — Alumni — "Stub" Bowman, Rodney Gibbard, Edward Stanek, Thomas Breakey.

Starter — Abe Cohn.
Assistants: R. Winstone, Gayle Saxton, Don Barnes, and Charles Dennis, Jr.

With an assembled crowd estimated to be between 2000 and 3000, the evening's program began with the presentation of awards with Percy Penfold and Edwin Rueling officiating.

The Petoskey Figure Skating Club then put on a brilliant exhibition of figure and fancy skating, which was received with a thunderous applause by the very much interested audience. Wilson MacDonald, President of the Petoskey Winter Sports Club, was responsible for the appearance of the group representing Michigan's Wintersports center. Among those appearing were Dickey and Audrey Crick, Katherine and Thelma Kocher, Shirley Ernst, Jane Giles, Virginia Hagel, Jane Ellen North, Norma Emboden, Vance Cory, and Wayne Reber. All clothed in attractive costume the Petoskey group proved to be exceptionally fine entertainers with their various fancy, figure, novelty and comedy stunts.

The Coronation program, with Merton Roberts, high school principle, as master of ceremonies was one of the outstanding numbers on the well rounded program. Percy Penfold, President of the East Jordan Chamber of Commerce, gave the address of welcome. Two former winter queens of East Jordan were then presented, Mrs. Wade Healey (Eva Dennis) and Phyllis Bulow. The members of the queen's court were then introduced as they approached the throne coming through an archway formed by a number of high school boys holding skis. Following were the members of the court: S. Skrocki, E. Woodcock, V. Saxton, B. Skrocki, V. Davis, W. Zitka, E. Hosler, J. Blair and B. Hayes.

Mr. MacDonald was then introduced as the chief official of the coronation, and commented highly of East Jordan's wonderful site for their well kept rink. Miss Louise Bechtold, East Jordan's Winter Queen for 1939, then came forward and was crowned ruler of East Jordan's Winter sports activities. Margarite Blossie and William Kamradt were crown and scepter bearers respectively. Miss Betty Priest, Mar-

H. S. District Basketball Tournament At Boyne City, March 2-4

Boyne City announces that one of the northern area's district basketball tournaments will be held in the local gymnasium on March 2, 3 and 4. Teams eligible for Class C competition are East Jordan, Charlevoix, Harbor Springs, Pellston, and Boyne City. Class D teams will be Mackinac City, Alanson, Indian River and Boyne Falls.

Dopesters will admit that it is anybody's tournament this year inasmuch as most of the teams are evenly matched. There will be two games Thursday night, three games Friday night, and two final games Saturday night. Officials are Robert Cornell and W. M. Loveless, both of Petoskey. Drawings will be held at the Boyne City school on Thursday, February 23rd. Class C and D winners will compete at the Petoskey regionals the following week.

Personal Taxes Must be Paid

All personal taxes due in the City of East Jordan must be in by March 1st, 1939.

G. E. BOSWELL,
City Treasurer.

Jersey Breeders Go To Ellsworth

NEXT WEDNESDAY, MARCH 1st. DISTRICT ANNUAL MEETING.

All Jersey breeders from Grand Traverse, Antrim, Emmet, and Charlevoix counties will hold their annual meeting on Wednesday, March 1, beginning at 11:00 a. m. The meeting will be held upstairs in the Ellsworth Co-op. Following a brief session in the forenoon, the group will have a dinner together.

H. E. Dennison, State Jersey Field Man, and probably George Cooper, President of the State Cattle Club, will be present. A report will be given concerning the Jersey Parish Show held at last year's county fair. Plans and suggestions will be discussed in preparation for another event. This show has been a feature of the Jersey development in this locality for the last two years. Also, officers will be elected for the new year. It is hoped that Grand Traverse will be interested in the Jersey Parish Show program. We expect every Jersey breeder to attend this meeting. Certainly anyone interested in Jerseys can well afford to take half a day each year to talk about the features of interest to their chosen breed of cattle.

celona's Winter Queen was then introduced. The throne was then lighted with colorful flares as pictures were taken from all angles.

The Ironton Chamber of Commerce and the East Jordan Chamber of Commerce wound up the evenings entertainment as they went to it in their challenge game of broomball, which provided the crowd with laughs aplenty as the men went at it with free swinging tactics. The final count proved to be a 2 to 2 tie and the boys had plenty of bruises and cuts to show for their entanglement.

The fine cooperation of all committees concerned made this Second Annual Winter Carnival such a stellar attraction. The following should receive their due credit for the excellent performances of the duties given them.

General Committee: Chairman — Abe Cohn. Secretary — Gayle Saxton.

Hector McKinnon, Thomas Breakey, Percy Penfold, Merton Roberts, and ex-officio members Howard Porter, William Sloan, Edwin Rueling, and Dr. B. J. Beuker.

The Committee in charge of the Queen's coronation activities did an excellent job with their end of the work.

Chairman — Helen Watson. Maude Porter, Agnes Hegerberg, Florence Swoboda, Byrel McDonald, Gladys Bechtold, Eva Porter, Helen Cohn.

Others to be given recognition for their duties well-handled are: Ole Hegerberg, for setting up the proper lighting for the occasion.

The Jordan Valley Co-op. Creamery and "Stub" Bowman for their time and labor on building the attractive queen's throne.

George Secord and Gayle Saxton for publicity.

The Gamble Store Agency for its public address system, which added color to the situation.

The local WPA recreational staff did an excellent job in getting the rink in shape and also in assisting in the running off of the events. They are Gayle Saxton, Thomas Breakey, Charles Dennis, Basil Holland, Robert Winstone, Charles Harder, and Geo. Walton.

The event was sponsored by the East Jordan Chamber of Commerce.

Now Selling Auto Plates

AUTOISTS OF THIS SECTION MAY NOW SECURE LICENSES IN EAST JORDAN

City Clerk William Aldrich, who was appointed Branch Manager to sell automobile license plates in East Jordan by Secretary of State Harry F. Kelly late in January, received the necessary plates and blank forms Tuesday, and disposed of a few that day.

Until further notice Mr. Aldrich will be at the City Clerk's office in the Municipal building on the following schedule of hours: 8:00 to 11:00 a. m., 1:00 to 5:00 and 7:00 to 9:00 p. m.

East Jordan and this region has long needed a place where auto licenses and plates could be secured without the necessity of driving a considerable distance, and it is a source of gratification to our citizens that this has finally been accomplished.

Funeral Services For Mark M. Sedgman Held Sunday, Feb. 19

Mark M. Sedgman was born March 17, 1855 in Ontario, Canada. At an early age he, with his parents, moved to Port Huron, Mich., where he resided until grown. In 1879 he came to Boyne City and on April 27 of that year was united in marriage to Alice Smith, later coming to East Jordan.

For many years he was employed by the East Jordan Lumber Company. Twenty years ago he went to Flint where he worked until failing health compelled him to quit.

For the past several years he has made his home with his son, Guy, at Owosso, where he passed away Friday, February 17, lacking one month of being eighty-four.

Besides the widow, he is survived by the following sons and daughters: Mrs. Stella McGuire, Detroit; Mrs. Jennie Johnson and Mrs. Alice Hanaman, Flint; Mrs. Violet Ruggles, Central Lake; Guy Sedgman, Owosso; S. G. Sedgman, Newberry.

One son, Clinton, was a member of the A. E. F. in France during the World War and gave his life in that cause.

Funeral services were held at the Church of God, Sunday afternoon, conducted by the pastor, Rev. S. J. High, with burial at Sunset Hill.

Mr. Sedgman was a member of the Odd Fellow Lodge, members of which attended the funeral and assisted in the burial services.

Among those from away to attend the funeral were Charles Brown and son George of Muskegon.

Geo. Wm. Atkinson Passed Away At Jackson; Remains Brought Here

George William Atkinson passed away at his home at Jackson, Mich., Monday, Feb. 13, following over two-year's illness from a heart ailment — coronary thrombosis.

He was born at Lakelet, Ontario, Canada, Oct. 25, 1882, his parents being John Parks and Martha Atkinson. The following year — 1883 — he came with his parents to East Jordan. When a young man he was identified with the East Jordan Lumber Co. in their saw mills and later served as conductor on the D. & C. R. R. for several years. On Nov. 23, 1910, he was united in marriage to Mary E. Ruhling at East Jordan. In 1911 they moved to Jackson where they have since resided and were in the grocery business up to the time of his death. Mr. Atkinson was a member of the Eagles, Elks and K. of P.

Beside the widow, he is survived by two sons, Maxwell George and John Carlton Atkinson of Jackson; two brothers, Charles E. and Robert J. Atkinson of Jackson.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 15, at the Wetherby funeral parlors at Jackson. The remains were brought to East Jordan Thursday afternoon and services were held from the home of Mrs. Ida Kinsey on North Main-st. Rev. Loren McBain of Jackson was in charge of both services. The remains were laid to rest at Sunset Hill.

The many floral offerings were an expression of the esteem in which he was held in his community which has lost a well-known and esteemed citizen.

Among those here to attend the services were Dr. and Mrs. Tripp of Manelona; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Atkinson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Atkinson, Miss Elizabeth Foy, of Jackson; Miss Margaret Ruhling, East Lansing; Mr. and Mrs. E. I. Adams, Lansing; Bert Reid, Muskegon; Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Price, Boyne City.

Palmer Named For School Com'r

AT REPUBLICAN COUNTY CONVENTION, DELEGATES ELECTED

Republican delegates to the county convention held Wednesday evening, Feb. 8th, at East Jordan, nominated Wm. C. Palmer, Charlevoix, the incumbent, as candidate for county school-commissioner.

Palmer received 76 votes to 7 for Kenneth Rehkoph of Bay Shore, as delegates for the first time functioned under the new election which gives them the responsibility of naming the party candidate for this office. Only delegates with proper credentials were seated. An attendance of 83 of the 100 duly elected delegates was present. Barney Milstein of East Jordan was chosen temporary Chairman.

Ten delegates, each with one-half vote, were named to attend the Republican state convention at Flint. Those named were: William J. Pearson, and Fred Denise, Boyne Falls; Wm. J. Gallagher and James H. Gallagher, St. James; Clarence B. Meggison and Oscar Stroud, Charlevoix; Lyle White and John H. Parker, Boyne City; A. J. Rogers and R. G. Watson, East Jordan.

The delegates will go to Flint un-instructed, as numerous requests for endorsements by candidates for state offices were disregarded in conformance with a policy of many years' standing.

Resolutions endorsing the Republican state administration and Republican national offices were unanimously adopted.

Democrats Name Delegates
Charlevoix county Democrats, in convention February 7 at Boyne City, chose the following delegates and alternates: Fred Mitchell, Mattie M. Dean, Jesse Mitchell of Boyne City, and R. A. Muma, East Jordan; alternates — Merritt Shaw, East Jordan; Pat Moran, Charlevoix; Delbert Piquette, Boyne City; Joe Topolinski, Boyne Falls.

