Alights From Bus; Killed By Car

WAYNE GILKERSON, TEN YEARS OLD, DIES FROM INJURIES

Wayne, ten-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Gilkerson, was struck by a passing auto just after alighting from a school bus, Tuesday afternoon about 4:30 and passed away at a Petoskey hospital that evening between 6:00 and 7:00. The lad had received a fractured skull.

The school bus, driven by Claude Sweet, had stopped in front of the Gilkerson home on the Ellsworth Rd. about three miles west of East Jordan. Wayne and a brother, got out, went in front of the bus, and started to cross the road. An auto, driven by Hollis Drew, passed the bus and William, hearing the warnings of the auto horn, tried to stop his brother. After the impact, the body was carried about fifty feet. The glass in the right headlight of Mr. Drew's car was broken. A physician was summoned and the unconscious lad was taken to Petoskey for hospitalization.

Deputy Sheriff Harry Simmons was called Tuesday evening to investigate the accident. Sheriff Ikens and Pros. Atty. Rice, were at the scene of the accident Wednesday forenoon checking over things.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilkerson have the heartfelt sympathy of our entire community in their bereavement. Funeral services are arranged for this Thursday afternoon from the home conducted by Rev. Swanson of the Ellsworth Pilgrim's Holiness Church.

East Jordan Garden Club Yard and Garden Contest

Score cards will be ready for distribution this Saturday, May 11th. As last year, the City will provide the prizes, viz:—

First Prize — $20.00.
Second Prize — $10.00.
Third Prize — $5.00.
Cards may be secured from Mrs. Frank Cook, chairman, and at Palmer's Store.

Has Finished City Census

Harry McHale, census enumerator for the City of East Jordan has completed a canvass of the City and the official figures will be released in the near future from the District Headquarters at Alpena.

Mr. McHale has been at this work since the first of April and wishes to take this method of thanking everyone for their whole-hearted co-operation in compiling the data.

Quarantine Proclamation Regarding Bang's Disease For Charlevoix County

Very recently quarantine proclamations, regarding Bang's Disease, in Charlevoix County, have been posted in every township throughout the county. In all likelihood, some cattle owners will misinterpret this proclamation and become worried about its effect on cattle.

In the first place, the proclamation does not in any way stop the movement of cattle within the county or from other counties, in this district, into this county. This is due to the fact that all of the nearby counties have been accredited on the same basis as this county and have less than one half of one per cent infection. Neither does this quarantine prevent the removal of or exportation of cattle from this county elsewhere. However, it does prohibit, under penalty of fine and imprisonment, importing cattle into the county from counties in the state that are not accredited unless accompanied by a certificate of health furnished and officially approved by the State Commissioner of Agriculture showing such cattle to have been subjected to and to have passed an officially recognized test for Bang's Disease within thirty days prior thereto.

It can be readily seen that this quarantine is a great protection to cattle already in the county and will not cause anyone any inconvenience whatsoever. In fact, we welcome having this quarantine as it will protect this entire district from having infection brought in by buyers and shippers of cattle. After all this expense in cleaning up the disease in this county, it certainly would be illogical to allow cattle to be shipped into the county without being accompanied by a clean bill of health. On the other hand, it does not prevent the interchange of cattle within this accredited district and within the county itself.

John Momberger Funeral This Friday Afternoon

John Momberger passed away at a Petoskey hospital Tuesday noon. He had been there some two weeks for treatment.

Funeral services will be held this Friday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock from the Methodist Church.

School of Instruction For Naturalization At Charlevoix, May 13

County Clerk Fenton R. Bulow has announced that an examiner from the Department of Naturalization will conduct a school of instruction at the court house, Charlevoix, between the hours of 9:30 a. m. to 1:30 p. m. on Monday, May 13.

All persons interested in obtaining first hand information on naturalization procedure are invited to be present.

Plan To Organize Independent Baseball Team This Sunday

An Independent baseball team is being organized to represent East Jordan in the Northern Michigan Independent League. Those wishing to try out for positions are asked by Co-managers Leo Sommerville and Raymond Swafford to report at the West Side Ball Park Sunday afternoon, May 12th. The team is expected to be built around Colin Sommerville, local righthander, who is expected to do the heavy duty on the mound for the locals.

"The Golden Stranger" by S. Andrew Wood. First installment of a stirring story of love and adventure in which exciting situations move hand in hand with suspense and surprise to a dramatic climax. Forestry Projects Receive Attention

APPROXIMATELY 100,000 PINE SEEDLINGS AND TRANSPLANTS BEING SET OUT

Never before has there been so much interest in setting out young pine seedlings and transplants as is taking place at this time. Approximately 7000 seedlings are being set out by the Melrose Township Unit, Boyne Falls School, and East Jordan School 4-H clubs. This is the third year that these schools have co-operated in this project and already these young trees that have been previously planted can be seen from the roadside. The 4-H club members are enjoying their participation in forestry work and are receiving a fine knowledge of conservation activity.

Fully twenty thousand four year old Red Pine transplants will be set out by approximately thirty different farmers either this week or next. The Charlevoix County Road Commission has cooperated very nicely in this program. These trees are to be planted parallel to the highway throughout the county and will afford considerable protection from wind and snow as they mature. Farmers are setting the trees out with certain definite recommendations and are receiving credit in the Soil Conservation Program. This certainly will make our travels along the highways far more attractive and enjoyable.

Then we find that Boyne City will set out fifteen thousand pine seedlings in their municipal forest. The property has been surveyed and when completed it will be in the shape of a huge wheel emblematic of the Boyne City Rotary Club that initiated this project several years ago. When these trees develop a person will be able to drive a car throughout this planting which will be of great interest within the next four or five years.

Then it is expected that around fifty thousand trees have been ordered by farmers throughout the county to reforest land too rough or too hilly for general agricultural crops. In many cases the land is light and somewhat infertile and not adapted to any other purpose. Certainly this great interest being manifested this year will pay many dividends in the years to come. Space does not permit a list of names of those who are interested in forestry but sometime later it is hoped that we can give you the summary for the 1940 season.

Letter Winners In Athletics

COACH COHN PRESENTS E.J.H.S. ANNUAL AWARDS

Coach Abe Cohn presented his athletes with their awards in an assembly held in the local high school auditorium Monday morning.

First of the long list of letter winners to be honored was Coach Harry Jankoviak's baseball squad of 1939, who carried off the Northern Division Championship of the Little Eight Class C Conference with 10 straight triumphs, only to lose out to Grayling in the playoff. Baseball letter winners were: Antoine, Mocherman, D. Gee, V. Gee, L. Cihak, Bulow, Crowell, G. Gee, St. Arno, and R. Saxton. Baseball's honorable mention list were: Ayers, Gerard, Stanek, K. Isaman, C. Green, and Sturgell.

Member of Coach Cohn's Track team of last Spring to be honored with letters were Brown, Hudkins, R. Crowell, Malpass, J. Isaman, Antoine, L. Cihak, Inman, and R. Saxton. Track's honorable mention list: R. Richardson, J. St. Arno, Gerard, Galmore, Bulow, and Ingalls.

Next in line in last Spring's sports program to be given awards were Coach Merton Robert's highly successful tennis aggregation. Headed by Richard "Tich" Saxton, all around handy man and outstanding athlete of 1938-39, East Jordan's tennis team went undefeated in three successive seasons. Saxton, winning the Class B Regional singles title in 1938 and the C-D singles in 1939. Other members of the tennis squad were: L. Cihak, Bill Simmons, B. Bartlett, R. Stallard, D. Gee, and E. Mocherman.

