Charlevoix County Army Volunteers

OUR COUNTY HAS FIFTEEN YOUNG MEN READY TO SERVE

Selective Service System
Local Board No. 1
Charlevoix, Mich.

Charlevoix County Herald
East Jordan, Mich.
Gentlemen:

Inclosed is a copy of Circular 57 which contains information for men called to service.

The next call (No. 2) is for seven men to be delivered to Kalamazoo January 21. At present the following are scheduled to go. They are all volunteers and are listed according to their applications.

Leonard Thomson — Ironton.
Thaddeus Sidorowicz — Charlevoix.
Irving Crouterfield — Boyne City.
Robert Blair — East Jordan.
Joe Dvoracek, Jr. — Charlevoix.
George DeSmet — Charlevoix.
James Curtis Nicloy — Advance.

We have eight more men who have volunteered, they are:
Robert Winston — East Jordan.
Robert Nowland — Charlevoix.
Roy Gregory — East Jordan.
Cecil Hitchcock — East Jordan.
Lester Jubenville — Boyne City.
Raymond Eggers — Boyne City.
Harold Lemons — Boyne City.
Ellsworth Hayes — East Jordan.

The above men who qualify for general military service will be inducted according to their applications. Those who fall in Class I-B (qualified for limited military service) will not be inducted until the Army needs men of their class.

These first calls have been for white men only. Qualified colored registrants will be called about the middle of February if facilities to care for them are available.

Although you did not ask for it, I thought you might be interested in the above information. If you can use this type of information, I will be glad to keep you posted each time we receive a call.

Your very truly,
Fay C. Davis
Chief Clerk.

MARRIAGES

Schmitt — Malpass

The first Presbyterian Church of East Jordan was the setting for the marriage on Saturday afternoon of Marguerite Gwendolyn Malpass, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Malpass and William Deloss Schmitt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schmitt of Flint.

Evergreens formed the background for an impressive candle light service. The Rev. C. W. Sidebotham officiated at 5:30 p. m.

The bride wore a gown of white satin buttoning down the back, with a long train. The long veil of bridal illusion fell from a coronet of seed pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses, sweet peas and lilies of the valley. She wore a necklace of pearls, a gift of the groom.

Evelyn Malpass, sister of the bride was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Margaret Ritchie and Viola Hitchcock, of Lansing; Bette Ward, of Morrice, and Helen Malpass of Petoskey, cousin of the bride. The flower girls were Carol and Sally Nesman, of Benzonia, cousins of the bride.

The maid of honor wore a gown of rose taffeta, fashioned with a full skirt, shirred bodice and short puffed sleeves; a Juliet cap of gold, and carried a colonial bouquet of rose and white. The other attendants wore gowns of aquamarine and gold taffeta, fashioned the same as the maid of honor's, and silver Juliet caps, and carried colonial bouquets of roses and pompons. The flower girls wore long dresses of pink and carried a basket of rose petals.

Gordon Hockin of Flint, brother-in-law of the groom, acted as best man and ushers were Theodore Malpass, uncle of the bride, Howard Malpass, cousin of the bride, Gabriel Thomas and Harry Watson of East Jordan.

Before the ceremony Mrs. Morgan Lewis played a prelude of Shubert's Serenade and Intermezzo Mascagni and traditional wedding marches. Mrs. T. V. Galmore, aunt of the bride, sang "At Dawning," and "Oh Promise Me."

For her mother's wedding Mrs. Malpass chose a gown of soubrier blue and wore a shoulder bouquet of pink roses and sweet peas. Mrs. Schmitt wore a gown of black crepe and a shoulder bouquet of red roses and sweet peas.

Following the ceremony there was a reception for the bridal party and relatives in the parlors of the church.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Jack Haggerty of Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Nesman of Benzonia; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Hockin, of Flint; Mr. and Mrs. W. Thayer, of Flint; Miss Josephine Lindly, of Lansing and The Misses Eva and Agnes Lewis of Grand Rapids.

"The Lamp In The Valley" New Serial Story To Be Published In The Herald

The story The Herald is now publishing, which expires soon, will be succeeded by Arthur Stringer's fascinating novel, "The Lamp in the Valley."

It's an action-packed novel centering around Carol Coburn, Alaska-born daughter of a "bush-rat" who died leaving an unestablished mining claim. The scene is laid in the Matanuska Valley, in Alaska, America's latest frontier, where Carol went from cabin to cabin bearing the lamp of learning. Arthur Stringer spent considerable time in this Federal colony, gathering material, which he wove into one of the most gripping tales that has ever been written about the Far North.

Rood F. Allie Speaks Here

PUBLICITY DIRECTOR OF MICHIGAN RAILROADS ADDRESSES EAST JORDAN ROTARY CLUB

Mr. Rood F. Allie, Publicity Director of Michigan Railroads, addressed the East Jordan Rotary Club Tuesday noon on the subject of Public Transportation.

Being associated with the railroads, Mr. Allie had at his command a vast array of information concerning taxation and efficiency of the various types of transportation.

Mr. Allie said that the trucks have an important place to fill in modern transportation. He had no criticism of the trucks; he said that they are here to stay, but that all types of transportation should be equally regulated and that there should be no unfair distribution in the levying of taxes that there is at present.

Attention was called to the greatest improvement of the railroads in the past few years. Since 1923 the railroads of the U. S. have spent over $10,000,000,000 in improvements. There are now several trains that travel over 100 miles an hour and many freight trains have a schedule of over 60 miles an hour. There is now a schedule of 39 1/2 hours between Chicago and Los Angeles. The freight schedule between California and New York has been cut 30 hours since 1930.

The speaker expressed the opinion, backed up by figures, that the railroads at the present time, are well prepared for any strain that the defense preparations of the government may place on them, provided the government does not use freight cars for storage purposes. It was this use that played havoc with freight service in 1917 and 1918.

The talk was interesting and instructive, and Howard Porter is entitled to the credit for securing Mr. Allie.

Visitors at this meeting were: Ira Lee and Lyle White of Boyne City; Wm. Sanderson of Ironton; and W. H. Sloan and W. E. Malpass of East Jordan.

December Report of Northwestern Michigan Dairy Herd Imp. Assn.

During December 259 cows in 20 herds were on test. 42 or 16.2% of these were dry and 4 produced over 50 lbs. of butterfat. The Association average production per cow was 458 lbs. of milk and 19.8 lbs. of butterfat.

During December 8 cows were sold. 7 of these were low producers and one because of udder trouble.

Archie Murphy of East Jordan, who joined the Association in December had the high herd. His herd of 6 registered Guernseys averaged 755 lbs. of milk and 37.8 lbs. of butterfat. Herb Sommerville's 8 grade Holsteins and Guernseys was second with 855 lbs. of milk and 31.5 lbs. of butterfat.

Joseph Lew of East Jordan had the high cow, a grade Guernsey that produced 1184 lbs. of milk and 59.2 lbs. of butterfat. Archie Murphys 6 yr. old registered Guernsey was second with 1064 lbs. of milk and 55.9 lbs. of butterfat.

Adventure and Music Head Temple Bills

Exciting entertainment fills an eventful week at the Temple starting Saturday with comedy, adventure and music in a happy variety. The opening bill, on Saturday, is a new Sisco Kid story, "The Gay Caballerero," starring Cesar Romero and Chris Pin Martin in a new escapade by these lovable rogues.

John Wayne, Tom Michell and Ian Hunter head the cast of the Sunday and Monday picture, "Long Voyage Home," one of the finest sea stories ever filmed and rated by the critics as definitely a 4 Star subject.

Family Nites on Tuesday and Wednesday present your favorite comedien; Ann Sothern, teamed with Ian Hunter in, "Dulcy," filled with it's humor and pathos.

Lovers of musical-comedy will find the Thursday and Friday offering one of the seasons most enjoyable events with the presentation of Alice Faye, Betty Grable, Jack Oakie, John Payne and Allen Jenkins in, "Tin Pan Alley." Filmed in the exciting tempo of today it goes back to another era just as thrilling and brings to the screen those grand old favorites that we used to sing; "K-K-Katy," "When You Were A Tulip And I Were A Big Red Rose," "Goodbye Broadway, Hello France," "Moonlight Bay," "The Sheik Of Araby," "America I Love You" and the modern hit of the air-waves, "You Say The Sweetest Things."

Canners Drop Number Five

CHEBOYGAN DAIRYMEN WIN BY NARROW MARGIN OF 38-37

Coach Alex Sinclair's East Jordan Cannery basketball quintet and Northern Michigan's top contenders for independent basketball circles dropped their fifth game of its 1940-41 season in a close fought battle at Cheboygan last Friday evening as the Cheboygan Lakeland Dairy downed the Jordan squad 38 to 37. After winning three out of their first four starts the Cannery traveled to Cheboygan without the services of the Sommerville boys Howard and Colon. The starting lineup showed M. Cihak and R. Saxton forwards, L. Cihak as center; and D. Lapeer and G. Gee as guards.

The Cannery starting the game without their power and fast breaking attack, was at the low end of a 10 to 3 margin at the first stanza. Coming back in the second and third quarters they tied it up 25 all. Leading in the waning minutes of play 37 to 31 their defense began to crack, and it was finis with their opponents on top.

R. Saxton led the locals with 16. Brooks topped the winners with 12.

Robert W. Ries Now Farm Security Adm'r For Antrim-Charlevoix

Recently the counties of Antrim and Charlevoix were combined into a district for the Farm Security Administration.

Robert W. Ries of Bellaire, administrator for Antrim the past few years, has been placed in charge of the two counties. Carl M. Cetas, Charlevoix Adm'r, has been transferred to Caylord.

