Jordan Creamery Hold Annual

CO-OPERATIVE MEETING. SOME 300 PATRONS ATTEND

1,162,000 Lbs. Butter Produced During Past Year

The annual meeting of the Jordan Valley Co-operative Creamery was held Monday night, August 5th, in the East Jordan High School Auditorium with a wonderful attendance of around 300 dairymen. They were especially pleased with the financial report which showed that the finances are in a healthy condition. It was announced that five percent interest would be paid on the certificates of indebtedness. Worthy of comment is the fact that two new churns have been purchased during the year and paid for. A huge well has been dug which gives the creamery ample amounts of water at all times, and for all needs.

The production of 1,162,000 lbs. of butter shows nearly a four hundred percent increase in eight years time. There are 784 actual members and approximately 1,000 patrons doing business with the creamery.

The program included short talks by county agents Kirkpatrick and Mellencamp of Antrim and Charlevoix counties. The main address was given by A. C. Baltzer, Dairy Specialist from the Michigan State College, who emphasized the desirability of having records of cows, using high class sires, and raising the quality of cream. The speaker also showed some colored slides on the making of grass silage which aroused considerable interest. The Clyde family, from Bellaire, favored the audience with a wonderful program of music, song, and dance. The election of officers resulted in the reelection of Howard Stephens, Charlevoix, and Louis Osterbaan, of Ellsworth, as members of the Board of Directors.

The success of the Creamery reflects the greatest of credit upon Percy Penfold who has been manager for nearly the entire life of the creamery. He not alone understands the creamery business from A to Z but has the ability to supervise and direct the construction and installation equipment necessary which is a

DR. BUTTRICK PREACHES SUNDAY

The many friends of Dr. George Buttrick, of New York City, will be glad to know that he preaches in the Presbyterian Church Sunday morning at 10:30.

Dr. Buttrick, with his wide reputation as preacher and author, is unable to accept but a small fraction of the invitations he has to preach and lecture in large centers. The people of Northern Michigan are grateful that he is willing from summer to summer to preach in our City where he formed many friendships when he was at the beginning of his distinguished career.

Miss Edyth Thompson, of Wilson College, will sing, and Prof. J. W. Thompson will play the organ.

Jordan River Club Holds Picnic in Flushing Park

From Flint Journal

The Jordan River club held its annual picnic Saturday in the Genesee county park at Flushing. Guests donned paper trimmed hats and sat down to a basket picnic at noon in the big pavilion. The company of former East Jordan residents represented Detroit, Berkley, Davison, Flint and Midland. Among the guests were Mayor Clarence Healey and Mrs. Healey and daughter of East Jordan. Mayor Healey invited the group to return to the old home town at East Jordan early in September and attend the dedication of the new community house which will be completed at the time.

Contests and races entertained the guests.

great saving to the patrons of the Creamery. Likewise the Board of Directors have been most loyal and sincere in directing the destinies of the organization. The Creamery has been a great success and is a powerful influence throughout Northwest Michigan.

MARRIAGES

Ingalls — Sutton

Marlin Ingalls and Miss Roberta Sutton, both of East Jordan, Route one, were united in marriage Saturday evening at the Presbyterian Church by Rev. C. W. Sidebotham, in the presence of a goodly number of relatives and friends. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Atkinson.

Clark — Carson

Richard Albert Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Clark, and Miss Viola K. Carson, daughter of Walter Carson, both of East Jordan, were united in marriage, Saturday, Aug. 3rd at the Methodist parsonage, the pastor, Rev. J. C. Mathews, performing the ceremony. They were attended by Burl Walker and Miss Mable Clark.

Ostrander — Galmore

Annabell Ostrander, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. McKinley Ostrander of Boyne City, and Thomas C. Galmore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Galmore of East Jordan, were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents, Tuesday, Aug. 6th, in the presence of the immediate families and a few friends. Rev. Stanley Buck, pastor of the Boyne City Methodist Church performed the ceremony.

The bride was dressed in powder blue crepe and wore a corsage of pink roses and white snapdragons. Jean Galmore attended the bride and was attired in dusty rose crepe. Robert Schroeder attended the groom.

The young couple will make their home in East Jordan where the groom is employed at Vogel's Standard Service Station. They have the best wishes of their friends for a life of happiness.

Chamber of Commerce

Chamber of Commerce meeting is postponed from August 15th to August 22nd. More particulars will be given next week.

Ernest Vincent Madison

(Publisher's note — Owing to a mixup, copy for the following article was not received until this week).

Ernest Vincent Madison passed away at his home in East Jordan on July 16th, following an illness of three months from a complication of diseases.

Mr. Madison was born July 8, 1876, at Okemos, Mich., his parents being Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Madison. He came to East Jordan with his parents in 1885. He resided here 12 years; at Charlevoix 2 1/2 years; Morson, Canada, 8 years; Grand Rapids 4 years; and for the past nine years has conducted a fruit store, cigar and pool-room business in East Jordan.

In 1906 he was united in marriage to Kate Smith of Charlevoix, who passed away a year later leaving an infant son. In 1922 he was united in marriage to Aura Stover of Barker Creek. Deceased was a member of the Knights of Pythias and Elks fraternal orders.

Deceased is survived by the wife and the son, Vincent Madison of Detroit.

Funeral services were held from the Presbyterian church the afternoon of July 18, conducted by the pastor, Rev. C. W. Sidebotham. Burial was at Sunset Hill. Several from the Charlevoix K. of P. lodge were here to attend the funeral.

England's Preparation For Invasion, Topic of Dr. Glover's Talk at Rotary

The Rotary meeting of this week was of special interest. The speaker was Dr. Carl Glover, of Cincinnati, who spent the early years of his life in England and in Australia, and who is now an eminent American Divine.

Dr. Glover was visiting his relatives in England last summer during the stirring times leading up to the war, and including the German invasion of Poland. He has a sister now living in Sheffield, England.

He described what he saw of gas mask preparation, and of the ways planned for the evacuation of children. Half a million children were evacuated from London before war was declared. He also described the "blackouts" that were rehearsed in Sheffield while he was there.

His realistic presentation of things that he had seen and also felt, made a deep impression upon those present.

Once more there were several visitors present. The state of Ohio led with four representatives, two being from Cincinnati.

Attention Garden Club Members

All members of the Garden Club are urged to be present at the Inn on Friday, the 9th of August, at one o'clock, for an important business meeting. Luncheon will be served at 35c a plate. Reservations should be made before Thursday evening.

Rounded Out Twenty Years of Saying "Number Please - Thank You"

Saturday, Aug. 3rd, Miss Mary Green celebrated her twentieth anniversary as Chief Operator of the East Jordan Exchange of the Michigan Bell Telephone Company.

As we grow older, the years seem to go by more rapidly and it hardly seems to The Herald Publisher that Miss Green took charge of the local telephone office that number of years ago.

The Postoffice, the Telephone office and this Printing office all moved into the same building a little over thirty years ago.

During her years in charge of the local Michigan Bell office, Miss Green has always been more than obliging both in office management and on the switch board.

And sitting at a switch board repeating "Number please - Thank You" day in and day out, year in and year out, is enough to task any person's nerves.

Congratulations, Miss Green.

Northwestern Michigan July D. H. I. A. Report

During July 355 cows in 25 herds were on test. These cows averaged 637 lbs. of milk and 26.7 lbs. of butterfat. The high cow of the month was a 6 yr. old milking Shorthorn owned by Oscar Overholt and Sons of Levering. This cow produced 1690 lbs. of milk and 67.6 lbs of butterfat.

The second high cow, a Registered Guernsey owned by O. M. Saunders of Ironton, produced 66.2 lbs. of butterfat.

Eight herds in Charlevoix County and two in Emmet were added during July.

Potato Tour Being Planned

SOUTHERN GROWERS TO INSPECT CERTIFIED SEED FIELDS

Of great interest to all producers and buyers of certified seed potatoes is the announcement that Emmet and Charlevoix counties are conducting potato tours on Wednesday and Thursday, August 14th and 15th. The tour in Emmet County will be on the first day named and will include outstanding potato fields in the Pellston and Levering areas.

County Agents of Southern Michigan counties are invited and are inviting growers to accompany the tour and really see certified potatoes at their best. A good delegation from Jackson and Ingham counties is expected. A cordial invitation is extended to the Charlevoix County farmers to avail themselves of this opportunity of seeing some of our best fields.

H. C. Moore, in charge of certified seed potatoes, and J. H. Muncie Plant Pathologist, will be present to discuss proper methods of raising potatoes and potato diseases. The first stop will be at the farm of Lee Sneathen, Charlevoix, at 9:30 Thursday morning, August 15th. He lives about one mile south of the Maple Grove Grange Hall in Hayes Township. He has a wonderful field of Russets and also Irish Cobblers. Last year he had one of the outstanding fields in Michigan.

The next stop will be at the home of Howard Stephens, Charlevoix, who lives one mile west of Horton's Bay. Here you will see Russet Ruralis grown under the best of conditions and in the best of vigor. For many years these two farmers have been producing certified seed potatoes.

