Kite Flying A Fine Sport But Lookout For Power Lines

The coming of spring brings the advent of the kite flying season, and because of some hazards in this sport the Michigan Public Service Company is joining other electric, telephone and telegraph companies throughout the country in warning children to keep their kites away from overhead lines. Mr. C. M. Reed, Safety Director for the Company, suggests that observance of the following safety rules will avoid all possible dangers to children.

Kites should be flown only in open spaces where there is no likelihood of their coming in contact with electric lines. Especial care should be exercised in choosing the spot, for it should be remembered that the kite string is at an angle and may pass over electric lines a long distance away, perhaps out of sight.

If a kite should become entangled in electric wires, children should not pull it or make any attempt to remove it. Under no circumstances should they climb a pole and try to bring down the kite. The proper procedure is to call the electric company, telephone company or telegraph company to which the wires belong, & linemen with proper equipment will be sent to take the kite from the lines.

It is unsafe for children to pull down a kite from electric lines, because in so doing the wires may be pulled together, causing a short circuit. It is possible in such cases that the wires may break and fall to the ground, causing serious injury to anyone who may be near.

Construction of the kite should measure up to safety standards also. Kites should NEVER have wire frames. No metal or metalized cord should be used. It is dangerous to make kite strings of wire, tinsel cord or any cord with metal strands in it because such materials are conductors of electricity. It is also important to remember that the kite cord should be kept off the ground where there is any possibility of it becoming damp. A wet kite cord becomes a conductor of electricity when it touches an electric wire.

Kite flying is a fine sport and is entirely safe for children when they fly a properly made kite in an open space away from electric wires. The observance of these few safety suggestions will not detract from the fun and may prevent accidents.

AN APPRECIATION

We sincerely appreciate the funds handed us from the benefit basketball game given for our son, Jack. Also to the many friends for their kind expressions of sympathy during his illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Cleve Isaman and Family.

President — Mrs. J. Warne Davis.
1st Vice Pres. — Burl Braman.
2nd Vice Pres. — Mrs. Richard Malpass.
3rd Vice Pres. — Mrs. Ed. Weldy.
Secretary — John Smith.
Treasurer — Dr. G. W. Bechtold.

Chevrolet Reports Car Sales On The Increase

Continued gains over the second-best February in the history of the company were reported by Chevrolet at Detroit the past week, with release of its dealers' new passenger car and truck sales figures for the second 10 days of March.

The increase totalled 55.8 per cent over the first 10 days of March, he said.

The period showed a 38.4 per cent gain over the second 10 days of March, 1939, when 9,303 fewer units were retailed.

Used car sales also showed a strong upward trend, with a gain of 26.2 per cent over the comparable period last year, a total of 52,853 used cars being retailed. Used car sales for the second period of the month also surpassed the showing made during the first 10 days, with a gain of 30.4 per cent over the 40,528 used cars sold during that period.

Our Canners Set A New Mark

WIN ONE AND LOSE ONE, BUT SCORE REACHES NEW HIGH

The East Jordan Canners broke even in two games the last week, but managed to set a new seasonal high scoring record of 1318 points last Monday evening on the Petoskey High gym.

Last Wednesday evening the Canners played the Crimson Wave in a benefit game for Jack Isaman and Gayle Saxton, winning 45 to 24.

Abe took this opportunity to let his reserves see plenty of action and they gave a good account of themselves. They held the Red and White on practically even terms the first quarter and outscored them the third quarter. The Canners led 28 to 15 at the half.

Monday evening the Canners went to Petoskey to play Indian River and were defeated by a mixed team of Indian River and Petoskey players, 43 to 41. It was another of those two point defeats which is close, yet marred an otherwise fine record. The Red and White gave what was without doubt, their most mediocre exhibition of the year. Our high school team could have beaten the Canners Monday night. They were without the services of Monk Cihak and Ed. Stank and not once did they open up with their fast break.

Several Petoskey players stated after the game that, with their old slip and push, Indian River would have been a "set-up." However, Indian River was the best team that evening. They used Ross and Vincent of Petoskey and those boys accounted for 18 of the victors points.

The Canners led for more than three quarters of the game, but at no time was their defense functioning, especially in the final quarter as Vincent poured in three baskets in fast order.

The defeat in no way hampers the Canners Northern Michigan title. In scoring their 41 points they passed the old record set last year of 1302 points per season. They now have 1318 and still have the Traverse City game here this Thursday.

CRIMSON WAVE MEMBERS NAMED ON ALL STATE BASKETBALL TEAM

Two seniors of Coach Abe Cohn's District and Regional Class C Basketball Title holders were given honorable mention on the Detroit Free Press All State Basketball team last week. They were Co-Captains Jack Isaman and Chris Bulow. This marked the first time that a local basketball player has ever been given such an honor. Four boys of the Crimson Wave football eleven of the past have received similar recognition: LaVern Archer '37, Glen Gee '38, Richard Saxton '38, and Jack Isaman '39.

Isaman received further honors through the Free Press, when he was named as one of the outstanding boys in the state as far as sportsmanship is concerned. Of all the schools in Michigan only thirty-eight boys were named. Both Bulow and Isaman were overlooked in the selection of the All-Conference team by the coaches the first week in March.

YOUR COUNTY ROAD COMMISSION

By S. A. Tokoly

FINANCES — PART 2

In last week's article we generally covered the finances of the Road Commission and showed that the roads in Charlevoix County are generally in two systems, the old county road system that existed prior to Sept. 1st, 1931, and the so-called McNitt system which was created by the McNitt-Smith-Holbeck Act of 1931. We summarized in last week's article that Charlevoix County received from the State Gas Tax the sum of $37,378.48 to finance the work on this 592 miles of McNitt roads, or roughly $63 per mile for the year 1939.

One of the problems of the County Road Commission can be understood from the above statement. Attempting to maintain a system of this size at $63 per mile when the snow removal alone will cost from $60 to $80 per mile should be an indication as to why no road commission can afford to plow every mile of a McNitt road.

A comparison with the system as it operated in 1939 under the township jurisdiction may be enlightening. In 1939 the townships of the State levied $15,000,000 to maintain 77,000 miles of road or at the rate of $200 per mile in round figures and they made no pretense at snow removal. The comparison between $63 per mile and $200 per mile should explain why at present the money must be concentrated on a smaller mileage for improvement at the expense of the balance to keep this system in the black ink.

As to the old county road system as it existed previous to 1932 embracing some 125 miles, our last week's article stated that the Road Commission received $65,458.87 from the Weight Tax and $8,390.48 from the Gas Tax in 1939 for construction and maintenance on this system and these figures are exactly as the State reports them in their annual report but they are misleading, nothing is said of the provisions of the Horton Act which provides that only one-half of these monies may be used for highway purposes, the other half according to certain priority as follows:

First, all Covert road bonds must be retired; second, all County road bonds must be retired; third, all Township road bonds must be retired; and as in the case of Charlevoix County the bonds have already been retired, then the second half of this money provided under the Horton Act must be apportioned between the road commission and the incorporated cities and villages in the county on the basis of their population to the total population of the county, therefore instead of receiving $73,849.15 as the State report indicates the Road Commission received $34,461.08; the City of Boyne City received $8,167.40; the City of Charlevoix was paid $6,923.95; the City of East Jordan was paid $4,693.49; and the Village of Boyne Falls received $613.33.

Now for another comparison, the City of Boyne City in 1939 received $8,167.40 from the Road Commission for the maintenance of 51 miles of city streets a good percentage of which is paid in one form or another, or at the rate of $160 per mile as compared to the County Road Commission's $63 per mile on the McNitt system, and we do not believe that any city street is in the deplorable condition that a great many of the township roads were when they came over to the Road Commission.

The writer has shown that the $37,000 of McNitt money will scarcely remove the snow from this system aside from any summer maintenance and construction and the $53,000 received for the old county road system after paying all insurance, build-

Light Vote In Wilson Township

With no opposition to the one set of candidates, Wilson Township cast one of the lightest votes in an April election — only 36 ballots being cast. Officers elected:—

Supervisor — Claude Pearsall.
Clerk — August Knop.
Treasurer — Luther Brintnall.
Justice Peace — Edw. Shepard.
Member Board of Review — Frank H. Behling.

Jordan Township Casts Heavy Vote

With contests on for four township offices, quite a heavy vote was cast in Jordan Township, Monday. Officers elected were:—

Supervisor — Francis J. Lilak (no opposition).
Clerk — Geo. W. Stank.
Treasurer — Gilbert Mayhew.
Justice of Peace — Thomas Kiser.
Member Board of Review — Lewis J. Trojanek.

Constables — Henry Durant, Vail Shepard, John Hjal, Clifford Ingalls. A proposition for the Township to adopt the Primary System of nominating the township officers, to replace the Caucuses system, was adopted by a 2 to 1 vote.

4-H CLUB ACHIEVEMENT DAY AT BOYNE CITY ON APRIL 12

The 4-H Club Spring Achievement Day will be held in the Boyne City High School Gymnasium on Friday, April 12th. This will be one of the largest exhibits ever displayed on this annual occasion. The facilities of the gymnasium will be taxed to the limit to handle the large number of exhibits and the estimated crowd of eight hundred people. The club members are mighty proud of the articles they have completed and would enjoy nothing better than to have you see the wonderful work which has been accomplished. Another pleasing display will be something like twenty sets of posters shown by the schools that have given hot lunches.

The big features of the program will be a free movie at the Boyne Theatre, the big dress revue, talks by representatives of our Boys and Girls Club Department, and other pleasing numbers. At the conclusion of the program announcements of awards will be given to the deserving club members. The entire public is invited to attend and enjoy the afternoon program. This will be a wonderful opportunity to see these splendid young folks and what they have accomplished during the year. Remember! You are cordially invited, one and all, and come early. Following is the splendid program that has been developed.

Forenoon Program
9:00 to 10:00 — Viewing Exhibits.
10 to 11:45: Free Movies at Theatre.
12:00 to 1:00 — Noon Hour.
12:30 to 1:30 — Wood Identification Contest.

Afternoon Program
Chairman — B. C. Mellencamp, Co. Agricultural Agent.

Invocation — George Hemmingway, Boyne City.

