Schools Progress Under Supt. Wade

SECONDED BY SCHOOL BOARD, DURING PAST NINE YEARS.

With the close of the present school year, E. E. Wade rounds out nine years as Superintendent of the East Jordan Rural Agricultural School.

Coming here from Alpha, U. P., where he was Superintendent of its Consolidated Township School for eight years, he entered on his duties here in the third year of the consolidation of the city schools with nine outlying districts.

During these nine years the school has had a consistent growth. Other rural units have been incorporated and the last outlying districts are soon to be taken into the consolidation.

SUPT. E. E. WADE

The five busses that carried rural students when Mr. Wade came here, has been increased to eight; the teaching staff now numbers twenty three, another Science instructor and several grade teachers having been added to the regular faculty.

In 1936 a new wing was added to the original High School building which was built in 1920. The new part housed the Agricultural and Home Economics departments, two grades, the library and the music supervisor's room. This wing is all that remains, the original structure having been destroyed by fire March 13th.

Proof of Mr. Wade's executive ability was shown when, in spite of some grades and the Home Economics Department having to be moved to new locations, with the fire happening on Thursday morning, everything was in readiness to resume classes on Monday morning. The blizzard that blocked all roads that morning caused a one day delay, otherwise only Thursday and Friday classes would have been cancelled.

Mr. Wade has his A. B. degree from the University of Indiana, and his Master's degree from Columbia Teachers' College and has worked on his Doctorate during two summer sessions at University of Chicago and University of Indiana.

Believing the taxpayers are entitled to 100 per cent service on their investment in the school, Mr. Wade has inspired the fullest co-operation of his entire teaching staff, as well as that of the student body.

In this he has been ably seconded by the School Board, at present comprised of Howard P. Porter, president; James Gidley, secretary; Dr. George W. Bechtold, treasurer; Samuel E. Rogers, and A. Lee Darbee.

The old maxim, "Action speaks louder than words," is an epitome of Mr. Wade's personality, which is marked by a quiet efficiency that gets things done in the right way, with no play to the limelight. While his school duties leave little time for other activities he always finds time to take an active and constructive part in civic affairs as well as in church and fraternal organizations.

N. Y. A. Girls Busy Sewing

LOCAL GROUP PRODUCING A WIDE VARIETY OF ARTICLES

(Note — At request of The Herald, the following news item was sent from the Traverse City area office of the National Youth Administration.)

The National Youth Administration sewing project at East Jordan is now operating on a full time basis and is producing a wide variety of articles according to Delbert Paquette, NYA supervisor for this county. Youth workers on the project are working in two shifts of three hours each day for twenty days each month and it is expected that at peak load the project will employ forty young women from this vicinity.

Cooperating with the NYA as sponsor of the project is the city of East Jordan while public and semi-public agencies such as the East Jordan Red Cross; East Jordan Rotary Club, the American Legion of East Jordan, the County Agr'l Agent and the Surplus Marketing Association provide materials and other items for the production of finished articles.

The project is located in the American Legion building which was re-located for use by the NYA by the local post. Adequate equipment of 11 kinds and several different types of sewing machines are now being used and provide the girls with a wide and exceedingly useful type of work experience, Paquette said.

Articles produced by the youth employees to date include mattress ticks for use with surplus cotton in making mattresses and it is interesting to note that when first engaged in this work it took one employee ten hours to sew and mark one tick. This production time has been reduced so that now one girl can make a complete tick in as little as three hours. Uniform jackets and trousers for use by NYA male employees, smocks and dresses for girls on various NYA projects in the state, surgical gowns, infant clothing of all kinds and bed jackets for hospital use are also being made by the young women.

The work center is under the supervision of Mrs. Hilda Bathke who with Paquette pointed out that the work experience gained by the girls on the project is a direct tie-in with the plans of the NYA and national defense council to provide the types of work most useful in times of national emergency.

Mrs. Bathke extended an invitation to all interested persons to visit the project and view the work being done by the girls at this time.

Mancelona Boy Killed By Car

RICHARD LEE HART STRUCK BY BACKING MOTOR CAR

Mancelona — Richard Lee Hart, age seven years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Hart of Mancelona, was killed Monday afternoon when he was struck by a car backing out of an alley behind a restaurant there.

The boy died before he could be taken to a doctor.

Driver of the car was Lyle Howe, 25, of Mancelona. He told police he did not see the child until after he felt the impact.

The child had been playing with a group of other children in the alley.

He is survived by the parents; a sister, Geraldine, 18 months old, and a brother, Francis, Jr., 13 days old. His grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Moses Hart of East Jordan.

The body was taken to the Schroeder mortuary.

The remains were brought to East Jordan. Funeral services were held at St. Joseph's church, Wednesday forenoon, conducted by Rev. A. Radawski, pastor of St. Anthony church, Mancelona.

The American Legion Auxiliary Notes

The American Legion Auxiliary of Rebec-Sweet Post No. 227 have completed the Emergency Voluntary Service tabulation and following is the check:

The total number of volunteers is fourteen and seven of these can serve indefinitely here and abroad.

Four volunteers will drive and seven cook; so we have waitresses; social service workers in all branches; nurses, fit aid; stenographers, secretaries and office executives.

The Administration Service Home Service and Day Nurseries are all represented by members of the Auxiliary.

We have sent copies of the tabulation to the mayor of our city, to the Red Cross and to the state executives, so that they may call upon our Auxiliary for any emergency duty to be done.

The Auxiliary have changed their meeting to the second and fourth Monday instead of the second and fourth Tuesday.

Co-op. Company Hold Annual

AUDITOR REPORTS FINE YEAR'S SHOWING OF E. J. CO-OPERATIVE COMPANY

The annual meeting of the East Jordan Cooperative Company was held in the I.O.O.F. hall, Monday, April 14th, following a short business session at the warehouse.

After the invocation offered by Mrs. Secord, the ladies of Peninsula Grange served a membership dinner to 92, the number being reduced somewhat by the warm bright day which tempted farmers to work in their fields instead of at the banquet table.

M. W. Beattie, auditor, of Cadillac, gave a detailed report on the year's business. In spite of extra expense in building the new coal shed and extensive repairs to the main warehouse, following the damage done in the storm last November, the books showed a nice balance on the year's business.

O. F. Walker, district 4-H Club leader, showed colored pictures of local scenes and those taken on the trip to Harrisburg, Penna. last fall when Jason Shinn of Mancelona won National honors in dairy stock judging.

Frank Atkinson, Antrim County Committeeman for the AAA, showed pictures illustrating crop control, soil conservation, etc.

Elmer Murray, George Jaquays, and George Ferris were re-elected directors for three year terms.

George Ferris was elected Delegate to the annual meeting of the Michigan Potato Growers' Exchange at Cadillac and Elmer Hott was elected alternate.

Thirty seven members have secured additional, or new, stock through Patronage Dividends. The present membership numbers 201.

MARRIAGE

LaPeer — Klavinski

Miss Ann Klavinski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Klavinski and Vernil LaPeer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alez LaPeer were united in marriage early Monday morning in St. Joseph Church. The Rev. Joseph Malinowski performed the ceremony.

Miss Lela Muck was the bride's only attendant and Donald LaPeer, brother of the groom, served as best man. During the Mass Miss Marcella Muma sang Schubert's "Ave Maria" and other hymns accompanied by the organist Mrs. Irene Snyder.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernil LaPeer will make their home in Pontiac where he has employment.

Holland — Kerr

Miss Doris Holland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Basil Holland of Wilson township and David Kerr, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. David Kerr of Ironton, were united in marriage Saturday evening, April 12th, at Detroit.

The bride is a graduate of the East Jordan High School, class of 1940. The groom is a graduate of the Battle Creek High School, and is now employed as a meat-cutter in a packing house at Detroit.

The bride wore a pale rose dress with navy accessories and a corsage of sweet peas.

Mrs. Holland Hayes of Detroit attended the bride and wore a pink dress and a corsage of sweet peas. Harold Hoffman attended the groom.

Two "showers" were given the newlyweds. One by Miss Marcella Holt. The other by Wilson Grange and friends in East Jordan.

Schreur — Pray

(From Otsego County Herald-Times (Gaylord) April 10th.)

Of much interest to local people is the coming marriage of Miss Marjorie Schreur, daughter of Elder and Mrs. Allen Schreur, and Robert Pray, son of Mrs. Charles Pray of East Jordan, which will be solemnized Saturday, April 12th, at the Schreur home before the immediate families.

Miss Schreur has spent most of her life here, graduating from G.H.S. in 1934 and then taking up nurses training, graduating several years ago, and two years ago came to the Northern Michigan Sanatorium where she was employed for about a year.

It was at the sanatorium where the young couple met, Mr. Pray being employed there, and the romance began which reaches its climax Saturday.

The Schreur home is being decorated for the occasion which will take place at ten o'clock in the morning, Elder Schreur, father of the bride, performing the ring ceremony. Miss Dorothy Schreur, sister of the bride, will be maid of honor, and David Pray, brother of the groom, best man. Immediately following the cere-

Isaac VanDevanter, 81 Was Resident Here For Many Years

Isaac VanDevanter, aged 81, longtime resident of this region, died at the home of his nephew, Mark Carney, Tuesday morning, April 15th, 1941.