At present, Mr. Ries plans to be at the Boyne City office on Monday forenoons where he may be contacted.

College Students Visit The Nation's Capitol

(From Teachers College Herald of Kalamazoo, Mich.)

Nine student representatives from the Western State chapter of Tau Kappa Alpha spent the week of Jan. 30 in Washington, D. C., where they participated in the annual Progressive Discussion Tournament, the National Tau Kappa Alpha convention, of the National Ass'n of Teachers of combined with the four day meeting Speech.

One of the highlights of the occasion was when the group were entertained at a tea by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt in the White house, Monday afternoon, Dec. 30.

Many points of interest were visited by the group, including Mt. Vernon, Arlington Cemetery, Annapolis Naval Academy, F. B. I. building and Robert E. Lee's home. Harriet Conway-Smith of East Jordan was one of the nine to make this trip.

Fruit Growers To Meet At Traverse City, March 6 and 7

Five hundred fruit growers of Michigan will meet at Traverse City March 6 and 7 to discuss all phases of fruit culture when the Michigan State Horticulture Society holds its annual spring convention.

D. H. Hootman, East Lansing, secretary of the society, announces that every type of Michigan fruit will receive general discussion in the general and sectional meetings.

Among new features to be discussed will be the hormone spray to produce fruit size and ice refrigeration for holding perishable fruits off a glutted market. How to grow cherries cheaply and efficiently will attract the orchardists from the cherry sections. The Soil Conservation Commission will discuss and demonstrate various soil practices.

Inasmuch as the Michigan Class C district basketball tournament will be held here March 6 and 7, there will be no night meetings of the society.

WOODLOT IMPROVEMENT MEETINGS NEXT THURSDAY AND FRIDAY

Woodlot improvement meetings will be held next Thursday and Friday, January 16 and 17 to acquaint people with the proper selection of trees for thinning and improving woodlots. The John Swoboda farm in Jordan township, section 10, now owned by Francis Nemecek, will be the scene of the first meeting. This will be held Thursday morning, January 16, starting at 10 o'clock.

The Casper Schuler woods will be the place of the second meeting which will be held Thursday afternoon at 2:30. The Schuler farm is located in Kearney township, southeast of Bellaire in section 32.

The Elli Hutchinson woods in Helena township will be the location of another meeting to be held Friday morning, January 17 at 10 o'clock. These woods are located immediately across from the farm home, north-east of Alden in section 3.

All of these treks have been previously marked by Mr. W. Ira Bull, extension forester, Michigan State College, and it is expected that some thinning will have been done by a crew of CCC boys from Camp Kalkaska. Mr. Bull will be present to conduct all of these meetings. This will afford all farmers interested in improving their woods an opportunity to secure personal information, both through the demonstrations being conducted, and through an opportunity to ask questions relative to their own personal situations.

The LAMP IN THE VALLEY

A Novel of Alaska By Arthur Stringer

Carol Coburn, a "bush-rat's" daughter, while returning to her native Alaska to teach and establish an unproved claim, is rescued from annoyance by Sidney Lander. Lander is an engineer for the Trumbull Company, which is fighting the Coburn claim. He breaks with Trumbull, but remains engaged to Trumbull's daughter, Barbara.

There is still another woman in the case—and then there's Sockeye Schlupp, the rip-roaring old timer—all woven into this thrilling story of the Federal Colony on the latest American frontier. It's great reading!

COMING SOON IN THIS PAPER

The screen comedian's best gag. Just when the gossip all thought they had the goods on him and his lovely leading lady at last, he confounded them with a surprising public announcement. Don't miss what Adela Rogers St. Johns had to say of this romantic mystery in The American Weekly, the magazine distributed with next week's Sunday Chicago Herald-American.

Golden Gloves Tournament

BOYNE CITY AMERICAN LEGION AGAIN SPONSORING EVENT

Plans for the 1941 edition of the Boyne City American Legion Golden Gloves Amateur Boxing Tournament are progressing rapidly, Gilbert M. Lindsay, chairman of the Golden Glove committee has announced.

Entries are already beginning to roll in, Lindsay said, as he made the announcement that Referee Johnny Wirth, well known figure in Grand Rapids ring circles, who has handled the previous tournaments here, has been contacted, and has definitely stated that he will be here again this year.

Final dates for the tournament at the Boyne City gym have been set for January 22, 23, and 25. A meeting of the American Legion Post will be held here Monday and final arrangements will be made, all committee appointments made final, and everything generally arranged for the management of the show.

Entries are expected from nearly every part of the Northland and the number of boxers is predicted to reach 100. Officials expect several thousand fans to see the battles during three nights of the tournament.

The facilities of the local gym, having been made available to boxers, training for the show. They are cordially invited to use the gym Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings from 7:00 p. m. until 9 p. m. and on Saturday afternoons from 2:00 until 4:00 p. m.

Anyone wishing to obtain entry blanks may do so by writing the sports department of The Boyne Citizen or by calling in person.

Draft Appeal Board Organized Tuesday

Gaylord — Frank J. Shipp and Dr. Peckham were in Alpena Tuesday attending a meeting of the Draft Appeal Board, of which they were appointed members by Gov. Dickinson, for an organization meeting, at which time Mr. Shipp was named chairman of the board.

This appeal board's duties are to listen to any draftee's appeal if he feels that the local county board did not give him a fair hearing. Their decision is final for the 12 counties in District No. 16, which are the 12 northernmost counties of the lower peninsula.

The main office, which will be open at all times, will be located in Gaylord due to its central location. The board will meet at Alpena for the eastern counties of the district, and at Gaylord for the western part of the district, whenever occasion demands.

Two members of the board other than the two local men are Earl R. Henry, Harold Vanderhill and Henry E. Fletcher, all of Alpena.

SNOWS FOR THE CROPS VIE WITH THE SUNSHINE

THE TRAIN wound its way around hills, over valleys, through an occasional tunnel, across frozen rivers, ever westward across the Dakotas and into Montana.

From the car windows we saw a world blanketed in crystal white snow. More snow was falling and a blizzard wind was piling it in great drifts. Across the snow, some distance from the tracks, was a farmhouse. Smoke, the clean smoke from a wood fire, was coming from the chimney.

Pete and Mary were keeping the home fires burning while Dad and Mother were wintering in the Southland. Pete was also keeping open the lines of communication between the house and the barn and cattle sheds. Between times he worked at the wood pile, that there might be ammunition with which to repulse the blitzkrieg of cold. He cursed the ever-falling and drifting snow which caused him labor and difficulties.

Far away to the Southland, Dad and Mother read of the heavy snows in their state. Mother hoped it would not inconvenience Pete and Mary, but they were young and capable. Father gloried in the moisture the snow was bringing to insure next summer's crops, and thanked Providence for it.

From the snug coziness of the Pullman we admired the beauty of the scene, enjoyed the howling of the blizzard, and congratulated ourselves on having chosen a northern route to the warmth and sunshine of the West coast.

It was all in the point of view.

SUN SEEKERS

SHOULD YOU WISH to know who, as a class, are the great travelers of America during these winter months, just go to Florida or California and count the number of visiting farmers and their families. Thousands of them escape the ice and snow of the northern states by going South for the warmth, the sunshine and the privilege of being out of doors—not for the night clubs and the gaming tables.

RICH AND POOR IN SAME CAMP

NOTHING I can think of would be more beneficial than a universal citizenship training law. A law which would provide six months, at least, in camp for every young man between the ages of 19 and 21 years. Put the workman's son and the banker's son under canvas together and under exactly the same conditions. Give them an opportunity to get acquainted and become "buddies." It would break down the forming of class distinctions in America. It would create a race of better Americans. It would demonstrate the equal opportunity for all.

While in such camps, military discipline and training would be essential, the one greatest purpose would be a training in citizenship, a training in mutual understanding.

The idea would be more popular as a citizenship training law than as a military training law.

WINSLOW is a thriving town in southern Indiana. Ask any business man there the reason for the town's prosperity and he will point to A. J. Heuring and the Winslow Dispatch. Winslow is but one of thousands of American towns in which the local editor and his paper is the foundation on which town growth and prosperity are built.

NAVAL BASES AND THE COST

IN HAWAII we have a naval, air and army base that is valuable as an outpost for the protection of our western coast line. It is valuable because the government has expended half a billion dollars or more to fortify it. Before an enemy could capture the vast stores of oil, munitions and other war supplies, it would have to silence the great guns on Diamond Head, and others on the Island of Oahu. The enemy would have to land against the opposition of a full division of the United States army stationed there.

The eight spots selected on eight British islands in the Atlantic, and turned over to the American government, will be valuable as outposts for our Atlantic seacoast when they, like Hawaii, have been heavily fortified and garrisoned. To attempt to use them as air and naval bases until they are protected would be about as practical as to leave a stack of watermelons in the center of the public square without a guard over them.

To fortify these eight new air and naval bases will mean an expenditure of from four to six billion dollars. Where is such a vast sum to come from? Including the appropriations congress has voted for armament expenditures during the next 12 months, the federal government's indebtedness is more than sixty billion dollars. That means an obligation of over $460 for each man, woman and child; it means a mortgage of over $2,000 on the homes and farms of each family of five; it means an annual interest charge of over $70 for each family of five.

German Airforce Aids Italy in Attacks Upon British Forces in Mediterranean; Munitions Production and Shipbuilding Are Vital Spots in U. S. Defense Work

INVASION: England Cautious

In contrast to the cheerful, bombless Christmas holiday, London was glum the first days of the New Year. The Nazi airforce had "Covenanted" the City of London, that district in the central section of the metropolis where financial houses are located.

