The Achievement Day Tour

AN OUTSTANDING SUCCESS SOME 150 PEOPLE PARTICIPATED

A most enjoyable occasion took place last Wednesday, June 19th, when the Home Economics Extension Groups sponsored a county-wide tour. Never before has such a large group of interested folks joined together to really see why Charlevoix County is recognized as one of the beauty spots of Michigan.

The most gratifying feature of the occasion was the fact that, at the very first stop, over one hundred women were on hand to start the tour. At the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Lisk, East Jordan, a beautiful bed of peonies, with a cedar hedge in the background, received much favorable comment. From this location the tour moved north by the Ironton Ferry over to the home of W. K. Straw, Charlevoix, where everything showed at its best. The condition of the lawn attracted much comment as, in spite of the fact that it had not been artificially watered, it was showing wonderful development. The mixture used was mostly New Zealand Chewings Fescue which is highly recommended by Mr. Gregg as being suited to farm needs.

At the home of Mrs. Olesky the visitors had their first opportunity to see a very nicely arranged kitchen. In this particular case, the room was quite small but everything right up to the minute for time and labor saving. Then everyone went to the Charlevoix County Nursery where a picnic lunch was enjoyed and a short business session conducted. George Hemingway, proprietor of the nursery, played the part of a perfect host. Tables were set out in the open and as the dessert, ice cream was made available. In five different groups the visitors saw the nursery and the beautiful specimens on all sides. Miss Helen Noyes gave a very short report covering the results of last year's project. She announced that thirteen groups completed the work and 184 members attended two or more meetings. Next year's project will be on house furnishings. The election of officers for the new year resulted in the selection of Mrs. Edith Novotny, Charlevoix, County Chairman; Mrs. Frances Looze, Boyne City, County Secretary; and Mrs. Priscilla Lisk, East Jordan, County Publicity Chairman.

Shortly after two o'clock the tour, comprised of thirty cars, moved to Boyne City where they again saw another wonderfully arranged kitchen. This home, owned by O. F. Walker, had a much larger kitchen with more cupboard space, built-in-sink, and many little improvements which received much favorable comment. Next, at Ben Gardner's, the visitors saw not only a beautifully kept yard but also a little nursery containing evergreens and many specimen commonly used in home beautification. Due to special request, an additional stop was made at the home of Glen V. Mills, Boyne City, where many rare plants were seen and, in addition, a lily pond had been developed. To a person, everyone was highly pleased with the day's visits and all said they would like to have another opportunity to see the beauty spots in this county.

Coffee Cup Softballers Will Compete In Two League Events

The newly organized East Jordan Coffee Cup softball team will compete in the Petoskey City League and the Charlevoix County Softball League.

The cups lost their opening game in the Petoskey circuit losing to the Potts Laundry team of Petoskey 11 to 7 last Thursday evening. Sunday evening the Jordanites played in Traverse meeting the strongest aggregation of that city in the Carmon-Roth team and went down again losing to the classy Traverse aggregation 8 to 7 after getting off to a 6 run lead in the first three frames.

Marlin Cihak and R. Saxton formed the battery for the Jordanites. Other players making up the Coffee Cup unit are L. Cihak, W. Cihak, C. Sommeville, Saxton, Kenny, Reuling, LaPeer, Hayes, Crowell, and Mocherman.

The following dates make up the local schedule in the Charlevoix Co. League. All league games are played on Monday evenings.

July 1 — Charlevoix — here.
July 8 — Ironton — at Charlevoix.
July 15 — open date.
July 22 — Boyne City Ramblers — h.
July 29 — Boyne City Bearcats — t.
August 6 — Charlevoix — here.
Aug. 12 — Ironton — at Charlevoix.
August 19 — open date.
Aug. 26 — Boyne City Ramblers — h.

HERALD OUT A DAY EARLIER NEXT WEEK

With the "Fourth" coming on Thursday, next week's Charlevoix County Herald will be issued a day earlier.

Will advertisers and other contributors kindly co-operate and get "copy" in a day earlier. Thanks a lot.

THE MANAGEMENT.

Junior Baseballers Take Second Game In Three Starts

The East Jordan Juniors chalked up their second victory in three starts this season as they triumphed over the Ellsworth Independents 8 to 2 in a seven inning twilight encounter played there last Friday evening.

The Jordanites scored all their runs in the 6th and 7th frames to overcome Ellsworth's 1 run lead secured in the third stanza. R. Bennett lined to Bolser at first to open the sixth, Holley singled to center, R. Saxton popped up to the catcher, and then E. Elzinga made the first of his two costly errors in that inning as he muffed Dougherty's easy fly to center, Holley going to third and Dougherty to second, Bill Bennett delivered with a two base hit down the left field line scoring Holley and Dougherty, Elzinga then dropped Woodcock's line drive to center, Bennett scoring the third run of the inning, W. Saxton retired the side as Bolser made a fine play on a line drive to his right. Four successive hits and another error netted the locals five runs in the seventh. Ellsworth got its other run in the sixth on a double, a balk and an infield out.

"Tich" Saxton handuffed the opposition all the way, giving up 6 hits and striking out 10, with Holley working behind the plate, Ardema, Brown, H. Elzinga, and Edson formed the losing battery.

Bill Bennett led the Jordanites offensively with 3 hits in 4 trips to the plate. Bolser starred both at bat and field for the losers.

Sunday's game at Boyne Falls was postponed to a later date because of rain. Bolser comes here Sunday to the Fairgrounds at 2:30.

Celebration Set to Go Plenty of Action All 3 Days

Plans are complete for the big three day celebration here next Thursday, Friday and Saturday, July 4th, 5th and 6th, and the former East Jordanites who return for the affair will be shown a great time.

Everything that could be obtained to make a Homecoming a success for both old and young is listed. Among the events listed are baseball, boat races, a carnival, street sports, water sports, plenty of band music, dancing, fireworks and a mummer's parade.

Street and water sports will be held both Thursday and Friday, with baseball games all three days.

Thursday afternoon will also see four classes of boat races; cruiser, sailboat, runabout and canoe races. Hollis Drew has charge of these events.

Boyer City will play East Jordan Thursday at the West Side ball park at 4:00 p. m. Another highlight of Thursday's program will be the mummer's parade, in charge of Dinty LaLonde, at 7:30 that evening.

Friday afternoon, July 5th, Gaylord plays East Jordan at the West Side park and, at 9:30 p. m. will be the fireworks display in charge of Oscar Weisler. The celebration committee is running dances in the Sherman Bldg. Thursday and Friday evenings.

On Saturday afternoon, the Boyne City Juniors play the East Jordan Juniors on the West Side diamond. John Ter Wee and the high school band will be furnishing plenty of music during the celebration.

The carnival will feature all types of rides for the kiddies, and blanket games for the older folks. All the kids will want to try their skill at walking the greased pole.

The fireworks display Friday evening promises to be a grand spectacle.

For the benefit of the former residents who are returning, the reception committee, composed of John Kenney, chairman; Carl Stroebel and George Secord, will have a registry and information headquarters in the City Bldg., with Eleanor Griffin, East Jordan's 1940 Winter Queen on hand to assist our visitors.

East Jordan intends to give everyone a royal celebration this Fourth of July. Let's make it the best ever.

Pomona Grange Meets With Maple Grove

Charlevoix Pomona Grange will meet with Maple Grove Grange Saturday, June 29, 1940, for an evening session.

A co-operative supper will be served at 7 o'clock at which every granger is invited to attend.

The lecturer, Mrs. Hazel Murray, has prepared a good program including: Earl Hathaway, Capt. of Dist. No. 7 of the Michigan State Police who will give us a talk on their work and they also have movie and talkie films which they will show. They will also be glad to answer any questions which any one would like to ask.

Emmet and Cheboygan County Granges are having a picnic at Indian River State Park June 30, 1940, and have invited Charlevoix grangers to join them. It is expected that a state speaker will be present.

The sunsets at Maple Grove are great, let everyone enjoy them.

