The County Grasshopper Control Committee working with representatives of the Federal committee feel that with bait being available for nearly four weeks, sufficient time will have been given every farmer to secure whatever bait may be needed, & when the station is closed on July 31, it will not be reopened for another year.

East Jordan's F.F.A. Entertain Boyne Chapter

East Jordan's chapter of the Future Farmers of America entertained the Boyne City chapter at Whiting Park on Tuesday evening, July 16. About 30 members were present.

Highlight of the program was a softball game between the two chapters. After five innings of more or less spectacular playing by both teams, the game was called because of darkness with East Jordan leading 9 to 8.

The guest speaker was A. J. Byers, head of the fruit inspection program, who talked on cherry diseases. He was introduced by Howard Lytle, agricultural instructor from Boyne City.

Canning Factory Starts Season Run

GETS UNDER WAY THIS WEEK WITH CHERRIES

The East Jordan Canning Factory started the season's activities Tuesday morning with Supt. Alex Sinclair in charge.

At present a crew of about 60 men and women are employed. By the first of next week it is expected the run will be in full swing, with a day and night shift, employing around 140 persons per shift.

The present pack consists of sour and sweet cherries, and later raspberries, beans, beets and carrots will be canned. A new phase has been added this year in the packing of cherries for the Marachino trade.

Much has been done in way of improvement to the factory. New machinery installed, also an air conditioning system, which is greatly appreciated and adds much to the comfort of the workers.

Three Dead In Drownings

HEAT WAVE AND COOL WATER IS BAD COMBINATION

Death from drowning took its toll of lives in this part of Michigan the past week.

Edward (Nip) Bayliss, 19, of Ellsworth was drowned Saturday afternoon in Six-mile lake while attempting to rescue a 3-year-old nephew from a like fate. Two men nearby heard calls for help and found the lad, Billy Miller, floating on the water. He was taken to an Ellsworth physician where he was revived by artificial respiration. The body of Mr. Bayliss was found a few hours later by Ellsworth citizens and Charlevoix coast guardsmen.

Surviving the young man are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bayliss; a brother, Howard, of Alma; two sisters, Mrs. Florine Miller of Lansing and Evelyn Jean, at home.

Our Junior Nine Trample Boyne

BY A 34 - 1 SCORE. MEET BOYNE INDEPENDENTS, SUNDAY.

In a game called at the end of six innings of play, because it was becoming too long and drawn out, the East Jordan Juniors trampled over the Boyne City Juniors 34 to 1 there last Sunday afternoon.

The Jordanites drove four hurlers off the mound, hitting hard and often and scoring almost at will. They climaxed all their scoring with a 14-run splurge in the sixth frame. Boyne's only tally came in the 1st stanza, and that without a hit.

R. Saxton worked five innings for the locals giving up but 1 hit and striking out 5. W. Saxton came in to hurl the final inning, setting the opposition down in order. Holley and Cihak did the catching. Worth started on the mound for the losers and was followed by Janak, Harper, Davis and Juneville. Price worked behind the plate for the rival city lads.

Next Sunday the locals will be put to a severe test as they meet one of the hottest teams in Northern Michigan at the present time, the Boyne City Independents, current occupiers of second place in the standings of the Top O' Michigan League, which is made up of Cheboygan, Alpena, Kalkaska, Gaylord, Grayling, Mackinaw City, and the East Jordan Independents.

Richard Saxton and Holley are scheduled to make up the battery for the locals, with either Amos Johns or Green hurling for Boyne with Lockman, promising young backstop doing the catching. The game is scheduled to commence at 1:00 o'clock as part of a double header to be held in Boyne that afternoon. Following the Juniors - Boyne tilt, Boyne will meet Gaylord in a league game.

THE CAMPAIGN: Chicagoings-on

This was the Democratic convention's lead-off message: "I (Senator Barkley) and other close friends of the President, have long known that he has no wish to be a candidate again. We know, too, that in no way whatsoever has he exerted any influence in the selection of the delegates, or upon the opinions of delegates in this convention.

"Tonight, at the specific request and authorization of the President, I am making this simple fact clear to this convention. The President has never had, and has not today, any desire or purpose to continue in the office of President, to be a candidate for that office, or to be nominated by the convention for that office. He wishes in all earnestness and sincerity, to make it clear that all of the delegates to this convention are free to vote for any candidate. That is the message I deliver to you tonight from the President of the United States, by authority of his word."

Some 22,500 men and women, packed into the Chicago stadium, heard the presidential message. It was a turning point, probably, in American history. For the convention the next day nominated President Roosevelt for a third term. No man had ever before received this honor. A day later, Henry Wallace, secretary of agriculture, was nominated vice president virtually at the request of the President. The convention indicated the issues would be foreign affairs and the utilities, principally.

Wendell Wilkie in the meantime warned the Democrats. He said he didn't want to hear any more about the Insull scandal, and indicated that he was tired of wisecracks about public utilities. It was true that some Democrats had been whispering at a great rate along those lines. Wilkie was a bad man to try and smear, for he is peppy, peppy, and given to rough, biting invective. But Wilkie did agree with the Democrat Bankhead, in condemning the speculative orgies of the 1920s. Wilkie said, too, that he liked to protect the investments of the people against the assaults of their governments. This all emanated from Wilkie's vacation haunt at Colorado Springs, as did a statement that he welcomed the third term issue presented by Roosevelt. What price "party"? Wendell

... in the news

King Zog of Albania, his tiny crown prince Skander, and his half-American Queen Geraldine, plus Zog's sisters three, were planning to come to the United States, that new "St. Helena."

Allyn Jennings, general superintendent of New York city's parks since 1936, became the new general director of New York's famous Bronx zoo.

Pope Plus instructed his official nuncio to France, Valerio Valeri, to give every aid and support to Marshal Henri Petain's new fascist government. Generals Petain and Weygand, two of the triumvirate, are devoutly clerical. Dark-faced, white-tied Laval, the third member, is not.

Oswald Lewis, Tory member of parliament, suggested that England sell America at least one of the West Indian Islands for use as an air and naval base. This, said Mr. Lewis, would cancel that "eternal" war debt question.

Wilkie, Republican candidate for President, was a registered Democrat until two years ago. Henry A. Wallace, Democratic candidate for vice president, was a registered Republican until four years ago.

That Wilkie would prefer to make the campaign on domestic issues and that President Roosevelt would keep it on the foreign issue if possible seemed indicated in the early days of the campaign.

But wise William Allen White, who in the capacity of journalist attended both conventions, declared that neither Wilkie nor Roosevelt would determine the results of the final election in November. It would be Hitler, he stated. He meant, no doubt, that the repercussions of a complete Hitler victory, or vice versa, would weigh more with the American voters than the oratory of both Wilkie and Roosevelt.

One thing seems conclusive. The Old Guard in both the Republican and the Democratic parties were not at first satisfied with the final choices. Much may depend on how they ultimately accept the decision of their conventions.

II GERMAN WAR: Rumorings

There were twin rumors going the usual rounds in the usual ringtones. One of these rumors predicted a huge mass offensive by the Germans against England. The other rumor was of peace. Hitler's "blitzkrieg" against Britain had been "set" by various "authorities" on several days. These were wrong guesses time and again as were the "peace" guesses.

'NO BASIS': Boyir No Nazi

Not everyone who is called a "communist" is one, and not everyone who is called a "Nazi" agent is one. Carl Boyir, New York publicist, is no "Nazi" representative, says the Federal Bureau of Investigation. The FBI investigated on Boyir's request because Rep. Wright Patman one day got up in the house and sounded off against Boyir. The enmity between the two is really over another matter. Patman's "chain-store tax" bill is the source of their feud. Boyir has been directing publicity against the Patman bill. So, among other things, Patman called Boyir a Nazi tool. There was "no basis" to the charge, reported the FBI.