Football letter winners for 1939 were G. Gee, Antoine, Bulow, Isaman, Pollitt, Barnett, D. Gee, St. Arno, Justice, Watson, McKinnon, Woodcock, and Hayner. Those who received honorable mention were: V. Gee, Strehl, Sturgell, Grutsch, D. Hosler, Kemp, B. Saxton, Walden, Brown, F. St. Arno, H. Hosler, L. Nemecek, Hickox, Mocherman, Malpass, Penfold and Sonnabend.

The Crimson Wave basketball squad District and Regional winners to get their letters were: Dulezel, Kaley, Hayner, Woodcock, D. Gee, F. Crowell, V. Gee, Bulow, Isaman, and Antoine. Basketball honorable mention: Sturgell, Mocherman, Bechtold, B. Saxton, Green, Penfold, Seymour, Rogers, Nemecek, Walden, Kemp, Wilkins, Hickox and Kelly.

Another award of high honor was presented Jack Isaman in a form of a certificate by the Michigan Athletic Officials Ass'n, picking him out as one of the outstanding examples of sportsmanship in athletics in this section of the state.

Cheerleaders Blanche Davis, Mae Pollitt, and M. Galmore were also presented with awards.

"Road Tested" License Plates For Coming Year

The 1941 model of Michigan's automobile license plate will be a "road-tested" job. In his effort to arrive at a proper combination of size, color and design, Harry F. Kelly, secretary of state, has ordered the production of a dozen or more sample plates, all of which will be used on the road, to be studied under actual driving conditions.

State Police and automobile manufacturers will join in giving scientific tests. Their conclusions will determine just what kind of plate will adorn the 1941 car of the Michigan motorist.

"Visibility is a chief consideration of the law-enforcement officers," says Mr. Kelly. "They want to be able to see the license numbers at long distances. The manufacturers are interested also because they desire a plate that will harmonize with the streamlining of the cars they produce, and one which will be easily fitted to the car."

"The automobile engineers have joined with us in producing various designs. The suggestions of those who favor a smaller plate are being thoroughly considered. We certainly would favor a smaller one, so long as visibility were not sacrificed, because the state saves money in reducing the size, less steel being required."

"When the police officers and the automotive research men get through testing the different samples on the roads, we'll study their findings. The final selection will be based on actual driving experience, not on any personal preference for this or that color combination, size, or any other factor entering into the problem."

DUCKS DOG, CRASHES
Hartford — As a rabbit pursued by a dog crossed the road in front of his car, Merritt Sanders of Covert applied his brakes and swerved the car to avoid hitting them. The car rolled over and was damaged to the extent of $200. Occupants suffered minor injuries.

Am. Legion Post Now Owns Home

PURCHASED THE WHITTINGTON STORE BUILDING THE PAST WEEK

Rebec-Sweet Post of the American Legion once more have a home of their own. They have purchased the Whittington frame store building on Main-st next to the Public Library and opposite the G. A. R. Park. This building was erected by the late C. H. Whittington in 1886 for an undertaking parlor and furniture store.

The Legion plans rather extensive alterations. A new asphalt brick front will be installed. The main floor will be converted into a reception hall and kitchen.

The second floor will be used as the Post Club Room, Auxiliary Club Room and Library.

It is planned to rebuild the basement into a recreation hall and craft room for boys.

Commander St. Charles states that the Post has practically sufficient funds to purchase all the necessary material for remodeling.

The Post has designated Monday and Thursday evenings of each week as work night. Anyone interested and caring to donate a couple hours of their work are invited to report on either of these nights with the following tools — either hammer, saw or pinch bar.

Farm Home Destroyed By Fire Last Saturday Noon

A farm residence, three miles west of East Jordan on the Ellsworth Rd. was destroyed by fire shortly after noon last Saturday. The dwelling, owned by J. M. Ingalls, was occupied by the Fred Hodgkins family who came here from Boyne Falls recently. The fire started from chimney sparks. Most of the household goods were lost in the blaze. The East Jordan Fire Dept. was summoned but the fire had gained too much headway.

Now Is Housecleaning Time

Any useful clothing and shoes you are discarding, may be delivered to the American Legion Hall, Monday and Thursday evening of each week. These will be repaired and distributed later to the needy.

Troth Is Announced

The following item recently appeared in a Mt. Clemens newspaper: "Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Howell of 24 South Highland avenue, announce the engagement of their daughter, Rachael, to Boyd Keller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Keller, of East Jordan, Mich."

"Miss Howell, a graduate of the 1938 Class of Mount Clemens High School, is employed at the Jewel Theatre. Mr. Keller, an East Jordan High School graduate, is with the Metal Products Company in this city. The wedding will take place on May 26 at Mt. Clemens."

Planning To Improve Sunset Hill

Will all those interested in improving Sunset Hill arrange to meet there Thursday evening, May 16, at 7:30. If weather is inclement, will adjourn to the City Building.

63 Counties List 4-H Club Champs

In 63 Michigan counties the 4-H club staffs have named the outstanding boy or girl who participated in 1939 projects.

To reward these champions, the State Board of Agriculture, governing body of Michigan State College, has announced each one is eligible for a $25 scholarship if they enter either the four year courses or attend Short Courses at East Lansing.

Champion for Charlevoix County is Mason Clark, Jr., East Jordan. Use of the scholarship depends on the type of course selected. Those who enroll in the four year course will get $15 the first year and $10 the second. For short courses, the scholarship is applied against entrance fees for each of the two years.

E. J. H. S. Baseball Team Defeats Elk Rapids, 11 to 1

East Jordan high school's Crimson baseball nine opened its season impressively here last Friday evening, thumping the Elk Rapids high school nine 11 to 1 in the first baseball game played on the high school athletic field since 1924.

Coach Harry Jankoviak uncovered a pitching find to go along with his otherwise veteran machine as Arthur Gerard, a senior, making his mound debut hurled effectively, turning in a one hit performance. Although issuing seven passes, Gerard had the upper hand in the pinches and only in the 5th and 7th frames was he in any serious trouble. The visitors only hit came with two out in the final stanza, as Hanson, a pinch-hitter, singled to center field scoring Grider, who had walked. The Jordanites backed up this superb pitching collecting 10 hits and committing but one error. D. Gee, V. Gee and Mocherman each came through with a pair of safeties. Woodcock, Bulow, Crowell and Antoine each had a hit. The Jordanites big inning came in the fourth when they tallied six times on some very erratic playing on the part of the visitors.

The winning battery for East Jordan, Gerard, pitching and Crowell, catching; for Elk Rapids: Grider, pitching and Marriott, catching.

The Jordanites meet Petoskey there Tuesday, May 7th, and Charlevoix there Friday afternoon, May 10.

'Hopper Control Program Develop'd

C. B. DIBBLE, INSECT CONTROL SPECIALIST, MET WITH AGRICULTURAL COMMITTEE

The plans for carrying on the county-wide grasshopper control program were formulated at a recent meeting of the Agricultural Committee, representing the Board of Supervisors and C. B. Dibble, Insect Control Specialist from Michigan State College. Mr. Dibble stated that prospects for a large number of grasshoppers were about the same as the previous year and the weather conditions would largely determine the increase in numbers.

Briefly, the same program will be followed this year as last with the material being mixed only at the Boyne Falls station. The material used will be the same as last year and the labor and management of the station will be under the supervision of Joseph Topolinski, Supervisor of Boyne Valley Township. Already each supervisor, as he makes his assessments, will be making the sign-up of farmers who would like to use the poison bait to protect their crops. It is hoped that each farmer will officially request sufficient bait to protect his grass and hay acreage. In other words, the quantity of material that can be furnished by the U. S. Department of Agriculture for this purpose depends entirely on the number of requests and the number of acres signed up so let's have a good sign-up and be guaranteed that, if we do have a heavy infestation, we will have the necessary materials to combat this pest.