He was born at Dundee, Michigan, September 16th, 1859. In 1874 he came to Crofton, a mill and lumber town near Kalkaska where he was employed in the woods. He married Miss Ida Wheeler of Crofton in 1880, who passed away three months after their marriage.

The following year he came to East Jordan, bringing with him the first snare drum that was brought to this region. January 10th, 1883, he was married to Miss Mary Murry who passed away July 25th, 1927. To this union one child was born, who died in infancy. After living in town for a time, they bought the present Arthur Gidley farm, where they lived until about 1900 when they bought the present home on the hill, overlooking Lake Charlevoix.

Here Mr. VanDevanter developed a fine truck farm, selling vegetables, melons, and fruit throughout the northwest section of the State.

He was an ardent fisherman and his shanty was always one of the first on the lake and the last to come off in the spring.

Among his relatives were two cousins who were prominent in this country; Willis VanDevanter, who was Associate Justice of the U. S. Supreme Court from 1910, when he was appointed by Pres. Taft, until his voluntary retirement in 1937 and who passed away Feb. 8th, 1941. Another cousin, Rev. J. W. VanDevanter, was a foreign missionary of the Evangelical Church and also wrote many hymns, the best known being "Looking This Way," which he wrote (both words and music) to console his wife, following the death of a little daughter.

Surviving Mr. VanDevanter are a large number of nephews and nieces. Funeral services were held at the Huffman Funeral Chapel, Thursday afternoon, conducted by Elder Leonard Dudley, followed by burial in Jones Cemetery.

Musical Next Thursday

There will be an evening Musical next Thursday, Apr. 24, at the home of Howard Porter at 8:00 o'clock. Mrs. Walter Mower of Ironton has charge of the program, which will include selections by Mr. Blinoff of Charlevoix, and other artists. This will be a rare opportunity for music lovers in this vicinity. The Musical is for the benefit of the Friday afternoon circle of the Presbyterian Ladies Aid. A silver collection will be taken. adv.

Michigan Bell Telephone Co. Will Refund To Long Distance Customers

The Michigan Bell Telephone Company has moved to bring about a speedy refund of approximately $1,500,000 to its long distance customers following the decision of the State Supreme Court upholding a Commission order to reduce intrastate toll rates to the level of interstate charges.

George M. Welch, president of the company, announcing that no appeal will be entered in the case, said that necessary steps are being taken with the Michigan Public Service Commission to place the new rates into effect and to initiate procedure for making the refunds. He estimated the decision will mean a saving of about $700,000 a year to customers, based upon current usage of long distance service.

Welch said the company will immediately request Judge Leland W. Carr, of the Ingham Circuit Court, for a supplementary decree giving the Court's approval of methods and procedures for the company to follow in making refunds. As an example of questions to be determined, he pointed out that the court must approve the form the refunds will take — whether by individual checks, credits on customer's bills, or a combination of both. When the necessary decree is issued, the company will set the refund machinery into motion at once, Welch said. It was Judge Carr who rendered the original court decision upholding the order of the old Michigan Public Utilities Commission fixing the intrastate toll rates at interstate levels.

mony the young couple will take a short trip and then go to Pontiac where they will reside, Mr. Pray being an employee of General Motors there.

Tuesday of last week Mrs. Kenneth Schreur and Mrs. Heman Schreur gave a miscellaneous shower for the bride to be, many immediate and school friends being present.

Some Hazards In Kite Flying

SHOULD BE FLOWN IN OPEN SPACES AWAY FROM WIRES

The coming of spring brings the advent of the kite flying season, and because of some hazards in the sport, the Michigan Public Service Company is joining other electric, telephone and telegraph companies throughout the country in warning children to keep their kites away from overhead lines. C. M. Reed, Safety Director for the company, suggests that observance of the following simple safety rules will avoid all possible dangers to children.

Kites should be flown only in open spaces where there is no likelihood of their coming in contact with electric lines. Especial care should be exercised in choosing the spot, for it should be remembered that the kite string is at an angle and may pass over electric lines a long distance away, perhaps out of sight.

If a kite should become entangled in electric wires, children should not pull it or make any attempt to remove it. Under no circumstances should they climb a pole and try to bring down the kite. The proper procedure is to call the electric company, telephone company or telegraph company to which the wires belong, and linemen with proper equipment will be sent to take the kite from the lines.

It is unsafe for children to pull down a kite from electric lines, because in so doing the wires may be pulled together, causing a short circuit. It is possible in such cases that the wires may break and fall to the ground, causing serious injury to anyone who may be near.

Construction of the kite should measure up to safety standards also. Kites should never have wire frames. No metal or metalized cord should be used. It is dangerous to make kite strings of wire, tinsel cord or any cord with metal strands in it because such materials are conductors of electricity. It is also important to remember that the kite cord should be kept off the ground where there is any possibility of it becoming damp. A wet kite cord becomes a conductor of electricity when it touches an electric wire.

Kite flying is a fine sport and is entirely safe for children when they fly a properly made kite in an open space away from electric wires. The observance of these few safety suggestions will not detract from the fun and may prevent accidents.

Colorcade of Models New Feature of Chevrolet Autos

Timed to be a salute to spring, Chevrolet announces a "Colorcade of Models" in dealerships the country over, introducing the liveliest array of hues ever offered by the sales leader of the auto industry. The announcement was made in Detroit this week by William E. Holler, general sales manager.

"Further brightening a line which already includes an unusually wide range of colors and two-tone color combinations," Mr. Holler said, "is the introduction at this time of new colors for interior trim. Our three most popular Special Deluxe models — the sport sedan, town sedan and five-passenger coupe — are now available with either green or blue Canda Cloth upholstery at no additional cost.

"With models in Constitution Blue, Marine Blue, and two-tones in Nassak Gray above and Marine Blue below, a choice of the standard tan or new blue tone upholstery is offered. Likewise, tan or green upholstery is available with Ridge Green, Admiral Green, and two-tone green models.

"These new 'bright spots' in the spring picture," Mr. Holler said, "augment a line that already includes the popular new Fleetline models, trimmed in its own distinctive tan-and-brown broadcloth. Introduced a few weeks ago, the Fleetline has received wide acclaim as the first car in the lowest price range to afford maximum 'town car' smartness."

The new blue and green upholstery fabrics are distinctive in shade, highlighted by a harmonizing stripe that lends added richness to the material. Their inclusion in the Chevrolet line gives the color-conscious motorist unusual range in his selection of a distinctive, personalized vehicle.

I Am An American Day 1941

BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA A PROCLAMATION

Whereas Public Resolution No. 67, approved May 3, 1940, provides, in part:—

That the third Sunday in May each year be, and hereby is, set aside as Citizenship Day and that the President of the United States is hereby authorized and requested to issue annually a proclamation setting aside that day as a public occasion for the recognition of all who, by coming of age or naturalization, have attained the status of citizenship, and the day shall be designated as "I Am An American Day."

That the civil and educational authorities of States, counties, cities, and towns be, and they are hereby, urged to make plans for the proper observance of this day and for the full instruction of future citizens in their responsibilities and opportunities as citizens of the United States and of the States and localities in which they reside:

Now, Therefore, I, Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States of America, do hereby designate Sunday, May 18, 1941, as "I Am An American Day" and urge that this day be observed as a public occasion in recognition of our citizens who have attained their majority or who have been naturalized within the past year. And I do call upon all Federal, State, and local officials, and all patriotic, civil, and educational organizations to join in exercises calculated to impress upon all our citizens, both native-born and naturalized, the special significance of citizenship in this Nation.

In Witness Whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States of America to be affixed.

Done at the City of Washington this 27th day of March, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and forty-one, and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and sixty-fifth.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT

By the President

SUMNER WELLES, Acting Secretary of State.

THE TOMORROWS OF AMERICA

THE TOMORROWS OF AMERICA will be radically different as compared with the 150 years of yesterdays.

We have changed our philosophy of living, our way of life. Whether for better or for worse, only time will tell. We are sailing a socialistic sea, but what specific form of socialism is not yet apparent.

That the tomorrows of America will produce another Henry Ford is improbable. Individual initiative will not be encouraged as it was during the yesterdays. The effect such a course may have on our continued increase in national wealth is today unknown.

During the 150 years of yesterdays, government was supported by the people, it was the servant of the people. For the tomorrows, the people expect support from the government; they are willing that government shall be the master.

Will it work? Only time will tell. Within another year America will have a national debt of $100,000,000 or more. That is approximately one-third of the total of our national wealth. It is much more than the total of national income for one year.

To what extent can government continue to support the people of America? To what limit can such a system be financed?

Can, and will, government create wealth as the American profit system has created it during the 150 years of yesterdays?

The change from the yesterdays we have known, and under which we have prospered, to the questionable tomorrows has come to us through a revolution which we asked for and insisted upon, but which we did not recognize. By classes—vocations—we have demanded special consideration. We have asked for and received class legislation to benefit one minority after another. Those of each class or vocation have considered only themselves, not the American people as a whole, and have been given what they asked for.

We can look forward to the path of the tomorrows with trepidation, but with a hope, at least, that it may lead us to a desirable destination. It is a path we are to follow regardless.

