EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1940.

NUMBER 43

THERE ARE PLANS FOR FUN, FROLIC AND FEAST

Now that Halloween is just around the corner, the question is asked, "what is being planned for this year?"

Last year's program was so well carried out, and everyone had so much fun, that there has been an insistent demand for another program as good as that of last year, only a little different.

That is what the committee in charge has tried to plan. The trouble has been that the "grown ups" could not think of anything that was much different. So they put on their thinking caps to recall the suggestions that the youngsters made last year as to something different. The program for this year is based on suggestions that came from the school children of a year ago.

For the younger ones there will be a party and a picture at the Temple Theatre after school. The picture will be "Tom Brown's School Days." This is a splendid picture and the story is of the school days of a boy who was "a 100 per cent live wire", and who had real fun and grew up to be a credit to his school. There will also be good cider and "do nuts" as the demand for repeating this is too strong to be denied.

For the older school children there will be the Temple Theatre picture at 7 o'clock and afterward there will be a party at school.

Some new features will be a Drawing Contest, with Halloween motif on paper 8 1/2 x 11 inches. There will also be a Constructive Contest Symbolic of Halloween, such as pumpkin, witch, skeleton. The prizes for each contest will be: 1st, $1.00; 2d, 50c; 3d, 25c.

There will also be an abundant supply of cider and do nuts in the evening.

There will be no pledge cards and the rules for the evening entertainment will be the same as last year.

This entertainment is sponsored by the Rotary Club in behalf of the entire community. It takes money to make a program like this successful and this is where the "grown ups" come in. Those who wish to help give the school children, and those who are out of school but a few years, a good time, may give their contributions to Earl Clark. To be appointed to be the "spark, plug" to make the celebration click.

The purpose of the whole thing is fun and frolic for those of the age who enjoy Halloween festivities. The school children are invited to think of different specialties for next year's entertainment. For further information ask the school teachers.

Strip and Contour Farming Visited on Farm Tour

Last week, under the supervision of Howard Lytle, Smith-Hughes instructor at Boyne City, a tour was organized to see firsthand a farm where strip and contour cropping had been carried on and to observe the many features of the plan. Some 33 farmers and Smith-Hughes students made up the bus load.

The farm of Neil Morrison, some five miles southeast of Elk Rapids, was visited. Mr. Morrison has co-operated with the Soil Conservation Project in Traverse County for three years and is greatly pleased with his efforts in preventing soil and plant food losses by erosion. A large percent of his land has a moderate slope. We observed three or four gullies which were getting to be quite a problem until Mr. Morrison adopted methods of protection. Now, at short intervals, he has constructed dams of stones, fence, and sandbags. He believes that the best possible way is to use burlap sacks filled with sand and placed in the gullies. Where this has been done very little loss was observed and by placing sod in back of the dam wonderful sod growth has developed. In the course of time the burlap material will rot away and no further trouble will be encountered while, if you use stones, they will always be somewhat of a potential menace.

Mr. Morrison uses strips which extend around the contour of the slopes. One strip is made up of alfalfa sod while the next is cultivated and so on down the slope. In this way no soil losses occurred and the system did not prove to be inconvenient.

Every person seeing this farm came home with a greater appreciation of strip farming. In the near future many farmers in Charlevoix County will adopt this new practice which will go a long way toward preventing huge losses through erosion.

Burdett Evans, 80 Pioneer Resident Passed Away Oct. 17

Burdett Evans was born October 20, 1860 at Summer Hill, N. Y. where he lived for thirty years. He was married to Miss Mary Sherman at Summer Hill, N. Y. in 1878. He came to East Jordan 50 years ago and made his residence on the Ellsworth road where he lived until his death. He worked in the lumber industry for a number of years and also was a farmer and a very successful bee keeper for 40 years.

Mr. Evans came to East Jordan in the pioneer days before the country was cleared of its timber. He was very fond of fishing and trapping. Having spent the greatest part of his life here, he made many friends and was a good neighbor and kind to children.

Two children, Ettie Elgene, 14 months, and Freddie, 17 years, have gone on before their father.

Mr. Evans passed away at his home Thursday morning, Oct. 17th, at 8:30 o'clock after eight months of illness. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary Evans; 3 sons: Francis of Lansing, Herbert of East Jordan, and Lynn of Dayton, Ohio; 3 daughters: Delia Bancroft of East Jordan, Laura Indenau of Boyne City, and Goldie Huston of Detroit; 7 grandchildren. One grandchild, Wesley Simmerman, has made his home with Mr. and Mrs. Evans for a number of years. Also a niece, Minnie Cummings, here from Chicago.

Funeral services were held at his home Sunday, October 20, at 2 o'clock with Rev. Arden Ragsdale officiating. The house was packed with many relatives and friends who came to pay their last respects to Mr. Evans. Rev. and Mrs. Ragsdale sang, "Wonderful Peace," "When the Roll is Called up Yonder," and "Good Night and Good Morning." Pall bearers were Elmer Hott, Claude Gilkerson, J. D. Frost, Ira Bartlett, Clarence Lord, and Zell Bricker.

A good number followed in the procession to Maple Lawn Cemetery, Boyne City, where Mr. Evans was laid to rest.

Mrs. J. C. White Passed Away At Daughter's Home

Mrs. J. C. White passed away at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Claude Sweet, in East Jordan, Wednesday, October 16th, in her 79th year and following an illness of 2 1/2 years.

Mary Wilhelmina Mackey was born at Napier, Ontario, Canada, Sept. 28, 1861. Dec. 22, 1885, she was united in marriage to Eugene Calkins at South Lyon, Mich. Two children were born to this union, one of whom — Frank — passed away. Mr. Calkins died March 22, 1890. On Oct. 25, 1893, she was married to J. C. White. Four children were born to this union. Mr. White passed away April 1st, 1934.

Mrs. White came to the United States and resided at South Lyon, Mich., until 1893. She then moved to Charing Cross, Ontario. Some forty years ago she moved to this region and made her home in Jordan township. She was a member of the Methodist Church.

Funeral services were held at the Jordan River church Saturday afternoon, Oct. 19, conducted by Elder Leonard Dudley, pastor of the Latter Day Saints church. Burial was at the Jones cemetery in South Arm twp.

Boom Town Heads Temple Week

The new week at the Temple headlines the presentation of "Boom Town," one of the most pretentious and thrilling of all modern films. Clark Gable, Spencer Tracy, Hedy Lamarr and Claudette Colbert head the star-studded cast of this exciting opus of the oil fields and presentation will be for three days, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. In spite of the fact that many theatre operators have advanced prices for this production the Temple will maintain the regular admission scale and there will be no raise of any kind. Three additional programs of unusual entertainment value complete the week and are arranged in their proper sequences below:

Saturday only: John Wayne, Sigrid Gurie, Charles Colburn in "Three Faces West."

