$250 In Prizes For Best Photos

THE "HERALD" SPONSORS AMATEUR CAMERA CONTEST FOR EXHIBIT AT 1940 STATE FAIR

Attention, camera enthusiasts! Under local sponsorship of The Charlevoix County Herald, amateur photographers of East Jordan and Charlevoix county have an opportunity to win cash ranging from $100 to $1,000.

The Michigan Press Association of which this newspaper is a member announces the opening of the second annual amateur camera contest with $250 in prizes in addition to ribbons and state wide recognition. An exhibit of winning photographs and those receiving honorable mention will be held at the 1940 Michigan State Fair contest co-sponsor.

Last year's competition attracted more than 130 entries. The $100 first prize went to a Kalamazoo man who used an inexpensive Michigan-made camera. The $50 second prize went to a Highland Park hobbyist whose camera was an inexpensive Brownie. Chief photographers of the three Detroit newspapers served as judges together with two publishers: Philip T. Rich, Midland Daily News, and George R. Averill, Birmingham Eccentric, both camera enthusiasts.

"Here is an opportunity for everyone to participate in a Michigan amateur camera contest and perhaps win a valuable prize," stated Floyd J. Miller, general manager of the Daily Tribune at Royal Oak, who is president of the state newspaper association. "Michigan offers a wealth of scenic beauty spots. Children and animals make interesting camera subjects."

Professional photographers and employees of the State Fair are ineligible to compete. Further details will be announced later.

Extension Leaders and Group Members To Hold County Tour

Plans are being perfected for a county-wide tour on Wednesday, June 19th. This tour will replace the achievement day which has always been held in May following the conclusion of the Home Economics Project. The ladies are unanimous in the opinion that a tour will be more attractive than the old style achievement day.

While the schedule has not been completed as yet, several stops will be made where the interested women can see modern, up to date kitchens. Also, visits will be made to show the results of landscaping. With the availability of electricity, considerable interest will center around correct appliances which are great time and labor savers. It is planned to have our pot luck dinner at the Charlevoix County Nursery which is one of the beauty spots of Northern Michigan. It is expected that a short, snappy program will be enjoyed during the noon hour.

While this tour is sponsored by the leaders and members of our Home Management Project completed this spring, a cordial invitation is extended to all folks in the county to enjoy this one day outing. Can you think of a more enjoyable way to spend the day than to visit some of the many beauty spots in the county? Why not mark the date of Wednesday, June 19th on your calendar and be assured of a wonderful time? Complete details, in regard to the itinerary, will be published next week.

First Conference "Nine" Champs

E. J. H. S. TEAM DEFEAT HARBOR, MONDAY

In scoring a 10 to 3 triumph over the Harbor Springs high school baseball squad Monday afternoon, Coach Harry Jankoviak's local high school baseball team brought to East Jordan its first conference baseball championship.

Harbor and East Jordan were forced into a playoff, both teams finishing its regular season's play with 3 victories and one defeat. East Jordan had twice won over Charlevoix and topped Harbor once. Harbor also had beaten Charlevoix twice and bested East Jordan at their home park.

Bulow giving up but three runs allowed the Orange and Black 9 hits, walked two men and struck out 2, as he was credited as the winning pitcher. Crowell worked behind the plate for the Jordanites. McBride and Davert formed the losing battery, the former issuing 11 hits, walked 4 and struck out 4. Harbor committed 4 errors to 3 for the locals.

Crowell, Bulow, Antoine, and Ayers wound up their careers in sports as members of Crimston teams, all being seniors.

Michigan Bell Plan Cable Line To Facilitate Petoskey Area Service

Plans for a 40-mile northward extension to Standish of Michigan's $10,000,000 trans-Michigan long distance telephone cable this year were announced recently by the Michigan Bell Telephone Company.

It was made known that the company has filed an application with the Federal Communications Commission at Washington for permission to construct an underground cable north of Saginaw and Bay City to Standish at a cost of $236,365.

Linked with the proposed cable extension are plans for the additional expenditure of $177,500 at Standish. Improvements there will include the erection of a new building, initiation of dial telephone service for Standish, and the installation of long distance amplifying equipment in connection with the new cable. The Standish building program is expected to get underway early in July.

The cable project will make Standish the northern terminal for the trans-Michigan long distance cable which now terminates at Bay City. From Standish go wire circuits to Petoskey and Alpena and northward into the Upper Peninsula.

The new cable extension will carry 250 wires, which, if open wire were used in their place, would require the construction of five pole lines of 50 wires each. Both interstate and intrastate circuits will be contained in the new cable.

Replacing the present open wire circuits with cable will give additional protection to the state's long distance service, it was said. That is held important inasmuch as the projected cable will pass through the northern fringe of Michigan's worst sleet storm belt. Modern telephone cable is virtually storm-proof.

P.-T.A. Held Closing Meet

FOR CURRENT YEAR. — AN OUTSTANDING PROGRAM

The East Jordan P.-T. A. held its closing meeting of the current year in the school hall Friday evening, May 24th. It was one of the most outstanding programs of the year.

Following a potluck supper, Mrs. Vernon Vance, retiring president, called on the new president, Mrs. J. Warne Davis, and Mrs. Burl Braman for reports on the State P.-T. A. convention they attended in Lansing, April 17 - 19.

David Wade and Leland Hickox played two cornet duets, an air from "Finlandia" and "God Bless America."

The speaker of the evening was Dr. Paul Wilcox, psychiatrist, member of the staff of Metropolitan State Hospital for the insane at Waltham, Mass. Dr. Wilcox is a former Elk Rapids resident and was secured by Rev. J. C. Mathews for the occasion.

After a brief summary of the humane, modern methods of treatment for mental ailments as compared to the inhuman ones of twenty years ago, Dr. Wilcox turned the meeting into a Forum in which many pertinent questions were asked, the majority being problems of child life.

Aprpos of the so-called "problem child," he smilingly replied, "Don't worry." This child is invariably a normal being. The docile child, who is always quiet, never disobeys and is the maddening model held up to his more intractable brother, is the one to watch for signs of mental disorder or deficiency.

To the query, "How do you explain cases of hopelessly insane persons miraculously becoming sane?" the answer was, "Everything you don't understand is a miracle."

He spoke of two common contributing causes of insanity; vitamin deficiency and wasting of brain tissue. The pneumoencephalogram, a recent x-ray development and blood tests play important roles in modern diagnosis. Dementia praecox and schizophrenia were discussed at length.

Those who were fortunate enough to be present went away with a much clearer conception of the extent of mental disease in this country and the vast strides medical science has made in its control and treatment.

Garden Gossip

Edited by Caroline Harrington
Letters and questions on garden topics will be welcome. They will be published and discussed in this column.

COUNTY ROAD COMMISSION Charlevoix County

Superintendent's Office
Boyer City, Mich.
May 28, 1940.

Mrs. H. M. Harrington,
Conservation Chairman,
East Jordan Garden Club,
East Jordan, Michigan.

My Dear Mrs. Harrington:
With reference to removal of advertising signs from highways, right-of-ways vary in width, particularly on the State trunklines, so that any removal procedure against signs should necessarily commence with a determination of the right-of-way at the particular point involved.

Advertising signs fall into two classifications for the purpose of removal: namely, nuisance signs and permanent signs. So-called nuisance signs generally represent a trifling outlay of money and are easily movable. Good examples of this class are sandwich signs at gas stations or crudely constructed signs advertising worms, watermelons, etc., or other small signs on fences, posts, etc.

Permanent signs are generally firmly erected on posts or brackets, perhaps electrically lighted, from three to four feet in size up to large billboards, and represent a substantial money investment by the owner.

Both these types of signs are illegal within the R.O.W. and are subject to removal as are any advertising signs within 500 feet of a railroad crossing or road intersection. However, common sense would dictate which signs are a nuisance and which are not. The most recent statute on highway signs outlaws the above mentioned signs but in view of the fact that it never has been tried as to its constitutionality with reference to the point covered by intersections and railroad crossings the legal procedure outlined by the Land and Legal Division of the State Highway Department should be invoked against any signs which are particularly objectionable. This involves among other things a 30 day notice to the owner stating the location and encroachment after which time the sign is open for removal by the highway authority.

REA BULLETIN BOARD

The biggest traveling electrical demonstration in the country, the REA Farm Equipment Tour, comes to this territory June 20-21, and opens its two-day show Thursday night at 7:30 p. m. The huge tent, covering more than one-sixth of an acre, will be pitched on the fields of the C. N. Powell farm on U. S. 31.

The big equipment caravan is brought here by the Top O' Michigan Rural Electric Cooperative, and neighboring cooperative in Grand Traverse county, in cooperation with the Extension Service, electrical farm equipment manufacturers, and the REA, to give rural electrical users a chance to see a wide variety of equipment and household appliances in actual operation under farm conditions.

