John Momberger Beloved By All

Laid To Rest

John H. Momberger passed away at a Petoskey hospital, Tuesday, May 7th, following an illness of some duration, and nearing 79 years of age.

Mr. Momberger was born in Germany, Sept. 4, 1861. In 1886 he came to this County with his parents and located in New York state. On May 13, 1885, he was united in marriage to Mary E. Smith of Alden, N. Y. To them were born two sons who passed away very close together at the ages of five and seven years.

Mr. and Mrs. Momberger came to East Jordan in 1908, and shortly after were placed in charge of the Charlevoix County Infirmary, continuing in such capacity for some twelve years. Upon their retirement they purchased a residence on the West Side which they continued to enjoy until the death of Mrs. Momberger Aug. 22, 1935.

Following the death of his wife, Mr. Momberger made his home with his new wife and niece, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ruhlman on the East Jordan — Boyne City Rd. His health slowly failed and he suffered a stroke.

Mr. Momberger was by occupation a farmer and in fraternal circles a member of Mystic Star lodge, I.O.O.F., Buffalo, N. Y.

Funeral services were held from the Methodist church Friday afternoon, May 10, conducted by Rev. James Leitch. Burial services were in charge of Jordan River Lodge, I. O. O. F., at Sunset Hill.

Among those here to attend the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Momberger and Mrs. A. Hanneska of Buffalo, N. Y., and Geo. H. Ruhlman of East Lansing.

"Virginia City" Starts Sunday At Temple

Two fisted, red-blooded and crammed with the romance of early American, "Virginia City" relives a thrilling chapter of the Union. Errol Flynn, Miriam Hopkins, Humphrey Bogart, Randolph Scott, Alan Hale, and Frank McHugh head the notable cast in this saga of yesteryear to be presented Sunday and Monday. The entire week at the Temple includes the four programs as arranged below:

Saturday only: Roy Rogers, Mary Hart and Gabby Hayes in "In Old California."

Sunday and Monday: Errol Flynn, Miriam Hopkins, Randolph Scott, Humphrey Bogart, Alan Hale, and Frank McHugh in "Virginia City."

Tuesday and Wednesday (Family Nites): Jean Muir, Laraine Day, Billie Burke in "And One Was Beautiful."

Thursday and Friday: Tyrone Power, Dorothy Lamour, Edward Arnold and Lloyd Nolan in "Johnny Apollo."

Many insects are beneficial to man because they pollinate plants, destroy harmful insects, serve as food for useful creatures, or supply such products as china wax, gall-nuts for ink, honey, and silk.

Citizenship Day To Be Observed At Charlevoix, Monday

At 1:30 p. m., Monday, May 20, at the opening of Circuit Court at Charlevoix, the Court will observe Citizenship Day. Along with the admittance of several naturalization petitioners there will be some appropriate exercises and the public is invited and urged to attend, especially the new voters and those contemplating being admitted to Citizenship.

Our Red and Black Break Even In Baseball Games

Coach Harry Jankovik's East Jordan high school baseball nine after breaking even in two encounters the past week will play its second home game here Friday afternoon when they meet Petoskey at the West Side Ball Park at 3:30.

The Red and Black run into trouble at Petoskey last Tuesday when they dropped a 5 to 3 decision to the Northmen. Weinrich, young Petoskey righthander, batted as well as hurled his team to victory, setting the locals down with 6 hits and getting three for three himself.

The winning battery was Weinrich and Garby, for the losers Bulow and Crowell.

The Jordanites came back strong to take it out on the Charlevoix Red Raiders, after the Petoskey setback, winning over the Red and White 18 to 4 in an uneventful long drawn out affair.

Gerard hurled his second straight victory for the locals giving up but 5 hits, while his team mates were blasting out 11 off Stevens, a tall righthander.

Gerard and Crowell for the winners with Stevens and Nowland for the losers, made up the batteries for the afternoon.

Mother and Daughter Banquet Will Be Held May 22nd

On Wednesday evening, May 22, a Mother and Daughter Banquet will be held at the high school. This banquet is sponsored by the Home Economics Club and will be prepared by the Ladies Aid of Methodist church. It will be served at 6:30.

Mrs. H. J. Pulsipher of Charlevoix has been secured as guest speaker. The following program will be given: Welcome, toast mistress, Dorothy Thomas.

Toast to Mothers, Alice Slough. Toast to Daughters, Mrs. J. Porter. Group singing, led by Miss MacDonald.

Address, Mrs. H. J. Pulsipher. Harp Solo, Suzanne Porter. Followed by a style show introduced by Miss Ruttle.

Farmers Intend To Co-operate

873 CHARLEVOIX COUNTY FARMERS IN 1940 AAA PROGRAM

Final summary of the AAA farm plans signed in Charlevoix County this spring shows that 873 farmers intend to cooperate with the 1940 AAA Program. May 1 was the deadline for completing and signing the farm plans.

The sign-up this year indicates that about 41,057 acres, or 76 per cent of Charlevoix County cropland, will be farmed under the provisions of the Agricultural Conservation Program.

Throughout Michigan, 145,220 farmers have indicated by signing their farm plans that they intend to cooperate with the Agricultural Conservation Program in 1940, according to a report received from Maurice A. Doan, State AAA Chairman. These 145,220 farmers will operate about 74 per cent of Michigan's cropland this year, Doan said in the report.

The farm plan includes the acreage allotments for the farm, the soil-building practices which will be carried out on the farm, and an estimate of the maximum payment which the farmer may earn through his cooperation with the 1940 AAA Program.

Farmers who have signed their farm plans and who cooperate in the program this year will be eligible for (1) 1940 agricultural conservation payments, (2) price adjustment payments, and (3) crop loans, if offered.

Norrine L. Porter, Sec. Charlevoix Co. ACA.

To Our Citizens

It is once again the gardening season and many dogs are running at large, which do considerable damage to both vegetable and flower gardens. The Common Council of the City of East Jordan requests all dog owners to please keep their dogs either tied up or penned up during the summer months.

HARRY SIMMONS,
Chief of Police.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the friends and neighbors for their kindness and sympathy during the sad bereavement of our little son and brother. Also for the beautiful floral offerings; Rev. Swanson for his loving message; and Rev. and Mrs. Ragsdale for their beautiful singing.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Gilkerson and Family.

To The Voters of Charlevoix and Leelanau Counties

I wish to announce that I will not be a candidate for State Representative this year. I greatly appreciate the honor bestowed upon me by the voters of these two counties in naming me as their Representative for the past 8 years. It has been a great pleasure for me to be able to represent the people of the two best counties in the State of Michigan, but now I feel that it is time for some one else to take up the duties of this office. Therefore I will not run again. I wish to thank you all for the wonderful support you have given me during the elections of the past.

Douglas D. Tibbits,
Boyer City, Mich., May 11, 1940.

Dog Tax Notice

Dog taxes for the City of East Jordan are payable at the City Treasurer's Office until June first. After June first, taxes will be doubled.

G. E. BOSWELL,
City Treasurer.

Plan To Get Herd Sires

E. J. AGRICULTURAL DEPT WILL PROCURE BABY BULL CALVES

The East Jordan Agricultural Department is planning to go into southern Michigan on May 25 to get some baby bull calves suitable for use as herd sires in this area. Dairy men in co-operation with the Dairy Extension department of Michigan State College are offering these calves at uniform low prices, all calves at their farms, and all eligible to register.

Prices vary according to production of the dam and the age of the calf. All sires are proven or are being kept for proving. No calves are being offered from cows producing less than 350 lbs. of butterfat per year.

The lowest producing cows must have records of 350 to 400 lbs of butterfat. Calves from these cows under two weeks of age are offered for $10. Up to 4 weeks of age the price is increased to $20, and then advances $5 for each month additional age. Calves from cows producing 400 to 450 lbs. b. f. are offered under 2 weeks of age for $15, and from cows producing over 450 lbs. $20. In all cases, prices increase with age.

This plan is intended, however, for farmers who will need a herd sire in about a year, and are willing to purchase a young bull calf now. All of the dairy breeds are included in this offer. Any farmer interested should contact the agricultural instructor or the county agent as soon as possible.

Plover Staging Comeback

The upland plover, once almost extinct in Michigan and protected by law for many years, may be staging a comeback here according to Farley F. Tubbs, conservation department biologist.

The bird, whose winter migratory flight carries it to the Argentine pampas, is reported scattered through the grasslands of northern counties of both peninsulas.

Copies of the 1940 official Summer Highway Map of Michigan, issued by our State Highway Dept., may be obtained free of charge by calling at The Herald office. T. F.

X-Ray Clinics To Be Held Soon In This Dist.

Tuberculosis X-ray clinics will be held in each county of District Health Unit No. 3 on the following dates:

May 20 in the afternoon at the Gaylord Gymnasium.

May 21 in the morning at the Court House in Bellaire.

May 22 in the morning at the High School Gymnasium in Boyne City.

May 23 in the morning at the High School Gymnasium in Petoskey.

The purpose of making these X-rays is to locate early cases of tuberculosis, to check up on those who may have healed tuberculosis areas in their lungs, and to determine the condition of those who have had contact with tuberculosis individuals.

Since using the X-ray on all who come under this classification would be an impossible task in the time allotted, only those who have had positive tuberculin skin tests will be given appointments.

In preparation for the clinic, members of the health department staff, with the help of interested individuals in the various communities, have spent the past month in an extensive skin testing program. The testing was confined to those groups in which early tuberculosis is most likely to be found. Such groups are of two types, those who have a history of continuous contact with tuberculosis, and all young adults.

The presence of a persistent cough or a "run down condition" is not necessarily present in early tuberculosis. The slogans on a recent poster describe the situation in a few words: "Healthy Lungs can hide tuberculosis" and "The X-ray will show it before you know it." There is no excuse for waiting to make X-rays until individuals think they have tuberculosis — by then it is usually advancing, and they spread the infection to their friends as well.

Further information regarding the clinics may be obtained from the nearest District Health Unit office.

Many of the troubles caused by insects are man-made; they become pests because of the changes man makes in their environment.

Besides the woodchuck, the fox and badger dig burrows which, when abandoned by these carnivores, rabbits can use.

Garden Club Meets Tuesday, May 21st

The East Jordan Garden Club will meet Tuesday, May 21st at the City Building. The Mancelona Garden Club will be our guests that day. We hope everyone who can will come.

Mrs. Brown of Mancelona will talk about "Pottery," a subject we are all interested in.

Mrs. J. J. Porter, who has been at the Federated Garden Club meeting at Jackson, will tell of some of the interesting features of the meetings. If your tulips are not out, bring a plant or bouquet.

Wayne Gilkerson Accident Victim

Laid To Rest

Funeral services for Ellis Wayne, eleven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Gilkerson, were held from the parental home last Thursday afternoon, May 9th, conducted by Rev. E. E. Swanson of Ellsworth. Burial was at Sunset Hill.

