Smelt Jamboree Is In Rediness

FIRST CLASS CELEBRATION IN STORE AT EAST JORDAN

East Jordan's annual National Smelt Jamboree is ready to take the limelight, one week from Saturday, March 30th.

While Osmerus Mordax has not yet felt the inclination to ascend the Jordan, he knows he cannot hold off much longer and he is making his plans — plans for a bigger and better run and Jamboree.

We have just received a wire from our good and gracious King Robert the First of Greenville, Ohio. He has assured us, in his kindly way, the smelt will run — run as they have never ran before — and a King of Smeltium, like all true fishermen, never tells a lie.

The Jamboree will get under way with the annual wildlife banquet for men and women in the High School gym, Friday evening, March 29th.

King Robert will be on hand and several of the ex-kings expect to be present also. Ed, Dreier, Hugh Gray, and several newsmen and photographers have also written, saying they will be here. There will be the colored motion pictures of Michigan again.

The Jamboree will feature all the main highlights. The Coronation of the National King of Smeltium, the Newwaygo Nunt spitting contest, the fireworks signaling "The Charge of the Night Brigade" and the Smelter's Ball at the Temple Roof. A new novelty will be invoked this year. Screens will be put over all the store windows and a roller pin throwing contest for the women is being held. There will also be the usual pie eating contest and other sports for the kids in the afternoon. Gayle Saxton is in charge of that division.

Newwaygo Nunt is again expected to be here in person to conduct his famous contest for the world's sweepstakes trophy.

So remember, next week is Jamboree Week, when we hold the celebration which has become known as Michigan's Fun Frolic.

"The Short and Ugly Word"

To the Electors of The First Ward City of East Jordan:

In my candidacy for reelection as Alderman, certain statements have been attributed to me relative to certain of our citizens. I wish to brand these as absolutely untrue and without any foundation. As Theodore Roosevelt said — "This Canard is deserving of the short and ugly word."

THOMAS BUSSLER.

CARD OF THANKS

It is impossible for us to convey in words to our many friends and neighbors in East Jordan our heartfelt appreciation for the countless expressions of sympathy and beautiful flowers and the kindnesses extended to all making the trip from Grand Rapids.

Mrs. Roscoe G. Mackey.
Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Mackey.
Mr. and Mrs. Sibley C. TenHoor.
Mrs. E. E. Richards.
Mrs. F. H. Crowell.

County Red Cross To Make Garments For War Refugees

Garment making for European war refugees will be started soon by the Charlevoix County Chapter of the American Red Cross, according to Wallace C. Donnelly, field representative from the Red Cross midwestern area office in St. Louis here last week to confer with chapter officials on plans for the production program and other chapter activities.

Mrs. Robert Sloan, Charlevoix, chairman of the chapter's volunteer special services, will have charge of the project, Donnelly said. Arrangements are being made for a workroom he added.

"Production will include making of men's sweaters, women's and children's dresses. The Chapter will be one among hundreds throughout the United States now engaged in this project in response to urgent requests from belligerent nations for such assistance among war refugees."

Volunteers for the project are asked to notify Mrs. Sloan as soon as possible; the Red Cross representative emphasized. "Further plans for conducting the production program will be announced later by Mrs. Sloan."

UNION GOOD FRIDAY SERVICE

For many years the stores of East Jordan have closed on Good Friday afternoon from 1:30 to 4:00 o'clock and people have attended the Union Service in large numbers.

This year the service is in the Presbyterian Church from 2:00 to 3:30 o'clock, and all the resident pastors of East Jordan will assist in the service.

OLD MASTERS REFLECT THE EASTER STORY

Probably the richest field of all art is the portrayal of scenes of Holy Week, the most carefully detailed period in the life of Christ. Two full pages in the Pictorial Rotogravure Section of Sunday's Detroit News tell this beautiful story as revealed by paintings of the greatest artist of all time! Be sure to see and save these pages, Sunday in The Detroit News.

CLARENCE HEALEY
Mayor of the City of East Jordan.

Canners Hit 1000 Point Mark

HAND NORTHPORT SECOND DEFEAT 63 TO 46

Last Friday evening the East Jordan Cannery, who are not only good but admit it, hit the 1000 point mark for their third consecutive season, as they downed the Northport Merchants at Northport, 63 to 46. It was Northport's second defeat at the hands of the Cannery this season, having dropped a decision here in December.

When the game opened the locals had 21 points to go in order to hit the mark. Leading 19 to 7 at the close of the first quarter, there was a wild scramble as the second period opened to see who would score the "one they had been waiting for." After a minute and a quarter of all kinds of slobbering and shooting, Howard Sommerville sank number 999 and 1000. The boys then settled down to basketball again.

The Red and White exhibited their old time pep and drive and were in danger at no time during the game. They led 38 to 18 at the half.

Saturday night the Cannery meet the Detroit Strathmores here in the gym.

Roscoe Mackey Passes Away

WAS INFLUENTIAL EAST JORDAN BUSINESS MAN FOR MANY YEARS

The people of the vicinity of East Jordan are glad that the body in and through which the spirit of Roscoe Mackey lived is being laid to rest in Sunset Cemetery. In this region he was born in Echo township November 21, 1881, and died in Grand Rapids March 16, 1940.

Here he grew to manhood, here he met and learned to love and wood Maude Bartholomew, and on October 1, 1907 he exchanged with her the sacred vows that made them man and wife. Here he established a home that was a symbol of faithful, fervent affection. Here his children were born and here he developed his talents of business insight and splendid executive ability.

He loved East Jordan and its people, and they in turn loved him. Ever since he left here for Grand Rapids (about 10 years ago) he has dreamed of returning to spend the years when his face would be toward the glow of the western sky. He would never sell nor lease his East Jordan home; it was his home of tender memories and of fond anticipations.

Roscoe Mackey entered the livery business in East Jordan in 1902 and soon was rated as a successful business man. In 1915 he identified himself with the automobile business, and again he was successful. Later on he conceived the thought of and helped to organize the Northern Finance Co. of East Jordan, with offices in several other places. Once more his business instinct had pointed the way to a wider success.

He also was interested in a chain of banks for a few years. Later on he branched out into what is now known as the Fidelity Corporation of Michigan and the Fidelity Loan Co., with headquarters at Grand Rapids, and branches in six other cities. His pall bearers were from the men associated with him in business.

He was a Mason, a member of the Shrine, and of the Cascade Country Club. He was a charter member of the East Jordan Chamber of Commerce and was influential in securing State Highway M-66 for East Jordan.

Beside his wife and two children, Robert and Mrs. Sibley TenHoor, both of Grand Rapids, he is survived by one grandchild and three sisters: Mrs. Elmer Richards of Birmingham, Michigan; Mrs. Frank Crowell, of East Jordan, and Mrs. Fred Kowalske of Melbourne, Florida.

His memory will be held in high regard as a man who played an honorable and vital part in the development of East Jordan.

There was a service in Grand Rapids at 9 o'clock Monday morning, and in the East Jordan Presbyterian Church at 3:30 in the afternoon, conducted by the pastor, Rev. C. W. Sidebotham. The large number who attended the services in both cities are an evidence of the esteem in which Roscoe Mackey was held. Interment was in Sunset Hill Cemetery.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON (Consolidated Features-WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—"Incentive compensation," frequently cited as the sparkplug of business in the latter's resistance to governmental intrusion, is narrowed down to an intra-mural engagement in George W. Hill's argument with certain stockholders of the American Tobacco company, of which he is president. He fights a resolution to reduce the profit percentage bonuses of the five top officials of the company, and says, "I cannot, with self-respect, continue in the company if a decision is made which I must regard as a repudiation of proved successful policies."

In the depression year of 1930, Mr. Hill fanned up sales to a figure which yielded him $2,263,000 for his year's work. In 1933, his was the top salary of American executives—$331,348, in addition to his bonus. He did nicely in the years between, and reminds his stockholders that, during the 14 years of his presidency, the company paid $358,660, 431 in dividends and increased its surplus. He thinks management like that needs "incentive."

If it comes to a strike, it won't be a sitdown strike. Mr. Hill never likes to sit down if he can help it. His staff discovered that when he was pioneering radio advertising with his personally supervised orchestra in which he ran rehearsals and whipped up a terrific pace. He has put a fast tap-dance tempo into his promotional work, and has fished more hot advertising slogans than probably any man in the business. Several of the most famous and durable are his. He is a rather small, good-looking man with a vivid personality, highly energized, the Daniel Boone of new sales ideas.