If you have not already signed up, it will be a good plan, the next time you see your supervisor, to make the official request. It is expected that the money on hand from last year's campaign will be ample to take care of the needs this year.

R.E.A. Farm Equipment Tour

SHOW TO BE STAGED IN THIS AREA JUNE 20 - 21

The Top O' Michigan Rural Electric Cooperative this week completed arrangements that will bring the big REA two-day Farm Electric Equipment Show to this area, June 20 and 21. This traveling exhibit, which carries with it a huge tent, smaller tents, and truck loads of electric farm equipment and household appliances, is touring the United States in the largest wide-scale demonstration of this type ever undertaken. It is brought here through the co-operation of the local project, the State Extension Service, the Cherryland Electric Cooperative at Traverse City, and the Rural Electrification Administration. Manufacturers of farm machinery, plumbing, home appliances, and lighting fixtures, are co-operating with REA and local co-operatives to bring this caravan of equipment to inform farm families of the latest developments in farm and home electrical uses.

Farm people will have an opportunity to see a very wide variety of electrically-powered equipment in actual operation. Grain for grinding will be hauled in from nearby farms. Feed grinders will be operated with various size motors of from one-quarter to 7½ horsepower by D. W. Teare and R. A. Dell of REA and Don Ebinger of the Extension Service. Much of the equipment that will be demonstrated has been especially designed for automatic electric operation. The demonstration will show that in the average case lighter and smaller equipment can be used advantageously.

The early-afternoon program in the big tent will be of special interest to farm women. New labor-lightening appliances will be demonstrated by Mrs. Enola Retherford, REA home economist, assisted by Miss Evelyn Bloomer, also of REA. The use of washing machines, electric ironers, and other electrical appliances in the home laundry will be taken up in the laundering demonstration as part of the women's program. With modern washing machines and electric ironing equipment, the laundry for a large family can be done quickly and with little drudgery. Planning of the laundry, and points on the selection of equipment and its care, will likewise be taken up.

Every important phase of electrical use on the farm and in the home will be included in the tour's program. Farmers from all nearby Counties, whether they are receiving current from REA lines or not, are invited to attend these educational demonstrations.

FOR A SHOWER PARTY FOR SPRING BRIDE
(See Recipes Below)

Here Comes the Bride!

And so they are married—and after the ceremony there is to be a wedding reception at the home of the bride's mother.

It takes a bit of planning to carry through a lovely wedding so that every detail is correct. And the reception which follows must be as nearly perfect as it is possible to make it. Plan a menu that's simple and easy to serve, yet appetizing and delicious to eat. Set the table for buffet service—using your loveliest linen, silver and china. Since the proverbial color scheme for the bride's table is green and white, plan to use white flowers for the centerpiece; if candles are used, they may be white or green.

A party for the bride calls for something very special in the way of food. Here's a menu for a wedding reception, with tested recipes to enable you to use it as it is given.

Assorted Hors d'Oeuvres
Grapefruit-Lobster or Crabmeat Salad
Buttermilk Rolls
Celery
Pistachio Ice Cream
Bride's Cake
Punch

Groom's Cake
Coffee

For a shower party for a spring bride, serve simple—but very good—refreshments like this:

Bride's Pie
Coffee Assorted Salted Nuts
You'll find other recipes for special party cakes and desserts in my cook book "Better Baking." There's a recipe for wedding cakes, as well.

Bride's Pie.
(Serves 10 to 12)

6 egg whites
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1½ quarts strawberry ice cream
2 baked pie shells
Beat egg whites until foamy, add salt and continue beating until the egg whites are stiff. Gradually beat in the sugar and continue beating until the egg whites are stiff and glossy. Add vanilla. Pack ¼ quart of ice cream into each pie shell. Cover with meringue and bake in a very hot oven (550 degrees) until meringue is lightly browned. Serve immediately.

Assorted Canapes.

Place chilled shrimp on a bed of shaved ice; serve cocktail sauce with it as an accompaniment. Stuff celery stalks with cream cheese which has been mixed with chopped stuffed olives. Cut crusts from slices of very fresh bread and cut loaf in long lengthwise slices. Spread with cream cheese. Roll as for jelly roll and slice in very thin slices. Brush with melted butter, place on broiler and toast lightly. Serve hot.

Grapefruit Lobster or Crabmeat Salad.

Cut grapefruit in half, remove center with grapefruit corer. With grapefruit knife cut around each section and remove membrane. Cover edges of grapefruit with finely chopped parsley. Fill chilled center of grapefruit with lobster or crabmeat. Top with mayonnaise and serve.

Buttermilk Rolls. (Makes 2½ dozen)

1 cake yeast
2 tablespoons lukewarm water
2 cups buttermilk (at room temperature)
6½ cups of flour (approximately)
¼ cup sugar
1½ teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 Soften yeast in lukewarm water. Combine with buttermilk and mix well. Add about 2 cups of flour and beat until smooth. Cover and let rise in a warm place until the batter is light and bubbly. Cream shortening and sugar thoroughly.

Add to raised batter and beat well. Sift together the remaining flour, the salt, soda and baking powder. Add to batter in 3 or 4 portions and mix well. Pinch off small bits of the dough, shape into balls and place in small, greased muffin cups. Cover and allow to rise until the rolls are very light. Brush with melted shortening. Bake in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees) for about 15 minutes.

Groom's Cake.

½ cup butter
1 cup light brown sugar
2 eggs
2 cups general purpose flour
½ teaspoon soda
¼ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon allspice
¾ cup sour milk
½ cup citron, cut
1 cup raisins
1 cup nut meats, broken
1 teaspoon vanilla extract

Cream butter, add sugar, and beat thoroughly. Add eggs (well beaten). Mix and sift together all dry ingredients, reserving ¼ cup of flour. Add flour mixture and sour milk alternately—beginning with the flour mixture. Flour, citron, raisins, and nuts with the ¼ cup of flour which was reserved and add to the cake mixture. Add vanilla extract. Place in well-greased, small tube pan. Bake 40 to 50 minutes in a moderate oven (350 degrees).

Pistachio Ice Cream.

1 pint coffee cream
1 cup top milk
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
¼ teaspoon almond extract
3 to 4 drops green pure food color
½ cup pistachio nut meats (cut fine)
Mix all ingredients together thoroughly. Pour mixture into freezing container of modern ice cream freezer. (To allow for expansion fill not more than ¾ full.) Assemble and cover. Then pack mixture of cracked ice and rock salt (use 3 parts ice to 1 part of salt by volume) around the freezing container. Turn crank steadily about 5 minutes. When mixture becomes difficult to turn, remove cover carefully, take out dasher, and pack down evenly with a spoon. Cover ice cream with wax paper and replace cover. Draw off water and replenish ice and salt mixture. Cover and allow to harden at least one hour before serving.

Twenty-Four Hour Pike's Peak. (Serves 6)

4 egg whites
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
1 cup sugar
Add cream of tartar to egg whites and beat until the egg whites are stiff but not dry. Gradually beat in the sugar, and continue beating until the mixture is stiff and glossy. Spread in a greased pie plate. Bake in a slow oven (275 degrees) for 20 minutes, then increase temperature to 300 degrees and bake 40 minutes longer.

Filling.

4 egg yolks
½ cup sugar
3 tablespoons lemon juice
2 teaspoons lemon rind (grated)
Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon-colored. Add remaining ingredients and cook in double boiler until thick, stirring constantly. Cool. Whip 1 cup cream and spread half the cream on the cooled meringue. Cover with lemon filling and top with remaining cream. Chill.

