Charlevoix Co. Fair Has Fine Program

FIFTY-FIFTH ANNUAL THIS COMING WEEK PROMISES TO BE ONE OF THE BEST EVER

Heralded by predictions that it will be a record-breaking event, the 55th annual Charlevoix County Fair will get under way September 10 at the Charlevoix County fairgrounds at East Jordan and will continue until Friday evening, September 13.

The 1940 attraction will be presented on grounds which a year ago were improved through a $25,000 program including repair of buildings, resurfacing of race track, improved ball diamonds.

Fair officials assure the public one of the finest programs ever staged at East Jordan. Features include a large midway with carnival shows and numerous mechanical rides for children; Gus Sun's Swing Band will play Wednesday and Thursday evenings; varied program on slack wire riding and balancing, sensational teeter board and acrobatic stunts are scheduled afternoon and evening of Wednesday, Thursday and Friday; balloon ascensions and parachute drop; stock parade; sports for men, women, boys and girls; $100 in cash prizes each day; three days of horse racing with $500 in purses; baseball games three afternoons.

Lovers of baseball will witness some fine contests according to the following tentative schedule: Wednesday — Barnard vs. Alden; Belleaire vs. East Jordan Juniors. Thursday — Elk Rapids vs. East Jordan Juniors; East Jordan Independents vs. Central Lake. Friday — Boyne City vs. East Jordan Independents. Also on Friday the Coon Dog Trials.

Lorence O. Isaman, secretary, has stated this year's attractions are the finest obtained in years. Also that the number of agricultural, livestock, canning and handicraft exhibits will be unusually large and fine in quality.

The President has called for a National Day of Prayer on Sunday, September 8. It is to be a day when Christians throughout America are to assemble in their churches to ask God, "To grant to this land and to the troubled world a righteous and enduring peace." The program for the day is as follows: Sunday School at 11 a. m. Preaching Service at 12. The pastor will speak on, "The importance of a National Day of Prayer." Following the message there will be a special half hour period of prayer.

The evening service will begin at 7:30 with another period of prayer. At 8 the regular service begins with special songs and congregational singing. The Pastor's subject for Sunday evening is, "America's Greatest Danger."

Harry Simmons, Jr., who is home on a five day leave from the Navy was included in the guests of the occasion. The guest who was the furthest from home was Dr. John Frank, medical missionary to Iran (Persia).

Those Juniors Going Strong

WIN EIGHT OUT OF ELEVEN GAMES. DOWN BARNARD LABOR DAY

In chalking up their eighth victory in eleven games this season, the East Jordan Juniors, minus four of their regular starting lineup, surprised even themselves, with an 8 to 3 triumph over Barnard, Monday afternoon, at the Charlevoix County Labor Day Picnic at Whiting's Park.

Paced by the 5-hit pitching of "Tich" Saxton and helped along to no little extent by the timely hitting of Bulow and Antoine, the locals copped the season's series over Barnard 2 games to 1. Saxton's control was in his favor as he did not walk a man, while whiffing 11 batsmen. On the other hand Henley was constantly in trouble issuing 6 walks and hitting another batsman. R. Saxton and Holley formed the winning battery with Henley, Smith, and K. Ager working for the losers.

The locals picked up a run in the 2nd frame only to have Barnard tie it at 1 all in the first of the fourth. In their half of the fourth, however, the locals came back with three more runs and were not to be overtaken. Then again in the sixth the Jordanites staged another uprising running across 4 more.

The locals are expected to be back in full strength to wind up their season next week at the Charlevoix County Fair, here, Sept. 10-13th.

HOW JUNIORS ARE BATTING

Chris Bulow, lanky first baseman, with a .579 average looks like he is on his way to the batting championship of the East Jordan Juniors this year. Bulow, batting in the cleanup spot has been hitting hard and often in every game since he rejoined his team after a brief trial with the Independents this spring. Antoine, leader in two previous seasons is fourth in the standings with .306.

Mortimer C. Hurlbert Passes Away At Los Angeles, Calif.

Funeral services for Mortimer C. Hurlbert of Los Angeles, Calif., formerly of East Jordan, were conducted there Thursday, August 29.

Mr. Hurlbert, who was eighty-one, died at his home Saturday, August 24, of a heart ailment.

He retired twenty-nine years ago as engineer of the Detroit and Charlevoix — later the Michigan Central Railroad and had lived in Los Angeles for the past twelve years. During his railroading career he lived in East Jordan. After his retirement he worked as an engineer for the Murphy Iron Works in Detroit.

Mr. Hurlbert is survived by his widow, Mrs. Sarah Hurlbert, to whom he had been married 58 years; four daughters, Mrs. Beulah Chrysler, of Los Angeles; Mrs. Phyllis Disbro, of Detroit; Mrs. Irma Young, of Oak Park, Ill.; and Mrs. Dorothea Kellock, of San Pedro, Cal.; one son, Orve Hurlbert, of Los Angeles. All of Mr. Hurlbert's children were born in Michigan.

Because of their father's ill health, all of the children came to Los Angeles for a family reunion which took place a week before he died.

Good Attendance At County Picnic

BOXING, BASEBALL, AND 4-H CLUB EXHIBITS-FEATURE ATTRACTIONS

Fortunately, good weather conditions made the 18th annual County Picnic most enjoyable to an estimated 2500 attendance. After enjoying the noon day luncheon, supplemented by free coffee, sugar, and cream, the program got underway with races for the young folks. At two o'clock the Charlevoix City Band rendered a half hour program of exceptionally fine music.

At 2:30 the boxing program was staged, made up of four three-round bouts. The first bout was between Sonny Hosler, of East Jordan, and Jim Martin, of Charlevoix. Next Warren Duplessis, Charlevoix, and Don Dexter, Boyne City, mixed it up in good shape. The third bout showed Clare Martin, Charlevoix and Kid Kurchinski, Boyne City, and the last bout was between Bud St. Arno, East Jordan, and Junior Boss, Charlevoix.

Only one baseball game was played as one of the teams failed to show up. However, the one provided many thrills as the East Jordan Juniors defeated the Barnard Independents 8 to 3. The game was much closer than the score would indicate and was a hotly contested battle.

The 4-H club displays were especially attractive. 34 dairy animals were displayed by as many club members throughout the county. At the conclusion of the judging of animals a showmanship contest was held with all animals being paraded and handled by the club members. This contest was won by Elio Bunker, East Jordan; with Herman Fall, Boyne City, second; and Mack McDonald, East Jordan, third.

Thomas L. Thacker, Smith-Hughes Instructor at East Jordan, judged the dairy animals with the following results:

In the Holstein class, under one year of age, Jerome Rayman, Charlevoix, Elio Bunker, East Jordan, and Billy Price, Bay Shore, won blue ribbons. In the Junior Yearling class Lyle Wilson, East Jordan, won a blue ribbon and in the mature cow class James Rayman, Charlevoix, won first.

In the Jersey breed blue ribbons were won by Franklyn Cellnes, and Clare McGhan, both of Charlevoix, and George Urman, Boyne City.

In the Guernsey class, under one year of age, a blue ribbon was won by Jack Urman, Boyne City. In Guernseys over one year, blue ribbons were won by Mack McDonald, East Jordan, and Albert Routley, Jr., Charlevoix.

Other blue ribbons were won by Wm. Thayer, Boyne City, with a Brown Swiss calf, and Lawrence Spiegel, Bay Shore, with a Hereford. A large crowd watched the judging of the animals with considerable interest.

In the canning and food preparation exhibits, a large number of awards were given by Miss Lois Lind-saw, Boyne Falls, who judged the entire exhibit. In the food preparation club competition, first prize was won by the Jordanite Club, led by Betty Strehl, East Jordan; second place by the Undine Club, led by Muriel Stephens, Charlevoix; and third place by the Boyne City Club, led by Mrs. Irah Walker, Boyne City. In the first year individual display, first place was won by Carrie McClure, East Jordan; second by Gloria Reed, East Jordan, and third by Beverly Bennett, Boyne City. In the second year displays first place was won by Marilyn Hair, Charlevoix; second by Mary Mellemcamp, Boyne City; and third by Helen Tompkins, Boyne City. Fifth year food preparation was won by Muriel Stephens, Charlevoix.