Mr. Hill was graduated from Williams college, joined the American Tobacco company in 1904 and became president in December, 1925, succeeding his father, the late Percival S. Hill.

THIS courier heard an argument the other day between a radio technician and an amateur sociologist. The radio man said this new modulated, or staticless radio, just now starting, would mean free air for the people—that it would provide space for all comers to say their say, that no government or wave-band monopoly could block it, and that it marked a tremendous gain for free speech. The sociologist said the innovation came at a time when the air was loaded with international snarls and whines, worse than static.

For good or ill, it is Maj. Edwin F. Armstrong, Columbia professor, who brings in the change. More than 20 years ago, back in the days of the cat's whisker and crystal sets he has been crowding the future with new radio devices. Wars are apparently propitious for his inventive spirit. In the World War, we couldn't catch German signals. He caught them, with a rig which brought along the super-heterodyne, and other fixings which led him into a 20-year legal battle with Lee de Forest. He was a hayloft radio experimenter, and has been a professor of engineering at Columbia since 1934.

This writer drives by his great steel tower on the cliffs at Alpine, N. J., on which he staked $300,000 to bring through today's frequency modulation. We never understood it, but, hung with red lights at night to warn aviators, it had a Wellisian look of the "shape of things to come."

MADELINE CARROLL, the moving picture actress, is back from Europe expressing deep concern over the fact that French soldiers behind the lines earn only 33 cents a month. At Hollywood, Miss Carroll organized a knitting brigade for distressed French civilians and soldiers, and took with her to France eight suitcases of sweaters, socks and the like which she and girls of the University of California at Los Angeles had fashioned.

She became somewhat of a Francophile when she majored in French at the University of Birmingham, England, where her father was a professor. She taught French at a girls' seminary, but took her first pay check of $20 and went to London to try for the stage. There was a stretch of tutoring and some other trying expedients before she joined a road company, at $15 a week, to her father's chagrin, but later gratification. Later she became a pet of the British moving picture public. In 1934, her first Hollywood picture was "I Was a Spy."

Congress: What Both Houses Are Doing

In house and senate, U. S. legislators busied themselves during mid-March with the following subjects:

POLITICS. Debate and a threatened filibuster delayed a senate vote on amendments to the Hatch "clean politics" act. Aim: To prohibit state employees, who are paid in whole or in part with U. S. funds, from engaging in political activity. No. 1 opponent was Sen. Sherman Minton (D., Ind.) Passed was one amendment limiting political contributions to $5,000.

CENSUS. Okayed 9 to 7 by the senate commerce committee was a resolution to strike personal income questions from the 1940 census. Secretary of Commerce Harry Hopkins ruled that income questions may be answered in sealed, unsigned letters.

CIVIL LIBERTIES. J. Edgar Hoover's G-men were accused in the senate commerce committee of "disgraceful..." using wire-tapping and voice recorders to snoop into peoples affairs. Meanwhile Sen. George Norris (Ind., Neb.) com-

EUROPE:

Peace in the North

"Finland stood alone against a huge opponent. We could not win the war alone. The inevitable end would have been the destruction of our country."

Thus spoke Foreign Minister Vaino Tanner as a peace delegation winged its way homeward from Moscow. The war was over and Finland would "soon regain her vitality." Field Marshal Baron Karl Gustav Mannerheim figured Finland had lost 15,000 men to Russia's 200,000, which was proof enough that the vanquished army was far superior, man for man. But the war had left Finland a shambles, its best men dead, some of its best land lost to the invader (see map.) Ahead lay a tough job, but the kind to which generations of Finns have become inured.

Gradually the true story leaked out. First peace overtures had come from Finland two weeks earlier, via Sweden. A major factor had been a Scandinavian defensive alliance which Finland agreed to sign with Sweden and Norway once the war was over. And as the Finns busied themselves moving refugees from ceded areas, their foreign ministry made haste to weld that alliance. "Peace... will not again be broken," promised Vaino Tanner.

(From Paris, Chicago Daily News Edgar Ansel Mower reported he knew why Finland never appealed directly for allied aid. Reason: The German minister at Helsinki informed Finland that issuance of such an appeal would bring German troops to assist the Russians.)

Reaction in the West
That Russia's victory in Finland was a defeat for France and Britain, no observer could deny. In

Reaction in the East
No sooner had Russia ended one war than she started another one. At least advices reaching Shanghai reported a resumption of hostilities on the Outer Mongolian frontier, where a truce ended the fighting last September. Since then border demarcation conversations have bogged down. Though Tokyo angrily denied new fighting, she also lodged a strong protest with Moscow against Russian airplane flights over Jap territory in the southern half of Sakhalin island.

NAMES in the news...

GOV. LEON C. PHILLIPS of Oklahoma called national guardsmen to block completion of the $20,000,000 Grand River PWA dam. Reason: He claimed the U. S. owed Oklahoma $850,000 for land, roads and bridges to be inundated by the reservoir. Result: He got a temporary injunction.

JUAN TRIPPE, president of Pan-American Airways, told a Chicago audience that PAA plans daily "local" flights from San Francisco to Hawaii, cruising 2,400 miles in nine hours.

SEN. GERALD P. NYE (R., N. D.), was divorced by his wife at Fargo, N. D. Grounds: Cruelty.

LESTER P. BARLOW, explosives engineer, told a secret senate military affairs committee session about his new explosive so "devastating" that it "utterly destroys everything within miles." Minutes of the session were burned to prevent the formula from reaching alien hands.

DEATH VALLEY SCOTTY asked the U. S. treasury if he would be penalized for digging up the ten $10,000 gold certificates he buried in the mountains back in 1909. (U. S. went off the gold standard in 1934.) If not, he promised to try and find them.

plained about FBI's "disgraceful and indefensible third term degree methods" in arresting Detroiters charged with recruiting soldiers for the Spanish loyalist army.

DEFENSE. Passed by the house was a measure authorizing $654,000,000 in the next two years for 21 warships, 22 auxiliary vessels and 1,011 fighting planes. Meanwhile, the senate weighed a resolution to probe U. S. plane sales abroad.

AGRICULTURE. Certain to pass the senate and very likely to pass the house were boosts which brought the farm appropriation to more than one billion dollars. Major boosts: $212,000,000 for parity payments. But there were growing fears that next year's congress will be left to worry about where the money is coming from. Meanwhile, its economy program shattered, congress heard Franklin Roosevelt suggest once more that new taxes may be needed.

LABOR. Of 17 amendments to the Wagner act suggested by a special house committee, at least one seemed destined to pass: Enlargement of the labor board from three to five members.

WHAT RUSSIA GETS "Finland stood alone..."

Scandinavia, where Russo-German pressure had helped bring peace, the allies had lost considerable prestige.

In the Balkans and Near East, where combined Russo-German pressure has been kept to a minimum because of the Finnish war, there sprang up overnight signs that the dictator nations had reached a working agreement. Italy, long fearful of Russian aggression in the Balkans, was reported negotiating a trade pact with Moscow under Nazi auspices. Meanwhile, Germany also worked on a Soviet-Rumanian non-aggression pact. These things left Turkey out on a limb; soon she will be forced to surrender her friendship with the allies and play ball with the Moscow-Rome-Berlin triangle.

For Germany, the biggest immediate gain was a chance to beat the British blockade. With Russia at peace, the Nazis could now expect oil, munitions and foodstuffs from Jose Stalin.

PAN AMERICA:

Blues Song

Ever since Europe went to war last autumn, U. S. business men have hoped to capture the profitable South American trade which heretofore belonged mostly to Germany and Britain. Loans and credits were arranged, American solidarity was preached and good neighborliness became the order of the day. More realistic, the U. S. department of commerce sent its experts to dig out the facts.

Six months later the experts reached a conclusion: "Until... definite action is taken on the defaulted obligations of South American countries, until... the U. S. investing public will have confidence in South American political conditions... and until... the fear of expropriation and nationalistic legislation is overcome, a large increase in our exports to and imports from South America cannot be expected."

Major difficulty was that South American imports from the U. S. far outweigh U. S. imports from the south, a situation which is robbing the little countries of their gold and silver.