CUBA LIBRE: Elections

Col. Fulgencio Batista, Cuban dictator for seven long years, beat Dr. Grau San Martin in the Cuban presidential election. Also, six provincial governorships, most of the mayoralships, and 24 senatorial seats were scheduled for Batista candidates. Batista had, supporting him, parties of the right, left and center. San Martin had, supporting him, more parties of the right, left and center. The communists plumped for Batista, but so did some of the Cuban Tories.

Meanwhile, Generals Camacho (government candidate) and Almanzan (opposition candidate) continued to fuss and argue about the net results of the Mexican presidential election. Both appealed to the fair and tolerant President Cardenas, the "honest broker." Just the same, Camacho had it in the bag.

FDR-Wallace Ticket Choice Of Democrats

Third-Term Tradition Is Broken by Delegates At Convention.

By GEORGE A. BARCLAY
A TRADITION of 152 years standing was shattered when President Franklin Delano Roosevelt was nominated for a third term by the Democratic convention in Chicago. It was the first time in history that such an event has occurred.

From start to finish at the convention it was evident he would be nominated. Even when speakers proposed the names of other candidates, it was apparent that when the vote was finally taken, President Roosevelt would be drafted. A surprise to many convention attendants was the fact that when the nominations started, Alabama did not yield to New York, but gave its junior senator, Lister Hill, the honor of nominating the President.

Greatest speculation centered around the nomination of a vice president. It became known on the final day that President Roosevelt's choice was Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture. As in the case of the renomination of the President, the delegates knew for whom they were to vote before entering the hall. But it was only after a neck-and-neck race with Speaker William B. Bankhead and a noisy demonstration by groups of delegates and spectators who shouted objections when Paul V. McNutt, federal security administrator, asked withdrawal of his own name, that Mr. Wallace was nominated. His selection is expected to appeal to agriculture and to act as an offset to the same appeal of Sen. Charles McNary, Republican vice-presidential nominee.

Acceptance Speech.

In accepting the nomination for a third term, Mr. Roosevelt showed himself once more a tradition smasher.

In a radio address broadcast from the White House to the delegates he said that he accepted the nomination only after deep conflict between his personal desire to retire and the urgings of his conscience. But now, he said, the European war had created a public danger in the United States.

"In the face of that danger," he told the delegates, "all those who can be of service to the republic have no other choice but to offer themselves for service in those capacities for which they are best fitted."

It was an apparently united party that made the ballot unanimous for Roosevelt after the vote of the state delegations had given the President 948 13/30 of the 1,100 votes in the convention and the other candidates a combined total of 149 2/30. These candidates included Postmaster General Farley, Vice President Garner and Senator Millard Tydings. Secretary of State Hull, although not a candidate, had received 5% votes. One after another the names were withdrawn and finally Mr. Farley, spearhead of the opposition to the third term, moved the nomination of the President by acclamation.

Aside from the balloting and the reading of the planks in the platform, three things stood out in sharp relief in an otherwise unemotional and unexciting convention. One was the candidacy of James A. Farley and the speculation over his future role in the party. The other was the reading by Permanent Chairman Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky of a statement summarizing President Roosevelt's views on the nomination the night before the balloting in which he said he had no desire or purpose to continue in office and released all delegates pledged to him. The third was the dramatic appearance of 82-year-old Senator Carter Glass of Virginia from a sick bed to inveigh against breaking the third term tradition as he nominated Mr. Farley.

Roosevelt vs. Farley.

The approaching dissolution of the partnership between Mr. Farley and President Roosevelt was evident as the chairman of the Democratic National committee raised his gavel on Monday noon, calling the convention to order. Those who remembered the situation in 1932 and 1936 when Farley was the organizing genius felt the contrast. No longer was Jim Farley the general-in-chief directing the strategy that would renominate his chief. He was in another role—that of a candidate for the presidency himself and an avowed opponent of the third-term idea.

For months it had been apparent to political observers that the President and Mr. Farley no longer saw eye-to-eye. The President's silence on the third-term question and Farley's known opposition to it increased the difficulties. Their historic conference at Hyde Park, N. Y., a week before the convention at which Mr. Roosevelt made known his views and pledged Farley to secrecy, pushed the question of their future relationship further into the limelight. To many, it seemed virtual confirmation of the long-standing rumor that Mr. Farley would resign his national committee and cabinet posts after the convention to take over the majority stock of the New York Yankees' ball club.

Complimentary references to Jim Farley by President Roosevelt in his radioed acceptance speech and by Mrs. Roosevelt who appeared personally to speak on the closing night were interpreted as a gesture of friendship to Mr. Farley.

With evidence mounting that Roosevelt would be drafted when it came time to ballot later in the week, there was little opportunity for suspense or excitement the opening day. The keynote speech of Temporary Chairman William B. Bankhead on opening night warned both political parties that the American people are in no mood for petty politics in the forthcoming race, that the major objectives of both parties must be unity and solidarity of purpose in preserving the structure of our government and the perpetuation of the people's freedom.

Fire at Republicans.

Heavy guns were turned on the Republican party in the speech of Permanent Chairman Barkley, the following night. Senator Barkley held their platform up to scorn, denounced Wendell L. Wilkie, attacked statements of Herbert Hoover at the Republican convention and pointed to the record of Republican congressional voting on various preparedness bills. One mention of President Roosevelt's name brought a demonstration lasting 22 minutes.

The statement from President Roosevelt which Mr. Barkley read at the conclusion of his speech, had no effect in halting the draft-Roosevelt movement, although Mr. Barkley had said "The President has never had and has not today any desire or purpose to continue the office of President, or to be nominated, by the convention for that office. He wishes in all earnestness and sincerity to make it clear that all of the delegates to this convention are free to vote for any candidate."

A demonstration lasting an hour followed the statement and it was a foregone conclusion that nothing could stop the delegates demand for Roosevelt when balloting took place. This was abundantly clear on Wednesday night, as state after state seconded the nomination speech.

Glass Gets Ovation.

Dramatic was the appearance of Senator Glass on behalf of Postmaster General Farley. Rising from a sickbed and attending what may well be his last convention, the Virginia statesman was eloquent in his praise of Farley and won for himself a personal ovation. "Farley," he said, "is a man who never broke a pledge once given, who believes in the unwritten law as advocated by Democrats ever since the days of Thomas Jefferson, who less than three years before his death appealed to his party never to nominate a man for a third term."

But while the delegates cheered Senator Glass, it was a personal tribute only. Their minds were made up. Tradition or no tradition they wanted President Roosevelt for a third term.

With the nominations out of the way, the Democrats faced their campaign opponents from a platform built on a strong defense of the New Deal against the Republicans and of the Western hemisphere against all aggressors. In its planks on foreign wars, defense and aid to the allies the platform was a close approximation of similar planks adopted by the Republican convention at Philadelphia recently.

Concerning foreign wars, the platform stated: "We will not participate in foreign wars and will not send our army, naval or air forces to fight in foreign lands outside of the Americas, except in case of attack."

Concerning defense the platform pledged to "enforce and defend the Monroe doctrine," "provide America with an invincible air force, a navy strong enough to protect all our seacoasts and a fully equipped and mechanized army."

The platform is pledged to safeguard the farmer's foreign markets, expand his domestic markets for all domestic crops, to promote farmer-owned co-operatives, marketing agreements, extend crop insurance and safeguard the family-size farm.