Local Men Join Marine Squadron

Clifford Gibbard, Ben. Bustard and Hollis Drew are charter members of the recently chartered Charlevoix Squadron of the United States Power Squadrons. The newly installed officers include: Fred Young, Commander; Hollis Drew, Lieut. Commander; James Bellingier, First Lieut.; Clifford Gibbard, executive committee.

Primarily interested in the propagation of better seamanship this organization also co-operates with the Coast Guard and other Federal agencies and includes many Navy and officers on the retired list in the membership. An important part of the Squadron's program is the conducting of Navigation and Piloting classes during the winter season which are open to anyone interested in boating at no cost. At the completion of this course applicants for membership may take the entrance examination, without which it is impossible to join the Squadrons.

Earl Batterbee Lands A Whopper Out The Jordan River

In a recent fisherman's contest sponsored by the Grand Rapids Herald, Earl Batterbee was among the prize winners on a brook trout taken from the Jordan river. Relative to this part of the contest the Grand Rapids Herald says:

"Some phenomenally big brook trout were entered, as judged by the fact that three weighed three pounds or over dressed. Here again a tie in weights called forth the rule that length is the deciding factor in event of tied weights. Both Earl Batterbee of East Jordan and Charles P. Minton of Detroit caught brook trout which weighed exactly 3 pounds, 2 ounces each. Minton's fish was 17 1/2 inches long and Batterbee's was 17 inches even, so Minton takes the first prize of a Troutmaster dryfly rod from Goebel and Brown and Batterbee wins a Shakespeare automatic fly-rod reel from H&P's sporting goods department."

Modern Miracles

The wonders of the radio, of electrical reproduction and of acoustics are the source of continual surprises to the layman unfamiliar with the field. One of the newest advancements is incorporated in the RCA theatre equipment which will soon be installed at the Temple Theatre. . . this development provides a separate channel for the high and low frequencies of sound and delivers the reproduced results through individual stage units. Thus the bases and low frequencies have their own speakers as do the high notes, speech and higher pitched sounds. The frequency range extends several thousand cycles higher than the human ear is capable of discerning. As compared with the present day one unit stage reproducer the new device employs ten sound outlets.

OLD PICTURES?

Do you have old pictures of East Jordan? The celebration Committees would like interesting pictures depicting the past history of East Jordan for store windows. If you have some to display, either contact a store or Geo. Secord. Be sure your name is on the back of each picture. If you know the names of people in the pictures, list them also.

Garden Gossip

Edited by Caroline Harrington
Letters and questions on garden topics will be welcome. They will be published and discussed in this column.

Perhaps you've thought you could not move sweet william and gaillardia, coreopsis and flax, pansies and petunias and little English daisies while in flower, but you can with perfect success. A clump of sweet williams, moved to a new and less crowded position, goes on blooming as if nothing had happened to disturb its placid way of life. Perhaps for color effect you would like a new arrangement of perennials. Move the flowering plants where you want them now — while the spirit moves you, and while you can see exactly how the new arrangement is going to look.

Of course, hollyhocks and other perennials with a long tap root will not submit graciously to this treatment, but the plants I have named will do so. I know for Robert and I have moved dozens of them without the loss of a single plant. Robert digs the plant with quite a lot of earth about its roots, and immediately puts it into a hole already dug for it, and filled with water. This "puddling" of the roots of the plant is important. The plant cannot survive harsh handling. The water cushions the shock to the little root hairs. We use this method in all our transplanting, and are much pleased with our success. The sad part of moving was leaving behind the plants and flowers we had tended. What a joy to find we could pick up our garden and take it with us! (Must not be forgetting Bechtold's wheelbarrow. It played a prominent part in this drama.)

GARDENER'S CALENDAR

By Lillian Brabant

- June 17th: Moved iris. Will divide and plant in another part of garden.
- June 18th: Cut lawn. Cleaned grass away from fence.
- June 19th: Transplanted marigolds.
- June 20th: Tidied up under evergreens.
- June 21st: Pruned lilacs. Weeded lawn.
- June 22nd: Cut peonies, painted daisies, gaillardias, yellow iris, mock orange and Oriental poppies.

No sight on earth so attractive as the chimneys and church spires of home town viewed from a neighboring hill — especially when home town is a town of trees, gardens and freshly painted houses as East Jordan is. This week's "civic improvement jobs" include the Frank Crowell home, Harry Saxton's new home, the Howard and John Porter homes, Bill Porter's store, Lyle Person's home. We are all glad to see the rapid progress of the new Hawkins' home. Here is a corner that everyone watches with interest, knowing just how attractive it is sure to be. (Note to Garden Gossips: Please note and send to me the improvements you see.)

Temple Parade of Hits

The Temple Theatre programs for the coming week are replete with the unusual and star-studded with the brightest names of the celluloid firmament. . . Lupe Velez, Vivian Leigh, Carole Lombard, Robert Taylor, Richard Greene, Anne Shirley, Brian Aherne, Leon Errol, Zorina — just to mention a few that illuminate the pictures listed below:

Saturday night: Lupe Velez, Leon Errol, Donald Woods in, "Mexican Spitfire." The Destruction of Poland. Edgar Kennedy comedy: Sports, "Fly Casting."
Sunday and Monday: Carole Lombard, Brian Aherne, Anne Shirley, Brenda Forbes in, "Vigil in the Night." Pete Smith Novelty. Color Cartoon. Latest News.
Tuesday, Wednesday, Family Nites Richard Greene, Peter Lorre, Zorina in "I Was An Adventuress."
Drama of Fu Manchu.
Thursday, Friday: Matinee Thursday, July 4th: Vivian Leigh, Robert Taylor in "Waterloo Bridge." Our Gang Comedy. Latest News.

Safety Driving This Summer

URGED OF ALL MOTORISTS DURING "FOURTH" AND VACATION SEASON

An appeal for cooperation in reduction of accidents during the July 4th holiday period and throughout the vacation season was addressed to Michigan citizens this week by the Michigan State Safety Committee.

The committee, formed earlier this year, is composed of State Police Commissioner Oscar G. Olander, Superintendent of Public Instruction Eugene B. Elliott, Secretary of State Harry F. Kelly, and State Highway Commissioner Murray D. VanWagoner. Its purpose is the coordination of official efforts to promote safety in the state.

The Committee pointed out that accident tolls take a sharp upward turn during Fourth of July celebrations and continue at a high level during the vacation season. Michigan's toll of accidental deaths for the month of July last year was 423. Automobile accidents accounted for 163 of these fatalities, 90 persons lost their lives in falls, 79 in drownings, 18 by heat prostration, and seven as a result of burns.

While marshalling the official forces of the departments represented, the committee members asked local authorities and citizens in general to take special measures to avoid holiday accidents.

First attention is being directed at traffic accidents. Highways throughout the state have been placed in the best possible condition with new applications of dust-layers, general checking over of signs and signals, and other measures. Construction activity will be halted on July 4 and 7 and extra flagmen will be stationed at all construction projects on July 5 and 6.

State police patrols will be in operation continuously during the period from Wednesday afternoon, July 3, to Monday morning, July 8. Local sheriff's offices are being requested to coordinate holiday patrols with those of state officers to obtain maximum coverage. Special watch will be maintained near roadside picnic areas and other places where cars will accumulate along the roadsides.

In addition to urging observance of all traffic laws, the State Safety Committee listed other precautions not required by law for the protection of motorists. During periods of heavy traffic, there is a tendency to seek secondary roads to get away from heavy traffic. The committee commends this action but warns motorists that secondary roads, though they may be hard-surfaced are not designed in most cases for high speed traffic as are the trunklines.

Motorists should allow extra driving time for holiday trips. Serious accidents are likely to result when drivers unaccustomed to heavy exercise indulge in outdoor sports on a holiday and then drive home in the evening. Driving while tired should be avoided in any case.

Drivers accustomed to handling cars not loaded with passengers or vacation equipment must remember that extra weight in an automobile seriously affects its steering and braking reaction. Stopping distances are increased and pick-up is decreased.

Leisurely joy-riding on main highways should not be attempted during the holiday week end or on Sundays during the vacation season.

Never stop an automobile on the traveled portion of the highway. This should be remembered at roadside picnic sites or in case of tire or motor trouble.