Dress Revue — 150 participants, accompanied by Miss Juanita Middleton.

Address of Welcome, F. K. Killian, Superintendent of Schools.
Response to welcome — Sharon Crego, Boyne Falls.

Remarks, Wm. C. Palmer, County School Commissioner.
Solo — Miss Elizabeth Penfold, East Jordan.

Talk — Miss Lois M. Corbett, Assistant State Club Leader.
Music — Doris and Warren Reynolds, Boyne Falls.

Talk — Mr. A. G. Kettunen, State Club Leader.
Closing Remarks — Mr. O. F. Walker, Dist. Club Agent.

ing maintenance, lights, telephone, heat, and other overhead costs, shrinks to $200 per mile for this 125 miles and must be carefully budgeted to show some annual improvement, particularly when the fact is called to your attention that a road of the type of the Advance Road, from Advance to East Jordan, costs between $2500 and $3000 per mile.

This is the third of a series of six articles on the Charlevoix County Road Commission and its operations, next week the writer will attempt to explain the connection between your County Road Commission and the WPA.

Another National King of Smeltium

CROWNED HERE SATURDAY.
RUN OF SMELT HAS NOT YET REACHED PEAK.

Benjamin G. Wright, Secretary of the Alpena Chamber of Commerce, became the new National King of Smeltium here last Saturday afternoon, as the highlight of East Jordan's National Smelt Jamboree. John Brigham, mayor of the city of Alpena handled the crowning ceremonies. King Robert I. (Robert Crisler) of Greenville, Ohio, last year's ruler, was unable to attend. The ruler of Smeltium and high command of Michigan's Fun Frolic King Ben I of Alpena has promised to serve his people faithfully, and carry out his duties to the best of his ability.

The most successful wildlife banquet yet held, got things under motion Friday evening at the local high school gym. This was followed by a fair run Friday evening.

Never before has the weatherman gave Festival followers more ideal weather than he did Saturday. A large crowd lined the streets early and the fun began at 1:30 with a well balanced and assorted street activity. Have you ever seen a pie eating contest. If you haven't you don't know what you have missed. Jack Gotro and Robert Archer carried off the laurels and also plenty of evidence of the blueberry. The women's rolling pin throwing contest was won by Miss Virginia Patterson of Ellsworth and does she throw a wicked pin as did her close rival Mrs. William Swaub of Suttons Bay. Miss Patterson is also a master of the art of throwing pie tins as she topped a field of a dozen participants. John and Eldon Neuman of East Jordan won the wood sawing-splitting-piling contest with a remarkable performance, turning the trick in 1 min. 13 sec. Lou Kamradt and Clifford Zimmerman was second with Clair Batterbee and Robert Scott last year's winners placing third. Many races were run off for the boys and girls, with large numbers participating in each of the events.

Al Hess, a Detroit, copped the National Newageo Newt Spitting Title, in the absence of Walter Evans, of Port Wayne, Ind. two time champion. Robert Bennett of East Jordan ran a close second. Hess comes in possession of Head trophy. To retain it permanently a spitter must win the title three times.

Only thing lacking was the customary colorful parade, which has become in the past to be a stellar attraction. The Charge of the Night Brigade at 9:00 and the Smelters Ball at 9:30 served as a grand wind up to another successful Jamboree.

Now that the celebration is over dippers predict that the peak of the Jordan Smelt run has not yet been reached and large crowds line the banks of the Jordan nightly.

Temple Screen Parade

A festival of gala screen fare opens the spring season at the Temple this week with four outstanding pictures booked for the following presentations:

Saturday: Priscilla Lane, Jane Wyman, Wayne Morris and Ronald Reagan in "Brother Rat and a Baby."

Sunday and Monday: Clark Gable and Joan Crawford in "Strange Cargo."

Tuesday and Wednesday (Family Nights): Martha Raye and Charles Ruggles in "The Farmer's Daughter."

Thursday and Friday: Bing Crosby, Bob Hope and Dorothy Lamour in "The Road To Singapore." Special featurette, the March of Time presents "The Vatican of Pope Pius XII."

Oddfellows, Rebekahs, Honor Ike Bowen

About fifty Odd Fellows, Rebekahs, and their families gathered at the I.O.O.F. hall last Friday evening for a pot luck supper, honoring Isaac (Ike) Bowen, who has been a continuous member of Jordan River Lodge No. 360 for forty years. After the supper, R. G. Watson in a few well chosen words presented Mr. Bowen with a jewel. The evening was spent in cards and dancing.

A Farewell Party

A social evening was held at the Methodist church Tuesday evening, honoring the Lewis McDonald family. Mr. and Mrs. McDonald and family, who have resided on the Heller farm north of East Jordan for the past few years, have purchased a farm near Barnard and are moving there this week.

After supper, which was enjoyed by about seventy persons, an impromptu program was enjoyed, followed by games.

Boost in Relief Fund Forecast As House Joins Spending Spree; Leave Tax Bogy for Next Year

CONGRESS: Coup de Grace

"You have just done the most tragic thing in the history of the country. You have shown a reversal of the spirit Congress adopted from the beginning in trying to live within the budget. I feel this afternoon very much like the poet who said: 'I was at the funeral of all my hopes and I tumbled them one by one. Not a word was said, not a tear was shed. When the mournful task was done.'"

Thus did Virginia's Rep. Clifton Woodrum scold and eulogize his fellow congressmen who had just administered the coup de grace to a great and idealistic crusade: The 1940 congressional economy campaign. Until the senate added almost $300,000,000 to the farm appro-

WHITE HOUSE: Welles' Return

Down the bay at New York went some 25 reporters to meet the incoming Conte di Savoia. A few minutes later, in her card room, they faced a tall, dark-suited and handsome diplomat. Behind him was a 90-minute talk with Adolf Hitler; two meetings with Benito Mussolini; long and private discussions with Neville Chamberlain and Edouard Daladier.

Had he wished, Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles might have pulled big news from his bulging portfolio. Instead he said: "I am mighty glad to see you, and I'm glad to be home."

With that he caught a train for Washington where rumors were already mounting fast. Revived was the favorite chestnut that Sumner Welles' report held the key to Franklin Roosevelt's third term ambitions. Said the wisecracker: If Mr. Welles felt a European peace was in the air, the President would retire; otherwise, no. Judging by European news Mr. Welles read the American papers, it looked like a third term.

EUROPE: Telegram

"Thanks to the wisdom of the Soviet government and to our valiant Red Army, the plans of the British-French warmongers who attempted to fan the flames of war in northeastern Europe again failed."

Such was the telegram sent to Dictator Josef Stalin the day Russia made peace with Finland. It came not from friendly Germany but from hostile France—from Soviet Ambassador Jakob Souritz.

Two weeks later Envoy Souritz's recall at request of the French government created a mild diplomatic flurry that echoed across the English channel. There, Britain and Russia were at swords points over British seizure of a Soviet freighter in the Pacific. After several days the excitement had apparently died down, but not a big question mark.

UNAMERICANISM: 'Amazing'

Back into the headlines after his vacation in Florida went Texas' Rep. Martin Dies and his un-Americanism investigating committee. Current enemy: Russia and Communism. While Chairman Dies announced plans to "summon witnesses as fast as we can locate them," his operatives swooped down on Pittsburgh Communist headquarters in search of a Red who used the name "Franklin D. Roosevelt" on his party membership card.

Also hard at work was New Jersey's Rep. J. Parnell Thomas, a Dies aid, who told reporters that "any number" of school textbooks used in the U. S. contain "one subversive passage right after another." Taken with the surrounding material, they may mean little, but when they are put with other selected passages they fit together perfectly, and the result is amazing.

COURTS: Sherman Vengeance

At Washington last year an A. F. of L. teamsters' union allegedly "conspired" to make concrete mixing companies hire union teamsters to drive mixer trucks. About this time the anti-trust division of the department of justice began casting a suspicious eye at the sorry plight of America's building construction field. Taking a long shot, Trust Buster Thurman Arnold slapped a charge of Sherman act violation against Washington's teamsters. The allegation: That this squabble interrupted building operations, therefore the union had restrained trade.

Protesting loudly that unions do not fall under the Sherman act, A. F. of L. cooked up a demurrer and a motion to dismiss the indictment. In late March Federal District Judge Peyton Gordon surprised everybody by upholding the indictment, maintaining the Sherman act applies to unions where their objectives are not "legitimate."

Day before it struck at labor, the Sherman act floored a capitalist. A unanimous Supreme court ruling held that patent owners may not extend their legal monopoly to control their product after it reaches the dealers, and specifically may not impose price-fixing restrictions. Case on which the ruling was made was that of the Ethyl corporation, which has licensed 123 refiners to manufacture anti-knock gasoline with its patented tetraethyl lead fluid, and in turn has made the refiners license dealers who sell it to the consumer.

PAN-AMERICA: Strong Arm Stuff

At dawn 2,000 of Bolivia's 12,000 soldiers marched against the presidential palace at La Paz, resolved to assassinate the provisional president and seize the government. Out to meet them went Chief of Staff Gen. Antonio Ichazo with two machine guns and a handful of loyal officers. Into the enemy ranks went an army captain, recapturing tanks which the plotters had stolen. In a few minutes the war was ended.

AGRICULTURE

Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace asked congress to make it easier for farmers to get credit. Reason: One-fourth of all farm mortgages are in arrears. Meanwhile the department viewed with alarm Britain's decision to decrease imports of American cotton. Probable upshot: A revival of export subsidies.

AVIATION

Army and navy spokesmen revealed 1,600 warplanes have been sent to French and British forces in the past 14 months; that production is being rushed on 2,700 more.

NEWS QUIZ

Know your news? One hundred is perfect score on the following quiz. Deduct 20 points from each question you miss. Score of 60 or more is acceptable to excellent.

- 1. Above is the cannon-firing P-40 Curtiss pursuit ship, one of three new army models which France and Britain asked permission to buy. Did the army grant or refuse such permission? 2. (Each part of the following counts 10 points). Why were the following movie stars in the news: (a) Dorothy "Penny" Singleton; (b) Bob Burns? 3. True or False: Reprimanded by the state department after delivering an anti-Germanspeech, U. S. Minister to Canada James H. R. Cromwell resigned in a huff. 4. What record-shattering event made residents of Syracuse, Utica, Rochester, and other upper New York cities stay home against their will? 5. Choice: The new explosive of Lester P. Barlow, demonstrated before congressmen, is made of (a) liquid oxygen and carbon; (b) T. N. T., dynamite and carbon; (c) glycerin and rosewater.

