W. C. T. U. District Convention

HELD IN EAST JORDAN LAST WEDNESDAY, OCT. 11

Annual convention of the Eleventh District Women's Christian Temperance Union was held at the Presbyterian church in East Jordan last Wednesday, Oct. 11th, with sessions lasting throughout the day.

Features of the day was the remarkably fine attendance to all the sessions and an address given by Mrs. Millie Powell of Grand Rapids.

In the afternoon a medal contest was given by the young people of East Jordan, and in the evening a similar contest by the Mancelona young people.

Officers selected for the ensuing year are as follows:

Honorary President — Mrs. Anna Saltonstahl, Charlevoix.

President — Mrs. Marguerite Smith, Gaylord.

Recording Secretary — Mrs. Myrtle Williams, Mancelona.

Corresponding Secretary — Miss Anna Porter, East Jordan.

Treasurer — Mrs. Gladys Palmer, Charlevoix.

Following were the "Resolutions" adopted:

Whereas the return of legalized liquor has resulted in a decided downward trend in the public morals of both old and young.

Be it resolved by the Lower 11th District Woman's Christian Temperance Union in convention assembled, that we continue our educational efforts with renewed energy and especial emphasis on beer that the public may be informed that it contains alcohol and is habit forming and especially dangerous because so many consider it to be a soft drink.

Be it further resolved that we heartily commend the stand Gov. Dickinson takes on the liquor question and appreciate his courage in bringing before the nation the seriousness of the present trend in social customs.

Be it further resolved that we commend our Congressman and Senators for their efforts to keep this country out of the European war.

School Children Attention

DO YOU WANT A DIFFERENT KIND OF HALLOWE'EN FUN?

The Rotary Club has taken the initiative in suggesting a different kind of Hallowe'en fun. Here is the plan:

Have the younger school children have some entertainment by means of games, or in some way after school, and a treat of cider and doughnuts. After supper attend the moving picture theatre, and then call it an evening. Have the older school children attend the theatre and after that go back to the school house for their doughnuts and cider, and games or other entertainment, and then they also call it an evening.

This will take some money, as much as the "trick or a treat" stunt; but the money has been pledged, the city to bear part of the expense.

If the money is spent in this way it is thought that there will be no desire to soap windows, or to play the innocent meaning pranks that sometimes mean a lot of work for someone else the next day. It is believed that most of the school children will desire to pledge on their honor that they will not do this.

Now for a little contest! Who wants to write the pledge that will be used? There will be a prize of one dollar for the pledge that is selected, and fifty cents each for the two that are considered next best. Any pupil of the East Jordan Schools is eligible to compete. Hand your suggested pledge in at the school office, or to Dr. G. W. Bechtold before next Monday evening. Awards will be made at the Rotary meeting next Tuesday noon.

Graduates of the High School of the past few years are welcome to get in on the ground floor in celebrating Hallowe'en along with the present school children.

Who first thought of this plan for Hallowe'en? Nobody knows. Several seem to have thought of it at the same time. All of the members of the Rotary Club have vivid memories of "once upon a time" when they were boys, and they all want the children of today to have the most possible fun in a wholesome way. They all believe that the next best thing to being a boy is to see the present children have a good time. While the idea of this kind of a Hallowe'en has been suggested by the Rotary Club a great many people who are not members of the club have enthusiastically endorsed it, and with the city bearing a part of the cost, it is a community plan with this purpose in mind: everybody to have a good time on Hallowe'en, and everybody to be happy the morning after.

Navy Day Is Friday, Oct. 27

MAYOR HEALEY URGES OUR CITIZENS TO OBSERVE THE DAY

Whereas, Navy Day will be observed throughout this nation on Friday, October 27th, for the purpose of honoring the personnel and officers of our country's sea forces who stand ready to defend our land and institutions against invasion and aggression by unfriendly powers and influences, and to pay tribute to the memories of those who, since the establishment of our Navy by Act of Congress in 1775, have ever been ready in the national defense, many of them laying down their lives in the performance of their patriotic duties;

Therefore, be it resolved that I, Clarence Healey, Mayor of the City of East Jordan, Michigan, by the virtue of the authority vested in me by law, do designate Friday, October 27th as Navy Day, so to be observed and celebrated in this community by the appropriate display of the national colors, and by means of such programs and patriotic meetings and readings as may be arranged to commemorate the occasion.

Further, I strongly urge that in all the churches of this community proper and appropriate note be made of this anniversary on Sunday, October 22nd, and that prayers be offered to Almighty God that our country may maintain its peace and dignity toward all other nations, at the same time continuing its splendid efforts and influence for peace among all the peoples of the world.

Machine Designed To Unbend Backs Has Great Possibilities

Use of some imagination at Michigan State College has resulted in creation of a small three-wheeled machine that promises to rid thousands of Michigan farmers of the backaches they usually experience in picking up potatoes each fall.

In fact the invention likely will go farther than that. Early tests indicate it facilitates picking up the crop. Now attention is to be turned to its possibilities as a complete potato outfit, capable of handling all the jobs once the land is fitted in the spring. Subsequent jobs, if tests are successful, may include planting, cultivating, and possibly digging.

Clinic Here Next Thursday

TWO CLINICS TO BE HELD IN EAST JORDAN, OCTOBER 26

A clinic will be held at the East Jordan school on Thursday morning, October 26th, at which time an opportunity for vaccination and immunization will be given those children who are not already protected against smallpox and diphtheria. The diphtheria protection will be offered to the Kindergarten and First Grade only, or those children under seven yrs. of age. We especially urge parents of the younger age groups to avail themselves of this clinic for diphtheria strikes the younger child more readily. Consent cards will be distributed in the school for both the vaccination and immunization which will be conducted by Dr. Dean and Miss Lawrence, County Nurse, of the District Health Department. No child will be given these protective measures unless they have a signed consent card or are accompanied by their parents at the time they appear in the clinic. The afternoon clinic will be held at the Community Building at which time an opportunity will be given to examine infant and preschool children and also offering vaccination against smallpox and immunization against diphtheria. All mothers with children under six years of age are invited to attend this clinic.

Two Charlevoix County 4-H Members Leave For Dairy Show At San Francisco, California

Clare McGhan Lawrence Ecklund O. F. Walker

TO COMPETE AT NATIONAL SHOW FOR $250 SCHOLARSHIPS

Two Charlevoix County boys, Clare McGhan and Lawrence Ecklund of Marlon Center and Charles Wilson of Afton, in Cheboygan County, along with District Club Agent, O. F. Walker, left on Friday, October 13, on a sixteen-day trip to the National Dairy Show which is held on Treasure Island at the Golden Gate Exposition at San Francisco. The two Charlevoix boys earned the honor of representing Michigan at the Dairy Show, by being chosen State winners on their demonstration. "The Production of Quality Milk." This demonstration has been given many times in Charlevoix County and in Northern Michigan. It has taken the boys two years to work up this demonstration and it is estimated that 2000 people have attended meetings where it has been given.

While at the National Dairy Show, Clare and Lawrence will compete with other State winning teams for scholarships amounting to $250 for each member of the winning teams and $100 for each member of the teams which place second. The scholarships and expenses for the trips are paid for by Mr. Kraft of the Phoenix-Kraft Cheese Corporation. A large share of the equipment used in the demonstration was loaned to the team by the Davis Supply Company of Flint and the East Jordan Creamery.

Charles Wilson is one of a team of four boys who will represent Michigan as a dairy judging team to compete against similar teams from other states. Charles was tied for first place in the State Dairy Judging Contest which was held at the State Fair at Detroit.

Lawrence Ecklund is eighteen years old and is the son of Mrs. Ernest Ecklund of Marlon Center. Clare McGhan is eighteen years old and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Vera McGhan of Marlon Center. Both boys graduated from the high school of Charlevoix last year and both have been in dairy club work for eight years. It is interesting to note that in the past four years a dairy demonstration team from Northern Michigan has won the State contest three times and was second once. The two other winning teams were from Emmet County and attended the National Dairy Show at Columbus, Ohio. Last year, the Emmet team placed third in their section at the National Dairy Show.

Charles Wilson is 17 years of age, the oldest of a family of eleven children and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Wilson, Afton, Michigan in Cheboygan County.

POTATO MEN HAIL M.S.C. IDEA

In early tests, use of this three wheeled crawler to pick up potatoes seems to make play of what has been a back breaking job ever since potato production began. Agricultural engineers at Michigan State College have shown this machine to be a few of the many thousands of farmers in the state, yet the idea has been given a hearty welcome. Speed can be varied from one-tenth to nearly two miles an hour. Cost, if some used materials are adapted, could be about $50. WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—As we get it, Amos Alonzo Stagg, now in his fiftieth season of football coaching, leads the boys in prayer just before the game starts. However, they do not pray that they may win, but that they may do their best. That would be considerable for any outfit trained by Mr. Stagg.

When his short-end College of the Pacific team turned in a seeming miracle recently by defeating the University of California, all reports agreed that the game was won on merit and not through any outside help.