Thousands of incendiary bombs were dropped. Hundreds of roaring fires were out of control at the same time. The losses were estimated in millions of pounds and the dead could not be counted. Three days later a man wandering into the section asked a policeman the way to Paternoster Row, famous for centuries for its bookshops. The bobby replied: "There is no Paternoster Row, sir."

Mostly the British feared an attack through Ireland. Earlier warnings that the Axis thrust into the Balkans might only be a winter sortie and not a full-dress attack, were being taken seriously.

The actions there were being watched with interest. Germany moved 300,000 troops through Hungary and into Rumania. The Germans were posted along the border of Bulgaria where it was freely announced that as soon as they were in position and the time was ripe, an advance would be made on Salonika, Greece.

Bulgaria was belligerent in talk, but made no move to mobilize for defense or call upon Turkey and Russia for aid. Russia, however, countered the action by lining the border of Rumania with Soviet divisions. The Germans abruptly shifted a part of their force to sit opposite them.

It looked like the real thing. But experts didn't believe it. They believed Hitler was merely protecting his rear in the Balkans in preparation for the attack on England, much as he had protected his flanks when

DEFENSE: Full Speed Ahead

As soon as President Roosevelt's "Big Four"—Knudsen, Hillman, Stimson and Knox—can get industrial plants working at capacity turning out munitions, look for an acceleration of ship building in cargo carrier classes. Washington is beginning to be alarmed at a quiet survey which showed that if Britain should fall, the Axis powers would have ship building capacities in conquered nations six times larger than U. S. capacity.

First note on this line was sounded by Republican Rep. Hamilton Fish, from the President's own N. Y. district. Representative Fish has been a critic of the administration since 1932. In turn he has plenty of critics of his own and ran into a fury of angry words when he went calling on dictators in Europe in the summer of 1939, while an official delegate of congress to the Inter-parliamentary Congress in Norway.

WILLIAM RHODES DAVIS, international oil operator who, according to Verne Marshall, head of the recently organized "No Foreign War" committee, was bearer of a Nazi peace plan naming President Roosevelt as arbiter in 1939.

But Fish's warning on ship building has not been taken lightly. If a successful Axis would take advantage of such ship-building capacities, they could control the high seas within a short time, even if the American two-ocean navy already were sailing the briny deep.

500 Planes a Day?

Another plan which will not be cast aside lightly, was presented by pint-sized Walter Reuther, manager of the General Motors division of the C. I. O.'s United Automobile Workers. Presentation to President Roosevelt actually was by Philip Murray, C. I. O. chieftain, but the plan was Reuther's.

The proposal calls for activating 554,000 feet of existing automobile plants space in the Detroit area, which once belonged to such forgotten firms as Hupmobile and Graham-Paige. Reuther and Murray also maintained that there are thousands of skilled workers in the same area still waiting for jobs. Cited were lay-offs recently by Fisher Body, Chevrolet and Terstedt.

Blue prints and tables submitted with the proposal were based on production of 150,000 planes a year, six months after it was put into effect. Only light craft and training planes would be made. The manufacture of heavy craft and bombers would be retained by the present aircraft industry.

The President handed the data to his Big Four. But even before that it had been examined privately by Undersecretary of War Patterson, who is charged with mobilization of industry. He was much impressed. It will be opposed by the aircraft industry.

There were indications too that the drive soon will be put in force to speed up defense by compelling plants manufacturing "non-essentials" to forego their schedules and "accept" war department orders.

THE ARMY:
More Men Called

During the latter half of January more thousands of young men will be called for a year's army training, under the selective service law. The first call was in December and in virtually every one of the nation's 6,500 draft boards the quota was filled by youths who volunteered. In most local areas, however, the January call will, for the first time, take men who do not volunteer.

Altus G. Moore of Washington, D. C., is one man who advanced from private to major when the call came. He is a private in the capital police force. Called to duty, he took up his assignment as a reserve officer, major of infantry.

In St. Louis, Sergt. William Schneider was called into service with the Missouri National Guard. On the first day he was in camp he was tapped on the shoulder by an officer who demanded a salute. The officer was Lieut. William Schneider Jr., his son, just commissioned in the air corps.

FATEFUL YEAR:
President Warns

The seventeenth month of the war opened against a sombre background. The year 1941 dawned with a general admission that before its close may come the decisive test, not only of the war, but also the American economic system.

America was given a grave report by President Roosevelt in a speech that took the joy out of New Year's celebrations. He said that the danger to the nation is the greatest since Jamestown and Plymouth Rock. He said if Great Britain was defeated the Axis powers would control Europe, Africa, Australasia and the high seas. He said that a victorious Axis would not hesitate to occupy South America and the United States would be living at the point of a gun. He said that already secret agents of these powers are operating in the Americas.

Before the President spoke, he had received uninvited advice from two sources. German and Italian dispatches said that if the President promised aid to Britain by permitting use of Irish ports by American merchantmen or giving Britain stranded German merchantships in U. S. harbors it would be viewed as intervention in the war. From a bloc of U. S. senators, among them Senator Wheeler (D., Mont.), came urgings that the President originate a movement for a "negotiated" peace.

He pledged that he would do everything in his power to keep the United States out of the war, declared there was not even the remotest thought of sending troops to Europe, called for defense production to the utmost, hinted it may be necessary to use machinery now engaged in manufacture of luxury goods to turn out armament, and forecast that the Axis powers would not win the war.

Reaction

Throughout the United States the speech was received with pledges of support on all sides, even from personal and political enemies of Mr. Roosevelt like former Gov. Alfred Smith, former Gov. Alf Landon, Senator Vandenberg (R., Mich.); Senator Austin (R., Maine).

But there was no enthusiasm among the totalitarian powers. Berlin was silent for 48 hours during which time Adolf Hitler went into seclusion and studied the document. Der Fuehrer then replied indirectly. He spoke to his army, not mentioning the name Roosevelt. But he promised his army a victory in 1941. He said God was on the side of Germany and "would not abandon those who were determined with courageous heart to help themselves."

Premier Mussolini was blunter. His mouthpiece, Virginia Gayda, said America already was in the war.

NAMES
in the news

Ousted—The Overseas Press Club in New York consists of newsmen who are or have been foreign correspondents for U. S. newspapers in the past. There are few active members abroad now, most are back home. The club dropped from its rolls George Sylvester Viereck, saying it objected to his bringing "buntdists and gestapo agents" to its meetings. Viereck, an American, is registered with the state department as the $500-a-month correspondent for a Munich newspaper.

Death—Daniel Frohman, 89, one of America's greatest theatrical producers, died in New York. Agnes Ayres, 42, star of the silent movies and leading lady to Rudolph Valentino, died in Hollywood.

Job—Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., 27, was graduated by the University of Virginia last June. Now he has a job as attorney with the New York firm of Wright, Gordon, Zachry and Parlin. He and five others asked for jobs through the firm's employment department. All were hired.

Sued—Gloria Jean, the 12-year-old film star, has been sued for $535,000. The action was brought against the child and her parents by a theatrical agent who said he "discovered" her and by terms of a contract is entitled to 10 per cent of her earnings.

Washington Digest
Drop in Spring Pig Crop Predicted by Government

Rise in Pork Prices Considered Likely; Washington Correspondents Discuss 'Jitters' of War Rumors.

WASHINGTON.—"Pigs is Pigs"—that was the name of one of the funniest short stories ever written. Of course pigs "isn't" pigs. They "is" shoats and hogs and a number of other things including sausage and pork chops.

Not long ago the mail carrier probably stopped at your gate and asked a lot of impertinent questions about your plans for your porkers and the other day the department of agriculture finished reporting what the mail carriers reported to them. The result was the semi-annual Pig Crop report which said that there would be 10 per cent less little pigs going to market next spring than last.

Officially the Agricultural Marketing Service said this: "The downsizing in hog production which began in the spring of 1940 continued through the fall and will continue at least through the spring season of 1941, the Agricultural Marketing Service reported today. The decline apparently has been at an increasing rate. The percentage decrease in the 1940 fall pig crop was greater than that of last spring, and the indicated percentage decrease for the spring of 1941 is a little greater than that for the fall of 1940.

"The fall pig crop of 1940 is estimated at 12.5 per cent smaller than that of 1939. The decrease in the 1940 spring pig crop was 9 per cent. The combined pig crop of 1940 is down 10 per cent from last year but the crop is the second largest since 1933.

"The indicated number of sows to farrow in the spring season of 1941 is 14 per cent smaller than the number farrowed in the spring of 1940.

"This information, from the December Pig Crop survey, is based upon returns from 160,000 farmers obtained in co-operation with the post office department through the rural mail carriers."

EXPECT PRICE RISE

Now according to past experience these estimates have proved to be pretty accurate and so the city folks can expect to have to pay more for their pork chops and the demand will probably exceed the supply. Eventually that may apply to milk, too, but right now there are thousands of potential customers of dairy farmers who would buy if milk and milk products were cheaper.

Efforts of the department to breed better cows is illustrated in the accompanying photograph. I wouldn't want to go on record as saying that the fine old Aberdeen-Angus that flourishes in my home state of Illinois would be flattered to learn that mixing promiscuously with the strange-looking critter in the picture with the enlarged collar button on the back of its neck, would improve their family tree—but it's a fact. At least the Brahman cow has certain points which help an Aberdeen-Angus if it has to live down Texas way. It's cool in Scotland where the Aberdeen-Angus came from. It's hot in tropical Asia where hump-backed beauty originated. The Brahman has sweat glands in their skin which acts as a refrigerating system. And a little of that goes pretty well in the Gulf states of this country.

News Correspondents Discuss War Jitters

This is a story of chin-beards and war.