The program Thursday evening includes a cooking contest, a lighting demonstration featuring the new low-cost package lighting fixtures, a wiring demonstration, and general discussion of irrigation systems, motors, and various farm equipment.

On the next day, starting at 1:30 and carrying through all afternoon and evening with an intermission for supper, the tour will provide continuous demonstrations of farm equipment near the big tent, conducted by Mr. D. W. Teare and R. A. Dell of REA, and Mr. D. G. Ebinger of the State Extension Service, and demonstrations within the big tent of a special interest to farm women. This program is shared by Mrs. Enola Retherford and Miss Evelyn Bloomer, REA Home Economists, and Miss Helen Noyes of the Extension Service. Joint programs for men and women are held in the big tent in the late afternoon and evening. An all-electric lunch tent, operated by local women, will serve all people desiring to see both demonstrations.

Birthday Anniversary

Tuesday, May 21st, nineteen friends and relatives surprised Mrs. Sam Bennett, it being her 42nd birthday anniversary on the 22nd. Junior Baseballers Will Open Season With Barnard, Sunday

East Jordan's Junior Baseball Club will open its baseball season at Charlevoix Sunday afternoon, when they meet Barnard at 2:00 p. m. The following Sunday they will entertain the Wolverine CCC Camp in the first game on the home schedule. Games are being lined up with Bellaire and Central Lake of the Antrim County Baseball League, Boyne Falls, Boyne City Independents, Alanson and possible other strong aggregations.

The Juniors, last year's Northern Michigan Junior baseball champions, will start rebuilding a team around two youthful right hand pitchers "Tich" Saxton and "Monk" Cihak. Having lost Jimmy St. Arno, one of the finest young pitching prospects developed in Northern Michigan in the last decade, through an auto mishap late last fall, the locals will be without the spark plug who paced his team to 17 wins 1 loss and a tie in 19 games, last summer. Some of the stars of last year's championship unit are graduating into Independent circles, and will leave the locals without experienced men in several positions. Everyone will be pulling for these boys to make good in their new experience.

The Jordanites are sponsored by the East Jordan Merchants and managed by Gayle Saxton.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS By Farnham F. Dudgeon

Powerful Attack by Nazi Army Pushes Allies Out of Belgium; U. S. Defense Board Is Selected

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

THE WAR: Flanders Flight

When King Leopold III ordered his 300,000 Belgian troops to lay down their arms in their battle against the military might of Adolf Hitler, worried French and British leaders saw that the forces they had rushed into Belgium following the German invasion were doomed. For on the fields of Flanders their armies were exposed to a great encircling movement by the Nazis and were in great danger of being cut off from the main body of the troops in central France.

Without waiting Adolf Hitler began to close the jaws of his gigantic trap of death. Attacking with great ferocity the German machine moved toward the retreating allies. Without loss of impetus military objective after objective was gained in a tremendous show of force.

In the sky, dive bombers swooped toward the earth, cutting off supply details, disrupting communications, destroying immense stores of war goods but failing to seriously daunt allied morale and courage.

Their lines in formation, the British and French retreated steadily toward the English channel. For they were outnumbered and the country they had come to protect from invasion had been ordered by its king to cease fighting. Their best chance for escape was across the Strait of Dover to England or down the sea-coast to rejoin the main portion of their troops along the Somme and Aisne rivers in France.

While from Berlin came word of the great victory being won, from the first soldiers to reach English soil in their retreat across the channel, came reports that important losses were being effected upon the Germans as they advanced. But even these sources admitted that great stocks of war booty was falling into Nazi hands. Supplies of gasoline and munitions which any army needs were being obtained by the Germans.

Next, with Belgium and much of the vital industrial portion of northern France safely tucked away, Adolf Hitler had a choice to make. He could launch his long-threatened air attack on the British isles or he could strike out for Paris.

Feeling against France has been running high in Berlin, judging from current reports. Usually it has been the British that have been the subject to press attack by the Nazi propaganda machine, but now France is getting its share of verbal abuse. Some observers thought these attacks were a feint intended to lure the British into believing they were to be left alone and then when the "hour" arrived it would be a sur-

NAMES ... in the news

Eleven months after he resigned as governor of Louisiana, Richard W. Leche, political heir of Huey P. Long, went on trial on charges of using the mails to defraud. The charge grew out of a truck deal which is alleged to have netted him and two others, a cool $113,370.

Motion-picture actor Walter Connolly, outstanding character actor, died at his Hollywood home.

"Who's Who in America," with more "names in the news" than ever before has been released for 1940-41. Sketches in the book relate to accomplishments of the nation's most famous names. Here are 31,752 sketches in the new version of "Who's Who." Oldest member included is Brig.-Gen. William Henry Bisbee, retired, who is 100. He is a Civil War veteran. Youngest name included is that of Shirley Temple, also retired—at the age of 11. Longest sketch is that of Columbia university's president, Nicholas Murray Butler.

prise blitzkrieg for Johnny Bull. But England has taken strong defense measures of late to be ready for the worst and she has promised a warm reception for any invader.

France's interior seemed a bit stronger too, for as the Germans moved against the trapped Flanders army in the north the line of defense across the nation's central axis was decidedly bolstered.

U. S. DEFENSE: Progress

President Roosevelt's fourteenth fireside chat began a series of events in the new national defense program that was marked by increasing attention to the details of getting Uncle Sam's house in order—"come what may."

President Roosevelt

Influenced chiefly by the progress of the German army in its drive toward Paris and London, Americans of both major political parties are getting behind the President's announced objective of building defenses of the Western hemisphere "to whatever heights the future may demand."

Pleading for unity in the drive for military security, the President in his nation-wide radio address warned against Troan Horse treachery within the nation's borders. He pledged that the government would not expect private capital to provide all of the funds necessary.

Tax

This statement invoked discussion as to how the government intended to foot the necessarily large bill of any such program. A defense-tax movement has been gaining ground in congress. This is a complete about-face on the subject by the legislators. When the first proposals were made to increase armaments, most members of the senate and house passed over the matter of providing the money by remarking that the important thing to do was to provide the defenses and worry about paying for them later.

Now the sentiment is that a flat 10 per cent increase in individual and corporate income taxes might be the best way to meet the obligations to be incurred by the billion-dollar program now under full steam.

And as the rising war hysteria spread over the nation it seemed likely that this suggestion would not meet the disapproval such a tax increase would ordinarily encounter. Reading reports of the fierce power of German military might, U. S. citizens may prefer to dig down in their jeans for preparedness than feel home defenses were insecure.

Commission

A presidential commission of seven, appointed to muster the country's economic resources in connection with the preparedness drive, was announced in Washington. This commission represents a lay "general staff" which will work with government officials and agencies in lining up men, materials and plans for speeding up armament production.

The commission: Edward R. Stettinius Jr., U. S. Steel company chairman, who will supervise production of raw materials; William S. Knudsen, General Motors production wizard, who will direct his attention to manufacturing problems; Sidney Hillman, Amalgamated Clothing Workers union president, responsible for labor matters; Chester C. Davis, Federal Reserve board member and former AAA director, who will guide agriculture's course; Ralph Budd, president of the C. B. & Q. railroad, transportation; Leon Henderson, chairman of the Securities commission, will check on stabilization of wholesale prices; and Miss Harriet Elliott, University of North Carolina, who will guard the consumers' interests.

Chester Davis

Like This Scheduled to be an important cog in the machinery of defense, the automobile industry was given a turning up by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau on his announcement that the annual policy of introducing new car models was discontinued after this year. In charge of airplane procurement, he believes it may be necessary to keep assembly lines open for planes. Henry Ford says after six months he can turn out a thousand planes a day if necessary.

PEEK-OF-THE-WEEK

Here is Lauriston Taylor, physicist of the U. S. Bureau of Standards, directing the placing of the corona cap atop of the world's largest X-ray machine. Capable of generating rays to a power of 1,500,000 volts, it was assembled in the high voltage laboratory of the bureau in Washington, D. C. Its use will set a standard for other such machines in hospitals and cancer clinics throughout the country.

GOOD NEIGHBORS: To the South

Not such a "good neighbor" is what many Mexicans are thinking these days of Leon Trotsky, exiled Russian political leader, who has taken up a haven of refuge from his Soviet enemies in Mexico's interior. The recent attempt to assassinate Trotsky has caused at least a few Mexican officials to believe that no good can come from his remaining in their country and they are anxious for him to move on. Trotsky's home is constantly guarded but despite this "protection," Joseph Stalin's arch-rival is not especially loved or admired by some of his "neighbors."

A neighbor further south has been having a bit of trouble with a little uprising of its own. Reports from Panama indicate that the government nipped an alleged plot for a revolution which was scheduled to prevent that country's 1940 presidential election.

