Death Comes In Auto Accident

MRS. VERNON RICHARDSON KILLED LAST THURSDAY EVENING

In an auto accident on the Densmore hill, Echo township, last Thursday evening, Mrs. Vernon Richardson received fatal injuries and Mr. Richardson suffered several fractured ribs, a fractured right arm just above the wrist, and facial injuries.

They were returning home from an afternoon at Ellsworth, Central Lake and Bellaire about 5:30. As they approached a long, level stretch of road with Mr. Richardson driving, they stopped and Mrs. Richardson, learning to drive, took the wheel. Coming down the long hill, they first passed a horse-drawn hay rake and then another car. Mrs. Richardson began to lose control of the car and her husband tried to straighten it out, but was too late. The car swerved to one side of the road, then across the road and headed into an eight-foot ditch. Aid was summoned from a gas station nearby. Mrs. Richardson passed away shortly after the accident. Mr. Richardson was taken to Central Lake for medical attention. He later returned to his home here.

Nannie Belle Sturgell was born at Greenup, Ky., April 14, 1897, the daughter of Jeff and Julia Sturgell. She came to Michigan in 1912 and four years later located at East Jordan. In August, 1916, she was united in marriage to Mr. Richardson.

Beside the husband, she is survived by two sons and a daughter—Robert, Captola and Eldon. Also three brothers—Sherman and Edgar Sturgell of Greenup, Ky., and Gilbert Sturgell of East Jordan.

Funeral services were held from the Watson Funeral Home Sunday afternoon, July 28th, conducted by Rev. James Leitch of the Methodist church. Burial was at Sunset Hill.

Among those here to attend the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Sturgell and Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Sturgell of Greenup, Ky.; Ruth, Betty and Helen Sturgell of Detroit.

Meet Independents Here Sunday At The Fair Grounds

"Coming your way Archie Robinson and his colored 'House of David' acclaimed as baseball's funniest attraction doing the oddest things that have ever been done in baseball such as a man catching in a rocking chair, a pitcher taking off his shoes throwing them into the dugout when a batter gets a hit and going back to get them after stopping them from hitting, clowning, joking, just fun galore, a circus for the young and old.

They recommend if you don't laugh you better see your best doctor as they are dispensers to chase the blues and as Ted Lewis would say "Is Everybody Happy", and self preservation is the first law of nature so come on out and get your laugh.

Come out and enjoy the fun when the East Jordan Independents tangle with above aggregation at the Fair Grounds, Sunday, Aug. 4, commencing at 3:00 p. m.

Purebred Sire Day To Be Held In This District

The Dairy Department, Michigan State College, and the county agents in Northern Michigan counties believe that the best way to get a more profitable milking herd in 1941 is to start locating a young purebred sire now in order to introduce more production into your milking herd.

Due to a special program underway in all of the 36 Michigan testing associations, breeding stock with good milking and high test qualities are being found and offered by farmers in lower Michigan at reasonable calf prices.

Farmers in this county have expressed a wish to get such baby bull calves. These young calves can be raised yourself at a small cost and save you money compared with the full grown bull which is often priced at from four to five times higher cost. This fact is proven already as some twenty young calves have now been placed in the county, especially on the east end through the efforts of the Agricultural Instructors at East Jordan and Boyne City in cooperation with the extension agent.

In order to make this a success a day will be set aside sometime in October when some 40 or 50 of these splendid young sires will be assembled at some central location in Northern Michigan. These young sires will be brought up from Southern Michigan to this district where dairymen, who have expressed a desire to buy, may see them and in this way be fully satisfied in all particulars.

The thing to do right now is to inform your county agent if you would be interested in ordering a splendid young bull with good production records and at a reasonable price. An order blank will then be sent to you so that you can indicate the age preference, breed of animal, and type of production record of the dam.

This certainly will be of immense help in our dairy business if we can place a large number of these splendid young sires throughout the county. Don't forget to inform your county agent that you want to place an order and do it early so that the extension department can make a better selection for you.

Lose To Boyne By Close Margin

OUR JUNIORS NOSED OUT BY "INDEPENDENTS"

Boyne City's powerful baseball nine, had their hands full in nosing out the surprising East Jordan Juniors 5 to 4 here Sunday afternoon. A single by Joe Hackenberg driving Lockman home in the final stanza broke up a 4 to 4 deadlock. Hackenberg, leading hitter of the Top O' Michigan League, and Hegerberg, former local Independent star, played leading roles in Boyne's victory, for it was Hegerberg's single that drove across two unearned runs in the opening frame to get his team off to a flying start.

The Jordanites came to bat in the 4th trailing by 4 runs, but a determined drive knotted the count at 4 all. "Tich" Saxton led off with a single to deep short. Cihak was safe on an error by Kanipe; Saxton taking second. Holley lifted a high fly to rightfield for the first out. Here Cihak and Saxton successfully pulled a double steal, and on a momentary lapse on the part of Hegerberg, who had failed to tag Cihak at second. Saxton sped out for home sliding under Hegerberg's throw to Lockman for the first run. In the meantime, Cihak wide awake took third. Woodcock was safe on fielders choice as Green failed to pick Cihak off third. Antoine singled to center scoring Cihak, Woodcock taking second. Mocherman forced Woodcock at third for the second out. Bennett singled scoring Antoine. Mocherman taking third. Bulow chased Mocherman home with the 4th run on a single to left. Stanek ended the inning lining out to Johns in rightfield.

W. Green and Lockman formed the winning battery giving up 8 hits, two each by Antoine, Saxton and Bulow and one by Mocherman and W. Bennett. "Tich" Saxton was touched for 9 safties but held Boyne's heavy hitters in check only to be the victim of several fielding misplays on the part of a jittery and tense local nine. Holley worked behind the plate for the Jordanites, showing a marked improvement in his play. Mocherman starred in the field for the locals, making several outstanding plays and along with Hausler, Boyne City centerfielder, turned in the most spectacular catches of the afternoon.

The Jordanites will travel again this week, meeting the Indian River Independents there Sunday afternoon, in what promises to be another

Boyne City Man Beaten - Robbed

LOUIS JENSEN CHARGED WITH CRIME AGAINST FRANK KADEN

Frank Kaden, Boyne City businessman, was badly beaten Wednesday morning by a robber who took $150 after the attack.

Louis Jensen, Boyne City WPA worker, was held by Chief of Police Pat Roderick as the assailant.

Kaden opened his grocery and dry-goods store about 7 o'clock that morning. His assailant entered and attacked the merchant after asking to see blankets.

Dr. A. F. Litzberger took Mr. Kaden to Little Traverse Hospital at Petoskey. It was feared the sight of one eye may be lost as a result of the attack.

Shortly after the robbery Lester Capelin, Boyne City garage proprietor, reported that Jensen had paid a small bill and also made a down payment of $115 on a car purchase. Chief of Police Roderick was notified and questioned Jensen. He is said to have admitted the attack.

East Jordan Rotarians Entertaining Visitors

The Rotary meeting of Tuesday of this week was another evidence that many visitors come to East Jordan in the summer time. There were visitors from Clubs in Petoskey, Boyne City, and Hamtramck in Michigan; from Columbus and Hamilton in Ohio; and from Council Bluffs, Iowa.

George Bechtold and Howard Porter reported on the Assembly for instruction of Rotarian officers held at Manistee last week. Frank Garrett, Postmaster of Council Bluffs, Iowa, gave a very interesting talk. He gave the first talk at the Rotary Club of Council Bluffs when it was organized.

The twenty-three children from Detroit who had the benefit of three weeks in East Jordan, under the sponsorship of the Rotary Club, returned in the bus furnished by the Ford Motor Company, Monday morning. The experiment was very successful. Aside from the good that the children received East Jordan has received much favorable publicity in connection with the enterprise.

Dairymen Join Herd Association

YEAR STARTS WITH 24 MEMBERS, DENZIL GIBBARD AS TESTER

It is apparent that greater interest is manifest in the adoption of better dairy practices. One proof of this is the fact that some twenty young sires have been purchased by dairymen this spring, all having good production records back of them. The second proof is indicated by a much greater number of dairymen joining the dairy Herd Improvement Association to find out what their cows are doing and to secure the latest up-to-date information about dairy feeding and management.

The new year started the first of July and we are pleased to announce that fourteen Charlevoix County dairymen are now having their herds on test. The four following members started last year and will finish during this coming year: Fred Willis, Charlevoix; Sam Straw, Charlevoix; County Poor Farm, East Jordan; and Al Thorsen, East Jordan. Following are the new members, who are starting this month; George Morton, Herbert Somerville, Wm. J. Pitts, and LeRoy Hardy, all from Boyne City; Joe Leu, Ted Leu, George Nelson, Mr. J. M. Ingalls, all from East Jordan; and Clinton Blanchard and Charles Mascho of Charlevoix.

There are two or three others who are somewhat uncertain as to their future plans but it is anticipated that one or two more members will be added from the county. Denzil Gibbard, East Jordan, will start the year as the tester in charge. He will include herds on test in Emmet, Charlevoix, Antrim, and Kalkaska counties. Plans have been developed for a meeting of the entire membership on August 9th when a Board of Directors will be selected and other items of business, pertaining to the development of dairy herd improvement association work, will be discussed. If you are interested in having this important service, get in touch with your county agent so that your name may be placed on the waiting list. There will be openings at various times during the next twelve months so that additional herds may be placed on test.

"Straight Wings" was listed by the American Association of Graphic Arts as one of the sixty best books of the year in art and general mechanics involved in production.

Beg Your Pardon

In the list of candidates filing for State Representative for the Charlevoix-Leelanau Dist., published in these columns last week, the name of Orville Helfrich, Satton's Bay, Democrat, was inadvertently omitted.

The Herald publisher knew that Mr. Helfrich was a candidate, but his name was not on the list of candidates from which the list was compiled, hence the error.

