"Young America" Has Vote of Thanks For A Quiet Hallowe'en

East Jordan enjoyed the sanest, safest, best Hallowe'en Celebration in many years. The weather wasn't so good, but that did not prevent 600 to 700 youngsters, and some of the oldesters, from having a whale of a good time. "No Soap" applies to the actual article, not to the fun the kids had. The grade children had their party, with games, do-nuts and cider between 4 and 6 p. m. They drowned 40 doz. doughnuts in 10 gals. of cider, so it did not take them long to eat their supper before show time.

All the boys and girls attended the show and filled the house. Mr. Drew is to be congratulated on getting such a good show for such an occasion. After the show the High School and Junior High assembled at the H. S. Auditorium for the heavy fun of the evening.

The sack race, the balloon bursting race, the satchel race, and the dress parade by 8 high school boys dressed to impersonate Lillian Gish, Greta Garbo, Gracie Allan, Loretta Young, Edna May Oliver and other beautiful actresses, constituted the high lights of the occasion. It required 25 gals. of cider in which to sink 60 doz. doughnuts. It really was a very enjoyable evening and if the youngsters enjoyed it half as much as did the members of the Rotary Club, the evening was well worth while.

The Club wishes to take this opportunity to thank all who contributed in any way to the success of the celebration. The City Council, the merchants, Mr. Darbee for the apples, Dinty for making the cider, the teachers who engineered the games, and any other not known to the writer, please accept this public "Thank You."

It is equally sure that the people of the City are grateful that their windows, car windows, etc. are not covered with soap and wax.

There is a very real spirit of co-operation about the city, and plans are being made for this town to really go places.

Judge: "How many children do you have, Mirandy?"
Mirandy: "Well, judge, I has two by my first husband, one by my last husband, and then I has two of my own."

American Legion Inaugurate Christmas Fund Drive

The American Legion annual Community Christmas Fund drive was officially inaugurated this week with the appointment of committees to raise funds which will be needed in carrying on the good work of the American Legion in behalf of the children of our community during the Christmas season.

The general committee consists of Mrs. J. F. Bugai, chairman; Mrs. Russell Barnett, Vern Whiteford and Charles Murphy.

Among other things, the committee will sponsor a Beano on the evening of November 10th. The Beano will be held in the Legion Hall, with a charge of 35c for the evening, beginning at 6:00 o'clock and playing thirty games. Oscar Weisler, Thomas St. Charles and Vern Whiteford are in charge.

Here is an occasion where you can have a good time, win valuable prizes, and, at the same time, contribute your bit toward Christmas cheer and good will.

Big Farmers Day Event Is Planned

KIWANIS SPONSORING PROGRAM THIS SATURDAY, NOV. 4th AT CHARLEVOIX

A "Farmers Day" which promises all that the name implies, is scheduled in Charlevoix on Saturday, Nov. 4th.

The Kiwanis Club is sponsoring the event, assisted by B. C. Mellenkamp, county agricultural agent, the board of commerce and Charlevoix merchants. The affair replaces the annual Kiwanis "Farmers Night" banquet, to which attendance has been limited, to as many guests as there are Kiwanis members, and in its place provides entertainment and activities in which everyone so desiring may take part.

Principal features of the day's program include a county-wide exhibit of farm produce, displays of 4-H clubs and Smith-Hughes schools, and a free entertainment program in the evening at the school gymnasium with awarding of prizes donated by Charlevoix merchants, who are also offering special merchandising value during the day in their stores.

The agricultural exhibits, according to B. C. Mellenkamp, will provide the annual fall achievement day for 4-H Club members. East Jordan and Boyne City Smith-Hughes groups will make displays. Farm displays will include potatoes, apples, corn, beans and canned goods. An attractive cash premium list has been provided. Displaying apples will be such leading county growers as Eveline Orchards, D. D. Tibbits and Floyd Griffin. Competition will be provided in plates and bushel entries. The produce show will be held at the Benj. Brown building.

O. P. North, superintendent of schools, has charge of the entertainment program to be presented at the gymnasium. He promises many novel and entertaining features, one of which, it is understood, will be the dairy demonstration by which Clare McGhan and Lawrence Ecklund won instate competition and are now in San Francisco, Calif., to compete in the national dairy show.

Boys Win Scholarships In National Dairy Contests At San Francisco

The best news received for some time was the announcement that Clare McGhan and Lawrence Ecklund, of Charlevoix, won second place at San Francisco in the National Dairy Demonstration contest. Each of the two boys have been awarded one hundred dollars as a scholarship.

This is certainly welcome news as both boys plan to attend college in the very near future and this scholarship will be of great assistance.

Lawrence Ecklund spoke over the radio on Tuesday noon at one o'clock over WMAQ, Chicago. This was a high honor as only four club members had the opportunity of speaking over the radio during the short period of time. Many interested Charlevoix folks heard his voice and got the thrill of their lives. The boys returned home on Monday and report a most enjoyable trip and one that they can only describe.

These boys will give their demonstration, probably for the last time, before a county audience at the Charlevoix Farm Day on Saturday, Nov. 4th. This demonstration will be a feature of the program at the High School Gymnasium on Saturday night.

B. C. Mellenkamp, County Agr'l Agent.

Rogers City Team are Undefeated

DOWN OUR CRIMSON WAVE HERE, SATURDAY, 14-0

Coach James Quinn's Rogers City Huronites bested the local Crimson Wave 14 to 0 here last Saturday afternoon, in a tilt played amidst a regular snow storm, with a bitter north wind prevailing.

The visitors, undefeated to date, kept its record unblemished as its deceptive ground attack and weight advantage mastered the game but futile efforts of the Crimson.

After the Crimson had played them on an even basis throughout almost the entire first half the visitors took advantage of a ruled pass interference play in the waning seconds of play, taking the ball on the Red and Black 18. A line play, an end sweep and another completed pass out the ball on the 3 yd. stripe where Smith went over the right side of his own line to score. Newhouse, on a cutback to his left added the extra point as the half ended, Rogers City 7, East Jordan 0.

Not content on a single touchdown lead the Orange and Black unreled a tricky offensive barrage early in the third stanza to score again, as Smith circled his own left end, evaded the local secondary from the Red and Black 22 yd. stripe. Newhouse took a short forward pass adding the extra point. Rogers City 14, East Jordan 0.

The locals finally got on to things and prevented scoring by mugging up the Orange and Black spinner and reverse plays.

Mauti, and Gabrysiak in the line and Newhouse and Smith in the backfield starred for the Quinn men. Isa-man continued his brilliant defensive play to lead the Red and Black.

The Crimson meet Harbor Springs on the latter's gridiron this week end Saturday afternoon. Harbor after a few dismal seasons has again risen to football prominence and last Saturday had little trouble in taking Coach Ray Kipke's Charlevoix Red Bayde's into camp 13 to 0. Gaylord cinched the Tip O' Michigan Class C. Conference title defeating Boyne High Ramblers 7 to 0 last Saturday at Boyne City, but not until after Boyne had put up a whale of a battle. Lovelace, Gaylord quarterback scored the only touchdown of the afternoon. Boyne with its powerful aerial attack threatened to score on several occasions.

Part-time Classes In Dairying

STARTS NOV. 14. YOUNG MEN, 16-25 ARE ELIGIBLE

Dairying has been chosen by a group of young farmers of the East Jordan area as a suitable topic for part-time classes in agriculture.

Meeting last Thursday evening in the high school agricultural room, young men between the ages of 16 and 25 decided that the course will begin Tuesday evening, November 14, and continue through the winter.

The meeting each week will begin at 8:00 p. m. and continue until 9:30. Anyone within the age group who is not regularly attending school is eligible to attend. The discussions will center around actual problems of the members who should some way hold an active interest in farming.

Topic for the first lesson is to be selection of dairy cattle. Following this will be work on dairy feeding, management, marketing, sanitation, and other applied subjects. There is no charge for this course, and anyone interested should plan to attend the first meeting.

Romance of Geraldine, Half-American Cinderella Queen

The thrilling inside story of picturesque King Zog's wooing of the beautiful but sadly impoverished Countess who mopped floors, set tables, sold postcards and worked as a model before she became queen, begins in the November 5 issue of The American Weekly, the great weekly magazine with The Detroit Sunday Times. Be sure to read this series of astounding and exciting articles.

Great Variance In Potato Yield

LATE BLIGHT CAUSING CONSIDERABLE DAMAGE IN SOME LOTS

This year the yield and quality of potatoes varies greatly from field to field. The results in many cases are disappointing. The yield of potatoes is not as great as was prophesied last August. Never have vines been any larger or more vigorous than they were during August. At that time, indications pointed to one of the largest crops ever harvested.

However, right at this time, considerable rainfall occurred which caused too rapid growth. This was particularly true in the case of potatoes that were planted early. To potatoes planted after the 20th of June, this large amount of rainfall in August was a big help and did not tend to destroy type. Thus, at harvesting time, the majority of fields are decidedly off type and the yield is not as great as was expected a month earlier.

The outstanding field in the county, that I have visited, or have heard about, is the acreage of Russet Rurals on the farm of Lee Sneathen, Charlevoix. He has approximately thirteen acres of certified Russet Rurals and, from six checks made in his two fields, we find that they are yielding slightly more than four hundred bushels to the acre. This is the highest yield reported in the county and, not only that, but the fields contain beautiful type and quality. He deserves this break as he sprayed adequately with a high pressure spray. These fields contain an abundance of organic matter—largely from plowing down green manures plus a liberal quantity of high analysis fertilizer. Fortunately, this year his potatoes were planted later than usual so the dry weather did not seriously injure them and the rainfall that came in August and September carried them through to maturity without too much rapid growth. Unless I miss my guess you will hear from Mr. Sneathen in the potato show competition.

In many fields, not over fifty percent of the potatoes can be graded into U. S. No. 1's. Another factor has been a serious infection of late blight which seriously decreased the yield and has infected the potatoes themselves. As one grower said, "Tell me in advance what kind of weather we will have and I will know exactly when to plant and how often to spray, and I will guarantee three hundred bushels of high quality potatoes to the acre." Not being able to do this, potato growers have to trust to fate.

Come to the Charlevoix Farm Day exhibit on Saturday, November 4th, at Charlevoix and see the outstanding exhibits that will be displayed. Watch the papers for further announcements concerning the district potato show to be held at Traverse City on November 8th, 9th, and 10th.

Planned Farming Is Responsible For FSA Loan Repayment

T. B. Pemberton, Farm Security Administration supervisor for Charlevoix county, states that he is often asked, "How can the FSA make loans to farmers who can't get financing from any other source and actually get the money back with interest?"