TOOK BALLYHOOD TO SELL LIBERTY BONDS

THE UNITED STATES will offer us war savings stamps, "baby" bonds, and regular government bonds, the sale of which will at least partially pay for our own preparedness and our aid to England.

Will the American people buy in any considerable quantity without an accompanying sales ballyhoo?

The first World war was financed largely by the sale of government bonds, but that sale was effected only by a vigorous and spectacular sales campaign. The effort was to sell to the people, not to the banks. The government wished the people—the Toms, Dicks and Harrys—to have a direct financial interest in the war, to have them feel it was actually their war and that they were the fellows who wanted to see the Kaiser properly licked.

With spectacular showmanship the government put it over in the large cities for the first loan. It did not work so well in the country, where big parades, scores of "minute men," speeches and other spectacular methods could not be applied.

For the second and future loans, the government appealed for support to the country press. It proposed to publishers that they sell underwritten advertising to local merchants, banks, churches, lodges and to individuals. Country newspaper publishers did that to the extent of more than 500,000 pages from the second to the Victory loan. In response to that advertising, people of rural America bought Liberty bonds.

The national treasury can sell government bonds by telling the banks how much each must take. But can it sell them to the extent of several billions to people of America without arousing through some method an enthusiasm for preparedness and for aid to England? That is a question to be answered. My guess would be "no."

We would all like to see the European dictators licked. We do not approve of them, but we should like to have some idea as to what the result of such a licking would be.

Will it result in a better world for all concerned, or will it be but a prelude to more rivalry, more selfishness, more greed, and in the end, more war?

What are we paying for, and possibly fighting for?

HAWAII IS AMERICAN

A DISTINGUISHED California official in a recent speech told of the "import from foreign lands" of the pineapple juice now consumed in America. We have spent half a billion and more dollars in fortifying that "foreign land" that it might protect California and the rest of continental United States from a possible enemy. The "foreign land" referred to is the United States territory of Hawaii. We do not "import" from Hawaii any more than from California or Iowa.

Terrific Fighting Marks Nazi Thrust Into Yugoslavia and Greek Territory; British Lose Bengasi to Axis Forces But Capture Addis Ababa in Ethiopia

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

BALKAN DRIVE: Under Way

With Adolf Hitler's charge to "carry the war to Britain wherever she may be" ringing in their ears, the Nazi soldiers that make up his armies smashed across the frontiers of Yugoslavia and Greece.

Early reports of the fighting in the Balkans were vague, scattered, incomplete. Nazi claims indicated that their movements were on schedule. Greek sources at first claimed the Nazi heavily armored machine was bogging down.

One of the first objectives by the German forces was reached when armored troops and parachutists reported they had broken through to the Aegean sea in eastern Greece. This movement was said by military experts to cut off Greece from her potential ally, Turkey.

Even as the German troops moved toward the Yugoslavian and Greek borders announcement was made that Russia and Yugoslavia had signed a new "non-aggression" pact. British were hopeful that this was further indication of what appeared to be a trend of Soviet movement away from the Hitler sphere of influence.

In Yugoslavia before the fighting began there were last minutes moves to "placate Berlin," and a last-minute notice from Berlin that these peace overtures "came too late." But Yugoslavia apparently was standing for something far bigger and wider than her own narrow physical confines. Yugoslavia was becoming a byword for courage and daring throughout a jittery world.

Particularly was this noticeable in shaky spots like certain South American countries which saw in the sudden reversal of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes against the government which had signed up with the Axis a sign that Nazi Germany might not have a sinecure in conquering Europe.

They saw that even in the midst of the Nazi-dominated Balkans a certain country, surrounded on four sides by enemies, could have the bravery to stand up to these enemies and to defy them, with all their superior power, to cross their rocky borders.

Not that anyone figured the Yugoslavs would be a "pushover" for the Nazis, in fact, the Nazi position was none too good, for most of the terrain held by them was hostile, and Britain, with 10 to 15 divisions of men, well provided with armored equipment and airplanes, were dug in just south of the Bulgarian border.

C. Fotich, Yugoslav minister, leaves the White House after calling upon President Roosevelt to thank him for his message to the boy monarch of Yugoslavia, King Peter.

ready to give Yugoslavia and Greece more than lip-service if, as, and when the attack should come.

What part the United States was playing could not be said, although President Roosevelt said that lease-lend aid was being sent to "more than one country," which might include Britain and Greece, or Britain and Yugoslavia, or all three.

Just before the statement from the White House was made, however, the President had conferred with the Yugoslavian minister.

How well prepared Yugoslavia was seemed to be a moot point. Food was short, but so it was in all the Balkans—in all Europe, for that matter. The numbers of the army were large, estimated at from 1,200,000 to 1,500,000, but these figures the Battle of France showed might mean much or little.

There were many who believed that the Yugoslavs, who have the advantage of having the crucial Danube river run through a portion of their country, the part of the river which is so rapid and hemmed in by mountains that a canal bears shipping at that point, might explode huge charges of TNT in the mountainsides and render river and canal unfit for shipping for many months.

Already they had blown up many important bridges in the valley of Vardar, and had shown a grim determination to make a fight out of the Nazi invasion at all points.

BRITISH: Lose Bengasi

The evacuation of Bengasi, capital and port of Libya, was admitted by the British, who reported that the withdrawal was "according to plan" and that Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell was merely "picking his battle-ground" on which to meet the Nazi-reinforced Fascist troops.

Later dispatches seemed to indicate that the Australia-New Zealand army in Africa had halted the Nazi-Italian drive, for it was said that "the situation was well in hand," and the shooting down of six German planes and the damaging of two others was reported officially.

However, on the same day came war office warnings to the British public not to be surprised if there were further withdrawals, saying that it was officially doubted if the "halting" of the German-Italian advance was permanent.

Better news for the British however was the announcement that the Ethiopian capital of Addis Ababa had been taken from the Italians without a struggle. This capture came as a climax to eleven weeks of hard fighting to smash Italian African empire to bits.

IRAQ: Stages Coup

There was a military coup d'etat in Iraq, historic Bagdad being the scene of a governmental overturn staged by army forces led by Rashid Ali Gailani.

The coup was viewed differently in various quarters, Bagdad itself, two days later, announcing that one of the main features of the new government would be fulfillment of all international obligations, particularly with Britain.

This is Emir Abdul Ilah, regent of Iraq, who ruled for five-year-old King Faisal II and is reported deposed and fleeing for his life after the military coup d'etat.

Previously it had been hinted in dispatches from London, passed by the censor, quoting Soviet circles in London as saying that it was believed the coup d'etat was inspired by the Axis, and that the objective was going to be the establishment of Nazi air bases in Iraq.

This naturally was disquieting to London, as if carried out it would place Nazi airplanes in a position of dangerous proximity to the Red Sea and the Suez canal, the defense of which had been going well for Britain.

STRIKES: Mostly CIO

The calling of a strike against the plants of "Big Steel," the United States Steel corporation, by C.I.O. unions proved that the labor situation was still acute, although the soft coal strike was settled, and the men went back to work digging the important fuel out of the ground.

Just 48 hours before the settlement was reached, four men were shot to death in Harlan, Ky., a bloody center of previous strike rioting. Just before the settlement of the bituminous coal strike, it was estimated that 530,000 men were out of work in the United States as the result of strikes, adding considerably to the number of man-days lost in the national defense.

Philip Murray, head of the C.I.O., called the strike against U. S. Steel, declaring that the companies had refused to heed a demand for a 10-cent an hour wage increase. The company has 261,000 wage earners. The C.I.O. also wants a closed shop. The Ford strike had closed the biggest single industrial plant in the nation, employing 88,000 workers.

Its gates were marked by many scenes of violence as pickets battled with workers.

Back of these front-line scenes were back-stage battles. The Ford counsel obtained an injunction against the strikers, and the strikers promptly subpoenaed Henry Ford, Edsel Ford and Manager Bennett to appear in court.

The next move saw Ford Attorney Capizzi making a court motion that all labor board citations against the company be thrown out as the C.I.O. union was dominated by Communists.

'Social' Work

JERSEY CITY, N. J.—Grace Billotti, YWCA social worker, demonstrates the speaking pose she will use in campaigning against Mayor Frank Hague, Democratic boss and mayor of this city since 1917. In the last election, Hague received 110,700 as against the best GOP showing of 6,700, which shows what "social" work Miss Billotti is up against.

AFTERMATH: Of Seizure

The ordering back to Italy of Naval Attache Alberto Lais of the Italian legation was a sensational aftermath of the seizure in American harbors of Italian and German vessels.

The first step was the seizure of the vessels and the jailing of 875 members of the Fascist and Nazi crews. This was closely followed by the revelation in the state department that Lais would be declared "persona non grata" to the American government and that his return to Italy would be demanded.

Lais had previously described himself as more than 75 per cent American and he is married to an American woman and their handsome daughter lives with them in Washington.

But Secretary Hull's report, which gave no details, showed plainly that Lais' "25 per cent Italian" heart had prevailed on him to participate actively in the attempted sabotage of the Fascist vessels.

This, the secretary said, was an unfriendly and illegal act, and for that his recall was demanded. Mr. Hull also revealed that the United States had sent a flat and uncompromising "No" to the Axis demand that the ships be returned and the crews released.