Sun., Mon., Tues.: Clark Gable, Spencer Tracy, Claudette Colbert and Hedy Lamarr in "Boom Town."

Wed. Only, Family Nite: Jean Rogers, Robert Sterling and Russell Gleason in "Yesterday's Heroes," the Saturday Evening Post football story.

Thursday and Friday: Freddie Bartholomew and Jimmy Lydon in "Tom Brown's School Days."

Crimson Wave Wins Again

DEFEAT CHARLEVOIX AT HOME-COMING, 27 TO 0; FOURTH WIN IN A ROW

The Crimson Wave of East Jordan High School made it four in a row last Saturday, completely running over Coach Ray Kipke's boys from Charlevoix, to the tune of 27 to 0.

The game was played in cold weather conditions, making the handling of the ball a problem. It rained all Saturday morning and the field was very wet.

The East Jordan lads scattered the scoring pretty well, getting a touchdown in each quarter.

In the first quarter, left halfback, McKinnon grabbed a pass and went 25 yards for the first marker. Vale Gee, quarterback, threw a pass to G. Green, right half, for the extra point.

In the second quarter, Hayner, fullback, went through the line to make it 13 to 0. V. Gee sent a pass to McKinnon for the extra point, the score being 14 to 0 at the half.

In the third quarter McKinnon again broke through, this time for 33 yards, on a reverse play for a third touchdown. Vale Gee held while Green place kicked.

To top it off, Gerald Green went around right end in the fourth quarter for the fourth touchdown. The try for extra point was unsuccessful.

This win was extra sweet to the boys, as Charlevoix last year pulled a big upset and beat our boys. The Crimson Wave had little trouble in stopping Nowland, fullback for Charlevoix. Rowe, quarterback, was the big gun for Charlevoix, picking up nine first downs while our boys rang up 16. In the pass department the Wave outclassed the Reds. Out of 3 tries Charlevoix completed only 2 for a total of 20 yards. East Jordan tried 9 and completed 6 for a total of 11 yards.

Coach Kipke sent the following players into the starting lineup: Novotney and J. Foster at ends; Meggison and Poole at tackles; Bissell and Ager at guards; Kohler at center; Rowe at quarterback; Martin and Shanton at halfbacks and Nowland played fullback; subs were D. Carey, Schockly, Stuart and Mitchell.

Coach Cohn started Woodcock and Malpass at ends, Strehl and Watson at tackles, Kemp and Capt. D. Gee at guards, Bechtold at center, V. Gee at quarterback, Green and McKinnon at halfback with "Buck" Hayner at fullback. Subs were Grutsch, Penfold, Sturgell, Saxton, Kelly, Nemceek, Walden, Hickox and Stallard.

The spirit and co-operation of the team are very good. The game this Saturday is at Onaway for the Crimson Wave's fifth game.

School Fair Next Friday

HOME ECONOMICS AND F.F.A. CLUBS ARE THE SPONSORS

(From E. J. H. S. News)

The Home Economics and FFA Clubs will sponsor a school fair in the high school gym, Friday, November 1. There will be no admission fee. The only charge is to be for concession booths on the midway, and dancing.

The proceeds from the fair will be used to finance a trip for the highest exhibit winners, five girls and five boys. To what destination the trip will take the winners is not yet known and will depend upon how much money is taken in at the fair.

The main features of this year's fair will be a midway in the gym, consisting of amusement and refreshment booths, a display of educational exhibits pertaining to farming and home economics, and a program of dramatic skits and music, to be given in the auditorium at about eight or nine o'clock. Some of the midway concessions will be run by the FFA and Home Ec. Clubs, and others will be sponsored by other organizations on a commission basis.

Any one in school is free to enter exhibits. The trip winners will be selected on the basis of points gained on exhibits. The only other prizes will be blue, red, and white ribbons.

A similar fair was put on by these two organizations last year, and it proved very successful. The money taken in was used to finance a trip to Chicago for two girls and two boys.

A Successful Homecoming

PLENTY OF ACTIVITY AND A GALA EVENT ALL AROUND

(From E. J. H. S. News)

East Jordan won its 4th consecutive football game Saturday, October 19, even though the weather made it impossible for the Knute Rockne Memorial ceremony, between halves. The rain also ruined Homecoming decorations on the goal posts and lamp posts on Main Street.

Awards were given for the three groups of girls decorating the three best store windows. The three best decorated stores and their decorators were: Brabant's; Mary Ann Lenosky, Mary Jane Simmons, Louise Stanek and Gladys Larson, Whiteford's; Betty Ann Scott, Joan Williams, Leila Orvis and Luella Reich. The Gamble Store; Lottie Hitchcock, Joyce Sommerville, Marilyn Davis and Jean Dennis.

The bonfire was held Friday evening with the onlookers joining hands and forming a Snake Dance which twisted its way from the school building to the center of Main Street.

The school gymnasium where the Homecoming Dance was held, was attractively decorated with the school colors of East Jordan and Charlevoix.

The Homecoming Assembly was planned by the seniors. It featured an all-senior band which played several selections. Ted Malpass was master of ceremonies.

Talks were given by Coach Cohn and Atty E. K. Reuling.

On the stage were stuffed football uniforms representing members of the team. Harold Hayner introduced each to the audience.

The senior cheerleaders, Mae Politt and Jean Gaimore, led the school in yells.

Michigan Cows Top U. S. Average

If production is part of defense, Michigan dairy cows are highly patriotic, for they are far above the average in the United States.

Similarly, says A. C. Baltzer, dairy extension specialist on the staff of Michigan State College, the animals enrolled in cow testing under the 87 dairy herd improvement associations in the state are also far above the average Michigan cow.

Here are some of the most recent figures:

The average cow in dairy herd improvement associations in the state is producing at the annual rate of 8,180 pounds of milk containing 337 pounds of butterfat. The average of all Michigan's 915,000 dairy cows is producing at the annual rate of 5,200 pounds of milk and 198 pounds of butterfat. For the United States the average cow's yearly output is 4,538 pounds of milk and 179 pounds of fat.

There's economy in this Michigan milk production, too, it is pointed out by Baltzer. Feed cost for a Michigan D. H. I. A. cow is $57 a year, for the average Michigan cow, $45, for the nation's average cow $48.