Grade Children, Teachers, School Band, Present Patriotic Program

On Friday afternoon, Feb. 17, the grade children under supervision of their teachers presented an interesting patriotic program for the P.-T. A. organization.

Several songs and short skits were given, showing events in the lives of Lincoln and Washington. There were also some splendid drills given by the boys.

Mr. TerWee, with his School Band, added interest to the occasion by playing several patriotic numbers.

The next meeting will be held Mar. 9. Dr. F. H. Lashmet of Petoskey will address the meeting.

East Jordan Study Club Sponsoring Talk Here By Miss Hutzel

Miss Hutzel, who is affiliated with the State Dept. of Health, will lecture at the High school Tuesday evening, Feb. 28, at 8:00 o'clock, taking for her subject "The Social Adjustment of the Child."

Miss Hutzel has been engaged in social work and as visiting nurse for several years and is an able and interesting speaker. On different occasions she has visited the local school, speaking to the students.

The East Jordan Study Club is sponsoring this meeting and all members are requested to be present as this takes the place of the regular meeting scheduled for that date.

All parents and adults interested in the welfare of the youth of this community are urged to attend this meeting.

Outdoor Adventure Heads Temple Week

With sweeping vistas of un-sullied nature as a breath-taking backdrop the great-west of the pioneer relives its lusty climax in two mighty spectacles, "Jesse James" and "Stand Up and Fight" both of which are scheduled for presentation at the Temple this week. The week in full follows, and will bring a shout of joy from lovers of red-blooded adventure:

Sun. Mon.: Wallace Beary and Robert Taylor in "Stand Up and Fight." Robert Benchley Comedy. March of Time. Novelty.

Tues., Wed.: Family Nites: Tommy Ryan and Robert Livingston in "Orphans of the Street." Comedy. Chapter 6 of "Hawk of the Wilderness."

Thur., Fri., Sat.: Tyrone Power, Nancy Kelly, Slim Summerville, Henry Fonda, Randolph Scott in "Jesse James." Entirely in Technicolor.

Motion Picture Films To Be Shown To Local Schools By M.T.A.

These tuberculosis films are to be shown to high school groups throughout the counties of Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Otsego beginning March 2nd and continuing through until March 10th. These films are being sponsored by the Michigan Tuberculosis Association with the cooperation of the District Health Department.

The following schedule has been arranged by the Health Department with the approval of the superintendents in this area.

March 3
Boyne City — 9 a. m.
Charlevoix — 11 a. m.
Charlevoix — 1:15 p. m.
St. Mary's, Charlevoix: 2:30 p. m.

March 6
East Jordan — 9 a. m.
Ellsworth — 11 a. m.

These films are very educational and will be shown to students from the fifth to the twelfth grades inclusive. Parents are urged to attend if the hour is convenient for them to do so for they will find it much worthwhile to learn the newer methods of tuberculosis control.

Better Sires Better Dairying

SPECIALIST BALTZER POINTS WAY IN SELECTING SIRES

"Selecting dairy inheritance according to progeny is assisting Michigan dairymen to choose more wisely the stock most likely to make them most money," said A. C. Baltzer, Extension Dairyman, Michigan State College, at East Jordan on Thursday night, February 16. County Agent B. C. Mellencamp, who assisted in planning this second of a series of three important dairy meetings, pointed out that this dairy problem wisely handled by Charlevoix County farmers would return many thousands of extra dollars through improved sales of surplus livestock and improved efficient production of cows on Michigan Farms.

Baltzer pointed out that the freedom from disease of northern Michigan dairy cattle, the advantage of good roughage, especially alfalfa for hay and pasture would be even better if more common use of dairy bulls with known inheritance or bulls with milk and butterfat producing sisters were selected as the standard pattern for dairy sire selection throughout northern Michigan.

"To meet the market demands for cows that have the 'zip' to efficiently produce," said Baltzer, "dairymen should cooperate more in a program of selecting only bulls with proved sires and dams from proved sires which have families of daughters and sisters of desirable udders and dairy traits. Selecting a bull by looks alone is rated as very risky and choosing him on a basis of selected dam records is also faulty, whereas choosing a Bull on the basis of his unselected sisters production and all daughters production is scientific and almost sure to result in better production in the majority of herds.

Baltzer showed moving pictures of the fertilized cow egg and pointed out that the economic loss of 40 cows out of every 100 milking animals due to poor parentage is more than the dairy business can stand. He explained it takes over three years from the time the egg is fertilized to finish one year of milk production and if the results are poor, severe money losses have occurred. It was felt selecting bulls only from herds under herd test in the county D. H. I. A.'s and according to progeny or family production would remedy this situation and give dairymen more profitable cows and reduce the chances of breeding unprofitable cows. Cooperative use of selected sires was urged.

Such a practice will allow Charlevoix county farmers to get most returns on their valuable hay and grain crop and yield them most for the hours of labor expended in the dairy. In conclusion, Baltzer pointed out that young bulls can be grown out by the farmer himself and be obtained from record keeping dairy herds headed by sires which are either proven, are being proved, or are sons of proved sires for two or more generations.

"Fancy prices paid for a bull or a ribbon" said Baltzer, "does not influence the genetic make up and insure efficient economic production, but only by record keeping and selection can the good inheritance be found and it is scientific to use such facts in selecting young bulls for future herd sires."

The need for D.H.I.A. record keeping was emphasized.

By applying to county agricultural agents about locating such well bred young bulls, farmers wishing to improve their dairy stock will quickly be able to modernize their dairy

Fifteen Wins All In A Row

CANNERS WIN AT GAYLORD AND BEAT MACKINAW CITY HERE

Coach Alex Sinclair's triumphing East Jordan Canners, hard pressed to win a 35 to 27 decision, rang up their 14th consecutive victory Wednesday evening, Feb. 15, at the expense of the Gaylord I.O.O.F. Independents.

Playing on the huge Gaylord court, the locals were lost in the first few minutes of play as the opposition went out in front 9 to 2, but after a called time out the Jordanites began to click and by the intermission held an 18 to 16 advantage. The entire last half was bitterly contested throughout as the Jordanites fought desperately to protect their slim margin. Gaylord matched basket for basket with the Sinclairmen, until the closing minutes of play, when three field goals in rapid succession, put the team on ice.

Marlin Chak and Gayle Saxton each with 10 points led the local scoring column, as Huff and Benser, each counted seven to lead the losers. The return match between these two aggregations will be played here sometime in March, and it should be a tilt that every basketball follower of this locality will want to see.

The Mackinaw City Independents, coming here with a record of 10 wins as compared to 1 loss, were bent on stopping the Cannerns long winning streak, but were taken in stride by the fast stepping Sinclairmen, 63 to 38 here Monday evening.

The locals scored almost at will and at no time were they even threatened by the aggregation from the Straits. Coach Sinclair used both combinations to the best advantage in wearing out the opposition, and with the score 42 to 18 at the close of the third period the starting lineup came back to work after a two quarter rest, with the intent of running the score up. In doing so they paid too much attention to their offensive attack and too little toward their defensive as the visitors also went on a scoring spree tallying 20 points. The win brought the Cannerns winning streak to 15 straight this winter.

Cohn-Sommerville picked up 15 points to lead the Jordanites. Marshal counted 12 to tally-high for his visitors.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—The WPA barrel isn't like the widow's curse of oil in the Bible. They expect to be scraping the bottom by next June. Who gets fired and when is a naturally distressing problem, falling mainly on Dean Brimhall, trouble-shooter and handyman for the WPA, who looks and talks like Sinclair Lewis and who used to hunt bears in Utah. Officially, he is director of the section on employment problems of the WPA, and just now these problems loom up like the peak range of his native Rocky mountains.

At-grinders, angry congressmen, union disputants, kickers, fixers, utopians, and what not see Mr. Brimhall, and when he isn't taking this rap, he is expediting and editing administration outputs on labor relations and employment, making surveys on relief technique, or flying in his own plane to some spot where employment is ebbing. A trap-drummer is just snoozing along compared to Mr. Brimhall. Merely getting a bear by the tail was never like this. For relief or nerve tension, he hops into his plane now and then and makes a getaway in the clouds, which seems like a nice idea.

Reared in the Church of the Latter Day Saints—his grandfather trekked west with Brigham Young—he was one of a group of twelve Utah business men, Marriner Eccles among them, who craved New Deal action for some of their ideas. Six of them are still active. On the side, he still maintains a live interest in four different concerns—an airplane company, a railroad company, a lumber business and extensive real estate interests. Ogden is his home town.

He hauled coal to pay for his education at Brigham Young university, and one winter he maintained his family nicely with a shotgun, hunting large and small game. Under McKean Cattell at Columbia university, he studied experimental psychology and later taught that subject at Columbia and Brigham Young. He saw the Wrights make their first European flight and he has been interested in flying ever since—flying and hunting. On every week-end and holiday he's high in the sky, his plane poised and pointed toward his beloved Rockies. But there seems to be no likelihood of his doing a "wrong-way Corrigan."

He says he still could get a living with a shotgun, but instead of his gun he has, to shoulder the troubles of citizens less versatile.

THE United States senate, possibly "standin' in the need of prayer," does away with piece-work supplication and puts praying on the regular daily schedule. Senate, in need, Puts Daily Task On Its Chaplain. Last year, the occasional prayers by the official chaplain, the Rev. Ze Barney-Thorne Phillips cost the government $420 a prayer. Now the rate for each will be about $16, as Mr. Phillips gets $1,680 a year.

The change was brought about by a resolution by Senator Neely, by which the senate will be opened by prayer on every calendar day, instead of only on "legislative" days as in the past. The latter are a fiction by which the senate may free itself from things diurnal, as effectively as did Joshua. But, since the senate is entitled to a good prayer on every real, not figurative, working day, it is going to get it. Possibly as a tribute to Chaplain Phillips' prayers, the vote on Senator Neely's resolution was unanimous.

While both parties in the senate have on many occasions claimed divine guidance and inspiration for their side, Mr. Phillips, although a Republican, appointed by Calvin Coolidge in 1927, has been strictly non-partisan. He is a distinguished Episcopalian clergyman, rector of the Church of the Epiphany of Washington, and has discharged his office with simple eloquence and dignity.

Chaplain Phillips, 63 years old, is a native of Springfield, Ohio, educated at Wittenberg college and the General Theological seminary. He engaged in special studies at Oxford in 1910 and 1911 and has served pastorates in Cincinnati, Chicago, St. Louis and Philadelphia. His children are named Faith, Deacon and Sallie Hews.

Weekly News Analysis Nazi, Argentine Trade Plans Threaten American Program

By Joseph W. La Bine

EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns they are those of the news analyst, and not necessarily of the newspaper.

Trade

Today's high pressure international salesmanship runs counter to the reciprocal trade program of U. S. Secretary of State Cordell Hull. Devoted to the cause of low tariffs and "most-favored-nation" pacts, Secretary Hull's idealistic and honest efforts must compete with such devices as the German barter plan and a series of multi-colored trade ideas which emerge annually from congress' halls. This month Mr. Hull saw his beloved program threatened on several fronts:

Argentine. Of all South American governments, that at Buenos Aires is least friendly with the U. S. At Lima's Pan-American conference Argentina spoiled President Roosevelt's "continental solidarity" declaration by charging that the disgraceful policy of "dollar imperialism" was still rampant. But the real roots of this dislike are commonplace things like hoof-and-mouth disease, drouth and depression.