As the old saying goes, "A wise old man's shadow is worth more than a young buzzard's sword." Mr. Stagg, now 77 years old, is, indeed, wise in strategy and diligent in performance. He has contributed to the game the triple pass, the fake pass, the unbalanced line, the flanking formation and several other dangerous devices, and he has come along through the era of change a jump or two ahead of his rivals in mastering and teaching the long pass and the open formation, much more adaptable than any of the elder statesmen of world politics. He says change and experiment have vastly improved football.

This writer once knew an old-timer who worked with young Amos Alonzo Stagg when he was the champion hay-shoveler on the salt marshes around Newark bay. My informant said young Stagg would figure out a nice leverage on the fork handle, and move more hay with less effort than any other man of the lot. He saved his earnings and went to Yale Theological school. After his graduation, he found public speaking difficult, turned away from the ministry and became a coach at the Y. M. C. A. college at Springfield, Mass.

In 1892, he went to Chicago and for 40 years was not only a team builder but a "character builder." He forbade liquor, tobacco and profanity, and made it stick. Seven years ago, he left Chicago because of the retirement-at-70 rule, renewed his gentle exhortations at the College of the Pacific. He keeps fit by tennis and a jog-up and down the road every day.

He was also a demon baseball player in his youth, pitching Yale to five successive championships. While he is, naturally, tagged the "Grand Old Man of Football," his many admirers would take in a lot more territory.

IN OUR present attempt to remain neutral, there is much pulling and hauling over the opinions of John Bassett Moore and Professor Philip Jessup. If anybody knows what international law is, they are the two Americans who would qualify, but it is still pretty foggy, as it was 300 years ago when old Hugo Grotius left it that way. The 79-year-old, spade-bearded Mr. Moore resigned from the world court in 1928 to compile 75 volumes covering international law and neutrality in the World War.

In 1922, after 37 years of pondering these matters, he wrote:

"So long as we love glory, so long as we worship bravery, so long as we thrill at the call of battle, so long will we love war. Mothers may say that they do not raise their sons as food for cannon, but when the call comes, these same mothers will be the first to answer."

Mr. Moore vigorously opposed the Kellogg pact and all other such devices, and denounced the "callow striplings" and "shallow dupes" who offer them. As befits an authority on neutrality, he parts his hair in the middle. He is probably America's most distinguished scholar and authority in this field.

FOUR railroad presidents have died in the last year. All have been replaced by younger men and by men of operating, rather than management or legal, background. Charles E. Denney, elected to the presidency of the Northern Pacific, started with a switch company, up through grades with John J. Bernet, who made railroads out of junk-heaps rather than debentures. In Lancaster, Pa., he sold papers as a boy and worked his way part-way through Pennsylvania State college as a runner for a boarding house. He is six feet tall, weighs 200 pounds and has vigor and enterprise to match.

Soviet Presses New Conquests As World Looks Elsewhere; Nazi 'Ally' Is Sole War Victor

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

RUSSIA: Cat and Mice

Six weeks after it started, the war of 1939 had apparently been won by Russia, a noncombatant. The soviet held two-fifths of Poland and controlled the little nations of Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia whose German populations were repatriated by the Fatherland in what was Nazi-dom's most ignominious defeat. In all these countries Russia won important naval bases (see map) which gave her control of the Baltic sea and constituted a direct threat against Scandinavia. Lithuania, the last to capitulate, even accepted a part-Communist social order.

Finland was next, her delegation opening consultations in Moscow while the folks back home evacuated cities, strengthened the army and

THE WAR: From Rostrum

Said France's Premier Daladier: "If Hitler really wants a durable peace it must be based on the security of nations, guaranteed reciprocally, without the danger of surprises."

Chimed in Britain's Prime Minister Chamberlain: "It is for Germany to make her choice. . . Either the Germans must give convincing proof of the sincerity of their desire for peace . . . or we must preserve our duty . . ."

Said Adolf Hitler: "The decision of peace or war lies with others. We simply have a grave determination to fight."

From such a hopeless deadlock there seemed no alternative except a fierce war. But the still, small voices of peace began rising everywhere. In Germany it was the mysterious mobile radio station urging that Hitlerism be discarded. In France it was a few "defeatists" who were promptly slapped into jail. But in London it was little David Lloyd George, World War prime minister who only a week before had startled commons by demanding that Britain give careful consideration to Hitler's peace offers. Arguing that a collective pact among all European nations need not be "dependent on the word of Herr Hitler," Lloyd George was rumored leading a campaign against advocates of "war at any price."

Taking a cue from the earlier speech in which Lloyd George had counseled U. S. leadership in a world peace move, Herr Hitler first had his throttled press give the British statesman a build-up, then released a plea that America might help prevent Europe's frightful "bath of blood." But the U. S. was choosy; the White House and state department would think carefully before volunteering.

At the same time, other Britons looked askance at the allies' apparent plan to wage war only on the western front. Could anybody win from such stalemated positions?

On Land

There was every indication Germany planned to open a fierce thrust on the western front, thus retaliating against spurned peace offers. Paris heard that Hitler had summoned his generals, ordered them to clear the French off Nazi territory and to drive swiftly through Belgium and Switzerland in a great offensive. The first part of this order was evidently borne out when "suicide squads" of grenadiers were thrust west after wave against French outposts. Scouting planes appeared over the lines taking photographs. Strangely, many a Nazi raid appeared to have a solitary aim—to capture prisoners and thus get information.

At Sea

man circles said Nazi planes had dropped 10 bombs in a single raid on British vessels blockading the North sea. Since the allies wanted no peace, the raids would continue. Commented the official German news agency: "The time of unqualified British control of the seas is gone forever."

(At Amsterdam, Netherlands, a Dutch seaman came home to announce he had sailed from New York on the long-missing German luxury liner, Bremen, had helped plow her through cold northern seas while she flew the Soviet flag, and helped dock her safely at Russia's Arctic ocean port, Murmansk.)

prepared to fight demands for Soviet bases on Hogland island and the Aalands.

(There were signs of joint U. S.-Scandinavian action to bloc Russian conquest of Finland. In Moscow, U. S. Ambassador Laurence A. Steinhardt was reported to have expressed his government's "earnest hope" that nothing may occur to affect injuriously peaceful relations between Russia and Finland.)

Germany's retreat from the Baltic was not Herr Hitler's only setback. While Russia offered him assistance with one hand, her ships sailed from the White sea bearing timber for England in exchange for rubber and tin, thus consummating a new trade agreement with Hitler's most bitter enemy.

If the British gloated over this apparent victory, they soon changed their minds. Red army units in the Caucasus mountains facing Persia and Turkey were reinforced. The Soviet looked hungrily at Afghanistan, British-dominated, and the gateway to British India. Capitulating to this southerly threat, Turkey rushed to initial a pact with Russia, planning to sign agreements with France and Britain the next day. Net effect would be to neutralize the eastern Mediterranean and the Black sea, freeing Russia to do as she pleases in the Baltic.

Observers agreed that if Germany wants to destroy western democracies, Herr Hitler's pact with Russia has been a good start. But like the wily cat who strikes while the mice fight among themselves, shrewd Dictator Josef Stalin may destroy a lot of other things unless Europe's war is stopped immediately.

AGRICULTURE: Report Card

If U. S. corn supplies reach 110 per cent of normal, AAA legislation requires a referendum among producers on establishing marketing quotas. For the past month corn estimates have bobbed up and down, mostly down on the strength of drought reports. But by early October enough returns were in to place the estimate at 2,532,000,000 bushels. Last year's record carryover was 546,000,000 bushels. Total: 3,078,000,000 bushels, which is about 48,000,000 above the marketing quota level. Still there would be no referendum, for on September 13 (the specified date for determination) indicated supplies were conveniently below the level. But there was every sign the department of agriculture will ask big corn acreage reductions next year, probably from this season's 94,000,000 acres to about 90,000,000, provided warring Europe doesn't buy too many hogs. Other crop news:

☛ Cotton: In the Carolinas it was good, helped by heavy August rains and a dry September. Louisiana also had a good crop, but in Texas and Oklahoma dry heat had stopped development, caused premature opening and attracted the weevil scourge. Result: The department of agriculture cut its September 1 crop estimate by 452,000 bales. New estimate: 11,928,000 bales.

☛ Wheat: Spring wheat estimate was increased 4,000,000 bushels over September 1 forecast. New esti-

Paradox of Peace Songs Coupled With War Plans Prompt Inquiry

Debates in Senate All Stress Theme 'We Must Keep Out Of European Mess'; Then Why Is Alarmist Point Of View Propagated From Capital?

By WILLIAM BRUCKART
WNU Service, National Press Bldg., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON.—While the senators continue drooling out thousands of words concerning the proposed repeal of the arms embargo, any observer can hardly fail to note the same theme song—in all of the speeches: we must keep out of Europe's war. The senators, and the representatives, too, seize upon every opportunity to tell the nation—either from the capitol or any other rostrum—that it's a war on the other side of the Atlantic and that we must remain out of it.

President Roosevelt's every statement, and they have been coming with the frequency of rain in the tropics, projects the same command. He says he hates war and wants to keep the country at peace. His subordinates throughout the government—every one with a title sufficient to draw a crowd to a banquet or to a camp meeting—are causing the doves of peace to coo with their softest tones. Beyond Washington, also, the theme song is being picked up and repeated by every individual who can gain access to a radio microphone or gather a dozen listeners in one room.

