Fine Showing By Our Band

JUDGES COMMENT SHEET GIVES OUR YOUTHS GOOD RATINGS

East Jordan School Band went to Petoskey last Saturday April 26, and played in the Festival in which fifteen bands took part. Our band played at 10:30 in the morning and according to the Judge's Comment Sheet which was handed to each director later in the day, East Jordan has nothing to be ashamed of.

Comments as follows: Tone B plus B— Intonation B— E—, Interpretation, A— A—, Technique A— A—, General effect B— B plus, Stage Department o.k. Marching B.

Although our school has had better bands in the past, East Jordan was one of the best Class C. Bands there. The massed playing was greatly enjoyed by everyone in the band. Two buses brought back a tired but happy group of boys and girls about 11:30 p. m.

This week, Friday, May 2, the band will go to Gaylord to play a joint concert with Mr. Ter Wee's Gaylord school Band. Each band will play their two festival numbers and play the rest of the program in unison.

The concert will be in Gaylord's Gymnasium and is free.

East Jordan people are invited to come to Gaylord to hear these two bands perform.

Despite the uncivilized warfare being waged by supposedly civilized countries the Red Cross is carrying on, through it all, their traditional work. One of the important branches of this service is relief to prisoners of war. After long negotiations the International Red Cross Committee at Geneva have finally arranged to bring standard food parcels, articles of clothing and other comfort items to war prisoners. Ten thousand standard food parcels are enroute to Geneva. Most of these will be distributed by the International Committee to needy prisoners of British, Polish, French or Belgian nationality. As we mentioned last week persons here in the U. S. may order parcels delivered to identified prisoners. Both purchased and Chapter made clothing articles are enroute to Geneva for distribution and additional food parcels are on order.

The Red Cross Inquiry and Information Service is primarily for the relief to the hearts and minds of worried relatives and friends concerning persons in war affected countries. Through March 8th this service had accepted more than 70,000 inquiries and more than 37,000 reports had been received on these requests. The service also carries a large volume of correspondence regarding the sending of money or packages abroad.

Drive For Benefit of Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts Opens Today

With the Slogan "Let's all help make Young Americans be Real Americans" as their guide, the Troop Committee for East Jordan Boy Scout Troop No. 10 opens a drive today to raise funds for the benefit of both the local Boy Scout and Girl Scout Troops. In making a public appeal for money the committee feels that everyone should be given an opportunity to contribute to this worthwhile cause. By contributing we do our bit towards giving our young citizens the advantages of training and leadership that every red blooded young American Boy and Girl longs for and should have.

Hittler abolished the Scouts because Scouts were taught and trained to be fair and honest and think and act as their best judgement in any emergency dictated. We here in America, and in other Nations where people are free, encourage and support the Scouts because all members of Scout Troops are taught to live up to and do live up to the rules of Scouting. Picture a young man, maybe your son, as he takes the Scout Oath:

"On My Honor I will do my best. To Do my duty to God and my country. To Obey the Scout Laws. To Help other people at all times. To keep myself physically strong, mentally awake and morally straight, or as he takes the Scout sign and pledges himself as a Scout to 'Be Prepared' and to be Trustworthy, loyal, helpful, friendly, courteous, kind, obedient, cheerful, thrifty, brave, clean, and reverent. It really means something to them and that fact alone should mean enough to their elders to cause them to dig deep and thus help the scouting program in our community continue.

Every business and professional man and their employees will be solicited individually. Those who are not solicited and who desire to contribute may leave their contributions at the bank. The money raised will be used to pay this community's share of the expense in hiring a field executive for Charlevoix, Emmett and Cheboygan Counties for the Boy Scout Troop and to buy equipment and pay other necessary expenses for both the Boy Scout and Girl Scout Troops. It will all be spent under the direction of the Troop Committees.

The Boy Scout slogan is "Do a Good Turn Daily." The boys and girls have been doing it. Its time now to do them a good turn. Lets do it now.

VALEDICTORIAN AND SALUTATORIAN ARE NAMED

Suzanne Porter has been named valedictorian of the graduating class of 1941. Her high school average is 3.8276. Elizabeth Hickox, as salutatorian, has an average of 3.6785.

These two girls will speak at Commencement which will be held May 23 at the Temple Theater. The guest speaker at commencement exercises this year will be Dr. Charles Ansbach, president of Central State Teachers' College at Mount Pleasant.

Following the valedictorian and salutatorian the next five highest in class standing are Margaret Strehl with an average of 3.5926; Evangeline Cutler, 3.4643; Mason Clark, 3.2856; John Lenosky, 3.2142; and Glenn Trojanek, 3.0000.

EAST JORDAN BAND ATTENDS FESTIVAL IN PETOSKEY

The seventh annual High School Band and Orchestra festival was held in Petoskey, April 26.

Fifteen bands and two orchestras participated. Mr. Ray Miller, assistant band director at Wayne University, was judge.

Individual performances were given in the high school auditorium. At 12:45 there was a parade with all bands participating. In the evening, under the direction of Mr. Miller, the massed bands presented a program in the high school gymnasium.

The East Jordan High School band played two numbers: "The Crusaders Overture" by Forrest L. Buchtel, which is the National Class C contest number, and "Fair Chicago," a march by Victor Grabel.

The judge, Ray Miller, rated them very high for their performance.

JUNIOR HIGH SOFTBALL LEAGUES FORMED

Two Junior High School softball leagues have been formed in the past few weeks. They are under the leadership of R. Safford, G. Weaver, and B. Taylor, W.P.A. recreation leaders. There are four teams in each league.

In the boys' league C. Saxton, A. Graham, Jr. Murphy, and K. Bartholomew are captains of the "Tigers," "Wildcats," "Bears," and "Lions," respectively.

In the girls' league, V. Evans, S. Sinclair, B. Bader, and C. Knop are captains of the "Pirates," "Yankees," "Braves," and "Cardinals" respectively.

C. Saxton's "Tigers" lead the boys' league having won two and lost no games. Murphy and Bartholomew have both won one and lost one. Graham has won none and lost two. S. Sinclair's "Yankees" lead the girls' league with two wins and no losses. Evans and Knop have each won one and lost one. B. Bader's "Braves" bring up the rear with two losses and no wins.

CLASS C CHAMPS DROP FIRST GAME

The high school baseball team, under Coach Cohn, traveled to Harbor Springs last Friday in quest of victory to start the season. Up until the last inning it looked as if that victory was "in the bag." East Jordan was leading four to nothing. But Harbor rallied to win 5 to 4.

East Jordan will play at Mancelona Tuesday, April 30; The first home game will be Friday, May 2, against Boyne City. This game starts at 5:00 p.m.

Season tickets are on sale. They cost twenty-five cents and include four home games.

MOVIE CLUB ORGANIZED

A group of high school students met last Friday and organized a club, to be known as the Projector Club. This club, as the name indicates, has been formed to obtain a movie projector for the high school. It was felt that there was a need for such a projector in the school. Therefore, the group has pledged itself to the task of getting such a machine for E. J. H. S.

Thirty dollars is needed in order to get such a machine. Many people have already helped, students and townspeople alike.

This machine will not belong to the Projector Club. It will belong to the school itself.

Mrs. Joseph Cihak Passes Away After Four Months Illness

Mrs. Joseph Cihak passed away at her home in East Jordan, Saturday, April 26, following an illness of four months from a complication of diseases.

Anna Pesek was born in Bohemia March 8, 1888. She came to the United States in 1910, locating in Chicago. On Dec. 1st, 1911 she was united in marriage to Joseph Cihak in Chicago. They came to East Jordan shortly after their marriage, locating on a farm in Jordan township.

They also later on purchased the residence in East Jordan where she passed away.

Beside the husband, she is survived by a daughter, Miss Mary Cihak, Detroit; three sons, Fred, Albert and Ralph Cihak, East Jordan; two sisters, Mrs. Mary Holub and Mrs. Nettie Maleik, Chicago.