In the canning exhibit, first place in the club exhibits was won by the Jordanite Club, led by Margaret and Betty Strehl, East Jordan; second place by the Jordan Happy Cannery, led by Mary Jane Addis, East Jordan; and third place by the Boyne City south side club led by Mrs. Mary Towne. First year individual canning awards were won by Dorothea Routley, Charlevoix; Elaine Olstrom, East Jordan; and Marie Wheeler, Boyne City. In the second year competition the top three places were won by Lucille May, Charlevoix, Beryl Bennett, East Jordan, and Betty Clute, Boyne City. Third year competition showed Betty Strehl, East Jordan; Margaret Strehl, East Jordan; and Mary Simmons, East Jordan, as the three highest. Fourth year competition showed Margaret and Betty Strehl, East Jordan; and Reva Addis, East Jordan, as the three highest.

In the fifth year class, Marjorie Hair, Charlevoix; Gladys Larsen, East Jordan, and Myrtle Furguson, Charlevoix, were the winners. Mary Jane Addis, East Jordan, won first in the sixth year competition.

In the sweepstakes awards, Lucille May, Charlevoix, had the best can of fruit (pears), Dorothea Routley the Future Farmers Offer Lawn Fertilization Service

With the coming of the new school year, the Future Farmer chapter of East Jordan is prepared to offer an additional service to the community. Purchase of a lawn fertilizer spreader by that organization makes it possible to offer convenient, uniform distribution of fertilizer, seed, and lime at a very moderate expense.

It is becoming increasingly apparent a regular program of fertilization is necessary if one is to enjoy the beauty of a thick, vigorous lawn. Since barnyard manure must be well-rotted before being used, and even then is rather unpleasant to use and a carrier of weed seeds, the trend to commercial fertilizers is very evident. Here, again, if uniform distribution, as well as freedom from an unpleasant job, is desired, proper equipment must be used.

As a general rule, nitrogen is the most important element in lawn fertilization. Usually an application of 4 to 6 lbs. to 1000 sq. ft. of lawn is put on in the spring and again in the fall. Sometimes, when a complete fertilizer is desired, about 10 lbs to 1000 sq. ft. of an analysis 10-6-4 is applied in the spring. Care must be taken not to apply fertilizer when the lawn is wet, and to water immediately afterwards. Other information and assistance in managing lawns is available at the local agricultural department or the county agricultural agent.

MARRIAGE

Curtis — Bedford

Franklin Curtis and Miss Ruth Ann Bedford, both of Charlevoix, were united in marriage Saturday evening, Aug. 31, at the Presbyterian manse, Rev. C. W. Sidebotham officiating. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Carlton F. Ikens, also of Charlevoix. Mr. and Mrs. Curtis will make their home in Detroit.

Brintnall — Cronin

The home of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Brintnall was the scene of a very beautiful wedding ceremony Saturday afternoon, Aug. 31st, 1940, at 4:00 o'clock, when their daughter, Lorene Josephine, was united in marriage to Mr. Arthur Bertice Cronin, of Wilson Township. The Rev. James Leitch officiated, the single ring ceremony being used.

The bride was exquisitely gowned in a blue velvet dress and carried a bouquet of roses and asters. She was attended by her sister, Miss Irene, who was becomingly dressed in rose crepe and carried a similar bouquet. The groom was attended by Gale Brintnall, brother of the bride.

The groom and bride are graduates of the East Jordan High School of the Class of 1937. The groom is the son of Mrs. Fred Marshall of Wilson township. They will be at home to their many friends in Grayling, where the groom has a position under the civil service with the fish hatchery. Their many friends all join in wishing them a long and happy life.

The out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Casper Byers, and daughter Anna, from Petoskey; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Shearer and daughter Doriene, of Remus, Mich.; Mr. Kramer, of Ohio; Dr. and Mrs. H. Henderson, Mrs. Lois Henderson, Miss Lois and Charles Henderson, all of Mason, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Pillman, from Alden; and Mr. and Mrs. Riley Stewart of Lansing.

Genius Thomas A. Edison's 9-day diary — the only one he ever kept. Written at the time the great inventor was working on some of his most important experiments. It is filled with pungent, witty comment upon all sorts of things, from dreams to what causes dandruff. Don't miss this appealingly human and vital historic document printed for the first time anywhere, in The American Weekly, the magazine distributed with next week's Sunday Chicago Herald-American.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

U. S. Senate Passes 'Men and Property' Draft Bill as Defense Program Spurts; Retarded Blitzkrieg Credited to Franco; Duce Whips Up Hate Against Greece

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union

This Nazi plane is used to help buy more British fighters. A little British girl is contributing to the Red Cross fund after paying her admission to view a German Messerschmitt plane which was shot down near Croydon. When the Germans bombed the town, one attacking plane which was hit landed in good condition. It was put on display by the Red Cross to raise money for the Croydon Spitfire fund. Spectators pay sixpence to look at it.

CONSCRIPTION: 'Men and Property'

Climaxing 14 days of debate in which a coalition of administrationists and Republicans overcame the opposition of an anti-conscription bloc, the senate passed the Burke-Wadsworth conscription bill after inserting an amendment authorizing the government to draft private industrial plants when such action is necessary to insure production of defense materials. The roll call vote was 58 to 31. Proponents of the amendment argued that "if you conscript manpower, you must conscript property, too."

The draft measure would require 12,000,000 men between the ages of 21 and 31 to register for a year of compulsory military training. Endorsed unequivocally by President Roosevelt as an integral part of his $14,000,000,000 rearmament measure, the bill went to the house of representatives where a fight loomed to raise the age bracket to 21 to 45—in effect doubling the reservoir of potential draftees. Wendell Willkie during the week had come out for a "draft bill now" which helped kill delay attempts by the isolationist group.

The senate acted less than 24 hours after the President signed the National Guard mobilization bill authorizing him to call out 408,000 state militiamen and army reserves for a year of active service. The first contingent of 55,000 may be mobilized beginning September 15.

DEFENSE:

More and more speed is the tempo in U. S. military preparations. The National Defense commission let contracts for 3,000 airplanes. The army now has 10,015 on order.

President Roosevelt also named a six-man board which met with a similar Canadian board to survey joint defense plans. Mayor Fiorella LaGuardia of New York is chairman.

Women in the News

Miss Betsy Ross, 20-year-old flier of Lebanon, Pa., established a new altitude record for light planes. With a 65-horse power engine she reached 18,200 feet.

Lady Haw Haw is the name of an American woman who is broadcasting propaganda to U. S. from Berlin, much as Lord Haw Haw nightly talks to England. Friends of Constance Drexel, former Philadelphia newspaper woman who was last located in Germany writing pro-Hitler articles, claim to have recognized her voice.

Princess Elizabeth, who some day may succeed to the throne of England, celebrated her thirteenth birthday with plain sponge cake. Icing was missing because of the sugar rations.

Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, U. S. minister to Oslo, and Crown Princess Martha of Norway arrived in New York on the U. S. army transport American Legion. The ship had passed through waters Germany declared as mined. Washington had informed Berlin it would hold Germany responsible for the ship's security.

ESCAPE: For Children

After weeks of debate, congress passed legislation authorizing use of American vessels to bring child war refugees to America. The measure requires that before any vessel makes the trip, all belligerents must guarantee the mercy ship will not be attacked. Also American foster parents must guarantee the children will not become public charges. Number of children to be admitted is fixed by the immigration quota.

School Opens

Look out, motorists! With Labor Day passed, more than 21,750,000 elementary grade children throughout the country will be crossing the streets every day to attend school. Ten-year-old Nancy Carroll and Dominic Morris, age seven, of Chicago, help remind motorists to obey traffic signs. Last year 2,350 school children from 5 to 14 years of age were killed and 156,000 injured in traffic accidents.

OIL AND GREECE: Next Hot Spot

Beyond Greece lies oil for the Axis powers, pipe lines from Persia coming into Turkish ports. So Rome has turned eyes east, and Premier General "Little John" Metaxas, a great friend of Germany's, isn't so sure that his next caller won't be his friend's friend, Mr. Mussolini.

Mussolini is whipping up a great campaign in the Italian and Albania papers against Greece. It seems the Greeks have been mistreating the Albanians, who Mussolini placed under the protection of Fascist bayonets two years ago. More Italian soldiers therefore were dispatched to Albania to fill the strategic mountain passes bordering on Greece. Greece has accused Italian planes of invading its territory and an Italian submarine of sinking its best warship, while that vessel was riding at anchor and the crew were ashore at a religious festival.