"The FSA is doing this right here in Charlevoix county," he said, "and the answer is that our farmers are doing systematic farming. Each borrower has worked out a farm and home plan that is adapted to the size and character of his farm, and to the size, ability and experience of his family.

"Nearly two million dollars have been repaid in Michigan by farmers who were once on relief or so close to it that no bank or merchant would give them credit for livestock and machinery.

"Carefully planned farming operations are responsible for this record" the supervisor said, "and many who are familiar with FSA's supervised credit to near-bankrupt farmers reason that it will do much toward restoring these low-income families to a state of permanent rehabilitation and self-support."

A recent addition to the FSA's activities among low-income farm families is the Tenant Purchase program. Although in operation for only two years, this new phase of the FSA program has enabled 58 Michigan tenants to become farm owners.

Rural rehabilitation borrowers and other farmers who have proven their capacity for farm ownership and who have acquired sufficient livestock and machinery are eligible for FSA tenant purchase loans in certain designated counties.

East Jordan School Fair To Be Held This Friday Night

Plans are being rushed to completion for the first East Jordan School Fair, Friday evening, November 3. Agricultural and Home Economics exhibits, displayed by various rooms, concessions, dancing, demonstrations, old-fashioned style show, are among the education and entertaining features offered.

Sponsored by the F. F. A. and Home Economics Clubs, the show is intended to be interesting to old as well as young visitors.

Exhibits will be set up and judged in the afternoon, with ribbons and trips offered to the boys and girls having outstanding exhibits.

Some of the unusual exhibits offered include a soil-less garden, a photographic exhibit, a demonstration on testing dairy products, and an exhibit showing the origin of hybrid corn.

Annual Meeting Credit Association

GAYLORD PRODUCTION CREDIT ASS'N MET AT GAYLORD ON OCT. 25

Leon K. Estelle of Gaylord, Michigan and Frank Sluyter of Petoskey, Mich. were elected as directors of the Gaylord Production Credit Association at its 5th annual meeting held in the Gaylord Auditorium at Gaylord on October 25, 1939.

Members came to the meeting from several counties, one member having traveled 75 miles to attend. There were 169 in attendance.

The business report showed that the association now has 773 stockholders whose outstanding loans amount to $184,990.29.

Reserves of the association, built up out of earnings in its 5 years of operation now amount to $14,961.00, the report of the sec'y - treasurer showed. Losses through bad debts and otherwise were shown to be but a fraction of one per cent of the volume loaned. Repayments during the last year totaled $187,000.00.

In addition to the local directors and officers who participated in the program, Leon Tolverson, Ass't to the Secretary of the Production Credit Corporation of St. Paul conducted a quiz contest with eight members of the association participating and answered questions from the audience regarding the association.

There were talks by David Murray, Secretary-Treasurer of the Traverse City Production Credit Association, James Harris, President of the Traverse City association, D. D. Tibbits, a member, and Clare Taylor, Sec'y of the National Farm Loan Ass'n of Alpena, Mich.

Extension Project Leaders To Have Second Lesson On Tuesday, Nov. 7th

The second lesson in the Home Management Project will be given in the basement of the Boyne City Library on Tuesday, November 7th, beginning promptly at ten o'clock and continuing until four o'clock. Miss Helen Noyes will present the lesson on Modern Laundry Methods. Thirteen different groups are organized to carry on the program. Comments received at the office indicate clearly that the ladies appreciate this help and are receiving suggestions that can be put in practice. It still is not too late for new groups to organize and complete the course of four lessons. We have room for two or three more groups so talk about this to your friends and, if a group can be organized, get in touch with your county agent at once.

Central Lake State Bank Has Released A Five Per Cent Dividend

Charlevoix County Herald East Jordan, Michigan.

Your readers in this vicinity will be interested in knowing that a dividend of 5 per cent will be released to all claimants of the First State Bank of Central Lake on October 31, 1939. This makes a total of 70 per cent distributed to creditors during the receivership. Checks will be available at the office of W. L. Jones, Receiver, East Jordan, Michigan.

Yours very truly
W. L. Jones, Receiver.

"My dear," said the loving wife, "the doctor says I must have a change of climate."
"Well, cheer up," replied her fond spouse, "Spring will soon be here."

Building Committees Are Named

PLANS ARE UNDER WAY FOR A NEW CIVIC STRUCTURE

At a meeting held at the City Hall Tuesday evening, two committees were chosen to get plans under way for the proposed new community building which, if present plans materialize, will be erected on the site where the Russell Hotel now stands.

The first committee named is a committee of ten people who will consider all suggestions and decide what facilities the new building will contain. Following is the committee:

Dr. B. J. Beuker, Chairman, Clarence Healey, Percy Penfold, Geo. Secord, Mrs. John Porter, Robert Campbell, E. E. Wade, Barney Milstein, Mrs. Ole Hegerberg, Earl Clark.

The second committee is the ways and means committee which will have charge of deciding the best way of financing the erecting of the structure. They are Clarence Healey, Chairman; Dr. Geo. Bechtold, Fr. Joseph Malinowski, Howard Porter and Atty E. K. Reuling.

Among facilities already being considered for the building is a gym with seating capacity to handle tournament crowds. It would also be available for conventions and banquets, with a fully equipped kitchen in connection. Meeting rooms for various organizations such as the boy and girl scouts, bowling alleys, and a recreation room for the youth such as was sponsored by the Rotary Club and Chamber of Commerce last winter.

The proposed project is one which deserves the whole-hearted support of every individual in East Jordan. It is a building which East Jordan has needed for many years. It can be the means of putting us back on the map as a convention city, thus bringing added revenue in to the community. However, to us who live here, the greatest concern will be it will mean a place where our children of today and tomorrow can go and find clean, wholesome recreation, and even though it will cost something, what better way can be spent our money if the aforesaid be accomplished. Our children of today will be our citizens of tomorrow.

Remember! This is YOUR building. Your suggestions will be welcomed by the committee. Simply hand them to Dr. Beuker, Chairman of the Committee, or Geo. Secord, Sec'y of the Chamber of Commerce.

MARRIAGE

Martinek — Scott

Joseph Martinek and Miss Lillian Scott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Scott, were married at the Presbyterian Manse the afternoon of October 29, Rev. C. W. Sidebotham officiating. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. McKinley Strander, of Boyne City.

Outstanding Pictures At The Temple

Happy nights are in the offing for the legion of Temple patrons for the new schedule for the coming week is packed with Hollywood's latest hits. The opening bill, on Saturday, is uproarious comedy, "Stop, Look and Love," with Eddie Collins, Joan Rogers, William Frawley and little Cora Sue Collins all making perfect scores. On Sunday and Monday, Alice Faye and Don Ameche supported by Buster Keaton and Stuart Erwin tell Hollywood's own story, "Hollywood Cavalcade," in a blaze of spectacular glory in the new perfected Technicolor. Family Nites on Tuesday and Wednesday feature rapid fire Lee Tracy with Barbara Read in tense and fast paced, "The Spellbinder." Thursday and Friday will be nights to remember with Richard Greene and Nancy Kelly giving throbbing life to, "Here I Am, A Stranger." Which is, we think, the most entertainment crammed in one paragraph.

With buying almost completed for the coming season the Temple announces a few of the special productions soon to be screened; "Drums Along The Mohawk," "The Cat and Canary," "Disputed Passage," "Gulliver's Travels," "Another Thin Man," "Gone With The Wind," "Bad Little Angel," "A Call on the President," "Ninotchka," "Northwest Passage," "Earl of Chicago," "Broadway Melody of 1940," "Judge Hardy and Son," "The Farmer's Daughter," "Gay Days of Victor Herbert," and a host of others now being planned for filming.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS BY JOSEPH W. LaBINE

Belligerents Fight for Favor Of European Neutral States; 'Flint' Incident Still Simmers

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

THE WAR IN BRIEF

Unorthodox warfare continued on the western front, original positions being assumed after Nazis forced the French to relinquish early gains. Though 1,500,000 German troops were massed at the Siegfried line, any offensive must come immediately or not until next spring. Three solid days of rainfall left trenches half filled with water and stranded the highly touted mechanized artillery. Then came snow and sleet.

Diplomatic activity continued at top speed, far overshadowing the actual war. Turkey's new pact with Britain to guarantee the eastern Mediterranean was the source of all efforts, which resolved into a frantic scurrying among belligerents to line up neutrals. At Danzig, German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop furnished diversion by lashing at British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain for "breaking promises." He also tried to drive a wedge between the allies by wooing France. Two days later Chamberlain replied just as scornfully. In the Balkans, Britain "encour-

MARINE: 'Flint' Saga

German seizure of the 5,000-ton U. S. S. City of Flint bid fair to affect world commerce far more than all the 100-odd vessels which bombs and torpedoes have sent to the bottom since November 1. Carrying contraband to Britain, the Flint was seized by Germany in mid-Atlantic, taken first to Norway and then to Murmansk, Russia, where her American crew was reported safe. But the Soviet indicated Germany would get the ship, thereby relieving Joseph Stalin of bickering with the U. S. Most observers agreed the Reich was justified in seizing

THE REICH BREAKS LOOSE
Nazi raiders have broken Britain's North sea blockade to raid Atlantic shipping, and Britain cannot hunt them down without weakening her home defenses. Evidence of raiding: British liner Stonegate picked up torpedo victims at (1), was then torpedoed herself (2), probably by the Deutschland, which proceeded north to capture the U. S. S. City of Flint (3) and sail her to Tromsø, Norway, (4) where Stonegate passengers were dumped; City of Flint was then taken to Murmansk, Russia (5). In the heavily protected North sea (6) a convoyed Greek steamer was sunk, while three British vessels went down 80 miles off Gibraltar (7). A French sub reported driving five Nazi raiders to an African port (8).

the Flint, but few expected his next bold move. Berlin ordered a prize court hearing to determine whether the boat, crew or cargo should be freed.

Britain began crowing prematurely about her "speedy" inspection of neutral vessels by contrast with German blundering. U. S. skippers thereupon complained to Washington that Britain's contraband control was actually pretty bad, often taking 18 days to clear a boat. Re-aged Turkish formation of a neutral bloc, using what some observers called poor strategy by apparently neglecting to consult Italy.

While the Reich wooed Rumania, Turkey and Hungary by threats, Britain was more subtle. Under consideration at London were trade pacts to assure the neutrality of Sweden, Netherlands, Finland, Latvia, Turkey and Russia. To soothe the latter nation, Chamberlain agreed that Dictator Josef Stalin's invasion of Poland had been necessary for protection against German aggression.