The noon day meal will be in Boyne City between twelve and one o'clock. Three modern, up-to-date restaurants will give the folks a wonderful choice for their lunch.

The last stop in the afternoon will be at the farm of LeRoy Hardy, on the Deer Lake Road about seven miles south of Boyne City, at 1:30 p. m. This is the third year that Mr. Hardy has been raising certified seed and he really has a splendid field to see.

It is hoped that many Charlevoix County farmers will join the tour and spend a day of real value to all. This will be the one day in the entire year that you can spend in seeing potatoes at their best. Don't forget the tour starts at Lee Sneathen's at 9:30. Thursday forenoon — August 15th, with the next stop at Howard Stephens' at 10:30 and the last stop at Roy Hardy's at 1:30.

Our Juniors Play Harbor Reserves Here Sunday

Idle last Sunday due to the unfavorable playing condition of the Indian River Ball Park, the East Jordan Juniors will meet the Harbor Springs Reserve Independents at the Fairgrounds Sunday afternoon in a tilt that will commence at 2:30 p. m. It will be the first home game for the Jordanites in three weeks.

Fresh from a fine performance a week ago against the powerful Boyne City Independents, the locals are expected to run into stiff competition in Sunday's engagement with the Harborites.

To date the locals have compiled a favorable record with 6 wins in 9 games. Chris Bulow, lanky first baseman, who joined the team the first week in July, tops the local batting averages with a .500 percentage. R. Saxton, W. Saxton and Cihak are the pitchers with Holley doing the backstopping.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
(Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—J. B. Priestly and the U. S. A. got along nicely together until his play, "Time and the Conways," began to make trouble in 1937. In this play, Mr. Priestly went metaphysical and conjured time into fourth dimensional unreality. Perhaps because they had long felt the urgency and reality of a newspaper deadline, the American dramatic critics didn't quite get it and scored the play as just so-so and maybe not even that. Mr. Priestly said they were rude and boorish about it and challenged not only their time sense, but their sense of propriety and their fitness for their jobs.

That must have gone deeply under Mr. Priestly's skin, since, as the "Voice of England" at a moment when time, at any rate seems to be real, he takes a short-wave, short jab at radio commentators in this country. He thinks that "people who are not prepared to fight anything, anywhere" should mind their manners and not belittle others who can and will fight. While that may not necessarily make "Time and the Conways" a good play, it reveals Mr. Priestly, and no doubt England, as ready to meet all comers, and that seems all to the good. Perhaps when television comes, we'll be saying, "Smile when you say that, pardner."

This reporter, having once talked with Mr. Priestly, can testify that he has a nice smile. While his estimate of our present or potential belligerency may have been somewhat tactless, in his novels and magazine articles he has shown much more sound discernment of the American scene than the writings of certain other visiting Britons, who kiss and run and thereafter engage in long-distance smearing. He, at any rate, said his say while he was here.

Mr. Priestly, 46 years old, took honors in literature and history at Cambridge, went to London from his native Yorkshire and found the literary ladder just an escalator. His novel, "The Good Companions," was his first big success. This reader thought there was deep insight in his "Midnight in the Desert," written after his stay in Arizona, with his family. In his routine short-wave address, he stresses the common cultural ties of England and America, without being oily about it and has seemed to this hearer an effective special pleader. But he does seem to look on our critics as alien parachute-jumpers, or even something less admirable.

THE professor who pieces out the dinosaur from a single bone has a distinct advantage over interpreters of world events. Nobody can dispute him.

Jap War Minister Bears a Feather On His Shoulder

This writer has just finished reading a magazine article of 1934 about Lieut. Gen. Eiki Tojo of Japan, in which it is made clear that he is typical of the headstrong army caste, sure to destroy itself, and that quickly.

But here today is General Tojo named war minister in the new army cabinet which seems bent on destroying anybody or anything rather than itself. In the short view, at least, the dinosaurs of totalitarianism are subject to laboratory observation—but only in the short view, close to a deadline.

Little is known about General Tojo in this country, but available data indicate that his rise to power will not be reassuring to those who look for peaceful, pleasant solutions of world discord. His betes noir are the U. S. A. and Russia.

Like Pericles of Greece, he advanced himself by kicking up war scares. He agrees with the doctrine of Adolf Hitler, expounded in "Mein Kampf," that all alliances are push-overs and that the only tough and durable nation is the one that stands alone. He is smart, hard-boiled, resourceful and contemptuous of theories, sentiments, and negotiations. He is of an un-reconstructed feudal family, and has been in the army since his early youth.

Stubby, bespectacled little Yosuke Matsuoka, Japan's new foreign minister, is cut out of the same cloth. At the University of Oregon, he was an easy conformist in superficial matters, picking up sports-page idioms and playing poker cleverly—never caught bluffing. After he led Japan's contemptuous walk-out from the League of Nations in 1933 he made no further gestures toward Occidentalism. They call him Japan's Clive of India, signaling his long industrial outreach on the mainland.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS By Farnham F. Dudgeon

England Extends Sea Blockade As Nazis Continue Air Raids; Japanese Arrest British 'Spies'

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

While waiting for Adolf Hitler's scheduled invasion of England the British army undergoes special training in beach fighting tactics. This picture, passed by the British official censor, shows the Royal Scots Fusiliers, "Somewhere in England," being trained on the seashore for the "Battle of the Beaches."

THE WAR: Extensions

While England extended her sea blockade of Europe to include the coastlines of Spain and Portugal to cut off possible re-shipments of war supplies through these countries to Germany and Italy, the axis powers were busy extending their air and submarine warfare against the British isles.

With new and more stringent orders the British high command threw the entire strength of the royal navy behind the restriction of shipping to the enemy as notice was served on all Atlantic commerce that all cargoes were subject to seizure unless navicerts—a form of passport for approved shipments—could be produced by the captains of the shipping vessels.

While German and Italian troops were massing along the French coastline across the channel from England, the Nazi air force continued its smashing raids against the coast towns of Britain. Berlin claimed that the important port of Dover had been seriously crippled by repeated bombings but the British countered with the statement that always the invader was driven away from his objective, losing many planes in the process. Figures were released in London claiming the loss of 240 German planes in the past month.

A change in the plans for the defense of Britain was revealed when the order went out to remove many of the barriers which had been erected across roads to impede travel of the invading forces. It was explained that now since the home defense has organized the entire island into one "large armed camp" these barricades were not only unnecessary but a possible handicap.

POLITICS: Underway

Thus far both Republicans and Democrats have confined their 1940 political activity to a long-range "hit and run" exchange of statements regarding the respective demerits of each other's cause, but with the Willkie notification speech scheduled for August 17, that date is looked upon as the time for the beginning of a "knock-down and drag 'em out" campaign.

While Candidate Willkie has been busy conferring with party leaders on the draft of his speech, Democrats were casting about for a choice to succeed James A. Farley as head of the national committee and campaign manager for Franklin Roosevelt and Henry Wallace. After several prospects had been considered, rejected or refused to serve, Edward J. Flynn, Democratic national committeeman from New York was selected and accepted his assignment.

Earl Browder, general secretary of the Communist party in the U. S., has asked the Supreme court to rule on his conviction on fraud passport charges. He faces four years' imprisonment, $2,000 fine.

Alfred E. Smith, former New York governor and Democratic candidate for President in 1928; took another walk from the Roosevelt fold issuing a statement to the effect that his backing would go to the G. O. P. ticket this year. Meanwhile, Willkie was making a definite bid in the deep South for more of this anti-New Deal backing, but heard at least one southern political leader—Edward H. Crump of Memphis, Tenn.—brand him as a "foe of the people," declaring that Willkie's whole life "has been a fight against the people."

JAPAN: British 'Spies'

Although directly opposed to many of the political and trade policies of the British government in the Orient, Japan has usually been quite cagey about refraining from tramping too roughly on Johnny Bull's toes. But with the British pretty busy at home and with the Royal navy occupied at the task of enforcing the "blockade of Europe" the Japanese have taken the opportunity to move in a bit on the English.

It now appears that a very definite drive against British espionage and propaganda has taken form in Japan and the arrest of at least 13 British citizens—well-known residents of Tokyo—started a series of diplomatic exchanges between the two nations that may have a very serious effect upon their future relationship. Domei, Japanese news agency, reported that one of the Britons arrested, Melville James Cox, newspaper correspondent, had committed suicide while undergoing questioning by Japanese officials.

Britain immediately demanded a complete investigation of the incident and called for substantiation of the spy charges but word from Tokyo was soon forthcoming that Japan would resist any official protest over the affair. Japanese officials announced that they had "sufficient evidence" against the prisoners and that arrests were continuing despite strong British reaction.

U. S. Ban

Japan had a little complaining to do on her own score as the United States put into effect a government order requiring that all future exports of scrap iron would be subject to a federal licensing regulation. Japan has been a heavy buyer of U. S. scrap for use in the manufacture of munitions to pursue the war against China and the Nipponese would be prone to believe that the order was aimed directly at them. While U. S. officials were non-committal, the feeling persisted that America might be taking a slap at Japan for her unfriendly attitude toward Britain and her ever-increasing friendliness for the axis powers.