Yet it was not expected anything would be done with the vessels until the incident had had time to cool down.

It was not the only serious naval reverse for Italy, the British having claimed that they had practically put Il Duce's fleet out of commission in the Mediterranean, declaring that nine vessels, including two battle-ships, had been sunk, besides others believed put out of action due to damages suffered in the naval battle.

CONVOY: Big Issue

The question of whether or not American naval forces should convoy war shipments to Britain was becoming very much of a moot question in congress, with indications that the anti-convoys vote would lose.

It had been confidently predicted that American naval ships would convoy shipments to Britain "at least halfway across the Atlantic." Senator Tobey, chief opponent of this plan, even during the debate of the lease-lend bill, had a bill to ban convoys slated for consideration before the senate foreign relations committee.

But a poll of the committee showed that only 8 out of 23 committee members would support the measure.

Yet President Roosevelt said discussion of the matter, in press conferences "was premature." I still seemed, however, likely that the Tobey resolution against convoying would not be allowed to die in committee, as many members felt that a senate vote would be the only way of settling the question once and for all.

Chairman George of the committee had repeatedly said that he would not favor American convoying unless the nation was actively and formally in the war. Senate Pepper, an ardent advocate of aid to Britain, had taken the stand that other methods, giving of convoying ships to Britain, ought to be tried before convoying is resorted to.

The mere appearance of the question out in the open air, however, showed that a probable campaign of preparation of the public mind for convoying was going on.

This attitude of bowing to the administration's lease-lend powers was expressed by Senator Fillette, Iowa, who said that while he did not favor convoying himself, he was unwilling to stand in the way of the President's full administration of British aid.

While the lease-lend bill states specifically that nothing in the bill can be construed as giving the President the authority to order American convoying, legal authorities in Washington said they were of the opinion that he has that power as head of the army and navy.

Capital Housing Problem Vexes District Officials

School and Water-Supply Facilities Are Also Seriously Taxed by Influx of Defense Workers.

By BAUKHAGE

National Farm and Home Hour Commentator.

WNU Service, 1343 H Street N. W., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON.—Millions for defense but not enough sense to contribute sufficient funds to the District of Columbia budget.—That is the Washington city government's present charge against congress.

The other day I sat in the office of one of the district commissioners and an army officer who had been drafted to help work out the city's housing problems, and they seemed pretty helpless.

"We haven't got the money to meet the emergency situation that is growing in the district as a result of the defense program," was the burden of their song.

Washington is run by a commission—three men—our three "mayors." If you will, appointed by the President. Our board of aldermen are the district committees of the house of representatives and the senate. The federal government bears a share of the expense of running the city—but not enough, say the citizens of the district. All they can do is "say," for they have no vote, either locally or nationally.

The emergency is bringing thousands of new workers here. From June, 1930, to January of this year nearly 25,000 new government employees moved in. The figures for February, due to be released in a few days, are expected to show a big increase.

The Washington Board of Trade estimates that 55,000 new residents have moved into the District of Columbia in the last year.

Question of Schools.

In addition to these extra beds and baths that must be provided, there is the question of schools. The commissioner with whom I was discussing the situation, cited one example.

"Down there between Bolling field which will soon be the center of American aviation and the naval research laboratory," he said, "the federal government has built 600 family units. It will probably be increased to 1,000. These are just for the navy yard workers. Right there will probably be enough children to fill one schoolhouse alone."

A million and a quarter dollars, it is estimated, should be spent on schools alone in Washington as a result of the influx of residents. This is to say nothing of the next most pressing need—facilities to increase the water supply. The Canal Zone is not much hotter than Washington in the summer. People take a lot of showers. We have a Potomacful of water but we need more pipes and pumps.

The greatest portion of the city's expense, however, goes to taking care of the homes and the offices and people which make up the federal government.

Anyone who thinks the life of a government worker is all roses, frankincense and myrrh in these days needs only to listen to the local director of the Housing association who says:

'Doubling Up' Complaints.

"Frequent complaints of doubling up in apartments and rooming houses come to us. One bath for 15 to 20 persons is a common grievance. Three to six unrelated roomers in the parlor of a once fine private residence is not uncommon."

Very bad, say the health authorities, for sanitation. Very bad for morale, too.

And then Washington has on its periphery a number of army camps, cantonments and forts. By July the boys on leave will be flocking in from an army of nearly a hundred thousand men. Their welfare and amusement have to be taken care of, too.

The district government, therefore, is struggling with the congressional committees, attempting to convince them of Washington's needs. A bill is now being considered which would increase the proportion which the federal government contributes to the federal city, but the officials cannot bank on the money until it is in hand.

American Housewives And Vitamins

An efficient secretary laid a newspaper clipping on my desk. The same day's mail brought a letter enclosing a magazine article from a farm-woman listener.

The newspaper clipping said: "The housewives of the United States are soon to receive the most thorough education in how to feed their families ever provided by any nation in the world. . . . the American housewife is going to learn a great deal about vitamin B and about all the other vitamins. . . ."

I ran through the magazine article. It was written by Velma Carson 12 years ago and in it she remarked on what a misapprehension most city people have concerning the modern farm woman. The author told how a companion in a Pullman made some pitying remark about a woman they passed who was hoeing in a garden. Miss Carson said:

"I explained that quite likely the pathetic creature we recently had passed would be in a chiffon dress by afternoon, powdered with the same brand Lady What's-Her-Name has indorsed, marcelled into shining waves, and driving her car to a meeting where a professor from the state university would give latest gossip on vitamins—a subject so fascinating to farm women ever since they have discovered hidden forces in the old familiar 'greens.' As one progressive, earnest, white-haired lady said to me once after a home demonstration agent's lecture, 'Well I always fed my family on just what we had on the farm—milk, butter, eggs, cheese, and vegetables, and such. It sure was a piece of luck these things all had vitamins.'"

Flapjacks For the Navy

When the cooks of the U. S. S. Wyoming—or any other ship with a complement of 1,200 men—get their pancakes, it is quite an undertaking to provide them. Down at the navy department you can see a cook book with recipes just like any cook book—but the figures are different. I looked at the recipe for flapjacks the other day. Here it is:

Sea air makes for big appetites. A cook in the galley of the battleship U.S.S. Wyoming prepares flapjacks by the hundreds for breakfast.

120 lbs. flour	2 1/2 lbs. short-ening
10 dozen eggs	10 lbs. evaporated milk
10 lbs. sugar	70 qts. water
7 1/2 lbs. baking powder	2 1/2 lbs. salt

The same men who dispose of this order of cakes in one day will eat 1,500 pounds of fresh meat, 3,200 pounds of fresh vegetables, 1,300 pounds of fresh fruit and 120 dozen eggs, to say nothing of the canned goods consumed.

Bears Get 'Friendly' In National Parks

The bears in our national parks are getting too pally with tourists, so the national park service has issued a warning.

It seems that when humans begin fraternizing with a bear the bear begins to treat them as equals. This means that when a human gets between a mother bear and her offspring, ma chases him out of the way, sometimes administering a well-aimed swat in the process.

"Bear incident" is the government's name for damage to property and injuries to persons as a result of the public's disregard of rules against getting too familiar with brum.

Moral: Don't treat bears as equals.

BRIEFS . . . by Baukhage

¶ Von Ribbentrop has been able to fool most of the small nations of Europe. But after the revolt in Yugoslavia he can no longer be called Hitler's ace "diplomomat."

¶ Leopold Stokowski has been commissioned by the war department to modernize army bands. That seems to call for hand organs and music boxes in a mechanized army.

¶ Washington has the highest ratio of mental patients of any jurisdiction in the country. This record is not based on the ravings of the politicians. Nuts from all over the country come here to tell the President how to end the war or balance the budget, or make two rabbits grow in his hat where one grows before. STAGE-SCREEN-RADIO

By VIRGINIA VALE

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

WHEN you see "Men of Boys Town" (Spencer Tracy and Mickey Rooney), watch three very young men who have important roles; it's more than likely that, when they grow up, they'll be tops among leading men. Metro thinks so.

They are Darryl Hickman, aged eight; Bobs Watson, who's nine, and Larry Nunn, just thirteen. You probably saw Darryl as "Winfield Joad" in "Grapes of Wrath." Norman Taurog thinks he's one of the finest child actors he ever directed. Bobs has seven brothers and sisters who have film careers. Says Taurog, "Whenever I have needed a regular kid, I have found that I could depend on the Watsons." Bobs got his break because none of the other Watsons fitted the role.

As for Larry, he'd made a name for himself in radio before he tackled Hollywood, two years ago; "Strike Up the Band" was his first picture.

For more than a year there's been discussion at Warner Bros. about filming the life of George M. Cohan, and at last a deal has been arranged with the famous song and dance man. James Cagney will play the lead, probably getting to work on it some time this summer, after he returns from vacationing at his place at Martha's Vineyard, Mass. Mr. Cohan will supervise the production.

Scenario trouble has delayed work on "Babes on Broadway," in which Shirley Temple was to start her come-back, so her first picture will be "Lazybones." It's a story of the San Pedro fishing fleet, and Shirley will be seen as Wallace Beery's motherless daughter.