Russia continued negotiations with Finland, but their nature remained mysterious. Finnish Foreign Minister Eljas Erkkö called "just as unfounded as all others" the latest report that Russia had demanded concessions in the Gulf of Finland, a friendship policy between the Kremlin and Finland, and destruction of all fortifications in the strategic Aaland islands. Some observers believed Russian demands on Finland were increased to offset the Soviet's diplomatic defeat in Turkey. But it remained unlikely that Russia would invade Finland.

There was a strong hint of her position in another Flint aftermath. At Moscow, British Ambassador Sir William Seeds was given a note rejecting Soviet recognition of Britain's war contraband list because it violates international law and impairs neutral rights. Incredible as such effrontery, a London spokesman blurted: "Fantastic!"

CONGRESS: Victory, Then What?

If an isolationist filibuster was really delaying action on the neutrality bill, the City of Flint incident (See MARINE) was enough to end it. Next day the senate agreed to allow each speaker 45 minutes for the bill and an extra 45 minutes for each amendment. Lashed by acid-tongued John Nance Garner, who rebuked the senate for being a "horse-and-buggy outfit," battling solons called a truce to approve amendments (1) banning 90-day credits to either belligerent nations or their residents and (2) lifting shipping restrictions against American boats in the Pacific (except armament), Bermuda, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Tasmanian sea and Capetown. Rejected was an amendment to make President Roosevelt sole judge of the necessity for invoking neutrality. There was good chance another amendment would pass: To forbid any belligerent ship from flying the U. S. flag as defense against a foe.

PEOPLE: Dies-Coup

At Washington, Texas' Red-baiting Rep. Martin Dies achieved publicity with his list of 563 U. S. employees who are on a "membership list" of the pinkish American League for Peace and Democracy. In the house an argument brewed over the suggestion by Washington's Rep. John Coffee that Dies' un-Americanism committee be disowned for insinuating that all 563 federal employees were Communists.

Expected to Examine Facts And Then Propose a Remedy

The "house committee" is headed by Rep. Howard Smith, a Virginia Democrat, who long has been noted for fairness. As far as his record goes, I believe it can be said that Mr. Smith has seldom been "anti" or "pro" on any question without first having facts. With him on the committee are Representatives Healey of Massachusetts and Murdock of Arizona, Democrats, and Halleck of Indiana and Rutzahn of Ohio, Republicans. Mr. Healey is about the only member of the group who can be suspected of leaning violently one way or the other. Mr. Healey's record marks him as a New Dealer on nearly all occasions, sometimes without too much reason. I have heard Mr. Halleck praised for his fairness any number of times in

Another Army Officer Takes Job Outside Military Work

Colonel Fleming is the third army officer to take over a job outside of the military service, lately. First, there was Col. F. C. Harrington, who was made head of the WPA; secondly, Brigadier General Watson was made Mr. Roosevelt's secretary, and lastly, there came the appointment of Colonel Fleming. It is rather hard to forecast how an army officer is going to deal with one particular part of the job now undertaken by Colonel Fleming—application of the law to certain types of farm labor and to businesses directly connected with farming. A number of organizations, affiliated directly or indirectly, with farm operations have been engaged in a do-or-die struggle here in Washington with Mr. Andrews. I think the mere change in headship of the wage and hour division is not likely to quiet those people, because the increase in wages that became effective October 24 represents the difference between profit and loss in most instances. Probably, the seers who invented the idea of federal control of wages and hours never milked a cow after dark or husked corn on a frosty morning. These conditions were not of the making of Colonel Fleming, but his is the task of attempting to reconcile an inflexible law with conditions that vary in every county in the United States. If he can succeed, some political party ought to nominate him as its presidential candidate next year.

Time for Showdown in Labor Situation Is Not Far Distant

Serious Reaction Follows Attitude of NLRB; Public Also Resentful of Conditions Caused by Union Leaders; Inquiry May Bare Startling Facts.

By WILLIAM BRUCKART
WNU Service, National Press Bldg., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON.—There is every indication that the labor situation in this country—government policies, labor union policies, employer attitude—is fast approaching a new tangle. A reaction has set in on the part of the public to certain phases of the Roosevelt administration's earlier (but not necessarily the current) policies. Likewise, labor union leadership has produced certain "conditions that are not finding public support, and there are still some employers who continue to make fools of themselves by following Eighteenth century methods.

I have suggested in these columns previously that the national labor relations board was riding for a fall. It was riding too high. There was bound to be a serious reaction. The board's arrogance, unfairness, overbearing attitude, its general contempt for anyone disagreeing with its conclusions were elements certain to lead to an eventual showdown. The time of that showdown seems not far distant. It is likely that the board and its staff ofism-controlled theorists will pay a heavy price for failure to use common sense and adopt a judicial viewpoint.

The same type of mentality as that which jeopardizes the principles of the national labor relations act also has caused a blowup in the wages and hours division of the labor department—the division which administers the year-old law limiting hours of work and prescribing minimum wages. Administrator Elmer F. Andrews was the goat, and he had to resign. No one probably ever will know whether it was foolhardiness on the part of Mr. Andrews or the treachery of his subordinates that brought about the explosion. But explode, it did; and as a result, Col. Phillip Fleming is in the job of wage and hour administrator without benefit of senate confirmation of his appointment, although the senate is in session.

Lewis and Green Warfare Shows No Signs of Let-Up

No cessation of the warfare between John L. Lewis' C. I. O. and William Green's A. F. of L. is foreseen. The Lewis faction of organized labor continues to do a lot of things that do not fit into the picture of Americanism, despite a strong denial by Mr. Lewis that communists are in key positions. Mr. Green's organization is building up a magnificent record of fighting within itself. One craft is pitted against another, here, there and everywhere, with the result that people generally are getting pretty tired of having to wait to get work done because carpenters and bricklayers, for example, both go on strike over the question of which one shall do particular work.

The unhappy labor board has few defenders, any more. For a long time, the board, its attorneys and investigators were commonly regarded as an adjunct of the Lewis labor union. Surely, there was ground for such belief by the admissions that came from time to time, coupled with consistent and concerted attacks by leaders of the A. F. of L. Whenever it was necessary to make a choice between Lewis followers and Green supporters, it was an odds-on bet that the Lewis group's contention would be sustained.

All of this was followed ultimately by an attack from the C. I. O. on the functions of the board. That happened at the annual C. I. O. convention and came from Mr. Lewis. No one seems to know the real reason.

And, now, the labor board is confronted with an investigation by a special committee of the house of representatives. It is by far the most serious effort to bring to light the processes that the board has used, the influences that have been active within its personnel or that have operated upon its personnel. If one may judge in advance of any congressional inquiry, the current inquiry is likely to produce reasonable conclusions.

Expected to Examine Facts And Then Propose a Remedy

The "house committee" is headed by Rep. Howard Smith, a Virginia Democrat, who long has been noted for fairness. As far as his record goes, I believe it can be said that Mr. Smith has seldom been "anti" or "pro" on any question without first having facts. With him on the committee are Representatives Healey of Massachusetts and Murdock of Arizona, Democrats, and Halleck of Indiana and Rutzahn of Ohio, Republicans. Mr. Healey is about the only member of the group who can be suspected of leaning violently one way or the other. Mr. Healey's record marks him as a New Dealer on nearly all occasions, sometimes without too much reason. I have heard Mr. Halleck praised for his fairness any number of times in house debate, and the commendation has come as much from Democrats as from the Republicans.

So, there is every indication that the investigation will be of the type that examines the facts and then proposes a remedy. Much evidence has been gathered, and will serve as the basis for further inquiry. Some of it is reported to be of a sensational character, but it is not Mr. Smith's idea that the committee is operating solely to make newspaper headlines.

Among other things, the house committee has sent out questionnaires to hundreds of employers, hundreds of labor leaders of both factions of unionism, and local officials, such as police chiefs and others charged with law enforcement. The purposes of the questions are rather obvious. With the statements from all of these sources, the committee believes it can sift out much chaff from rumors, complaints, counter charges and propaganda. Further, the committee wants to ascertain whether there is evidence that the board, itself, had any connection with labor disturbances and, if so, which of its personnel was involved.

May Uncover Facts That Will Startle Legislators

Copies of records in nearly all of the board's hearings are being examined by the committee staff. Board decisions have been under fire many, many times. It seems to have been the rule, rather than an exception, that the board was willing always to listen to C. I. O. attorneys and almost never pay attention to alleged facts which employers or others tried to submit. From this source, alone, there is every reason to believe the committee will uncover enough abuse of power to stun the legislators who fought for passage of a law which the administration described as perfect. In any event, if the principle of the labor relations act is to survive and become a workable part of governmental interference in relations between worker and employer, it seems that the Smith committee must produce the proper basis.

Concerning the wages-and-hours bureaucracy, however, there is less optimism that a sound solution can be found. Colonel Fleming is taking over the job with feeling among all types of partisans at fever heat. That is a handicap. Mr. Andrews went in with wishes of good luck, but he had to administer and enforce a law that was loosely drawn, a principle untried. As in the case of labor board personnel, either through his own mistakes or because nutty individuals were forced upon him, Mr. Andrews immediately was surrounded by a sour group of subordinates. It seemed almost that if a wrong way to solve the problem was available, the wage and hour division folks would find it.

As far as I can ascertain, Colonel Fleming has had only the minimum of experience in dealing with such principles and problems as now face him. His status is rather indefinite, because the law requires that the appointment of a wages and hours administrator shall be confirmed by the senate, as a policy making official. But Mr. Roosevelt had asked congress to consider only the so-called neutrality legislation at the extra session, and hence he did not submit Colonel Fleming's name.

Another Army Officer Takes Job Outside Military Work

Colonel Fleming is the third army officer to take over a job outside of the military service, lately. First, there was Col. F. C. Harrington, who was made head of the WPA; secondly, Brigadier General Watson was made Mr. Roosevelt's secretary, and lastly, there came the appointment of Colonel Fleming. It is rather hard to forecast how an army officer is going to deal with one particular part of the job now undertaken by Colonel Fleming—application of the law to certain types of farm labor and to businesses directly connected with farming. A number of organizations, affiliated directly or indirectly, with farm operations have been engaged in a do-or-die struggle here in Washington with Mr. Andrews. I think the mere change in headship of the wage and hour division is not likely to quiet those people, because the increase in wages that became effective October 24 represents the difference between profit and loss in most instances. Probably, the seers who invented the idea of federal control of wages and hours never milked a cow after dark or husked corn on a frosty morning. These conditions were not of the making of Colonel Fleming, but his is the task of attempting to reconcile an inflexible law with conditions that vary in every county in the United States. If he can succeed, some political party ought to nominate him as its presidential candidate next year.

SATURDAY NIGHT MEAT PIE

See Recipes Below.