Funeral services were held at the farm home Tuesday forenoon, April 29, conducted by Fr. Joseph J. Malinowski, pastor of St. Johns Catholic church. Burial was at the Jordan township cemetery.

Among those here to attend the funeral were the daughter and two sisters of Chicago.

R.E.A. Officials To Meet At Boyne City

On Saturday, April 26th, there was a state wide meeting of R. E. A. Project Directors, Attorneys and Managers, held at the Rowe Hotel at Grand Rapids. Those present representing the Top O' Michigan Rural Electric Company of Boyne City, were Dr. C. G. Jensen, President, Leon W. Miller, Attorney, and Harold S. Lees, Manager.

The matter of cooperative education was fully discussed, as well as the various rural electric problems.

The next state wide meeting of R. E. A. Project Directors and Managers will be held at Boyne City at the Hotel Dilworth, Saturday, May 31st. An attendance of at least 150 is anticipated.

Program Seeks Increase In Vegetables for Canning

A program to expand the production of tomatoes for canning by 50% to meet probable demands for canned tomatoes under the Lend-Lease Act, and for distribution by the American Red Cross as well as for school lunch, relief and other purposes, was announced today by Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard. The need for immediate action to secure the necessary acreage to produce an extra 15,000,000 cases of canned tomatoes was emphasized, as planting must be made during the next few weeks in order to insure the required supply. Smaller quantities of peas, corn and snap beans may also be purchased from time to time, but no advance purchases at this time are contemplated.

Growers who participate in the A-A Program will not incur any deductions from their payments because of increases in acreages of these vegetables for canning. Any acreage devoted to tomatoes, snap beans, peas, and sweet corn which is contracted for canning will be classified as non-depleting in connection with the 1941 AAA Program. However, the classifications of these crops will be soil-depleting, if they are sold on the market as fresh vegetables.

Apple Scab Gets Early 1941 Start

CLOSE ATTENTION TO SPRAYING SETS A DEFINITE VALUE

Michigan's only serious apple disease, apple scab, jumped to the earliest start in 11 years in the recent rainy and warm days.

This likely will be a year in which close attention to a good spraying will set a definite value on the apple crop, according to Don Cation, research assistant in plant pathology at Michigan State College.

Most fruit growers already have applied the first spray at the green tip stage. Five sprays are necessary for best control, although growers who have but a few trees often apply spray just before and after blossoming. This does reduce the amount of scab damage.

Treatment is with liquid lime sulfur at the rate of one gallon in 40 to 50 gallons of water. Complete directions for scab control are found in the Michigan State College Spraying Calendar, Extension Bulletin 154.

In the recent rains, beginning with those of April 18, 19 and 20, the scab began discharging spores in central and southern Michigan. The spores come from old leaves on the ground and reach the new leaves and buds by way of air currents.

Young flowers, the potential apples, are especially susceptible to scab spore growth. On the mature fruit, the disease is recognized by the black, scabby areas which detract from appearance and lower keeping quality.

Another effect of the scab, Cation reminds growers, is to increase the drop of young fruit which lowers the yield of apples.

EXTENSION GROUPS ACHIEVEMENT DAY SET FOR FRIDAY MAY 9

May 9 has been set as the date for the annual achievement day for the home extension groups throughout Antrim county, according to Mrs. Glenn Bush, chairman.

The event will be held at the Bellaire community hall as in the past years.

This year's event promises to be the largest ever as approximately two hundred women are enrolled in the fourteen groups about the county. This is the largest enrollment in the history of the work in the county.

Plans call for an all day event starting at 10 o'clock with motion pictures, followed by the annual business meeting. During the afternoon program which features Karl McDonald, Assistant Director of Extension Work, who will show colored slides of his recent western trip.

FEED THE FAMILY FROM THE FARM

An estimated 40,000 Michigan farms, of which Antrim county has its share, operate annually without farm family gardens.

As an aid to farm families, so that cash can be used for other phases of a more complete life, the Extension Service in agriculture and home economics at Michigan State College has prepared a brief but highly usable bulletin "Feed the Family from the Farm." Copies can be obtained from the office of the Antrim county agricultural Agent, Walter G. Kirkpatrick, Bellaire, or by writing to the Bulletin Room, Michigan State College, East Lansing.

Six pages tell of the advantages of planning, planting, and preserving. Gardens, poultry, meat animals, and dairy animals are involved. The inside of the bulletin folds out to disclose a food schedule based on annual needs of average families.

There are suggestions for production of these supplies and blank columns in which families can estimate the amounts needed by the family, how much can be produced on the home farm and the amounts to be purchased. Under subjects there are references to more detailed publications that can be obtained from the college and from the Extension Service.

IN MEMORIAM

LACROIX — In sad but loving memory of Shirley LaCroix, who died May 6, 1930, eleven years ago.

A tender son, a brother dear Has gone, and left us mourning here.

Germans, Greeks, British, All Suffer Losses in Fierce Balkan Fighting; U. S. Citizens Face Increased Taxes To Aid Paying National Defense Bill

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Like all large government undertakings when there are vast expenditures of public funds, the U. S. defense program is being given an investigation by congressional committees. Pictured here are Sen. Harry Truman of Missouri, senate investigation chairman, and members of his group as they visited the army camp at Fort Meade, Maryland. This was the first of six such camps inspected by this committee.

GREECE: Nazi Power

The Germans, it was apparent, were able to do in about three or four weeks what Italy had been unable to do in any length of time—beat the embattled Greeks.

The battle of Yugoslavia, which lasted nine days, being over, the Italians contented themselves with pursuing the Greek army of Epirus, only a shell, it is true, of the forces the Greeks had there originally, and which had to withdraw because of the onslaught of the Panzer divisions in the eastern part of the country.

When this army surrendered, it was certain that the end of Greek resistance was in sight. King George II, announcing that he had not been informed of the impending surrender of the western army, fled with his government to Crete, announcing he would continue to direct the offense from there.

But it was apparent that the Greek campaign must be abandoned, and the British must face another Dunquerque or lose their entire manpower on the mainland. The debarkation from Piraeus promised to be even a more difficult task than the flight from France, as German claims of sinking 59,000 tons of transports in one day showed.

Just as the British lost all their artillery and mobile units and the rest of their supplies in the retreat from the low countries, so it also appeared the vastly smaller army in Greece would, nevertheless, suffer the same loss, if, indeed, they were able to get away at all.

Military observers believed, when totaled up, the British disaster in Greece would amount to more from the standpoint of casualties than did the entire British campaign in France. And this they believed in spite of constant reports from London that "lines were holding firm" and that "new defensive positions were being consolidated"—reports circulated even at the moment when the king and government of Greece were in flight, and thousands of Greek soldiers were laying down their arms.

That this was a censorship "smoke screen" to attempt to cover a trial at withdrawal similar to the Dunquerque pattern seemed fairly obvious to most observers.

Central battle in the final debacle occurred at historic Thermopylae Pass, where in ancient times the Greeks had successfully withstood precarious threats to her independence. In fact, most military observers had always maintained that in order to conquer Greece Thermopylae Pass must first be threatened.

However, in ancient times, the pass was narrow indeed—now it was wider, the attackers had fast mobile units to pour into the fray, and the Greek and British rear guard, said the Germans, were totally unable to withstand the advance.

The cloud of censorship hid the facts about the British withdrawal, whether it would be entirely tried through Piraeus, or whether the British forces would retreat through Athens to the Peloponnese, and attempt to fight or debark there.

But certain it was that Greece was doomed, after three to four weeks of furious warfare, warfare in which the Germans suffered their heaviest losses of the war.

Economic Result

Whether it was "whistling going through a churchyard," or a well-considered opinion, "informed experts" at Washington seemed to feel that the Nazi conquest of Greece might be more economically costly than worthwhile.

They said the latest German triumph, on the contrary, might prove costly to the Nazis, for the devastation and physical upset of the population in the Balkans might seriously curtail the flow of supplies Germany had been receiving.