The lad, as told last week in The Herald, received a fractured skull when he stepped from an East Jordan school bus, started to run across the road, and was struck by a passing auto. He was taken to a Petoskey hospital where he died shortly after entering.

Ellis Wayne Gilkerson was born at Midland Aug. 18, 1929. Mr. and Mrs. Gilkerson were former East Jordan residents, moved to Midland, and later returned here — locating on a farm in South Arm township on the East Jordan - Ellsworth Road.

Beside the bereaved parents, he is survived by four sisters and three brothers — Ina, Ellia, Lena, Donna; Douglas, Billie, Dean — all at the parental home.

Among those here from out of town to attend the funeral were: Mrs. Furrilla May and sons, Flint; Mrs. Dorothy Hosky and children, Flint; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Archer and family, Midland; Mr. and Mrs. Pat Boyd and daughter, Elk Rapids; Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Duplessis and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Duplessis, Charlevoix; Mr. and Mrs. Armand Keller, Kalkaska.

1941 Wheat Allotments Now Being Considered

The Charlevoix County ACA Committee met in the Ass'n office, Boyne City on Monday, May 13, for the purpose of making recommendations for 1941 wheat allotments. All farmers who have raised wheat during the years of 1938, 1939 and 1940, will be eligible to receive consideration for a wheat allotment.

Farmers who have not raised wheat in any of these three years, but who intend to plant wheat for harvest in 1941, may request a wheat allotment at this time. All requests for new wheat allotments must be forwarded to the Charlevoix County ACA Committee within 15 days.

Norrine L. Porter, Sec. Charlevoix Co. ACA.

Mid-West Gasoline Produced In Michigan Rates High Standard

"The green fields are far away" and possibly for this reason alone there is a feeling among some people that gasoline produced in Michigan — like our potatoes — is not quite up to the standard produced elsewhere in the United States.

Mid-West Refineries at Alma placed into operation last May one of the very latest and most modern Dubb's Cracking Plants that are operated in this country today, for the manufacture of high octane gasoline to meet the strictest demand.

The crude oil used by this company is pumped to the refinery from the Porter Field, sixteen miles from the plant, by its own pumping station and through its own pipe line. The crude oil contains a certain amount of brine and other foreign material. This is passed through a desalting drum that removes the salt and other impurities from the oil, and is then ready for refining.

After the crude oil is pumped through topping still furnaces, where it is heated to a high temperature, it is piped to the fractionating towers, subjected to more heat and separated into gasoline, kerosene, burning oil, gas oil and heavy fuel oils. This distillation converts a barrel of crude oil into approximately 26 per cent straight run gasoline, 33 per cent kerosene and distillate and 40 per cent residuum — the latter going through the Dubb's Cracking Unit to produce more gasoline.

This new Dubb's Cracking Unit, then converts the 40 per cent residuum from the topping plant into better than 50 per cent of high octane gasoline, which together with the

"Legal" System of Accounting

NEWSPAPERS PERFORM A VERY IMPORTANT FUNCTION

Newspaper advertising performs a "very important function" in the Michigan legal system of providing public accounting notices to taxpayers and warning notices to individuals, according to Henry L. Woolfenden Jr., executive secretary of the State Bar of Michigan, state organization for attorneys.

As for the public accounting notice which is a published report of governmental bodies or individuals who are discharging public trust, Mr. Woolfenden says: "This type of notice is the best protection which the taxpayer has against incompetent or unscrupulous public officials."

"The value of the public accounting type of legal advertising is usually readily apparent to anyone whose attention is directed to it. Such notices, are city commission proceedings, supervisors' proceedings, bank statements of condition, treasurer's reports, etc.

"No public official will spend money like a drunken sailor if a list of his expenditures is going to be published at the end of the month for all of his constituents to look over, and no dealer 'on the inside track' is going to sell the county a bill of goods at an exorbitant price when every competitor he's got will go over the list of county purchases with a fine tooth comb the minute it is published."

"A second-story man is not as apt to break into a house under an arclight as he is one on a dark street; and a racketeer is not as apt to loot the public treasury if the spotlight of publicity is turned on his act as he is if he knows he can do it in the dark."

"I do not mean to say that the published accountings required by law of public officials have completely stamped out incompetency and malfeasance in public office, but I do say that such legal advertising is the cheapest and most effective insurance the taxpayers can buy on the ability and integrity of their elected officials."

"If there is any fault to be found with legal advertisements of this type, it is that there are too few of them. Many offices of a public or quasi-public nature — which are not now required to publish reports of their activities — might very well be required to do so. Some of the reports now required might well be required in more detail with additional benefit to the taxpayers."

"And if anyone says that 'nobody ever reads' these notices, I challenge him to attend a taxpayers' association meeting in your town or mine and see how many legal news clippings are taken out and quoted during the discussion. The citizens who are sincerely interested in governmental economy are sincerely interested in 'legal news'."

In the opinion of the executive secretary of the State Bar of Michigan legal advertising is "just as important in the effective preservation of our constitutional guaranties of security as in the preservation of our homes."

Mr. Woolfenden warned, however, that "the whole purpose of legal advertising is prostituted unless it is placed in a legitimate newspaper with a bona fide general circulation in the community where it is published. The proper use of legal advertising is peculiarly a joint responsibility of the editors who publish such advertising and the lawyers who draft and place it for publication."

"It is squarely up to the Michigan Press Association and the State Bar of Michigan to stamp out any legal advertising racket run by means of handbills under the name of newspapers."

gasoline from Mid-West's new polymerization unit, goes to make up a high quality Mid-West Three Star, which is exceptionally low in gum content.

Mid-West is licensed by the Ethyl Gasoline Corporation, and in accordance with the licensing agreement, maintains definite standards which its Ethyl Gasoline must meet. The standards are the same as for any nationally advertised brand of gasoline.

To determine the "anti-knock" properties or octane rating of its gasoline, Mid-West engineers use a C. F. R. Testing Engine. Because of its sensitive characteristics, this is in the hands of highly skilled operators.

In East Jordan the Golden Rule Station — Bud Thomas, Prop'r — sells Mid-West Three Star High Octane Leaded Gasoline. Mr. Thomas invites you to drive over to his station on the West Side and give this high-grade Michigan product a test, knowing well that you will be more than satisfied. (advertisement.)

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS By Farnham F. Dudgeon

German War Machine Invades Belgium and The Netherlands; Chamberlain Resigns His Post

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) Released by Western Newspaper Union

THE WAR: More 'Protection'

"Germany has respected the integrity of Belgium and the Netherlands under the self-evident precondition that these two countries, in case of war between Germany and England and France, would observe the strictest neutrality..."

For earlier word had been flashed that the German army had invaded the three low countries: the Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg. According to Berlin the Germans were moving into these tiny nations to "protect" them—even as Norway and Denmark were "protected" on April 9—from invasion by Allied forces.

When the news of the invasion reached Paris, French officials, acting in response to an appeal made by the Belgian ambassador, ordered the French army to march into Belgium. In London, Exchange Telegraph, British news agency, reported that 400 persons were killed or wounded in the first German air raid against Brussels. And in Washington when the same report was received the Belgian ambassador to the United States asked the state department to notify Germany that Brussels was an "open" city, contained no troops and therefore should not be bombed.

Meanwhile President Roosevelt, upon learning of Hitler's latest war move, immediately summoned his cabinet officials and army and navy chiefs to plan America's course in light of this newest war development.

Anxious Days

Elsewhere nations were attempting to calculate the effect of Hitler's invasion of the low countries. The governments were cautious, the citizens—jittery. Premier Mussolini told Italians that "only facts will break" his silence on Italy's future course of action in world affairs. The Italian press busied itself accusing England of improper motives because of that nation's fleet concentration in the Mediterranean.

In the land of the Pharaohs, Egyptians were "treated" to their first

NAMES ... in the news

In France, Joan of Arc's name was in the news as soldiers and civilians joined in paying tribute to that nation's legendary heroine on the national holiday in her honor.

In Russia, of course, it was none other than Josef Stalin who had his name in the news as it was announced that Soviet union citizens read more of his literary works than the writings of any other author. Probably it was "planned that way."

One year ago the submarine Squalus was a name in the news when she plunged to bottom of the sea carrying 26 men to death. Now the vessel gets another headline as she is being recommissioned. New name—the Salfish.

Speaking before the senate banking and currency subcommittee, Senator Sheridan Downey (Dem., Calif.) asserted that future U. S. prosperity depends on the hope of "forcing out" of banks and insurance companies excess savings not being put to productive use.

Another senator, Lewis O. Schwelb, was named as a federal district court judge when the senate approved his nomination made by President Roosevelt. The senator intends to refrain in congress until the end of the present session.

blackout as the government pushed defense moves to forestall any warlike moves on the part of Italy's fleet which was reported massing within 400 miles of Alexandria.

A strong drive by Britain and France to weld a "defensive alliance" in the Balkans was reported as that southeastern section of Europe girded itself for coming events, resignedly believing it would become the eventual battleground of the war.

Weary Warrior

In England a weary man fought the greatest political battle of his life. That weary man was Neville Chamberlain, prime minister of Great Britain, his current battleground being the British house of commons as a momentous two-day debate on the conduct of the war in Norway held sway.

Speaking in defense of his administration which was on trial, Chamberlain told the world that the battle in Norway is not yet over. Experts believed he was depending on a victory of allied forces near the Nazi-held port of Narvik to bolster morale and aid Britain's North sea blockade of Germany.

Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, who day before had been given additional power over the country's war fortunes, rose in the house of commons to take the blame being cast upon the prime minister. He accepted full responsibility for the act around which most of the fury of the opposition centered. Enemies of the administration wanted to know why the powerful British navy had not pounded at the port of Trondheim and forced it open for the landing of allied forces in the early days of the conflict.

Churchill said he had advised against this plan and then told the house that the real reason for the British setback was what Hitler has been claiming all along—Germany's air force is too powerful to be faced in open combat at the present time.

Strongest voice of the opposition was that of David Lloyd George, the man who led the empire to victory in World War I. Time after time he was cheered as the house heard him blame failure of the Norwegian campaign on Prime Minister Chamberlain. He flayed what he called "unintelligent and half-hearted leadership" for lack of success.

When the shouting was over 281 members rallied behind Chamberlain as 200 voted against him, the result being that he was not forced to dissolve his cabinet. But as he left the debate cries of "Resign! Resign!" rang loudly in his ears.

Two days later, after Hitler's army began to march, Neville Chamberlain followed this advice and resigned.