Included in the U. S. order was a phrase calling for the same export license requirements for shipments of aviation gasoline. Washington said U. S. supplies of this vital commodity were low but Tokyo said it was direct step to bring "economic pressure" against Japan.

FOOD: Full & Famine

While crop reports from Europe indicate that serious food shortages may result in near-famine for that continent this winter, the grain bins of North America will soon bulge with the huge surplus of bread grains and feeds. When the 1940 harvest is finished an estimated exportable surplus of wheat alone of 60,000,000 bushels—largest in history—will be stored in the United States.

Fugitive?

Mme. Genevieve Tabouis, one of France's best-known political commentators, is shown as she arrived in New York, on the S. S. Britannic from Europe. Mme. Tabouis, one of the French columnists who consistently warned the world on the menace of Hitler, is now reported a fugitive from the new French government.

U. S. DEFENSE: Appeasement

As the Congressional opposition to a peacetime military draft continued to grow President Roosevelt asked for authority to call the National Guard into immediate active service for a year's intensive training.

While it appeared that such authority would be forthcoming the opponents of the conscription plan refused to be appeased by an offer of the proponents to cut the registration limit to include only men between the ages of 21 and 30 rather than those between 18 and 64. This opposition headed by Senators Burton Wheeler of Montana, Norris of Nebraska and Vandenberg of Michigan argued that special training for the National Guard at the present time would provide enough margin of defense in the nation's manpower line up.

Five Billion More

As the debate over the manpower issue developed, the house of representatives quickly passed another defense measure calling for the expenditure of $4,963,151,957 as a further boost in the nation's preparedness drive. The money, requested by the President, would launch work on the two-ocean navy, deemed so vital if England's naval force should be lost to Germany. Also included in the bill, which now goes to the senate, are provisions for 14,000 additional warplanes, and cash for purchasing equipment for 2,000,000 soldiers.

TRANSPORTATION: Tragedy

Railroad investigators blamed failure of a train crew to follow instructions for the death of 43 persons in a tragic head-on collision of a 73-car freight train and a gasoline-motor coach near Akron, Ohio. They said that members of the gasoline-coach crew had been instructed to side-track to allow the freight train to pass but for some reason had neglected to do so. Severely injured, the crew members could not immediately give their version of the accident.

CENSUS: 'Biggest'

As adding machines click and results are checked, findings of the 1940 census continue to take shape. Latest reports indicate that true to predictions rural areas are growing at the expense of large cities. The "25-biggest" cities list has been released showing New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Detroit and Los Angeles, in that order, still ranked as the five largest. Houston, Texas, ranking twenty-first and Denver, Colo., twenty-fifth, made the select list for the first time, crowding out Jersey City, N. J., and Portland, Ore.

New U. S. Political Alignment Is Now Taking Definite Shape

Banter at the Fight Camps.

By WILLIAM BRUCKART
WNU Service, National Press Bldg., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON.—Something like four years ago, I wrote in these columns an expression of belief that President Roosevelt would be the instrumentality of our era to bring about a realignment of political groupings in the United States. I wrote, then, that his own thoughts and actions, together with the sources of the advice he was accepting, would bring about this result whether Mr. Roosevelt so intended or not.

The prediction that I made in November, 1936, was based upon what I believed likely to be the principles to which Mr. Roosevelt would adhere in his second administration. There was no intimation at that time, however, that Mr. Roosevelt could, or would, be a nominee for a third term as President. Even without that indication, the wide breach between the conservatives of both Democratic and Republican parties, on the one hand, and the advisors that surrounded the President seemed certain to accomplish the end that I then predicted.

With Mr. Roosevelt seeking his third term under the Democratic label, and Wendell Willkie running as the Republican nominee, there surely can no longer be any doubt that the campaign of 1940 will see a complete and very unusual shift among voters. The closing of the polls on November 5 will have recorded, I believe, probably the greatest transition in political thought alignment that our nation ever has known.

An assertion so broad requires an explanation. An explanation of the reasons can go only to the fundamentals of the circumstance. That brings the statement that, in the minds of many long-experienced politicians, the issues are going to be more sharply defined this fall than in most any campaign within the recollection of this observer.

Issue of Third Term Will Be Hotly Debated

First, anyone who doubts that the Republicans and anti-third term Democrats are going to let the third term issue pass unnoticed must be somewhat "teched" in the head. From what is now plainly visible, every fact and every possible supposition about a third term, or the tradition against any man staying in the White House for 12 years, will be filling the air and the newspapers from the moment that Mr. Willkie's speech of formal acceptance is recorded. It is much too obvious to pass by also, that the Roosevelt opponents will accuse him of every type of malicious design and insincerity which clever political brains can conjure into written or spoken word.

From many sources among Democrats who are sticking to party faith and doctrine, always heretofore strongly resentful of the third term idea, I hear that preservation of the party, itself, depends upon preventing Mr. Roosevelt from becoming the first person to have three consecutive terms. It is too early to say whether those Democrats will be effective in their aid to the Roosevelt opponents, but, whatever their numbers are, they tell me of their decision to regain control of the Democratic label.

The war within the Democratic party itself together with the third term issue, therefore, presents the basis for a tremendous shift of party strength. It forms the basis for one phase of that realignment for which I spoke. If those Democrats fail to regain control of the party—and they were beaten down in the Chicago convention by the well-oiled New Deal faction's machine—the conservative wing of the Democratic party has no place else to go, save to the Republican side. Some of them, like Vice President Garner, who was so completely ignored that his name hardly was mentioned at Chicago, doubtless will go a-fishing. There will be quite a few of those. The question yet to be answered is, how many will be inactive in the campaign?

DEFINITE ALIGNMENT

"The closing of the polls on November 5 will have recorded," according to this article by William Bruckart, "probably the greatest transition in political thought alignment that our nation ever has known." He goes on to explain that the break between the followers of the New Deal philosophy of government and the opposition to such philosophy will become completely evident this fall.

Relief and Farm Vote Should Go to Roosevelt

On the other hand, Mr. Roosevelt will gain some votes from the other side. He will get a large percentage of the relief votes again, as he did in 1936, and he will have perhaps as much as 40 per cent of the farm vote, or that is the guess of men who know political thought in agricultural areas.

The President's foreign policies have proved attractive to certain elements in this country, and obviously they are going to stick with the man who has helped, their fathersland.

From these three angles—the relief, the farm and the foreign vote—we see a regrouping along new lines. The relief and the farm votes may be said to have been held by the President before, but that is not quite an accurate statement. The realignment, in these two cases, appears to be something of a settling down process.

Willkie Supporters Will Woo All Disgruntled Democrats

From the Willkie camp, observers cannot fail to note how plans are being made to give a haven to dissatisfied Democrats. Moreover, those same plans take into account the need for a political home for that portion of the farm and labor vote which has a desire to find new affiliations. It is very clear that the Roosevelt farm program has not won complete endorsement, and the Republicans have the feeling, too, that the actions of the National Labor Relations board which surely has been influenced by John L. Lewis and his C. I. O. have not helped the New Deal team with William Green's A. F. of L.

There have been so many complaints from business men, great and small, about the bungling and the waste in Washington that Mr. Willkie can be expected to hold most of that vote. He can be expected also to have whatever influence that segment of national life has in persuading workers to turn to the Republicans.

And with respect to the third term, already guns have begun to bark out their missiles of criticism of the Roosevelt "draft" by the Chicago convention. They are saying thus early that the "draft" was no draft at all; that Mr. Roosevelt carefully planned the machinery by which he would be "drafted," and that his release of the delegates on the eve of the convention voting was a gesture so painfully sour that it serves as proof of the President's lack of capacity as a politician. They are charging also that Postmaster General Farley knew there was no draft movement, except that which the President prompted, and that is why he is fading out of politics and becoming a baseball club president.

In any manner that you look on the advancing campaign, therefore, it becomes increasingly evident that Mr. Roosevelt is taking the last step of a movement begun four or five years ago. He is leading a campaign that will force a conclusion by the voters themselves next November. At that time, they will have to decide whether they prefer this nation to return to a charted course of national administration, or whether they want to continue into the new fields and new methods of national government that have formed the keystone of the New Deal.

FROSTY FOODS FOR SUMMER

(Recipes Below)

"When you're 'eating out,' and you wonder what to order for the grand finale of your meal, how often do you decide on a delicious sounding parfait? There's something very special about this tall, imposing and delectable dessert. And there really is no reason at all why having parfaits for dessert should be confined to our 'eating out' days. A parfait may be a culinary creation, but with modern ice cream freezers, improved freezing in mechanical refrigerators and commercial mixes to help produce smooth, creamy, frozen desserts, there's no reason why you shouldn't serve them often at home!