The Greeks have two words for it. If they can get the backing of Turkey and Turkey can get the backing of Russia, the word is war. Otherwise it is surrender. Britain has guaranteed Greece's independence, but Britain has plenty of homework to do just now.

ASSASSINATION: Trotsky Dies

At his retreat in Coyoacan, Mexico, Leon Trotsky, fugitive revolutionist, was stabbed to death. It was an "inside job." The slayer was a man known as Frank Jackson, who gained the exile's confidence as a member of the Fourth Internationale. The guest struck Trotsky down with a pickaxe in his library. It was the end of the career of a man who with Nicolai Lenin shaped the destinies of more than 200,000,000 people upon the fall of Czar Nicholas. With the death of Lenin and the rise of Stalin, his influence waned and he was forced to seek sanctuary outside his country. On his deathbed he accused the OGPU, Stalin's secret police, of the attack.

The slayer, who entered Mexico on a forged Canadian passport, says he was born in Syria of Dutch parents. Held with him is a Brooklyn civil service worker, Sylvia Agloff. She arranged the introduction of Jackson to Trotsky, but is believed not to be a party to the murder.

STRIKES OUT: Joyless Mudville

Ernest L. Thayer, who told in 13 stanzas the shattered hopes of Mudville in "Casey at the Bat," died in Santa Barbara, Calif., age 77. Harvard graduate, Ivy orator of his class, he spoke in a soft New England accent and could not well recite the verses. But DeWolf Hopper, towering comedian, could and did—some 15,000 times beginning on a spring day in 1888. The poem became identified more with Hopper than Thayer. In Silver Springs, Md., another man grieved at Thayer's passing. It was Dan Casey, 84, Mighty Casey who struck out. "I never could hit," he told reporters.

CAMPAIGN: All Accept

The suspense is over. All nominees for President and vice president have accepted. Last to say "yes" were the vice president candidates, Henry A. Wallace, Democrat, and Sen. Charles L. McNary, Republican. Both spoke in their home towns, McNary in Salem, Ore., and Wallace in Des Moines, Iowa.

Sham Battles Give Boys Strenuous Workout

Child Refugees Met by Marshall Field

Left: Marshall Field, chairman of the committee for the care of European children, gets acquainted with Gwendolyn Kell, 6, of London, and Geoffrey A. Newbold, 6, of Middlesex, as the children arrive on the Samaria. Homes are available for them, and according to all indications, they were happy because of the hospitality extended to them. Right: Bunks were at a premium, and at times during the voyage some of the 138 refugee children from Great Britain slept in lifeboats. Clyde and Trevor Davies (shown) are some doing. They were sent to a home in Boston.

President Roosevelt at Maneuvers

The situation in the nation's biggest peacetime army maneuvers is explained to President Franklin D. Roosevelt by General Hugh Drum at Norwood, New York. The President, who is seated in his car, and the general carefully go over a map of the terrain over which the maneuvers were held.

To Arouse America

Artist James Montgomery Flagg is shown beside the poster he has just completed as a contribution to the work of the "Wake Up, America" committee, of which he is a member. Aims of the committee are physical and moral preparedness with mightier force, and the preservation of peace in the Western Hemisphere.

Fires 10,000 Shots a Minute, Silently

Put through a test by its two inventors, William Hale and Durand Beam, this rifle fired 10,000 shots per minute—with absolutely no noise. The rifle operates with compressed air. It reduced three-inch oak planks to kindling and turned airplane armor plate into steel mosquito netting. It resembles a sub-machine gun, and when it starts firing the barrel gets cooler instead of heating up.

Britain Likely to Get Destroyers; Both Parties Disown Isolationists

Roosevelt-Willkie Debate on Any Issue Improbable; Icke's Speech Ignores Conditions at Time Of Munich Conference.

By CARTER FIELD
WASHINGTON.—Best opinion in Washington now is that Britain will get those 50 old World war destroyers for which Gen. John J. Pershing made a radio appeal recently. The big question is whether Britain will get them in time to do any good. The point is that the Battle of Britain may be decided before delivery. Wendell Willkie properly ignored the destroyer episode in his acceptance speech. But while he did not mention them, he left no doubt in any administration quarter that there would be no attack by him if the government decided to give this sorely needed aid to Britain. There would have been no point in his mentioning the destroyers, because there is nothing Willkie can do about them. Even if he is elected, the Battle of Britain will have been won or lost before he assumes office. As a matter of fact, it will probably have been won or lost six weeks before election day.

September 15, for some reason, has been the German "deadline." It will be recalled that German representatives, negotiating with U. S. business men, proposed deliveries after that date, though they were unwilling to discuss why this date was picked. They merely said that the military establishment in Berlin informed them that the war would be over by September 15, with Britain conquered. By the time this magical date arrives, fall weather will have set in on the English channel, with fogs and storms, which might result in Dame Nature saving England again as she did at the time of the Spanish Armada. Of course no one knows what the new "surprise weapon" is that the Nazis have been talking so much about, and about which correspondents with the German army on the Belgian and French coasts have been hinting.

It is possible, of course, that the Germans have figured out a way to land an army in Britain, after pulverizing by bombing attacks the country right behind the coast on which they propose to land, which would make it possible regardless of weather conditions. This seems highly unlikely, but it is unwise to dismiss any possibility.

The general picture remains that, at the moment, the odds are slightly against Britain. The picture remains, however, that IF she is able to hold out until the fogs and storms come, those 50 old destroyers would be a tremendous help. It also appears to be a fact, if the recent published polls are correct, that a large majority of the American people are in favor of letting the British have them, on the theory that the longer Britain is able to fight, the longer America has to get ready.

The isolationists, headed by Sen. Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, are fighting this, screaming at William C. Bullitt for his speech urging more aid to Britain promptly, and doing everything they dare to prevent further aid. But politically they have no place to go. Neither Roosevelt nor Willkie gives them any chance, since the Willkie acceptance speech, to play the one against the other. Every indication is that even the Middle Western states are gradually moving, though slowly, toward the position taken by both major candidates.

So it seems more of a certainty that Britain will get the destroyers. It's just a question of whether it will be soon enough.

It is rather strange that none of the comments on the recent speech of Harold Ickes, supposedly replying to Wendell Willkie for President Roosevelt, have taken issue with Ickes' criticisms of former Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain. Apparently it is not fashionable to defend Chamberlain for anything he did, though there was plenty of approval at the time.

Mr. Ickes said: "Mr. Willkie criticizes the Blum government in France and holds it responsible for the defeat of France. Has he no criticism of England's pro-Munich government, with its policy of appeasement?"

Let's take a quick look back at the Munich conference, what the situation was then, and what Mr. Ickes' chief, President Roosevelt, for whom he was answering Willkie, had to do with it.

The facts are that, up to Munich, and for a short period thereafter, no charge could be made that Adolf Hitler had ever broken a treaty. He had said he was going to do things, and he had done them. So far as the Rhineland is concerned, or so far as Austria is concerned, he had made no pretense that he had any intention of paying heed to the terms of the Versailles treaty.

So when Chamberlain went to Munich, there was no reason to doubt that whatever terms to preserve peace might be obtained would be lived up to.

Far more important, Britain was in no position to fight at the moment. Britain was woefully unprepared. This might have been partly the responsibility of Chamberlain, but obviously it was much more the fault of the preceding administrations, headed among others by Stanley Baldwin and Ramsay MacDonald.

So Chamberlain knew he HAD to appease. But more important, from the standpoint of Mr. Ickes' slurring at the former premier, is the fact that President Roosevelt appealed to both Hitler and Chamberlain, urging that the differences be adjusted without war. He also appealed to Mussolini to use his good offices to bring about the same result.

At least, during the years which preceded Munich, Britain kept up its navy. It was under the delusion, just as were military experts in virtually every other government including our own, that the French had "the best army in the world."

Meanwhile the United States had not completed a new battleship since 1920, and was actually without an adequate supply of ammunition. Nearly two years ago Bernard M. Baruch, on the appeal of Louis Johnson, then Roosevelt's assistant secretary of war, personally guaranteed a $3,000,000 contract for powder-making machinery for which not only congress had not appropriated, but the need for which had not been revealed to congress by the administration.