An agreement was reached in 1935 providing for U. S. import of cattle from Argentine sections not infected with hoof-and-mouth disease. But congress failed to ratify it. In 1937 drouth and temporary U. S. prosperity forced heavy imports from Argentina. This business dropped with a thud in 1938's recession, far faster than Argentina curtailed her imports from the U. S. Result has been a trade imbalance and subsequent strengthening of Argentine exchange control against the U. S., encouraged by Germany's increasing willingness to swap machinery for Argentine foodstuffs. This sentiment reached a climax with Argentina's declaration that imports from the U. S. must be reduced to the level of 1935-36. Faced with a 40 per cent slash in exports, Secretary Hull may be forced to dangle juicy trade plums before Argentina's eyes, seriously endangering the rest of his reciprocal program.

ARMOUR'S PRESIDENT CABELL
He didn't want German harmonicas.

Germany. Barter trade like Nazi Germany's is allowed in the U. S. provided it does not interfere with the "most-favored-nation" plan. But artificial currency devices like German payment for U. S. goods with "trade marks" (good only for purchase of Nazi goods) are taboo. Mid-February found U. S. lard prices low and likely to drop still more when the spring hog run starts. Meanwhile Germany hungered for fats. Putting two and two together, German trade experts began contacting midwest packers to swap lard for machinery.

Though the Reich apparently progressed on two deals, most packers turned their backs, uninterested. Recalled was the experience of one firm which arranged a swap deal with Germany several years ago, only to find itself burdened with several thousand Nazi harmonicas. Typical was the comment of R. H. Cabell, president of Armour and Company, who dismissed the bid by simply stating that "the big packing houses are not interested in bartering, but in the sale of products at market rates." Next day packers were pleased to note that lard futures were selling up, but Mr. Hull could not fail to note that the Nazi program had made a mite of progress in his balliwick.

Agriculture. Crux of the "cost-of-production" farm bill now before congress is that domestically consumed products shall have a minimum price. All surpluses would be dumped abroad for whatever they would bring. Whatever the bill's merits, Mr. Hull presumably regards it as an artificial trade barrier in the field of agricultural trade, which would be reflected in other branches of commerce. If "cost-of-production" fails, the state department must still hurdle a second new farm measure which would extend governmental loans on three major crops (cotton, wheat, corn) equivalent to three-fourths the "parity price"—an amount higher than the current market price. Farmers would then be expected to turn their crops over to the government for the loan price. Domestically consumed products would sell at not less than the loan price. With surpluses the U. S. would attempt to recapture its lost foreign markets.

Significance. Though world economic satisfaction must be a prelude to permanent world peace (an important principle in the Hull program), each nation seeks to further its own admittedly selfish interest with self-preservation as a justification. Still to come is the showdown in which nations will decide whether world problems will be settled via economic treaties, at the expense of selfish aims, or via force, at another kind of expense.

Defense

Last December President Roosevelt's arms expansion program had more foes than friends in the still-to-convene seventy-sixth congress. Two months later it had more friends, thanks to clever White House publicity maneuvers and a lot of saber-rattling in Europe. The house passed 367 to 15 an administration bill to spend $376,000,000 extra on defense the next two years. (Same day, Great Britain voted about $1,000,000,000 more for arms.) Chief features are boosting the army's aviation force to 5,500 first line planes and making the Panama canal impregnable. Certain of passage was the Vinson naval expansion bill to spend $68,000,000 on naval air and submarine bases.

But there was little unity in this new strength. Closely allied to rearmament is the problem of U. S. military alliances with other democracies, since the threat that inspired American rearmament is the same threat that makes France and Britain jittery. After a California air crash revealed U. S. manufacturers were selling military planes to France, after President Roosevelt denied telling a senate military affairs committee that U. S. "frontiers are in France," the White House-congress foreign policy debate came out in full bloom. Questions: (1) Shall the U. S. keep its foreign policy secret? (2) Is President Roosevelt risking involvement in war through secret international deals?

After a week's debate there presumably were no longer any secrets about either the French deal or the administration's foreign policy. Actual cause of the rumpus was apparently removed, but net congressional resentment.

Thundered California's Sen. Hiram Johnson: "No epithets applied to senators or newspapers will relieve the situation of its secrecy. There is resentment among the administration that anybody should ask the facts. But if there comes a war it will not be fought by the President alone . . ."

SENATOR JOHNSON
He resented White House resentment.

Facts themselves are startling. Faced with U. S. military orders under the new defense bill, plane manufacturers already have their hands full with export orders. Starting with $25,000,000 in 1936, plane exports have roughly doubled annually, approximating $200,000,000 this year. In the past eight months France and Britain have ordered 1,200 ships. Chief congressional wonder is which orders will get precedence, U. S. or foreign. Meanwhile aircraft firms are reluctant to expand their plants to satisfy production requirements which may be only temporary.

Europe

In modern Europe no month is complete without its crisis. January's crisis was Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's visit to Rome. February's was the fall of Barcelona and its decisive implications. In March the crisis will again center on Spain if three signs mean anything:

(1) Germany and Italy have helped Spain's Insurgents win their battle thus far, France and England siding with Loyalists because they were anti-Fascist. Today, with Loyalists on the run, Britain has granted de facto recognition to Gen. Francisco Franco's Insurgents, encouraging France to fall in line. Obviously a policy of expediency, the Anglo-French overture is accompanied by financial offers to help rebuild Spain. In wooing Franco, Paris and London will positively arouse the Rome-Berlin axis to new wrath.

(2) Combined British home fleets will maneuver around Gibraltar in March, just as Germany completes its most thorough mobilization since last autumn's much-feared troop concentration. Meanwhile Italy is doubling its garrison in Libya (adjoining France's African Tunisia) as an admitted step in retaliation against reputedly increased Tunisian garrisons.

(3) Closer conformation of Anglo-French policy is seen in London's declaration to help Paris in event of war, also in Britain's de facto recognition of Insurgent Spain while awaiting official French action. Such parallel policies, coupled with the bold British decision to spend $1,000,000,000 more on armament, illustrate how Europe's two de-mocracies are drawing closer together and preparing to meet the next totalitarian demands. Probably these demands will be Italian territorial claims against France, coming immediately after the Spanish war.

Meanwhile that war has gone merrily on its way as Gen. Jose Miaja finds himself practically the boss of Loyalist Spain's civil and military branches. With an estimated 500,000 unenthusiastic soldiers under his command, General Miaja recently heard that his friend General Franco was about to charge against Valencia and Madrid with 1,000,000 men.

Labor

In Washington John L. Lewis could peek at the calendar for March realizing it probably held the fate of his Congress for Industrial Organization. At the core of trouble is United Automobile Workers of America, torn during January when President Homer Martin simultaneously resigned and was booted from C. I. O.'s executive board. Reason: U. A. W. underlings thought Mr. Martin was conniving for personal control of Ford Motor company's heretofore independent labor vote, while Mr. Martin thought C. I. O. was turning communistic. Now split in two factions, U. A. W. opens a pro-Martin convention in Detroit during early March, and an anti-Martin parley in Cleveland March 27.

First victory was scored by the Martin faction when property of U. A. W.'s Plymouth local (Detroit) was pulled from court custody and returned to Martin cohorts. Still pending is a replevin suit instituted by anti-Martinites.

To rumors that he might lead U. A. W. into alliance with William Green's American Federation of Labor, Mr. Martin answered with an emphatic negative. Daily winning public support from such Lewis henchmen as Sidney Hillman and Philip Murray, Mr. Martin stands a good chance of emerging not only as undisputed head of U. A. W., but as leader in a C. I. O. conservative movement.

Age-Old Fight Between President And Senate in Vicious Revival

Current Squabble, Involving Senators Glass and Byrd, Invited by President Himself; Mr. Roosevelt's Attempt To Discipline Senate Serious Political Mistake.

By WILLIAM BRUCKART

WNU-Service, National Press Bldg., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON.—Through nearly all of our nation's history, there has been a continuing controversy concerning the respective rights and prerogatives of the President of the United States and the senate. It has alternately smoldered and burst into flame. It has been characterized by vicious outbursts from one side or the other at various times and it has made or destroyed the political fortunes of a great many men.

Washington has been regaled with a fresh revival of the controversy in the last several weeks. The fundamental differences are the same as they always have been. There are, however, new names and new faces and obviously the political fortunes of individuals who have entered upon the public stage in recent years are bound up in the boiling kettle. Like the earlier embitterments over these rights, this one will prove nothing in the way of a tangible solution.

The current fight must be said to have been invited by President Roosevelt. Perhaps, his course of action was urged by some of the "inner circle," which so often has wrongly advised him lately, men who do not know politics and who ignore political history—but the fact remains that the President carried the fight to the senate, and there are more than a few observers who expect that he will come off a bad loser.

Mr. Roosevelt, as I have reported in these columns earlier, was insisting upon his own selection for political appointments where the senators from a particular state were not receiving his smiles. The procedure was not pleasant but there was no sensational outcry from the senators concerned until the nomination of Judge Floyd Roberts, to a United States district judgeship, was sent to the senate. Mr. Roberts was picked without consultation—even over others recommended—by Senators Glass and Byrd of Virginia. It proved to be the signal for a riot.

Advisers Reckoned Not With Senatorial Courtesy

With the manner of senate procedure, Senators Glass and Byrd rose in their places in the senate and pronounced Judge Roberts "personally offensive" to them. That was enough. The senate, as it has done so many times before, promptly rejected the Roberts nomination by the terrific jolt of 72 to 9. It was such a slap that even the Virginia senators were surprised at its overwhelming character. It surely made the fact abundantly clear that Mr. Roosevelt could not get away with his theory namely, that a President can pick nominees without "the advice and consent of the senate" as the Constitution specifies. But it did not have that effect.

And here was where the President made a great political mistake. He sought to discipline the senate by publication of a letter to Judge Roberts in explanation of the senate's action. He scored Senator Glass and he tarred Senator Byrd. They were almost guilty of conduct unbecoming gentlemen.

It was rumored that the strategy of the "inner circle" was to have Mr. Roosevelt smear the two senators and thus create a serious defection in their own political machines in their native Virginia—which anyone acquainted with Virginia politics will tell you is much easier said than done. It was reported even that Mr. Roosevelt would send up another name without consulting the two senators and if that were rejected to send up still others. That, believed the "inner circle," would slowly force disintegration of the Glass-Byrd support.

But the President and his untrained political advisers reckoned not with senatorial courtesy. Now, senatorial courtesy is an intangible thing. No one ever has been able to define or describe it. One simply has to say that it exists and let time prove the statement. The proof always can be found, and the action of the senate on the Roberts nomination, and since, certainly seems to demonstrate that the senators will fight for their rights, or what they believe to be their rights, on a collective basis. Each sticks by the others; none knows when he may need the same kind of help.

