EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN, FRIDAY, JULY 12, 1940.

NUMBER 28

Twos A Grand Celebration

HOMECOMERS HERE GALORE; LARGE CROWDS; GOOD ENTERTAINMENT

Tri-city festivities come to an end here Saturday evening, following East Jordan's Three Day Homecoming and Independence Day Celebration. As is the tradition, each city in the county alternates in having the celebration and in 1940, this city again held up its end with a very fine and interesting program.

Fireworks A Highlight

A wonderful fireworks display, one of the finest ever exhibited in Northern Michigan, highlighted the three day entertainment. Shown Friday evening from the West Side of the lake, hundreds of cars lined the Lake shore to take in this never to be forgotten spectacle. By having them displayed from the opposite side of the lake, it gave many of the beautiful scenes a double effect, with a reflection upon the water of all the colors in flamorous formations. Oscar Weisler, Chairman of the fireworks committee is certainly to be congratulated for his fine piece of work in securing such an assortment, both in color and beauty.

Baseball Three Days

Baseball games were played all three days. Boyne City's Independents bested the East Jordan Independents 6 to 4 the first day with L. Somerville, C. Somerville and Crowell forming the losing battery. Green and Lookman made up the winning battery. Friday afternoon, Amos Johns, idol of many an East Jordan fan, hurled for his former teammates, as the East Jordan Independents topped the Gaylord Independents. Johns incidentally gave up but 4 hits and had the Gaylord bats swinging fruitlessly all afternoon as he mounted a total of 15 strikeouts. Crowell again worked behind the plate for the Jordanites. Crowell is a graduate of the East Jordan Juniors and is making good in a big way with the Independents. Winship, was the losing pitcher although he gave up but 5 hits, one more than Johns, but errors on the part of his teammates led to his downfall. Lovelace handled the catching for the losers. Then East Jordan Juniors climaxed the day Saturday with a 9 to 2 win over the Boyne City Juniors. Cihak and Holley for the winners, and Housier, former Boyne Independent twirler and Poirier formed the respective batteries. Raymond Swafford handled the baseball activities.

Parade An Attraction

Dinty LaLonde again came through with a very fine parade, "A Mummer's Parade" 7:30 Thursday evening. A mummers parade was something new to many and boy how they took to it as favorable comments were still being passed around as late as Saturday evening. Yes, Dinty did a swell job, and through the wholeheartedly co-operation of others really put this difficult task across.

And The Band Played On

You can't have a Fourth celebration without a Band and this year Director John Ter Wee and his East Jordan School Band outdid themselves from previous events. The quality of music rendered was excellent and the programs quite extended.

Boat Races and Water Sports

Although the boat races didn't pan out as expected, nevertheless Hollis Drew did his part Thursday afternoon. All the boats contacted didn't show up but races were run anyhow. A great number got a kick out of the canoe race, which was won by Bud Bergman and partner of Charlevoix. The Bergman fellow showed up again in the water sports carrying off all the laurels in the swimming events and also walking the greased pole like a veteran and we mean the pole was really greased.

Street Sports Entertaining

Jack Gothro still held on to his title of the Champion pie-eater of Charlevoix County with Bruce Malpass second. What a mess, huckleberry pie all over the place but the boys liked it and the fans even better. Dashes for boys and girls, relay races, the three legged race and sack race were some of the other events. This part of the program was run off Friday afternoon with Gayle Saxton, local recreational director in charge.

Carnival

Last but far from least was a carnival, which is really the backbone of all celebration for this gets a crowd in one place and holds them there. A Ferris-wheel, merry-go-round and chairplane furnished the rides. All sorts of side shows, novelty and eating stands lined the midway from the City dock east to second street. Charles Murphy was in charge of this end as well as acting as assistant chairman and taking care of the decorations. And by the way this was one of the years that upon entering the city you really knew something was going on. Welcome signs with an American Flag to, either side were

DuWayne Penfold Injured In Plane Take Off

DuWayne Penfold suffered facial injuries and a bruised leg in a plane accident last Friday forenoon.

He was with Levi Gibelou, owner and pilot of the plane. In taking off from the Carson field the plane encountered a gust of wind, lost altitude and nosed into some second growth poplar near the power dam. DuWayne was taken to the Lockwood hospital, Petoskey for treatment. Mr. Gibelou was uninjured. The plane, while somewhat damaged, is being repaired.

Negro Tenor Will Give Concert At Church

Pruth McFarlin, radio and concert tenor will present a concert at the Methodist Church, Monday, July 15th at 8:00 p. m. Mr. McFarlin is on the faculty at Piney Woods School, Piney Woods, Mississippi, using his talents to help educate those of his people who have not had the advantage he has.

A graduate of Southern University, Baton Rouge, La., and Eastman School of Music, Rochester, N. Y., Mr. McFarlin is often referred to as "the man with the million dollar personality." Rochester Democrat & Chronicle says "Mr. McFarlin gets the most out of his singing by slow and careful attention to his words." His accompanist and traveling companion is his wife, Hazel McFarlin.

No charge will be made for the program but a free will offering will be taken.

The Jordan Inn Now Under New Management

The Jordan Inn was taken over by Mrs. H. P. Porter July first and is now under her management. Considerable repairs and improvements have been under way the past month or so. The lobby has been re-furnished and a fireplace is being installed on the north wall of the lobby.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bathke, who have been in charge of the Inn a little over a year, have purchased and now occupy the LeRoy Sherman residence on Williams St., recently occupied by W. O. Canouts.

Exceptional Temple Week

Four grand programs are listed below for Temple Theatre presentations during the coming week, each one being a first run attraction of unusual character. Reproduced on the Temple's new perfected RCA-sound system, they are entertainments to be remembered.

Saturday only: Walter Pidgeon, Nat Pendleton, Florence Rice in "Phantom Raiders." Comedy, novelty and cartoon.

Sunday and Monday: Warner Baxter, Andrea Leeds, Lynn Bari and Charlie Grapewin in "Earthbound." Hal LeRoy Comedy, sports, cartoon in color, news.

James Nice and family.

hung overhead on every street leading into the city. Lamp posts were elaborately decorated to add fitting color.

In giving credit to the various groups assisting we hope that we have not missed anyone and if so are doing it unknowingly. Yes, it was a bigger and better CELEBRATION. Next year we will see you in Charlevoix.

E. Jordan Juniors Lose and Win

DROP GAME AT ELK RAPIDS — TRIM BOYNE JUNIORS

After dropping a heartbreaking 4 to 2 decision before a large celebration day crowd at Elk Rapids the 4th, the East Jordan Juniors came back strong here Saturday afternoon to win over the Boyne Juniors 9 to 2 to climax the three day Homecoming celebration held here.

The Elk Rapids tilt proved to be a thriller all the way as Richard "Tich" Saxton hooked up in a pitchers battle with Grider, Elk Rapids righthander. Saxton struck out 10, allowed 5 hits, and walked none but was the victim of several costly misplays. Grider whiffed 8, allowed 4 hits, and walked 4, and was credited with the win, with Marriott working behind the plate. Holley, teamed with Saxton forming the losing battery.

The Jordanites counted in the 2nd frame and held the lead until the 7th when the Elk Rapids aggregation took the lead not to be overtaken. It was a tough game for the locals to lose but never-the-less no disgrace for the Elk Rapids Independents are one of the fastest nines in the eight-team Antrim county League.

Holley, Mocherman, W. Bennett and R. Saxton were the only Jordanites to hit safely, in Thursday's encounter.

Paced by the three hit pitching of "Monk" Cihak the Juniors thumped the Boyne City Juniors 9 to 2, Saturday afternoon, at the West Side Park. It was the second win of the season for the Jordanites over the rival city nine.

Cihak, although wild, issued 5 passes, struck out 10 and allowed but 3 hits as he turned in his third straight triumph on the mound for the Jordanites. Holley worked behind the plate. Housier and Poirier formed the losing battery.

Bill Bennet continued to hit at a merry clip getting a double and a single in 4 trips to the plate. Bennett not even a regular at the beginning of the season has taken over the shortstop berth and not only is hitting a hefty .400 but also has been playing brilliantly afield.

Next Sunday Barnard will be here at the Fairgrounds and this will give the locals a chance to avenge an earlier season defeat. Saxton will oppose Henley, promising Charlevoix southpaw, on the mound in what promises to be another tight hurler's duel.

M66 Being Improved

EAST JORDAN - CHARLEVOIX HIGHWAY TO BE RELOCATED NORTH OF Ironton

A recent "news" release by Murray D. VanWagoner, State Highway Commissioner, gave information relative to relocating a part of M-66 from Ironton northwest to Charlevoix.