To project this average picture further, the feed cost is used as 41 percent of the cost of producing milk. This indicates a Michigan D. H. I. A. cow can produce milk at a total cost of $1.68 a hundred after including feed, labor, management, buildings and equipment and depreciation. For the average Michigan cow the production cost seems to be $2.09 a hundred and for the average U. S. cow it is $2.60. Consumers can interpret these farm costs by remembering there are about 46 quarts in a hundred pounds of milk.

CARMEN OF THE RANCHO

By FRANK H. SPEARMAN © Frank H. Spearman WNU Service

SYNOPSIS

Don Alfredo, wealthy, Spanish owner of a Southern California rancho, refuses to heed several warnings of a raid by a band of outlaws, Sierra Indians. One day after he has finally decided to seek the protection of the nearby mission for his wife and family, the Indians strike. Don Alfredo is killed and his two young daughters are torn from the arms of the family's faithful maid, Monica, and are carried away to the hills. Padre Pasqual, missionary friend of the family, arrives at the ruins of the rancho and learns the story of the raid from Monica. After a trying and difficult trip across the plains and mountains from Texas to California, youthful Henry Bowie, a Texas adventurer, with his friends, Ben Pardaloe and Simmie, an Indian scout, sight the party of Indians who have carried off the two little girls. The three Texans attack the war party of fifty odd Indians and through a clever ruse scatter the savages to the hills. The girls are saved. The group makes its way out of the hills and meets the distraught Monica, the children's maid. The girls are left with Monica and the friendly Padre at a mission, and the Texans proceed to Monterey. Here Bowie completes his business for Gen. Sam Houston of Texas, who has commissioned him to deliver an important message. Bowie decides to have a look at the wild untamed country that California was in the middle Nineteenth century. Bowie disappears from California but returns eight years later and makes the acquaintance of a friendly Spanish family at the Rancho Guadalupe.

"You must have dry clothing," Francisco insisted despite Bowie's protests. "You are my guest. I am now what you call the boss; you must let me be your servant. My clothes are not big enough. But my uncle, he is a big one, like you. Wait."

An Indian boy was dispatched with a message to Don Ramon. He was soon back, bringing a coat, two shirts, trousers, stockings and boots for Bowie.

In vain the Texan protested. Don Francisco had a persuasive way—he laughed away one objection after another with so much good-natured banter that Bowie found himself clad in Californian accouterments of the head of the house, walking into the big living room where he met the Estradas.

Don Francisco introduced his new acquaintance to his uncle and to his aunt, Dona Maria.

But the uncle, Don Ramon, and the Dona, his wife, called for particular attention at the hands of their guest. Except for the youthful nephew, Don Ramon Estrada was the first real Spanish gentleman that the Texan had met.

While there was nothing of haughtiness in Don Ramon, there was something that called for consideration and respect. His mere presence made itself felt, presenting as it did a certain graciousness of manner tempered by dignity and reserve that put his guest at ease with a mute assurance of welcome.

When Bowie had met his host and hostess he felt already at ease, so exquisite was the kindly welcome expressed in their manner. But not until he was presented by Don Francisco, with due formality, to a young lady who now entered the room was the gaunt Texan conscious of a feeling of his own awkwardness and ill-fitting apparel. She was Senorita Carmen, of the rancho, cousin to Don Francisco.

The young Spaniard did the interpreting and much of the talking. Host and hostess extended repeated Spanish greetings to Bowie which Don Francisco translated. The young lady was wholly silent, save that when spoken to by her cousin she responded clearly and composedly.

Dinner was announced. Dona Maria was seated at her husband's right hand, and Bowie was given the place of honor on his left. Next to him sat Don Francisco; seated below Dona Maria was Senorita Carmen. As she sat opposite the Texan she made good use of her eyes, yet so skillfully that he was never aware of her inspection.

Don Ramon, as the beef, mutton and fowl in bewildering abundance were served in formal turn, asked many questions of his stranger guest—questions about Texas; about the differences of the Americans with the Mexican government; then as to what brought Bowie to California. This drew only vague generalizations from the Texan. The Don switched next to what lay immediately ahead; what Bowie had in mind to do.

"As to that, senor," responded Bowie frankly, "I hardly have any plans. I find myself here on the coast with two scout companions. Soon we are going up the river, to Sutter's Fort. Our principal occupation in the interval must be to find something to eat."

Don Ramon laughed. "Truly important."
"So we are heading upcountry after game to sell in Monterey. There is a good demand, I am told, from the ships for venison and elk."

"But with the thousands of head of cattle everywhere available to furnish a beef supply?" objected the Don.

Bowie smiled as this was translated. "The beef of the range cattle is no competition for the meat of the deer and the elk, certainly not with the officers, nor even with the hungry sailors."

"And what is your equipment for the undertaking?"

"Our rifles, senor."

The amiable Don was astonished. "Nothing seems to appall you—your undertaking would, of a certainty, give me pause. And you need nothing?"

Bowie smiled. "One thing we do need."

Don Ramon lifted his eyebrows as if pleased—at last he had found a weak spot in the Texan's armor. "What is it?" he exclaimed.

"Salt," returned Bowie simply. "Then allow me to be your debtor—you shall leave here with salt for yourselves and for your game. But self-reliant as you are, senor, I can lighten your labors a good bit if you will allow me a further pleasure."

"You are most kind, Don Ramon. I realize that we are strangers and your advice might save us much."

The Don shook his head. "Not advice. I doubt if you need it. But what I know you do need is plenty of horseflesh. It will save you much time and some hardship if you will accept a caponera from us and leave here in the saddle—with your salt," he added, smiling significantly, "in your mochilas."

Bowie sat perplexed. "Caponera?" He looked inquiringly at Don Francisco.

"Horses," explained Francisco. "My uncle means twenty horses, or twenty-five."

Bowie, despite his poise, regarded Don Ramon incredulously. Much talk and much translating followed. But it was for Bowie at last to say, as he was best able, that he and his scouts were grateful but could not think of so great a draft on this magnificent hospitality.

In the living room, while the rain poured furiously outside, Don Ramon smoked tranquilly and listened to Bowie and his nephew. The ladies talked about the wedding in Monterey. In the morning it was still raining hard—the rancho seemed afloat. The Texan had no choice but to accept Don Ramon's hospitality, and the day went in stories told before the big log fire—stories of Texans and the country of the Staked Plain; the story of Santa Ana and the Alamo, which was told without any effort to water down the cruel butchery by the Mexicans. And interspersed were stories of this new California, to which the plainsman listened with hungry interest. Don Francisco had already taken a fancy to Bowie. That evening he questioned the Texan with a purpose.