It's a wonderful thing to live in a country where everyone loves peace.

But the same observer rambling around Washington and hearing the theme song of peace cannot fail to note also a war psychology, an alarmist point of view. It is a view that is being propagated from Washington, and there can be no mistake about it. And, so, I rise to ask why all of these war plans are coupled with the theme song of peace? For in every section of the national government those plans are going forward as though we were going to have a declaration of war just ahead of the newly fixed Thanksgiving day of November 23.

Why All These War Plans When Nation Is for Peace?

No mature person can ignore the dangers of war; nor ought any person make light-of-serious-consideration of war plans. I certainly do not intend to treat the matter in a humorous vein, but I repeat the question: why all of these war plans when the nation is 99.44 per cent in favor of peace?

Let me set down some of the things that have happened around here and maybe it will clear why I have become puzzled.

The other day I was in the navy department. There, hanging in a most conspicuous place, was a sign which read: "Beware of Female Spies," and some other warning notes. It struck me that female spies are no more dangerous now than at any time in the last 50 years, and I observed to a navy officer that if foreigners wanted to know our military secrets, they would not wait until now to try to find out about them.

President Roosevelt announced a few days ago that he intended to add something like 75,000 men to the army, in accordance with discretionary authority granted by the last congress, and that during 1940 he expected to increase the army to its full authorized strength of 250,000 men.

Shortly after making known this decision, the President issued orders to the war department, directing construction of a series of new barracks and caponments. These are to house the new army personnel. But congress has given no authority for that, nor has it appropriated money to be expended for that construction. Mr. Roosevelt called attention to this lack of authority, and explained that he believed there was no intention on the part of congress not to provide living quarters for the new soldiers. So, he is going ahead without that authority. He will ask congress to legalize his action when it meets in regular session next January. Before making known his intention to proceed, however, the President discussed the question with Comptroller General Brown, and the Comptroller General suggested that he be not requested to give a "formal opinion" on the President's right to carry out the program.

Navy yards throughout the country have been closed to visitors. For the first time in years, the capitol building is under police regulations as rigid as war time.

Again, Why the Paradox of Peace Songs and War Plans?

You will recall how on several occasions the President has made public statements about war dangers near our shores. First, he told his press conference one day that two submarines had been sighted, one off the Atlantic coast and the other off the shores of the state of Washington. There was that announcement also about the German gunboat that was meandering around somewhere in the Caribbean sea. Finally, Stephen Early, the Presdent's press secretary, disclosed that the head of the German navy had sent a warning that an American ship—the Iroquois, was to be sunk. The German word, according to Mr. Early, was that the British were going to sink that ship which was loaded with American refugees from the war zone; and then they would blame the Germans for doing it. The purpose of all of this was to inflame American public opinion against the Nazis, so it was officially stated.

Now, I would have no way of knowing whether the U-boats were actually sighted and whether they were German or British or our own. Nor would I know anything about the German man-o-war that was reportedly cruising around not too far from American waters. Likewise, the Iroquois warning was something I could not know about. But these things, among many others, have prompted the general discussion and the inquiry as to the paradox of peace songs and war plans.

Dismissal of Mobilization Board Causes Speculation

Now, I can see some sound judgment in the decision to withhold from publication the report by the newly established industrial mobilization board which was headed by Edward R. Stettinius, one of the powers in the United States Steel corporation. That group of men, who surely could be trusted to be in favor of preserving the United States if anyone can be trusted to be patriotic, had made a careful analysis of all of the resources of the country that could be used for war purposes. It is presumed that the board drafted general plans and revised, or at least reviewed, many of the war department programs for war supplies. But Mr. Roosevelt deemed it best not to make the board's findings public. With that, surely, no one can disagree.

There is quite a difference between the sort of findings that represent such conclusions as those informed men could contribute and the sort of information that is obtainable every day concerning the mechanics of ships and guns and airplanes and there is a difference, too, between that and alarmist announcements about U-boats.

Just here the facts of the mobilization board's dismissal ought to be chronicled. The members of the board, or some of them with whom I had talked, believed they had been asked by the President to do a continuing job. They felt that they were something of a permanent agency, available at the call of the President. Whatever their belief was, however, it turned out that they were wrong. Those industrialists, working without pay and paying their own expenses, had been known as conservatives. Any conservative thinker is a dangerous individual to such men as the Corcoran-Cohen group of presidential advisers. No sooner had they started work, than it was bruited about in various quarters that these men were going to scuttle the New Deal. The "inner circle," a gang that came from oblivion into power and will eventually go back to oblivion, did not overlook a bet in spreading their gospel that the industrialists were out to wreck everything for which Mr. Roosevelt stood.

Can Easily Get Into War if Psychology of War Continues

The rumors concerning the activities of the members of the mobilization board spread rapidly and grew in number. It is made to appear that the sponsors got to Mr. Roosevelt with their propaganda. In any event, something happened with the suddenness of a rabbit jumping from a pair of weeds. Mr. Roosevelt announced in his press conference one afternoon that the mobilization board would make its report and would be dissolved. That would not have been a startling announcement except that none of the members of the board, nor the general staff officers of the war department who were working with the board, had any previous knowledge that their work was ended.

I have not attempted in this discussion to report all of the little incidents that have come along to excite curiosity. It is not to be forgotten that the congress was called into extraordinary session to act on the President's request for repeal of the arms embargo. Many persons saw no need for the extra session. And the passage of three weeks of debate on the question whether to keep the embargo against export of arms or repeal it has shown, as far as I am concerned, that it really does not matter which side wins. The United States is not going to get into war any more quickly by keeping the embargo than it will by repealing that mooted section. But it can get into war very easily, embargo or no embargo, if this psychology of war is continued from Washington.

Handy Small Table Made of Camp Stool

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

HAVE you ever wished for a small, low table that would appear from nowhere and disappear again when you were through with it? Have you ever thought it would be nice if Father's ottoman could be folded up and put out of the way when not in use? Or perhaps you have unpacked a suit case in a guest room and wished for something other than the bed; a chair or the floor to put it on during the process?

A camp stool plus a tray to fit the top makes a very satisfactory small table to place beside a game table or to set up for your books or mending basket by your favorite chair. But be sure to dress it up so that it will look its best either when in use or when folded up and placed in some out of the way corner. A remnant of material and some upholstery braid will do the trick. Stain and wax are suggested for the base as paint might be marred in folding the stool.

HOUSEHOLD QUESTIONS

Washing Silk Crepes.—To wash silk crepes or georgettes use warm water and white soap. Do not rub, but squeeze the garment through a good suds. Rinse several times and iron on the wrong side when partly dry.

Clothes Pins.—When clothes pins are new they should be plunged into boiling water and left to soak overnight. This softens the wood and prevents the pins from splitting when first used.

Washing Shirts.—To loosen the dirt on cuff and collar bands on men's and boys' shirts, scrub them with a soft brush frequently dipped in warm soapy water before putting them in the laundry tub.

Baking Ham.—The best oven temperature for baking ham is between 250 and 275 degrees Fahrenheit. This gives a most delicious ham which slices well. If a glazed appearance is desired, use a left-over sweetened fruit juice for basting the ham. This also adds to the flavor.

Tools for Carving.—For easy carving, proper tools are essential. No one can do satisfactory carving without a sharp knife; so sharpen the knife as often as necessary. A steel for this purpose usually is included with the carving set, and may be used just before serving, preferably in the kitchen.

Sandwich Filling.—Flaked salmon and chopped cucumber pickles moistened with mayonnaise make a tasty sandwich filling.

France's Heavy Artillery Trains on Siegfried Line

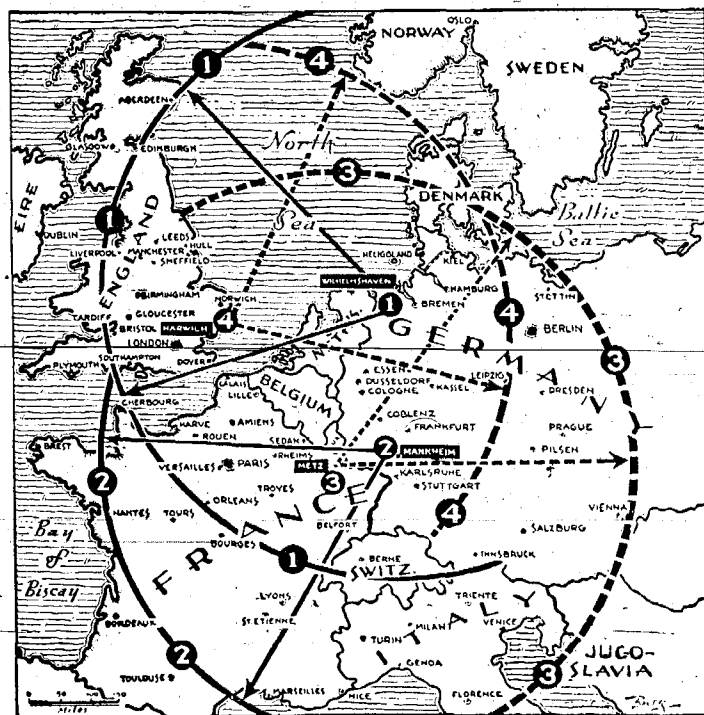

Shown here are the more powerful guns used by French troops in front line combat. No. 1 shows machine gunners in action, preparing to back up the Maginot line. No. 2 is a huge railway gun, run out on its spur track and aimed at some point in Nazi Germany. No. 3 is a trench mortar in action. The missile resembles a small aerial bomb. It is fired from the mortar on a high trajectory to drop down upon its objective, firing upon contact. No. 4 shows the interior of giant tanks carrying field guns, preparing to bore toward the Siegfried line into German territory.