Make a variety of ice creams and sherbets too, and serve them with cookies or dainty cakes. You'll find a grand assortment of cookie and cake recipes in my cookbook, "Better Baking"—crisp cookies, chewy cookies, and light feathery cakes that are just the right accompaniment for foods and drinks that are cold and frosty.

Ice Cream Freezer Ice Cream.

(Makes 1 quart)

- 2 cups milk
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 2 egg yolks
- 2 teaspoons vanilla extract
- 1 cup whipping cream

Scald milk, reserving 1/2 cup. Mix and blend the sugar, flour and salt and mix to a smooth paste with the cold milk which was reserved. Add this mixture to the scalded milk and cook, stirring constantly until thick, in a double boiler for 15 minutes. Add egg yolks (well beaten) and cook, stirring constantly, three minutes longer. Add vanilla and chill. Fold in whipping cream (whipped), place in ice cream freezer and freeze, using three parts ice to one part rock salt. This is a good standard recipe to use as a "pattern" for many tasty variations.

Chocolate Angel Parfait.

- 2 egg whites (beaten stiff)
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup water
- 1 square unsweetened chocolate (melted and slightly cooled)
- 1 cup cream (whipped)
- 1 tablespoon vanilla extract
- 1/4 cup candied cherries (quartered)
- 1/4 cup blanched almonds (chopped)

Beat egg whites stiff. Cook the sugar and water to the soft ball stage (234 degrees). Pour syrup in fine stream over egg whites, beating constantly. Continue beating until mixture is cool. Fold in melted chocolate, whipped cream, extract, nuts and cherries. Pour into trays and place in freezing section of mechanical refrigerator. Freeze. No stirring is necessary. Nuts and cherries may be omitted, if desired.

Mocha Freeze.

Make strong coffee in the usual manner, and pour over crushed ice to chill. Pour into tall glasses and add a generous spoonful of vanilla ice cream to each glass. Top with whipped cream.

Chocolate Mint Parfait.

- 1 cup sugar
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 2 cups milk (scalded)
- 3 eggs (beaten)
- 2 squares unsweetened chocolate (melted)
- 2 teaspoons vanilla extract
- 1 cup whipping cream (whipped)

Blend sugar, cornstarch and salt. Add scalded milk slowly, stirring well, and place in saucepan or double boiler. Cook, stirring constantly, until thick. Remove from heat; add beaten eggs; then cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Blend in melted chocolate. Cool. Then add vanilla extract and fold in whipped cream. Place in freezing container of modern ice cream freezer, and freeze, using 2 parts ice to 1 part rock salt. Serve in tall parfait glasses, alternating with layers of peppermint sauce. Top with whipped cream and a cherry. Peppermint sauce:

- 1/2 cup sugar
- 4 teaspoons cornstarch
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1/2 cup cold water
- 1/2 cup boiling water
- 1/4 teaspoon peppermint extract
- Few drops green coloring
- 1/4 cup whipping cream (whipped)

Combine sugar, cornstarch, salt, and lemon juice. Mix with cold water to form a paste. Add hot water and cook, stirring constantly until thick and clear. Add flavoring and coloring, and chill. Just before serving, fold in whipped cream.

Lemon Sherbet.

(Serves 8)

- 1 1/2 cups granulated sugar
- 1 quart water
- 1 tablespoon gelatin
- 2 tablespoons cold water
- 1/4 cup lemon juice
- Yellow food coloring
- 2 egg whites
- 2 tablespoons powdered sugar

Combine granulated sugar and water and boil for 5 minutes. Soak gelatin in cold water and dissolve in the hot syrup. Cool. Add lemon juice and a few drops of yellow food coloring. Pour mixture into freezing container of ice cream freezer. Cover and surround with a mixture of chipped ice and salt (3 parts ice to 1 part salt, by volume). Freeze.

Lemon Iceberg.

To each glass of lemonade, add a scoop of lemon sherbet. Garnish with mint and a fresh strawberry or raspberry. Slip a lemon slice over the edge of each glass.

Iced Chocolate.

(Makes 4 large glasses)

- 4 tablespoons sugar
- 4 tablespoons cocoa
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup boiling water
- 2 cups milk (scalded)
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
- Crushed ice
- Whipped cream

Combine sugar, cocoa and salt. Add boiling water and cook for two minutes. Remove from fire, and combine with the scalded milk. Pour into glasses filled with crushed ice, and serve with a spoonful of whipped cream garnishing each glass.

FIRST-AID to the AILING HOUSE

by Roger B. Whitman
(© Roger B. Whitman—WNU Service.)

Hot Upstairs Rooms.

QUESTION: Upstairs rooms in my house have slanting ceilings, and in summer the heat is so intense that the rooms cannot be used. How can I cool them without any great expense?

Answer: Your best move will be to create full circulation of air in the rooms. If there are windows that provide a through draft, put a large electric fan in one of them, blowing outward to draw a continuous current of air through the rooms. If there are not enough windows, there will be no great expense in cutting an opening in a high point of the roof, through which air can escape as fast as it becomes heated; the opening to be closed by a scuttle in bad weather. Heat in an attic is likely to be due to the overheating of stagnant air; when the heated air is allowed to escape, cooler air will enter, and the air current will give the effect of coolness.

Floor Finish.

Question: In a bungalow that we have bought, the floors were not protected, and are weatherbeaten. I want to have bare floors without rugs. How can I bring the wood back to its original beauty?

Answer: If the flooring is at all rough, you should have it smoothed with an electric floor machine, which will also restore the beauty of the wood. If this is not possible, you can clean the floors by bleaching with oxalic acid in the proportion of a pound dissolved in 1 1/2 gallons of hot water. (Wear old clothes and rubber gloves, and be very careful.) Apply liberally, and allow to remain for several hours. Follow by thorough rinsing with clear water. After drying, you can finish the floors with two coats of top quality floor varnish.

Crack Filler.

Question: A space of from one-quarter to one-half inch developed between an inside door jamb and the wall. I filled this first with strips of newspaper and finished with caulking compound. After six weeks the compound has shrunk from wall and jamb and cracked every two inches. How can this be remedied?

Answer: Good caulking compound differs from putty in always remaining slightly soft. Putty, on the other hand, hardens and is likely to crack. From your description I think it likely that possibly through error you were given putty instead of caulking compound. Dig out the hardened material and replace it with caulking compound that you know to be of good quality.

Storing Kerosene.

Question: A correspondent asks if it is safe to store two five-gallon cans of kerosene oil in the cellar. The cans will be about five feet from the oil fired water heater, enclosed in a brick and tin compartment.

Answer: This sounds quite safe, but I would advise that you get in touch with your insurance agent and get the fire insurance company's approval. It will also be advisable to check with the local regulations.

Oil Film on Furniture.

Question: I have an oil burner and steam system in my home. I find that since installing the oil burner, I get a very fine coat of oil film all over my furniture. Is this common of an oil burner so installed?

Answer: This is not common with all oil burners, but may occur if the combustion of oil is incomplete. Your oil burner man should be able to adjust the burner and correct this condition.

Casein Paint.

Question: I am thinking of painting my library with casein paint. I am told, however, that should I ever want to use oil paint, which is possible, all of the casein paint would first have to be removed. Is this so?

Answer: No; for good quality casein paint, such as you plan to use, forms an excellent first coat for oil paint.

Bloodsuckers in a Pond.

Question: Noting a recent inquiry on the removal of bloodsuckers from a pond, a correspondent suggests trying a few ducks on the pond; for in several cases this has given successful results. "They will eliminate same in a very few weeks. Keep the ducks on the pond to prevent the return of the bloodsuckers."

Meaning of Veneer.

Question: What is veneer? Is it a thin layer of real wood applied over an inferior wood, or is it a stain?

Answer: The former is about correct. A fine wood, such as mahogany, walnut, etc., is applied over a less expensive wood, giving the finished article the appearance of a fine wood finish.

Exposed Pipes.

Question: Hot water pipes to upstairs rooms are exposed in my living-room. How can I conceal them before repapering?

Answer: The simplest thing would be to enclose them in a framework of 2 by 2s, covered with plaster-board or wallboard, which can be papered with the rest of the wall.

Potassium Permanganate.

Question: How can potassium permanganate stains be removed from a porcelain wash basin?

Answer: You can take them out with either oxalic acid or peroxide of hydrogen.

Dark Sheer Print to Keep You Cool and Chic on a Summer Day

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

IF YOUR summer

clothes collection lacks a frock of dark sheer print (cloque organdy is particularly good buy for it neither wrinkles nor needs ironing) you are losing out on a friend in need and indeed that will faithfully serve on a blazing hot summer day. During the torrid mid-summer season the big problem is to dress so as to keep cool and fresh-looking and smartly styled in appearance all at the same time, and the gowns that will do it is the one made of a handsome dark gaily patterned sheer print.

Once get the habit of having a dark cool sheer print frock within calling and it will become a tradition with you. It is not only that the comfort of a dark sheer keeps your disposition sweet giving you poise reflected in a self-satisfied expression on your face, but a dark print this summer ranks among the highest in style prestige.