In other planks, the party pledged extension of the Social Security act to "millions of persons not now protected," but without specifying them. A provision calling for "early realization" of a minimum pension for the aged was considered an appeal for votes of the Townsendites.

The party devoted considerable space to its declaration for continuation of public hydro-electric projects and condemning the "Power Monopoly" in one paragraph mentioning indirectly Wendell L. Wilkie's long duel with the Tennessee Valley authority.

Democratic Women Gain Voice In Party's Platform Council

By HOWARD JARVIS

ANOTHER tradition was broken by the Democratic party when it gave women delegates an equal voice with men on the party platform committee for the first time in American political history.

This action was taken at the fourth session of the convention. More than 2,000 women delegates had decided to put up a united front to demand this equality.

The women didn't hesitate to use their new-found power. They introduced several amendments to the party platform, and those amendments were passed. Foreign policy and women's rights received particular attention.

At the insistence of Mrs. Arthur Condon of Washington, D. C., the plank on foreign policy which had already been accepted by the committee was changed to provide a warning to foreign dictators. Five words, "except in case of attack" were added to the pledge not to send troops to fight in foreign lands.

The new committeewomen put through a plank which had been rejected by the all-men members of the Republican platform committee. This was a statement which provided that a woman's marital status should not interfere with her right to hold a job. The plank was desired because 26 states at different times have had bills proposed to discriminate against married women.

Another victory for the women resulted when the Democratic party was pledged to promote equal opportunity for women through the efforts of Congresswoman Mary T. Norton of New Jersey. It pledged the Democrats to work for "equality of opportunity for men and women without impairing the social legislation which promotes true equality by safeguarding the health and economic welfare of women workers."

Women delegates concerned themselves primarily with the business of the convention and forgot their social activities, according to Mrs. Elizabeth A. Conkey, national committeewoman from Illinois. As convention hostess, she pointed out that most of the social activities had been concluded before the convention got down to its serious work.

Random Notes of the Convention

More women delegates cast their votes in the various state delegations than ever before in the history of conventions. One state delegation—Utah—had more women than men, the ladies outnumbering the gentlemen nine to seven. In the Florida delegation the representation of the sexes was equal. The New Jersey delegation had Rep. Mary Norton as its chairman.

One-eyed Connolly, perennial gate-crasher, failed to crash but attended the convention wearing the badge of an assistant sergeant of arms. He assisted Andy Frain, in charge of ushers.

Hollywood was represented by screen star Melvyn Douglas and his wife, Helen Gagan. He was a California delegate, she his alter-

See This Dress for Some Child Refugee

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS
WHEN war came to Finland a Red Cross group to sew for refugees was started in our community. The feeling that our home needs were more important was so strong that exactly two workers came. When the Low Countries were invaded more joined. Now, 12 or 14 women meet faithfully and make about 60 woolen dresses every week, in sizes 9 to 14. The group is financed through gifts of money and material which they themselves have solicited. They bought the simplest dress pattern that they could find and then eliminated every unnecessary detail. "Work for quantity—don't bother with a collar," the county Red Cross leader urged. "Never mind the pocket—there will be nothing to put into it anyway."

I have just sketched here some short cuts used to speed up production; and as I write this, looking out of my studio window over a beautiful and peaceful garden, I am trying not to think of winter and what it will be like in Europe when some child is wearing this little blue woolen frock.

A Masquerade

Things are seldom what they seem; skim milk masquerades as cream.—Gilbert.

"What? WORMS in my child?.. Never!"

Don't be so sure, Mother!

Yes, right now, crawling round worms may be growing and multiplying inside your child without your even knowing it!

This nasty infection may be "caught" easily, everywhere. And the outward signs are very misleading. For example, sneezing and itching. No-sleeping, and scratching other parts. Noisy stomach. Finicky appetite. Biting nails.

If you even suspect that your child has round worms, get JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE right away! JAYNE'S is the best known worm expellant in America. It is backed by modern scientific study, and has been used by millions, for over a century.

JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE has the ability to drive out large round worms, yet it tastes good and acts gently. It does not contain castor oil. If no worms are there it works merely as a mild laxative. Ask for JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE at any drug store.

Early Auto Advertising Is Now Quaint Humor

The old vaudeville wheeze about the car that had "wooden frame, wooden wheels, wooden body—and wood'n run" recalls some of the things manufacturers were telling the public about their product 30 or 35 years ago.

The Aerocar was advertised as "the rich man's car at a poor man's price—$2,000." Today the popular priced auto sells for about $750.

The Winton was advertised "as easily controlled as the best mannered horse and safer because it cannot scare."

Some other slogans designed to lure the public away from the horse back in the early days included:

Yale—"A car with the doubt and the jar left out."

Jackson—"No hill too steep, no sand too deep."

Knox—"The car that obviates the tow."

Thomas—"The car that shuns the repair shop."

In 1905 the Premier car somewhat proudly published a testimonial from two motorists who had run up a total of 500 miles on roads between Troy and Boston. According to the testimonial, total cost of the trip was $73.65—about 14 cents a mile. The driver today has an overall cost of 4 cents or less.

Another testimonial said: "I have used my Thomas Flyer nearly every day and have no use for a rope as yet."

Other Thomas Flyer advertisements said the car was "as sweet and sound as a nut, just as brimful and bubbling over with power, light on its feet and eager to get away, and at the same time instantaneously docile and obedient."

Of course the early automobiles came in for considerable ribbing by comedians. Magazines printed such howlers as the one about the lady who asked a tramp how he accustomed himself to such long walks. "Please, mum," said the tramp, "I used to own an automobile."

Many Potato Varieties Are Studied by Botanist

To the housewife and the restaurant patron the world of the potato may be divided into five parts—baked, boiled, French fried, mashed and hashed brown.

But E. K. Balls, an English botanist estimates that there are at least 600 varieties of potato. An account of his expedition in the highlands of western South America has recently been published.

In one single cultivated field in Peru, Mr. Balls found 15 different kinds. Wild types were found from Mexico to Argentina.

By hybridization the botanists seek to develop a potato resistant to both disease and cold. In Bolivia Mr. Balls saw a potato that could withstand a nightly temperature of 22 degrees Fahrenheit without wilting.

In addition to collecting potato specimens, Mr. Balls made many photographs in the Andes. Among them was a series showing the use of the ancient Peruvian footplow.

Black Lace on Sheer White or Pastel Is Intriguing Vogue

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

BLACK lace old looking? We should say not! That's an old-time fallacy which modern fashion has exploded.

When designers start in to create a party frock that will reflect the very embodiment of youth and charm, it is delicate-as-a-cobweb black lace they select to tell the story. The program of fine black lace is a vast one endless in interpretation. You'll love these lace flatterers, especially the all-lace gown so filmy in mesh it looks like a mere tracery of flower and leaf patterning silhouetted against shoulders and throat.

Take our word for it, if you want a costume that will outglamour any that go dancing on a starry mid-summer night, choose one of these black fantasies artfully styled in terms of youth. With these wispy lovely all-black lace creations the big fashion is to play up pastel accessories. To a fetching little flower hat in mellow pink together with necklace and bracelet that repeats the pink, add pink matching gloves. It will be equally effective with accents of pastel blue or orchid. If you are a black-and-white devotee, wear chalk white jewelry, gardenias for a headpiece, with a gardenia tied at your wrist.

The dresses that particularly lay siege to the heart of youth for party wear this summer are those airy fairy creations of frothy white starched tissue-like chiffon (pastel tinted sheer makes up equally as effective) that take on a profusion of ruffles and bands of exquisite black lace. You can see in the illustration that gowns of this type are heart-smashers of the most dangerous sort.