Patents on Chickens — Most Efficient Man-Made Machine

An article in The American Weekly with the August 4 issue of The Detroit Sunday Times, tells of efforts to protect the outstanding hens since scientific human brains have built them up from a measly 12 to 15 eggs a year to about one a day — and points out that hen's brains had nothing to do with it because the dumbest hen can lay the most eggs. ## Mexican Relics Found Of Ancient Civilization

SALT LAKE CITY.—Charles E. Dibble of the University of Utah has in his possession relics he believes indicate an archaic civilization flourished near Mexico City between 200 B. C. and 400 A. D.

Dibble found the relics—specimens of clay and pottery figures and jars—while "kibitzing" on construction of a Mexican federal highway near Mexico City. Dibble said when he saw the specimens turned over by workmen he asked for and was granted permission to search for other relics in the dirt.

Dibble, assistant professor in the university archeology department, said the new road passes over the site of a town that once flourished on the shores of an ancient lake that was called Lake Texcoco.

Explains Why Mexicans Call Americans 'Gringos'

KANSAS CITY, MO.—Why Mexicans call Americans "gringos" was explained recently by Capt. John B. Reybold, commander of the Second Cavalry. "When the Second Cavalry fought in the Mexican war of 1846," he related, "the men rode into Mexico singing an old Irish drinking song, 'Green Grow the Rushes.' The Mexicans heard that song so frequently that they called the cavalrymen 'gringos,' which was the way the opening words sounded to them."

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
(Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—The first World war tipped over 20 reigning princes and dukes, four emperors and seven kings, in addition to a scattering of small-fry royal names are now all but forgotten.

European Royalty Is Heading Our Way in Droves names are now all but forgotten.

Carol of Rumania and George of Greece were the only kings who came back, and they aren't a good risk for Lloyd's—and perhaps Lloyd's isn't either.

If the Mayflower were still afloat, it could book a full passenger list of kings fleeing from commoners, seeking a haven in a new world—at any rate, kings and their consorts, their courtiers and others of princely rank.

It is understood that the Empress Zita of Austria will be in America before long. The word "former" is omitted here, in deference to a clever, purposeful woman, who has never admitted that she isn't still the empress. Of her son, Archduke Otto, now living in a two-room apartment in New York, she once said, "If the time ever comes when he has but one servant, that servant will call him 'your majesty'."

In early-day San Francisco a stately old gentleman with a splendid, kingly uniform announced that he was "Emperor Norton," and was pleased to make San Francisco his royal domain. Nobody knew who he was or where he came from, but he looked and behaved like an emperor, so they took him up on his proposition. He held court, for years, received homage and issued decrees, and when he needed revenue levied on the stock exchange, finding a handful of $20 gold pieces always ready. He died sitting straight upright in his little cubby-hole room, wearing his full dress uniform. The city gave him a grand funeral. San Francisco was proud of her emperor. They never did learn anything about him.

This department was never particularly partial to kings, but in addition to child refugees it might be a nice idea for each city over here to adopt a king, or a prince or duke. Holly-course, would get Zog of Albania—now in London and fixing to sail for America, according to news reports—a "swinging king" who installed in his Graustarkian palace a 40-piece American jazz band and became one of the best hoofers in his kingdom.

Philadelphia probably would put in a bid for the Grand Duchess Charlotte of Luxembourg, a thrifty hombody, now in Quebec. The news is that, if England falls, she and her six children will come to the U. S.

She knits; plays the piano; is a fluent linguist and rears her children beautifully. There might not be any bidders for old Ferdinand of Bulgaria, the butterfly collector. He has a knack for pageantry, however, which might interest New Orleans.

In case the above should appear to be a callous reference to tragic unhappiness, the main idea is that this democracy might well accord a certain respect to fugitive royalty because it appears to have something it really believes in.

AT MIAMI, FLA., IN October, 1934, John Dwight Sullivan, then commander of the New York department of the American Legion, urged the Legionnaires to concentrate less on more and bigger bonuses and to center their efforts on understanding and supporting the government in constructive undertakings. He emphasized the need for co-operation as citizens rather than activity as a pressure group. His was a scholarly essay on citizenship.

Now Mr. Sullivan has placed before the convention of the New York County Legion a proposal, for a single, unified United States air force, in which all air arms of all services would be under a single command. Mr. Sullivan is chairman of the Legion's national aviation committee. He is a New York lawyer and an alumnus of Princeton university.

He has been active in the furtherance of civil and military aviation for many years and was appointed a member of the New York state aviation commission by Governor Roosevelt in 1930. He is 47 years of age, scholarly and ascetic in appearance, preaching social responsibility in the Legion for more than a decade.

He insists that the organization cannot attain its high purpose without widening activities in political education, and an informed attitude on basic questions of domestic and foreign policy.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS By Farnham F. Dudgeon

Congressional Attention Centers On Plan for 'Peacetime Draft'; Air Battles Rage Over England

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Now that Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia have ended their 22-year independence by voting themselves into the Soviet Union the influence of Russia turns in a new direction. Reports indicate that Moscow is interested in seeing a "popular government" set up in Rumania and some sources claim that King Carol is said to be preparing a shift away from the Nazi-like cabinet of Ion Gigurtu. Is the bear's paw reaching out for another "grab"?

U. S. DEFENSE:

Fall In

With legislation still pending before congress for the first United States military draft since World War days, the army has announced its preliminary plans for a citizens' training program, should the Burke-Wadsworth compulsory military training bill become a law.

Testifying before the house military affairs committee, Brig. Gen. William E. Shedd, assistant to the army chief of staff, declared that if the conscription legislation passed, training for 400,000 men would begin on October 1, this year, and for 400,000 more next April 1 and an additional 600,000 October 1, 1941.

Registration of all U. S. male citizens between the ages of 18 and 64 would take place September 1, this year but only those between 21 and 45 would be liable for active service. The other age groups would be used for home defense purposes. First draft would probably call to the colors men without dependents between the ages of 21 and 31. General Shedd said flatly in part of his testimony that "never in time of peace" would legislation require men with dependents to enter military training.

While the senate military committee started the compulsory training legislation on the road with a decided majority for the approval of the measure a real legislative fight looms on the floor of both house and senate. Typical of the opposition faced by the measure is the attitude of Senator Norris (Ind.-Neb.) who has raised his voice against the legislation with the statement it would gradually transform the United States into an "international bully" bent on the destruction of other nations.

Only present member of the senate who voted against U. S. entrance into the World war, Norris claims that the effect of military training on American youths would have a tendency to make them eventually recognize no ideal "except that of military force."

NAMES

... in the news

¶ Halle Selassie, long a name-in-the-news while his native Ethiopia was under invasion by Italy's Benito Mussolini, popped back into the spotlight with the announcement that he was returning to Africa from London to direct his nation's fight for freedom.

¶ When told that an Italian had quoted him as saying that Britain would lose the war, George Bernard Shaw, world-famous author, bristled, branded the story as untrue, burst out with the statement that "I don't know whether Britain is going to lose the war, even with the help of God."

¶ Communists and Bundsmen were scored by FBI Chief Edgar J. Hoover, speaking before the New York state convention of police chiefs. The top G-man declared that this new enemy "is far more crafty, scheming and despicable than the kidnaper, the highwayman or the burglar."

¶ Henry Morgenthau Jr., secretary of the treasury, made things easier for U. S. citizens who file income tax returns, with the order that henceforth the duplicate, or "green copy" of the return would not be required.

THE WAR:

'Dice Are Cast'

When England's foreign secretary Viscount Halifax replied to Adolf Hitler's "last chance peace offer" he left very little doubt as to the firm intention of the Churchill government to resist until the last attempted invasion by Germany, for in part of his address he declared: "... we realize that the struggle may cost us everything, but, just because the things we are defending are worth any sacrifice, it is a noble privilege to be the defenders of things so precious. ... we shall not stop fighting until freedom for ourselves and others is secure."

Back came Berlin with bombs plus bombast. As widespread aerial raids were launched up and down the British coast, official German circles let it be known that the talking was over and henceforth "facts must now speak."

Just what shape these "facts" would take was not announced by the Nazi high command but London believed that a "stagger system" of increasing air and naval attack day by day until it would be capped by a general offensive in conjunction with a wholesale attempted landing of troops would be attempted by Hitler's forces.

Cost of War

England's biggest wartime budget was announced as the heaviest taxes in British history were introduced to meet the demands of the government's war program.

Income taxes were boosted to 42 1/2 per cent and experts declared that this in connection with other increased taxes would demand that Britain surrender almost 70 per cent of all normal income to finance the fight against Germany and Italy.

U. S. residents of those states imposing a sales tax of 2 and 3 per cent who are inclined to grumble as they lay down the pennies may take whatever comfort they can from the news that the British now pay a "purchase tax" ranging from 12 to 33 1/2 per cent on entertainment, beer, wine and tobacco. Rate on non-luxury items is 12 per cent of retail prices.

POLITICS:

No Moth Balls

While the bunting of both major political conventions is safely packed away in moth balls for another four years, the 1940 presidential campaign is beginning to warm up and is taking on the aspects of the most spirited campaign contest since Woodrow Wilson defeated Charles Evans Hughes in 1916.

Biggest news on the Republican front is the announcement that Wendell Willkie has chosen August 17 as the date and Elwood, Ind., (his birthplace) as the place, to be officially notified that he is the G. O. P. presidential nominee.

Out in Wyoming, the man who "is glad to run" against Franklin Delano Roosevelt turned his vacation into a campaign trip and started a series of personal appearances throughout the wild and politically important West.

Willkie also announced the formation of a committee of four Democrats and former New Dealers who have broken with the President to lead a national campaign which would enlist Democrats and independents in the support of the Republican ticket next November.

Pulpit or Bullet

News from London reports that members of the House of Lords and Commons, doctors, lawyers and ministers are being put through their paces as members of the local defense volunteers. Dr. Jocklyn Perkins, sacrist to Westminster Abbey, is shown here being instructed in rifle drill by a member of the local defense volunteers.

PAN-AMERICA:

Hull in Havana

As representatives of the 21 American republics gathered at the Havana, Cuba, conference were threshing out their problems of (1) European colonies in the Western Hemisphere, (2) fifth column activities and (3) relief for disrupted economic systems resulting from Europe's war, principle challenge to United States leadership in a program of unified activity came from the Argentine delegation.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull outlined the program advocated by the United States which calls for immediate financial aid to any country in need of it (congress was spending work on a $500,000,000 fund to aid Latin-American countries whose markets had been lost because of the war), diplomatic and consular planning aimed at suppression of subversive and fifth column activity and a joint trusteeship of foreign-owned possessions in this hemisphere by all of the American republics.