The Red Cross Needs Your Help - Now

The Red Cross is continuing its campaign at least another week with intensified efforts to make the full quota, $250.00. To date we have received $187.00. Please send you contributions to the State Bank of East Jordan, or should you find it impossible to come to the Bank with your donation, we will gladly call for same by calling Phone No. 181. No gift is too small to be acceptable.

Mrs. Ole Hegerberg,
Local Chairman.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of our beloved wife, mother, sister and daughter, Mrs. Ottilia Brintnall, who passed away a year ago, June 24.

Every year our Father comes rest. Some loved one to endless rest. And the heart, tho' filled with anguish

Can but cry, "He knoweth best," But a year, not distant, cometh,

When we tread the vast unknown, We shall find the ransomed dear ones, Seated round the Heavenly throne, From Bereaved Families.

Lack of 'Friends, Men and Guns' Hurt French Cause, Says Petain; U. S. 'Coalition' Cabinet Selected

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

If all Henry Ford's tentative orders to turn out warplanes on a mass production basis materialize, this gigantic tool and die plant in his River Rouge, Michigan, plant will become the hub of the plane-motor industry. It is now the center of production for Ford motor cars and government defense engineers point out that once tools and dies are completed and set up to turn out a standardized plane, mass production could begin and continue at top speed indefinitely.

THE WAR:

'Too Few'

While his armies were busy with "mopping up" military operations against a badly battered France, Adolf Hitler busied himself preparing the terms under which his soldiers would cease firing.

France, meanwhile, after cautioning her troops to fight on until the actual signing of an armistice was announced, dispatched her peace envoys in a snow white plane to meet the Germans and hear their terms of surrender.

As the nation waited, its 84-year-old premier, Marshal Henri Petain, explained why he had sought peace and why France had been unable to defend itself against invasion. France, he said, had too few friends, too few young men, too few guns and it had wasted the victory years following the armistice of November 11, 1918.

Military deficiencies accounted in large part for the distress of France, in the premier's opinion. He pointed out that only 2,780,000 troops faced the Germans at the beginning of the "battle of France" along the Somme and Aisne rivers. This was a half million fewer than France had on the battlefield after three years of hard fighting in the World war. England had not nearly as many men on French soil in 1940 as she had in 1914-18, and in addition, the old ally, Italy, was an enemy and ally United States a "neutral."

Biggest worry of ally England was the disposition of the French fleet following any armistice between France and Germany. If Germany gets control of the whole strength of this fleet, the Rome-Berlin axis will have sea power that could compete favorably against England's armada.

London was happy enough though over the appointment of Frank Knox and Henry Stimson to President Roosevelt's cabinet (See below). The British hailed this move as assuring a continued policy of U. S. material and moral aid to the allied cause.

THE PRESIDENCY:

Coalition

No respecter of precedent, but respected even by his enemies as a master political strategist, Franklin Delano Roosevelt, detracted little from his reputation in two categories with his pre-G. O. P. convention appointment of Frank Knox and Henry L. Stimson to his cabinet. These two important Republican leaders were asked to serve in what was termed a "coalition" cabinet—Knox as secretary of navy and Stimson as secretary of war. Knox was the Republican vice presidential candidate in 1936 and Stimson served as secretary of state in the Hoover administration. Both have

NAMES

... in the news

President of Yale university, Charles Seymour, warned his graduating class against a "complacent attitude" toward the serious challenge that totalitarian states have thrust at democracy.

After Col. Charles A. Lindbergh demanded in a radio address that the U. S. cease making "gestures with an open gun" (implying that the government's foreign policy was dangerous) Senator Pittman (D., Nev.) suggested that Lindy "cease efforts to create unfounded war fear and lack of confidence in our government."

Prime Minister De Valera of Eire (Ireland) called upon all his countrymen to volunteer to take up arms so that any attempted invasion of their land could be routed. He spoke at a national defense rally.

Catching Pose

Here is 81-year-old Governor Luren D. Dickinson of Michigan, as he appeared last year in an "Old Timers" baseball game staged in Detroit. The governor now announces he has switched from catching baseballs to votes and will be a candidate for re-election.

INDUSTRY:

New Competition

Many are the economists who have forecast a trade war between Germany and the United States after Adolf Hitler has finished his political and military war in Europe. It now appears that the Nazis are not going to wait for a final cleanup of Europe before launching this type of attack upon the American markets.

For from South America comes news that German steel companies are offering steel in that sector at prices below United States quotations and are giving a cash guarantee of delivery by October. To some observers this early beginning of the long awaited trade war seems a bit premature. For Adolf Hitler still has a few big obstacles to overcome before he can expect to compete with American business in this hemisphere.

Germany bases her ability to deliver these shipments of steel upon the fact that she has virtual control of 95 per cent of the French steel industry and this, plus the Reich's own output, combined with the Belgium-Luxembourg production, amounts to about 40,000,000 tons per year. Biggest problem is keeping all these steel mills running at capacity and still being able to maintain order throughout the "protected" nations. And after the steel is produced, Germany must reckon with Britain's still-effective sea blockade.

Slump

Petroleum, another industry which has a big stake in foreign markets, has a more immediate problem on its hands. In Texas, oil reserve tanks are almost full, prices are slipping every day, and foreign markets are near collapse. That state's railroad commission, which controls the output of oil, is studying the problem and is considering a 30-day shutdown of producing wells to boost prices.

LATIN AMERICA:

Tangle

Latin American nations are at present in default of some $1,000,000,000 worth of bonds held by U. S. investors. To the development of additional foreign trade and in the meeting of foreign competition in this hemisphere (see Industry) this default creates a huge stumbling block.

Economic relations between nations become difficult when debts pile up and as U. S. business has lost many of its foreign markets due to war in Europe, the federal government is making every effort to untangle the debt problem in the Latin American nations.

One current proposal is to launch a huge government loan program to the Latin American nations and give them a chance to make payments on their debts, eventually repaying the United States on a long-term basis. President Roosevelt is expected to outline details of this plan within a short time.

MISCELLANY:

Democratic National Chairman James A. Farley officially released the information that William D. Bankhead of Alabama, speaker of the house of representatives, will be named temporary chairman and keynoter of the party's national convention, which convenes in Chicago, July 15. Sen. Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky will be named permanent chairman.

Shades of World war days fell over the Pullman Standard Car Manufacturing company's plant in Butler, Pa., as it was announced that the British munitions purchasing commission had placed an order for 200,000 six-inch shells to be delivered not later than December. This plant also turned out munitions in 1917-18.

Eleven army fliers and bomber crew members were killed when two Douglas bombing planes collided in mid-air and crashed in flames during formation maneuvers near Mitchell field, Long Island.

Bruckart's Washington Digest

U. S. National Defense Program Needs Careful Study by Public

President Roosevelt's 'Stab-in-the-Back' Speech Causes Nation to Consider Carefully Any Preparedness Suggestions or Military Policies.

By WILLIAM BRUCKART
WNU Service, National Press Bldg.,
Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON.—There are many persons throughout the country who are growing more and more disturbed—not to say alarmed—at the dangers inherent in the administration's so-called defense program. More and more persons are asking aloud for something in the way of an explanation, and more and more one meets with situations and conditions in the defense program that cause doubts to arise.

The climax to this circumstance appears to have developed with the speech which President Roosevelt made at the University of Virginia—the pronouncement that has come to be known as the Charlottesville speech—early in June. From the words uttered there by the President of the United States has come a wide division of opinion on the course our nation is being guided. Unless I am incapable of reading signs, we will hear reverberations of that speech for weeks to come.

And it is not strange that people everywhere should talk about that speech! It was remarkable. Some folks said it was "amazing." But however you wish to characterize it,

SENATOR VANDENBERG
From neutrals to non-belligerents.

There can be no doubt that Mr. Roosevelt spoke with great depth of feeling when he described Dictator Mussolini almost personally as a man who stabbed his neighbor—France—in the back. Nor can anyone doubt that the President spoke the mind of a vast majority of the American people. They feel that way about Mussolini's cowardly decision to join with his bloodthirsty axis partner, Hitler.