Note how youthfully these summer fantasies play up the witchery of black lace. The figure seated is a picture in a lovely dress that generously and artfully bands and ruffles billowy white chiffon with enchanting black lace. There are animated ruffings of the lace meandering about the wide skirt and accomplishing an adorable off-shoulder decolletage. And here's good news in that this delectable model is available in white, pink, blue or all black.

Parasols are coming back! We are showing one to the left in the picture made of handsome all-over lace and it's a beauty, the sort that imparts allure to any dainty summer costume. Lots of lace on the dress, too, you will note. The butterfly appliques on the skirt underline the up-to-the-minute chic of this gown.

No story on lace would be complete without telling of the entry into the summer scene of the most stunning sheer black hats imaginable on picture. These diaphanous concoctions of lace, or tulle, or chiffon in dusky midnight black are the big millinery sensation of the season.

You can go as far as you like in the matter of breadth of brim, in fact, the wider the better the brim that halos the head this season.

The use of sheerest black lace in connection with crisp thin horse-hair braid gives you the very transparency fashion insists upon for hats.

Flower Headdress

The perfect recipe for glamour for any belle who dines and dances at fashionable summer fetes is a head-dress of fragrant gardenias with streamers of silvered leaves to silhouette her coiffure. Orchids, carnations or roses make equally as glamorous headpieces.

Sidesaddle Drapes Is Latest Fashion

Side closings for both coats and dresses is the message fashion is broadcasting for the coming months. Watch the development of this styling feature that is bringing about an entirely new silhouette. Advance coats now tie way over to the side, while the newer dresses fasten over toward the one side via deftly arranged drapes.

Black Dress With Gay Shawl Is New

With style sophisticates the black dress is still a favorite. The latest is to add a spice of color with a gay fanciful shawl. It's a clever way of making a stylish black dress look more stylish, especially if you add a hat to match the shawl. Choose a colorful printed crepe or vivid sheer woolen for these companion pieces. It is a most exciting fashion, be assured, full of high drama, especially if you acquire wearing the shawl in a casual nonchalant manner—practice the art of wearing these whimsical fringed triangles before your mirror. Lots of room for romance and coquetry in wearing the new shawls!

Pocket Popularity To Have Long Life

Anything so practical as the fashion for multiple pockets is destined to have a long life and a merry one. For the schoolgirls, who never seem to have enough of them, they are being doubled and redoubled. They're set in rows on bodices and skirts, anywhere from two to six of them, and occasionally, for good measure, small change pockets are sewn on top of bigger pockets.

Two-in-One Skirts Practical Notion

Now you see it as a formal skirt and now you see it as a practical daytime skirt. A detachable flounce is the trick that works this magic. The knee-deep ruffle is made to button on or snap on and off in a jiffy. These two-purpose skirts are selling in leading stores.

Lead World in War Material

Our Country Has Potential Production Capacity Without Equal.

PITTSBURGH. — The United States leads the world in potential production capacity of explosives, both for peace and war purposes, according to a former World War Austrian chemist, now a professor at Carnegie Institute of Technology. Dr. Ernst Berl, research professor at Carnegie Tech and former chief chemist of the Austro-Hungarian war ministry, listed a number of factors which, he said, would assure an almost unlimited manufacture of shells and other artillery ordnance in an emergency.

The abundance of raw material in the United States, he explained, is an important factor, but is not the only reason. Other factors include an efficient and extensive transportation system, and a highly trained personnel in all branches of the work.

Reserves of Petroleum.
Among important available raw materials, he listed huge reserves of petroleum, natural gas, coal and cellulose—all of which are vital in the manufacture of explosives. In all these, he declared, the United States excels all other countries.

Also helpful will be the abundant output of fats and sugars, which form the foundation for certain munitions, Dr. Berl said.

On the personnel side, he pointed out, there are 13,000 chemical engineers in the country, and also a smaller number of chemists to staff an explosives industry, if necessary. "In short," Dr. Berl declared, "we have both brains and the stuff to use them upon."

Essential Minerals Available.
Another source of strength to the United States munitions industry in Berl's opinion is the availability, if raw materials are deficient, of nickel from Canada, nitrates from Chile, mercury from Bolivia, Chile and Mexico, platinum from Canada and Colombia, and tin supplies from Bolivia.

At home, also, the country's enormous supplies of cracking gases enable cheap production of glycol and glycerin.

Romantic Moss Becomes Million Dollar Industry

NEW ORLEANS.—Spanish moss, hanging from ancient oaks that are associated with the South's famous plantations and shaded lanes, has furnished a setting for romantic novels from the Civil war period to the present day.

But there is a story about the moss that few people know—the epiphyte or air plant alone has brought a million dollar industry to Louisiana.

For more than 50 years, Cajun fishermen and swamp dwellers have penetrated Louisiana's dense swamplands, shinned up the cypress, gum, oak and other trees upon which the moss grows and loaded it into their pirogues for the trip home.

There, fishermen pile the moss in a pile, wet it and then let it dry. The next step is the moss gins, where it is cleaned, ginned, and packed into bales of 60 to 150 pounds or more.

Manufacturers of upholstery, mattresses and similar products buy it for about seven cents a pound. It is commercially valuable because of its tough, central fibers.

No estimates have been made of the quantity of moss available in the state, but it has been reported that as the virgin timber has been cut, the quantity has increased.

The species is very prolific, reproducing both vegetatively and by seed, and gin owners see little reason for a diminishing supply.

'Real Son' of Revolution Observes 92nd Birthday

SOUTH WOODBURY, VT.—Still spry and keenly interested in the current European war, the only living "real son" of the American Revolution celebrated his ninety-second birthday recently. He is William Constant Wheeler, whose father fought under Gen. George Washington in the war of independence more than a century and a half ago.

The father, Comfort Wheeler, was born at Rehoboth, Mass., March 13, 1766. He enlisted in April, 1780, at the age of 14, and served as orderly to Gen. Nathanael Greene. The son, William, was born to Comfort's third marriage, which took place when Comfort was nearly 80 years old.

William, a veteran in his own right by virtue of his Civil war service, lives with his 79-year-old wife, Evelyn, and their two sons on a 20-acre farm on the outskirts of this village.

LOUIS E. ANDERSON

OF NORTHPORT

Former State Representative from the Charlevoix District will again be a candidate for the office.

Your favorable consideration at the Republican Primaries will be genuinely appreciated.

"All this was built for me"

WHAT builds America? Basically, it is the desire of Americans—you and 130,000,000 others—for better things.

Your desire for better transportation resulted in the automobile, the streamline train, and the airplane.

Because of you, laboratories worked months and years to produce fabrics out of test tubes. Corn becomes oil for cooking or flaked food; soybeans become milk, flour, paint, plastics.

Your desire for better living has put science and industry to work to make all the electric appliances you use: electric lights, vacuum cleaner, refrigerator, toaster, electric fan, radio and many others.

Because you use so many of these tools for better living, you help yourself to get electric service in such quantity and quality as was hardly dreamed of thirty years ago. You have made possible the development of the marvelous system of interconnected power plants from which this company and other electric companies supply reliable service day and night.

All this is possible because you use more and more electricity, year after year. When you buy a new electric appliance you don't dispose of one you already have; you keep adding appliances, each one of which makes some household task easier.

Your increased use of electric service, plus the economies of this company's operation, have cut rates to about half what they were twelve or fifteen years ago. Under modern promotional rates, now in effect, you can automatically reduce the average rate you pay still further; the more electricity you use each month, the lower your average rate will be.

Thus your desires have helped this company and other electric companies build a great industry. We members of that industry are proud to be able to serve you so well. We pledge ourselves to continue our work, thereby keeping pace with your desire for better living at lower cost.