The way to get the most out of your dark sheer frock is to fortify it with several sets of accessories. We know of a superbly chic dark print recently acquired by a young sophisticate that thrilled with possibilities. The coloring happened to be deep wine, light green, with a sprinkling of white on a deep rich mossy green background. What interchangeable accessories did for this frock in the way of chic and charm and imparting a different look tuned to occasion is a lesson in color well worth noting.

A cunning trick about this gown was its rather wide belt of self print, across the front of which were several vertical slashes finished like broad buttonholes. The idea was to thread an inch wide ribbon in and out of these openings to tie in loops and streamers at one side. The ribbon picked up a color in the print and this keyed the color for the entire accessory ensemble. Gloves and draped turban of matching wine-red jersey added the touch supreme.

A prime favorite this season, according to reports from fabric centers, is the attractive cloque organdy, beloved because they stay fresh in that their permanent crinkle gives them a natural resistance to wrinkling. Think of the joy and satisfaction in a dress you can dabble out easily as a handkerchief, give it a good shake, hang it up to dry and presto in the morning a look-like-new dress awaits you. Being dark in general tone you can wear it almost anywhere, shopping, traveling and where you will, knowing that your gown will fit into the picture perfectly.

The two gowns pictured are just the sort of dark prints that doll up vaingloriously with versatile accessories. Dainty rosebuds are scattered over a dark sheer for the attractive dress to the right. The fine washable swiss voile that makes it cut on slim one-piece lines with smart all-around pleats in the skirt and repeated in the tiny pleats flaring the lace trimmed neck. Perky little velvet bows and crystal buttons are pleasing highlights. The beautiful draping qualities of fine swiss cloque fast-color, flower-printed organdy has inspired the winsome frock shown to the left. Here you see the new elongated bodice line with style emphasis on sophisticated simplicity. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Cottons Are an American Fashion

There is no need to ask yourself, Shall I wear cottons? You'll be far too busy deciding just which ones to wear. For cottons this season are as necessary in a well-rounded wardrobe as are lingerie and stockings.

Paris takes some of the credit for the enormous acceptance of cottons, and rightly so, but in the main they are basically American. They fit perfectly into the American ideal of freshness and cleanliness. Most cotton costumes are born and reared in this country, from the planting of the seed to the last stitch put into the gown.

For That New Look Follow These Tips

Your hair in a pompadour, your beret or wide brimmed hat or bonnet-like toque worn far back on your head giving accent to the pompadour. Your suit in the very smart narrow lines that are coming in ready for fall. Follow this formula and you will look "new" as new can be in fashion.

Copycat Fashions Ape Men's Attire

The loose, long lines, straight back and low-placed pockets that characterize men's jackets are exactly the features that college girls are demanding this season in casual sports coats. Either they go to men's stores to buy these jackets or have them copied in their favorite fabrics and styles.

Western Atmosphere

A scarf clip with a distinctly western air is the fierce looking bull's head cut out of leather.

Attractive Belt

Include in your collection a belt of the type pictured and we'll wager it will be the one you like best and will wear oftenest. The present prevailing vogue for ruffles and the utterly feminine touch is reflected in the styling of this belt. The artistry and originality that distinguishes this model is apparent at first glance. Wear it and you will find it is especially slenderizing. To achieve this clever effect Criterion molded the belt and its engaging little ruffled tabs from velvet-smooth capskin with a hidden adjustable clasp, which assures a style that will fit to perfection.

Persian Toques to Be Autumn Style

Persian toques, intricately draped and twisted, are among the first new models shown by Legroux Soeurs for autumn. They are made of printed velvet, printed jersey and a cashmere print.

More of Marty and Her Bag of Tricks

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

LAST week Marty helped to talk Grandmother out of her old buffet. The Martindale family were in a dither when she told them that she was going to furnish a combination guest and sewing room with the mirror and two legs of the old buffet; plus some spools, a butter tub, unbleached muslin, some old rags and other odds and ends.

The rags were used for the hook rug in this sketch of a corner of that new guest and sewing room. Directions for the rug and for making the spool tables shown here are both in Sewing Book 5. The mirror was hung end-wise and a marvelous for fitting dresses. The muslin drapery was used to cover the irregular edge of the mirror and makes just the right background for the blue spool tables. You can see in the sketch how the lamps and stool were made. Next week the bottom shelf of the buffet will be used and Gram will teach Marty another trick or two.

Cheerfulness and content are great beautifiers and are famous preservers of youthful looks.—Dickens.

Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of world-wide use, surely must be accepted as evidence of satisfactory use. And favorable public opinion supports that of the able physicians who test the value of Doan's under exacting laboratory conditions. These physicians, too, approve every word of advertising you read, the objective of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good diuretic treatment for disorder of the kidney function and for relief of the pain and worry it causes. If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and diuretic medication would be more often employed. Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warn of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer nagging back-ache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up at night, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out. Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Ask your neighbor!

By L. L. STEVENSON

In that section of midtown—the upper Thirties between Sixth and Eighth avenues—where something like 90 per cent of the garments worn in the United States are manufactured, there is much mechanized transport of course. Huge trucks all but block the narrow east and west streets. Light delivery wagons dash here and there. Horse-drawn vehicles form part of the traffic picture. Taxicabs, in emergencies, are used for deliveries. Nevertheless there is also more man-power transportation than anywhere else in the city. All through business hours, young men, who may some day be employing other young men to do that same work, trundle rolling wardrobes freighted with the finished product to stores and jobbers. Hand trucks clatter over the sidewalks with bolts, bales and boxes. In fact, there are so many pushers pedestrians don't do well.

The human back is also a popular form of transportation. Bolts of cloth are usually the burden though there may be so many pasteboard boxes that the bearer can't be seen, and so those boxes look as if moving on human legs. The cloth bearers, not infrequently manufacturers who have gone to wholesale houses for materials, stop for a chat. Thus more congestion. Young men with hangers draped with coats and dresses also form part of the throng. In the afternoon there seems to be a constant procession of pasteboard boxes into the Times Square post office station, and the parcel-post clerks do a brisk business. Within a few minutes, the bare tables behind them bear up under mountains of merchandise.

In the fur district, which blends right into the garment district to the south, there is also much human transport. The only rolling wardrobes, however, are invaders from the garment section. Fur coat manufacturers seem to prefer their arms when it comes to delivering the finished product. Raw pelts are carried constantly. One afternoon I saw a man toting what looked like two armloads of dried fish. Closer inspection showed them to be animal skins. Later, I learned that they were mink pelts with a value of something like $10,000.

Like to prow around the city looking over those various centers. For instance, the leather district away downtown. There are long rows of stores and display rooms with workshops in lofts. And that odor that is always associated with leather. The leather district is fittingly situated. Once its site was a swamp and the city's tanneries did business there.

A friend dropped in to tell of an experience he'd had over in New Jersey last night. As a short cut to the George Washington bridge, he turned into a dark side road on which construction work was being done, and as he sped along hummed that nonsense ditty about the little man who wasn't there. Suddenly, his headlights revealed, well ahead of him, a youth with thumb at full cock. Being a kind-hearted person, he stopped the car and the lad started toward him. Only a few steps did he take and then he disappeared. And the New Yorker, cold sober, suddenly experienced the big jitters because he felt that he was a victim of hallucination probably brought on by the song he had been warbling.

Just as he had decided jitters or no jitters to resume his journey to New York, the youth reappeared. After all, the explanation of the happening was quite simple. Blinded by the car's headlights, he had stepped off a culvert and ended up in a deep ditch. So instead of proceeding to some undisclosed destination, the hitch-hiker went home to change clothes and eventually the New Yorker reached Manhattan safely. But he's through with that little man tune.

Golden Era Sports Champs Who Are Still Swinging

Sports fans love to talk about the Tildens, the Joneses and the Dempseys who made history between 1923 and 1936, as if they had gone to the home for the aged. And yet, the boys and girls who made that age of sport golden are still swinging, although they may no longer be getting the big headlines. These photos reunite you with some of the Golden Era sports stars.

When tennis fans get together we invariably hear the name of "Big Bill" Tilden. For he was the greatest champion of them all. Not so long ago Tilden defeated young Donald Budge in a professional game. "Little Poker Face" Helen Wills won about everything to be won in tennis and retired. Back she came in 1938 to win the Wimbledon championship.

Golden Era Jack Dempsey didn't let that now famous "long count" at Chicago get him down. Today when he can spare the time from his restaurant business Dempsey likes to get back into the ring as referee.

Earle Sande, who in 1924 won more than a half a million in prize money, is now a trainer of race horses. He is shown here (right) with Stagehand.

Who doesn't remember Man o' War? "Big Red" is now 22 years old, and has sired many winners since ending his turf career.

Gertrude Ederle, first woman to swim the English Channel, is still a mermaid. She is shown (right) with Eleanor Holm Rose, wife of the Aquacade impresario, at the World's Fair swim tests.

Babe Ruth, greatest of all-time home run hitters, is instructor at a baseball school in the southland during the winter. In summer he is a ringsider at all the big games.