DOMESTIC: U. S. Blitzkrieg

Mobilized from quiet military posts in 33 states thousands of modernized fighting men of the United States were going through their paces as the regular army's largest peace time maneuvers—the annual war games—got under way in the deep South. Sixty-six thousand professional soldiers in opposing "Red" and "Blue" factions are fighting it out in the grim exercises which terminate May 25.

This make-believe war was giving officials a chance to test much of the new mechanized equipment and "streamline" infantry divisions that have been built up and organized to give the U. S. a modern army.

POLITICS: Advance Men

In Washington, John D. Hamilton, chairman of the Republican national committee, announced that the members-designate of the resolutions committee will meet one week in advance of the assembling of the national convention to start framing the party's platform. Regular delegates will assemble in Philadelphia on June 24.

Senator Wheeler (Dem., Mont.) has suggested that Democrats carry out a similar plan.

AMERICAN LETTERS:

No Sour Grapes

Usually when the Pulitzer prizes for outstanding work in American letters are announced there descends upon the award committee a deluge of abuse from critics that would strike fear into the heart of the sturdiest of men. But each year the awards are made, abuse notwithstanding.

John Steinbeck

This year experts in general agree that the committee has done well in making the following 1939 selections:

Outstanding novel award to John Steinbeck for his "Grapes of Wrath"; original American play, William Saroyan, for his "The Time of Your Life"; book of history, Carl Sandburg for "Lincoln, the War Years"; Ray Stannard Baker received the award for the best American biography by writing, "Woodrow Wilson, Life and Letters"; and Mark Van Doren's "Collected Poems" was classed as the most distinguished volume of verse. Each winning author is granted a $1,000 award for his winning work.

TRANSPORTATION:

Pay As You Go

While the nation's vacation-minded populace was beginning to salt nickels and dimes away for two weeks of frolic come next summer, U. S. railroads presented a credit plan that will revolutionize long-distance rail travel. Under this new plan it is possible for any person with respectable credit rating to buy transportation, Pullman accommodations and all-expense tours on time payments on trips costing $50 or more.

Sixty-six major rail companies are participating in the plan which requires merely that the traveler call at the ticket office, apply for credit in the amount of cost for his proposed trip, wait 24 hours for the routine credit inquiry, and if this is approved he receives his ticket just as if cash was being paid. No collateral is required—only the signature of the individual and no down payment is necessary, payments being made on a monthly basis later.

HELPING HAND:

Meeting in Washington for their annual national convention, members of the International Red Cross were read a letter written by President Roosevelt in which he pledged his support for any international agreement which indorsed condemnation of warring nations bombing noncombatants.

Norman H. Davis, chairman of the American Red Cross, reported that U. S. women had made over 2,000,000 garments and surgical dressings in response to demands for these articles from European nations. One million dollars in Red Cross funds was set aside to help European war sufferers, he said, and $800,000 more was received in voluntary contributions. Most of this money has been spent and he stated a new drive for funds may soon be necessary.

EDUCATION:

Frontiers

Long familiar with trite declarations that opportunity is unbounded, American youth seldom is given a concrete preview of the avenues through which it must make its way in this workaday world. Thus the University of Rochester's (New York) clinic on "New Frontiers in America" convened by that institution's president, Alan Valentine, stands out as a unique and valuable experiment. Here leading industrialists from the nation's major businesses concerns rubbed shoulders with undergraduates and sought to acquaint them with goals that lie ahead. Langbourne Williams, president of Freeport Sulphur company, keynoted the clinic with the declaration that new frontiers are constantly being carved out of a wilderness of technical difficulties and from the creation of new natural resources where it was believed none existed.

MISCELLANY:

Alcatraz prison is being modernized at a cost of over a million dollars, according to James V. Bennett, director of the federal bureau of prisons. Plans call for completion of the project in July. Work is being done while the prison operates normally, entailing considerable risk for the danger of prisoners obtaining dangerous tools or trying to escape.

American exports to Latin American countries in the first six months of Europe's war increased 54 per cent, it was revealed in a report issued by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce.

Meanwhile, United States Steel Corporation stockholders, holding their annual meeting in Hoboken, N. J., were told that the company's export trade had been neatly expanded during the war but the gain was "not traceable directly to the conflict." No expansion for possible war orders is contemplated by U. S. Steel at the present time.

War Is Likely to Be an Issue In National Political Campaign

President's Projected Trip at Time of Republican Convention May Provide Chance to 'Air' U. S. Foreign Policy.

By WILLIAM BRUCKART WNU Service, National Press Bldg., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON.—Whether we like it or not, it is now almost certain that the national government policy with relation to Europe's war will become an issue in the forthcoming national political campaign. None can measure yet how great or how small a part this issue will have in the electioneering on the hustings, but I am afraid everyone has to agree that the subject is going to figure in the campaign.

If proof were needed of the statement above, one has only to look into the announcement that President Roosevelt has chosen the latter part of June for a trip to the Pacific coast and return. He said, in making the announcement of his plans, that he was going to talk generally on "conservation." A wag in the press conference that day asked: "conservation of what?" The answer was a hearty Roosevelt laugh.

The Roosevelt announcement quite naturally set political tongues wagging at a great rate. Whether it was so planned or not, the early part of Mr. Roosevelt's projected trip—unless the European war conditions or failure of congress to adjourn serve to prevent—will put him into the newspaper headlines just as the Republican national convention gets into full swing at Philadelphia. Of course, I would not accuse Mr. Roosevelt of trying to steal the show, but I do recall that he shared front-page space with a Republican convention once before.

The President's planned trip—which he says was carried over in the nature of a postponement from last year when international conditions were hot—includes a visit to, and dedication of, the Great Smoky Mountains National park in North Carolina and Tennessee; a dedication of the Natchez-to-Nashville highway and a visit to Natchez, Miss.; a visit to his son, Elliott, in Fort Worth, Texas; a visit to the San Francisco exposition, and then a dedication of the Olympic National park, in the state of Washington.

President May Visit Alaska If Europe's Condition Permits

In addition, Mr. Roosevelt may go to Alaska. Whether he makes that trip depends entirely upon conditions in Europe, he has explained.

There was no mention of the plans for the trip back to the Capitol. The return journey, however, obviously will take the President through the Middle West. It is in those areas that his conservation and trade agreement program have had the hardest sledding. The farm vote in those sections is admittedly in a position where it can upset or re-establish New Deal control in the forthcoming elections. Since there is no politics in the trip—only conservation and a vacation for the President—it must not be assumed that the President has an eye squinted to see what the situation is.

To get back to the foreign policy question, however, it ought to be recalled that Mr. Roosevelt has asserted, time after time, that the United States is going to stay out of the wars in Europe and Asia by "policies short of war." What those policies are have not been put out in too much detail, and there are people who want to know more about them.

It is never to be forgotten that the American people are easy to arouse. Their sympathies are quick. There certainly has been an earnest, an unqualified demand, that the United States stay out—that the war is Europe's war and must be kept over there.

On the other hand, there are a substantial number of people who think that Europe's war is America's war. They believe that if Hitler wins this war, the Western hemisphere will be the next on his list. I think that school of thought is wrong, but anyway that is the nature of some of the talk.

'Policies Short of War' Should Be Defined

It appears unthinkable that Mr. Roosevelt, or any other person, would dare to propose measures that would take the United States into the conflagration. But these "policies short of war" may be only steps—not deliberate steps, but mistaken steps. There are differing opinions all ready on what has been done. Thus, it seems fairly clear Stealing the Show?

President Roosevelt's planned trip through the nation at the time of the Republican national convention might be from that to steal the headlines from that gathering in the opinion of William Bruckart, Washington correspondent. This trip would be a good chance for the President to explain to the country just what the administration's foreign policy is, according to Bruckart.

that whatever the purposes of the President's Western trip may be, he is likely to talk about foreign affairs to some extent; and whatever he says will be snapped up by opposition.

The Republican leadership seems to sense the trend of events. None of those with whom I have talked are certain just what the President will do with the opportunity he has made for himself by injecting the Western trip into the midst of their convention. They do not know what to expect, but they are looking for something from the Roosevelt leadership that will have to be met as a campaign issue.

This uncertainty may be one of the real reasons that the Republicans are planning a pre-convention meeting. They are going to have some of the important figures meet in Philadelphia a week ahead of the convention and these fellows will try to iron out a lot of differences.

How far they will get depends upon the willingness of the bigwigs to make concessions to each other. For instance, Alf Landon and Colonel Knox, the 1936 presidential and vice presidential candidates, respectively, broached the idea of a pre-convention meeting. Colonel Knox came into Washington, talked with quite a few Republicans around the Capitol and offered the idea of a pre-convention meeting. But Colonel Knox happened to miss John Hamilton, the Republican national chairman. The chairman and the bombastic colonel did not share secrets on the proposal, as far as I can learn.

Hamilton Wants Delegations Picked Early as Possible

Scarcely had the Landon-Knox idea been blazoned across the sky when Mr. Hamilton announced that he had written all members of the Republican national committee and all state chairmen about a pre-convention meeting. He urged the state delegations, especially, to elect their members of the convention resolutions committee—the platform committee—ahead of time. He wanted them to assemble early and save "an appreciable amount of time" of the convention by working out the platform in advance.

These plans are similar in intent. Moreover, they are grounded largely in the same soil, namely, uncertainty about the meaning of the Roosevelt "policies short of war." For instance, "policies short of war" might include loans to the allied powers if Hitler gets them backed up against the wall and their need for money forces an appeal to this country. The Republicans, as far as I can figure out, do not wish any part of any further loans because it was the Wilson administration that made the loans in the first World war—and those loans have not been paid. But whatever the Republican position, there seems no reason at all to doubt that the weather eye of the Republicans is going to be set on the Roosevelt policies. There will be other things, too, about which they obviously will complain, but every move of the present administration is being closely watched and will continue to be watched right up to adjournment of the Philadelphia convention.

All of these factors have a bearing, as well, upon the third term question. Most people will recall Woodrow Wilson's campaign slogan of "he kept us out of war." That campaign slogan is being recalled more and more as the heat of the 1940 campaign increases. The Roosevelt western trip has added fuel to the flames in a really big way.

I have taken the position consistently that it is Europe's war and that we have no reason whatsoever to get into it. But the changing events—the lightning strikes by Hitler—the desecration and destruction of entire nations by the German armies—are affecting our nation's foreign policies right now. It is unfortunate, but true. Affecting our policies as the situation does, those conditions apparently are going to influence our domestic politics, much as most of us hoped the circumstance could be avoided by some means or another.

It may be just a nasty habit, but sometimes nose picking is a sign of something nastier. It may mean that your child has round worms—especially if there are other symptoms such as itchy, fluky appetite, restless sleep and itching in certain spots.

People don't like to talk about bowel worms, so you may not realize how many children have this dreadful infection. They "catch" it from other children, from dogs, or unwashed vegetables, or infected water.