Argentina particularly objected to the latter suggestion for that country has some very definite ideas about the British Falkland islands, and in case of England's defeat by Germany would prefer actual possession of them rather than a joint rule with 20 other nations. Venezuela would like the Netherlands East Indies and Guatemala is reported to have designs on British Honduras.

Main reason that the Argentine delegation was hesitant to immediately fall in line with any proposal that might be construed as a slap at the dictators was because of the effect upon her future trade relations with Europe.

BUSINESS:

Pile Up

As numerous mills and factories continue to run at the highest levels since 1929, orders for defense goods are piling up much additional business for U. S. industry.

Since the beginning of the government's preparedness program, over one billion dollars in army and navy contracts have been awarded and while little cash has actually been expended these orders and those placed by the British government in this country are directly responsible for the current climb in business indices.

Defense projects, including shipways, ammunition and fuel storage facilities, barracks, explosive plants, machine shop extensions, addition to orders for airplanes constitute the major factors in the general rise of business activity.

Other business firms of a non-military nature seem to be following the general trend of the "war-babies." For example, as the motor car industry reported that sales are unusually high for this season of the year, Schenley Distillers corporation (liquor) announced that net earnings for the first half of 1940 were up almost 50 per cent over the comparable period of 1939—returning $1.44 per share on common stock as compared to 78 cents last year, and Brunswick-Balke-Collender company, maker of billiard and bowling equipment, reported a very similar increase in business by showing a net profit of 87 cents a share for the first six months of this year as compared with 45 cents in 1939.

MISCELLANY:

'Great I Am'

Twenty-four leaders of the "Great I Am" cult were indicted by a Los Angeles federal grand jury on charges of a $3,000,000 mail fraud. The indictment charges that the cult sets itself up as a charity organization but actually defrauds those who contribute to it. The cult has claimed a million members throughout the country and was founded in 1930. Its founder, George Ballard, died last December.

Unusual Strike Shows Fallacy Of Broad Government Rulings

Dispute Over Proper Classification of Workers Results in Stopping All Construction Work in City and Ties Up Supplies for Public Buildings.

By WILLIAM BRUCKART
WNU Service, National Press Bldg., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON.—Probably, not one of the readers of this column ever have heard the name of the Smoot Sand & Gravel company. There is no reason for anyone outside of the city of Washington having any knowledge of the concern. It operates within the national capital community, serves its clients satisfactorily, as far as I know, and goes on its way much as any legitimate business operates in the United States. Moreover, it represents the full flower of the American system of private enterprise—or did represent that principle to most of us.

William Bruckart

Lately, however, the Smoot Sand & Gravel company has been much in the public prints of the city of Washington. It was in the news because its 250 workers went on strike. When those workers quit, the cessation practically stopped construction in the city, which is to say that the strike suddenly choked off the supply of materials for all new federal government buildings.

This was no ordinary strike, not the usual walk-out. That's why the name of the Smoot Sand & Gravel company gained a place in the sun, small as is the business when compared with other great corporations. This strike was, in effect, a strike against a federal law—the wage-hour law—the fair labor standards act as it is most inappropriately named.

The details substantially are as follows: employees of the concern have been classified as maritime workers, because they operate barges and tugs and cranes and such like in connection with the movement of the sand and gravel. This movement begins in the Potomac river and, of course, carries through to the site of the building construction.

Buaybody Decides It's Improper Classification

Having been classified as maritime workers, these employees were able to work as many hours a day or a week as they desired. They had a union contract with the company to that effect. It is a matter of record that the employees did work sometimes twelve hours a day and seven days a week—and they were reaping the harvest of busy times because the demand for their product was extraordinary while the government building program was continuing. The workers had no quarrel with their employer, yet they went on strike.

Why? Some busybody in the wage-hour administration decided that the works of the Smoot Sand & Gravel company were improperly classified. They were not maritime workers—not entitled to work all of the time they desired—and they had to be reclassified. The result was that most of the workers found themselves restricted to 42 hours per week. The net effect of this, of course, was to cut their wages, and the men had no hankering for that.

As these lines are written, the conclusion is not yet in sight. It is always difficult to get a bureaucrat to rescind an order. To do so, of course, is admission that the bureaucrat was wrong. That is not an admission which any one in government office is in a hurry to make. In the meantime, thousands of other workers are unable to work and earn, because a union leader filed a complaint with the wage-hour administration.

I have gone into this case in detail because it so thoroughly exemplifies the fallacy of broad governmental rulings. It demonstrates beyond a shadow of a doubt what can and usually does happen when a national government horns into fields where it does not belong—where government attempts to regulate the private lives of individuals.

Strike Directs Attention To a Serious Problem

This particular case is of more than ordinary importance in another way. Doubtless you have heard of the defense program, that great hysterical drive to defend ourselves from something that is due to strike us on next Tuesday—or maybe it is on November 5. Anyway, about $15,000,000,000 has been appropriated for building up our national defense, and somebody has to do the work. The Smoot strike, therefore, directs attention at one of the problems that confronts this country. It is a serious problem. It has got to be faced, and government must face it. That is, government must face it if this country is to carry out the policies of expanding the army and the navy, of developing an air force second to none and of equipping these forces to shoo unseen enemies back to the foreign shores from which they are expected to come.

No better illustration is possible than what happened in France and England. Their war preparation was limited to lip service for months, because the government leaders were unwilling to bear down and tell racketeering labor leaders that the time had come for co-operation. Had French government leaders adopted a firm policy with the communistic labor leaders and had those leaders been told to keep their men at work, France would have lasted longer against the Hitler "blitzkrieg." Instead, France refused to abandon the 40-hour week and its governmental officials chose to coddle labor leaders because of politics.

We have something of the same basic situation in this country, right now. It is well known, of course, that Mr. Roosevelt has favored the labor leaders who could control votes. He was not alone. Others have done the same thing—Republicans as well as Democrat.

Policy on Shorter Hours Will Not Be Modified

Only lately, Mr. Roosevelt said at the White House that, come war or peace, there would be no modification of the New Deal policy respecting shorter and shorter hours of work. This New Deal reform was to stand, he said, and he is evidently going to stand on that declaration, just as the French did some months ago. Since the President is so firmly committed to this policy, I am wondering when this nation is going to draw its belt tighter and get down to war preparation.

I think, too, that attention might be called to the recent appointment of Sydney Hillman as a part of the national defense council and his designation as head of the agency which will have charge of training American boys and girls for war work. It was Mr. Hillman who broke through and organized the textile workers of this country into a strong, well-knit union. He deserves commendation for that job, since most of the textile manufacturers were about as rotten in their treatment of workers as the record of this country can disclose. But, according to reports, Mr. Hillman has lost none of his antagonism for the "employer class" and that does not bode well for a preparedness program.

There are some stories floating around now to the effect that Mr. Hillman has been snuggling up to some labor leaders whose penchant for stirring up trouble is well known. Indeed, if one may believe the reports here in Washington, Mr. Hillman has given some indications that he believes the federal government should clamp down further on the employers, war preparation or no preparation.

Cause for Fear in War And Navy Departments

Around the war and navy departments these conditions are creating considerable fear. Army and navy officers, charged with the job of expanding the services, are saying privately that there will not be supplies in anything like sufficient quantity unless the labor that is willing to work is allowed to produce as far as it desires. This means, of course, elimination of the racketeers whose salary as labor leaders depends upon how much trouble can be created among the workers. Unless they can find conditions upon which to base a strike call, every now and then, labor officials are deemed not to be doing their job. Thus, as a rail fence guess, I am looking forward to quite a few strikes.

And thus, again, the business of the country is in the middle between the upper and nether millstones. All of the war contracts are being awarded in a manner that amounts to a command from the federal government. The owners of the plants are not being hurt; don't get that idea. They will make a profit. But the owners are being told what to do while the workers are being assured that this is a land of the free.

As one observes these things, however, one cannot fail to look around for signs of this national unity about which there has been so much talk. National unity, under the American system of government, implies enthusiastic co-operation of all. It is difficult to see how it can be achieved when half of the program is going forward half slave, and the rest not only free but encouraged to be arrogant. All business is not good. Neither is all labor good as the defense program proceeds, new developments will offer interesting studies.

BUTTING IN

Busybody butts in on question of classification of workers—result is stopping all building work and the furnishing of needed supplies. Bruckart points out the danger when the government horns into fields where it does not belong. Strike directs attention to one of the most serious problems that confronts this country. Expansion of army and navy is directly involved. Look what happened in France.

Democratic Nominees Plan Campaign Strategy

Unlike Republican presidential and vice presidential nominees Wendell L. Willkie and Sen. Charles L. McNary who had never met before their selection as the party's 1940 standard bearers, Franklin D. Roosevelt and Henry A. Wallace, the Democratic candidates, have been closely associated in the past seven and a half years. President Roosevelt and Secretary of Agriculture Wallace are shown above conferring on strategy for the coming campaign in which the President will seek a third term.

When Hitler Returned in Triumph to Berlin

Storm troopers with arms linked hold back the crowds as Adolf Hitler, leader of the Reich, returns to Berlin in triumph after the successful military operations of his armies in France. One of his first acts on his return was to promote a number of his generals to the rank of marshal. Goering was made a "Reich's Marshal." Hitler stands upright in his official car and returns the salutes of thousands of his greeters.

Sino-Japanese War Goes Savagely Ahead

While the war in Europe has diverted attention away from the Sino-Japanese conflicts, scenes like the one above show that hostilities are still in progress. The Japanese soldier is one of a party wiping out the streets of Ichang, one of the most important strategic points in the defending army of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. A bomb explodes in the background.

The youngster went from door to door with his homemade cart collecting odds and ends. The campaign in Southgate was duplicated in other English towns with citizens turning in scrap metal.