The Herald wrote Mr. VanWagoner relative to the East Jordan - Ironton miles. Below is the news release and Mr. VanWagoner's letter. For a number of years this part of M-66 has been rather bad for a State trunk line and it is a source of gratification to know that it will be put into good shape.

The relocation and oil aggregate surfacing of a section of M-66 beginning at Ironton and extending northwesterly toward Charlevoix is included among projects which the State Highway Department plans for construction this year, it was recently announced.

"The project is one of more than 50, estimated to cost a total of $5,556,688, on which we plan to proceed this year," State Highway Commissioner Murray D. VanWagoner said. "These projects will be financed by Federal Aid and gas tax funds."

Relocation of 3.314 miles of M-66 beginning at Ironton and extending northwesterly toward Charlevoix, with grading, drainage and stabilized gravel for future blacktop surfacing are included in the project. South of this project into East Jordan the present road has been rebuilt by the Department as a WPA job.

When the relocation is completed and the gravel stabilized, plans have been made to oil aggregate the entire 10.9 miles. It is estimated the relocation work will cost $92,000 and the oil aggregate surfacing $80,000.

The construction listed for this year in the state is of vital character, and includes the elimination of many existing highway inadequacies and hazards.

Lansing, Mich., July 3, 1940.

Mr. G. A. Lisk, Publisher Charlevoix County Herald East Jordan, Michigan.

Dear Mr. Lisk:

This is in reply to your letter of June 29, inquiring about our plans on M-66 north of East Jordan. As you mentioned in your letter and as you have previously been advised, we took bids today for the base construction on M-66 from Ironton northwest. This project will end just short of Charlevoix.

The work to be done involves construction of a new route for M-66 to eliminate several of the sharp turns now existing northwest of Ironton and to shorten the travel distance.

On the section from East Jordan to Ironton, we have already completed the base preparation under a program some time ago in cooperation with the Works Progress Administration. This entire section is ready for a black top surfacing.

We have in mind a project to apply this hard surface all the way from East Jordan to Ironton and on northwest over the roadway that will shortly be constructed. This work has been submitted to the Public Works Administration as a part of our Federal Aid secondary program and has been approved.

We will launch this final phase of our work on M-66 in your vicinity just as soon as possible. I can not at present, however, tell you just when this will be. We must wait until work now under contract is completed and other details are taken care of.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
(Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—Some people don't know when they are well off. Karl Ulmanis was a milk man at Lincoln, Neb., for five years, and doing all right, before he went back to Latvia, to be president of the country and sit on a hot seat for 25 years thereafter. It was erroneously reported that he had fled, as the Russians moved in, but the news today is that he is still around, and has broadcast a message to his people to be nice to the invaders. Nobody knows the trouble he's seen. Considering that steady job he had, it looks like a score for the isolationists.

In Lincoln, in 1909, he was Karl Ullman, not Ulmanis, former dirt farmer and country editor in Latvia. The dean of the state college of agriculture got him the milk route, so he could work his way through college. He was graduated in the allotted time. He was steady and dependable, and might have been mistaken for a Nebraska farmer.

One day, he discarded his bib overalls, appeared in a store suit and was seen no more in those parts. Everybody liked him and they were especially shocked by the fact that he owed about $1,000, which he had borrowed to start a cheese factory in Texas. Six years passed when A. L. Haacker, one of his creditors, had a letter from him, enclosing full payment of his debt. He explained that he had a nice job as president of Latvia and was glad to be able to pay what he owed. Other bank drafts followed. The $1,000 was paid in full.

As president and foreign minister of Latvia, he lived in an ancient, turreted castle and ruled in a medieval throne room. On the wall behind his desk, the medieval heraldic emblem of Latvia was crossed with the green pennant of the Nebraska State College of Agriculture. But he wasn't having a wonderful time.

The country was under czarist Russia when young Mr. Ullman ran his newspaper. An indiscreet editorial brought about his departure for Lincoln by devious routes. To stave off Nazi aggression, he made himself dictator in 1934.

THE possibility of South and Central American countries picking up empire salvage before the U. S. A. works out its hemisphere defense plans seems to have been but lightly regarded. However, here's little Guatemala reaching out for British Honduras, and Sir Samuel Hoare's mahogany forests and mills therein, according to news reports.

Gen. Jorge Ubico, dictator of Guatemala for the last nine years, brings forward in the files the tale of a British pirate who snatched British Honduras from his country 60 years ago. "Losers weepers, finders keepers." Whether that applies to the wreckage of empires seems not to have been covered in international law.

General Ubico is the only living ruler who looks like Napoleon. He often is called the "Little Napoleon of the Tropics." He was elected for his first one-year term as president. He survived two revolutions during this term, and then set aside the constitutional limitation against more than one term—and has had eight repeats, so far.

The general received a technical and military education in the United States and Europe, and rose to political power through various provincial and national offices. He entered the national assembly in 1918. He concentrates on road-building, sanitation, agriculture and vocational training for young people. He has been strongly pro-U. S. A., and reports from Washington are that our state department probably wouldn't make much of a fuss over his grabbing British Honduras—as long as Hitler doesn't get it.

Brilliantly educated, hard-boiled and diligent, he has worked out in his small laboratory his own idea of an authoritarian state. Monopoly is the central idea. He grants exclusive concessions in basic goods and industries. To restrain grabbing and grafting, he establishes a probity department in his cabinet. Anyone working for the government or doing important business with it, has to file a complete inventory of his own and his family's possessions. If these goods and chattels increase too rapidly, the general's busy little gestapo is on the job.

French Break Diplomatic Ties With England Following Loss Of Fleet in Naval Encounter

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

"Take a tip from me," or "How to be a vice president" might well be captions of this picture showing Vice President John N. Garner congratulating his colleague, Sen. Charles L. McNary of Oregon, upon his return to senate duty following his selection as the G. O. P. nominee for Mr. Garner's post. Garner, never without a cigar, reportedly told McNary at the time of his congratulations that "Charlie, the first thing you must learn for this job, is the proper way to hold a cigar."

THE WAR: Strange Battle

Since that fateful day on which the French government came to armistice terms with Adolf Hitler, major problem facing Great Britain has been the disposition of the French fleet. For control of the seas and the continuation of the naval blockade against the axis powers is vital to the British cause.

Well did Winston Churchill and his advisers know that if Germany interned the French navy or turned it against England, the combined naval weight of Germany, Italy and France would be superior to their own.

Naval experts throughout the world had predicted that England would never allow the French fleet to fall into German hands. And after a brief but fierce naval engagement on the North African coast these predictions were fulfilled.

As Prime Minister Churchill reported to the house of commons this battle wrecked the French fleet and cheated the dictator's attempts to control the seas. In addition to heavy French loss of life, Churchill said, seven of France's crack warships were sunk or badly damaged. At least 217 other French naval units have been seized in British ports since the armistice.

This naval battle occurred when the French naval commander at Oran, Algiers, Admiral Marcel Gensoul, acting under Nazi orders, chose to fight it out after a British ultimatum demanded that he either deliver his ships in British ports or scuttle them.

In the resulting battle the backbone of the French fleet was either sunk, seized or dispersed.

Two days following the naval encounter the French government notified Germany that because of the "unjustifiable aggression" by Britain's fleet, France had severed diplomatic relations with England. Thus allies of what had been termed a "never-ending" alliance came to a distinct parting of the ways.

George Bernard Shaw, famous British dramatist, cracked that if he were in charge of "this war, I should ask Hitler what food he needed, so that the war might be fought out to a finish."

On the anniversary of the day he joined the White House staff in 1903, doorkeeper to Presidents for 37 years, genial Pat McKenna died in Washington, D. C.

Finding her brakes failed to hold as her auto plunged down a steep grade ending in a precipice, Mrs. Virginia Rios Watkins, 32, of Oklahoma City, told her mother, "Take care of my boy," warned three other passengers of an impending crash, swerved her car into mountainside near Tamazunchale, Mexico. She was killed, the others only injured.

are paying their share of this defense bill every time they go to a movie, buy a package of cigarettes, drink a glass of beer or order a pint of liquor.

For the first of the new defense taxes has been placed in effect on the following commodities and at the increased rates listed:

Half cent on a package of cigarettes; 75 cents a gallon on liquor; $1 a barrel on beer; and movie ticket taxes will start at one cent of every 10 cent admission fee at 21 cents instead of 41 cents.

Taxes on toilet preparations increased from 10 to 11 per cent; automobiles 3 to 3½ per cent; mechanical refrigerators 5 to 5½ per cent; matches 5 cents to 5½ cents per thousand; electrical energy, 3 to 3½ per cent; gasoline 1 to 1½ cents per gallon; lubricating oil 4 to 4½ cents per gallon; playing cards 10 to 11 cents a pack; club dues and initiation fees 10 to 11 per cent.