WNU SERVICE

THE STORY THUS FAR

Summoned to the C C ranch in central Nevada, desert-wise Walt Gandy is on his way to help his old range partner, Bill Hollister. Walt is stopped short by a girl—who holds a rifle in firing position. She knows him, tells him how to get to the ranch, and tells him that they will meet again. Within a quarter of a mile from his destination, Walt is stopped again. This time by a grotesque, misshapen man, Bent Lavin by name, who tells him to get out and then tells him the C C crew is in Emigrant, the closest town, for an inquest. Someone has been murdered. Riding to the inquest in Emigrant, Walt leaves his horse in the livery stable. Walt learns that Cash Cameron, owner of the C C ranch, is in trouble. A hard but honest man, Cash has many enemies. At the inquest, Bill Hollister and the girl who had stopped him, Chino Drake, former cook at the C C ranch, has been murdered. Riding to the inquest, Hollister and Gandy return to the C C. Hollister borrows two hundred dollars from Gandy. That evening Walt meets Helen Cameron in the kitchen. From the first he has been drawn to her. Then she tells him that Bill Hollister is one of the finest men she has ever known. The bawling of cattle that night brought Walt out to investigate. Curious he steps into the saddle shed. Then the shed door opens slowly. It is Helen. Angry, she leaves, but not until she warns him to forget the C C.

"Lavin was a cowman some eighteen, twenty years ago," Hollister continued. "He controlled range, Cameron owned cattle, they were going to merge into one big outfit when Lavin had his accident. Got thrown from a horse and laid in the snow all of one night before anyone found him. I don't know what set in because of that, but it left him in awful shape. And it did something else.

"You haven't seen it yet. Lavin hates Cameron. Jealousy. He hoped to be the kingpost here, and Cameron's rise to the power he wanted curdled his gizzard. Watch his face sometime across the table, you'll see. After the accident, Cameron opened his money bags and bought Lavin out instead of watching him lose his range, then told Lavin to make the ranch his home as long as he wanted to. Bent stayed—as far as I know he's never been off the C C even to go to town. Know why? Helen." Hollister shot a sidelong glance. "What do you think of that girl?"

"Let's finish with Lavin first," Walt answered.

"Might help," Hollister grinned back. It's like I said, Bent stayed because of Helen. Her mother had died, and he raised her; she was only a little kid then. Lavin kept the house going, was her watch-dog, and later on taught her all she knows of riding and camping out.

"And hitting what she aims a gun at?" Walt put in.

Tight-reined, Hollister set his horse back to a sudden stop. "What do you mean by that?"

Gandy's palomino took the cue and halted also. Walt wet his thumbs and began the rolling of a cigarette.

"Helen Cameron," he said, exhaling blue smoke, "strikes me as being a keen party with a rifle, that's all. She has a straight eye and a steady hand, and I'll bet when she handles a gun it's no fooling!"

"Walt, don't jump up and grab onto the conclusion that I'm ready to quit or something. That isn't it, and before this thing is over with, a pack of chop-licking hyenas are going to find it out. But you've sat in plenty of poker games yourself, and you know once in a long while you can read your cards before you pick them up. It's more than a hunch—you know what lies there face down."

"I know what you're going to say," scoffed Gandy.

"AM right," Hollister insisted, "it's a fact. I can see it coming. And that," he emphasized, "is why you're here."

"Walt Gandy grinned. "The black boy is in 'em, huh?"

He tried to make light of this thing that Hollister was predicting; but a cold chill played leapfrog up and down his backbones, for he knew Bill Hollister, and he knew also the too frequently proved fact that if a man is marked in a country like this, the day will come sometime when a horse trots back to the home ranch with stirrups flapping and the saddle empty. It takes only one bullet, and that bullet can be met at any turn of the trail; any clump of cedar or benchland coulee can hide its sender.

The murder? Something rotten? Under that dark mood of his Bill Hollister had a temper. Chino Drake had been shot in the back. No man would admit that, even to a partner. Walt Gandy scowled and threw away his cigarette.

"What are the cards in this hand you've read face down?" he asked. "Turn 'em up! If I'm sitting in on this game, I don't play anything blind."

To face him, Hollister shifted onto one leg, his hard hands reaching for support on saddle horn and cantle. "All right, I'll show you. How's this: Cash Cameron is broke!"

There was flat finality in the way Hollister said the word. "Lord!" breathed Gandy; and his gaze swept out over the miles of C C domain, along the benches that stepped down from the high Emigrant Mountains, swung north following the curve of the range, west into the long basin of the sink, and then, hardly aware of it, he was staring on still farther west to the wide prairie that marked the 77. So Cash Cameron was busted!

"Flat," Bill Hollister was saying. "No one knows it, not even Helen. The bench knows he is in a hole, and that it might break him, later; but the fact is I've been carrying the C C for more than a year. I'm supposed to be only part owner. Walt, I own darn near the whole thing!"

"War and all," said Gandy.

"Yes, that's right. If these hyenas had known what condition the C C was in, they wouldn't have waited for something to tie us up before they started jumping our grass. They still think we have the almighty Cameron dollars behind us. Well, we haven't."

"Here's another card. We use public domain for winter grazing, and national forest in the summer, making us all around dependent upon public good humor for our grass. Now what's happening? First thing is we've got to have that national forest privilege—both it's being cut away from us. Each year our allotment of how many cows we can send up into the mountains is being decreased. C C stuff has been penalized for breaking beyond the drift fence, and our summer crews have been charged with setting fires, such stuff as that, until it looks like someone has got the Forest Service by the ear and is talking in low tones. That's what Cameron and Ranger Powell have wrangled about lately."

Walt Gandy sat flicking a loose rein end against his chap's leg. "Powell," he mused, "was Cash Cameron's alibi at the inquest, wasn't he?"

Hollister's heavy brows gathered. "Well?"

"This Powell was the alibi," Gandy amended, "only the alibi didn't show up." His non-committal brown gaze narrowed off over the valley. "He was perhaps just taking a ride and couldn't be got hold of that day. Huh?"

"Look here, Walt! What do you know?" Hollister's voice suddenly had a lash in it. Gandy looked around. At last something had brought a rise out of the man. Muscles of Hollister's lean jaw knotted and his black eyes blazed. "Are you telling me something?" he demanded. "Or was that talk?"

There came to him again the feeling that the C C people were covering up, not uncovering. So he said: "I only know that Ranger Powell hasn't been seen since the day your Chino Drake cook was killed."

"Sure, well," and Hollister visibly let down, "nothing unusual in that. Sam Powell always takes a long circle around his district before winter sets in."

"Let's see the rest of your cards," said Gandy.

Hollister again studied the fork of his black's ears. He hesitated, spoke tight-jawed when he said then:

"Chino Drake and Helen. That cook was a low cross-breed between an Indian buck and a Chinese woman, and bad. He watched Cameron once and stole money from a post-hole bank. Cash used to pull out a fence post, drop a money bag in and put the post back. We never did get what Drake took and always thought he had it hidden on the place. He was a yellow devil! Ought to have been run off the benches, but Cameron gave him a chance."

While Hollister talked of Chino Drake, a black mood grew upon him, and he finished now with a savage snap. "Then I caught him after Helen!"

In that moment the case of Chino Drake seemed clear.

"So you killed him, huh?" Walt asked.

Hollister's head jerked around. "Suppose I did, then what?"

"Shot him in the back like that?" "Yes."

"Well," said Walt, "nothing much. Only I'd be through here. I wasn't brought up in that school."

Hollister laughed. "You sure would and I know it!" He shifted upright in his saddle. "Let's get along."