FIRST-AID to the AILING HOUSE

By ROGER B. WHITMAN

Canvas Decking.
QUESTION: How can I cover a porch floor with steamboat decking? Twelve-ounce canvas costs 33 cents a yard, and 24-ounce canvas costs 75 cents. Will the difference in cost be justified? How should the canvas be laid?

Answer: Get heavy canvas, and buy a kind that is intended for the purpose. The best qualities will not shrink, and they have a water-proofing treatment. You should start with a flat deck of closely fitted boards, with no uneven places. On this put a fairly thick bed of white lead made into a soft paste by adding linseed oil. Stretch the first strip of canvas at the edge of the roof, rolling it into the paste and securing it with long copper tacks put in an inch apart all around. Lay the second strip with its edge overlapping the edge of the first one by two inches. Put paste under the overlap and secure by tacks. Continue in this way. When the roof is covered, put on a priming coat of deck paint, and when it is dry, two more coats of the same, used as it comes in the can.

Silverfish and Crickets.
Question: How can I get rid of silverfish and crickets?

Answer: For both of these insects use pyrethrum powder, which is the common yellow insect powder. Put it in a powder puffer and for the silverfish blow it into cracks in the woodwork, such as the crack between flooring and baseboard; blow it on shelves, behind books, and in similar places. For crickets blow it into the air behind pieces of furniture, boxes and radiators, and other places where crickets conceal themselves. Pyrethrum powder loses its strength on exposure to the air. It should be bought in sealed packages, and blowing should be repeated every three days.

Building a Cottage.
Question: Being handy with tools, I am undertaking to build a summer cottage. What book that is fairly up-to-date will give me details and explanations of small house construction?

Answer: The National Lumber Manufacturers association, Washington, D. C., issues pamphlets on construction details, which would be well worth sending for. You will also find several pamphlets in Price List 72, "Publications of Interest to Suburbanites and Home Owners," to be had for the asking from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington.

Problem of Dampness.
Question: We live on the street level in an apartment house built on a slight rise, and 100 yards or so from tidewater. Parquet floors show no sign of warping or unevenness, except in one spot where boards creak and sink a little. Do you think the apartment may be too damp in spring and summer?

Answer: With the ventilation that you describe, I see no reason why the apartment should be especially damp. The creaking boards should be investigated, however, to learn if the supports underneath have rotted or otherwise given way.

Plywood Walls.
Question: The kitchen walls of my new country cottage are finished with plywood. Can I use a spar varnish finish on the walls? Is it advisable to first coat the walls with linseed oil?

Answer: Spar varnish will be all right. I would advise two coats. Dull the gloss of the first coat of varnish by rubbing down with fine sandpaper, then wipe off the dust before applying the second coat. Linseed oil is not necessary.

Refinishing Station Wagon.
Question: The woodwork of my station wagon has weathered dull. Would like your advice on refinishing.

Answer: If the varnished finish is not peeling, wash the surface with soap and warm water, rinse with clear water; then wipe dry. Allow the moisture to dry out for a few hours. Refinish with one or two coats of a top quality spar varnish. Be sure the surface is dull before applying the varnish.

White Paint on Screens.
Question: My house is somewhat shaded by trees, but when I put on the screens the house is noticeably darker. Would white paint on the screen wire help? Would it make the house look crazy? It is now painted cream.

Answer: It would not be objectionable, and would help brighten the interior. Make sure the paint is thin enough so it will not clog the openings in the screen.

Cleaning Reed Chairs.
Question: Is there a good way to clean chairs made of bamboo peel cane? They are decorated with a small black design.

Answer: Those chairs can be scrubbed. Use any cleaning powder in a weak solution, applied with a scrubbing brush and cloth. Follow by rinsing with clear water and wiping dry. If refinishing is needed, use quick-drying varnish.

Bright Electric Light.
Question: Is a 200-watt electric bulb O. K. for reading when used in an inverted lamp?

Answer: It is perfectly safe provided the eyes are protected from the direct glare of the light. The light from a lamp of such size is usually thrown against the ceiling for indirect lighting.

Transformation of Gram's Old Buffet

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

YOU have heard quite a good deal in these articles about Grandmother, who is just "Gram" to her family. Also about her favorite grandson, Bill, and his up-and-coming bride, Marty — the same for whom Gram made the stunning rag rug in Sewing Book 3. Then there is Bill's kid sister, Betsy, who streamlined the old iron bed illustrated in Book 3. You all know "Mom," too. She has become almost famous because of her curtains and slip-covers and "The Rug That Grew Up With the Family." And there is "Dad" who is handy with hammer, saw and screw driver.

Well, recently the family have "ganged-up" on Gram about her fancy out-of-date buffet. They think she deserves and can afford something new. Gram decided to get rid of the buffet, then Marty said that she wanted it! This sketch shows you one of the things she and Bill did with it. Watch next week for what became of the mirror and legs.

NOTE: That is white rick-rack that trims the blue chambray curtains and slip-cover. The chair is the one made over from an old rocker described in the new Book 5. To get your copy send order to:

Played Her Part

The only person who ever played a part on the screen that she had played in real life in a famous historical event was Madame Ada Bodart, declares Collier's. In 1915 she underwent much questioning by German army officers about her friend, Nurse Edith Cavell. In 1927 she played the part of herself in the British film, "Dawn," which was the story of this English nurse who was executed for having helped Allied soldiers escape from Belgium.

Snow-Locked Area
Supplied by Plane

One of the Most Hazardous
Flying Jobs in World.

BOISE, IDAHO.—Robert Johnson, 35, veteran mountain pilot, daily flies his tri-motored plane on one of the most hazardous flying jobs in the world.

He soars over jagged mountain peaks, where a forced landing would mean a certain death, to carry supplies to 800 snowbound families in Idaho's primitive area. He provides their only contact with the outside world during six long winter months.

The pioneer families live in small communities or singly, spread out over 1,087,000 acres of mountainous, heavily timbered wilderness, unpierced by any road, in the central part of Idaho. Many of their teen-age children have never seen an automobile but they know Johnson's plane well.

Miners, trappers, forestry workers and their families rely on Johnson's skill and daring to provide their mail, food and medical supplies through the winter. These modern frontier folk are snowed in from October through March each year, unable to reach civilization by horseback, their normal means of transportation.

Dog teams, snowshoes and skis are the only alternatives to Johnson's plane as a means of winter transportation for them. A dog team driven by a grizzled old frontiersman, "Blacky" Wallace of Big Creek, provides Johnson's airline with its only competition.

Supplies are dropped from the planes in parachutes. Flyers say Johnson can hook a parachute on a crate of eggs, bail it out without protective packing and not break an egg.

Supplies are ordered by forest service short wave radio or telephone.

From Cascade and Landmark to Mackay bar, Stypnite and over the Montana border Johnson knows every mountain and valley. His base is usually Missoula, Mont., or Boise.

Virgil Adair, Lewiston pilot, started the winter airplane-delivery service into the primitive area in 1928. Ray Fisher, Missoula, Mont., had it a week and then was killed when he flew into the side of a mountain. Bill Gowen of Boise held the mail contract for a time and lost it to Johnson.

Johnson spends his summer months flying for the forest service. He flies through smoke and ashes to bring supplies in an hour to fire fighting crews far up in the mountains where it would take days to bring supplies by pack horse, the only other means.

Cow, 29 Years Old, Bids

FREMONT, MICH.—What is believed to be the oldest cow in the United States has been discovered at the farm of Charles Wiegand near here. Fanny, 29 years old, is the claimant to the title following the passing of Queen Victoria, a Holstein, of Bath, N. Y.

Fanny gives four quarts of milk a day with 4.10 butter fat content. Although her teeth are mostly missing and her horns gnarled, she spends the day in the pasture as usual, and the only variation in her diet is that she is forced to eat ground oats and corn.

PENINSULA
(Edited by Mrs. E. Hayden)

Mr. and Mrs. Albert McPherson of Boyne City spent Tuesday afternoon with her mother, Mrs. Elmer Faust in Three Bells Dist.

There were 45 at Star Sunday School, including Miss Clara Seiler, sister of superintendent John P. Sieler, a missionary from India, who is on a furlough in the U. S., Mr. and Mrs. James Seiler and family of Washington D. C. brother of Mr. John P. Seiler who are visiting them. After the session at the community hall the attendants went to Whiting Park for a simple picnic dinner which was very much enjoyed. The repast consisted of four kinds of cream, 4 kinds of beans, 4 kinds of salad, layer cakes, cookies, pickles, lemonade and other things too numerous to mention.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Reich and little son who is laid off from his job in Detroit for a spell came Thursday and are occupying their farm home which he purchased for just such an emergency.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Platte of Lansing who are tenting at Whiting Park motored to Sault Ste. Marie Monday and camped there returning Thursday. They plan to return to Lansing July 29th.

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Hayden and family and John Reich who has been employed in Detroit for the past two weeks motored up Saturday a. m. and visited relatives returning to Detroit Sunday afternoon. Mrs. John A. ## New Airport Step In Overseas Jump

Newfoundland Landing Area Is America's Largest.

WASHINGTON.—Announcement of British plans for the expansion of trans-Atlantic airplane service by means of land planes gives importance on this side of the sea to the new airport 30 miles east of Botwood, Newfoundland, the western end of the proposed overseas jump.

"This airport is America's largest, with three times the runway area of any airport in the United States," says the National Geographic society.

"It is only about 2,000 miles from the Irish coast or about 1,300 miles nearer than the new airport at North Beach, Long Island. Scheduled trans-Atlantic flights by means of flying boats began at Botwood in August, with flights once each week. Mail stowed on planes leaving there at 5 p. m. one day, reached Ireland by 10 a. m. the following day, local time. Mail planes flying east to west and which left Ireland at 7 p. m., reached Botwood at 6:30 a. m., next day. Two flights weekly each way are planned for 1940.

"The new landing field is 150 miles from St. John's, Newfoundland, and about a quarter of a mile from Gander lake. The lake offers advantages over other Newfoundland waters in that it often has open water when other lakes are frozen over. The lake will not be used for regular seaplane service but may be used for occasional seaplane anchorage.