Nazi Bombs Wreck American's Auto in Warsaw

Not at all pleased was Julien Bryan, noted American lecturer-photographer, as he looked over the ruins of his automobile in a shell-shattered Warsaw street. The picture was taken at the height of the siege by German troops. Bryan was the last American to leave the battered Polish capital before its downfall.

Danger Zones in Possible Air Conquest

Here's how German, French and British bombing planes would go about their errands of destruction, endangering the life of every civilian living in that territory within one of the enemy bombing "circles." From Wilhelmshaven, No. 1, and Mannheim, No. 2, would go German bombers to raid Paris, London and other cities. In retaliation, French fliers would start out from Metz, No. 3, and other bases behind the Maginot line, and British airmen would set out from Harwich, No. 4, on their egg-laying expeditions.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

Lesson for October 22

THE CITIZENS OF THE KINGDOM

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 5:1-16. GOLDEN TEXT—Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven.—Matthew 5:16.

Great and historic discourses are preserved with care and are read by succeeding generations with profit and interest even though they are recognized to be the utterances of weak and fallible men. The lesson before us presents what is "undoubtedly the greatest single discourse ever uttered by any teacher or statesman or philosopher in the whole history of the human race" (Smith). Take up your Bible and read the words of the text.

These verses are addressed to believers, to those who have actually taken Christ as king of their lives. These beatitudes are not a substitute for the gospel. They are not laws that the unbeliever can keep and thus be saved, for this would be utterly impossible for anyone to do, except the one who has been born again. Only he who knows and has called upon the power and grace of God in Christ can qualify to walk as a citizen of His kingdom.

I. The Christian's King (vv. 1, 2).

The words which fell from the blessed lips of the Lord Jesus on that day as He sat on the mountain-side were not the powerless declarations of an earthly philosopher or statesman, but of the Son of God who had humbled Himself and become the Son of Man who was still the King of kings and the Lord of lords. If you have not given glad and free allegiance to Him, do it now and you will then be ready to go on and learn of the Christian's character and influence which may be your possession in Christ.

II. The Christian's Character (vv. 3-12).

The eight characteristics of the Christian here presented are worthy of extended individual attention, but we can offer only brief suggestions.

"Blessed are the poor in spirit" speaks of humility as a commendable quality. How contradictory the present-day philosophy which calls for self-assertion, and self-reliance. But Jesus is not mistaken. The way into the kingdom of heaven is not that of assertive self-sufficiency.

"Blessed are they that mourn." The world does not believe that statement. It shuns the house of mourning. It tries without avail to philosophize away the fact of sorrow. The Christian, on the other hand, feels with his fellow man and thus receives a blessing.

"I walked a mile with Pleasure. She chattered all the way; But left me none the wiser For all she had to say."

"I walked a mile with Sorrow, And he'd a word said she; But, oh, the things I learned from her When sorrow walked with me."

"Blessed are the meek." Ah, yes, poverty of spirit comes when a man rightly sees himself, and has a sympathetic touch with sorrow. Then he "inherits the earth," because he truly comes to enjoy it as a place of service and Christian growth, and not because he has a deed to a single foot of its soil.

"Note that it is the hunger and thirst for righteousness, and not the possession of it, that is blessed" (Plummer). Self-satisfied people know nothing of the glory of having such a hunger, and thirst filled by God.

Time fails us to speak of the Christian's spirit of mercy which invites divine mercy; that purity of heart and absolute cleanness of mind and sincerity of purpose which enable a man really to see God even in this impure world; that Christlike spirit which makes him a peacemaker in a fighting world—yes, that spirit which makes him like the Master in sweetly bearing unjust persecution. These indeed are the marks of the man who follows Christ as King.

III. The Christian's Influence (vv. 13-16).

"Salt" and "light"! What pungent and powerful folk are the real followers of Christ!

Salt fights against rotteness, keeps things sweet and fresh. Dr. J. H. Jowett says, Christians "are to confront rotteness in politics; they are to meet it in the realm of business; they are to make for it in the field of sport; they are to be its enemies in the crowded streets of common intercourse; they are to defeat it in the quiet and sequestered ways of art and literature; everywhere they are to provide the antidote to corruption, and they are to overcome and destroy it."

Light has one function, namely, to illuminate. Wickedness and sin always love darkness, because their deeds are evil (read John 3:19-21). If Christ really dwells in us we cannot help but shed light about us wherever we go—a divine light which drives out the darkness of sin, of ignorance, of superstition, and replaces it with the sunlight of God.

FARMERS ADVISED TO TREAT HORSES FOR HORSE BOT FLY EGGS

For less colic, thrifter horses, and more horse power, farmers are being advised to destroy all Bot Fly eggs that will be found on the nose, forelegs, and abdominal regions of their horses with a 3 per cent solution of a good coal tar dip (creolin) carbolic acid, Lysol, etc., by using one teaspoonful of the dip or disinfectant in one pint of as hot water as can be borne comfortably by the hand and apply immediately. The hot water will cause the immediate hatching of the egg and the disinfectant will kill the young bot.

Farmers are especially advised to take this step immediately as it will be impossible to conduct a horse bot treatment campaign this year due to the fact that there is no veterinarian in the county to administer the treatments.

To Assist in Paying Snow Removal Costs On County Roads

The state highway department vouchered $200,000 to 45 Michigan counties this week to assist them in paying for snow removal costs on county roads.

The vouchers were turned over to the Auditor General under the terms of a 1937 statute appropriating $200,000 annually to counties in northern Michigan having more than 60 inches total snowfall during the preceding winter. The money is allocated among the counties on the basis of county road mileage and amount of snowfall as recorded by the U. S. Weather Bureau.

Counties in this part of the State, and the amounts each received, are the following: — Charlevoix, $4,075.89; Antrim, $5,354.88; Emmet, $4,021.67; Grand Traverse, $4,392.72.

SUGGESTION

An employer had spent a great deal of money to insure that his men should work under the best conditions, says Hartford Agent magazine. "Now, whenever I enter the workshop," he said, "I want to see every man cheerfully performing his task, and therefore I invite you to place in this box any further suggestions as to how that can be brought about."

A week later the box was opened; it contained only one slip of paper on which was written: "Don't wear rubber heels."

Fish on Order

An angler, who had been trying to hook something for the last six hours, was sitting gloomily at his task, when a mother and her small son came along.

"Oh!" cried out the youngster, "do let me see you catch a fish!" Addressing the angler, the mother said, severely: "Now, don't you catch a fish for him until he says 'Please!'"

California Tree Yields 8,000 Avocados in Year

DUARTE, CALIF.—There's money in the avocado business.

At least there was this year for Shirley Chappelow, who picked 8,000 avocados from a single tree and sold them for $150.

The tree, planted in 1894, has grown to the enormous proportions of 86 feet high, with a spread of 84 feet and trunk circumference of 8 feet.

William Chappelow, who planted the tree, was an early settler in the Duarte district.

Neighbors contend the tree was planted earlier than 1894, although this date is listed in an official record at Washington.

Back in 1928 the avocado business for the Chappelow family hit an all-time peak as the fruit, selling at boom prices, netted $800.

INFANCY LASTS TO AGE 6, SAYS COURT

Important Ruling Delivered in Tariff Suit.

Washington, D. C.,—After pondering in its mahogany-lined sanctum the price of baby clothes, the United States court of customs and patent appeals has settled for all time the question: What is an infant?

With the aid of four dictionaries, none of which agreed, the court also decided what was in the mind of Herbert T. Hoover concerning infants when, in 1932, he set the import duty on baby clothes at 75 per cent of their value.

Associate Judge Oscar E. Bland, writing a fourteen-page decision for his fellow jurists, held that any child under six years old is an infant insofar as the cost of baby clothes is concerned. His decision said that is what Hoover thought, too.

Judge Finis J. Garet, dissenting, wrote a minority opinion in which he said he was firmly convinced that when a baby becomes two years old, it ceases to be an infant and is, in fact as well as in law, a child. Since he was overruled four to one, his ideas concerning babies didn't count.

The decision was a big victory for the government and a real blow for two New York department stores, which pleaded in vain for a two-year age limit on infants of both sexes.

On June 11, 1932, it developed, Hoover set the import duty on infants' outer clothing at 75 per cent, and on children's ditto, 50 per cent. That started a baby fight which has raged ever since.

The importers contended that infants became children on their second birthday. They held therefore that the duty on clothes for them when they reached that age should be reduced to 50 per cent.

The government said "no sir, not on a pile of baby clothes. An infant is an infant until it is six years old and the tax on its clothes, when imported, must remain at 75 per cent."