Bowie, quite alert to all that went on, noticed the glances that Francisco cast at times toward Carmen, who was in animated talk with Dona Maria. Even the Texan's attention wandered at moments from Francisco's explanation to the two women as they chatted. Both were beautiful, of a type the roughworn Texan had never yet seen. They were beautiful in artless animation. The bronzed son of the desert was almost stunned by the atmosphere of charm. The Dona at forty had lost none of her youth; the years had tempered without engrossing the portrait of her maidenhood. The vivacity of youth was still hers, enriched now by the dignity of matronly charm. Yet Bowie's eyes were drawn to her daughter Carmen, just old enough to realize the presence of a stranger and protecting her attractiveness by the slight repression of girlhood.

Bowie listened, indeed, to the words of Don Ramon; but he heard the cadences of another voice—a voice of sweet-throated music, strange to the ear but bewildering in utterance. For the first time in his life the Texan, without realizing it, began to love the strange tongue in which Californians spoke and to listen for every syllable that might fall from the lips of the young Spaniard girl. The clinging black of her gown did not hide the tender slope of her shoulders; it contrasted with the ivory of her slender neck; and above this, from a perfectly poised head, fell soft masses of brown hair. They framed the features of one just at the threshold of full-blomed adolescence: lips filling with promise of a richer maidenhood; eyes that retired under long dark lashes and opened with a searching light.

"You want to start tomorrow?" Don Francisco was asking. Bowie nodded.

"But I have an idea," suggested Francisco. "My uncle is having matanza this week. He is slaughtering surplus cattle for the tallow. Captain Davis, with whom my uncle trades, is in port at Monterey from China. He will want much tallow for South America and Boston—it will be a big matanza. You should see one. Much attention, much excitement, much work. Stay over a day or two. The streams will then be fordable, and you and your scouts, in the meantime, will be well entertained. Plenty of bears!"

"Bears?" echoed Bowie. Francisco nodded. "Dozens. They come down from the mountains at night after the matanza offal. Plenty of chance for a bear fight if you like one."

The Texan showed interest, asked more questions, and said he would talk to his scouts.

The next morning Bowie and his host rode out to where the matanza was in progress. Pardaloe and Simmie were already on the scene, watching every move of the vaqueros as one rode quietly into the corral, lassoed a steer by the horns and brought him outside.

When the rider had the beast well placed, a second vaquero roped the steer's hind legs, threw him and, with two ropes taut, tied his feet in a bunch and, with a knife, gave him the golpe de gracia.

What interested the Texan, seasoned as to cattle and horses, was the skill and speed with which the vaqueros worked and the almost human intelligence of their horses—the perfection of their response to every hint of their rider in snaring and handling a steer. It was particularly this skill of the horses that made the work proceed rapidly without mishap or hitch.

For two days the work went forward speedily. The matanza ground was a scene of the greatest activity.

To the Texan the spectacle of such abundance, such profusion of waste and such indifference to everything but the work in hand was a source of amazement. A hearty lunch served to the family at noon was followed by a heartier dinner for the evening, with the difference that native wine accompanied the dinner. This was the family gathering of the day at which the hostess and her daughter were formally dressed.

After the family had settled about the fire in the living room and the conversation had shown signs of lagging, Don Ramon made a request of Carmen.

Carmen took her place at the family harp, ran her fingers over the strings and sang a Spanish song. The conversation and the words of the song were lost on Bowie, but not the clear, true notes of the girl's voice.

Don Francisco explained that the song was the appeal of a lover to the stars to bear witness of his devotion to his mistress. Carmen sang again, a French chanson. It was very slight, but it echoed in Bowie's ears most of the night.

It bothered Bowie, that in these household meetings he could never manage to catch the eye of Carmen. He was discreet enough not to attempt to coax her glance his way—and old enough to be ashamed of his curiosity for his curiosity. But curiosity persisted. Toward the end of his stay a natural resentment at the aloofness of one who had for a week enlisted his lively interest impelled him to practice such retaliatory measure as he could. The least satisfactory feature of his attempt to ignore her was that this made no apparent difference whatever to Carmen. If she were aware, there was no evidence of it—for her, he seemed not to exist.

Don Francisco, on the other hand, grew increasingly attached to Bowie. Everything about the Texan interested the youth. Especially was he fascinated by the plainsman's novel revolver. Indeed, the whole male population of Rancho Guadalupe marveled at a pistol that would shoot six bullets without recharging.

The matanza always brought down an army of bears from the hills, and Don Francisco, seeking excuse to prolong the stay of the hunters, promised them as many bear fights as they had stomach for—black bears, cinnamon-bears and occasionally the famed monarch of the Sierras, the grizzly, the highly respected oso pardo, as Don Francisco called him. This prospect of adventure interested the two scouts. They added their appeal to that of Don Francisco, and Bowie—not loath to linger near the flame of the distant candle he had lighted for himself—consented.

Hardly had night fallen when the vanguard of the bears arrived from the hills. Tempted by the rejected meat and offal of the matanza, the bears would come down at nightfall for a feast. This gave the hunters, disposed for sport, their chance. Shortly the matanza ground was well filled with the hairy monsters, gorging, growling, fighting among themselves and snapping ferociously at those bolder coyotes who dared trespass on the preserves of their banqueting "betters."

The Texans watched. Don Ramon, circling a chosen bear, lassoed him by the neck; Don Francisco, watching his chance, executed the more difficult feat of roping the bear's hind legs; and the two horsemen, riding then in opposite directions, forced the bear to fight his utmost to save himself. In the end he was killed. The vaqueros made nightly sport with the big fellows. The Texans, seeing bear after bear brought to the knife, were not greatly impressed.

In the morning Don Ramon invited Bowie for a canter over the rancho. He particularly wanted to see how the rain had left the footbridge leading across the river to the grain fields which stretched in rolling acres toward the bay. Returning, he suggested a short cut through the hills. The two men were riding briskly abreast when, crossing a canyon, they stumbled suddenly, almost on top of a bear ambling along on her way with two cubs to the matanza ground.

"Miral! Cuidadol! Oso pardo," cried Don Ramon.

The warning was well ordered. The bear, enraged, reared with the swiftness of a jack-in-the-box on her huge feet and sprang, as luck would have it, at Don Ramon. She struck him with a raking blow of her claw. It caught his trouser leg. The stout cloth, unhappily for the rider, held and the unlucky Don found himself atorn from the saddle. In catapulting headfirst to the ground his foot caught in the stirrup, and his frenzied horse dashed down the canyon, dragging the rider a dozen yards before the Don could release himself. As he kicked clear with a mighty effort his head struck a rock, and he sprawled on the canyon floor, half conscious. The bear dashed awkward but swiftly after the fleeing horse and the helpless rider. Bowie, close at hand, had barely seconds to head his panicky mount toward the angry beast and uncoil his lasso. Yelling to the Don to flee, Bowie flung his rope at the loping grizzly. It settled over her head and Bowie, spurring swiftly back despite the weight and size of the grizzly, jerked the monster around and threw her off her feet.