THE WORKS AND THE WORD OF GOD

LESSON TEXT—Psalm 19.
GOLDEN TEXT—Let the words of my mouth, and the meditation of my heart, be acceptable in thy sight, O Lord, my strength, and my redeemer.—Psalm 19:14.

Consistently beautiful and beautifully consistent is the revelation of God, whether it be in the glory of His works, in the perfection of His Word, or in His gracious dealings with man. The spiritually minded man sees God in all of His works, whereas the blind materialist sees only matter and natural laws which he may use or abuse. He makes of God's creation things for his own comfort or for the destruction of his fellow men, not recognizing "the Creator, who is blessed forever." This is a serious matter, for in so doing the unbeliever has "changed the truth of God into a lie" (read Rom. 1:20-25).

The psalmist here presents God as He is revealed in nature, in His Word, and in the heart of man.

I. God's Glory Revealed in Nature (vv. 1-6).

"The heavens declare the glory of God." The sun in all its glory and power and the starry stillness of the night all "utter forth a glorious voice," as Joseph Addison expresses it:

"Forever singing, as they shine,
The hand that made us is divine."

Nature speaks eloquently of God without saying a single word. The eye, the mind, and the heart of men may see in and know from nature alone the "eternal power and Godhead; so that they are without excuse" (Rom. 1:20). "No man living beneath the copes of heaven dwells beyond the bounds of God's court preachers."

Those who do not hear or heed these voices, whether their ears "are stopped with the clay of earthly tastes and occupations, or stuffed with scientific wadding of the most modern kind" (Maclaren), are described by Paul as having their foolish heart darkened: "Professing themselves to be wise, they became fools" (Rom. 1:21, 22).

Nature gives only a limited revelation of God, showing His existence, power and wisdom; but to really know Him we must see

II. God's Perfection Revealed in His Word (vv. 7-11).

Nowhere in the book of nature is it written that God is a Redeemer, a cleanser from sin, a restorer of the soul. That truth is found only in His Word—the Bible. What folly then for sinful men who need redemption to see God only in nature, but never look into His Word or go to church that they may hear His truth proclaimed. The final and perfect revelation of God is in His Son, Jesus Christ, the Redeemer. The psalmist with the eye of faith saw the perfection of God revealed in His law. We are privileged to know the Son of God who came not "to destroy the law . . . but to fulfill."

Note the beautiful symmetry of verses 7-9:

Law . . . . . perfect . . . restoring (R.V.)
Testimony . . . . . sure . . . making wise
Commandment . . . . . right . . . rejoicing
Fear . . . . . pure . . . enlightening
Judgments . . . . . clean . . . enduring
Righteousness . . . . . true . . . altogether righteous

Little wonder that the psalmist says that the words of God are sweeter than honey, more precious than gold, and worthy to be heeded and kept. The great reward of thus knowing God's Word is that we may learn of

III. God's Grace Revealed in the Heart of Man (vv. 12-14).

Man is a sinner; sometimes he sins unwittingly and ignorantly; sometimes deliberately and in presumption; and sometimes both. What shall he do with his sin? The psalmist says to bring it to God in repentance and prayer for cleansing. We may add to his invitation the admonition to come for cleansing in the blood of Christ.

"Come to this fountain, so rich and sweet;
Cast thy poor soul at the Saviour's feet;
Plunge in today, and be made complete;
Glory to His name!"

God's grace not only cleanses—it keeps us. He is able and willing to make not only the words of our mouth, but the very meditation of our hearts acceptable in His sight. That means holy living. There is nothing more needed in our day than a revival of Christian living in the daily responsibilities of life. Personal purity of heart and motive, recognition of God's Word in thought and life—these things will make the believer "upright" (v. 13) and reflect honor and glory on the Lord who is our "strength" (R. V. "rock") "and redeemer" (v. 14).

Principle Holds Good

Except a man become like a little child, we are told, he cannot enter into the kingdom of heaven. This principle holds good in other kingdoms as well. Unless we become as humble as a child and are willing to be taught we cannot enter into the kingdom of music, or art, or knowledge, or scientific agriculture.

Reveller Had Had Enough To Do With the Stranger

The reveller came home with a wicked-looking eye. His wife was perturbed. "Oh, dear!" she exclaimed. "How did you get that awful eye?" The man parked himself in a chair. "It's an odd story," he sighed. "I was standing on a street corner, minding my own business, when a perfect stranger walked up and clipped me right on the eye." "That's ridiculous," frowned his wife. "A perfect stranger walking up and giving you a black eye! Did you ask him why he did it?" The husband shook his head. "Of course not," he returned. "Why should I butt into a stranger's business?"

Is your child a NOSE PICKER?

It may be just a nasty habit, but sometimes nose picking is a sign of something bad. It may mean that your child has round worms—especially if there are other symptoms, such as fretfulness, finicky appetite, restless sleep and itching in certain parts. Many mothers don't realize how easy it is to "catch" this dreadful infection and how many children have it. If you ever suspect that your child has round worms, get JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE right away! Drive out those ugly, crawling things before they can grow and cause serious distress. JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE is the best known worm expellant in America. It is backed by modern scientific study and has been used by millions for over a century. JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE has the ability to drive out large round worms, yet it tastes good and sets gently. It does not contain castor oil. If there are no worms it works merely as a mild laxative. Ask for JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE at any drug store. FREE: Valuable medical book, "Worms Living Inside You." FOR $6 A YEAR THIS MAN WOULD HAVE BEEN PROTECTED!

Mr. X was a victim of a Michigan windstorm in 1939; his house, worth $3,600.00, was wrecked beyond repair. More tragic than this, Mr. X carried no windstorm insurance.

Mr. X could have averted this loss, completely, by investing $6.00 a year in windstorm insurance. $6.00 a year for $4,000 worth of windstorm insurance is a good investment . . . when it is pointed out that destructive windstorms will raise havoc in Michigan this year as surely as they did last year; the State Mutual Cyclone Insurance Company's claims, for 43 years, prove this conclusively.

CHAPTER XIII—Continued

Walt brought his eyes back, meeting the unreadable darkness of hers. "Not unless you tell me why you want it," he stated flatly. "That bullet is the only thing I know about for certain; my key maybe to unlock a few blind doors."

"Walt Gandy," Helen asked, leaning toward him across the table top, "did anyone ever tell you that some doors should never be opened? I want that bullet for the best of reasons. No, I can't explain, I can't, Walt. But perhaps if you knew one thing . . ."

A look of despair came upon lips momentarily closed; she spread her hands helplessly, and then said, "It's always true that one lie has to be covered with another, and another. Bill Hollister lied at the Chino Drake inquest."

Inside Walt Gandy everything seemed to stop. He sat like stone. Steadily Helen went on: "He lied about being on the south rims that day the cook was killed. I know, because I was on the south rims then myself. Bill wasn't there. Now will you give me the bullet?"

He shook his head. "I haven't got it."

"But you can get it for me!" she said quickly. "Can't you?"

"Tomorrow, maybe, in town. I suppose we'll be called in for a hearing over Powell."

"And then, Walt, you'll go." The girl's voice was all at once surprisingly tender.

Gandy looked at her. "You'll tell me nothing, Helen?"

"Only this, there's going to be no war on the Emigrant range, no more killing. I'm working our troubles out here."

"You are!" Then Walt Gandy's smile came slowly, the fine lines crowfooting his bronzed skin. "All the more reason for me to stick. Do you think for a minute I'd quit? Curiosity if nothing else would keep me hanging around. But I'm in this as much as anybody. I'm in the groove, and I'll see where it leads, regardless!"

"You mean that?"

"Why not?"

Helen Cameron half rose from the bench, hands on the table edge, and once more the color was gone from her face. She dropped back. "You don't know what you're doing! You can't! What if you are in it? Go ahead and throw your life away and even that wouldn't stop all this horror! But I can stop it—and I'm going to!"

She'd try, no doubt of that, in whatever way seemed open. Yet to Walt Gandy a forced note in this breathless outburst had too much the sound of lashing herself into doing something almost beyond her nerve.

His glance shifted out the window into rapidly graying afternoon. He avoided her desperate eyes, but could still hear the overwrought quickness of her breathing. Abruptly it ceased; and then in a darting look he caught the focus of her gaze fixed beyond him.

Slowly, Gandy turned, and was aware that he had been sitting with his back to the closed hallway door. In the instant of that discovery he knew the meaning of the girl's look. They were not alone in this house!

He sprang up. But Helen was ahead of him in reaching the door.

Backed against it, both hands behind her gripping the knob, she confronted him cold as steel: "Don't you dare!"

Gandy reached in under his coat, came out with the thirty-eight, and at sight of it her face blanched.

She choked. "Walt!" came from lips that were suddenly trembling.

Sharply he said, "I don't want to hurt you. But I'm going in." With his left arm around her he took the two small fists in his one. She struggled.

"I'm sorry," said Gandy. "Things like this have gone far enough. I'm going to see who is in there—who has been listening to my talk!"