Mourns His Wager on Scholasticism

Milwaukee, Wis.—It is extremely hazardous—and usually costly—to gamble on scholastic ability. A. J. Sievers, lecturer in accounting at Marquette university learned.

He gambled with his night class in certified public accounting last fall, betting that not one of the members would pass all of the state examinations in one sitting.

Two passed, and Sievers gave a dinner for the entire class. Twenty-four hungry students attended the banquet.

Training Elephants

In India, Burma, and Sam elephants have been domesticated since written history began, being used as beasts of burden and for hunting. The period of training lasts many years, says a writer in the Chicago Tribune, and a well-trained animal will frequently command a price as high as $5,000. Contrary to general belief, the big African elephants are about as amenable to training as their Indian cousins. The armies of ancient Carthage used African elephants in war, and, according to Vevers: "At Ani, in the Congo, there were in 1928 fifty elephants in training, nineteen of which had completed the course and were working animals. The training is done by local natives who learned their business from Indian mahouts imported as instructors. Half-grown wild elephants are chosen for training, which is carried on for ten years before the animal is strong enough for regular work. Attempts to shorten the period of training in the past have always ended in the death of the animal."

"The Thinker"

The statue "The Thinker," is by Auguste Rodin, the greatest of French sculptors. His original idea was to employ the figure above a museum doorway he had been commissioned to make, and a study which had this use in view was displayed in Paris in 1889. But he did not use it for that purpose, and the huge bronze "The Thinker," was not exhibited until 1904, in Paris. Soon afterward it was shown in plaster at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition in St. Louis. This plaster figure is now in the Metropolitan museum in New York. There are several bronze casts in this country—including the one at the entrance of the Cleveland Museum of Art, another in Detroit, and a third in Golden Gate park, San Francisco. The first cast of "The Thinker" is at the Rodin museum in Paris. Rodin was born in 1840 and died November 17, 1917.

Important Fashions In Simple Patterns

THE smock-frock is really a fashion, not just a comfortable maternity dress. It's smart and young and practical. No. 1833 is a version of it that may be worn for afternoon, because the pleats, in both the smock top and the adjustable slip skirt, give it a touch of dressiness. Make it of flat crepe, thin wool or georgette.

Good for a Whole Wardrobe. Unusually useful is the pretty frock for little girls (1836) because it can be made in two ways—with round collar and frills, or with the plain square neckline. Therefore you can thrifflily make a whole wardrobe for your own small daughter, by using this simple pattern again and again. School cottons, like gingham or linen, as well as challis and jersey, are smart fabrics for it.

The Patterns.

No. 1833 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 5 1/2 yards of 39-inch material with short sleeves; 5 3/4 yards with long sleeves; 1 1/2 yards for the top of the slip; 3/4 yard for contrasting revers, cuffs, collar.

No. 1836 is designed for sizes 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6 years. Size 3 requires 1 1/4 yards of 35-inch material; 1/2 yard for contrasting collar; 2 yards of pleating or frills.

Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1324, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. Price of patterns, 15 cents (in coins) each.

Intricate Carving

China possesses the only ivory carvers who are able to make "puzzle balls." Starting with a solid sphere of ivory about the size of an orange, they finish first the outside ball and then, carving through decorative holes about three-quarters of an inch in diameter, make eight similar balls inside it, each smaller than and separated from the next outer one.

Why Let Yourself Get Constipated?

Why endure those dull headachy days due to constipation, plus the inevitable trips to the medicine chest, if you can avoid both by getting at the cause of the trouble? If your constipation, like that of millions, is due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, the "better way" is to eat Kellogg's All-Bran. This crunchy toasted breakfast cereal is the ounce of prevention that's worth a pound of emergency relief. It helps you not only to get regular but to keep regular, day after day and month after month, by the pleasantest means you ever knew.

THE STORY THUS FAR

Young, pretty Jane Barnes, who lived with her brother, Baldwin, in Sherwood Park, near Washington, was not particularly impressed when she read that rich, attractive Edith Towne had been left at the altar by Delafield Simms, wealthy New Yorker. However, she still mused over it when she met Evans Follette, a young neighbor, whom the war had left completely discouraged and despondent. Evans had always loved Jane. That morning Baldwin Barnes, on his way to work in Washington, offered assistance to a tall, lovely girl in distress. Later he found a bag she had left in the car, containing a diamond-ring on which was inscribed "Del to Edith—Forever." He knew then that his passenger had been Edith Towne. Already he was half in love with her. That night he discussed the matter with Jane, and they called her uncle, worldly, sophisticated Frederick Towne. He visited them at their home, delighted with Jane's simplicity. He told them Edith's story. Because her uncle desired it, Edith Towne had accepted Delafield Simms, whom she liked but did not love. She disappeared immediately after the wedding was to have taken place. The next day Jane received a basket of fruit from Towne, and a note asking if he might call again. Mrs. Follette, widowed mother of Evans, was a woman of indomitable courage. Impoverished, she nevertheless managed to keep Evans and herself in comparative comfort by running a dairy farm. Evans, mentally depressed and disillusioned, had little self reliance and looked to his mother and Jane for guidance. Edith Towne phones Baldy in answer to an ad. She asked him to bring her pocketbook. Jane calls on Frederick Towne in his elaborate office. He gives Lucy, his stenographer, a letter to Delafield Simms, in which he severely criticizes him. Towne takes Jane home in his limousine. She introduces him to Evans, who is jealous of Towne. Baldy goes to meet Edith Towne at her hiding place.

They laughed together. Baldy was great fun, Edith decided, different.

"You are wondering, I fancy, how I happened to come here," she said, leaning back in her chair, her burnished hair against its faded cushions. "Well, an old cook of Mother's, Martha Burns, is the wife of the landlord. She will do anything for me. I have had all my meals upstairs. I might be a thousand miles away for all my world knows of me."

"I was worried to death when I thought of you out in the storm."

"And all the while I was sitting with my feet on the fender, reading about myself in the evening papers."

"And what you read was a plenty," said Baldy, slangily. "Some of those reporters deserve to be shot."

"Oh, they had to do it," indifferently, "and what they have said is nothing to what my friends are saying. It's a choice morsel. Every girl who ever wanted Del's millions is crowding over the way he treated me."

The look in his eyes disconcerted her. "Do you really think that?"

"Of course. We're a greedy bunch."

"I don't like to hear you say such things."

"Why not?"

"Because—you aren't greedy. You know it. It wasn't his millions you were after."

"What was I after—I wish you'd tell me. I don't know."

"Well, I think you just followed the flock. Other girls got married. So you would marry. You didn't know anything about love—or you wouldn't have done it."

"How do you know I've never been in love?"

"Isn't it true?"

"I suppose it is. I don't know, really."

"You'll know some day. And you mustn't ever think of yourself as mercenary. You're too wonderful for that—too—too fine."

She realized in that moment that the boy was in earnest. That he was not saying pretty things to her for the sake of saying them. He was saying them all in sincerity.

"It is nice of you to believe in me. But you don't know me. I am like the little girl with the curl. I can be very, very good, but sometimes I am 'horrid.'"

"You can't make me think it." He handed her a packet of letters. "Your uncle sent these. There's one from Simms on top."

"I think I won't read it. I won't read any of them. It has been heavenly to be away from things. I feel like a disembodied spirit, looking on but having nothing to do with the world I have left."

They were smiling now. "I can believe that," Baldy said, "but I think you ought to read Simms' letter. You needn't tell me you haven't any curiosity."

"Well, I have," she broke the envelope. "More than that I am madly curious. I wouldn't confess it though to anyone—but you."

"They can cut me up in little pieces—before I break my silence."

Again they laughed together. Then she broke the seal of the letter. Read it through to herself, then read it a second time aloud.

"Now that it is all over, Edith, I want to tell you how it happened. I know you think it is a rotten thing I did. But it would have been worse if I had married you. I am in love with another woman, and I did not find it out until the day of our wedding."

"She isn't in the least to blame, and somehow I can't feel that I am quite the cad that everybody is calling me. Things are bigger sometimes than ourselves. Fate just took me that morning—and swept me away from you."

"It isn't her fault. She wouldn't go away with me, although I begged her to do it. And she was right of course."

"She is poor, but she isn't marrying me for my money. The world will say she is—but the world doesn't recognize the real thing. It has come to me, and if it ever comes to you, you're going to thank me for this—but now you'll hate me, and I'm sorry. You're a beautiful, wonderful woman—and I find no excuse for myself, except the one that it would have been a crime under the circumstances to tie us to each other.

"In spite of everything, — Faithfully, — Del."

There was a moment's silence, as she finished. Then Edith said, "So that's that," and tore the letter into little shreds. Her blue eyes were like bits of steel.

"He's right," said Baldy. "I'd like to kill him for making you unhappy—but the thing was bigger than himself."

She shrugged her shoulders. "Of course if you are going to condone—dishonor—"

He was leaning forward hugging his knees. "I am not condoning anything. But—I know this—that He was a whimsical youngster, she decided.

some day if you ever fall in love, you'll forgive—"

"I am not likely to fall in love," coldly, "I'm too sensible—"

"Oh, I know. You've had strings of lovers—you're too tremendously lovely not to have. But they've all been afraid of you. No caveman stuff—or anything like that. Isn't that the truth?"