But it is not a question of how you feel or how I feel, as individuals. Mr. Roosevelt is President of the United States. As such, it is difficult, if not utterly impossible, to separate himself as an individual from the presidency of a great nation. And if it were possible, millions of persons throughout the world still would regard whatever he says as the statement of the President, and therefore the statement of the United States, as a nation. There is a difference.

President's Official Statement Carries Much Importance

So, regard it as an official view. There can be no distinction. Thus, it becomes a matter of grave importance. The head of a nation that is officially neutral, as between the allies and the dictators, has uttered words that place the United States formally on the side of the allies and he did it without approval of congress. The congress, it is to be remembered, is the body authorized by the Constitution to declare war and congress has taken no such decision. The President's Charlottesville declarations, therefore, can be termed unwise at the best, and probably will be subjected to much more virulent descriptions before the year is out.

Now, another phase of the defense preparations that is causing concern. I refer to the policy of supplying government-owned war stocks for use of the allies.

It happens that the United States signed, and the senate of the United States ratified, what is called the Hague convention. This is an agreement among nations of all the world which sets down certain terms and rights and obligations called international law. Article 6 of the Hague convention states:

"The supply, in any manner, directly or indirectly, by a neutral

DEFENSE DANGERS

William Bruckart, Washington correspondent, believes that the Roosevelt policy with respect to the European war has a few factors that need careful consideration before their general public acceptance. He believes that it is entirely possible that the President's attitude toward the Rome-Berlin axis is a dangerous one—for the leader of a "neutral nation," like the United States, power to a belligerent power, of warships, ammunition or war materials of any kind whatever is forbidden."

Policy 'Short of War' Has 'Official' Approval

It is to be recalled, moreover, that the President has consistently stated that the United States must do "everything short of war" to aid the allies in their struggle. That policy has been put forward officially so many times that it seems to occasion no surprise any more. It ought to cause surprise, however, because it is not the pronouncement of a neutral nation.

Senator Vandenberg of Michigan accurately described the picture when he said the other day that President Roosevelt's policies had taken us out of the role of neutrals and have made of us "a non-belligerent nation on the allied side." The Michigan senator had no quarrel with building up a real defense program and he wanted to see that done. But Senator Vandenberg, like many others, fears there are things being done that may sooner or later be held to be an act of war. And when that happens, in we go whether we are ready or not—and the United States has very little at this stage of the game with which to fight!

My own feeling is that the national government can give freedom to its citizens to help the allies in any direction that they see fit or are able to help. But the United States, as a nation, and Mr. Roosevelt, as President, must be careful of where the whole people are led. These things that I have mentioned and countless others, each constitutes a half step. Many half steps, even taken slowly, will take us to the brink, and then it is ever so easy to topple off.

'Stab-Hitler' Movement Is Another Serious Problem

Another situation ought to be discussed, because it is part and parcel of the whole problem. Every day and almost in every way, we hear or read statements by persons of official position as well as thousands of self-appointed saviors of the nation that all of this defense preparation, all of these vast expenditures, all of the emergency actions, are necessary and warranted because "Hitler must be stopped before he gets over here."

I believe there is something like 99 per cent of the citizens of this country who look upon Hitler as the greatest criminal of the ages. They hope that his power can somehow be wrested from him and that his physical body can be made to stand the tortures of the damned. On the other hand, and while still holding that hatred of the man mainly responsible for the deluge of blood, is it not better to use common sense in making preparations for the eventualities that some of the leaders now profess to see? It strikes me that common sense, if allowed to rule over the hysteria that has been promoted in this country, would produce vastly better results in the way of a national defense structure which all agree we require.

From many persons who have seen the carnage of the current war and from many others who are familiar with the lives and living conditions of Europeans, I have become convinced that whether Hitler wins or loses or whether there is a stalemate, the insane leader of the German reich will face a far greater problem than any he has met in battle. It will be the condition of stark and real famine and pestilence. It will come after the war just as surely as night follows day. All of Europe will be involved, and the price of war will be paid.

My information is that this year of untended crops, this year of destruction of men, is leaving Germany, especially, and most of the others as well, without a semblance of a storehouse of food. The fighting men were withdrawn from production early. Moreover, food rationing started in this war in its first weeks, whereas it was not used in the first World war until late in the second year and then to a less degree than now. There is the "machine" that will stop Hitler from coming over here, and it will be effective.

I repeat, therefore, that we can prepare to defend ourselves, but we need not be hysterical about it.

We can extend aid to the allies, as individuals, who are the friends of the French and the British, but we must not be involved in the fight as I fear some of the present policies will do. We can be realists and recognize that our shores sometime may be attacked and our cities bombed, but I still hold an unshakable conviction that President Roosevelt's policies are likely to get us into a war that is not our war if they go on unrestrained. Let's do our job at home and try to get our own people well fed before we try to save the world for democracy.

FIRST-AID to the AILING HOUSE

by Roger B. Whitman

Stained Linoleum.
QUESTION: How can stains from a garbage pail be removed from kitchen linoleum?
ANSWER: Wash the stained area with a scratchless scouring powder. The remainder of the stain may be removed by rubbing with fine steel wool.

Varnished Linoleum.
QUESTION: By using a varnish on a linoleum floor for several years it has become discolored to a brownish tint. How can I remove this varnish, and bring the linoleum back to its original color?
ANSWER: The varnish can be removed with a solution of three pounds of trisodium phosphate in a gallon of hot water. Take a small area at a time, apply the solution and as soon as the varnish softens, wipe it off. Rinse immediately with clear water. The varnish remover should not be allowed to soak into the linoleum.

Yeast in Cess-Pools.
One of my correspondents, after long experimenting and making many tests, reports that for a cess-pool or septic tank of average size, about six yeast cakes a month will go far to keep them clear and free from odor. Fermentation brought about by yeast helps to destroy odor-producing material and to liquefy sludge. The usual method is to dissolve the yeast in a little cool water, and to pour it down any pipe that is directly connected with the tank or the pool, not down the kitchen sink, if that connects through a grease-trap.

Upholstery Spray.
QUESTION: A couch in my living-room is used as a bed. What can I spray it with to prevent trouble from vermin?
ANSWER: If there are no insects in the couch, I should not do anything about it. Should they appear, you can send the couch out for fumigation, or get in an exterminator to treat the upholstery with a liquid forced in under air pressure. But if you feel very uneasy on the red rover question, you might take mental comfort from laying several squares of camphor under the mattress, if you can manage to do so. This is said to be a grand rover-repellent.

Broadloom Rug.
QUESTION: After my broadloom rug was washed it does not stay flat on the floor. Can you recommend something to size it with so that it will have the body it had before washing?
ANSWER: Sizing the back of the rug may correct this condition. Stretch the rug upside down on a floor where it can remain for 24 hours; tack it lightly into place. Brush on a thin coat of white shellac. Glue sizing can be used instead of shellac. (Protect the floor before you begin to work.)

Anti-Tarnish.
QUESTION: I keep my best silver in flannel bags, and use it about every three weeks, during which time it tarnishes just enough to require cleaning. This detracts from the pleasure of using it. You have spoken of preventing tarnish by wrapping silver in cloth soaked in a solution of one-half pound of cadmium acetate in one gallon of water. Would it be practical to make a wood box and glue this cloth to the sides, top and bottom?
ANSWER: That would help, but you would get best results with cloth in close contact with the silver. In addition to lining the box, soak separate pieces of cloth in the solution, to wrap around the different articles and to lay over them. For cloth, use heavy outing flannel, which will not be greatly stiffened.

Paint Odor.
QUESTION: After my three-room apartment was painted last December, a nasty oil odor permeated the apartment, in spite of the constant airing. Another painter, at his suggestion, painted the walls with a coat of shellac, then a coat of flat paint, but this condition has not been eliminated. What can be done to remedy this condition?
ANSWER: Allow a couple of weeks for further drying and airing. It is possible that the odor is in the enamel or paint used on the windows and trim. If this is so, try wiping the enamel with turpentine. Should this condition continue, your only remedy will be to remove the paint and refinish with a good quality paint.