We have been going through some jittery moments in Washington lately with war and rumors of war all about us. In the midst of the confusion, little things, unimportant things which we remember years afterward but which never get into the papers or the history books stand out clear and sharp in our memories

GREEK CHILDREN

WASHINGTON.—One story which has not been told here is how a million young folks are helping Greece win the war. These children, members of a National Youth organization, are from 8 to 20 years old. They act as couriers, as aids to firemen, help the nurses and work at all sorts of jobs vacated by the men called to the front.

like a lantern swinging on a dark night, like the eerie, night-mare sound of the first coyote call you ever heard on a lonely ride home, with the moon half hidden under the moaning clouds.

I was sitting in the Press club on a recent Sunday evening. There were a couple of correspondents there but the place was almost deserted. A heavy set fellow carrying a walking-stick came in.

Of course we began heckling him a little. But he's equal to it. Leon Henderson is one of the New Dealers who has managed to hold his ground, winning hate from some, respect from others who disagree with him all down the line. "I'll never forget one occasion in which he figured. I can't mention the names of the men present but they were all legitimate contenders for nomination of the presidency of the United States. And Henderson offered a 10 to 1 bet that none of them would be candidates. One, only, got furious and when it was his turn to speak, launched into one of his famous invectives against Henderson and all his works. It was a good show but Henderson proved right in the end. He won the bet.

TALK ABOUT CRANKS

Well, what we said to Henderson that Sunday night and what he said in reply wasn't particularly important until we got to talking about the cranks trying to see government officials with plans for saving the world.

Then somebody said to Henderson: "Have you met the man who is communicating with Mars?"

Before he could answer, one of the cynical listeners who insisted that the administration was trying to get us into war, piped up: "I thought you folks were already in communication with Mars."

"No," Henderson answered, quick as a whistle, "we aren't trying to communicate with the god of war, we are trying to keep away from him."

Mr. Henderson left. Representative Tinkham of Massachusetts came in. We greeted him. He said he'd been away.

Naturally the talk turned to beards. For Representative Tinkham has a famous beard. A fine wavy hirsute decoration that makes him look as friendly as some of the kindly animals you've seen with similar appendages. Beards are no longer the style. I often regret it and I have always believed that their absence was due to one of two things: moral cowardice on the part of those who fear to be different or, as in my own case, an inability to raise a crop of whiskers that would look like anything but a wheatfield in the dust bowl.

TINKHAM WELL KNOWN

But Representative Tinkham is more than a beard. He is a Washington institution. When the government purchased a well-known apartment house in the capital, in which he has had his bachelor quarters for years, and turned the building into one of the alphabetical agencies, Mr. Tinkham stood on his legal rights and refused to move out.

There he remained among his trophies—heads of wild water-buffalo which he had outfaced in the jungles—lions that he had not only outbearded but beaded; tigers, elephants, tusks and all—and of course, his own much-photographed beard.

However, it is not merely the fact that Representative Tinkham has faced beasts in the jungle that has made him famous. He has faced opposition for his seat in congress since 1915 and has never been defeated. And he does it without making a speech. Perhaps he is successful because he has never made a speech. Like the growing of a beard, that method is different.

And Representative Tinkham has another distinction. He is a member of the opposition, if not the "loyal opposition" an opposition which he considers is based on loyalty—loyalty to his state and his nation.

"It may be too late to keep us out of war," he said, "but I am going to fight to do it."

And with that he turned on his heel and with his whiskers waving like the defiant plume on the hat of Cyrano de Bergerac, he stalked out of our presence, the tails of the strange, half-length pea-jacket he wears for an overcoat, flapping in the breeze.

The Singer Sewing Machine company has been given one of the government "educational orders" for revolvers. If this keeps up we may be beating our knitting needles into bayonets.

The bureau of home economics is watching experiments in developing a turkey with white meat only. Some people predict that eventually a species will be created which lays cranberry eggs.

The next step will be a self-carving duck.

Miss Had Another Chance After the Final Good-By

The fellow threatened to commit suicide every time a certain girl turned him down. She refused him again the other night, and the next morning a messenger boy called with this note:

"Darling—By the time you read this, my body will be floating down the river. Life without you is not worth while. Shed no tears over me, but remember I have always loved you. Good-by for ever."

The girl went white and nearly fainted. Then she noticed that the messenger boy was still there.

"What are you waiting for?" she asked.

"The man who gave me that note said I was to wait for an answer," said the boy.

Bohemian Settlement School

In our history classes we have been studying about the "Melting Pot," how all the different people from different nations came to America and were melted into Americans.

We went to the dentist January 6th. Everyone of us liked the dentist very much. Some of us had as many as five pulled and have to go back for more work, so you can see how much we appreciated the work we had done.

Retta is no longer with us due to a very serious illness and long distance to walk, but our enrollment was increased when Shirley and Martin Rebec came to join us. They were transferred from East Jordan Public Schools.

We have been memorizing poetry in language classes. Among these were "Success," "Father William," "I'd Like to be an Eskimo," and "The Twenty-Third Psalm." We thought perhaps it would be fun to write a poem. Then we chose the best one.

We received our prizes for excellence in the sale of Christmas seals. Those receiving prizes were: Floyd and Donald Trojanek, Elizabeth and Robert Stanek, Jennie and Albert Chanda, Joe Belzek, Ivan and Otto Nemecek, and Joe Haney. For the school we got a box of log crayons and a book of songs. We have learned "God Bless America" and "I Am an American."

Metal Objects Produced

By 'Powder Metallurgy'

A new process for the manufacture of metal objects is now available to industry, writes Phillip H. Smith in the Scientific American. It permits the alloying of metals without the customary melting and casting, while entirely new compositions can be produced from such unrelated materials as metals and abrasives.

This process is called powder metallurgy; and although it has been known and used for more than a quarter century, it is only now coming into its own as a tool of production. In a matter which seems as simple as filling a physician's prescription (but isn't) it provides your automobile with oilless bearings, clutch facings and spark plug inserts. It offers your home and your family radio tube parts, lamp filaments, dental alloys, warming-pad mixtures and permanent waves, while to science and industry it contributes X-ray targets, welding electrodes, grinding wheels and other essential products. The art, which is characterized by the compression of metals in the non-fluid state (powder), seems now to be on the eve of further commercial expansion.

Developing satisfactory methods for powdering and refining metals to approach some measure of standardization has been a long process and an essential step in the new metallurgy. Out of these labors have come 11 basic processes. The grinding process produces powders by crushing in stamp, ball or attrition mills and is quite simple. Brittle and tough metals can be handled in this manner, but malleable metals must be stamped. Atomizing, on the other hand, requires forcing a thin stream of molten metal through an orifice and then hitting it with a stream of steam or compressed air. This method permits a close control of powder size. Still another process which permits close control is that of reduction from the compounds, in particular the oxides, chlorides and hydrides, using temperatures below that which will melt the metal.

At the moment the leading application of powder metallurgy is in production of ductile metal from tungsten, molybdenum and tantalum, and in making cemented carbide tools, porous structures, electrical contact and electrode materials. But if it is true that a way has been found to get sufficient pressures with economy for large area work, and if the complex dies now in process of development and experimentation prove satisfactory, the way will be open for the manufacture of many more metal parts and products.

Ben Franklin Issued

Swimming Instruction

The Franklin Institute of Philadelphia points out that Benjamin Franklin, printer, patriot, statesman and scientist, once considered throwing it all over to open a swimming school in London.

According to one of his letters, he was a great believer in the benefits of swimming and had a method of teaching others the sport.

Franklin wrote to a friend who wanted to know how to swim and told him that confidence was the first essential. To gain confidence, Franklin advised, the friend should walk into the water where it deepens gradually, and turn and face the shore when the level reached the chest. Then drop an egg in the water between that point and the shore, Franklin said.

"Then plunge under it (the water) with your eyes open, throwing yourself toward the egg," he wrote, "and endeavoring by the action of your hands and feet against the water to get forward till within reach of it. In this attempt you will find that the water buoys you up against your inclination; that it is not so easy a thing to sink as you imagined; that you cannot but by active force get down to the egg."

"In this manner you will feel the power of the water to support you."

World's Earliest Records

Convicts have fenced in a site near Klerksdorp, South Africa, where in the opinion of Professor Van Riet Lowe, archeologist, history began to write its records 250,000 years ago. On this site are rock engravings of a rhinoceros, an elephant, a zebra, giraffe, geese in flight, and other animals done by a primitive race. The ridge of red boulders has been declared a national monument.

"The engravings are the finest in South Africa," the archeologist says. "They belong essentially to the Stone Age."

A curious find is a grooved stone evidently used as an arrow sharpener.

Another Space Ship

Designs for the construction of a "space ship" in which scientists hope one day to be able to travel to the moon, are published in a recent issue of the Journal of the British Interplanetary Society. That a lunar voyage will be possible in the not-distant future is the belief of a group of men who are working steadily and unobtrusively toward their goal, states an accompanying article which gives some idea of their progress. The pioneers point out the necessity for extensive ground experiments before the construction of a space ship could be undertaken.

PREPARED with Skill and Experience

SEVEN out of ten of the men in this Company have had ten or more years in telephone work. They are experts in their crafts. They splice the hundreds of pairs of wires in a cable — underground or in the air — with a skill born of experience. They repair the intricate mechanism of a central office switchboard, or install a telephone in your house, neatly, quietly, quickly. They are used to dealing with emergencies — for fire, flood and storm are no strangers to them. The accumulated experience of these men has proved its value in training younger employees to meet the telephone demands of National Defense.

Malayan Snakes Prove Expensive Zoo Guests

The keepers of the reptile house of the London zoo might well be intoning a new version of the nursery rhyme about the "ten little Injuns," for this is exactly what happened there: Seventy-four Cerberus water snakes arrived at the zoo. The Hamadryads ate 12 of them—now see 62.