"I should hate a caveman."

"Of course, but you wouldn't be indifferent, and you'd end by caring."

"I dislike brutal types—intensely—"

He sat with his chin in his hand, his shoulders hunched up like a faun or Pan at his pipes. "All cavemen aren't brutal types. Some day I'm going to paint a picture of a man carrying off a woman. And I'm going to make him a slender young god—and she shall be a rather substantial goddess—but she'll go with him—his spirit shall conquer her—"

She looked at him in surprise. "Then you paint?"

"I'll say I do. Terrible things—magazine covers. But in the back of my mind there are masterpieces—"

He was a whimsical youngster, she decided. "No end interesting. I don't believe your things are terrible. And I shall want to see them—"

"You are going to see them. I have a studio in our garage. I sometimes wonder what happens at night when my little flivver is left alone with my fantasies. It must feel that it is fighting devils—"

He broke off to say, "I'm as garrulous as Jane. Please don't let me talk any more about myself."

"Is Jane your sister?"

"Yes. And now let's get down to realities. Your uncle wants you to come home."

"I'm not going. I know Uncle Fred. He'll make me feel like a returned prodigal. He'll kill the fatted calf, but I'll always know that there were husks—"

"And hogs," Baldy supplemented, dreamily. "Some people are like that."

"Look here," he said suddenly, "if I were you I'd go back."

"I will not."

"I think you ought. Face things out. Let your uncle understand that there are to be no postmortems. It is the only thing to do. You can't stay here forever."

"Did Uncle Fred make you his ambassador?" coldly.

"He did not. When I came, I felt that I would do anything to keep you away from home as long as you liked. But I don't feel that way now. You'll just sit here and grow bitter about it—instead of thanking God on your knees."

He flung it at her, unexpectedly. There was a moment's intense silence. Then he said, "Oh, I hope you don't think I am preaching—"

"No—no—" and suddenly her head went down on her arm, that beautiful burnished head.

She was crying!

"I'm sorry," he told her, huskily. And again there was silence.

She hunted for her handkerchief, and he handed her his. "You needn't be sorry," she said; "it seems—rather refreshing to have someone say things like that. Oh, I wonder if you know how hard we are—and cynical—the people of my set. And I don't believe any of us ever—thank God."

"They talked for an hour after that. There is no reason why you should hurry back," Baldy said, "but I let your uncle tell people where you are. Then the papers will drop it, don't you see?"

"I see. Of course I've been silly—but you can't think how I suffered."

She would not have admitted it to anyone else. But she met his sincerity with her own.

"I was going to have our lunch served up here," she said, "but I think I won't. The dining-room downstairs is charming—and if anyone comes in that I know—I shan't care—as long as I'm going back."

The food was delicious, and having settled her problems, Edith showed herself delightfully gay and girlish. There was heliotrope in a Sheffield bowl on their table.

"Martha grows old-fashioned flowers in pots," Edith said. She picked out a spray for him and he put it in his coat. "It's my favorite." She told him about Delafield's orchids.

"Think of all those months," she said, "and he never knew the flowers I liked."

There were other people in the room, but it was not until the end of the meal that anyone came whom Edith recognized.

"Eloise Harper—and she sees me," was her sudden remark. "Now watch me carry it off."

She stood up and waved to a party of four people, two men and two women, who stood in the door.

They saw her at once; and the effect of their coming was a stampede.

"Blessed child," said the girl who was in the lead, "have you eloped? And is this the man?"

"This is Mr. Barnes," said Edith, "who comes from my uncle. I am to go back. But I have had a corking adventure."

Eloise, red-haired and vivid in a cloak and turban of wood-brown, seemed to stand mentally on tiptoe. "I wouldn't miss the talk I am going to have with the reporters to-night."

One of the men of the party protested. "Don't be an idiot, Eloise."

"Well, I owe Edith something. Don't I, darling?"

"You do. There was a flame in back of Edith's eyes. She liked Delafield before I did."

"Cat," said Eloise lightly. "I liked his yacht, but Benny's is bigger, isn't it, Benny?" She turned to the younger man of the party who had not spoken.

"I'll say it is," Benny agreed, cheerfully, "and it isn't just my yacht—that she's after. She has a real little case on me."

The second woman, older than Eloise; tall and fair-haired in smoke-gray with a sweep of dull blue wing across her hat, said, "Edith, you bad child, your uncle has been frightfully worried."

"Of course, you'd know, Adelaide. And it does him good to be worried. I am an antidote for the rest of you."

Everybody laughed except Baldy. He ran his fingers with a nervous gesture through his hair. He was like a young eagle with a ruffled crest.

Martha came up to arrange for a table. "Bring your coffee over and sit with us," Eloise said; "we want to hear all about it."

Edith shook her head. "I don't belong to your world yet. And I've had a heavenly time without you."

They went on laughing. Silence settled on the two they left behind. And out of that silence Edith asked, "You didn't like the things we said?"

"Hateful!"

"Do you always show what you feel like that?"

"Jane says I do."

"Well, if it had been anybody but Eloise Harper and Adelaide Larimore, Adelaide is Uncle Fred's latest."

She rose. "Let's go upstairs. If I stay here I shall want to throw things at their heads. And I don't care to break Martha's dishes."

They stopped at the other table, however, for a light word or two, then went up to Edith's sitting-room on the second floor. When they were once more by the fire, she said, "And now what do you think of me? Nice temper?"

"I think," he said, promptly, "that they probably deserved it."

She laid her hand for a fleeting moment on his arm. "You are rather a darling to say that. I was really horrid."

When he was ready at last to go, she decided, "Tell Uncle Frederick to send Briggs out for me in the morning. I might as well have it over, now that Eloise is going to spread the news."

"I wish you'd go in with me—tonight."

"Oh, but I couldn't—"

"Why not?"

She weighed it—"And surprise Uncle Fred?"

"I think we'd better telephone, so he can kill the fatted calf."

"Yes. He doesn't like things sprung on him. Hurts his dignity—but he's rather an old dear, and I love him—do you ever quarrel with the people you love?"

"Jane and I fight. Great times."

"I have a feeling I shall like Jane."

"You will. She's the best ever. Not a beauty, but growing better-looking every day. Bobbed her hair—and I nearly took her head off. But she's rather a peach."

"I'll have you both down for dinner some day. I think we are going to be friends"—again that light touch on his arm.

He caught her hand in his. "I shall only ask that you let the page throw his lyre." Then with a deeper note, "Miss Towne, I can't tell you how much your friendship would mean."

"Would it? Oh, I am going to have some good times with you and your little sister, Jane. I am so tired of people like Eloise and Adelaide, and Benny and—Del..."

Bermuda History Told on Back of Some Coinages

The history of the Bermuda islands holds a fascinating story to coin-collectors. The background of Bermuda's monetary system is revealed century by century on the backs of its currency, and at Hamilton and St. George's one can find old curio shops containing rare pieces of Bermuda coinage dating back into the Seventeenth century, according to a Hamilton, Bermuda, correspondent in the Indianapolis News.

Bermuda has used silver, gold, copper and tobacco as the basis of its monetary system. Today Bermuda is on the same money standard as its mother country, but in the shops America, money is accepted in payment of goods.

Doublons, pistols, vice-of-eight, all the coinages of the British Main—tobacco, palmetto, ever, pepper-corn once circulated in Bermuda as mediums of exchange by which to buy or pay for a house, purchase a slave or pay for building a private sloop.

In 1615 the Bermuda company was formed, and almost immediately a special copper coinage was used in trading with the company's store and for other small daily transactions. This was called "hog money" and is unique as the first British colonial currency. Specimens of it are exceedingly rare.

The device of a ship was revived on a copper issue of 1793. These "ship pennies" were struck by Matthew Britton of Birmingham, by authority of George III. The total value was not to exceed 200 pounds sterling, but part of the issue was captured by the French. Only about $800 worth arrived in Bermuda.

According to a proclamation of January 1, 1662, strangers were to be paid with tobacco at two shillings and sixpence a pound. This last clause practically declared tobacco as legal tender, and thereafter for half a century all taxes, assessments and other debts were reckoned in terms of tobacco.

His favorite piece was the sofa and several of these with chairs to match are in the collection of the Essex institute at Salem.

Worth Quarter-More Sleepers' Etiquette Rents the Earth

The ruler of Jaipur, India, the Maharaja Sawai Mau Singi Bahadur, like his predecessor, uses Sawai in his name to increase his prestige. The word, meaning "one fourth better than others," makes him a maharaja and a quarter. Least his subjects forget that they have a 125-per cent monarch, his royal flag carries a quarter-sized duplicate directly beneath it.

When the Great Bed of War, which holds 12 sleepers, was presented to King Edward IV of England in 1463, he employed a special guardian and had prepared a list of rules of etiquette that all who slept in this bed had to observe for the peace and comfort of their bedfellows.

Household News

Coffee and waffles are star performers for Sunday breakfast. See Recipe Below.