Senate Is Thoroughly Embittered at Roosevelt

Thus, after several weeks of this lashing back and forth—because Senators Glass and Byrd did not fail to tell the country what they thought of Mr. Roosevelt's action—we find the senate thoroughly embittered at Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Roosevelt saying, repeatedly, that the senate is trying to usurp the powers of the Chief Executive. As I said, that fundamental difference has existed since the formation of our government. It is going to continue to exist because of the form of our government, its system of checks and balances, and it will exist as long as our system of political parties obtains.

Coldly and without bias, it must be said that each side to the battle predicates its conclusions and conception of its rights upon a thirst for more power. Mr. Roosevelt, as President, conceives that he should be boss; the senators, as representatives of sovereign states, conceive that they are the elected representatives and they are not going to have a single individual, even though it be the President of the United States, dehorn them of the strength that an election by popular vote gives them.

Moreover, the President must do political knitting. He must keep the weave as free of knots as is possible. In the case of the present incumbent, it is quite apparent that he desires to be complete boss of his political structure. He had a taste indeed, a full meal—of it for five years when a subservient congress vastly earned the sobriquet of rubber stamps, I imagine that he liked it; anyone would, if that person is really human. When some of his rubber stamps became blurred and did not print clearly what he said they should print, Mr. Roosevelt, like any other ruthless politician, was going to get rid of them. He tried that in the "purge" during the last campaign, and failed. Many persons are sure that the present flame is intended to destroy this type of opposition.

Old Line Democrats Seek To Regain Party Control

Nor are the senators, not just Glass and Byrd alone, but all of them, blameless, if one desires to turn purist. The senators have their political machines. They seek always to keep those machines well oiled, smooth running. Upon the functioning of the machines depends whether the senators can be re-elected time after time; upon that machine depends the retention or the loss of the power which every politician loves. I imagine they can not be blamed for that, any more than the President can be blamed for wanting to keep his hand on the throttle. That is politics.

Selection of the men to judicial jobs, or to any other political post in the nature of a plumb, is vital to maintenance of machines. Politicians continue as leaders only so long as they can dominate the scene and get for their followers the things their followers want.

But in the current battle there is somewhat deeper disagreement between the senate and the President. It is too well known to warrant more than mere reference here that old line Democrats are determined to regain control of the Democratic party label. They have had more than enough unpractical direction from the regiment of college professors, crack-pots and long haired dreamers without political training. Many of them will tell you unhesitatingly that continuation of Democratic party control in the hands of such men will be destruction of the party and its conversion into a vehicle guided by socialists, communists and a complete rainbow of colors. Naturally, they want to adhere to Democratic doctrines and Democratic principles. And that is the line of cleavage.

The result? I doubt that Mr. Roosevelt can win over the senate.

Wants Judges Who Will Be Friendly to New Deal

The other phase of the differences is less clear. I can report it only as the belief of quite a few senators. Some of them believe it, definitely. I give it here simply as a subject for thought.

By insisting upon his own choice of nominees for judgeships in the federal courts, Mr. Roosevelt is attempting to place men in the judiciary who will be friendly to all of the New Deal laws, or so some members of the senate and the house firmly believe. That is to say, the belief is held that Mr. Roosevelt is seeking to do by use of the appointive power that which the congress refused him the power to do when it killed off his scheme to pack the Supreme court of the United States with six new justices. By filling the judiciary—the federal district courts and the circuit courts of appeal—with men known to be favorable to new deal laws, insurance against adverse decisions is provided for years to come, or so some of the senators and representatives will tell you.

It would be only incidental, if the above analysis is correct, that Mr. Roosevelt would build a fresh political machine completely subservient to him. It would be only incidental, but it would be a fact.

ADVENTUROUS AMERICANS

By Elmo Scott Watson

Historic Footrace

WHEN Capt. John Whistler arrived on the shores of Lake Michigan in 1803 to build a military post—Fort Dearborn of tragic memory—one of the subalterns in his command was his son, Lieut. William Whistler. Young Whistler was more than six feet tall and famous for his strength and endurance.

A frequent visitor at Fort Dearborn was a young Pottawatomie chief, the champion runner of the tribe. Believing that Lieutenant Whistler was just the man to spoil the Indian's record, the officers at the fort proposed a five-mile footrace between the two men to which they readily agreed.

The race was a thriller. At the start the Pottawatomie sprang into the lead and held it for almost the entire distance. But near the end young Whistler managed to close the gap between them and by a final burst of speed plunged across the finish line several yards ahead of his rival.

The race had an exciting sequel. During the War of 1812 the same Pottawatomie chief, who was now an ally of the British, sent a challenge for a hand-to-hand combat with Whistler or any other officer or soldier in the American army. Whistler promptly accepted. It was agreed that no firearms were to be used.

The fight began. Whistler dodged the tomahawk that was hurled at him and closed in on his opponent. The Indian stabbed at him with his long hunting knife but missed. Then the lieutenant's sword finished the duel.

An American Mandarin

IN 1859 Taiping rebels had almost overthrown the Manchu dynasty in China. Fifteen of the eighteen provinces had been captured when Frederick T. Ward, a 28-year-old sailor from Salem, Mass., quit his ship and offered to put down the revolution—if they would pay him $75,000 for each city recaptured.

The rebels were knocking at the gates of Shanghai when the Manchu leaders agreed to young Ward's price and allowed him to train his own army. He recruited his men from among the human derelicts around the wharves, but he instilled in them the discipline he had learned as a soldier in the French army during the Crimean war.

Then, at the head of 500 men, and with a pistol in each hand, he ordered an attack on Sungkiang, held by 5,000 rebels. His men fought hand to hand on the top of the city wall and held it by tossing over the bodies of Taiping soldiers. In 24 hours Manchu re-enforcements arrived. When the battle was over, Ward had only 128 men left and 100 of them were wounded. But he had earned his first $75,000 and a wide reputation as a military leader.

He continued to fight, successfully taking the city of Singpo by outmaneuvering 20,000 Taiping rebels. When they again threatened Shanghai, he drove 10,000 of them back 10 miles with a force of only 2,500. Then he took the city of Quanzhou.

Ward was made a mandarin and his fame spread throughout the empire. Soon he was able to increase his well-trained army to 6,000 men, besides piling up a huge fortune. He had been wounded five times, but in September, 1862, in a battle at Tseki, he was hit for the sixth time and killed. The Chinese mourned him as a national hero and buried him in the Temple of Confucius at Sungkiang.

Esquimo Heroine

IN 1921, science attempted to find out whether man could live on the otherwise uninhabited islands of the Arctic. The experiment proved more. It revealed to the world the calm heroism of Ada Blackjack, who will be remembered as the most courageous woman of the Eskimo race.

Four men were landed with a year's supplies on Wrangel island, 110 miles north of Siberia in the Arctic. Ada Blackjack went along as seamstress, cook and servant. One year later a relief ship was to pick them up.

The year passed but ice floes blocked the relief ship. Lorne Knight, one of the four men, became ill with scurvy. The other three left on a trek across the ice to Siberia to send a rescue party. No one ever heard of them again.

Left alone with Knight, Ada Blackjack went, through eight months more of mental torture. For two months she nursed him. Then he died.

The relief ship finally came. They found her still keeping the diary that Knight had turned over to her when he could no longer hold a pencil.

One entry in the diary read: "God is the only one who will bring me home again." God did not fail the faith and persistent courage that enabled Ada Blackjack to face a seemingly hopeless situation without breaking.

WAR SCHOOL Mustache, Wife Taboo But Cadets Prosper

West pointers taste real army life. At Fort Benning, Ga., members of the first class of the United States military academy to undergo 10 days of special infantry school training, ride in the "crow's nest" of the army's new tanks. A total of 457 members of the class took part in the training last fall.

Prepared by National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—WNU Service.

"The importance of this post is so great as justly to have been considered the key of America."

So wrote George Washington about West Point 153 years ago. He referred, of course, to its strategic value as the Gibraltar of the Hudson, the fortress which prevented the British from splitting the colonies in two along the line of the river and then destroying the halves, one at a time. Lay a straightedge on your map, passing through Albany and New York city, and you will have marked the general course of the Hudson river. Yet, about 50 miles north of New York, there is a small double bend, a scant quarter-mile diversion from the north-south line. On the inner or western side of that bend lies the town of West Point.

Historic Mementos Preserved. The visitor today sees relics of the Revolutionary defenses all about him. From water-line to the craggy summits of guardian peaks, the crumbling parapets of earth and moss-covered stone tell their story. At Trophy point on the grounds of the academy hangs a part of the huge chain, with links more than two feet long, which was stretched across the river to trap British men o' war under the guns of the forts.

But Washington saw in West Point something more than a fortress. He knew that America's future armies must be built around a nucleus of trained officers. On his recommendation in 1793 congress created the grade of cadet and assigned the new men to an engineer unit stationed at West Point.

Here was the germ of the present United States Military academy, but no more than that. The real birth of the academy came in 1802 when congress instituted the corps of engineers and made its chief the superintendent of the military academy.

Later the academy was allowed to languish, but in the disasters of the War of 1812 the nation learned one lesson it has not forgotten. Congress made atonement in 1816 by reopening the academy.

To the West Pointer, Major Sylvanus Thayer will always be "father of the military academy." As superintendent from 1817 to 1833, Major—later General—Thayer established a program based on stern discipline and a rigid moral code.

Discipline Easily Maintained. The honor system could be established and can be maintained only because of the full acceptance of a high ideal by the corps of cadets. Discipline can be enforced by a superior upon his subordinates; integrity is a bond uniting equals.

In the century since Major Thayer's regime, wars have caused their furies from time to time. During the World war, classes were graduated so rapidly that at one time the four-year course had been reduced to a year or less.

The United States Military academy is better known to the American public now than at any previous time in its history. The motion picture camera, the writers of history and fiction, all play their part in telling its story.

Flirtation walk, the mile and a half of romantic pathway winding down the cliffs to the river, was to figure importantly in one picture largely filmed on the academy grounds, and an officer asked when the cameramen were going to shoot those scenes.

"Oh, we're not going to use your Flirtation walk," was the reply. "We can build a much better one in Hollywood."

Congressmen Appoint. A youth may obtain appointment to West Point through his senator or representative, many of whom hold competitive examinations; or he may enlist in the regular army or national guard, and after one year's service qualify by high standing in a stringent examination.

There are special quotas of appointments for Puerto Rico, the District of Columbia, the territories, the President and the vice president; also a quota for honor graduates of picked military schools.

In 1935 congress authorized additional appointments which increased the total potential enrollment from 1,374 to 1,980.

The cadet gets his education at the expense of the government. His pay is $780 per year and one ration per day, equivalent to 80 cents. From that income he purchases his uniform, books, and supplies, pays his board, and meets all other expenses. Actually, he sees no money except when he goes on leave; the treasurer keeps his accounts and sets aside $14 per month for purchase of an officer's uniform and equipment on graduation.