Hurry-Up Meals

What a feeling of satisfaction it creates to be able to confront the family with an attractive and substantial meal, even after a long afternoon of shopping or of bridge. It takes a bit of planning to accomplish that!

A selection of "Hurry-Up Meals," planned to economize on time, without sacrificing quality, is the answer to that problem. Choose foods which can be prepared for cooking several hours in advance. A casserole dish requiring little cooking is a wise selection for the main dish of your meal; or, if you like, plan a broiler dinner or "grill" which can be cooked in little more time than it takes to set the table.

Appetite teasing meals, and meals that can be put together in only a few minutes' time, can be built around these popular and satisfying main dishes. In most instances all that's required to complete them is bread, a beverage, and a simple fresh fruit dessert.

Hasty Oven Baked Beans.

(Serves 6)

1 large can baked beans
¼ pound bacon
¼ cup light brown sugar
2 tablespoons tomato catsup
Pour ½ can of baked beans in greased baking casserole. Dice ¼ slices bacon and sprinkle over the beans. Add catsup, and then cover with remainder of baked beans. Sprinkle with brown sugar, and top with bacon strips. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees) for 30 minutes. Serve at once.

Hasty Noodles.

(Serves 6)

1 package noodles
8 slices bacon
2 eggs (well beaten)
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
Cook the noodles in boiling, salted water until tender. Drain, and place in a slow oven to keep warm. Pan fry the bacon until crisp, and remove from drippings; and cut into small pieces. Drain off all but two tablespoons of the bacon fat, then place the bacon and noodles in the frying pan. Add well-beaten eggs and seasoning, and cook, folding gently, over a low fire for about five minutes, or until the eggs are set. Serve very hot. A crisp salad makes an excellent accompaniment for this meal.

Corn and Mushroom Omelet.

(Serves 6)

1 No. 2 can corn
3 eggs
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon baking powder
2 tablespoons diced green pepper
1 can button mushrooms
1 tablespoon flour
2 tablespoons butter
Drain the corn. Separate eggs; add salt to egg yolks and beat until very thick. Add baking powder to egg whites and beat until stiff. Fold egg whites into the egg yolk mixture. Add corn and green pepper and mix lightly. Pour into a hot buttered frying pan and cook slowly until omelet is browned and thoroughly cooked through. Dry lightly in warm oven (300 degrees). Drain mushrooms and dredge with flour. Sauté in melted butter. Pour mushrooms over the omelet, fold, and place on hot platter. Serve immediately.

Mixed Grill.

(Serves 4)

¼ pound sliced bacon
1 pound pork sausages
5 fresh tomatoes
1 No. 2 can French lima beans
1 No. 2 can pineapple rings
Broil bacon and sausages. Hollow out tomatoes and fill with French lima beans. Top with buttered bread crumbs and bake until tomato shells are tender but will still hold their shape. Fry pineapple rings in butter. Serve as mixed grill and garnish with sprigs of parsley.

All-in-One Dinner.

(Serves 6)

6 link sausages
1 large onion (chopped fine)
2 tablespoons green pepper (minced)
½ pound ground beef
½ pound ground pork
1 No. 2 can tomatoes
1 No. 2 can kidney beans
½ cup uncooked rice
½ cup hot water
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
Brown the sausages in a heavy frying pan. Remove, and drain off all but ¼ cup of the fat. Sauté the onion and the green pepper in the fat. Then add the ground meat and cook until brown. Add remaining ingredients, cover, and cook until the rice is tender (about 35 minutes). During the last 15 minutes, reheat the sausages on top of the mixture. Serve with a green salad.

Grilled Ham Sandwiches.

Toast slices of bread and place thin slices of ham on untoasted side of bread. Cover with cheese slices and spread with prepared mustard. Top with slices of fresh tomato and grill under broiler until cheese melts. Serve with watercress and stuffed olives.

Saturday Night Meat Pie.

4 tablespoons onion (minced)
1 pound ground beef
1 can condensed tomato soup
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
Pastry for 2-crust pie
Butter (melted)
Cook the onions in a little butter until soft. Add the ground beef and cook until barely brown. Blend in the soup. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, and mix. Line pie pan with rich pastry, rolled to ½-inch thickness. Moisten the edges of the crust with cold water. Fill the pie shell with the meat mixture. Cover with the top crust, prick top, brush with melted butter, and bake in a 375 degree oven for one hour, or bake in a hot oven (450 degrees) for 15 minutes, then decrease heat to 350 degrees and bake 15 minutes longer.

What is the first thought that comes to your mind when you think of "entertaining"? Hard work? Expense? Formality? It should mean none of these! Rather, that word "entertaining" stands for friendliness, and warmth, and sociability. Eleanor Howe will tell you next week how to make entertaining easy. Corner Shields Are Big Help in Cleaning Rooms

Hard-to-clean corners can be conquered for the housewife through installation of supple metal shields which, when pushed into the angle will eliminate the business of keeping corners free of dirt and dust. Especially suitable for the corners of shelves, the shields can be painted over to escape notice. No nails or screws are necessary for installation, as the shields contain metal teeth which clamp to the surface and secure it firmly.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—In more than four decades, Louis M. Eisshemius made 5,000 paintings and drawings and never made a cent out of them. Now, three big galleries give exhibitions of his work. One gallery is reported to have sold $150,000 worth of his paintings. All his canvases are in demand at high prices.

'All Vanity' Cries Painter as Gold Garlands Arrive
Now, three big galleries give exhibitions of his work. One gallery is reported to have sold $150,000 worth of his paintings. All his canvases are in demand at high prices.

But Mr. Eisshemius, an irascible little man with a ragged beard and a testy way of speaking, is bedridden in his gloomy, gaslit old house in East Fifty-seventh street, and he asks, "What's the good of the whole damn thing?" He's 75 years old. He warned the world many times that it was going hell-for-leather down the skids, and now he thinks it's on the last stretch of the greased chute, and nothing else matters—not even money and fame.

The late Ralph Blakelock lost his mind after years of failure to stir critical or popular interest in his work. He was hailed as a great painter, and his pictures were bought by great galleries when he no longer knew or cared about money or recognition. There is an interesting parallel between his career and that of Mr. Eisshemius, although the latter is still bright and smart as a chipmunk.

But he won't even look out of his narrow bedroom window. He wants no outlook on a world turning itself into a madhouse. Pictures on the floor, covered with dust and cobwebs, may be worth a fortune, pictures of moods, dreams and memories, but that doesn't interest him. He had renounced the "pomp and vanities of this wicked world" long before it beat a path to his door.

The parallel between Blakelock and Eisshemius is also marked by the amazing diversity of their talents. Blakelock, the son of a physician, was trained in medicine, gifted in music and almost made a career of the piano and musical composition. Eisshemius has composed a small library of songs, operas and etudes and used to give piano concerts in his youth. He painted feverishly for 46 years, quitting in 1922 when none would buy his pictures and no galleries hang them. But, in his varied abilities, he far outshone Blakelock. Here are a few of his achievements.

When he was a student at Cornell university, he discovered a new species of ichneumon fly. Later he announced a new law governing the "ramification of trees."

He wrote somewhat more than 50 volumes of plays, novels, novelettes, essays and verse. The verse, byronic in tone, was written in English, French, German, Italian and Spanish. He published them himself and, like his pictures, they gathered only cobwebs and dust.

He invented a new kind of "magic" indelible ink and several studio devices for artists.

He explored various diseases and offered methods of therapy.

He was born in Laurel Hill, N. J., near Newark, the son of a wealthy glove manufacturer. He attended Cornell two years and was a roommate of Robert W. Chambers in Paris when they were studying art under Bougereau.

His is a blue-book family of Dutch antecedents, and his name is there inscribed, but that interests him no more than the hanging of his pictures in the Metropolitan, the Luxembourg and the Whitney galleries.

IN HIS book, "Dynamite," Louis Adamic says the Los Angeles Times explosion of 1910 forever ended militancy in the American labor movement. In that year Samuel Gompers and Frank Morrison were sentenced to prison terms on charges growing out of the Buck stove case. This was lost in the shuffle, with the dynamiting excitement. The terms were never served. Thereafter neither Gompers nor Morrison was militant. Currently, Mr. Morrison, the highly esteemed secretary-treasurer and A. F. of L. retiree from office, after 43 years in that post. He will be 80 years old next month.

A native of Frankton, Ont., he is a doctor of laws of Lake Forest university. He entered law practice, but turned to the printing trade and became a member of the Typographical union in 1873. He is a member of the executive council of the Churches of Christ in America. (Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

Antarctic 'Snow Cruiser' Goes for Trial Spin

Thousands of persons gathered in Chicago's Grant park recently to view the "snow cruiser," a huge glacial dreadnaught built for Admiral Richard E. Byrd's expedition to the Antarctic. In an experimental trip the huge ice buggy traveled 15 miles per hour on its 10-foot wheels. Fifty-five feet long, the gigantic machine is built to carry an airplane on its top. Steering levers control the wheels in pairs, although any one wheel may be turned separately. Two 150-horsepower Diesel motors supply power for the cruiser.

May Head England's 'Rightful' German Government

Should Great Britain set up a "rightful" German government (similar to the Polish government now seated in Paris) as is rumored internationally, these three men would undoubtedly head it. They are: Dr. Rudolf Bretschneider, left, former social democrat, who would be foreign minister; Dr. Hermann Rauschning, center, one-time Nazi president of the Danzig senate, who would be chancellor, and Dr. Joseph Wirth, right, former German chancellor, who would be finance minister. The three men are all exiles from Germany. The rumor adds that Britain would loan the "government" 2,000,000 pounds sterling to defray expenses.

Volunteer

Former British and American champion golfer, Pam Barton, now does all her driving from behind the wheel of an ambulance. With thousands of British women, Pam volunteered for ambulance service and is now in training.

Flees Exile

Fears that Ham Amin El Hussein, former grand mufti of Jerusalem who recently escaped from exile, may start a new anti-British terrorist campaign were expressed by government officials. The mufti, now in Iraq, is held responsible for the Arabs' campaign of terrorism.

Aerial Musketeers Don Fighting Togs

Bound for an observation flight over enemy territory, these three British musketeers of the air head for their bombing plane. Equipment includes oxygen masks, telephone apparatus, parachutes and machine guns. In addition to the gunners, the plane carries a pilot, co-pilot and photographer.

Convicted Pastor Fights for Life

Rev. Walter Dworecki, Camden, N. J., preacher, sentenced to die in the electric chair, is getting another chance to prove his innocence. The pastor will appeal his sentence, given him when he was found guilty of plotting the murder of his daughter, Wanda, who was slain by a stranger who testified Dworecki hired him to commit the crime. He is shown receiving a final embrace from his daughter, Mildred. The appeal automatically postponed the execution date, originally scheduled for the week of November 12.