Franklin Roosevelt and Wendell Willkie on the same platform—at the same time—answering each other! Can you imagine it? Yes, but you don't expect it, and neither does anyone else. But it was a good idea, and would be even better if there were any chance of FDR's taking Willkie up on his challenge.

But the facts are that President Roosevelt does not want any part of a debate with Willkie on ANY issue. Least of all, curiously enough, on the electric power issue which Roosevelt has made so important, and which he hopes will prove a great handicap to Willkie.

The truth is that the New Dealers are just a little bit shell-shocked whenever they think of ANY debate with Willkie since that time the then Commonwealth & Southern president polished off Robert H. Jackson in a debate on the New Deal, before the Town Hall in New York city.

To appreciate this, one must know what the New Dealers in general, and Roosevelt in particular, think of Jackson. Even FDR thinks Jackson is the second best statesman in the world today, and there are a good many New Dealers treasonable enough to think that Jackson is really No. 1.

So when Willkie virtually knocked the No. 1 champion (certainly after FDR himself) of the New Dealers into a cocked hat in a public debate, and on issues not so dissimilar from those to be argued in this campaign, the impression was pretty nearly indelible. Certainly it is still clearly legible. And it says: "Don't let Willkie get you into a debate even if you name the judges. He'll steal 'em from you."

Remember how timid Dave Lillenthal was when Willkie offered to let the SEC itself referee his company's dispute with TVA? And there are New Dealers who think Dave was gyped when Willkie virtually let Lillenthal himself referee the negotiations!

But even if FDR were willing to debate with Willkie on other subjects, he would not debate with him on the public ownership thesis. Not this fall! There are several signs that, the New Dealers do not want any more referenda on that subject, particularly in politically strategic locations.

For instance, there is San Francisco. The city has given a good many indications of getting fed up on the New Deal's public power ideas. Back in 1913, congress approved the Hetch Hetchy project, with a proviso that never should this power be distributed by privately owned agencies. San Francisco paid no attention to this. It sold the power to the old private company, took a nice profit on the sale, and let the company sell to its citizens.

Honest Harold Ickes has tried again and again to break this up, but every time the San Francisco voters roll up a huge majority against being delivered from the power minions. So—it might be just a little bit dangerous to have San Francisco think that public ownership was the paramount issue!

California's 22 electoral votes should be "in the bag" for FDR. All forecasters are so conceding. But stop a minute. Dr. Townsend, the idol of the ham and egggers, has come out for Willkie! And it makes San Francisco important!

Coal Gas.

QUESTION: I have a hot air furnace. For the past five years, we have frequently had coal gas in the house, which comes from the registers. Once or twice every year the furnace has been looked over by heating men who have cemented all joints and done everything they could think of to stop the gas, but so far without success. Can you make any suggestions?

Answer: It is unhealthful to breathe coal gas, and if it is strong, it may even be fatal. When coal gas comes through registers, it is clear proof of leakage from the furnace into the surrounding air jacket. The leakage is apparently in some obscure part that can be located only by removing the jacket so that the furnace can be closely examined. The fault may be in small cracks in the metal, but whatever it is, you should locate it and make the necessary repairs without delay. You may even find it necessary to replace the furnace. You will be justified in taking so extreme a step by the danger of the present condition. With the heating season over, you can take plenty of time to make the thorough examination that may be necessary.

Oil Burners.

Question: What are the three best oil burners, in your opinion?

Answer: Success with any burner depends entirely on the skill with which it is installed. Any burner will work well when installed by a man who knows his business, and the best of burners will be a flat failure when wrongly installed. Inquire among your friends who burn oil, as to their opinions of the local agent and installers, and select the one on whom you get the best reports to recommend a burner suitable to your requirements. Be sure the man you pick is going to remain in business. If he puts in your burner, and then disappears, you will have a "Little Orphan Annie" of your hands.

Aluminum Paint.

Question: Do you recommend aluminum paint for a primer in painting a house? There will be one coat of paint on the primer.

Answer: Aluminum paint is excellent as a primer, but for best results the liquid part should be what is known as a "long oil" varnish; that is, a varnish made with an exceptionally large quantity of oil. Aluminum paint of this kind, known as aluminum house paint, is available in many parts of the country. Where it cannot be had, aluminum paint as a primer on wood should be made with a varnish with the greatest proportion of oil that is available. At a paint store ask for a "long oil" varnish. Add 2 pounds aluminum powder to each gallon.

Broken Porcelain.

Question: An art object of fine porcelain has been broken. A marble figure has also suffered the loss of a hand. What kind of cement or adhesive can be used that would successfully repair the pieces? Have tried the transparent cement without success.

Answer: The cement you have used is satisfactory, but the broken pieces have to be bound together while the cement is hardening. Binding can be done with cord or adhesive tape. Remove the old cement with lacquer thinner, then coat both surfaces, immediately pressing the two pieces together.

Washtubs in Cellar.

Question: I want to install washtubs in a basement. The soil pipe leaves the house through the basement wall about four feet above the floor. As I cannot see any way to connect the tubs to the soil line, I would like to know if a cesspool under the basement floor would be advisable. Can you suggest anything else?

Answer: A cesspool so far below grade may not be satisfactory because of the ground water level. You may not get any drainage. A small sewage ejector pump may be more practical for your purpose. A good plumber can do the job.

Asphalt Driveway.

Question: Do you know of a road material similar to asphalt that could be applied to a garage driveway by an amateur? I understand there is a preparation which is laid on to a depth of two or three inches and rolled with a garden roller.

Answer: There are several types of asphaltic compounds used for driveways. This work can be done by an amateur with good results. Inquire of your local road commissioner.

Sandstone Stoop.

Question: Can you tell me what one can do for a red sandstone stoop which is peeling? Is there any way of cementing over it?

Answer: Brownstone stoops are repaired by covering with cement colored to match the stone. This work should be done by a professional. You will find a list of firms doing this kind of work in the classified telephone directory, under the heading of "Stone Renovating."

Filish for Gilt.

Question: Should shellac or varnish be used over gilt for protection and for holding gloss?

Answer: Real gilding does not require any protection. The liquid part of gilt paint is usually a variety of varnish that requires no further finishing.

Republic 'Moved'
Restoring Paintings
Greedy Albatross

When Panama seceded from Colombia in 1903 and became an independent republic, it "moved" from one continent to another. Subsequent maps showed the boundary between North and South America at the eastern end of Panama instead of the western, which put Panama in Central America, or the extreme southern part of the North American continent.

Expert restorers of oil paintings sometimes transfer a famous picture from its rotting canvas or boards to a new canvas. In this delicate operation, a strong paper or muslin adhesive, pasted over the front, holds the paint while the old backing is removed and the new one put in place.

The albatross, largest of the sea birds, sometimes attains a wingspread of 17 feet and is so powerfully built that it often flies for days without alighting. At other times, the bird so gorges itself with food and becomes so "overloaded" that it cannot lift its weight into the air.—Collier's.

DESTROYERS TO BRITAIN — It appears certain to Carter Field, Washington correspondent, that Britain will get the 50 old destroyers. The only question is "will she get them in time?" Considering Ickes' speech attacking former Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, Mr. Field finds that he ignored the conditions existing at the time of the Munich conference. He believes that a debate between Roosevelt and Willkie is highly improbable.

Bitterly Walt Gandy said, "Oh, Lord, oh, Lord! Helen thinking all the time you did it! And Cash letting you carry the guilt! But then he stared down through the flicker of candle light. "Or actually believing you did. I wouldn't say even yet that Cameron pulled off those killings."

"I don't think he did myself, now," Hollister answered. "Do you know about Jeff Stoddard being at the house lately?"

Gandy tightened. "When did you find that out, Bill?"

"Only this morning—that he'd been there, and what he had baited Helen into promising. Walt, don't you see?"

"I do," said Gandy. "Stoddard has been almighty certain of the way things were going to fall. Only they haven't quite. What is it he can hold over Helen?"

"Nothing, if Cameron isn't guilty, and I'm not. As long as I suspected Cash, I thought Stoddard might have got hold of the truth somehow. He made Helen believe it—that he held proof against someone on the C.C." Hollister drew a sudden choking breath. "Wish to God I'd reached Stoddard today!" He turned his head into the light. "Any more coffee?"

In the opposite of his true feeling, Gandy turned back to the bunk with a burst of anger. "Why the hell did you come out alone like this, Bill! You could have told me!"