AGRICULTURE:

Weather and Crops

In Texas, farmers were planting cotton. Up in the Dakotas they were limbering up for spring seeding. At Washington, the U. S. weather bureau decided the time was ripe for a report and forecast.

Points: "Because soil moisture stands at low ebb, spring wheat producing states will yield under-normal supplies this year unless heavy rains or snows fall within the next few weeks."

"Drouth also plagues the winter wheat belt from Nebraska south into Texas and from Colorado east into the Ohio valley. Although some sections had heavy midwinter precipitation, poor moisture conditions during the autumn germination months will cut even deeper into already small plantings."

"Below-normal precipitation was also recorded along the Atlantic seaboard, but it was too early to base crop forecasts on it."

"Out west, where northern California was just draining off flood waters, the bureau reported unusually heavy precipitation during the winter."

CHINA:

Thin Ice

Primary topic of Far Eastern interest right now is the Russo-Finnish peace (See EUROPE), which may turn the Soviet behemoth's attention eastward, once more. None could tell whether the Reds would reopen their dormant war against Japan in Outer Mongolia, meanwhile aiding Chinese Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, or whether they would work alone.

Either development seemed possible, an uncertainty which made inconsequential the manifesto issued at Shanghai by Japanese Puppet Wang Ching-wei. Said he: A new pro-Japanese government will be established in China almost immediately. Although he regretted that "now is not the time" to reveal his plans for readjusted Sino-Jap relations, Puppet Wang appealed for a renunciation of General Chiang.

At Tokyo, Premier Mitsumasa Yonai issued an abstract and high-sounding statement promising Japanese support of the Wang government. But abstractions from Tokyo and Shanghai only emphasized Japan's helplessness. Since Premier Yonai was vague, and since Puppet Wang could tell China nothing about his new government's plans, it was a safe guess that the entire peace structure was skating on thin ice.

POLITICS:

Third Term in England

Most Britishers are keenly interested in a third term for Franklin Roosevelt, for they feel his foreign policy works in their favor. In mid-March readers of the London Daily Mail smacked their lips over a story by the well-informed diplomatic correspondent, Wilson Broadbent. Said he:

"It is now established beyond any doubt that the report of (Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles) on his tour of European capitals will directly affect Mr. Roosevelt's decision regarding a third term... Should no peace loophole be revealed... and the war develops into a fierce European struggle, then President Roosevelt certainly will run for a third term."

Where Mr. Broadbent got his "beyond doubt" information, Americans in London could not discover. What mystified them still more but suddenly seemed more logical was the very antithesis of this conclusion, namely, that President Roosevelt would be a cinch for re-election if he succeeded in bringing peace to Europe.

Other political news: "In New Hampshire, 1940's first primary election placed a full slate of Democratic convention delegates at the disposal of Franklin Roosevelt. Republicans, who drew the biggest vote, elected an unpledged delegation as requested by Sen. H. Styles Bridges, New Hampshire's presidential hopeful."

"At Kokomo, Ind., Eleanor Roosevelt said she didn't know anything about a third term: "After being the wife of a public official for years, you learn to accept what life gives you."

Report on Labor Relations Act Is of Vital National Importance

Special Congressional Committee Recommends Reorganization of Board and Amendment Of 'Wagner Law.'

By WILLIAM BRUCKART WNU Service, National Press Bldg., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON.—The house of representatives has in its collective hands one of the most far-reaching and vital documents that has been presented to it in many years. I refer to the partial report of the investigation into the National Labor Relations act and its creature, the National Labor Relations board. The report is vital because it exposes some of the most damning evidence that has come to light since the famed senate investigation into the oil scandals and proposes means for correcting the conditions which the committee of inquiry found to be wrong.

The special committee, headed by Rep. Howard Smith, Virginia Democrat, has spent months delving into the labor board record, analyzing cases, obtaining the "other side" of board rulings, reports of coercion, intimidation, labor union racketeering and such. It has done so with the minimum flare for sensational news publicity, and it recognizes, moreover, that it has just scratched the surface. The inquiry will continue, and there is very little doubt but that the New Deal attempt to put labor in a strait jacket under domination of the C. I. O. is at long last going to be fully of record for the voters.

The committee majority vigorously assailed the labor board and the law under which the board acts for setting up an agency that serves as judge, prosecutor and jury. Separation of these functions was recommended and amendments to the law were offered for the consideration of congress.

Government Housecleaning Should Be Undertaken

That course is fine. But it affects only the National Labor Relations board. True, the committee has no jurisdiction over any other questions than those connected with the act and the board. But the point that I seek to make is that the government woods are full of such setups as the National Labor Relations board, and they are dangerous to the future of America. I hope that the congress will see fit to do something about the odd mixture of justice and personal government that is represented by the National Labor Relations act (which is sometimes called the Wagner act, after its father, Senator Wagner of New York) and the National Labor Relations board, but I hope the attempted cure will not stop there. There can, and ought to, be a thorough job of housecleaning, because no government is going to remain really the servant of the people where such agencies operate with the law in its own hands. There are few political appointees within the realm of my knowledge who could be so completely unbiased as to administer their jobs without favoritism.

The National Labor Relations board, as at present constituted, was recommended for a good firing, in the committee's report. It did this on the basis of facts that showed a strange cocktail of judicial action, conferences with board attorneys who handle prosecutions, biased statements and actions and peculiar conditions of investigation by board agents. It arrived at the only conclusion possible, namely, that the present structure for dealing with labor disputes must be likened to stomach ulcers. They continually eat away at the lining of the stomach. The board's policies strike me as likely to eat away the digestive system of American liberty if congress does not prescribe some medicine to cure the illness.

VITAL NLRB REPORT
Findings made by a special house committee on the National Labor Relations act are of great importance to the nation, according to this article by William Bruckart. He feels that adjustments in the present labor board set-up are necessary and vital to the orderly progress of the labor movement. Such changes catch the members of congress at a bad time because 1940 is an election year.

The minority of the committee, two New Dealers—Representatives Murdock of Utah and Healey of Massachusetts—were highly angered by the majority recommendations made by Chairman Smith and Representatives Halleck of Indiana and Routhahn of Ohio. The three-man majority was accused of seeking to "emasculate" the law and destroy the board. With respect to the present board, I gather that the charge against the board is true, for there are thousands of people who would be happier if Chairman J. Warren Madden and Edwin S. Smith were out of those jobs. Complaints seldom have come concerning Dr. William M. Leiserson, but the others have been targets. So, perhaps, the minority charge is correct in that one instance.

Committee Recommended Abolition of Present Board

The committee majority recommended abolition of the present board and the establishment of a structure which would make certain that violators of the law would be prosecuted without direction from the body that was to sit as judge. It did not place any inhibitions against reappointment of the present membership to the new judicial posts. I suspect the committee thought such measures were not necessary. There are many who doubt that either Mr. Madden or Mr. Smith could be confirmed by the senate again since the house committee disclosures of some of their unusual activities.

One of the other outstanding recommendations by the committee concerned freedom of speech. As the law now stands, it is nothing short of an abridgment of that freedom of speech of which our nation always has been so proud. The law prohibits an employer from talking or giving advice in any way to any of his employees wherever the question of union organization is concerned. And there, in my opinion, you have censorship, a censorship just as flagrant, just as far-reaching and just as complete as is exercised by the bloody-handed Stalin over the press of so-called free Russia! It is one of the steps that leads to other and more dangerous acts by government—that leads eventually to the point where citizens are just numbers of men and women—who make good peons or equally good cannon fodder if needed.

The committee voted for elimination of the board's division of research. Here is another cancerous sore. No one knows why the division is in existence, unless it be for purposes of subversive activity. The chief of the division is one David Saposs.

The Saposs books and other writings have been quite vigorously criticized at various times. His favorite subjects are labor and political movements, and he always treats them from the extreme left-wing radical view. Mr. Saposs contends that his writings are "objective." But apparently the committee saw no need for the division of research in such an agency.

It's a Little Embarrassing For Congressional Members

And so a congress, especially a house of representatives, has something in the nature of an unwanted baby in its lap. You see, there are 435 members of the house of representatives who soon are to confront their constituencies, again. Just a plain old-fashioned campaign. And among these are many who are really suffering. They do not know whether the factional split between the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations has left sufficient strength on either side of the dividing line to permit a bold posture.