HOW TO SEW

by Ruth Wyeth Spears

"STURDY and masculine." Also, "Red trimmings, please." That was the order for the bedspread in the combination work-and-play room of a 10-year-old lad. Blue and tan predominated in the room. The clever mother made curtains for the rather large square window; using lunch cloths in these colors—one cloth making a pair of curtains. Blue denim with red gingham bands is suggested for the spread. The diagram may be used as a guide for cutting and making a spread of any 36-inch material for a bed of any width. The amount of material needed will be three times the full width of the finished spread, plus two inches. Two seams covered by bands run straight across the width of the spread. The two lengthwise bands may be close together or far apart according to the width of the bed. The corners at the foot are cut out as shown. The edges are then pressed to the right side and bands stitched over them.

NOTE: Readers who are now using Sewing Books No. 1, 2 and 3 will be happy to learn that No. 4 is ready for mailing; as well as the 10 cent editions of No. 1, 2 and 3. Safety A Challenge To Every Citizen

"The present Safety Campaign in Michigan is a challenge to every citizen," says Harry F. Kelly, Secretary of State, in an official letter prepared for distribution through his department to citizens making inquiries relative to the issuance of new license plates for 1940.

Oscar G. Olander, Commissioner of Michigan State Police, and his entire organization, as well as every sheriff's department in the state, are co-operating with the Department of State's motor vehicle division to make effective the new traffic rules, and their proper enforcement.

Lives can be saved and tragedies averted if every driver lives up to the new rules presented in the State Department's new booklet, "What Every Driver Must Know," this booklet is a digest of the more important rules of the road. This booklet is free for the asking.

All employees of the Department of State have pledged themselves to help carry this program of Safety Education to the people they contact in their daily work.

At a recent meeting in Flint, division heads of the Department of State explained fully their respective duties so that employees of other divisions might be better informed as to the work of the entire department.

Garden Gossip
Edited by Caroline Harrington

Letters and questions on garden topics will be welcome. They will be published and discussed in this column.

Would you like to have hyacinths, tulips and other bulbs blooming in the house this winter? As you know, Mr. Earl Clark has splendid success in forcing bulbs for winter blooming, and has condensed her experience into directions so simple that anyone may follow her example. Perhaps you are one of those who heard Mrs. Clark give these directions at last Garden Club meeting. If not, here's how!

Plant the bulbs (hyacinth, tulip, narcissus) in ordinary soil in well drained pots with the top of the bulb near the surface. In a spot where drainage is good dig a trench for the pots, just deep enough to hold them. Pack the soil in around the pots, and cover the place with about an inch of soil and a litter of leaves held down by brush. Do not cover with anything that will prevent moisture from getting at the bulbs. In about six or eight weeks, take up the pots and bring them in the house. Keep them in a dark, warm place, and when the root system is well established (by the end of ten days the roots should fill the pot and poke out through the drainage hole) bring them into the light. Keep them at a temperature of not less than 70 degrees. Water them frequently and when the buds appear give them all available sunlight. Forget to say that the bulbs must be kept moist while they are in the dark. Sounds easy, and it is, says Mrs. Clark, only all of the directions must be followed carefully. There is still time to start your bulbs while you can dig a trench, so get busy before the ground freezes.

FROM THE DIARY OF A PLAIN COUNTRY WOMAN

Sunday, Oct. 23: Harry's family left for home, taking Grandpa with them. After dinner Dad and I to Matthews for strawberry shortcake (everbearing). In the evening we all listened to a fireside chat by the President.

Oct. 24: A lovely day at last after all the bad weather we have been having. Dad brought home half of the "hawg" which Harry W. Raised for us on shares, and we cut it up tonight and are all ready to can it tomorrow. Spent an hour or two straightening dresser drawers and tidying the attic. Grandma mended all day. Sister sick and stayed home from school.

Oct. 25th: Letter from Grandpa. Arrived home safely but delayed by tire trouble. Today we canned pork, made sausage and canned it, too, made lard. It snowed during the night and off and on all day, but finally rained, and Dad plans to go duck shooting in a. m.

Oct. 26th: Duck for supper tonight. Auntie made fried cakes this morning. We found the plants frozen in the porch boxes this a. m. Fixed grapes for grape juice. The afternoon was lovely and Auntie, Grandma and I went for a walk.

Oct. 27th: Snowed some today. Temperature tonight 28 degrees. Squirrels now come to be fed at the feeding shelf grandpa made for them. Dad brought the other half of the "hawg" home. Brother ground the sausage and auntie fried it. With everyone working we got all the meat in the jars, and are we glad!

Oct. 28th: The leaves are all off the trees, but it is not cold. Went for a ride in a new car which Dad says he is going to buy. Children to football game and later to a Halowe'en party at the school.

The raising of gourds is only half of it! Or maybe not even half. Planting the seeds and reaping a harvest of queerly shaped, streaked and colored vegetables is fun, but what you do with the gourds afterwards is more fun. Their very shapes suggest all kinds of uses, and their durability makes it worth while to decorate them. Their hard surface lends itself to treatment that preserves them, too. No wonder that gourd culture has developed into the extensive industry so entertainingly described by Mrs. Palmister at our last Garden Club meeting.

I predict that there will be many a gourd patch in East Jordan next summer. A ten cent packet of mixed seeds will produce from a half bushel to a bushel of gourds. Maybe more if conditions are right.

How Much Does Advertising Really Cost?

- Not long ago, we heard a house-to-house salesman tell a prospect: "I can sell you this gadget 25 per cent cheaper because my firm doesn't advertise."
- Many of you no doubt would believe such a statement, but how many of you realize how little advertising really costs? As a customer every day in your life, you are entitled to know.
- Automobiles are extensively advertised. But despite the hundreds of colored advertisements in large magazines, despite the huge newspaper advertisements you see frequently, only 3 1/2 per cent of the selling price of a car goes for advertising. This is about $17 on a $500 machine. — Yet before advertising made large-scale selling possible, you paid $1,000 for a car not so good.
- Coffee, canned foods, soft drinks, and so forth, have large advertising budgets. Yet only 5 1/2 per cent of the selling cost, or 1/2 cent on a 10 cent can is used for promotional advertising.
- The average retail store spends from 1 per cent to 4 per cent on advertising. That costs you from 1 cent to 4 cents on a dollar purchase.
- Think it over! Isn't it worth your while to pay this much for the knowledge that advertising gives you? And isn't it worth knowing that the low prices on extensively advertised products are made possible only through the volume production that this advertising brings?

It Pays To Advertise and It Pays To Read The Advertisements Regularly.

ANTRIM GIRL WINS STATE 4-H CONTEST

Janet Dunson, of Bellaire, has just received word of her being chosen as the state winner of the Girls 4-H Record contest, according to Walter G. Kirkpatrick, county agr'l agent.

The Girls 4-H Record contest is a National 4-H contest sponsored by Montgomery Ward & Co. of Chicago. Janet will receive a trip to Chicago to the National 4-H Club Congress, December 2 to 8 with all expenses paid. She will also compete for scholarships totaling $1,000, being offered by the company.

Miss Dunson is seventeen years of age, a farm girl, and has been in club work since she was ten years of age. During these seven years she has carried a total of twenty-five projects including one year of handicraft, 4 years of garden, 6 years of clothing, 6 years of canning, 2 years of conservation, 2 years of crops, and 4 years of food preparation. She has led the food preparation club for four years and participated in two demonstrations. She was a member of the club which won the state award in the National Social Progress contest last year.

Her record has been one of outstanding achievement in club work with the value of projects running into many hundreds of dollars.

Judge Smith of Alpena To Speak To P-T. A.

The Parent-Teachers Association is proud to announce that Judge Smith of Alpena will speak at the November meeting. Judge Smith has been the leader in helping Alpena solve its juvenile problems. The P-T. A. wishes to urge all parents in the community to attend this meeting. The exact date will be announced next week.

The National Educational Ass'n, with the co-operation of the American Legion, the United States office of Education, and the National Congress of Parents and Teachers is sponsoring American Education Week, Nov. 5 to 11. The theme for 1939 is "Education for the American Way of Life," is a vital one. The purpose of American Education Week is to make the link between the community and the school a stronger one. The East Jordan P-T. A. wishes the parents would help with this purpose by visiting school during the week, Nov. 5 to 11.

The Pan Education Institute will be held in Ann Arbor Nov. 7 to 11. There has been an interesting and helpful program arranged. It would be most beneficial for anyone going to Ann Arbor to attend some of the meetings.

HORSES CAUSE FIRE

Elkton — When a strawstack on the John Kolar farm caught fire, it attracted the attention of a team of horses pulling a wagonload of cornstalks. They rushed to the flaming strawstack, where the cornstalks caught fire, then ran through the barn, setting fire to the building. The blaze spread to every building on the farm, except the house, for a total damage of $4,000.

Elmer J. Hanna Speaks To Local Rotary Club

East Jordan Rotary Club's membership list was boosted another notch at their regular weekly meeting, held at the Jordan Inn, Tuesday, Oct. 31. The new member is James Gidley. This brings the total membership to 28. Elmer J. Hanna, Division Head, Dept. of State, representing Harry F. Kelly, Secretary of State, was the guest speaker. Mr. Hanna is publisher of the Emmet County Graphic at

ELMER J. HANNA

Harbor Springs, and was invited to speak here by Rotarian Paul Lisk, who had charge of this meeting.

Mr. Hanna spoke on the various phases of his work in this division, which covers a wide range of subjects relative to motor vehicles and gas tax. Of interest to many local people is the fact, that in case your certificate of title becomes too deep in liens, mortgages, etc., for you to figure out, Mr. Hanna will straighten it out for you without the long waiting period if it was sent to Lansing. Among other subjects brought up were gas tax evasions, the right of pedestrians on the road, and many kindred subjects. Mr. Hanna was enthusiastically received by the Rotarians and many questions were asked of him, which were a puzzle to many.

BRADLEY HITS AT FOREIGN SUGAR: OPPOSES RENEWAL OF DRASTIC U. S. QUOTAS

Says Americans Should Get First Chance at Home Market, Under Tariff Protection

Washington, D. C.—Hailing removal of the sugar quotas as a boon both to consumers and to producers, Congressman Fred Bradley, of Michigan, revealed today that he will fight any attempt to restore drastic restrictions on American producers in order to give large quotas to Cuba and other foreign countries. At the same time, Congressman Bradley said he would oppose the move to reduce the duty on Cuban sugar. "An adequate tariff on Cuban sugar is more than ever necessary now that the quotas are off," he declared, "and I will fight the movement to reduce this tariff."