This time it was Walt Gandy who held back. "There's a special card, Bill, that I want to see. A high one you haven't turned up. What about the queen of hearts?"

The short burst of laughter died in Hollister's mouth. "Helen? You mean that girl?"

"I sure do," Walt said. "It grips me a lot to hear a man talk about playing to a marked deck when he holds a trump like that to back up any bet he makes! There you are. You asked me a while ago what I thought of her. That's it. You fool! We'll go right ahead and clean this range of whatever has happened here, then you marry the girl! What do you say?"

Walt Gandy finished, grinning, but was cut short next instant by Hollister's look. It was as if he had reached out and struck the man's face with a whip lash. It was set, lined, and hard. Hollister's powerful hands had a vice hold on the saddle horn, and for a full minute he sat staring straight ahead, until the savage thing that had gripped him passed, and turned with only a smoldering of it in his drilling eyes.

"You don't know what you're talking about, Walt. I'll never marry Helen Cameron!"

He put spurs to his horse and they loped on, covering miles and saying nothing. Bill Hollister had showed his cards—almost. There was one, Walt Gandy knew, still face down.

CHAPTER XI

IT TOOK him a couple of hours to become dead certain of that last down card. Meanwhile there was work.

Five white-faced steers jumped from a coulee and fled toward the mountains. He and Hollister circled them, picked up more in a palo-verde brake and returned to the bench flat.

The herd of strays grew. When a deeper ravine cut the bench and here secretly that day of the inquest? What could have brought her? Meeting someone? There flicked across his mind a suspicion of treachery. This spring was out toward the 77 range; only one 77 man had showed up in Emigrant that day. The others? Was Helen having secret dealings with the enemy camp? But then he could not bring that charge against the girl.

"What are the cards in this hand you've read face down?"

A thing was beginning to come clear. In all her acts, in questioning him last night, then being so evasive and suspicious, what was the girl afraid of? Was it altogether the motive, which by her very nature, had appeared instantly the most probable one?

Until this minute he had been working on the idea that Helen Cameron was shielding somebody on the C C. Now suddenly Gandy sat rigid. She wasn't! They were shielding her!

In the light of this, the reason for keeping him in the dark ever since his arrival here was plain enough. They couldn't talk. Everything was being covered. Even Hollister had not wanted to tell him the truth of what had happened. Helen had killed Chino Drake.

In slow deliberation Gandy drew tobacco sack and paper book from his left shirt pocket and rolled a smoke. There was just one hole. From what he had gathered, there was cause aplenty for the breed cook getting a bullet. The girl could have been acquitted. No jury in this country would have hung anything onto her. Then why hadn't the C C come out with it flat-footed?

He lighted his cigarette and took a deep drag. It was a hole, he had to admit, that a fair-sized mule could jump through. Still his belief remained.

Hollister's bunch had already passed. Tracks in the wash sand showed that. Gandy prodded up his white-faces, and in a rising dust fog they swung along in their stiff-backed gallop, seeming to be familiar now with the way to the sink. He knew it could not be far, for the sheer flanking cliffs of the ravine shouldered up some three hundred feet on either side and had begun to bear apart.

There was a bend ahead. His cattle turned on the run; plowed next instant to a bawling stop before another herd coming back. They were C C's, Hollister's strays. But Hollister? Gandy lashed in, milled the combined bunches, got them headed down again, and then with unexpected abruptness the ravine ended, and the seven-mile width of the sink was before him.

Freely, his cattle plunged onto the flat and scattered, but he suddenly pulled down, tight-muscled, as two riders darted from behind a shoulder of the cliff and raced to cut him off.

The fleece collar of his sheepskin coat had been turned up against the biting fall air and salt dust stirred by the cattle. Now he turned it down, sliding one hand along the metal fastenings until the front lay open at his throat and chest.

By this time he had located Bill Hollister, sitting his black horse over against the cliff, and a third member of the well-mounted group was with him. It was this third one who put the deliberation in Walt Gandy's movements, for in another few minutes he and Pete Kelso, the 77 foreman, were going to have their first meeting since that fight in the Emigrant livery barn. It was apt to be, Gandy realized, considerable of a meeting.

The two riders coming to cut him off were close in front now.

"Howdy?" he said, gravely polite. "Could you boys give me the time? Or maybe not; don't bother. Let's go over and ask your boss. Kelso, isn't it? Old friend of mine."

He picked up his reins, the unopened tobacco sack still in his right hand. "Come on. Or were you two going some place?"

One crowded in on his right side red-faced. "You're a smart talker, huh? One of them kind!"

Gandy said nothing, watching him. "You'll shut up soon enough!" the red face growled.

Hollister and Pete Kelso were just ahead. Walt Gandy knew he was being maneuvered into place. He held his palomino back. The two flanking him crowded against his legs.

"What's the idea?" the red-faced one snapped. He seemed to be leader here, probably next under Pete Kelso.

When they halted, Gandy was still flanked right and left, and now with Hollister and Kelso a horse length before him. He whipped a look at Hollister and met direct communication from the deep-set eyes. Whatever had happened up to this point, there had been no open clash. Hollister wanted none; that was his message.

A short space of time before the meeting began allowed comparison between these two who were foremen of the biggest outfits on the Emigrant range: Bill Hollister, with that studious look upon his face, bushy-browed, seeming even now to be figuring on something a long way ahead, while beside him Pete Kelso sat rigidly alert, tiger-like, playing for the present moment.

AROUND the HOUSE

Items of Interest to the Housewife

A little milk added to the blue water used for lace curtains will launder them beautifully.

If you have over-salted the soup, peel a potato and put several slices into the soup. Boil it for a few minutes and the potato will absorb the salt.

Broiled tomato slices not only decorate but also improve the flavor of steak or chops.

A layer or two of blotting paper put over grease spots on the wall, and a warm iron laid on top of them, will often take away the marks.

When freshly washed windows are dry wipe them with tissue paper to make them sparkle.

To prevent cauliflower from turning dark while cooking, put a slice of lemon in the water in which it is cooked.

SERVE A SUCCULENT STEW

(Recipes Below)

There's something so homey and tasty about a good stew, that most folks feel cheated unless a stew of one sort or another appears on the family table fairly regularly.

There are stews and stews, of course—lamb stews with feathery light dumplings and an assortment of vegetables to add flavor (and vitamins!); hearty Mulligan stews; and stews of chicken that masquerade under all sorts of fancy names.

There are even "Cinderella Stews," which start out as leftovers and end up as a well-seasoned one-dish meal.

Remember that "serving a stew" is an economical measure, and a time-saving one, as well. Stews and meat pies usually make use of the less expensive cuts of meat. Their preparation is simple, and they make a satisfying "One-dish meal," indeed.

Lamb Stew With Mint Dumplings.

- 1/2 cup butter
- 2 1/2 pounds lamb (cut in pieces)
- 4 cups boiling water
- 1 tablespoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 3/4 cup carrots (sliced)
- 3 cups potatoes (cut in cubes)
- 3 onions (sliced)
- 1 1/2 cups tomatoes (canned)
- 1/2 cup flour
- 1/4 cup cold water

Heat butter in large saucepan. Add meat and brown. Add boiling water, and seasonings; cover. When boiling, reduce heat and simmer 1 1/2 hours. Add vegetables and continue cooking slowly for 1 hour. Mix flour and water to a paste and add slowly. Cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Increase heat and when boiling vigorously add dumplings. Mint dumplings:

- 2 cups bread flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 cup lard
- 2 tablespoons fresh mint or parsley (chopped)
- 3/4 cup milk (approximately)

Sift together dry ingredients, cut in fat and add chopped mint. Add milk and mix gently with a fork. Drop by spoonfuls into boiling stew. Cover and continue to steam for 15 minutes without lifting the cover.