TAXES: Defense Finance

A "practically unanimous vote" of the house committee considering President Roosevelt's $3,500,000,000 tax plan to finance a portion of the national defense cost, seemed to grease the ways for the launching of a bill.

But almost immediately there were some signs that opposition would rise against the bill when, as and if it was brought out.

One of the basic ideas in the tax layout is a plan to levy higher surtaxes on everyone who now pays income tax. Another was to invade the lower brackets and make those pay taxes who are not now doing so.

For instance, it was pointed out in opposition quarters, the new proposed surtax schedule would make a childless couple now earning $2,500 net earned income, a couple now paying $11 income tax, hike their tax to $72.

All income taxes now include the tax on a tax, or the 10 per cent income tax supertax for defense purposes.

Despite the appearance of opposition, the President told a press conference he thought the nation well able to absorb a $3,500,000,000 hike in taxes. He said it would mean that people would have to buy a little less, and pay a little bit more for the sake of the defense and future of the nation.

'Little Man'

Most of the early opposition appeared to be against a plan which would place a heavy load on the already heavily taxed "little man" in the form of income tax where he would feel it the most.

Also the surtax would hit heavily insurance companies and banks who are heavy holders of government bonds. At top and at bottom seemed the chief opposition to the tax.

For instance, a single person with an income of $1,000 (net earned) would pay $29 tax under the proposed schedule instead of $4 as at present. A married couple with two children with an earned net income of $3,500 who would now be paying $15 income tax, would find their levy boosted to $100.

Under the plan, the 4 per cent tax would be retained, and the surtaxes would start with $2,000, (11 per cent) which would be a total of 15 per cent. To this would be added the defense supertax, or 10 per cent of the total tax, added to the bill.

The effective rate, therefore, on the bottom bracket, would be 16.5 per cent.

The treasury estimated that these changes, if put into effect, would raise a billion dollars a year, or a little less. The estate tax exemption, under another plan, would be reduced from $40,000 to $25,000, and rates in the lower and middle brackets would be raised.

This, the treasury experts said, would yield about a third of a billion. As a sample of this tax, if one inherited $20,000, over and above the exemption limit of $25,000, one would pay $1,800 to the treasury instead of $600 as at present.

If a person inherited $125,000, or $100,000 more than the proposed exemption, the tax would be hiked from the present $9,600 to $21,000.

STRIKES: And Prices

There was little doubt that prices, Leon Henderson or no Leon Henderson, were taking a generally upward trend, and that the strike situation, while somewhat improved, was not yet what it should be.

President Roosevelt's personal appeal to the southern coal operators to renegotiate with the northern operators and workers brought fruit, but whether this would end the strike speedily was dubious.

AFRICA: Blitz Stopped?

There were some dispatches from northern Africa that tended to show that the British had brought the Nazi-Fascist blitz to a standstill after losing practically all the territory gained against Mussolini's men earlier.

Particularly noteworthy was the bombardment of Tripoli by the fleet, an attack at the source of the invading army's supplies. Britain proudly hailed this attack, reported the port was in flames, and practically forced to close.

Whether landing parties would be sent ashore, and the British attempt an invasion at the rear of the German-Italian northern African army was not immediately clear, or whether it was that the British, having found where the opposing forces had landed, were seeking to close the port.

However, it was an offensive note where all had been defense for a long time.

Also, the British garrison at Tobruk was holding out in a long siege, and on top of this defensive note came word that the British had started a new attack on Bardia, some 75 miles to the west of Tobruk, which looked like the beginning of a move to attempt to raise the siege.

The attack, or rather raid, on Bardia, was carried out by a landing party from the fleet, and the party got back to the ships "almost intact" after doing considerable damage, blowing up a bridge, destroying a munitions dump and putting four coast defense guns out of business.

This going ashore and "spiking the guns" was an old tactic of war that now seems out of date, and it was refreshing to read about and to imagine the sneak ashore in the dark in small boats, the rapid move in surprise on the defenders, and the mad flight before dawn to the boats again.

Also it was announced from London that General Wavell had been given an assistant, with the title of deputy commander, Lieut. Gen. Blamey of Australia, who has been in command of the Australian forces. Now, whether this meant that Wavell was about to be removed, or that a bigger situation was to develop in Africa remained to be seen, but it was an interesting announcement, at all events, and meant that something was going on within the organization of an army that had just fled as fast as it had advanced.

The true story of the northern African campaign still was untold and that was increasingly evident.

JAPAN: Bitter Days

The Japanese, still meeting harsh resistance to their armed effort against the Chinese, and attempting to meet the demands of their new Axis partners that they do something as a military or naval power in the Orient, are meeting bitter days, according to analytical comment.

Instead of being able, through propaganda, to infiltrate with Nipponese influence into the Dutch East Indies, that territory is reported to be becoming more hostile than ever to the "new order."

The Dutch, said writers in that territory, have been watching the effect of Japanese influence in China, Korea and Indo-China, and they were said to have lost any interest they might have had in the probabilities of their fate if they should fall into Japanese hands.

Japan still was attempting to reach an economic accord, for instance, with Batavia, in Java, but the Batavians twice have called the whole conference off, only to reopen it later.

The Dutch are said to be angered by the Japanese practice of sending large missions to accomplish a simple task, and the local government feels that these emissaries are actually acting as military spies. This also is true of "tourists" from Japan, who had been filtering into the Dutch East Indies in large numbers.

Hearing on 3 1/2 Billion Tax Bill

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. (indicated by arrow) appearing before the house ways and means committee regarding the treasury's $3,500,000,000 revenue program, said: "We face a greater challenge than at any time in the history of the republic." He warned that all classes "shall bear their fair share of the burden."

Twenty of the fugitives have been rounded up.

Making Sparks Fly at Tank Plant

This picture is typical of the way the national defense program is progressing. Here two hooded welders at the plant of the American Car and Foundry company in Berwick, Pa., are shown at work on some of the armor plate that goes on the fighting tanks being turned out by the hundred. Tanks roll off the assembly line at a rapid rate.

Life in New Army Camps Different From Days of '17

Many Features of Civilian Life Are Retained; U. S. to Require Fortifying Bread With Vitamin B Complex.

By BAUKHAGE
National Farm and Home Hour Commentator.

(WNU Service, 1343 H. Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.)

WASHINGTON.—There is dry, white mud on my feet and white dust in my eyes. My nose has taken on a slightly more roseate tinge than usual.

From early this morning I watched a segment of Uncle Sam's new army through a driving mist of memories which are all that is left of the "young army" with which I marched 25 years ago.

I heard that irritatingly familiar cadence of reveille come floating across a Virginia parade ground—a once green field now scarred with thousands of hob-nailed boots. I saw the sleepy-eyed youths pile out of fresh, wooden barracks, looking no younger in their neat slacks and canvas leggings than we looked to each other in our lumpy wrap leggings and baggy breeches. I saw the ones in blue denim, ready for fatigue duty, looking just as we did.

Did we snap a more precise salute?

Did our middle-fingers stretch down a little straighter along the seam of our trousers, and our chests puff out a little farther when we came to "shun"? Were we a little more solemnly important when we changed guard, with our sentries at a stiff "port" barking "special orders" at each other in our best imitation of the way the sergeant barked at us?

Well, maybe. And maybe the sun shone brighter than it does today, too.

Visit Fort Belvoir.

The camp I visited is Fort Belvoir, down the road a bit from Mount Vernon, and the highway there divides the old and the new. Belvoir has been a permanent engineering camp since the last war and now, across the road, is a new soldier-city of fresh-cut pine, which stands where the pine trees themselves stood, only a few months ago. This replacement camp eventually will accommodate 10,000 men who, like the Sultan, in Omar Khayyam, take their one day's rest—only instead of a day, it is 13 weeks and it is no rest.

Here the boys, classified for the Engineer corps, get their first taste of army life, drill and discipline.

On this spot I saw familiar sights and others, strangely unfamiliar to a soldier of the emergency of 1917-1919.