Congressman Bradley said that in any new sugar bill he will fight to provide vastly enlarged production for producers in Continental United States and its Territories. "I believe that American producers should have first chance at the domestic sugar market, under ample tariff protection," he declared.

"The recent price-shortage scare demonstrated that this is necessary from the standpoint of consumers as well as producers, and demonstrates the fallacy of placing American consumers at the mercy of foreign producers," he declared. "That we should have a shortage scare at the same time we are drastically curtailing American production in order to aid foreign countries, shows that we cannot depend on the foreign supply, and demonstrates the fallacy of the whole program." Senators and Congressmen from other sugar-producing areas, and spokesmen for Puerto Rico have joined in the drive for larger domestic production and against lowering of the Cuban duty. The Cuban duty was cut to 90 cents from $1.50 per hundred pounds under the quota system, but automatically went back to $1.50 when the quotas were lifted. "With the quotas off, I believe American producers need this additional protection, and I intend to do all I can to see that the tariff is not cut," Congressman Bradley said, commenting on reported negotiations looking toward restoration of the lower duty. With market quotas off and with farmers under the American flag receiving benefit payments, this direct method of placing a portion of the tariff revenue in the pockets of our own producers is a sure way of stimulating the domestic industry to the point of insuring more adequate supplies, Congressman Bradley pointed out.

What's in a Name?

IN CHINA, the more distinguished a man is, the shorter is his title. One might wonder how Mr. Burionagonator-ecagageazococha (it's his real surname, believe it or not) would rate in that far-off land. But then Mr. Burionagonator-ecagageazococha, etc., is not a Chinaman, but a Spaniard of Madrid. Wonder what he was called for short at school.

Mr. Konstantinow Georgin Kallochristianakis, a Greek immigrant of Spokane, Wash., found the burden unbearable, so he recently obtained permission to change his name to Gus Elf. Well, that lightens the load considerably.

THE STORY THUS FAR

Young, pretty Jane Barnes, who lived with her brother, Baldwin, in Sherwood Park, near Washington, was not particularly impressed when she read that rich, attractive Edith Towne had been left at the altar by Delafield Simms, wealthy New Yorker. However, she still mused over it when she met Evans Follette, a young neighbor, whom the war had left completely discouraged and despondent. Evans had always loved Jane. That morning Baldwin Barnes, on his way to work in Washington, offered assistance to a tall, lovely girl in distress. Later he found a bag she had left in the car, containing a diamond ring on which was inscribed "Del to Edith—Forever." He knew then that his passenger had been Edith Towne. Already he was half in love with her. That night he discussed the matter with Jane, and they called her uncle, worldly, sophisticated Frederick Towne. He visited them at their home, delighted with Jane's simplicity. He told them Edith's story. Because her uncle destroyed it, Edith Towne had accepted Delafield Simms, whom she liked but did not love. She disappeared immediately after the wedding was to have taken place. The next day Jane received a basket of fruit from Towne, and a note asking if he might call again. Mrs. Follette, widowed mother of Evans, was a woman of indomitable courage. Impoverished, she nevertheless managed to keep Evans and herself in comparative comfort by running a dairy farm. Evans, mentally depressed and disillusioned, had little self-reliance and looked to his mother and Jane for guidance. Edith Towne phones Baldy in answer to an ad. She asks him to bring her pocketbook. Jane calls on Frederick Towne in his elaborate office. He gives Lucy, his stenographer, a letter to Delafield Simms, in which he severely criticizes him. Unknown to him, Lucy and Simms are in love with each other. Towne takes Jane home in his limousine. She introduces him to Evans, who is jealous of Towne. Baldy goes to meet Edith Towne at her hiding place. He convinces her that she should return home and face her friends. She is interested in Baldy. Later they eat in a restaurant, where Edith sees several friends. She knows they will see to it that the news is spread. When Towne asks Jane to dine with him Evans realizes that he must do something to rehabilitate himself.

The Towne car was waiting, and Mrs. Follette in a flurry welcomed them. "I don't see why you didn't ride over with him." "He hadn't come, and we preferred to walk." "What was the matter with you, Evans?" "Nothing much, Mother. I'm sorry you were fussed." He gave her no further explanation. Jane put on her slippers and went off in the great car. And then Evans said, "I'm going over to Hallam's."

"Aren't you well, my dear?" "I want to talk to him." He saw her anxious look, and bent and kissed her. "Don't worry, Mumsie, I'm all right."

Dr. Hallam's old estate adjoined the Follette farm. The doctor was a nerve specialist, and went every morning to Washington, coming back at night to the quiet of his charming home. He was unmarried and was looked after by men-servants. He had been much interested in Evans' case, and had in fact had charge of it.

The doctor was by the library fire, smoking a cigar and reading a brown book. He welcomed Evans heartily. "I was wondering when you would turn up again." He showed the title of his book, "Boswell. There was a man. As great as the man he wrote about, and we are just beginning to find it out." "Rare edition?" Evans sat down. "Yes. Got it at Lowdermilk's yesterday."

"We've oodles of old books on our shelves. Ought to sell them, I suppose."

"I wouldn't sell one of mine." Hallam was emphatic. "I'd rather murder a baby."

Evans flamed suddenly. "I'd sell mine, if I could get the things I want."

"I don't want anything as much as I want my books."

"I do. I want life as I used to live it."

The doctor sat up and looked at him. "You mean before the war?" "Yes."

"Good."

"I'm tired of being half a man. If there's any way out of it, I want you to tell me."

The doctor's eyes were bright with interest. He knew the first symptoms of recovery in such cases. The neurasthenic quality of Evans' trouble had robbed him of initiative. His waking-up was a promising sign.

"The thing to do, of course, is to get to work. Why don't you open an office?"

"A fat chance I'd have of getting clients."

"I think they'd come."

The doctor smoked for a time in silence, then he said, "Decide on something hard to do, and do it. Do it if you feel you are going to die in the attempt."

There was something inspiring to Evans in the idea. Hard things. That was it. He poured out the story of the past few days. The awful scene with Rusty. Tonight in the fog under the pines. "Wanted more than anything to drop myself in the river."

He was walking the floor, back and forth, limping to one edge of the rug, then limping to the other. Then Jane came. Little Jane Barnes. You know her, and she told me—where to get off—said I was—captain of my soul—He stopped in front of the doctor, and smiled whimsically. "Are any of us captives of our souls, doctor?"

"I'll be darned if I know." The doctor was intensely serious. "Will-power has a lot to do with things. The trouble is when your will won't work."

"Mine seems to be working on one cylinder." Again Evans was pacing the rug. "But that idea of an office appeals to me. It will take a bit of money, though. And it is rather a problem to know where to get it."

"Sell some of the old books. I'll buy them."

Light leaped into Evans' eyes. "It would be one way, wouldn't it?"

Mother would rather hate it. But what's a library against a life?" He seemed to fling the question to a listening universe.

The doctor laughed. "She'll be sensible if you put it up to her. And you must frivel a bit. Play around with the girls."

"I don't want any girls except Jane."

"Little Jane Barnes. Well, she'll do."

"I'll say she will."

The doctor, watching him as he walked back and forth, said, "The thing to do is to map out a normal day. Make it pretty close to the program you followed before the war. You haven't happened to keep a diary, have you?"

"Yes. It's a clumsy record. Mother started me when I was a kid."

"That's what we want. Read it every night, and do some of the things the next day that you did then. You will find you can stick closer than you think. And it will give you a working plan."

And he was interested.

Evans sat down and discussed the idea. It was late when he rose to leave.

"It will be slow," was Hallam's final admonition, "but I believe you can do it. And when things go wrong, just honk and I'll lend you some gas," his big laugh boomed out, as they stood in the door together. "Nasty night."

"I have a lantern." Evans picked it up from the porch.

When Evans reached home his mother called from upstairs, "I thought you were never coming."

"Hallam and I had a lot to talk about."

He came running up, and entering her room found her propped up on her pillows.

"Mother," said Evans, and stood looking down at her, "Hallam wants me to sell some of the old books and use the money to open an office."

"What kind of office?"

"Law. In town."

"But are you well enough, Evans?"

"He says that I am. He says that I must think that I am well, Mother."

"But—"

"Dearest, don't spoil it with doubts. It's my life, Mother."

There was a look on his face which she had not seen since his return. Uplifted, eager. A light in his eyes, like the light which had shone in the eyes of a boy.

She found it difficult to speak. "My dear, the books are yours. Do as you think best."

He leaned over and kissed her, lifting her a bit. There was energy as well as affection in the quick caress. She drew herself away laughing, breathless. "How strong you are."

"Am I? Well, I think I am. And I am going to conquer the world, Mumsie."

His exaltation lasted during the reading of the diary. It was a fat little book, and the pages were written close in his fine firm script. He found things between the leaves—a four-leaved clover Jane had sent him when he made the football team. A rose, colorless and dry. Florence Preston had given it to him.

He dropped the rose in the wastebasket. How could he ever have thought of Florence? Love wasn't a thing of blue eyes and pale gold hair. It was a thing of fire and flame and fighting.

Fighting! That was it. With your back to the wall—and winning!

For some day he meant to win Jane. Did she think she could be in the world and not be his? And if she loved strength she should have it. He bent his head in his hands—his hands clasped tensely. There was a prayer in his heart. His whole being ached with the agony of his effort.

"Oh, God, let me fight and win. Bring me back to the full measure of a man."

Again he opened the book. Bits of printed verse dropped out of it. Jane had sent him this: "One who never turned his back; but marched breast-forward."

He opened the book and read of Jane, and of himself as he had once been. He skipped the record of his college days, except where he found such reference as this: "Little Jane is growing up.—She met me at the station and held out her hand to me. I used always to kiss her, but this time I didn't dare. She was different somehow, but some day I'll kiss her."

And this: "Jane is rather a darling. But I am beginning to believe that I like 'em fair." That was when he had a terrible crush on Florence Preston, whose coloring was blue and gold. But it hadn't lasted, and he had come back to Jane with a sense of refreshment.

He found at last the pages given over to those first days after he had been admitted to the Washington bar, and had hung out his shingle.

"Sat at my desk all the morning. Great bluff. One client received with great effect of busy-ness. Had lunch with a lot of fellows—pancakes and sausages—ate an armful. Tea with three debutantes at the Shoreham—peaches. Dance at the Oakleys' in Georgetown. Corking time. One deadly moment when the butler took my overcoat. Poor people ought not to dance where there are butlers."