The Hamadryad snakes are three in number. Their habitat is Malaya. From the first day of their arrival they proved rather expensive to feed. Until the water snakes came they had lived comfortably on a black and gold tree snake specie a week, but as these reptiles are rare and cost about $20 to $25 each, the Hamadryads' meals proved a strain on event he zoo's resources. "You see," says a zoo keeper, "we have only three black and gold snakes left now, and they must be kept for show. So we imported these Cerberus water snakes from southeastern Asia as a substitute. They only cost about 10 shillings each if you buy a lot of them, so it is an economy in a way, as three Cerberus snakes go to one black and gold one."

He pointed to the cage in which the new arrivals were crawling happily about oblivious of the fate before them.

"Three of them will be lucky," he said, "as we will keep them for display. The rest will be fed to the Hamadryads at the rate of about six a week, although we will vary the diet occasionally."

Absolutely no pain is involved for the water snakes, however, as the great Hamadryads render each victim unconscious before consuming it.

"It is one of those problems we are always being confronted with," the keeper said. "The Hamadryads would starve to death if we didn't give them live food; the Cerberus water snakes, in their natural surroundings, would almost certainly meet a far more unpleasant end. It is happier for all concerned this way."

THE LAMP IN THE VALLEY

A NOVEL OF ALASKA BY ARTHUR STRINGER

Arthur Stringer went up to Alaska to see for himself the "red plush pioneers" of the federal colony in the Matanuska valley. He got an eyeful. He put what he saw into this vivid novel, which deals with Sidney Lander, a mining engineer, and the three women who loved him. There are complications aplenty, with Sockeye Schlupp, the picturesque old-timer, thrown in for good measure.

Here's a story that will keep you burning the midnight oil.

Hardly had the two faced about when the clatter of hoofs behind them indicated they were being followed. They broke the ponies into a swift lunge; their pursuers rode faster. Fortunately, the distance was but short, and, as dusk fell, Felipe and Carmen dashed safely through the opened doors into the mission compound and Felipe, leaping from his horse, closed the clumsy gates behind them.

The clattering horsemen pulled up in front of the church and with many shouts and oaths scattered over the plaza, demanding admission.

Felipe, though mild, was game in a pinch. He caught up a blunderbuss from the guards' quarters and coaxed two neophytes to arm and appear with him in the church tower. The raiders yelled at them and one of them, a renegade mission Indian, shouted insolently to Felipe to open the gates or they would break them open. Felipe, equally defiant, declared he would shoot the first man that attempted it.

There were hesitation and wrangling threats among the horsemen. They milled around the plaza, while within the church Padre Martinez and all in the mission enclosure were on their knees before the Blessed Sacrament, beseeching heaven for aid in the extremity. An hour or more passed, with the raiders churning about the plaza but shy about testing Felipe's marksmanship from the tower.

At length the renegade rode up to the tower for a talk with Felipe. He explained that the party were squatters from the Melena and had no grudge against the mission if they were treated right. The only man they wanted to square accounts with was Bowie, and if he were sent out they would leave.

Felipe, less shrewd than the renegade, told him at once that Bowie was not there. This was really what they wanted to know, inasmuch as he was the only man they were afraid of. The renegade rode away, and presently the attack on the gates was renewed. Fortunately, a few of the young Tularcan Indian mission boys, inflamed with the spirit of their warlike ancestors, had seized muskets from the guard-house, and they fired at the raiders through the portholes. They did little damage, but they scared the cowardly squatters enough to hold them off.

The renegade, after a long time, rode back to the tower for another talk with Felipe. The party, he said, were ready to leave, provided the padre would set out a cask of wine as a gesture of good will.

Felipe sent the message downstairs. Padre Martinez had retreated to the sacristy. He called in Padre Gomez, his assistant. The assistant was for the proposal, the padre, against it. Carmen was called in. She listened to all that was urged and without hesitation sided with the assistant. "Only," she added coolly, "set out a cask of brandy, not of wine. Those wretches will be less dangerous drunk than sober. If it should occur to them to set fire to the quarters, heaven knows what would happen to us."

Her counsel was followed. The gates were opened. A cask of brandy was rolled out, and a basket with drinking gourds was sent along. The renegade, with a heavy stone, broached the cask, and an orgy of drinking began. It absorbed the interest of the revelers for a time, to the exclusion of all else.

For an hour that was long and anxious to the mission defenders the drunken yelling and singing went on. Then there came a knock at the sacristy door. Panic seized the little group. A whispered consultation followed. Knocking, growing momentarily more impatient, continued. Only a wax candle lighted the room and, with faces blanched as they listened to the pounding, Carmen was told in whispers to slip out and hide in the house. Padre Martinez had already given absolution to his assistant and received it from him, firmly believing their hour was at hand. The venerable man now blessed himself, asked for protection from above, took up the candle in an unsteady hand and, summoning St. Michael to his aid, threw open the door.

From the dark came a tart question: "What is the matter here?" And Bowie, booted and spurred, stalked into the room. "Why did you not open the door?" "An angel from heaven!" exclaimed Padre Martinez. "Padre Martinez," demanded Bowie, "Senorita Carmen has not come home. She was here. Where is she?" "Still here, senor!" "Thank God for that!" "She left this room when your knocking began." "Why so?" "We feared it was the drunken raiders in front. They know she is here. What shall we do, senor?" "Where are your soldiers?" "San Jose was threatened this morning by the same men, and they went down to offer protection. They have not returned." "And they won't," predicted Bowie, "till this fight is over." "What shall we do, senor?"

"We will wait for two more angels, Padre Martinez," suggested Bowie. "Pardaloe and Simmie will be here any minute. What I want to do is to find the senorita quick, to quiet her fears."

It was only his searching voice in the house that drew Carmen from her hiding place to find refuge in his arms. "We've been frightened to death at home, my dearest," he whispered. "Tell me what's happened? Carmen, you are safe, darling, safe. Tell me."

A gleam of light flamed through the high window.

"What is that?" whispered Carmen.

"Nothing to worry about. They were getting wood together for a bonfire when I scented the outfit. You see, my precious one," he continued gravely, "this is what this beautiful country is coming to. These ruffians are as bad as the savages and with no more regard for women. Come back with me to the sacristy. Pardaloe and Simmie will be here very soon."

But Pardaloe and Simmie, arriving soon, brought disquieting news. The disturbance in the plaza had all been made by six or eight of the backwash from the squatters. The two scouts in their search for Carmen had reconnoitered the river and the Melena. From a squatter straggler they had learned that Blood was back with his friends but that supplies were low and they were talking of raiding the mission that night.

"If Blood undertakes this tonight it's not a good place for our Senorita," said Bowie in the sacristy conference that followed. "He won't leave without plenty of fight. But we'll see."

The Texan declared that Carmen should be spirited away. "We'll have our hands full to take care of the Indian women if Blood starts in on brandy."

They had scarcely finished their talk when a chorus of cheering yells out in front gave notice of fresh arrivals. Had there been any doubt as to this, a loud knocking came at the outer door. The padres looked to the Texan for guidance. He whispered to Carmen. She disappeared from the room. The knocking grew violent.

"Put out the candle, Padre," said Bowie. "Then open the door."

"Open the door?" echoed the blanching man as it was pounded loudly from the other side.

"Don't be afraid," murmured Bowie. "No one will come in. Stand back, the rest of you, and keep out of range of the door."

The Texan took his place just to the side of the door itself. "Throw it wide open," he directed.

Open went the door. A flicker from the bonfire outlined the burly figure of the man who was knocking; other eager ones stood behind him.

"Who's in there?" demanded the raider loudly.

"Nobody's that's deaf," retorted Bowie. "What do you want, Blood?" "Oh! It's the rancho pet, eh? Well! I'm glad you're here."

"Don't waste your breath. You may need it. Say what your business is, or get off this property."

Blood laughed truculently. "My Texan friend, I'm here to tell you you'll get off this property before you are a half-hour older. I talk to Padre Martinez."

"Here he is. Say your say."

"Senor Blood," asked the padre, "what do you want?" "I want supplies for twenty-five men—flour, bread, meat, wine and brandy—presto."

"Senor Blood, you know no hungry man is turned from this door, for you have been fed here more than once. But I have not such supplies in the mission tonight for five men, much less twenty-five."

your old mission, I can and will find it for you!"

"It's a dark night, Blood," suggested Bowie. "Better wait till morning."

Blood stamped ferociously on the tile pavement. He roared at Bowie. He stormed at the padre.

"Don't depend on me to hold these hungry boys back. I can't do it. They want money and they want supplies and they'll burn this place to the ground if they don't get both."

"Blood, you're wasting your breath," intervened Bowie. "If you or your ruffians try to touch so much as a strip of bacon here tonight somebody will get killed. Now I'm going to shut this door and go to bed, and I advise you to do the same."

"Bowie, I've got a long score to settle with you—"

"Wait till daylight, Blood. I'm going to bed." He slammed the door shut. Clamor outside grew to a roar. A hasty conference took place in the sacristy—the despairing fathers, the Texans and Felipe, with Carmen anxiously listening.

Bowie did not seek to disguise the situation. With twenty or thirty men behind him, Blood's boast that he would clean the mission out might be a serious one. Simmie noticed that Bowie looked grave. He knew the Texan was not squeamish about facing odds. But Carmen's presence was another matter. Should anything happen to him in the fight, what might happen to her?

He asked Carmen to step outside a moment. He then spoke to Padre Martinez. "I'm put in an awkward position, Padre. I don't like to seem to run away from you in face of these drunken devils. But my first responsibility is for Senorita's safety, and if they made good their threat to fire the mission, she might find herself in the worst kind of danger."