If you even suspect that your child has round worms, get JAYNE'S VERMIFORMS right away! Jayne's is the best known worm expeller in America. It is backed by modern scientific study, and has been used by millions, for over a century.

JEREMIAH DENOUNCES FALSE PROPHETS

LESSON TEXT—Jeremiah 23:21-32.
GOLDEN TEXT—Prove all things; hold fast that which is good.—1 Thessalonians 5:21.

Tickling the vanity and pleasing the ears of ungodly people with words of flattery and false comfort, giving them the assurance of peace and prosperity in the very pursuit of their sin, did not begin with the false prophets of the twentieth century. Six hundred years before Christ, Jeremiah the prophet had to contend with such false teachers.

His manner of dealing with them is of great interest to us, for essentially the false prophets of that day used the same methods and had the same false message that characterize their descendants of today, the so-called modernistic religious liberals who are busy everywhere attempting to undermine the faith of God's children in His Word. They are revealed as being destitute of divine authority, without a real message, and under the disfavor and subject to the judgment of God. They are

I. Without Divine Commission (vv. 21-22).

"I have not sent these prophets"—that should have been sufficient for the people of Judah. A man who is not sent by God has no word from heaven, no help for needy humanity. He is worse than an admittedly secular teacher or philosopher, for he claims to speak with divine authority and yet has only the disappointing impotence of a liar and a fraud.

The reason Judah listened to them was because they so eloquently hushed the condemning voice of their own consciences, assuring them that all was well, when, as a matter of fact, everything was wrong. Men listen to the same kind of teaching today for the very same reason.

II. Without a Divine Message (vv. 23-29).

These false prophets may delude men, but they have not fooled God. He is not a finite being, limited to this earth (v. 23). He looks on men from the far off viewpoint of heaven and judges by His own high and holy standards.

Nor can they hide from Him (v. 24). God hears the word spoken in the academic shelter of a college classroom, secretly poisoning the young person's heart against the faith of his father and mother. A day of judgment also awaits those who in their public utterances use the phraseology of orthodoxy, while in private they undermine and destroy Christian faith.

If a man is foolish enough to suppose that the dreamings of his own mind and heart will help anyone, let him be honest enough to call them just that; namely, dreams (vv. 25-28). But God will assuredly not hold those men guiltless who try to pass off their own philosophies as bearing the approval of God; who would have people honor their assemblies as Christian churches, when they are at best only social or intellectual gatherings designed to magnify man rather than Christ.

Note in verse 29 that the Word of God is like the fire that consumes and purifies, and also like the hammer, that breaks up the rocky heart of man.

III. Without Divine Favor and Blessing (vv. 30-32).

God is against every false prophet. Small wonder that there is the savour of death in their speaking and their works. There is no divine power in their message and no holy dynamic to enable people to respond to their admonitions. Prominent modernists are decaying in our day the fact that their cultured essays and polished philosophies are not reaching the hearts of men and are failing to transform lives. At the same time, humble preachers and teachers of God's Word, sometimes in hidden and remote places, are rejoicing as they see the transforming grace of God come upon lives as a result of their simple proclamation of the gospel of grace. Keep on, brethren; God is with you.

Observe what God calls the false prophets—thieves (v. 30) and liars (v. 32). Hard words, but they come from One who is all-knowing, who judges rightly and in love.

Like the Shadow

I am gone like the shadow when it declineth; I am tossed up and down as the locust. My knees are weak through fasting; my flesh faileth of fatness; I became also a reproach unto them; when they looked upon me they shook their heads.—Psalm 109:23-25.

It Doth Not Yet Appear

You are not what you ought to be, and you are not what you can be. You may rise yet, and fight a good fight yet, and be a good man once more, after the likeness of God who made you, and Christ who died for you!—Charles Kingsley.

Professor H. L. Seaton, to Speak on Refrigeration of Fruits and Vegetables

Professor H. L. Seaton, of the Michigan State College Extension Staff, has been secured to talk on freezing fruits and vegetables in the Boyne City Library on Tuesday night, May 21st, beginning at eight o'clock promptly. Professor Seaton is an authority on refrigeration and will discuss all subjects in connection with this important development.

A cordial invitation is extended to all folks interested to attend this meeting and discuss the benefits and dividends of quick freezing. Fortunately, Charlevoix County has such a plant in operation at the present time. It is owned by Shaw-Naylor and is located in Boyne City. Already its facilities have been taxed to the limit by a big demand for space. Briefly, by using their facilities a person can enjoy fruits and vegetables out of season. You are assured of quality products as your own products can be used. Each locker, being about twenty by thirty by eighteen inches, will hold approximately three hundred pounds of meat or fifty quarts of fruits.

Among other subjects, Professor Seaton will discuss the preparation, care and freezing of fruits and vegetables, the proper processes to use, the selection of the better varieties of fruits and vegetables, and the types and brines to use.

Mr. Naylor has promised that samples of products recommended for freezing will be shown those present. Also, literature, covering the entire field, will be distributed. Certainly the facilities of the plant should be utilized by a good many people. Bring your friends with you and attend the meeting in the Boyne City Library on Tuesday night, May 21st.

Dogs May Serve Britain in War

Canines Have Distinguished Themselves on Scores Of Battlefields.

LONDON.—A nationwide appeal for donation of dogs to be trained for service with the British expeditionary force is anticipated if the war office accepts a proposal by Lieut. Col. E. H. Richardson, whose canine messengers have distinguished themselves on a score of battlefields in the last 40 years.

Two thousand of Colonel Richardson's dogs played heroes' roles with the British army during the World war. Hundreds of them died in action and were buried in unmarked graves in Flanders. This little canine army was credited in official dispatches with saving entire battalions from almost certain annihilation.

At 74, Colonel Richardson has told the war office he is prepared to organize and train a similar army—under fire.

Used in Far East.

"Yes, I'm getting old, but I can do the job again," Colonel Richardson said. "The first dogs I trained for war service distinguished themselves by locating scores of Russian wounded in the millet fields of the Far East during the Russo-Japanese war. My dogs have carried out important military missions in Morocco, Bulgaria, Montenegro and Tripoli.

"Of course they've done pretty well in peacetime, too," said the officer, a mischievous twinkle in his eyes. "Take, for instance, the mastiff, bloodhound and the collie I trained especially for Sultan Abdul Hamid of Turkey as watchdogs for his harem. They had a capital job. Scotland Yard has used my dogs, too. It was one of my dogs that tore the trousers of the famous highwayman, Dick Turpin, when they nabbed him in Yorkshire. He had to climb a tree pretty fast.

"One of the outstanding dogs trained in my kennels south of Paris during the World war was Airedale Jack. He saved practically an entire battalion by running through a heavy German barrage for half a mile to brigade headquarters with a vital message strapped to his collar. Jack reached headquarters with his foreleg smashed and his jaw broken. He delivered his message, then died.

Sheep Dog Hero.

"Then there was Tweed, a bob-tailed sheep dog. He went on duty with a Scottish Canadian regiment at Amiens in 1918. The Germans broke through the British front lines. If they had gone any farther it would have been serious. Three dogs unsuccessfully tried to reach the headquarters of the French Colonial three kilometers back with a message to send reinforcements. Then Tweed tried it and made the grade. He ran the German barrage and arrived in 10 minutes. The French were quickly sent up, and the line was straightened."

Colonel Richardson developed a huge organization for training dogs during the World war, including approximately 2,000 game wardens. Hundreds of dogs, including airedales, mastiffs, retrievers, surchers and sheep dogs, were in constant training at a central kennel in Etaples, France. From these central kennels dogs and their trainers were pooled out to sectional kennels behind the front line. In each of these an average of 48 dogs were kept, tended by a sergeant and 16 men—three dogs to a keeper.

May Name 'Watchdogs' to Check War Expenditures

LONDON. — "Watchdogs" may shortly be appointed by the government to keep a check on wasteful expenditure during the present hostilities.

Ever since the outbreak of war the opposition in the house of commons has pressed for a committee to watch spending and strive to save the nation millions of dollars.

Such a committee was set up during the last two years of the World war and operated through various sub-committees in the spending departments of the government.

These sub-committees thoroughly investigated large items of expenditure. One was set up at the war office and consulted with Earl Haig and his technical advisors.

Similar subcommittees in this campaign would examine schemes which the departments undertake and try to avoid wasteful expenditure.

"So I bought this $112.75 Hotpoint."

"My wife liked it's appearance and it is a mighty good looking job, smooth and finished. You know, the way a thing strikes you when it has class and quality."

"But, I'm a mechanic and I'm interested in what is under the hood, so I sixed it up from that angle and here's the way it stacked up."

"The mechanism is one of the best that money can buy. In fact it's the same unit that is used in higher priced models, vacuum sealed and covered by a five year protection plan. I was satisfied on that point."

"Next came the insulation and I found no skimping, either in quality or quantity."

"One thing more, the cabinet. It's made of heavy gauge steel with an all steel frame. You can't ask for any better construction. The exterior is bonderized against rust and finished with two coats of baked on calgloss enamel, the interior is porcelain enamel, one piece construction."

"I'm satisfied that I have a refrigerator that stands up with the best of them in performance, quality of materials and construction, as well as in economy and durability."

DON'T NEGLECT FUNDAMENTALS IN YOUR NEW HOME

1 This is a corner of the foundation and footings. Your whole house rests upon it. It can never be replaced.

2 This is the same foundation with timber skeleton now in place. Again here is a part of your home that can never be replaced.

3 Here is a rough window opening from the inside. Notice how the framing members are doubled all around the opening. Dark shaded portions show insulation in place between the studding.

Glitter of Gadgets Often Distracts Builder From Quality Where It's Needed Most

Are you building a house for the first time? Then chances are you are in kind of a daze. There are so many things to decide, so many things to buy, so many more things you want and can't buy because there is just so much money. Now there's nothing less glamorous than the concrete footings and foundation. One doesn't show them off to one's friends, but if you skimp on either, you'll be busy for years to come trying to cover up cracked walls that all your friends will see.

Don't Skimp on Framework
Likewise the timber skeleton or frame of your house is going to be all covered up, but if you skimp on it you'll have sagging floors that squeak at every step.

And how about those great big holes in the wall, the rough window openings. You can buy windows and window frames to fill these holes pretty cheap. And you'll pay for them for years to come in heat lost, drafty floors and wet walls. Or, you can buy carefully designed, precision built and factory fitted windows and window frames complete with weatherstrip that will be a joy and a comfort every year that you live in your house. Yes, and you'll find that the extra cost was money well spent because of heat bills, repair bills and redecorating bills saved.

Can't Replace Windows
Good windows are a permanent part of your walls. They protect your investment in insulation and quality construction. Any home without weathertight windows is only one-half insulated. So when you build, get down to fundamentals. Always remember—you can add the gadgets any time, but you can't replace footings or timbers or windows. They've got to be good right from the start.