News Quiz Answers

- 1. Permission was granted. 2. (A) "Penny" Singleton was hospitalized after an auto accident; (B) Bob Burns and others were sued by man who said he was kidnapped and forced to sign a denial that Burns had stolen his wife's affections. 3. False. He refused to resign. 4. The biggest blizzard since 1898 blocked all roads and piled drifts up to 30 feet in depth. 5. (A) is correct.

AVIATION: Achievement

Skies were overcast but radio reception was good. Pilot A. F. Olson nosed his Northwest airliner into the night toward Billings, Mont. Just west of Helena a bolt of lightning "appeared from nowhere," ripped the fabric from the right aileron and gave Pilot Olson, his two fellow crewmen and 21 passengers a good scare.

When Pilot Olson landed at Billings he also brought home the bacon. That night the nation's 21 commercial airlines completed a full year's operation, flying almost 88,000,000 miles with not a single crew or passenger fatality.

While operators snipped themselves on the back, actuaries figured this record made it safer to fly than to walk.

While Chairman Dies announced plans to "summon witnesses as fast as we can locate them," his operatives swooped down on Pittsburgh Communist headquarters in search of a Red who used the name "Franklin D. Roosevelt" on his party membership card. Also hard at work was New Jersey's Rep. J. Parnell Thomas, a Dies aid, who told reporters that "any number" of school textbooks used in the U. S. contain "one subversive passage right after another." Taken with the surrounding material, they may mean little, but when they are put with other selected passages they fit together perfectly, and the result is amazing.

COURTS: Sherman Vengeance

At Washington last year an A. F. of L. teamsters' union allegedly "conspired" to make concrete mixing companies hire union teamsters to drive mixer trucks. About this time the anti-trust division of the department of justice began casting a suspicious eye at the sorry plight of America's building construction field. Taking a long shot, Trust Buster Thurman Arnold slapped a charge of Sherman act violation against Washington's teamsters. The allegation: That this squabble interrupted building operations, therefore the union had restrained trade.

Protesting loudly that unions do not fall under the Sherman act, A. F. of L. cooked up a demurrer and a motion to dismiss the indictment. In late March Federal District Judge Peyton Gordon surprised everybody by upholding the indictment, maintaining the Sherman act applies to unions where their objectives are not "legitimate."

Day before it struck at labor, the Sherman act floored a capitalist. A unanimous Supreme court ruling held that patent owners may not extend their legal monopoly to control their product after it reaches the dealers, and specifically may not impose price-fixing restrictions. Case on which the ruling was made was that of the Ethyl corporation, which has licensed 123 refiners to manufacture anti-knock gasoline with its patented tetraethyl lead fluid, and in turn has made the refiners license dealers who sell it to the consumer.

Third Term Backers Dismayed By Roosevelt's Failure to Speak

Candidates Farley and Garner Confuse Issue for President's Followers; Hull-Jackson Combination Further Complicates Political Scene.

By WILLIAM BRUCKART WNU Service, National Press Bldg., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON.—The political situation that fails to provide a good laugh somewhere along the line is rare, indeed. There is, of course, that time-worn expression about politics making strange bedfellows, which frequently happens. There is just as much of a laugh for me, however, when these same strangers have got into the same bed—mentioned in the preceding sentence—and the slats fall out from under one of them. Actually, collapse of the slats gives anyone quite a sinking feeling, sort of an all-gone sensation.

And, so, I am writing this week about how fallen slats have forced some of the boys on the Democratic team to prepare a pallet on the floor. In some quarters, I have heard expressions within the last few days indicating that there is no particular shortage of pallets, but the would-be wheelhorses are having difficulty at discovering the proper floor.

It all came about in a series of events, some of which I have discussed in these columns before but, of necessity, must be repeated. Everyone knows, for instance, how the payroll boys, anxious to keep their jaws inside the trough, have been carrying on a great drive that they hope will eventuate in a third-term nomination for President Roosevelt. They have been doing right well by themselves, what with federal millions to spend; a patronage army mustered by Secretary Wallace who also pays farmers to let him show them how to farm; the vast relief legions and the other government agents of one kind or another, aggregating nearly a million persons, not to mention postmasters, United States attorneys and marshals and the others. They are, or they were, cocky and pretty happy about the whole thing.

There were such things as Vice President Garner's candidacy which was announced without strings attached and without any reference to whether Mr. Roosevelt should decide the country needs him, again. That candidacy was not welcome; nor was it taken seriously, at first. But someone among the amateur strategists within the corps of Presidential advisers suddenly awakened to the fact that the Garner candidacy might be regarded as serious. Well, there were deep discussions of what to do. Whatever else you can say about the true New Dealer, the hell-and-high-water New Dealer, it must be said that he is a serious person, and he plans his reform of the population with grave determination that what is about to be done for you is, of course, always for your best interests.

Whispering Campaign Sees Garner as Stooze

Out of these discussions has come a whispering campaign. It is exactly the same type of whispering campaign as was used against Herbert Hoover, when he was President. Only, these whispers are by Democrats about a Democrat. It has a technique that is well worked out and it gets results. That is, it gets results if it goes on long enough without anyone seeing what the game is.

In the current whispering campaign—and its source can be traced to an expert—Mr. Garner was pictured as just a stooze, just someone striving to break down the New Deal. He was pointed out as disloyal, a personally disloyal man despite 40 years as a Democratic battler, and his campaign was said to have "flattened out" to such an extent that everyone interested in the Democratic party could go home and go to bed—you know, the way that is done after an election victory is safely in the bag and the worry is over.

I am not prepared to argue that Mr. Garner's candidacy is, or is not, washed up. Just as a one-man guess, I have thought he was rather popular in the parts of the country where I have traveled in recent months. But that is not the story about which I am writing.

STRANGE BEDFELLOWS

Strange political bedfellows result in interesting politics, according to William Bruckart, who today discusses the third term issue in relationship to the Roosevelt "coat-tail riders." The President's failure to clarify his stand has left third term advocates in an embarrassing position, according to this veteran Washington commentator.

The story at this time is what has happened in another direction. In the efforts of the strategists to make the fences safe against the Garner bulls, they forgot about the man who built the Democratic machine of which these strategists are a part. In other words, they forgot about "Big Jim" Farley, postmaster general and chairman of the Democratic national committee. They apparently overlooked Mr. Farley, except that they did a lot of things contrary to his idea of smart politics and fairness to those who had been riding herd in the pastures where votes grow. Mr. Farley has not been happy about the whole thing, and he has been reported on several occasions as being prepared to resign.

Jim Farley

Farley's Candidacy Surprise to Leaders

And, now, what confronts the boys? Just an announcement by Mr. Farley that he is an out-and-out candidate for the presidential nomination of the Democratic party, an announcement that ended with "that's that!" When Mr. Farley made that statement to the party leaders in Massachusetts recently, he pulled out more bed slats than you can imagine. He did not say "if the Chief does not run." He said—he was running—"and that's that!"

There are not many folks in the country who do not realize that, as a machine politician, Mr. Farley has few equals. He has a personal following that he has built up throughout the nation, men whom he calls by their first names and who write to him as "Dear Jim."

The ranks of those who jumped too soon include a lot of senators and representatives who had arrived at their places on the payroll by virtue of a happy ride on the Roosevelt coattails. But the Roosevelt coattails might not have borne up under the strain, except for the Farley direction. That is what the early bandwagon crowd is now trying to measure. They are looking around to see whether their pallet should be on the Farley floor, the Garner floor or the Roosevelt floor, and they are casting squints through partially open doors to see whether there might be comparative peace and political quiet in the next room where the second-choice delegates may have to go at convention time.

Hull-Jackson Team May Enter 1940 Race

This whole stage scene is further complicated by continued stories that Mr. Roosevelt looks upon Secretary Hull of the state department as a "good man," but with sort of a side glance that "some good liberal like Bob Jackson (the attorney general) should be nominated with him." Of course, there is no way to substantiate the story that Mr. Roosevelt wants Hull and Jackson as the team. He has said nothing. I have said before, and there is no reason to change the belief, that Mr. Roosevelt is not going to say anything until after convention time. In the meantime, the folks who owe their political places to Mr. Farley and who have gone off the deep end for Mr. Roosevelt as a third-term candidate are spending sleepless nights. They are afraid to make up their pallets on the floor anywhere in fear of the boogeyman.

As I said at the beginning, nearly every political situation contains a good laugh. It is always the more amusing when you see the amateurs trying to play the game of professional. The final scene on the stage may not have Garner or Farley or Roosevelt in the center to take the acclaim of the audience, but Mr. Garner is going ahead and Mr. Farley is going ahead, and the third-term leaders are practically helpless since Mr. Roosevelt steadfastly declines to make a public statement on his intentions. He just lets the slats stay on the floor.

CORDILL HULL

It is simple, of course, to understand their distress. What, for instance, would be the position of those fellows, and their relation to the jobs they now hold, if Mr. Farley would be the nominee? They thought they could kick the Garner candidacy out of the window, safely. But that question is secondary now, for the Farley candidacy adds up to names on the payroll—and what is a local party leader without his patronage list? Some of the walls have taken the shape of a demand that Mr. Farley resign as party chairman—to ease their pain.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON (Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—When young "Red" Phillips played guard on the University of Oklahoma football team, in 1915, he was scaled down to a mere 280 pounds, but in spite of that, managed to root through the line like a high-powered snowshovel. Sometimes he wouldn't stop when the whistle blew and they had a hard time to keep him inside the state lines. Today, as Gov. Leon C. Phillips of Oklahoma, he weighs in at 290 and is even more abandoned in his routine touting guard play. He orders out the National Guard to repulse the invasion of the federals, trying to build a $20,000,000 dam on the Grand river in his state.