Rafts.
QUESTION: Are rafts all specially made? If so, I intend purchasing some old drums and having a local carpenter do his best. Is there any place I can get plans?
ANSWER: Rafts can be purchased already made. Beach and Pool Magazine at 425 Fourth Avenue, New York City, can furnish you with the names of the manufacturers. This publisher may be able to advise you as to where you may be able to secure plans for a raft.

Aluminum Paint.
QUESTION: Do you approve of an aluminum coating for flat roofs? Has it any insulating properties?
ANSWER: Yes, aluminum paint will help reflect some of the heat. Its efficiency, however, may be lowered when the surface has been covered with dirt and soot.

'Miss Liberty' Salutes Refugee Liner

The Statue of Liberty was a welcome sight to the refugees from war-torn Europe who jam one of the decks of the United States liner, Manhattan, as the liner passes the distinguished lady (background) on its way to its New York city pier. The Manhattan brought almost 2,000 passengers from Genoa, Italy.

Whither Bound, Soldier Boys of Italy?

Relatives and friends of those aboard stand silently on the pier as the Italian liner, jam-packed with soldiers, leaves Genoa, Italy, for some undisclosed destination. The soldiers might have been shipped to Italian territory in Africa to be used in attacks on French and British territory on the same continent.

'Miss Houston' of the Lone Star State

Dimple Causey, selected as "Miss Houston" in a contest of more than 14,000 Texas school children, is here shown at the engine room telegraph of the liner Algonquin, arriving in New York, to take part in a series of events at the World's fair. Miss Causey was scheduled for a mighty busy time.

The Italian 'Blitzkrieg' Machine Under Way

An Italian motorized division rolls along the streets of Rome in true "blitzkrieg" tempo. Their destination was not disclosed. Motorized troops and guns like these got into the grim business of destruction when Il Duce entered the war.

'The Soul of Italy'

Recent photo of King Victor Emmanuel of Italy, who, according to an official announcement in Rome, has left for the front to lead his troops. In his declaration of war Il Duce referred to him as "the soul of Italy."

Arrives in U. S.

Mrs. Kermit Roosevelt aboard the U. S. liner President Roosevelt, as it docked in New York, with more than 700 refugees from England aboard. Her husband is a major with the British army.

A 'SAFE AND SANE' PARTY

(See Recipes Below)

Why not plan a party for the Fourth of July, to keep the youngsters in the family happy and out of mischief? It might be a party on the porch or in the yard—or a picnic in the country, if you prefer it. Make it a family affair, or invite a youthful guest or two to keep your own children company.

Whatever type of party you plan, make it a festive affair—with gay table decorations (if refreshments are being served at home), very special "Party foods" and patriotic party favors, too. Gaily colored paper table cloths and napkins are a must, and they do save work! And be sure to provide balloons and snap crackers, or noisemakers of another kind.

Plan definite entertainment, with an active game or two to permit the children to use up excess energy, and a "pencil and paper" or guessing game to play when a little rest is in order. Pencil and paper games such as these two might be used—and you'll find that adults as well as young people enjoy them.

Jumbled Names.

Prepare for each player a typed or mimeographed copy of the following list of scrambled letters each of which, when unscrambled, spells the name of a famous American. To get an idea of what the game is like, why not try your own luck with the list before looking at the answers?

- Lyemkicn
- Nartg
- Connll
- Sajonck
- Gerphnis
- Gotinrhaws
- Karnmif
- Smada
- Sejrefofn
- Swebret

How did you do? Here are the answers: McKinley, Grant, Lincoln, Jackson, Pershing, Washington, Franklin, Adams, Jefferson and Webster.

- Menu for July Fourth Party.
- Tomato Aspic Salad
 - Assorted Sandwiches
 - Potato Chips
 - Ice Cream Fire Crackers
 - Pinwheel Cookies
 - Beverage

Parfait glasses full of Peppermint Stick ice cream, camouflaged in red paper cylinders to look like giant firecrackers, are amusing for a Fourth of July dessert. Top the ice cream with a cherry, with the stem left on to form the firecracker wick. And serve Pinwheel Cookies to complete the "fireworks" dessert.

- Chocolate Pinwheels.
- ½ cup shortening
 - ½ cup granulated sugar
 - 1 egg
 - 2 cups cake flour
 - 1 teaspoon baking powder
 - ¼ teaspoon salt
 - 3 tablespoons milk
 - 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
 - 1 ounce chocolate (melted)
 - 1 teaspoon cinnamon

Cream shortening thoroughly and add sugar slowly. Add egg and beat well. Mix and sift all dry ingredients and add, together with the milk and the vanilla. Divide dough into 2 parts. To one part add the melted chocolate. To the other add the cinnamon. Roll each part one-eighth inch thick. Place the chocolate dough on the cinnamon dough and roll up like a jelly roll. Wrap in wax paper and chill for several hours. Cut in thin slices and bake on a lightly greased cookie sheet in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 8 to 10 minutes.

- Potato Chips.
- 4 medium sized potatoes
 - 2 to 3 pounds fat
 - Salt

Pare and cut potatoes into very thin slices. Allow sliced potatoes to stand in ice water until firm (about 1 hour). Heat fat to 375 degrees. Blot potatoes dry with a clean towel and place potato slices in French fry basket. Immerse basket in hot fat by handle. Keep potatoes moving constantly so that the slices do not stick together. Remove basket and drain potatoes on brown paper. Sprinkle with salt.

Tomato Aspic.

- 4 cups canned tomatoes
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- Dash of pepper
- 1 bay leaf
- ½ cup celery (chopped)
- 1 tablespoon onion (chopped)
- 4 whole cloves
- 2 tablespoons gelatin
- ½ cup water
- ¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Combine the tomatoes, salt, pepper, bay leaf, celery, onion and cloves. Cook gently for 10 minutes and strain. Soak gelatin in cold water and add to the hot tomato mixture, together with Worcestershire sauce, stirring well. Pour into ring mold and chill until set. Unmold on large plate, garnish with lettuce or watercress and fill center with cabbage salad.

Magic Peppermint Stick Ice Cream.

- 1½ cups (1 can) sweetened condensed milk
- 2 cups thin cream or evaporated milk
- 1 cup cold water
- ¾ cup crushed peppermint stick candy

Blend sweetened condensed milk, thin cream, and water. Freeze in 2-quart freezer using a mixture of 3 parts ice to 1 part rock salt. Remove dasher. Add crushed peppermint stick candy. Pack in ice and salt for 1 hour or more after freezing. Makes 1½ quarts.

Special Peanut Butter Sandwich Filling.

- (Makes 1 cup filling)
- 1 ripe banana
 - 1 cup peanut butter
 - ¼ cup dates, cut fine
 - 1 teaspoon lemon juice

Mash banana with a fork and thoroughly blend in remaining ingredients.

Ice Cream Cone Clowns.

Place a ball of ice cream on a butter cookie, and with raisins or tiny gumdrops make eyes, nose and mouth in the ice cream. Place a cone jauntily on top of the ice cream. Add a ruff of whipped cream around the clown's neck.

Brown Bread Sandwiches.

- 1 loaf brown bread
 - 1 3-ounce package cream cheese
 - 2 tablespoons butter
- Slice brown bread very thin. Mix cream cheese and butter together thoroughly. Spread brown bread slices generously with the cheese mixture.

Is your child a NOSE PICKER?

It may be just a nasty habit, but sometimes nose picking is a sign of something nastier. It may mean that your child has round worms—especially if there are other symptoms, such as fidgeting, finicky appetite, restless sleep and itching in certain parts. People don't like to talk about bowel worms, so you may not realize how many children have this dreadful infection. They "catch" it from other children, from dogs, or unwashed vegetables, or infected water. If you even suspect that your child has round worms, get JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE right away! Jayne's is the best known worm expellant in America. It is backed by modern scientific studies and has been used by millions for over a century. JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE is pleasant tasting and gentle, yet it does a good job. Jayne's has the ability to drive out large round worms without upsetting the digestive system. If there are no worms, it acts merely as a mild laxative.

WHY THE BANKER LENDS WITH HIS

Eyes Open

Lending money is part of a banker's business. But if he knows his business he will not lend blindly to anyone.