All these "nuisance taxes" are expected to produce about $475,000,000 of the billion dollars to be obtained annually from the defense financing program. Major portion of the remaining sum will come from increased income taxes.

Value Received

One big reason why these new taxes are so necessary is the expansion of the U. S. fleet, now estimated to be the largest in the world—and this estimate includes the hitherto first-ranking British fleet.

Naval experts put the present strength of the United States fleet at 395 completed combat ships of 1,327,320 tons. This does not include $500,000,000 worth of new warships just ordered by the navy or nearly 100 other vessels now under construction. Latest available figures on Britain's navy put it at 313 ships of 1,277,189 tons. While these figures are admittedly inexact, they are best obtainable in Europe.

Army Expansion

Not to be outdone by the navy, the war department is moving along with its program of expansion and streamlining at an increasing tempo. Taxes that consumers were paying were being used by this branch of the service for new equipment, for intensive specialized training and for long-deferred promotions in the ranks of army officers. A recruiting drive of an additional 38,000 men is under way and is expected to bring the ranks of the regulars up to 280,000 by September.

TRUST BUSTING: Birthday

Many laws at 50 years of age are outmoded and more often are forgotten and discarded. This is not true of the Sherman anti-trust act which passed its fiftieth birthday with the federal government having 83 anti-trust cases involving 1,580 defendants pending in U. S. courts. Instituted by Senator John Sherman of Ohio as the nation's answer to the rising fear of monopoly in those days, the same law is being vigorously used today in battling restraint of trade by big corporations.

EDUCATION: Saving Democracy

When more than 11,000 teachers from throughout the nation gathered for the seventy-eighth annual convention of the National Education association in Milwaukee, Wis., "saving democracy" and making the "schools the first line of defense" were the keynote of the meeting. Through the major speeches and committee reports of the convention ran this same theme—U. S. schools shall continue aid in meeting "the challenge of dictators."

'Praying Colonel'

Col. Frank Knox, testifying before the Senate Naval Affairs committee as it was considering his nomination as Secretary of Navy, strikes this "praying pose" while presenting a portion of his testimony. The committee approved his nomination by a 9 to 5 vote and the military affairs committee approved the nomination of Henry L. Stimson as Secretary of War by a 13-4 vote.

POLITICS:

'People's Movement'

While old guard Republicans were pondering the strange political phenomenon that boosted Wendell Willkie to be their standard bearer in the 1940 campaign, that gentleman was busy outlining plans which he hopes will aid in carrying him to victory in November.

First step was his resignation as president of Commonwealth & Southern corporation.

Then he announced the appointment of a permanent political advisory committee of 12 members to help in the campaign. This group, headed by Gov. Harold Stassen of Minnesota, will replace no other party organization but appears to be an attempt to solidify all elements of the G. O. P. and at the same time make a bid for the nation's all-important independent vote.

At the same time Willkie declared that he wanted no campaign contributions of more than $5,000, no individual cash gifts of more than $10, and attempting to limit the "big business curse" as much as possible, he stated that he wanted "no corporate contributions in any guise whether they be advertising in campaign books, programs, or anything else."

The more $1 contributions he receives, the happier he'll be, he says, for "in my judgment this is a people's movement and I want to keep it so."

Apparently the G. O. P. "oomph" man realizes that his biggest job is to keep the good graces of the grassroots public opinion that was such a vital factor in his nomination.

FAR EAST:

Biggest problem facing Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek as his Chinese forces have been steadily retreating before the advance of the invading Japanese army has been the obtaining of adequate supplies—war goods and foodstuffs.

Thus when the Japanese announced that they had sealed the Chinese border with French Indo-China and that this source of supply for Kai-shek's government was definitely cut off it looked like a grave blow indeed had been struck at China's cause.

But from Chungking, provisional capital of the Chinese government, authoritative sources have announced that despite this loss, the war will be continued, for accumulated reserves will allow military operations to continue at their present pace for at least a year.

MISCELLANY:

Three Years

When Moses L. Anheberg pleaded guilty to indictment charging him with evasion of $1,217,296 in income taxes due the federal government, the "boys in the back room" were betting plenty that the wealthy Philadelphia publisher and former operator of racing news information services on a huge profitable nationwide scale, would get off with a few sharp words and a much sharper fine. But the "railbirds" failed to reckon with U. S. District Judge James H. Wilkerson of Chicago, who, after hearing the testimony of the government and after listening to Moe's plea for "justice" sentenced him to serve three years in federal prison.

Southeast Texas battled cloud-burst-swollen streams in a damaging flood that took at least four lives, left hundreds homeless and caused property damage estimated at at least a million dollars.

A new federal prison for correctional care of 600 male prisoners has been opened by the justice department in Denver, Colo.

Extraordinary precautions have been put into effect at the port of New Orleans because of the danger of fifth columnists and possible saboteurs, according to the port commission of that city.

U. S. Industry Cannot Compete With Dictators' 'Slave Labor'

Hull's Reciprocal Trade Treaties Will Be Rendered Useless as World Market Becomes Flooded by Materials Produced at Pittance Wages.

By WILLIAM BRUCKART
WNU Service, National Press Bldg., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON.—The Hitler armistice terms that were imposed upon France brings to this country, and other nations of the Western hemisphere, the stark reality that our whole business structure must undergo drastic reorganization and readjustment. It is a fact that can no longer be ignored. We are face to face with a situation that requires our government and our economic leadership to look first, last and all of the time to the preservation of an American principle.

Whether we like it or not, the terms forced down the throats of the French by Hitler and the gagging added by the fatty Mussolini have put the United States, its consuming public, its workers and its general commercial effort in a tough spot. It is a situation in which we must produce all of the things we need, and we need not plan on producing more than we need!

To present one phase, one result, of the economic destruction of France by the Hitler victory, it is necessary only to point to what has happened to the trade agreement program arranged and defended always by Secretary Cordell Hull of the department of state. Secretary Hull, to my mind, is the most sincere and honest individual of the Roosevelt administration. He conceived and supported the trade agreement plan because he believed it was the solution to many problems arising between nations. It was, he believed, a step toward international peace because most of the international troubles start from international trade jealousies.

Hull's Trade Treaties

Are 'Washed Up'

But Mr. Hull's trade treaties are gone, washed up. They mean nothing at all now. None of the European nations that have come under Hitler influence will be able to observe them, because Hitler will dis-rect their trade. Few, if any, of the nations elsewhere in the world can continue to observe the agreements because they must look first to self-preservation.

While I never have felt that Mr. Hull's conception of dealing with international trade was such hot stuff, I have felt always nevertheless that his ideals and his objectives were to be respected. He has fought for the principle through all of my quarter of a century in Washington. Now, one swoop of a military machine, not even within our borders, and the whole program becomes impotent and unimportant. It is a tragedy of the kind that sometimes hits ideals.

And with the Hull program out of the window, what next? At best, any statement can be only a guess. Yet, some of the facts, must be accepted as basic. One of these facts is that throughout all of the Europe, where people live under the steel boot of a dictator, workers are going to be little more than slaves for the next decade or longer. They will be peons. They will do the work assigned to them and they will do it at rates of pay fixed by the dictator.

Since the dictator form of rule will direct at least 80 per cent of all Europe and an equal portion of Asia, it is easy to conceive that the dictators will use the products of the labor to gain money for rebuilding and rehabilitation and for maintenance of the greatest armies the world has ever known. Those products will be sold wherever they can be sold and they will be sold at prices below anything ever dreamed of under our system and the American standard of living.

U. S. INDUSTRY

William Bruckart, Washington correspondent, foresees a closing world market for American products as a result of the European war. He predicts that U. S. farmers and manufacturers will be unable to compete with materials produced in the dictator countries with forced labor. Bruckart advises us to follow the old adage, "charity begins at home."

U. S. Foreign Markets Will Be Closed

To put the question bluntly: how will the owners of our steel mills or our automobile factories or thousands of other businesses be able to compete with that kind of labor? Rates of pay in this country long have been double and triple and more above the European or Asiatic rates. Our workers continue to seek more and more of the share of production. But will the things they produce ever reach a market, except in the United States, when Germans and French and Italians and Russians and Japanese and others are working for a few cents a day? I think not.

Or take agriculture. Will American wheat or corn or fat hogs or dairy products be sold in the markets of the world at the cost of production when the workers of the dictator nations are producing the same things and being given perhaps only enough food for living?

There could be countless other illustrations offered, but these serve to illustrate the steadily closing gap through which our excess of agricultural products and manufactured commodities heretofore have been passing. I think the picture that is plainly visible now ought to compel every government official and every political party to turn thoughts to the American problem.