Padre Martinez laid his hand on Bowie's arm. "I understand perfectly, my son. I ask you to take, before all else, whatever measures are necessary to protect our Senorita—for, as our benefactress, we feel that she is ours as well. Whatever may happen here, it is your duty to protect her."

Bowie called Carmen into the conference. He laid the situation before her. Padre, his hands clasped in anxiety, listened. She looked from one to the other and back to Bowie in confidence. "You know best, Don Henry," she said trustfully.

He called in Pardaloe and Simmie and told them what he meant to do. Felipe he dispatched to scout the quadrangle and search for an opening not covered by Blood's men. Felipe came back with no good news. He shook his head. "Those men are everywhere."

"Ben," he said to Pardaloe, "when the big gate is thrown open by Felipe, fire your pistols, you and Simmie and Felipe, straight into the crowd outside. I'll be shooting both pistols from the saddle while we dash through the bunch before they can shoot back. Cover Felipe with your rifles, boys, while he shuts and bars the gate after us. Is it all clear?"

"Clear as daylight, Henry," mumbled Pardaloe. "Just say when."

Felipe, aided by a neophyte, was bringing up the horses. Bowie began to check over the cinches. "Felipe," he said in surprise, "what's the matter with these horses? They are trembling with sweat."

"Senor, I know. I saw it. Quien sabe? All the horses in the stable are sweating and nervous. I do not know why." Padre Martinez came out with Carmen.

"Padre," said Bowie, "what does this mean—these horses? See how they sweat and tremble?" "Hasten, hasten, my son! Something may happen. They know more than we do. Hasten!" exclaimed the agitated padre.

Bowie mounted his restive horse. Pardaloe passed Carmen up into his arms to face him. "Clasp me under the arms, querida, so as to leave my arms free. Hand me the hackamore for the Senorita's horse, Felipe."

Bowie fastened this with knots for some play to the horn of his saddle. With Carmen snuggling low against him, he drew his pistols.

"When the gate is opened," he said to the scouts, "send your pistol fire straight into their faces and yell like Indians. Then poke our horses hard, and away we go. Are you ready? Open!"

The dash out was a shock to the score of men, some on foot but most in the saddle, who were crowded around the big gate. The pistol fire, the yelling, the two horses proded and spurred, trampling and charging into the raiders, threw them into momentary confusion.

Bowie, yelling, discharged his pistols to the right and left. The raiders ducked and dodged as their horses reared on one another. A volley of oaths, an enraged yell from Blood, went up; a scattering flash of rifle and pistol fire lighted the plaza for an instant. But the gate had clanged shut, and the phantom riders had melted into the darkness of the night.

Long afterward Bowie learned that no two of the stunned guerrillas agreed on who had ridden out through the big gate or just what had actually happened. Bowie did not slow the almost uncontrollable horses until they had reached cover in the doubly dark alameda. Carmen parted from his embrace slowly; it seemed such a natural place to rest her head, and in her ear close to his breast she had heard his heartbeat.

Suddenly she remembered herself. "Darling, are you hurt? Tell me quick!"

"No, vida mia, no. But you?" he whispered.

She laughed low and cautiously. "I am not. Thank God, we are safe."

"I think so, but we may be pursued. I hope not. Now I will give you a more comfortable seat."

"What is that, 'Quito mio?'" Carmen spoke from her own saddle and her voice betrayed her acute alarm.

Bowie noticed the low sharp rumbling. But he was so alert to the danger of pursuit that he did not at first comprehend.

He was not left long in doubt. The rumbling grew instantly louder. The horses became unmanageable. They shook with terror. A deafening roar burst on the ears. Of a sudden Carmen and Bowie were rocked in their saddles—the earth was heaving in terrifying waves. "Temblor!" gasped Carmen. "Temblor!"

Bowie seized her bridle. The feet of the frantic horses sprawled, their legs sank toward the ground. So abrupt was the halt that Carmen was pitched over her horse's head as he scrambled to keep his legs under him.

The savage roar of the temblor as it wrenched the earth was ear-splitting. Bowie leaped from his horse to raise Carmen from the ground, and he stood with her trembling in his arms, trying to keep his own feet while he supported the half-conscious girl.

Nature tossed and heaved in an agony of convulsion. Towering trees whirled in circles, whipped to the ground, now prostrate, now upright, or snapped like matches at the base. And over the moaning and crashing of the troubled darkness there spread a faint ghastly light such as never has been looked on save at moments such as this. In a fearful instant a silent and peaceful landscape had been flung into an inferno of appalling destruction. Shock followed shock as the mighty temblor shook the earth in a cataclysm and tore yawning gulfs across its face, as if bent on making horror complete.

Bowie, breathing hard and completely unstrung, held Carmen's head against him as she shook from head to foot, praying low and beseechingly.

Bowie pulled himself somewhat together. "Surely the worst is over, Carmelita," he exclaimed. "Let's look for the horses."

But the search, punctuated by receding quakes, was in vain. "There's nothing for it, Carmen, but to go back to the mission for horses."

"But 'Quito,'" said Carmen, fearful, "we shall be killed by those guerrillas."

He tried to laugh; his throat had gone dry. "Never fear," he managed to say, "those wretches are miles away before this. It is a walk, but we must try. I will carry you, vida mia."

"Not so. I am drag enough on you as it is. Vamos, querido."

The rising moon began to shed a ghostly light over the desolate landscape. The shock of the night of terrors leaved Carmen up to making the long walk back without feeling it. Nearing the mission, a strange phenomenon confronted them. Their eyes were closely bent on discovering hidden guerrillas before they themselves should be discovered. Every clump of shrubs was skirted gingerly; every tree, prostrate or standing, was a possible hiding place for a skulker

Clogged Septic Tank.

QUESTION: About May, 1934, I installed a septic tank and drainage field for sewage disposal at my country home. Up to the present I have had no trouble. Now the toilet bowl is stopped up. The plumber took the cover off the tank and found a crust on the surface about 10 inches thick, which he said is due to lack of fermentation, caused by the tank being too low and not getting the heat of the sun. The plumber suggests raising the plumbing in the cellar and raising the tank to within 10 inches of the surface. Shall I follow the plumber's suggestions or shall I use the yeast cake suggestion of a neighbor?

ANSWER: The crust should be removed. It is an accumulation of grease and oil, which has solidified. A septic tank should be inspected every two or three years, and any substantial accumulation of grease removed. A grease trap between the tank and the kitchen drain will eliminate much of this trouble. If the septic tank has been operating satisfactorily for five years, I see no reason for raising it, as well as the plumbing. After removing the crust in the septic tank, if the toilet continues to be stopped up, it is quite possible that there is some stoppage in the pipe line that should be removed. Yeast cakes are used to stimulate the bacterial action in septic tanks. Six cakes are dissolved in tepid (not hot) water in a wash basin, then allowed to flow into the tank.

Painting an Attic.

QUESTION: What is the least expensive way of painting the walls of an attic which have never been painted? What can I do about the floor boards, which are warped in places? I would like to use linoleum.

ANSWER: You can get good satisfaction with a kind of paint made with casein; it comes as a paste to be thinned with water to the proper consistency. When dry and hard it is washable.

Before laying linoleum, your floor boards should be solidly nailed down and all raised edges and rough places should be planed off. Linoleum will wear quickly when laid on a rough or uneven surface. For long life and good wear the surface should be as smooth as possible.

Color of Doors.

QUESTION: In doing over our house we want to leave the oak trim around the windows and doors and the baseboards in natural finish. The doors are pine, and we cannot decide what to do with them; whether it would be best to grain the doors to imitate oak, or to finish them in enamel. What do you advise?

ANSWER: I certainly do not advise graining the doors in imitation of oak. The results at best would not be good, for an imitation is always cheap looking. It would be much better to enamel the doors. My choice would be ivory. A small and inexpensive touch that adds greatly to appearance is to use glass doorknobs; these can be had at hardware stores.

Rock Garden.

QUESTION: The yard in back of us is three or four feet higher than ours, and being on a slant, dirt is always flowing down to the sewer. I want to improve the looks of this. I have quite a number of bricks and stones, and would like to build a rock garden against the slope, but have no idea of how to start. How do I go about it?

ANSWER: The important thing is to pile dirt and stones against the hill to prevent further washing away of the dirt and to protect the roots of any trees that may be nearby. Pile your bricks and stones along the foot of the hill, fill the crannies with dirt and set rock garden plants in them.

Soiled House.

QUESTION: The north side of my country house is very dirty; in some places almost black. The house was painted last year. Is this due to fall and winter storms? Would it be remedied by putting a wood gutter on the north side of the roof?

ANSWER: If the soiling is from dirt, it should scrub off; use warm water with a cupful of trisodium phosphate or washing soda to the gallon dissolved in it. If this does not clean the paint, the soiling may be mildew. If so, report the case to the maker of the paint. By all means put on gutters.

Sweating Icebox.

QUESTION: I have an old-fashioned icebox, which has recently begun to sweat on the outside. Why should it do this?

ANSWER: Sweating is due to the failure of the insulation in the icebox walls and doors. The effect is to chill the warm and damp air that comes in contact with it.

We Can All Be EXPERT BUYERS

In bringing us buying information, as to prices that are being asked for what we intend to buy, and as to the quality we can expect, the advertising columns of this newspaper perform a worth while service which saves us many dollars a year.

It is a good habit to form, the habit of consulting the advertisements every time we make a purchase, though we have already decided just what we want and where we are going to buy it. It gives us the most priceless feeling in the world; the feeling of being adequately prepared.