Now is the time for each foresighted homemaker to add to her own collection of favorite recipes, some new and unusual ones which are sure to please her family. Next week Eleanor Howe will give you some of her own tested recipes—recipes for meats, for vegetables and for desserts—and a choice recipe for rhubarb conserve.

Every batch of 10,000 American-made nails carries an identifying mark and therefore, in case of a crime, can be traced to the manufacturer, thence to dealers and purchasers. In 1936, a Pennsylvania criminal, whose bombs had killed three persons, was captured and convicted through a single nail found at the scene of one explosion.

The loans made by the Reconstruction Finance corporation in the past eight years have varied in size from $150, which was lent to a barber to pay for equipment for his shop, to $208,500,000, which was lent to the Metropolitan Water District of Southern California to pay for the construction of a 240-mile aqueduct.

You'll find freedom from the excess heat and drying, irritating qualities of too-fast burning... extra mildness and extra coolness. You'll find a cigarette that doesn't tire your taste... for slower burning preserves the full, rich flavor of Camel's matchless blend of costlier tobaccos. At the same time, you'll be getting the equivalent of extra smoking from each pack!

In recent laboratory tests, CAMELS burned 25% slower than the average of the 15 other of the largest-selling brands tested—slower than any of them. That means, on the average, a smoking plus equal to

"They thought they had me on the spot!"

"I WORK for the electric company, and when I tell the boys rates have gone down, they say, 'Why don't our bills go down?'"

"Now all those fellas pay money to bowl, yet they don't give it a second thought. I suppose because they see what they get. It would be the same if they bought an extra pack of cigarettes. But electric service, that's different. When they want to do somethin' nice for their wives they buy some electric appliance to make the housework lighter. Or they buy an electric razor for themselves. They get lots of comfort and pleasure out of those gadgets. But when the bills come in they forget how much they got for that money."

"The reason some bills don't go down is that most people use a lot more electricity than they used to. All the boys have electric light, a radio, a washing machine and a toaster in their homes, and most of 'em have electric ice-boxes and vacuum cleaners too. Yet it doesn't cost 'em much more, if any, to operate all those things than it used to cost for light alone, because rates have been cut just about in half during the last twelve or fifteen years."

"If we could sell electric service by the pound, people could see what they get. They'd realize how much they use and how many jobs it does. And they'd appreciate how much less it costs now."

"I'm glad to be in a job where I help people get more of the good things of life. All of us at the plant feel that way. We know people depend on us to give them better service for less money, and that's just what we aim to do."

I've painted hundreds of homes. And I know that when you use LOWE BROTHERS HIGH STANDARD House Paint, your house is painted to stay painted. HIGH STANDARD is economical paint.

I find that HIGH STANDARD outlasts ordinary paint two and three years... and so the average per-year cost for protection is much lower.

"Another thing I like is the Low Brothers Pictorial Color Chart. It shows the right color schemes for many types of homes and every kind of room... in pictures painted with actual paint. It makes choosing color schemes easy for the home owner."

Before YOU paint, come in and consult the Low Brothers Pictorial Color Chart. There is no other.

If Mother Should Send You Her Bill

Mother-love is the most completely unselfish thing in this selfish world.

From the day when you first saw the light, she poured her life into your life; guided your toddling feet; shielded you, kissed every little hurt; helped you to the threshold of manhood or womanhood. Nurse, teacher, policeman, pal—if she had charged you for her services you could never pay the bill no matter how long you live.

On Mother's Day just give her some little loving hint of the fact that you appreciate all this.

Star's Magnetic Influence Felt, but Not Recognized

The film star, a practical joker, had an electrified chair, disguised as an ordinary upholstered one, in his home. He delighted in seeing a guest, comfortably seated, suddenly leap at the press of a button.

A pretty girl came to interview him. She sat in the chair, and he couldn't resist pressing the button.

But she just sat there, conversing animatedly.

Finally he asked: "Don't you feel rather strange?"

"Yes," she replied. "As if electricity were going through me. But I always feel that way when talking to film stars. They're so magnetic."

"I don't get your point. What do you reckon to find out?" asked Stoddart.

"Time," said Moses. "Gulbaz times it like a jockey. He's the best judge of pace in all India. He times it to the minute. If he isn't ready, then he'll play for time."

The truck halted in front of a house whose red front door was bolted, barred, and scrawled in chalk with infamous remarks anent the virtue of its inmates. There was an alley, a yard wide, pitch dark at the farther end. Into that alley yellow light streamed through a door that was partly ajar. There was a faint staccato drumbeat, a twang of stringed music, the sickly wall of a flute, and a stench in which sensuous perfume fought with the reek of garbage. Moses spoke to the truck driver, and the truck driver sounded the horn—three times, then three more, then once.

The dissolute and dirty looking person in the big white turban, to whom Moses gave a captured knife in the bazaar, appeared suddenly, apparently from nowhere.

"What's that bloke up to? Where did he come from?" Stoddart demanded.

"If you'd looked under the truck you'd know," said Moses. "He ain't respectable, so he don't ride first class like me and you."

Moses whispered to the man, who walked down the alley and entered the door.

"Is this your harem? Aren't we going in?" asked Stoddart.

"No. You'd break the ladies' hearts. We'll wait here and give 'em a chance. This is Gulbaz' temporary field headquarters. I've sent him a message. He'll come or he won't. If he don't, we'll know the answer."

"What did you tell that bloke to say to him?"

"I said that Sergeant Stoddart's here with information that he'll sell for a price and wants a personal interview, face to face, no go-betweens."

"You've got your nerve," said Stoddart. "It'll be all over the bloody bazaar that I'm telling secrets. Why don't you use your own name?"

"We've hooked him. Here he comes," said Moses. "Keep your hair on now and sit tight. Say nothing, and leave it to me."

Through the door, down the alley and straight to the truck, without glancing aside, without a moment's hesitation, came a man of medium height and middle weight, who walked like a young god, though he was middle-aged. He was dressed in a tight-fitting turban, white singlet and loin-cloth and a striped silk semi-European jacket. He came to the tail of the truck, gave one glance at Stoddart and stared straight at Moses. His smile changed, outwardly only a little, but something happened at the corners of his lips. It had changed to a fighting smile, merciless, malicious.

"You're a dog," he remarked in plain English.

"Fancy you giving away secrets," Moses answered. "I'm here to sell 'em for cash on the nose. Me and this Sergeant know something. It's hot. We're splitting fifty-fifty. How much?"

"I will listen. You may tell your secret."

"Cash on the nose," said Moses. "Money down or nothing doing."

Gulbaz smile changed again. It conveyed a suggestion of vanity beyond the utmost reach of ordinary mortals. He glanced at Stoddart then back at Moses.

"Are you satisfied?" he asked. "You have recognized me? You can truly report that you have seen me in Kadur? You saw the door I came from? Very well, you may watch me return. After that, you may go to the devil."

"I'm staying here until my messenger comes out into the street alive," said Moses.

"I will send him to you," Gulbaz answered. "He is lucky. Luckier than you are. Wait and see."

Gulbaz strode back down the alley and entered the door. A moment later the messenger came out, looking scared, as if he felt murder behind him. He ran and crawled in under the truck. Moses spoke to the driver. The truck started, forward, because the street was too narrow to turn around in.

"Where now?" asked Stoddart.

"Back to camp," said Moses.

"Well, you drew blank that time. If you feel as foolish as you look you'll think twice before you call me a fathead again. You've spent a rupee eight annas for nothing, and you're not a cent the wiser."