"One thousand acres on a high, dry plateau, 500 feet above sea level is the airport site. The landing areas and approaches cover 350 acres, while the paved runways cover 254 acres. Four runways are paved—three 1,500 yards long and 200 yards wide, and one 1,600 yards long and 400 yards wide.

"The distance from St. John's and commercial power has necessitated a Diesel power plant on the site. Under normal weather conditions the beacon at the field is visible for 85 miles."

Portraits on Currency

Betray Counterfeiters

TOLEDO, OHIO.—Look to the eyes of the portrait on a bill if you would detect counterfeit money, urges Ira I. Brought, a secret service agent of the federal government.

"The eyes should have a lifelike effect," Brought said in a speech before the American Institute of Banking. "Counterfeiters usually cannot obtain this effect."

Brought said that there are only about 35 good portrait engravers in the United States, and that it takes about three months to engrave a good portrait.

"Other things to notice when detecting counterfeit money," he said, "are the sharp details such as each hair, threads in the coat and fine screening about the head. These never are well done in counterfeiters."

Freak Auto Ordinances Listed by Motor Club

CHICAGO.—The Chicago Motor club has filed complaints against vehicular traffic regulations they describe as "slightly outmoded."

Chief citations include: Milwaukee's ordinance which prohibits motorists from parking their cars more than an hour unless a horse is attached to it.

Nevada's law forbidding camels on the main highways.

Ohio's rule against riding a jackass at a rate in excess of six miles an hour.

The Monmouth, Ore., prohibition of girls entering an automobile unless accompanied by a chaperon.

Berea, Ohio's, regulation against animals on city streets after dark unless red tail lights are displayed.

Tree Trunks May Yield New Facts on Weather

BUENOS AIRES.—A plan to forecast the weather by an examination of the trunks of 600-year-old trees is to be carried out by the Argentine Agricultural society.

The society urges that an examination of the tree trunks in different parts of the country would enable weather authorities to determine exactly the weather cycles over the last few hundred years, and from these, to predict the likely course of future weather cycles.

The concentric annual layers or rings of a tree trunk vary in thickness according to the rainfall in the year concerned.

Tip for Deer Hunters: Stay in Own Backyard

WENATCHEE, WASH.—E. A. Goodhue walked out of his garage into the backyard early one morning just at the end of the Washington deer season. Two deer suddenly came running into the yard, he says, and almost bowled him over. Then they struck a six-foot woven wire fence and both were knocked down.

One of the deer ran away, but the other's neck was broken. Goodhue bled the deer, a large yearling doe.

Goodhue had just returned from an unsuccessful three-day deer-hunting trip.

SOUND BANKS Like SOUND CARS

MUST BE Built THAT WAY

An automobile that dropped nuts and bolts along the highway would not be considered a good car. Nor should a sound bank "drop" dollars here and there in serving its patrons.

For example, unless the bank can earn enough from lending and investing a part of the "unused" balance in each checking account to pay for the service rendered, a reimbursing service charge becomes a necessity from the standpoint of sound bank operation.

MODERN TREND TO MORE WINDOWS PUTS STRESS ON QUALITY

Windows and More Windows Is Trend in New Homes Today

No matter how you look at windows you're going to see more and more of them in new homes. Light, airy rooms mean just one thing—more windows—and that is definitely the trend in home construction today.

And the more windows you have in your new home, the more you've got to watch quality construction in the windows you buy. Windows can add much to the enjoyment of your new home if they're good windows, and if they're poor ones, they'll add plenty of headaches.

Window "Pains" Gone

Rattling, sticking, leaking windows are a thing of the past with the complete factory fitted window units as manufactured today. Maybe that is why architects and contractors the country over are favoring more windows because, at last, the "pain" has been taken out of them.

New Features

Such features as inside double glazing, screens that are removed from the inside, condensation controls, and hinges that allow both sides of the glass to be washed from the inside are part of modern casement windows today. Similar improvements have been made in the popular double hung windows. Double action weatherstrip, noiseless pulleys, and flat weights that allow for narrow modern lines are a few of the outstanding innovations.

A radial bay of casement windows so popular today.

An angle bay popular for breakfast rooms.

A multiple bank of double hung windows, often used at the end of the living room.

THE STORY THUS FAR

Summoned to the C C ranch in central Nevada, desert-wise Walt Gandy is on his way to help his old range partner, Bill Hollister. Wait is stopped short by a girl—who holds a rifle in firing position. She knows him, tells him how to get to the ranch, and tells him that they will meet again. Within a quarter of a mile from his destination, Wait is stopped again. This time by a grotesque, misshapen man, Bent Lavic by name, who tells him to get out and then tells him the C C crew is in Emigrant, the closest town, for an inquest. Someone has been murdered. Riding to the inquest in Emigrant, Wait leaves his horse at the livery stable. Wait learns that Cash Cameron, owner of the C C ranch, is in trouble. A hard but honest man, Cash has many enemies. At the inquest Wait sees Hollister and the girl who had stopped him. Chino Drake, former cook at the C C ranch, has been murdered and Sheriff Ed Battle is trying to pin the blame on Cash Cameron. The girl is called to the stand. She is Helen Cameron, Cash's daughter. She is seemingly faint and, as Gandy rushes to her aid, slips something in his hand. It is the bullet from Drake's body. Wait rents a post office box and leaves the bullet in it. A dark, swarthy man offers him a job. He draws the man out, finds that he wants to usurp Cameron's public range land. Gandy then turns him down in biting fashion. The man leaps at Wait, who whips him after a hard battle. The man is Pete Kelso, foreman of the 77 ranch. Gandy is called to the sheriff's office, where he meets Hollister. Battle tells Hollister that Cameron is through. Hollister and Gandy return to the C C. Hollister borrows two hundred dollars from Gandy. That evening, Wait meets Helen Cameron in the kitchen. From the first he has been drawn to her. Then she tells him that Bill Hollister is one of the finest men she has ever known. The bawling of cattle that night brought Wait out to investigate. Curious, he steps into the saddle shed. Then the shed door opens slowly. It is Helen. Angry, she leaves, but not until she warns him to forget the C C. Hollister tells Wait that Cash Cameron, thought to be worth a fortune, has broken. The murder of Chino Drake may be his finish. Gandy points out to Hollister that Ranger Powell, Cameron's alibi for Drake's death, has disappeared. Riding the range, Hollister and Gandy meet Pete Kelso and two of his hired men.

CHAPTER XI—Continued

Kelso apparently had not recognized the man between his two henchmen, until Walt Gandy came to a stop. He had been chewing tobacco. His mouth suddenly quit working. One cupped hand went up to it and he threw away the cud. Then his ramrod trunk leaned forward a little across the saddle horn, and a queer smile creased the lines of his sharp, black face. Still he said nothing, but sat there, an insolent, confident man, plainly feeling himself in control of the situation.

He turned his head and looked at Hollister. "Where'd you get him? Looks green to me. I see you don't let him carry a gun, either. That's good. Just you C C people keep your guns shed and stick to the east rims and everything will go along fine." Hollister let him talk.

Kelso went on smoothly, in a round-about way drawing toward something which Walt Gandy had already foreseen. "I'm being wide open with you, Hollister. Jeff Stoddard means to winter two thousand 77 animals here in the sink. As his range boss, I'll see that he does it. We're gathering now and we'll drive day after tomorrow."

Interest came into Hollister's eyes. "Day after tomorrow? I'll make a note of that, Pete. Will Stoddard be along?"

"Riding point, same as usual," Kelso told him. "What of it?"

Hollister said nothing, but Gandy, watching closely that set face, believed the lank man had concluded some long line of thinking.

Pete Kelso, too, must have felt that perhaps in some way he did not control all destiny, that the game was slipping out of his hands, although he did not see how. His black eyes glittered. His words quickened.

"It would be a damn bad mistake for you to show up on that day, Hollister." He jerked his hardening gaze across to Gandy. "Or any other C C man!"

Behind that look, thinly veiled, was the thing Walt Gandy had been expecting.

Pete Kelso had not forgotten the livery barn fight, nor its oat-bitten ending. He was thinking of it now, hot-blooded. The tight dark skin of his face burned; jaw sinews were corded. With effort his hands remained on the saddle horn, away from the gun in his belt holster.

Gandy twirled his cigarette sack on the end of a bare forefinger. He watched Pete Kelso's hands. Then he was aware that a look had been exchanged between the red-faced guard on his right and the 77 foreman. Once more, as when first approaching this spot, he was conscious of being maneuvered.

Hollister, Kelso, and the sheer cliff wall were directly before him. Kelso's two hirelings hemmed him in right and left. Now the left one edged forward. On the right, he of the red face turned in his saddle and gazed off up the ravine, and in so turning, his long-backed body hid the forty-five.

Kelso was speaking again, once more in his smoothly confident voice.

"Hollister, you might as well make up your mind to quit the Emigrant Bench. The C C is sunk. What do you want to go down with it for? You're only the foreman. Why don't you get out?"

He paused, then shot home. "You'd have to sneak, sure. God knows both you and Cameron are in a hole as far as the law's concerned. But none of us blames you for doing away with that cook."

man would guess. For good reason Hollister had ridden today unarmed. He would have no outbreak until he himself touched it off. But it was taking almost more than his iron will to keep silent under Pete Kelso's continued thrusts.

"That's what I'm saying to you," the 77 man finished. "I'm not promising so much for any green hands you've taken on. They're bound to get into trouble at a time like this, whether you give 'em guns to play with or not!"

Lazily, Walt Gandy stretched in his saddle. He was not watching Kelso now, but out of his eye-corners kept the red-faced man on his right fixed in view. He had caught the note of a cue speech in that last talk of Kelso's, as if this act had been planned and rehearsed.

The man left of him had edged forward far enough so that the rump of his horse was even with Sunspot's shoulder. The palomino lay back angry ears. And now in a heavy half minute, Walt Gandy saw the play that was coming. There would be a sudden lashing out of hind hoofs from the animal edged forward, a crowding and mix-up of horses to the right, a gun discharged and someone killed in the accident—fellow named Gandy.

He stopped twirling the tobacco sack and thrust it in under his coat to his shirt pocket. And then the play came.