Hitler's Peace Terms Are Terribly Harsh

The Hitler terms have been released only sufficiently for a conception of their terrible harshness. No one yet can tell how much of France will remain under complete control of Germany, or how much of it will become absolute German territory. We know only that, in general, all of France's sources of supplies will pass into German control, or will be managed under Hitler's Nazi program. We do not yet know whether there will be surrender of all colonial possessions, islands and the like. Yet, there is none so foolish as to believe that Hitler will overlook the opportunity of directing the production and trade of every area which may serve as a cog in the great Nazi economic machine.

Propaganda Is Used To Make People Slaves

Some may ask why this dark outlook is emphasized and what basis there is for it, beyond the explanations already given. I think the answer is simple. The drain of war preparation that has been made upon all of those nations involved, not to mention the tremendous expenditure of men and money during actual fighting, has left each race of peoples denuded. The dictators dare not let revolutionary movements get started. The steel boot will walk across the bodies of every person who offers opposition to any order to produce food and fiber. Propaganda will be used to convince those peoples that it is their duty to their homeland. Propaganda was successful in working those people like slaves, as Hitler did, in building up the war machine.

We have seen some indication of this in Russia. The Soviet dictator has decreed an extension of working hours for all workers in Russia. The people were told merely that they will work many hours more. They have to do it, or be shot.

It may be that the new Soviet order represents a renewed war preparation on the part of the Communists. None here knows the answer. The fact remains, however, that the great horde of Russians are to be driven like plow mules into long days of harsh labor—while the cheap Communist agitators in this country foment new strikes for short hours and higher and higher pay. It is a sour situation. But it is very real, and it shows what dictators can do.

All of which seems to me to prove that there is a right important battle in the United States that we had better win. While administration folks and partisan politicians shout and create new hysteria about a military machine to defend us, I hold to the idea that we had better divide attention to defense of the nation into two phases. We had better prepare to defend within as well as without.

It is tragic, of course, that millions of old people and women and children are suffering in Europe. But I rise to inquire whether they have a claim on our government ahead of the folks who have become a part of America? There have been a dozen or more appeals from within this country by which it has been sought to make homes here for the destitute and the unfortunate victims of the European conflagration. The sentiment is fine but I, for one, still believe in the old adage that "Charity begins at home." We should eliminate suffering here first.

A field artillery regiment of the conquering Nazi army parades through Paris following the capitulation of the French forces. In the background is seen the famous Arc de Triomphe, landmark of the captured city on which are inscribed the military triumphs of the French armies under the Emperor Napoleon. Kindergartners Wear Gas Masks at Play

Toddlers at a British nursery school who learned to play while wearing their grotesque gas masks have become so accustomed to them that they no longer want to take them off for greater freedom under exertion. This fact may save their lives some day. The tots are proud of their ability to don the masks in a jiffy.

Rabbit Foundlings Adopted by Spitz

"Doing nicely, thank you!" is probably what Tootsie, eight-year-old Spitz, would say if she could, concerning these six wild rabbits she found in the back yard of her mistress, Mrs. Valeria Lewis of Washington, D. C. Letting her maternal instinct have full sway, Tootsie took charge of the foundlings, washed them and fed them.

The candidate for the vice presidency has been a senate leader for a number of years and a strong advocate of farm relief. He is said to have been Willkie's own choice for second place and is expected to be a strong running mate.

The brightest lights ever created by man are the 800,000-candlepower carbon-arc searchlights that are owned by the United States army. Their beams, when directed vertically into the night sky, can be seen for a distance of two hundred miles.

There are no such things as a double joint in a human being, a revolver silencer outside of fiction or a blood test through which it is possible to determine whether an unknown parent of a child is of the white or Negro race.

Sea Bed Reveals History

In 10 feet of sand and mud on the Atlantic ocean bottom scientists can read a million years of history of the Ice age. Samplings have been taken from the sea bed across the North Atlantic with a cannon-like tube that is shot by gunpowder into the floor as it touches bottom. From these samplings the United States Geological Survey scientists have found evidence of advancing and retreating ice, of one-celled animals and of periods of volcanic activity, the latter indicated by layers of ash thrown off perhaps by eruptions in Iceland.—Popular Mechanics.

Michigan Banks Make 800,000 Loans Totaling $900,000,000 In 1939

Forty-eight per cent of Michigan's commercial banks made more than 800,000 loans totaling over $900,000,000 to business firms and individuals throughout the state during the year 1939, according to the second semi-annual survey of bank lending activity of the American Bankers Association made public recently.

The survey was participated in by 209 banks or 48 per cent of the 433 commercial banks of the state. The 209 banks reported that during 1939 they made:

406,069 new loans — $456,973,081
374,614 renewal of loans 384,033,245
1,204 mortgage loans 59,188,609

801,887 — $900,194,985

The survey reveals that business firms in the state are using only about one-third of the "open lines of credit" maintained for their use on the books of the banks. Ninety-eight banks in the larger centers of the state reported that they carried on their books during the second half of the year $118,603,151 in "open lines of credit" consisting of specific amounts of credit offered to and kept available for established borrowers for use as needed by them. Of this amount $38,611,043 or 32.5 percent was actually used.

The average number of new loans made per bank was 1,943 and the average new loan was $1,125.

The average number of renewals per bank was 1,792 and the average renewal was for $1,025.

Garden Gossip

Edited by Caroline Harrington
Letters and questions on garden topics will be welcome. They will be published and discussed in this column.

A trip down the river — our river — is rewarding in any language, whether it be that of the sportsman, the student, or just you and I, loving the out of doors and never finding quite time enough for it. The fisherman, intent on the swift water and the fish that lurk in the holes, dart away from the boat, or leap up in the clear expanses, — the bird enthusiasts, scanning trees and shoreline for birds that sing and call among the branches, — the student of insects, watching for and trying to identify the various "hatches" of butterflies and dragonflies, queer moths and flies — the river offers each more than he can make his own though he travel the river every day of the season.

All of these things entertain me, but most interesting of all is the plant life that crowds down to the river. Right now the banks are draped in nine-bark and meadow rue, buttercups glisten in the sun, creamy anemones are everywhere, and an occasional blue-flag stands on the bank looking at its reflection in the water. There are hundreds of plants to be identified, plants that find the banks of the Jordan a haven of quiet and peace where they may bloom and bloom again in security.

In their season, violets hang along the banks with rich marsh-marigold for company. The lady-slippers are safe there to reproduce themselves. They are much too precious to pick, but I like to think of them, growing under the trees, with only the sun to spy out their beauty. (I even like to think of their body guard of mosquitoes and poison ivy. Without these valiant defenders, our lady slippers might soon be only a memory.)

Those of you who come down the river this week will see (if you look at the plants) wood lilies lifting up their orange light in shaded places. The nine-bark will be fading, but Joe Pye weed will have taken its place, and red elderberries will hang ripe and red from hundreds of bushes, a feast for the birds. If you are not interested in the land plants, but only in fish, you surely cannot overlook the water plants that keep their footing in the swift water. Doesn't that make you respect them?

ments I have seen, I am sure, but I depend upon you to report them for Garden Gossip. An interesting item was sent in to me with Mrs. Brabant's Garden Calendar, but it is not in Mrs. Brabant's handwriting, and it is unsigned. I think Garden Gossipers will identify it, however recognize it and be interested. Here it is:

"We expect to extend an invitation later to come 'right up our alley' to see our oven garden. The cement ground work of the oven of Muma's bakery of years ago has been filled in with woods earth and planted with flowering annuals, thus making another lake front beauty spot."

Another improvement repeatedly called to my attention is the paint job on the Jordan Inn. I see, too, that the inn is to have a fireplace in the lobby as every proper inn should have if it is in the old tradition.

By the way, vegetable gardens are looking good, but no one has reported a "first" batch of anything. Telephone conversations do not count. Reports for Garden Gossip should be written. This is YOUR column, you know.

"I've been all over the world but somehow I like this little old town of East Jordan. I'd like nothing better than a secluded cabin here, a place to come for rest and play." So says the director of the Philadelphia symphony players, and I am reminded of the New Hope Artist Colony in the Delaware River Valley where many artists and world travelers have established a colony of homes because according to them "this is the most beautiful spot in all the world."

Let's keep it American

THE European war has re-awakened Americans to the truth of the saying, "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty."

Our liberty is not immediately threatened. But it may be if we do not prepare to defend it from any possible attack. Such preparation is an effort in which everyone can share.

We favor adequate preparedness for national defense. This country's natural position gives us a great measure of security against threats from abroad. With careful preparation we can strengthen that position until no nation would dare attack us.