"Plus having learned that you're stupider than any other blasted Brit-isher I ever met," said Moses. "I've learned all I came for. Gulbaz isn't as smart as he thinks. In some ways he's near as stupid as you, all along of his pride."

"Oh, that's easy to say but it's just talk," said Stoddart. "If you ask me, you're a liar. You haven't learned anything. To the extent that a white man can condescend to a half breed without losing caste, we've been fair to middling friends, you and I. But if you use my name again promiscuously like that, I'll knock your block off."

"Fathead," said Moses. "He knows me. He doesn't know you. He came out because he was curious."

"And he told you to go to the devil. That's all you learned."

"Fathead! You mean that's all you learned. I learned that he's ready. He's red-hot ready."

"Ready for what?"

"To get Norwood. He's trigger-ready. If he weren't, he'd be playing for time, and we'd be arguing this minute about the price of what we'll tell him if he'll pay."

"You mean he'd have bribed us?"

"I do not. Gulbaz makes promises. And he sometimes keeps his promises, unless—"

"Unless someone else can keep 'em for him with a long knife. He can hire that done for five rupees a head. So why pay us a thousand? Can your intellect answer that conundrum? Figure it out on a board when you get home."

CHAPTER XVI

The Maharanee was scrupulously fair. Rather than disguise her motive, she revealed it. She stripped objections to it naked. She didn't pretend that Rundhia was a prince of virtue or a man of his word, except when it suited him, or when compelled to keep a promise. The

The Maharanee believed every word she said.

Maharanee believed every word she said. But she used arguments that sounded curious, even to Lynn, who was under the spell of the eastern environment.

Lynn later found Rundhia standing in moonlight, in a golden turban and European dinner clothes. As a palace door closed behind Lynn, she, too, stepped into the moonlight, with her face half veiled under the sequined sari. It was she who looked oriental, dressed according to the Maharanee's wishes. Rundhia looked like a western athlete, in more or less fancy dress. And he called Lynn a goddess in western terms that any polo-playing American gallant might have used:

"You look like Miss India! You almost give me religion! Pull away that curtain! Show your golden hair, and let's give all the other goddesses a sight to make them green with envy!"

Lynn uncovered her head and walked beside him in silence.

"I feel like a god tonight," said Rundhia.

"Have you been drinking?" Lynn asked.

"You golden-haired iconoclast! Your arrow aimed into the heart of my ballooning self-esteem! You delicious archer! I have had five cocktails. Do I seem drunk?"

"What sized cocktails?"

"Measured to my mood, exactly."

"Then you seem astonishingly sober. What have you done about Captain Norwood?"

"Lynn, let's forget Norwood. I want to talk to you."

"I can't forget him. You and I have wronged him."

"Has he answered your letter?" Rundhia retorted.

"No. But have you forgotten your promise?"

"Didn't the Maharanee tell you? Don't trouble yourself about Norwood. Forget him. Talk to me."

"I wish to talk about Captain Norwood."

"He has talked about you, I don't mind telling you. According to one of the palace servants, he told your aunt this afternoon that he's disgusted with you."

"I can believe he is disgusted," Lynn answered. "But I can't imagine him saying so to Aunty, or to anyone else."

"Let us talk about you," said Rundhia.

"Very well, what about me?"

"Now you have made me speechless!"

"Have I? Then perhaps you will listen to me."

"Beloved, I will gladly listen to you, in an ecstasy of patience and devotion, during years which shall flow so fast that we'll be old before we know it!"

"Did you get that from a book?"

"I never read books. When I talk to you, my tongue can only stutter miserable hints of how I feel. You make me delirious. Be good enough to notice that these arms resist impulse!" He extended his arms toward the moon, then dropped them to his sides. "Oh, Lynn, I love you."

"Good job I don't love you," she answered. "There'd be—"

"A new golden age in Kadur!" Rundhia interrupted. "Lynn: philosophy, religion, economics and the other muck they made me listen to at school and college left me, until you came, dry of faith in anything but evil—and even evil dying! You are my first glimpse of goodness."

"Don't you love the Maharanee? Isn't she good?"

"Oh, yes. She is good past history. Lynn, you are the present and the future! One straight look into your blue eyes, and I knew what hope means and the higher vision, I had never seen it, until I saw you."

"Sounds good," Lynn answered. "What was in the cocktails?"

"Don't joke! Lynn, I'm in love. I mean every word I'm saying to you."

"I mean what I say, too," Lynn answered. "I don't love you—What was that noise? In the distance. It sounded like shooting."

"I didn't hear it," said Rundhia. They had reached the steps that led to the kiosk on the garden wall. It was dark in the wall's shadow. He was justified in offering his arm to guide her up the steps, but he put it around her. She could feel his vibrance. She escaped him—ran up the steps ahead of him, then waited on the wall in full moonlight, facing him, unafraid.

"There! Did you hear that? Wasn't that a rifle-shot, Rundhia?"

"Might have been," he answered. "Not so easy to tell."

"Isn't Captain Norwood's camp in that direction?" Lynn asked.

"Somewhere over there, yes. Possibly a jackall or a stray dog scared his sentries. Never mind Norwood. Lynn, you say you don't love me. I don't believe you."

"Why not? I told you the plain truth—Do you think sentries would fire at a dog?"

"His would! He's crazy. Lynn, I don't believe you because you forgave what I did in the treasure room. And because when you hurt me, you were sorry. Also because you are not afraid to be alone with me now. Lynn, you don't know yourself. You're—"

"Do you know yourself?" she retorted. "Don't you think it strange that they should be shooting at night?"

"No. Most soldiers live in a continual state of false alarm. Lynn, listen to me. Don't I excite you?"

"You did. But I saw you, and I heard you laugh at Captain Norwood's ruin."

"You dislike me?"

"Oh, no."

"You admit I can stir your emotions?"

"Oh, yes. I admit that. Why tell lies about it? You're magnetic. I almost fell in love with you."

"Lynn, you are thinking about East and West. That hoary old superstition! It lingers, they tell me, in America more tenaciously than anywhere else, though even school-books nowadays admit that we and you are of the same race. Do you know how many western women have become the wives of Indian princes?"

"I don't want to know. I don't care."

"You are right, Lynn. Quite right. Why should you care? It is love, not what others have done, that crumbles superstitions. Lynn, I love you. I wouldn't lie to you—"

"Have you done your best for Captain Norwood? Have you really done it? What have you done?"

"Never mind. I have done it."

"You swear?"

"Yes."

"Then I will listen. You were saying—?"

Rundhia had to recover the train of his thought. He turned away from her a moment, paced the wall, and came back:

"Lynn, my love for you may sound selfish. I always have been selfish, until I met you. I have no practice with words that a genuine lover should use. But I am genuine. For the first time in my life, I am unselfish. May I tell you—will you listen if I tell you—what my heart tells me?"

"Yes, I will listen, Rundhia."

"Will you really listen?"

"Yes, Rundhia. I would rather listen to almost anything than my own thought, at the moment."

"You are feeling deserted?"

"Despised!" Lynn answered. "If Captain Norwood had answered my letter—"

"You are lonely! So am I lonely! Lynn, diwaza kola hall! The door is open! Enter. It is that short step across the threshold that makes you hesitate. Leap!"

"You mean into your arms?"

"Yes."

"No."

"Come, Lynn!"

"No."

"Lynn, you make me hate myself. Am I so unappealing to you?" Suddenly he changed his voice. He sounded angry: "Are you in love with Norwood?"