The banker must be guided by facts and sound judgment, not by the enthusiasm or optimism of borrowers. He must investigate—and not hurry. He must consider security; the good character as well as the assets of the borrower.

The banker must never lose sight of his responsibility to his depositors.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

JONAH: THE OUTREACH OF GOD'S LOVE

LESSON TEXT—Jonah 3:1-10; 4:10, 11.
GOLDEN TEXT—Salvation is of the Lord. —Jonah 2:9.
"There's a wideness in God's mercy
Like the wideness of the sea;
There's a kindness in His justice
Which is more than liberty."

"For the love of God is broader
Than the measure of man's mind;
And the heart of the Eternal
Is most wonderfully kind."

Such is the message of the book of Jonah. How appropriate it is to close our series of studies on the prophets with this declaration of God's love and mercy.

I. A Second Chance (3:1-3).

Jonah had been sent to Nineveh with a message from God, but, secretly wishing in his heart that this great city which was the enemy of Israel should be destroyed rather than repent and receive God's blessing (see 4:2), Jonah made an attempt to run away from God's commission. We know how God patiently dealt with him and now gave him a second chance to do His will.

How gracious God is "to continue to us . . . the privilege of service even when we seem to have sinned away our first chance, misused our endowments, and have by our very failure embarrassed His plans." Dr. J. Stuart Holden goes on to point out that only God gives a second chance. Nature does not; man seldom, if ever, gives his fellow who has failed a second opportunity. But God does. Praise His name!

There was also a second chance extended to Nineveh. God was not willing to bring judgment upon the city without another warning. Quoting Dr. Holden again: "I care not what is the history of failure, of shame, of sin which is behind you . . . I care not how close upon your heels are the hounds of accusation and condemnation which bay at you. I tell you that Jesus Christ is here . . . to give you a second chance, and that everything depends upon your attitude of acceptance or rejection of His proffered grace and mercy."

II. A Stirring Revival (3:4-10).

So great was the city that it would have taken Jonah three days to bring his message to the entire population (see v. 3). He had only begun when, at the end of the first day, the city, from the ruler down to the humblest inhabitant, was in deep mourning and repentance for its sin.

Jonah, the man who had been brought back from a living death as a sign (Luke 11:29-32) to Nineveh that God was gracious to repentant sinners, pointed to the fact that though his message was one of condemnation (v. 4), they might expect God to be entreated of them (v. 9). He was (v. 10).

God has sent times of revival when whole cities—and even whole nations—have been turned from their sin. Such revivals have been occurring in recent years in various mission fields. Thousands of earnest Christians are praying now that such a revival may come again in our own land. The writer knows where helpful literature along this line is available without cost. Let us pray and be faithful, and trust God to bring revival to the hearts of men.

III A Selfish Reaction (4:10, 11).

Jonah, instead of rejoicing in the repentance of Nineveh, showed his narrowness and selfishness by becoming angry (see 4:1). How petty and childish are the attitudes of men when contrasted with the mercy of God.

The Lord, dealing gently with Jonah, gave him a place of refuge and a gourd plant to shade him from the sun (4:5, 6). Then, to teach him a lesson, a worm was permitted to kill the gourd (v. 7). When Jonah was greatly concerned over the loss of the plant, God pointed out to him that it is wrong to be stirred up over the passing of material comfort and not to be concerned for the souls of men.

How many of those who poured out millions of dollars (and rightly so) for the relief of the harassed people of Finland, would give five cents to win them to Christ? Many who will give liberally of money, time and effort to the commendable work of flood or famine relief, will not so much as cross the road to talk to a neighbor about Christ. A farmer will sit up all night to care for a sick cow, but will spend an hour or two on Sunday or some evening of the week in an effort to win his neighbor's boy (or his own boy) to Christ? These are pertinent and serious questions. What is our answer? God will hold us responsible.

A Prayer

O God, Who hast given to us the knowledge of right and wrong, and hast taught us that it is Thy will that we choose the right throughout our lives, give us grace to be loyal to the right as we see it, and faithful to the highest we know. Amen.

Brimms Are Wide, Wider, Widest In Chic and Flattering Ways

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

WHAT a merry chase fickle fashion is leading us this season in regard to the hats we wear. Starts us off at the dawn of spring with flower or fabric-drape toques so tiny (some of them) as to be almost amusing, yet withal so flattering and so chic, even the new broad brims cannot entirely wrest their well-earned honors from them. And then what does capricious fashion do—suddenly announces brims so tremendously wide they fairly amaze one. Which, summed up, means every fashionable wardrobe of hats this summer must necessarily include both types to be worn as time and occasion demand.

As to the new broad-of-brim vogue so full of promise for the coming months, no matter how big your hat with a brim, it will be none too large, according to fashion's way of thinking. None too dramatic either, since the new brims are daring indeed, and to make them appear the more so they are worn with a dash and a go that adds infinitely to their style.

The wide-brimmed, strictly tailored felts which proved themselves so definitely good-looking with the new spring suits continue to have a firm hold on the affections of well-dressed women. Outstanding among these striking felts are the simple, huge, sailor types, the stunning, large Bretons and the very new rippled or pleated, soft, flaring, felt brim that, to be perfectly chic, must be worn far back on the head. Of course the latter are necessarily dedicated to youth, for who but the ingenue smooth of brow dare venture so striking a fashion?

The fact that the off-the-face broad brims are essentially a young sophisticated item should not by any means imply that the vogue for enormous brims is confined to the teen-age and debutante set. On the contrary, the off-face wide brim is merely one phase of the matter, for whether you are in the "life begins at forty" class or not, the message of the wide brim is all-inclusive, for certain it is and true, there's flattery aplenty in the new wide brims, whether you are sweet sixteen or "plus."

The new wide-brimmed summer straws are everything you want them to be. The stunning hat worn by the smart young woman, standing above to the right in the illustration, speaks in accents of red, as also does her belt, which is a brilliant red patent leather, for be it known that fashion is making a sensational splurge of red this summer, red hats being a pet hobby just now.

Broad of brim and utterly fascinating is the hat which the young sophisticate standing below to the left in the picture is carrying. It is made of raffia in colors matching those of her gay plaid frock and still gayer raffia sandals.

The vogue for white millinery came early and is going to stay late. Women of fashion have been wearing white hats in accordance with style dictate since early spring and as the summer advances the popularity of white headgear is rushing along at a crescendo scale. The white straw breton pictured above to the left flaunts a cluster of strawberries nestled in its crown—another instance of the flair for red with white.

Black holds its own in spite of the tremendous play being made on color this season. See the off-face Breton below to the right in the group. A crisp white bow and head-band enlivens the black to perfection—just the type hat to wear with prints and summer town clothes.

Good Shoe News

Hear, hear ye the good news! It's about an exciting innovation—an innersole of a new synthetic material named Onco Insole-ated, which has recently been developed by Vincent DeLiso. In creating this new innersole a slim layer between the outer sole of a shoe and the lining completely insulates the foot against the heat and cold of city pavements. Mr. DeLiso says this insole-ated sole is so deep and resilient it practically caresses the foot, causing the shoe to be molded at the first wearing to the individual contours of the foot.

More of Our Friend Betsy's Attic Magic

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS
HERE is Betsy again—that clever girl in Sewing Book 3, who streamlined an old iron bed. In her house there was an enormous kitchen and her mother hated big kitchens. So, a partition was used to divide it into two rooms. The half with a door into the front hall was for Betsy to entertain her own special friends.

The old linoleum was painted dark green. All the walls were painted cream and then pink stripes were painted on the new

WNU SERVICE

THE STORY THUS FAR

Summoned to the CC ranch in central Nevada, desert-wise Walt Gandy is on his way to help his old range partner, Bill Hollister. Riding through unfamiliar country, Walt is stopped short by a girl—who holds a rifle in firing position. She knows him, tells him that they will meet again. Walt is allowed to ride on. Within a quarter of a mile from his destination, Walt is stopped again. This time by a grotesque, mis-shapen man who tells him the CC crew is in Emigrant, the closest town, for an inquest. Someone has been murdered. Riding to the inquest in Emigrant, Walt leaves his horse at the livery stable.