Only for an instant. Rolling over, the bear, doubly infuriated, seized the lasso in her claw and began reeling Bowie and his horse hand over hand toward her. The Texan perceived his peril. His horse strove vainly to pit his strength against the strength of his enormous enemy. It was a hopeless endeavor. Relentlessly the bear dragged horse and rider toward him. Luckily a sizable tree stood near. With shout and spur, Bowie, plunging forward, whirled the horse and managed to circle the tree before the bear could take up all the slack. It gave the Texan an instant of respite, and he dismounted. But in that instant the bear charged him.

But in that instant the bear charged him.

The tree between the two was of little consequence, as the hunted man was aware, and the grizzly's leap was far beyond the nimblest feat of a runner. Taking what was at best a merely desperate chance, Bowie, as he jumped, fired shot after shot into the bear's mouth and head. Then he dropped the empty revolver, whipped out his knife and, waiting not a second, plunged directly into the bear's arms for what was likely to prove a fatal embrace. Only one of the two, he knew could come out alive.

The foreman Pedro was riding away from the corral when he saw Don Ramon's riderless horse racing out of the hills. The half-breed realized at once there was trouble. Shouting to near-by vaqueros to follow, he spurred for the hills. Before he reached them Bowie's horse, dragging the broken rope, shot out of the canyon and gave him the direction. At the same moment he heard pistol shots echoing down the canyon walls. Urging his companions who were stringing along behind to follow fast, Pedro galloped into the canyon.

His practiced eye told him the story as he rode. Whatever it had been, it was over, for the canyon was as still as the grave. On he galloped until, rounding a bend, he saw the bodies of the grizzly and the Texan lying less than ten yards apart, both apparently dead.

Watch Your Kidneys!
Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste
Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.
Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.
Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nationwide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

Candidate for
JUDGE OF PROBATE
Non-Partisan Ballot
General Election, November 5, 1940

I am placing my candidacy before the electors of Charlevoix county in as straight-forward a manner as possible.

There is no statutory requirement whatsoever making it necessary for a Judge of Probate to be an attorney. The duties of the office are clearly defined in the Probate Code, which covers all legal matters and which any person with ordinary sense of judgment can fully understand. There are many Probate Judges and candidates for that office in Michigan, who, like myself, are not attorneys. Furthermore, probate matters are largely handled on forms provided for such purpose and uniform throughout the state.

My duties as Friend of the Court and Probation Officer have placed me in close touch for several years with the delinquent children problem and have provided experience required in handling juvenile cases.

My business experience over a period of 20 years has involved the handling of large sums of public money as well as properties, which could be considered comparable to estates involved in Probate Court.

Did I not feel fully qualified to handle the duties of the office, I certainly would not impose myself upon you for consideration.

I am not incumbered with other business interests and if elected promise to give by entire, undivided time in service to the public in this office. If my past record of public service is the type you would expect of a county officer, I place it before you for consideration at this time.

— FOR —
State REPRESENTATIVE
Charlevoix-Leelanau District
WILLIAM J. SCHRAM
Democratic Candidate — Election Nov. 5, 1940

As a candidate for State Representative I wish to emphasize five points in a legislative program to which, if elected, I propose to give my undivided attention and support.

FIRST: I believe it is the duty of the state to provide a larger and better degree of comfort and security for the aged, sick and disabled who are without means to provide these necessities.

SECOND: I pledge my support to any plan that is practical for the progressive development of our school system with special emphasis upon the balanced development of both intellect and character.

THIRD: I promise to be diligent in pursuing the conservation of natural resources and the protection of game and wild life of our forests and streams, and recognizing the difficulties now prevalent in the administration of the present program; I shall earnestly endeavor to correct the difficulties that have developed.

FOURTH: My sympathies lie with the farmer and fruit grower in their battle with plant diseases and other pests, and their struggle against unfair economic conditions, and I shall make every effort to encourage co-operation on the part of the State in dealing constructively with the problems of agriculture.

FIFTH: I favor the speedy completion of all highways now under construction and believe a further extension of the present program may be so developed as to absorb the bulk of unemployed in a manner that will direct the now idle energies of the jobless into channels of productivity, the benefits of which may be available to all.

The road to _____ the sages say
Is paved in an inviting way
With what the adage briefly mentions
As blocks of vague that GOOD INTENTIONS.
And all who'd pass that way, 'twere well
They learn the thing leads straight to _____
A good intention held in stock
May look as firm as solid rock,
But till they're placed in willing hands
They prove to be but sinking sands.
So let us join our issues here
To build a road we need not fear
Will lead, as firm as rock cement
Straight to the goal, GOOD GOVERNMENT.

M. S. C. Tomato Wins U. S. Fame

Plant breeding ability in the horticulture department at Michigan State College obtained new laurels recently when a new variety of tomato received national recognition for its possibilities as an early market fruit.

Although the tomato Victor was developed as a productive early fruit for Michigan and other northern states, the new variety performed so well in nationwide trials it was given the high honors, "All American for 1941."

A medal of merit is being issued by the All American selections committee of the American Seed Trade association. Each year commercial seed breeders and experiment station workers submit seed of their promising new varieties to be tested by judges of this committee in various parts of the United States.

The new Victor originated from a cross. Parents consist of a very early dwarf variety called Allred and a later but smoother and more productive variety known as Break O' Day. Several generations of selection were carried on at Michigan State College to obtain earliness, smoothness of fruit and productivity.

Fruits are borne in large clusters. In fact, the college experiment station workers report the new variety will not do well unless given good soil with ample moisture. Otherwise all the numerous fruits would be small in size.

Apparently the Victor will be excellent for early market and for home gardens. College staff members report that if started early and set out when frost danger is over this new tomato should begin ripening tomatoes in July and continue until early September.

LET'S GET DOWN TO BRASS TACKS

Some people feel that their electric bills run too high. Perhaps you feel that way too. Because you are doing business with us practically every hour of the day and night we think we should discuss the point.

The simple fact is that of all your household bills electricity is one of the few that gives you more for your money today than formerly!

Your dollar buys less food today. It buys less clothing. It buys less shelter than it used to. It buys twice as much electricity. During the past ten years the average cost of electricity has been reduced about 50% per unit. Your bill has probably not come down, because most of our customers are using about twice as much electricity today as they used ten years ago.