Gentlemen:

We submit herewith a detailed report of the mileage tests conducted on "Nu-Blue Sunoco" in comparison with fourteen premium-priced gasolines. All gasolines for test were purchased by us at regular retail service stations in Philadelphia, Boston, Cleveland and Detroit.

These tests were made under similar conditions of load and engine speeds corresponding to 30, 40 and 70 miles per hour. The average miles per gallon obtained for "Nu-Blue Sunoco" at these three speeds and loads was not exceeded by any of the premium-priced gasolines tested.

As verified by the attached report, test conditions were such that all gasolines were handled and tested impartially.

Very truly yours,

 leading extra priced gasolines

These tests, completed March 27, 1940, by the Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory, were made to cover different driving speeds: low, medium and high. Regardless of speed, Nu-Blue Sunoco was unsurpassed in miles per gallon; and since it sells at regular gas price, Nu-Blue Sunoco gave more miles per dollar.

To make a fair test, don't dilute Nu-Blue Sunoco with other gasoline. Instead—for best results—let your tank run practically empty. Then put in Nu-Blue Sunoco. Compare it against any gasoline at any price, and particularly against extra priced fuels. ... We'll rest our case on your findings.

Cobbler's Daughter, 10, Violin Prodigy

Performance Is Praised by Music Lovers.

SEATTLE.—Anita Lipp, 10-year-old daughter of a cobbler, is being talked of as the Pacific Northwest's first contribution to the ranks of violin "prodigies."

She made her formal debut a few days before Thanksgiving day, but even by that time she had managed to become the protegee of Seattle and Washington state officialdom.

Mischa Elman, internationally famous violinist, heard her play and immediately declared she should have an opportunity to extend her education. She has played for four years.

His suggestion brought about her debut, the proceeds of which will be used for her musical instruction. Her father's income cannot meet the constantly increasing expenses of her violin instruction.

General opinion of critics after her concert was that Anita was capable of being the finest violinist to emerge from the Pacific Northwest.

For the next year or two it is likely the youthful musician will remain in comparative retirement. Perhaps her next step will be an appearance in San Francisco.

By that time, according to her experienced instructor, she should be able to overcome her chief handicap—lack of size. She uses a three-quarter-size violin.

Her concert performance, critics said, was assured, competent, and, in some respects, even brilliant. Veteran orchestra players marveled when Anita played through difficult concertos for four hours without faltering.

The answer to this was that Anita likes to play. As far as she is concerned she'd give a concert any place if asked. She likes to make public appearances.

Letter Minus Address, Sender Gets an Answer

DAVIS, CALIF.—The agricultural college of the University of California here is convinced that the post office department can put it all over the G-men in the quick running down of their man.

The college received from a student of the State Normal university of Bloomington, Ill., a letter on which the sender had failed to put either the name of the city, or the name of the state, and with its sole address the name of a man who has been dead since 1916.

The address was simply "Professor E. W. Hilgard"—who until his death had been dean of the agricultural college here. The letter came through in regular time.

The student requested one of Professor Hilgard's books and it was forwarded to him.

Garden Gossip

Edited by Caroline Harrington

Letters and questions on garden topics will be welcome. They will be published and discussed in this column.

Dear Mrs. Harrington:

I am following with interest the discussion in your column about a bandshell. . . I am glad that some of the band mothers gave their suggestions in last week's Garden Gossip. . . thanks to them.

There seems to be a little misunderstanding. The proposed bandshell is a thing of the future, and is very much desired, but the urgent need is a better place for the present (wrongly constructed) bandstand, and I am sorry to disagree with the two band-mothers about the location.

I understand that the park across from the library is not city property, and if it was, in my opinion it is very little better than the place where the bandstand now is, from a musical standpoint. A place away from the noise of Main Street should be chosen, and I believe that the newly bought city property back of the Loveday building is a one hundred percent better place, and one that can be made into a water front attraction. For the permanent bandshell an ideal location would be the little island near the bridge in the wildlife sanctuary.

I most sincerely hope that the city council for the time being will move the present stand to a more suitable location before the summer concerts start. The concerts start the first of June, and my musicians hate to play in the present location. The noise of passing cars drowns out the music. Thank you.

John Ter Wee.

P. S. I think you will find interesting this booklet about the National Music Camp at Interlochen, Michigan.

Thank you, Mr. Ter Wee, for your letter and for the booklet about Interlochen. The bandshell shown in the pictures seems to be especially adapted to the setting we could provide, and its construction should not be expensive in material or in labor.

However, as you say, the urgent need is for a change of location of the present bandstand to a place where the music would not be in competition with city noises and other distractions. I, too, hope that the present stand can be moved before the first of June to some spot on which you can put your OK, Mr. Ter Wee. I did not receive your letter in time for the May 10th column, but it is not too late now, is it?

Dear Mrs. Harrington:

Pausing in my annual orgy of housecleaning long enough to look out of doors, I notice the maple leaves have practically unfolded — just in one day. The elms are even farther along. Why must be clean house at such a pleasant time?

Everyone must be filled with ambition though, as I notice many small improvements along our streets. Harold Bader's Service Station has been improved by a nice planting of shrubbery. The cabinet shop next door has cleaned up the front of the shop and improved the front of the curb. Bill Hawkins' new home farther down the street is progressing rapidly, and will add much to Main Street.

A number of people think we cannot afford a bandshell, but I believe everyone is agreed that we should move the present bandstand to a new location. My choice would be back of the Loveday building. M.

Did you notice how the ground under the maples is red with fallen flowers? Now that the leaves are "so big" we may safely plant our flower

A row of gorgeous hyacinths at the Chester Walden home suggests that we do not plant enough of these fragrant flowers, nor of daffodils either. This fall I'm going to plant both wherever I can find room to tuck in a bulb. A book I have been reading says to plant daffodils under birch and beech trees. I thought at once how lovely daffodils would look under the grand old beech which grows in Drew's yard. The Golden spur was recommended as an excellent variety. Planting time: September.

Calling all Garden Gossips: Garden Club meets at the City Building on Tuesday afternoon at 2:30, to hear Mrs. Robert Brown of Mancelona discuss pottery, and to meet the members of the Mancelona Garden Club who will be our guests. Come and bring a bouquet from your tulip garden for our tulip exhibit. Hostesses: Mrs. Alex. Sinclair, Mrs. Wm. Swoboda.

Rake in commercial fertilizer NOW around your delphiniums and perennial phlox, and dust their leaves with sulphur. Your reward will come in summer in thrifty blooms and foliage free of blight and insect pests.

Barbara and Jean Harrison are looking forward to a summer of picnics and parties around the outdoor stove installed with table and benches complete to make of their yard an outdoor living room. What happy memories they will store up, along with the health and resourcefulness that always comes with life spent out of doors!

needs, or so says the adage. At this time last year we were having hard frosts.

GARDENER'S CALENDAR
By Lillian Brabant

May 6th: Had the lawn cut for first time.

May 7th: Cleaned the tulip beds.

May 8th: Had bird houses repaired.

May 9th: Cleaned and staked the delphiniums.

May 10th: Raked the oriental poppy bed.

May 11th: Watered evergreen-trees.

Why must we clean house at such a pleasant time? Perhaps at pleasant times the inspiration to brighten up and make improvements is more irresistible. Spring does give us something to live up to with its bright sky, fresh green foliage, and flowers.

Glad you called attention to the necessity for moving the bandstand. Glad, too, that you expressed your choice of a location. The bandstand should be moved at once, as you will note from Mr. Ter Wee's letter, but first a site must be selected.

Dear Mrs. Harrington:

Mrs. Cleve Isaman just sent me some holly berries a friend sent her this winter from Seattle, Washington. Do you suppose they would be willing to adapt themselves to our climate here, which Mrs. Isaman says is similar to where these seeds came from. How about trying them in the Arboretum? I am enclosing a few for you to try.

It will be interesting to see if these seeds germinate and grow here. I had thought the Arboretum was to be of native trees and shrubs only, but that does not mean we are inhospitable to trees from other localities. If these berries will grow we will surely find a suitable place for them. It was thoughtful of Mrs. Isaman to share these seeds with us. I wonder if she, too, is planting some of them.

Mocking birds have been seen, heard, and positively identified by Mr. and Mrs. Reeves who live on the Frank Kiser place. Mrs. Kiser suggests that these birds, famous for their lovely song and for ability to mimic other birds, followed the Reeves here from their home in Kentucky, but as mocking birds, according to the Audubon Society, are year round residents of our state, I am inclined to think they are making a pleasant gesture of friendliness, and asking Mr. and Mrs. Reeves to feel at home in Michigan.

Activities of The Charlevoix Co. Chapter American Red Cross

The Charlevoix Chapter of the American Red Cross has already shipped 30 wool dresses, 15 sweaters and 15 coats for the use of the civilian populations of the war-torn areas of Europe. Through an agreement reached with the German Government, much of this has gone into German occupied territory.

The National Red Cross Headquarters has asked that the Charlevoix Chapter provide 5 men's sweaters, 5 women's sweaters, 10 children's sweaters and 5 layettes before June 5, according to Mrs. C. A. Leslie, Roll Call Chairman, of Boyne City. The layettes are now being cut out by Mrs. O. D. Sayles of Boyne City and the committee composed of Mrs. R. F. Sloan of Charlevoix, Mrs. O. K. Hegberg of East Jordan and Mrs. Leslie are anxious to hear from volunteers who will undertake the work of finishing the layettes or the knitting of the sweaters. Materials for the sweaters will be furnished.

The relief operations of the American Red Cross in the Government General area of Poland were undertaken on the basis of an agreement reached between representatives of the Red Cross and the German Government in December of last year. Since that time a supplementary agreement has been entered into, the terms of which are as follows:

The German Government agrees to the relief work among the civil population in the Government General which the American Red Cross is carrying out or intends to carry out. The German government is prepared to grant transportation facilities and exemption from customs duty for the shipments imported by the American Red Cross for relief purposes. The German Government will grant, upon special application, permission for qualified representatives of the American Red Cross to enter the territory of the Government General in order to receive the shipments for Polish relief, to regulate their distribution in agreement with the German Red Cross and to observe this distribution. It is understood that these American shipments are being forwarded to the civil population of the Government General exclusively and that they will at no time be at the disposal of or claimed by the German authorities.

Supplies valued at over $150,000 have already been shipped to Poland under this agreement and cargo space is being arranged for additional shipments valued at $80,000.

Apron Dress for The Large Woman

A SIMPLE wraparound style, with belt fastened in the back, this apron dress is the practical, easy-to-get-into kind that you need for morning every day of your life. No. 8673 has a comfortable, easy waistline and, as you see from the diagram, it consists of just a few pieces to sew together, with long, straight seams, so that you can finish it in a few hours. And to make matters even easier, the pattern includes a step-by-step sew chart.