He had the girl at one side of the casement now, released her abruptly, grabbed the knob and flung the door inward. In the same move he thumbed back the gun hammer.

The door banged hollowly. Nothing sounded after that. For a second Gandy waited, then stepped from the kitchen into a dim part of the house where he had not been before.

CHAPTER XIV

CASH CAMERON had built early on the Emigrant Bench, and he had put up a house with the thick log walls and deep windows of a fort. The kitchen wing with storage shed and foreman's quarters had been added later. That was modern; of mill-sawed boards, battened on the outside, painted white within. But as Walt Gandy passed from the kitchen, through a short hallway into the great front living-room, it was like stepping back half a hundred years. For this main part had kept the look of Cameron's pioneering.

By the glint of rifle barrels he made out a gun rack near the fireplace. Dark outlines of chairs showed against the plastered wall. A Navajo rug woven in an old four-corners-of-the-earth pattern made a long gray patch upon the floor. Other pieces of furniture were no more than vague forms, grouped mostly around the chimney end.

From the moment of entering here Gandy's eyes had been pulled repeatedly to the fireplace maw. Now he stood squinting at the black square; until suddenly his nose brought definite knowledge before sight registered what he was squinting at. The red eye of a cigarette stub glowed in the fireplace ash.

Lavic? Had he circled from the bunk shacks and come in by the front entrance? But Gandy had watched from the window, and no one had crossed the open front clearing. Besides that, Lavic wouldn't matter; he was dead.

His soundless movement carried him on to a door which must lead into the family wing of the house. By this time he knew the front room was empty. He paused.

"Walt! Listen to me!" Appealing hands gripped his right arm. Whispering, Helen begged: "Don't! You can't help. I'm working this out, everything! You must not go any farther."

But Gandy shook his head. He freed his arm from her tightening fingers.

The door gave more easily than he expected, as if it had been closed not quite far enough for the latch to click into place. It opened wide at his touch, and before him was a small plain cubicle with a desk, a chair, and a cot; Cash Cameron's office, disordered, empty.

Immediately on his right was a door leading to the inner court formed by the house wings. Gandy sprang across to it, found it unlocked. Whoever had been here was gone now.

But there was still another passage ahead. He moved rapidly along this, seeing a bedroom on the left of it, and then the last room of the family wing at the end.

Helen Cameron was no longer behind him. In her father's office she had turned back. Walt stopped, for the door was open, and he stood motionless, brought up short on the threshold of the girl's own four walls. It was a large, airy place, with windows on three sides, curtained, a fleecy rug on the floor, intimate with her things that revealed unguardedly the girl who lived here.

Horse thief Fisher's voice blared suddenly outside. Gandy jumped back along the passage. By the time he had reached the kitchen the old bronc rider and Paul Champion had tramped in. Helen was putting plates on the dining-room table.

"Man an' child!" Horse thief burst out. "Give us grub!"

He hung his battered black hat on its own particular wall peg and reached under the sink for the wash pan.

"Say, Miss Helen," he called. "Someone leave here just now? Paul he was ahead of me coming along the north pasture and thought a rider took off southwest."

From his position, entering the kitchen from the living-room, Walt Gandy could not see the girl. Whether she signaled Fisher or not, he couldn't tell.

Without pause nor change in his conversational tone, Horse thief finished, "But the kid he gets ideas sometimes. I guess he didn't see no one."

In another step Gandy could look at Helen Cameron. She was motionless beside the long ranch table, a dish in her hands. "Walt," she said quickly, "I haven't told them. You'd better."

He nodded and went to the wash bench where Fisher and young Champion were bent over, dissolving gray dust from their faces. "We found Ranger Powell this afternoon," he said. "Been dead some time."

Two dripping faces turned. Horse thief Fisher looked up, made no reply, bent again and went on washing the back of his neck.

Paul Champion stood up full height and opened his mouth. "Jeez," he said, drawing it out. "Where's the boss?"

"Cameron won't be around for awhile," Gandy told him. "Hollister will be back some time tonight. Horse thief, after we eat I'm coming down to your bunk house. Wait there, will you?"

Fisher and Paul Champion were in the middle of the bunk room, near an iron barrel stove that had no fire. A single oil lamp gave dim yellow light.

So savagely was he gripped in the urge to smash through any more barriers and evasions, that Gandy's stride carried him on close to Horse thief Fisher, and before the bronc rider had gathered what was happening, an elbow was hooked around his neck, and a hard fist was pushing against his nose.

"If you don't open up and talk to me," said Gandy, "I'm going to crack your skull and see what's in it!" Then he grinned, dropping his arms. "Horse thief, for Lord's sake let's go at this thing fifty-fifty!"

"I think you're the only man on the C. C. that has nothing to hide. I've listened to a lot of talk that tells nothing; now I want to hear some without a joker in it. What do you say?"

Horse thief Fisher stared, blinking sun-squinted eyes. Then the round face wrinkled with good humor.

It lasted but a moment. Sobering, he said, "You're right, Gandy. Plenty of side-mouth talkin'. Nothin' straight out."

He wiped an open hand downward over his face as if to iron off the wrinkles; a slow movement, considering Walt Gandy during the process. "I've been agurin' on you," he admitted. "Maybe you're the man I been lookin' for. Hollister, well, something's happened to Bill lately. Cash he's kept away from gun-fightin' too long. And Miss Helen; shucks, I don't know, she's all balled up somehow."

Gandy propped himself against a post supporting double bunks and took papers and tobacco from the side pocket of his coat.

"Paul," he asked, turning to the boy whose ears were visibly sticking out, "rustle some wood and build us a fire, will you?"

"Sure!"

As young Champion went out he took his belt and big forty-five from a nail next the door.

"Now then, Horse thief," said Gandy, "tell me who rode off when you came back to the place tonight. I know it's true, because somebody was at the house before I got there. Who was it?"

"Man," Fisher declared, "I don't know but I sure wish I did!"

His squinted blue eyes shone with honest eagerness. "I do," he explained, "because I been figurin' myself that it was time to quit this game of guesswork and see just who had stacked the cards! I owe Cash Cameron a debt that I'd like to pay back by fightin' for the C. C. But where do a fellow begin? When the cook was found dead I had my hunch. But now with Ranger Powell . . ." He raised hard hands and let them fall.

"Make a guess," Gandy urged. "About tonight, I mean. Who could have been there in the house while the rest of us were away, and who might have been taking off across the bench when you came in?"

Horse thief shook his bald head. "I didn't see. It was Paul who caught sight of someone on a smoky blue, thought he did anyway. But the only man that rides a smoky blue in these parts, couldn't have been on the C. C. Leastwise he'd be a fool if he did come sneakin' around now."

"Who'd that be, Fisher?" Gandy asked.

"Jeff Stoddard."

In the act of rolling a cigarette, Walt Gandy's fingers stopped movement, and his brown eyes lifted for a long studying look at the man before him. "Stoddard. Owner of the 77?"

Horse thief Fisher nodded. "Only one I know of ridin' such an animal. But Stoddard ain't set foot on the place since Bent Lavic began takin' post-shots at him two year ago. Leastwise, I always figured it was Lavic. And now with Cameron and Stoddard on the peck over winter range in the sink, it don't seem no way sensible that Jeff should show up here."

He looked along the bunk at Fisher, who had backed against the edge and sat down. "What was Bent Lavic shooting at Stoddard for?"

"Judas, I don't know! Except that the old fellow is nuts. Hasn't Hollister told you about him?"

"Some. Lavic aimed to be king cowman here, and isn't, and seems to hold it against Cameron. That it?"

"Hates Cameron," said Fisher flatly. "Hates Hollister, too. I've seen it the last couple of months. Man, I wouldn't trust that old rooster the other side of a fence, lest I could watch him!"

"But then, there's Helen. Bet he burns candles to that girl like a fellow does in church to one of his saints! He sure worships the kid. So when Jeff Stoddard took it into his noodle to come courtin' a couple of year ago, I figure it was Lavic who used to singe his ears with a rifle bullet quite too frequent when night-time came and Stoddard started home."

Silent for a moment, Walt Gandy rolled the paper ball in tightening fingers. Then he looked down and met Fisher's gaze.

"Helen in love with Stoddard, was she?"

"Naw, school-kid stuff," the man declared. "She was nineteen. Stoddard must have been thirty-five.

Cash, he didn't like it so much, and the thing was ended."

Walt Gandy said nothing. He stood motionless, leaning with a shoulder braced against the bunk support, but with a body gone all at once cold from more than the chilled air of the room. For it was plain to him now who had been in the house with Helen this afternoon.

CHAPTER XV

THE immediate, and too obvious, conclusion brought by this knowledge held him in its tight-muscled silence for perhaps five minutes. Vaguely he knew that Horse thief Fisher had gone to the door and looked out, and that Paul Champion had not returned with the wood. The room grew chillier. Fisher came back and stood near the cold barrel stove. Walt Gandy continued to study the brown cigarette paper crushed in his fingers.