Hollister smiled faintly, reaching for the tin cup. "I have other plans for you, boy."

He lifted his head, drank and lay back. His voice had weakened when he said in a few minutes: "I wanted to clean it all up myself without you getting into any gunfight, because you're going to carry on this place. You and Helen."

"What do you mean?"

"The C.C." Hollister's smile lighted at Gandy's puzzled stare. "It's yours, most of it anyway. My part. What did you think I got you into this country for?"

Walt could say nothing.

"What's the difference?" Hollister went on. "Things have all been the same, haven't they, yours and mine? Helen..." He seemed to be switching onto another trail, but managed after a pause: "I was too solemn a cuss, that's it. You're her kind, Walt. I knew." Then later, "That two hundred dollars you gave me settled a lie and cleared your title. Papers are in my war bag at the ranch."

Walt Gandy had risen, not wanting to show his face, as strangely in a single moment there appeared before him every detail of the years that he and Bill Hollister had been together. Camps. Times they had fought their border battles side by side. And now... He glanced down. Hollister had shut his eyes and rolled his head over as if to sleep.

For a long time Walt looked on, then moved to the stove and put more brush stems in the fire. There was no need for light, and he blew out the candle, leaving only a red flicker from cracks in the stove. He remained standing and after a while held his watch down to one of the cracks.

Hollister had not spoken again, but at the creaking of floor boards he opened his eyes. "Midnight?"

"Yes," Walt told him. "Need anything?"

"There came no answer. It was all of half an hour later when Bill Hollister struggled suddenly, trying to sit up.

His voice grated: "Walt! Bent Lavic knows something! If you can get him to talk..." He dropped back, rigid as steel under the restraining pressure of Walt Gandy's hands.

At one o'clock Bill Hollister was dead.

CHAPTER XXI

HOLLISTER was dead; but what he had started to do could still be done. He had wanted to settle this trouble single-handed, without risking the lives of more C.C. people—young Champion, Horsethief Fisher, Helen herself. Walt Gandy believed he could carry it through.

Some time between half-past one and half-past two, riding Hollister's black, he returned up the west cut and topped out upon the prairie. The stiff steer hide that had been hanging on a limb of the water-hole cedar was now in a roll beneath his left arm and held by loops of his rope. His right hand guided the black away from the ravine head in a course quartering sharply northward.

The drive of 77 cattle which he had seen this afternoon would move toward the sink at about two miles an hour. That gave them perhaps five miles before they had bedded down for the night. They would still be a couple of miles short of the sink rims. Yet there was considerable chance for error, Gandy knew, in this figuring.

Here on the prairie top he could hardly see his hands in front of his face; his northward course was chosen more out of instinct than anything else. Only faintly, at rare times, could he distinguish a division between the level earth and the overcast sky, and know at least he was not riding toward a jump-off. Wind generally swept from the northwest this time of year. He kept his face into that.

Every move Walt Gandy made was mechanical, with a cold deadly calm. Never had his feelings been so close to those of a killer. He looked forward with no fear nor misgivings. The thing was merely fact—if there came a hitch in the business ahead, he would kill.

His greatest concern was that he might stumble upon the cattle and jump the herd before finding the men who guarded it. He wanted the men. One man. Jeff Stoddard.

It was perhaps an hour, half-past three, when the biting wind came laden with something besides the cold—the odor of cattle, not unpleasant to a cowman's nostrils. Gandy drew his horse in. He rested the hide roll across his saddle. His wounded left leg bothered him and he let it hang straight for a moment.

He sat absolutely still. To one uninitiated in working range cattle, it would not seem possible that two thousand head might be lying there under a stone's throw. He could imagine them with noses tucked back against bent forelegs avoiding the cold, the herd giving off no sound whatever if it was comfortable bedded. An outsider would not know, either, the lightning swiftness with which these same animals could rise and hit the ground, running. Any foreign noise could start that jump, or even the unexpected stamp of a horse's hoof too near some light sleeper.

Walt Gandy sat waiting for some time, until certain he had the bed ground located straight in front of him, off perhaps a couple of hundred paces.

Stiffly he drew his left foot up to the stirrup. He shifted the rolled hide over and let it down onto the ground, leaving his rope looped about it. There might be some difficulty in finding the hide again, yet edging forward once more, he could mark the gray blob it made against the dark prairie.

A little later, certain that he was close to the bedded herd and in the route of night guards who would be riding circle, Gandy halted, slid from his saddle and dropped the black's reins.

The horse stood anchored, head lowered into the unbroken sweep of fall wind. Gandy moved back half a dozen steps and crouched down. Now from this position, melted into the earth, he could faintly make out the animal in front of him and a sector of prairie horizon lined against the overcast heavens.

He did not have long to wait. Cowhands riding night herd don't sing altogether to amuse themselves. They want to let the cattle know they are moving around, and by the familiarity of a human voice avoid the sudden jump and stampe that Gandy himself had been wary of. In less than five minutes after he had hunkered low, he heard the swish of a rider coming through dry prairie grass, and the unmusical monotone of the man's cow-lullaby.

The rider was bearing out of the northwest along with the sweep of wind. Cigarette smoke drifted ahead of him. Then there came a pin-point of red light that alternately glowed, faded, and presently described a downward arc as the butt was thrown away.

Gandy drew his thirty-eight, for if the rider continued a direct approach he would discover the black horse in another two or three minutes. The tired animal had lifted his head, but then dropped it without nicker and now remained motionless.

The looming form was within five paces when Walt Gandy spoke without rising: "Reach up, you! Quick! And quiet. Don't spur that horse of yours, either!"

There was a split second in which the figure jerked, and if he could have located the voice, guns would have flared. Then Walt saw two arms go up. "Drop it!" he snapped. A revolver spun downward and thudded. He stood up, giving orders the low-voiced while moving across the short space between himself and the mounted man: "Turn and slide down, facing me. Don't grab anything. I don't usually play ball this way. Now stand there."

He stepped up to a lean range rider of about his own height, thrust the thirty-eight in close and felt for more weapons. There were none. He reached out and slid the rifle from its saddle scabbard.

"Now," he said, "gather up both horses and walk the way I tell you."

"Shut up!" said Gandy. "Turn square about and go straight ahead."

In time, walking behind his prisoner and the two animals, he came to the steer hide, angled on a short distance to the left of it and halted. Rapidly he took off the man's own rope, ordered the earth to stretch full length upon the herd and bound him.

His voice was quiet; every action was in that cold deadly calm. "Listen, you. Carefully. Because I'm going to kill you." He paused, then finished, "Right here on the spot unless you give me the dope. Is Jeff Stoddard with the herd?"

Gandy clicked the hammer of his gun. "Better speak up, brother. What you say won't work to hurt you any. But what you don't say will check you out. Is Jeff Stoddard with the herd or not?"

"Yes," came the answer.

"Where? In camp or night-riding?"

"How do I know?"

Gandy stabbed downward. The gun muzzle pressed against his flesh.

"Honest, I don't know!"

"Then what's your password tonight?"

The reply came more promptly, "On guard."

"And the answer to that?"

"Hands down."

"You better be sure that's right," Gandy warned, "because I'm going to try it, and if it doesn't work I'll come back and kill you."

He reached down, yanked the man's coat tail up over his head and tied rope ends around it, muffling him.

In the course of half an hour two riders approaching warily from opposite directions across the black prairie, came to a stop.

"On guard," said one, low-toned.

"Hands down," replied the other. They closed in.

"Up!" said Gandy, gun whipped into startled eyes. "Quick! No sound, you! Keep 'em like that, kick your foot out and come down facing me."

He followed to the ground, added to his collection of guns and then, afoot, drove this second prisoner back in the same direction as the first, but not within sight of each other. These men all looked alike to him, hard, long-backed, tight-mouthed. Yet his cold words brought talk enough, and he left this one as he had that other, bound flat, and head syathed in a coat. He still had no definite news of the 77 owner.

It was a giant of a man he had met here.

Whether his approach to the herd this time was a little misjudged, or an animal had shifted its bed out from the edge, he didn't know. A lone critter rose suddenly almost under his horse's nose.

The black wheeled. The steer plunged off in a stiff-legged jump, then circled to see what had broken into its sleep. Split hoofs had rattled unnaturally loud in what had been dead silence, and now, about-faced, the animal took a snorting breath.