The braid edging, which brightens it up and accents the length of line by running down the front seam, is repeated on the sleeve edges and around the pocket. Half a dozen comfortable, good-looking dresses like this, in gingham, chambray or percale, will see you through the spring and summer, so send for your pattern right now and get them speedily made. They'll be much prettier, and fit much better, than any routine morning dresses you buy.

Pattern No. 8673 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. Size 38 requires 4 1/2 yards of 39-inch material without nap; 4 3/4 yards braid. Send order to:

There's a Good Reason You're Constipated!

When there's something wrong with you, the first rule is: get at the cause. If you are constipated, don't endure it first and "cure" it afterward. Find out what's giving you the trouble.
 Chances are it's simple if you eat the super-refined foods most people do: meat, white bread, potatoes. It's likely you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.
 If this is your trouble, you should eat a natural "bulk" producing food—such as one as the crunchy, toasted, ready-to-eat cereal, Kellogg's All-Bran. Eat it often, drink plenty of water, and "Join the Regulars." All-Bran is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is chronic, it is wise to consult a physician.

CHAPTER XVII

The Resident was worried. In view of the prevalent political unrest and of the convenient fact that the State of Kadur had been quiet for years, he had received confidential instructions from his State Department to be very discreet in his relations with the court of Kadur. It was impossible to misinterpret the order. It was plainly worded. He was not to interfere, if it could possibly be helped.

On the other hand, he had discovered, rather to his annoyance, that Norwood was a very likeable person, with an exceptionally good service record. Even prejudice couldn't make him believe that Norwood had accepted a bribe. It might be impossible to prove that Norwood hadn't accepted one, and there might be a cloud over Norwood's career forever after. But the Resident hadn't a doubt that Rundhia, or else perhaps the priests, or even both of them in some nefarious secret alliance, had framed Norwood. He was inclined to believe that the priests' agents had bought Rundhia, with a view to some political advantage after Rundhia should have come to the throne. Rundhia, he suspected, would do almost anything for cash.

Not being a fool, nor even a very unimaginative man, he suspected that Norwood's interest in Lynn Harding was something rather more than platonic.

And one could believe almost anything of Rundhia: even believe that Rundhia might act honorably, if honor and the circumstances didn't clash with Rundhia's convenience. The Resident liked Rundhia. Almost everyone did who knew him. But it was a bit difficult to separate Rundhia, from Rundhia's unregenerate inclinations and his record. So the Resident wrote a report, marked "secret," to the State Department, in which he respectfully urged His Majesty the King's advisers to oppose Prince Rundhia's succession to the throne of Kadur. He had small doubt that his advice would be found acceptable.

But that wasn't going to save Norwood. It was far more likely to ruin Norwood, because Rundhia employed a secret agent in Delhi, who would learn of the Indian Government's intentions about the veto in next to no time. Rundhia, and Rundhia's friends, would jump to the conclusion that Norwood had been using secret influence in order to get back at Rundhia for the accusation of bribery. Rundhia and his friends would strike back, and there would be so much purchased, perjured evidence produced, that Norwood would have no chance whatever.

So the Resident decided to do some private investigation on his own account.

There was nothing for it but to call on Mrs. Harding and to ask her to summon Lynn to the guest-house for a confidential interview. He detested Mrs. Harding. He knew she was a snob and he suspected her of being a title-huntress. He had called on her once, and she had been damned rude, because she hadn't understood his position; she had suspected him of being merely one more penurious British officer who wished to make Lynn's acquaintance. But there are lots of unpleasant tasks that a man feels called on to undertake, in the course of duty, so the Resident ordered his car and set forth, calling en route at the Post Office to register his letter to the Department of State, so that his Parsee secretary shouldn't know about it and be tempted to talk.

Aunty Harding's locked and labelled trunks stood in a severe row at one end of the veranda. Aunty Harding reposed on pillows at the other end, where she received the Resident with hostile politeness. The veranda faced away from the sunset and the surrounding trees cast a deep shadow, so the electric light had been turned on in the living-room, and the only light there was came through the living-room window. Aunty Harding couldn't see him very well, and she hadn't her spectacles. But she remembered his name, and she had learned, indirectly, since their first interview, that he was a personage. So she bristled self-defensively and patronized him.

"Mayn't I offer you whiskey? You English are such devotees of that drink, aren't you. In the States, our men drink Bourbon. Please smoke."

"I came to talk with Miss Lynn Harding."

"You will have to look for her elsewhere."

"Oh, I know she's at the palace. Isn't there a telephone? Could you ask her to come here a moment? It won't take long. I merely want to ask her a few questions."

"I can't do what you ask. I am no longer responsible for Lynn. If I should summon her she wouldn't obey me."

"Oh? I hope nothing serious has—"
 "A plot! Dishonorable! Contemptible! I won't bore you with my private affairs. It is sufficient to say that I received an insolent communication from the Maharane. She has invited Lynn to stay with her—with consulting me, mind you. And I have received an astonishing note from my niece, addressed to me, but intended for Captain Norwood, of all impossible people! As if I were a mail box! And as if I didn't know what is being said about Captain Norwood! It was a deliberately malicious insult to me!"

"Did you forward the note to Captain Norwood?"
 "No. Why should I?"
 "May I see it?"
 "No. Certainly not."

"Well, Mrs. Harding, I think you are within your rights about that. Quite commendable. Yes. Very. But shouldn't Norwood get it? If you care to put it in an envelope and seal it, I will have it sent to him by a very reliable messenger."

"One more effort to make of me a mere convenience! I won't do it." The Resident, having felt out Mrs. Harding's punches, countered. He began his attack:

"Mrs. Harding, it is quite true that you don't know what is going on. If it weren't that Captain Norwood, who is a gentleman whose opinion I respect, has assured me that your niece is a thoroughly nice girl—"

"How does he know?" Aunty interrupted.

"He is an officer of unblemished record, and a gentleman who has never done a shabby thing in his life. That is why I value his opinion."

Aunty interrupted: "I have my own opinion of an officer and a genleman about whom even babus and servants gossip. If Lynn had wished to associate herself with common graft and bribery, she might better have remained in America. We have plenty of corrupt officials—mostly of foreign extraction, I am thankful to say. Many of them Irish," she added.

The Resident smiled: "Yes, Mrs. Harding. I confess to being Irish. So look out! I will take no nonsense from you. If necessary, I will confront you with Captain Norwood and let him demand that letter."

"What if I destroy it?"
 "I will have you arrested."
 "I am leaving tonight," said Aunty Harding, firmly.

"Oh, yes? It is a long way from here to the station. You have a lot of luggage. You propose to catch the midnight train?"

"I have made my own arrangements with a native contractor, thank you."

"I understand, then, that you propose to go away at midnight, leaving your niece to her own devices?"

"Yes."
 "Well, that is perhaps outside my province. But there is no question about my responsibility in connection with Captain Norwood. He is a distinguished young officer, in temporary difficulty, who needs all the legitimate help he can get. He is well connected, and popular. He is the younger brother of the very distinguished Earl of Ashlawn. Numbers of people would be shocked if Norwood were disgraced. You have a letter belonging to Captain Norwood, that he possibly needs. Think that over, Mrs. Harding. It is now up to you. Good evening."

CHAPTER XVIII

Norwood went the round of the sentries. There were only four of them. They had already received orders from Sergeant Stoddart. Norwood repeated the instructions:

"There are thieves in the neighborhood, and there is a rumor that there might be a raid on the camp. It isn't likely to be anything serious, but look out for it. Don't kill anyone if you can help it. In any event, you are to challenge three times and then fire your first shot in the air. I am expecting visitors, who may perhaps approach stealthily, because their business is secret.

So look out for them, and be careful not to mistake them for thieves."

He returned to his tent, where O'Leary sat holding an empty glass with futile optimism.

"Get out of here, now, and make yourself useful."

"Me—useful?"
 "Yes. Those Brahmins with whom I talked down near the waterfall this morning—"

"Yeah, they slipped one over on you! I heard all about it."

"Hold your tongue then. I expect they'll be coming to talk to me about my visiting the mine."

"You need a nurse," O'Leary answered. "You'd never get your brass hat one of these days if it weren't for your Uncle Moses. Them there Brahmins are as likely to come and talk to you tonight as I am to kiss the Queen of England. They figure they've bought you. And they figure they can prove it on you, if you don't come across. They'll sit quiet, them Brahmins will. What you're up against is what I warned you. That Bengali doctor was too scared for his own skin to be telling me lies. Set your lamp to one side of the tent and eat your supper in shadow, if you can't eat in the dark. Watch out they don't chuck no more cobras at you. They've guns. They're automatics. And there's Gulbaz in back of this, so watch out. Gulbaz and a woman."

Norwood stared at him. "Woman?" he said. "What do you mean?"

"You told me to mind my own business. This ain't my business."

"Talk!"
 "How about another whiskey?"
 "Do you wish to be sat in the cook-fire?"

"You'd spoil your supper! But I've been thinking. If you want to know what I was thinking, I'll tell you. Barring two or three injustices you've done to me, and I'm of a forgiving disposition, there's only one man in Kadur, by my reckoning, who'd pay money to see you dead and buried."

"You may name him."
 "Name him yourself. Him and you was thumping a guitar and singing to the same girl. Let's suppose he knows, for instance, that the priests slipped you a bribe. And let's suppose he thinks you're honest. Let's suppose he thinks you'll earn the bribe and fix it so the priests win their case. And him heir to the throne. And him and you mashing the same golden-haired beauty. He'd be as officer-headed as you are if he didn't hit quick—and below the belt. He'll hit hard! What's to stop him from spiking the Brahmins' case by getting them blamed for having murdered you? Answer that one? Why not lay off the girl? If I was you, I'd—"

"Don't let me have to caution you too often, O'Leary. What I expect from you is information. I do my own thinking. If I should ever need advice from you I'll tell you."

"Tain't never no use advising nobody about no woman," said O'Leary. "I know symptoms when I see 'em. All right, mum's the word, I ain't saying nothin'."

"Get out of here."
 After supper, Norwood wrote another letter to Lynn Harding. He didn't tear up that one. He addressed it in care of Mrs. Harding at the guesthouse, and then stuck it into his tunic pocket. He was still undecided. Determined, but not ready with his plan. O'Leary came and warned him again about sitting too near the lamp, so he went outside the tent and sat in the shadow cast by the rising full moon. A sentry challenged.

"Careful!" Norwood shouted. "Don't shoot unless you have to. And don't shoot to kill!"

A bullet whizzed past him—then another. They came from two directions.

"Sentries, hold your fire!" he shouted.