Helen . . . and Stoddard. A man thirty-five. Owner of the largest outfit next to the C. C., and Cameron's enemy. Only yesterday Pete Kelson of the 77 in offering a short but well-paid job, had said: "There's going to be one smashing scramble for public range that the C. C. controls. The man I boss for is getting the jump." The man was Stoddard. And Stoddard had been here today, secretly, with a girl who had fought to keep him from being discovered.

"School-kid stuff," Horse thief Fisher had declared. "The thing was ended." Was it?

Through those five minutes Walt Gandy stood in a mood both bitter and hard, piling one grim thought upon another in what seemed for a little while an absolute case against the girl. But in the end he knew he was overlooking one fact. Helen Cameron was no cheat.

Gandy twisted his cigarette and bent over the lamp chimney for a light. Horse thief Fisher had once more crossed to the door, opened it and was looking into the dark. His bow legs had carried him on a step outside, when from somewhere on the slope above the bunk house a gun's sudden crash jarred the deep silence.

At the first impact Gandy puffed out the lamp. He straightened up in darkness, one hand slipping out the thirty-eight. He heard Fisher leap into the room. The door remained open, and outside, after the rolling echo of that first explosion had faded from the timbered slope, all sounds of every sort were hushed.

"Gandy!"

"Over here."

Fisher hunched out of the dark. "Come on! You heard where that was from?"

"Not exactly."

"The garden patch!" said Fisher's husky voice. "Where the cook got his!"

But Gandy thought otherwise; that the shot had come from higher up, in timber where Powell's body lay. Moving outside and sliding on rapidly across open ground beyond the bunk house, he saw that Fisher, close on his left, had strapped a belt holster over blue jeans. A dull glint of gunmetal showed in the bronc rider's hand. Fisher's left hand came out suddenly. They stopped.

"I dunno," he whispered, answering a questioning turn of Gandy's head. "Thought I saw something."

Walt was a little in advance. Over his shoulder he said, "Guess not. I've been watching. Let's go on."

Again Horse thief Fisher's hand groped out of the dark and touched him. Gandy shook his head. They stood facing up the slope. Minutes passed. He could feel Horse thief begin to shift restlessly. To the right of them the barbed wire creaked in a fence post staple.

The sound was as abruptly startling as a shot. Someone was crawling through the fence.

Gandy turned his head, whispering: "Fisher. You wait. Less noise, one at a time. I'll go."

As he crept on beside the barbed wires his eyes began to pick objects out of what had seemed solid blackness. When a gray blot moved across his vision, soundless as his own forward advance, it took shape at once in human form.

Garden Gossip

Edited by Caroline Harrington

Letters and questions on garden topics will be welcome. They will be published and discussed in this column.

The date of East Jordan's annual Garden Show has been set for August 16th and 17th. The judging will commence at 1:00 on the afternoon of the 16th, when all exhibits must be in place, and at 3:00 the Show will be open to the public. Place: The City Hall. Please look on the front page of this week's Herald for an outline of the classifications to be shown and the rules governing exhibits.

There are many fine gardens in and around East Jordan, and the Garden Club hopes to have representative exhibits from all of them. This is your Garden Show. Whatever your special interest, whether in floral arrangement, bouquets of garden or wild flowers, or fine specimens of plants and blooms, vegetables and herbs, there is a place at our Show which no one but you can fill. With all of us cooperating, our local gardens can make this Show outstanding among Northern Michigan Garden Shows.

Dear Mrs. Harrington:

This summer I've been very interested in watching the little wrens who are living in one of the "Carlyle-Carson" homes, located on our garage in the shade of the syringa bush. When their first babies arrived Papa and Mamma Wren were so very busy feeding their family with bugs, grasshoppers, flies, etc. that they didn't even take time to get their own vitamins. So my daughter decided to help the young parents by putting bugs, spiders and other delicious morsels (whatever she could catch) into the many little open mouths. The parents were glad of the assistance and never even scolded her for they seemed to recognize her as a real friend.

The Fourth of July arrived and everyone was away or busy and I noticed that the wrens were very quiet so I decided they had flown away without a goodbye song. The following day we took the house down and removed the back, and you can't imagine how shocked we were to discover that the seven fully developed little wrens were dead—no not suicide, but murder. They were nearly covered with chicken lice, brought to them by their loving parents on the feathers they used in building the nest. We buried the little family, cleaned the house and put it back in the old location on the garage. In a very few days the old wrens were back again, and busy building a new nest. Again we noticed they were bringing the chicken feathers to line the nest so now we add a little insect powder every few days and are watching for the new arrivals and to learn if seven babies is the wren's regular size family.

Lover of Birds and Flowers

What an interesting story! I shall be waiting anxiously for the next chapter. Anyone who will take such trouble for a nest of wrens has truly earned the right to call herself a lover of birds.

Dear Mrs. Harrington:
One cannot help being hollyhock conscious while driving around our city, and seeing the stately stalks vying with each other in the display of gorgeous colors in double and single blooms. Never before has East Jordan been so colorful. So many have seen

GARDENER'S CALENDAR
By Lillian Brabant

July 29th: Cleaned out Mexican fire plant or annual poinsettia.
July 30th: Staked hollyhocks.
July 31st: Finished taking out poppies that had gone to seed.
August 1st: Cultivated marigold and zinnias.
August 2nd: Pulled pigweed from along the curb.
August 3rd: Now blooming: Dahlias, Japanese iris, mullein pinks, tiger lillies, stock, flowering beans, marigolds, hollyhocks, lilies the hollyhocks of Mrs. Mary Freeman on the West Side. Living alone, and at an advanced age, she has also grown a wonderful vegetable garden. East Jordan, I think, is Hollyhock Town.

An Observer

I am so glad you have brought Mrs. Freeman's garden to the attention of Garden Gossiper. I have often noticed and marveled at it. A year ago Mrs. Freeman sold me some hollyhock plants, and I think I shall get some more from her this season.

Farmer's Wife: I have not yet been able to find the moth (whose picture you sent me) among the hundreds described in the book, but I have not given up the search, and I'll let you know through the column when I am successful.

Net meeting of the Garden Club will be held at the home of Mrs. F. D. Stone, East Jordan, on Tuesday afternoon, August 20th at 2:30. Mrs. C. M. Mills of Cincinnati will talk on old flower prints and show us her collection of rare prints.

Birth Certificates Keeps Them Busy At County Clerk's Office

County Clerk Fenton R. Bulow informs The Herald that his office had issued 106 Birth Certificates during July, and that in addition approximately 100 more had been corrected and filed in Probate Court during July. In July 1939, only five Birth Certificates were issued.

Marriage licenses are also taking an upward swing. Fourteen were issued the past month; seven in July 1939.

Petitions for naturalization are also on the increase. In 1940 there were 24 applications against three in 1939.

East Jordan Part-Time Farming Class At Whiting Park

"Enjoyment while farming" was a characteristic theme followed at an evening meeting of the East Jordan Part-Time Class and its guests at Whiting Park Tuesday evening, July 30.

The entire program was planned to be entertaining, yet combined in it certain points of educational interest. Over 20 were present to take part in the soft ball game and the features around a camp fire afterward.

Bryce Vance spoke a few minutes on Short Courses at Michigan State college. He pointed out that technical information in agriculture is available there at very low expense. Various short courses are available so as to meet the desires of each person, though most of them are held in the fall and winter months.

Raymond Dubas explained the possibilities for further schooling in agriculture available locally. The East Jordan School, with several others in the state, has provided a class during the past year for the benefit of young men living on farms or interested in agricultural. This class meets one evening each week during the winter months, and will be continued another season if enough interest is shown.

To make the preliminary plans for the Part-Time class next winter, a committee of three was selected by the group to cooperate with school officials. On this committee are Raymond Dubas, Donald Shepard, and William Dunson.

After the talks, the group viewed some slides showing various scenes from the agricultural of the East Jordan area. The meeting was finally completed with a roast over the dying embers of the fire.

DAIRY SIRES TO BE MADE AVAILABLE TO ANTRIM FARMERS

Dairy farmers in Antrim county are going to have the opportunity to purchase herd sires with known production records on the dams, and in many instances from proven sires at very reasonable prices according to Walter G. Kirkpatrick, County Agricultural Agent.

Through the cooperation of the county agricultural agents in Antrim, Charlevoix, Cheboygan, and Emmet counties and Mr. A. C. Baltzer, in charge of dairy extension, Michigan State College, an arrangement has been made with a large number of dairymen throughout southern Michigan, who have been in Dairy Herd Improvement work for a number of years, to sell at a very low price bull calves. The price will be graduated according to the age of calf desired, and the production of the calf's dam. For instance, a two-week old calf from a cow with a 400 to 450 pound butterfat production will cost but $15.

This plan will enable practically every farmer interested in securing a better sire this opportunity. The calf can be raised on home feeds and the farmer will be saved a big cash outlay that is needed for an animal of servicable age.

Farmers interested in this plan should contact Mr. Kirkpatrick not later than September 1.