An indication that U. S. business was attempting to regain some of its foreign trade lost by the European conflict was evidenced by news that the Moore-McCormack lines were opening a new shipping service between North and South America on both the Atlantic and Pacific seaboard. In announcing the new shipping routes and ships to be used in the service the company's president, Albert V. Moore, said: "The surface of trade possibilities between the U. S. and South America has only been scratched." This was good news to business men for the commerce department's current trade report shows a $27,000,000 decline in export trade for last month. Some real "scratching" will be necessary to build up this loss.

To the North

A career diplomat, Jay P. Moffat was nominated by President Roosevelt to replace James H. Cromwell as U. S. minister to Canada. Moffat, now chief of the western European division of the state department, is not expected to create the furry that Cromwell did when, as a U. S. representative, he made his now-famous speech expressing a decided sympathy for the British-French cause in their struggle with Hitler.

SOCIAL SERVICE: Trouble, Trouble

There is no group of persons in the United States that is closer to the nation's vital problems of unemployment, relief, youth movements, etc., than the National Conference of Social Workers. Basic human needs are the social workers' stock-in-trade. Meeting in Grand Rapids, Mich., in national convention, that organization discussed, debated and "resolved" these problems in their relationship to the current domestic and international picture.

MISCELLANY:

New Program for U. S. Defense Crowds Politics Into Background

Rising Tide of War Hysteria in Nation's Capital Endangers Advancement of Many New Deal Social Reforms.

By WILLIAM BRUCKART WNU Service, National Press Bldg., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON.—There is a new kind of political conflict developing in Washington. The extent to which it will go depends, obviously, upon developments in Europe's war. It is fair to say, nevertheless, that at this moment died-in-the-wool New Dealers are frightened within an inch of their lives from fear of what the war hysteria is going to do to their pet social program.

It should be said by way of explanation that President Roosevelt's defense program is likely to require the best industrial and military brains available. That means the President must turn to the captains of industry—so cordially hated by real New Dealers— for certain types of help and guidance for a preparedness program.

Through these last several weeks, observers here have witnessed New Deal reformers making strenuous efforts toward warding off any changes in their programs that would set back the schemes they have been fostering through the last seven years. Those New Dealers who have the President's ear have gone so far as to persuade him to issue a warning to congressional leaders that none of the New Deal reforms or social advances shall be abrogated by defense legislation.

In the meantime, however, most every observer also has witnessed a tendency on the part of those charged with official responsibility to take steps leading to more workable plans in hastening defense preparation. Indeed, right now there is an intensive study being made under guidance of the army and navy of such things as wage and hour regulations, and limitations upon private financing. Other things that amount to handicaps upon the nation's productive capacity also are being examined. The idea behind all of this is, of course, to learn whether the numerous so-called reforms will help or hinder speedy development and production of the war materials which must be available if Europe's war gets further out of bounds.

Minimum Wage Scales Are Being Investigated

As showing how the New Deal advocates are resisting any encroachment upon the reforms which they have fostered, it is necessary only to report, as an example, that the federal contracts board has been holding hearings on proposed minimum wage scales. The board is functioning under the Walsh-Healy act. This statute permits the department of labor to fix minimum wages paid in any industrial plant which is manufacturing under a government contract, if the materials which the government is buying cost more than $10,000.

The board has been going right ahead with hearings on its recommendation that a minimum wage of 52½ cents per hour be established in the entire electrical industry. It has done this notwithstanding the fact that anybody must realize how useless the procedure is if it becomes necessary for the President to use war-time powers and require emergency schedules of production to be maintained.

Moreover, it is doubtful that the information collected by the board will have any value in any event. This is true because war-time conditions abroad naturally are influencing our industrial conditions. The data being collected probably will be meaningless if the war continues another six months.

With respect to the question of limitations of hours which employees may work, the same story is true. In addition, it can be said, I believe, that congress will waste very little time in removing the restrictions on hours of labor if the emergency requires complete marshaling of American productive capacity.

Europe's War May End Many Theoretical Ideals

I could go on with other illustrations of the character mentioned here. These serve, however, to illustrate the point I have been attempting to make. They illustrate also the possibility that a further expansion of Europe's war probably means the end for many of the theoretical ideals about which the New Dealers have been prating through these many months. There is a bit of humor in the grim reality of the conditions facing this country today. I have written in these columns many times that the New Deal pay rollers were leading the drive to re-elect Mr. Roosevelt for a third term. That is the only manner in which they can be certain to hold on to their jobs. Now, however, we find Mr. Roosevelt's candidacy moved forward very definitely by the impetus of Europe's war, while at the same time we find the avid New Dealers being slowly pushed into the background while practical men are called in to direct and manage the defense program.

There is also to be noted, in connection with the excited conditions incident to war preparation here, that certain groups are exerting selfish pressure. It will be said, of course, that a democracy permits selfish interest to employ pressure. But the thing observers note around Washington these days is the very early activity of some groups which are striving, apparently, to make a profit out of the war. Mr. Roosevelt has publicly declared that extraordinary profit is not going to be permitted. His statement, however, does not assure prevention of the selfishness. It will take a great many thrusts and some punishment to accomplish the purpose.

Some conversation has already been heard to the effect that Mr. Roosevelt must place more confidence in private business leaders if his defense plans carry through. The President, as everyone recalls, has seemed to enjoy cracking the whip over business at frequent intervals during his entire seven years in the White House. The more conservative members of the administration recognize the cleavage between the President and general business, and

War Cuts Sisal Imports

One of America's essential farm commodities that may be vitally affected by the continuation of the European war is sisal, out of which binder twine is made. It cannot be grown in this country. It comes chiefly from British East Africa, the Dutch East Indies, and Mexico.

Twine must be ready when the harvest begins, consequently, manufacturers keep their warehouses stocked with sisal fiber so that they may produce twine between harvest seasons. Manufacturers say they have enough sisal to enable them to supply twine for the coming harvest but that if the European war continues, sisal imports will be reduced drastically.

Concern over sisal supplies is felt not only by twine manufacturers but by the federal government, which is now stocking up on cordage fiber under the direct authorization of the President, as part of a plan to store "strategic materials" for a possible national emergency.

LOUIS JOHNSON

Not on speaking terms with his boss.

they are seeking to heal the wounds. But the New Deal reformers—the inner circle—will not listen to such advice. Many of them will frankly say that business is not to be trusted, and they are not going to allow business leaders to ride in the saddle of defense management.

Changes in Present Cabinet Are Being Called For

As the war situation in Europe unfolds, some of the saner minds in Washington are calling for changes in the President's cabinet. It seems quite obvious to that school of thought that a real secretary of war and a real secretary of navy are badly needed.

It is well known that Secretary Woodring and Assistant Secretary Johnson of the war department are at odds. In fact, until a few months ago Mr. Woodring and Colonel Johnson were not on speaking terms. It is the general understanding that Colonel Johnson is doing a reasonably good job, but the condition within the department is such that no complete co-operation can be expected. Mr. Edison, who is running for the governorship of New Jersey, has been no howling success as secretary of the navy. So it is not an exaggeration to say that unless two good men are placed in charge in those two departments the execution of a defense program can be badly messed up. There are other places within the government where changes also could be made with profit. According to present indications, however, the responsibility must remain with the Democratic administration for the Republican leaders have definitely turned a cold shoulder to suggestions of a coalition government, even in these days of "crisis."

"YES Mam, Lilybud, Ah done caught it all by mah ownself, Ah did." Thus Fo' Bits impresses his mastery of fishing upon his lady fair. And Lilybud seems properly impressed—or frightened. Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of world-wide use, surely must be accepted as evidence of a satisfactory one. And favorable public opinion supports that of the able physicians who test the value of Doan's under exacting laboratory conditions.

These physicians, too, approve every word of advertising you read, the objective of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good, direct treatment for disorders of the kidney function and for relief of the pain and worry it causes. If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and direct medication would be more often employed. Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warn of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer from backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out. Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Ask your neighbor!

NEW YORK—In the last nine years, this typewriter has reported on the achievements of about 7,000 Americans distinguished in the arts of war and peace. If the appraisal of personnel resources is important in a critical hour, the record of this file is encouraging. Hitler has not repealed the axiom that the whole is equal to the sum of all its parts; and that being the case, this onlooker is convinced that we have what it takes, considering, particularly, the requirements for courage and highly specialized ability.

Today's citations of individual preparedness are Rear Admiral John H. Towers, ranking aviation officer of the navy, and Major General H. H. Arnold, chief of the army air corps. They are flexibly minded men who never have been grounded by precedent. They came all the way up from primitive and hazardous aviation, and from their altitude they have seen farther over the horizon than most of the rest of us. And they warned us.