Stoddart came charging up, breathing hard, fastening his tunic and belt as he ran.

"All present, sir! All ready!"
 "Very well, Stoddart. Keep your hair on. Post two men to guard my tent. Send two to the horse-line and the remainder to guard the store tent. Thieves—I think."

Norwood walked ahead into the darkness, shadowed by O'Leary.

"Now what?" asked O'Leary.
 "For the love o'—"
 "Fetch a lantern on a long stick. Hurry."

Norwood stood in deep black shadow waiting for him. O'Leary ran up with a lantern at the end of a very long stick—at least ten feet long.

"Give that to me. Next shot they fire, raise a yell that I'm hit."

"Okay. I get you. You're a credit to your Uncle Moses."

Norwood held the pole extended toward his left to its limit. He walked forward. The lantern danced as if it were in someone's hand. A bullet spat out of the darkness. Norwood fell. O'Leary shouted at the top of his lungs:

"Stoddart! Hi there, Stoddart! They've shot the Captain! He's dead! They hit him through the heart!"

Stoddart and four men came hurrying. Norwood whispered:

"Pick me up. Carry me into the tent feet first."

"Mournful and solemn," O'Leary added.
 "Lay me on the cot in full lamplight. Spread a sheet over me," said Norwood.

"He's as dead as trouble," said O'Leary.

So they carried Norwood to the cot and there he lay, in lamplight, while Stoddart slightly overdid the business of taking over command. O'Leary scouted. At the end of ten minutes, O'Leary returned to the tent.

"That's done it. They've gone. I crashed among the bushes like a pig with a panther after him. Nobody fired a shot. There wasn't a sound. They've gone for good. All Kadur will know that you're dead, within twenty minutes. They may even tell 'em the news at the palace, though I doubt that. Palaces get the news late, after other folks have had time to lay their bets."

Norwood sat up. He stared at O'Leary. O'Leary held his tongue. He watched, waited. Norwood didn't speak for sixty seconds. Then:

"O'Leary, there is just one chance in fifty that Prince Rundhia is on the wall, by that kiosk, where he was last night."

It almost seemed as if the night knew that Norwood had made up his mind. He was riding a fresh horse, but he didn't hurry. He was followed by a mounted sais, and by O'Leary on another horse. The horses, the sais and O'Leary behaved like a snake's tail. They followed the head without asking questions. Norwood gave no orders. He didn't tell O'Leary what he intended to do. But as they came near the palace garden wall, he reduced the speed a little and O'Leary, without needing to be told to do it, went scouting ahead.

O'Leary, on the other side, made plenty of noise. He made a signal, pointing with his right arm, as he broke from shadow into moonlight. There was nothing mysterious about his signal; he simply pointed to the swinging tendril of a baobab. It overhung the wall in search of earth in which to take root. It looked like a python, swaying slightly in the faint evening breeze.

Railway Postoffice Is Important Link in U. S. Mails

The efficiency of the United States mail is so taken for granted that very few people really know what takes place between the time a stamped envelope is deposited in one of those familiar olive-colored boxes and when it is received by the addressee.

Strange as it may seem, only a small proportion of out-of-town mail is actually sorted in the marble palaces whose portals are inscribed, "Neither sleet nor rain . . ."

A letter from New York to San Marino, Calif., for example, is handled once in New York and once in San Marino. In the meanwhile, however, that envelope may be sorted half a dozen times in order to speed it on its way in the shortest possible time.

For some unknown reason the United States post office rarely mentions the RPO (Railway Post Office) and its important part in the distribution of mail, hence very few people realize that without it our present postal service would be an impossibility.

In this country the use of the railway postal car dates to 1861, when John L. Scripps, then postmaster of Chicago, suggested that the mail which had accumulated at Cairo, Ill., on account of the Civil war, be sorted while it was aboard the train. A few years of experimenting proved the merits of this idea and the use of railway post offices became a reality.

Originally the post office cars were used only on the main lines of long-run railroads, but today nearly every line in the country has service to form a network encompassing every town and hamlet of our nation.

Within these rolling post offices efficient crews of clerks not only break down mail shipments into section and state groups, but also sort it for cities and then go further to separate individual letters destined for different postal stations in a given city.

A clerk on the New York to Washington run, for example, is expected to know the exact location of any address in New York City, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington and perhaps several other intermediate cities served by that route.

"Well," said the manager, "what kind of a position are you seeking?"

"I want something in the executive line," replied the young man. "Say a vice presidency."

"I'm really sorry," said the manager sarcastically, "but we have twelve vice presidents."
 "Oh, that's all right," came the eager response. "I'm not afraid of thirteen."

Flower and Fruit Hats Accent Fashion's 'Be Pretty' Trend

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

MILLINERS are turning out perfectly charming hats this season. The myriads of little flower hats that grace every collection are the very essence of loveliness. Add the wispy colorful veils so all-prevailing and enchantment is the word.

Challenging the style supremacy of the cunning flower confections are many superbly beautiful fruit garnished hats, with the result that a keen rivalry is going on between the two. About the only sure way to settle the matter is to indulge in both after persuading yourself that two new hats are better than one in any fashionable wardrobe.

There is no doubt about fruit hats being tremendously smart this season. The fact that they look decidedly new argues in their favor. See the two fruit-laden models pictured above in the accompanying illustration. The model to the left is radiantly colorful because of the profusion of luminous red currants, together with green berries, that encircle its crown.

The other fruit hat shown plays up the fashionable black-and-white theme. In this instance frost-white berries and foliage strikingly contrast the jet blackness of the straw hat they trim. A snow-flecked veil adds the finishing touch.

Because of their universal becomingness little flower plateaux that dip right over the forehead after the manner of the one pictured to the left below, are numbering among the season's favorites. Women are ordering this model in flowers color-matched to dress or coat or to complement accessories worn with the costume. Note the head-fitting band and streamer of lacy-mesh jersey at the back.

The lady of fashion to the right is following a leading trend of thought that features dainty fingertips as part of the color scheme together with hat and accessories. She carries out the idea in that the hat she wears of gleaming braid and the flowers that trim it, blend to the new red-sequin shine of her nail polish, sparkling fingertips being a clever vogue introduced by Peggy Page this season. At her wrist she wears a glittering bauble that repeats the chic red-sequin of her fingertips.

The winsome little bonnet type centered in the group places the accent on youth. A single lovely creamy rose, together with golden mimosa sprays poses atop the cap-like crown with bewitching grace. The latticed transparency that frames her pretty face in a flaring frill adds infinite charm. The very essence of coquetry is expressed in the baby cap ribbons that tie so quaintly under the chin. As to the flower trim on this cunning bonnet, it carries a most important message in that fashion this season places the accent on roses used either singly or en masse.

Veils! Hats are simple swathed in yards and yards of airy whimsy veils that add a very ecstasy of color to the picture. In fact the veil this season really keynotes the color scheme of one's accessories. The fashion-wise are wearing jewelry and gloves and carrying bags matched to the color of their veils. ### Sheer and Lovely Fashion is going in for sheer and lacy lingerie blouses with an enthusiasm that knows no bounds. Here are two lovely types. The sheer white blouse pictured at the top is of the sweet simplicity type that captures the fancy at a glance. Bands of embroidered organdy and lace alternate in the other blouse, with a tapering waistline that zippers down the front under a lacy frill. Here is a blouse that will do double duty in that it can be worn neatly under a suit and it also looks well with a long skirt for evening because of its waistcoat style.

New Turbans Have Sophisticated Air

Draped and molded with a knowing hand, the new turbans have an air of sophistication that distinguishes them from the casual wrap-your-own kind which have flourished during the past few seasons. Printed silk scarfs are wound, twisted, pleated, stiffened and stitched with the greatest ingenuity. One charming example is the bonnet-crowned turban designed by Florence Reichman. It has a stiffened heart-shaped crown that is held in position with a twist of silk banding extending over the head from front to back and around the crown.

Here's an Umbrella That Stands Alone

At last our troubles are over. That is so far as positioning your umbrella so it won't topple to the floor. The aggravating problem is solved. Now showing in leading stores is man's latest invention—the umbrella that stands alone. It seems there is a little cuplike contrivance devised that looks like an ornament at the umbrella tip that sets on the floor upholding the umbrella so it does not have to be propped up against some object—the wall, a chair or counter. Bravo! Why didn't someone think of this long ago?

Tri-Color Housecoat
Red, white and blue is the color scheme chosen by a West coast designer for a becoming flannel housecoat.

Taffeta Turbans
Frisolous topping for severe black tailored ensembles are the new draped turbans of bright plaid taffeta.

SOMETHING NEW AND DIFFERENT (See Recipes Below)

New Recipes for Your File

"Something old and something new" is just as important in menus as it is in a bride's costume.

It's a good idea, when you plan to experiment with something entirely new, to include in that meal one dish you know the family is really keen about. For instance, if the dessert is something very new and different, be sure that the main dish of your meal is one that's familiar and well-liked.

And, it's an excellent idea, when most of a meal is composed of family favorites, to include one new dish for a touch of variety. It may be a cut of meat that you haven't used before, prepared in an unusual manner; or perhaps it will be a vegetable that's new and strange to you; or it might be just an out-of-the-ordinary conserve or relish to supplement last summer's supply, which, by this time is probably running very low.

You'll find, here, an assortment of recipes for foods that are unusual and delicious. There's a new way of preparing shoulder of beef—in one of those easy casserole dishes you like to serve, where you don't want to spend too much time in the kitchen; serve the Baked Shoulder Steak with baked or scalloped potatoes, buttered green beans and rhubarb pie, and watch your family beam!

"Pork chop treat" served with a crisp, chilled salad of lettuce, apples, and dates, needs only a beverage, bread and a favorite dessert to make a completely satisfying meal; and if you want to please the man of the family in any kind of weather, serve "pork" chops delicious with cheese biscuits, a simple green salad, lemon meringue pie and coffee.

Pork Chops Delicious. (Serves 4)

- 5 pork chops (rib or loin)
- 2 medium size onions
- 1/2 cup rice (uncooked)
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1 cup hot water
- 1 cup tomato puree
- 1 green pepper (minced)
- 1 clove garlic (grated)

Brown chops and on each chop place one slice of onion, then a tablespoon of rice (uncooked). Season with salt and pepper. Add water, cover and steam for 1/2 hour. Then top with tomato puree, mixed with the green pepper and garlic. Return to steamer and cook until rice is tender (about 30 minutes longer).