Nothing Personal. The first day in a new cadet's life is an experience never to be forgotten. The plebe has scarcely dropped his luggage in his room in barracks when an upper-classman confronts him.

"Mister, you came here to be a soldier. Your slouching days are over."

And in five busy minutes he learns the "position of the soldier at attention."

Secretary of War Harry S. Woodring presents diploma to Cadet John Robert Jannerone, top scholar of the 1938 West Point graduating class.

Whatever the mental turmoil of the neophyte in these first strenuous hours, he gets a grip on himself when, assembled in formation with his classmates late that afternoon, he raises his right hand and takes his oath of allegiance to flag and country. That moment he belongs.

It is this new-born pride in a common ideal which carries the fourth-classman through the long first summer of practical work and drills. He tells himself, "I'm as good a man as this upper-classman who is always riding me about my slouch, and I'll prove it." And he does.

But never is his ego allowed to get out of bounds. Any moment an upper-classman may stop him, order him to attention, and inquire, "What do plebes rank?" And woe to the plebe who does not know the answer.

"Sir, the superintendent's dog, the commandant's cat, the waiters in the mess hall, the hell cats, and all the admirals in the whole blamed navy."

A cigarette is a "skag" (and cadets may not smoke in public). A dance, of course, is a "hop." A young lady is a "femme" or "fem," or, if escorted by a cadet, a "drag," (though he is not allowed to walk arm in arm with a girl). Or she may be the OAO—the One and Only.

Your "wife" has been defined as "the cadet who smokes your skags, eats your boodle, borrows your clothes, and uses your last postage stamp—your roommate." (You may never refuse him a dance with your drag when he comes to a hop as a stag.)

There are many things that a cadet may not have or do. "No horse, no wife, no mustache," is literally true. He may not ride in an automobile after 10:30 p. m., sit in a parked car, or carry a red comforter or blanket on his arm—to name some at random.

WHAT to EAT and WHY

C. Houston Goudiss Helps to Answer the Question: What to Eat During Lent?

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

A CLERGYMAN friend of mine once remarked that in his opinion, Lent lasts far too long. He had reference, I believe, to the fact that in a swift-moving age, people might be more apt to keep Lent faithfully, if it terminated in a shorter period than 40 days.

Many homemakers, I feel sure, would echo his sentiments; but for a rather different reason! Numbers of them, I know, find the six weeks of Lent the most troublesome of the entire year. Their difficulty lies in planning meatless meals that satisfy hearty appetites. And since the weather is often bitterly cold in late February and early March, families usually seem hungrier, and harder to satisfy, than at almost any other season.

A Chance for Variety. Lent does challenge the homemaker to exercise imagination and ingenuity. But it also provides a golden opportunity to get out of a menu rut, if you happen to be one of those people who follow a set formula most of the year. It may, likewise, offer a chance to make some significant savings in your food budget.

Most of us feel that meat makes the meal. And it cannot be denied that its savory extractives give it a most appetizing and intriguing flavor. But there are a number of other foods which contain proteins of equal biological value. Furthermore, nutritionists hold that it is desirable to obtain protein from a number of different sources. That is because different protein foods contain varying amounts of different amino acids; and by eating a variety of protein foods, we can best obtain a wide assortment of these "building stones" of the body.

For Meatless Meals. Fish comes to mind, first of all, as a main dish for the meal that does not include meat. For those who are far from the source of supply of fresh-caught fish, there are the quick-frozen varieties, the dried and salted fish, such as finnan haddie, shredded codfish and block cod, and 27 types of canned fish and shell fish.

Canned salmon is one of the least expensive of all protein foods. And so many things can be said in its favor that one nationally known food authority referred to it as the most nutritious animal food that could be had for children over six. It is a notable source of minerals, especially calcium, phosphorus and iodine, and contains vitamins A, D, and G.

Cheese in Many Forms. Cheese is another splendid source of protein that should be used more freely, not only during Lent but throughout the entire year. It is high in energy values. And in addition, it contains the milk minerals, calcium and phosphorus, and is a good source of vitamin A. Cheese is so flavorful that it adds zest to any meal at which it is served. And it certainly should interest the homemaker with an eye to thrift. For a little goes a long way. It is, therefore, an ideal food around which to build nourishing, appetizing and economical meals.

Macaroni, Spaghetti and Noodles. Cheese is especially good when combined with such foods as macaroni, spaghetti or egg noodles. It affords a pleasing flavor contrast. And it helps to balance the menu.

Use for Old Velvet.—A good polishing cloth for silver can be made from an old piece of velvet.

When Making Mustard.—Add a drop of salad oil. This improves the flavor and appearance.

Table Knives.—If handles are stained, a good rubbing with a soft cloth sprinkled with peroxide of hydrogen will restore them to their original color.

When Washing a Sweater.—Before washing a woolen sweater, which has buttons and buttonholes, sew up the buttonholes to prevent their stretching.

Steamed-Up Bathrooms.—Bathrooms can be prevented from filling with steam if the cold-water tap is allowed to run a short while before the hot is turned on.

Washing Flour Sieves.—Always wash flour sieves in soda water, never in soapy water, as particles of soap may adhere and give a soapy taste to foods put through the sieve.

suites to being made into croquettes, patties, loaves, chowders and ragouts.

Nuts are another possibility for Lenten meals that should be considered by every homemaker. They, too, can be used for croquettes and nut loaves, as well as souffles and casserole combinations. Nuts can be combined with vegetables for a main-course dish . . . with fruit for dessert. In the form of nut butters, they make a nourishing spread for luncheon sandwiches.

Moreover, each type of nut has a distinctive taste, and walnuts, peanuts, brazil nuts and pecans, for example, each make a thoroughly delightful dish, with a flavor quite different from the others.

Most homemakers will also want to use eggs more frequently during Lent, because they are so readily available and easily prepared. This is commendable, because besides being a fine source of protein, eggs rank next to milk as a protective food.

Only a few of the many possibilities for Lent have been suggested in this brief review. But surely they give a hint of the many good and nutritious foods a homemaker can choose on those days when she plans meatless meals.

Questions Answered

Mrs. F. H. H.—One glass of whole milk is said to supply about one-tenth of the day's protein requirement for a woman in normal health. A medium-sized egg likewise furnishes 10 per cent of the day's protein requirement.

HAND-TRAPPED TURTLE

Jonesville — George Houseknecht, Sr., was setting muskrat traps one day, when he found, by looking through a hole in the ice, what seemed to be a log just under the surface of the water, so he set a trap on it. When the trap didn't catch anything, he investigated and found a turtle. While he held on to a hind leg, his son chopped a bigger hole in the ice so the large turtle could be pulled out.

PENINSULA

(Edited by Mrs. E. Hayden)

Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong, the new Sunday School supervisor of Boyne City, who takes the Rev. Geo. Weaver's place, braved the storm of Sunday and got to the Star Sunday school. Also Mr. John Seiler and son Parker of East Jordan came, getting as far as the Fred Wurn place with their car and walked the rest of the way. Only 16 in all got out and no one got clear to the school house with a car. Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong walked up from the Fred Wurn farm and called at the F. K. Hayden and Orval Bennett homes, and was entertained in the yards as the families are still under quarantine.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Novack of Manacela came Wednesday afternoon and picked up their daughter, Mrs. Robert Hayden and family of Hayden Cottage and took them to Petoskey to see their son, Bert, who is a patient in a hospital there. He was injured in a coasting accident some ten days ago. The sled on which he was riding got out of control and ran into a tree and a sliver entered his leg near the hip and ran up his back and came out near the shoulder blade. The extent of his injury can not be determined yet.

WINTER'S STILL HERE— In Michigan!

Do you know that Michigan offers fine facilities for winter sports... that probably no State excels our own as a winter playground? And do you realize the advantages of making this fact more widely recognized? It will stimulate a growing Michigan industry. It will bring additional money into the State. It will create more jobs for Michigan men and women.

Progress has already been made in this work. Every one should help—you can help by telling your friends about Michigan's Winter Carnivals and centers of winter sport.

The Michigan Bell Telephone Company is publishing this advertisement, one of a series, in 250 Michigan newspapers to help gain wider acceptance of Michigan as a great State for the sport that winter brings.

The Safety Sensation of 1939!

THE NEW Firestone CHAMPION

The Only Tire Made with the NEW SAFETY-LOCK CORD BODY and NEW GEAR-GRIP TREAD...

NEVER before in our experience has a tire met with such instant and unanimous approval as the new Firestone Champion Tire. It's the Safety Sensation of 1939! Our customers have started a word-of-mouth campaign that is making this the biggest selling tire we've ever had. Motor car manufacturers have been so impressed by its superior performance that they have adopted it for their 1939 models.

Why? Because the Firestone Champion Tire is an entirely new achievement in safety engineering.

Stronger Cord Body. This is accomplished first, by the use of a completely new type of tire cord called "Safety-Lock," in which the cotton fibers are more compactly interwoven to assure cooler running and provide greater strength. Then, the fibers in each individual cord, the cords in each ply and the plies themselves, are all securely locked together by a new and advanced Firestone process of Gum-Dipping which provides amazingly greater strength. And greater strength means greater safety.

More Non-Skid Mileage. The new Safety-Lock cord construction provides the extra strength needed for the use of the new, thicker, tougher, deeper Firestone Gear-Grip tread which delivers remarkably longer non-skid mileage. This sensational new tread is called "Gear-Grip" because of its unique design — it has more than 3,000 sharp-edged angles which grip the road with a sure-footed hold to protect against skidding and assure a safe stop.

Drive in today and equip your car with a new set of Firestone Champion Tires — the only tires made that are safety-proved on the speedway for your protection on the highway.

Co-op Managers, Board Members, Hold Second Meeting Next Tuesday

The date for the second meeting in the present series of meetings for official and managers of the various cooperative agencies has been set for Tuesday, February 28, in the Dilworth Hotel, Boyne City. It is expected that something like forty folks interested in the development of cooperative marketing will be present. All the agencies in these four or five nearby counties will be represented.

These meetings are sponsored by the Cadillac Growers Exchange and the Michigan State College. Subject matter will include many items of daily interest to cooperative managers. At the present time, there are many problems, in regard to taxation, employment conditions, and administration, that make these meetings so valuable and profitable to attend.

B. C. Mellenkamp, County Agr'l Agent.

Rotary Club Enjoy Interesting Program

Decorations for the room and tables for the regular weekly meeting of the Rotary Club on February 21st were made by the pupils of Mrs. Benson's Room. They consisted of pictures, shields and miniature hatchets in commemoration of the birthday anniversary of the founder of our country. The Club instructed its secretary to write a letter of appreciation to Mrs. Benson and her pupils for making them. Luncheon was served by a committee of ladies of the Eastern Star and consisted among other very excellent dishes of an extremely appropriate and palatable red, white and blue cherry pie.

Postmaster Frank Crowell explained to the Club what was being done towards securing a new Post-office Building for East Jordan. Petitions were signed by all club members urging our representatives in Washington to do all they could to push the project.