Admiral Towers is the only survivor of the first three men assigned to naval aviation in 1911. Commander John Rodgers was killed in 1928, and Commander T. G. Elyson in 1928. Towers himself has had many a close brush with death. It was in May, 1919, that he commanded the transatlantic flight of the wobbly, but determined NC4. He and his mates, sagging down into the sea, taxied 60 hours over 205 miles to the Azores. In 1913, he was bucked out of a lurching sea-plane, caught a strap as he fell and dropped 1,700 feet with the hurtling plane into Chesapeake bay.

The navy's No. 1 flier was born in Rome, Ga., in 1886. Glenn Curtiss taught him to fly at Hammondsport, N. Y. Succeeding Rear Admiral Cook, he became a rear admiral and head of the bureau of naval aeronautics in June, 1939. He is a West Pointer of the class of 1906.

Major General Arnold, known in the air corps as "Happy" Arnold, for obvious reasons, was assigned to aviation in 1911 and trained by the Wright brothers, at Dayton, Ohio. In 1912 he caught the attention of the then complacent country by riding a clattering chain and sprocket job 30 miles around Washington. In the same year, he coaxed a quaint sort of Currier and Ives plane up to the perilous height of 6,540 feet. It was a national sensation. They began calling him the "ride 'em cowboy" of the air.

When the World war started we had 35 pilots and 55 planes. Lieutenant Arnold was clamoring for more then, and, as general, he has been out in front the last year, insisting that air strength would decide any modern war.

One of his most notable achievements was his brilliant leadership of a hazardous plane survey over the Alaska mountain ranges. He is a native of Gladwyn, Pa., and was graduated from West Point in 1907.

REAR ADMIRAL Samuel M. Robinson blames delay in ship construction to restrictive labor laws, short work weeks and inadequate or qualified appropriations. As coordinator of ship construction, he is cast in an important role in the hard-pressing enterprise of naval expansion. He is chief of the navy bureau of engineering, appointed September 13, and appears in the opening arguments primarily as a technician rather than as a policy adviser. When and if there is a decision as to just what we want to defend, what will be needed to defend it, and how much it will cost, Admiral Robinson will no doubt score highly in the technical "information please." He is 58 years old, a native of Eulogy, Texas, was graduated from West Point in 1899 and engaged thereafter in never spectacular, but crucially important naval engineering.

A FRIEND of mine, who until a few months ago had lived in Italy several years, tells me that Crown Prince Humbert of Italy not only is a holdout against the Fascist regime, but that he has a tremendous personal following which he could and would launch against Italy's entry into the war. IF YOU'RE ENTERTAINING THE BRIDE

(See Recipes Below)

No sooner is the June bride back from her honeymoon, than the business of cooking for two begins! Feeding her new husband will be an important part of the bride's responsibility, and any of the successful homemakers she knows can tell her that perfectly cooked meals for a hungry husband help to keep the matrimonial ship sailing merrily along.

So, why not a kitchen shower for a bride—using for gifts the inexpensive little "gadgets" that will make her hours in the kitchen pleasant? Those are the things the bride isn't likely to buy herself and the very fact that they are small and inexpensive means that she isn't apt to get them, either, among her wedding gifts.

Small, matching pottery pots for chives and parsley to grow on a sunny kitchen window sill, make a thoughtful gift for a kitchen shower; a set of pastel tinted bowl covers is practical and very moderately priced; butter paddles, a french potato ball cutter and small earthenware pots for baking beans are out-of-the-ordinary kitchen gifts. Any bride will bless you for starting her kitchen library for her—with her own copies of my homemaking booklets; Better Baking, Easy Entertaining, Feeding Father and Household Hints.

And speaking of a kitchen library—why not start a collection of favorite recipes for the bride? Have each guest at the shower bring her very choicest recipe, neatly written on a card for the bride's new recipe box, with the donor's name and the date of the party just for fun. Give her the recipes, too, that make up the menu for the day.

Food, for a kitchen shower, should be "homey," and informally served—and planned to give the bride suggestions for her own cooking and baking problems.

Menu for a Kitchen Shower.
Noodle and Tuna Casserole
Spring Vegetable Salad with French Dressing
Butter

Orange Rolls
Cheese Scones
Angel Food Cake
Strawberry Sherbet
Coffee

Fresh Strawberry Sherbet.
(Serves 6.)
Combine 1 cup of crushed strawberries and 2 tablespoons of lemon juice. Scald 1 pint of milk, add ¼ cup of sugar and stir until dissolved. Soak 1 tablespoon of unflavored gelatin in 1 tablespoon of cold water for 5 minutes and dissolve in hot milk. Add 2 beaten egg yolks, blend, and remove from flame and cool. Add fruit mixture to milk mixture and fold in 2 beaten egg whites. Assemble in ice cream freezer. Pour sherbet mixture into the freezing container. Adjust dasher and cover tightly. Then fill the ice chamber with a mixture of 3 parts chipped ice and 1 part salt and turn crank slowly for about 5 minutes to freeze. Repack and allow to harden.

Orange Rolls.
(Makes 18-20 rolls)
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon orange peel (grated)
2½ cups flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar
4 tablespoons shortening
1 egg
½ cup milk
3 tablespoons butter (melted)
Mix ½ cup sugar and orange peel thoroughly and allow to stand while making rolls. Sift and measure the flour, then sift together the flour, baking powder, salt and 1 tablespoon sugar. Cut in the shortening. Beat the egg slightly and add the milk. Stir into the flour mixture. Turn onto a lightly floured board and knead 30 seconds. Shape into a long narrow roll and roll out into a rectangle to about ¼-inch thickness. Spread the dough with the melted butter and the sugar and orange peel mixture. Roll up like jelly roll and cut off in ¼-inch pieces. Place rolls, cut side down, on a well-greased pan and bake about 20 minutes in a hot oven (425 degrees).

Barbecued Steak.
(Serves 6.)
2 pound, round steak
3 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons vinegar
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1 teaspoon onion, grated
1 teaspoon worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon chili sauce
½ teaspoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon brown sugar

Cut steak into pieces for serving and sear in frying pan. Melt butter, add vinegar and all other ingredients. Heat thoroughly and pour over the seared steaks. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for approximately 1½ hours. Baste frequently with barbecue sauce while baking.

Prize Angel Food Cake.
1½ cups sugar
1 cup cake flour
1½ cups egg whites
¾ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons cream of tartar
1 teaspoon vanilla extract

Sift sugar once. Add ¼ cup of it to the flour and sift together 3 times. Beat egg whites with rotary beater until frothy, add salt and cream of tartar and continue beating until eggs hold their shape. Add sugar gradually, beating thoroughly after each addition. Add vanilla extract. Then fold in the flour, ¼ at a time. When all flour is in, fold a few additional times. Then place in large ungreased angel-food pan. Bake in a moderate oven (325 degrees) for 1 hour and 15 minutes. Invert and let cool in pan.

French Dressing.
½ cup salad oil
¼ cup lemon juice or vinegar
1 teaspoon salt
Paprika to color
Few grains cayenne

Place ingredients in covered jar. Chill thoroughly. Just before serving shake vigorously. There are many ways to vary french dressing. The acid may be lemon juice, vinegar, or half and half. A few drops of onion juice may be added, or shake a cut garlic clove with the dressing (removing it before serving). Dry mustard may be added. Worcestershire sauce may also be added, as may creamed Roquefort cheese.

Cheese Scones.
2 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon paprika
¼ cup shortening
½ cup American cheese (grated)
½ cup milk
2 teaspoons prepared mustard

Sift together the flour, baking powder, salt and paprika. Cut in shortening. Add cheese. Then add milk and prepared mustard which have been mixed together. Roll out to ¼-inch thickness on lightly floured board. Cut in triangles and bake in a hot oven (425 degrees) for about 20 minutes.

Percolated Coffee.
Allow 1 tablespoon ground coffee to each cup of water. Place coffee in strainer part of percolator. Add cold water. Adjust top. Heat until coffee just begins to percolate. Then turn heat very low and allow coffee to percolate slowly 8 to 10 minutes. Do not boil.

Fruits and vegetables are the mainstays of summer meals. Watch Eleanor Howe's column next week for suggestions on New Ways of preparing and serving them.

IF YOU'RE ENTERTAINING THE BRIDE

(See Recipes Below)

No sooner is the June bride back from her honeymoon, than the business of cooking for two begins! Feeding her new husband will be an important part of the bride's responsibility, and any of the successful homemakers she knows can tell her that perfectly cooked meals for a hungry husband help to keep the matrimonial ship sailing merrily along.

So, why not a kitchen shower for a bride—using for gifts the inexpensive little "gadgets" that will make her hours in the kitchen pleasant? Those are the things the bride isn't likely to buy herself and the very fact that they are small and inexpensive means that she isn't apt to get them, either, among her wedding gifts.