When we go into a store, prepared beforehand with knowledge of what is offered and at what price, we go as an expert buyer, filled with self-confidence. It is a pleasant feeling to have, the feeling of adequacy. Most of the unhappiness in the world can be traced to a lack of this feeling. Thus advertising shows another of its manifold facets—shows itself as an aid toward making all our business relationships more secure and pleasant.

A CHANGE IN THE MEAT COURSE

(See Recipes Below)

"Meat makes the meal," especially when there are husky, hard-working men to feed. But for those behind the scenes in the kitchen, thinking up a different and a flavorsome meat dish for each day out of the seven is no small task.

There are two ways to approach the problem. First, investigate some of the less-common cuts.

Second, you'll find them thrifty to buy because the demand for them is less. Most of them fairly abundant in good flavor and need only to be properly cooked to be serious rivals to more expensive cuts.

If you are buying pork, ask the meat dealer to prepare you a handsome rolled sirloin roast. It's a thrifty cut not so well known as the pork loin roast but it has decided advantages. Two sections of the pork sirloin are boned and tied together into a solid roll of meat. The round, compact slices offer no obstructions to the knife, and are the answer to a carver's prayer. The picnic shoulder of pork is another cut of exceptional flavor. Have it boned, stuff it with spinach and roast it.

If it's too soon for another leg of lamb, buy a section of lamb breast and have it rolled with a layer of sausage. Slice off the meat as you would a jelly-roll; you'll have the neatest pinwheels imaginable. Lamb shoulder and lamb shoulder chops are two other not-so-well-known possibilities.

The second way to coax some variety into your meat dishes is to try new ways of flavoring cuts that you serve often. If much of your meat supply comes from a frozen foods locker, this is your best bet. Have pork chops cut double thick and stuff them with a tart mixture of sauerkraut and apple. Your family will beam approval when you serve that combination! Or make your next ham loaf like an upside-down cake so that when you turn it out, there are rows of bright-as-a-dollar apricots across the top. Try canned gooseberries as a relish with ham or beef, or canned Damsen plums with veal.

Pork Chops Stuffed With Sauerkraut And Apple.

(Serves 6)

- 6 loin pork chops (cut 1-inch thick)
- 1 cup sauerkraut (drained)
- 1 cup tart, red cooking apple (diced) (unpared)
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon pepper
- 2 tablespoons fat
- ½ cup sauerkraut juice.

Have a pocket made from the outside of each chop. Combine sauerkraut with finely diced unpeeled apple and stuff the chops with the mixture. Season them with salt and pepper and brown on both sides in hot fat in a heavy skillet. Add sauerkraut juice, cover, and finish the cooking in a moderate oven (350 degrees). Bake for 1½ hours, and remove the cover during the last 15 minutes of baking to brown the chops.

Round Steak, Western Style.

(Serves 6)

- 2 pounds round steak
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon pepper
- 2 medium onions (sliced)
- ½ lemon (sliced)
- 1 No. 1 can condensed tomato soup (1½ cups)
- 1 cup water

Have round steak cut ¾ inch thick. Spread with butter and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Arrange slices of thinly cut onion and lemon over steak. Dilute tomato soup with water and pour over steak. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 2 hours uncovered.

Boneless Sirloin Pork Roast With Stuffed Apples.

Have the meat retailer remove the tenderloin and bones from two sirloin sections, reverse the ends, and tie the two boneless pieces together in a compact rolled roast. Season with salt and pepper and place with the fat side up in an open roasting pan. Make an incision to the center of the roast and insert a meat thermometer so that the center of the bulb reaches the center of the fleshiest part of the meat. Place the roast in a moderate oven (350 degrees) and roast until the thermometer registers 185 degrees Fahrenheit. Allow about 30 minutes per pound for roasting. Serve with rice-stuffed apples.

- ### Rice-Stuffed Apples.
- 6 medium-sized baking apples
 - 2 tablespoons brown sugar
 - 1 cup rice (cooked)
 - 1 tablespoon butter
 - ½ cup water

Wash apples and cut a slice from the top of each. Remove the cores and seeds and sprinkle the cavities with brown sugar. Mix cooked rice with melted butter and stuff each apple. Arrange them in a baking pan with the water in the bottom and bake for 1½ hours, or until tender in a moderate oven (350 degrees).

Lamb Pinwheels.

(Serves 5)

- Boned breast of lamb (about 3½ pounds)
- ¾ pound bulk pork sausage
- 2 tablespoons fat
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon pepper
- 1 small onion (sliced)
- 1 cup tomatoes, (canned)
- 2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce

Have the lamb breast boned, spread with bulk pork sausage, rolled, and tied or skewered into shape at the market. Wipe the meat with a damp cloth and dry. Then brown on all sides in hot fat. Pour off the fat in the pan, leaving 2 tablespoons only. Season the roll with salt and pepper. Add sliced onion, tomatoes and Worcestershire sauce. Cover tightly and cook very slowly until done, about 1½ hours. Slice into pinwheels, using a very sharp knife.

Cushion Style Pork Shoulder With Spinach Stuffing.

(Serves 10)

- Boned picnic shoulder (about 5 pounds)
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon pepper
- 1½ cups drained spinach (cooked or canned)
- 2 tablespoons onion (minced)
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 2 cups fine, soft bread crumbs
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon pepper

Have the picnic shoulder boned and sewed on two sides at the market. This leaves one side open for inserting the stuffing. Season the surface of the pork shoulder with salt and pepper. Combine the spinach, onion, butter, lemon juice and bread crumbs. Season with salt and pepper and use to fill the cavity of the roast. Sew or skewer the edges together. Place the shoulder, fat side up, on a rack in an open roasting pan and roast in a moderate oven (350 degrees) until done. Allow about 40 minutes per pound for the roasting.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for January 12

CHRIST'S VALUATION OF PERSONALITY

LESSON TEXT—Luke 14:1-14.
GOLDEN TEXT—Is not the life more than meat, and the body than raiment?—Matthew 6:25.

People, people, and more people! Have you ever said, "I'm just so tired of people. I wish I could get away from everybody?" Most of us have felt that way some time and have possibly needed and deserved a rest. We must not permit that feeling to so color our thinking, however, that we lose our interest in men and women, boys and girls.

Jesus had His times of prayer and quiet communion with the Father, but for the most part we find Him out among people. He loved them and consequently dealt faithfully with them, showing tenderness to those who needed it, and often being severely plain and direct in dealing with those who were hypocrites. He valued human personality highly, hence He gave Himself in sacrificial devotion to winning, guiding, controlling and, above all, saving men.

The lesson presents some interesting contrasts.

I. How and How Not to Use the Sabbath (vv. 1-6)

Jesus was at a formal gathering with invited guests (v. 7) in one of the chief houses of the community, on the Sabbath Day. That such a gathering was held on that day was a sign of the degeneracy of the age. "The same thing is being done on Sunday by Christian people today. They go to church (if convenient) in the morning and devote the afternoon and evening to recreation and social occasions. We agree with Dr. Morgan that 'the whole thing is a sign of spiritual decadence.' That's how not to spend the day of rest and worship.

Another wrong thing was that they used the occasion to try to entrap Jesus. He was at the feast, not to "have a good time," but to minister to their spiritual needs. They brought the sick man in to tempt Jesus to heal on the Sabbath Day. He used their trickery to condemn them and to silence them (vv. 4, 6).

Declaring God's truth and His love for man by worship and by work for Him—that is the right way to use the Lord's Day. Let's get back to its proper observance.

II. What and What Not to Do for Advancement (vv. 7-11)

Getting ahead, even at the expense of others, seems to have been quite the thing in our Lord's time, as it is today. Looking at that smug, self-satisfied crowd of "grabbers," Jesus made good use of His presence at the feast to expose their folly and selfishness. Again we agree with Dr. Morgan that one should not "try for the chief seat. Why not? Because the place of honor is for the honorable man; and a man who struggles to sit in the place of honor proves thereby that he is not an honorable man." Think it over!

The way up in spiritual things is always down. Humility, which is so despised by the world, is precious in the sight of God, and will be rewarded by Him. The principle stated in verse 11 is and always will be true. The young man or woman who really wants to get ahead will do well to let it control both thought and deed. It is a far better rule for the New Year than any resolution you may have made—and probably forgotten by now.

III. Who and Who Not to Invite for Dinner (vv. 12-14)

Is the Lord interested in such a matter as that? Indeed He is! Everything about life concerns Him, and, as a matter of fact, this is a very important point. Here an attitude toward life is revealed which is vital and fundamental.

Hospitality is a virtue highly regarded by the Bible (see such passages as Rom. 12:13; I Tim. 3:2; Titus 1:8; I Pet. 4:9). To debate it by asking only those whom we expect will ask us in return, is really to destroy it. It is not hospitality at all to limit our invitations to those who invite us. Obviously we are not to cut them off simply because they do ask us. That is not the point. We are not to let that be the controlling factor.

Ask those who cannot pay you back, if you really want to get a blessing out of it. There is so much need in the world that we who follow Christ have little time to spend merely entertaining those who have no need. God will recompense. Dr. J. W. Bradbury in The Gift of the Lesson well says, "There is a good reason not to seek recompense here; there are more enduring and valuable recompenses hereafter (Matt. 6:1-8, 16-18). When we get no recompense here for the good we do, we ought rather to rejoice than be sad. It assures better recompense hereafter."

He goes on to say, "The professing church has often followed the world's method rather than Christ's (James 2:1-6)." Sad—but true. What shall we do about it?