One-Dish Sunday Dinner.

For a practical, one-dish meal that can be left simmering while one is in church on Sunday, chicken rice pilaff is unsurpassed. Cut a 3-pound chicken in pieces and fry in butter to a golden brown. Add salt and pepper to taste. When nearly brown drain off all but 1/4 cup fat, add an onion, finely sliced, a little chopped parsley and 1/2 of a bay-leaf and fry 10 minutes longer. Wash 2 cups rice and spread over the chicken; add 4 cups boiling water, one small sliced tomato (or 2 tablespoons canned tomatoes) and 1 teaspoon salt. Stir gently; cover, bring to a boil and then simmer for one hour. A small family might have the best parts of the chicken fried one day, and the rest cooked this way the next day, using only 1 cup of rice and 2 cups of water.

Lamb Riblet Stew.

(Serves 4 to 5)

- 4 pounds lamb riblets (rib ends of breast of lamb)
- 4 tablespoons fat
- 3 1/2 cups water
- 1 tablespoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 5 medium size onions (peeled)
- 5 medium size potatoes (pared)
- 2 carrots (scrapped, and cut in halves lengthwise)

Have butcher remove breast bone from breast of lamb, and cut between rib ends to form finger-like pieces. Wipe meat with a damp cloth, dry, and brown in hot fat. Drain off the fat, and add 3 1/2 cups of water to the meat. Cover, and simmer for one hour. Add seasonings and the onions, cover, and cook for 30 minutes. Then add potatoes and carrots. Cover, and cook for 30 minutes longer. Pour off the gravy, and add a tablespoon of flour mixed with 2 tablespoons of cold water to form a paste. Cook, stirring constantly, until the gravy thickens. Arrange lamb riblets in the center of a serving platter with the vegetables around the sides. Pour gravy over top.

Creole Chicken Gumbo File.

- 1 4-pound chicken
- Flour, salt, pepper
- 1/2 pound lean ham
- 2 tablespoons lard or butter
- 1 onion (chopped)
- 1 sprig thyme
- 1 bay leaf
- 1 tablespoon parsley (minced)
- Garlic, amount you like, rub bowl
- 1/4 red pepper pod, without seeds
- Boiling water
- 1 dozen shrimp or more
- Creole Gumbo File

Clean and cut up chicken as for a fricassee. Dredge with flour, salt and pepper. Cut ham into small dices. Place lard or butter in soup kettle or deep stewing pot and when hot put in the chicken and ham. Cover closely and brown for 5 to 10 minutes. Then add onion, parsley, garlic and thyme, stirring occasionally to prevent burning. When nicely browned, add boiling water just to cover chicken. Add bay-leaf-broken very fine—and red pepper pod. Lower flame and allow Gumbo to simmer gently until chicken is tender—2 to 4 hours. Remove carcass and bones. Just before serving, add 2 dozen shrimp, diced. Heat through thoroughly. Remove from flame and add 1/2 tablespoon to 2 tablespoons of Gumbo File.

Brunswick Stew.
Put one gallon of water in a large iron pot, bring to a boil, and add one tablespoon of salt. Add one onion minced fine, one pint of shelled butter beans, six potatoes peeled and sliced, six ears of corn cut from the cob, one-half pound of fat salt pork or bacon cut into shreds, one-half teaspoon each of black and cayenne pepper. Two squirrels or one large fat hen, disjointed and soaked in cold water to draw the blood out, are next thrown into the pot. Cover closely and stew very slowly for two hours, stirring occasionally from the bottom. Stew one hour longer, add two teaspoons of white sugar and one quart of tomatoes peeled and sliced. Ten minutes before serving add one-fourth pound of butter cut into bits and rolled in flour. Bring to a boil again and serve on soup plates with dry rice. This is a dish men like and one they can excel in preparing.

Mulligan Stew.

(Serves 6)

- 1 medium size can corned beef—minced
- 1 onion—minced fine
- 1 No. 2 can peas with liquid
- 1 medium size bottle tomato catsup
- 1 cup water
- Salt and pepper to taste

Put all ingredients in saucepan and simmer gently over low flame for about one hour. The flavor improves with the length of cooking time.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

Lesson for July 28

WEIGHING CONSEQUENCES A Principle of Temperate Living

LESSON TEXT—Proverbs 1:7-10; Isaiah 5:11, 12, 18-23; Galatians 5:7-9.
GOLDEN TEXT—Godliness is profitable unto all things, having promise of the life that now is, and of that which is to come.—1 Timothy 4:8.

An intelligent approach to life calls for an understanding of principles governing thought and action. Our lesson for today recognizes that every act and thought of man brings consequences, either good or bad. Man himself must make the decisions of life, and what he sows he must also reap.

Matters of crucial importance to modern young people are involved in our lesson. They are asking these days, "Shall I listen to God's voice, or is that just old-fashioned nonsense? What about obeying parents? Should I drink intoxicants? 'Everybody' does—why should I be different? Of course, I don't want to be a drunkard or ruin my future life, but I'd like to have 'my fling'—can't I have it and still avoid disastrous consequences?"

I. Safe Counsel (Prov. 1:7-10).

No sane person wants to make a fool of himself. He is looking for the right way and will lend his ear to good counsel. Here it is—"The fear of the Lord is the beginning of knowledge" (R. V., "wisdom"). Fear of God is not a cringing terror, but a sincere appreciation of His wisdom and a desire to do His will.

The best counselors a boy or girl has are father and mother. Only a fool will pass up the golden opportunity of profiting by their experiences and avoiding their mistakes, and will miss the opportunity of carrying forward their high hopes. Those who fear God and honor their parents will not be misled by the enticement of sinners (v. 10). They just will not "consent," and that settles it.

II. Steps to Ruin (Isa. 5:11, 12, 18-23).

Isaiah lived and ministered in a time of prosperity, which led to drunkenness and immorality. This in time led, as it always does, to the decay and destruction of the nation. We face similar moral conditions today. Let us not shut our eyes to the lesson so oft-repeated in history and in false security go on to national ruin.

We need outspoken and determined opposition in civic, social and religious circles to the liquor traffic and to all the vices that follow inevitably in its train. The portion of our lesson from Isaiah vividly portrays the downward path of the drinker of intoxicants. Ponder it well, young man and young woman:

III. Seedtime and Harvest (Gal. 6:7-9).

Everywhere about him man sees the inexorable operation of the law of cause and effect, of sowing and reaping, and yet he listens to the lies of Satan and of his own lustful heart and tries to convince himself that the law may be suspended in the realm of the moral and spiritual.

Sowing to the flesh always brings corruption. No matter how well educated, no matter what his position in life, or his family connection, the man who takes his first drink has started on the road to a drunkard's grave. Statistics reveal that the victims of drink come from every strata of society and every circumstance of life. Young people, the sure way to avoid the consequences is to not take the first drink.

Sowing to the Spirit brings "life everlasting." That, too, is always true. There is also another precious truth; namely, that by turning to Christ the one who has begun on the downward path may stay the ruinous hand of sin upon his life. Taking Christ as his Saviour, he finds regeneration and renewal of life.

The Works of the Lord

Praise ye the Lord. I will praise the Lord with my whole heart, in the assembly of the upright, and in the congregation. The works of the Lord are great, sought out of all them that have pleasure therein.—Psalm 111: 1, 2.

As Lambs Among Wolves

Go your ways; behold, I send you forth as lambs among wolves. Carry neither purse, nor scrip, nor shoes; and salute no man by the way. And into whatsoever house ye enter, first say, Peace be unto this house.—Luke 10: 3-5.