I believe the chances are that congress will take no action on the report at this session. There are two reasons for this conclusion. First, the committee is continuing its investigation and, second, there are a great many members who want to use the Roosevelt administration's labor policies as campaign issues. If the weaknesses are corrected before the dog days begin on the hustings, that issue is gone. But strangely, the 100-per-cent New Dealers are struggling to keep anything from happening to the National Labor Relations act. This looks to be stupid politics.

Whether anything is done at this session really is of no serious consequence. The C. I. O. and John L. Lewis no longer boss congress. Some changes are certain later. I think they may come regardless of the position of the C. I. O. because William Green and the American Federation of Labor is all set up with the biased deal they have received under the Wagner act and the present board. Furthermore, there are a good many true friends of labor who can foresee that the Wagner act type of policy will damage labor's cause in the long run.

Sourdough Operates Skagway's Lone 'Street Car'

One of the most famous tourist sights in the northland is the solitary "street car" of Skagway, Alaska, owned and operated by dyed-in-the-wool sourdough, Martin Itjen. With other gold-seekers of 1898, Itjen left the United States to seek his fortune in Alaska. He remained to build a street car, the only one in Skagway. The car is built on an automobile chassis, but there its resemblance to an auto or street car ends. A dummy is pictured on the platform of the vehicle. Itjen is now visiting the United States for the first time since 1898. The sourdough conductor is familiar to thousands of tourists.

Press Club Gets Preview of Next (Maybe) President

Possibilities, near possibilities, vague possibilities and one perennial candidate for the presidency are pictured at the National Press club's first political rally in Washington, D. C. Seated, left to right: Paul McNutt, federal security administrator; Sen. Arthur Vandenberg, Michigan; Jesse Jones, federal loan administrator, and District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, New York. Standing, left to right: Robert Jackson, attorney general; Rep. Bruce Barton, New York; Sen. Burton K. Wheeler, Montana; Norman Thomas, perennial candidate of the Socialist party, and Sen. Bennett Champ Clark, Missouri.

Star Dust

STAGE SCREEN RADIO

By VIRGINIA VALE

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

DON WILSON, the plump and genial radio announcer, has turned actor with a vengeance. He led up to it gently by using his voice, but not his poundage (he tips the scales at 300) in "Buck Benny Rides Again."

You'll see him in person in "The Round-Up," in the role of "Slim," made famous by the late Macklyn Arbuckle. And who knows, he may like acting so well that he'll never want to return to announcing.

The chief difficulty so far has been finding a horse that would hold him, but he's promised to take care of that by producing one that he rides frequently—seems that, though hefty, he's an expert horseman.

Right off the griddle is the report that Professor Quiz is all set to sign a deal with one of the major movie companies for a series of shorts centering around the Professor's radio specialty of questions and answers. Perhaps he's been inspired to do it by the success of those "Information Please" shorts.

Gone are the days when a hero had to be perfect every minute that he was on the screen. In Paramount's "Road to Singapore" Bing Crosby is a shiftless sort of guy, aided and abetted in a career of idleness by Dorothy Lamour and Bob Hope. Three other matinee idols have forgotten the maxims of their copy-books, so far as new pictures are concerned. Robert Montgomery gets himself hanged in "The Earl of Chicago"; George Brent portrays a fugitive from justice in "Till We Meet Again"; and Tyrone Power, believe it or not, is a gangster in his latest.

Bing Crosby

Judy Garland is on her way up, and rapidly. This year it was quite a distinction for anyone who wasn't in the cast of "Gone With the Wind" to win one of the annual awards of the Motion Picture Academy of Arts and Sciences. Little Judy got a special one for work as "an outstanding juvenile."

Janice Logan looked so attractive in the brief costume that she wore when working in "Dr. Cyclops," the forthcoming Paramount technicolor picture, that the Art Students league voted her "The Best Undressed Woman of the Year." (That's the trick picture in which the members of the cast are reduced to one-fifth their natural size.) So now Miss Logan must be all-round champion so far as clothes are concerned. When she was a senior at swanky Sarah Lawrence college she was voted the School's Best Dressed Student.

According to Joan Bennett, one of the greatest predicaments well-dressed women fear is putting on a new outfit and then finding someone else wearing one just like it. That's what happened to her not long ago when she appeared to take part in a Bing Crosby broadcast. She was wearing a nifty new hat. She glanced around, and saw one exactly like it on the head of Sabu, the young Indian movie actor—he'd just put on his native turban.

ODDS AND ENDS . . . Douglass Montgomery will make a Star Theater appearance March 27th with Florence Reed and Helen Claire in "Double Door" . . . Basil Rathbone had to get a black cat for a scene in "Destiny"—the mangled thumb that resulted has just healed . . . Have you listened to the new Westinghouse program, "Musical Americana," recently? It's even better than it was in the beginning . . . Joel McCrea had a perfect vacation not long ago—according to his ideas; he stayed on a ranch where he worked as a cowhand, branding cattle and living in tents with the cowboys. Something new in vacations.

Simon Sleet, Age 104 Years, Passes Away At Boyne City

Simon Sleet, Negro, of Boyne City, passed away at the home of Mrs. Zacharius Morgan, on the morning of March 15th, on his 104th birthday. Born in Kentucky, March 15th, 1836, one of nine children, born in slavery.

When Simon was between 3 and 4 years old he was awakened one morning amid a certain amount of excitement to learn that there was to take place an auction sale that day. Simon was sold from his mother's arms for the amount of $500, and was taken from the other eight never again to be together. His new home was some nine miles from his former home, the new Master was very kind but the new Mistress was severe. It was here that he received his first and only whippings of his whole career in slavery. At night, because of his homesickness for his mother, he cried; was given a sheep-skin placed in front of the fireplace as his bed; was whipped because he continued to cry. This was his bed for several years. He lived with this Master until he was 22 years old; was again sold but this time was sold for $1440.-10. He remained with the new family for three years and again was sold, but owing to the unrest over the slavery situation prices had gone down somewhat and was sold this time for $1140.10. Two years later our young man was freed when Pres. Lincoln signed the Proclamation of Emancipation, he then took up arms in the Northern Army and remained on duty until the close of the war.

During his twenty-seven years in slavery he was treated with a fair degree of kindness, receiving no whippings except during his childhood from that one Mistress. His aim was always to obey, do what he was told to do, he was always strong and was willing to work.

Following the close of the war for the next fourteen years he spent in Ohio and Kentucky, then came to Michigan, settling first in Mecosta County, afterwards coming to Charlevoix County, settling in and near Boyne City. Some 35 years ago he began working for Mr. Morgan; on the passing away of Mr. Morgan, Mr. Sleet continued the management of the Morgan farm.

Four years ago in commemorating his one hundredth birthday, Mrs. Morgan held open house on that day, March 15th, 1936; his many friends took the opportunity to call on him and he shook hands on that day with 109 different people; a very large birthday cake was made in his honor; in one corner of that cake a very neat little log cabin was erected, which Mr. Sleet said was a good representation of the cabin in which he was born. On his 100th birthday he said that he had never spent one day in his life in bed because of illness, was always rugged and strong; that on his 98th birthday spent the day in hauling logs. Very few men have stood higher in the esteem of the people of Boyne City than Simon Sleet.

His funeral services were held Sunday afternoon, March 17th, 1940, from the Stackus Funeral Home, conducted by Rev. James Leitch and assisted by the Rev. Stanley Buck, pastor of the Boyne City Methodist Church. There were several relatives from Detroit and Lansing present, besides a very large number of local friends. His pall bearers were six of his white friends.

Although most creatures have a definite growth limit, others continue to increase in size as long as they live, among them being trees, fish, oysters, clams, shrimps, crabs and lobsters.

Products of the farm have more than 400 nonfood uses in industry. For example, corn is used in making adhesives, potatoes in laundry starch, soybeans in plastics, cattle grease in antifreeze mixtures, grape-seed oil in soaps, buttermilk in paints, and eggs in leather-dressing processes.