Gandy waited, his horse pulled in, praying the fool steer would quiet down and not start the others. Then next moment at his back a voice said:

"On guard."

"Hands down," he answered, shifting his horse around.

Immediately the voice snarled, "What's the matter with you, you damn fool! Jumping a cow like that! Want to start 'em running?"

The rider came close, growling, "Time to change the guard. Go on in."

Gandy's gun flicked into the dim face. His words rapped the night. "Put your hands up! I mean it, you! Put..."

The upward flick of his gun continued on in a slashing blow at the man's jaw, and his left hand shot out and grabbed the rider's reins; for here was one who took a chance. He had tried to draw.

Gandy felt his gun strike bone. The head snapped backward. Then the startled horses broke apart and he could only grab a handful of clothing, losing both his grip on the reins and his thirty-eight as he was yanked from the saddle, still holding to the other's coat front.

They struck earth together. Gandy's arms around a thick body, huge in size and heavily muscled. It was a giant of a man he had met here, and the next moment was those of a skilled fighter. Twice they rolled, clawing, and then he felt himself suddenly in a scissors lock between powerful legs. He wrenched. The legs held. Iron arms were crushing him backward. He recoiled from a savage head butt. His wounded left leg went numb; his fists lashing in curving blows seemed unable to connect.

All breath was rapidly being cut off from him and a blackness more than the night was flooding before his eyes. He braced both arms back upon the ground, trying to heave the weight from his body, managed only to rise a little without being able to turn. And then his outflung right hand touched metal. He closed upon a gun and put all strength into a glowing aimed at the back of the gouging head.

Twice he struck. The crushing weight went limp. Gandy rolled and struck again. Dizzily he groped up onto his knees and crouched, swaying over the inert figure, drawing painful breath into his lungs and fighting through a moment when the prairie top tilted and threatened to throw him down.

The man was breathing but did not move. Gandy felt over him, lifting a revolver from the belt holster, and knew then that the gun he had recovered first was his own thirty-eight. In a moment he located a sound of horses munching grass not far off, found the black and the other animal and brought them to the motionless form.

Calm deliberation was gone now, an eager haste flooding over him. Neither of the other two prisoners had tried a desperate break as had this one, and the savagery of his fighting seemed all at once more than an ordinary fear of capture.

The eyes were opening narrowly, pin-pointing up at him. Gandy whipped downward with the thirty-eight. "Don't try yelling! Sit up!"

As nothing happened he reached over and yanked the man upright. "I said up—clear up; get onto your feet!" He helped with a prod of his right boot toe. The man rose groggily.

"Now walk," said Gandy, jabbing forward with the gun. He followed, leading the two horses, and took a course still to the left of his other captives.

Far enough, he halted. "Stand there!"

In rapid movement he pulled the man's rope from against the saddle horn, made a loop and dropped it over the bare head, letting it fall to knee level before jerking it tight.

His jerk was sudden, the man lost balance, tripped and sprawled face down. Gandy sat on him, bound his legs, knotting the rope behind out of reach. He secured the wrists hard together, and yet allowed for slight freedom of the fingers, then cut the rope.

Feeling in the inner coat pocket, he found an envelope, drew it out, and cupped a match close. Under the flick of his thumbnail the match flared once and died in the wind. Gandy did not strike another, but put the envelope back in the coat pocket.

Very deliberately he took the man's own gun and emptied it of all but one shell. He tied a ten-foot length of rope to the gun-butt and laid it out on the prairie; brought the free end back toward the prone figure.

Then he stood looking down. "Stoddard," he said, "your game's up. Two dead men are going to sit beside you on this prairie top tonight, Drake and Powell, maybe one more. Now listen. Straight along this rope is your gun—with one bullet. You can roll to it, but if there's nothing on your conscience stay where you are. I've caught two of your guards and now I'm going to send your herd back to the hills. After that—I'll come to see what you've done about this bullet."

He muffled Stoddard also with a coat tied around his head, then left him.

Unbroken darkness still hung over the prairie, but morning light could not be far off. Gandy swung the black into a fast walk until he located the steer hide, picked it up, mounted again and circled toward the bedded herd with the roll under his left arm.

Not long after that, any old-timers who were guarding the 77 drive must have thought they were back in Indian days, for it was an Indian stampe trick that Walt Gandy launched with the abruptness of a thunderbolt.

In a burst of drumming hoofs his black horse came down along the pool of cattle, and at the end of a forty-foot rope the stiff steer hide, now outspread, sailed and slapped the earth, sailed again and slapped a startled cow. The cow jumped, bawling. The thing sailed on, rose, swooped, a gray shape that darted crazily into the air, slammed into the herd, and all the while set up a rattling and crackling of dry leather.

Two thousand head of cows were on the hoof. Their rising sounded like hail—and then they were on the run. They knew only one way, back in the direction they had come.

The earth vibrated and gave off a rolling thunder. Guns crashed suddenly up ahead... guards trying to turn the herd back upon itself. But the animals were in full move. The gunfire lasted only a moment. The thunder and earth vibration continued.

Twice Walt Gandy crossed behind the galloping white-faces, until a gun blazed close and a bullet winged past. He wheeled, throwing two slugs blindly, then was carried out of range by the onrush of his horse. He cut the hide loose and rode for a time following the stampe, certain at last that it could not be checked, and that these animals were headed for the 77 home range.

HOUSEHOLD QUESTIONS

When separating the yolks from the whites of eggs, break them over a funnel. The whites will pass through, leaving the yolks in the funnel.

Keep the sifter holes on spice boxes closed, otherwise the spices will lose much of their flavor.

When putting away clean clothes place the freshly ironed ones on the bottoms of the various piles. Then towels, handkerchiefs, napkins, etc., will be used in turn and some will not wear out more quickly than others.

Save left-over pieces of soap in small sugar or salt bags. Use the bags in cleaning the bathtub or lavatory. The bag and soap serve both as a sponge and a cleansing agent.

To unmold cornstarch pudding easily add a tablespoon of butter to the mixture just before it is removed from the stove. Be sure, too, to rinse the molds with cold water just before you fill them.

When making biscuits, doughnuts, cookies and jumbles, the softer you can handle dough after turning it onto the board and, the less you handle it, the better results you will get.

DESSERTS FOR THE BEGINNER

(Recipes Below)

With fall fast creeping upon us, you brides of the past few months are eagerly looking forward to the end of the vacation season. Then you can proudly show to your friends and newly acquired relatives that you are becoming not only a proficient hostess and homemaker, but also a first-rate cook.

Perhaps you'll decide upon a tea for your friends, serving dainty sandwiches, small cookies or tiny frosted cakes. But the families usually anticipate a family dinner which tends to make the bride feel that they will arrive with an extremely healthy appetite and a critical eye.

When you plan your first family dinner, select a menu that is not only simple to prepare and easy to serve, but one that will require only a few minutes in the kitchen.

Start the meal off with a bang! Create a favorable impression right at the beginning of the meal. An appetizer that is fairly highly seasoned, small in amount, piping hot or well chilled, and one that whets the appetite instead of retarding it, will insure a successful meal. The guests' natural curiosity will be appeased, and they will settle back in their chairs satisfied that the "new cook" is a good one.

The bride who can make a perfect floating island need not dread the problem of company dessert. There is nothing more delicious or generally welcome than the old favorite, especially when it is made with orange juice and combined with slices or segments of the fresh fruit.

It is not the only "easy-to-make" beginner's recipe, but you will find that the others will help you in selecting your company desserts. Many of them are suitable when you entertain at a dessert luncheon, or after an evening of cards.

Orange Floating Island

(Serves 6)

3 eggs (slightly beaten)
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 3 tablespoons sugar
 1 1/2 cups milk (scalded)
 1/2 cup orange juice
 2 egg whites (beaten stiff)
 1/4 cup confectioner's sugar
 1 teaspoon vanilla
 Orange segments or slices.

Combine egg yolks, salt and sugar; gradually stir in hot milk and orange juice. Cook over boiling water 5 minutes or until mixture will coat metal spoon, stirring constantly. Cook quickly in large serving dish or sherbet glasses or sauce dishes.

To make the "islands": beat egg whites until stiff; gradually beat in the confectioner's sugar and add the vanilla extract. Drop by spoonfuls onto custard. Chill. Garnish with water-thin slices of the whole, unpeeled orange or with orange segments.