For some reason the red-faced killer did not wait for the mix-up of crowding horses to give excuse. His hidden right hand jerked suddenly. It was quick, but Hollister's warning shout was a second quicker.

A gun ripped the ravine silence in a single jarring crash. Upon the red face came a look of stupid surprise. The man lurched forward, grabbing his saddle horn. An ugly wound ran up along his right wrist. He had dropped his gun.

Smoke drifted in a gray flag over Walt Gandy's palomino. "Try that again," said Gandy, "and I'll put the next one where you won't ever feel it!"

He covered all three with a short swing of the thirty-eight. Under the sheepskin coat his shoulder holster lay exposed, snugged beneath his left armpit and near the shirt pocket holding his tobacco. He turned cold eyes upon the 77 boss.

"Did anyone ever tell you the difference between green and yellow? You all keep your hands up. Bif, to make it safe for awhile, dump their guns out, will you?"

There was a time of steel objects thudding upon the ravine sand.

"Now," said Gandy, "travel! And don't come back to get this stuff too soon."

As Pete Kelso lowered his hands, the queer smile that had been there once before today, creased his swarthy face. Without a word he led off across the fat sink, the others following. But out of earshot he stopped, spoke quickly, then swung north alone, jumping his horse at once into a lope.

North meant to town. Puzzled, Walt Gandy watched him go.

"God help you now, Wait!" Hollister's voice broke in. "But come on, we'd better look up the rest of our people."

CHAPTER XII

HOLLISTER and Walt swung in along the curving bluff where an arm of the sink cut back into the bench. Pete Kelso's figure was a dark speck northward. Twisting in his saddle Gandy saw the two henchmen circling out on the fat and knew they would not be long in returning to pick up their guns. They'd be harmless for the rest of this day. All their shells were in Hollister's saddle pockets.

Farther out on the sink, C C cattle were grazing in scattered herds, peaceful, stupid brutes, unable to know of the war that men were planning in order to keep their paunches full of grass. Or was it the men that were stupid? Irrelevantly, Walt Gandy wondered.

Half a mile ahead the arm narrowed, and he could make out the notch of a trail leading upward onto the bench top. A small bunch of half a dozen cows were near at hand. Suddenly Bill Hollister swore.

A range boss can tell his own animals before reading their brands; but it took a closer view for Gandy to be sure these were 77's, and not C C's. As he started to say something about this enemy run-in, a riderless horse trotted into sight where the sink arm narrowed to a point. He bit his words off.

Hollister had seen the horse too, and in unison his black and Gandy's palomino were lifted into a run. The mount was Cash Cameron's tall gray. They drove it back, swept onto a tongue of grass from seepage water, and then, passing a cabin-size chunk of rock, slid to a stop next instant beside a spring.

Cameron stood there, water plastering the white hair close to his head, his hat on the ground. He pivoted groggily, recognized the two C C men, stooped and splashed more water on his face.

Hollister swung down. "Where's Helen?"

"The girl went back an hour ago," Cameron said, rising.

"Alone? Lord, Cash, the 77 is loose all over here!"

"Don't I know it!" The old man bent and recovered his hat, sourly examining a hole high up the crown. His gray face tightened. "And I've got to take a thing like this!"

"What happened," Hollister asked.

"I was cleaning rock from the pool here and saw some cows. Them yonder." Cameron pointed to the 77 bunch. "Went out to have a look. Five men were up a draw, waiting for just such a move, I figure, but I didn't see them till one put a bullet at me. My fool scarehead horse bucked, and I didn't stick."

Hollister scanned the high rim, then the sink bottom. "Which way'd they go, Cash?"

"West. They were 77 all right, but too far off for me to get a good look. Using rifles."

Worried, Hollister thrust his boot toe in the stirrup and mounted, saying, "We'd better get on back and see about Horsethief Fisher and Paul." He made no mention then of his own meeting with part of the 77 crew.

They climbed a narrow steep-sloping trail single file and topped out on the bench. There, holding in to let the horses draw wind, he stated flatly what had happened, making no comment.

"Pete Kelso," he said, "made a pass at turning back my bunch of strays. Gandy drilled one of his men in the wrist—brought his thirty-eight along today in a shoulder holster."

"Gandy did?" Cash Cameron jerked himself around in his saddle, as near to flaring up as Walt had seen so far. "Look here. There wasn't to be any gunning on the C C! Now what have you done?"

"Cameron," said Gandy, "that was sort of personal between Pete Kelso and me, only he shoved the job onto one of his killers." He bent toward the old man, doubled left fist propped upon his thigh. "But damned if I see what you're driving at."

Still he said nothing; but sat there; an insolent, confident man.

at! Now that the first gun's fired, why don't we call it an opening shot and go ahead?"

"C C cattle are all there in the sink, settled for the winter. Are you going to hold it, or is the 77 going to crowd their stuff in and run yours out? Why don't we meet that drive before it ever reaches the west rims?"

"Well, boy," said Cameron patiently, "you're right. It's what ought to be done, except the C C is straddling a keg of dynamite, remember that. It isn't only the 77 we've got to consider . . . every Emigrant Bench outfit is primed and ready to blow us off the public domain. A ranch needing as much of that as we do, is always in a ticklish position. Right now we've got the law and the people against us; we don't dare have any more killings charged against the C C until we come clear of what has already happened. Understand that, don't you? So I'll ask you to keep that gun of yours out of action."

Gandy shook his head, his eyes hardening to a dark and stubborn bronze. "I don't get it! You mean," he asked, unbelieving, "that you'll let the 77 drive come in?"

Cash Cameron looked at Hollister. Then his steady blue gaze came back. "Yes," he said, "I might."

It was after three by the time they had pushed across the bench-top and were loping slantwise up the timbered mountain skirt. In deepening forest shadow they reached the home ranch trail, had just passed the section corner where the fence began, when from ahead came a moaning of cattle.

Walt Gandy chattered with recognition. Beside him, Cameron and Hollister exchanged a sudden eye to eye look. Wordless, they moved on.

The cattle were off on their left, and had gone into that fenced section where a panel of barbed wire had either been let down, or had not been put up in Bent Lavic's recent mending. They were in thin timber, near another fence that enclosed the garden patch.

CHAPTER XIII

BILL HOLLISTER was the first to take his eyes from the mutilated, khaki-clad body of Ranger Powell. Cash Cameron sat stunned. Hollister spoke quietly to Gandy: "Pull off a little, will you, Wait?"

Gandy neck-reined his palomino around and rode back among the pine trunks out of hearing. Hollister, he knew, had something to say that was for the old man alone.

Too plainly in one blow all his props had been struck away. There was his alibi in the Chino Drake killing, dead. More than that, there was the federal ranger he had been wrangling with over forest grass.

When Wait turned to look again, Bill Hollister was coming through the trees toward him, his face set and bleak as granite, telling nothing.

"I'm going over the mountain," he said. "Taking Cash with me. This puts him in an awful hole."

"It sure does," Gandy agreed. "I'd hate to see Sheriff Battle or any of the Emigrant hot-heads get hold of him now!"

Hollister nodded. "That's it. He's got to stay under cover, give us time to work out something. I'll be back tonight, late."

He seemed not to be considering any hole that he too might be in. Gandy watched him narrowly, offering, "Suppose I phone Battle from the house? Let him think I found the body. How's that?"

The deep-set eyes stared out in their drilling look. "You believe Cameron actually did this? Or I did?"

"I'm doing my believing private," said Gandy. "Only it's dead sure something has got to be done. You go on. I'll ride in and call the sheriff." Under knee pressure his palomino was already sidestepping away.

A twisted figure scuttled from the kitchen door, as coming in by the rear lot, he approached the ranch home. Bent Lavic went dragging down toward the bunk sheds. Gandy swung off on the stone step, leaving the pony's reins up. No one was in the kitchen when he entered a minute later.

Standing at the wall telephone, he cranked for Emigrant, and when the operator answered, said, "Sheriff's office."

As the connection was made and a thick voice rumbled in his ear, he asked, "Battle?" Then, "This is Gandy at the C C. You'd better come out here; there's been a body found. Yes, Ranger Powell."

He hung up, and was aware then that by some miraculous means Helen Cameron had appeared behind him. He pivoted, looking at her. She stood near a table; but all at once, with the blood gone from her face, she dropped upon a bench and stared back at him, speechless.

She had overheard his telephone conversation, yet even as Walt Gandy took a step toward the girl, he realized that what he had told Sheriff Battle was not news to her. The shock now registered upon her face was something else.

Her first words seemed to prove it, for she did not question what had happened. Hoarsely from a tightening throat she asked, "Where is my father?" And before he could answer: "Why did you call Battle? Why did you?"

Unanswering, Walt Gandy let himself down upon a bench opposite. He took off his hat and laid it at his side. "His weight creaked the floor boards, and there was a clink of spurs under the table as his legs shifted uneasily. He'd give anything to have Helen Cameron out of this! But she wasn't."

In a flat statement, he said, "So you knew Ranger Powell had been killed. I suppose it isn't any use asking how you knew that?"

"No." The girl's slim straight hands clenched on the table top. "What have you done? Where is my father?"

"He won't be in for awhile." "But where is he? What . . ." Her tone had risen, sharp and ringing. With a startled look she broke off and sat rigid, staring at him but somehow strangely through him. And then her words began again, quietly, with more self-control and determination than he had ever heard in a girl's voice:

"Walt Gandy, you have got to leave this ranch. It was a mistake for you to come. It will be a greater mistake for you to stay any longer. You've got to go." Very evenly the speech was given, but toward the end a little catch came into that determined tone.

Leave the ranch. Walt Gandy turned his head away, looking out of a window into the fading afternoon. Did she know what she was asking? He did.

It was not a feeling of the moment, aroused because she was so plainly in desperate trouble, but one that had grown steadily since the first instant of their meeting—he wanted to be with this girl always; Helen Cameron meant more to him than anything else in the world.

"But first," she was saying, "I want you to give me something. I want the bullet I passed to you at the inquest the other day."

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

THE TWO WAYS

LESSON TEXT—Psalm 1: Matthew 7:24-27. GOLDEN TEXT—For the Lord knoweth the way of the righteous; but the way of the ungodly shall perish.—Psalm 1:6.