BY TALBOT MUNDY

TALBOT MUNDY—WNU SERVICE

THE STORY THUS FAR

Captain Carl Norwood has been sent from his native England to the Kadir River district in India, along with his indispensable manservant, Moses O'Leary, a valuable secret diamond mine belongs to the temple priests or to the ruler, the Maharajah of Kadir. Norwood calls on the British Residency to pay his initial respects. On his way he catches a glimpse of two women in a palace carriage, one of whom is young and beautiful. The other woman he knows to be the Maharanees of Kadir. O'Leary later tells him that the young woman is an American girl named Lynn Harding, who with her aunt, Mrs. Deborah Harding, is a guest at the palace. On a sightseeing tour Mrs. Harding springs an ankle, and sends to the palace for aid. Prince Rundhia, handsome, spoiled nephew of the rulers, comes to her rescue, and takes her back to the palace where he meets Lynn. At a banquet that night in the palace, attended by Captain Norwood, Mrs. Harding takes one of the native doctor's pills, and becomes violently ill. She is placed in bed and arrangements are made for Lynn to move out of the quarters with her aunt and stay with the Maharanees. That evening Prince Rundhia attempts to make love to Lynn. She is unwilling to listen to him, and at the crucial moment Norwood appears on the scene, much to Rundhia's disgust. O'Leary has located the secret entrance to the diamond mine which is being worked by the temple priests. He takes Norwood to the mine, where death is narrowly averted when a live cobra is thrown in Norwood's face. Later Norwood visits the Brahmin priests, one of whom slyly slips a packet of diamonds in his pocket, unknown to Norwood. They are intended as a bribe.

CHAPTER VI—Continued

The Resident was in his office, reasonably civil, but he frowned when Norwood told him about the palace supper.

"You met the Hardings, I suppose? What did you make of them?"

"Tourists. Beautiful niece. Terrible aunt. I gathered, without being told, that the aunt has money."

"Rundhia show up? Did you notice anything suggestive of the possibility of scandal?"

"I thought the niece a damned nice girl, sir. A bit romantic."

"Any conversation with the Maharajah?"

"Yes. I was alone with him until midnight. He showed me all the documents that he seems to think bear on his claim to own that temple property. He seems very anxious to avoid a lawsuit, and it isn't difficult to guess why, though I'm not a lawyer. He showed me nothing that even half persuaded me he has a case against the priests. Of course, we know more when we've run the survey. But as far as I've gone, I should say the priests have a walk-over."

"You sound prejudiced."

"I haven't a trace of prejudice, sir, one way or the other."

"Why not reserve your opinion? Are you off now to call on the Maharajah?"

"Yes. I'm a bit early, but I have something to do on the way."

"Very well. Keep me posted."

CHAPTER VII

Norwood left his horse in charge of the sals at the palace front gate. He intended to return and ride up the long drive to the front door for his formal call on the Maharajah. But the footpath to the guesthouse was shorter than the winding carriage-road, so he walked, to leave the iodine for Mrs. Harding. On the way he saw Lynn and Rundhia.

Lynn was no longer in riding breeches. She looked delicious in a frock of Nile-green print and a wide leghorn hat. Norwood wasn't sure, but he suspected she knew she could be seen from the guesthouse veranda, and that Rundhia did not know. She and Rundhia were laughing. Suddenly Rundhia snatched her hat off, used it as a shield to hide behind, caught her in his arms and kissed her. It was no fool of a kiss. It was an experience. Lynn did make a show of resistance. She struggled free and recovered her hat.

Norwood's view of it, against the background of the leghorn hat, made him set his jaw. But he relaxed it again and smiled, a bit grimly, a bit maliciously. From the opposite direction he had heard what sounded like an oath, although it was nothing worse than the well-bred, almost inarticulately gurgled word: "Hussy!"

Aunt Deborah Harding had also seen that lingering and only laughingly resisted kiss. Aunt was on the screened veranda, propped on pillows, on a reed chaise longue, with a table beside her. A native servant was just in the act of removing a tray of breakfast things.

"May I approach," asked Norwood, "or are you purdah?"

"Who is it? I can't see you. Oh, yes, Captain Norwood, come in if you can bear the sight of me. I should look presentable. I never had so many women in all my life to push and pull me about. This is my second attempt at a meal this morning. You'll have to run away if I can't keep it down. What has brought you, pray, at this hour?"

He had forgotten the iodine.

"Thought I'd ask how you're coming along."

"Will you bring my niece here? She's beyond those trees, talking to someone. I want her to come here and talk to me. Will you tell her I said so, and please don't take no for an answer."

Norwood strolled across the lawn, tapping his boots with a riding whip. He coughed a couple of times. By the time he had peered around the trees, Lynn and Rundhia were seated opposite each other on wicker-work chairs. Lynn seemed unself-conscious. Rundhia looked venomously sly; he offered Norwood no greeting whatever.

"I happened to be calling on your aunt," said Norwood, "and she asked me to say that she wants to see you."

Lynn looked dubious: "What sort of mood is she in?"

"Very polite to me," said Norwood.

"That's a danger signal. She can't be polite to one person at a time. I think I won't go."

"You will have to pardon me," said Norwood, "but I agreed to bring you."

"You always do what you say you will?"

"Yes." He looked straight at Rundhia, who ignored him.

"Prince Rundhia," said Lynn, "is going to show me the jewel room."

"Is he?" said Norwood.

Rundhia winced noticeably: "Perhaps you'd better go," he said to Lynn. "There's lots of time. She'll have her tantrum out, and you can meet me later."

Lynn compared them, as clearly as if she had said it aloud. Her

"Write a letter, why don't you?"

smile was a bit forced when her eyes met Norwood's:

"Do you always order people?" she demanded. "Don't you ever say please?"

He laughed. "I can't kneel. Breeches too tight."

"What will you do if I won't come?"

"Scream," he answered.

"I dare you."

"Tuesday is my day for screaming. Are you game to wait here until Tuesday?"

"No. I'm coming with you." She glanced at Rundhia: "You'll excuse us?"

"I excuse you," he answered.

Norwood looked so comfortable that Lynn noticed it.

"What are you worried about?"

"Oh, nothing. I was wondering what your aunt eats."

She laughed at him. "Liar! That's the very first time you haven't spoken like a polished ramrod."

"I told part of the truth. I am worried about you."

"You needn't be. I'm all right."

She ran forward to speak to her aunt. The tray of breakfast things was being carried out by a palace servant. Norwood stopped the man, inspected the tray, and selected a piece of toast. He looked for something to wrap it in. That reminded him. He groped in his left-hand pocket for the iodine, tore off half the paper in which Stoddard had wrapped the bottle, stuffed the untidy package back, wrapped the toast in the torn-off paper and put that into his right-hand pocket.

"I'm expected at the palace, so I can't stay, Mrs. Harding. I brought you some fresh iodine, in case the doctor's stuff is pretty ancient, as sometimes happens."

He plunged his hand into his tunic pocket and Lynn came to the screen door to receive the bottle. He looked at her, groping with his left hand, trying to pull out the bottle without the untidy paper; but a piece of string, tied with one of Stoddard's knots, prevented. So he pulled out the disgraceful package with a quick smile of apology.

"Hello," said Lynn, "you've dropped something."

He stooped, picked up what lay at his feet but didn't recognize it. It was a quite small black paper envelope.

"I saw it fall from your pocket," said Lynn.

He opened it. It contained a neatly folded paper of diamonds. Nine large, clear white brilliants shone in the sun. He scowled at them and stuffed the package back into his pocket, evidently upset. He appeared to hope that Lynn hadn't seen the diamonds. He seemed about to mention them, but changed his mind. Lynn thought he seemed suspicious of her. Then suddenly:

"Excuse me, won't you?"

He walked away. Lynn's eyes followed, wondering. He looked like a man who has been hit hard and is trying not to show it.

"Lynn," said her aunt's voice.

"Yes, Aunty."

"Come here!"

Lynn faced about: "Aunt Deborah! I have seen someone staring at what he dreaded. Or it seemed to me so."

"Lynn, please rearrange my pillows."

It was not Aunt's cultured, conventional voice but the hard, unsympathetic one in which she almost always commanded attention to her comfort as a prelude to the luxury of an explosion of temper. Two palace women, loaned by the Maharanees, had been fussing with the pillows less than five minutes before. Lynn rearranged them. She waited. Her silence offered the old termagant no opening, so Aunt Harding abandoned her usual gradual style of attack. She exploded:

"Don't dare to speak to me, you sullied creature, until you have washed your mouth! There is soap and water in the bedroom."

"Aunt—"

"Wash your mouth this minute! I saw you—permitting yourself to be kissed by Prince Rundhia!"

"Aunt, I'm no longer five! Aren't you forgetting—"

"To my humiliation I remember too much! You are old enough at least to try to keep up an appearance of decency."