There was the Post Exchange, an institution as old as an army post itself. But in one corner was a fountain dispensing ice cream sodas, and in another, a taproom dispensing the amber fluid—both beverages unknown in the camps of my soldiering days.

I saw the familiar barracks—but these were equipped with an air-circulating system.

I saw the neatly made cots—but I also saw a hostess house—at that moment housing a bevy of chorus girls who were putting on a Broadway review for the boys that night.

I met the hostess, a motherly woman and two junior hostesses—but not so junior that the girls back home need be too jealous.

Civilian Trimmings Retained.

Frankly, I went to the camp looking for signs of a "cream puff" atmosphere that some of the old-timers hinted were turning military life into a sort of prolonged college reunion. Perhaps that is happening. But the officers in charge of recreation with whom I talked were typical, serious military men. They said it was necessary to provide diversion and entertainment. We are not at war. Important as the defense of democracy may be, so far the spirit of the crusade has not touched the people. The people—in uniform and out—must not be allowed to feel that this period before the colors is an interruption in citizen life, but rather a part of it. And the normal habits of the civilian must not be cut off from the boys in camp. That seems to be the theory of the "trimmings" which the selectee is being offered by Uncle Sam.

I saw work, too! Men shoveling shovels as well as rifles; swinging pick-axes as well as doing sentry duty.

I went over a military road that had been cut out of forest and swamp, crossed a bridge strong enough to carry a tank, all built between morning and mid-afternoon—the work of the engineer officers and men. Most of the boys who did the actual work had had only a few weeks' training in the expert business of construction and destruction which is the engineer's task.

Government to Require Fortifying Bread Flour

When the Bible succinctly compressed the material needs of man into a single sentence—"give us this day our daily bread"—it put a world of meaning into a few short words. Unfortunately, while man still has needs which his daily bread once occupied, the modern loaf does not satisfy them.

So there is going to be a law—or at least a regulation by the Federal Security administrator which will have the force of law. This regulation will require standard bread flour to contain some of the ingredients vital to man's present needs, namely the "vitamin B complex." The Food and Drug administration has already promulgated a tentative standard. To meet it, certain properties which bread flour contained before modern refining processes removed them will be artificially restored. A new milling process which removes the indigestible hulls but not the health-giving qualities—the thiamin chloride, the nicotinic acid, the riboflavin and the iron—has just been invented also.

There is a long scientific explanation of why we need the "vitamin B complex" in our daily bread. To a layman this is the way a member of the department of agriculture explained it:

Thiamin Increases Courage.
"Thiamin," he said, "keeps you from growing jittery and nervous; it calms your nerves and provides a wider path between irascibility and uncertainty on one side and calmness and certainty on the other. It gives you courage."

"And that," he added, "is one reason, they tell us, for the bravery of the German troops under the terrific strain of modern warfare. We understand that beside giving the soldiers bread enriched with vitamins, the German army has a ration of vitamin pills for its men."

The nicotinic acid in the so-called enriched flour, prevents the dread pellagra.

Unfortunately, enriching the flour does not help those people who do not get the white bread at all. Where people eat corn bread instead of bread from wheat flour, the new rules and regulations will have no effect. It is in such areas where pellagra flourishes.

An expert dietician tells me that one way to tell a person who lacks thiamin is to tell him a real good joke. He will not laugh. But think of how easy to make a joke if everybody has enough of this remarkable elixir!

Declining Tourist Trade Costly to Canada

In America there is a man who, purely as a hobby, has constituted himself as a sort of one-man travel and publicity agent for Canada. His name is Schuyler Baldwin Terry. He started out to be a historian with a Ph. D. at the University of Chicago, took a course at the University of London, wrote an authoritative book, entitled "The Financing of the Hundred Years War," quoted in debates in parliament. Then he suddenly decided that he was more interested in economics than history and got a job as office boy in an old New England banking firm. He accumulated a comfortable fortune, retired, and ever since has devoted his time to travel and talking and writing about the development of a closer bond between this nation and our sister-nation to the north.

Mr. Terry is particularly disturbed about the falling off of American visitors to Canada of late which he says, has cost Canada a hundred million dollars. False and malicious rumors, concerning conditions resulting from the war and alleged difficulties which might be encountered in returning to this country, he declares are causing Americans to stay away from Canada. The dollars which Canada has lost, he points out, mean just that many fewer purchases Canada can make in the United States.

Farm and Hom-ilies . . . by Baukhage

With summer coming on probably a lot of the less energetic lads who join the army will apply for service with the ski troops. There is a report that one pale young ski-trooper did such a good job of camouflaging himself during practice maneuvers with the army last winter that his fellow soldiers could not find him until after the snow melted.

The federal department of justice in Washington reports that during 1940 there was a major crime committed every 21 seconds, a robbery every 10 minutes, a burglary every 1 1/2 minutes and a larceny every 35 seconds. The rate of minor crimes was much greater than this. Looks as though the national "offense" program is not slowing down.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

THE CHURCH ENLARGING ITS FELLOWSHIP

LESSON TEXT—Acts 8:1-8, 14-17, 25. GOLDEN TEXT—Therefore they that were scattered abroad went everywhere preaching the word.—Acts 8:4.

In a time characterized by materialism and commercialism, it is refreshing to consider the manner in which the early church spread the gospel far and wide. They did this without thought of personal gain or advantage, and with a sacrificial devotion to Christ which caused men and women to be willing to die for Him, and, what may sometimes be even harder, to live for Him in the face of persecution. Here was loyalty that puts expediency to shame, and sacrifice of self for Christian principle which needs emphasis in this "soft" age.

The enlarging of the church is revealed by our lesson as being

I. By Death or by Life (vv. 1-4).
Stephen, one of the deacons, "a man full of faith and of the Holy Ghost" (6:5), was stoned because of his testimony for Christ. He became the first martyr of the church, leading the line of those noble men and women who down to our own day have been ready to die rather than to deny Christ. The day may not be too far distant when some of us may face that decision. Are we ready?

To every one of us who is a Christian comes the necessity of living for Christ. Some in Jerusalem died (v. 2), some were imprisoned (v. 3), but notice that the others were scattered abroad, like brands from a fire, carrying the message of God's Word. They were not afraid, did not go into hiding, nor did they "adjust" their message to meet the circumstances. They went "everywhere preaching the word."

While persecution may sometimes hinder the spread of the gospel, it also frequently stirs the zeal of God's people to preach and teach. Just now in the midst of the havoc of war and persecution the good news of salvation is spreading in lands which hitherto knew it not. Are you and I doing our part?

II. By Preaching That Brought Joy (vv. 5-8).

Philip, a layman (the first of many great evangelists) and a Jew, went to the despised Samaritans with the gospel, and God so signally blessed his ministry that a great revival broke out and "there was much joy in the city."

What we need is more gospel preaching and teaching. You laymen, please note that you are not to wait for the preacher to do it. Spread the good news yourself. And note too that it is to be preached to all people, even to those whom we might (humanly speaking) be tempted to despise, either by reason of race or position in life. It was a glorious thing that happened to Philip in Samaria. It can happen again, and "it can happen here."

III. By Fellowship That Brought Blessing (vv. 14-17).

When the church at Jerusalem heard what had happened in Samaria, they were overjoyed, and sent two of their leaders, Peter and John, to encourage and counsel with the new converts.

Such fellowship always brings blessing, and in this case it was unusual blessing; namely, the gift of the Holy Spirit. On this occasion God thus gave these new Samaritan believers the blessing and power of the Holy Spirit in such a way as to bind them in fellowship to the church in Jerusalem. Jew and Gentile believers in Christ thus were joined in one communion of love and faith.

IV. By Broadened Vision That Brought Action (v. 25).

Peter and John had completed their work in Samaria and were on their way home to Jerusalem, but what they had seen had given them a new vision. They acted on that vision, and as they passed through the villages of Samaria they "preached the gospel" with joyful hearts. What an interest and stir they must have created!