Frozen Rice Pudding

(Serves 6)

1/2 cup rice
 1 quart milk
 3/4 cup sugar
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
 3 eggs (beaten)
 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
 1/4 teaspoon almond extract
 1 cup cream (whipped)

Wash and cook rice in boiling water for 5 minutes. Drain. Put rice, milk, sugar, salt, and nutmeg in the top of a double boiler and cook 45 minutes. Stir in slowly the beaten eggs and continue cooking 5 minutes more. Add flavorings, chill and then fold in the whipped cream. Pour into freezing tray of automatic refrigerator. Set cold control to lowest degree and freeze.

Chocolate Marshmallow Cake

(Serves 8-9)

1 1/2 squares unsweetened chocolate (1 1/2 ounces)

 1 cup cake flour
 1 teaspoon baking powder
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1/2 cup shortening
 3/4 cup sugar
 2 eggs (beaten)
 1/4 cup milk

Cook chocolate, 2 tablespoons sugar and water together until thick (about 3 minutes), stirring constantly. Cool thoroughly, and add vanilla. Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt. Cream shortening, add 3/4 cup sugar, gradually, and continue beating until the mixture is very light and fluffy. Add dry ingredients alternately with the milk. Pour batter into well-greased deep layer-cake pan. Cover with topping.

Topping - 1 egg white
 1/2 cup sugar
 8 marshmallows (cut in small pieces)
 1/2 square unsweetened chocolate (1/2 ounce)

Beat egg white until foamy; add sugar gradually and continue beating until the egg white is very stiff. Fold in the cut marshmallows. Spread over cake batter; grate chocolate and sprinkle over the meringue. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) about 45 minutes.

Apple Seventh Heaven

(Serves 5-6)

6 apples
 3/4 cup golden corn syrup
 1/2 cup butter
 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/2 cup nut meats (cut fine)

Pare and core the apples, and cut in eighths. Arrange in rows in a shallow, well-buttered baking pan. Heat syrup, butter, cinnamon and salt to the boiling point, and pour over the apples. Sprinkle with nut meats. Bake in a hot oven (450 degrees) for about 30 minutes. Serve warm or cold with top milk or cream.

Peach Cobbler

1/2 cup sugar
 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
 1 tablespoon butter
 Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Cut in lard. Combine beaten egg yolk with milk, and add to lard mixture, forming a soft dough. Roll dough into two squares, about 1/4 inch thick, and place on square in a greased square baking dish. Arrange peach halves on dough and add almonds, sugar, and cinnamon. Dot with butter and cover with second square of dough. Prick with fork and bake in a hot oven (400 degrees) for approximately 30 minutes. Cut in squares and serve with whipped cream.

 1 cup boiling water
 1/2 cup granulated sugar
 1/2 teaspoon lemon extract
 3 tablespoons lemon juice
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1 1/2 cups whipping cream
 1 glass currant jelly.

Soak gelatin in 1/4 cup cold water for 5 minutes. Make a syrup of the boiling water and sugar and pour over the gelatin. Add lemon extract, lemon juice and salt and mix thoroughly. Chill until mixture just begins to stiffen. Then whip and fold in 1/2 cup of whipping cream. Pour into ring mold and chill thoroughly. When ready to serve fill center of ring mold with whipped cream and garnish with dots of currant jelly.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for September 8

INVITING OTHERS TO WORSHIP

LESSON TEXT—Psalm 96.
 GOLDEN TEXT—O magnify the Lord with me, and let us exalt his name together.—Psalm 34:3.

Worship is not only fitting, but altogether natural to the soul aglow with the love of God. Yet it is a sacred privilege to which we may call ourselves and others and in the doing of which we may be helped by an intelligent understanding of its nature and preparation for its practice.

What is worship? How does it differ from prayer, or from praise (which we studied last week)? While prayer, praise and worship belong together and often merge in one blessed art of devotion, we may possibly distinguish between them by saying that in prayer we are concerned with our needs; in praise, with our blessings; and in worship, with God Himself.

I. The Call to Worship (vv. 1-3).
 This psalm has to do with collective rather than individual worship. It is not enough that man should worship God in his own soul, there is an added blessing which comes to us only as we worship with others. So we need to be called together for worship.

True worship centers in "a new song" that is the song of a regenerated heart. Worship is only a formality without life until there is a new song in the heart, and then it becomes life's greatest joy and satisfaction.

Real worship is a "day to day" matter (v. 2), not just something we put on like our "Sunday-go-to-meeting" clothes. Every day we are to worship, and as we do, we shall "declare his glory among the heathen"; among those nearest to us, but ultimately to all the nations of the earth. Worship leads out in a desire that his blessing may be shared with all the people of the earth.

II. The Reason for Worship (vv. 4-6).
 Why should we worship God? He is "great" and is a God so good and gracious that He is "greatly to be praised." He made the heavens. "Honor and majesty" stand before Him like sentinels; "strength and beauty" fill the holy place which is "his sanctuary." The very words bespeak that glorious majesty and gracious loving-kindness which impel the heart to worship. They encourage us who need and seek strength and beauty of life to seek communion with Him who dwells eternally in such an atmosphere.

III. The Manner of Worship (vv. 7-10).
 We have suggested that fellowship with God prompts us to worship. Some would feel that nothing more is needed, but experience tells us that, while we may worship anywhere, we are helped to do so by proper surroundings and circumstances. We are told to "come into his courts" (v. 8) and to worship "in the beauty of holiness" (v. 9), or, as the Revised Version puts it, "in holy array."

John Ruskin wisely said: "It cannot be questioned at all, that if once familiarized with a beautiful form and color, we shall desire to see this also in the house of prayer; its absence will disturb, instead of assisting devotion; and we shall feel it as vain to ask whether, with our own house full of good craftsmanship, we shall worship God in a house destitute of it, as to ask whether a pilgrim, whose day's journey led him through fair woods and by sweet waters, must at evening turn aside into some barren place to pray."

We are to give or ascribe unto the Lord praise and glory among our "kindred" (v. 7); that is, our own family, as well as in "his courts." His sanctuary. Note that one of the outstanding ways of worshiping is to "bring an offering" (v. 8), which means more than casually slipping a small coin in the "collection." If our "offerings" are liberal and regular the church will be able to send the news that "the Lord reigneth" to the whole world (v. 10).

IV. The Universality of Worship (vv. 11-13).

A world which has felt the blow of man's sin (Rom. 8:22) and has suffered from his wickedness and destructive violence will so rejoice in the righteousness of God's judgment that even the realm of nature will break into joyous worship. What a beautiful picture we see in these verses, how God's creation will lift itself up in praise, the sea in tumultuous joy, when "the hills shall break forth before you into singing, and all the trees shall clap their hands" (Isa. 55:12).

Can man then hold his peace? Must not "mortal tongues awake" and "all that breathe partake" in wholehearted worship of God? Who then will want to stand among "them that know not God, and that obey not the gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ" (II Thess. 1:7, 8), and with whom God can deal only in judgment of flaming fire?

Plan Back-to-School Wardrobe Of Style-Right Wash Apparel

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

STOP, look, listen, Miss Collegiate and Miss Teen-age and Miss Junior! This should interest you. It's all about assembling a back-to-school wardrobe within a minimum clothes budget that will turn you out looking the part of a fashion sophisticate. Well, here's letting you in on the secret—it's just a matter of planning your clothes collection in terms of swank wash apparel. Follow up this idea and you will have the joy and satisfaction of achieving a style prestige along with the best of your sorority group. As to economy, that's the best part of the story.

Modern wash materials are more amazing than ever. The handsome weaves with a suiting woolish finish, the crepes, the spun rayons (one of the marvels of the age); the eye-appealing rayon and other synthetic silks and satins (fit for a queen), the smart suede-finish cloths, the stunning corduroys, the handsome plaids and stripes (three cheers for 'em), the color-gloried prints are that convincingly good-looking they definitely outclass anything in the way of wash fabrics that has ever gone before.

As to this wide range of versatile weaves, their adaptability to every conceivable sort of all-purpose wear is astonishing—a miracle in modern times! Pajama costumes, slacks, shirts, house coats, swim suits, negligees, afternoon dress-up frocks, party gowns and "prom" formals, in short a schoolgirl's every need is met in the wash-apparel specialty shops and in departments devoted to washables these days.