"Aunt, there's no harm in a kiss after breakfast! It's kisses after midnight that—"

"Don't you dare to try to justify your grossness! Even your graceless father had enough sense of his social position to keep his indecencies out of sight!"

"Aunt!"

"Don't 'aunt' me! You inherit your father's wantonness."

"I never knew him," Lynn answered. "I only know what you and other people have told me. Others seem to have admired him. Wasn't he merry and brave and generous? Would he have endured your injustice? I have had to. For seventeen years. Aunt, I am very near the end of endurance. I knew you were looking. That is why I let Rundhia kiss me."

Lynn repeated: "I kissed Prince Rundhia, in a spirit of fun and partly to defy you."

"Fun indeed! Vulgar, suggestive impropriety, with an Indian prince whose immorality is notorious! Whether or not I disinherit you will depend—"

Lynn's rebellion flared to its inevitable climax. She interrupted: "Disinherit me now, if you please! Do it now, Aunt. I have made my last submission to your cruel money! You have educated me so that I haven't one chance in a thousand to earn a living. God knows what I can do. But I will find something. I accept the odds. I will make a go of it somehow."

Aunt's stare was skeptical, scornful. Lynn turned away.

"Where are you off to now?"

"To the palace. The Maharanees is human. Perhaps she and I can find something to laugh at."

"Very well, Lynn. All your clothes were removed to the palace last night, against my wishes. Go and pack them. If it kills me, we are taking the first boat home, and you may say so to the Maharanees. You may tell her why. If you don't, I will."

"And if you don't," Lynn answered, "the palace women will. They have been listening through the bedroom window. So if you want to get the first malicious word in, you had better be quick! Write a letter, why don't you? I assure you I won't discuss it."

She picked up her tennis racket and unscrewed the frame. It was a hardly conscious gesture: it was much too hot for tennis. She walked out through the screen door, carrying the racket.

As she approached the palace front door, she saw Norwood's horse near the portico. She recognized Norwood's sals, squatting down under the horse's nose, half asleep, instead of flicking flies off the horse as he should.

Then she saw Rundhia. He had been watching for her. One could tell that by his manner. He looked astonishingly handsome in a gray suit of some thin material and a gray silk turban.

"Tennis?" he asked. "In this heat?"

"No. Tantrum! I'm so angry I could kill!"

"Don't kill me, Lynn. I'm important. Tell me instead."

Lynn used the racket as if she were returning one of Rundhia's serves. "Would you tell me the truth?"

He grinned. "Well, almost. Who can be in love and tell the whole truth? I will lie to you, of course, about my character. But I will tell the truth about yours! You're a lovely, inspiring, challenging fact, Lynn Harding. You're an event."

"I feel like a skeleton in my own dark closet," she retorted, and Rundhia laughed.

"Come and I'll show you the treasures. Drive away the very memory of Aunt!"

All the way up the palace stairs and along the ancient corridor, Rundhia chattered gaily. Lynn answered in monosyllables, perfectly aware that Rundhia was talking to divert attention from his motive.

"Beauty and the beast!" said Rundhia.

"Bromide! Rundhia; you look like secrets in a suave disguise."

"My very inmost heart," he answered, "is an open book. Can't you read it?"

"I don't want to."

He kept his distance. That sinuous right arm of his behaved itself. He walked ahead of her through the narrow anteroom, where two turbaned guards salaamed respectfully. Rundhia spoke to one of the guards, who switched on the electric light in the treasure room. The masonry wall was ten feet thick; the door a foot thick. The guard closed the door behind them and opened an eyehole. Lynn could see the guard's eyes.

There was a long teak table between her and Rundhia, loaded with golden and jeweled ornaments: embossed golden shields, scimitars in gold sheaths, scores of objects such as are carried in procession by the servants of an oriental throne. Electric light shone within lanterns, suspended on chains from the ancient beams. At the far end of the room, on the right, was a huge glass case, in which the famous Kadir diamonds sparkled, stealing color from the jeweled lanterns.

THIS SEASON BRINGS EGGS AND MORE EGGS
(See Recipes Below)

For an Easter Feast

The Easter season brings eggs and more eggs to the tables of the whole world, it seems. There are tinted eggs, eggs with dainty and intricate patterns adorning their glossy shells, and eggs decked out to look like Easter bunnies.

Eggs may be decorated, too, with gaily colored stickers—and if you're clever with your fingers, you can make a giddy blonde or demure brunette egg, sporting a new Easter bonnet! Use bright blue round stickers for eyes, and a tiny gummed heart for a mouth. Or, if you like, paint in the features, and tint the "cheeks" with ordinary water color paints. Cotton or fringed crepe paper may be glued on to resemble hair, and an Easter bonnet is made from a tiny paper nutcup, bits of colored paper, and a tiny feather or artificial flower.

When the bunny comes around with his gift of eggs, keep him as a guest at your Easter table. He'll be a delight to children and grownups alike if his basket is filled with candy eggs that the children themselves can eat.

But Easter Sunday demands more than eggs in the way of food! It's a day of feasting and most of us plan and plot for weeks ahead to give the family a truly delicious and unusual meal. Leg of lamb or baked ham are the traditional foods around which most of us plan our Easter menus. Either may be used in the menu below, to excellent advantage.

Broiled Grapefruit halves
Roast Leg of Lamb or Baked Ham

- (4 servings)
- 2 small bunches fresh (or 1 large bunch) asparagus
- 5 cups boiling water
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1/4 cup butter
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice

Cut off lower parts of asparagus stalks as far down as they will snap. Discard, or use in soup. Tie stalks together loosely in a bundle and place upright in saucepan containing the boiling water to which salt has been added. Cook, uncovered, until ends of stalks begin to be tender, about 15 minutes; then lay bunch of asparagus flat in pan and continue cooking until tips are tender, 5 to 10 minutes. Then drain. Cream butter and add lemon juice slowly. Pour this mixture over hot asparagus and serve at once.

Magie Easter Eggs.

- 3/4 cup sweetened condensed milk
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 4 cups sifted confectioners' (4X) sugar (about)

Blend sweetened condensed milk and vanilla. Add confectioners' sugar gradually and continue mixing until smooth and creamy. Divide into three or four parts. Color with different vegetable colorings in very light tints—pink, green, yellow. Form into eggs. One end of each egg may be dipped into melted chocolate that has been allowed to cool. Makes eight eggs 1 1/2 inches long.

When dipping candy eggs, melt the chocolate in the top of a double boiler, but do not let the water boil. When melted, remove from heat, and let the chocolate cool to about 83 degrees Fahrenheit, a temperature slightly cooler than lukewarm.

Baked Ham.

- 1 whole ham
- 1 teaspoon whole cloves
- 1 1/2 cups sweet cider
- 1 1/2 cups brown sugar
- 1/2 cup orange juice

Wipe ham with a damp cloth and place in an uncovered roaster, skin side up. Roast in a very low oven (300 degrees) allowing 25 minutes per pound of ham. About 1/2 hour before ham has finished baking, take from oven. Remove skin and pour off all excess fat. Cook cider and sugar together to thick syrup stage. Add orange juice and pour mixture over ham. Dot with whole cloves. Return to oven and bake one hour longer, basting frequently with liquid in pan.

THE SEPULCHER: TRIUMPH OVER DEATH

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 27:57-28:6. GOLDEN TEXT—But now is Christ risen from the dead, and become the firstfruits of them that slept.—1 Corinthians 15:20.

The inspiration and spiritual renewing of Easter day comes to us again. How thankful every Christian should be for this day of remembrance of our Lord's triumph over death. How much we should praise God that the day for us who are His disciples is not one of outward display but of inward revival. May this Easter bring a real quickening to the Church.

In our series of lessons in Matthew we have followed our Lord in His life and ministry on through Gethsemane to Calvary. Today we find loving hands giving themselves in what they thought to be the final act of devotion to their Lord, and we also see the hands of wicked men active in what they thought was a final act of hatred. Then suddenly the Lord Himself breaks through in resurrection power.

I. Love Is Kind (27:57-61).

The women, whose devotion to their Lord never wavered, were joined in the final act of taking the body of Jesus from the cross and burying it by two secret disciples of the Lord who now came out into the open, Joseph of Arimathea, a member of the Sanhedrin (Luke 23:50, 51), and Nicodemus (John 19:39, 40). It was a courageous act on their part and undoubtedly the expression of their great love for Jesus.