National defense is not only a matter of men, airplanes, battleships and guns. It also requires us to strengthen our American institutions, which are the very things we wish to protect and preserve. They must be preserved. It would be a bitter and ironic victory if, in order to defeat an enemy, we sidetracked the system of free enterprise and the personal liberties which distinguish the American way of life from the tyrannies of Europe and Asia.

Let's keep this country American. Government experts and civilian authorities are studying how to provide for our actual defense and each citizen's part in it. Meanwhile, the rest of us can help by doing our work, whatever it is, as well as we can.

That is what all the people of this company intend to do. Together with other electric companies, we have built a system capable of supplying the nation with electric service in any emergency. This system will be maintained and strengthened and we will continue our day-to-day effort to provide the dependable electric service that makes the United States a better place to live.

WNU SERVICE

THE STORY THUS FAR

Summoned to the C C ranch in central Nevada, desert-wise Walt Gandy is on his way to help an old range partner, Bill Hollister. Walt is stopped short by a girl—who holds a rifle in firing position. She knows him, tells him how to get to the ranch, and tells him that they will meet again. Within a quarter of a mile from his destination, Walt is stopped again. This time by a grotesque, mis-shapen man who tells him to get out and then tells him the C C crew is in Emigrant, the closest town, for an inquest. Someone has been murdered. Riding to the inquest in Emigrant, Walt leaves his horse at the livery stable. Walt learns that Cash Cameron, owner of the C C ranch, is in trouble. A hard but honest man, Cash has many enemies. At the inquest Walt sees Hollister and the girl who had stopped him. Chino Drake, former cook at the C C ranch, has been murdered and Sheriff Ed Battle is trying to pin the blame on Cash Cameron. The girl is called to the stand. She is Helen Cameron, Cash's daughter. She is seemingly faint and, as Gandy rushes to her aid, slips something in his hand. It is the bullet from Drake's body. Walt rents a post office box and leaves the bullet in it. Leaving the post office he is accosted by a dark, swarthy man who offers him a job. He draws the man out, finds that he wants to usurp Cameron's public range land. Gandy then turns him down in biting fashion. The man leaps at Walt, who whips him after a hard battle. The man is Pete Kelso, foreman of the 77 ranch, an outfit hostile to Cameron. Gandy is taken to the sheriff's office, where he meets Hollister.

Walt Gandy leaned over and studied the floor boards between his boots. It came to him that this man showed surprising intelligence after all. If he would use it!

"Cash Cameron," Battle was saying, "has represented the power in control here. With the example of a big fellow like him holding the lid screwed on, and able to buy out any man who wanted to quit, there hasn't been much cause for trouble. Wasn't no need for the little fellows to jump his range rights nor each other's. But if the C C crumbles and its grass on public domain and in the national forest is open for anyone to grab, there's going to be hell." Battle roared suddenly, "I won't have it!"

Under his heavy brows Bill Hollister was no longer smiling. "You're dead certain, are you," he asked, "that the C C is going to crumble?"

Battle leaned forward over the flat top of his desk. "Yes."

His eyes narrowed and glittered. "A man in Cameron's hole right now don't dare take up a gun—even if his range is being crowded in on!"

"The C C don't own title to five thousand acres of land. It's using close to a hundred thousand, all public. Every man who rode in to the inquest today is figuring on just that. Get the C C tangled with the law, get you people tied up in court and you might as well start raising hogs on your five thousand acres, because your power on the open cattle range is gone, and nobody will be afraid to crowd you. Wait!" Battle waved his cigar as Hollister started to speak.

"The power on this range has shifted from Cameron's hands now, back into mine, where it belongs! And I'm going to use it to the advantage of everybody, big man and little man alike. You people can't even chew what you've bit off out there, let alone swallow it; I guess Ranger Powell was beginning to see that himself when he announced the C C allotment in the national forest is going to be cut next summer." Battle clamped his cigar righteously, saying around the end, "Time for the little fellow to have a show here, and I'm seeing that he gets it!"

"Little fellows," Bill Hollister's quiet voice asked, "like the 77?"

Battle stiffened. His smoking stopped.

Hollister uncrossed his knees, and the C C foreman and the sheriff of Emigrant County traded long measuring looks.

"What do you mean by that?" asked the sheriff evenly.

"This," Hollister stated. "Funny thing, isn't it, that every man, woman and child on the Emigrant Bench from here north to Salt Flat and west to the Barricades, came to the hearing today—everyone except those from the 77!"

Still sitting stiffly upright, Battle made no reply.

"You're right about what is going to happen here," Hollister went on. "This range is over-stocked. Someone has got to move out. There isn't enough land here of any sort, private, public or national forest to hold the food of animals that has been poured onto the Bench lately. That's too almighty true! But don't you talk to me about the little fellows." He eyed Ed Battle, took a long breath and rocked his body forward in a lightly balanced motion.

"Cash Cameron has played square with them. He figured when he bought a man's brand, taking his cows, he bought range rights too. That's custom. But no, these little fellows have hung on, getting a few more cows and only waiting to jump his grass at any chance. Little fellows!"

It took Bill Hollister some time to get warmed up. He was hot now. "Look at 'em out there on the street, sure! A pack of wolves licking their chops! Eyeing each other to see who is going to lead in a rush onto the C C. Give them a leader and the rest will follow all right. And you, Battle, you know you'll be!" Ed Battle seemed set against answering.

Hollister flared. "Everyone came in today to see how the inquest was going to fall, to see if Cameron was going to get properly tied up. Only the 77 didn't! Where's Stoddard? His 77 is the biggest contender for range rights that we control. But they aren't troubled about how this inquest will fall. The 77 knows!"

"Meaning that I've been bought, huh?" Battle asked suddenly.

"Meaning," said Hollister, "that someone who keeps his name off the records is part owner of the 77 brand."

Visibly the tension went out of Sheriff Ed Battle. He relaxed, shaking his head. "Nope. You guessed wrong that time. I own nary a cow in any size, shape or form, not on paper nor on the 77. If Jeff Stoddard and his bunch didn't come in today, they had their own reasons." He gave Hollister a placating grin. "But we're sort of wrangling ourselves off the track, aren't we? I called you in here to make a proposition . . . for the good of everybody. Want to listen?"

With an abruptness of action not usual in him, Bill Hollister rose and his lank form towered. "Battle," he said, evenly, "you're a plain white-ribbed skunk! Your bait's good all right, but it stinks of next election's votes!"

Color flooded hotly into the fleshy face of Sheriff Battle. He gripped his desk edge. Control over some quick and revealing retort came only after a minute of struggle.

When at last he got up onto his feet, the red flood of anger had drained away. He looked out with cold, hard eyes. "I said I had another piece of evidence, Hollister; something I didn't bring up at the inquest."

His ponderous figure came around to the open floor.

Watching, Walt Gandy wondered. Battle's gaze went down, came back. "Hollister," he asked, "why did you have Paul Champion run water into that corn row where Chino Drake was lying dead?"

At Ed Battle's questioning thrust, Hollister's jaw had sprung shut. Muscles bulged. He stood planted as if to take a blow, a fighting man, yet to Walt Gandy it seemed the dogged courage of someone plodding on grimly to an end, without fire nor vital care for what would come after that end was reached. Whatever had happened to Bill Hollister had struck him at the roots.

Battle had the knife in and he gouged with it. "Well! Want me to say why you had that corn row flooded? To cover some boot tracks! Some almighty big ones!"

Again the sheriff's eyes went downward, and following them Walt Gandy's rested upon the black stitched boots that Bill Hollister wore. They were big; number elevens. These that he had on today were brand-new.

"The trouble with that trick," said Battle, "was that you slipped up. One track didn't get flooded. My deputy ran cement into it and I've got the cast. Never mind about the pair of boots that left the track; we've probably got those too."

CHAPTER VII

SOMETHING was wrong at the C C. Riding abreast, but strangely silent for a pair who had not seen each other for two years, Walt Gandy and Bill Hollister topped the last bench and looked ahead to the home buildings. Out upon the open flat they had ridden in waning daylight. Here under the mountain wall night had come, darkening the ranch basin and spreading a gray mist close to the ground.

Hollister's long-legged black caught up beside the palomino. They loped through a lane between post corrals, passed the saddle sheds and reached an open yard. And then, almost before seeing them, they were upon three men standing motionless in front of a bunk house door. The door was open. No light showed inside.

"Place has been searched, Bill," said Cameron. "All the buildings. Someone while we were gone."

Until that moment Walt did not see a fourth figure which had remained crouched back on the dark doorstep. It rose as the ranch owner spoke, came out with a scuffling limp, and the twisted body of the deformed man seemed at night more gruesome than ever. He dragged past within touching distance, slanted his sunken eyes up in a direct stare into Gandy's, yet showed no recognition.