Earl Clark had charge of the meeting and had arranged for Joe Cummins to attend as his guest and tell the Club something about our parks. Mr. Cummins was unable to attend because of sickness so Mr. Clark presented a few interesting facts and figures about our Tourist Park which are not generally known. He reported that all Tourist Parks in the state are inspected and classified into three classifications, A, B, and C, and that of the three publicly owned Tourist Parks in the County, the East Jordan Park had the highest rating. The only two parks in the county that had a higher rating were two privately owned parks, Camp Charlevoix and Camp Sherwood where such things as hot and cold water at all times, supervised swimming at all times, etc., helped to make their rating higher than ours. He also reported that during the past season the park was open 238 days and accommodated 831 different camps (number of campers in one camp not counted).

Freeport — What was probably the biggest robbery of the year, in volume at least, was committed here recently. One night thieves walked away with a six-by-eight-foot building which was being used as a project office on a highway relocation job. Tire tracks indicated a truck was used in the theft.

"What's the proposition?" asked Kelsey. "It concerns Mr. A. Leon Snyder."

"Don't like him." "That need not constitute an obstacle," Mr. Gormine was trying his best to be persuasive and succeeding only in being insinuating.

"I am representing his interests in this matter without his knowledge. The fact is, I am endeavoring to extricate him from a situation which may prove damaging. It is desirable that I should have some source of information at headquarters."

"In plain words, a spy," interpreted Kelsey unpleasantly.

"Now, Mr. Sayles, Mr. Sayles! This is a legitimate procedure. There is no occasion to employ harsh terms."

"All right. Proceed with your legitimate procedure."

"I may rely upon your discretion?" Kelsey nodded.

"Good! As you are doubtless aware, Mr. Snyder has become unfortunately involved with one of the young women connected with this latest production of his."

"I don't know anything about it and don't want to."

"Hear me out, please, Mr. Sayles. This is a most distasteful task and I beg that you will not make it more so. Insofar as is possible I have kept aloof from the screen phase of Mr. Snyder's activities, barring the formal details of contracts. I am a family lawyer, Mr. Sayles, and the personnel of the silver screen is wholly alien to my tastes and interests. Consequently I find myself embarrassed by the necessity of such intimate personal negotiations."

"What negotiations?" bluntnly asked Kelsey.

"In this case, with Miss Marion Norman Van Stratten, so-called, the star of 'Maiden Effort.'"

"That ought to be simple enough. She has her contract, I suppose."

"I do not refer to her contractual relations with my client, but to others, more compromising."

Kelsey scowled. "That's no affair of mine."

"It was bad enough," pursued the lawyer, with pursed lips, "to have him squander upon her emeralds worth a king's ransom. You have doubtless seen her flaunting them. I perceive that you have. I should be glad to hear from you—for a suitable consideration, of course—other information relevant to my inquiry."

Kelsey leaned forward. His gaze, somber and contemplative.

"Do you know what I'm thinking?" said he.

"I do not."

"That I should very much like to push in your elderly and unattractive face."

"An ill-advised threat," returned the lawyer imperturbably. "If I have inadvertently trodden upon your toes, I regret it. Perhaps you, yourself, have a sentimental interest in the young lady. In that event—"

"Don't be a fool," said Kelsey violently. "I have no more interest in her than I have in you."

"Very good. Then I may tell you that Miss Van Stratten is in process of blackmailing my client."

"I think you're crazy," returned the young man contemptuously. "Whatever else may be going on, you can't make me believe that she's that kind."

The lawyer wagged his head. "A dangerous type, Mr. Sayles. A formidable type. She has enticed Mr. Snyder, who is especially susceptible to feminine charms, into a liaison, and now proposes to make him pay through the nose. Wait a moment; no interruption, if you please. I speak by the book. She has, herself, admitted the relationship with Mr. Snyder and even indicated, perhaps to re-enforce her extortionate demands, that there might be consequences of a sort which I can only describe as disastrous. Disastrous, Mr. Sayles."

"Do you know what you're talking about? Because if you don't."

"I beg that you will control yourself, Mr. Sayles," said the lawyer rising hastily and placing himself placatingly beside Kelsey. "Miss Van Stratten made the admission to me personally, within three days, at Maiden Effort Headquarters. Are you prepared to doubt my word?"

"I suppose not," muttered the young man dully.

"Then we may proceed to the matter of terms."

Kelsey suddenly felt strangely listless. "Terms? Terms for what?"

"The minor services which I indicated."

"Oh, yes. I see. That's the way I look to you, is it? Well, if I ever look that way to myself, I'll cut my throat. You'll have to excuse me, if you don't mind."

Observing inwardly that this queer young man looked as if he might carry out his self-destructive threat at any moment, Mr. Gormine departed, merely stating that he was remaining until the evening train.

"Up to that time," he stated gently, "I should be glad to see you."

"I shouldn't," said Kelsey. He sat staring blindly at the door through which the lawyer had withdrawn. Well, nothing really had been told him. He must have known, within himself, all along. Any fool would have known. The emeralds, the dress, the very fact of a rank amateur like Marne getting the star part. It all pointed unmistakably to one conclusion.

CHAPTER XI

Still it rained. A restless, yellow smear spread and crawled across the lawn on its way to the lake. The cellar was a pool, the barnyard a morass. The drone of swollen waters set a monotone, somnolent and boding, to the measure of life at Maiden Effort Headquarters. Glunk addressed hourly incantations to spirits beyond the pall of clouds. The little group began to feel that they were living in an isolated world.

Not isolated, however, from A. Leon Snyder. Telegrams of instruction, inquiry, and command, emanating from the New York offices, followed one another in quick succession over the local telephone, to be assigned to the fireplace by common consent, until a couple of poles collapsed, putting the wire out of commission and blessedly cutting off further communication.

Early one morning Marne woke up, feeling her bed shift and sway beneath her as if from the undulations of an earthquake. She mentioned it at the breakfast table. "Gloria, too, had had her slumbers disturbed."

"Foundations settling, probably," volunteered Kelsey, addressing no one in particular. No one addressed him, except of necessity, these days.

Lines of anxiety appeared between Martin Holmes' eyes. "You're an architect," he said brusquely.

"What about it?"

Kelsey quented and answered the owner's question. "It's a good, solid building."

"But is it safe?"

"Nothing's safe against hydraulic pressure when it gets too heavy."

Martin ground out his cigarette. "I think you girls had better pack your duds and go."

"And leave you two here?" queried Gloria.

"To cut one another's throats?" added Marne.

"It's my house," pointed out Martin.

Gloria moved over to him. "I'll go when you go," she resolutely announced.

Marne whistled softly. "So it's that way," she commented. There was just a touch of wistfulness to her smile. "Well, I'm not going to leave a pal alone and unprotected here. It wouldn't be proper."

"Nor safe," chuckled the beauty-girl.

"I haven't received my daily hint to leave yet," observed Kelsey mildly.

"Nobody expects you to cheat yourself out of your remaining week, rent paid," jibed Marne.

He cast an appraising glance at the food. "The building ought to be good for another week at least. Unless, of course, the water rises faster than it has been."

"And then?" asked the proprietor.

Kelsey shrugged. "Hope you've got good insurance. Anyway I'll hardly come so suddenly but what we'll have plenty of time to get away."

"And it can't rain forever," said the optimistic Holmes to the others.

The man-of-all-work, bearing a pile of dishes to the door, turned and barked once before he vanished.

"Glunk thinks it can," interpreted Marne. "I caught him tying up his belongings for departure yesterday."

"Sensible Glunk," approved Kelsey. "If I had anything of value in this place I'd certainly get it out and onto high and dry and pretty pronto. Just to be on the safe side."

"As always," supplied Marne softly.

"Just the same, it makes sense," declared Martin. "We'd all better get busy and do just that thing."

Kelsey strolled away. The semi-ostracism to which he had been consistently subjected since Holmes' return was getting on his nerves. But he would not on any account have given evidence of it. There was within him a stratum of obstinacy which on occasion could become sulen.

Martin Holmes retired to his study, whence there emerged forth-expression of perplexity deepening to a frown. "Error at the bank," he said.

Marne picked up the record of affluence which he had dropped and examined it.

"The entry is dated July 16," she commented.

"At which time I was being rocked in the cradle of the deep."

"At which time the Purity Pictures prize novel was just about being announced," supplemented Gloria.

"Exactly what I was thinking," observed Marne.

Three heads converged above the entry. Martin broke the silence.

"You don't suppose that Kelsey—he began.

"How else could it have got there?"

"Sweet cheese'n crackers!" "It looks rather as if our little hero had deposited that fifteen thousand dollars," drawled Marne.

"To my account!"

"Then he isn't the heel that we figured him," announced Gloria.

"We never gave him a show to explain. Just assumed he was a grafter and a skin and jumped down his throat when he started to say something."

"Where does that leave us?" demanded Martin.

"Out on a limb," answered Gloria.

"With the rest of the monkeys," added he ruefully.

"Not me," disclaimed Marne. "It's all his own fault."

"Let's get him down here and square it."

The trio looked at one another. "You get him," they said in perfect unison.

"Marne's the one to do it," decided Gloria.

"Why pick on me?"

"You've snooted him the worst. Of course, if you're ashamed to face him—"

"Ashamed?" Marne's small chin went up. "What of, I'd like to know!" With lips set in the classic line of disdain, she made a military exit. Gloria winked at Martin.

"Think she'll crawl?"

"I doubt it. But I feel like it myself."

"Same here."

There was no suggestion of abatement in the emissary's demeanor when she returned, bringing Kelsey along. The effect was rather that of a schoolmarm, leading a recalcitrant pupil to the rostrum of retribution.

"Good morning, Judge," said Kelsey impartially. "What's the charge?"

"We all want an explanation."

"What of?"

"This." She thrust the bank book beneath his nose.

He shielded back. "Oh, hell! I thought I'd hidden that."

"You did? Why?"

"I was in a hole," he muttered. "You put yourself in it, then," retorted the accuser, "by not coming out in the open and telling us you'd turned the money for the story over to the real author. That's what you did, isn't it?"

"Yes."

"Then why didn't you come out with it?"

"I tried to. You all had your minds made up beforehand."

"That's right," confirmed Gloria. "So you got sore," pursued Marne, "and sulked. Just like a bad kid."

Looking the part thus ruthlessly ascribed to him, Kelsey mumbled something about its being enough to make anybody sore.

"All the time you were making monkeys of us," accused Marne hotly, "and a martyr of yourself. Instead of coming out squarely—" with an alarming sound of objects being hurled about. The girls went in. They found him standing before his work-desk, despair upon his gaunt features and assorted documents on all sides of him.

"You sit down," ordered Gloria, assuming command of the chaos. "I'll sort out. Marne'll tie up."

They fell to work. Piles of manuscript were neatly arranged. Books were segregated. All the utensils of the writer's trade were made ready for transportation. Rummaging in a lower drawer, the boss of the job came upon a small, limp booklet bearing the written inscription, "Martin Holmes," with a number beneath the name.