Game of Politics in Another Story For Football Star

This, one of his many scrimmages, is part of his waxing battle for state rights against what he considers the illegal encroachment of the federal government. He is an apostate New Dealer, having defeated the similarly belligerent "Alfalpa Bill" Murray on the issue of New Deal adherence in the 1938 Democratic primary.

Now he has switched teams. With a big cigar protruding from his lips at a cocky angle, biting it to shreds when he gets steamed up, he says the New Deal is a social service outfit, and social workers are "sorority sisters." Like the "Fiery and Snuffy" of the Oklahoma cowboy song, he's "rarin' to go and he sends word to the war department that he won't let any invader set foot on Oklahoma soil."

He started to be a preacher, but switched to the law. Born 50 years ago in Grant county, Missouri, along the covered wagon trail, he was taken to Oklahoma at the age of two and grew up in the Cheyenne and Arapaho Indian country. He attended Epworth university one year, studying, presumably militant, Christianity, and then entered the law school of the University of Oklahoma. His fame as "Red" Phillips, the bone-crushing, man-eating football player, gave him a fast running start in politics, and he soon landed in the state legislature. He made his campaign for the governorship on an economy platform, sweeping the state. The citizens still know him as "Red," and the "Yea Red!" yell of his college days serves for his political campaigns.

WHEN I knew Death Valley

Scotty and his dog "Goldbug," around Goldfield, Rhyolite and Windy Gap, there was a story that the dog had made a great fuss over a stranger at Casey's hotel, and a theory that this stranger must have been Scotty's mysterious backer. The visitor, however, was just passing through and was never identified, and Scotty, even in moments of abandon in Tex Rickard's place, continued to insist that he had a "chimney," or "blow-out" of gold nuggets, samples of which he carried in his overalls pocket. It was not until years later that the man who financed the Death Valley Scotty saga, just for his own amusement it would seem, was A. M. Johnson, the head of a big insurance firm in Chicago.

All Scotty's Cash Is 'Loaned' to Him By Chicago Man

As Scotty and his backer round out 40 years of a beautiful friendship, Scotty informs the federal tax collectors that he has $100,000 in gold certificates buried somewhere in the Panamint mountains, and that the source of his mysterious wealth has unfailingly been Mr. Johnson. From the same source came the $3,000,000 Spanish castle which Scotty built in the heart of Death valley several years ago, according to his previous admissions.

The unique partnership opened with a $2,500 grubstake. He not only wrote a check, but followed Scotty to Death valley. The first mine didn't pan out, but Mr. Johnson was having fun. They fought bandits, got clubby with the Piute Indians and rooted around in old prospect holes. Thereafter came Scotty's famous train ride and the deepening mystery of his treasure cache. They kept their secret until about 1930. The pooch, "Goldbug" and Scotty's extraordinarily intelligent white mule both died of old age. But the original partnership still goes on.

Mr. Johnson, now 68 years old, is cut somewhat on the same lines as Henry Ford, but with an Achilles' Heel of Romance. He was born and grew up in a small town in Ohio, went to Cornell university, did a jolt of railroading in Arkansas and engaged in mining lead and zinc near Joplin, Mo. In Chicago he augmented an inherited fortune in the insurance business. He belongs to a string of good clubs in Chicago, is a sagacious and conservative citizen, and, from all accounts, has bankrolled Scotty just for the fun of it.

VIRGINIA'S WOODRUM He felt poetic.

priation bill, house skinflints had slashed more than that from early budgetary requests. They had saved almost enough to avoid the $450,000,000 new tax levy which Franklin Roosevelt wanted in order to avert a boost in the $45,000,000,000 debt limit.

But senate spendthriftiness now found its way to the house. Upped $35,651,058 above the President's budget request were CCC and NYA funds, and it was this particular increase that made Virginia's Woodrum wax poetic. Next item would be relief, for which the President asked $1,000,000,000; but everyone knew that this figure would be increased. Sole remaining bulwark of economy was the house appropriations committee, which was rumored about to slash $60,000,000 from the navy bill.

Meanwhile it was a safe guess that congress would shun new taxes this session. Reasons: (1) It's an election year; (2) the debt limit won't be exceeded until next year, and a new congress will then be in session.

Also in congress: Flayed by customarily ardent New Dealers like Key Pittman, Joe O'Mahoney and Pat McCarran, a resolution for three-year extension of the administration's reciprocal trade act neared its showdown in the senate. Chief quibble: Whether the senate should retain ratification power. Franklin Roosevelt promised to veto the bill if the senate did.

The perennial and controversial anti-lynching bill, already passed by the house, went to the senate floor after an okay by the judiciary committee.

Inserted in the Hatch anti-politics bill by a house committee was a clause forbidding expenditures of more than $3,000,000 by any national political party in any campaign.

Hearings opened on the chain store tax bill, flaming torch and cause celebre of Texas' Rep. Wright Patman. First blow: Weaver Myers, legal staffman for the congressional committee on internal revenue, opined that the measure was "clearly unconstitutional." Rea-

POLITICS — At Dallas, ex-Gov. Miriam A. ("Ma") Ferguson announced she was willing to run for a third term.

JAPAN — At Tokyo, Rear Adm. Shozaburo Kanazawa viewed with "grave concern" a report that the U. S. is strengthening its Philippine naval forces.

INCOME — Salaries and other money paid U. S. individuals in February totaled $5,554,000,000, a 6 per cent increase over February, 1939.

AGRICULTURE — Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace asked congress to make it easier for farmers to get credit. Reason: One-fourth of all farm mortgages are in arrears. Meanwhile the department viewed with alarm Britain's decision to decrease imports of American cotton. Probable upshot: A revival of export subsidies.

AVIATION — Army and navy spokesmen revealed 1,600 warplanes have been sent to French and British forces in the past 14 months; that production is being rushed on 2,700 more.

In Paris, Premier Paul Reynaud's new cabinet made an auspicious start in its aggressive campaign against Germany. Summoned home one by one were all of France's diplomats, chief among them Ambassador to Italy Andre Francois-Poncet. Reason: Premier Reynaud will do his best to keep Italy away from Berlin and Russia. Meanwhile Great Britain was also starting trade negotiations with Rome, but more important for the moment was creation of a five-man "inner cabinet."

The War

For two days the British blockade worked its way into the Skagerak and Kattegat and threatened to cut off Germany's merchant trade with Scandinavia. There was still a chance it might succeed, but the Nazis began fierce warfare in the North sea with the apparent purpose of diverting British attention from the blockade. Meanwhile spring flowers began blossoming on the western front.

PAN-AMERICA: Strong Arm Stuff

At dawn 2,000 of Bolivia's 12,000 soldiers marched against the presidential palace at La Paz, resolved to assassinate the provisional president and seize the government. Out to meet them went Chief of Staff Gen. Antonio Ichazo with two machine guns and a handful of loyal officers. Into the enemy ranks went an army captain, recapturing tanks which the plotters had stolen. In a few minutes the war was ended.

SAUCE MUST COMPLEMENT THE FOOD

(See Recipes Below)

'Sauce for the Goose'

The function of a sauce may be either to accent or to soften a flavor; it may be used to enrich a food, or to moisten it; the sauce may be sweet or savory; it may be hot or cold. Whatever its purpose or classification, the sauce must be smooth in flavor as well as smooth in consistency. It should, in addition, offer contrast in color, flavor, in texture, or in temperature.

Sauces are "sweet" or "savory," depending upon whether they are used for desserts, or are served with meat, vegetables, egg dishes or macaroni.

French cooks, to whom sauces are sacred, use two basic recipes or "mother sauces" from which all their savory sauces are developed; no simple white sauce or sauce merely thickened with browned flour, for them!

To serve its purpose, a sauce must complement the food—rather than disguising it. That means subtle seasoning, and just the right consistency.

Plain white sauce—the standby of so many cooks—should seldom be served "as is." It's a foundation, really, which is quite likely to be flat in flavor, and very much too thick! Judiciously seasoned, it can be used in dozens of different ways. Flavor it with sharp, grated cheese, or add condensed tomato soup to it, for character; use a drop or two of Worcestershire or a half teaspoon of prepared mustard; or—and this is a secret we might well borrow from our French cousins—substitute soup stock for part of the milk, in making the sauce.

Orange Sauce.

1/4 cup sugar
1 1/2 tablespoons cornstarch
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup boiling water
1/4 cup orange juice
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon orange rind
1 tablespoon butter
Mix sugar, cornstarch and salt. Add boiling water slowly to this dry mixture, stirring constantly. Place in saucepan and cook over low flame until mixture is clear. Remove from fire and add orange juice, lemon juice, orange rind and butter.

Delicious Sauce.

1/2 cup heavy cream (whipped)
1 egg
1/4 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon vanilla extract
Beat white and yolk of egg separately. Add sugar to beaten yolk, then add beaten egg white. Last of all add whipped cream and vanilla extract. Serve at once.

Italian Tomato Sauce.

Into a deep frying pan place a No. 2 1/2 can of tomatoes, 1 green pepper chopped fine, 1 large onion chopped fine, 1/2 lb. ground round steak, 2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce, 1 teaspoon tabasco sauce, 1/4 teaspoon ground allspice, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon black pepper, 2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese and 2 cups water. Cook slowly for approximately 2 hours. Cover cooked spaghetti with sauce and sprinkle with grated Parmesan cheese.

Easy-to-Make Hollandaise Sauce.

Into top of double boiler place the juice of 1 lemon, 4 egg yolks, 1/2 cup butter and a dash of paprika. Beat constantly over boiling water until thick.

Barbecue Sauce.

1 large onion
1 clove garlic
1/2 cup catsup
1/2 cup Worcestershire sauce
1 No. 2 can tomatoes
1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon sugar
1/2 cup vinegar
Red pepper, black pepper, salt and mustard—to taste
Cut the onion and garlic into fine pieces. Strain the tomatoes and add one can of water. Add the other ingredients and bring to a boil. Serve over any meat. This is also good for any fowl or game.

Cheese Souffle With Tomato Cream Sauce.