American people have more than a generous sense of humor; they have generous hearts as well. It's proved every Sunday on the "Double or Nothing" radio program. Walter Compton, master of ceremonies, asks each guest the name of his favorite charity; if the contestant can't answer his questions, the prize money is given to some charitable institution.

Leading figures of grand opera, the theater, the sports world and big business have tried their luck on the program, and many have given their winnings to less fortunate persons. Martha Raye and Frank Forest, the program's popular tenor, gave theirs to the Red Cross. Lyle Talbot had a question from a woman who wanted to buy her blind son a Seeing Eye dog; he gave her his winnings, and the listening audience subscribed the remainder. Frederick Jagel of the Metropolitan Opera sent his to the Hundred Neediest Cases.

Rita Hayworth returns to her home lot, Columbia, to play opposite Fred Astaire, and dance with him in a musical, "He's My Uncle"—she's just finishing a dancing role in "Blood and Sand," with Tyrone Power. The talented Rita may be just the dancing partner needed for Astaire since he and Ginger Rogers parted company on the screen.

Penny Singleton was selected America's Number One Blonde by beauty shop owners and operators at the International Beauty Show held in New York recently. The pretty screen and radio star won out over Madeline Carroll and Alice Faye, who were runners-up; it was said that during the past year she'd done more than anyone else to make American men blonde-conscious. As "Blondie" on the screen and the air she's inspired many another young wife and mother, who've appreciated her quite as much as the men did.

For almost four years Bess Johnson has been managing the mythical orphanage around which the story of "Hilltop House" gravitated. Now the serial has come to an end, and she's to be starred in a new one, titled "The Story of Bess Johnson." Same time, same stations.

ODDS AND ENDS—While making "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" Spencer Tracy's been looking ahead to vacationing in New York with his son, Johnny. . . . After waiting about a year, Pahranny will film "Miss Susie Slagle," the popular novel. . . . Greta Garbo is slated to go back to work May 1, in a modern American comedy. . . . About 3,000 enthusiastic fans greeted Glen Miller, CBS band leader, when he arrived in Los Angeles; they practically mobbed him. . . . Conrad Nagel, master of ceremonies for the CBS "Silver Theater," swore off on cigarette smoking from New Year's to St. Patrick's day—but didn't quite make it.

SOUPS FOR EVERY OCCASION . . . (See Recipes Below)

SOUP'S ON!

Soups may be a substantial addition to a rather lean menu, or a distinctive touch to a dinner de luxe, for they vary all the way from the thin, clear, delicate consommés and bouillons to the hearty chowders and satisfying cream soups.

Economical, tasty, nutritious—what more could you ask of a dish so versatile? Make soup the mainstay of a family lunch or supper or the perfect beginning for a "company" dinner.

A little "dressing up" can play fairly godmother to the plainest dish—yes, even soup.

Most people eat with their eyes, first of all. So, if you wish your soups to take on a party air, garnish them enticingly. Try sprinkling with buttered croutons, chopped parsley, a few grains of popcorn, toasted puffed cereals, minced chives, a dash of paprika, or a few tiny round crackers; or place a spoonful of whipped cream in the center.

For extra goodness, why not try cheese in soup? It will draw a big stamp of approval, as you will see if you try Potato Cheese Soup. Here's the recipe:

Potato Cheese Soup.
(See picture at top of column)
3 medium sized potatoes
2 cups boiling water
2 to 3 cups milk
3 tablespoons butter
1/2 small onion
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons flour
Pepper, cayenne
1 tablespoon parsley
1 cup cheese, grated

Cook potatoes in boiling salted water until tender. Put through a strainer. Measure the liquid and add enough milk to make four cups. Scald. Melt the butter, add the finely chopped onion and simmer five minutes. Add the flour and seasonings and combine with the potato mixture. Cook three minutes and strain, if desired. Add cheese and beat until smooth. Add chopped parsley, top with buttered croutons.

Manhattan Clam Chowder.
1/4 cup diced salt pork
2 cups diced potatoes
1 dry onion, diced
1 cup water
2 cups milk
1 can minced clams (about 1 cup)
Salt and pepper
Cook the diced pork and onion, stirring constantly 'til they are tender but not browned. Add the potatoes and water and simmer until the potatoes are tender. If the one cup of water is not sufficient to cover the potatoes, more should be added. When the potatoes are tender, add the milk and clams and seasonings and heat thoroughly. Serve with crisp, salted crackers.

One Dish Supper Soup.
3/4 cup rice
1 cup chopped celery
2 small onions
1 green pepper
1 pint tomatoes
6 eggs
1/2 cup cheese
3 cups water
Salt
Add chopped celery and onions to a kettle of boiling water. Add chopped green pepper. Cook slowly 15 minutes. Add tomatoes. Just before serving, break the eggs into the hot soup. Sprinkle with cheese. Cover. Keep in warm place 5 min.

LYNN SAYS:
The water in which vegetables have been cooked, and left-over cooked vegetables may often be utilized in making excellent soups.

Minute tapioca, because of its thickening quality and attractive translucence, makes an excellent thickener. Once thickened to the desired consistency, cream soups should be kept warm over hot water. Evaporation caused by additional cooking may make them thick and pasty.

utes. Pour over a mound of hot boiled rice placed in individual soup dishes. Yield: 6 servings.
Duchess Soup.
2 tablespoons minute tapioca
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon onion, finely chopped
4 cups milk
2 tablespoons butter
1/2 cup grated cheese
2 tablespoons parsley, chopped
Combine dry ingredients, onion, and milk in top of double boiler. Place over rapidly boiling water, bring to scalding point (allow 5 to 7 minutes), cook 5 minutes, stirring frequently. Add remaining ingredients; cook until cheese is melted. Serves 6.

Old-Fashioned Vegetable Soup.
2 quarts soup stock (see directions)
1 1/2 cups potatoes, diced
3/4 cup celery, cut in strips
2 small onions, sliced
1/2 cup peas
1 1/2 cups carrots, cut in strips
1 1/2 cups canned tomatoes
Salt and pepper
2 tablespoons parsley finely chopped
Heat stock, add vegetables and seasonings, and cook gently until vegetables are tender. Add chopped parsley and serve. Makes 8 portions.

Cream of Onion Soup.
2 tablespoons rice
2 medium-sized onions
2 tablespoons butter
1 cup water
1 teaspoon meat extract or a bouillon cube
3 cups milk
Salt and pepper
Chop the onions and cook in the fat until slightly yellow. Add the water, rice and meat extract or bouillon cube, and cook until the rice and onions are tender. Add the milk, reheat, and season with salt and pepper. Yield: 4 cups.

Russian Borsch.
1 pound soup meat
6 cups water
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 1/2 cups potatoes, large cubes
1/2 cup grated raw beets
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1 large onion
1 large carrot
1 tablespoon butter
2 cups medium-chopped cabbage
1 cup beets cut in 1/2-inch strips
6 tablespoons sour cream
Cover meat with water, add salt and pepper and boil for 10 minutes. Cut onion and carrot in strips and brown in butter. Add to soup and boil for 1 hour, replacing water as it boils away. Add cabbage and beet strips to soup and cook until beets are tender, about 15 minutes. Add potatoes and cook 'til tender, or about 15 minutes. Just before serving, add grated raw beets and pour immediately into serving dishes. Place 1 spoon of sour cream in center of each serving and sprinkle with parsley. Makes 6 servings.

Soup Stock.
3 pounds shin of beef
3 quarts cold water
Cut meat in pieces free from fat, and place in kettle. Add water, partly cover, and heat slowly to boiling point. Simmer gently five hours, removing scum as it forms. Keep pot well covered with water. Then remove meat and set broth aside to cool. Skim fat from broth. Strain liquor carefully through fine sieve or cheesecloth. Chill. This gives a clear broth, free from fat, to be used as basis for soups. Makes about 2 quarts stock.

City of Caverns

London, in these times, would be fortunate if the city were constructed as Paris is, for the French capital is built largely of stone brought from under the very ground on which it stands. Because of this, there is a ready-made underground city about one-tenth the size of Paris. One section of this cave city contains the Catacombs, where rest the bones of some six million. Another zone consists of vast layers of gypsum. The Quarry service has cut into this section tunnels which follow accurately the courses of the avenues above. Ordnance maps of France decided to defend the city, the people could have occupied this underground fortress and defied Hitler's bombers till Doomsday.

Tricks Don't Work In the Hardware Business

Imitations of quality products may pass in some lines of business . . . but they simply won't work in hardware. When people buy hardware, they buy it to use — and inferior products won't stand the treatment that good hardware is expected to undergo. We try to make attractive prices on everything we sell — but if it's a question of price or quality — quality wins every time. We like to keep our customers.

TIPS to Gardeners

REGARDING HERBS

MANY home gardeners may be interested in growing herbs this year because of the war, and because they make everyday dishes more appetizing and flavorful.

Herbs may be grown in a plot about four by six feet to supply the average needs of a family. They should have full sunlight and be planted in good loamy soil.

Almost all popular herbs—balm, basil, borage, fennel, marjoram, rosemary, thyme, sage, anise, dill, and caraway—may either be used when young, and fresh, or prepared for use dried.