"I hardly know him. How could I be? I only know that I never felt dirty before in all my life. I don't like it, Rundhia. And I can't forgive you for having crowded over Captain Norwood's disgrace. You and I brought it on him."

"Lynn, is that all that's the matter? If I give you my word of honor that I have solved the Norwood problem, will you listen to me?"

"Have you solved it?"

"If I prove to you, before midnight, that there is no longer any problem about Norwood, will you come into my arms?"

"Speak plainly, Rundhia."

"I will, Lynn, face it! Norwood has no use for you. Has he answered your letter? He has not! The messenger reported that he tore up your letter without reading it. I don't know why you care a damn what happens to him. He doesn't care what happens to you. Your aunt doesn't care. She is leaving you flat."

Lynn interrupted: "You say Captain Norwood tore up my letter? Why didn't you tell me that before?"

"To save your feelings. However, you know now. That's how he feels. That's Norwood. Lynn, you are merely hesitating on that damned old superstitious crumbling platform of 'East is East and West is West,' that Kipling lied about. You and I are above all that nonsense. Lynn, beloved, come into my arms now! You are lonely. So am I lonely. See, I am waiting for you. Come here, Lynn. Come of your own will. Be mine. Face things from the inside looking outward. You shall be my wife, and I swear by my love for you, that Norwood—"

"Oh, that's only a promise," Lynn interrupted. "I won't believe you about Captain Norwood, until you prove it."

Venetian Blinds to Simulate Windows

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

HAVE you ever tried placing your davenport on the side of the room where there was a single window? You probably found that it did not look well, because the back was just high enough to give the draperies an awkward cut-off appearance, as shown in the upper sketch. The lower sketch shows how a friend of mine solved this problem.

There are no windows under those lowered blinds. A painted box-like cornice board was made about 2 feet longer than the davenport and was fastened to the top of the frame of the one window. The venetian blinds and the rods for the draperies were fastened inside this. A narrow shelf for plants just the length of the davenport back was fastened securely to the window sill. The flowers increase the illusion that there are three windows and add a cheerful note of color.

NOTE: Sewing Book No. 1 tells how to make this cornice board. Also how to make curtains and draperies for every room in the house from child's room to kitchen. All about slip covers. Dressing tables from boxes, tables and old mirrors. You will be delighted with it. Send order to:

Great Circle Course

When sailing between widely separated ports, most ships follow a Great Circle course, or an arc whose center is the center of the earth, because it is the shortest distance. For instance, the distance between San Francisco and Yokohama by direct compass bearing is 5,517 miles, whereas the Great Circle course is only 5,224 miles.—Collier's.

THE TRUTH SIMPLY TOLD

Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of world-wide use, surely must be accepted as evidence of satisfactory use. And favorable public opinion supports that of the able physicians who test the value of Doan's under exacting laboratory conditions. These physicians, too, approve every word of advertising you read, the objective of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good diuretic treatment for disorder of the kidney function and for relief of the pain and worry it causes.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and diuretic medication would be more often employed.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warn of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—iced, swollen, all played out.

Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Ask your neighbor!

Psychologist Discusses Effect of Meat on Energy

Is the jungle lion ferocious because it lives on raw meat? Would it be more gentle if a vegetarian? And are men who live principally on a meat diet likely to be more belligerent than those who prefer vegetables?

The answers to those questions, according to Martin F. Fritze, associate professor of psychology at Iowa State college, is yes and no. Lack of meat in the diet may cause an animal or human being to live on a lower energy plane, Fritze found, thus giving the appearance of a peaceful, mild disposition.

"According to that hypothesis," he said, "a vegetarian diet simply depresses the activity level while a generous intake of meat may bring out the full energy potentialities."

"It might be argued that the continued eating of high protein foods, such as meat, might result in a permanently higher plane of basal metabolism which would account for the energy and vigor of meat-eating nations," he continued. "But Fritze apparently found a hitch in this argument. For if it were true, he said, the Eskimos could be expected to be especially violent "for they eat a meat diet and their basic metabolism is about 33 per cent higher than that of people living in temperate zones."

The Eskimos, however, are the most peaceful and unwarlike race in the world, the professor declared. Inheritance is an important factor in the degree of activity, he said. But, "it may be argued that all races have inherited a potentially high level of activity—a very questionable assumption—and that the differences we observe are due to the failure to utilize a diet which will bring out this activity to its fullest extent."

Fritze summarized by saying: "It is quite possible that diet does influence racial temperament, but until further evidence is gathered we may well be just a bit cautious in drawing conclusions."

Star Dust

STAGE-SCREEN-RADIO

By VIRGINIA VALE
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

THERE'S a superstition in Hollywood that an actor cast as a newspaper reporter goes right on into bigger and better roles. Robert Paige believes in it firmly, because it's worked for him.

He was brought into pictures from radio because of his ability as a singer—and then he was given one part after another in which he had no chance to sing. He seemed to be stuck in melodramatic roles. Then he was cast as a newspaper reporter in "Golden Gloves," and again played a reporter in "Opened by Mistake." And now he's booked for the leading male role in Paramount's "Dancing on a Dime," a musical comedy, in which he'll play opposite Grace MacDonal—and will sing and dance, at last!

At 75, May Robson has no idea how many roles she has played on stage and screen, but she's ready to tackle her newest one, that of Ellen Drew's grandmother, in "Texas Rangers Ride Again." It's one of the most strenuous parts of her long career, that of a salty old lady who looks upon modern Texas peace officers as poor successors to the ones she knew in her youth.

You'll be able to see Pat O'Malley, of radio's "Alec Templeton Time," on the screen before long. His first picture will be "Captain Caution," in which he will play a Cockney sailor who is captured during the War of 1812—and in which he'll sing the "Apple Song," which he has already performed on the Templeton program.

When you see "A Night at Earl Carroll's" you'll also see what was, two years ago, the community's most expensive night club. Remember when it opened, with a special section for movie stars? Nowadays it's a dime-and-dance emporium in the evenings, but during the days it's been returned to its former glory by Paramount. Ken Murray and Rose Hobart play the leads in the picture, Cobina and Brenda, radio's comedy team, and some of the much publicized Earl Carroll beauties will support them, and Earl Carroll, besides acting as producer, will play himself.

The Philadelphia-LaScala Opera company wants Deanna Durbin to make her operatic career under its auspices next season. James Melton's already signed with the company.

Ben Grauer has grabbed off the most coveted announcing assignment in radio. He's been selected to introduce Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt when she takes the air. Oddly enough, he and she will be in studios hundreds of miles apart, since she will be on the go most of the time; she'll broadcast from a city convenient to her schedule, and he'll chime in from a New York studio.

He is an energetic, jovial young man, who, since he joined NBC 10 years ago, has been working toward liberating the announcer from his stiff-necked, push-voiced make-up. He's been trying to sound like a human being, and deserves a medal for the way that he has succeeded, and inspired other announcers to unbend.

Radio's "Uncle Ezra," (Pat Barrett) a confirmed bachelor in his National Barn Dance air show, found on his arrival in Hollywood recently that the screen expects him to have a wife. In the Bob Burns picture, "Comin' Round the Mountain," "Uncle Ezra" will find himself wedded to a movie actress, whether he likes it or not.

Nine years and 49 weeks ago Joan Blondell decided that she might as well leave Hollywood and go back to New York, because she'd never get anywhere in pictures. She was working in "Sinner's Holiday," with James Cagney, and she made up her mind that she'd stick it out till the picture was finished.

But she never got away. In fact, she's been so much in demand that she's had only a few trips to New York to do shopping, and the one she made with Dick Powell on their over-ballyhooded honeymoon.