Some of our customers pay only eight cents a day or less for electric service. Almost all of them use at least three appliances. Many customers who use five or more appliances pay no more than ten cents a day.

There are two reasons why electric service is cheaper now. First, because of our operating economies. Second, because of your increased use of electricity.

Moreover you can automatically cut your own rate. Under our modern rates, the more you let electricity lighten your burden of housework the lower the price becomes.

We of the electric company are proud of these accomplishments. We sincerely feel that we are making available to you a service which not only steps down steadily in cost, but also steps up steadily in efficiency.

That is why this Company must study every shift in population, all industrial developments — anything that may affect the demand for service. Based on such surveys, we have built a "backbone" plant that can be expanded speedily and economically, whether it be central office enlargement, more switchboards, or extensions of cables and wires. Thus, operating on a basis of constant preparedness, we are equipped and ready to do our part in America's great program of national defense.

Army Preparing for New Recruits; Tension in Balkan States Increases As Britain and Axis Exchange Blows; U. S. Community Chest Drives Open

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

THE WAR: New Scenes

The Balkans blossomed out as the new critical area in the European struggle. German troops who earlier entered the country to seize the rich oilfields were increased and took over more territory. Ten divisions of Nazi troops, 150,000 men, as well as numerous aircraft, arrived. Neutral sources said the actual goal was Greek and Turkish ports which control access to Asia Minor oil lines.

Turkey and Greece are allied to England as non-belligerents. Turkey also has an alliance with Russia and expected help from the Soviet if the situation came to a showdown. Russia, meanwhile, made a vast military zone of Bessarabia, which it seized early this year from Rumania. Many tacticians believe Russia was ready to oppose Germany in the Balkans, but others were less sanguine. They believe Russia already is outflanked in that theater.

A drive to Greece and Turkey also would give the Axis powers a base on which to move toward Suez from another angle, causing a pincer movement with the Italians moving east along the Egyptian coast.

Africa still was a gem for conquest. Gen. Charles de Gaulle, leader of the "Free France" forces, based himself at Dualla, in the Cameroons, in tropical West Africa. His arrival coincided with a reception at Dakar for Gen. Maxime Weygand, representative of the Vichy forces. Neutral sailors escaping from Dakar reported the Senegal sector had been taken over by German authorities. Washington looked at the news apprehensively. Officials there believe the Germans soon may use that air base for commercial flights to South America.

Air War

Over England, France, Belgium, Netherlands and Germany furious air battles continued. The fight always was "the same as yesterday—but more violent." Each side daily stepped up bombings of enemy territory. The great St. Paul's cathedral in London was damaged. Many died each night under the debris of stores and apartments. The Germans used a new bomb, combination explosive and incendiary.

Berlin, like London, while able to deliver tremendous blows on its op-day other British warships claimed to have sunk the third Italian ship. The British said they also had learned through neutral sources that two Nazi transports had been sunk by RAF planes in the French harbor of Lorlent. Three thousand Germans were reported drowned.

Burma Road

Britain opened the road through Burma to Nationalistic China, closed three months earlier in an attempt to appease Japan. Japanese since then have invaded Indo-China and established bases within easy raiding distance of the road and its stations. The British and Chinese had landed thousands of American trucks in Burma to aid transportation of munitions to Gen. Chiang Kai-shek.

The situation yet may bring Japan and the British into open conflict and the resulting snarl easily can involve American interests. Indo-China and the outlying Dutch East Indies are the chief sources of America's supply of rubber and tin.

THE ARMY: Awaits Recruits

While men between the ages of 21 and 35 wondered which 700,000 of them would be first called into camp under the selective service act, the army was pushing with every degree of speed the preparations for their reception. There still were indications many would not be ordered to report to camps on the date originally set, November 15. Barracks, kitchens and sanitation facilities had not been completed in many camps and until these are in operating order, many summoned may be sent to southern stations where they will be able to live under canvas, to begin their toughening up process.

In three months time the average soldier is expected to be able to carry pack and equipment weighing 54 pounds and 8 ounces on a 20-mile hike. This consists of a rifle and bayonet, weighing 10 pounds, 8 ounces; helmet of 2 pounds, mess-kit, 1 pound; raincoat, 2 pounds, 4 ounces; half tent, 2 pounds, 8 ounces; blankets, 4 pounds; haversack, 2 pounds, 8 ounces; trench tools, 2 pounds; toilet articles, 1 pound, 5 ounces; canteen and cup, 3 pounds, 8 ounces; clothing, 10 pounds, 8 ounces; first-aid kit, 4 ounces; gas mask, 5 pounds; cartridges and belt, 6 pounds.

Dr. Clarence A. Dykstra, former city manager of Cincinnati, has been named head of the draft administration by President Roosevelt. His salary will be $10,000 a year, which is half of what he received in Cincinnati, and $5,000 less than he was getting as president of the University of Wisconsin. He has a leave of absence from the school.

President Roosevelt will pick the first numbers from the "goldfish bowl" indicating which men will be called first. He will be blindfolded by Col. Charles Morris of Elizabeth, N. J., the same man who blindfolded President Wilson for the same job in 1917.

LOOKING AHEAD: Coming Events

Movies—The motion picture industry is expected in the near future to announce another prize campaign somewhat like last year's "Movies Are Your Best Entertainment" drive.

Power—The Aluminum Corporation of America is erecting three new units to its Bonneville, Wash., plant and will increase production by 90,000,000 pounds per year. It is expected the 1942 production will be 700,000,000 pounds, compared to 325,000,000 in 1939. The defense commission said the corporation would buy 100,000 additional kilowatts of power from the Bonneville authority.

Expansion—The General Electric company will spend $50,000,000 in the next 15 months to enlarge seven of its major plants.

World Bristles With War Talk As America Arms for Defense

U. S. Trains Conscript Army and Prepares for Action; Germany, Italy, Japan Present Solid Front, Assume Militant Attitude.

By BAUKHAGE

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.) Baukhage, NBC Commentator, whose voice on the Farm and Home Hour is heard daily by many of our readers, is the author of the following Washington column. Soldier, writer and broadcaster, for the last quarter of a century, Baukhage has covered foreign and domestic news from all parts of the United States and principal capitals of Europe.

WASHINGTON.—It is just about as far from the executive offices of the White House on Pennsylvania avenue to the broadcasting studio as it was from our house on Spruce street back home to the store where my mother used to send me for a loaf of bread (and a stick of "lickerish" if I had an extra penny). It was on my way to the store one day that I first saw a live man wearing the uniform of the United States. It was my Cousin Ned just starting off for the Spanish-American war in his sailor suit.