Baked Shoulder Steak With Apricots and Mushrooms. (Serves 6)

- 1 1/2 inch slice shoulder of beef (about 4 pounds)
- 4 tablespoons flour
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1/2 cup tomato pulp
- 1 small 4-oz. can button mushrooms, or,
- 1/2 pound fresh mushrooms, cut in quarters
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 12 halves canned apricots, (about half of a No. 2 1/2 can)

Wipe meat with damp cloth and sprinkle with mixture of flour, salt and curry powder. Brown one side in a well-greased frying pan and place brown side up in a 2-quart glass casserole. Sift remaining flour mixture over the top of the meat. Spread the top of the meat with tomato pulp. Cover the dish. Bake in a moderate oven, allowing about 30 minutes to each pound. Slightly brown mushrooms in butter over low heat. Place on top of roast when it is removed from the oven. Garnish with canned apricots and serve from the baking dish, which keeps the meat hot throughout the meal.

Cherry Roll.

- Biscuit dough (2 cups flour recipe)
- 1 No. 2 can cherries
- 1/4 cup light brown sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon lemon rind (grated)

Roll baking powder biscuit dough 1/2 inch thick. Drain cherries. Cover dough with cherries and sprinkle with brown sugar and cinnamon. Roll like a jelly roll and place in buttered loaf baking pan. Bake approximately 30 minutes in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees). Baste with cherry juice while baking. Serve with whipped cream or with hard sauce.

Pork Chop Treat.

Place seasoned pork chops, 1 inch thick, at one end of a large roasting pan. In the center, place a mound of good bread dressing seasoned with sage or poultry seasoning. At the other end put thinly sliced potatoes and thinly sliced onions, seasoned with salt and pepper. Dot with butter. Bake for 15 minutes in a hot oven (450 degrees) and then reduce heat to a moderate oven (350 degrees) and bake about 45 minutes longer.

Rhubarb Conserve. (Makes 12 glasses)

- 1 1/2 quarts rhubarb (diced)
- 8 cups sugar
- 1/2 cup seeded raisins
- 1/2 cup cold water
- 1/2 cup orange juice
- 1/4 cup orange rind (ground)
- 1 cup pecans (cut fine)

Place rhubarb, sugar, raisins, water and orange juice in kettle. Remove white membrane from the orange peel, and put peel through the food chopper, using the fine blade. Add to conserve, and bring mixture to a boil. Boil gently for 20 minutes. Add nut meats and cook 5 minutes longer. Pour into sterilized glasses and seal.

Lemon Meringue Pie.

- 1 cup sugar
- 1/4 cup cornstarch
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup cold water
- 1/2 cup boiling water
- 3 egg yolks
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 1/4 cup lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon lemon rind (grated)

Combine sugar, cornstarch and salt. Add cold water; stir until smooth. Add boiling water and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture is clear and thick. Cook 3 minutes longer. Beat egg yolks; stir cooked mixture into them. Add remaining ingredients, return to flame and cook 1 minute. Pour immediately into baked pie shell. Top with meringue.

Meringue.

- 3 egg whites
  - 6 tablespoons sugar
  - 1/2 teaspoon salt
- Beat egg whites partially; then add sugar slowly, beating until mixture is stiff. Bake in slow oven, (300 degrees) for 18 minutes.

One of the Most Hazardous Flying Jobs in World.

BOISE, IDAHO.—Robert Johnson, 35, veteran mountain pilot, daily flies his tri-motored plane on one of the most hazardous flying jobs in the world.

He soars over jagged mountain peaks, where a forced landing would mean a certain death, to carry supplies to 600 snowbound families in Idaho's primitive area. He provides their only contact with the outside world during six long winter months.

The pioneer families live in small communities or singly, spread out over 1,087,000 acres of mountainous, heavily-timbered wilderness, unperched by any road, in the central part of Idaho. Many of their teen-age children have never seen an automobile but they know Johnson's plane well.

Miners, trappers, forestry workers and their families rely on Johnson's skill and daring to provide their mail, food and medical supplies through the winter. These modern frontiers folk are snowed in from October through March each year, unable to reach civilization by horseback, their normal means of transportation.

Dog teams, snowshoes and skis are the only alternatives to Johnson's plane as a means of winter transportation for them. A dog team driven by a grizzled old frontiersman, "Blacky" Wallace of Big Creek, provides Johnson's airline with its only competition.

Supplies are dropped from the planes in parachutes. Fliers say Johnson can hook a parachute on a crate of eggs, bail it out without protective packing and not break an egg.

Supplies are ordered by forest service short wave radio or telephone.

From Cascade and Landmark to Mackay bar, Stypnite and over the Montana border Johnson knows every mountain and valley. His base is usually Missoula, Mont., or Boise.

Virgil Adair, Lewiston pilot, started the winter airplane delivery service into the primitive area in 1928. Ray Fisher, Missoula, Mont., had it a week and then was killed when he flew into the side of a mountain. Bill Gowen of Boise held the mail contract for a time and lost it to Johnson.

Johnson spends his summer months flying for the forest service. He flies through smoke and ashes to bring supplies in an hour to fire fighting crews far up in the mountains where it would take days to bring supplies by pack horse, the only other means.

Cow, 29 Years Old, Bids For Longevity Honors

FREMONT, MICH.—What is believed to be the oldest cow in the United States has been discovered at the farm of Charles Wiegand near here. Fanny, 29 years old, is the claimant to the title following the passing of Queen Victoria, a Holstein, of Bath, N. Y.

Fanny gives four quarts of milk a day with 4.10 butter fat content. Although her teeth are mostly missing and her horns gnarled, she spends the day in the pasture as usual, and the only variation in her diet is that she is forced to eat ground oats and corn.

Student Warns Against Eating His Pet Goldfish

MORGANTOWN, W. VA.—Gordon Sherwood isn't taking any chances on losing his pet goldfish.

Sherwood, a sophomore student at West Virginia university, well aware of the recent gold-fish swallowing craze, has taken steps to protect his three fish.

The fish are housed in a bowl in a fraternity house. On one side of the bowl, Sherwood has printed this notice:

"Do not trespass.
"Do not feed.
"Do not EAT!"

Hog Upholds Name

COHUNA, AUSTRALIA.—A big Yorkshire boar, shipped here from Melbourne, made a verifiable pig of itself en route. It broke out of its crate, ate various shipments of vegetables that were in the same car, a crate of cheese and rooted into boxes of women's silk stockings and other garments.

Crime Does Not Pay
INDIANAPOLIS.—Crime didn't pay for the thief who broke into Mrs. Helen Hughes' automobile. He stole a 15-cent measuring tape. He left behind a good topcoat.

College Cow Gulps Whole Year's Work

NORMAN, OKLA.—A cow recently nullified a whole year of work by Dr. O. J. Elgisti, assistant professor of botany at the University of Oklahoma. Bossy ate up the professor's entire cotton crop that included several new species, including an early-maturing plant expected to lead to an important discovery. "That cow ate a whole year's work," Dr. Elgisti said sadly.

WITH THE ANTRIM COUNTY AGR'L AGENT

W. Kirkpatrick, Extension Agent

30,000 SEEDLINGS PLANTED BY 4-H SCHOOL FORESTRY CLUBS
Nearly thirty thousand seedlings were planted this week by Antrim County 4-H School Forestry Planting Clubs.

Schools having Forest Planting Clubs and School Forests, include Alpa, Bellaire, Central Lake, Elk Rapids, Ellsworth, and Mancelona. These six schools own approximately 229 acres of land, some of which include good second growth timber. Areas on each school forest tract not having good timber or desirable species are being planted at the rate of 5,000 seedlings per year which is approximately five acres. The Department of Conservation assists in this program through the deeding of desirable State land to Schools at a very nominal cost as well as furnishing to each school a maximum of 5,000 seedlings per year for planting purposes. The 4-H Club organization through Mr. O. F. Walker, District Club Agent and Walter G. Kirkpatrick, County Agricultural Agent, assists the Clubs in acquiring desirable planting sites and supervising the tree planting and management of the forest.

This is the third year the project has been carried on in Antrim County, altogether, approximately 75,000 seedlings have been planted since the program's inception. Over four hundred boys and girls took part in this program this year.

Standard Oil Ups Ad Budget; 75% In Papers

Standard Oil Company of Indiana will increase its advertising budget for 1940 and place nearly 75 per cent of it in newspapers. Advertisements now starting state that Red Crown gasoline is the 2-to-1 favorite of mid-western motorists, J. K. Bader, East Jordan Standard agent, announced today.

A total of 1,713 newspapers with a combined circulation of about 14,000,000 will carry the advertising in 139 states in the middlewest in which the company markets. This includes 492 daily papers, and 1,221 weekly papers, of which the Charlevoix County Herald is one.

"Newspaper advertising will be the backbone of the Standard campaign, because everybody buys gasoline and oil — and everybody reads newspapers," Mr. Bader said. "Newspapers are read everywhere — on the farm, in the office, in the factory and at home. They have a chance to do their selling in all sorts of places at all times of the day — a silent force, constantly at work," he explained.

"It's 2 to 1 for Red Crown" will be the theme of the Standard spring and summer advertising campaign for gasoline which begins today. Large illustrations with comparatively little copy will explain the 2 to 1 sales leadership of Red Crown over all other gasolines.

There will also be newspaper advertising featuring the fact that Standard's Iso-Viz motor oil is the favorite among midwestern motorists.

REA BULLETIN BOARD

How electricity can profitably be put to work on the farm, cutting production costs and chore drudgery, and bringing ease and economy to household tasks, are central demonstrations of the big REA Farm Electric Equipment Show coming to this area

June 20 and 21st, through the co-operation of the Top O' Michigan Rural Electric Company, the Cherryland Rural Electric Cooperative, the State Extension Service, and the Rural Electrification Administration.

The spreading lines of the Top O' Michigan Rural Electric Cooperative are bringing big benefits to poultrymen. Poultry lights and running water alone lead to healthier birds, lower costs, better eggs, and more of them in the season of short days. The REA Show not only demonstrates these facts, but also has a small brooder house and live chickens in a specially designed trailer. Ultraviolet lights, water warmers, electric hovers, and new scalding and waxing devices that are revolutionizing farm poultry dressing are included in the display.

Power demonstrations conducted outside the tent by Tour Director, Daniel W. Teare and R. A. Dell of REA, include shelling, grinding and cutting of local grains and feed crops. A small automatic mill with an overhead bin is set up to show how a farmer can grind a day's feed by pushing a button.

The various demonstrations include the widest variety of electric farm equipment as well as household appliances ever assembled in a traveling exhibit. Trailer and booth exhibits include water pumps, irrigation systems, motors, dairy and poultry equipment, a farm workshop, home-made equipment, and hundreds of small appliances.

Meals big enough to fill half a dozen harvest hands will be turned out in the electric range demonstrations put on by Mrs. Enola Retherford, REA Regional Home Economist for Michigan, assisted by Miss Evelyn Bloome, Home Electrification Specialist of the Tour. Farm Home-makers will have their eyes opened to an easy way of spending the afternoon away from home and still have a complete hot meal ready to serve at supper time.