Small, matching pottery pots for chives and parsley to grow on a sunny kitchen window sill, make a thoughtful gift for a kitchen shower; a set of pastel tinted bowl covers is practical and very moderately priced; butter paddles, a french potato ball cutter and small earthenware pots for baking beans are out-of-the-ordinary kitchen gifts. Any bride will bless you for starting her kitchen library for her—with her own copies of my homemaking booklets; Better Baking, Easy Entertaining, Feeding Father and Household Hints.

And speaking of a kitchen library—why not start a collection of favorite recipes for the bride? Have each guest at the shower bring her very choicest recipe, neatly written on a card for the bride's new recipe box, with the donor's name and the date of the party just for fun. Give her the recipes, too, that make up the menu for the day.

Food, for a kitchen shower, should be "homey," and informally served—and planned to give the bride suggestions for her own cooking and baking problems.

Menu for a Kitchen Shower.
Noodle and Tuna Casserole
Spring Vegetable Salad
with French Dressing
Butter

Orange Rolls Cheese Scones
Angel Food Cake
Strawberry Sherbet
Coffee

Fresh Strawberry Sherbet.
(Serves 6.)

Combine 1 cup of crushed strawberries and 2 tablespoons of lemon juice. Scald 1 pint of milk, add ¾ cup of sugar and stir until dissolved. Soak 1 tablespoon of unflavored gelatin in 1 tablespoon of cold water for 5 minutes and dissolve in hot milk. Add 2 beaten egg yolks, blend, and remove from flame and cool. Add fruit mixture to milk mixture and fold in 2 beaten egg whites. Assemble ice cream freezer. Pour sherbet mixture into the freezing container. Adjust dasher and cover tightly. Then fill the ice chamber with a mixture of 3 parts chipped ice and 1 part salt and turn crank slowly for about 5 minutes to freeze. Repack and allow to harden.

Orange Rolls.
(Makes 18-20 rolls)

¾ cup sugar
1 teaspoon orange peel (grated)
2½ cups flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar
4 tablespoons shortening
1 egg
½ cup milk
3 tablespoons butter (melted)
Mix ¾ cup sugar and orange peel thoroughly and allow to stand while making rolls. Sift and measure the flour, then sift together the flour, baking powder, salt and 1 tablespoon sugar. Cut in the shortening. Beat the egg slightly and add the milk. Stir into the flour mixture. Turn onto a lightly floured board and knead 30 seconds. Shape into a long narrow roll and roll out into a rectangle to about ¼-inch thickness. Spread the dough with the melted butter and the sugar and orange peel mixture. Roll up like jelly roll and cut off in ¾-inch pieces. Place rolls, cut side down, on a well-greased pan and bake about 20 minutes in a hot oven (425 degrees).

Barbecued Steak.
(Serves 6.)

2 pounds round steak
3 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons vinegar
¾ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1 teaspoon onion, grated
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon chili sauce
½ teaspoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon brown sugar

Cut steak into pieces for serving and sear in frying pan. Melt butter, add vinegar and all other ingredients. Heat thoroughly and pour over the seared steaks. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for approximately 1½ hours. Baste frequently with barbecue sauce while baking.

Prize Angel Food Cake.

1½ cups sugar
1 cup cake flour
1¾ cups egg whites
¾ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons cream of tartar
1 teaspoon vanilla extract

Sift sugar once. Add ½ cup of it to the flour and sift together 3 times.

Beat egg whites with rotary beater until frothy, add salt and cream of tartar and continue beating until eggs hold their shape. Add sugar gradually, beating thoroughly after each addition. Add vanilla extract. Then fold in the flour, ¼ at a time. When all flour is in, fold a few additional times. Then place in large ungreased angel-food pan. Bake in a moderate oven (325 degrees) for 1 hour and 15 minutes. Invert and let cool in pan.

French Dressing.

½ cup salad oil
¼ cup lemon juice or vinegar
1 teaspoon salt
Paprika to color
Few grains cayenne

Place ingredients in covered jar. Chill thoroughly. Just before serving shake vigorously. There are many ways to vary french dressing. The acid may be lemon juice, vinegar, or half and half. A few drops of onion juice may be added, or shake a cut garlic clove with the dressing (removing it before serving). Dry mustard may be added. Worcestershire sauce may also be added, as may creamed Roquefort cheese.

Cheese Scones.

2 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon paprika
¼ cup shortening
½ cup American cheese (grated)
½ cup milk
2 teaspoons prepared mustard

Sift together the flour, baking powder, salt and paprika. Cut in shortening. Add cheese. Then add milk and prepared mustard which have been mixed together. Roll out to ¼-inch thickness on lightly floured board. Cut in triangles and bake in a hot oven (425 degrees) for about 20 minutes.

Percolated Coffee.

Allow 1 tablespoon ground coffee to each cup of water. Place coffee in strainer part of percolator. Add cold water. Adjust top. Heat until coffee just begins to percolate. Then turn heat very low and allow coffee to percolate slowly 8 to 10 minutes. Do not boil.

TALBOT MUNDY—WNU SERVICE

The Bengali backed away from Norwood. He looked three shades paler. He was trembling. The Maharajah's right hand seized the drumstick of the golden gong. He raised it.

"No," said Norwood. "Not yet, please, Your Highness."

The Maharajah stared. He seemed uncertain whether to feel flattered or offended. He laid down the drumstick and resumed the tapping on the desk with his fingernails.

"I become nervous," he said, "without my tonic. This is very bad for my nerves. Captain Norwood, how did you know about this?"

Norwood answered without looking at him. He was watching the Bengali and the white-clad servant: "I didn't know. I guessed it. Both of you, go and stand over in that corner, with your backs to the wall!"

The servant obeyed promptly. He went down on his knees in the corner. He put his hands together and held them in front of his face. The Bengali backed away slowly, watching Norwood's eyes. He backed until he reached a bookcase. Suddenly he snatched a stamp album and hurried it to the goblet. Norwood caught the album in his right hand, by one leaf of the cover. He set the goblet on the desk, without spilling more than two or three drops. Then he closed the album carefully and gave it to the Maharajah. The Maharajah petted it, stroked it:

"My collection of Cape of Good Hopes! My triangular black!" He glared at the Bengali. "You vandall! Now I know you are guilty! Why did you throw it?"

The Bengali had recovered some of his presence of mind: "It was at him I threw it. By his touch he has defiled your drinking goblet! He is a bribe-taker! I suspect him of having tampered with your tonic. What has he put into it? I advise Your Highness not to taste it!"

The door behind the screen opened, closed again, and the Maharane appeared. Norwood bowed to her, but she took no notice of him. She went straight to the Maharajah, knelt beside his chair, and whispered. He grumbled at her, sotto voce. She continued whispering. At last he nodded. She stroked his right hand, murmured traditional phrases of respect and left the room. She didn't even glance at the Bengali.

"I need my tonic," said the Maharajah. "I am becoming more nervous each minute."

"Whiskey and soda should be a good prescription for that," said Norwood. "I'd have brought a flask if I had any sense. I didn't think of it."

"I have never defiled myself with whiskey," said the Maharajah.

Norwood kept his eye on the Bengali: "If you had never drunk anything worse than a scotch and soda, they wouldn't be betting in Kadur bazaar that you'll be dead by midnight. Any money on it, doctor? What odds did you get?"

The door behind the screen opened again. The Maharane reappeared, veiled. She was followed by Lynn, and then Rundhia. Rundhia looked startled. He shot one penetrating glance at the Bengali, then at Norwood, then at the Maharajah. He made a very obvious effort to recover self-possession.

"Captain Norwood," said the Maharane, "why did you wish to see me?"

"About this," said Norwood. He hadn't time to reply decently. He had noticed that Rundhia was trying to signal the Bengali through the opening under the desk, so he got in the way. As soon as Rundhia had stood up again, Norwood spoke: "Rundhia, here's something for your bruised face. Come and drink it."

Lynn stared with parted lips from one man to the other. Rundhia glanced at her; he looked stung, scared, sullen. Norwood hadn't looked at Lynn once since she entered the room.

The Maharajah pointed the gong drumstick at the Bengali: "Stand still," he commanded. "If you are unable to stand, you may sit—on the floor—where you are."

"Rundhia," said Norwood, "how about a trial by ordeal? You have accused me, behind my back. I accuse you, to your face, of an attempt to poison His Highness. What do you say? Shall we share this drink together? You drink half. I'll drink what's left."

"You are the last man I would drink with," Rundhia retorted.

Norwood laughed. He thrust his right hand into his tunic. "Steady, Rundhia! Keep your hand away from your pocket. I have you covered.—Lynn! Reach into Rundhia's hip-pocket and put his pistol on the desk!"

Lynn stared—resentful, alarmed, puzzled. Parted lips. Wide blue eyes. Frowning.