The two Marys seemed to have stayed to watch the grave even after Joseph had gone to his home. The death of Jesus may have crushed their hopes, for they apparently did not recall His promise of resurrection, but they still loved Him. After all, is not that the ultimate and essential mark of a disciple, love for our Lord? Faith may waver, hope deferred may make the heart sick with discouragement, but nevertheless we will follow the example of these disciples and never let our love for Him grow cold. In due season such faithfulness finds a glorious reward.

II. Hatred Is Relentless (27:62-66).

The wicked men who had brought about the crucifixion of Jesus were not content to let their hatred of Him die at the grave. They lusted after His life and they had taken that, but even as He lay silent in the grave, the priests and the Pharisees came to Pilate and called Him "that deceiver" (v. 63) and demanded a special guard. They feared that His disciples would perpetrate a fraud, and after stealing the body declare that He was risen. Wicked and deceitful hearts can imagine all sorts of treachery on the part of others.

The hatred of unbelievers toward Christ and toward His followers knows no stopping place. In civilized lands and among cultured people it operates under a cloak of respectability, but it is none the less bitter and relentless in its pursuit of Him and of His Church.

Observe that while the chief priests and Pharisees acted in hatred and unbelief, they unwittingly did the cause of Christ a great service by demanding the guard over the tomb. They made it forever impossible for any charge of fraud to be successfully made against the truth of the resurrection.

III. Christ Is Triumphant (28:1-6).

Victory and praise should be the keynote of Christianity. Why should we be doleful and sad? Our Lord has come back victorious from the grave! We may be glad and sing even in the midst of earth's sorrows and distresses. Let praise be the employ of our lips constantly as we worship Him and work for Him. The picture that greeted the surprised eyes of the two women as they came to the grave as it began to dawn on the first day of the week was one resplendent with the glory and majesty of God. The earth quaked as the lightning and white angel of the Lord broke through the unbreakable seal of Rome and rolled back the stone which was to have permanently closed the door to the tomb. This was done, not to release Christ—for He had already gone, no grave could hold Him—but that men might see the empty grave and know that He was risen.

To the foes of Christ represented by the keepers, the coming of the angel and the revelation of the power of God brought absolute discomfiture. That is still true. Men will argue with theology, church methods, even Christian profession, until they see the power of God revealed, and then they can only be "as dead men."

To the friends of Christ—the angel brought comfort and assurance. Their fears were assuaged by his word of comfort, and then their faith was revived by the assurance that Christ was risen. The resurrection declares that He is the Son of God with power, the Saviour of the world.

Chinese Colorings New for Silk Prints and Huge Plaids

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

A SPRING fashion picture sans sprightly patterned joyfully colored new silk prints would present about as dismal and impossible a scene as a spring or summer landscape minus flowers and birds, blue skies and sunshine. But why entertain such a thought, for at this very moment the scene is all set in fashionland with as tempting an array of silk prints as ere took a bow on fashion's stage in springtime.

Almost seems as if the new prints bring a greater thrill this season than ever. At any rate they're lovely and there's a newness about them that excites lively interest.

There's the perfectly fascinating Chinese colorings, for instance, porcelain blues, lacquer reds, peach blown pinks, bright orange and a new beige tone called "Chinese tea." And the lovely lotus blossom and magnolia designs so delicately flushed with color that is offset with the deep waxen green of their leaves.

The pastels that color the daintiest prettiest prints that we've seen for years are rapturous in their subtle tones and tints. You will be wanting a blouse of adorable pastel plaid to wear with your suit of pastel tweed.

Speaking of plaid silk, it is the center of attraction this season, not only for evening wear, but for the daytime dress. And don't be afraid of the big bold plaid for the bigger the plaid the smarter. Watch for silk plaids!

A plaid silk that assures new sophistication in dramatic raspberry, blue and green tones on a white background is used for the daytime dress shown to the right in the picture. Here is a type of dress that carries unmistakable style conviction wherever it goes. The bodice shirred above a wide molded midriff and the concentrated front fullness used for the skirt are done in the Paris manner. You will find it a pleasant innovation to mark your waistline with a self fabric sash tied in a bow as here you see instead of a belt.

The printed silk jacket dress is ever so important this spring. Choose either the new long-jacket types, emphasizing the much talked-of long torso molded figure lines or select if you will a youthful bolero model after the mode to the left in the picture. The use of pockets, here applied vertically and accented with self-fabric scroll detail. Note the smart collarless neckline and the front shirred skirt fullness, all very new and chic. The pattern and the color alliance are also very much of the moment. This is one of the new silks that marks an innovation namely the black and white print that has one other color added. In this instance the scheme is worked out in a black and white horizontal scroll patterning on an olive green background.

For an ensemble for the first spring days in town fashion advocates the printed silk frock topped with a wool jacket that repeats an important color in the print. See the theory demonstrated in the stylish twosome shown in the center. Buttoned up bodice and accordion pleated skirt interpret new vogue to a nicety in the dress which features a neat mesh design in which white dots and squares are outlined in "Chinese tea," the important new beige mentioned above. Peaked lapels and pockets and its one-link fastening are chic accents in the matching wool jacket.

Branch Coral

Ladies, listen to this! How about the necklaces, the earrings, the brooches of branch red coral that have been hidden away, lo, this many a year among family heirlooms? Fashion bids you to rescue them from obscurity, for quaint and flattering branch coral is staging a tremendous revival this year. Possibly you may lack a few strands in your treasured collection to achieve the effect pictured. Let not this dismay you, for jewelers are prepared to supply the necessary coral to make up stunning ensembles of neckpieces, bracelets, earrings and lapel gadgets.

Leather on Jersey For Dinner Dress

A wide belt of natural calfskin shaped like a corselet and studded with nailheads trims a dinner dress of white jersey. The blouse top is simply cut, with short sleeves and a full skirt. It buttons down the front from neck to hem with leather buttons to match the belt.

Flower Hats Come Early This Season

Usually flower hats are worn later in the season, but this spring is an exception to the rule.

There is nothing smarter in the way of millinery than a pert, flattering flower turban, or a wee flower covered sailor.

The flower turbans are of a distinctly new type this season. They pose a huge flower or cluster over the brow, and it's a guess how these hats anchor into secure position, until you see at the back the clever snood and ribbon caplike bandeaux.

White hats are something unexpected as a spring "first." But here they are, topping the new navy suits and fitting charmingly into the scene this very moment.

Revive Pinafores For Little Girls

Is there any more refreshing sight than a smiling little youngster in a spic and span starched organdy or dimity pinafore? If so, we can't recall it. Old-fashioned, you say? No, indeed, just the opposite. It is one of the newest items to be included in a little daughter's wardrobe this season. Such was the important news flashed from the children's style show that brought visiting merchants from all over the country to view the latest in juvenile vogue as displayed in the Merchandise Mart, Chicago. So it's authentic—cunning, fluffly-ruffly, primly starched pinafores for little girls!

Printed Jersey Is Used With Plain

Good style is the redingote ensemble that tops a dress of printed jersey, which is a favorite this season, with a softly-styled redingote of monotone jersey.

HOUSEHOLD QUESTIONS

Labor Saver.—Part of the pot and pan washing job can be eliminated by storing frying fat in paper cups which can be discarded when empty.

Candied fruits and raisins for puddings and cakes should be softened by soaking overnight in fruit juice.

Treating New Broom.—If you have bought a new broom you will find it lasts longer if soaked in warm water for a few hours. Shake off as much moisture as possible and hang by the head to dry.

Molasses Sauce.—Here is a delicious topping for hot bread, rice, puddings, and so on. Combine one cup molasses, two tablespoons lemon juice, one tablespoon butter and one-fourth teaspoon salt. Cook for 15 minutes over low heat while stirring. Serve hot.

To remove the smudges from utensils used over an open flame rub with crumpled newspapers, then apply a few drops of kerosene to the paper and rub the kettle until it's clean. Wipe with more dry papers. Do not let any of the kerosene get inside the kettle. If the smudge is not too thick, it can be removed with a metal pot scraper.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—all to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery. Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, acidity or too frequent urination. There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a national-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

Crimson Wave Makes Valiant Try

DEFEATS REMUS, LOSES TO WILLIAMSTON, IN STATE CONTESTS

East Jordan's Crimson Wave brought the most successful season in the history of E. J. H. S. basketball to a dramatic close, last Friday evening, in the Jennison Field House at East Lansing.