Anise, basil, borage, dill and savory are annuals; caraway, and fennel are biennials, and balm, marjoram, sage, rosemary, thyme and chives are perennials, although balm and marjoram are best treated as annuals.

All the herbs mentioned here will probably produce enough growth for use the first year; however, if seeds are planted early, and climate is normally temperate.

The Lamp in the Valley

By ARTHUR STRINGER

W. N. U. Service

THE STORY SO FAR

Sidney Lander rescued Carol Coburn from the annoyances of Eric (the Red) Ericson. She is returning to her native Alaska to teach. Her father, a sordough, died with an unproven mine claim. Lander, an engineer for the Trumbull Co., which is fighting the Coburn claim, breaks with Trumbull. But he remains engaged to Trumbull's daughter, Barbara. Salaria Bryson, an outdoors girl, is also in love with Lander. Lander becomes field manager for the Matanuska Valley project. He takes in this valley—as blacksnake on an ice block.

"Lander says there's a shortage of axes and work tools," I was prompted to explain.

"Of course there is," exulted Salaria. "They've got grand electric coffee-grinders but no power to run 'em. They've got a string of threshing machines, but no crops in 't' thresh."

"And stoves over there rustin' in the rain," added Sock-Eye, "but nowhere 't' put 'em. And a mountain of them new-fangled enamel sinks and no kitchens 't' set 'em up in. And a carload of harness, by gad, and no workhorses 't' buckle it on."

The tumult had subsided and the shadows were growing longer and I could see smoke going up from the unbroken line of smoke pipes before Katie was able to join me at my alfresco coffee table.

"They're pretty well settled," she said as she munched a sandwich between her strong white teeth.

"But I wish Ruddy was here," I asked her why. She postponed her answer until she had polished off her sandwich and reached for her second cup of coffee.

"There's a baby over there I don't like the looks of," she finally announced.

"What's wrong with it?" I questioned.

"I don't know, yet," she said as she bit into a sandwich. Then her eyes became ruminative. "Wouldn't it be sweet if measles got into this little family circle. Or scarletina! Or even whooping cough." Her tired

"They're pretty well settled," she said.

looking eyes surveyed the row of white-walled tents. "There's six hundred kids in that camp, in one mad huddle, and not a roof over their head if a bug or two got into their blood!"

I asked if they all hadn't had medical inspection.

"They're supposed to," admitted Katie. "But if I know my onions there's a father of seven over in that line-up who won't last long. He's plainly tubercular. And there's a Michigan woman who's been having labor pains all the way up from Seward."

"What does that mean?" I asked with a quail of dismay.

"It means," said the weary-eyed Katie, "that we can't sit here enjoying the scenery. You'll have to scrub up, old-timer, and help me with the delivery."

Two hours later I heard the first faint wail of the first baby born in the Matanuska Colony.

CHAPTER XV

If I'm the lamp in the valley I've got to burn with a brighter wick. Colonel Hart called me into Headquarters and told me I was to have a schoolhouse as soon as they could find a building that would suit the purpose. The real school, he explained, couldn't go up until next year. But if the Colony children could be grouped into classes of some sort, and a teacher rotated among them, there might be less grumbling from the parents and less hell-raising by the youngsters.

So for two or three weeks, he proceeded, I'd have to do the best I could as a circuit-rider teacher. The first call on the workers, of course, was to get homes built.

I suggested that a portable blackboard would be a help, since a blackboard was to a teacher what a throne was to a king, the seat and symbol of his power.

"All right," the man at the desk answered across his mountain of blueprints. "Tell that bunch of transient workers out there to make your board and make it pronto. Tell them I said so."

So I sallied forth to where six flannel-shirted CCC workers were languidly piling lumber at the track side. I ignored a quite audible, Carol to a camp dance and he tells her of his love. She reminds him of Barbara Truly, their paths have crossed many times by now, but Barbara still remains a barrier to their romance. Their future seems far from clear.

"Pipe the peach!" as I approached them. I merely informed them of the Administrator's order for the concoction of a four-by-six portable blackboard.

"You can have anything we've got, baby-eyes," said one. And still another coyly observed that his own schooling wasn't all it should have been and it seemed about time to be starting over.

It wasn't, of course, as bad as it sounded, being carried on with that half-respectful and heavy-jointed jocularly peculiar to the regions where life is rough and chivalry is apt to stay in its shirt-sleeves. And, for all their banter, they assured me I'd have my board, neatly nailed together and ebonzined with a flat coat of lampblack. They even promised to have it at my cabin the next day.

I rather overlooked their eagerness to know just where that cabin was. And it would all have worked out better, I imagine, if they hadn't first gone over to Wasilla where flourishes the valley's only open bar, and where they were joined by a dozen or two other transients. There, at any rate, they plainly drank more moose-milk than was good for them. I could hear them as they came in a body toward my cabin clearing, singing as they came:

"Oh, then, my Booska. Don't you cry for me. For I'm off to Matanuska With the teacher on my knee."

Someone with an accordion was leading them in that familiar old pioneer tune. But I didn't find the newer wording altogether to my liking.

I closed and fastened my door.

I pretended to be writing at my table end, sitting there, rather anxiously, as they worked pole end under the sill logs and tried to impart a ship-at-sea motion to my small cabin. But they soon tired of that, finding the shack too heavy to be converted into a rocking chair. So they proceeded to serenade me more noisily than ever. And to the general din they added a salvo or two of revolver shots. When I realized that one of the faces peering in at the window was that of the fire-eating Eric Ericson I found the last of my patience ebbing away.

When they started to pound on the door again, this time with one of their heavier poles, I could see that it would soon go down under their blows. And that not only brought the light of battle into my eye but prompted me to cross to the dish shelf and reach for Sock-Eye's old revolver. Then I lifted away the crossbar and swung the door open.

But instead of shrinking back they began to laugh at me and my threat of firing. They could see hesitation, I suppose, in the very way I held that old six-gun.

It was Eric the Red who swayed closest to me.

"Mightn't it go off, angel-eyes?" he taunted.

"It will," I warned him, "unless you stand back."

I could even feel an impulse to resent his mockery stiffen my fingers on the trigger. But he was too quick for me.

With an unexpected upswipe of his hand he knocked my arm above my head. The shock of that blow made the revolver go off, high in the air, and before the smoke cleared away they were crowding in closer, pretending to be fighting for its possession. I could see, by their laughing faces, that they rather liked my struggles. But they made it a point to keep my right hand pinioned above my head.

"It mustn't lose its temper," said Ericson, with his face close to mine. He even passed mockingly admiring fingers across my tumbled forelock. And as I shrank back from that odious touch a motor truck of battleship-gray came clattering across the clearing.

It wasn't until I saw him pushing in through the crowd that I realized the newcomer was Lander. He scattered the startled transients right and left as he came. A heavy-bodied man, who tried to block his way, went suddenly flat on the doorway soil as my rescuer's fist thudded against his jaw. The crowd was no longer laughing.

Ericson, close to me in the doorway, half-turned to fathom the reason for the sudden silence. And I could see Lander's mouth harden into a grimmer line as he saw and recognized that half-turned face. The mallet-like fist, swinging for the second time, sent my tormentor sprawling in across the cabin floor. He lay there, face-down, as Lander turned on the resentful group behind him.

They fell back a little, trilling and shouting as they went. But they all fell back. Lander, stooping down from his towering height, lifted Ericson from the floor and flung him out through the open door. Then he reached for the revolver still clutched in my hand and took it away from me.

YOUNG BULLS REQUIRE CARE

Good Feeding Produces Best Results.

By L. J. CASE

(Extension Animal Husbandman, N. C. State College.)

Many farmers have recently added a herd of beef cattle to their agricultural enterprises. It is highly important that they take adequate care of the herd bull, especially if the animal is young.

Young bulls should be well fed and cared for in order to grow them out properly. A good ration is equal parts of corn, crushed oats and wheat bran, and all the legume hay the animal will eat. If legume hay is not available, add about one-half pound of a protein supplement with the grain mixture. Where wheat bran is too high in price, double the amount of oats in the ration.

The total amount of grain to be fed should vary with the condition of the bull, but in no case should it be necessary to feed more than one pound to each 100 pounds live weight of the animal. Small amounts of good sweet silage may be fed to the bull, but large quantities may prove detrimental.

The young bull should have access to salt and pure water at all times, and a rigorous mixture of equal parts of steamed bone meal, ground limestone, and salt should be kept where he can help himself.

The beef type bull should not be put into service until he is at least one year old. The first year he may be used on not over 10 or 12 cows, one service to the cow. The bull should have access to a well-fenced lot or pasture where he can take exercise. An open shed or shelter of some kind should be available. Some bred cows running in the same lot with the bull will induce exercise. In no case should the young bull be allowed to run with unbred females.

Rotation Grazing of Sheep Prevents Stomach Worms

Rotation grazing of sheep is the ideal preventive measure for stomach worms, believe animal pathologists of the University of Illinois college of agriculture.

Since preventive measures are based on breaking the life cycle of the worm, the young and uninfested animals should not be infested to contact the manure from infested animals. Most serious effects are seen among lambs, and since growth must be made while the animals are young, the safest pastures should be made available to the lambs.