Walt had thought this afternoon that the man was more than a little off; he changed the opinion now. Something with a worse twist than insanity looked out from those deep eye-pits. He caught the feeling of a mind as warped as the body.

"What about Bent?" Hollister asked, indicating the retreating figure with a jerk of his chin. "He's been around all day. Hasn't he anything to tell?"

"Says he knows nothing about it," Cameron answered. "Bent couldn't have heard anyone, and he was mending the south pasture fence this afternoon. So he couldn't have seen, either, if it was somebody who came in from any other direction."

ever it was that gripped these others. He swung the knotted end of his halter rope and kept running one hand back to the throat of his horse. A grin of repressed excitement looked almost foolish on his boyishly eager face.

"I'd say we better . . ." he began.

"Never mind, Paul," Cameron stopped him gently.

Walt Gandy had begun the making of a cigarette. Now he flung the unfinished tube away. He faced Cameron, saying, "There's one thing I guess ought to be made known right now, before anybody starts to check up."

Cash Cameron's white head pivoted.

"I was on your place this afternoon," said Gandy.

It was Hollister's voice, snapped out in the dark: "Why didn't you tell me that!"

Only Cash Cameron's features were visible from where Walt stood; the others were blotted in the night. But he could feel the quick stab of eyes toward him. He did not know yet who the cowpuncher was, making a squat shapeless form at the ranch-owner's right side. Cameron's mouth opened, closed. A hand came up and smoothed down the coarse hair of his gray mustache.

"Say, look here!" Gandy blazed. But he felt that he was only throwing words against a stone wall. The silence of these men was that thick. Battling a rise of impatient anger he turned from them, pulling the tobacco sack from his shirt pocket.

"No lights!" Cameron warned. "Listen!" Then almost at once: "It's all right. Go ahead." His daughter came abruptly around the bunk shack end.

She reached Cash, and standing close up to his raw-boned gaze, seemed to Walt Gandy once again as she had this afternoon, a small and fragile girl in spite of the rough garb in which she clothed herself, and far too rare a person to be caught in the black war that was gathering around her.

"I've gone all through the house again, Dad," she said, her voice low and controlled. "Whoever did it wasn't trying to rob us."

"No," said Cameron. "No, of course not." He asked no further, and it was Bill Hollister who spoke up.

"Then there's nothing missing, Helen?"

Slowly she turned and lifted her face to him, though in the dark she could not possibly read his features. "A rifle," she said, "and a pair of boots. Yours."

All others stood fixed, but the effect of her words upon Bill Hollister was sudden action, almost as if from relief.

"Paul," he ordered rapidly, "put up the horses. Walt, throw your war bag down here. You can turn Sunspot in the end corral by himself tonight and give him something extra. Bent Lavic will show you the lanterns and where the grain bins are." He turned away into the dark, alone.

His voice came back over departing shoulders: "I'll rustle firewood for whoever's going to cook."

As Walt kicked straw across the stable floor for Sunspot's bedding, he looked at Bent Lavic's feet. They were big—all out of proportion to that shrunken body. The boots he wore would be about size eleven.

Cash Cameron was in the kitchen trying unfamiliarly to get together a meal in his own house, and as Walt Gandy entered, he asked, "You know anything about pot-busting, young fellow?"

Behind Gandy, Bill Hollister came in just then with an armful of wood.

"Sure he does," Bill said. "I suffered his cooking for a couple of years and lived through. Guess we can stand it for a few days."

Walt swung around from hanging his hat on a peg near the door. Hollister continued. "We're short on cooks, but I don't want to bring a new man out here now. I've got an idea that we'll talk about later. Go ahead, Walt. You take the job."

As Gandy peeled out of his coat and rolled up his shirt sleeves, the other cowpuncher who had stood at Cash Cameron's right hand out there in the dark, emerged from a lean-to storage room with a gunny-sack full of potatoes balanced on his left shoulder. He walked on short legs, bandy enough to fit the roundest horse ever born. A calf could jump between them and not scrape his boots. His face was homely, good-natured, and now solemnly intent upon the job of carrying potatoes.

He put the sack down on the floor. Cash Cameron said: "Horsethief shake hands with our new cook. Gandy, this is Horsethief Fisher, and that name's no joke! But he has sort of weaned himself away from the habit the last ten, fifteen years."

A humorous twinkle of some past experience lighted Cameron's blue eyes, banishing momentarily the strain that this day had put there, and Walt Gandy had a glimpse of a hugely likeable old man.

Horsethief Fisher grinned and put out a knobby paw. "Glad to meet you, Gandy."

Walt shook. Here, he knew at once, was a tough and loyal henchman of the C C. Horsethief took off his hat to hang it on a nail next the door, showing a head as bald as a hen's brown egg.

Hired hands on the C C ate in a dining-room that opened through an archway directly off the kitchen. Cash Cameron took his accustomed chair at the table's end opposite the kitchen arch. Bill Hollister ranged around on his right, Walt Gandy next. On Cameron's left was an empty place, then Paul Champion, Horsethief Fisher and Bent Lavic.

No one spoke of the seat that remained unoccupied, but all through the meal Bill Hollister kept staring there, as if he could not keep his eyes from picturing the girl in it, and again that somber studious look was set upon his face.

In the end he seemed to have thought something out. He pushed back his chair, saying: "I'm going to move down to the bunk house, Cash. If Gandy is going to cook, he ought to have my room here so he can roll out and get the fires built early."

It sounded reasonable. Cameron nodded. But somehow the ease and forgetfulness that had been upon the room for a little while was gone.

Gandy stood up when Hollister did. There before the men he said only: "I'll go down with you, Bill, and bring up my war bag." But outside when they had passed beyond ear-shot of the house, he stopped short in his tracks.

Hollister's lank form halted too, and turned in the dark.

Walt wet his thumb to roll a cigarette. "You know," he said, his words slow and dragging, "there's a lot of country between here and the border, mostly desert."

Hollister dropped his head forward. "Huh?" He sounded startled.

"Most hot desert, too," Walt went on, "and the wild flowers weren't blooming, and there wasn't much moon, and one place they forgot to put up the trail signs. Did I make that ride for any purpose, Bill?"

Closing up the short space that separated them, Hollister asked, "Are you crazy? Too much heat or something?"

"Too much something," Walt admitted. He put his next question flatly:

"What am I here for, Bill? Am I needed now, or did I come in too late? A man has already been killed. Things point mighty straight to someone here on the C C. I'm not asking if it's so or not; I'm using my own head. But this business of every last one of you appearing to have it all doped out and yet acting like you're afraid to tell, is making me itch. Is this ranch split against itself? Is that it? What's happened, anyway?"

He paused, then as Hollister said nothing, finished, "Well, no, you don't need to go into details until you're ready. But I've got to know one thing—do you need me or not?"

It seemed to take Bill Hollister an unreasonably long time to form his answer, yet when it came, there was no room for the slightest doubt that he meant every word.

"Walt," he said, "I need you now more than I've ever needed a partner in all my life! You've got to take that much and believe it. It's all I can tell you, because, boy, it's the only thing I know for certain!"

A sudden grip on Walt's arm spilled tobacco from an unfinished cigarette.

Hollister started to speak, the grip digging in, but then bit off the word and stood tight-mouthed, staring back toward the ranch house.

Next moment he gave a strange short laugh. "Lord!" he said, with disgust. "Me getting the jumps. I'll be taking pot-shots at my own shadow first thing you know!"

"But what is it?" Gandy remained rooted, half turned around.

In pine trees beyond where the long front gallery of the house ended against the hill slope, a white shapeless patch was shifting back and forth, slowly, regularly—once a man hanging by the neck had looked like that. It brought a cold creeping sensation up his spine. Then he, too, understood the apparition, recalling a child's swing there at the end of the ranch home. But who would be swinging? This time of night!

WHEN YOU MAKE JAM OR JELLY
(See Recipes Below)

Household News

By Eleanor Howe

"Sugar 'nd spice 'nd everything nice" goes into the preserving kettle, and out of it comes a tantalizing array of jellies, jams, pickles and relishes, and rich fruit butters and marmalades.

This year, why not add to your stock of preserves (and to your reputation as a good cook!) by doing some of your own canning and preserving? It's as easy as A,B,C, if you'll follow a few simple suggestions and use tested recipes.

Most of the equipment you need for canning and preserving you will have on hand; large kettles or saucepans, a colander, coarse strainer, wooden masher, wooden spoons, a skimmer, wide-mouth funnel, glass jars, jelly glasses, jar covers and new rubbers. It may be necessary to buy a few new jars each year, for nicked jars are likely to cause spoilage.