It is one thing to see an opportunity and a need; it is quite another to do something about it. For that, one needs determination of purpose. As Lloyd George put it, "You cannot fight a winning battle with a retreating mind." These apostles were reaching out for God, and under His leadership and blessing, into the villages of Samaria.

The Christian church needs more real consecrated action; that is, in the name of Christ and for His glory. The business man who conducts his secular affairs with enthusiasm and dispatch, often forgets all that in his church duties. He advertises and seeks new markets for his goods, but is not interested in the outreach of the church. He can get excited about the Rotary Club or the Lions or what not, but never develops the slightest enthusiasm about the Lord's work. It goes without saying that such a "picture" is all out of focus. Let's make it right. Vision? Yes, by all means. But also action for God.

Man of Destruction

For it would have been better that man should have been born dumb, nay, void of all reason, rather than that he should employ the gifts of Providence to the destruction of his neighbor.—Quintilian.

Where Days Are Born

The International Date Line, which, like the Equator, is an imaginary line, runs between two islands known as Big Diomedes and Little Diomedes, situated almost halfway between the mainlands of Asia and Alaska. It is here, between the Old World and the New, that each new day is born, and when it is New Year's day on Big Diomedes, it is still a full 24 hours behind on Little Diomedes.

The selection of this particular spot to decide the beginning of each day was decided by an international committee of scientists, who took every other possible site into consideration.

REDUCED Long Distance Rates Effective Saturday, April 26

● Reduced rates on long distance calls from any Michigan Bell exchange to any other Michigan point more than 42 miles distant became effective on Saturday, April 26. Based on current volume of usage, that will mean savings of $700,000 annually to the company's customers.

Your Long Distance Operator will quote the new rate to any point requested.

As soon as possible after authorization by the Courts, refunds or credits, totaling $1,500,000, will be made for the difference between the old and new rates on such long distance calls made between August 1, 1938, and April 26, 1941. It will be some time before such refunds or credits can be made because of the great volume of work involved in checking more than 65,000,000 long distance calls in the accounts of 700,000 users.

Until the work of checking your account is completed, further information with respect to specific refunds or credits will be unavailable.

The Lamp in the Valley

BY ARTHUR STRINGER

W. N. U. Service

Sidney Lander, mining engineer, is engaged to Barbara Trumbull, but apparently has fallen in love with Carol Coburn, Matanuska school teacher. Salaria Bryson, one of her pupils, a big out-door girl, is also in love with him. Carol's father died in Alaska with an unproven claim which Trumbull is contesting. Lander quits his employ, becomes field manager for the Matanuska Valley project. Sock-Eye Schlupp, an old sardough, and others, are skeptical of the project's success. Eric (the Red) Ericson

INSTALLMENT XIV

She said it without enthusiasm. And I, in turn, had my suspicions. She was hungry, not unlike myself, for something beyond the knowledge that comes out of books.

"Love is never wasted," I said, reaching for solid ground in that copybook maxim.

Salaria's glowering eyes studied my face. "Then why," she demanded, "does a silk-wearer and washed-out she-cat who ain't got the guts to stick t' his side tie up a real man like Sid Lander? Why should she harpoon him for life and then back-trail t' the States and reckon he's safe among us walrus-eaters?"

I gravely considered that double-barreled question.

"I suppose it's because he's a man of honor," I finally affirmed.

Salaria crossed to the door and looked out at the towering peaks of the Talkeetnas.

"Honor wouldn't cut much ice," she said over her shoulder, "if I was the blubber-eater he was pickin' out. If he wanted a woman around his wickypup as much as he wants this cock-eyed colony on the map," she abandonedly proclaimed, "he'd damned soon see my shoe-packs under his bunk rail!"

I kept telling myself, after that talk with Salaria, that there was something dignifying in the job of teaching, in molding the minds of the young, in bringing light into the dark places of the world. I was the lamp in the valley.

But the lamp, plainly, stood in need of some new oil. And full as my days were, I'd a feeling that something important in life was forever slipping around the corner before I could quite catch up with it. Yet all I could do, I argued with myself, was to tighten my belt and carry on. I'd no intention of turning into a grumbler. These two hundred families, I maintained, would eventually do for Alaska what the covered wagoners did for the Coast States, seventy long years ago. Or even what the Pilgrim Fathers did for New England.

Yet construction lagged because wrong material had been sent in and the workers wouldn't work. Some of the misfits and trouble-makers had already been sent back to the States, to spread the news of the colony's collapse. Some of the others imposed on the Commissary and wolfed more than their share of the supplies. Some growled in secret and some drew up a daily round-robin of complaints. Others went to Wasilla and got drunk. And the less illiterate of the women-folk deplored the rawness of the country that had betrayed them.

In a city of tents, where privacy was unknown, I saw things and heard things that at first touched me with horror: love-making with all the candor of the kennel, family-fights echoing through thin walls of canvas, the moans of child-birth mixed with the strains of a mouth-organ, a loose woman with a canine cluster of idlers about her, stripped men bathing openly in wash-tubs, mothers in sunny corners combing lice from their children's hair, girls jeered at as they slipped into an unscrupled outhouse, stained sheets and flimsy underwear flapping on clotheslines, farm-stock surrendering to the biologic urge under one's very nose, profanity and praying side by side, grossness and greediness, empty cans and offal, crying babies and thrumming banjos.

It was all honest and open enough. It was too open, from Betsy Sebeck unbuttoning her waist and giving her big breast to a crying baby with a dozen males watching the operation, to the bed-pots which, in a land without plumbing, had to be emptied in the light of day. But that reversion to the primitive. I told Katie, produced both a bluntness of address and a coarseness of fiber. And women, I contended, felt it most.

Katie didn't agree with me. She said modern woman had got a damned sight too refined for this world, that it did her good to get out on the frontier where life could fling her back to first principles.

"We're here," said Katie, "for just one end: to work and reproduce."

"That," I retorted, "leaves us no better than animals."

"Well, that's what we are," Katie affirmed, "only the frippieries make us forget it."

"But surely civilization's brought us something worth keeping," I suggested.

Katie laughed. "We're not as civilized as you imagine," she said as she buttoned her mannish-looking leather coat. "You'll find that out when your baby's pulling at your breast."

A touch of unrest, I noticed, extended even to my pupils. They could boast of a big yellow motor bus to carry them to the school door every morning. But only a sprinkling of them came. Compared with the children of the old-timers, the stolid little Scandinavians and Finns and native Alaskans who were inured to hardship, the A R C newcomers were both harder to manage and more exacting in their demands. They arrived well fed and well clothed, their lunch-boxes stuffed with Commissary food. They were eyed with envy by the native-born children, who probably saw an orange only at Christmas. But these wards of Uncle Sam came carrying two or three oranges, day by day. Sometimes they had grapefruit and chocolate bars and store cake. Since the supply proved unlimited, they liked to have a pitched battle with those comestibles.

After a final overreckless barrage of oranges I had to make it a rule that no Project child was to bring more than one orange into the classroom. It gave me an unpleasant feeling just under the fifth rib to see poor little Olie Eckstrom rummaging through that waste, for a half-eaten orange or two, to carry home to his sister Frieda, who couldn't come to school until her mother was able to get to Anchorage to buy her a pair of shoes. I began to realize that you can hurt people by too much help.

I was singing as I went to the road with my water pail one morning. And as I turned I came face to face with Eric the Red.

"Why avoid me, Moon of my Delight?" he said with his habitual and hateful mockery.

"Why shouldn't I?" I asked. I compelled myself to meet his gaze. For along the road I could see the approaching figure of Olie Eckstrom, swinging his tin milk pail as he whistled to the tree tops.

There was something maddening about the cool assurance of Ericson's smile.

"Why should you, sweet lady, when it's written in the stars we're to come together?" His laugh was both brief and unpleasant. "I'm still awaiting that happy hour. And when it arrives I don't intend to be the forgotten man."