Autumn came: "Jane and I went today to gather fox grapes. Mother is making jelly and so is Jane. The vines were a great talking. Shut in among them we seemed a thousand miles away from the world. Jane made herself a wreath of grape leaves, and looked like a nymph of the woods. I told her so and she gazed at me with those great gray eyes of hers and said, 'Evans, when the gods were young they must have lived like this—with grapes for their food, and the birds to sing for them, and the little wild things of the wood for company. It would be heavenly, wouldn't it?' She's a queer kid. Life with her wouldn't be humdrum. She's so intensely herself."

"We talked a bit about the war. I told her I should go if France needed me. I am not going to wait until this country gets into it. We owe a debt to France . . ."

He stopped there, and closed the book. He did not care to read farther. Oh, his debt to France had been paid. And after that day with Jane among the tangled vines things had moved faster—and faster.

He didn't want to think of it . . .

CHAPTER VIII

The evening wrap which Jane wore with her old white chiffon was of a bright Madonna blue with a black fur collar. Jane, as has been said, loved clear color; and when she dyed dingy things she brought them forth lovely to the eye and tremendously picturesque.

Frederick's house was a place where polished floors seemed to dissolve in pools of golden light, where a grand staircase led up to balconies, where the ceilings were almost incredibly high, the vistas almost incredibly remote. Frederick, coming towards her through those pools of golden light—blonde, big and smiling, brought a swift memory of another blonde and heroic figure, not in evening clothes—but in silver armor—"Nun sei bedankt, mein lieber Schwan," Lohengrin! That was it.

"A fat Lohengrin," she amended, maliciously.

Unaware of this devastating estimate, Frederick welcomed her with the air of a Cophetua. He was unconscious of his attitude of condescension. He was much attracted, but he knew, of course, that his interest in her would be a great thing for the little girl.

And he was interested. A queer thing had happened to him—a thing which clashed with all his theories, broke down the logic of his previous arguments. He had fallen in love with little Jane Barnes, at first sight if you please—like a crude boy. And he wanted her for his wife.

It was an almost unbelievable situation. There had been so many women he might have married. Lovelier women than Jane, wittier, more distinguished, richer—of more assured social standing. He could have had the pick of them, yet not one of them had he wanted. Here was little Jane Barnes, bobbed hair, boyish, slender, quaint in her cheap clothes, and he could see no one else at the head of his table, no one else by his side in the big car, no one else to share the glamorous days of honeymoon, and the life which was to follow.

And so when young Baldwin had telephoned of Edith's plans, there had leaped into Towne's mind the realization of his opportunity. He would see Jane among his household gods. And he would see her alone. He had sent Briggs in time to have her there before the others arrived.

And now Fate had played further into his hands. "I've had another message from Edith," he told her; "we'll have to eat dinner without them. The fog caught them south of Alexandria, and they went into a ditch. They will eat at the nearest hotel while the car is being fixed up."

"Baldy's car always breaks at psychological moments," said Jane. "If it hadn't broken down on the bridge, he wouldn't have found your niece."

"And I wouldn't have known you"—he was smiling at her. "Who would ever have believed that so much hung on so little."

And now Waldron, the butler, announced dinner—and Jane entering the dining-room felt dwarfed by the gargantuan tables, the high-backed ecclesiastical chairs, the tall silver candlesticks with their orange candles.

"Your color," Towne told her. "You see I remembered your knitting."

"I'm crazy about brilliant wools," said Jane; "some day I am going to open a shop and sell them."

But he knew that she would not open a shop. "You were like some lovely bird—an oriole, perhaps, with your orange and black."

Strange Facts

Bath Trains
Wound Cash
Mouth Prints

As most of the private houses in the towns of Transylvania have no baths, the Rumanian government now runs "bath trains" through this section. Equipped with tubs, hot water, soap and towels, they offer free bathing facilities.

The Chinese army awards a cash bonus, instead of stripes, to its soldiers when they are injured, privates getting $10, officers $40 and generals $100 for every wound.

Positive identification of horses has been found practicable through photographs or gutta-percha molds of the roofs of their mouths, which are as distinctive and individual as human fingerprints.—Collier's.

Doc's Note Came Easy To Chemist—With Cash

An invitation to dinner had been sent to the new doctor. In reply the hostess received an absolutely illegible letter.

"I must know if he accepts or declines," she declared. "If I were you," suggested her husband, "I should take it to the druggist. They can always read doctors' letters."

The druggist looked at the sheet of notepaper which she had handed him, and without waiting for her explanation went into his dispensary and returned a few minutes later with a bottle which he handed over the counter. "There you are, madam," he said. "That will be $1.50, please."

Correct Constipation Before—Not After!

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of emergency relief. Why let yourself suffer those dull lifeless days because of constipation, why bring on the need for emergency medicines, when there may be a far better way? That way is to KEEP regular by getting at the cause of the trouble.

If it's common constipation, due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, a pleasant, nutritious, ready-to-eat cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran—goes straight to the cause by supplying the "bulk" you need.

Eat this crunchy toasted cereal every day—with milk or cream, or baked into muffins—drink plenty of water, and see if you don't forget all about constipation. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

Hackney Is Descendant of the Norfolk Trotter

Prior to the end of the Eighteenth century the use of wheeled vehicles was not general. Says Johnstone in writing of the origin of hackneys: "Roads were few and bad. Therefore people relied mostly on horseback and walking for transportation. At this time (about 1800) there was in the eastern part of England a breed of saddle horse called the Norfolk trotter. The hackney of today is a descendant of this strain. The Norfolk trotter had fast gaits and good endurance, yet from his conformation this conclusion would not be drawn. His head is too coarse, neck short and thick, and he has no height."

The hackneys of today have these same qualities, with the exception of much nicer heads, writes Capt. Maxwell Corpening in the Chicago Tribune. Originally they were saddle horses, but now are used mostly for driving—principally in shows. Great stress is placed upon their manner of going. Much time is devoted by trainers to achieving an exaggerated high foot action. Their success in achieving this is remarkable considering the breed's heavy forehand and relatively thick, chubbiness. Because of this up-and-down motion the hackney is not fast as compared with our standard-bred roadsters.

The process of refining the breed came into prominence with the advent of better roads and the introduction of wheeled vehicles. So long as he was used for saddle purposes coarseness was tolerated. With the development of snappy little vehicles, smooth roads, and the exaggerated hackney way of going, fashionable folk began to take notice. Hackney classes with feminine drivers became social events. In seeking to maintain the pace American sportsmen began importing these cocky little performers, until now no horse show is complete without them.

The common reference to "road hack" in designating a saddle class is a derivation of hackney. Likewise the term hack in describing a vehicle.

Whitewash Coal for Queen

Victoria, Queen of England from 1837 to 1901, was unaware of many ceremonial gestures made in her honor, one of which, says Collier's Weekly, was the whitewashing of the coal for the engine of her private train "to make it fit for royal use."

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become clogged and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or the frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

DOLLAR MAKERS One Method Of Advancing Is to Retreat

By GEORGE T. EAGER

TONS of rock and dirt must be excavated before a diamond is found. It is just as unusual to find among thousands of salesmen that rarity among those who sell—the man who believes in the selling power of understatement.

A coffee salesman startled the retail grocers of a large city by beginning his sales talk with the statement, "This is the second best brand of coffee on the market." Grocers naturally asked, "Who makes the best brand of coffee?" to which the salesman would reply, "Each of my many competitors makes the best brand and they all will tell you so." Admitting having the second best brand evidently placed him in a position where he was without competition and his sales results proved it.

A large baking company has successfully marketed a brand of bread in markets long held by established competitors. The new bread was well advertised in local newspapers. But under instructions from a president who knew the power of under-selling, salesmen sold each grocer one or two loaves less than the store's normal demand. Grocers were soon telling late afternoon customers, "I'm sorry, we are all sold out of that bread." It was not very long before storekeepers as well as customers unconsciously thought of it as the fastest selling brand and therefore the best bread. Grocers unconsciously recommended it to customers and customers soon began demanding it of grocers and its success was assured.

UP-TO-DATE 'REVOLUTION'

THERE could be no more convincing way for the historian of the future to point out the high standards of living prevailing in this country than to contrast today's demands of those who want to overthrow our institutions with the demands of the revolutionists of other eras in the world's history. The French masses cried for bread and failing to get it brought on the French revolution. But when a present day advocate of revolution in this country recently made a speech he said: "Why should the citizens—at least 80 per cent of them—be imprisoned behind the cruel bars of want when within their grasp there are plenty of shoes, of clothes, of motor cars, of refrigerators to which they are entitled?"

From this point of view it is the salesmen who sell modern conveniences who are our most important national asset for the prevention of revolutions. We have 7 per cent of the world's population and starting with a wilderness have created and own today more than half of the world's wealth. Intelligent salesmanship and mass production have distributed this wealth so widely that stringent immigration laws are required.

The new industries created and developed in this country in the past 50 years now give employment to 10,000,000 men and women. Each new industry, whether it be automobiles, radio or rayon represents a new idea that has had to be first sold to the American people. It is significant that in this same period foreign countries, that have not developed their newspapers and publications as advertising vehicles for the dissemination of new ideas about things to buy, have not developed a single great new industry. If the United States has reached the point when revolutionists must cry for motor cars and refrigerators to get attention, it would seem that we are well on our way to prosperity.

Chemist Devises Method

For Hunting Submarines
VINEYARD HAVEN, MASS.—A chemical process by which the course and position of submarines could be checked is being considered by the war department, according to Dr. Max Trumper, Philadelphia bio-chemist.

He said that certain gases discharged by a submarine when it rises to the surface to obtain fresh supplies of oxygen and recharge its batteries mingle with the water. A surface ship, by dropping certain chemicals which cause the water to change color on mixing with the gases could check the submarine's position.

Make Everything of Chic Wool: Hats, Bags, Evening Clothes

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

DAYTIME suits, dresses and coats made of handsome wool fabric are taken for granted, but hats, handbags, gloves and even footwear fashioned of intriguing wool materials is real news. Shoes with plaid wool spat tops is the school girl's pride this season.

Then there is this matter of evening clothes, the swank idea is to make the long evening coat of handsome wool. Young girls adore the floor-length coats tailored of bright red tweed or duvetyne, quite unfurled but fastening with jewel or military brass buttons. Coats and capes of handsome tweed in rich blackberry tones make appeal to the more mature.

A dinner gown of a luxurious wool is considered "tops." See the stunning dinner costume to the left in the picture. It is fashioned of red wool in that the vogue for red is outstanding this season. The dress has an enormously full skirt with front shirrings, slit pockets and a gold kid belt. The short snug jacket has unusual buttons of clusters of gold colored beads with chain attachment. A two-strand gold bead necklace, gold earrings and bracelets are smart jewel accessories.