Walt Gandy flipped the reins over Sunspot's head. "Hay," he directed briefly. "No grain." "Yes, sir," said the attendant. By the limp gray hat, peaked up Mexican fashion, he knew this stranger was from near the border. His eyes slid over the tanned poker face, down the straight hard length of body, back to the face. Somehow, though he did not want to, he had to look at that face and meet its dark, compelling gaze. Hastily he said again, "Yes, sir."

"I'll be back," said Gandy. "Keep him ready. Slip the cinch but leave the saddle on." He stepped to the doorway and glanced along the street. Walt crossed the street, moved quickly on into the next block and reached a press of men that overflowed from the audience inside Gospel Hall. The Hall was a store building with sales counters removed, and through the glass front he could look upon the pack within. A drifting haze of cigarette smoke filled the room. There was nothing definite to be made out over the heads of those seated upon the gospel benches. For a time he stood shading his face with both hands, peering in, yet only vaguely saw the principal figures up front where, behind a long table, the coroner was putting his questions.

He thrust farther in among the watchers at the doorway; asked as a ranchman turned to look at him, "Inquest decided anything yet?"

The man spat down between his boot toes. "Nothin' to decide, mister. Cash Cameron has got himself in a hole!"

Grim satisfaction rang in the voice, and Walt Gandy shifted his gaze away, brown eyes narrowing. What was this now? Cash Cameron was in a hole. The fellow here was glad of it!

His mind flicked over what Bill Hollister had written about Cameron, the cattleman who had made himself king of this range not by the old method of gunplay, but by the power of the ready dollar. "Cash" was his byword and had become his name. He avoided credit as if it might be something that crawled and had rattles on its tail. Owed no one; let no one owe him. "Cash on the barrel-head," was his expression. "Cash, I'm offering." "How much, for cash?"

Banks and bankers he had no use for. Where he kept his hoard was a frequent matter of lonely campfire speculation. No one knew; but he had it and many a small rancher, pinched for money, had sold cattle and land to Cameron because of dollars ready on the spot. Naturally they sold cheap, and Cash Cameron took the profit.

Cameron, Walt Gandy knew, was on the square. At least Bill Hollister had given him no reason to believe otherwise. Yet sooner or later a man like that made enemies. His growth would stick in the craws of those who had been forced by circumstance to sell to him. They would hold on at the fringes of his increasing domain, cursing their own luck and hoping for a day when his would break.

A stir on the far edge of the crowd turned him. A ranchman, with two women in starched white dresses and a small boy, was pushing into the outer air from Gospel Hall. There was a shifting of men to take their places in the room. It seemed a chance of forcing an entrance. Walt stepped back and walked around.

He had to pass halfway across the street to skirt the overflow of men, and there in the open the constant shift of his eye was suddenly caught and held farther along the block.

Unbelieving, he stopped dead still, for a roan horse stood not fifty paces from him. There were other roans in town, sure; roans on any range were as common as loaded dice. But this one was unmistakable.

How long it had been standing there he couldn't say. Not for very long, and it had been ridden hard. It was wet. Its flanks still heaved from running. Then Gandy's measuring eye fixed upon the stirrup, and he saw beyond doubt that it was just long enough for the legs of a medium-sized girl.

His turn from the horse was abrupt, and he leaned against the backs of men, one shoulder edging in among them.

CHAPTER IV

GOSPEL HALL was a low, shallow room. Benches without backs crossed it, leaving a narrow aisle down the middle. At the far end a platform was raised about six inches. Two small windows gave dim light from the right side. The left side was solid against the adjoining building.

He stretched, turning his head, and saw Bill Hollister on the witness bench up front. Across less than 20 feet their eyes met. Faintly Walt grinned. Hollister's dark stare fixed upon him, held, swept on without the slightest recognition.

For a deeply puzzled moment Walt Gandy waited, and then he said, "Sweet Agnes!"

Walt looked up again toward Bill Hollister.

His lank border partner sat on the bench placed against the room's left partition, and with him were five other figures who seemed to be the main witnesses at this inquest. One was the girl.

By what heading riding, and by what short cut she had reached here, he could only guess. Every range has its secret trails. While he had gone on to the CC ranch, following her direction and had talked to the deformed man there, she had beaten him into Emigrant by perhaps an hour. Why such riding? And what had she been doing there at the spring? Those questions would have to be answered. Even so early, hardly before arriving in this country, he had stumbled upon something. It came to Walt Gandy with a quickening beat of his blood that the easy living of his past two years was done.

As if drawn by the fixed intensity of his gaze the girl lifted her head. It was a slow wondering movement; she turned, and then her lips parted. She wet them with a quick dart of her tongue, the only visible sign of some sudden emotion, whether of surprise or dismay he could not tell.

The meeting of their eyes lasted no more than an instant, yet made a contact that to Walt Gandy was charged and electric. Next moment she turned her brown head away and did not look at him again.

The coroner had just called a new witness, and a young, smooth-faced cowboy was standing now at the front of the room. There was no witness box. A long table had been pushed out from the rear wall. Behind it sat a thin person with a sour face who plainly wished to give his verdict and be done. But on his left, a big man with heavy jaws tipped his chair back against the partition, scowled importantly and rumbled questions in a voice that came from his stomach. He wore the badge of sheriff. The cowboy looked scared. He was less than twenty, a likeable kid, ill at ease before the hard glare of the law.

The sheriff aimed a thick finger at him. "Now remember, Paul," he admonished, "where you are. Perjury means jail. You tell the truth, exactly what you see and when. The law ain't asking you to go against your boss, but the law wants facts. You understand?"

"Yes, sir." The boy's face reddened. Too many eyes were focused upon him.

"All right, then," the sheriff rumbled. "Daggett, go ahead."

The coroner laid down a cigarette. He put his questions as a matter of routine, his thin face impatient.

"Your name is Paul Champion?"

"Yes, sir," said the boy.

"You work for Cash Cameron?"

"Yes, sir."

"How long?"

"Four, no, five years, ever since my dad died, and Cash, Mr. Cameron took me—"

"Never mind," Coroner Daggett cut in. "You were the one who found the body?"

"Yes, sir."

"Tell exactly, when."

"About . . ."

The sheriff interrupted. "Exactly!" he warned, gruff-voiced.

Coroner Daggett faced along the table to him. "See here, Battle," he complained a little angrily, "we've had all this. Let's finish."

The sheriff turned ponderously and stared at the thin man. For a moment the two county departments traded scowling looks. Then Sheriff Battle said, "The law ain't satisfied." He again confronted the boy.

"Paul, you tell exactly what time you found Chino Drake!"

"My watch," said the cowboy flatly, "was busted."

Snorted laughter broke over the room. Boots scuffed and there came a babble of talk as tension was momentarily relieved.

The law banged his heavy fist on the table. Silence followed instantly.

Gandy, watching narrowly from his aisle seat, that the sheriff of Emigrant County was deliberately driving toward some predetermined point. Said Battle: "Now, Paul, where had you been, before three o'clock yesterday, and who had you seen?"

Until now, Cash Cameron had rested back against the wall, shadowed in the thick air and half hidden by the erect form of Bill Hollister. His arms were folded across a massive chest; his head was bent. He might have been dozing.

Abruptly he straightened, and all of this cattleman, who, single-handed, had made himself powerful enough to be bitterly hated on the Emigrant range, shifted into view. He was big-boned and angular. Age had stooped him a little. His hair was white, long and unkempt.

Cash Cameron was smiling, an oddly gentle tolerance in deep blue eyes that had looked upon this same grim struggle for seventy years; as if he had looked upon all this many times before, the deceit and meanness of men, understood it and blamed no one. But his face was strong, unyielding, with a stubborn mouth that moved sparingly under a white mustache.

He looked up at the cowboy. "It's all right, Paul," he said. "Tell them what you know." Then his blue gaze dropped across the table to Sheriff Battle. "Seems to me, Ed," he offered, "that you are almighty ribbed up over the killing of a ranch cook. You're sort of pushing this inquest, aren't you?"

Ed Battle bristled. "You're dang right I am!"

"Sure you know what you're driving at?" the ranchman asked in his low quiet voice.