But for one unfortunate incident, the Red and Black might be the Michigan class C champions today.

Thursday evening the boys played Remus, in Midland's beautiful glass-brick high school, and won 31 to 27. It was a great game to watch. The teams were very evenly matched and the lead see-sawed back and forth several times. East Jordan drew first blood when Chris Bulow sank a long side shot. However, a few minutes later, Remus tied it up at four all. The Crimson then stepped out to a 10 to 4 lead as the quarter closed.

In the second period, Remus came to life and outscored the Jordanites 11 to 6, but we still were in front 16 to 15 at the half.

The Crimson pulled away again in the third quarter and kept the lead the rest of the game, although Remus was always close enough to keep the water warm. The victory sent the Jordanites on to East Lansing to play Williamston in the semi-finals Friday evening.

Garden Gossip

Edited by Caroline Harrington

Letters and questions on garden topics will be welcome. They will be published and discussed in this column.

Dear Mrs. Harrington:

For Garden Club members these are visionary days, — looking ahead to the summer's glories in garden and woodland. While waiting, let's take a peep at things nearer at hand. Did you know East Jordan originated the idea of a Smelt Festival and also the idea of crowning a king instead of a queen? When a queen was suggested it brought forth the comment: "Michigan is lousy with queens! Let's do something different, crown a king, and make it essentially a man's day."

Do you know that Hugh J. Gray, Michigan's grand old pioneer in the Tourist and Resort Association business, will be with us for the smelt banquet a week from Friday night and for the next day's Jamboree? (Mr. Gray, by the way, had the unique honor of being present two years ago at the dedication of his own memorial monument, the cairn down by Kewadin.)

And here is another inside tip; so many persons feel contemptuous of "Newaygo Newt," sponsor of the "Expectoration Contest." In reality, "Newaygo Newt" is a poet, and his poems are syndicated in newspapers throughout the country. And he never used tobacco! His real name is Earnest Jack Sharpe.

So Newaygo Newt is not Newaygo Newt at all, but Earnest Jack Sharpe.

Score by Quarters:	Remus	4	11	6	6	27

Friday night the Crimson met Williamston in the semi-final and were defeated 30 to 26. Capt. Jack Isaman had the misfortune to have an attack of acute appendicitis, and saw very little action. Jack started the game but it was soon seen he was not his old self, so "Oggie" Woodcock took his place. He tried it again later in the game but, after scoring one free throw, Coach Cohn realized something was radically wrong and he was removed to Sparrow Hospital, where it was pronounced appendicitis, and he was operated on immediately.

Had Jack been able to have played his old game, the score would certainly have been different. Thursday night he scored 11 points against Remus. He scored only 1 point Friday and, it is a safe bet, he would have scored at least 8 points had he been in condition. Of course, had this been the case, Williamston probably would not have used its second team so much the final quarter when we outscored them 16 to 1.

The Crimsons jumped off to the lead but Williamston soon took the situation in hand and was ahead 11 to 4 at the quarter. They were in front 16 to 8 at the half, staged another strong rally in the third period leading 29 to 10 at the three quarter mark, and were able to coast in the final distance and still hold a slim margin. Williamston then went on Saturday to defeat Keego Harbor 37 to 35 and take the State class C crown.

The game wound up the careers of four seniors: Capt. Jack Isaman, Francis Antoine, Chris Bulow and Frank Crowell, Jr. and Bill Dolezel. These boys have been a credit to their coach, their school, and the people of East Jordan. They played the game hard, but clean, and even in losing Friday night, they have left a plenty tough mark for future Crimsonites to shoot at.

We could say, "Their shoes will be hard to fill" but that's what they said about Babe Ruth — then came Joe DiMaggio. Who knows? Next year may see another great Crimson Wave carrying on for East Jordan.

who never uses tobacco! Then who is that smiling gentleman whose picture appears daily with Newaygo Newt's poems (smoking a pipe, too)? Dear, dear, it is all very confusing, and I am disappointed. Or am I? But thanks for the tip. Right now it is only a headache, but if I think hard maybe I'll get it straightened out.

I'm not sure I did know East Jordan originated the idea of a Smelt Festival for Northern Michigan, but I first heard of East Jordan in connection with the smelt-run. Many of my friends come here purposely for it, and through the occasion they have become great East Jordan fans, constantly boosting its hunting, fishing and north woods beauty.

Just today a friend told me we would have the pleasure of entertaining Mr. Gray. His was indeed a unique honor. Not many prophets are recognized in their own time and by their own people. I hope his stay with us will prove thoroughly worthwhile, and that he will find many attractions to jot down in his travel booklets. The Garden Club would like him to see East Jordan's Arboretum of Native Trees and Shrubs.

I'm heartily in favor of one day a year for the men folks' very own, aren't you?

Dear Mrs. Harrington:

Noticed T. J.'s fine suggestion to clean up the corner at the bridge where ducks and swans are fed. I am hoping Mrs. Palmer's report is favorable. I am wondering if it would be possible to persuade some of our yellow water lilies to take up residence in the corner under discussion? Are they difficult to transplant? Would Mr. Thatcher, the Ag teacher at our school know about this and also about shrubbery suitable for planting there?

What a wonderful improvement to have that old boat house torn down. Heard by the grapevine method that Mr. Mayor and the Council intend beautifying the shoreline there.

Thank you, Sunbonnet Sue, for relaying this welcome news for the benefit of Garden Gossipers. To beautify this much of our shoreline will be a splendid start on a project bound to continue.

Let's put the question about the lilies to Mr. Thatcher. I'm sure he can and will oblige. Then, if Mrs. Palmer's report is favorable, and the unsightly corner is to be improved, we'll be ready with suggestions.

Somewhere in Florida.

Dear Mrs. Harrington:

This has been a most unusual winter in the south. They told us at Chattanooga they had had ten inches of snow. It has been cold here and still is although we have been in bathing every day.

I notice the lack of bloom in the gardens, but the flowers are budded, and I hope to get some good pictures for Garden Club before we leave here. I have spotted a beautiful cactus border which I think will make a good picture and be interesting to our cactus fans.

Best regards to you all.
Eve Porter.

It is winter here as I write this, but before it is published spring will have officially arrived, and I will have taken down my winter wreaths. They are so beautiful even yet that I cannot bear to destroy them. I enjoyed them every day this winter — quite a record for Christmas wreaths, isn't it?

The horned larks are here! We see them feeding along the roadside wherever the snow has melted away. In a few weeks the woods will be full of bird song, and the tulips will be up. When are you coming home? In time for next Garden Club meeting? We look forward to the pictures you promise.

Garden Gossipers:

At the library in the corner reserved for the Garden Center you will find a new scrap book containing latest pictures and clippings on garden topics. Flower arrangements, treatment of house plants, how to construct a garden pool — these are only a few of the subjects reviewed in detail.

A bulletin board has been installed for your convenience, where you will find notices and news items of outstanding interest to Garden Club members.

A collection of the latest seed catalogs is also available for your use. The committee will welcome contributions of clippings and pictures suitable for scrap book and bulletin board.

Dear Mrs. Harrington: Can you tell me how to restore to bloom an African violet that is in "the dumps?"

I suggest that you ask Mrs. James Gidley. Judging by her success with African violets she knows how.

Dear Garden Gossipers:
I am pleased to announce that at our April meeting Mrs. H. P. Porter has promised to describe for us the famous Bellingrath Gardens which she visited on her vacation in Alabama last year. Last fall, you will remember, Mr. Young of Charlevoix showed us slides of this charming spot which contains within its borders all the peculiar beauty of our south-

The next rally will be held at Barnard in April. Sunday evening March 24 the Young Peoples vested choir will attend the Barnard Church to help in a re-dedication of the Barnard Church, which has had electricity installed, also has been redecorated inside and out and other general repair.

MORTGAGE SALE

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage and the note accompanying the same dated January 3, 1939, made by Leslie R. # YOU CAN PAY MORE

-but why?

You can pay a lot more than the modest Chevrolet price for a motor car. But you'll find yourself asking, "Where can I get any more beauty, driving and riding ease, road action, safety and all-round value than I get in Chevrolet for '40?" . . . Particularly when you consider Chevrolet's extremely low prices and Chevrolet's exceptionally low cost of operation and upkeep!