I made no response to that. Instead, I turned and called to Olie, who quickened his pace as he caught sight of me. My little Swedish friend was no Goliath, but even his diminutive figure meant an acceptable ally along that lonely road.

Ericson, watching that figure in bibbed overalls, essayed an ironic gesture of farewell and moved on down the road.

"E ban a bad man," Olie announced with quiet conviction.

"Why do you say that?" I asked. Olie's answer, when he gave his reasons, was in English both broken and bewildering. But in the end it rather took my breath away. For from the slow-tongued Swede boy I gathered that he had been in the habit of collecting building blocks for his sister Frieda, small board ends that could be picked up between the lumber piles along the siding track. The workmen there were apt to treat him roughly and drive him away with a cuff and a kick. So it was natural, the night before, that he should promptly hide away when he heard voices. But he was able to gather the gist of the talk among those transient sore-heads. And their plan, apparently, was to stage a demonstration in front of the Commissary (where a curb had been put on the open-handed distribution of Federal supplies) and while the officials were busy with that riot Ericson and his followers were to start a fire, a purely accidental fire, in the great piles of timber and equipment that lined the railway track.

Lander listened, with a quiet enough eye, as I told him what I could of Olie's story.

Instead of venturing any comment on the situation he asked me if John Trumbull had been in touch with me during the last few days. When I informed him to the contrary he had been stirring discord among the workers. At last, too, a school is put up. Salaria discusses Sidney with Carol. Salaria has no idea Carol is interested in him. Teacher and pupil find a common rival in Barbara.

But when we stopped at Palmer and he had a quiet look over the towering supply piles along the siding there his face took on a new seriousness. For hidden under a layer of empty hemp bales, between two piles of pine flooring, he found a five-gallon can of gasoline. The contents of this can he quietly emptied into his truck tank. Then, after a moment's thought, he filled the can with water. Making sure his movements were unobserved, he restored the cap to the can and restored the can to its hiding place under the hemp bales.

My pupils didn't get the attention they should have that day. There was many a flicker, before the afternoon wore away, in the lamp of learning.

I was still in my classroom, after the big yellow bus had carried away the last of the children, when Sock-Eye appeared in the doorway.

"I ain't much of a hand at g'ography," he said as his beartike eyes blinked up at my wall map, "but I've got me a homemade chart here I'm needin' a mess o' help on."

He produced a soiled and rumpled sheet of paper diversified with many pencil-markings and placed it on the desk top in front of me.

"What's this?" I asked, trying in vain to read some meaning into the roughly penciled lines.

"That," said Sock-Eye, "is a map o' Klondike Coburn's claim on the Chakitana as I kin best work it out. That's the mine, remember, that ought t' be yours."

"John Trumbull says it shouldn't," I reminded him.

"And Sid Lander says it does," retorted Sock-Eye. "But I ain't goin' into that now, girlie. What I want t' check up on is where them location stakes o' your old pappy ought to stand." His stubby finger pointed to a marking on the map.

"Here's the Chakitana, and it ought t' be about here the Big Squaw comes in. But I can't figger out which side o' that crick the Trumbull outfit is anchored to."

"I'm afraid I can't help you much," I said. "You see, Sock-Eye, I've never been there."

"Then why ain't you there now?" demanded the old fire-eater.

"Because I'm needed here in the valley," I answered. "And Sidney Lander's supposed to be looking after my claim."

"Yes," snapped Sock-Eye, "fussin' round with these pie-eatin' pikers and waitin' for a bunch of law sharks t' put in the final word. But court rulin's don't git you nowhere, back on the cricks."

I sat looking at Sock-Eye until he shifted a little uneasily under my gaze. I was thinking, as I studied his seamed old face, that he was so misplaced in time that he was pathetic. He impressed me, for all his bristlings of belligerency, as childishly helpless before the newer forces crowding in on his trail. He made me think of a cumberingly armored turtle, overconfident of his safety as he ambles along a motor highway between the flashing wheels of change that could so easily crush him.

"What's right or wrong," I finally observed, "isn't decided by gunpowder."

Sock-Eye's laugh was brief and raucous.

"More'n once, girlie, I've seen it blow a short cut t' the seat o' justice," he said as he patted the worn leather of his gun holster. "And this valley wouldn't be where she is if she could rouse up a leather-slapper or two t' straighten her out."

The desolate old figure took a bite of plug tobacco, chewed vigorously, and spat into the stove front. "Filled with a mess o' women and gas cars that ain't needed here."

"The trouble with you," I suggested, "is that you've lived too long alone."

Sock-Eye looked at me with the kingly scorn of the unmated male. "Because I never got me a woman?" he demanded.

"If you want to put it that way," I acceded.

Still again Sock-Eye spat adroitly into the stove front.

"I ain't had trade nor truck with 'em for forty odd years," he averred. "And I guess I'll git along without 'em to the last roundup. No, ma'am, I ain't succumbed t' the plumb loco idee a shack ain't a home unless there's a female fussin' round the dough-crock."

"What can you do?" I asked.

Sock-Eye chuckled in his leathery old throat.

A NEW STORY ON CAL COOLIDGE

FROM CHILDHOOD Gen. Newton E. Turgeon of Buffalo had been a close personal friend of Calvin Coolidge. They were born in adjoining homes in Vermont, had played together as children, attended school and college together and remained close friends while they lived.

When the Peace bridge across the Niagara river, between Buffalo and Black Rock, Ont., was to be opened, people of Buffalo wanted the President to attend the opening ceremonies. General Turgeon was sent to Washington to get him.

"Cal, you simply must come. The people of Buffalo will be terribly disappointed if you do not," said the general.

"Who is going to be there?" asked the President.

"The lieutenant-governor of Ontario," replied Newt.

"Who else?" asked Cal.

"The governor-general of all Canada," said Newt.

"Anyone else?" queried Cal.

"The prime minister of England," said Newt.

"Will the king be there?" asked Cal.

"No, but the prince of Wales will," answered Newt.

"Then I will send John," said Cal—and he did.

General Turgeon told me the story just after the Peace bridge was opened as illustrative of the Coolidge taciturnity, and insisted that was the full extent of their conversation on the subject.

It is a Coolidge story which has never before been printed.

COLONEL HOUSE'S STORY OF BREAK WITH WILSON

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT sent Harry Hopkins to Europe, presumably in the same capacity—that of personal representative—as President Wilson sent Col. Edward M. House during the first World war.

I knew Colonel House and frequently called on him at his home, a small six-room apartment on East Fifty-second street in New York city. My last call there was shortly after his return from the peace conference, and I learned from Colonel House the reason for his break with President Wilson.

On the way to Europe, the President announced to other members of the American delegation that he would do the talking when anything was to be said to heads of any of the other four delegations. When the peace treaty had been completed, the day for Germany to sign designated, and the delegations arranging to leave France, Lloyd George asked Colonel and Mrs. House to pay him a visit before returning to America. The Colonel and Mrs. House accepted that invitation.

The day before the treaty was signed, Colonel House dropped into Lloyd George's apartment to ascertain what train they were to take and to make final arrangements for the visit. While he was there, President Wilson called at Lloyd George's apartments and finding Colonel House present, at once turned and walked out. He did not speak to the Colonel after that incident.

Colonel House believed Mr. Wilson imagined he was talking to Lloyd George on some forbidden subject, but he was never given an opportunity to explain.

"On my return to the United States," said the Colonel, "I advised the President of my arrival and told him I would be glad to serve him in any way he might wish, but I did not receive any acknowledgment of that note."

So ended one of the most unusual friendships in history.

Mrs. Wilson has claimed that it was her efforts which turned the President against Colonel House, but the above is the finale of the Wilson and House association.

MAGIC IN PANTS

A PARAGRAPH for men only. Ever really sick, flat on your back for weeks that seemed like years, clad in only a short-tailed night shirt and with no opportunity to help yourself? Then came the time when you were permitted to sit up for a few minutes at a time, still clad in that night shirt and a blanket wrapped about you. Later you were told you could get dressed in real clothes—a shirt and pants, socks and shoes and a necktie. You pushed your wobbly legs inside a pair of trousers and, oh boy! How good it did feel. You were a man again. You stood on your hind legs, looked the whole world in the face and dared it to do its worst.