Recently the National Wash Apparel association presented a highly fashion-significant style show in Chicago. The hundreds and hundreds of most intriguing college, school, career-girl and junior fashions, styled throughout, as they were, of swank wash fabrics, was nothing less than a revelation. We are showing three representative types from this gaily autumn style revue in the accompanying illustration as a foretaste of the endless modes you'll be seeing in the new fall parade.

Plaids are going to be better than ever this season. The happy school-faring miss pictured to the left in the group, is wearing a gay Mexican checkerboard plaid. It is shirred at the shoulders, has a swing skirt which conforms to fashion's call for skirts that at least create the impression of slimmness, whether they have pleats or not. There is smart color contrast in the leather belt and of course there are decorative pockets.

The attractive junior frock centered in the picture uses plain verus check in its makeup. The material is rabbit-woolish in its softness. The skirt brings soft-pleat fullness to the front in latest style-approved manner. Novelty breast pockets, a girlish neckline and a yoke back and front together with a soft wide belt are distinguishing style details. You can get this model in football brown, loyal blue and kick-off red.

Stripes are still the talk o' the town. See the clever use the designer makes of stripes as illustrated to the right. The skirt is of the bias-cut swing type. There is a double-action styling given to the back of the blouse. A leather belt and buttons in three colors give a telling style flourish. Touch-down green, football brown and college blue, the colors in which this model comes, are passwords that will admit this smart dress to college environs with acclaim.

"What? WORMS in my child?.. Never!"

Don't be so sure, Mother!

Yes, right now, crawling round worms may be growing and multiplying inside your child without your even knowing it!

This nasty infection may be "caught" easily, everywhere. And the outward signs are very misleading. For example: squirming and itching. Nose-picking and sneezing. Other parts. Uneasy stomach. Finicky appetite. Biting nails.

If you even suspect that your child has round worms, get JAYNE'S VERMI-FUGE at once. Right away! JAYNE'S is the best known worm expellant in America. It is backed by modern scientific study, and has been used by millions, for over a century.

JAYNE'S VERMI-FUGE has the ability to drive out large round worms, yet it tastes good, and is gentle. It does not contain castor oil. If no worms are there it works merely as a mild laxative. Ask for JAYNE'S VERMI-FUGE at any drug store. FREE! Valuable medical book, "Worms Living Inside You." Write to Dept. M-5, Dr. D. Jayne & Son, 2 Vine St., Philadelphia.

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking, is a risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pain, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

"All the Traffic Would Bear"

There was a time in America when there were no set prices. Each merchant charged what he thought "the traffic would bear." Advertising came to the rescue of the consumer. It led the way to the established prices you pay when you buy anything today.

Evening Snood

The popular snood is playing a dual role. Not only does it serve as a protector for windblown tresses during the day. The latest is the jewel-encrusted snood that you wear as here shown. An evening snood is to be coveted for it not only is a gay flatterer but it is a friend indeed in that it gives you a confident poised feeling that your hair will stay put.

Slide fasteners, modern miracles that they are, occasionally give a heavy look to the left side of separate skirts. To eliminate this difficulty one designer who specializes in clothes for the college girl plans to have all of her newest skirts fasten at the center of the back.

Longer Gloves Is

Late Style Edict

For once in her life fashion is logical! With those youthful short-sleeved, chubby fur jackets which top the list of musts have this fall longer gloves are definitely the thing. Because while bare midriffs may be a smart whim in evening clothes, you don't want that effect between the end of your gloves and the beginning of your jacket sleeves.

American glove manufacturers have taken account of the important short-sleeved fur jacket fashion and have figured out that the eight-button length glove is perfect with most of these jackets. It's long enough to cover the exposed part of the arm, but not too long to be comfortable under the jacket sleeve. And you can have it in the classic slip-on type or, if you like to be a bit different, in a mousquetaire—the straighter-cut, closer-fitting glove with the buttoned opening.

And whichever style you prefer, you have a stunning range of fall colors to choose from.

Towering Turbans Reaching Skyward

Turbans are likely to reach skyscraper proportions by fall, if the new designs are any indication, for they seem to be draped higher and higher in every new collection. Some are brought up to a high peak in a triangular draping and some are elaborately twisted and looped to reach magnificent proportions.

New Hat Silhouette
 Even hats are taking to the narrower silhouette in the new creations shown for early fall wear.

HERE IS ONE

Anti-Machine, Anti-Boss and Anti-Invisible Government Candidate.

AFTER EIGHTEEN YEARS OF FAITHFUL LEGISLATIVE SERVICE, HE IS ASKING FOR A ONE-STEP PROMOTION.

Arthur E. Wood

Candidate for nomination the Republican ballot, primaries of September 10th, for

Lieut. Governor

RUSSELL BOLTON

Candidate For Representative Charlevoix - Leelanau District - Republican Ticket

Russell Bolton of Empire was born in Midland in 1897. He received his high school education there and then studied architectural drafting in Detroit. He was in the employ of the Chalmers Motor Co. for a number of years. Then he entered the selling field. About ten years ago he moved, with his family, to Empire, where he established a sheep's wool products business which is quite extensive.

Mr. Bolton has served as Village President at Empire the past four years; Supervisor of the township for two years. He has been instrumental in securing several Federal Works Projects both for his home town and at Frankfort. He is intensely interested in developing the summer resort business and would take the same interest in Charlevoix County if given the opportunity.

C. Meredith Bice for Prosecuting Attorney

During the time he has been in office there have been 893 prosecutions in Circuit and Justice Courts, with 860 convictions, or a record of over 96 1/4%. Of the 893 prosecutions there were but 12 acquittals and some of these were in cases where the issuance of a warrant was not authorized by the prosecuting attorney. 8 cases were settled and dismissed on payment of costs; 6 nolle prossed with consent of Court at request of complainant; and 7 discharged on examination for insufficient evidence. Last year 40 Circuit Court criminal cases alone were handled, almost 3 times as many as in either of the first two years Bice was in office, and each case resulted in conviction.

The expenses of the office have been very low during his tenure of office. Although the sum of $300.00 is appropriated for expenses of the office, generally less than 2/3 of it has been used. This added to the fact that no assistant or secretary has been asked for results in a very substantial saving to the taxpayers.

Mr. Bice has tried to run the office with a view to the best interests of the public and the taxpayers and has made the office a full time job — not a sideline, and with the increase in the number of criminal cases the past few years here, as well as throughout the State, the business of the office must receive the prosecutor's first and most careful attention.

He stands on his record for proven efficiency and economy in office. Graduated from law school in 1929, passed bar examination same year. Over eleven years practical experience.

HOW A New WORLD CAME OUT OF A VACUUM

WHEN Thomas A. Edison pumped all the air out of his laboratory bell jar and shot a feeble electric current through a charred cotton string, he witnessed the beginning of a new world... a world that came out of a vacuum.

The electric light which came out of that vacuum built the great electric industry of the United States, an industry which today puts behind the American workingman more cheap electric power than is available in any other nation. Because of this abundance of power American workingmen produce more goods, and earn more money, and work shorter hours than any other men in the world.

We've a new world. We Americans have developed it ourselves: with initiative, with courage, with intelligence and ingenuity, and with hard work.

Thomas Edison slaved because he knew the world would welcome something better. We, his followers, feel that it is our responsibility to protect and expand the usefulness of that great man's contributions. For example, because of our unceasing progress, this company is able to give better service now than was possible ten years ago — at about half the rate! The average customer can now use about twice as much electricity as he did then for the same amount of money.

Today we're the best lighted nation on earth. And we enjoy more of the many other electrical conveniences — radios, washers, irons, refrigerators — than any other nation. We've a freedom — a freedom from drudgery, from inconvenience — that can't even be approached anywhere else!

The next time you turn on an electric light or tune in a dance band, think how much you get for so little. And remember that it is the goal of this company and its employees to bring you greater value this year than last; and bring more of the good things of life to more people at less cost.

Ready when needed... and WHERE

Flood, fire and storm... such emergencies have dramatized the value of Bell System preparedness. For when disaster strikes, it is met by the united effort of trained men and women working with standardized equipment. Repair material is rushed to the stricken area without delay. It comes from strategically located factories and warehouses of the Western Electric Company, manufacturing and supply unit of the entire Bell System. Valuable hours — even days — are saved because vital equipment is ready when needed... and where.