3 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
1 1/4 cups milk
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
1/2 pound sharp cheese
4 eggs

Melt the butter in a saucepan, add the flour and cook until frothy. Then add the milk and cook together until the sauce has thickened. Measure out 1/2 cup of cream sauce and set aside to use in the sauce. To the remaining cream sauce in the pan add salt, dry mustard and cheese and heat until the cheese is melted. Add beaten egg yolks. Cool. Beat egg whites until stiff and fold into mixture. Pour into a casserole (about 8 inches in diameter) and bake 1 hour to 1 hour and 15 minutes in a very moderate (310-degree) oven. Serve at once and put a spoonful of tomato cream sauce over each portion.

Tomato Cream Sauce.

1 can condensed tomato soup
1/2 cup cream sauce (saved from first part of recipe)
Combine the tomato soup and sauce and heat, but do not boil.

Hot Butterscotch Sauce.

2 cups light brown sugar
1/2 cup coffee cream
1/4 cup light corn syrup
1/4 teaspoon salt
Blend all the above ingredients and place in saucepan. Cook slowly, stirring at frequent intervals, until mixture reaches the soft ball stage (236 degrees). Serve very hot over ice cream.

'Busy-Day Meals.'

Are there busy days in your household, when there's very little time for preparing and serving meals? If there are, you'll be interested in what Eleanor Howe has to tell you about "Busy-Day Meals." Watch for her column next week—and for the menu and tested recipes you'll find in it. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

'Magic' Butter Rolls

Speaking of "busy-day" meals, here's a recipe that will make one and one-half dozen "magic" butter rolls in a hurry. This is what you need:

3 cups general purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup butter or other shortening
1/2 cup evaporated milk
1/4 cup water
2 cakes yeast
1 tablespoon sugar
3 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1/2 cup sugar
1 cup nuts (cut fine)
To 1 1/2 cups flour add salt and shortening, combining as for pie crust. Combine milk and hot water. When lukewarm add the yeast and 1 tablespoon sugar, blend well and then stir into the first mixture, beating until very smooth. Cover and let stand 20 minutes. Then add the eggs and beat vigorously. Beat in the vanilla and remaining 1 1/2 cups flour. Stir until smooth. The dough will be stiff but slightly sticky. Tie the dough loosely in a square of cheesecloth and drop it into a pail of cool water (70 to 80 degrees). In about an hour the dough will rise to the top of the water. When it does, remove it from the pail. Knead lightly. Cut into small pieces, roll in sugar and chopped nuts. Twist pieces as desired and let stand for 5 minutes. Bake in hot oven about 20 minutes.

WOOD TIES STILL LEAD

Foresters in the United States service point out that although more than 2,500 patents have been issued in the last 50 years for using substitute products for railroad tie materials, wood ties still are most widely used. Nearly a billion wooden ties are in service, it is estimated. An annual renewal of 100 ties to the mile is considered average, although some railroads have yearly replacements of but 50 to 75 ties to the mile. Three-fourth of the 50 million used annually are treated before they are laid in roadbeds.

Program in The Control of Syphilis

A successful syphilis control program may be simply stated. Its aim should be finding and effectively treating all cases of infectious syphilis in any community. This means all cases of syphilis of less than five years duration, including early congenital syphilis, and all women having syphilis during pregnancy. All other cases of syphilis can be forgotten, as a communicable disease problem. We agree with Keys, who states "that eight out of ten persons with syphilis cease to be infectious after three years, even though they do not receive treatment; 99 out of 100 cease to be infectious after four years and the proportion of infections from persons with syphilis of more than five years standing is infinitesimal."

It is a responsibility of our health departments to supply follow-up service where requested for infectious cases of syphilis lapsing treatment. It is not necessarily their responsibility to do so for late non infectious cases.

What, therefore, is the status of present efforts at syphilis control? We are recognizing only 25% of our early cases, and effectively treating only 25% of these. This means that only one case of early syphilis in 16 is adequately controlled.

"Such tests and reports shall not be made a matter of public record but shall be available to local health officers and to physicians treating the patient."

It is felt that this law will accomplish much towards the eradication of congenital syphilis in Michigan. The test should be a part of the routine examination of every pregnant woman, regardless of her social or financial status, at the time of the first examination. It is hoped that lay educational efforts will help in bringing such women to their physicians early in pregnancy. If the presence of syphilis is recognized by the fifth month of pregnancy and adequate treatment given, the birth of a normal baby is almost assured. This is the highest type of preventive medicine. The discovery of the presence of syphilis at delivery through a cord Wassermann, although desirable if previous test could not be made, is inadequate, since the most highly effective treatment for congenital syphilis is preventive treatment given the mother before delivery. The new birth certificates are now in use. It is hoped that the great majority of our birth certificates will show that the test has been made early in pregnancy.

In the first place, we are going to treat cases who have had syphilis for less than four years. Exceptions to this rule will be: we will treat all cases of syphilis for prenatal women; we will also treat cases that show some special sign, that are infectious or that present such symptoms as syphilis of the eye. Aside from these, we will not undertake the treatment of syphilis.

Act 272, P. A., 1919 regarding all records concerning venereal disease are declared not to be public records.

EMERGENCY CROP AND FEED LOANS

Emergency crop and feed loans for 1940 are now available to farmers in Antrim County and applications for these loans are now being received at County Agent's office, Walter G. Kirkpatrick, Bellaire, by Sabin Hooper, Field Supervisor of the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Section of the Farm Credit Administration.

These loans will be made, as in the past, only to farmers whose cash requirements are small and who cannot obtain a loan from any other source, including production credit associations, banks, or other private concerns or individuals.

As in former years, the money loaned will be limited to the applicant's necessary cash needs in preparing and cultivating his 1940 crops or in purchasing or producing feed for his livestock.

Borrowers who obtain loans for the production of cash crops are required to give security a first lien on the crop financed or, in the case of loans for the purchase or production of feed for the livestock, a first lien on the livestock to be fed.

Strange Facts

Cheer Warriors The Praying Mantis Good Warriors

The Chinese people recently responded to a government movement and wrote 500,000 letters to their fighting men to cheer, encourage and assure them that their countrymen appreciated their efforts and were solidly behind them.

Of the numerous superstitions connected with the praying mantis, Mantis religiosa, few are older or more widespread than the belief that, when it assumes a kneeling position, it either sees an angel or hears the rustle of its wings.

Through its Good Neighbor Policy, the United States now has military and naval missions or military advisers in Argentina, Brazil, Colombia, Guatemala, Haiti, Nicaragua and Peru. Stradivarius Violins

The only Stradivarius instruments that are now being scientifically preserve for present and future generations are the three violins, a viola and a violoncello in the Library of Congress. They are kept in an air-conditioned case to insure their proper physical care; and they are played frequently, by famous artists in concerts given in the building, to retain and keep alive their beautiful tones.—Collier's.

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood. You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, grating up night leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination. Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by formal medical authorities. Ask your neighbor!

TALBOT MUNDY—WNU SERVICE

THE STORY THUS FAR

Captain Carl Norwood has been sent from his native England to the Kadur River district in India, along with his indispensable manservant, Moses O'Leary, soldier of fortune. Norwood's job is to survey the district to determine whether a valuable secret diamond mine belongs to the temple priests or to the ruler, the Maharajah of Kadur. Norwood calls on the British Residency to pay his initial respects. On his way he catches a glimpse of two women in a palace carriage, one of whom is young and beautiful. The other woman he knows to be the Maharanees of Kadur. O'Leary later tells him that the young woman is an American girl named Lynn Harding, who with her aunt, Mrs. Deborah Harding, is a guest at the palace. On a sightseeing tour Mrs. Harding sprains an ankle, and sends to the palace for aid. Prince Rundhia, handsome, spoiled nephew of the rulers, comes to her rescue, and takes her back to the palace where he meets Lynn. At a banquet that night in the palace, attended by Captain Norwood, Mrs. Harding takes one of the native doctor's pills, and becomes violently ill. She is placed in bed and arrangements are made for Lynn to move out of the quarters with her aunt and stay with the Maharanees. That evening Prince Rundhia attempts to make love to Lynn. She is unwilling to listen to him, and at the crucial moment Norwood appears on the scene, much to Rundhia's disgust. O'Leary has located the secret entrance to the diamond mine which is being worked by the temple priests. He takes Norwood to the mine, where death is narrowly averted when a live cobra is thrown in Norwood's face. Later Norwood visits the Brahmin priests, one of whom slyly slips a packet of diamonds in his pocket, unknown to Norwood. They are intended as a bribe. While Norwood is talking to Lynn the diamonds fall from his pocket. She notices them, and sees that he is surprised. Later, when Rundhia tries to make love to her, she mentions the diamonds in order to divert his mind. She realizes it was a mistake. Rundhia, though chagrined by Lynn's attitude, is elated to hear of the diamonds. He goes immediately to the British Residency, and tells the Resident of the diamonds.

"Rundhia, you are talking dangerously," said the Resident. "Yes. Whose danger? It would smell sweet, wouldn't it? I was riding early this morning. I saw Norwood on his way to the river—overheard him say that priests were waiting for him near the river. And I happen to know he was down by the river after midnight last night. Now he carries diamonds in his tunic pocket." "Have you seen them?" "No." "Who did?" "I am well informed about it." "Look here, Rundhia. You don't expect me, do you, to credit an unsupported charge, based on hearsay, against an officer who has a perfectly clean record?" "Would you prefer that I take my informant elsewhere?" "Who was your informant?" "I refuse to tell you." The Resident rose from his chair: "I hope the drive home won't affect you disagreeably!" Rundhia actually started for the door. As he drew abreast, the Resident said: "Hello, I notice your nose is bleeding. Have you been in an accident?" "Ask Norwood!" "You mean to tell me—? Do you know where Norwood is now?" "At the palace, in conference, perhaps fishing for a larger bribe from someone else." "Now, now, Rundhia! Who was your informant about those diamonds?" "I might tell you in strict confidence." "I promise nothing. But I will believe nothing unless you tell me your informant's name." "Between you and me, it was Miss Lynn Harding." "How should she know?" "She saw them. Norwood is in love with her." "You know that?" "Any fool could guess it. I think Norwood casually let her see them to impress her. He is mad about her. Don't quote me. It's up to you now."