The most important thing in life is living. That is not an attempt to make a striking statement, but a sincere effort to present a fact which too often escapes our attention. We are so concentrated upon making a living, or making money, or making a name for ourselves, that we often fail to make a life. God is more concerned about what we are than what we do.

There are only two ways—the right way and the wrong way. We build our life either on the true foundation or the false. There is no middle way, no half-good foundation. We must choose, and it is either one or the other.

I. Two Roads (Ps. 1).

Scripture is not at all concerned about mixing figures of speech, so long as the truth is graphically expressed and fully understood. Here it speaks of a man walking in the way, a tree planted by a river; the chaff of the threshing floor; and then returns to the figure of walking in the way. All of these present the same truth, for essentially the idea is that of the two ways in which men walk.

1. Choosing the Way (vv. 1, 4, 6). Even the choice of his way of life marks a man as either blessed or wicked. Some seem to think that they can choose or just drift into the wrong way and still have hope that all will be well. Their choice, or their failure to choose, has put them in the one class or the other.

Making a choice is a vital and serious matter. Let us do it carefully. Walking in the counsel or philosophy of the wicked soon results in a man lingering in the way of sinners, and before he is aware of it he will find himself so at home, that he will sit among them and scoff.

2. Continuing in the Way (vv. 2-4). The man who will permit the law of God to control every detail of life night and day will never go astray, but will prosper in everything he does. Observe that to prosper does not necessarily mean to have money, position or recognition in this world. It means to be a success in the thing which God has given one to do.

Much that this world calls prosperity is nothing but an empty show, while at the same time some lives which the world says have been wasted are prosperous in the sight of God because His will has been done.

3. At the End of the Way (vv. 5, 6). Every road of life comes to an end. "It is appointed unto men once to die, but after this the judgment" (Heb. 9:27). Ah yes—the judgment—what will it be in your life and in mine?

The wicked cannot stand in the presence of the divine Judge. All the bold front and boastful talk which went over so well before men, loses its flavor and the wicked man can only expect judgment. It is a dark and dreadful scene, but man need not go in the way which ends there, but may turn to God in faith and repentance.

II. Two Houses (Matt. 7:24-27).

Two men build houses evidently much alike, but we find that there is a great difference between them.

1. The Builders (vv. 24, 26). "Wise" and "foolish" are the builders, and what made them so was their choice of a foundation. No matter how brilliant a man may seem to be in the learning of this world, if he rejects God's Word he is foolish and bound to suffer the loss of everything.

2. The Foundations (vv. 24, 26). The foundation of life is really everything. Built on the sands of human philosophy or personal desire and in the rejection of God's will, man prepares only for disaster. But—and here is a glorious thought—the Son of God says that if a man will hear His sayings and build on them, no storm can destroy his building. Blessed assurance!

3. The Testing (vv. 25, 27). The time of testing always comes. It may come early in life, or it may be delayed, but be certain that it will come. To the believer in Christ it is only that—a testing, to prove that his house will stand. But to the one who has rejected Christ the testing time brings dreadful destruction.

Shining in the Heart

God, who commanded the light to shine out of darkness, hath shined in our hearts, to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ.—II Corinthians 4:6.

There's the Danger

If men make their plan of service and then ask God to help them, they may, by that very assertion of self, quench the Holy Spirit.

It's Easy to Make And Easy to Wear

MAKE it in a few hours, and wear it day after day after day! You can see, from the small diagram sketch, how easy this dress is to put together—merely five pieces, including the sleeves, and the only detailing consists of a few simple darts at the waistline. But you can't really tell until you get it on, how easy it is to wear and work in, how unhampering and becoming. The waistline looks slim but is completely unrestricting.

The front fastening makes it easy to get into. This is an easily tubbable dress, too. Make up design No. 1966-B in seersucker, linen, percale or gingham. Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1966-B is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20 and 40. Corresponding bust measurements 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 14 (32) requires 3 1/2 yards of 35-inch material without nap. Send order to:

SEWING CIRCLE PATTERN DEPT., Room 1324, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago. Enclose 15 cents in coins for Pattern No. . . . Size . . . . Name . . . . . Address . . . . .

Gifts of Life

Let us thank God in gladness and humility for the great and simple gifts of life; for the fire-side and the intimate talks of friendship; for the gift of wonder and the joy of discovery; for the everlasting freshness of experience, for the newness of life each day as we grow older.

When your child BITES HIS NAILS

It may be a Danger Sign!

It isn't always "nerves" that makes a child bite his nails. Often it's because of a reason few mothers suspect—WORMS!

If, along with nail-biting, there are signs of uneasy stomach, finicky appetite, fidgeting, restless sleep . . . take heed! These may be the symptoms of round worms; a nasty infection that can cause real distress.

JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE is the best known remedy in America for expelling round worms. It has been used by millions of mothers, for over a century, and is backed by the most modern scientific study.

JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE has great ability to drive out large round worms, yet it tastes good and sets gently. JAYNE'S does not contain salicylate. If there are no worms it won't hurt as a mild laxative. Ask for JAYNE'S VER-MI-FUGE at any drug store.

IT'S PICNIC TIME!
(Recipes Below)

Household News

By Eleanor Howe

Summertime is picnic time, and you pack up your troubles as you unpack your picnic kit. Perhaps one reason why a picnic is such a popular outdoor sport is because its preparations are so easy on the lady of the house... sandwiches, stuffed tomatoes (or just small whole tomatoes) with hard cooked eggs and a steaming cup of tea, are a traditional picnic lunch—and that's an easy meal if there ever was one!

No dishes to wash afterward... paper cups and plates eliminate all such labor. Carry the tea in a thermos bottle, if you like, or brew it "fisherman style" over an open fire.

One hot dish is important at a picnic; it might be stew, or chowder, baked beans, or a macaroni dish—but do have something hot!

There are picnic hints and menus that you'll like, in my cookbook, "Easy Entertaining"; there's a menu for a beach party, a hiking trip and a steak fry, too—with all the recipes you'll need for this simple form of entertaining.

Broiled Baked Bean Sandwiches.
Bread, sliced
Baked beans
Cheese, sliced or cut in strips
Bacon slices, cut in halves
Arrange bread on broiler. Turn bread is toasted on one side, turn. Then cover the untoasted sides of the slices of bread with baked beans. Place cheese over the beans and top each sandwich with one-half slice of bacon. Place under broiler and broil until bacon is crisp and brown and cheese is melted.

Ginger Creams.
(Makes 3 dozen 1 1/2-inch squares)
1/2 cup shortening
2 tablespoons sugar

Cream shortening and sugar together. Sift flour, soda, salt and ginger, and blend with the creamed mixture, using a pastry blender or a fork. Add molasses and egg yolk, and beat well. Then add boiling water, gradually, and beat well. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg white. Spread batter in greased jelly roll pan (about 11 by 18 inches) and bake in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees) for approximately 18 minutes. Cool, and frost with boiled icing or confectioners' sugar icing. Cut in squares.

Deviled Eggs.

Remember the wonderful ice cream you used to love, as a child—the kind you had at parties and picnics and Sunday school socials, too? Eleanor Howe has a collection of her favorite ice cream recipes to give you, next week, and recipes for frosty drinks, as well. Watch for her column next week—and then serve one of the delicious desserts or beverages the next time you entertain.

butter. Add green pepper, and tomatoes. Add sugar and salt and cook until the green pepper is tender. Make sausage into flat cakes. In a buttered baking dish place a layer of macaroni, then a layer of sausage cakes, and another layer of macaroni. Pour the tomato mixture over the macaroni and top with buttered crumbs. Place all of the ingredients in a bowl in the order given. Do not stir until boiling water is added. Then beat 3 minutes, using a rotary beater, or 2 minutes if an electric mixer is used. Place in greased 8-inch square pan and bake 35 to 40 minutes in a moderately hot oven (325 degrees).

Let 'Better Baking' Solve Your Baking Problems.
True it is we all have baking problems. Yet, if solved correctly, we save time because fallen cakes don't have to be made over again and we save money too—because the family simply won't eat tough, chewy pastry, heavy, soggy cakes, etc.

In fact, it is to avoid just such baking failures as these (and many more) that I have compiled this cookbook, "Better Baking." "Better Baking" brings to you a whole series of baking hints, as well as a compilation of many of my own favorite baking recipes, including such unusual good-to-eat ones as a frosted nut spice cake, gumdrop cake, chocolate fudge cake, quick apple cake, and even a maraschino cherry cake.

To secure your copy of this book, simply send 10 cents in coin and please address, "Better Baking," care of Eleanor Howe, 919 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Illinois. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Gives It Tang
A little horseradish added to salad dressing or white sauce makes a piquant sauce for fish. Horseradish also may be added to whipped cream and served with baked, boiled or fried ham.

Use Chicken Fat
Chicken fat may be substituted for butter in cakes and cookies or for creaming or browning foods. Beef drippings may be used for seasoning sauces, meats or fowl stuffings or meat loaves.

Gay Plaids and Stripes Add Zest to Smart Play Clothes

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

AN outstanding movement developing in the world of fashion during the last several seasons is the increasing attention given to the styling of play clothes. It is indeed something to reckon with, this matter of being correctly outfitted in the field of sports. This new importance attached to play clothes is proving a lively incentive to designers to turn out outfits that shall add to the picture as well as prove practical down to the last detail. There is no more fascinating endeavor than the field of costume design has to offer than this of creating play-clothes for young moderns.

It adds greatly to the pleasurable excitement that materials these days are produced so nearly perfect, not alone from the pictorial standpoint, but that they neither fade nor shrink in the wash, neither do they wrinkle or prove unseemly in the wearing. Playgrounds this season, because of the spectacular garb of fun-loving outdoor enthusiasts, burst forth in a blaze of color that fairly dazzles the eye. And of all the conspirators in the color game we know of none that are so loyally flying cheer-inspiring colorings as are the fashionable-for-play clothes plaids and stripes.

The picture shows how dramatically and picturesquely color-bright stripes and plaids are being fashioned into clothes that go golfing, tennis playing, cruising, dude-ranching and so forth wherever your wanderlust happens to take you this summer.