First symptoms are dullness, lack of thrift and often diarrhea. Later the skin and mucous membranes of the eye and mouth become pale as a result of the anemia caused by the blood-sucking habits of the parasite. Swellings may appear along the lower jaw, dewlap or brisket.

Stomach worms are tiny blood-sucking worms 1/2 to 1 1/4 inches long and smaller than an ordinary pin. The adult worm attaches itself to the lining of the fourth stomach and feeds for awhile, then commonly shifts to a new point of attachment, leaving a bleeding wound resembling a pin-prick. The adult female lays many eggs which pass out with the droppings and contaminate the ground. The eggs hatch in from a few hours to several days, depending upon conditions of temperature and moisture. The larvae undergo further development until they reach a stage capable of infesting the host. In this stage they are very resistant to drying and low temperature.

When the grass is wet the larvae crawl up blades of grass to be swallowed by grazing sheep. Reaching the stomach, they mature in two to three weeks and in another week or two the females are producing eggs in large numbers.

Farm Notes

American cash income from farm marketings and government payments in December amounted to $837,000,000 as compared with $801,000,000 in December of 1939.

Recent reports from Vichy say that most of the cattle in unoccupied France will soon have to be slaughtered because of a critical shortage of corn, barley, oats and other feed.

The United States produces about 30 per cent of the world's beef supply. Argentina, Brazil, and Uruguay combined produce about 25 per cent.

Some agricultural experts believe that with farm labor costs going up just as farmers are sending their sons into the draft army, there will be an increasing need for farm machinery.

Prices of ready-to-wear clothing increased 5 to 10 per cent in 1940 and are expected to rise as much more in 1941. Woolen garments and leather goods are especially likely to rise in price because of the demand for wool, hides, and leather for defense purposes.

PATTERNS SEWING CIRCLE

YOU must have a button-to-the-hem frock this season. This thoroughly American classic blooms in the spring with perennial but ever varied smartness. Here's a new design (No. 1338-B) that gives you a new slant on an all-important style—specifically, the rakish angle of the buttoned pockets, stressed by rows of stitching. The notched collar is made with the new longer points. Easy to make, to put on and to wear.

This classic style makes up smartly in practically every run-about fabric—flak crepe, thin wool, spun rayon and silk print. Pattern provides for short sleeves, or long sleeves in the popular bishop style. Detailed sew chart included.

Pattern No. 1338-B is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Corresponding bust measurements 30, 32, 34, 36 and 38. Size 14 (32) requires, with short sleeves, 4 yards of 39-inch material; long sleeves, 4 1/2 yards. Send order to:

FIRST-AID to the AILING HOUSE
By ROGER B. WHITMAN

(© Roger B. Whitman—WNU Service.)

Effects of Condensation.
QUESTION: A house that we bought last year was freshly painted, but within two months the outside paint blistered, except on porches and other places that did not touch the inside walls. In winter, windows steam so badly that water runs down and has rotted the window casings and spoiled the paper below. Upstairs is not finished, and paint outside of upstairs does not blister. We have hot air heat and a cistern in the basement. What causes the trouble?

Answer: That trouble all comes from too much dampness in the air of the house. This may be from over use of the humidifier in your furnace. Another cause may be the burning of natural gas in open burners; every gas burner should be connected to a flue to carry the vapors outdoors. The cistern may also be responsible; it should have a tight cover. You can check the steaming on your windows by applying storm sash and tight weatherstrips. You should also fill the joints between window frames and outside walls with caulking compound.

Banging Steam Pipes.
Question: We are annoyed by a loud banging in the steam pipes to the second floor. This occurs mainly at night when the radiators are cold, and automatic heat goes on. The house is five years old, and the owner says the noise has been present from the first. One plumber tells us that nothing can be done about it. Can you make any suggestions?

Answer: That banging is due to a section of the pipe that is level, or on a bank slant, instead of being slanted toward the boiler. As a result, water collects in it, and interferes with the passage of steam to the radiator. Very often raising the radiator on blocks of wood one-half inch thick, or even more, will end the trouble. Otherwise, the water-trap in the pipe must be located and straightened out.

Basement Finish.
Question: My house has now been built about six months, and condensation that troubled me has now disappeared. In finishing a basement room, what can I use for the floor and walls?

Answer: For the walls, use cement paint of a kind intended for masonry. For the floor, the kind of dye that you name should be excellent. This will give color, but you will not be able to use rugs or mats on the floor. You should look forward to laying asphalt tiles, or a new kind of linoleum that is proof against rotting when laid on the concrete floor of a basement.

Mice in a Car.
Question: How can mice be kept from gnawing holes in the upholstery of a car stored for the winter in a country garage?

Answer: Scatter quantities of moth balls all over the inside of the car. If the car is of the closed type, and the doors and windows are shut, the odor inside will keep any small animals from entering. If the car is open, it should be covered with canvas, building paper, or in some other way, so that the vapor of the moth balls cannot escape. It may be necessary to replenish the moth balls some time during the winter.

Poison Ivy.
Question: My backyard is in a natural state, with a rocky ledge and trees. Poison ivy is growing there. How can I get rid of it?

Answer: In every locality you can find someone who is immune to ivy poisoning, and who can grub up the plants and get rid of them once and for all. Sprinkling the leaves with a solution of rock salt and water, with a little soap added, will make them shrivel. If this is continued, as new leaves and shoots show the roots will eventually die. Do not let this solution get on the ground, for it will kill all vegetation.

White Cast on Doors.
Question: Can anything be done to restore stained doors that have a whitish cast from being wiped with a wet cloth?

Answer: The whitish misty cast can be removed by wiping with a mixture of 1 tablespoon of cider vinegar in a quart of water; rub this on with a soft cloth in the direction of the grain, and wipe dry. A thin coat of wax well rubbed in will protect the finish.

Hollow Sound.
Question: The eight steps to my stoop are against brick walls, with one side open. When entering or leaving there is a hollow sound. How can I overcome it?

Answer: The space underneath is empty, so that you get the effect of a drum. If the hollow sound is a recent development, it may be because the under parts are rotting. You should investigate.

Tailored Silk Suits, Dresses Reflect Beau Brummel Styles

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

A FASHION that appeals to best-dressed women everywhere is the suit or costume tailored of either black or navy silk faille. There is a refinement and ladylikeness about these tailors that women love.

There is a patrician look about the suavely fitted, smartly detailed silk costumes in the illustration. You will be hearing much during the coming weeks about the Regency period fashions to which contemporary designers are turning for ideas or new inspiration. Our style creators are translating these costumes of the "dandies," who gloried in molded waistlines, peplum flared coatees, wide picturesque cuffs, fastidiously frilled waistcoats and wrist lingerie frills, into practical contemporary fashions, such as are here shown.

The black silk faille suit to the left in the picture reflects the Regency influences of the Beau Brummels of the past in its neat slender waistline, accented by a peplum silhouette, flared collar and cuffs and beruffled lingerie accents. The enormous felt hat is especially chic in that it typifies a smart, new millinery trend. These hats are particularly pretty in pastels, worn with either navy or black spring costumes.

The simplicity of the silk crepe dress to the right in the trio is a master stroke in costume design as interpreted this season by foremost designers. Note the new longer waistline. It is just this type of dress that invites lingerie accents. With a gown or coat dress of this sort, you can change it entirely with new accessories. Note the white frills in the sleeves.

Black wool and silk faille adapt well to the lines of the dressmaker suit centered in the group. The jacket features the new dropped shoulder yoke, with bracelet length sleeves and unpressed pleated peplum. Unpressed front pleats introduce new skirt interest. The blouse is of white mousseline de soie.

Another type of silk costume suit that is a leading fashion is the redingote ensemble. The great advantage is that the redingote can be worn either with its companion dress of faille or crepe or with print frocks. Many of the new redingotes are strictly tailored in straight slim lines. Others depart from the straight and narrow path by introducing front pleats and sometimes back yokes to give freedom across the shoulders.

Very smart, too, are black or navy silk coats, elaborately braided down the fronts. Also, a striking new note are glittering jeweled buttons, fastening the jacket of simple black or navy silks. Many flower buttons in realistic colorings are used on the new silk tailors.

Print-Bow Trim

The ingenious use of print with plain is outstanding fashion news for spring. Especially attractive and chic is a new print silk bow technique used in jacket and bodice fastenings, as illustrated. The black, white and golden yellow silk print is striped horizontally for the dress, with the stripes applied in bands to the black wool jacket. Unpressed pleats give subtle fullness to the skirt. This model shows that the idea of print with plain is being used with refreshing originality.

Shades of Deep Purple

Seen in Spring Fashions

Purple and violet and kindred shades are color features being highlighted this spring. Many suits and cape costumes are tailored of purple or violet-toned tweeds this spring. Topped with a fetching little straw chapeau, trimmed in violet, with violet boutonniere to match, this ensemble sings fashion's spring song.

The new lavenders and purples go charmingly with navy. Lots of white frills on a navy suit, navy or violet felt hat with violet flower trim and you're ready for the sun! Lavender veils or light green ones are accessory "musts" with purple ensembles.

Bright Red Colors

Red is registering one of the biggest color triumphs of the season. Young girls "dote" on the new red coats and jackets, some of which fasten with military brass buttons.