ably fix that. And she's brave. She has an iron will. She told me to pack my things." "And will you do it?" "What in the world else can I do? I haven't a sous marquis to my name. Aunty gives me pocket money—no more." The Maharanees smiled: "Yes, Lack of money can make even Rundhia obey. But it is a limited power. It can be broken." "So I think. But it remains to be seen," Lynn answered. "You are of age? You don't look it, but you are, are you not? If I invite you to remain in the palace as my guest, will you accept?" "How can I?" "It would give me very great pleasure to provide you with more than pocket money. I can easily invent a salaried position. You have been such a comfort, such a joy to me, that your companionship would more than justify a requisition on the table." "Take a look at those, sir. I want to turn them over to you. I would like to get a receipt, and to make a statement in writing." The Resident opened the envelope and poured the diamonds into his hand. He made a wry face and poured them back again: "Nine?" "I haven't counted them." "They look valuable. Where did you get them?" "I am not absolutely certain. I think they must have been slipped into my pocket, early this morning, by one of the unofficial representatives of the temple authorities, who met me by appointment, near the waterfall." "What were you doing?" "Inviting myself for a visit of inspection of the mine. They met me to discuss it." "And you say they dropped these in your pocket?" "I believe so. It's a pretty obvious attempt to bribe me to write a report in their favor." "But they said nothing? Not even a hint?" "One of them, I remember, did say he hoped my judgment wouldn't be affected by worthless arguments. He rather dwelt on the word worthless, but it made no special impression on me at the time." "Very well, Captain Norwood, I will take your statement." The Resident glanced at his watch. "You're rather late with it. There seems to me to be needed some explanation when you called this morning." "I didn't know, at that time, that I had them in my pocket." The Resident's face was expressionless: "You had better be sure to include that in your statement. It's credible, of course, in view of your record; but people might draw inferences. Don't you think so?" "You suggest, sir?" "Nothing. I am offering advice."

"Well, perhaps I was mistaken."

CHAPTER IX

The Maharanees' maid, who changed Lynn's frock, was one of those who had been loaned to Aunty Harding, because she knew English. It was impossible not to believe that the Maharanees already knew more than the facts about Lynn's break with her aunt. The maid left the bedroom. The Maharanees sat by the veranda window, staring past the edge of the sun-blind into the garden. There was hardly a sound except the purring of the two electric fans. Meanwhile, she smoked a cigarette and watched the Maharanees, who seemed to Lynn to be considering, not what to say, but how to say what was crowding her throat. "Maharanees dear, I wish you wouldn't feel so upset." "How you must despise us." "Please! I don't. To go away leaving you thinking anything as untrue as that would be dreadful. I am not even angry with Rundhia." "I am more than angry with him," said the Maharanees. "I am ashamed, Lynn, is it true—that has been told to me—that Mrs. Harding saw Rundhia kiss you in the garden?" "Yes. That, too, was my fault. I could have prevented it. I knew Aunty was looking. I did it to annoy her." "Not because you like Rundhia?" "Oh, I like him. He is the handsomest thing I have ever seen, and amusing. I was playing with fire, I know that." The Maharanees' worried face relaxed into a wise smile: "My dear, you don't know Rundhia if you think he won't try it again! Unless—is it true—it has been told to me—that Mrs. Harding has decided not to stay here any longer?" "First train, and first steamer for home," Lynn answered. "Marching orders. At the moment, it hurts her to move and she can't keep food down. But the doctor can probably fix that. And she's brave. She has an iron will. She told me to pack my things." "And will you do it?" "What in the world else can I do? I haven't a sous marquis to my name. Don't you think so?" "You suggest, sir?" "Nothing. I am offering advice."

ted artfully evasive perjury. Norwood sat at the foot of the long table, looked, listened, and made endless notes.

They weren't half through by lunch-time. They gave him tiffin in the palace, all by himself, in a silent room, where a clock ticked as loud as fork against plate and he caught himself eating in time to the hypnotic beat, thinking of diamonds, Curried mutton and rice. Whiskey and soda. Sweet cakes. Fruit. Coffee. A cigar. And then back to the Council room to listen to more arguments that were interrupted by the arrival of Rundhia's Bengali physician, shepherding a servant who carried a big blue goblet on a plate. The Maharajah swallowed his tonic and immediately became less nervous. Then he asked, in English, presumably for Norwood's benefit: "How is Mrs. Harding?"

Norwood cared less than nothing about Mrs. Harding's feelings at the moment, but he couldn't help hearing the doctor's answer: "She is not well. But I cannot persuade her to take medicine. She is petulant—very."

The Maharajah tried to seem incredulous of any lady's petulance: "Convey my solicitude."

Norwood managed to escape from the conference soon after that. He was away on the horse before the sun woke up. He cantered to the Residency, where he had to wait in the office an exasperating fifteen minutes, until the Resident could be awakened from his afternoon snooze and could get tubbed and come downstairs.

"May I see you alone, sir?" The Resident nodded. He didn't appear to enjoy the prospect. They went into the darkened library, and Norwood sat in the same chair that Rundhia had occupied. He laid the black paper package of diamonds on the table.

"Take a look at those, sir. I want to turn them over to you. I would like to get a receipt, and to make a statement in writing."

The Resident opened the envelope and poured the diamonds into his hand. He made a wry face and poured them back again: "Nine?"

"I haven't counted them." "They look valuable. Where did you get them?"

"I am not absolutely certain. I think they must have been slipped into my pocket, early this morning, by one of the unofficial representatives of the temple authorities, who met me by appointment, near the waterfall."

"What were you doing?" "Inviting myself for a visit of inspection of the mine. They met me to discuss it."

"And you say they dropped these in your pocket?" "I believe so. It's a pretty obvious attempt to bribe me to write a report in their favor."

"But they said nothing? Not even a hint?" "One of them, I remember, did say he hoped my judgment wouldn't be affected by worthless arguments. He rather dwelt on the word worthless, but it made no special impression on me at the time."

"Very well, Captain Norwood, I will take your statement." The Resident glanced at his watch. "You're rather late with it. There seems to me to be needed some explanation when you called this morning."

"I didn't know, at that time, that I had them in my pocket." The Resident's face was expressionless: "You had better be sure to include that in your statement. It's credible, of course, in view of your record; but people might draw inferences. Don't you think so?"

"You suggest, sir?" "Nothing. I am offering advice."

It might be inferred that you accepted these diamonds and said nothing about them until you learned, let us say at the palace, that someone knew about it; and that then you hurried to me in a rather belated attempt to establish innocence. I am simply pointing out to you what might be inferred if you are not particularly careful."

Norwood stared at the package of diamonds. He thought a minute. Then he looked straight in the Resident's eyes and spoke quite calmly: "You appear to me to be hinting. Had you heard about these before I brought them to you?"

"Yes." "Who was your informant?" "It was confidential."

"You suspect me of having accepted a bribe?" "I reserve my opinion."

"Very well, sir, you admit that someone accused me. I want the name of the informant. Otherwise I demand my arrest and a court martial."

"Keep your temper. You have already been reported to me for punching someone's nose."

"Whose?" "My informant's nose was bleeding."

"Very well, who was he? I have punched no one's nose. Someone has been lying to you about me. Surely I have the right to know who he is."

"Captain Norwood, on your word of honor, are you telling the truth?" "Yes."

"Well, perhaps I was mistaken. Perhaps I inferred it. I forgot the exact words. Prince Rundhia certainly intended me to understand that you had made his nose bleed."

"Oh. So it was Rundhia. I wonder how the devil Rundhia knew I had those diamonds."

"Well, did you call on Miss Harding this morning?" Norwood stared. He looked almost as if he had been punched in the jaw.

"Yes," he said, after a moment. "I called on Mrs. Harding to take her a bottle of fresh iodine. Miss Harding saw the diamonds when they fell from my pocket."

"Is it true that you have been paying her a lot of attention?" "No."

"You have not had words with Rundhia about her?" "Yes. I did tell Rundhia, last night after midnight, that if anything should happen to Lynn Harding, I would hold him answerable."

"Why should you have said that?" "Because I like her. I suspected Rundhia's intentions."

"Are you sure she is nice? Why should she have told Rundhia?" "I don't believe she did. Rundhia lied, if you ask me. Perhaps a servant told him."

"Just a moment, sir. This occurs to me. Is Rundhia exactly in good standing?" "No. Confidentially, speaking off the record, I took a recent occasion to warn him that one more indiscretion might endanger his succession to the throne."

"I suppose," said Norwood, "it would be a great deal easier, and would cause a lot less trouble, to veto him now than to have to depose him later on, after he had come to the throne?"

"Why, yes, certainly. Even the right of veto isn't anything we like to exercise. To depose a ruling prince, after once having recognized his right to the throne—well, it has been done. But it isn't good policy, if it can be avoided. You see, the alternative to Rundhia is Jodha, who is an invalid and likely to be childless. We might be accused of deposing Rundhia in order to grab Kadur. No. If Rundhia should succeed to the throne, his position would be fairly secure."

Frock for Home Or Street Wear

THIS charming little frock has such a beguilingly flattering figure-line, and it looks so crisply tailored, that you can appropriately make it up in spun rayon or thin wool for runabout, as well as in gingham or percale for round-the-house. Its quaint simplicity looks especially attractive in gay prints and high shades, punctuated by buttons and braid. Full over the bosom, high-shouldered, with a tiny waist finished by a sash bow, pattern 1909-B is just about as new and becoming as it can be—definite proof that, be it ever so simple, everything you wear this spring has to be very feminine and pretty. This is a particularly easy dress to make. Try it, if you haven't done much sewing, and have been wistfully wishing you could. You CAN, with these easy patterns. Detailed sew chart included. Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1909-B is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, and 40. Corresponding bust measurements 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, and 40. Size 14 (32) requires 3 3/4 yards of 36-inch material without nap; 1 1/2 yards braid. Send order to:

Pretty Frocks for Your Lamp Shades

A CHANGE of lamp shades gives any room a lift, and here is a smart, new transformation trick. You start with a plain parchment paper or bristol board shade, preferably white; then you make a full skirt of some exciting fabric to cover it. By sewing snaps inside and also to the top of the shade, it is easy to remove these for laundering or cleaning. Taffeta, lawn, net, organdy, swiss, gingham—all are used and the imagination runs riot in trimmings. Frills or double ruchings at the top and bottom are favorites. Edges are pinked or machine stitched in heavy contrasting thread. Contrasting shirring holds the fullness at the top; and color is added by means of fancy braids, ribbons or bias tape, according to type. Sewing Book 1 and 4, contain directions for making a foundation frame, or you may use a shade that you have.