Wash jars, glasses and covers thoroughly in soapy water, and rinse in boiling water. Sterilize them just before using and let them remain in the hot water until you are ready to fill them. Use new rubbers every year, and dip them in boiling water just before you put them on the jars. When jars or jelly glasses are to be filled with hot foods, place the hot glasses on a clean towel which has been wrung out of hot water.

If you have an old-fashioned gravy boat with a spout and handle, use it in filling glasses with jellies, jams and preserves. Allow the jam to cool in the glasses before sealing with paraffin. When the paraffin has set, wipe the glasses with a damp cloth, cover, and label them. To prevent the formation of mold, store jams, jellies, and preserves in a cool, dry place.

Homemade Tomato Soup.

(Makes 6 pints)
1 peck tomatoes (14 pounds)
1 bunch celery
1 quart onions (sliced)
½ cup butter
½ cup flour
½ cup sugar
4 to 5 teaspoons salt
¾ teaspoon pepper

Scrub the tomatoes and celery, and cut into pieces. Add the sliced onion, and cook over a low flame until the vegetables are thoroughly soft (about 1 hour). Strain. Blend together the butter, flour, sugar, and seasoning, and add to the strained tomato mixture. Bring to a boil, and boil gently for 20 minutes, stirring frequently. Seal in sterilized jars. To serve, combine the tomato soup with soup stock or milk.

Sweet Pantry Slices.

(Makes 6 to 7 pints)
1 gallon cucumbers (3 to 5 inches long)
1½ quarts white onions (sliced)
½ cup salt
5 cups sugar
1 tablespoon ground ginger
½ teaspoon turmeric
2 tablespoons mustard seed
1 tablespoon celery seed
5 cups vinegar

Scrub cucumbers and slice thin (without paring). Add sliced onions and salt, and if crushed ice is available, stir in 1 pint which aids in crisping. Cover with a weighted lid and let stand for 3 hours. Drain, and add remaining ingredients. Place over low heat, bring to the simmering point, and simmer for 5 minutes. Pack in sterilized jars and seal.

Strawberry-Rhubarb Conserve.

2 pounds strawberries
2 pounds rhubarb
3 pounds sugar

Wash fruit; hull strawberries and cut rhubarb in small pieces (you'll find the scissors a great finger-saver in cutting the rhubarb). Place fruit in deep pan like a dish-pan and place in cold oven. Set temperature control to 400 degrees and start the oven. Cook about 1½ hours, then add sugar. Cook, stirring occasionally, for ½ to 1 hour, or until conserve becomes thick. (The time varies according to the "juiciness" of the fruit). Pour into sterilized jars or glasses and seal immediately or cool and cover with melted paraffin.

Quick Strawberry Jam.

(Makes 6 glasses)
1 quart strawberries
Boiling water
4 cups sugar

Remove caps from strawberries and wash thoroughly. Then pour boiling water over berries until water is lightly tinted with pink. Drain and place berries in saucepan, add 2 cups of sugar, and shake over low flame until sugar is dissolved and mixture begins to boil. Then increase heat and boil hard for 4 minutes. Reduce heat, add remaining sugar and boil hard again for 4 minutes longer. Pour into jelly glasses, allow to thicken, and seal when cold.

Sunless Sun Preserves.

Take 4 cups of strawberries which have been washed and hulled and 5 cups sugar, place 1 cup berries in a heavy saucepan and cover with 1 cup sugar and continue until all of the berries and sugar have been placed in the saucepan layer by layer. Bring slowly to a boil and boil gently for 9 minutes. Remove from fire and add 3 tablespoons lemon juice. Let stand over night. Next day bring to a boil and boil gently an additional 9 minutes. Remove from fire, skim, and let stand in saucepan until thoroughly cooled, then seal in hot sterilized jars. The berries remain whole and retain their natural flavor and color.

Rhubarb Butter.

(Makes 6 to 7 glasses)
2½ pounds rhubarb
2 pounds sugar
¾ cup vinegar
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
½ teaspoon ground cloves
Cut rhubarb in small pieces (do not peel). Combine with remaining ingredients and cook for about 2 hours—or until the mixture is the consistency of fruit butter. Pour into sterilized jelly glasses. Cover with melted paraffin.

Chili Sauce.
4 quarts ripe tomatoes
6 apples
2 onions
1½ cups brown sugar
2 cups vinegar
1 tablespoon salt
3 tablespoons pickle spice
2 teaspoons paprika

Peel and chop fine the tomatoes, apples and onions. Add the brown sugar, vinegar and salt and the spices tied in a spice bag. Cook slowly until thick, stirring frequently. Remove spice bag. Seal in hot sterilized jars.

JOB'S STRUGGLE TO FAITH IN LIFE AFTER DEATH

LESSON TEXT—Job 14:13-17; 17:13-16; 19:23-29.
GOLDEN TEXT—For I know that my redeemer liveth.—Job 19:25.

If life ends at the grave, it has comparatively little meaning and its struggles and sorrows are hardly worth bearing. Job, living in all probability about 1,500 years before Christ, did not have our knowledge of the resurrection of Christ and the assurance that He is but the "first fruits of them that slept" and that we too shall rise (see I Cor. 15:22, 23). But in the midst of suffering, discouragement and spiritual conflict, he looked with the eye of faith all the way beyond the grave.

The background of our lesson is found in Job's experience with his three professed—comforters, who speak thus:

"Eliphaz: But who ever perish being innocent (4:7)? Be glad that you are being corrected (4:17). Job: Answer my question and I will keep still. Show me where I am wrong. What does your 'proof' prove (6:24, 25)?

"Biddad: Do you think God perverts justice (8:3)? Ask the wise men of the ages. Consider what our fathers taught (8:8). Job: It is all the same; God destroys the righteous with the wicked (9:22).

"Zophar: Do you expect to understand God? Put evil away (11:7, 14). Job: I know as much as you do (13:2). Your burning remarks are cold ashes (13:12). I would like to reason it out with God (13:3). I have stated my case; I am righteous (13:8).

"The three friends have not helped him, but Job struggles on alone with the problem."—Dr. Carl S. Knopf.

I. Uncertainty—"If a man die, shall he live again?" (14:13-17).

Job, while maintaining that he was righteous, felt that his sufferings must indicate that God was displeased with him. He thought he might best seek refuge in Sheol (R. V. in place of "grave" in v. 13), the abode of the dead. But suddenly he turned again to the hope which was dear to his heart; namely, that somehow there must be a blessed future life with God.

He asked the question, "If a man die, shall he live again?" The fact that he quickly lapsed into despair indicates that he was not certain that the answer to his question was "Yes." How blessed it is that we know, for have we not heard the voice of the One who, standing before a grave in Bethany, said, "I am the resurrection and the life: he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live" (John 11:25)?

II. Hope—"Where, then, is my hope?" (Job 17:13-16).

Eliphaz had again sought to set Job right by accusing him of vanity, impatience and pride (chap. 15). Job answered (chaps. 16 and 17) that his friends were worse than useless as comforters, being so sanctimonious in their assurance of his wickedness, when in fact he was only a man who was on the verge of despair, but still holding to his faith in God.

Job cried out, "Where, then, is my hope?"—undoubtedly thus expressing his bewilderment, bordering on complete despair. Yet do we not even in the question see that he still had hope? The man who has given up says, "There is no hope"; but Job continued to hope against hope, crying out, "Where is my hope?" knowing full well that his only hope was in God.

There is a lesson here that we do well to learn. Whatever our situation may be we shall find that God is there and that we may trust Him.

"Does all the world seem against you And you in the battle alone? Remember, at 'Wit's End Corner' is where God's power is shown."

III. Faith—"I know that my redeemer liveth" (Job 19:23-29).

What blessed vision and what glorious faith! Job lived in the time of Moses or before. He had no New Testament—no old Testament—but he did have God, and by faith he believed that God was to make Himself known to man here on earth as a living Redeemer.

We say that we know because we have the record of His coming: of the Son of God incarnate; of His bearing our sins on Calvary; of His death and resurrection again; of His ascension to be with the Father, and His coming again in glory and power. Job, however, had to reach through doubt and darkness to faith in life after death. How much richer should be our faith, infinitely more precious, stirring us to loving obedience and service for Christ our Redeemer.

A Blessed Inheritance

Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, which according to His abundant mercy hath begotten us again unto a lively hope to an inheritance incorruptible, and undefiled, and that fadeth not away, reserved in heaven for you.—1 Peter: 1, 3, 4.

Entrancing Rubber Flowers To Wear With Your Swim Suit

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

A THEME for poet and painter, and as to those whose mission it is to tell the story of fashion in columns such as this, the dictionary, quick! It's super-glamorous adjectives we must have to describe the beauty of water-sprayed flowers worn by fashion's mermaids. The happy thought about these flowers is that, being made of rubber, they come up out of watery depths looking as fresh as flowers in a summer garden.