Norwood repeated the order: "Lynn, do as I tell you!"

Lynn felt in his pocket. She laid an automatic on the table: "Rundhia," she said, "I didn't think that of you."

"Rundhia!" said the Maharane. She had unveiled her face. Lynn spoke again: "Rundhia, you came to offer Captain Norwood something else than that, didn't you. Where is it?"

Rundhia snarled: "Tell him to put his own pistol on the desk."

"I haven't one," said Norwood. He reached for Rundhia's pistol, jerked it open and broke it.

There came a knock at the door. The Maharane rearranged her veil. Norwood stepped aside, keeping his eyes on Rundhia, who was biting his lip. The Maharajah tapped the gong with his fingers. The door opened. The anteroom attendant spoke rapidly in his native tongue. The Maharajah looked like a frightened sheep. He nodded, speechless. The attendant bowed in the Resident and closed the door behind him. Norwood, still holding the goblet in his left hand, reopened the door and jerked his head at the Bengali: "Get out!" he commanded.

The Resident stared. He almost forgot to bow to the Maharajah. He watched the Bengali leave the room. Then he looked at Norwood again and raised his eyebrows.

"I have never defiled myself with whiskey," said the Maharajah.

Norwood spoke sotto voce: "Did my man follow you?"

"Yes," said the Resident.

"All right then. The doctor won't get far."

"You surprise us," said the Maharajah. "We are overburdened with joy by this visit. But what does it mean?"

The Resident looked comfortless: "I am at a loss for an answer! Captain Norwood sent me a sort of SOS. He—"

"May I speak?" asked Norwood. The Resident answered: "I think you'd better, if His Highness—"

"Yes, please," said the Maharajah.

"Rundhia," said Norwood. He held up the blue goblet in his left hand, almost as if he were going to drink a toast: "Let's hear your accusation. What have you against me?"

Rundhia eyed him sullenly: "Nothing," he answered. "I don't know you."

Norwood smiled: "Very cautious of you, Rundhia. I am really alive."

The Resident also smiled. He started everyone by saying:

"Rundhia, there is a conversation on record. Of course, only my version of it. But I refused, you remember, to treat it as confidential. I made a memorandum of it."

Rundhia swallowed what was left of his dignity. He was looking beaten. He spoke as if the insolence had all oozed out of him:

"I forget what I said. I withdraw it anyhow. I have already written this."

He groped in his inside pocket, avoiding Lynn's eyes, although Lynn looked sympathetic. He produced an envelope, strode past Lynn and offered it to Norwood. Norwood waved it aside and jerked his head toward the Resident.

The Resident accepted the envelope, and bowed to the Maharajah: "You permit me?"

"By all means. I am fascinated."

Lynn was watching the Resident. He had opened the envelope. He read the letter. He passed it to Norwood:

"Is this satisfactory to you, Norwood?"

"It's entirely up to you, sir. I accept it if you do."

The Resident stepped forward and laid the letter in front of the Maharajah: "Will your Highness please read that and, if you see fit, witness it? I have a gallant officer here in need of a rebuttal of some secret accusations that might ruin his career."

The Maharajah read, stared at the Resident, stared at Rundhia, stared at Norwood, reached for his fountain pen and signed.

Rundhia recovered a bit of his insolence. "Are you satisfied?" he demanded.

"No," said Norwood. "Not yet." He reached for the goblet—raised it, sniffed it, smiled at Rundhia. Then he looked straight at Lynn.

Lynn was watching the Maharane, but she seemed conscious of Norwood's stare. Rundhia whispered to her, but she took no notice.

"Rundhia," said Norwood, "I will ask you two questions. Answer whichever you please. What is in this goblet?"

The Maharane pulled herself to her feet, picked up her cushion and went and knelt at the Maharajah's left hand, so that she could watch Rundhia:

"Rundhia," she said, "answer!"

Rundhia said nothing; he glared at Norwood. Lynn turned in her chair to watch Rundhia's face. Norwood spoke again:

"You don't answer the first one? Very well, here's the other: why did you sign that retraction? I didn't ask you for it. Who did?"

Rundhia was silent.

"Speak!" said the Maharane. She had unveiled her face. She was looking at Lynn.

Rundhia glanced at Lynn. Lynn looked suddenly straight at Norwood and spoke with such constrained emotion that her voice sounded fiercely angry:

"Captain Norwood, I asked Rundhia to write that. If it isn't what you wanted, you may blame me."

Norwood's lips moved toward a smile, but he saw her embarrassment, so he checked it. He looked straight in her eyes for several seconds before he looked at Rundhia again:

"Substitute question, Rundhia! You didn't answer that one. How much did you charge for this retraction of your accusation against me?"

Rundhia had had time to consider. He sneered: "I wrote that as an act of magnanimity. Was it wasted on you?"

Norwood glanced quickly at Lynn. "No, no, Rundhia, it wasn't wasted. But tell us all what is in this goblet. I could have it analyzed. Perhaps you would prefer to consult that Rundhia doctor before you answer? Question a bit awkward? Your trouble is that you can't guess how much I know, can you? Can you guess why I let the Bengali leave the room? Any chance that he betrayed you? Rather drop the question? Very well, answer the other: how much or what did you charge, and to whom, for the magnanimous retraction of your accusation against me? I insist on an answer."

Rundhia spoke sullenly: "Nothing. No one. I don't even know what you mean."

Norwood looked at Lynn. Her lips moved. He was in time to check her:

"Please say nothing! I want Rundhia to tell it—Rundhia, choose. I won't wait all night. Account for the contents of this goblet—or else answer: what promise have you exacted—from whom?"

The Maharane spoke in a strained voice: "Answer him, Rundhia."

Rundhia was silent. Lynn stared. He avoided her eyes.

"If I should have to mention this goblet again," said Norwood, "I will ask His Highness the Maharajah to summon the guard. What promise have you exacted from whom as the price of your signing that retraction?"

"There was no price."

The Maharane was looking at Lynn. She spoke suddenly: "Run-dhia, speak like a man! There was a promise!"

Rundhia stared at his feet. He had the grace to speak as if he were ashamed. He almost mumbled: "I release her from the promise."

Norwood looked at Lynn steadily: "Do you accept that?"

"No I refuse. Is this your vengeance? It's cruel. Doesn't the retraction satisfy you?"

Norwood smiled at Lynn and made a reassuring gesture. Rundhia stared; he looked astonished. The Maharane stood up. Norwood spoke:

"Lynn, did Rundhia tell you that I tore up your letter? He lied. Your aunt gave it to me less than an hour ago. It reached her by mistake in the wrong envelope."

"I confirm that," said the Resident.

Lynn stood up and waited for Rundhia to speak. He didn't.

"Rundhia," she said, "did you hear that?" Then, turning: "Thank you, Captain Norwood."

"Just a misunderstanding," Norwood answered. "I will explain it later."

Lynn shook her head. Her eyes met his but she made no reply. She left the room by the door behind the screen. The Maharane followed her. Silence.

The Resident wiped his face with the handkerchief: "Steady, Norwood," he said. "Steady." He spoke aloud to the Maharajah:

"Does Your Highness wish—"

"I wish for tranquillity! I do not care to know any more!"

"Carry on!" said the Resident. "Careful!"

Norwood raised the goblet, this time in his right hand: "You don't deserve this, Rundhia. You're a blackguard." He glanced at the Resident: "You agree, sir?"

The Resident nodded. The Maharajah stared, fascinated. Norwood spilled the contents of the goblet on the floor.

The Maharajah turned to Rundhia: "Leave the room. Never return."

Rundhia moved toward the door behind the screen, but the Resident jumped out of his chair. Rundhia began to hurry. Norwood was too quick. He shoved the screen in Rundhia's way. It banged against the door and the noise almost made the Maharajah scream.

"Your Highness," said the Resident, "in Prince Rundhia's presence, I take this opportunity to inform you that I have written to His Majesty's advisers, strongly recommending them to exercise their veto in the matter of Prince Rundhia's succession to the throne of Kadur."

"You have already written?"

"I have mailed the letter."

"I resign," said Rundhia sullenly. "You and your veto may go to the devil."

"May I speak to Your Highness alone?" asked the Resident.

The Maharajah scowled at Rundhia: "Go out that way!" He pointed to the door into the anteroom.

Rundhia walked out. Norwood followed. He overtook Rundhia at the head of the stairs, and Rundhia turned about and faced him:

"I sincerely regret," he remarked, looking straight into Norwood's eyes, "that the men who fired at you, missed."

"Yes, you had rotten luck, Rundhia. What will you do—go to Europe? The Riviera? That's crowded with might-have-beens who insisted on hitting below the belt. D'you know, Rundhia, if had even suspected you of having put one over on Lynn Harding, I would have let you hang. You know, they hang even princes who play at your game." He laughed. "No, Rundhia, no. You will walk ahead of me down the stairs. I know that trick."