Colorful Rainy Day Outfits Are Stylized to Perfection

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

MEMBER "way back when" a rainy day was the signal to don your most melancholy looking wearing apparel—dingiest hat that the rain couldn't spoil, a coat with but the single thought of protection regardless of looks, and "don't forget your rubbers," the good old-fashioned clumsy kind that gave you an inferiority complex every time you wore them?

Thanks to the resourcefulness of present-day fashionists no longer do figures of gloom clad in somber garb canopied with ponderous umbrellas that obscured the view and had an exasperating way of colliding with every kindred umbrella it met, stolidly wend their way through wind, rain and weather. Today rain-in-the-air is the bugle call to us moderns to dress up in the most cheerful, colorful, pleasing-to-the-eye outfits creators of rainy day fashions have dared to devise.

Gay-with-color and smartly stylized rainy day ensembles are absolutely essential in a properly appointed wardrobe, according to the progressive Twentieth century way of thinking. Utilitarian, of course, is the basic theme, but it is utility served with a smile in terms of cheer and eye-catching attractiveness. The dainty colorful transparent coats with protective headpieces to match that you can fold up in an envelope have a charm about them that adds witchery to any rainy day scene. Umbrellas are so lovely they nearly outrival parasols.

Then there are the practical types of rainy day ensembles made of materials that are reversible—gabardine on one side and tweed on the other—grand for intensive wear.

Speaking of looking your prettiest on a rainy day, the young woman pictured to the left in the illustration goes stepping in a hooded coat of white oilskin which has raglan sleeves and fitted waistline. She wears white galoshes to match. She does not really need an umbrella but if she should carry one just for effect we are quite sure she would be choosing one of those delectable types made of transparent white oil silk patterned in a design that looks exactly as if actual chalk-white lace had been applied. In reality the lace magic is achieved in an all-over motif printed in opaque white.

Gayety on a gloomy, rainy day and all because her raincoat is as cheery as a streak of sunshine applies to the attractively outfitted girl centered in the picture. The coat has raglan sleeves to fit over any garment and a zippered front closing. A cotton numerical print fabric in striking colors fashions it. The big news about the rainproof fabric of which it is made is that it has been treated with a new synthetic which scientists call koroseal, which not only makes it impervious to water, but also renders it spot-proof and fire resistant. The material is also processed so that it does not become stiff or crack with age. Thus does modern genius continue its wonders to perform. Note her boots, they are the latest. They are amazingly light weight, and easy to slip on. Solve the hateful mud spot on hosiery annoyance perfectly.

No clothes worries during spring and summer's inevitable showers awaits the young miss standing to the right in the group, for her new raincoat is also made of a material treated scientifically as above described so that it will victoriously defy the onslaughts of the elements, no matter how fierce the wind or rain. This coat is fashion-right in every sense of the word. It boasts a very new blouse-top silhouette with full skirt giving the wearer a trim figure by the use of shirring at the waistline. If she so chooses she can pull the parka hood up over her hat for protection. The comfortable bishop sleeves will fit over a woolen coat or a summer frock.

Dressmaker Suit

This charming dressmaker suit with its flattering lapels and cuffs of ruffled white pique is made of sandrella, a lightweight closely woven material of virgin wool. The style represents one of the newest fashion developments of the season. The crisp texture of the fabric resists wrinkles and the stress of hard wear. She wears her straw breton in latest approved far-back-on-head fashion.

Animals Pattern New French Prints

Balenciaga chooses flying ducks to pattern new spring prints. Bruyere shows elephants and Schiaparelli, more eclectic, takes the doves, the penguins, the deer and the fish.

Another series of prints uses modern objects such as garden tables and chairs, drawn in such a fashion that they look almost like lace patterns over a plain ground, wooden shoes, castles (chosen by Balenciaga), children's faces (on Ducharme fabrics), dancing figures... many of these in almost miniature sizes.

Fingertip Gloves New Fashion Fad

A quarter of an inch at the end of your nails starts a new style in gloves. They're designed with extra extensions to take care of those long glamorous nails. The gloves are three-dimensional, the fourchette in contrasting colors to match the shade of your fingertips. The glove is flattering to any hands—long finger nails or no—because it gives them such a long tapering line.

Curved Metal Heels

Hollow metal curved in graceful scrolls is used for heels on some of the spring shoes from Paris. The metal, of course, is flexible and allows you to walk with a springy movement.

HABAKKUK FIGHTS THROUGH DOUBT TO FAITH

LESSON TEXT—Habakkuk 1:12-2:4. GOLDEN TEXT—The just shall live by his faith.—Habakkuk 2:4.

"The just shall live by his faith"—the great rallying cry of the Reformation; in fact, the very essence of Christianity, is found in the glorious conclusion which the prophet Habakkuk reaches in his triumphant confidence in God. Trying circumstance, doubt and fear must all yield to faith in God.

The lesson for today is peculiarly appropriate to the situation in which the world finds itself just now. Men's hearts are failing them for fear. It seems to them that all is chaotic disorder; they wonder whether God has any plan for the world and its people, and whether He really cares. "Why doesn't God do something?" is the question on many lips. The answer is in our lesson.

I. Believe, Though Surrounded by Questions (1:12-17).

Habakkuk does not question that his people had sinned and were worthy of God's disciplinary chastening, but he is astonished to learn that God plans to use the wicked Chaldeans to bring it about. Questions pour in upon him as he describes their iniquity (v. 13), and speaks of them as catching Judah in their net (vv. 14, 15) and gloating over their victims (vv. 16, 17).

He does not yet know the answer to his questions, but he has already stated the foundation of his faith in verse 12. Whatever happens, no matter how sore the trial and non-understandable the outworking of God's plan, the prophet is sure of his God as the eternal and holy One. The point to be borne in mind in such a time is that God is not making plans for the moment or because of some unexpected change in circumstances. He is "from everlasting" (v. 12). His plans are eternal. But He is also the "Holy One" (v. 12). It may seem for the present that sin and wickedness have triumphed, but let us remember that the eternal plans of God are conceived and executed in holiness and power.

II. Be Alert in the Midst of Uncertainty (2:1).

One who does not have faith in God is prone to say in such times that all hope is lost, and give up in despair. Not so Habakkuk. He knew that there is nothing harder than to wait patiently for God. He determines to be neither discouraged nor impatient, but to stand watch in the tower (v. 1). "His words bespeak a very right and proper condition of soul. Perplexed and confused by the seeming enigma of God's ways, he owns he may require reproof, and takes his stand upon the watch tower, above the mists of the earth and beyond the thoughts and doings of men, where he can quietly wait on God and look out to see what He will say to him" (Ironside).

How desperately we need such alert and earnest watchers in our day. Christians, arise! Do not permit yourself to be either lulled into a false security or into deadening discouragement.

III. Receive the Answer of Triumphant Faith (2:2-4).

"The Lord answered me." He always does, if we are ready to listen and to abide His time. Habakkuk received a vision of God's truth in which he was to write so plainly that everyone who read it would understand it and, in turn, run to others with the message. Those of us who teach and preach would do well to follow that admonition. All too often our message is not understood or fails to stir those who hear it to go quickly and tell others.

Looking forward to Christ, the just man of Habakkuk's day was to live by faith; even as we of this day, looking back to the cross of Christ, are justified by faith and then are to go on to live by faith. This is the word which, as we have already suggested, stirred Luther and his fellows to bring about the Reformation. Long before Luther's day, however, the same words had come by the Holy Spirit's inspiration to be the heart of the great messages of Paul the apostle as he taught justification (Rom. 1:16, 17), as he defended grace against legalism (Gal. 3:11), and as he portrayed "the pilgrim's path through this world from the cross to the glory" (Heb. 10:38).