I've seen a lot of uniforms since, on the avenue in Washington, too, but I couldn't help thinking as I walked along the other day scuffing the dried leaves that had fallen from the immemorial White House elms, that a lot of nine-year-old kids and older ones, too, are soon going to be seeing plenty of uniforms for the first time, on the streets of the home town, just the way I did, 40 years ago.

Right now that is something that Washington and every other city, town and cross roads in the country have in common. In the corridors of the marble buildings beside the Potomac they are talking about the same thing that they are on Main street and at the general store. I wouldn't be surprised if certain gentlemen in certain foreign capitals were talking about the same thing, too: Our new citizen army.

Need for Conscript Army in Peacetime

There are certain things about conscription that people are thinking about. According to a lot of letters I get, what many people want to know is why we need a citizen army in peacetime.

I put that up to a military man and this is the way he answered me: "Speed is what counts in an army today. We aren't calling out these boys to fight anybody. We are calling them now to train them so they'll be ready if we ever need them. The United States can always raise a big army if war is ever declared. But neither we nor any other country can raise a trained army overnight—and a lot can happen in the night these days. What we want to do is train men for a reserve. They will still be a part of our defense after their active training is over."

"If this war ends and a disarmament agreement is reached with all nations we won't need to train anybody any more. Meanwhile these men when they are through their year's service will go home and slip back into their niches in civilian life. But if a war comes they can step into the ranks over night as they would if we were in danger anyhow. But they will step back as trained soldiers, not raw recruits."

That seemed to me a new way of looking at it. It explains why there is a need now. A fire engine wouldn't be much use if you had to teach the firemen how to use it after the house started burning.

Triple Alliance Powers Have Belligerent Attitude

Is our house actually in danger of catching on fire now?

Well, I am a reporter, not a prophet. The profit motive isn't overemphasized in the reporting business. Furthermore right now the air in these parts is so full of political speeches and other war-talk, just as it is out your way, that you can hardly see across the Potomac on a clear day. The political speeches are so belligerent and the war-talk, especially what we are getting from Rome, Berlin and Tokyo is so political, it takes a fine-tooth comb to separate them.

A dispatch from Rome says the axis doesn't want to get us into war and wants to stop our aid to Britain. Berlin says that if we attack Japan, Germany and Italy will attack us. That would get us into the war which Rome says the axis doesn't want.

Tokyo says that if we don't let

NATIONAL DEFENSE America is arming rapidly, but she is arming for defense, not offense, according to Baukhage, Washington correspondent. He finds that Germany, Italy and Japan have adopted a belligerent attitude since they signed their Triple Alliance recently. Does this mean war? Baukhage believes that no one knows the answer yet. He reports that some financial experts predict the budget will be balanced in 1943.

her do what she wants in Asia, Japan will attack us. Certain people in Washington say if we get into war with Japan we can't help Britain. And so it goes.

Washington Emphasizes Defense, Not Offense

Just now Washington isn't as warlike as it sounds. The emphasis is on defense, not offense. However, there are conflicting views as to what we ought to do.

I talked with an official who isn't what you would call a fire-eater. He expressed a view which some of the people in the state department agree with.

"Japan has declared herself our enemy. The time to strike is now, not delay the way Great Britain did. We could get it over without a long war."

Another man who speaks for another group which is supposed to reflect White House opinion, said this: "The United States has to play a cautious game. Our job now is to keep-out-of-war. Aid Britain all we can. As long as the British navy controls the seas Japan can't hurt us."

If that policy is followed, and I think most observers here believe it will be no matter who is elected President, we will simply reply to any further unfriendly moves on the part of Japan by economic measures. We have cut off some of her vital needs. We can cut off more.

And heaven knows what the ladies could accomplish if they suddenly quit buying silk stockings. That's Japan's chief income—raw silk—and if they couldn't sell it to us, the Japanese would have to let their silk-worms turn up their toes and die—and you know something pretty bad is supposed to happen when a worm turns.

French Ambassador Has Hard Job

It is hard to find out whether you are at war and if so, with whom, these days. Of course, we are at peace with France. At least we recognize the French ambassador, the suave and amiable Henri Hays. He has a very hard job because, as everybody knows, the government of Vichy has about the same relationship to the French people as French perfume has to a piece of Limburger cheese. The dachshund's tail wags the French puddle.

And the United States government, which can't admit officially that this is true, acts just as if it knew it all the time. It has frozen French financial holdings in this country. It is as hard for the French government to draw on funds invested here as it is for a Hollander or a Belgian or the citizen of the other occupied countries to get their money—which doesn't make them angry either. Some Hollanders instructed their agents here not to pay out their funds to anybody even if they themselves write letters ordering this done. For, of course, the Nazis could force the owner to order the securities sold and then confiscate the funds and use it themselves.

Well, one of the many ticklish assignments of Monsieur Henri Hays is to try to get the government to loosen up on those French investments. Of course, some funds can be drawn upon for special purposes such as the expenses of the embassy. And there has been a worried rumor that the United States government might have to turn the entire amount over.

Predict Balanced Budget for 1943

With congress and the defense commission bent on seeing that the money appropriated for national defense gets put to work, all the talk is about what's going out and very little about what's coming in. You haven't heard a thing about balancing the budget recently, have you? Well, you will soon. Perhaps before this item meets your eye. For the experts say that we are going to have a $18,000,000,000 budget in 1943 and what is more we are going to be able to balance it.

How will this feat be accomplished? Simply through normal taxes, they tell us. Production and national income will mount so fast owing to pyramiding defense expenditures that normal taxes will bring in enough money to get the dizzy old budget.

This statement comes, not from starchy-eyed optimists but from fishy-eyed financial experts who are paid to get the low-down for their no-less fishy-eyed banker clients.

The capital has felt many repercussions of the war and naturally broadcasters suffer. Recently Earl Godwin, one of my colleagues, broadcast a London dispatch which started quite a controversy. William Dean Hassett, meticulous and scholarly member of the White House staff, insists that not long ago this is the way the dispatch reached his usually sharp "New England ears."

"Ambassador Kennedy had a narrow escape today when the Germans dropped an incendiary blonde near the American embassy."

Birthday—Five days in advance of her fifty-sixth anniversary, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt celebrated her birthday. There was a family dinner with birthday cake. On the cake, following a Roosevelt custom, were 21 candles. No one in the Roosevelt family ever has admitted to be more than 21 years old.