"What'll I do with this?"

"Throw it out the window."

"Better take a look. It's a record of some sort."

"Bank book. Obsolete. Extinct. Relic of my long-past days of solvency. Chuck it."

"Geel!" commented Gloria, peering within. "You were a rich guy once, weren't you?"

"Not that I remember."

"Fifteen thousand dollars in one lump is what I call rich."

"You're feverish, my child. It's fifteen dollars."

"One, five, three tall ciphers, period, two small fat ciphers. What do you make of that?"

"Let me see it."

Martin studied the bank book, his this was a king's homecoming. For it was here that Stanislas Augustus was born in 1732.

It had been known that diplomatic negotiations had been taking place in Moscow to have the Polish king's body brought to Poland for interment, but the fact that the transfer was made so unceremoniously hurt public feeling considerably. The general opinion was that a king of Poland should rest among his peers in the crypt of Wawel cathedral, in Krakow.

But the entire Polish press reverberated with indignation, at what was held an indecorous way to treat the remains of a Polish sovereign.

Belief of Primitive People

Many primitive people still believe that a man's soul leaves his body when he is asleep and that he will die if it does not return before he awakens. Consequently it is considered a crime, sometimes even comparable to murder, says Collier's Weekly, to cover a sleeper's face, as this confuses his soul. A soul has no time to search for its body, especially when it is late getting home.

PETER IN SAMARIA

LESSON TEXT—Acts 8:14-25. GOLDEN TEXT—Come ye, buy and eat: yea, come, buy wine and milk without money and without price.—Isaiah 55:1.

Commercialism certainly should have no place in the Christian Church. But in an age that will even commercialize a man's love for his mother, it is small wonder that the great holy days of the Church—Christmas and Easter—have become the special object of profit-seeking purveyors of everything from hats to whisky.

New Year's day, Thanksgiving day, Mother's day, Father's day, any day at all, becomes just another opportunity to take a man's money, waste his time, and possibly to destroy his soul. It is high time that intelligent folk make effective protest against such perversion of sacred things.

The Scripture lesson for today tells of one who went so far as to try to buy the power of God for money, that he might use it to get gain for himself, failing to realize that the power of God is a gift and to be used only for His glory.

I. Spiritual Power—the Gift of God (vv. 14-17).

The Holy Spirit who is the third person of the blessed Trinity had called Philip, a layman, and sent him forth to preach in Samaria. Men and women were converted, and when the church at Jerusalem heard of it, they sent Peter and John to give counsel and help to the new converts. Through the laying on of hands these received the gift of the Holy Spirit even as we now receive Him the moment we believe on Christ.

What a glorious truth it is that the believer is indwelt by the Holy Spirit (1 Cor. 6:19). Thus even the humblest believer has in Him the One who redeems man, gives grace for holy living, and empowers for service. The greatest power in all the world is consequently available to every true and yielded believer.

Gone then are all excuses for weak and careless living. Gone is every ground for claiming that one cannot serve God. The power and grace are His, and He gives them to His followers as a gift. Christian friends, are you giving the Holy Spirit of God liberty to infill and use you as He will?

II. Spiritual Power—Not for Sale (vv. 18-24).

Men who put their trust in money are prone to think that one can buy anything. They say with Walpole, "Every man has his price." But they are wrong. There are men and women in the world who cannot be bought, and it is even more certain that the best things that life can give a man have no price tag on them—a mother's love, friendship, fellowship with God, the Holy Spirit's power—these among many others are not for sale.

Simon, a professed believer, recognized that these followers of Jesus had a great power which he thought to buy for his own business as a magician. His was a very gross and blatant effort to do what many have done in the Church, and are doing today, by more skillful and sometimes by under-cover methods. There are those who by holding the purse-strings seek to control the message of the preacher, or who use their financial influence to obtain control of church organizations and institutions. Their efforts are doomed to ultimate failure, but the present harm they do to the cause of Christ is appalling. Many a church and pastor would be far better off if they could rise up and say with Peter, "Thy money perish with thee."

III. Spiritual Power—for Testimony (v. 25).

Peter and John set the Samaritan believers a good example by permitting the Spirit of God to use them to testify and preach the Word of the Lord in many villages. The Holy Spirit does "not speak of himself," but guides the believer "in all truth" (John 16:13), and His primary ministry is to glorify Christ (John 16:14). It follows that the outstanding mark of a Spirit-born and Spirit-filled believer is his desire to speak of and to glorify Christ.

Such a testimony will be "not in words which man's wisdom teacheth, but which the Holy Ghost teacheth" (1 Cor. 2:13), and will bear fruit for eternity.

A Common Adversary

Much contempt and hatred towards erring humanity would be averted—and instead compassion would be excited—if we kept constantly in mind the humbling thought that we have the same common adversary! Indeed, such realization would elicit prayer in lieu of caustic criticism.

DOAN'S PILLS

Tufted Tassels for That Colorful Accent

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS
DEAR MRS. SPEARS: I am a bride of six months and your Book 1—SEWING for the Home Decorator has certainly been a life saver for me. I have turned to it for help when making things for every room in our little house. The guest room is next. I would like to use yellow to brighten it up. What color could be combined with this? My smart effects must be accomplished with spare minutes rather than expensive materials, so I would appreciate a helpful hint along this line.—M. S.

If you really want to make that yellow guest room smart, use touches of brown to add character. I have sketched an idea for you here. Mark your material with little dashes about six inches apart and then make the tassels as shown. For the bedspread, reverse the color scheme, using yellow tassels on brown material. Several rows of the tassels may make a border for spread or curtains instead of an all-over design if desired.

Now is the time for all of us to give our houses a fresh start. Crisp new curtains; a bright slipcover; new lampshades; or an ottoman will do the trick. Make these things yourself. Mrs. Spears' Book 1—SEWING for the Home Decorator, shows you how with step-by-step, easy to follow sketches. Book 2, Gifts, Novelties and Embroidery, will give you a new interest. It contains complete directions for making many useful things. Books are 25 cents each. If you order both books, a crazy patch quilt leaflet is included FREE; it illustrates 36 authentic embroidery stitches in detail. Address Mrs. Spears, 210 S. Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill.

TIPS to Gardeners

Making the Garden Pay

VEGETABLE gardens are grown to provide fresher, more nourishing food for the family, and to conserve on food bills. Therefore, crops must be wisely chosen and systematically planted.

According to Walter H. Nixon, vegetable expert, the most important vegetables considered both for food value and garden space required are: Beans, cabbage, carrots, beets, squash, tomatoes, onions, peas and spinach.

To get the most from garden space, plant two crops of spinach, one in spring, the other in late summer. Plant Chinese cabbage and parsnips about midsummer in space occupied earlier by beans, radishes and peas. Make successive plantings of carrots and beets for a steady supply of small tender roots.

Plant bush beans and beets on both sides of tomato rows. When tomatoes need the space, those earlier crops will have been pulled and used.

Corn can be worked into the garden plan even though there is not such space. Plant spinach or beets or green onions between rows of slower-growing corn. Then grow pole beans (cornfield beans) to climb on the corn stalks.

Star Dust

★ King Tyrone Off the Air
 ★ Joan Signs for 5 Years
 ★ Fan Gets New Illusions
 —By Virginia Vale

THERE'LL be no more Tyrone Power on the radio, by order of his boss, Darryl Zanuck, production head of Twentieth Century-Fox. Mr. Zanuck made this announcement as a result of protests from theater exhibitors against too many appearances of screen stars on radio programs. Mr. Zanuck stated that he had no quarrel with radio, but that the stars were endangered because it was so difficult to get adequate material for those weekly appearances, especially since it must be new.

So Tyrone, recently elected king of the movies by some 22,000 newspaper readers, had to go off the air.

Joan Blondell has tied up her future again, so far as making movies is concerned. She's signed with Columbia to make two pictures a year for five years, and starts the ball rolling with "Good Girls Go to Paris, Too," originally scheduled for Jean Arthur. It's said that Columbia wanted to borrow her for that one some months ago, and that Warner Brothers' refusal to lend her was at least partly responsible for her winding up her contract.

"Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" will be retired from circulation the first of April, after breaking records in every important city all over the world, and will probably be re-issued again about this time next year. It cost $1,700,000 to make, and will gross about eight million. It played in 41 countries, and was the first sound picture to be translated into a "talking book" for the blind. And "Dopey" got more fan mail than all the other characters put together.

When Madeleine Carroll paused recently in New York on her way from Europe to Hollywood she shattered one movie fan's illusions. The movie-mad girl went to a smart night club, and during the course of the evening noticed a rather buxom young lady who danced every dance with great enthusiasm. She had on rather dismal looking gun-metal colored hose and very flat shoes, reported the movie fan. Decidedly not smart. But her hat was an uncanny French bicorne, and the collar of her suit marked it as one of the latest efforts of a famous French modiste.

Suddenly the rather buxom young lady smiled, and the movie fan witted. She had recognized Miss Carroll—and had learned that movie stars, when left to their own devices, aren't always as smartly dressed as they are on the screen. Incidentally, the next Carroll picture is "Cafe Society," and the one after that is called "Air Raid," and is the story of two young people caught in a city in the war zone.

Hollywood has to be awfully careful about these war pictures. In "Idiot's Delight," for example, Esperanto was used instead of Italian, French or German, just to avoid the danger of angry protests from foreign governments. When it was done as a play no such precaution was taken.

When fame begins to come to a radio performer it certainly comes fast. Kay Kyser, the orchestra leader, wasn't particularly well known even so recently as a year ago. Now he's so well established at the top of the ladder that when he signed recently to appear with his band at a New York movie house the contract called for a salary of $12,500 a week—an all-time high.

Want to know what sort of thing is likely to trouble big executives? It seems that there were weeks of huddles over the title for Raymond Paige's new program. It was to be called "100 Men and a Girl," and Paige had 100 men in his band, and the girl was Hildegard and everything was fine. But Universal owned the title—remember the picture by that name? Eventually somebody thought up "99 Men and a Girl," and after more indecision because that was pretty close to the original it was cleared.

ODDS AND ENDS—Phil Baker's sponsor has never been either Baker or the cast of his radio program, so the broadcast is to be shifted to Honolulu for a time. Edgar Guest and Andre Kostelanetz, the orchestra leader (and husband of Lily Pons) are collaborating on a song.

Watch Suits! It's a Grand And Glorious Suit Season

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

IT'S a suit season! Which starts you right in the way of deciding what to buy this spring. The dramatic flourish with which fashion is staging the suit theme exceeds all records. In the amazing play-on-color, the novelty and variety of the handsome wools, the versatile styling given them, the meticulous attention paid to the choosing of accessories, you are made to feel the high significance of each.

Going the rounds of the early preview showings the conviction grows on one that the choosing of a suit this spring dare not be a haphazard venture. You must set forth on your suit quest with a carefully conceived plan that totals perfection in the final analysis of color values down to the slightest detail. In the accompanying illustration we are showing several suit types that were highlighted in a preview of pace-setting fashions presented by the Style Creators of Chicago to an audience of visiting merchants. From the versatile suits here pictured you can readily see that there is a wide range of choice when it comes to selecting the type that tunes best to your needs.