English Abbey Built 800 Years Ago Now Up for Sale

Rufford Abbey, 800-year-old English estate, is being put up for sale, London papers report. The estate contains 18,700 acres and includes the abbey, founded in the reign of King Stephen, partly rebuilt in the Sixteenth and Seventeenth centuries and an ancient deer park of more than 500 acres.

It also includes the whole or greater part of the villages and parishes of Old Ollerton, Eakring, Wellow, Bilsthorpe and Ompton, as well as parts of Walsley, Egmanston, Edwinstowe, Farnsfield, Kirton, Blidworth and Tuxford.

The estate comprises about 70 farms, 38 small holdings, four licensed houses, including the famous Hop Pole at Ollerton, many private residences and shops, nearly 2,000 acres of woods and plantations, and hundreds of cottages.

One of the most famous estates in the dukeries, Rufford abbey never has been in the market before, and its forthcoming sale will be one of the outstanding transactions of recent years in real estate. Lands at Rufford were recorded long before Domesday, but its history as an abbey began in 1148, when Gilbert de Gaunt, Earl of Lincoln, founded an abbey there, dedicated it to the honor of the Blessed Virgin Mary and colonized it with Cistercian monks from Rievaulx abbey.

The abbey lands increased, and from the earliest times the monks enjoyed special privileges in the surrounding Forest of Sherwood. The abbots became rich enough to entertain royalty, and September 18, 1290, Rufford received the first of many subsequent royal visitors; Edward I passed a night there and sealed a variety of documents.

The rich abbey attracted the attention of Henry VIII's commissioners when he was considering the dissolution of the monasteries and in 1537 he annexed the abbey and gave it and all its lands to George, earl of Shrewsbury, with whose descendants it ever since has remained. Thus began Rufford abbey's 400-year existence as a country house.

The chapel of the abbey was the scene of the wedding in 1574 of Charles Stuart, younger brother of Darnley, and Elizabeth Cavendish.

Pasteurize

PASTEURIZATION is a term we apply to the process of killing germs in milk because of the discoveries of Louis Pasteur, French chemist. But few of us realize that his discoveries did not come as a result of his interest in milk but in alcoholic drinks. He is the first man to make a scientific study of fermentation and set out to find the cause of sickness in beer and wine.

Louis Pasteur

One of his first discoveries was that the globules of yeast in sound beer were round but in sour beer they were elongated. (He wasn't interested, however, in discovering whether the globules in flat beer were flat.) He found that fermentation was due to minute organisms and when fermentation failed they were absent or unable to multiply. Then he found out that the lactic fermentation of milk was practically the same as that of alcohol and that the bacteria in milk could be stopped from multiplying. His process consists in partial sterilization of milk at a temperature between 131 and 158 degrees which destroys certain organisms and undesirable bacteria.

Pasteurism, also named after Louis Pasteur, is a treatment of rabies by inoculation with germs of gradually increasing strength.

Joshing

BACK in the fifties Henry W. Shaw, a real estate man and auctioneer of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., began writing a series of humorous articles for the local paper under the pen name of "Joshua Billings." The sketches didn't attract much attention so he stopped writing them for a year. Then he adopted a phonetic style of spelling and sent a previously published article, "An Essa on the Muel," (which began "The mule is haf hoss and haf jackass, and then turns to a full stop, natur discovering her mistake"), to the New York Weekly. It was an immediate success and he began contributing regularly to the New York Saturday Post as well as the Weekly.

Henry W. Shaw
Josh Billings

Other papers reprinted his work and within a short time he was one of America's most popular humorists. President Lincoln was a great admirer of "Josh Billings" and frequently read his "essays" to members of his cabinet, much to the disgust of some of them, especially Secretary Stanton of the war department. After a time people began referring to this humorous style of writing, with its deliberately misspelled words, as "joshing" and that word was a common slang word until it was succeeded by "kidding" as a synonym for "to make fun (of); to chaff; to banter."

Daguerreotype

MORE than a century ago Louis Jacques Mande Daguerre, a French painter of the diorama, an ancestor of the modern movies in that it was a succession of scenes painted on canvas which was caused to pass slowly before the eyes of the observer, made use of the "camera obscura" in his work. It projected the image of landscapes and other objects on the canvas where they could easily be sketched in, thus giving a natural reproduction of the subject.

Daguerre

Daguerre had noticed that chemically treated metal plates would, after several hours' exposure in the camera, retain a faint impression of the object but it soon faded away. So he began to seek a way to catch and permanently record the images on the plate. After experimenting for more than 10 years, during which time he had some aid from another Frenchman, Joseph Niepce, quite by chance he discovered the kind of chemical needed to fix the image on the plate and in 1839 announced his discovery to the world.

Thus was born the modern art of photography and, appropriately enough, the first successful photographs were called daguerreotypes in honor of the man who "harnessed the sun"—Louis Jacques Mande Daguerre.

It's Long Torso Lines, Pleats; Pockets That Give 'New' Look

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

WHEN you go in quest of a new silk print frock to add to your summer wardrobe, or if you have the urge and ambition to make your own and are in search of a smart pattern, keep in mind the long torso silhouette, also pleated skirts and over and over again repeat pockets, pockets and pockets for these are high spots among styling items that give the coveted new look at a glance.

A most radical turn fashion has taken this season is to introduce a strikingly different silhouette in the way of long straight and slim torso lines. To add emphasis to the innovation many of the newest tailored cloth jacket suits take on the narrow pencil straight skirts like the like of which we have not seen for many a season past.

However, the leading formula for the chic suits of print silk which lead in the summer style parade is the long slender jacket with pleated skirt that shows from below the exaggerated low hipline of the jacket. Very often these skirts are pleated to a hip yoke which stamps them as being decidedly ultra.

The daytime dress that has a long torso top after the manner of the model centered in the illustration is regarded as eminently high-style fashion. In this instance gray silk crepe in two tones is the selected material. Here we see a revival of the 1914 co-ed silhouette in a California fashion shown in the Howard Greer collection. The long-torso top has leaves of the fabric applied diagonally across the bodice. The box-pleated skirt is referred to as the new "action skirt" that gives you freedom of movement. The sleeves are notably simple and chic.

There is simply no escaping pockets this season. A glance at the fashion-right dress to the left in the picture emphasizes the idea that pockets have a way of imparting lots of style to a daytime frock of attractive print silk. The patterning of this printed silk crepe features a novel arrangement of wee dot motifs in stripe interpretation, for as every woman of style knows, the emphasis in prints is decidedly on stripes this season. The full-length button opening adds to the sophistication of this dress. This together with the clever pockets of military inspiration combine to achieve great chic. White pique in corded effect edges neckline and sleeves.

As the season progresses it is proving that gray with white or light green or yellow printed design has gone to dizzy heights of popularity. Another important color theme that persists throughout the very latest silk prints is that of brown with white. If you are buying a new print you will be making a wise fashion move if you choose browns as expressed in a brown and white print with which wear a wide brimmed straw hat in the very chic Balenciaga brown, a color that is most flattering. By the way, it is wonderfully good style to wear brown hat and accessories with your gray and white prints, too.

Don't try to go through the season sans a bolero dress. The more you see of them the more you like them and the more you wear a bolero dress the more it endears itself to your affections. Maybe because the bolero type is so youthful, maybe because it is so ever-flattering and most assuredly it is greatly to be coveted and appreciated because of its practicality. Worn with a contrasting blouse a bolero dress can be made to tune to every occasion. The bolero mode pictured to the right is of printed crepe that adopts one of the season's best color schemes, namely, gray dotted in white. The skirt is pleated in smart manner. The ribbon belt is in Cordovan brown and her Flemish off-the-face hat is in gray and white. Milliners proudly refer to gray and white as "so new" for hats.

Starched Lace

Here is a brimful of white lace and running over for that matter for the neckwear repeats the handsome immaculate lace theme. Milliners are increasingly emphasizing the importance of lace and snow white lingerie touches on hats. Here white starched lace for the brim of her hat and the matching collar on her navy blue dress form the high spots of this stunning costume. Her bag is white patent leather and her long finger nail gloves are navy and red.

Dressy Bretons

Little bretons with sharply turned back brims make up for their small size by adding tall crowns and white lingerie trim.

Lace Enthusiasm

Prevails in Paris

From Paris collections one gains the idea that leading couturiers are more decidedly lace-conscious this season. Schiaparelli shows gay young clothes that reflect enthusiasm for lace such as narrow lace edging around pockets, on linen dresses and again on fabric crowns, the same removable for washing. Narrow lace also edges gloves, collars, cuffs and blouse fronts. Crocheted lace collars with gloves to match are a charming and unique feature.