OLD BILL says "Here's what I think—"

"I have been watching, closely, the affairs of our state for twenty years. Yes, in all that time there has never been a governor so determined to do the right thing for the people as Luren D. Dickinson. He has been as firm as a rock. His forthrightness has been amazing. In making decisions Governor Dickinson seriously and earnestly considers every side of every problem with a single thought—'What is best for the people?' Having made up his mind he drives a straight, clean furrow to his goal. No politician, no influence, can shunt him off the course.

"Without fanfare or hullabaloo Governor Dickinson has put every state department to work. He has ordered expenditures cut, and they are being cut. He is boring steadily into the towering deficit left by the previous New Deal administration.

"A governor, to deserve the office, must appreciate that 'all' the people are a part of Michigan. Some of the governors of the past seemed to think that certain groups were the whole state. Governor Dickinson has the fine faculty of recognizing his responsibility to every man, woman and child.

"No man ever had greater sympathy for labor. He wants workmen and women to have jobs, at good pay and with decent hours. He wants them to have good homes, and good living. He has worked hard to keep men employed, and to smooth out disputes. Honest labor will get fat pay developed as long as Governor Dickinson has anything to say about it.

"In Governor Dickinson's administration there has been none of the fantastic experiments which discouraged business and industry and decreased employment. He wants labor to work, and prosper.

"The incumbent governor is a farmer, and he knows the problems of the farmer. He is the kind of a farmer who gets in the fields and works, and who earns a living from the land.

"He is a taxpayer, and he wants taxes reduced wherever possible. We don't have to worry about taxes being increased under Governor Dickinson. His philosophy of government is to eliminate extravagances so we may have ample funds to care for the needy and the aged, and still give those who must pay the bill a chance to keep their heads above water.

"The biggest items in Governor Dickinson's program for the conduct of state government are honesty and uprightness. They cover a lot of ground. They just about sum up everything that is necessary to good government. As I see it, we can feel very safe with the steady hand of a man like that at the helm.

"Let's finish the job on Nov. 5!"

VOTE YES ON PROPOSAL #3

THE CITY OF DETROIT has long enjoyed certain benefits and privileges. On November Fifth they are seeking through the Detroit Street Railways to further encroach upon out-state territory. Specifically, the City of Detroit wants to run its buses over state highways in or between any communities it may choose without subjecting itself to safety regulations and without payment of highway taxes.

You can stop this unfair practice by voting "yes" on State Proposal Number 3.

Proposal Number 3 provides that buses owned by a city or village must first get permission from the Public Service Commission in order to operate two miles beyond city or village limits on state highways. The law affirms the principles under which Michigan's great highway system has been built—that highway users shall pay highway taxes and that highway taxes shall be used for highways.

In fairness to everyone and above all to yourself, cast your vote on this special ballot at the election November Fifth. And be sure to vote "YES".

MY MESSAGE:--

TO THE GOOD PEOPLE OF CHARLEVOIX COUNTY:

The duties of my office as Probate Judge do not permit me to make an active campaign for re-election next Month; and the Dignity of the office forbids that I should do so.

But I can give you this Message for your consideration:

1st. The Office of Judge of Probate is not a Political nor a Clerical one requiring constant presence in the Probate Office at Charlevoix. It is a JUDICIAL office, quite similar to that of Circuit Judge. My office or clerical work is comparatively light, when compared with the Judicial duties, which cover all over the County.

True, most hearings are had in the Charlevoix Probate Office; but in the interests of economy and saving of taxpayers' money, many matters are taken care of in East Jordan and Boyne City, and elsewhere in the County;— thus saving witness fees and time and money for those interested. My travel expense costs the taxpayers nothing; and there has never been any charge to the County for office rent or space, or for 'phone rentals, or for over-time work done.

2nd. The Judicial duties of the Probate Court are varied and important; and not infrequently involve large sums of money. Within the past year one estate alone amounted to over a half million dollars; and several exceeded $50,000. Such estates require careful legal knowledge and experience as they always include many kinds of property.

Then, too, there are the scores of small estates of $1,000 or less. They all require the same care, as the few dollars are just as precious to the poor as the millions are to the rich. I am always glad to give free legal advice to all those interested in any matter in my Court as to their rights in the matter.

3rd. Then there are the many Guardianship cases, which always involve minors or incompetent persons,— and such proceedings require legal exactness, from start to finish, besides supervision of the property and investments of the yard's estate.

4th. Many Adoption cases are also difficult, and require careful study of the Law to make them legal.

5th. And then there are the scores of Hospitalization cases of Afflicted, Crippled and Injured Children. They all require personal attention to weed out the unworthy, and keep within our allotment which has been reduced to about 20% in the last two years. We have been able to keep within our allotment, and also give good service.

6th. Then there are the many Juvenile cases,— Delinquent, Neglected and Dependent Children. All under 17 years of age, are under the Jurisdiction of the Probate Court, except felony cases. With the help of the County Agent, I have personally investigated every Delinquent Juvenile case, and have sought to require the child to right any wrong committed, and then keep him under probation for a while, either to myself or some good neighbor or friend. In this way, I believe we have salvaged 98% of those brought into Court.

7th. In the above I have not mentioned the unfortunate Widows. The Law makes it the special duty of the Judge to acquaint them with their rights, and to see that they are protected.

8th. All of the Judicial duties listed above, and many others, do require a lot of Common sense, but also require a larger amount of Legal Education and Experience, which I believe I have after 32 years as an active practicing Lawyer. And I am frank to say that the services required of the Judge of Probate, as above set forth, cannot be rendered by sitting in the Probate Office all of the time.

The Law itself only requires the Probate Court to be open "at reasonable times as fixed by the Judge." Our own Circuit Judge only spends from 20 to 30 days a year in his office here, and we do not complain about that.

9th. When not in the Probate Office I am subject to call at any time, night or day, and maintain 'phones at my own expense for that purpose. I frequently attend to Probate matters in my home or office evenings, by appointment; and I have always sought to handle all Probate matters in my Court with as little expense as possible, and at the same time see that everything is legally done.

Lastly, I have conscientiously tried to fulfill the duties required of me as Probate Judge, efficiently, promptly, and with the Dignity that the Office requires; and if re-elected will continue so to do.

I want to thank the Physicians of the County for their fine co-operation in the Hospitalization of children; and my special thanks is given to all those, including the Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs, who have so cheerfully helped out in Juvenile cases. So much could not have been accomplished without their help.

And now, if for services heretofore rendered, I am deserving of it, I will be truly grateful for your support and vote at the coming Election on the non-partisan Ballot.

Most Sincerely,

Ervan A. Ruegsegger
JUDGE OF PROBATE.