The very attractive outfit which you see to the right in the illustration makes one parasol-conscious at very first glance. Which is as it should be for one of the very most important events on the fashion program this summer is the come-back of parasols. Designers of beach clothes find big appeal in the parasol idea and whenever and wherever it is consistent to do so they introduce an eye-thrilling parasol. It worked out beautifully for the outfit pictured to add a matching parasol, and here you see it in all its glory flaunting the same gay stripes that give color to the smartly fashioned skirt. The fabric combination for this costume is a very happy one of stripe-printed celanese crepe for the skirt and parasol with sharkskin in monotone for the blouse top.

You can get such easy-to-follow patterns for play clothes nowadays, and modern sewing machines have such a vast equipment of gadgets and attachments that almost perform miracles in stitching, tucking, quilting, shirring, cording, it is a temptation to make one's own outfits. Many smart, fashion-aware women are doing just that, buying up pretty materials and making their own. It is a fact the records show that the home-sewing idea is decidedly on the increase.

Consider, in the light of being your own dressmaker, the charming gaytime sun suit which the girl seated is wearing. Just a few yards of seersucker plaid in vivid colors were required? You can make the whole outfit by spending only a couple of hours at your sewing machine even if you are a beginner at the sewing game. A little gathering attachment in your sewing machine kit will dispose of the yards of gathering at the waistline in just a few moments. You'll love the swirling ballerina skirt and the smartly styled jacket top that furnish the styling theme for this outfit.

New Handknit

Fashion experts predict an enthusiastic revival of knitted costumes with emphasis on hand-knit sweaters for fall. This pert little bolero sweater is just the thing to slip on with your summer outfits and it will prove a life-saver to bridge over midseason days. It is easily made in simple drop stitch using contrasting pastel yarns. Though the yarn gives the impression of being heavy and substantial it is in reality light as a feather.

Patriotic Jewelry

Is Latest Fashion

The latest fashion gesture is to wear a decorative piece of patriotic jewelry. Of course the American flag comes first in clips or brooches. It has jeweled stripes and stars in red white and blue. Glittering American eagle emblems eloquently bespeak patriotism and they are ever so decorative posed on suit lapel or at the neckline of your summer frocks.

Sheer Black Hat

Is Smart Fashion

The new hats of sheer black horse-hair braid or of thin net or chiffon are registering as one of the season's outstanding successes. The smartest ones have large brims that are styled to wear far back on the head so that they halo hair and face with a mist of wispy black. They give you the dress-up look that is so important for special occasions. You'll love a hat of this type with your black and white prints and with the all-black afternoon sheer costumes that are high fashion this summer.

Berets for Smart

Summer Headwear

For chic millinery to wear now and through the fall, the beret, big, black and dramatic carries the honors. The present-beret vogue is gaining momentum by leaps and bounds. One way of wearing the new beret is to pose it far back on the head. There are also dramatic profile berets that turn up picturesquely at one side. It is worth while to study up on the beret movement for be assured berets are important millinery news.

Big Revival for

Knitted Fashions

Knitwear enthusiasts here's good news for you, in that nearly every fashion report mentions the coming importance of hand-knitted costumes, capes, sweaters and three-quarter cardigans. So "attend to your knitting" so as to be ready and smartly knit clad when fall comes. A charming novelty is the sweater with picturesque detachable matching knitted hood.

FARM TOPICS

SHEEP RAISING YIELDS PROFITS

Breeding, Management and Feeding Vital Factors.

By L. I. CASE

Growers who make the most money from their sheep and who receive top prices for their lambs and wool aren't turning this trick by accident.

They have learned something about the many factors which contribute to growing a product in ready demand by the market. Chief among these factors are good breeding, feeding, and management practices.

In breeding, the successful sheepman is careful to select short-legged, compact, blocky rams rather than the long-legged, coarse, upstanding type. Then he ships to market each year his wether lambs and part of his ewe lambs but holds back the best ewe lambs for replacing old and poor-producing members of the flock.

Good feeding, placed by many sheepmen ahead of good breeding, is likewise highly important in the production of high-grade market animals. Plenty of milk is probably the most important feed item in producing top-notch lambs. This means that the ewes must be fed for milk production.

Many growers feed their lambs some grain in addition to the milk. This is often placed in a creep where the lambs may help themselves without being disturbed by the older sheep.

In addition to good feeding and good breeding, there are a large number of approved management practices that the most successful sheepmen follow. One of the most important is a regular monthly drenching for the control of internal parasites.

'Frame' Vegetable Plots

Are Proving Successful

Farm families in sections of the country subject to excessive heat and insufficient rainfall have found that they can still raise enough fresh vegetables for home use by planting frame gardens.

Though they have been used by some farmers for a number of years, it was not until the past year that their use became widespread. The Farm Security administration has sponsored the gardens as an aid to a balanced diet, especially where drought has prevented farmers from growing many vegetables for home consumption.

Many of the farmers have used scrap lumber in constructing the frame. It is usually four or five feet wide, 12 to 18 inches high, and as long as desired. Frequently a subirrigation system is installed to improve production. This requires less water and less labor than surface irrigation—nor does the garden crust over. Homemade concrete tiles, or even tin cans are used for subirrigation. They are placed in rows two or three feet apart the length of the garden plot at a depth of 12 to 14 inches, and connected to the water supply. Over this system is laid fertile soil. Sacks can be placed around the sides to give protection from the wind and sun. A thin cloth is spread over the top to protect the green stuff from excessive heat or cold.

As soon as the soil has been cleared of one crop, it can be replanted. Thus, the same families have fresh vegetables most of the year around. These frame gardens cut down the grocery bill, but another important function is supplying food with some of the vitamins necessary for proper nutrition and good health.

Aiding Farm Migrants

"While federal agencies have been acting to help the migrants already on the road, their main efforts," Secretary Wallace recently explained to the senate civil liberties committee, "have been devoted to checking migration at its source. For every dollar which the Farm Security administration has used to aid migrants in California, for example, it has used $20 for the rehabilitation of needy farm families in the five states from which most of the Pacific coast migrants originally came—Oklahoma, Texas, Kansas, Arkansas, and Missouri. Throughout the nation it has used nearly $480,000,000 in the last five years to help low-income farm families get a new foothold in their home communities."

Candling Tests Quality

More poultrymen—particularly those who sell direct to housewives or local retailers—should candle their eggs before selling them. Sometimes an absolutely fresh, new-laid egg will be unsuitable for food, and if delivered the reputation of the producer, because of a bloody white, a blood spot, or meat spot. On the average farm, candling will take only a few minutes daily. A length of stove pipe and a light make a good candle.

Nutmeg State

A story has it that the sobriquet, the Nutmeg state, is applied to Connecticut because its early inhabitants had the reputation of being so ingenious and shrewd that they were able to make and sell wooden nutmegs. Sam Slick (Judge Halliburton) seems to be the originator of this story.

Some claim that wooden nutmegs were actually sold, but they do not give either the time or the place. The state librarian says that "probably the inventive and manufacturing abilities of the inhabitants were the reasons for Connecticut's getting the name."

INDIGESTION

Gas trapped in the stomach or gutlet may act like a hair-trigger on the heart. At a first sign of distress smart men and women depend on Bell's and Tablets to get gas free. At the same time, the fact that the pills are known for acid indigestion. If the pills DO NOT work, Bell's and Tablets better return bottle to us and receive DOUBLE MONEY BACK.

Garden Gossip

Edited by Caroline Harrington
Letters and questions on garden topics will be welcome. They will be published and discussed in this column.

Dear Mrs. Harrington:

I have tried to sketch from memory a huge moth I found on a string bean leaf one evening last week. It was all as large as the sketch, and a beautiful gray in color. The scales which covered its body were as soft looking as feathers.
I picked the bean leaf it was on, and transferred it to a fruit jar so I could look at it closely without injuring it. Then I put the jar on the ground and let the moth escape. It climbed up a stalk of sweet clover. It acted as if its wings could not support its huge body, but the next morning it was gone. My husband suggested that it did not fly when I had it because there was still to much daylight—enough to pick beans. Only once before have I seen such a moth, and that one was flying around a lamp, and among a group of dancers were rescued from their grave peril by a strong man, armed with a broom.

I wondered if you might know what kind of a moth it is.
Farmer's Wife

No, I do not know what kind of a moth it is you describe, but perhaps I can find out. Your letter only just came as I was sending off my copy to Mr. Lisk (I hope he will forgive my tardiness which I know is a great annoyance in any newspaper office) and there is not time now to leaf through the insect guide to make an identification. But I shall take great pleasure in doing so before another week goes by, and I will pass on to you my findings. Thank you for taking time from your busy life to write to me. I do appreciate your interest more than you realize.

It seems the rule to think of wildflowers as a spring attraction, but summer, too, has its wildflowers. Depending on your personal judgment, many of these wildflowers of summer are not as delicate as the trilliums and violets, the spring beauties, the "boys and girls," the hepaticas and the adder's tongues, but they have their points—these summer wildflowers. For one thing, they are so friendly. They do not shrink away from us, they are not so choosy about where they grow. They are versatile—and they are adaptable to very important qualifications if one would get along in this tough world. And our summer wildflowers do "get along." Not all of them are native to this country, but they like it here, they have taken out their papers and made themselves entirely at home. They easily survive hardships and glory in the strangest adventures—adventures that would be the death of trillium and bloodroot and foxglove.

Take, for instance, the wildflower that grows at my front doorstep. Crowding up through a tiny crack in the cement of porch step is a solitary wild bergamot—or perhaps you call it wild lavender monarda. How did it come to this unlikely spot? From what field or roadside did it make its way to bloom in my yard? By what means was it conveyed? I have not seen any monarda nearby though I know it does grow plentifully in many Charlevoix fields. When was the instant of its beginning? And how, from that secret time until now, did it find the means to put down roots, to send up stem and leaves and delicately scented flowers? How, from only a handful of soil, has it wrested all the attributes of full monarda perfection? Undaunted by withering heat and beating rain, it is beautiful and brave, this wild bergamot. I wish I knew how it came here.