Works of the Lord
Oh, that men would praise the Lord for his goodness, and for his wonderful works to the children of men! And let them sacrifice the sacrifices of thanksgiving, and declare his works with rejoicing.—Psalm 107:21-22.

Pride
The lofty looks of men shall be humbled, and the haughtiness of men shall be bowed down.—Isaiah 2:11.

Garden Gossip

Edited by Caroline Harrington
 Letters and questions on garden topics will be welcome. They will be published and discussed in this column.

"Selecting plants suitable to existing conditions, and grouping them according to cultural requirements automatically fixes much of our garden design. Just as the artist knows well his paints before creating a design on canvas, so, too, the gardener (the artist) knows his soil (the canvas), and select plantings (the paints) for the most beautiful effects." M. B. Palmer, speaking at March Garden Club meeting.

While we impatiently wait for the sun to warm the earth, making it hospitable to seeds, there is still time to plan a new garden or make changes in the old one.

If you are planning a new garden, remember that most flowers seem to prefer a light, sandy, somewhat acid loam, fortunately the kind that prevails around East Jordan. If you do not know your soil, take advantage of the facilities offered by our school. Have the soil analyzed, and make sure that your garden has the right foundation. Your garden can be no better than the soil it grows from.

Humus, or decaying vegetable and animal matter, is a very important part of the garden soil. The humus already present in the soil, together with the fertilizer we add to it, furnishes the necessary mineral plant foods which are carried to the roots of the plants by the water in the soil. Water, as it seeps down through the earth, has very little of this mineral food in it. The water coming back up through the soil absorbs mineral elements and this "mineral water" is in turn absorbed by the roots of the plants.

Besides the mineral foods required by plants they also need the gases from the air — nitrogen, oxygen, hydrogen, carbon dioxide. Perhaps nitrogen is the most difficult for plants to get from the air, but we provide it when we furnish fertilizer. So . . . besides sun and good soil, your plants need a situation with good air drainage. Your garden should not be too well protected from the wind.

The use of ashes as fertilizer can be overdone. It is true that ashes do provide humus, but they also neutralize acidity, so be discreet, and do not use enough ashes to make the soil more alkaline than the flowers like.

If you are making a new garden, spread the chosen plot with well rotted manure, and spade it in, at least to the depth of your spade. Break up any clods, and rake out stones. Fill up depressions and level the surface. If you cannot get well rotted manure, better use commercial fertilizer this season, or your garden may run well to weeds. This same treatment is OK for your present garden, except that you must do your spading with great caution to avoid disturbing the lily bulbs, the perennial roots, and the self-sown hardy annuals which will come up as soon as the ground is warm.

GARDENER'S CALENDAR

By Lillian Brabant
 April 30th: Gathered hepaticas, May Flowers some call them.
 May 1st: Set out perennials from the Hemingway Gardens.
 May 2nd: It rained so transplanted hollyhocks.
 May 3rd: Raked leaves from perennial bed.
 May 4th: Brought geraniums from basement.

As you spade and rake and work the soil you'll be thinking of what to plant. You have a wide choice. A great deal depends on how much sun your garden gets. If it is in full sun, perhaps this year you'll concentrate on annuals, and select those flowers best suited for cutting, — zinnias, annual phlox, scabiosa, marigolds, penunias, nasturtiums. These will make a colorful bed and furnish flowers late in the season. For plants that do well in partial shade, consult your seed catalog which is a mine of information for flower growers.

Do not sow your seeds until late in May when danger of frost is over. Otherwise, you may have to do your planting twice. You gain no time by planting too soon. The seeds of the tender annuals are not improved by lying in damp, cold ground.

If possible have your rows running north and south (if you are planting in rows), carefully following the directions on the seed packets. The seeds must not be deeply covered with soil. In nature the seeds drop on the ground and germinate where they fall, without any covering to speak of. They need just enough soil over them to insure moisture. A light sifting of soil is plenty for most seeds. And remember that the first small roots cannot grow in dry, caked soil. On the other hand, they are easily drowned, so treat them tenderly. If it does not rain, water with the finest spray possible.

Of course, you will not be satisfied with annuals alone. Who can resist hollyhocks, perennial phlox, delphiniums, oriental poppies, peonies. Indeed, unless you are very strong minded, these and other well known perennials will soon become the backbone of your garden. Their presence means a reliable succession of bloom from June until late October or frost, but they cannot take the place of the annuals.

For flowers earlier than June, plant bulbs around your perennials roots. Plant them even where later you are to plant your annuals for the bulbs are only improved by the presence of annuals above them in the summer months. The dormant bulbs benefit by the fertilizer and water supplied to the annuals, and by the shade of their foliage. Bulbs need to be kept cool.

If you are planning a perennial border for beauty during the entire growing season, choose plants with attractive foliage. Iris for June blooming, peonies for mid-summer, phlox for late July and August, and chrysanthemums for autumn make a combination outstanding for effective foliage, color and hardiness. The iris need to be trimmed back in July, the peonies need plenty of room and cultivation, the phlox need treatment to prevent fungus and insect pests, and all need water and fertilizer, but this is not more care and consideration than we expect to give a well loved garden.

At Willowbrook Farm, summer home of the F. D. Stone family, Mr. John Seiler is now working fertilizer into the garden beds which last fall were covered with four inches of barnyard manure. He will repeat this operation once every week until June when annuals now being grown in cold frames will be set out. At this time, Mr. Seiler is also putting the lawns in condition by raking, sowing grass seed, and rolling. Perennials sown late last summer are now being transplanted into their permanent places in the garden, — hibiscus, dianthus, hollyhocks, digitalis, lupines, pansies, cantenbury bells and others. In August when the Garden Club visits these gardens, we shall see the results of careful garden planning and cultivation.

Tulips are growing with the spring, and will be at their best on Tuesday afternoon, May 21st, when the Mancelona Garden Club meets with the East Jordan Garden Club in our City Building to hear Mrs. Robert Brown of Mancelona discuss "Pottery." Pictures of East Jordan and vicinity will be shown, and club members will display their best tulips. Hostesses: Mrs. Alex Sinclair, Mrs. Wm. Swoboda.

Mrs. Votruba has found a way to have azaleamums in early spring. Last fall, after the first frosts had killed the garden flowers, she dug up several tiny shoots, — offsprings of azaleamums she purchased and planted in spring. These shoots she rooted in pots, and tended just as she would any house plants. During the winter they stretched up to several times their original height and finally in late winter put out buds. All have now bloomed freely, and before long

Mrs. Votruba will be placing them in their permanent place in her garden, allowing a space three feet wide for each to expand in. They make rapid growth out of doors, and are hardy, standing the winter well. So, in addition to the azaleamums most of us are buying for our summer gardens, I predict that many of us, following Mrs. Votruba's example, will have azaleamums for next Easter.

To protect their foliage from fungus and insect pests, dust your del-phiniums and hollyhocks (in fact all plants as they appear above the ground) with a thin film of dry sulphur, and continue this treatment every two weeks throughout the summer. For added protection, reliable authorities recommend spraying the ground around perennials with Bordeaux mixture, or the dry powder may be worked into the soil. When the little green plant lice appear, spray the foliage with nicotine, taking care to get the solution on the under side of the leaves.

A spreading mass of glossy leaves, holding out to the light great, green, tightly folded buds and waxy, fragrant, cream colored blossoms is a lovely sight in any man's country, but all this beauty in the window of a business office in a Northern Michigan town is sheer delight. If you do not believe me, see for yourself in the office of Mr. Wilbur Jones.