It is indeed a pretty fashion that has been launched of wearing flowers made of rubber to wear with swim suits. There is simply no limit to the possibilities this fashion envisions in the way of picture effects. When one sees the charming bathing ensembles by Kleimert that are enhanced with flowers, one is brought to a realization of the importance of the role rubber is playing in the fashion realm.

Faithful reproduction of the color and design of real flowers has taken years of training in workmanship. It requires artistic ability plus to successfully reproduce in rubber realistic carnations, violets, water lilies, anemones, sweet peas, forget-me-nots, gardenias, roses, cornflowers, dahlias and chrysanthemums such as fashion offers this season. We are showing below in the picture just a few types available, and if you go in quest you will be shown many more where swim suit accessories are sold. The swim suits here pictured are most as interesting as the flowers that trim them, in that they are made of a new rubber fabric that has a crepe-like knitted surface that can be softly draped to give a dressmaker touch. From the outside these attractive, practical rubber suits appear to be seamless. In reality the seams and reinforcements have been scientifically designed to prevent the possibility of ripping. Being of rubber, when you emerge from the water your suit will dry quickly, fit smoothly and feel wonderfully comfortable.

Were the accompanying illustration printed in color, as we wish it might be, one would see how amazingly realistic are the tones and tints of the flowers. The lady shown to the left is putting out to sea in a dressmaker swim suit which reflects Hawaiian influence in its wide-skirted silhouette and garland of turquoise and coral sweet peas that outlines the bodice top. Dress, flowers and matching turban are all of rubber. The striking beachbag flung over her shoulders is rubber lined. The picture centered below gives a close-up view of the flower arrangement.

The costume to the right presents an interesting study in rubber flower culture. This clever maiden selected a flower bedecked suit in deep pink. Under the flower cluster a "mad-money" pocket is hidden, which also holds locker key and lipstick, which is self explanatory as to why this suit is called "pocketeer."

And now for another revelation in rubber artistry. This time it is rubber jewelry. Note the matching halo to hold tresses in place and bracelet which the lovely lady pictured in the center at the top is wearing. Blue and yellow corn flowers form the straps of the bathing suit and the jewelry. This ensemble is called "debutante" no doubt in honor of its wearer.

Red, White and Blue

"Three cheers for the red, white and blue" and it's fashion that is joining in the chorus in accents loud and clear. This stunning hat and bag ensemble sounds a patriotic note in its red, white and blue color scheme. It is woven of cord in the three colors and emphasizes the importance of matching accessories: Accessory sets simply thrill with exciting adventures such as a bag and hat made of print cotton of the old-fashioned calico type. Polka dot bags and hats are the rage. Latest is hat, bag and shoes made of print in bizarre colorings.

Field Flowers

Daisies seem to be the winning design in the flower group, with daffodils and lilies next.

Gingham Gaiety

Brightly checked gingham is a gay touch to add to a tailored summer suit.

Felt Cartwheels

In for Popularity

If hat designers have their way, big-brimmed hats will be the outstanding successes of this summer. Felt as big as cartwheels are shown again and again, and to make them more interesting, their brims and crowns are intricately manipulated. Some are arranged in fan shape, others swoop back from the face and are trimmed with gay feathers. Almost all of them, even the largest, are trimmed with veils—some long enough to reach the waist.

Bag and Bracelet

In Red Style Note

The fashion for bright red hats, bags, jewelry and other accessories is going strong this summer. Try this combination to enliven your navy, white or black costume—a stunning bag in red leather of fabric, together with a striking red bracelet which may be of the carved plastic type or one of the new poppy red flower effects. It is within the bounds of good taste to add a matching necklace if your enthusiasm for red carries you that far.

Trim It With Lace

Is Now Sure Fire

When in doubt trim it with lace. Bolts and bolts of fine lace edging are contributing to the news in summer fashions. Hats are very smart with bows, bands, brims and crowns of lace. Accessories include matching lace bags and belts of lace—and it's chic to carry a lace parasol, too!

Parent's Love

How many hopes and fears, how many ardent wishes and anxious apprehensions are twisted together in the threads that connect the parent with the child!

No child can be sure to escape BOWEL WORMS

Maybe you don't realize how easy it is to become infected with round worms! Your child may "catch" the infection from other children, from a dog, from uncooked vegetables, from infested water.

So, watch out for these warning signals: Unsteady stomach, filigreeing and squirming, itchy nose and other parts, finicky appetite, biting nails. And if you even suspect that your child has round worms, start using JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE at once!

JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE is the best known worm-appellant in America. It has been used by millions for over a century.

JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE has the ability to drive out large round worms, yet it tastes good and acts gently. It does not contain any toxic or harmful drugs. It works merely as a mild laxative. Ask for JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE at any drug store.

Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of world-wide use, surely must be accepted as evidence of satisfactory use. And favorable public opinion supports that of the able physicians who test the value of Doan's under exacting laboratory conditions.

These physicians, too, approve every word of advertising you read, the objective of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good diuretic treatment for disorder of the kidney function and for relief of the pain and worry it causes.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and diuretic medication would be more often employed.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warn of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out.

Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than on some less favorably known. Ask your neighbor!

CREATING NEW WEALTH TO ORDER

Advertising creates new wealth by showing people new and better ways of living, and it creates new wealth by contributing to the prosperity of everyone touched by the flow of money which is set up. In this way, don't you see, advertising is a social force which is working in the interest of every one of us every day of the year, bringing us new wealth to use and enjoy.

Pomona Grange Met With Maple Grove
Grange, June 29th

After a lovely supper was served to about 85 Grangers and friends, all adjourned to the main hall where State Trooper Carlson of Post No. 7 of Traverse City showed some very interesting pictures on State Patrol work and safety. Many questions were asked Mr. Carlson and many new phases of the law were learned. Relative to bus driving, questions many pro and con replies were given. If all parents, whose children have to cross the road, would teach their children to wait until after the bus has passed, look both ways before crossing, there would be many less bus accidents. In fact, all parents should teach their children to always stop and look both ways before crossing a highway of any kind. Rep. Tibbits also brought out some very interesting points on the subject. Mrs. James Nice, an old member, passed away June 27, 1940. The next meeting will be with Peninsula August 23, 1940.

Representatives of Government Agricultural Agencies in Conference

A very profitable discussion took place last Tuesday when representatives of all agencies and organizations associated with agriculture met for a little dinner and informal gathering afterwards. At lunch the group became acquainted with each other and then met in the Federal Building, Boyne City. The following people were present: Edward LaBerge, FSA; Virginia Pierson, FSA; Howard Lytle, Smith-Hughes Instructor; Ed. Starback, Department of Conservation; Howard Bedell, Federal Land Bank; William Tindall, County Road Comm.; Roy Hardy, REA; Charles Shepard, PCA; W. H. Henley, AAA; John Taylor, AAA; W. S. Harrison, Ass't Co. Agr'l Agent; and B. C. Melencamp, Co. Agr'l Agent.

The discussion began with a brief discussion by each agency representative, mainly as to their purpose and scope of activities within the county. After this a discussion took place in regard to the land planning project. The extension agents showed maps which proved to be of great interest and attracted considerable comment. Inasmuch as this was the first get-together, very few suggestions and recommendations were made in regard to agricultural programs within the county but it is hoped that the next time the group meets a more or less specific subject will be discussed. This would look like a move in the right direction to get all agricultural agencies somewhat closer together in their responsibilities.

Starr Commonwealth
Tag Day Next
Friday, July 19th

You will meet him on the street corner, Friday, July 19th, as you go to work, on your way to lunch, during the afternoon's shopping; a small, tousled headed little lad with a remarkably contagious grin! You will know him by his handful of red tags and his coin box as one of "Uncle Floyd's Boys", a member of the Starr Commonwealth Tag Day corps who will be East Jordan guests for the day.

He may need no introduction, for tag days in behalf of Starr Commonwealth, Floyd Starr's unusual home and training school for boys who need an opportunity, have become annual events in many Michigan communities. The splendid purpose to which your contribution will be put has the unqualified endorsement of educators, clergymen and juvenile authorities everywhere — the rehabilitation in an environment of affection and understanding of boys who but for the Commonwealth never would have had a chance.

The sunny smile you'll earn, as you drop your coin in his box, and his grateful, "Thanks a lot, Mister," will be sufficient reward for most men, knowing the warm jackets, wholesome meals, the sound education it will help to buy. Starr Commonwealth, it is interesting to know, receives no state nor federal aid; it is entirely dependent on good will contributions, of which Tag Day donations form a substantial part.