After Second Trip Thief's Conscience Awakened

The shop keeper was wondering how to dispose of three large cheeses which had spoiled. He instructed his assistant to put one of them in the back yard to see if anyone would take it during the night. The assistant did so, and next morning he reported the cheese had disappeared. That evening the second cheese was deposited in the yard, and in the morning it had gone. On the third evening the remaining cheese was carried out. "I suppose," said the manager the next morning, "that the third cheese has gone?" "No," was the reply, "the other two have come back."

Star Dust

STAGE SCREEN RADIO
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

RAY MILLAND would like to keep a controlling hand on the scripts of all pictures in which he appears from now on. Truth came far too close to fiction to suit him a while ago, and he hasn't quite recovered yet.

He'd finished work in "Untamed" and gone to Sun Valley for a week's rest. Mrs. Milland stayed in Hollywood, as they were expecting the arrival of their first child some weeks later. Then he received word that he'd have to race the stork if he wanted to be in Hollywood when it appeared. He started for Boise, Idaho, in a car, also in a blizzard. At Boise he chartered the only plane available, and was grounded at Salt Lake City. He telephoned the hospital, in Hollywood, and learned that he had a son.

In "Untamed" he'd braved a blizzard to reach the bedside of a sick sweetheart. If it's all the same to the scenario writers, he'd rather have less harrowing experiences.

Hollywood's most famous mixed foursome—Paulette Goddard, Ruby Keeler, Bing Crosby and Bob Hope—will probably have difficulty in sticking to picture-making if they all find themselves in the cast of "Follow Through." They played together in a charity match last autumn, and it was then that the idea of teaming them in a picture was suggested. They're all experts, and if they can resist staging a match that the script doesn't call for they'll be doing well.

Announcer Del Sharbutt intended to be a musician, but instead has become widely known as announcer for such programs as "Myrt and Marge," "Ask-It-Basket" and "Lanny Ross." The musician in him has come out at last, though; he's written two songs of Hit Parade proportions within a few weeks—"The Kitten with the Big Green Eyes," and "I'd Love To."

Ginger Rogers, who has millions of fans now, had only one in 1929; he was John L. Cass, who recorded the sound of "Primrose Path," in which she co-stars with Joel McCrea. About 10 years ago RCA made a two-reeler called "Campus Sweethearts," in New York, to try out a new wide-film process. Two movie unknowns, Ginger Rogers and Rudy Vallee, were featured.

The director didn't care for the song that Ginger had been rehearsing, but Cass insisted on recording it. "She had everything, including a swell mike voice," he says. "I knew she was star dust—and how!"

Want to see what happens to winners of beauty contests? Claire James, who was runner-up in the Miss America contest last year, is playing a bit in Paramount's "The Ghost Breakers"; she appears in a restaurant scene, wearing a floor-length dinner dress.

Ben Bernie and his lads and lassies, including Dinah Shore and Lew Lehr, are moving. After 60 weeks of Sunday broadcasts they're setting up shop in a Wednesday evening half-hour, beginning April 10. Want to bet that for the first few weeks at least half of the troupe will dash to the studio on Sundays?

Cecil B. DeMille is back in character again. Now that he is directing "The Northwest Mounted Police" and goes straight from the movie studio to the radio one where he does his Radio Theater broadcasts, he shows up in his "shooting" outfit—high boots, riding breeches, and headgear ranging from sombrero to pith helmet.

If you have a harpsichord that you don't want, get in touch with Alec Templeton. Collecting unusual musical instruments is his hobby, and he has no harpsichord and he wants one. There are only 10 of these ancient instruments in the United States, four of them owned by friends of Templeton's in Chicago. They urged him to try one not long ago, he played his favorite satire, "Bach Goes to Town"—and now his life won't be perfect until he is presented with a harpsichord of his own.

Style-Right Outfits to Suit Fashion Wise Little Folks

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

MOST amusing, this thought of modern children growing to be regular fashion sophisticates, but nevertheless, it is literally true. They know and mother knows that they know more about style than their elders dared dream of in their childhood days. In this generation it is not so easy as it was in the past to satisfy little daughter or junior with made-overs and hand-me-downs. Anyway, what's the use of trying with ready-mades available that are amazingly practical and inexpensive and so altogether attractive little folks delight in them.

With play clothes for youngsters and pretty frocks for little daughter being sold "for a song" these days, the idea of making over loses much of its zest. However, what is being done in this modernized world of ours is that mothers of good judgment are entrusting the matter of outfitting their children to skilled designers who make a study of juvenile apparel needs not only from a style standpoint, but from a view to real economy and practicality.

In line with the thought that children's fashions be given as sincere and careful consideration as those of grownups, it is becoming a custom in leading style centers to hold fashion shows devoted exclusively to the little folks. The cunning spring styles here pictured were shown recently at a style clinic presented in the Merchandise Mart of Chicago, before an appreciative gathering of visiting merchants.

The handsome coat worn by the girl to the right in the picture is tailored of a Kenwood tweed in a charming berry-red tone. It is the smart new princess type that is an outstanding favorite this season. The white silk pique collar tells you that white accents on dark is a most important trend for spring. Here you see the ensemble idea carried out in a matching beret that comes with the coat, thus happily solving mother's problem of hatting little daughter fashionably and becomingly. Her wee companion is in navy blue, with a bonnet matched to her cunning coat.

There's something about a soldier and about military-influenced clothes that lends smartness and proves alluring to young misses as well as to sentimental big sister. The little lady to the left in the group wears one of the new military-type cape suits such as promise widespread vogue this season. The suit is of alert blue wool with fitted jacket in bright red. The long cape theme is highly important. This ensemble is so completely matched up it includes a military looking hat with a red feather with a handbag worked out in the red and the blue.

And now for cunning fashions for junior and his buddy for little boys take delight in smart attire every whit as much as does little sister. Whistle while you walk, if it's in coats like these, think these two young men whom you see pictured in the group. The whistler in the foreground wears a camel's hair man-tailored, double-breasted coat and his pal wears a green tweed double-breasted coat with slit pockets. Caps to match their wit. Took cunning for words! (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lucky Charms

It's smart, in your choice of costume jewelry, to wear a lucky charm or two. Circle your wrist with a chain from which dangles a framed fourleaf clover, saying in attractive lettering "I bring you good luck"; as shown in the picture at the left. On her lapel this lady-fair flaunts a Monocraft clip of two scarlet-tipped dancer's hands posed down, for luck. With an identification bracelet that reads, "The key to my heart," as worn by the other young woman, you will set other hearts fluttering. Note also the lapel gadget she wears. It's a Monet circus horse complete with colorful bridle and flowing mane, such as fashion sophisticates dote on.

Frothy Black Lace For Evening Wear

Frothy black lace combined with contrasting colors and fabrics is an outstanding feature of Heim's new evening collection. A dinner gown cut in shirtwaist style is effectively trimmed with white linen collar and cuffs. Magenta ribbon, at the hem and for the belt, is the sophisticated accent for a very formal sleeveless black lace gown.

Lingerie Blouses Simply Entrancing

Simply entrancing are the new lingerie blouses that we will all be wearing with our spring suits. In fact a wardrobe of blouses is about the most important theme we know of on the style program for the coming months. You will be needing a whole wardrobe of blouses to carry you through triumphantly from a "style" standpoint.

While the biggest play is made on the dainty lace-trimmed sheer frothy white blouse with its fluttery jabots, its finely tucked detail and its lacy loveliness, swank blouses of pique eyelet embroidered or plain-tailored are just as essential. Add to the collection a cunning sweater-blouse or so, also several washable crepes in pastel colors. As to a blouse in sprightly and now so very fashionable polka dot, you really must have at least one.

Jewelry Designed To Suit Costumes

For Bruyere's new shepherd plaid suit, a firm of Paris jewelers created a pair of huge, golden leaf coat clips veined in brilliants, with duplicate clips of much smaller leaves for the earlobes.

For a beige tweed costume, they designed a realistic leaf of slender, baguette-cut emeralds with the gems set solid, stone to stone, and the veining of the leaf in diamonds. This same ivy-like leaf also comes in red, paved with rubies in the new way, each stone cut to exactly fit its neighbor.

Turkish Bazaar

An evening bag that will make you think of fakirs and bazaars and high thin music from pipes, is a small pouch bag in red, black, silver and gold.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

AMOS PLEADS FOR JUSTICE

LESSON TEXT—Amos 5:1, 10-15, 21-24.
GOLDEN TEXT—Fate the evil, and love the good, and establish judgment in the gate.—Amos 5:15.

Social justice, though much spoken about in recent times, has been the concern of right thinking men ever since sin entered the world and started man's inhumanity toward man. In the prophet Amos we find the eloquent and plain-spoken voice of one crying out against such conditions almost 800 years before Christ.

This lesson is one which is of utmost importance because in our present-day struggle with social injustice we have come to assume that it is primarily a political or economic question. Amos and all other Scripture rightly gets at "the focus of infection," which is sin. Sin in the heart leads to sinful actions, and these inevitably involve others, and thus bring about social problems. Let us learn from Amos to cure our social ills by bringing man to God.

I. Lamentation—in the Midst of Prosperity (v. 1).

From the little village of Tekoa and out of the wilderness in which he had been a herdsman came Amos, the man of God, to hurl his prophecy of disaster upon the heads of the complacent people of Israel and to take up a lamentation over those in Israel living in luxury and prosperity.

True it was that the common people were being ground under the heel of cruel oppression, but who cared about the poor as long as they could be squeezed for taxes to support the luxurious comforts and pleasures of the rich? A prosperity which does not reach the homes of the poor is not a real prosperity at all. When in addition thereto it encourages the "haves" to oppress the "have-nots" it becomes a grave danger, a real cause for lamentation.