The new Paris house, Cavalier, uses large bows of lace on the backs of tiny hats. Fine white Chantilly, also starched Venise lace bands often replace ribbon trims on hats.

Lace motifs are also encrusted in huge straw brims. The "last word" in uses of lace is the apron of sheer black lace worn over formal afternoon black sheer frocks. Very stunning, too, are lace aprons worn with pastel or white evening gowns. Lace shawls likewise present an interesting new phase.

Frisly and Feminine

Collars and cuffs to transform a dark basic dress this season have a very fragile feminine air.

Parasol Brims

Wide and shady as a parasol are the new picture hats of felt. Some have brims that are shirred at intervals.

EZEKIEL TEACHES PERSONAL RESPONSIBILITY

LESSON TEXT—Ezekiel 33:7-16.
GOLDEN TEXT—So then every one of us shall give account of himself to God.—Romans 14:12.

Personal responsibility is a subject well worthy of careful and repeated consideration. We talk so much about social, national or racial responsibility that we are prone to forget that the social order, nations and races, are made up of individuals. The Bible, while recognizing the relationship and responsibilities of nations and social groups to God, rightly stresses individual responsibility. It is man who is made in the likeness and image of God. He is the one who has fallen into sin, and he needs the regenerating grace of God in the Lord Jesus Christ. It is man who stands responsible to God, both as an individual and as God's representative in carrying His message to others.

I. Man's Responsibility for the Lives of Others (vv. 7-11).

Ezekiel had the official responsibility of a watchman sent by God to his own people in their captivity in Babylon. His was a special calling, and yet it is not true that, according to the teaching of the New Testament, every Christian is called to be a witness, a winner of souls, and a watchman?

1. The Watchman's Commission (v. 7). His appointment is by God, and the warning words he is to speak are given to him by God. Every true preacher and teacher of the gospel should be a God-called man, presenting the Word of God. Otherwise, his ministry will have little meaning and no real power. The same is true of every Christian; a personal touch with God must precede his efforts to win others to God.

2. The Watchman's Responsibility (vv. 8, 9). Being a watchman is not a duty that one bears lightly, for it has grave responsibilities. Lives are dependent on the vigilance and faithfulness of the watchman. Even those who watch over worldly goods or who guard the safety and comfort of others are held by us to a high measure of responsibility and are liable for misfeasance or carelessness in office. What about those of us to whom the destiny of eternal souls has been committed? Read the solemn words of verses 8 and 9.

3. The Watchman's Message (vv. 10, 11). The Jews who were in captivity because of their sin and failure were despondent. They saw no ray of hope; they were under the overwhelming burden of their sin. The message of God's watchman was one of hope to the repentant people. God is gracious toward the sinner and has no pleasure in punishing him. "Why will ye die?" places the responsibility squarely where it belongs—on the sinner himself.

II. Man's Responsibility for His Own Life (vv. 12-16).

Whatever may be our responsibility for the lives of others, certain it is that we must each one answer to God for our own lives. Ours is the glorious opportunity of living our life—and ours is the responsibility for it.

1. Consistent Living Required (v. 12). This verse evidently does not mean that a righteous man overtaken in a moment of defeat is lost. It rather refers to the one who has made an outward show of being righteous. Confident of himself, he has then fallen into careless living, and all at once his true character is revealed in outright wickedness. That man cannot then draw on his past record as though it were a bank account to be used to justify him in his hour of failure. Righteousness is a matter of the heart. It is a spiritual rebirth, expressing itself in changed conduct and consistent living, not only yesterday and today, but also tomorrow.

2. Real Repentance Accepted (vv. 13-16). God was ready in Ezekiel's day to accept the genuinely repentant man and woman. Infinitely more precious and warm is the welcome that Christ now gives to sinners who turn to Him, for He, our blessed Lord, has now worked out the way of salvation on Calvary's tree.

'In' Not 'For'

Am I to thank God for everything? Am I to thank Him for bereavement, for pain, for poverty, for toil? . . . Be still my soul; thou hast misread the message. It is not to give thanks for everything, but to give thanks in everything.—Dr. G. Matheson.

They Shall Return to the Lord

And the Lord shall smite Egypt; he shall smite and heal it; and they shall return even to the Lord, and he shall be entreated of them, and shall heal them.—Isaiah 19:22.

Selfishness

What makes selfishness such a deadly sin is that it is such a self-deceiving one.

they want of it for very little money.

That was really a turning point in the life of Miss Fixit. This old rocker that she made over is merely a sample of what may happen when a clever young lady is bent upon bringing color into her life. The chair has been painted a pale turquoise blue, and the seat cushion and back are covered with an inexpensive chintz in turquoise; cherry red; primrose yellow and deep green, with red bias bindings.

A CERTAIN Miss Fixit, and that was not really her name, inherited a house full of furniture that was not old enough to be either quaint or antique. One day she sent for my little Book No. 4, and there she found a sketch showing how to plot a room color plan based on a rug, or a picture, or a piece of drapery material with good coloring. Miss Fixit had a picture that she had always loved because of its beautiful colors. Just for fun, as a sort of game, she made a room color plot based on that picture. Then she suddenly realized that, after all, color is very cheap—anyone can have all

I wish every reader interested in choosing colors for her home might have a copy of my Book 4. It contains an illustrated rule for making a room color plan, based on the colors in a picture; a rug; a vase; or a piece of drapery material with lovely colorings. The rule is so clear and easily understood that I am sure every reader of these weekly articles would be delighted to have a copy. To get your copy, send 10 cents in coin and ask for Book 4. Is your child a NOSE PICKER?

It may be just a nasty habit, but sometimes nose picking is a sign of something nastier. It may mean that your child has round worms—especially if there are other symptoms, such as itching, finicky appetite, restless sleep and itching in certain parts.

People don't like to talk about bowel worms, so you may not realize how many children have this dreadful infection. They "catch" it from other children, from dogs, or unwashed vegetables, or infected water. If you suspect that your child has round worms, get JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE right away. Jayne's is the best known worm expellant in America. It is backed by modern scientific study, and has been used by millions, for over a century.

JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE is pleasant tasting and gentle, yet it does a good job. Jayne's has the ability to drive out large round worms without upsetting the digestive system. If there are no worms, it acts merely as a mild laxative.

You have my full permission to publish this letter and if I may in any way be able to clarify your condition please feel free to call on me.

Yours very truly,
(signed) S. A. Tokoly, Sup't.
Charlevoix County Road Comm.

Thank you, Mr. Tokoly, for your letter which will help appreciably in making more of us "billboard conscious." When enough people insist upon their rights in this matter, the signs will come down as a matter of course.

From your letter, I understand that our East Jordan Garden Club, any organization, or any individual, to effect the removal of an offending sign, must first gain the attention and cooperation of the State Highway Department. This should not be difficult, if we take care to supply the State Highway Dept with full details.

This action, however, becomes necessary only when the advertisers themselves refuse to remove signs concerning which we complain directly to them. Advertisers are cooperating to this effect, I am glad to say, not all of them, but some.

I would like to add, too, what may not be generally understood, — that the statute governing signs on the highways does not apply to signs erected within the corporate limits of towns. Such signs will not be outlawed while they increase revenue. I'm afraid, no matter how obnoxious they may be.

Mrs. Roscoe Mackey came from Grand Rapids to spend Memorial Day with her friends in East Jordan. She had looked forward with particular pleasure to seeing her tulips in bloom (and they were lovely), but imagine her disappointment when she found them gone. During the preceding night, a woman had sneaked into the yard (yes, she left a clue to her identity) and wrenched off all except the purple and red blooms which did not show up in the darkness. Too bad to make a thief of oneself in any case, but especially so for flowers . . . when almost anyone who raises flowers loves to give them freely!

The program committee of the Garden Club will present an interesting program Tuesday afternoon, June 18th, when Mrs. E. Rymer of Traverse City will discuss "Conservation of Wild Flowers and Ground Cover." A feature of the afternoon will be "A Spring Bouquet" by Mrs. G. A. Lisk who has had such signal success with these gorgeous flowers. Also, members of the Garden Club will display iris from their gardens. All who love gardens are urged to be present. Time: 2:30 p. m. Place: City Building. Hostesses: Mrs. Clarence Healey, Mrs. C. H. Pray.

The Traverse City Garden Club will feature peonies at its Garden Show on June 27th and 28th. We are invited.

DEATH RAYS — HOW THEY MAY AFFECT MANKIND'S FUTURE

Robert D. Potter points out in The American Weekly, with the June 9 issue of The Detroit Sunday Times, that there are many kinds of death rays much like those in fiction stories and says all we need to stop all wars is to make one work; an informative article discussing four groups of energies which seem to work fantastic wonders in the laboratory . . . but on the battlefield they're something else again.