One Point of View

If we can not hope that life will be all happiness we may, at least, secure a heavy balance on the right side.

The God Within

"God worketh in you." This implies the actual presence of God at the center of our being.

Black Lace on Sheer White or Pastel Is Intriguing Vogue

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

BLACK lace old looking? We should say not! That's an old-time fallacy which modern fashion has exploded.

When designers start in to create a party frock that will reflect the very embodiment of youth—and charm, it is delicate-as-a-cobweb black lace they select to tell the story. The program of fine black lace is a vast one endless in interpretation. You'll love these lace flatterers, especially the all-lace gown so filmy in mesh it looks like a mere tracery of flower and leaf patterning silhouetted against shoulders and throat.

Take our word for it, if you want a costume that will outglamour any that go dancing on a starry midsummer night, choose one of these black fantasies artfully styled in terms of youth. With these wispy lovely all-black lace creations the big fashion is to play up pastel accessories. To a fetching little flower hat in mellow pink together with necklace and bracelet that repeats the pink, add pink matching gloves. It will be equally effective with accents of pastel blue or orchid. If you are a black-and-white devotee, wear chalk white jewelry, gardenias for a headpiece, with a gardenia tied at your wrist.

The dresses that particularly lay siege to the heart of youth for party wear this summer are those airy fairy creations of frothy white starched tissue-like chiffon (pastel tinted sheer makes up equally as effective) that take on a profusion of ruffles and bands of exquisite black lace. You can see in the illustration that gowns of this type are heart-smashers of the most dangerous sort.

Note how youthfully these summer fantasies play up the witchery of black lace. The figure seated is a picture in a lovely dress that generously and artfully bands and ruffles billowy white chiffon with enchanting black lace. There are animated ruffings of the lace meandering about the wide skirt and accomplishing an adorable off-shoulder décolletage. And here's good news in that this delectable model is available in white, pink, blue or all black.

Parasols are coming back! We are showing one to the left in the picture made of handsome allover lace and it's a beauty, the sort that imparts allure to any dainty summer costume. Lots of lace on the dress, too, you will note. The butterfly appliques on the skirt underwrite the up-to-the-minute chic of this gown.

No story on lace would be complete without telling of the entry into the summer scene of the most stunning sheer black hats imagination can picture. These diaphanous concoctions of lace, or tulle, or chiffon in dusky midnight black are the big millinery sensation of the season.

You can go as far as you like in the matter of breadth of brim, in fact, the wider the better the brim that halos the head this season.

The use of sheerest of black lace in connection with crisp thin horse-hair braid gives you the very transparency fashion insists upon for hats.

Flower Headdress

The perfect recipe for glamour for any belle who dines and dances at fashionable summer fetes is a head-dress of fragrant gardenias with streamers of silvered leaves to silhouetted her coiffure. Orchids, carnations or roses make equally as glamorous headpieces.

Sidesaddle Drapes Is Latest Fashion

Side closings for both coats and dresses is the message fashion is broadcasting for the coming months. Watch the development of this styling feature that is bringing about an entirely new silhouette. Advance coats now tie way over to the side, while the newer dresses fasten over toward the one side via deftly arranged drapes.

Black Dress With Gay Shawl Is New

With style sophisticates the black dress is still a favorite. The latest is to add a spice of color with a gay fanciful shawl. It's a clever way of making a stylish black dress look more stylish, especially if you add a hat to match the shawl. Choose a colorful printed crepe or vivid sheer woolen for these companion pieces. It is a most exciting fashion, be assured, full of high drama, especially if you acquire wearing the shawl in a casual nonchalant manner—practice the art of wearing these whimsical fringed triangles before your mirror. Lots of room for romance and coquetry in wearing the new shawls!

Pocket Popularity To Have Long Life

Anything so practical as the fashion for multiple pockets is destined to have a long life and a merry one. For the schoolgirls, who never seem to have enough of them, they are being doubled and redoubled. They're set in rows on bodices and skirts, anywhere from two to six of them, and occasionally, for good measure, small change pockets are sewn on top of bigger pockets.

Two-in-One Skirts Practical Notion

Now you see it as a formal skirt and now you see it as a practical daytime skirt. A detachable flounce is the trick that works this magic. The knee-deep ruffle is made to button on or snap on and off in a jiffy. These two-purpose skirts are selling in leading stores.

Luxurious Scarves Easily Crocheted

GIVE your home that luxurious air and at little cost, too. Crochet these scarves (there are two sizes, 18 by 60 and 18 by 36 inches) for buffet, dining table, or dresser. Pattern 2537 contains directions for scarves; illustrations of them and stitches; materials required. Send order to:

Lack of Skilled Labor Growing
Commerce Group Reports on Survey of 330 Local Organizations.

WASHINGTON.—A growing shortage of skilled labor in several parts of the country was found by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States in a survey made primarily to determine the effectiveness of the public employment services. The investigation established that the state employment services, generally speaking, were "efficient and effective."

Three hundred and thirty local business organizations were asked for information and the replies cast interesting sidelights on the unemployment problem.

"From the East, the Middle West, and, to a lesser degree, from the Pacific coast, come numerous reports of lack of skilled workers," the report said. "In one state the manager of an employment office is using the radio to broadcast for coal miners. Employment officers where there are few skilled craftsmen are advertising in local papers for skilled men to go to other parts of the country."

Building Trades Shortage Told.
"Many of the reports relate to the building trades, but more tell of shortage of skilled workers in the metal trades. Reports about metal workers come particularly from the East, the Middle West and the Pacific coast."

"In some communities stock is being taken. In one western area it is reported that skilled workers in the building trades now average 45 years of age. In another area it is said that skilled metal workers average 47 years of age. Some alarm is being expressed, consequently, at the prospects of greater shortages in the future."

"Various causes are being ascribed, but the most frequent is the decline of apprentice training during the depression and decrease of vocational training in the schools. Another cause given in the reports is the wastage of work-relief, because a person on work-relief for two or three years not only frequently becomes an undesirable employee but loses his earlier skills."

"In several states the employment service is already moving in cooperation with available local facilities to give training to unemployed persons in order that they may prepare themselves for work in which some skill is required. Such cooperation should be expanded."

Training in Skills Is Extended.
"This training has been fairly common to enable unemployed women to become acceptable domestic servants, but efforts are now being started to train for more exacting occupations."

"Some of the reports call attention to new obstacles which are being found in the way of proceeding with training of apprentices and learners. These obstacles are in the wage-hour law. The complaint is that the statute contains principles which prevent the flexibility needed to meet varying situations."

"The committee recommends that the regulations and procedure under the wage-hour act with respect to apprentices and learners are unnecessarily and unreasonably restrictive. They violate the clear intent of the law that opportunities for employment of apprentices and learners are not to be curtailed."

"The regulation and the procedure should be made to accord to the practical conditions in employment. It is evident that we have entered a period in which training of skilled workers is of great importance in aiding employment, now and in the future."

Food Acreage in Britain Nearing 1918 Total
LONDON.—Every one who can handle a spade is being enlisted by the government to take part in the great national food producing scheme. Already a great drive has begun to add 500,000 acres to new allotments to the 850,000 already in England and Wales. This will bring the total up to what it was at the end of the last war.

Urban authorities have received permission to take possession of unoccupied land without obtaining consent. Occupied land will be taken over by agreement with the owner, while common land will be used with the consent of the minister of agriculture.

The national allotments society has offered its help to form societies of allotment holders. Considerable savings in buying seeds, plants, fertilizers and implements are possible when individual allotment holders can co-operate in this way.