A costume suit that is making "news," tops a softly styled dress with a full length slim form-fit coat, after the manner of the model pictured to the right in the foreground of the group. It is one of the fitted versions that registers as high style this season. Perpendicular pin tucks (a definite use of tucks is obvious in smart styling) running down the sleeves and body of the full-length nubby woolen coat, creates a fine tailored effect in this all-navy costume. The sheer wool frock repeats the tuckings and self-covered button closing. A suit of this type will prove a wise investment for the goodlooking coat has the air of a thoroughbred and it will ensemble perfectly with your print frocks and your chic, simple daytime frock tailored of pastel sheer wool, creating any number of different costumes for you.

Another costume suit that is of major importance is the reefer coat type as seen centered in the group. This very attractive and youthful model combines a reefer coat done in one of the new striped wools strikingly colorful in blue, beige and japonica, with a tailored beige frock. Accents of the japonica are stressed in the large leather buttons and chiffon scarf.

Short, contrast-jacket suits are the rage. The fact that they have a "young" look counts much in their style rating, for fashions this season swing to the tempo of youth. The model at the top is among the high-fashion junior costumes. It is especially important in that it has the very new swagger swing-back. This winsome jacket of navy, rose, blue and white check is worn over a rose colored frock. The charm of multi-colored wools like this is that different colored accessories will click beautifully with them, thus affording refreshing changes that will transform the entire aspect of the costume.

The vogue for plaid jackets over monotone sheer wool frocks is expressed in the distinctive jacket costume suit in the lower oval. In bright contrast to the navy frock with novel matching kid belt is the vivid red jacket barred in gray and white, with kid closing motifs that pick up the navy color.

Travel Coat

This fashionable traveler knows how to choose a coat that gives her "class"! It is of heavy blue wool with large leather buttons. Tucks from the shoulder form the pockets. Novelty stripe, check and diagonal wools are also high in favor for travel coats. Some of the newest long coats are made snug at the waist line developing soft fullness above and below.

Scotch Influence
 New hats reflect a bit of Scotland in shape as well as color.

Juvenile Sandals

Favor Open Toes

Mother's acceptance of cutout sandals is leaving its imprint on daughter's footwear fashions. Outstanding among the juvenile shoes for the coming spring are numerous versions of the toeless style. Open sides and slashed heels go along with the open toes just as they do in adult feminine styles. Patent leather is being stressed in line with mother's preference and there is much interest in colored soles and heels, the width of the soles suggesting the platform theme.

When it comes to hosiery fads, mother will have to do more than accept ombre shadings or embroidered heels to keep up with her daughter. The latest fad to appear in children's anklets is the "Stop and Go" idea. One of the socks has the word "stop" embroidered in red on the elastic cuff while the mate displays "go" in green letters.

Golden Chains as Straps for Gown

Lelong's heavy silk crepe evening gown, entirely plaited, with bodice upheld with slender golden chains which continue around the waist has been selected by several smart women, including Madame Champion, who has it in bright pink, like the model, Madame Jacques Fabry, in bright blue and Princess de Faucigny-Lucinge in ultra-marine. "Coquille d'Or," an attractive model in dull silk crepe for the sheath skirt and the silk lame for the halter bodice, has also found favor with private clients who have ordered it in brown and gold—the color of the model—as well as in black and gold and bordeaux and gold.

FARM TOPICS

HORSE OR TRACTOR EXPENSE IS SAME

Facts Brought Out in an Analysis of Records.

The average expense a crop acre for man labor, horse and machinery use on farms is practically the same for horse farms, standard tractor farms and general-purpose tractor farms.

This is one of the facts on changes in the use of farm power brought out in an analysis of records kept from 1930 to 1938 in co-operation with the department of agricultural economics, College of Agriculture, University of Illinois. A summary of the analysis is reported by P. E. Johnston, associate chief in agricultural economics, in a recent issue of Illinois Farm Economics, published by the department of agricultural economics.

Other studies indicate that farmers who continue to operate their farms with horses are more efficient in the use of horse power, it is explained. The records also indicate that the expense for man labor has been reduced only slightly by the addition of tractors. In some cases tractors have enabled operators to do a larger volume of business and in others to provide for more leisure on the part of farm workers.

Another fact brought out in the study is that farmers are using almost two fewer horses and mules a farm in 1938 than in 1926. Furthermore the percentage of farm horses more than 20 years of age is twice as high in 1938 as in 1926, but the proportion of horses less than four years of age is also higher. From 1930 to 1934 about 26 per cent of the accounting farms in central Illinois used horses only, whereas in 1936 the proportion had declined to 14 per cent.

The shift in breeding operations on farms has been related to changes in prices of farm products and of horse feeds. During the period 1930 to 1934, when the price of farm products dropped much more drastically than that of tractors, there was practically no shifting from horses to tractors on the farms included in the study. The percentage of farms operated with horses averaged about 26 per cent each year.

During this period, however, there was a shift from standard tractors to general-purpose tractors, and this shift had an effect on numbers of horses, since general-purpose tractors which are used for cultivating row crops replace more horses than do the standard type.

Sheep Drenching a Step To Stronger Lamb Crops

An important step in getting the breeding flock of sheep ready for producing next year's crop of lambs is to drench them for stomach worms, says W. E. Morris, extension animal husbandman, University farm.

"Stomach worms annually cause serious loss to sheep raisers," stresses Morris, "and now is the time to take the first step to reduce this damage. Sheepmen may materially benefit their breeding flocks by drenching for worms before they go far with their winter feeding."

"Drenching will reduce the infestation of worms, and will result in a more thrifty flock throughout the winter. The ewes will make better use of their feed, their fleeces will be heavier, they will be more thrifty and drop stronger lambs in the spring and will give more milk."

Wet or Dry Mash

Wet mash will stimulate egg production in laying birds but it is not as safe to feed as dry, notes a poultryman in the Montreal Herald. Wet mash must be fed with care because the birds will eat too much of it and probably interfere with normal digestion. It is more likely to bring on digestive disorders than the feeding of dry mash. Most large poultry farms are doing away with wet mash completely. We would recommend the regular laying mash in hoppers rather than an over-supply of bran. The regular laying mash is a well balanced ration and will give much better results, so far as egg production is concerned.

About the Farm

The poultry business is represented on more farms the world over than any other agricultural enterprise.

Many rural communities solve the problem of fire protection by forming a fire district. They contract with nearby towns.

Protection from dampness and from drafts are the two requirements that most poultry houses fail to meet.

The most practical and lasting results of rat repression are gained through a campaign to rat-proof all buildings.

Since beef cattle require the same type of pasture as dairy cattle, similar methods of soil fertilization and grazing management should be followed.

RELIEVING COLD DISCOMFORT THIS WAY!

Just Follow Simple Directions Below—and Use Fast-Acting Bayer Aspirin

It's the Way Thousands Know to Ease Discomfort of Colds and Sore Throat Accompanying Colds

The simple way pictured above often brings amazingly fast relief from discomfort and sore throat accompanying colds.

Try it. Then—see your doctor. He probably will tell you to continue with the Bayer Aspirin because it acts so fast to relieve discomforts of a cold. And to reduce fever.

This simple way, backed by scientific authority, has largely supplanted the use of strong medicines in easing cold symptoms. Perhaps the easiest, most effective way yet discovered. But make sure you get BAYER Aspirin.

A Three Days' Cough Is Your Danger Signal

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your common cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you may get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with any remedy less potent than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and aids nature to soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membranes and to loosen and expel germladen phlegm.

Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, try Creomulsion. Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefits obtained. Creomulsion is one word, ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

How Women in Their 40's Can Attract Men

Here's good advice for a woman during her change (usually from 38 to 42), who fears she'll lose her appeal to men, who worries about faded hair, loss of pep, dizzy spells, upset nerves and moody spells. Get more fresh air, 8 hrs. sleep and if you need a good general system tonic take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made especially for women. It helps Nature build up physical resistance, thus helps give more vitality to enjoy life and assist calming jittery nerves and disturbing symptoms that often accompany change of life. WELL WORTH TRYING!

FIRE LOSS RECORD

Ovid — It looked for a while as if Ovid's record fire loss would be spoiled, but everything turned out "all right." The fire loss in this village totaled one dollar for 1938 until Dec. 28. However, there was a garage fire on that date that caused $50 damage. That brought the total loss for the year to $51, which is still pretty low.

How to Sleep Sound

Drink six glasses soft or distilled water daily if functional kidney disorders cause waking up nights, frequent or scanty flow, burning or backaches. You know what hard water does to a teakettle. Also flush kidneys as you would the bowels. Help nature eliminate excess acid and other waste. Ask any druggist for Bufo's. Your 25c back if not pleased. Locally at Gidley & Mac, Druggists.

American Boy Magazine Companion To Thousands

Hundreds of thousands of boys and young men read THE AMERICAN BOY Magazine every month and consider it more as a living companion than as a magazine.
"It's as much a buddy to me as my neighborhood chum," writes one high school senior. "THE AMERICAN BOY seems to understand a boy's problems and considers them in such a sympathetic and helpful way. It gives advice and entertaining reading on every subject in which a young fellow is interested. It is particularly helpful in sports. I made our school basketball team because of playing tips I read in THE AMERICAN BOY."
Many famous athletes in all sports credit much of their success to helpful suggestions received from sports articles carried in THE AMERICAN BOY Magazine. Virtually every issue offers advice from a famous coach or player. Football, basketball, track, tennis, in fact every major sport is covered in fiction and fact articles.
Teachers, librarians, parents and leaders of boys clubs also recommend THE AMERICAN BOY enthusiastically. They have found that as a general rule regular readers of THE AMERICAN BOY advance more rapidly and develop more worthwhile characteristics than do boys who do not read it.
Trained writers and artists, famous coaches and athletes, explorers, scientists and men successful in business and industry join with an experienced staff to produce in THE AMERICAN BOY, the sort of reading matter boys like best.
THE AMERICAN BOY sells on most newsstands at 15c a copy. Subscription prices are $1.50 for one

UP WHERE ZERO SEEMS WARM

HAROLD JEWETT, BOSS LUMBERMAN IN THE GREEN MOUNTAINS, SAYS:

"Freezin' humans is easy—but you can't freeze the life out of Blue Sunoco—even at 54 below!"

"...out at the lumber camp—by workin' hard—we can keep goin' until it gets down around forty-five below. Then it's too cold, so we quit. But it's different with Blue Sunoco. I've been usin' it for years. Never had any trouble at all gettin' started. Last winter I left my car standin' out day and night and one time the thermometer dropped to 54 below. But the next morning, when I stepped on the starter—she spun over easy—thanks to Sunoco Winter Oil—and right off Blue Sunoco snapped her into action. I'm tellin' you, I wouldn't use anything else—and feel safe!"