New Silk Lingerie Fascinates With Its 'Dressmaker Touch'

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

EVERYONE should have a hobby. It is almost safe to say that the most alluring, the most all-prevailing hobby among the fair sex is that of acquiring a wardrobe of lovely lacy soft and silken lingerie. Certain it is that women's enthusiasm for pretty "undies," negligees and other flattering boudoir apparel needs no urge.

This is true of brides, debutantes, teen-age lassies, career women—in fact, everyone from girl to grandma, no matter how tailored and tweedy her exterior. When it comes to comfort, relaxation and self-expression of that innate love for the beautiful, it is in the touch and the wear of beguiling silken lingerie that most women feel the desires of their heart realized.

One of the most interesting gestures in modern lingerie styling is the dressmaker touch given to gowns and negligees. Many of them approach evening gowns in their technique and style. In fact, evening gown tactics are known to have been adopted to such an extent that in some instances frilled and lace-laden, ribboned "nighties" have actually gone dancing with onlookers being none the wiser. If you have ever visited an American silk industry exhibit, you would have noted that the emphasis on beguiling silken lingerie displayed in exquisite boudoir environs is more than impressive.

The fashion of giving dressmaker detail to boudoir apparel is happily stressed in the stunning twosome shown to the left in the illustration.

It also answers to the call for black. Garments of black silk sheers profusely trimmed with fine black lace are featured throughout all lingerie collections of note. In this modish ensemble of gown and boudoir coat, the latter, as you will observe, is styled with a side drape finished off with a border of sheerest black lace. The gown underneath is also lace-trimmed. To add to this twosome, designers suggest a third "black beauty" (not illustrated) lace-lavished costume slip to wear under your newest black party dress of net, silk chiffon or lace.

Centered in this group picture is a white silk satin nightgown with hand-sewn Alencon lace which yields to deep V-treatment with flattering shoulder bretelles of the same sumptuous lace. Its semi-princess lines resemble the manner of a party dress.

A new trend to modesty in silk night robes is the adorable gown shown in the inset. This empire nightgown of heaven blue silk crepe reveals a marked tendency to exploit light blues in lingerie fashions. This model has a pleated bosom oval neckline with a wide bordering of handsome lace about the hemline. The same lace repeated on the short waist achieves a quaint empire silhouette.

Shades of the Gibson girl! Here it is in modernized version as shown in the camisole-and-pantle set to the right in the group. This combination garment of pinkish mauve silk satin is trimmed with Alencon lace dyed to match. The camisole zips up the front and would fill a Gibson girl with envy.

You will enjoy a far happier, care-free spring and summer if you assemble your lingerie wardrobe in the "do it now" spirit that will leave more time for the spring sewing program just beyond.

Black Lace Magic

By all means include a large and lovely chiffon kerchief with a three-inch lace border in your collection of evening accessories. You will find it effective in many ways. Trailing gracefully from an embroidered pocket it adds infinite grace to your costume. Carry it in your hand nonchalantly or tuck it under your jeweled belt. These lovely lace chiffons designed by Burmel will add a decorative note to anyone's appearance if she is versed in kerchief technique. Worn as pictured, over a prettily groomed evening coiffure, you will take on the loveliness of a modern madonna. You can get these lace and chiffon whimsies in wicked black or angelic white. One of each would tune to every occasion.

Decorative Veils

Milliners are making a plaything of veils. They arrange them in whimsical fashion to add a sprightly touch to the hat. It's new to tie your veil under your chin in a butterfly bow. Then too, milliners depend upon veils to give a gay color touch.

Furs for Women

Vary in Durability

Probably no other article of women's apparel is surrounded by quite the aura of mystery as are fur coats. Only an expert can tell anything about the quality of furs. The best the average woman can do is to learn something of their wearing qualities and then select the type best suited to her needs.

Among the most durable furs are classed beaver, fisher, mink, otter, and badger. Other pelts that wear very well are Alaskan seal, kolinsky, krimmer, marten, muskrat, Persian lamb, raccoon and skunk. If you are selecting furs to stand hard daily wear, you will find these most satisfactory.

Less substantial, but not classed as actually fragile, are caracul, ermine, fox, leopard, lynx, marmot, nutria and opossum. These require constant care and should be sent to the furriers frequently for checking. Fragile furs include sable, chinchilla, squirrel, mole, chipmunk and kidskin.

Winter Skiing Costumes

Sold in Matching Sets

The mix-and-match movement has invaded the field of ski clothes. This year, along with the regulation two-piece outfits, you will find jackets and trousers in contrasting and matching colors.

The separate jackets are as trimly tailored as are those of more conventional suits and close with slide fasteners all the way up the front. They are reversible, with poplin, treated to be wind resistant, on one side and bright wool plaid on the other.

Dress Has Ruffles

A frock to be worn by a young girl at parties is one of pale pink net made with seven full ruffled sleeves

Lovely Frock for School or Parties

HERE'S an unusually sweet princess frock for junior girls that you'll want two ways for Sunday and everyday! This is the most becoming line in the world for petite figures. There are adroit gathers at the sides of the front panel to give a little roundness where roundness is needed, and the waist scoops in to beguiling thinness, above the piquant flare of the skirt.

In velveteen or taffeta, with a white silk pique collar, design No. 1269-B will be the prettiest kind of party frock. In flannel, spun rayon or corduroy it will smart for classroom, all in one color or, as shown in the small sketch, with a wide splash of contrast down the front.

Barbara Ball Pattern No. 1269-B is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, 17 and 19. Corresponding bust measurements 29, 31, 33, 35 and 37. Size 13 (31) requires 4½ yards of 39-inch material without nap; ½ yard contrast for collar. Send order to:

Beware Coughs That Hang On

Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ-laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. Tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

CREOMULSION For Coughs, Chest Colds, Bronchitis

Place for Money
A wise man should have money in his head, but not in his heart.—Swift.

Today's popularity of Doan's Pills after many years of worldwide use, surely must be a good diuretic treatment for disorder of the kidney function and for relief of the pain and worry it causes.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and diuretic medication would be more often employed.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warn of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out.

Get the Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Ask your neighbor!

It was a model of an ocean liner, which was easily convertible into an airplane carrier. That's how Admiral Emory S. Land sold the idea of the two-purpose ships that are putting America back on the seas... for business or battle or both.

Reduced Price Announced For American Boy

With the announcement of an enlarged and enlivened magazine, The American Boy, foremost publication for boys ten to twenty, also announces a reduction in its subscription and single copy prices. Hereafter The American Boy will sell for 10c a single copy at newsstands or for $1.00 a year and $2.00 for three years on a subscription basis.

In announcing a change in editorial policy, publishers of The American Boy assure subscribers that the established fiction heroes who have made the magazine so popular with young and old alike, will continue to tell of their adventures exclusively in The American Boy. Included in this group are Renfrew of the Canadian Mounted, Connie Morgan and Old Man Mattie, prospectors; Square Jaw Davis, railroad engineer; Johnny Caruthers, flyer; Jim Tierney, detective; Tod Moran, seaman; Alan Kane and Ted Dolliver, adventurers in science, and others identified exclusively with The American Boy.

However, with a larger magazine will come new fiction characters and an enlarged sports, defense and adventure program in the non-fiction field. Greater recognition will be given to outstanding boys the country over and an exceptional achievement will be rewarded with the boy's picture on the front cover. This feature was inaugurated with the November issue which carried on the front cover the picture of America's outstanding driver of high school age.

Teachers, librarians, parents and leaders of boys groups, recommend The American Boy enthusiastically. They have found that, as a general rule, boys who read The American Boy regularly advance more rapidly than boys who do not read it. Through the leadership and sportsmanship of its fiction characters, boys are imbued with a desire to become leaders, to develop the high ideals and courage the heroes themselves display.

To subscribe to The American Boy simply send the name and address of the one who is to receive the magazine together with proper remittance ($1 for one year or $2 for three yrs) direct to The American Boy, 7430 Second Blvd., Detroit, Michigan. adv. 45tf.

WEDDING BELLS For MISS NIEMI

Miss Sylvia Niemi, fourth grade teacher, was married December 24 to Mr. Harold Wirkku at her home in Munising.

After the first of next semester, Mrs. Wirkku will join her husband in Hancock, Michigan. Mr. Wirkku is a teacher in Hancock High School.

NEW TEACHER

The grade school will have a new teacher, Miss Agnes Larsen, who will teach the fourth grade. Miss Larsen will take the place of Miss Niemi who was married during Christmas vacation.

Miss Larsen will take her place here the first of February when she graduates from Central State Teachers College at Mt. Pleasant. Her home is in Frankfort.

Carol Coburn was a "bush-rat's" daughter, who left Alaska for an education. When her father died on the trail she headed back North, where a shadow had fallen on the claim that should have been hers, though she returned primarily to teach in an Indian school. When the school burned, Carol moved to Matanuska Valley, sub-polar land of promise—the latest American frontier—where the government planned its settlement project. And here against this background of fantastic social experiment, Carol's affairs mount swiftly to climax on climax. Sidney Lander, mining engineer, is in love with her, but is engaged to the daughter of his employer. Still another woman is in love with him. There are, indeed, a few threads to unravel, and the author does it skillfully. Don't miss this absorbing story of the Far North—

Are You Planning For More Business in 1941?

PARDON US, Mr. Merchant, for intruding in your business confab, but if you're making plans for a banner year in business, during which the words "depression," "financial loss" and "failure" will become... if not obsolete... at least infrequently heard, we would like to be in on it. There's no point in our being obsequious or reticent about insinuating ourselves in your affairs... the fact is we have a definite place in your plans for more business in 1941. We are the most widely-read newspaper in this community... and our readers include the whole family. Our advertising costs you less because consumer response is greater. We just wanted to impress you with the fact that you should figure us in on your business plans for 1941. It will be to your advantage.