What curative magic there is in a pair of pants.

FRIENDLY SMILES

CLASS DISTINCTION can be prevented by friendly smiles and cheery good-mornings from one to another, strangers or friends. Smiles and cheery good-mornings are the rule, not the exception, in rural America, and class distinctions are unknown among rural people.

A bit of cheerful (?) news for the citrus growers: Brazil asks the United States to take 800,000 cases of Brazilian oranges in exchange for American apples.

TIPS to Gardeners

BULB SUBSTITUTES

WITH the supply of many popular spring-flowering bulbs cut off because of the war in Europe, gardeners are seeking certain substitutes.

The color and form of many annual flowers makes them excellent choices for replacing the bulb favorites. As in the case of bulbs, the seed of these annuals may be planted in the early fall, for blossoming early the following summer.

The fresh yellow color of Daffodils, for instance, may be captured nearly as well in the petals of Sunshine Calendula, or in the rich hues of California Poppy (Extra Golden). The shape of the California Poppy and the Shirley Poppy closely approaches the typical Tulip shape.

The soft colors associated with the Tulip may be replaced best by Larkspur, with its tints of white, blue, pink, rose, lilac, and carmine. The newer, tall-growing Super Majestic Larkspurs are most desirable.

The blossom-crowded spikes of Snapdragons are likened by many to the Hyacinth. It is best to grow the dwarf rust-resistant strains of Snapdragons, with attractive varieties such as Compact Bedding Bronze, and Salmon Pink adaptable also because of their suitability for massed bedding, as Tulips are so often used.

THRIFT CUTS—MORE MEAT FOR YOUR MONEY
(See Recipes Below)

MEATS FOR BUDGET MEALS

If you're meat-wise, then you're budget-wise! For the less expensive cuts of meat have a way of making food dollars really s-t-r-e-t-c-h.

What's more, the thrift cuts of meat are equally as chock full of flavor, health-giving vitamins, body-building proteins and minerals as the more expensive ones. When you buy a chuck roast instead of chops; hamburger instead of steak; or baby beef liver instead of calves liver, your economy isn't depriving your family or guests of even a teeny, weeny bit of food value. That's the verdict of nutrition experts. And they know.

Economy in purchasing meat comes from knowing the wide variety of different meat cuts available, and from purchasing some of the cuts which are not in greatest demand. For example, a pot roast of beef, delicious as it is and as much as it is enjoyed by everyone, sells for considerably less per pound than a rib roast of beef. The reason, of course, is that there is a greater demand for rib roast.

You'll surely be pleased, and surprised, too, at the way you can save money on your food budget, at the same time adding variety to both your family and company meals, by following today's penny-pincher recipes.

*Stuffed Shoulder of Lamb.

How to Buy: Good quality lamb is pinkish and well-marbled with fat. Outside fat is smooth, hard, glossy and cream-white. Look for both government inspection stamp and packer's private grade stamp. Find the grade that suits you, then always buy it. Ask your meat man to bone the shoulder, leaving a cavity to fill with stuffing. (You can use the bones for broth, soup or gravy stock.)

How to Cook: Prepare a well-seasoned stuffing; fill cavity, then sew up edges or skewer in place. Weigh meat after stuffing to compute cooking time. Place fat side up on rack in open pan, rub with salt and pepper. Cook in slow oven (325 degrees F.), allowing about 35 minutes per pound. Garnish with mint leaves and a vegetable; serve. Delicious!

Dressing for Lamb.

2 slices bacon
2 cups bread crumbs
1 cup sour apples, chopped
1 cup raisins
½ cup celery, chopped

Fry bacon until crisp and add to bread crumbs, raisins, diced apples and celery. Season with salt and pepper and pile lightly into cavity in lamb shoulder.

Eye-of-Round Roast.

How to Buy: The lean of beef should be well-marbled with fat, firm, smooth, glossy; soon after the meat is cut, the surface should turn bright red. The outer fat should be fairly thick, firm, flaky, cream-white. In lower grades fat is softer, yellower. Though price per pound will perhaps exceed that of rib roast, it is all solid meat—no bones, no fat, no waste of any kind.

LYNN SAYS:

Spread apple or crabapple jelly over the top of roasting ham, veal or pork for the last 30 minutes. The jelly gives an appetizing flavor and a glossy brown top. Crumbled bacon adds a wonderful new flavor to cooked green beans, yellow or white squash, browned navy beans or spinach. Add the bacon in the last 5 minutes.

Long, slow cooking at a low heat is the general rule for cooking the thrifty cuts of meat.

Ranking low on the butcher's price list but high in nutrition are such meats as kidney, brains, heart and liver. They make delicious dishes when properly cooked.

THIS WEEK'S MENU

- Cream of Pea Soup
- *Stuffed Shoulder of Lamb
- Parsley Buttered Potatoes
- Buttered Carrot Strips
- Sweet Cabbage Relish
- Peppermint Ice Cream
- Chocolate Cup Cakes
- *Recipe Given

It goes a long way. For best results, slice very thin.

How to Cook: Put meat, well covered with fat, on rack in open roasting pan. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Place in moderate oven (325 degrees F.) and allow about 25 minutes per pound for rare beef, 28 to 30 for medium and about 35 for well done. Do not baste. Potatoes may be cooked in same pan with roast.

Swedish Meat Balls.

(Serves 6)
2 pounds finely ground beef
1 cup mashed potato
½ cup apple sauce
1½ teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
Shortening
1 can vegetable soup
½ cup milk

Combine beef, potato, apple sauce and seasonings. Roll into small balls the size of a walnut. Brown well in hot shortening, in baking dish. Pour on soup and milk and bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.). Thicken gravy; serve.

Cubed Steak With Vegetables.

Cube 1 pound of thrifty cut of steak, such as round or chuck. Brown in hot fat. Add 1 cup boiling water and 1 teaspoon cornstarch, mixed with a little cold water, and salt and pepper to taste. Stir until mixture is boiling. Add 1 large green pepper cut into squares, and 2 large sweet onions cut into eighths. Cover and simmer until steak is tender. Add 2 large tomatoes cut in eighths and cook 2 minutes longer. The gravy may be seasoned with a few drops of seasoning sauce. Serve at once. Boiled rice is an excellent accompaniment.

Stuffed Flank Steak.

(Serves 6)
1 flank steak (about 1½ to 2 lbs.)
4 cups dry bread
½ cup milk
½ cup boiling water
½ cup butter
½ cup finely chopped onion
¼ cup finely chopped parsley
1 egg
1½ teaspoons salt
Pepper

Have your butcher score the steak and cut a pocket in it. Break the bread into small pieces. Mix milk and boiling water. Pour over bread and let soak until soft. Melt the butter, add onion and cook without browning, about 5 minutes. Add to bread-milk mixture the parsley, beaten egg, salt and pepper. Press this stuffing into the pocket of the steak. Bake in a shallow pan, uncovered, in a moderate oven (350 degrees) two hours. Slice it generously and garnish with sprigs of crisp parsley.

There's plenty of good, substantial eating in stuffed flank steak, so the rest of the meal can be simple. A vegetable (stewed tomatoes, beans or cauliflower, perhaps); dessert and beverage would round out a satisfying, appealing menu.

Veal Birds With Mushroom Sauce.

2 pounds veal round
bread stuffing
3 tablespoons flour
3 tablespoons lard
salt and pepper
1 small can mushroom soup

Have veal round cut into one-half inch slices. Cut into pieces for individual servings—nearly 2 by 4 inches in size as possible. Place a spoonful of stuffing on each piece, roll and fasten edge with toothpicks. Dredge with flour and brown on all sides in hot lard. Season. Pour mushroom soup over veal birds, cover and cook very slowly until done, about 45 minutes.