The sophisticated young woman to the right in the group is obviously very wool-conscious in that her swank jacket, blouse and skirt, her hat and her handbag are made of high-style wool weaves. Her stylish hat is of fine wool jersey. It has the very new full draped snood. The over-arm bag has a strap and trimming of wool felt applied with tiny multicolored wool discs. Novelties of wool such as ensemble in this costume, made of gay wools are everywhere present in the style parade.

One of America's foremost milliners designed the dinner hat shown in the inset below to the right of sheer wool. It is sprinkled with sequins and boasts of a snood (most hats have either snoods or bustle backs) made of soft feathers.

The stunning dress which you see centered in the picture is styled of a sheer wool in the now-so-fashionable grape color. It has the very new and important bustle effect. Rows of shirring make the detail at the neckline. A huge velvet ribbon bow animates her tiny felt pill-box chapeau.

New textures, many of which are sheer and dainty as chiffon, make wool an all-year-round fabric that tunes to occasion perfectly. Then, too, the fascinating color range provided in modern wools has a lot to do with wool's popularity. New "old" fabrics like melton, duvetyne, broadcloth, flannel, serge, wool bengaline and ottoman vie with really new weaves in sheer wools. Even tweeds are much lighter in weight than they used to be.

Among new finds in the wool fabric realm, one of the most appealing types is that of printed wools, some of them done in hand-blocked gorgeous florals, others in conventional sports motifs. Metal-touched wools answer the call for fabric elegance also. These are effective for handsome evening jackets. Jackets of pastel wool, either sequin embroidered or needle-worked with yarn or chenille, are worn with flaring skirts of crepe or velvet.

Town Coat

Your black town coat, if trimmed with brown fur, will credit you as among the best dressed. The type pictured has a detachable fur plastron with softly flaring revers of the brown fur. It goes without saying that with this smart black-with-brown coat there must be a plentiful gleaming of gold jewelry. In this instance milady responds to the call by wearing effective two-tone gold hoop earrings and pin together with a striking wide gold link bracelet. Hat and bag are suede.

Flair for Fringe Is Style Message

Again a revival of fringe is foreseen. Very new evening dresses are enhanced with rows of fringe detailing sleeves and neckline. Also smart shops are showing both blouses and jackets that make fringe their theme.

Long fringed tassel ends finish off the streamer ends of the girdles. With evening fringe-covered jackets tiny muffs also fringe-covered will be carried.

Simple Styles in Shoes Is Favored

Now that designers of shoes have turned their thoughts in the direction of simplicity in styling and are working out the idea of lower heels, there is prospect of wearied women enjoying style plus comfort in the new footwear. The outlook is also for some very intriguing shoe fashions that make the approach to low heels in strikingly clever ways.

RIGHTEOUSNESS IN THE KINGDOM

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 5:17-20, 38-45;
6:1-4.
GOLDEN TEXT—Be ye therefore perfect, even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect.—Matthew 5:48.

"Righteousness in the kingdom," the title of our lesson, properly relates its teaching to the kingdom of the Messiah which is to come on the earth, and to the condition which shall then prevail. At the same time we agree with Dr. James M. Gray that "it would be wrong to press this too far and to say that the Sermon on the Mount has no application whatever to the Christian church or the time in which we live, for God is the same through all dispensations and the underlying principles of His government never change."

Certainly it is true that if all of the men and all of the nations of the earth were on this Armistice Sunday true followers of Christ and ready to carry out the teachings of this lesson, there would no longer be any possibility of war. This means that the best peace propaganda is the sending of missionaries and teachers to all the earth to win men to Christ.

Our lesson should be studied and taught with great care lest we confuse morality with Christianity and make it appear that men are justified before God by their good works rather than by their faith in Christ.

I. Christ Fulfills the Law (5:17-20).

The law of God is eternal, never to be abrogated, never set aside. Christ Himself, although we might properly say that He was in reality the Law-giver and thus had power and authority over the law, indicated His purpose in coming to be that of giving the law its full meaning, not of destroying it. One could wish that those who profess to be His servants might have the same measure of regard for God's law. If they did, they obviously, would not be so ready to ignore it, so quick to change it or explain it away, and far more ready to accept with their Master every "not and tittle" that is, even the minutest detail of His Word.

Recognizing Christ as the fulfillment of the law should prepare one to manifest obedience to every moral precept through His grace and by His strength. Certainly it should not lead anyone to lawlessness or carelessness regarding details of the daily walk. Fellowship with the Saviour should be revealed in consistent living (v. 20).

II. Christ Explains the Law (5:38-45).

Look at verses 21 to 37. The spirit of murder is anger (vv. 21, 22). A lustful look is adultery (vv. 27-30), and it is better to be blind than to be guilty of it. Divorce is linked very plainly with adultery (vv. 31, 32). Swearing is forbidden (vv. 33-37). Thus Christ strips outward conformity to the law of its apparent virtue and reveals that with God it is the spirit that gives meaning to the act.

He goes on to make plain that God alone is wise enough to take vengeance, that we ought never to retaliate with evil for evil. Note that verse 39 probably refers to an insult rather than to physical violence; that in verse 40 it is a question of a difference of opinion in which the other man feels that he has a legal right to your coat; and that here, as in verses 41 and 42, it is not a matter of letting a wicked or scheming person defraud you of your rights or property, but rather of doing what is required of you in an ungrudging spirit and of being generous with others who are in need. In Christ we are to be like our heavenly Father and love our enemies (vv. 43-45).

III. Christ Illustrates the Law (6:1-4).

Possibly it would be more appropriate for us to say that Christ here illustrates the right and the wrong way of fulfilling the law. How very clear He makes it that the one who, while ostensibly doing the will of God, actually is seeking the recognition and glory of men has received his full reward, for men have applauded his act of generosity. The transaction is complete and God has nothing to do with it at all. On the other hand, the one who gives in the spirit of Christ, not wanting men to know of his faithful stewardship (v. 4), and in fact making no reckoning of it himself (v. 3), may be certain that he has a heavenly Father who takes careful account of the loving deeds of His children—and who will reward him, both in this world and in the world to come.

Memories of Happy Days

Why is it that the memory of some days in the past, unmarked by any striking event, always come to us like the breath of spring? It may be that on those days, in reward for some forgotten act, God drew us close to Him, and that we absorbed something of His eternal peace and happiness.

HOUSEHOLD QUESTIONS

Fitting Candles.—A candle may be made to fit any candlestick if dipped for a moment into very hot water. This will soften the wax and it can then be easily pushed in.

Care of Lamp Shades.—Silk and parchment lamp shades should be dusted frequently with a soft brush or the vacuum cleaner.

When Baking Apple Pies.—To prevent the juice in apple pies from boiling over during baking, mix the apples and sugar and let them stand covered for five minutes, then drain off the juice from the apple slices.

Improving Veal Roast.—Veal roasts are improved by rubbing them with powdered ginger, black pepper and onion salt before cooking.

Cleaning the Coffee Pot.—To keep a coffee pot sweet and clean, put a tablespoon of bicarbonate of soda into it, fill it nearly full of water and let it boil for a little while. Then rinse very thoroughly with warm water several times. This should be done once a week.

Shoes That Pinch.—If a patent shoe pinches any part of the foot, a rag well soaked in boiling water should be placed over the part. If this is done while the foot is in the shoe, the leather will soften to the shape of the foot.

Lengthening Short Blankets.—If blankets have become too short by shrinkage or mending they can be lengthened by sewing at one end a strip of muslin 12 to 18 inches wide. This extra-length will tuck in under the mattress at the foot and leave the woolen part on top of the bed.

Blending Fruit Juices.—Grapefruit juice blends well with pineapple and raspberries. This combination is good served as a cocktail or partially frozen for dessert.

How To Relieve Bronchitis

Bronchitis, acute or chronic, is an inflammatory condition of the mucous membranes lining the bronchial tubes. Creomulsion goes right to the seat of the trouble to loosen germ laden phlegm, increase secretion and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. Tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding that you are to like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

Michigan Music Project
Open To WPA Workers

The Michigan Music Project is now in a position to render state-wide coverage, it was announced by Karl Wecker, State Director of the project, recently.

According to Wecker, any musician, whether player, singer, leader, teacher, musicologist or other classification, is eligible for a position provided he is on the relief rolls and certified to WPA, or if he is working on another WPA project and desires to transfer to the music project. Applicants desiring information may address the Michigan State-wide Music Project, 551 Houseman Bldg., Grand Rapids.

Annual Meeting of The County Red Cross

The annual County meeting of the American Red Cross will be held in the assembly room of the Boyne City Library, Wednesday, Nov. 8th, at 7:30 p. m. Everyone invited.

Bladder Irritation
Wake You Up?

It's not normal. It may be nature's warning of sluggish kidneys. Make this 4-day test. Your 25c back if not pleased. Kidneys need occasional flushing as well as bowels. Excess acids and other waste can cause irritation resulting in getting up nights, burning or scanty flow. Ask any druggist for BUKETS (25c). Locally at Gidley & Mac, Druggists.

Down-State Institute For School Lunchroom Managers-Planned

A one-day Institute for School Lunchroom Managers will be held in the Home Economics Division of Michigan State College, East Lansing, on Saturday, November 11, at 10:00 a. m.

Since this Institute is intended primarily for untrained lunchroom managers, it will be an excellent opportunity for many women who are now managing school lunchrooms or preparing lunches for school children to secure practical and scientific help on food preparation, equipment (both new and improvised), recipes and menus. Authorities in the fields of nutrition and food handling will discuss the relation of the school lunch to the health of the school child. The program will include a demonstration, talks, luncheon at the college, and trips to institution kitchens on the campus in the afternoon.

4-H Hot Lunch Club Leaders, WPA school lunch workers, and others who manage larger lunchrooms are all invited to attend. If necessary, the local Parent-Teacher Association, Child Study Group, Grange, or Health Committee might help to defray the expense of the trips. The Institute itself is free, but there will be a charge of fifty cents for the luncheon at the college.

Reservations for the Institute should reach Mrs. Mabelle Ehlers, Union Bldg., Michigan State College, East Lansing, not later than November 10. This Institute, which is the first of its kind in Michigan, is part of a nation-wide campaign for good school lunches.

Missionary Services At The L. D. S. Church

The Missionary meetings at the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ, of Latter Day Saints are being very well attended and much enjoyed. They will continue until Nov. 12, and everyone is urged to attend as often as possible for they will find something very worthwhile is presented every evening. Some of the topics to be discussed are: The Angels Message, The Kingdom of God, The Book of Mormon, Who Has Authority, How Shall I Enter The Kingdom?, Excuses.

The meetings begin at 7:30 each evening with song service at 7:15. Everyone is invited out to hear these young men.