At the Sound of the Breakfast Bell

Five mornings a week there's a last-minute scramble to get to school on time, and a mad dash to beat the boss to the office—and too frequently the all-important business of eating breakfast is neglected. Maybe the breakfast menu needs revising, or needs a "beauty treatment" to increase its appetite appeal.

If all homemakers would join forces to raise the standard of American breakfasts, it would be a long step in the direction of happiness and well being for the family. Breakfast needn't be elaborate to be good, but it should consist of foods well chosen and well prepared to tempt the appetites of members of the family who aren't ordinarily interested in this first meal of the day.

Serving something new, occasionally, is a more effective means of getting the laggards out of bed than the loudest alarm clock!

Blueberry Muffins.

(Makes 10-12 muffins)

- 1/4 cup butter
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1 egg
- 2 1/2 cups flour
- 3 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 1 cup milk
- 1 cup blueberries (well drained)

Cream the butter and add sugar gradually. Add the egg, well beaten, and mix. Sift all dry ingredients, reserving 1/4 cup flour to be mixed with the blueberries. Add milk, mixed with vanilla extract, and dry ingredients alternately. Add the floured blueberries. Bake in greased-muffin tins in a moderate oven (375 degrees) approximately 20 minutes.

Bacon With Apple Rings.

- 7 slices bacon
- 1 egg (slightly beaten with 1 tablespoon cold water)
- White corn meal
- 3 apples (peeled and cut in 1/2-inch round slices)
- 1 teaspoon powdered sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
- Juice of 1 lemon

Melt sufficient bacon fat to cover the bottom of a skillet. Cut bacon strips in halves, dip in beaten egg, then dip in corn meal. Sauté gently in the bacon fat until each strip is a golden brown. Place apple slices in a mixture of the lemon juice, sugar, and cinnamon for a few minutes. Drain the apple slices, without drying, and sauté in the remaining fat. Place bacon strips in the center of a warmed platter and arrange around it the browned apple rings.

Hominy Grits With Baked Eggs.

(Serves 4-6)

- 3 cups freshly cooked grits
- 5 to 6 eggs
- Salt, pepper and paprika
- 1/2 cup cheese (grated)

Fill a shallow baking pan with the cooked grits. With a spoon make hollows or wells in the grits. Drop a fresh egg into each hollow. Sprinkle with salt, pepper, paprika and grated cheese. Bake in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees) for 20 to 25 minutes.

French Toast With Pineapple and Bacon.

(Serves 4)

- 8 slices bacon
- 2 eggs (slightly beaten)
- 1/4 cup milk
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 4 slices bread
- 4 slices pineapple (canned)

Pan fry bacon until nicely browned and crisp; drain and keep hot. Combine slightly beaten eggs, milk, and salt, and mix well. Dip bread in egg mixture and sauté in the hot bacon fat until golden brown. Then sauté the pineapple slices.

Place one pineapple slice on each piece of toast and top with two slices of bacon. Garnish with parsley, and serve very hot.

Waffles.

- 2 cups pastry flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 2 eggs
- 1 cup milk
- 1/2 cup butter (melted)
- Sliced bacon

Mix and sift all dry ingredients. Beat egg yolks thoroughly and add milk. Then pour this milk mixture into the dry ingredients and blend lightly. Add melted butter and fold in the well beaten egg whites. Cut bacon into 1-inch pieces; place 1 piece on each waffle iron section and then pour waffle batter on hot waffle iron.

Buckwheat Cakes.

- 1 yeast cake
- 1 cup lukewarm water
- 3 tablespoons dark molasses
- 1 tablespoon salt
- 1 1/2 cups flour
- 1 1/2 cups buckwheat flour
- 1 cup lukewarm water (approximately)
- 1 teaspoon soda dissolved in 1/4 cup water

Soak yeast cake in 1 cup of lukewarm water. Add molasses, salt, and flour, and enough additional lukewarm water to make a batter a little thicker than that used for ordinary griddle cakes. Put batter in a covered bean jar, and let stand overnight. In the morning add soda dissolved in water. Bake on a hot greased griddle.

Birmingham Eggs.

Slice bread 1 inch thick, trim off crusts and cut a 1 1/2-inch hole in the center. Place in heavy frying pan containing generous amount of butter. Break an egg in the center of each slice. Fry bread slices until golden brown, then turn and brown other side. Salt and pepper.

Quick Butterscotch Rolls.

- 2 cups flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 cup shortening
- 1/4 cup milk
- Melted butter
- 1 cup light brown sugar
- 1/4 cup butter
- 1/2 cup pecan nut meats

Sift flour, baking powder and salt. Cut in shortening and add milk. Roll out and brush with melted butter. Sprinkle with 1/2 cup brown sugar. Roll firmly like a jelly roll. Cream together the remaining 3/4 cup of sugar and 1/4 cup butter. Spread this mixture, together with the pecan nutmeats, over bottom of baking pan. Slice biscuit roll in 1/2-inch slices and place cut side up in the butter-sugar-nut mixture. Bake 20 minutes in moderate oven (350 degrees) and turn out of pan at once. Serve upside down.

Star Dust

★ New Swedish Find

★ U. S. Film to Russia

★ Third Choice Takes It

By Virginia Vale

INGRID BERGMAN is the heroine of the latest publicity build-up in Hollywood—perhaps the name isn't familiar to you now, but if it isn't soon the fault will lie with David Selznick's publicity staff. For Miss Bergman is the new Swedish discovery who makes her bow to film fans in "Intermezzo," with Leslie Howard.

She is pretty, charming and has a lovely smile. Stockholm is her home town. Whether she is as talented as her Swedish compatriot, Greta Garbo, remains to be seen.

"Intermezzo" is a romantic drama dealing with a world-famous musician who has to decide between home life with his family and the thrills of his life as an artist. Edna Best and John Halliday have supporting roles.

While Mr. Selznick was discovering a Swedish actress, Russian motion picture men were discovering an American one. Intorgkino, international film trading company for the Soviet Union, has bought Deanna Durbin's "One Hundred Men and a Girl" for distribution there. It is the first American picture bought for that market since 1936, when Charlie Chaplin's "Modern Times" and "City Lights" were purchased.

William Powell may appear in "Susan and God" opposite Greer Garson, who became famous overnight as a result of her appearance in Goodbye, Mr. Chips. But the doctors have the last say in this regard to Powell's taking on this new assignment; two weeks of retakes for "The Thin Man Returns" necessitated a rest, as his health still isn't what it might be.

"Drums Along the Mohawk," according to an announcement from Twentieth Century-Fox, will be 14 reels long when it is released. Not the longest picture ever offered to the public, but the longest in Technicolor. In case you didn't read the book, it's a swell story.

It's three times and out for "My Girl Friday," the new screen version of "Front Page." Irene Dunne was offered the lead, and refused it. Jean Arthur was offered the lead, and also refused it, which resulted in her suspension without pay for 12 weeks. (However, her contract will be extended for that same period.) The picture finally got started with Rosalind Russell in the role that the Misses Dunne and Arthur wouldn't touch with a 10-foot pole. As a rule, when this sort of thing happens in a motion picture studio, the actress (or actor) who steps in and saves the day makes such a success that she leaps ahead several rungs on the ladder to fame.

Every radio broadcast has to have a production man; his job, principally, is to sit in the control room and guide the progress of the show to split-second accuracy of schedule. Since radio began it's been a man's job. But CBS's "Grand Central Station" is produced by a woman, She's Betsy Tuthill, from Tucson, Ariz.

You girls who'd like to take on a similar job will be interested in the story of her career. After being graduated from the University of Arizona she worked with the Harvard Film Service, editing and cutting educational films. Then she went to work for Irving Reis, who was directing the CBS Workshop series. She looked after his mail, did some casting, read scripts and helped re-write them. First thing anybody knew she was in the studio, helping with production.

Al Pearce, who added "I hope, I hope, I hope" to American slang, is back on the air on Wednesday nights from 8 to 8:30 eastern standard time, on a nation-wide hook-up. He has a new Gang, which includes Billy House, the radio-oldest timer, and Don Reid, a new lyric tenor who hails from Canada.

ODDS AND ENDS—The popular "Myrt and Marge" serial, soon to celebrate its eighth year on the air, came into being because the real Myrt and Marge were hit by the 1929 crash. The new March of Time, "The Battle Fleets of England," is a film story of the British navy today.

Separate Fur Pieces Go Well With Bright Wool Costumes

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

THIS is the season of graceful-lady fashions. To be sure, casual, sporty dress has its rightful place in the picture, but the clothes that center the present fall and winter costume pageantry proclaim the dawn of a new era of elegance that calls for painstaking planning and individualized styling, reflecting dignity, high tone and the exquisitely feminine—throughout costume design.

First and foremost the accent is on fabric elegance. To the handsome materials that fashion demands this season add color enchantment rife with autumnal beauty. Embellish the entire with lavish and luxuriant fur and you will have envisioned the picture as heralded on the style program for the coming months.

Never has there been a more entrancing display of woolsens. Not only are the various weaves, especially tweeds, superbly colorful within themselves but the ingenious and intriguing ways in which designers are working out contrasts and blends is adding infinite color fascination to current modes.

Then, too, fur treatments are so varied and so unusual as to be almost spectacular from the standpoint of originality and versatility. If you have been treasuring a bit of handsome fur now is the time to bring it out.