Prints with red backgrounds are creating a sensation. Some are patterned with navy or black or beige and green motifs. You really must have a red print frock.

It's the fashion to match hat and handbag this season. Try carrying out the idea in red straw or fabric, and don't forget to add a red veil. You will like red accents with your navy suit or redingote ensemble, and red accessories will add an exotic touch to your new beige outfit.

Chinese Hats

A custom among Chinese maidens is to wear clusters of flowers at each side of the head. It is this pretty headdress which has given inspiration for a new fashion that some predict will develop into an important vogue during the coming months. A noted American millinery designer has devised a band that curves to fit the head. This is covered with ribbon, and at each side flowers or ribbon bows are attached. You wear this fitted bandeau like little girls used to wear round combs. This is a real help to those who prefer to go hatless.

USING WITNESSING POWER

LESSON TEXT—Acts 2:14; 4:8-20.
GOLDEN TEXT—They were all filled with the Holy Ghost, and they spoke the word of God with boldness.—Acts 4:31.

In the right place at the right time and in the right attitude—these are unfailing conditions of divine blessing.

Note also how fitting it was that on that Sunday morning—evidently in the upper room—the disciples were "with one accord in one place," ready for the great gift of power and grace for life and ministry which God had for them, and through them for the world. One wonders what might happen today if Christian people would be in God's house on the Lord's day, in complete accord and unity, expectant, looking for His blessing.

I. The Holy Spirit Poured Out (2:1-4).

"We are not to imagine that at this Pentecost He first came into the world. In all ages He had been imparting life and guidance and strength and holiness to the people of God; but He was now to work with a new instrument, namely, the truth concerning a crucified, risen, ascended, divine Saviour. For the proclamation of this truth the Church was the appointed agent. The story of Pentecost, therefore, is the first chapter in the history of the Church as it witnesses for Christ, and it embodies the impressive lesson that in all successful witnessing the power is that of the Spirit and the instrument is the message of the gospel."

The outpouring of the Spirit on the day of Pentecost was accompanied by signs of great power, and a special endowment which enabled all the strangers in Jerusalem to hear the gospel in their own tongue. "This ability to speak in foreign languages not previously learned was merely a temporary endowment granted for a special purpose. It was one of those miraculous spiritual gifts which marked the age of the apostles. In modern times the claim to possess this power has never been established on credible evidence, nor is the dominance of the Spirit in the life of a believer to be tested by the presence of any special gift!" (Charles R. Erdman).

II. Mighty Works Performed (4:8-9).

Reference is made here to the healing of the lame man—a miracle which resulted in the imprisonment of Peter and John. It was a work of power, but only the first of many which the disciples were to perform. An even greater work was that of the Spirit-filled preaching of the gospel which brought 3,000 souls into the church (2:41). As we marvel at that event, we need also to keep before us the recurring day-by-day miracle of the regeneration of individuals (2:47). This was, and is, accomplished through the teaching of the Word (2:42).

III. True Witness Presented (4:8-12).

The rulers and leaders (especially the skeptical aristocrats of that day—the Sadducees) were angered by the proclamation of the resurrection of the One they had crucified. They also feared that their rich revenues from the temple might be cut off if the people were to follow Christ (4:4), so they took the disciples into custody and brought them before the Sanhedrin.

Humanly speaking, one might have expected these men to stand in fear and awe before that august body, and either become dumb with terror or brazenly defiant. But such is not the operation of the Holy Spirit in a man. They spoke tactfully, but boldly, of the death and resurrection of the only One in whom there is any salvation.

IV. Faithful Though Persecuted (4:13-20).

Not being able to make any real charge against the disciples, the rulers let them go, but only after threatening them and forbidding them to speak any more of Christ. They, like so many religious leaders of today, were quite willing that the disciples should preach, if they would only leave out the name of Christ.

Note the answer in verse 19. There is only one message (v. 12). "Neither is there any other name under heaven, that is given among men, wherein we must be saved"; thus Peter asserts not only that the miracle has been wrought in the name of Jesus-Christ, but that he and his judges can have eternal salvation in no other name. His words are at once a rebuke, a challenge, and an invitation. They need to be reviewed and weighed today by certain benevolent but superficial talkers who are asserting that Christianity is only one among many religions, and that it is only necessary for one to be sincere in his own belief. Such teachers must reconcile their statements with those of Peter and John, who were "filled with the Holy Spirit" when they declared that there is but one name wherein we must be saved."

THE PUBLIC nature of advertising benefits everyone it touches. It benefits the public by describing exactly the products that are offered. It benefits employees, because the advertiser must be more fair and just than the employer who has no obligation to the public. ATHLETIC AWARDS MADE AT SPECIAL ASSEMBLY

An outdoor assembly was held behind the ruins of the high school building April 10. Awards were given for athletic achievements in the 1940-1941 season. Coach Cohn made the presentations. The following is the list of letter winners in various sports.

Baseball — 1940
Northern Michigan "C" Conference Champions.
The squad was composed of the following: Frank Crowell (captain), Chris Bulow, Arthur Gerard, Clifford Ayers, Vale Gee, Harold Hayner, Dale Gee, Roland Woodcock, Francis Antoine, Ernest Mockerman, and Lawrence Stanek.
Honorable mention went to Bill Saxton and Gerald Green.
Tennis — 1940
The tennis team had a pretty lean season for the first time in several years. The squad was made up of Harold Hayner, Dale Gee, Ernest Mockerman, Ted Malpass, Dick McKinnon, Vale Gee, Fred Bechtold, and Bud Bugai.

Football — 1940
The football team had a good season, winning six games and losing one. The Class C Championship was lost to Boyne City, 8 to 6.
The squad was made up of the following boys who received letters: Dale Gee (captain), Vale Gee, Roland Woodcock, Harold Hayner, Harry Watson, Dick McKinnon, Ted Malpass, Darwin Penfold, Lawrence Kelly, Fred Bechtold, Bob Strehl (captain elect for 1941), Bernard Sturgell, Gerald Green, Bill Saxton, Henry Grutsch and Tyson Kemp.
Honorable mention went to Leo Nemecek, Leland Hickox, Ernest Stallard, Frank Compo, Edward Perry, Bill Walden, Bruce Woodcock, August LaPeer, Leon Peterson (injured), and Russell Conway.
Basketball — 1940-41
The 1940-41 basketball season was another lean one. There were four games won, and eleven lost. Letter winners were: Vale Gee and Roland Woodcock (co-captains), Dale Gee, Harold Hayner, Lawrence Stanek, Gerald Green, Tyson Kemp, Bill Saxton and Bernard Sturgell.
Honorable mention went to the members of the Reserve team. They were Bruce Woodcock, Leo Nemecek, Leland Hickox, Bill Walden, Parker Seiler, Russell Weaver, Junior St. Charles, Frank Compo, Edward Perry, Russell Conway, Donald Sutton, and Forest Rogers (injured).
Special mention was given to the Table Tennis Champion, Dick McKinnon, who defeated Ted Malpass; and to the Country Indoor baseball champions, Edward Nachazel's team.
The cheerleaders also received awards. The senior cheerleaders, Mae Pollitt and Jean Galmore, received charms. Patty Sinclair and Jean Dennis received special letters for their first year as cheerleaders.

1941 BASEBALL TEAM
Spring baseball practice has started, and Northern Michigan's Class C "Champs" prepare to defend their title. As of last year, no pitchers have been named, but it looks as if Dale Gee and Bill Saxton may share the hurling duties. Two or three men have been mentioned for the catching duties.
Coming back from last year's squad are D. Gee, V. Gee, Hayner, Green, Woodcock, Sturgell, Saxton, and Bugai. Leo Nemecek, Jim Davis, Parker Seiler, Louis Addis, and Russell Conway are also out.
There will be plenty of power at the plate this year, and if we get some good fielding and pitching, East Jordan will be a tough unit to beat.

RATES ON MICHIGAN BELL LONG DISTANCE CALLS REDUCED

700,000 CUSTOMERS WILL SHARE REFUNDS OF $1,500,000

The Michigan Bell Telephone Company is moving promptly to comply with the order of the former Michigan Public Utilities Commission, which has just been upheld by the State Supreme Court, to reduce intrastate long distance rates to the level of interstate rates.

That will mean savings of approximately $700,000 a year to long distance users, based on present volume of usage.

Messages will be charged at the new rates as soon as the new tariffs can be filed and are accepted by the Michigan Public Service Commission. Until then, messages will be charged at the old rates and will be subject to later refund.

TO REFUND $1,500,000

Under the order, the Company will make refunds or credits of the difference between the intrastate and interstate rates paid by its long distance customers since August 1, 1938, effective date of the order. That money, totaling $1,500,000, has been impounded in a bank designated by the Court, without interest.

More than 65,000,000 long distance call records, involving the accounts of 700,000 users of the service must be checked. Therefore, it will be some weeks before the refunds or credits can be made or information given with regard to specific accounts. However, in the interest of speeding the work, the checking has been started.

WORK WILL BE SPEEDED

The Company will at once request a supplementary court order authorizing methods to be followed in making the returns.

Calls made within the state between points more than 42 miles apart are affected.

As soon as additional information becomes available with respect to the method of making the refunds or credits it will be advertised in this paper.