For variety, instead of using a bread stuffing, spread finely chopped onion over the meat, place a partially cooked carrot in the center, roll and fasten.

Brightening a Flagstone Floor.
QUESTION: How can I brighten up a new broken flag floor that we have just had put down on our porch? Could I take off its dusty look with a polishing of liquid wax?

Answer: After brick, stone or tile is laid in cement mortar, it should be scrubbed with a solution of muriatic acid, to remove any cement that may have been smeared on the surface. Use one part muriatic acid in twenty parts of water; allow to act for a few minutes, then rinse with clear water. Work on a small area at a time. When mixing the solution, pour the water slowly into the acid, stirring constantly. As this acid is highly corrosive, wear rubber gloves and old clothes; be careful not to get any of it on your skin. You can enrich the color of the stone by applying a liberal coat of raw linseed oil, mixed half-and-half with turpentine. After several hours of soaking, wipe off the excess oil. Try the oil first on some hidden part of the floor, to see how you like the effect.

'Crazing' Varnish.

Question: Is it a usual condition, in all highly figured mahogany, to develop surface scratches, known as "crazing"? This condition has developed in my bedroom suite, which is English Chippendale, crotch mahogany. Can this condition be remedied at home, and will it recur after it has been repaired?

Answer: Crazing in the varnish finish is not natural on any wood. This condition is usually caused by the drying out of the varnish. If the crazing is not very deep, light sandpapering will remove it, followed by a wiping with turpentine to clean the surface; after this, apply a thin coat of varnish. Deeply crazed varnish must be removed and the furniture refinished.

Water-Soaked Floor.

Question: We have just purchased and have moved to the mainland a house that has been standing in salt water for some time; for about a year water covered the floors at high tide. What solution can we use for washing the floors that will remove the salt from the wood?

Answer: Nothing will be more effective than plain water, in which salt is soluble. Even with this, however, I greatly doubt if all of the salt can be removed. I should live in the house for a year or two, to study the effect, with the idea of replacing the floors if necessary. Mildew is not to be feared.

Washing Down Paint.

Question: Is there a liquid with which I can wash down painted walls to take off dirt, but not the paint?

Answer: There is on general sale at most paint stores a powder made of a cereal compound, which is very satisfactory for washing painted surfaces. Or, you can dissolve a teaspoonful of trisodium phosphate in a gallon of tepid water. After the wall has been washed with this solution, rinse with clear water. Start working at the floor level and wash up toward the ceiling, to avoid making dirty streaks.

Paint or Stain for Shingle.

Question: Which is the more enduring, shingle stain or paint?
Answer: Wood shingles on a roof should never be painted. They will last longer if stained with a good quality shingle stain. Wood shingles used as a wall siding can either be painted or stained. The lasting properties of paint or stain will be about equal if they are of a good quality.

Digger Wasps.

Question: My lawn is covered with round holes, about the size of a half-dollar, which I think must be from moles. Is there any simple way to get rid of them?
Answer: Moles do not make such holes as you describe. Much more likely the holes are made by digger wasps. Two or three moth balls dropped into each hole, and the hole closed, should end the trouble.

Waterproof Glue.

Question: How can glue for wood be made waterproof?
Answer: That will not be an easy job to do at home. It will be far simpler to buy waterproof glue. One excellent variety is a glue made of casein that can be had at a hardware store. While this is mixed with water, it becomes highly water resistant when it dries.

Making Things.

Question: I am interested in making small objects, such as decorative shelves, plant stands, etc. How should I go about it? Are there any books for novices?
Answer: A book by Julian Starr, called "Make It Yourself," should give you all the information you want. It is published by Whittlesey House, and is on sale at book stores.

Prints Teamed With Plain Wools Tell Fascinating Fashion Story

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

DESIGNERS are in a mood to play with prints this season.

Never in the history of fashion have prints been put to such different and fascinating uses. Anything and everything that can be made of printed fabric is being made. Perhaps the biggest splurge prints are making at present is their teaming up with monotone wools.

This teaming of print with plain is dramatically interpreted throughout all costume design but most notably in jacket suits, redingote ensembles and in capes. While splashy huge-patterned prints play an important role in formal evening apparel and play clothes, neat, small prints are featured in smart daytime ensembles.

However, what these prints of tiny motifs and checks lack in size is made up in color. For instance, the latest fashion is to top red prints of neat design with red wool coats, jackets or capes—a fashion that is being used to a great extent in teenage frocks.

Red prints are the rage this season. Made up in dresses, they are variously teamed with black, navy, or as mentioned above, red. This trend is illustrated in the model shown to the right in the photograph. This dress featured by the Style Creators of Chicago in a recent display, is topped by a flower print red crepe with a thin black wool jacket, tailored to perfection. The pleated skirt and the hat that repeats the print of the dress are smart accents.

The youthful cape coat in dark wool, centered in the group, is made outstanding by the introduction of a silk print lining in the newly important fine check print, repeating the silk print check of the slim, pleated dress with which it is worn.

A youthful interpretation of the print with plain vogue is pictured to the left. This ingenue dress is of delft blue and white print crepe. The jacket, wearable over other things, is of blue rabbit's hair. Note that the sleeves are short, in keeping with the girliness of the ensemble. There is a cunning little handkerchief of the print. This is one of those casual, intriguingly styled dress-plus-jacket outfits that is so universally likeable for general wear.

There is a new use of prints this season that is challenging the creative genius of designers. It is the idea of trimming with gay prints. You will see it carried out in pipings, bindings, appliques of print motifs, also bow trims of print bands. There is, for example, the dress with pleated skirt that is topped with a monotone jacket that is bound with an inch bordering of print, or possibly a mere binding—just enough to relate it to the dress with which it is worn. Another way of arriving at a "touch of print" for your costume is to have a hat and bag of print that will enliven monotone dresses and coats to the nth degree.

Plaid Accents

Here's how to add a note of gaiety to a navy suit that boasts an extreme mannish cut. Wear a plaid taffeta hat and carry matching accessories! Choose a wide-brimmed hat of plaid taffeta in red and soft blues. Over your shoulder, sling a matching pouch bag. Climax the plaid program with a handkerchief of matching plaid. It is the better part of wisdom to buy a simple one-color suit or coat, then depend on accessories to give it eye-dazzling chic.

Hair Styles Reveal

New Flower Motifs

A new vogue that probably will spread like wildfire is a cluster of flowers worn at each side of the head, balanced symmetrically. The flowers are caught to a ribbon band or to one of the new hairbands that fit to the head.

Roses Take Spotlight In Many Fabric Designs

It's rosetime in fashionland. The most featured flower in fabric design, in hat trimmings and in smart corsages is the rose.

It is going to be a particularly "rosy" summer in cottons, because cottons this year are reminiscent of weaves that were favorites in the early 1900s. You will find roses blooming on waffle piques, on unbleached muslins, in mezzotint, on glazed chintz and on lawns and percales.

For party frocks, the newest materials are hand-painted sheers. A huge American Beauty rose, one painted on the bodice, one on the skirt, enhances the beauty of these sheers.

Don't overlook the cunning little sailor hats that are made to wear with the new tailored suits or cape costumes. You will be charmed with single rose trim that mounts right from the very front of the crown. The latest evening corsage is a single long-stem rose.

Cotton Fabrics Essential To Wardrobes, Supplies

A surplus commodity without which homemakers would be lost is cotton.

There are probably more cotton fabrics suited for more varied uses than fabrics made from any other fiber or combination of fibers. Cottons make up into at least 30 different fabrics suitable for dresses for women, girls and infants.

Without cotton, sheets, pillowcases, ticking and linings of comforters, curtains, draperies, upholstery materials, bath towels, hand towels and dish towels would disappear.

Frilly Accents

Everybody's doing it! Wear the frilliest frilly-frilly neckwear ever. Regency frills, jabots, big sailor collars with frilled edges, yokes that are frilled.

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up at night, leg pain, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!