"You think I don't know what I'm driving at, Cameron?" Battle countered. "Well, I do! And I'll state right here before this roomful, that if what I know ain't brought out now, I'll uncover proof of it myself within twenty-four hours!"

A stir on the far edge of the crowd turned him.

He turned toward his voters to let that take effect. "A ranch cook is a human, ain't he?" he asked the crowd. "And no human is going to be killed in this county, even on the CC, without somebody scorching. Furthermore," he accused, "someone in this inquest is lying like hell!"

Cameron was up onto his feet. "Look here—"

"I don't mean you, Cash," said the sheriff hastily. "You better sit down and wait till I get through with this boy."

Cameron crouched back onto his bench. Ed Battle hitched his chair forward. "We'll get along quicker if I question, and you answer yes or no, Paul. We've had Cameron's story; we'll see if yours checks. Yesterday noon you were riding Pine Knob and met Cameron there, huh?"

"Yes," the cowboy answered.

"And Forest Ranger Sam Powell was with him, that right?"

"Yes."

Something like the tremor of an electric current ran through the packed room at Ed Battle's sudden flinging into the inquest the name of a United States forest ranger. Walt Gandy felt it, even before the low buzz of voices rose about him.

"There now!" said a stranger seated at his side.

Puzzled, Walt stared front, yet he was beginning to see deeper into the warfare that these men wanted to carry against Cash Cameron. Cheap grazing in the national forest was an important and touchy factor almost everywhere. Cameron must control a big slice here, being allotted forest grass in proportion to the number of cattle he owned. There was a rub. Walt Gandy drew a full breath, exhaled slowly, having for the moment a vision of how very far this thing might go—or had already gone.

The low buzz died and Ed Battle continued: "Cameron and Ranger Powell was arguing about grass privileges for CC cattle next summer, wasn't they?"

"I only heard them talking," said the boy.

"Cameron himself," Battle stated, "said there was an argument Ain't that right, Cash?"

"I told you that," Cameron agreed. "If you wanted to know the whole of our talk, why didn't you bring Powell in here today?"

"Because Powell," said the sheriff pointedly, "wasn't to be got hold of. That's why." He continued with the boy. "You left them on Pine Knob and then what?"

"I rode south looking for steers that we're moving to winter in the sink. Then I swung back clean around the Knob and got home about three and found Chino Drake, like I said."

"And then?" Battle prompted, as Paul Champion bent his head and stared at the backs of his brown hands.

"I yelled and rode to the house."

"Did you see anyone?"

"No one at all till I got around to where Mr. Cameron's office is and opened his door. He hadn't heard me because he was writing at his desk."

"Uh huh!" said Battle. "Write in. Had he been doing anything else?"

For the second time, the cowboy turned an imploring gaze to his boss; and again Cash Cameron told him quietly: "Give them what you know, Paul. It's all right."

A fighting look crossed the young face. The boy pivoted to Sheriff Battle. "He had been cleaning a gun. I smelled oil, and a rifle was standing near the desk, and Mr. Cameron said to me, 'At last I got that calf-killing coyote, Paul.' Then I told him that Chino Drake was dead."

During a minute that seemed to Walt Gandy as long as an hour, the room hung in heavy silence. He could have heard his heart beat, but every sense was focused up front, where each figure on the platform was caught and fixed as motionless as stone—Sheriff Battle hunched forward on the edge of his chair, Coroner Daggett halfway along the table from him, scowling impatiently, young Paul Champion standing at the table end and behind him on the witness bench, Cash Cameron, his brown-haired girl, and Bill Hollister.

Ponderously Ed Battle rose. He pointed to the table top near the CC cowboy. "Is that the gun?"

A creaking of benches sounded in the room. With others around him, Walt stretched to look. An assortment of objects lay on the table, evidence in the killing. But largest among them was a rifle, lever-action, short-barreled, the kind that cowmen, the range over, carry in a scabbard slung beneath the stirrup of their saddles.

"Is it?" Battle repeated.

"Yes."

With startling suddenness Coroner Daggett leaped to his feet. He swung out a thin arm. "Battle, you're wasting the county's time! I won't listen to any more! You told me you had a case worked up, and you've got nothing. You have a rifle, but this bullet that came from the body didn't come from that gun! We tested it. This hearing can be reopened when you have facts. Now it's closed."

Ed Battle swayed. Helplessly he stood looking down, concentrating with a hard scowl as if in the process of his mind, two things that did not hook up should hook up anyway. There was the rifle that Cash Cameron had been cleaning; there was the rifle bullet that had killed a man. That bullet ought to have come from that gun!

Plainly it hadn't, for Coroner Daggett was closing his portfolio.

Battle swung his heavy head. "Hold on!" he thundered. "The law ain't satisfied here. You hold on a minute. I got one party I want to question again. Paul, you sit down, Miss Helen, I'd like for you to come back here on the stand."

The brown-haired girl shifted the hat from her lap to the floor, and then in rising, turned her face out over the crowd. Her head moved slowly; but her eyes darted. In a glance they found the aisle seat. Walt Gandy met them and at once, for that instant across the fifteen feet or less that separated him from this girl, he felt a pull toward her as strongly as if she had reached out her hand. Something of the telegraphic bond that years together had established between himself and Bill Hollister, seemed instantly alive behind the eyes of Helen Cameron. That darting look was an appeal.

Gandy edged forward on his bench. Helen Cameron reached the platform. A cough shook her slim body, and she pressed a handkerchief to her lips, doubled a little, and supported herself against the table as if dizzy in the thick, stinging air.

Noticeably a change had come over the room. Hard-faced as these Emigrant ranchers were, and bitter against the power of Cash Cameron, they could not hold back the softening of their looks as they watched Cameron's daughter. She did not draw their pity, but she drew out of them the best of their respect. They admired her, she was one of their own; and beyond that she was an unforgettably attractive girl standing there quietly now, poised, waiting for the law to begin.

Cobbler's Daughter,
10, Violin Prodigy

Performance Is Praised by Music Lovers.

SEATTLE.—Anita Lipp, 10-year-old daughter of a cobbler, is being talked of as the Pacific Northwest's first contribution to the ranks of violin "prodigies."

She made her formal debut a few days before Thanksgiving day, but even by that time she had managed to become the protegee of Seattle and Washington state officialdom.

Mischa Elman, internationally famous violinist, heard her play and immediately declared she should have an opportunity to extend her education. She has played for four years.

His suggestion brought about her debut, the proceeds of which will be used for her musical instruction. Her father's income cannot meet the constantly increasing expenses of her violin instruction.

General opinion of critics after her concert was that Anita was capable of being the finest violinist to emerge from the Pacific Northwest.

For the next year or two it is likely the youthful musician will remain in comparative retirement. Perhaps her next step will be an appearance in San Francisco.

By that time, according to her experienced instructor, she should be able to overcome her chief handicap—lack of size. She uses a three-quarter-size violin.

Her concert performance, critics said, was assured, competent, and, in some respects, even brilliant. Veteran orchestra players marveled when Anita played through difficult concertos for four hours without faltering.

The answer to this was that Anita likes to play. As far as she is concerned she'd give a concert any place it asked. She likes to make public appearances.

Letter Minus Address, Sender Gets an Answer

DAVIS, CALIF.—The agricultural college of the University of California here is convinced that the post office department can put it all over the G-men in the quick running down of their man.

The college received from a student of the State Normal university of Bloomington, Ill., a letter on which the sender had failed to put either the name of the city, or the name of the state, and with its sole address the name of a man who has been dead since 1916.

The address was simply "Professor E. W. Hilgard"—who until his death had been dean of the agricultural college here. The letter came through in regular time.

The student requested one of Professor Hilgard's books and it was forwarded to him.

Tooth-Pulling Row

PORTERVILLE, CALIF. — Chief of Police Lee Martin is wondering, "what next?" asking himself "what next?"

His latest was when a mother telephoned from a dental office asking police aid in forcing her nine-year-old son to permit having his tooth pulled. The chief responded in person.

He was told that the mother and dentist had struggled for two hours without success but that the boy "had always been afraid of cops."

The chief issued an order to the boy, who hastily scrambled into the dental chair.