II. The Reason—Sin Which Hates Reproof (vv. 10-13).

Sin is always a horrible thing, but when men who have fallen into sin are responsive to correction and ready to repent and forsake their sin, there is hope. The thing which made Israel's state so serious in the sight of God and of His prophet was that they had only hatred for those who were bold enough to reprove them or to live among them according to God's standards (vv. 10, 13). "They who will endure no criticism have slammed the door in the face of truth. When we get to the place where we cannot endure having our faults pointed out, we are on the way to moral collapse" (Douglass).

The sin which had thus hardened their hearts showed itself in social inequality and injustice which was built upon greed, oppression, corruption in the courts, etc. The shocking picture which Amos paints bears a surprising similarity to conditions in our world today. Let us face the problem and seek its solution.

III. The Cure—Seek Good Not Evil (vv. 14, 15).

God's Word condemns sin, but it always presents a remedy. In Christ we have the perfect, final, and complete answer to the sin question. Amos, speaking centuries before Christ, admonished Israel to repent and to turn away from the evil which they had cultivated with such assiduity and to be equally zealous about doing good, in the hope that "it may be that the Lord God of hosts will be gracious" (v. 15). How favored we are to be permitted not only to urge people to turn from evil to good, but to offer them the One who is the way, the truth, and the life.

Israel did not repent, but in folly depended on their religious ceremonies to satisfy an offended God. The prophet therefore declares that

IV. Religion Is Not a Substitute for Justice (vv. 21-24).

God had no pleasure in their religious observances and rites, because they were presented with unrepentant hearts and by hands which were soiled by the oppression of their fellow man.

Mark it well, God has no delight in the attendance upon church services, beautiful though they may be, does not listen to the sweet strains of sacred music, nor does He accept the rich "offerings" of those who live in unforsaken sin and who pay for magnificent church buildings and beautiful church services with money gotten by crooked dealings and social injustice. God is righteous and God's Word always cuts right through the hypocrisy of men. Let us heed the plea of Amos, that righteousness should run through our personal and national life "as a mighty stream," and then we shall be ready both as individuals and as a people to worship Him aright.

A Gracious Lord
His work is honorable and glorious; and his righteousness endureth forever. He hath made his wonderful works to be remembered; the Lord is gracious and full of compassion.—Psalm 111:3-4.

Garden Gossip

Edited by Carolus Harrington
Letters and questions on garden topics will be welcome. They will be published and discussed in this column.

Dear Mrs. Harrington:
I am surely glad that the ladies of the Garden Club are interested in the movement to get a new bandshell. To me, a bandshell means as much as a modern kitchen means to a housewife, or a well equipped, up-to-date store or shop means to a business man.

It is about five or six years ago that I went with three business men from East Jordan to the national music camp at Interlochen, and we spent three or more hours looking over the shell there which is made almost entirely of logs.
Measurements were taken and plans were drawn up, a blueprint was made of a shell which would accommodate a good sized band. I understand that the blueprints passed the WPA commission, but for some reason, so far nothing has come of it... the high water at the proposed place undoubtedly was one reason. Now I have been told that the city secured the property between Kitsman's Restaurant and the Creamery, and I am more hopeful than ever that East Jordan some day will have an up-to-date place in which to play our summer concerts.

John Ter Wee,
Director of Instrumental Music

Thank you, Mr. Ter Wee, for your letter. We women folks are interested in anything that we believe is good for the community. Whenever any civic improvement is suggested, the women of the Garden Club are squarely behind it every time if it has merit.

I wonder if you would tell us more specifically why a bandshell is important, and also what makes a proper bandshell from the standpoint of construction. This is information we should have if our interest is to be intelligent and actively constructive. Where music is concerned a lot of us, I know, "follow the leader," content to enjoy without participating, nor even understanding. We would not like to get along without concerts, but we do little to keep them going.

These years have been strenuous ones in the history of most small cities... and civic improvements have frequently had to wait. But wishes do come true when you wish hard enough... and work hard enough! Your hope for an up-to-date bandshell for summer concerts seems more likely to come true, I think.

Saginaw, Michigan.

Dear Mrs. Harrington:
After reading the enclosed article by Jack Van Coevering of the Detroit Free Press, you will perhaps get the same idea that came to my mind, Pine Ridge as a memorial to the late Wm. P. Porter.

It seems to me that this would make a very fitting memorial to a man all East Jordan knew and honored.

Wouldn't it be fine to have these trees preserved forever against cutting? There is no doubt in my mind but tourist nature lovers would enjoy the East Jordan Pines every bit as much as the Grayling Hartwick Pines.

I'm not interested in such a memorial as a means of increasing the tourist trade for East Jordan although the town's merchants would probably welcome it. I'm just interested in preserving a place of natural beauty for all to enjoy in years to come.

I'm quite familiar with East Jordan's natural beauty and it is indeed a pleasure to know of such a place to go where one may find the real thing in outdoor recreation, not cluttered up with hot-dog and barbecue stands, souvenir vendors, dance halls and the like. But to get back to Pine Ridge. Do you think there might be a chance of having this beautiful stand of trees set aside for all time — as is the stand known as the Hartwick Pines? I do not mean as a camping ground for the public but a memorial to visit and enjoy, much as we visit Henry Ford's Greenfield Village.

Perhaps you will wonder why I have written you about this? I believe the memorial idea should originate in East Jordan. I know that you must be a lover of nature because I have read your column Garden Gossip from time to time. I have noticed your Garden Club's good work in this direction, and I feel certain that it can start such a movement and get results. Best of Luck,

Friend of East Jordan.

You do not want to see the stately trees of Pine Ridge go the way of "Saginaw's tall whispering pines," do you, Friend of East Jordan? We all love this stand of virgin pine, and are proud when we see it praised as your letter praises it, and as it is sometimes praised in the press.

Mr. Van Coevering evidently visited the pines in the fall season. I wonder if he has ever walked there in winter after a heavy snowfall. It is true, as he says, that game is seldom found among pines, but last winter we saw there where numbers of deer had bedded, we saw the tracks of foxes, and startled partridges budding in the scattered hardwoods. Also, the ground under the pines supports many interesting small plants, orchids, lichens, mosses, ferns.

(Summer visitors do not find the pines so attractive at close range — the mosquitoes are pretty deadly from spring to fall.) Even when we cannot walk among them, nor look down on their sombre beauty from one of the neighboring hills, we like to know the pines are there, waiting for us, and each year growing more beautiful.

All of which is only to say that Pine Ridge is already a sanctuary where wildlife native to Northern Michigan perpetuates itself. The East Jordan Lumber Company has preserved it through the years, even going to the very considerable expense of eradicating blister rust hosts found there.

We have been fortunate that fire has not encroached on the pines. Fire is a constant menace, but is the only present threat to Pine Ridge, and this hazard is coming more and more under control of our Conservation Dept. As it stands, Pine Ridge is a splendid testimonial and memorial to Mr. W. H. Porter, — one which every year is enjoyed by more people. It does seem, I think, that we who love the pines should find some way of making permanent this work of Mr. Porter and the East Jordan Lumber Company. Perhaps you have a suggestion how this may be done. We hope you will write to us again about it.

Aurora Borealis (Northern Lights to most of us) has been putting on a fine show lately. We are always glad to go out and look up in wonder at these bright streamers of light in the night sky, but when Northern Lights shine all around the sky, — north, south, east and west, that's news. Scientists say the Northern Lights may have something to do with the difficulty we experience in hearing European broadcasts.

You are invited to write in and tell the reasons (if any) why bill boards should not be outlawed in our community.

Next Garden Club Meeting! April 16th, at 2:30 p. m. in the City Building. Hostesses: Mrs. A. J. Hite, Mrs.

RE A BULLETIN BOARD

RURAL ELECTRIFICATION AND THE COUNTRY DOCTOR

Many communities in the United States are talking and writing today about the passing of the "Old-Time Country Doctor." This is not true, however, where there is still a group of public-spirited men trained in the medical profession who are willing to leave their homes any hour of the night, drive out in the country as far as roads will permit and then walk an additional 2 or 3 miles in all types of weather to get to the bed of a sick patient.

I have talked to a number of these men and find that they, of all groups, probably have the most sincere appreciation of rural electric service. To diagnose the difficulty of a sick patient in the "wee hours" of the morning, in the shadows of the dim kerosene lamp is next to impossible even for a man of excellent training and with years of experience.

The country doctor realizes his tremendous responsibility to humanity, and is so much aided in his work by good lighting in the rural home together with available electricity for other uses that he can consider electric current a true companion of his and an important servant in the homes of his patients.

In the words of one doctor, "Electricity in the rural home has been a great assistance in increasing our effectiveness and therefore, in making our work more pleasant. Just as important, however, have been the improved health standards through sanitary facilities, such as running water in the home."

SUMMER IS JUST AROUND THE CORNER

Will you be ready for the much needed use of electricity when the temperature goes to 100 degrees? Refrigerators, electric ranges, roasters, hot plates and fans are a boon to the busy farm family. You cannot afford to be without electricity. Financing for wiring and appliances are available now. Check up on this without delay.

Al. Rogers, Mrs. Wm. Swoboda will discuss flower arrangements. Roll Call: "What I am planting in my vegetable garden this year."

The red breasted nuthatch is rarely seen here, but one visited us last week. Yesterday (March 31st) a mourning dove flew over our house, — recognized by its distinctive flight. Someone who knows his apple trees told me that a great service to apple trees generally would be to cut down all the old apple trees about town, the ones that are never sprayed because they bear undesirable fruit and spread disease and pests. I agreed with him, but I'm glad this apple tree in our yard is to have one more spring. Last blossom time it was visited by orioles, warblers and hummingbirds in a steady procession, and robins built their nest there and reared a family.

Watch in next week's Garden Gossip for a report and a proposal from the Pinkton Nature Club which is exhibiting its fine collection of birds' nests at Antrim County 4-H Achievement Day.

A WORD TO PARENTS

Your children understand that they must use the utmost care when crossing streets and highways... and they realize the consequences of obstructing automobile traffic.

Electricity, too, travels on a highway... a wire... and so long as it is permitted to travel unobstructed, it is harmless as a kitten. But, when obstruction is thrown in its path... then... same as the auto... sometimes the brakes won't hold.

You don't want injury to befall your children... and neither do we. That's why we're asking that you impress on them the danger of flying kites near electric lines. Warn the kiddies... and watch them.