Especially smart this season are separate fur pieces such as the detachable plastron of soft gray squirrel that gives hattering effect to the dark coat shown to the left in the picture. Plastrons of fur, such as here pictured, are definitely new. Most of them reach only to the waistline, but in some instances they extend all the way down the front.

The fur hat has become an outstanding theme among milliners. With it you are supposed to carry a matching muff as you see below to the left in the group. This stunning twosome is fashioned of handsome fox. Wear it with the new suit or your best long cloth coat for your dressiest moments.

A luxurious stole of light colored lynx dresses up the beige wool coat to the right. Rich brown accessories are worn. The halo brim of a cinnamon colored felt hat is graced with a long brown veil. The fact that fur stoles have been revived this season is of untold style significance.

Pictured to the right below is a delightful example of fur and fabric alliance. The action-free long jacket is of beaver-dyed coneys with bright wool plaid lining to match the dress and hat. With the football season in full swing a costume of this type comes into its own with a flourish. This type of jacket suit is ideal for autumn wear and the beauty of it is the fur coat can be worn with any dress or suit.

Lace for Evening Meets With Favor

No matter what silhouette he follows, whether pencil slim or very full, Molyneux's newest collection of evening dresses shows a decided favor for lace. Lace is combined with velvet, satin or wool, or it is used simply and severely alone. One gown has a black lace bodice with pink ribbon shoulder straps and a satin skirt made full with godets applied with narrow lace insertions. For a coat and dress costume he reverses the usual combination of a heavy coat over a light dress and makes a long loose coat of violet lace to be worn over a dress of violet wool.

Tone-on-Tone Tint Favored for Fall

Very new and as yet exclusive, but bound to develop into an important vogue is the effective tone-on-tone effects which are to be seen this fall. The idea is to carry out the entire costume in several tones of the same color. The new grape of blackberry color works out beautifully, and brown that goes dark for the jacket, lighter for the skirt, still lighter for the tie girle and lightest of all, even unto a pale beige tint, is the blouse. Greens, wines and any of the dark colors yield effectively to the tone-on-tone theory.

Red and Black Is New Hat Fashion

A bright red bird with outspread wings atop a black felt hat spells "style" in capital letters. A huge red velvet bow on a black draped turban offers another approach to high style, this season.

With your black daytime frock wear a stunning red suede belt. A red suede blouse with your knitted black suit will prove equally as style assuring.

In Good Style Costume suits, the jackets of which are all-over braided, are exceedingly good style.

DEFEAT OUR CRIMSONS HERE LAST SATURDAY, 13 - 0

Coach Brotherton's Blue and Gold of Gaylord overcame another obstacle, on its way to the Tip O' Michigan Class C crown by downing Coach Abe Cohn's Crimson 13 to 0 here last Saturday afternoon, as part of the annual fall homecoming for the Jordanites.

A lighter Jordan forward wall took a terrific battering for three quarters before it gave way to Gaylord's first touchdown midway in the final stanza. Lovelace and Glasser, alternated hitting the line as Gaylord put on a drive from their own 35; the former finally going from the 5 yd. stripe. Fesler failed to add the extra point on an attempted place kick. The Jordanites as a last resort took to the air only to have Simmons intercept on the midfield stripe and set the stage for the visitors second touchdown. Again Lovelace and Glasser hit the line for 4 and 5 yds. a clip, the latter going over from the 8 yd. line as he sliced off tackle. It was Glasser again on the extra point and Gaylord left the field victorious, but not until after they had been through a bitter battle waged in a regular snow squall. Gaylord's line with an average weight of 175 to 180 lbs. per man, proved to be the margin of victory as they finally overcame the gallant efforts of the Cohnmen.

True to prediction, Lovelace, lived up to all expectations, as the heady Gaylord quarterback led his team to victory. Glasser, a converted end, also did a marvelous job in the visitor's backfield. Hanes, Huntly, and Simmons stood out in the line, and with this true balance of power its going to be tough sledding for the Blue and Gold's future Conference foes.

The Red and Black minus the services of their all-around ace Glen Gee, threatened to score but once, on an attempted placekick from the 12 yd. stripe in the third period. Charlevoix's Red Rayders, still blistering from its 26 to 0 trimming at the hands of the Boyne City Ramblers come next in line on the Jordan schedule as the two aggregations are slated to tangle at 2:00 p. m. Saturday afternoon at Legion field in Charlevoix.

Cite Feed Value Of Cull Apples

Plans of the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation to purchase sizeable quantities of Michigan apples to relieve the market of the heavy 1939 crop mean that thousands of head of livestock in the state are due to get apples in their diet this fall and winter.

For every bushel purchased by this federal agency, the grower is required to divert another bushel of merchantable apples even though these may be culls suitable only for cider.

County agricultural agents, including B. C. Mellencamp in Charlevoix County, will be able to supply growers with blank forms indicating method of handling the apples diverted from the market. The diversion must be for apples handled in some manner since Thursday, September 28th.

In 1937 the federal purchases totalled 1,200 carlots or about a half million bushels. The state's commercial crop this year is estimated at more than eight million bushels or about twice that of a year ago.

At Michigan State College, feeding specialists are pointing out two of the most efficient and productive ways of using up apples that must be diverted as culls or even in other grades. Dairy cattle, swine or horses relish apples chopped or ground. The feeding value is even superior in the form of apple pomace, the residue after cider presses extract the juice. In fact, experienced dairymen prefer to feed the 700 pounds of pomace that a ton of fresh apples produces when used for cider. Cows should be milked before feeding the pomace. Supplements should be protein-rich.

One point of feeding is stressed from experience. That is, to start out feeding 10 pounds of pomace a day to cows or steers and then gradually build up to a 30-pound daily basis.

Prepare Flocks For The Winter

SHEEP OWNERS SHOULD PREPARE SHEEP FOR WINTER SEASON

Now is the time of year to prepare the flock for the long winter season. Certainly lambs to be sold should be sold in the very near future. Common experience shows that the best weights are from 75 to 90 pounds. The lighter lambs still bring better returns if they are retained until they reach the most desirable weight. It is always a profitable practice to drench the flock every month at least. Of course, we know that very few farmers do this but certainly the sheep should be drenched before going into winter quarters, once during the winter, and a couple of times before they are put out to pasture in the spring.

The breeding flock should be placed on very good feed at least two weeks before the ram goes in and such feeding practices should be continued during the breeding period. This will greatly increase the percent of lamb crop the following year. Another good practice is to remove the ram from the flock each day for rest and feed. This will insure stronger and more even lambs. Also, a good purebred ram will pay big dividends. Lambs from a purebred ram carry concentrated blood-lines and are more even and uniform and will produce more rapid growth. While the original cost of a good ram may be anywhere from 25 to 50 dollars, when you stop to consider that he should give four or five years breeding service, then the cost per lamb will not be more than from ten to twenty-five cents per year which, of course, is not exorbitant. On this basis, why use an inferior ram?

Avoid barns that are too warm. For winter, sheep need only shelter to run under as desired and protection from drafts. Sheep need a lot of exercise and, being allowed freedom, they always get the required amount but, when confined too closely, they lack exercise and do not produce the best lambs. Use good sound judgment in regard to these suggestions, plus adequate amounts of good feed, and your lambs should make money.

In regard to drenching, the formula is made up of one ounce of copper sulphate and one ounce of black-leaf 40 to three quarts of water. For your lambs give from two to three ounces of this solution and for ewes four ounces. Be careful in the use of this material as it is strong stuff. Use a wooden, glass or earthenware receptacle in mixing your solution.

B. C. Mellencamp, County Agr'l Agent.

Radio Owners - Caution
Radio Wire Across Electric Line Causes Power Interruption

Recently someone installing a radio aerial and lead-in passed the aerial wire above a 2300 volt primary line in one of the towns served by the Michigan Public Service Company. The radio aerial came into contact with the electric wires, creating a short circuit which burned the power wires down and caused an interruption in electric service to about 200 customers. Through what seems to have been almost a miracle, no one was injured, although the person handling the radio wires might easily have suffered a severe — if not fatal — electric shock and burns.

There are a few simple safety rules, with which all qualified radio installation mechanics and salesmen are familiar, which will prevent the occurrence of similar accidents and the attendant possibility of serious injuries. However, since many radio aerial installations may be made by owners instead of by radio men, the Company wishes to point out these rules so that everyone may be familiar with them.

SAFETY RULES

1. NEVER attach a radio aerial or lead-in (or anything else) to a pole carrying electric wires.
2. Locate the aerial so that it will not cross the path followed by an electric line.
3. If it is unavoidable that the aerial or lead-in crosses the path of an electric line, ALWAYS CROSS BELOW THE ELECTRIC WIRES — NEVER ABOVE THEM. Never allow a radio aerial or lead-in wire to come any closer than six feet from an electric power wire, and always keep it as far away as possible.
4. ALWAYS have a well grounded, approved lightning arrester located in the lead-in close to the point where it is brought into the house.

Careful observance of the above rules will insure radio set owners against the danger of personal injury and damage to their property.

In the interest of public safety, the Company must insist upon the observance of the first rule quoted above.
